Total Calm Rules For Little Rock; Army Remaining

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Army paratroopers brought the nine Negro students into Central high school for the third consecutive day today and white students, waiting at the front entrance, laughed and jeered as they came up the steps. Nobody booed. Something like a cheer arose among the laughter. Over 200 white students, more than on previous days, clustered on the steps and in front of the doors. A lieutenant walked in front of the six Negro girls and three boys. One soldier followed them. The officer was carrying a pistol in his holster, but the soldier appeared unarmed. The same army station wagon, with a jeep in front and another following behind, the Negroes, arriving shortly before class started at 8:45 a.m.

Superintendent of Schools Virgil Bloomer reported attendance at Central today's session. Attendance dropped to 1,250, after this week, but has been rising daily since the paratroopers mounted guard.

Little Rock calm settled over the area today.

No bystanders gathered. Traffic flowed smoothly. People in cars stopped blowing up to look as they passed the school.

Four girls, escorted by a woman, came out of the building shortly after the Negroes entered. The woman, who was not named, she claimed to be the mother of all four girls, although they appeared to be of approximately the same age.

"I'm taking them out for good," she said.

"The girls remained silent when reporters asked questions. They all walked straight to the school."

The number of paratroopers on station in the street fronting Central high school, or walking in stacks, remained on the grounds below the front entrance, was sharply reduced.

The total force, about 350, is still in Little Rock.

Local Constable Is Convicted by Jury On Speeding Count

A six-member district court jury Thursday afternoon found Twin Falls Constable Elton Holmes guilty of speeding. During the day-long trial, defense attorneys charged Holmes with speeding by city officials and the city attorney claimed the defense was negligent by his testimony.

Holmes was arrested by city police last July 12 for driving through a radar screen at 36 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone on Blue Lakes boulevard north.

A police court jury found Holmes guilty and applied the conviction to district court.

The district court jury consisting of three men and three women Thursday took exactly one hour to decide Holmes' guilt. When the jury returned at 8 p.m., foreman of the jury, Frank Caudier, route 1, Duni, announced the jury had found a verdict and the written verdict was passed to the deputy clerk of court to be read aloud.

District Judge Hugh A. Baker set time of sentencing for 3 p.m. Friday. Oct. 4. Holmes was released on a bond which previously had been posted.

The other candidates are James M. Norflett, incumbent, Warren E. (Ben) Jewell, Vernon Riddle, Lawrence Laughridge and John J. Wolfe. Wolfe, 20 years old, is a commission member whose terms expire this year and who is not running again as Chairman R. Lyons Smith and H. R. Grant.

The only other rainfall area at night and early today was along the Gulf coast region, where occasional showers doused sections of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama,

Temperatures tumbled under skies in most of the northeastern quarter of the nation, with the greatest overnight cooling occurring from Pennsylvania north through New England. Readings in the area averaged 10 to 15 degrees colder than the previous night.

The northern Great Lakes reported the lowest temperatures, with readings in the 20s coming throughout the area.

States Battle For Industry In 'Hot War'

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — New states are entering into the scramble for the states to lure more industry.

The states are big. Business is booming. At 37-billion-dollar-a-year clip for new plants and equipment, until recently about half of that was going for new plants. Instead of for modernization of old ones.

Countless localities, 46 of the states many utilities, railroads, are estimated to be spending 10 billion dollars this year to attract new plants to sites they serve. More than 4,000 separate organizations are competing for this business.

But the contest is taking on some new aspects. One unknown quantity is what effect, if any, the rising racial tensions in various parts of the nation might have on industrial planning. The coming of the St. Lawrence seaway will affect the jockeying for position. The fast growing Southwest and Far West is building new markets to be served.

The race already is hot enough. Arkansas has attracted 90 new industries there since the industrial development board was first launched two years ago with Winthrop Rockefeller as a moving light.

Mississippi added 40 new plants last year. Louisiana has brought in many new industries, with a huge chemical plant growth under way. The textile industry has blossomed throughout the South.

The Northern tier states has its own drive well under way before the away arrives. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota have set plans for luring more factories. The New York state commerce commissioner is bringing 400 community representatives together next week to launch a fresh drive.

New England fights back hard after the loss of its textile industry. The Massachusetts department of commerce and the New England council talk up diversified industries. Vermont advertises widely and its greater Burlington Industrial corporation is an example of a city drive that landed a new business machine factory.

In the fast-growing Southwest, Arizona advertises its winter and summer sports areas as an attraction for workers in new plants. As a consequence, the state is offering corporations the state off to workers who would be transferred from other localities.

Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico have their own planning and development agencies. Many devices are used to lure new industry.

A typical one is the Mississippi which authorities communities to finance the purchase of land and building of new plants for industry by floating bonds. Since the community even the site and plant and leases them, the project is free of state taxes, and new firms are exempted from local and county ad valorem taxes for five years.

The state's agricultural and industrial bond reports, this scheme has helped it raise payrolls in the state's manufacturing industries by 75.5 percent in 18 years, with 45,000 new jobs being added last year.

The battle between the states seems likely to grow hotter, with the new actors and imponderables.

Newsman See Fall of Missile In New Tests

By GENE FLOWDEN
MILWAUKEE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Wednesday I watched a missile die in a brilliant and sobering performance.

It started Sunday when we heard, via television, that "big missile" was to be fired from this supersecret military base midway between Miami and Jacksonville. Rumor said it was to be the Atlas.

That's the air force name for our intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM). We had heard so much about it, in almost the identical report, June 11 and watched while our first ICBM, riding upward on a tall fire, roared and exploded into a million firecrackers.

Now we were back again, three months and 14 days later, to see what improvements, if any, had been made in the meantime. The Russians said they had developed such a missile.

The Atlas, we had read, was designed to travel 15,000 miles an hour, reach an altitude of 60,000 miles and burst down on the enemy at a speed 40 times faster than sound.

The June edition of the Atlas had climbed only about 4,000 feet. We hoped—and expected—that one would do far better.

Since Monday, when newsmen took up the vigil from dawn to dusk, word had spread up and down the booming peninsula, and by Friday 50 or more newsmen, bathed, but weary and excited, were waiting at the beach.

At 3:30 p.m. the monster with the coiled head started to rise. It was slow, it seemed at first, but it was rising and gaining speed. A bouquet of flame hung beneath it. Up it went for perhaps a mile, then what appeared to be two spent rockets fell away.

Atlas moved upward a bit more, then faltered like an old man climbing stairs, shuddered and fell. It was a great mass of red, yellow and orange-colored flame, and it fell away like a million plumed down the sea, nature mercifully provided a cloud of clouds to hide its death throes.

The defense department conducted a missile test and drop, but would say no more. Authoritative sources said it was the Atlas.

Later, Walter Wilson, assistant secretary of defense and the department's controller, said of the dropping missile: "The Atlas missile will be a good deal more than double the cost of development than the first Atlas missile, which was about two billion dollars."

Mr. Wilson said the Atlas missile, which was launched in June, had been in the air for five minutes but each was an awesome display of fire and potential.

They will mark the birth of one of our chief weapons of warfare.

U.N. Readies For Talks on Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States is sure it can muster enough support to block proposals in the United Nations for ending nuclear tests without waiting for agreement on other disarmament measures.

A committee report reported this Thursday as disarmament came to the fore both in U. N. general assembly debate and behind-the-scenes negotiations.

The committee said the U. S. sounded out a number of nations, including the 62-nation assembly will reject proposals by India, the Soviet Union and Japan for ending tests of nuclear weapons.

India tried to make its proposal for agreement on other disarmament measures.

Britain by dropping any reference to "immediate and unconditional" acceptance of a ban, India proposed that the U. S., Britain and the Soviet Union set up a joint committee to study disarmament.

The United States view is that a two-year suspension of tests could be declared immediately if there were agreement in principle on other Western proposals for partial disarmament. These include adequate inspection machinery and action to production of fissionable materials for weapons of war.

A British spokesman said: "All these proposals provide for suspension of tests in legislation. The Western position is that the U. S. is in a general agreement for partial disarmament."

The United States is consulting privately with other nations on a specific disarmament proposal for the general assembly. The United States will seek endorsement of its own features of the Western proposals.

The U. S. is also discussing disarmament with the Russians to accept the Western proposals.

Big Boost for Uranium Flow Are Predicted

DENVER, Sept. 27 (AP)—The atomic energy commission predicts uranium production in Colorado and Wyoming will be producing 30 million dollars' worth of uranium oxide annually by the end of next year, usually by the end of next year.

The report, yesterday the AEC said, is a report on the uranium industry's production of uranium oxide, worth approximately 25 million dollars a year.

The daily ore tonnage capacity of Colorado and Wyoming mills indicates they will produce approximately 25 per cent of the total for the Western states, the AEC said.

The five mills now operating in Colorado were built at a cost of $11,500,000. They are at Grand Junction, Durango, Rifle, Naturita, and Uruapan. Three more mills under construction will go up at Gunnison, Rifle and Maybell at a cost of $12,000,000.

Two Wyoming mills will be at Salt Lake and in Fremont county. They will cost an estimated $10,500,000.

The report is a survey of AEC operations from January to June. It noted that a contract has been signed for the construction of a 30-ton-a-day pilot plant near Canon City.

One of two Grand Junction pilot plants is one of two in the United States which bore the main effect of the AEC's new materials process development during those six months. That plant was used to test Wyoming, New Mexico and Oregon uranium ore to determine their response to conventional processing procedures, the report noted.

It added that the United States has reached a position where there is now a 10-year supply of uranium in sight, based on existing contracts and anticipated boosts in domestic production. A total of 10,000 tons of uranium oxide will be burned out by U.S. mills this year, the report said.

Small Gain Seen On Registrations
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (Special)—Motor vehicle registrations were expected to gain only slightly over last year in Idaho for 1967, the bureau of public roads estimated this week. Last year some 387,320 cars and trucks were titled while 338,000 are expected this year.

Passenger cars will number about 120,000 or 130,000 less than in 1966. Idaho is one of two states in the country expected to have a drop in car registrations.

Trucks and buses were expected to total 90,000, a gain of nearly 2 per cent.

Future Plans Discussed by Buhl Jaycees

Buhl, Sept. 27.—Buhl Jaycees were told Wednesday about the fourth district travel trophy dance which will be held in Buhl Saturday.

The membership committee composed of Robert E. and John Crawford made suggestions on raising membership and holding attendance. The first suggestion, a noon luncheon on the second Tuesday of each month, was put into effect immediately. The first luncheon will be held Oct. 2 at the R and R cafe.

The second suggestion was a membership drive to be carried out on a point system.

The group voted to donate $10 to the Jay-C-ette welfare fund. Dean Watson, president, announced the board of directors has raised the annual dues to $7.00 per member.

Several projects were discussed with three being tabled for further study. Passed were the doll travel trophy, in which children are taught safety through the use of clowns and pictures; speakers, a speaking contest, up to the minute Christmas dinner, a bachelorette party at Christmas time and a clearing house for Christmas packages donated by all groups in Buhl.

It was brought to the attention of the group there are no state flags in Buhl and money was set aside to get one for the schools. Money also was voted to buy a Joyce's crew banner for use in the club room.

A committee is looking for a house to paint in the "Buhl's" a house home improvement project.

"Another Example of Violence in America"

Governors, President Will Not Limit Discussions to Little Rock Incidents

By J. M. ROBERTS

AP Wire Service

Even if they do try to confine Tuesday's discussion to the immediate issue, in Little Rock, the Southern governors who will confer with President Eisenhower are bound to hear some things about general desegregation which they won't like.

Despite the stand of the chairman, Luther Hodges of North Carolina, that the committee is bound by the governor-senators' agreement to the single topic, individuals obviously will welcome an opportunity for broader discussion.

All of them are on the spot.

The success of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in obtaining enforcement of the Little Rock court order is bound to produce a spate of such suits throughout the segregated area.

"This is going to put it squarely to the district courts to decide what constitutes 'deliberate' speed in integration, as ordered by the supreme court."

If the judges decide that school and state officials are being entirely too deliberate, as one judge did indicate as to state officials in the Little Rock case, more orders for integration will be issued. And the federal government is now committed to enforcement of those orders with troops if necessary.

"This, of course, is going to influence the judges, and cause them to be extremely careful about creating explosive situations."

Already one court has granted a stay on an integration order for Arlington, Va., where integration had been expected to take place without too much difficulty.

The conference with the President would seem to offer the governors a forum from which they could try to influence public opinion, against what they feel is precipitate action. There is no reason why they should oppose broadening the agenda.

The governors committee was set up as the result of what was described as a victory by the so-called "moderates" at the Southern States' conference. The term "moderate," if its connection, however, must be considered a matter of degree. West-Southern governors who are not in outright rebellion have been working more to moderate enforcement than to moderate segregation. Hodges is among those.

As for the matter of getting the troops out of Little Rock, the objective of the governors who want the precedent ended as quickly as possible, President Eisenhower already has made it clear that the people of Little Rock will have the determining vote. When peace seems assured, the troops will go.

The President took a fateful action. It fixes a pattern. The governors can expect from him only a firm warning of what the future will be when the courts decide they are being too moderate and too deliberate.

Berry Brown is chairman for the leadership activities. Assisting are Jim Gibbs, Roger Hester, Arnold Jones, Lonnie Luper and Roger Andrews.

Earnings and savings will be directed by Gary Bradshaw with George Jacobson, Larry Oberg, George East, Charles Kaufman and Lionel Harris assisting.

Conduct of the meetings will be supervised by Larry Ruby, Howard King, Merle Kiser, Roland Ruby, Jerry Stockman and the My-Cord.

Those in charge of scholarship will be Stanley Johnson, Lynn Stephenson, Frank Orth, Herb Strickland, Bill Terry and Ramon Yarnagren.

Soviet Satellites?

Y. C. Khabibovich, a Soviet missile expert, said in an article in a Moscow publication that Russia plans to send manned rockets to the Moon, Mars and Venus by 1965. The Soviet scientist estimates the trip to Venus would take 146 days and the voyage to Mars 238 days. The article disclosed that Soviet scientists plan to attack space in three steps. 1. Unmanned rockets guided by radio from the earth will first blast the interplanetary trail. 2. Unmanned "armored laboratories" would then be fired to positions on the planets to reconnoiter them by television. 3. Multistage rockets would deliver a manned "scientific station" to each of the planets.

GETS JAIL TERM

AMMAN, Jordan, Sept. 27.—Payah Warrad, communist member of the Jordan parliament, was jailed yesterday for 16 years, for taking part in anti-government demonstrations during the political crisis last April.

Appeals From Mayor Shown In Troop Use

By United Press
President Eisenhower ordered U. S. troops into Little Rock, Ark., after receiving word that city officials were unable to handle the mob. He said the United Press has learned that the information to the President was relayed to a telegram from Little Rock Mayor Woodrow W. Wideman to Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., and in telephone calls from other city officials to the Justice department. Law enforcement officials indicated they did not trust Gov. Orval E. Faubus to give them the help they felt was needed to pull down violent opposition to court-ordered school integration in Little Rock, federal officials asserted.

The telegram said one of Faubus' aides, "Jimmy Karam" was "a fanatic" and "one of the principal agitators" of the Monday disorders and that Faubus himself "at least" knew in advance what was going to happen in Little Rock.

A copy of Mayor's telegram, sent to Brownell Monday after mob action caused school authorities to send nine Negro children home at Little Rock, was obtained yesterday by the United Press.

The telegram was received in Washington at 6:31 p.m. EDT—34 minutes before a United Press bulletin from New York City announced that the federal government was "contemplating" paying the way to send federal troops into Little Rock.

Mayor Wideman did not specifically ask for federal troops, he said that he had the orders of the federal government in regard to integration in this city, the city police will be available to lend such support as you may require.

Clear Appeal
Officials in Washington said this and telephoned appeals earlier in the day from other city officials constituted a clear appeal for federal assistance.

A copy of Mayor's telegram was received at the vacation White House in Newport, R. I. The following day, after noon, Eisenhower ordered troops into Little Rock and called the Arkansas national guard to federal service.

Officials in Washington said they were certain the President knew of the local appeal for help. "He would not have ordered in the troops unless he was well informed about the whole thing," a highly placed source said.

In ordering use of federal force, said in his radio-TV speech to the nation Tuesday night, Eisenhower said nothing about a local request for assistance.

Mayor Wideman, asked in Little Rock about the telegram, said "it wouldn't be good for me to discuss it."

Leaders Anguished by 'Lick's' Tactics

By United Press
President Eisenhower's use of troops at Little Rock's Central high school came in a move today from public officials and educators in the Arkansas city who were strong indications that the federal government was using military force to enforce its integration policy.

Miss. Gov. J. F. Jackson, Miss. Gov. J. F. Jackson, U. S. Sen. James O. Eastland and U. S. Rep. John Bell Williams agreed during a one-hour session panel discussion that the military will not occur in the case of Little Rock.

There is not going to be any military in Mississippi, and there is not going to be any in Little Rock, said George S. Long, D. La., a member of the Little Rock school board.

Labor-Owner Accords Said At New Level

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Union harassment and "blackmailing" practices on west coast waterfront are now a thing of the past, according to a shipowner spokesman.

This good news came yesterday from J. Paul St. Sure, president of the Pacific Maritime Association and chief negotiator for the shipowners. He spoke at a "Sacramento valley day" luncheon of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

St. Sure said not one PMA ship has been tied up by a refusal of crew members to sign articles for the past two years. Moreover, in that period work stoppages sank to an "unmeasurable level," or below one per cent of total manhours worked.

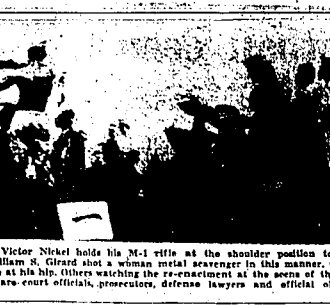

"Despite all these great advances," he said, "we are still suffering a black eye from labor trouble that occurred years ago."

"It seems you can't make news out of the fact that you don't have trouble. Our policy is to stay out of the headlines—to stop making news. But that does not mean we're not in business."

The Idaho employment security agency reported Thursday employment in the Twin Falls area made the expected August upswing directly as a result of increased agricultural activity.

Employment in the trades and services groups reached its peak for the year with considerable demand for additional workers in service establishments.

Elsewhere in Maple Valley, Burley employment has remained unchanged, but transient agricultural workers are expected to return for the potato harvest.

Rapport had some work in potato harvesting during the first part of September, but all harvesting of the crop is expected to be completed by mechanical means this year.

During August the demand for workers in Gooding exceeded the available supply, particularly in agricultural areas. Jerome processing plants received a large number of applications for jobs in the plants for fall operations and several jobs were made available in Sun Valley by students returning to school.

Christianity Has Difficulties In Prosperous West Europe

FRANKFURT, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—Christianity is facing an uphill battle in prosperous western Europe. A United Press survey shows western Europe has registered no upswing in religious interest comparable to that sweeping the United States.

Roman Catholic countries such as Portugal, Spain and Italy reported an increase in church interest and attendance. But Holland, Austria, and West Germany, all countries with a large proportion of Roman Catholics, saw church attendance fall. The church attracts little interest in Protestant Sweden, but has made significant gains in Finland and is holding its own, if no more, in Denmark, Norway and Switzerland.

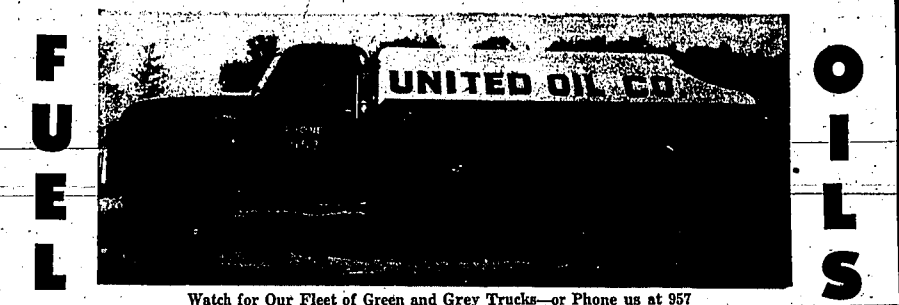

England and France both report heightened interest in religion. But this interest apparently has not yet led to a higher church attendance trend.

The state of Christianity country-by-country in western Europe: Holland—Both Roman Catholic and Protestant attendance has dropped sharply since the war, continuing a trend of pre-war days. The feeling is that this is partly a result of the strictly maintained conservatism of the Dutch churches. The higher tempo of modern life in general is also blamed for declining church attendance.

Austria—Roman Catholic church officials say the situation is depressing. Nearly 85 per cent of the nation's seven million people are Roman Catholic, but only 13 per cent in cities and 38 per cent in towns are active churchgoers. Church officials blame the decline on the high standard of living and also on the shortage of priests.

West Germany—Protestant church attendance rose sharply after the war but fell off as the wave of prosperity began rolling in 1950. The Roman Catholic church's tradition of continuity and a close watch over its adherents have enabled it to hold off the challenge of materialism.

Los Angeles May Balk on Final Dodger Invitation

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Los Angeles city council, which last week with a huzzah by a vote of 11-4 adopted a proposal to offer the Brooklyn Dodgers a home game today was reported wavering on final adoption of the invitation. Sources close to the city council said that, unless the councilmen are engulfed in a flood of enthusiasm for major league baseball it may not swing the necessary 10 votes to adopt an ordinance fixing Brooklyn's president Walter O'Malley's 1958 season ticket in Chavez Ravine, as the city would receive in exchange the $10 million Dodger stadium to House the Dodgers.

Speaking for the proposition to the proposal is all now stands was councilman John C. Holland. He gained strong support for his motion that before the city finally agrees to give O'Malley the site he wants, the city should get an appraisal of the land value and also the other team and sicked the city council on the Dodgers-owned Los Angeles club which the city would receive in exchange.

Observers said that members of the city council have been divided with some favoring the sale to the granting of the site to O'Malley. Proposals were pulled into the city council, the exchange was all but made when the city last week agreed to authorize O'Malley to place his proposal before O'Malley for the city to pass the final ordinance.

"It is up to those favoring major league baseball and willing to back the city council," said one councilman, "to make their views known to the council."

A veteran city hall observer said that the city council would not pass the ordinance unless the city council is convinced that the city would receive in exchange the $10 million Dodger stadium to House the Dodgers.

The city council is expected to meet today to consider the proposal. The city council is expected to meet today to consider the proposal.

Farm Leaders Searching for Right Answer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (U)—Leaders of the new national farm organization—the National Conference of Commodity Organizations—are finding it difficult to agree on how to solve the farm income and surplus problem.

The organization met here this week in an effort to reach tentative agreement on specific proposals for helping a wide range of farm commodities. But it adjourned yesterday without doing this. Spokesmen said additional time was needed.

Meeting Set
The conference set a new meeting date of Dec. 11. Leaders said they hoped that by that time drafting committees would have definite proposals for presentation to the conference.

The new farm group was organized this summer to tackle a farm problem that has split the older national farm organizations and sharply divided the farm bloc in Congress.

Agreement
The conference did agree, said the spokesmen, that the way to reduce surplus production is not to reduce prices of supports. They said such action merely encourages increased production. The administration's farm policy is based on the theory that prices should be reduced in times of surplus to discourage production and raised in times of shortage to encourage production.

Spokesmen said the conference will emphasize the "self-help principle" involving the use of producer funds instead of government money in the management of surpluses. Some participants were said to be pressing for an improved soil bank program to retire surplus crop land. All generally agreed that there should be stricter controls on imports of farm products.

No Reduction Predicted for Aerial Forces

BOISE, Sept. 27 (U)—Maj. John Walsh, Idaho adjutant general, says he thinks a proposed cutback of air national guard and air force reserve units will apply primarily in places which lack adequate aircraft.

Walsh said he didn't think the defense department order would affect Idaho. An announcement from Washington said yesterday that adjutants general of states involved had been notified that the air force is dropping 13 wings and 13 squadrons of the air unit.

"Whenever an airport can't accommodate jet aircraft then it has no future military use for an air unit," Walsh said.

Students Honored

Approximately 45 future business women, Twin Falls Business College students, were served tea by the Business and Professional Women's club Wednesday afternoon at the college in observance of National Business and Professional Women's week.

Marion Langdon was chairman of the serving committee. national guard unit that is equipped with light aircraft," Walsh said.

Idaho's air national guard includes the 124th fighter group based at Gowen field here.

Witness Says Ship Gave No Distress Sign

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27 (U)—Two witnesses told a coast guard board of inquiry yesterday that the Norwegian freighter Thorshall did not indicate it was in trouble before it collided with the army dredge Rosell at Goose Bay, Ore., Sept. 10.

The witnesses were James D. Nelson, Fairfax, Calif., and Richard Wilson, Redwood City, Calif. Both survived the collision, which sent the Rosell to the bottom with the loss of four lives.

Nelson, second mate of the dredge, testified that a pilot boat advised him he could enter the channel while the Thorshall was outboard as long as he lay to at the Guano Rock buoy.

Wilson, quartermaster and helmsman, said Nelson ordered him to alter 120 degrees and this course was held until the impact.

Third assistant engineer Carl Kistler of Santa Rosa, Calif., also testified briefly.

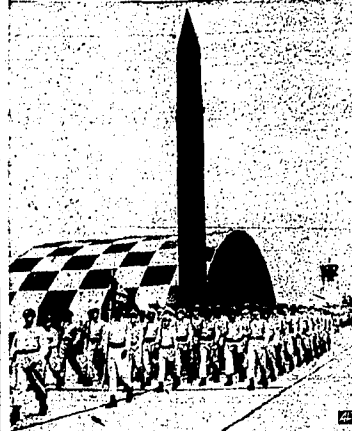

Attorney Francis J. Tetreault, representing the Thorshall, questioned the Rosell crew members relative to whether or not the water-tight doors of the vessel were closed after the collision.

Both Wilson and Kistler said they "didn't know" whether or not they had been closed, and indicated it was not their duty to attend to this in case of emergency.

Following Kistler's testimony, board chairman Capt. L. M. Thayer announced the hearings would be recessed 1 1/2 afternoon and resumed at 1:30 p.m. next Thursday.

"We'd like to contact some witnesses who have no interest in either side of the case," Thayer said.
