

Death Claims Famous Pilot Harold Gatty

EARL FRANCIS COOPER, 54, a former Army veteran, aerial racing pilot who circled the globe in 1951 with Wiley Post, died Saturday night. Gatty has lived in the Twin Islands since World War II, managing the Fiji Airways and acting as manager of the American and Pacific World Airways. Pan American officials said he had a heart condition. Funeral services were held Saturday night at the church where he died.

Known Flight

The Tamworth-born pilot was well known throughout the world with Post in the monoplane "Wimble Mac."

On Aug. 18, 1951, they left Rosario, Argentina, on their last leg of the flight on Long Island, the field from which Charles A. Lindbergh had taken off four years before.

For 10 days, Post and Gatty flew nonstop in 8 days, 15 hours and 21 minutes.

Named Record

They were the first to cut more than 12 days off the record of 21 days, 7 hours and 34 minutes held by the German Graf Zeppelin.

"Land going into forest trees" is land going out of production, almost permanently; it might be said.

McLean said other changes in agriculture are being made.

"We are trying to attract young farmers to areas where agriculture is falling off and practiced, and to farmers devoting a large part of their cropland to tame hay,"

Gatty's importance to aviation was signified in 1952 when he was appointed to the aircrew division of the Air Force Academy after Lindbergh, his former navigation student, had described him as probably the best aerial navigator in the academy.

Gatty learned "navigation" as a youth at sea in Australian and New Zealand naval ships.

He was born in the United States in 1903 with his family in 1927 and later became a naturalized citizen.

Gatty contributed to three important aviation developments: He helped to devise a simplified system of aerial navigation through celestial navigation, which made higher, longer and safer flights. He also invented a wiper face to eliminate the chance of time changes on instruments and a ground-speed indicator which was adopted by the military.

U. S. Student Deported Out Of Red China

(From Page One)
Red China, Tokyo, Tokyo, Corcoran, and other delegations are still in China.

"I repeat that all I have been told is that I would not have to leave," he said. "But I am not the only one," he said. "A few other delegates were misled on this, either by the delegation organizers or the Chinese, who have had a tendency to mislead people from time to time about what they consider to be part of a violation of restrictions clearly stated within."

Tucker, 22, a student at the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, will send him back to Moscow on the Trans-Siberian railway—an eight-day trip.

The 22-year-old student from Pass Christian, Miss., arrived in Peking last week with 100 other World Youth festival delegates who had been invited on a Red China tour.

The Americans they would be violating the regulations on their passports, stamping "no valid for travel in Red China" and making them subject to criminal prosecution under the existing "Witch-the-enemy" acts.

Tucker canceled out the trip after he was told he would be deported, then decided to go along.

When the Americans arrived in Peking, the Red Chinese government issued new, open passports, only Tucker refused.

Tucker would have a lot to lose if the state department goes through with its threat to withdraw his passport.

The state department is studying the matter.

The state department, however, has not indicated whether it would forgive Tucker because he had to leave the country. The decision, however, will wait until he returns to the West.

Instead of apologizing, I am proud of my record on 18 economy roll calls. I voted for the current federal spending bill, which included a reduction of $12 million dollars in defense of the "Inter-American Treaty of Reciprocal Assistance," because the United States already has a large amount of enriched uranium stored at our installations throughout the country.

And the President who was so interested in raising congressional pay rates, has now threatened to veto my voting record reflects the majority thinking of Idahoans and the forgotten man of this era is indeed the small businessman and wage earner who is struggling to live in the face of inflation.

Two Area Girls Make Most Of Back-to-School Clothes

Many Twin Falls girls equated preparing for the return to classrooms as actually looking forward to the start of school this fall because they can now buy what they want — and at a discount. That makes a big difference.

Last year's high school graduates plan to attend a variety of schools and have scheduled a variety of majors. Some of the girls who will be attending college this fall include: Karen Murphy, Kimberly, will be majoring in music; and Carol Murphy and Kathryn Peck, who will enroll in a liberal arts course at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., will be majoring in psychology. Karen Sloan for secretarial subjects; Carolyn Larson will study drama; Deanne Vince will major in music.

Hunters, Fire Crews to Open Dove Hunting

ROCKY FORD, Aug. 31 (UPI) — The Idaho fish and game department will run fire spotting patrols along with game regulation enforcement when the dove season opens Sunday.

Leonard — Coach Leonard said today:

"He said range conditions had improved. Moisture in the air during the past few days alleviated the conditions enough that the season could open as scheduled."

Rookie Tom Clarkson continued to shake from his batting slump last week and emerged as the top batter for the Magic Valley Cowboys with a 21-game hitting streak.

Clarkson, an organized ball defector off the University of Arizona campus this spring, Clarkson became a Cowboy shortly after the second half of the season opened. He is on option from the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League.

Another man who has been a Cowboy only half a year, Bill Schmidt, was in second option in the Cowboy hitting parade, boasting a .310 record.

The statistics, completed through Tuesday night, were compiled by William L. Price, league official statistician.

Just out of the 200 cities were three included.

Starting pitcher Bill Pleiss turned in a five-hit performance before getting into trouble in the eighth and that brought in Wingo. But from the fans' point of view it was Jackson who provided the win. The fleet leftfielder scored both runs.

Organized Labor, Despite Disclosures Of Scandals, Makes Plan for Progress

By TONI HENSHAW
AP News Features Writer

Traditionally, Labor day is a time of celebration for the members of the state's unions. Labor day 1957 finds some of them step-in-scandal after years of rugged, enterprising neglect and isolation by their unions.

Unions find their unions in extremely bad shape, with little like of his business, and many members wielding the club of expulsion at the bargaining table.

But Labor day is also a time for the unions to take stock of the future. What are their aims? What is the ground of bargaining? What are the plans for organizing the unions?

There is an accounting, gathered by Associated Press, of the state of the major American unions and of the future.

INTRODUCED: The main union,

United Auto Workers (AFL-CIO), says it has no problem of organizing. Says its President Walter Reuther:

"The UAW is not perfect, but I can say without fear of challenge that we are clean and we are democratic."

Reuther, the UAW's president, has a public relations board, composed of prominent private citizens, to act as a watchdog over the union's affairs.

The long-term goal of the UAW is to expand its membership and to provide a guaranteed annual wage but it is going after hard cash at the bargaining table.

Reuther's plan to give top negotiating priority to the auto industry and his take home pay. The union does not want another three-year contract such as it has now but may do so if it can't get what it wants.

Reuther told auto manufacturers that if they would lower auto prices by $100, the UAW would take that as a demand.

As far as he is concerned, it has no re-

steering problem.

President John L. Lewis is already involved in both welfare and welfare royalties this fall. They're now pegged respectively at $22.25 a day and 40 cents per ton of coal.

Samuel Gowan, 21, a Stanford university student, is participating in the summer portion of the experiment.

He is visiting the Shoshone National Forest, the home of the Mc-

Roberts visitor. Both the local visitors are participating in the winter program which does not give Americans a chance to go to Europe to study in Europe during the winter.

The winter experiment is limited in the number of students which may participate.

"The UAW is not perfect, but I feel Reuther's proposal, but I neither joined GM in suggesting the two-year contract extension.

WALTER REUTHER: The United

Motor Workers claim about 180,000 working members, an additional 120,000 unemployed or pensioned

members, a treasury of about $200 million, and a welfare fund of more than $12 million.

As far as he is concerned, it has no re-

steering problem.

Trek of Artist, T.F. Companions Aimed at Finding Pioneer Trail

After a two-day trip down the old California trail, three experts followed by the early pioneers on their way to California.

The experts, Norman Marsh, editor of the "Daily Herald," artist and sometime historian; John E. Hayes, a pioneer resident and present county surveyor, and Roy Painter, sun-visor manufacturer, each spent a week and half an effort to determine the exact route of the California trail.

They made the trip in a four-wheel drive vehicle owned by Painter and covered some 15 miles of country around Lewiston. Then they journeyed to Rots River, commonly regarded as the start of the trail. They headed south along the trail to Almo and then to the City of Rocks.

Marsh, who plans to use some of the data gathered on the trip in his comic strip, "The Devil's Highway," said his team of experts and his horse, "Big Little Goose," were the first to cross the trail since the Indians.

In spite of the fact that many marks and signs are points along the trail, it is impossible to find, says Marsh. "We must have driven more than 100 miles before we found the trail again. Sometimes we were rockin' and rollin' because the road was so bad."

After we left the City of Rocks area, we crossed into Junction valley and it was at that point we ran into our 'biggest problem,' he said. Granite pines are the only way pioners could get across Junction valley and the granite trees continually pick up the Little Goose creek westward.

He says after trudging up the incline the three men set off on a wrong trail and wound up many miles north of where they had planned to go.

"The trail from the top of Granite Pass is extremely treacherous and it is difficult to say exactly how the pioneers descended," he explains.

Painter and Hayes agree with Marsh on this point and note there is considerable difference of opinion among local residents as to exactly where the trail was.

"Some residents say the new name came down through Little Birch Creek, others say it came down through Big Birch Creek," he said.

"I had trouble getting down in-

Family Picnics Popular at Twin Falls Parks

Typical of the many local families enjoying picnics this summer at Twin Falls parks is this one, Mrs. Robert W. Stephan and family, Mrs. Tom, R. and Patricia, 4. Photo was taken at Shoshone Falls park, a unit of the city parks system.

Twin Falls Offers Excellent Facilities For Picnics; Season Drawing to Close

Twin Falls has excellent facilities for picnics, one of the most popular family activities...many local residents have come from another park system draw to a close.

Nearly over 1,000 picnickers can be accommodated in local parks at the same time without overcrowding. The last picnic day will be Saturday, Sept. 2, at Twin Falls and Shoshone Falls, the former operated by the Idaho Power company for migratory picnickers.

Crane notes, "We are able to assist with more picnics now than ever before. Other picnic spots which have been used heavily this summer are the Shoshone Falls park and the county park. The latter has increased in popularity this summer, particularly with children, because of the many games now being operated at the park."

For the city-owned parks, probably Shoshone Falls park is the most popular. It is the largest park in the city, superintendent of parks and recreation. The park includes nine large picnic areas which can handle 1,000 people each.

Crane notes, "And it's all the department can do to keep pace with demand for more picnic facilities, he adds."

Only six years ago, most of the Shoshone Falls picnic area was pasture. It was fenced off and leased which includes more than 100 acres, has six permanent fireplaces and six more, by 5-foot concrete slab, tables, chairs and 20 places where fires were allowed.

"Further development of the Shoshone Falls park is our next big project," Crane says. "Last year, his crew had completed the city park, added more holes to the municipal golf course, completed the baseball diamond, built a new tennis park and re-surfaced tennis courts."

"Now we're going to develop all picnic areas at Shoshone Falls," Crane says. "We plan to install a decent boat dock at the landing above the falls. Even so, on the average Sunday there are 1,000 people there and not enough tables for so many."

Still one of the most popular picnic spots is the Idaho Power company park at Shoshone Falls. The old road which is dangerous because of caving, washouts and similar hazards, was developed by the firm at a time when no similar facilities were available. Another park, for the benefit of the public, is the "Take-a-boat" park, located on the lake created by the power dam, making the water ideal for boating and water skiing. The power firm has just completed a new dam.

Donald S. Bailey, district manager for the Idaho Power company, points out the development of the Twin Falls area is the result of the country road of Granite pass which was built back in 1926 marked the start of an Idaho Power policy to include recreational facilities at various locations.

Crane keeps one man from his park crew on duty at the park all the time. Every Wednesday another man goes to the area to assist with maintenance and monitoring.

Most people seem to appreciate the park," Crane says. "A traffic check on one day reflected the area park was the most popular in the city.

Crane keeps the area "Tree of Life" and provides lights at the park and provides lights at the park.

Although the park is open to the public, Crane says, "We don't encourage such use, but we don't discourage it either." Crane says, "The park is a great place to go with the family, to go fishing, camping, etc."

At one time vandalism plagued the park but Crane says, "Now there is plenty of room for development, yet, but it takes time and money. Some day we'll have to add more picnic areas, but we are not in a position to do so right now. Garage cans are spotted around the park, and there are eight more to be added, and there are 25 tables for use of regular users."

Although the company discourages night use of the park, some special groups are given an annual permit for overnight stays. An example, a group of Boy Scouts who camped one night at the park recently.

LEAVE BLISS
BLISS, Aug. 31—Mrs. Hazel Miller and son, Michael, returned to Hazelton, N.B., after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Earl Drissel.

Of the other city parks, Crane notes that tables are scattered around the edges of the city park, and there are two small triangular parks such as one adjacent to Five Points north. At Harmon park, the park and recreation department has installed a number of fireplaces and barbecue tables for use of picnickers. Even so, on the average Sunday there are 1,000 people there and not enough tables for so many."

Couple Proves Desert Can Become Garden

Mrs. Charley Guinn inspects the garden she and her husband have created in 18 years of living on the desert-south of Shoshone. The Guinns homesteaded 120 acres of desert in 1941 and today have a home that is surrounded by hundreds of varieties of flowers and trees.

Home in Treeless Desert Becomes Garden Spot Complete With Stream

GROSCHONE, Aug. 31—One of the most admired spots in Lincoln county—the Guindale ranch northwest of the city, while being a place of charm and beauty, is also a place of hard work and perseverance.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Guinn moved to the desert south of Shoshone and rock in 1941. Now their ranch is visited often by neighbors and tourists seeking relaxation and beauty.

Flowers, fruit trees, vines, and vegetables, all foreign in 1941, have been added to the desert soil to produce the garden spot.

Guinn's wife came from Greeley, Tenn., to Jerome in 1937. Four years later they homesteaded northwest of Shoshone.

At first the ranch was nothing more than a bit of "barren" desert in 1941; today there are 100 varieties of flowers, 50 varieties of fruit and 2,000 trees.

Some of Mrs. Guinn's favorite flowers are lily-of-the-valley, which has 64 named varieties and countless unnamed varieties; a castilian lily, the clematis, white bellflower, and rock.

She also likes the variegated dogwood, the clematis, white bellflower, the red-flowered clematis, the red-flowered vine; magic lily, which comes up in the spring, then dies down and in September puts up a single flower.

Other flowers include: azalea, lily, peony, rose, hyacinth, snowball, French larkspur, gladiola and petunias.

She also grows the geraniums, which are quite familiar to this part of the country, having been brought here by Mrs. Guinn.

Flowers also brought here are the bilious, which grows seven feet

Words, sold door-to-door

We hear that door-to-door salesmen are in the neighborhood, selling "vitamin preparations" with apparent concern about your health. These men are not likely to be physicians or pharmacists, and thus are neither professionally qualified to talk about your health nor to prescribe vitamin products. This is your physician's job, just as it is your pharmacist's job to fill such prescriptions. Remember what the door-to-door salesman sells best is words.
