

Plan Readied For Publicity On Gem State

BOISE, Oct. 5 (AP) — Measures to boost Idaho's advantages for tourists and new industry will reach the state's next year through a stepped-up newspaper and advertising campaign, the department of commerce and development said yesterday.

The department's advisory council approved the promotional program which includes increased advertising and a new folder of outdoor scenic advertising.

The council heard A. B. Jones, department secretary, discuss plans for telling industry about Idaho. He said next year potential developers all over the country will receive a new folder of the state's advantages.

The folder, public information director, said more travel editors will visit the Gem State next year and newspaper stories and pictures will be mailed to about 500 travel editors.

The state will continue to participate in travel shows and will build a library of films and travel literature for elevators and small group showings.

Three Killed In Rockslide On Mountain

SEATTLE, Oct. 5 (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of tons of rock tumbled down a main cross-state highway in the Cascade mountains, broke away with but a few seconds warning yesterday and snuffed the lives of three road workers.

Another man was injured critically but a score or more of motorists escaped because an alert fireman saw dust and trees "swaying in a crazy pattern."

The giant slide of rock broke loose at 5:09 p.m. 60 miles east of Seattle on the section of U.S. highway known as the Snoqualmie pass road.

Traffic Limited

"It was a point where traffic was limited to one-way movement because construction of the road was being done for some time. Workers had quit four hours before the slide but some of them were on maintenance and other duties."

Killed by the grinding chunks of rock were Clarence Sluder, 35, a state highway department road worker; Knute Johnson, 40, a truck driver. The injured man is Ed Sauer.

Wall Wallace, 22-year-old flagman from Ellensburg, Wash., said the line of westbound cars had just passed his station and he was about to turn on a line of eastbound autos when he saw puffs of dust shooting from cracks in the rock.

Trees Sway

"Then those big trees about 50 or so above us started dancing and swaying in a crazy pattern and I waved everybody back, shouting, 'Get out of here!'"

"When the whole darn mountain came down, huge chunks of rock the size of an automobile shot out forward and the trees falling away which way."

"It sent up a tremendous roar which lasted maybe 30 seconds. A pat cloud of dust, set up by the sliding motion of the rock, spread out over the area and made it as dark as night."

Musical Program Set for Shoshone

Mrs. Emma Allen and Howard Lewis, music instructors, will direct the performance.

The public is invited. A small entrance fee will be charged for all high school musical programs this year, according to a decision reached at a recent music auxiliary meeting.

Shoshone Harvest Vacation Planned

SHOSHONE, Oct. 5 — The exact date for the annual harvest vacation has not been set, according to an announcement by superintendent of schools, Ralph Vilters.

Tentatively, Vilters said, the date will be set for the middle of October to be determined by the direction of workers and weather conditions.

Shoshone school officials are hoping to have just one week of vacation this year, during which there will be absolutely no school activities planned.

Integration Crises Hits Plan For Arkansas Development

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 5 (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller, member of the great financial clan and an Arkansas business and political leader, said last night that the Little Rock integration crisis has damaged the state's plan to bring in more industry.

"It will be six months before we can accurately estimate the damage that has been done—and damage there has been," he said in a press statement from his palatial home 65 miles northeast of here.

Meanwhile, Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, focal point of the racial dispute swirling around Little Rock's Central high school, compared himself with Gen. Robert E. Lee, hero of the Confederacy.

"Lee was offered command of the Federal army in 1861," the governor said. "Lee decided to remain loyal to the people of his state (Virginia)."

The Democratic party of the North wanted me to go along with them on the integration issue. I will remain with the people of Arkansas."

Months-long strife over Central high school integration settled into a week-end calm broken only by one incident late last night.

Robert King, Jr., a 1956 graduate of Central high school, said he was knocked down by a paratrooper's rifle bullet and mangled with a bayonet during a dance at the high school field house.

The army admitted that King was "pounded by a soldier's rifle" and fell to the ground but a spokesman said King provoked the incident.

King said he and four companions went to the dance after a football game here. He said his group and a number of other persons went outside to smoke while the dance was going on, and two members of a 101st airborne division patrol told them to move on.

Oil Irregularity Is Investigated

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 5 (AP) — A congressional committee investigating alleged activity of oil companies in Brazil has summoned David Roberts, head of the Mobil Oil company in Brazil, to testify next Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP) — The United States has agreed to consider some European economic development projects for which the communist nation seeks American loans.

Korean Killed While Making Theft Attempt

SEOUL, Oct. 5 (AP) — The U.S. army said today that a guard had shot and killed a Korean woman found stealing supplies. The announcement came as the Korean news denounced "careless shooting by American soldiers."

The army said Pvt. Ronald Smith of Chicago fatally shot 23-year-old Yi Chung Soon before dawn today at Camp Casey.

Surprised

Smith surprised a group of Koreans removing supplies from the U.S. army engineer compound.

The army said they ran and Smith fired. Smith told investigators he fired only after the Koreans ignored his repeated warnings.

Four Koreans later were caught and turned over to Korean police. One was wounded in the upper left arm.

Third Incident

The incident was the third fatal shooting by U.S. soldiers within three days.

Five major papers called Saturday for the early conclusion of a U.S.-Korea status of forces agreement that would give the Koreans jurisdiction in off-duty incidents involving U.S. soldiers.

Eisenhower Will Not Enter Feud

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP) — Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hargis said yesterday he believed the White House would take no stand on the GOP gubernatorial primary race in California.

President Eisenhower takes the attitude he should keep out of political fights and then support the winner against the Democrats.

Former Official Asks Sanctuary

Watson now was one of the two million handicapped persons in the U.S. who had "lost" the use of his legs from a wheel down. This meant he would have to spend the rest of his life in a wheel chair. Watson did not want charity or sympathy. He merely wanted a job so that he could have some respect and support for his family. He had served in the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II and after his discharge he had made a GI Bill loan to become an electrician. Since he had no entitlement remaining through the war he was able to receive assistance from the Idaho state vocational rehabilitation center.

It's up There, Somewhere; Majority of Observers Doomed to Disappointment

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (UP)—Russia's baby moon could escape the eyes of most people eagerly looking skyward around the world.

Save by lucky fluke, they couldn't see it unless they knew exactly where and when to look—with binoculars.

Observing the world that kind of time-table depends upon accurate tracking of the moon, to predict when it appears in your locality in suitable viewing circumstances. That would be down and dusk when the moon is low in the horizon.

Its radio beep-beep is a main hope that Russians or others can do this. They have to put together enough accurate "fixes" in time and place.

To detect her moon, Russia is betting mainly on a somewhat odd choice of radio signals from it. These signals could fade or be distorted, making it hard to pin-point the exact location of the speeding Sputnik-Russian for earth satellite.

The longer Sputnik whirled, the better the chance of tracking her. But her batteries might go dead before they reveal her path.

Or—meteorites—bullet-shaped bits of metal and stone—might knock them out as they rip through the moon.

Russia is also relying on 66 moon-watching teams heaped over the world, teams paid observers scanning the skies along the initially expected orbit, perhaps find the moon if the battery went dead.

Third is a network—just getting started—of special camera telescopes. These can zero in on the moon when its path is known, for invaluable knowledge. Slight variations in a moon's path will give information about the atmosphere and the earth.

Hearing Held On Anti-Trust Law Violation

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 5 (UP)—Government attorneys and legal representatives for two major western natural gas companies clashed verbally here today during an anti-trust hearing before Judge William R. Ritter in U. S. district court.

The hearings involved government claims charging 22 Pace Natural Gas company and Pacific Northwest Pipeline company with violating the Clayton and trust act in a stock merger last November.

Attorney Arthur Dean of the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell argued the case should go before the federal power commission. He said Ritter had no alternative but to dismiss the complaint or stay proceedings until the FPC rules on the matter.

Ephraim Jacob, who represents the government in the case, said the FPC had no jurisdiction over Clayton act enforcement and that the argument of creating a monopoly should be decided by a U. S. district court.

Meanwhile, eight of the 11 Western states served by El Paso and Pacific Northwest have filed motions in federal court asking that the government either dismiss the case or refer it to the FPC, or stay proceedings until the FPC rules on the matter.

Hunter Kills 400-Pound Black Bear

A high-contrast, black and white photograph showing two men in military uniforms standing on either side of a large, dark, irregularly shaped object, possibly a piece of equipment or a large bag, against a light background. The man on the left is wearing a light-colored uniform and a cap, while the man on the right is wearing a dark uniform and a cap. The central object is very dark and obscures much of the background.

Donald Zuck, right, 486 Rose street, Twin Falls, poses with the hide from the 400-pound black bear he shot Thursday in the Stanley basin. He made the shot at 300 yards with a .110-grain bullet from a rifle. Accompanying him on the hunting trip was Bob Drexler, left, and Lud Drexler. The bear was shot on the 20th.

Smokejumpers' Training Calls for Vigorous Activity

Smokejumpers, because of the hazardous and exciting nature of their work, must be young and vigorous. They are screened carefully before being admitted to smokejumpers' school. Here, a group does a back-breaking bend to toughen them for the hard landings they may be expected to make. (Forest service photo—staff engraving)

Hard Training, Careful Screening
 Creates State Smokejumping Crew

HAILEY, Oct. 5 — If you're young, vigorous, level-headed, and can make up your mind to step out into space some 1,500 feet above the earth's surface, from an airplane traveling 150 miles an hour, you have the first qualifications for a smokejumper.

But that's only a starter, brother. You've made the jump—maybe you were lucky and landed on your feet—made your quarter-turn pivot and rolled discreetly across your back just like you learned in your three weeks training period. Maybe you weren't so lucky and couldn't steer your parachute just the way they taught you and got hung up in the top of a fir tree and had to use your 50-foot nylon friction emergency rope to get down. Or maybe a sudden gust of wind came at you from out of nowhere and threw you off your course and you landed in a bed of jagged rocks and you break your leg like happened to John Austin on the Pele creek fire during the summer.

At any rate, after you've landed, you gather yourself together and take a look around to see where your buddies are.

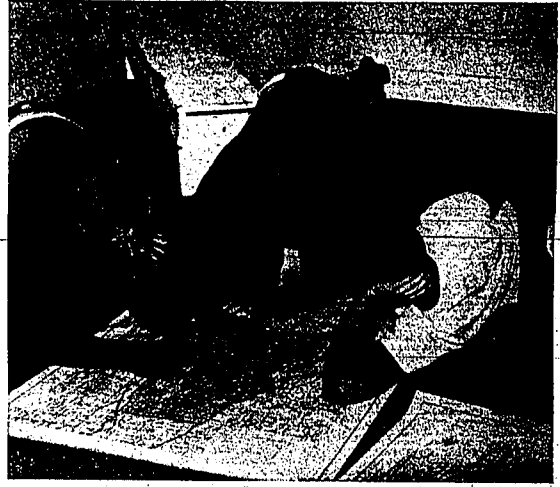

If someone's hurt like Austin was, you signal the helicopter pilot who arrives, shortly, to let down your fire fighting tools and enough grub for a couple of days or so—and he will land as near as possible—and you help your buddy so he can be taken to the nearest hospital.

Everyone else accounted for, you begin fixing things up. It's great when the fire has been discovered early enough so that a half dozen of you are able to snuff it out before it really gets a good start. But the fire devil has had enough of a hard start on you, it's something in on you. You work and sweat and work some more—and you have to keep your eyes open every minute or he'll slither around behind you like a huge snake and close in on you. A break for chow gives you time to relax a little. You ponder now why you put in that can of peaches instead of another can of pork beans. You can't blame anyone but yourself though, because you did it. You always win the battle against.

Studies Pave Way for Successful Jumper

Painting Refreshes Memories as Three Area Youths Talk Over Jubilee

Three Magic Valley Eagle Scouts reminisce about their trip to the international Boy Scout jubilee in England last summer. Gordon Nielson, center, Burley, holds a painting of the American camp, located in Sutton park near Birmingham, England. Nielson was a troop leader during the encampment. Steve Marshall, right, and Roger Detweiler, both Twin Falls, were in the troop led by Nielson. Their trip also included a tour of Canada. (Staff photo—engraving)

Souvenirs of Jamboree Displayed by Scout

Roger Detweiler, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Detweiler, Twin Falls, displays a pair of leather Boy Scout trousers from Germany and a Boy Scout shirt from Denmark. Other souvenirs are wooden shoes from Holland, a beer stein from Germany and "mathers" and glass from "Vender." Detweiler left June 30 for a Boy Scout jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., and a jubilee jamboree at Sutton park, England. He later toured Canada and Europe and returned Sept. 7. (Staff photo—engraving)

Local Boy Scouts
 Tell of Jamboree

The Magic Valley Eagle Scouts commemorated the international Boy Scout jubilee this summer. They returned home with the feeling that the world's racial differences could be bridged under the Scout law.

Roger Detweiler, 15, Steve Marshall, 16, both Twin Falls, and Gordon Nielson, 17, Burley, were three of the 1,200 Boy Scouts of America attending the two-week international jamboree in Birmingham, England, at the Britannia of the world were attended by 32,000 Boy Scouts.

Joseph Marshall, Twin Falls, reported the Magic Valley Scouts as the national jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., held during July training and slugging camp, on the trip to England in August.

The four valley residents were a little over two and half years and their trip, other than two encampments, included a tour of London, viewed the crown and the world's largest dial telephone and other famous landmarks.

At Sutton park, where the American camped, in a 14,000 acre game preserve, they met and worked with Scouts from England, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, India, and countries not on the best of diplomatic terms with the United States.

No time did I observe any of strife, resulting from religious differences," Dr. Nielson said.

When, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ad-Nielson, Burley, was leader of Troop 112, which included Detweiler and Marshall. The number assigned especially for the in-

Educating Public on Use of New Dial System Is Posing Problem for Firm

There's more to this business of dialing telephone numbers than many people realize.

Even Twin Falls residents who are familiar with dial systems elsewhere are discovering, through demonstrations by representatives of the telephone company, that some things will be a little different here.

Using a large demonstration board, company employees are appearing to explain how to dial numbers after Twin Falls converts to the new system on October 19, W. A. Reynolds, district manager of Mountain States Telephone company says.

Demonstrators are offering the following tips among others in their public appearances.

Don't confuse the letter O with the figure 0, or the letter I with the figure 1. The letter O is in the group MNO on the figure 6; the figure 0 (zero) is in the group 2-3-4-5-6. The letter I is in the group GHI on the figure 4; the figure 1 is by itself, with no letters.

Don't try to dial a number until you hear the dial tone. This tone represents the same thing as the dial tone in other areas.

If you dial a number listed in the present system, you will be disconnected, you will be interrupted by an automatic machine. If you should dial a number incorrectly, you will be interrupted by the operator.

If you need assistance or if you want to place a long distance call, dial "operator" (the 2-operator-0) opening on the dial. For repair service, report a telephone out of order, dial 114. For information, to obtain a number not listed in the directory, dial 113. On these calls you do not dial the prefix (RE 3).

For information on placing calls to telephones in the area and for a list of emergency numbers, subscribers should consult the front part of the new directory. Reynolds added, Reynolds said lack of familiarity with the new dial system is necessitating about 300 personal contacts in homes to explain to patrons how the dial operation works.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Life in Magic Valley this week extends far across the reaches of the Atlantic coast. A concrete illustration of this fact is an incident which occurred last August involving the Rev. W. A. MacArthur, pastor of the TWIN FALLS Methodist church.

It seems the Rev. Mr. MacArthur was preparing to complete his tour as an exchange minister in BIRMINGHAM, ENGLAND, when he received a phone call at one o'clock one more. Much to his surprise, it was a long distance call from BURLEY and a man named Jim Hoper.

Hoper was worried that the Rev. Mr. MacArthur might already be booked for a speaking engagement on Sept. 20 so he thought he had better find out as soon as possible. Hoper, however, was evidently not aware of an eight-hour time change between BURLEY and BIRMINGHAM, and when the phone rang at the MacArthur residence it was 1 a.m.

After a brief exchange of greetings, Hoper promptly asked the minister if he would be the guest speaker of the Scottish Rite Masons in Burley on Sept. 20.

After his return from the exchange ministerial program which brought the Rev. Charles Beane to the TWIN FALLS pulpit, the Rev. MacArthur did deliver a talk at the new Masonic temple in BURLEY.

And then there is the case currently creating unusual interest in LINCOLN COUNTY probably in 17 days back to 1890 and involves life in a Siberian concentration camp, as well as Magic Valley.

It seems that Mrs. MacArthur Schaefer's effort to obtain the share of the estate of the late Jacob Schaefer, of which had been left to Mrs. Schaefer's late husband, John Schaefer.

It seems that Jacob Schaefer died in Lincoln county in 1900. He owned land in the Klamath area of the country and his estate was probated and distributed to three brothers and to a nephew, all of whom lived in Germany.

Because of the unsettled international situation between Russia, Germany and the United States at the time, there was no distribution of the estate.

The brother, John, to whom was left $275, meanwhile was sent to a concentration camp in Siberia during World War II and died there. The widow, who now lives in MONTICOLA, CANADA, now is seeking her husband's share of the estate.

A minister from Seattle, the Rev. Mr. Beckenbarger, who had been interested in protecting the interests of the heirs in Germany, had asked County Commissioner Oscar Kerner, with whom he was acquainted, to be appointed executor for John Schaefer's estate, to pave the way for eventual payment to the widow.

The other brothers have obtained their share of the estate.

The community of PAUL is taking steps to protect its children, forced to attend school in the old Paul hotel because of classroom congestion.

Right signs were installed for their protection against unthinking drivers. In addition, the wheel-chair-bound youngsters will be transported to the regular school for their education.

Another safety measure for the 116 children who must cross two intersections four times daily in the case of buses which will transport the students to and from classes.

FARM BUREAU TO MEET
TUESDAY, Oct. 8.—The Farm Community, Farm Bureau will meet Monday at 8 p. m. in the Frier Orange hall. A nominating committee will be selected.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Is Your Elbow Anointed?"

By THE REV. W. A. MACARTHUR, Pastor, First Methodist Church

Many and varied are the experiences of the traveler. The ancient customs and traditions of foreign countries are exceedingly interesting. Sometimes they give pause for more than passing thought.

Among the unusual habits which we discovered in the history of England, was that of the ordination of their kings—in centuries past.

They were very thorough, anointing not only head, but the palms of the hands, the breast and "each elbow!"

We sometimes quip about the person who over-eats that "every time the elbow bends."

Services Held for Alphonse Bernard
BURLEY, Oct. 5.—Regium mass was said for Alphonse Bernard at the St. Nicholas Catholic church Friday at 10 a.m. with the Rev. Father Malachy McNeill as celebrant.

Calbearers were Larry Wright, Wright, Joe Danougal, Red Short, Sid Dalton, Louis Bernard and Leon Bernard.

Burial was in the Rupert cemetery under the direction of the Goodman mortuary.

Job Changed
BROOKSHIRE, Oct. 5.—Ray W. Brown, Brookshire, manager of the Boise Fayette Lumber company the last several years, will take over management of the Idaho Orange Wholesale plant here Oct. 7. He succeeds Ed Maik, who resigned the position last month.

A successor to the Boise Fayette company position has not yet been named.

time the elbow bends the mouth flies open." But seriously, the symbol of action for the hand is really the elbow. We speak of "elbow grease" when we think of getting things done. It is a rich symbol and a custom that ought to be included in the ceremonies which go with initiation into membership with the church. Whoever heard of a new member of the church having his elbows anointed? But think for a moment.

The first to have the mind and the heart in the right place. It is right and proper that the church member should say "I believe" but is that all that is required to be a good disciple? It seems that Jesus was striking at this very attitude when He said, "Not every one who saith, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the Kingdom." Faith without works is not enough. Even the Psalmist is conscious of the necessity of carrying out into action the desires of the heart, "Establish Thou the work of our hands upon us, yea, the work of our hands establish Thou it."

Think of some of the great challenges that yet remain for the church: food supplies while millions are hungry in the world; the displaced peoples without adequate homes; the problem of race justice and security; world peace; the problem of alcohol. These are questions, undoubtedly most of us have "opinions" about, but this is a day when those opinions must lead to action.

Vigorous action in God's service comes when the elbow is anointed, the careful and prayerful blending of heart and hand, soul and strength. Take hold of your elbow! Flex it in God's name, and in His service, employ it!

Car Production Remains Low; Manufacturers Change Models

DETROIT, Oct. 5 (AP)—Passenger car production continued at a low level this week as the industry's leading makers—Ford and Chevrolet—remained down for their model changes.

The assembly line idleness cut off most of the industry's usual output but it gave retailers around the country opportunity to cut into the new car inventory accumulation. This has been estimated at anywhere from 75,000 to as much as 250,000 units.

The volume looks big at first glance. But with shipments from the factory sharply curtailed and sales efforts at the retail level being in, it is something of a tradition in the industry, however, that when the factories prolong the period between the model changeover and public presentation, some retailers get impatient and put the cars on sale in advance of the announced date.

It has been said new cars never will be cheaper than they are right now as the dealers push the job.

City, County State Law Officers Cooperate to Cut Buhl Crash Toll

Historians Still Sifting Conflicting Claims by 'Discoverers' of Continent

BY TOM HENSHAW (Associated Press Writer)

If you can believe in legends, America must have been the most discovered new world on record by the time Christopher Columbus set foot on it.

Obscure and curious histories, however, with the dust of time, tell how the men of half a dozen primitive nations found their remarkable land beyond the sea.

There were Norse, Irish, Welsh, even Chinese and Arabs.

The country must have been well on its way to the melting pot it later was to become.

Despite what is set down here, of course, there are those who will hold on to the old story of Columbus day, and Saturday. Many will be pretty adamant about it. They may even question what they read here.

Even so, let's take a look at some of the fascinating accounts of what happened before 1492.

He was blown about by the storm, and he saw lands he did not expect to see. And he found them. He found the "New World."

The writer, a 14th century Chinese, was telling the story of Li Shou.

and how, tossed by storm, he found a new land across the western sea, and named it "Vinland" for the grapes that grew there.

The sagas of Ireland, Greenland and the fancies of the medieval mind. Yet there is a ring of truth in the deeds and emotions of the thoroughly human people who live and die on their pages.

The sagas tell of Norse exploration and attempts to colonize Vinland and how they were felled by the savage native Skrellings—dark men and ugly, with unkempt hair and their heads.

There was Li Shou's brother, the tragic Thorvald, slain by Skrellings and buried on a Vinland cape with a cross at his head and a cross at my feet and you shall call the cape "Cronas." And it was done.

One fascinating story, heavy in conjecture, about 14th century Norse wanderings in America has been woven around a strange lower in Newport, R. I., and a message in paper found in Kensington, Minn.

The Newport tower, a glowing stone structure on a hill overlooking the sea, quite possibly was a colonial grist mill, although what colonist built it and what it was known to the writer, a 14th century Chinese, was telling the story of Li Shou.

with angry Skrellings burning about, is supposed to be the last testament of that expedition as members hoped deep in the heart of the unknown.

The message concludes with the moving plea:

"Ave (Mary-Princess) save us from evil, in the year of Our Lord 1362."

Lord before the "Norse, other peoples were visiting the shores of America. At least they were in the world of "Fancy." One of the first was a Buddhist priest, Kioi-Shin.

The Chinese yearbooks of the time tell of Kioi-Shin's voyage in the year 499 to Pusan, a wonderful country 18,000 or 20,000 li east of Tahan.

The most wonderful thing about the place was the fusing tree, whose bamboo-like shoots and red fruit were food and whose bark kept the civilized inhabitants of Pusan in clothing and writing paper.

Strained theory has placed Pusan in California or Mexico, although because of the value of the fifth century B. C. in 20th century culture is uncertain, and besides Tahan is about as easily locatable as the land of Oz.

There were Irish monks of an obscure Culdee order hiding on the fringes of Vinland when the Norse came, if you will believe a yarn spun around a collection of cave-like stone structures found in New England.

The Culdees, primitive Christians fleeing the pagan Vikings, established their community more than 500 years before Columbus, or so the story goes.

Even before the Culdees, another Abraham, St. Brendan, a Christian, was examining "the most wonderful things" on an island across the western sea. The year was 500.

PANCAKES KNOW NO LIMITS

Pancakes of today are so dressed up that they properly go to lunch, supper and snacking, as well as breakfast.

Cold winter weather calls for hot and hearty food to give the energy needed for enjoyable living. Special pancakes and plump, tender sausages are just the right tempting fare for winter-champ appetite at almost any meal of the day.

It's most important to start with a good basic recipe for your pancake main course. By pouring fresh buttermilk into pancake mix, you get the old-fashioned taste and tenderness obtained when buttermilk came from the home churn. 85 for this recipe, use a pancake mix that does not already contain buttermilk.

BUTTERMILK PANCAKES

1 1/2 cups buttermilk
1 egg
2 tablespoons melted butter
3 cups pancake mix
Dissolve soda in buttermilk; add with unbeaten egg and butter to pancake mix, stirring lightly. Bake on hot, lightly greased griddle, turning only once. If you're preparing a large batch and the batter tends to become thick on standing, add more buttermilk to thin it a little. While buttermilk pancakes are light and tender, the addition of cottage cheese to the batter will make them even more so. Use one-half cup of the cream style cottage cheese. You'll be surprised with the results.

An interesting and easy way to dress up buttermilk pancakes is with cinnamon butter and applesauce. Serve them as "cinnamon apple pancakes." These are especially good for lunch or supper, although your family also would appreciate them to give variety to the first meal of the day.

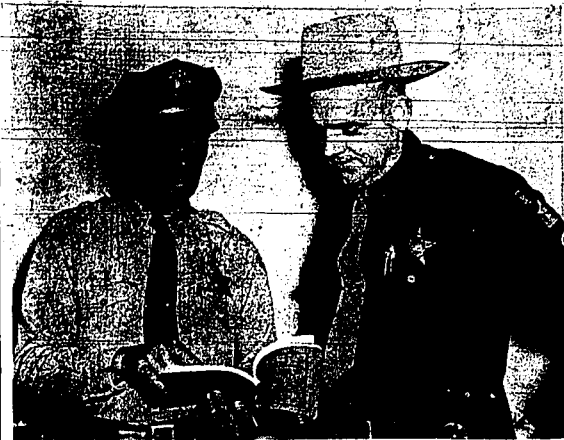

Cinnamon apple pancakes are made by putting a generous portion of cooked or canned apple sauce between two pancakes and topping with cinnamon butter. These who delight in the taste of a dash of cinnamon on apple sauce, will find these pancakes a clever flavor combination. But, with its unmatched natural flavor, is alone a wonderful topping for pancakes. The addition of cinnamon provides a temptingly spicy touch.

CINNAMON BUTTER (1 cup)

1/2 cup butter
1 cup confectioner's sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons milk
Cream butter and sugar. Add cinnamon and milk and mix well.

USE GOLDEN FLAKE BUTTERMILK

Traffic Safety Drive Begun 4 Years Ago Pays Off in Slash of Accidents

BUHL, Oct. 5.—Results of a strict traffic safety campaign begun four years ago are becoming more and more evident in this Magic Valley community of some 3,600 people.

Police Chief T. M. Kendrick says the safety campaign, launched in 1932, has paid off in a sharp reduction of traffic accidents during the four-year span. He is quick to pay tribute to Buhl's citizens for their share in the success of the drive.

Buhl's traffic campaign admittedly is strict. Violators are dealt with swiftly under the full provisions of the law.

The strict traffic campaign of which the results are now apparent began in 1932. The first was turned on the teen-age driver, particularly in the vicinity of the schools. At that time, most drivers were given at least one warning ticket unless the violation was extremely serious. Citations were given to repeat offenders.

Chief Kendrick reports that he and his officers can now feel the effect of this policy. He reports that neither he nor any of the city policemen have had to issue a citation to a teen-ager near the school during school hours this year.

Last year, the police department was instructed to issue more citations and give less warnings. The warnings were given in the case of minor violations.

Over the past year a noticeable decrease in traffic accidents has taken place and we feel that the strict enforcement we have been practicing for the last few years has a lot to do with the decrease.

While strenuous cooperation of the public and the courts in the success of the city's safety drive, Kendrick also gives credit to the state police. State Patrolman Richard Burns, he notes, was assigned to the Buhl area early this summer. While Burns works mostly outside the city, the fact that there is an efficient patrolling rural roads tends to make the people more safety conscious, Kendrick believes.

"The city, county and state law officers cooperate very closely here," he notes.

Currently, Kendrick says, his biggest problem is the "adult driver who does not keep his mind on his driving, but thinks about business or family problems."

Dust Survey's Results Cited

Buhl, Oct. 5.—Mayor Frank Squires has announced that the recommendations of Edward L. Burkhardt, industrial hygiene engineer of the southeast district health department in Pocatello, had been received.

Burkhardt, who was the head of a party of engineers, came to Buhl last week to seek a means of combating the dust hazard raised by bean processing plants in Buhl.

The chief recommendation was the use of a wet collector which would catch the small particles of dust which the present dust traps miss.

Burkhardt stressed in his report that his group was only to make a study, not to pass judgment, and that the city would have to work out with private engineers the right solution.

Promptness Is Byword for Smokejumpers When Fire Alert Is Sounded

Only a 15-minute period of time elapses from the time a dispatch for smokejumpers is received until the men are suited up and at the airport ready to take off.  times, but sometimes you just don't know how long it is going to take. After it's over you put your chute, which you wrapped as you landed, and your equipment in a pack. If you can find a creek around you, wash up. Then contact headquarters on your radio to find out how far you are going to have to hike so a car can pick you up—or, if a car can't come in for you, to find out where you are. In the event of a warm shower, eating the food smudged from your face, and a good night's rest. Smokejumpers first came into being about 1925 at Missoula, Mont. The Payette forest group organized and headquartered at McCall in 1941. There are now headquarters for smokejumpers at Shoup, Wash., Cove Junction, and Redding, Calif. They are used to fight forest fires in the wooded back country, the only access is by foot or air. The Payette force—larger than the states of Rhode Island and Delaware combined—includes a detachment of Idaho's "smokejumpers," which can be reached by air. Forest Service records show that the advent of smokejumpers averted 10 forest fires in the 1956 season. Before, it took 21 square miles. Before, it took 103 square miles. At McCall, a veteran jumper, says that they train about 80 men a year, 35 per cent of whom are and the other 75 per cent are new. Many of the men remain at McCall and the other 25 go to the city and work from there.

Does The Bible CONTRADICT Itself?

Your might think so, from the variety of meanings people take from it today.
 Divorce and remarriage, for example, is widely prevalent among Christians. And some try to justify it by Holy Scripture. Yet Jesus said: "What God has joined together let no man put asunder." (Mark 10:2-12). And St. Paul tells us: "For the married woman is bound by law while her husband is alive... that a wife is not to depart from her husband; and if the husband dies she is to remain unmarried." (Rom. 7:2-3).
 Confession to a priest is scolded at by many Christians. "We confess our sins to God," they say. But if Jesus wanted us to confess directly and privately to God, why did He say to the Apostles: "Receive ye the Holy Ghost; whose sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose sins ye retain, they are retained." (John 20:23)?
 The Bible says that Christ did establish a church. For He told his Apostle Simon: "...thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." But what church is it? Did Christ mean that just any church was His Church? Or did He give His Church marks by which men might recognize it?
 All Christians agree that faith in Christ is absolutely essential to salvation. But some believe that faith is the only essential. Catholics believe the words of St. Paul that God "...will render to every man according to his deeds" (Rom. 2:6)...and the words of Jesus: "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the Kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of My Father" (Matt. 7:21).
 Christians also take from the same words in the Bible, varied and often conflicting opinions on many things—for example: on the need for and effects of baptism, and the real or symbolic presence of Christ in the Eucharist. Is it any wonder that sincere people, trying to understand what Christ meant to tell us, are confused?
 Catholics are often accused of opposing the Bible. This, of course, is ridiculous, for the Catholic Church is the mother of the Bible. And Catholic teachings are sometimes called "unscriptural," which will be found equally untrue by anyone who takes the trouble to investigate.
 We believe, in fact, that a correct understanding of Catholic teaching will convince you of this and bring new joy and understanding to all who truly seek Christ's way. We shall be happy to send you a free pamphlet on several Bible questions commonly misunderstood by Protestants. It will come in a plain wrapper...and nobody will call on you. Mrs. Terrill is represented by Attorney Guy L. Kinney, Twin Falls. A hearing of the petition is set for 2 p.m. Oct. 26.
