Guard Called Into Army by Order Of Ike

(From Page One)
Today, there has been no violence in contrast to yesterday—but the nine Negroes who entered the school yesterday and then withdrew were not on hand today.

There were some incidents of disorder during the night, however, and police hunted off five white men from the Central high school.

For the President it was a disappointing day. It was not a day of triumph and it was not a day of defeat.

Secretary James Hagerly, who was in Washington, shortly after arriving at his office at the U. S. naval base here at 7:30 a. m.

Hagerly then mentioned the Eisenhower proclamation commanding the Little Rock rioters to cease and desist and to disperse from the Little Rock high school grounds.

FOOTBALL PLAY
Is Outlined at Club Meeting

Ernest C. Crater, superintendent of the city parks and recreation department and commissioner of the four district football officials association told members of the Twin Falls Lions club Tuesday that football officials will be thoroughly qualified before allowed to work games.

Crater, guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the organization at the American Legion hall, pointed out that officials must attend two clinics in early fall in order to learn rule changes and to pass qualification examinations.

Crater said that each official must take both an open and closed book examination and must be thoroughly acquainted with all rules and rule changes for the coming football season.

Supplementing his speech was a film entitled "Football for Millions," which illustrated many of the more common rule infractions and how penalties are charged.

He also explained that the fourth district is one of six districts throughout the state. The district supervises some 25 schools with game rooms.

The fourth district, said Crater, encompasses the area of from Kimberly to Idaho and from Sun Valley to Oakley.

In other business, Donald Zuck reported on the Lions' sponsored light bulb sale and said he felt it was going to be a huge success. He also called for help in Tuesday evening game activities. He noted that only 30 bulb packages were left out of 1200.

Election Eyed For Financing New Building

Hagerly stated that for records, each floor would cover about 5,500 square feet. The outside of the building would be built with stone trim.

County commissioners are Emerson Fugure, Hagerman; Jerry Hager, Wendell, and Harold Steele, Gooding.

Fugure conducted the meeting which was called to obtain a cross-section of opinion. About 40 people attended.

County offices, at present, are located in the north wing of the Lincoln inn, which was decided to be the site in 1914 by the Gooding-Townsite company, of which the late P. R. Gooding was president.

In July, 1915, Gooding county obtained a 99-year lease on the property.

For a number of years many residents have felt the present court-house facilities are inadequate and recent community growth has brought the problem into focus.

Since Gooding county has no bonded indebtedness, the cost of the new building will be paid in part by the state and in part by the county.

The building will be a good time to build a new courthouse.

Criticism of the present courthouse includes inadequate fireproof storage space for records, overcrowded office, poor heating and wiring, and a small quarters for the county clerk's office.

U.S. Asked to Ponder Lower Trade Barrier

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The operational monetary fund today asked the United States and other nations to ponder the possibility of lower trade barriers and larger foreign investment.

The fund's managing director, Per Jacobson, presented his 64-nation annual report on the state of the world economy and the need for measures to cope with inflationary pressures and the use of some countries—slipping into balance in shaky currencies.

The fund said that the member countries may draw to them over the next few years a large and increasing share of the world's foreign exchange, a holding which would be a major factor in the world's economic position in foreign trade.

The report said, however, that the member countries have not done enough to ease the burden of the world's economic position and that the member countries have not done enough to ease the burden of the world's economic position.

Care of Your Children

by ANGELO PATRI

Little children are active every waking moment. They must be doing something with arms and legs and hands, their tongues keeping time with every movement. Just as busy as any mother who would find it hard to keep a few minutes to herself. It is a good thing that mothers are younger these days for only youth can cope with such activity. It is essential, this constant motion. The children are engaged in growing and developing their bodies and minds. Instead of frowning upon their curiosity, their "getting into everything," we should provide for them with as much margin of relief for their mothers as is consistent with their need for activity. The children need objects to do something with and the household equipment often furnishes just what they need. A tin can and a spoon, some old-style clothes pins (the map-on-one are dangerous to swallow) — a nest of boxes, a rag doll, a low bench light enough to push or carry along the floor and will amuse a busy child and allow him the sensory experience he needs. The span of attention in these little ones is short so their mothers must expect to see them drop the thing they are playing with and turn to something else. This means keeping "start-something-else handy." It also means an effort to keep both one or two playthings on the floor at a time. A play pen comes in handy as the toys can be kept in one place and changed as needed, that is more easily than otherwise. There is nothing easy about this stage of childhood's growth. It is wearing on the mothers and they must, for the sake of the children, and for themselves and their husbands, take time out for rest. This may be in the shape of a nap, a walk, a visit with a friend, taking the child alone, of course. If he will take a nap that is fine but if he won't he won't and the mother must see to her own time and her health somehow. There is always a way. One way is to establish the quiet hour. Usually this comes after lunch. The baby is trained to sleep after his meal and this can be carried to the time when he is running about the house it will be a great help to mother and child. Looking ahead to this time and preparing for it is a way to avoid the fatigue and the ill-fated difficulties. If you want your baby to have confidence in you, you must handle him with a sure hand. Include the way to handle children. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to: Patricia Latta, P.O. Box 89, Rialto 6, New York 19, N.Y.
