New Trial Is OK'd On Speeding Count

Mrs. Crystal Rosendahl, Twin Falls, recently found guilty by a Twin Falls district jury of speeding in a 35-mile an hour zone near the Magic Valley Memorial hospital, was granted a new trial Friday by Judge Hugh A. Baker.

Her attorney, Tom Alworth, Filer, moved for the new trial on grounds the prosecution had not proved in court that the area where she was speeding had been designated a 35-mile zone. Alworth contended the prosecuting attorney should have produced evidence that the state highway department had placed speed markers on that portion of the highway after having been properly engineered.

The district court judge granted the new trial on the speeding count. The woman is 45 years old.

FILER, Oct. 19—The 18th annual futurity and range bull sale of the Idaho Cattlemen's association, held at the Twin Falls county fairgrounds Saturday, saw 130 bulls bring $56,000, nearly $4,000 more than last year's total.

COMPROMISING WITH DEATH

Now that District Judge Hugh A. Baker has released on a year's probation another driver guilty of negligent homicide in a fatal auto crash south of Twin Falls, we can only wonder what he said editorially when he counseled the court's lenience in a similar conviction recently.

In passing judgment Friday on the defendant who pleaded guilty to negligent homicide, Judge Baker imposed a sentence of six months in jail, revoked his driver's license for one year and fined him $400.

The jail sentence was suspended, however, and the judge granted the defendant the privilege of paying off his fine in monthly installments of $35. The maximum penalty for conviction of negligent homicide is one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

In these two recent cases in which the court imposed lenient sentences, Judge Baker is reasoning for his lenience has followed the line that the defendants were good risks for probation; that they did not kill their victims intentionally.

It has been our contention all along that we should be more concerned with the mounting loss of human lives, than with our sympathies for those responsible for the killings.

After all, an individual who is killed in a traffic accident is just as dead as if the driver had run him down deliberately.

We should be more interested in drastic action that will put all drivers in fear of the consequences if they become involved in a serious traffic accident, than in compromising with those who are largely responsible for all the slaughter and destruction, whether it is intentional or not.

Not only do we marvel at Judge Baker's lenience in cases of this kind, but we fail to understand the complacency of the general public in all this carnage on our highways.

The toll of irresponsible and reckless driving is appalling. It is a tragedy that is too high time to realize that it's high time for realistic action.

While Idaho generally is showing a 20 per cent improvement in a reduced number of traffic fatalities so far this year as compared with the same period in 1956, Magic Valley's death toll has increased approximately 46 per cent to this time last year, 32 had lost their lives on our highways, and that was bad enough. But so far in 1957 the number of traffic deaths in Magic Valley has soared to 47!

We contend our civic organizations should be showing concern about this shameful record if there's an ounce of good citizenship among their members.

There should be individuals and organizations joining the Times-News in its concern about all the lives being lost and the hundreds who are being crippled, lost to mention all the needless destruction and property damage.

To our way of thinking, there is no logic whatsoever to this practice of penny-pinching, suspended sentences, and the more recent innovation of an easy payment plan for taking much of the sting out of the heavier fines which are levied.

The slaughter in this immediate vicinity, particularly bloody in recent weeks, calls for action far more realistic than is being evidenced by some of our courts.

RUSSIA HIDES FAILURES

In World War II, there were often amazing long periods without report of major activity by the Russians on their broad front against the invading Germans. This was true long after the tide had turned and the Germans were being pushed out of the Soviet Union.

The silence was misleading. It did not mean that the Russians were not trying. It meant that they were trying and failing. But they did not tell the world what was going on until they successfully mounted a fresh offensive.

This is something to keep in mind in the age of Sputnik the First.

Every time we dispatch a test rocket, we let everyone know whether it succeeds or fails. At this critical time, each failure seems greatly magnified. The Russians, however, hide their failures, despite the important success with an intermediate missile sent aloft in Florida not long ago.

But we must remember that as in World War II, Russia is not honest only in its successes. The great curtain of secrecy keeps us from knowing of the failures. And no doubt they are very, very frequent.

"THE MIGHTY FALLEN"

A sad by-product of the world's future over the Soviet man-made satellite was reflected recently in the work comment of a British scientist, Dr. D. C. Martin.

He said Britain lacks the resources to take part in the competitive drive for supremacy in the earth satellite field. As a consequence, he added, the British will have to content themselves with monitoring the movements of other nations' artificial "moons."

It is hard to realize that this is a voice from the once all-powerful British Empire, which reached to the corners of the earth and swept the seas clear of hostile foes.

WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson

WASHINGTON (NEA)—One great million cases in 1957 to 314,000 in 1956. But the toll in the states for all other public assistance last year amounted to 13 billion dollars. The states paid another 12 billion for a total of 25 billion dollars.

Indications are that public assistance payments will grow. As population increases, the numbers of older and dependent youngsters will grow. Also, Congress has continually liberalized public assistance provisions of the social security act.

The average public assistance case costs about $50 a year now, but this is an inflationary factor in this: A $50-million relief check now will buy only $30 worth of goods in 1965. So the total cost will probably go up, too.

Pair Finishes Altitude Test 16 Miles High

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—The navy's two high-flying balloons, under Major James H. Doolittle and Major Lewis, today began checking the results of their test flights across the northern states.

Flown back to Minneapolis after an uneventful landing last night near Minneapolis, the balloons were checked by the navy doctor.

The 38-year-old Doolittle and his 44-year-old partner spent 15 hours drifting from an open pit 15 miles from Minneapolis, to the field where they landed.

They rose to 64,000 feet, nearly 10 miles above the earth, suspended beneath a two-million cubic foot plastic balloon for the flight, then were hauled over cloudy skies across northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan by 50-mile-an-hour winds.

Dr. Norman Barr, Washington, of the navy's bureau of medicine and surgery research division, said the two flights experienced no ill effects from the flight.

Views of Others

The fact that women outlive men today on the average by more than six years presents an alarming prospect for the feminine sex, and perhaps to our society. So says a not wholly serious article in the October Harper's.

Today there are about a million and a half more women than men in the country, although the ratio was less only a quarter century ago. And the preponderance of women will increase until, by 1973, the census bureau predicts there will be three and a half million more women than men.

This will have wide repercussions, says the article, not least among those who are women. It means that the nation's wealth and have increased income on political and social action. It means that many more of the nation's 70,000,000 women will fill three years of loneliness and often considerable economic distress, with their chances of remarriage steadily declining. And this means, in the opinion of many sociologists, that more and more girls unmarried by the late twenties will face splinterhood, with possible adverse effects on our morals and even on our monogamous marriage system.

Already some have advocated polygamy or credentialed for women as the answer to the loneliness gap and the resultant shortage of males.

The article thinks these unlikely or impractical solutions and suggests that the real answer is to find a way to lengthen men's life expectancy. This would require men to abandon their "illusion" of biological superiority and women to give up their demand for "special consideration."

Men might be reluctant to give up their traditional status as the strong, silent male. But there is something to be said for the idea of a machine-made and easy life while the stronger sex cuts the lawn and takes out the garbage—Sally Lake Tribune.

The fact that women outlive men today on the average by more than six years presents an alarming prospect for the feminine sex, and perhaps to our society. So says a not wholly serious article in the October Harper's.

Today there are about a million and a half more women than men in the country, although the ratio was less only a quarter century ago. And the preponderance of women will increase until, by 1973, the census bureau predicts there will be three and a half million more women than men.

This will have wide repercussions, says the article, not least among those who are women. It means that the nation's wealth and have increased income on political and social action. It means that many more of the nation's 70,000,000 women will fill three years of loneliness and often considerable economic distress, with their chances of remarriage steadily declining. And this means, in the opinion of many sociologists, that more and more girls unmarried by the late twenties will face splinterhood, with possible adverse effects on our morals and even on our monogamous marriage system.

Coaches Pick Pitchers By the Weather Report

A jet plane takes almost two hours to fly from Denver to Philadelphia. As the weather report says, the plane is in the air for 10 hours.

An angler can cast his line 100 feet farther with the same effort in Wyoming than in Tacoma and Lake Mead.

An American pitcher will throw a ball in Kansas City and then the next week he'll be in the first place.

With jet planes, longer runs are made, the difference is made, the size of the catch is made, the size of the catch is made, the size of the catch is made.

Why the difference? As everyone knows at higher altitudes the air is almost always thinner, less dense—plane can fly faster.

Pair Finishes Altitude Test 16 Miles High

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—The navy's two high-flying balloons, under Major James H. Doolittle and Major Lewis, today began checking the results of their test flights across the northern states.

Flown back to Minneapolis after an uneventful landing last night near Minneapolis, the balloons were checked by the navy doctor.

The 38-year-old Doolittle and his 44-year-old partner spent 15 hours drifting from an open pit 15 miles from Minneapolis, to the field where they landed.

They rose to 64,000 feet, nearly 10 miles above the earth, suspended beneath a two-million cubic foot plastic balloon for the flight, then were hauled over cloudy skies across northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan by 50-mile-an-hour winds.

Dr. Norman Barr, Washington, of the navy's bureau of medicine and surgery research division, said the two flights experienced no ill effects from the flight.

Old Style Telephone Service Is Cut Out

Melvin Swanson, front, and George Mills, rear, cut cables which connect the old telephone building in Twin Falls with the new building which houses the new dial telephone system. When the cables were cut on command from a coordinator stationed in the new building, the new dial system was but a few seconds from being operative. Simultaneous with the cutting in Twin Falls, cables were also being cut in Jerome, Gooding and Shoshone to cut in the new system. (Staff photo—enlarging)

U.S. Forced to Make Reappraisal of Support for Tito's Yugoslav Regime

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles is reported to be making a careful reappraisal of United States support for Yugoslavia.

The question is whether that communist country has kept enough independence of Russia to justify continuing American aid.

The United States and its British and French allies may be approaching the brink of another cold war defeat at the hands of smart and aggressive Soviet leadership on the Yugoslav issue. Officials here are not prepared to concede a setback now but they are uneasy about the future.

The American action is useful as a secondary but by far the most important consequence of the Yugoslav-German dispute may be its impact on Yugoslavia's relations with the United States.

The situation has reached a critical point in the view of officials here for two reasons:

First, the increasing evidence that Tito, once reviled and condemned by Moscow, was becoming consistently more friendly with the Khrushchev regime.

Second, the fact that congress has put increasingly heavy pressure on the state department to prove that its Tito aid policy is justifiable by showing that Tito remains friendly and dependable so far as the West is concerned.

Senior Bridges, R., N. H., called today for an end to all aid for travel on sound diplomacy and a waste of the taxpayers' money.

Bridges, top Republican on the senate appropriations committee, said the United States has given Tito nearly 1 1/2 billion dollars worth of military and economic aid.

Chests X-Rayed

SHOSHONE, Oct. 19 — Seventy persons had chest X-rays while the area unit was here this last week. The unit was recently purchased by the six southern Idaho counties to check tuberculosis.

Mrs. Zannie Alexander, public health nurse, was in charge of the project. The next visit in the county will be at Richfield and Dietrich.

It would be a political diplomatic triumph for Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev if he could pull Yugoslav President Tito back into the Soviet orbit completely — or achieve virtually the same result by creating a situation in which Tito had no other place to go.

The Yugoslav problem was spotlighted today by West Germany's break in diplomatic relations with the Tito regime over its recognition earlier this week of communist East Germany.

The recognition was in line with Russia's policy of building up the Red German regime and trying to compel direct negotiations between it and the West German government.

The United States together with Britain and France in effect supported Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany by expressing the

Threatening Turks Is Ancient Strategy, but Seldom Success

By THOMAS F. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Threatening the Turks is an old and constant tradition of Russian diplomacy.

The current Kremlin war talk is possibly more dangerous than some of the previous Russian bids to break through the Turkish fortress into the Mediterranean and the Middle East.

But if Nikita Khrushchev studies the records of history he may decide to go slow.

Russian grubs at Turkey have been responsible for some of the most serious setbacks in the empire's history.

Joseph Stalin, flushed with victory over Germany in World War II, decided to pressure Turkey into granting the Soviet Union fortresses on the Turkish straits which connect the Mediterranean and Black seas. The Turks rejected the demands but faced the necessity of arming fully mobilized, a condition threatening Turkey's economic stability.

At this point President Truman stepped in and promulgated the Truman doctrine of assistance to Greece and Turkey. American help flowed to the Turks in large quantities.

Our experience represents over 20 years in the business.

Looking into the future of this great Magic Valley area just a few years ago, we visualized the need of a modern shopping center and home development for Twin Falls.

LYNWOOD WAS THE OUTCOME OF THIS VISION

Today we're proud to present this modern development that brings to Twin Falls the newest, most modern type of building construction.

With advanced architectural planning, ultra modern heating and air conditioning, up-to-the-minute fixtures and forward looking parking facilities — we are proud and we believe you will be, too, of this latest addition to our city and area.

Two Men Get Prison Terms In T.F. Court

Two men were sentenced Friday to the state prison by District Judge Ralph A. Baker.

William Cady, Texas, charged with first degree burglary, sentenced to not more than 15 years in the state penitentiary. He was charged with entering the Mercantile company during the hours of darkness with intent to commit larceny.

Cady waived rights to an attorney and pleaded guilty. He further waived statutory time for sentencing and asked for immediate sentence. Judge Baker pointed out Cady had a record showing he had been in court a number of times for felonies.

Treston J. Kennedy, California, was sentenced to not more than five years in the state prison for leaving a check without funds in the bank. He was charged with giving the Bob Jones Motor company a $400 check on the North Sacramento branch of the Bank of America without having funds in the bank.

Kennedy waived all rights and pleaded guilty. The judge stated Kennedy's FBI record showed he had been in court several times on felony charges.

Decree Given Case Pending

One divorce was granted and another action was taken under adjournment Friday in Twin Falls district court.

Mrs. Orlan Ann Lange was divorced from Orville C. Lange on grounds of cruel treatment. They were married in September, 1935, at Twin Falls. They have one child.

She was awarded custody of the child plus $40 monthly support. A previous property settlement was approved. She was awarded $1000 in costs and attorney fees.

Judge Baker took under advisement the case of James L. Hoshaw against Mrs. Martha Ann Hoshaw. They were married March 1931. They have four children who are presently with their mother. Hoshaw claimed marital cruelty in his action and agreed to pay his wife $12.50 per month for each child. The judge said he did not think the amount sufficient to support four children and at first denied the divorce. He later agreed to take it under advisement when Hoshaw's attorney asked for $1000 in costs and attorney fees.

Bird Cost High, Nimrod Learns

JEROME, Oct. 19.—Jay Armenta, Homedale, paid $50 Saturday for two rooster pheasants and didn't get to keep the birds.

Armenta had already shot one pheasant Friday when a man watched him shoot another rooster pheasant. Armenta broke a rule in the act and Robert Staphan, the bird, he was shooting from on a highway and taking a $2000 prize.

He was charged specifically with shooting pheasants during closed season. He appeared before Justice of the Peace J. T. Roberts, Jerome. The man who saw him shoot the second pheasant happened to be Hawley Hill, district supervisor for the state fish and game department.

Parking Fines

A total of $45 in bonds was posted Friday and Saturday with Twin Falls police for parking violations.

Riser-Gala posted $15 in bonds for three violations. Posting $2 bonds for two violations were Joe Hecney and Robert Sauer. The latter posted bonds for improper parking were J. F. McHenry, Mrs. Ellen Manley and George Yamamoto.

VIEWPOINT OF BEAUTY

Did you ever stop to consider the tremendous part windows play in your decorative scheme? Aside from being a structural part of the room and having architectural significance, when treated with distinctiveness and taste, windows can do more toward establishing the type and atmosphere of a room than almost any factor.

Today, the trend is toward having more and more light in our rooms. We no longer shroud our windows with curtains, draperies, and overdraperies which was one of the practices of the past. We now keep our windows treatments almost, and make them contribute their full share of charm and decorative appeal to the room's background.

The picture window in the room sketched forms a perfect setting for the Provincial-type sofa. The pale citron color on painted walls was picked up from the floral print of the sofa and "matching" draperies. Ceiling has been painted a soft blue to harmonize with the deeper blue brocade curtains. These background colors are a complementary foil for the rich burnished tones of the maple table, writing desk and chairs. Glass shelves in picture window form a repository for treasured glass collection.

You are always welcome to come into our store and browse around leisurely. If you don't find what you're looking for, tell us and we'll put forth every effort to obtain it for you. We want you always to consider us your home furnishing store.

Hair-Curling

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Cecilia Kuehn, 33, claims she's picking up spunk's signals through the three-inch hair curlers she wears to bed.

"Highly improbable," said Dennis H. Gallagher of the Adler Planetarium. But, he added, "it's a remotely possible 1 guess."

Soviets Gaining In Science, Says Kimberly Writer

Southerner Raps Methods of Choosing High Court Justices

Editor, Times-News: Since World War II we have squandered $1 billion dollars, and we have not got anything in return except contempt from the people who were supposed to have benefited from it. Russia didn't squander, but advanced in science and engineering as Henry J. Taylor put in his lecture, the for Russia just in the air itself is not important, but it proves she is beating us in the field where time is the big factor. It is bragging that in a few months we will have arrived. Science and engineering take years, not months, to develop and with the lead Russia has, she will give us plenty to think about the poor and the world and the billions they need.

No doubt our big world will still cry for the billion for foreign aid and added billions for nothing on Russia. Instead of getting foreign aid as the people asked, let us let us to congress, the foreign-aid outfit has added from 10,000 to 12,000 million on that payroll for more employees to give out the billions.

M. R. BLANT (Kimberly)

Editor, Times-News: We need badly a reorganization of some phases of the government. I feel the present method of selecting members to the supreme court is outmoded before it began. The power of appointment is in the President's hands, and he will select judges on the basis of his own ideas of how the government should be run. This is not the function of the supreme court. The function of the supreme court is to decide cases entirely on the basis of the constitution of the United States. The President's power is in the senate, or whether they are attorneys general, or some other person, or to whom he feels an obligation.

Of course, this is the entirely wrong concept of a supreme court. We want men on the supreme court who are outstanding in their judgment, not men who are outstanding in their political abilities. Then, the senate should really select the members of the supreme court.

This method would clear up all the confusion of a politician being on the supreme court to carry out the intention of the President, as in the case when Roosevelt tried to pack the supreme court, and the case of the present supreme court, which has nullified the Smith act and condoned the action of party or parties that would do all in their power to overthrow our government.

All the communists in prison for these charges were pardoned as not guilty of any crime. These communists came from the underground, infiltrated our churches, labor organizations, civic organizations and every other phase of American life. They're in our schools teaching our children communism. If you, my fellow American, are in favor of this, I can assure you that the present method of infiltration has caused the downfall of all the countries that have turned to communism. Your supreme court condones this action as the proper thing.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Simon is 14. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 180 pounds. He reads about third grade, and without any fondness for the subject, his arithmetic ability extends as far as getting the right change in the grocery shop and his mother's penicillin on the integrity of the shopkeeper at that.

The school is at a loss to know what to do with him. He does not fit into the furniture of the grade he qualifies for and he does not qualify for the grade where the furniture approaches his size. The law says he must attend.

The school is equipped and staffed to teach boys and girls the book of knowledge but it is not equipped to meet the needs of Simon. Now this boy is not feeling minded. Not at all. He has a splendid body, great strength, clear eyes and good hearing. He can hold his own on the playground, throw and catch a ball with the best, and drive a truck and deliver the goods in line shape. For the work he will do he needs very little academic learning. Holding him in a school bench is keeping him in jail which he resents. He is a very capable boy.

The law keeps him where he is for a moment suggest otherwise. But how about these boys and girls who are physically mature and who will never be graduates of high school for the protection of children, very necessary indeed and I would not for a moment suggest otherwise. But how about these boys and girls who are physically mature and who will never be graduates of high school for the protection of children, very necessary indeed and I would not for a moment suggest otherwise.

These boys and girls need to use their energy, and it is tremendous, so any teacher who has ever had a deal with them in a classroom knows to his sorrow. The vocational school must be made a reality. When a boy or girl is degraded in the eyes of his fellows, he degrades himself and shows a bad example, becoming a social problem.

The child labor laws must stand because they are needed. These boys and girls cannot be taught to read in a classroom. They need a vocational school where they can learn a trade and use their energy.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Chas. H. Morris, W. Turner in the Tower chapel on the bank.

Broader Payments for Farm Products Would Depress Market, Report Claims

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The government shift to the use of payments to bolster income, one of the results of a big increase in supply of pork, lamb and chickens at a time when prices are dropping, is being met with the prospect of such a change in the situation was painted by the agriculture department in a report on the costs and effects of the "pork" program of aiding the industry. The report said use of payments the board for meat products would cost taxpayers between seven and 10 billion dollars a year compared with about two billion dollars for present farm price support programs. Under the present program, the government seeks to remove some of the surplus supplies of farm products from markets so that they will not depress producer prices. Under the payment plan, the full production would be allowed to move to market and pull down prices, but the difference between the market price and the farm price goal of the program would be made up to producers in the form of payments. The payment plan was first advanced as a major farm aid device in 1940 by the then Secretary of

Banner Year Looms for Pheasants In Season Opening Next Saturday

By ROBERT L. SALTEN
Idaho Fish and Game Department

The 1937 upland game bird season will begin in earnest for southern Idaho hunters at noon Saturday. Although there has been some bird shooting prior to this date, most hunters consider the morning dove, sage grouse and forest grouse shooting as "time-up" for the real serious business of pheasant hunting.

What's the outlook for pheasant hunting in 1937? All reports from the field point up to the fact that this should be a banner pheasant hunting year. We went into the nesting season with a good carry-over and apparently the hens were quite successful in their nesting efforts. Broad counts show there was a good survival of chicks and the fall population is higher than it has been for several years.

The pheasant is the number one bird in Idaho. Results of a hunter questionnaire for the past four years show that hunters take approximately 450,000 of the sandy birds each year. Because of the importance of the pheasant to Idaho hunters, the fish and game department spends a large amount of time each year keeping track of the ups and downs of the pheasant population.

Work on pheasants begins during January. Biologists, conservation officers, refuge managers and other field personnel record observations on pheasants taken during the period in order to obtain the sex ratio. These counts are taken in January because the birds are generally concentrated during that period. Optimum counting conditions occur on cold, clear days when there is a snow cover. No attempt is made to count all birds on a given area, since a sample of the population is sufficient.

Pheasant sex ratios in southern Idaho since 1930 are fluctuating within the range of one rooster to two hens and one rooster to three hens. Since it is known that one rooster to seven or eight hens is sufficient for reproductive purposes, it can be seen that hunters are leaving more birds in the field than are actually needed.

During April and May, department personnel take crowing counts of the rooster pheasant population. It has been found that roosters generally do not crow often than once every two minutes. Crowing count routes have been established in the major pheasant areas and these are run several times during the spring.

At the initial point, the observer listens for two minutes and counts all pheasants heard crowing during this interval. He then gets in his vehicle and drives to the next station, which is one mile away, and listens for another two minutes. This procedure is repeated until counts have been taken at 25 stations. Counting begins at 15 minutes before sunrise. Participants in this work have some interesting experiences to relate, describing the effect they have on early-rising farm folks who are early-rising farm folks who

A hunter, his retriever and their limit of rooster pheasants are shown in this Idaho fish and game department photo as hunters prepare for the opening of pheasant season next Saturday noon in Magic Valley. Field reports compiled by the fish and game department indicate this year may be the best for upland bird hunters. Records indicate that from 30 to 40 per cent of the pheasants killed during a season are usually taken the first week-end of the season. (Staff engraving)

New Extension for T.F. Airport Runway to End Load Restriction

Completion of a 1,000-foot addition to runway 7-25, bearing airline traffic at Joell field, will mean an end to weight restrictions curbing traffic for larger airliners here.

The $100,000 extension project, which includes a lighting program, is expected to get under way sometime during November. The federal government has granted $55,720 toward the project, with the remainder to be paid by the city of Twin Falls, which operates the municipal airport.

Plans for the project have been advertised and they are expected to be opened at the Nov. 4 meeting of the city commission. Final approval of the $100,000 bid by the civil aeronautics administration is the last step before construction begins. The CAA already has approved plans and the city received notice of approval Oct. 10.

City Engineer Norman Croasley said grading, excavation work and installation of storm sewers probably will be accomplished during the fall and spring. Application of asphalt coating will be done during the summer, with completion date aimed at sometime in July.

The 100-foot-wide extension runs from the west terminus of the present runway to about 80 feet past a field planted in potatoes last year. The field lies on a one-by-one-quarter mile addition to the city property acquired two years ago.

Two airlines—United and West Coast—currently serve air travelers in and out of Twin Falls. West Coast, with its lighter airliners, now in use is not hampered by load restrictions. United, however, using its new, large Constellation, has been operating on a restricted weight status, since the CAA considers the present 4,900-foot runway too short.

Federal regulations provide that Constellation maximum loads may be no more than 43,700 pounds at the airport here on a calm day of 44-degree temperature. Using the runway in an easterly direction, the maximum load, including airplane, passengers, cargo and fuel, is 44,200 pounds. The 44-degree temperature, United employees explain, is the base from which gross weight restrictions are calculated. Thus, for every degree in temperature increase, 28 pounds are deducted from the legal gross weight. For every degree the mercury falls from 44 degrees, 32 pounds may be added to the load.

If West Coast airlines now barred by weight restrictions are using the airport before the runway is completed, they too will face gross weight restrictions. However, West Coast officials believe the new airliners will not be in service before July.

With completion of the extension, bringing runway 7-25 to an overall length of 5,900 feet, United will be able to operate its Constellation at the maximum 48,700-pound gross weight.

Included in the airport improvement project, reports Jack Farnham, airport manager, will be extended runway lights along the extension and installation of blue taxiway centerline lights indicating to the airplane the location of the taxiway.

Runway Extension at Airport to Accommodate Larger Aircraft

Aerial photo shows planned 1,000-foot extension to the existing runway at Joell field. Outlined in white is the location of the extension. The extension would accommodate larger aircraft at the municipal airport. The runway extension extends about 80 feet past the uncultivated field now part of the city-owned property. The city acquired property for the extension some time ago. Photo was taken from a Beech Flying service airplane piloted by Gail Nebeker. (Staff photo-engraving)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A. C. DeMay, 65, RUPERT, can look back on many accomplished achievements during the 52 years he has lived on the MINIDOKA project. His latest is the presentation of the DeMay memorial library to his community. Contracts for construction have been signed and work is scheduled to begin soon. The library will be in memory of his wife, Emma, and his daughter, Dorothy DeMay, both deceased.

Price Decline Seen in Crop Support Plan

Feed grains strong enough to lift feed prices close to or above the supports," the report said. "This demand, in turn, would be expected to stimulate further expansion in the acreage and production of corn."

In fact, the department said, demand for feed would be so strong that livestock producers would turn to wheat to help meet their needs. The result would be, it said, a speedy curbing of the present wheat surplus.

The department figures that in the initial years of the program there would be no need to make payments to farmers on wheat and feed grains because the livestock feeding demand would be such as to hold prices up to the 90 per cent parity level.

However, the costs of supporting returns on wheat and feed grains would be borne, in effect, by the payments on livestock. The department figures that under a payment program costing 10 billion dollars a year, fully seven billion dollars or 65 per cent would go to producers of livestock.

The department believes that the payment program would have wide spread effects on the production of cotton. With a return of 90 per cent of parity promised, farmers would be encouraged to expand cotton production. The cotton support price now is 77 per cent of parity.

Officials figure that such a price guarantee would boost cotton output to 20 million bales a year compared with about 14½ million this year.

Since the market price would fall to low levels under the impact of increased production, the expansion of both domestic consumption and exports would be large. There are no figures on the effect of the program of unlimited production of cotton payments would be close to 1½ billion dollars a year, the department estimates.

The department says that the output and acreage of tobacco and rice would show a similar pattern of expansion.

With respect to farm income, cash receipts for the major commodities under a program of unlimited payments would rise, the department says to about $3,500,000,000 a year or 11 billion dollars more than in 1929. But practically all this increase would be due, the department states, to government payments.

Best Baby Sitter in Cassia County

Pat, 2, and Diana, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Pike, Ruper, enjoy a spin in the ferris wheel their father designed for them. Wheels from an old hay rake, the framework and gear shift box from an old car, a bicycle wheel and a small electric motor went into the contraption which the children's mother says keeps them quiet for hours. (Blatt photo-engraving) when he sold the business to Floyd Pratt, who had been associated in the company for several years. A member of the Rupert Methodist church, DeMay served on a committee of 11 to organize it in 1905. He was church treasurer for 25 years. He has been a member of the IOOF lodge since 1908 and of the Modern Woodmen of America for 61 years. In addition, DeMay has served on various committees to promote development of the North Side project and worked with the board of directors of the Minidoka irrigation district on early day water contracts and agreements.

The best baby tender in Cassia county is a ferris wheel made by Gayle Pike, 22, who lives two and one-quarter miles south of UNITY store.

His three children, Pat, 2, Diana, 4 and a son, 6 months, were his inspiration to build the ferris wheel. For its construction he took two wheels from an old hay rake and welded them together. These he placed on an iron framework taken from an old car. Between the two wheels he built two seats from scraps of lumber and put a gear chain across the front to keep the children safe. He also added a foot rest to keep their feet up and to keep them from sliding out.

He connected a gearshift box from an old car to the shaft of the wheels which enables the wheel to go forward at two speeds and to reverse. From the gear shift box he has connected a bicycle wheel with a pulley belt going around the wheel and down to a one-quarter horsepower electric motor. This little motor is connected to electricity in the tool shed nearby.

"How Do I Get Religion?"
Religion cannot begin until a man knows his place in the structure of reality. Know where he fits in the scheme of things, knows he is a creature and not the Creator himself. The tendency of today is for man to create God in man's own image. We have grown up with a pride and self-sufficiency and we believe that he is the master of his own fate. No wonder that people regard themselves as entirely independent of all the problems of life, and that they loudly declaim the need for some crops or spiritual crucibles. But there never was a religion man who was not a humble man—only the insane think they are gods. The moment pride is born, a fundamental, soul-crushing pain is born. Go before religion can bring life a man must lose himself and capture an actual vision of the God, the Redeemer of life. When this happens to a man, he is compelled to turn and worship Him.

T. F. Man Makes First Dial System Call; Gooding Changes Over to New System

John E. Hayes places the first dial phone call from Twin Falls through the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company's new dial system which went into effect at midnight Saturday. Hayes called for the operator, Mrs. Wilma Routt, right, and gave her a name and street number in Norfolk, Va. Four minutes later he was talking to his wife, daughter and son-in-law. Call was made Thursday night in the first customer test of the system, that was placed in operation today. (Staff photo-engraving)

Gooding's first PBX exchange, which was installed in the Lincoln Inn shortly after it was built in 1950, switched to the dial system Saturday at midnight along with the rest of Magic Valley's telephone systems. Art Davis, right, Gooding manager of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company, explains dial procedure to Adam J. (Bud) Schubert, new owner-manager of the hotel. (Staff photo-engraving)

Anyone Who Tried to Make First Dial Call This Morning Was Two Days Late

Regardless of who made the first dial call after the new system went into effect this morning, it was not the first to place a call through the new system. That privilege went to John E. Hayes, Magic Valley pioneer, who came to have made the first dial call ever made from Twin Falls.

Thursday night Hayes stood before Mrs. Wilma Routt, long distance operator, in the company's new building. Speaking into a color "sunlight yellow" phone, Hayes told Mrs. Routt he wanted to speak with Mrs. Hayes, who was visiting their daughter, Mrs. R. K. Maddock, Norfolk, Va. He said he did not know the number in Norfolk. The time was 8:10 p. m.

At 8:14 p. m., four minutes after he had talked to Mrs. Routt, he spoke again into the phone. After a few introductory remarks, he said, "Do you know you're receiving the first call from the new dial phone system in Twin Falls?"

For the next few minutes Hayes talked to his family. "I'm talking to the entire family back there at the same time," he whispered to the small audience standing nearby. Later he explained he talked to his wife, his daughter, Winifred, and Dr. Maddock, all at the same time. "They have three extensions in their house," Hayes stated.

According to Hayes, he made the first phone call ever placed in Twin Falls. He said in 1954 the Rocky Mountain Bell company built a line was sold later to the Rocky Mountain Bell company. In 1955, Hayes said, the line was extended to Miller and Burley.

Hayes recalls that the first telephone office was located at the present location of the Idaho theater. Esther Hardigan was the first telephone operator in Twin Falls. Long distance calls in those days were calls to Hailey and Boise, Hayes said. "It took longer to get a call through to Boise in those days," he stated. "than it did to get across the United States."

They're Ready for Your Christmas Mail Now

Twin Falls Postmaster W. W. Franke and Assistant Postmaster D. Vey. Glad check packages for items properly wrapped and addressed. Both are anticipating an extremely heavy Christmas load this year and urge local citizens to wrap packages adequately and address them properly to insure proper wrapping and marking often results in a delivery delay. (Staff photo—enlarging)

Early Mailing Appeal for Christmas Is Sounded Again by T.F. Postmaster

Twin Falls Postmaster W. W. Franke Monday called on local citizens to cooperate with the post-office this year by mailing Christmas parcels early. Franke noted that early mailing will result in early delivery, especially to persons overseas. He also emphasized the importance of proper wrapping and addressing. Improper care when mailing packages may result in a delay in delivery.

Good Neighbor Is Policy of Rotary

BOGHOSIAN, Oct. 19—Cooperation between businessmen and farmers was discussed at the Rotary club meeting Wednesday noon. E. L. Gomes, local businessman, and Ward Mills, farmer, spoke on the subject. Leon Weeks, Boise; Roy Van Houten and Harry Conner, both Gooding, and Wilson Churchman, Jerome, were guests. Barclay Handy was program chairman.

For mailing of Christmas parcels to members of the armed forces overseas, airmail packages, provided they meet weight and limitation requirements, may be mailed from Dec. 1 to Dec. 16. The maximum weight set for parcels, other than air, is 70 pounds. Airmail parcels must not exceed 10 pounds. The parcel must not be more than 100 inches in length and girth combined except that smaller limitations also apply to overseas destinations addressed through New York. Maximum limitations for airmail are not more than two pounds nor 50 inches in length and girth combined, Franke said.

Boxes for overseas transmission must be of strong construction and Franke urged that corrugated cardboard be used whenever possible. He credited this requirement to the intensive strain which parcels are subjected when traveling around the world. Boxes should contain sufficient cushioning material so the contents will be tightly packed to prevent any loosening of articles in the package. Unless completely packed and tightly filled, Franke warned, boxes are likely to be crushed. Franke noted that certain items are prohibited to travel through the mails, in particular matches and lighter fluid. Cigarettes, other tobacco products and coffee are prohibited from the mails in certain instances. "Why, I'd even stand on my head if I thought it would get people to cooperate with us in getting early mailing to overseas military addresses. I certainly hope the people of Twin Falls will get behind our efforts to provide better service for everybody."

Keith was aboard the submarine USS Rasher and McDonald was aboard the radar picket submarine USS Redfish.

No Need to Win Competition in Athletics Aids in Developing Child

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, MD
Writes for NEA Service

An important report for those interested in the health of children has recently come from the American Academy of Pediatrics. This is on the subject of competitive athletics for children 12 years of age or younger.

The report points out that competition is a natural healthy process and should not be denied. However, physical fitness is not obtained by participation in competitive athletics alone. Because of their great importance, I am quoting the conclusions:

- "1. All children should have opportunities to develop skill in a variety of activities."
- "2. All such activities should take into account the age and development level of the child."
- "3. (a) Athletic activities of elementary school children should be part of an over-all school program. Competent medical supervision of each child should be ensured. (b) Health observation by teachers and others should be encouraged and help given by the physician."
- "4. Athletic activities outside of the school program should be on an entirely voluntary basis without undue emphasis on any special program or sport and without undue emphasis upon winning. These programs should also include competent medical supervision."
- "5. Competitive programs organized on school, neighborhood, and community levels will meet the needs of children 12 years of age and under. State, regional and national tournaments, bowl, charity and exhibition games are not recommended for this age group. Commercial exploitation in any form is unequivocally condemned."
- "6. Bodily-contact sports, particularly tackle football and boxing, are considered to have no place in programs. Competition is an inherent characteristic of growing, developing children. Properly guided it is beneficial and not harmful. Schools and communities as a whole must be made aware of the needs for personnel, facilities, equipment and supplies which will assure a program. All competitive athletic programs should be organized with the cooperation of interested medical groups who will ensure adequate medical care before and during such programs. This should include thorough physical examinations at specified intervals, teaching of health observation to teachers and coaches, as well as attention to factors such as injury, response to fatigue, individual emotional needs, and the risk of undue emotional strain.

ough physical examinations at specified intervals, teaching of health observation to teachers and coaches, as well as attention to factors such as injury, response to fatigue, individual emotional needs, and the risk of undue emotional strain. "10. Muscle testing is not, per se, a valid estimate of physical fitness or of good health. "11. Participation in group activities is expected of every child. When there is a failure to do so or lack of interest, underlying physical or emotional causes should be sought. "12. Leadership for young children should be such that highly organized, highly competitive programs will be avoided. The primary consideration should be a diversity of wholesome childhood experiences."
