CAA Urged to Change Pilots' Heart Criteria

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The government may require stricter medical examinations for airline pilots because of an increasing number of "cockpit heart attacks," the United Press learned today.

Dr. J. E. Smith, acting director of the civil aeronautics administration's medical division, said that present medical check-ups are "inadequate."

He revealed his division has been pressing the civil aeronautics board to require medical check-ups for pilots.

Five active airline pilots have died of heart attacks in the past six months, three of them while flying. All had recently passed their check physicals.

The most recent death occurred last Thursday when a 47-year-old pilot, Captain Charles E. Smith, of the Eastern Airlines, died one hour before a scheduled flight from Billings, Mont., to Seattle, Wash.

Dr. Smith said the tougher physical examinations should indicate potential heart cases and electrocardiograms, particularly for pilots over 40.

Cardiograms are not included in present CAA check-ups which consist mainly on vision, depth perception and reaction.

Increase Predicted

"We're predicting an increase in pilot heart attacks," he said. "The plain fact is that the average age of airline pilots is a lot higher than it used to be and we can expect more of these unhappy incidents."

Dr. Smith, a heart specialist himself, was backed up by Dr. Bernard Walsh, one of the leading heart authorities in the United States.

"It seems obvious that an airline medical examination should include a detailed questionnaire on his medical history and a twice-a-year electrocardiogram for any pilot past 40," Dr. Walsh declared.

"We discovered that in a few cases pilots already knew they had heart trouble," Dr. Smith said. "They had suspected it and had gone to their own physicians to confirm it. In such cases subsequent electrocardiograms as part of the CAA physical would have revealed heart damage and would have grounded them."

Unpleasant Duty

"It isn't a pleasant duty to tell a pilot he's through with flying," Dr. Smith conceded. "But it's a problem we must face coldly and unemotionally because a lot is at stake."

"We know of at least one crash which probably could be attributed to a heart attack in the cockpit, and we suspect there could have been others."

He referred to the crash of a non-freight airliner in California a few years ago in which 29 were killed. One of the pilots had been officially grounded because of a known heart condition.

"Aviation is no longer a young man's game," Dr. Smith added. "We must change and expand our criteria of judging of man's fitness to fly. Under present regulations, a 50-year-old man could fly an airplane."

Cleric Expresses Breakdown Fear

Manikind is headed for a mental breakdown, the Rev. Don Hilti Spillman told Maple Valley residents Sunday night.

"Without spiritual recreation and physical rest," said the Rev. Mr. Spillman, "mental disintegration awaits mankind."

Dr. Spillman, speaking at the American Legion hall, said that a special day had been set aside to allow man to "recharge his spiritual battery." This blessing, said Dr. Spillman, had been conferred on the special day by God.

The evangelist pointed out that by taking advantage of the "spiritual blessings" of the Sabbath could mean "avoid a mental breakdown." The evangelist also asserted that the seventh day of the week was the correct Sabbath.

He called attention to Old Testament references that he said he understood his claim that Sunday was not the Sabbath. "All these years," he continued, "I have been sinning in voicing the will of God commanding the seventh day rest."

Pair Requests Asylum After Escape Flight

ROENNE, Bornholm Island, Denmark, Oct. 22 (AP)—Two young Poles landed a light civilian plane on this Baltic sea island today and asked for political asylum.

The police, appearing in halting English, said they had stolen the plane in Poland and flew it across the Baltic.

The two Poles, both in their early 30's, were identified as Edmund and Srenna Frankel. It was not known immediately whether they were related.

They told police they stole the plane at the civilian air strip at the town of Stupsk where they had been working, one as a flying instructor and the other as a radio operator.

Stupsk is 10 miles from the Baltic coast and about 60 miles west of Danzig.

The two young Poles were taken to the Roenne police station and then to Copenhagen for questioning.

They said they were chased by another aircraft, probably a military plane, soon after they left Stupsk but lost it in for over the Baltic. They could not find the Roenne air strip and landed in a field.

The plane was not damaged. Police said it probably would be returned to Poland.

The two were the 80th and 87th Poles to ask asylum in Denmark this year. Most of the others defected from the Polish army.

Three Polish air force pilots have landed on Bornholm and asked for asylum in the past four years.

Explorers Living In Lengthy 'Day'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 22 (AP)—Americans taking part in Antarctic expedition Deep Freeze III watched their last sunset until Feb. 20 last night.

The sun dipped barely past the frozen snow-covered mountains, leaving the sky a blur of pink and gold. The entire "night" lasted about four hours but never got darker than a normal sunset in the United States. Enough light remained to read a newspaper.

From now until Feb. 20 the sun will circle the horizon, rising higher and higher until mid-summer when it starts its descent toward the long black winter night.

CHAMPION OF DARKNESS

We in the United States have conceded to the Soviet Union their accomplishment in ushering in the space era. But we insist upon reminding them and the world of their earthly sins.

Just a year ago in Hungary there began a human uprising which drew out the most insatiable instincts in the Kremlin's leaders. With icy brutality the Russians shattered Hungarian bodies by the thousands as they moved in with tanks and other armored forces to crush the revolt.

But the Hungarian, indomitable with the first fresh taste of liberty, struck for total liberation. Had they been able to pursue their path to its logical end, they would have put all ties to Moscow and moved toward other nations.

This was their undoing. The Kremlin could not tolerate defiance on so massive and complete a scale. Russian armies rushed to the centers of revolt to snuff out this flame and it should spread to other satellite lands.

Never was such inhumanity done in the name of humanity. In characteristic manner the Soviet Union denied to contend that it had been invited by the Hungarian people to put down an uprising generated by plotting foreign elements.

This time, however, the fraud was too patent to be believed by the most naive and glib of the world. The truth had been too well told. And it was told again with devastating power in a United Nations report that led to a strongly worded, fully deserved condemnation of Russia for its crimes against humanity.

We must never let loose the earth-remember the ruthless contempt for human life which is practiced by these men who enjoy endlessly in painful but too often effective means, that they are the friends of the masses.

With the launching of the Soviet earth satellite, new fear today grips the hearts of many people in many places. If the East-West struggle came to the test of war, some would try to hold aloft in shaky neutrality rather than put in boldly with the cause of freedom. Some, too, say frankly they would accept the iron yoke of Russian occupation before they would fight in a nuclear age.

We will not argue here the wisdom of their outlook, or consider whether their fears are warranted. We will simply point to the story of Hungary as it unfolded in late 1956. The story will all to see is the true meaning of communism.

With luminous clarity, Hungary showed the world that communism has no helping hand for men. It has only the cruel boot with which it stamps out every last vestige of aspiration and dares to rise into the light.

In a world crying to get into the light, Russia is the champion of darkness. And it has no blacker deeds recorded against it than those it committed upon the fiery spirit of the Hungarian people.

EGYPT'S PHONY EXCUSE

The Egyptian government has now implemented its agreement to help stiffen the defenses of Syria.

The reasoning behind the dispatch of Egyptian troops to Syrian soil is, of course, fallacious. Syria is not in imminent danger of attack from Turkey or anybody else.

The whole effort to suggest peril for Syria is a typical Communist exercise in fraud. Russian blasts at Turkey are part of the game. Egypt and Syria, playing along with the Soviet Union, have little choice but to throw in together in the Middle East.

Possibly, "the lie" of Russian success with the earth satellite, they now believe they are making not merely the only choice but a good one.

Whatever they think, the fraud in their position is not diminished if they are in danger to anyone in the Middle East. It is not from Turkey or any nation which still chooses to keep itself free of ties with communism.

The menace of arms was introduced into the Middle East originally by the Kremlin. To the Kremlin we must still look for the source of what danger resides today at this explosive region.

CHANGING ATTITUDE

Criticism coming from the rank and file of union organizations following the Beck-Hoffa disclosures and the latter's election as head of the Teamsters indicates a growing change among the members themselves. This change may encourage federal labor legislation which would loosen the grip and weaken the influence which union support and endorsement have had on candidates for office in the past.

In any event, there'll be fireworks on this issue when congress reconvenes in January.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG POT SHOTS

WASHINGTON-In order to catch up with Russia on long-range rockets and missiles, the United States does not need a vast amount of money or an increase in scientific research personnel so much as it needs a new and cruel reorganization of the technical planning and production system.

The assembly line for manufacturing and testing these complicated scientific and special devices has been in an automobile age. From the many remote plants which have their fingers reaching out at Patrick Airbase and Cape Canaveral, Pa., the system is "clod" back with bottlenecks as Neil H. McElroy, the new defense secretary, has quickly discovered.

ACKS AUTHORITATIVE DIRECTION

There is no body in authority or responsibility at the top to speed up work, to eliminate duplication of effort, to fight each other for materials, for money, for facilities, for manpower, for their product at Cape Canaveral. Even these facilities are so limited that, tests are delayed for days and weeks after scheduling.

In order to understand this highly technical problem, it is necessary to realize that missile-making is not an assembly line as in the automobile plant, or in any industry such as steel.

EXISTING DIFFICULTIES

Ford and General Motors, for instance, must depend upon thousands of subcontractors, who supply parts and materials. These parts must be shipped to an assembly center on a light and accurate schedule.

If a shipment of carburetors or even less essential parts is missing at a scheduled time and place, there is no one to turn to for replacement. The parts are not in a warehouse or a man power at the testing ground—in this instance, Patrick Airbase and Cape Canaveral.

BOTTLENECK NEED TO BE UNCLOSED

For all its industrial genius in private life, former Defense Secretary Charles McNamara, in his attempt to break the viciously accumulating bottlenecks, he was also handicapped by presidential economy orders which have been cutting back on the assembly line which he had ordered as recently as July.

ROVET SUCCESS MAY FORCE ACTION HERE

McElroy has said that his first job will be to attack and solve this problem, and to mesh the gears of the assembly line and corrections would cost more money than Wilson could afford to remedy his technological troubles, and to unclog the bottlenecks.

WHAT CAN LIMIT WAR?

Air Force chief of Staff Gen. Thomas White said recently:

"Today the air-control counterpoint of the United States is the keystone of our national progress and security."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the army's chief of staff, said:

"Subversion and local aggression tend to become the most serious threat to world peace."

Seldom does anything fit so nicely into tight headlines. And seldom is the meaning of a short word so pat. "Orb" means a spherical body, a globe, especially celestial sphere, says Webster's. It has been the astronomical term for centuries. The ancients thought the earth was a sphere. The ancients carried the heavenly bodies around our planet as they revolved. These spheres they called "orb."

ORR WITHOUT ANGELS

"Orb" is a word newspaper readers will be seeing a lot of as Russia's man-made satellite continues grinding around the earth and American scientists hasten to catch up with the Soviets.

TIME FOR A LOOK IN THE MIRROR

The United States military academy has announced the cadets' football game will be played in New Orleans to West Point.

Loud and prolonged cries of outrage are coming from Louisiana, leading the howling pack. But who asked for it? When the Louisiana State University football team was forbidden to play against a team of Negro athletes from this state and also beating Negro athletes from Louisiana, the right of another team to play a football game with a team of Negro athletes was not denied.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON-A full-scale satellite investigation into the lag in the American satellite and missile program is being conducted by the Pentagon.

Whether the Soviet Union could keep up with a second round of the arms race, the Pentagon is not sure. The satellite investigation is being conducted by the Pentagon.

NEED REGULATION

Lots of people have proposed lots of solutions to this matter of high-way deaths. A lot of proposals have been made. And the harder some try to cut the death toll, the higher it seems to go.

So now comes Pot Shots with the solution to the whole thing. It's so simple it's a wonder someone hasn't come up with this idea long ago.

STILL AT IT

I've registered my protests before on this matter, but apparently they haven't been enough. Perhaps we'll have to wait to think what the people on Mars have to say.

Tito May Be Loser in Try Against Bonn

By United Press
President Tito of Yugoslavia may have blundered in recognizing the German puppet government. In recognizing a regime which owes its continued existence solely to Soviet Russian army of occupation, Tito deliberately affronted West Germany.

He helped Russia and indirectly helped communist Poland, which now occupies 38,000 square miles of German territory and wants to keep it for good.

Tito also, by recognizing the puppet regime as a legitimate government, dealt a blow to the hope of reuniting Germany.

Just what Tito's motive was remains unclear. One thing is sure, however — he did it in what he thought was his own interest.

Last September Konrad Adenauer's report to Tito's action was to break off diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia.

In doing this, Adenauer made good his threat, which he had made to the world, that he would break relations with any government that recognized the East German puppet.

But it is evident that Tito did not expect Adenauer to do this. This has been shown clearly by the painful surprise with which his action was received in Bonn, Tito's capital.

In other words, Tito thought he could get away with it.

Tito seems to be worried about the future of Yugoslavia's leadership. Germany and the United States "trade credits" which have gone with it. West Germany's trade credits totalled 50 million dollars in 1956. He is worried also whether West Germany will annul the agreement under which it promised to pay Yugoslavia 7 million dollars for damages that country suffered in World War II.

Incidentally, it was reported from Washington immediately after Tito's recognition of East Germany that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles intended to make a reappraisal of his policy of granting aid to Tito.

Unavoidable
There are some in West Germany who question Adenauer's decision to break relations. But it is hard to see how he could have avoided it.

The position of the West German government is that any country which recognizes the East German regime is recognizing the existence of two German governments and thus making unification harder.

Adenauer also was afraid that he let Tito get away with it. Other countries might follow suit, including especially the Asian "neutralists" and some Arab countries.

Adenauer's breach of relations certainly seemed to make it likely that these countries would think carefully before they followed Tito's example.

West Germany is the most prosperous country in Europe. Its trade and its ability to grant trade credits to needy countries are important.

However, Adenauer's decision to break relations with Tito's Yugoslavia also is potentially the most powerful country in Europe outside of Russia.

Tito is a smart man. It remains to be seen, however, whether in recognizing East Germany he hurt Adenauer more than he did himself.

AFL-CIO Bid Ignored by Union Bosses

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (U) — Joseph O'Reilly, president of the Distillery Workers Union, said yesterday six union officers have turned a house cleaning program recommended by the AFL-CIO.

O'Reilly said four of the union's presidential Thursday endorsed the AFL-CIO program. The remaining two officers will take effect at a special convention of the Distillery Workers Union in Chicago Nov. 22. Those who have resigned will run for reelection at the convention.

The AFL-CIO ethical practices committee ordered all of the union's officers to resign and run for reelection. O'Reilly identified the six who have not complied as:

Vice President Fred Grundt of Clinton; J. Charles Joseph and Mortimer Brandenberg, both of New York; Louis Rosenberg of Newark, N. J.; John E. McKinnis of Louisville, Ky.; and Secretary-Treasurer George J. Oneto of New York. Oneto is no longer recognized by O'Reilly as secretary-treasurer.

Jungle Road May Be 'Missing Link' in Complicated History of South America

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 22 (U) — An American explorer has reported the discovery of an ancient jungle road which may provide a "missing link" in the history of South America.

The archeological find also may shed light on the evolution of writing, according to George Michonowicz, president of the Amazonia Foundation.

For four months, Michonowicz and an Amazonian foundation team explored an area northeast of Lima, the Bolivian capital, by plane.

The 1958 Buick, featuring a series of engineering changes, will go on display in dealer showrooms Oct. 25. Five series of models are topped by the new Limited, a luxury model. All models are equipped with dual headlights on each front fender.

Styling changes are carried by a new grille featuring chrome squares set in rows extending all the way across the front of the car. The grille line has been lowered and the hood raised slightly. Front fenders project out over the headlights with V and Y and Z grilles to help guide distance in traffic.

Following the engineering changes on the 1958 Buicks is a new lighted Buick Dynaflow transmission in which the state rears operate on the same "switch the pitch" principle as an airplane propeller.

However, the new transmission has three carburetors instead of two, increasing the torque output. Buick Vauxs in low angle is high angle, depending upon now for the throttle is depressed. The additional feature, provides such a great increase in performance that it eliminates the need for low range.

Replacing the low range position on the Dynaflow quadrant is a grade, or hill retainer to give greater torque in the low range. Buick Dynaflow is standard on Limited and Roadmaster models and optional on other models.

Four air springs maintain the same level on the frame. The air springs are maintained from a storage tank on the frame. The air suspension is a built-in "lift" which raises the body and frame as the car goes over bumps. The instrument panel, Air suspension is optional equipment.

Brakes have been improved, and brake lining is thicker.

New dual headlights give about 50 per cent more light on the upper beam. The interior lights are off when the lower or parking beam is on. The lower or parking beam is on when the lower or parking beam is on.

The 1958 Buicks come in 26 body styles on two wheelbases, 122 inches for Buick Wildcat, Century, and Wildcat for the other four series. All models have the 264 cubic inch high compression engine.

Forest Crews Work in Area Road Projects

Road crews are at work in the Southwest national forest construction and improving access roads to public recreation areas, reports J. L. Sawtooth, national forest supervisor.

Grading and some rock removal is under way on the road to Rock Creek in the Magic Mountain area. Sawtooth anticipated that the crew in charge of Boyd Grove, would complete its work in about two weeks. The supervisor explained that the forest service was anxious to get the road in shape for skiing season this winter.

Elsewhere, work was continuing on the road from the Valley View summer home area, to Alturas Lake. At 2100 feet, improvements were being made on the road from U. S. highway 93 to the lake. "The road is now ready to be graded," said Sawtooth, "and eventually it will be paved."

The forest service works the year around to keep open the access roads to the public.

Reduction of Jet Airplane Noise Is Told

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 22 (U) — William M. Allen, president of the Boeing Airplane company, said yesterday that Boeing has achieved a substantial reduction in the noise level of jet engines for commercial planes.

Allen heads the company which is building the 707-jetliner for many of the world's airlines. He said that prototype of the new plane has been flying for many months with an effective noise suppressor.

Allen said that suppression of the jet-engine noise cost Boeing millions of dollars in research and resulted in a loss of engine thrust and an increase in fuel consumption.

The aircraft company executive admitted that public concern about the noise of jet engines had led to the development of the suppressor but added that his own view was that "this matter of jet noise has been greatly overplayed."

He said the first production models of the 707 will be off the line in 1958 and the planes will go into scheduled service in the spring of 1959.

Historical Tombs Located in Egypt

CAIRO, Oct. 22 (U) — Scientists today reported an important new archaeological find in the discovery of ancient tombs near Tuto El Akram, about 5,000 years to the past Egyptian dynasty.

They said its historical importance was that the tombs were built of limestone, an architectural feature previously believed to have been first accomplished in the second dynasty. All previous first dynasty tombs have been made of mud and bricks.

Archaeologists said the find will be important in the study of Egyptian civilization because the change from mud to stone brought a tremendous change in architecture and led to the building of the pyramids.

Expert Thinks Reds Can Back Missiles Claim

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 22 (AP)—A top American scientist yesterday said he believes the Russians are capable of launching an intercontinental ballistic missile. But he expressed the opinion the Middle East crisis presents a greater immediate threat to American security than Russia's advance in science.

Dr. H. O. Stiever, former chief scientist for the air force and now associate dean of engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said in an interview that Russian scientific achievement must not be underrated.

He said launching of the earth satellite demonstrates they are capable of launching an intercontinental missile, but he added it would take a long time to make it a reliable weapon.

In the long run, he said, this country must worry more about Soviet technology than about Sputnik. He suggested this country must step up its efforts in basic science research and development, realizing the Soviets are strong.

From the standpoint of immediate national security, however, he said concern must be directed toward the current tense situation in the Middle East.

He said in his opinion the significant military aspect of Sputnik is that it shows that the Russians are capable of firing an ICBM.

"I think this is significant," he said, "because it is about as close as it is to launch an earth-satellite as it is to hit an earth target, as would be required of a ballistic missile."

Stiever was chief air force scientist for 18 months in 1955 and 1956. He is now vice chairman of the air force scientific advisory board.

Asked how this country can keep up from Russia's lead in the field of space travel, Dr. Stiever made these points:

"We are not technologically weak. We are capable of launching satellites and we will soon be in only a question of getting the work done."

"We must make sound judgments as to what is important scientifically and militarily."

"We must step up our efforts in basic science, research and development."

"The Soviets are strong and we had better start thinking that way. It would not be sensible for us to base our policies on their supposed weakness."

Dr. Stiever said he does not believe the Soviet Union has won any technological race, however.

"We are ahead in development of jet engines and aircraft and I believe we are stronger militarily at present."

"Russia has technological stature equal to ours. It is hard to say if they are better. I am confident that we will keep strong enough to deter Russia from attacking us."

Mexican City Gets Lashing By Hurricane

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 22 (AP)—A tropical hurricane flattened the municipal prison at Mazatlan and at least eight prisoners were killed, according to a radio report today from the Pacific coast port.

The Mexican Aviation company (CMA) said its Mazatlan radio reported heavy property damage in the port from two days of buffeting by the winds and rains of a hurricane rolling toward the Gulf of Lower California.

CMA said its radio said the municipal baseball stadium also collapsed. The wind tore down telephone and telegraph wires, knocking out communications over a vast area of Mexico's northern Pacific coast.

The radio also reported that "valuable" shrimp boats have not been heard from since the storm hit and were presumed lost. It emphasized that there was no confirmation of these reports.

According to the report, numerous automobiles and trucks were hurled into buildings and wrecked by the force of the winds. The severe damage on the ocean was reported under water.

Union Fights To Save Post Of New Chief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The Teamsters union fought in court here yesterday to save James R. Hoffa as president and head of the union after a costly new election of officers. Union attorneys failed in their attempt to keep Hoffa in office. Judge F. Dickinson Lewis in court here yesterday ordered barring Hoffa from taking office.

Motion Denied
The judge also denied union motions that would have removed from the injunction proceedings charges by 15 rank and file Teamsters that Hoffa's election was rigged by sending illegally selected delegates.

Union Attorney Martin F. O'Donoghue then opened direct arguments to "show cause" why Lewis' emergency restraining order should not be turned into a preliminary injunction placing the affairs of the nation's largest union under court supervision.

He submitted an affidavit from Teamster Secretary-Treasurer John F. English which:

—said Hoffa would be elected by any Teamster convention under "whatever supervision this court or any other governmental body might wish to impose."

Cites Precedent
—the union convention's credentials committee acted in accordance with 45 years of precedent in waiving a constitutional requirement of ratification of new officers 30 days before a convention.

—it would be unfair to make the union spend several hundred thousand dollars to hold another convention and election at the request of "15 dissatisfied individuals."

New Surveys Are Planned For Highway

BOISE, Oct. 22 (AP)—Crews of the Idaho Highway department are establishing ground control points to be used in making an aerial survey of the relocation of the state's north and south highways.

The relocation will be in the vicinity of the Whitebird hill and the community of Grangeville. A tentative routing has been filed earlier but residents of Grangeville objected, claiming it was too far from the Idaho county seat.

At its last meeting here the state highway board ordered new state surveys and route studies.

Wayne Summers, secretary of the board, said yesterday establishment of the ground control points will permit aerial photographing of the area. Detailed location maps will be drawn during the winter.

Next summer surveys will be made on the origin and destination of the ground control points. The highway, Summers said, that information, along with construction estimates, will guide highway engineers in mapping a new location for the road.

Schearings on the proposed route will be in Grangeville and Whitebird, probably late next summer. If approval is given, bids on construction might be called about a year from now.

Summers said the order for a rehearing will result in little if any delay in actual construction. He said the surveys would have been necessary anyway and any re-routing is not expected to affect greatly the portion of the highway from the summit of the Whitebird hill south.

The tentative route already chosen for that section runs to the west of the present highway.

The present Whitebird hill section of the highway—only north and south road link in Idaho—was built more than 20 years ago. The highway department has said that unless it is relocated within the next few years costly reconstruction of the hill route will be necessary.

They Say This Builds Confidence

Perched on telegraph poles 30 feet high, soldiers pose basketballs to each other as part of their preceptor training in the army's Southwestern signal corps school at Ft. Gordon, Ga. Charter Night Slated for Boy Scouts of Area

JEROME, Oct. 22—District-wide charter review for all north side Scout units is slated for Jan. 8 in Jerome.

Plans were made at the monthly meeting of the north side district of the Snake River Council for Boy Scouts, in Wendell.

The committee members of packs, troops and posts, as well as heads of sponsoring institutions, institutional representatives and unit leaders will be served a banquet. Dr. Joseph W. Marshall, Twin Falls, was chosen as the inspirational speaker.

Dr. Marshall recently attended the national jamboree and the world jamboree in England. He holds the highest award the Snake River Council can bestow, the silver beaver award.

The Rev. Dwight E. Wilcher, Jerome, chairman of the organization and extension committee, will be in charge of the review. The plan calls for a special session of training for each committee member, another for unit leaders, and a third for heads of institutions and institutional representatives of sponsors.

After a training program for the committee members and leaders, Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers will meet for a review of charters.

The proposed plan will provide outstanding leaders to train unit leaders and a uniform charter review, both of which will strengthen the Scouting program within the

New Road to Get "Beauty" Effort

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22 (AP)—The state roads commission says the $500,000 beauty treatment for 10 miles of approaches to the Baltimore Harbor tunnel will make motorists think they're in a public park.

But the landscape job is not only for esthetic reasons. The commission said the trees and shrubs also will cut down on headlights glare, screen unsightly views, help stabilize the slopes and even reduce traffic noise.

Northview Grange Notes Dinner Date

BOISE, Oct. 22—Booster night and an Idaho produce supper were tentatively announced for Nov. 16 at the meeting of the Northview Grange Friday night.

Mrs. Ralph Skinner announced that everyone is to wear costumes to the dinner at the Flier Grange hall on Halloween.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Piper and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maxwell, Jr. served refreshments.

Missile Tested

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—The air force fired a small, fast missile today but delayed the long-awaited test of the satellite-launching Vanguard rocket.

Observers at the scene said the missile that streaked out over the Atlantic ocean toward the down-range tracking stations was either a Bomarc or a Snark. The Bomarc is a jet-propelled surface-to-air anti-aircraft missile and the Snark is a subsonic piloted plane.

Philip, pressed for time during a light schedule, was riding in a limousine to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel when he was caught in a typical home-bound traffic jam on Lexington avenue. Told he was five blocks from the hotel, the prince said to his companions, "Let's get out and walk."

Accompanied by a state department official and five security officers, Philip walked the rest of the way without being recognized.

Consolidation or Abolition In Highway Districts Urged

LEWISTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—The Idaho Association of County Clerks and Commissioners will be asked to approve, at its meeting in Caldwell Nov. 16-17, a resolution calling for consolidation or abolition of highway districts.

The resolution was one of a half dozen adopted yesterday at a district meeting of county commissioners and clerks from five north central Idaho counties—Nes Perce, Latah, Clearwater, Lewis and Idaho.

The officials suggested that highway districts be enlarged so each would include land assessed at least five million dollars. Failing this, the resolution said, county-wide highway systems should be set up.

In other resolutions, the district group went on record as favoring:

1. Appointment of a committee by the convention to "go into the problem of additional funds for the state, seek to find the broadest possible tax base" and report to the legislature.

2. Establishment of uniform contracts throughout the state for medical care of county patients.

3. Passage of state legislation permitting counties to receive federal funds available for medical care of indigent persons.

4. Unification of city and county voting registration.

5. Legislation permitting counties to operate on a cash basis.

How Standard "beefs up" cattle to help meet the West's growing food needs

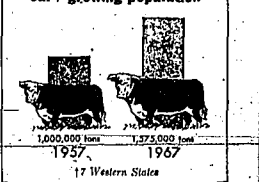

New Standard plant foods have produced twice as much beef from a single acre—enough extra beef to supply an average person for a solid year.

Who eats the most meat in the U.S.? You do—surveys show. Westerners top the nation in meat consumption. Now Standard helps ranchers satisfy that hearty appetite with chemically blended plant foods,* so economical they can be used to turn unproductive foothills into profitable pasture-land.

These new blends of essential plant-growth elements come from a $16 million Standard plant opened just a year ago. Grasslands they have enriched are now producing up to twice as much beef per acre. Farmers find them equally productive on many other crops. For you they promise tastier, more nutritious meals for every dollar you spend on food.

Progress in the West means...
Producing 575,000 more tons of beef by 1967 to supply our growing population

*ORTHIO PLANT FOODS are made and sold by Standard's wholly owned subsidiary California Spray-Chemical Corporation.
