U.S. Works Behind Scene For Mediation of Tunisian Crisis Without U.N. Talks

TUNIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—The United States worked in the background Saturday in an effort to settle Tunisia's bombing dispute with France without hauling it into the open for discussion in the United Nations. Both sides gave signs of recalcitrance to a U. N. debate on the French bombing of a Tunisian border village a week ago would become a communist-sounding board to aggravate anti-Western feelings in sensitive North Africa and the Middle East. Informants said the United States probably Monday. Information about a possible meeting of the French and Tunisian delegations is scheduled to take up the dispute with the Soviet delegate, Arkady Sobolev, as state department officials.

Decline Seen In Number of Farm People

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The agriculture department has issued a special report on farm population which says in effect that there are fewer farmers in the years ahead than there are today.

The report was issued at the request of Secretary Benson who has shown in farm policies his conviction that the declines claim of his critics that his farm policies would drive many off the land. These policies include lower prices for many farm products and easing of controls with the objective of winning bigger markets.

Population Decreases
The document notes that since enactment of federal crop control programs in 1933, the farm population has decreased from 20,000,000 in 1933 to 10,000,000 in 1967. In this period, the farm population has dropped from 20 to 50 percent of the nation's total population.

No Forecast of Size
Looking ahead, the department says that the farm population will become smaller than it is now before becoming stabilized, it is estimated, in the year 2000.

In analyzing the situation, the department said technological progress in farm production was the major factor in the decrease.

Ski Area Slated By Hailey Group

HAILEY, Feb. 15—At the regular meeting of the Rotary club Thursday noon the Rev. Richard Williams reported that plans for the proposed ski area for Hailey children is progressing well.

A rope and motor and other necessary equipment are available, he said. Several committee members will go by Sno-cat to the area about some years ago, two miles west of Hailey, to check on snow conditions. Work on the ski area will begin in the summer.

John Henry Puster, of the Ketchum-Sun Valley club, a guest at the meeting, gave the first $10 donation to start a ski area fund. It is estimated the cost of the project will be between $500 and $800.

Dr. Grant Hawkes, program chairman, introduced his guest, Ryan P. Mallon, who was speaker. Mallon talked on the life of Lincoln and delivered the Gettysburg address from memory.

It was voted to send a letter of condolence to the family of Adam B. Berrinton, prominent Utah Bordenian, well known here, who died this week.

Smylee Speaks to Electrical Group

The group has obtained recognition in the United States and in Europe which was toured with great success in 1955. It has been described as "the finest walking advertisement a city ever had" and "ambassadors in Levi's."

All the members of the chorus are Tucson boys. They are selected at auditions held three times a year. Since the chorus is not affiliated with any school, church or other organization, most of the boys are students of Tucson public schools.

Aside from their intensive musical training the boys receive schooling in the full routine of a young man's life during the summer. A riding group formed with chorus members has won prizes in Arizona rodeos for its riding skill.

Alfred del Moral will provide piano accompaniment for the group.

Three Precincts Set for Tuesday Vote

Polling places for the Tuesday election on the school plant facilities levy will be open from 1 to 8 p.m. at Washington, Bickel and Lincoln schools. Twin Falls school district No. 411 is divided into three precincts, as shown above. Any person meeting the usual qualifications of a voter, such as age and residence, may vote Tuesday providing he pays taxes on real property in the school district and has lived in the district 30 days. There is no registration for the election, but all voters will sign an oath at the polls. (Staff engraving)

Property Owners Will Decide Tuesday On Plant Facilities Levy for Schools

Twelve elementary schools was contemplated under original building plans. The same consideration was made in construction of the high school.

Under the plan, four classrooms or more would be scheduled for construction by 1960, four more by 1962 and four more by 1964.

"It is the opinion of the elected school board trustees that the building needs of the district can be met most easily and effectively under two-mill levy financing plan," Ragland said.

While Ragland would not say where first additional rooms would be added, should the voters approve the two-mill levy, the enrollment at the elementary schools would indicate Morningstar and Harrison additions will be undertaken first.

"The citizens school planning committee in 1955 recommended the two-mill plant facility levy at $3,000 per year. Within two years we would have enough money to build two additional classrooms. I hoped the levy would not be necessary but continued enrollment at our schools necessitated this call for the special levy," Ragland said.

Ragland noted that while voters are asked to approve an additional two-mill levy, the final cost to the taxpayer will amount to only $1.25 per $100 assessed valuation on real property.

At present, taxpayers in school district No. 411 pay 29.5 mills on each $1,000 assessed valuation on real property. Should the two-mill levy be approved the board will continue to use 30 mills for maintenance and operation of the schools but will make the $3 million now used for school debt retirement at 8.75 mills, thus making the total millage for schools 40.75 or $1.25 per $1,000 valuation.

Authority for the two-mill levy was provided by the Idaho legislature in 1953. Under the statute the levy may be in force for 10 years but may be discontinued at any time at the discretion of the school board.

"This proposed two-mill levy is designed to set up a moderate building reserve fund, estimated at $1,000,000, for the Washington schools."

Boy Scouts Hold Church Assembly

High Average Is Noted After Test of Herds

Whole herds that average 50 pounds or more of butterfat do not appear too often in monthly summaries of testing supervisors for members of Dairy Herd Improvement associations, according to C. W. Daigh, Twin Falls county agent.

During January there were two herds among 66 on test in the county that averaged this high. The figure, H. J. Vanzant, Buhl, with 13 registered and grade Jerseys, all milking, averaged 52.2 pounds of butterfat from 908 pounds of milk. Everett Aldrich, Kimberly, had nine registered and grade Holsteins, all milking, that averaged 52 pounds of butterfat from 1,277 pounds of milk.

Of the 66 herds, 45 were in unit one in the west end of the Twin Falls tract with an average butterfat production of 32.4 pounds and 21 in unit two in the east end of the tract, all average butterfat production of 33 pounds.

In third place in butterfat production were the nine registered Holsteins owned by Rudolph Peterson and Bona, Buhl, with one dry, that averaged 48.2. Two herds averaged a fraction above 46, Gary Casper, Twin Falls, and four grade Jerseys, all Guernseys and grade Jerseys, all milking, that averaged 47 and Charles Tippett, Buhl, with one grade Holstein, two dry, averaged 45.7. James Lauda of Buhl had 18 grade Holsteins, with one dry, averaging 44.6.

Two herds had the same average of 43.2. J. Kaufman, Filer, had 18 registered Holsteins, all milking, and Ray McLean, Buhl, had 12 grade Holsteins, with one dry. Dan Kaufman, Filer, had an average of 42.5 pounds of butterfat from 18 grade Holsteins, with one dry.

Other herds averaging above 40 pounds include Lammert above 40 pounds, including 41.9 pounds from 71 grade Holsteins, with nine dry, Thumy Walker, Twin Falls, 29 registered and grade Holsteins, with one dry, 41.8; Simon Baker, Hansen, 11 grade Holsteins, all milking, 41.8, and L. D. Major, Buhl, 40 pounds from 25 cows of mixed breeds, with four dry.

Three herds averaged a fraction over 40 in their order they are Paul Beach, 12 registered and grade Holsteins, all milking; Ernest Peterson, Bona, Buhl, 16 registered and grade Holsteins, with five dry, and Irvin Ehlers, Twin Falls, 42 registered and grade Holsteins, two dry.

The total number of cows in the 66 herds was 1,277 with 1,523 milkings and 397 dry.

"Apparently farmers are taking advantage of high prices for milk and are cutting out and selling for beef," Daigh notes.

Two Found Dead In Missing Plane

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., Feb. 15 (AP)—Wreckage of a navy plane carrying two officers, one from Idaho, was found in Arizona, was reported Friday. Both men were dead.

The plane had crashed a civilian plane in the air Feb. 2. The civilian plane landed safely at Huntsville, Ala. The navy SB3C, a twin-engine biplane, crashed near the Tri-Cities airport at Kingsport, Tenn., for emergency landing instructions. That was its last word.

Search for the plane continued since that time but had been hampered by fog, snow and rain.

The navy said the two officers aboard were Lieut. James R. Siler of Fossilito and Lieut. William L. Harris of Winslow.

Their bodies were found in the cockpit of the badly burned plane which crashed near the top of Holston mountain about 12 miles north of this east Tennessee community.

Miss Richmond Weds Laughlin

In Church Rites TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 15—Con- Mrs. Lottie Richmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne W. Richmond, and Miss L. Laughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Laughlin, of Twin Falls, were married in rites solemnized the evening of Feb. 14 at the Calvary Baptist church.

The two rings were exchanged in a candlelight ceremony performed by the Rev. Robert S. Heath before a sizable setting of white stock. Chantilly lace over satin styled the bride's gown with a bouffant skirt and a train of white tulle. Her hair was styled in a soft wave. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis arranged in a white ribbon. Her bridesmaid, Lorraine Cook, flower girl, wore a forest green frock and carried a colonial bouquet.

Bev and Van Laughlin, 4-year-old twin brothers of the bridegroom, carried the wedding bands on white satin pillows. They were dressed identically to the bridegroom in white suits with white bowties. Lee Montgomery, Twin Falls, was the best man, wearing a white suit with a white bowtie. Lorraine Cook, flower girl, wore a forest green frock and carried a colonial bouquet.

Ethel Kogler played the organ and accompanied Helen Schumacher who sang, "I Love Thee, Dear" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Everett Chosen, Mrs. Cal Cook and Mrs. Virginia Oomen were bridesmaids. Mrs. Lorraine Cook, flower girl, wore a forest green frock and carried a colonial bouquet.

The new Mrs. Laughlin wore a brown suit for a wedding trip to California.

A baby comes into the world with built-in essentials for living. He sucks his food, breathes, urinates and cries when he feels the need. All without any assistance from his caretakers. He is given this care, and grows and develops by the aid of his Mother Nature. But baby's development must take over at one stage or another. That is when the mother begins to try to help him.

There are two sides of a child's being, the physical and the mental. The baby cannot say a word but the mother's joy conversation. In time he will know the words he has heard and sooner than you think he will have begun to learn to talk.

A baby cries. In my experience the cries when he feels unhappy. Unhappiness is a check on growth, and it should be wiped out of a baby's life as quickly as possible. Deal with the crying baby as he cries and he will be happy.

If the baby is in pain he will indicate it by the expression on his face, by drawing his legs and arms up close to his body and screaming. When experienced mothers see the baby will recognize that cry and answer it either by themselves removing the cause or by giving the baby a little medicine to do so.

Soon after birth, within the first three months, watch the baby's eyes beginning to look and listen.

Declo Senior Is Winner of Speech Meet

BURLEY, Feb. 15.—Miss Peterson, Declo high school senior, won first place in the annual American League oratorical contest Thursday evening in the high school auditorium sponsored by the local post of the American Legion.

The subject this year was "American citizens' rights in the Spanish conflict" sponsored by the Old Patriots' Union during summer. His coach and teacher is Mrs. H. E. Wesch who has turned out a first place winner for the last four years.

Beverly Freeman was last year's winner and went from the state to Los Angeles for the sectional competition. He was defeated by Mrs. E. Wesch who was the winner the year before that and four years ago first place went to Jack Darrington.

Second place winner Thursday night was Nedra Blair, Burley. Other contestants were Kay, Brian, Fredman, and the winner the year before that and four years ago first place went to Jack Darrington.

Following the prepared speech contest a "supper for the land" was drawn from a hat for an entertainment of about 15 minutes. They were judged on both talks for first place.

Hostesses were Mrs. R. O. Pender, Russell Jensen, Arvel Rudolph, Wallace Shupack and Rev. Emil J. Heisch.

Lawrence Radloff was chairman and acted as master of ceremonies.

Parallels Noted Between Talks Of Ike, Hoover for Recession

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (UP)—President Eisenhower and Hoover—20 years apart but with each facing a similar economic situation—were not only equally optimistic but talked in almost identical language.

On March 7, 1932, Hoover, knee-deep in a nationwide depression which was to become catastrophic before it got better, issued a statement which said:

"All the evidence indicates that the worst effect of the stock market crash on employment will have been passed during the next 60 days."

Wednesday Eisenhower, confronting a deepening recession and government statistics which showed at least 4% million unemployed, issued a statement which said:

"Every indication is that March will commence to see the start of a pickup in job opportunities. That should mark the beginning of the end of the downturn in our economy."

Hoover had economic advisers when he made his statement. Eisenhower, too, has economic advisers. He said he based his hopes for the future on the "best ideas I can get, and on my own study of the facts."

Not all economists agreed with Eisenhower now. Not all agreed Hoover was doing as well as a

Golden Silence

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (UP)—The PTA of Leland Junior high school at nearby Bethesda, Md., has started selling 25 tickets to its annual fund-raising play.

There's only one catch.

The PTA is not staging a play this year. But it figures it's a good way to raise money for school programs nevertheless.

The tickets include purchasers to "spend one more nice quiet evening at home."

Freight Rate Hike Becomes Effective

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (UP)—A freight rate increase of about two per cent went into effect Saturday on the nation's railroads.

The railroads hope to increase income by about 12 million dollars a year by this move.

However some of the rates may be revised downward later, for instance, on potatoes.

The rate boost includes one of about five cents a hundred-weight on the spuds. Earlier boosts of six and 12 per cent were granted in 1932. But several lines are asking that these increases be done away with for the sake of the potato industry.

The Union Pacific railroad has petitioned for this reduction on shipment of Idaho potatoes to areas west of Chicago. Southern lines have yet to approve this petition.

The Interstate Commerce commission approved the increase last Wednesday, effective Friday midnight.

Plane Crashes

PUEBLO, Utah, Feb. 15 (AP)—Light plane carrying a woman and two men from Los Angeles crashed in a snowdrift in western Utah Friday night. All were safe through after one of the men landed through snow for 12 hours in snow drift.

The trio was identified as Ann McPhet, 40, president of the American Products company in Los Angeles; her wife, Florence, 40, and her son, Ralph, 22, a student at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Tax Chief Rules Advertisements Not Deductible

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (UP)—Senator Keafauer, D. Tenn., halting a federal tax ruling on electric power advertising, says the power companies "can no longer charge the taxpayer and ratepayer for their own brain washings."

Keafauer said this Friday night in releasing an internal revenue service letter saying the cost of advertising by "America's independent electric light and power companies" has been allowed as a tax-deductible business expense. He estimated that "millions of dollars" are involved in the advertising program.

In the letter, Internal Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Hays said that the ruling would mean that the power companies would lose the contribution paid by power firms for such advertising but do not constitute allowable deductions.

Keafauer has said the advertising sought to "ouster electric power and socialism." A year ago, he wrote Harrington, enclosing several samples of the private power company advertising and asking if the cost to individual companies is classified as a business expense.

Pilots Gathering For Mexico Trip

ST. GEORGE, Utah, Feb. 15 (UP)—More than 100 Idaho pilots began arriving here Friday for their annual flight to Mexico.

The group will make a 3,000-mile aerial jaunt which includes stops at Acapulco, Guadalajara, Manzanillo, Hermosillo and Mexico City.

They will tour Project Smart Sunday. The project is the super-sonic air military research that stop Hurricane Mesa.

Club Abandoned

MOSCOW, Feb. 15 (UP)—A University of Idaho men's housing structure is being torn down after only 23 years — hardly long enough to let the ivy collect on the walls.

The frame structure has been known as the Idaho Club. Dormitory Director Robert J. Green says the building will be razed next summer to make room for a new construction, probably classroom units.

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1938

Oldest, Largest Club of Women Here Has Varied Interests Now

Recalling early days of the Twentieth Century club in Twin Falls are two long-time members, Mrs. A. J. Foster, who was vice president in 1936 when the club paid for construction of the wading pool in the city park, and Mrs. John E. Hayes, charter member of the club. (Staff photo-engraving)

The Twentieth Century club, the oldest and largest club for women in Twin Falls, has changed considerably since the day it was organized in 1906 as the "Springs" club. Primary interest of the parent "Springs" club was literary and now the club's interests are so wide "it's hard to keep up with them," in the words of Mrs. Ariell Kelly, president.

One of the most recent of the club's many projects has been the Twin Falls public library. The Twentieth Century club has been interested in completing a youth room at the library. In this connection, another library stock was presented recently, the second purchased by the club.

Presentation of the stock to Howard Burkhardt, chairman of the library committee by Mrs. Kelly marks only one of the many community projects undertaken by the Twentieth Century club.

When the club was organized in 1906 as the Springs club, membership was limited to 10. Later, the membership was boosted to 28 and then became unlimited as it now is with 250 members. In 1909, the name was changed to the Twentieth Century club.

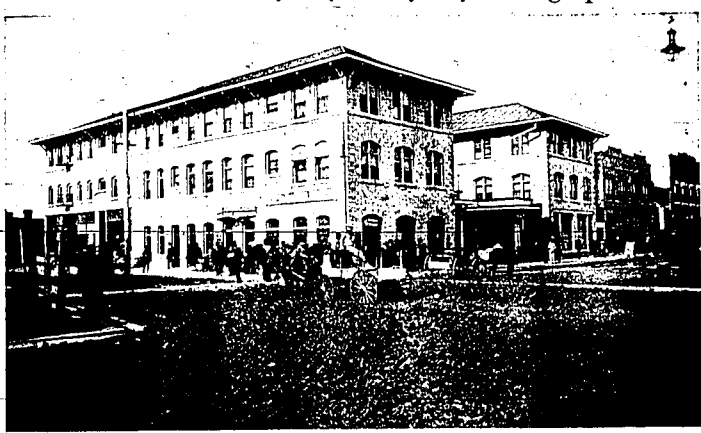

The club became affiliated with the State Federation of Women's clubs in 1909 and in 1923 became a member of the General Federation of Women's clubs, a national and international group designed for the betterment of women, their education and social prestige.

Women's interests were chiefly literary when the Twentieth Century club was organized in 1906, but since then members have expanded the program to include a host of interests. "So many it's hard to keep up with them," Mrs. Kelly said.

But the interests are primarily focused on community affairs and education. An art, drama and literature department of the

Historical Society Buys Early-Day Photographs

Present-day residents of Twin Falls who complain about muddy streets and alleys have shabby dry conditions as compared to Twin Falls in the early days. The city was plagued by mud such as shown here at the Main avenue-Ashcroft street intersection during rains. In the dry, windy seasons of the year, great dust storms swept the area. This photo is one of some 2,000 taken by Clarence E. Bisbee, early-day photographer. His collection has been purchased by the Twin Falls County Historical society. (Bisbee photo-staff engraving)

Historical Society of T. F. County Purchases C. E. Bisbee Negatives

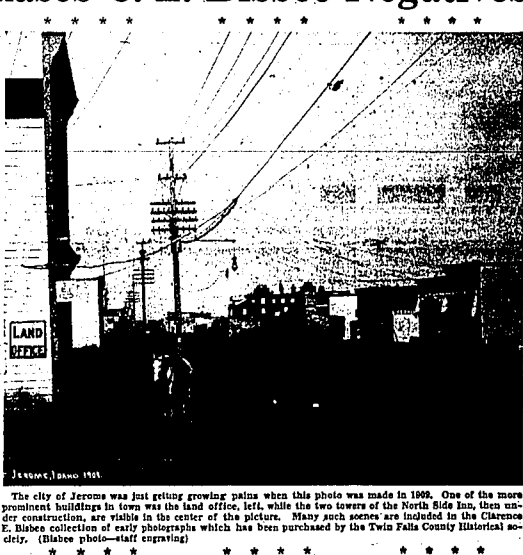

The historic negatives of the late C. E. Bisbee, pioneer Twin Falls photographer, have been purchased in the name of the Twin Falls County Historical society, it was announced Saturday by Dewitt H. Young, president.

Young said the purchase from the heirs of the Bisbee estate was made possible by cash donations to the society by Dr. Wallace Bond, Stuntz H. Taylor, Don G. Gibbs, Fred W. Harter, O. A. Klerker and the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company as well as the company's branch at Kimberly.

The transaction makes the local society owner of one of the most prized historical collections in the state. Details were handled by Harry Foley, Twin Falls attorney. Permission to sell the negatives to the local group was granted by survivors of the late photographer including his sister, Mrs. Ruby Hebron, Casapopolis, Mich.; Mrs. Helen Snyder, Alamosa, Neb.; his niece, Ruth Olfman, Costa Mesa, Calif., a grand nephew, Helen Marie Olfman and Joyce Ann Olfman, both grandnieces of Corona, Calif.

Mr. Bisbee, who came to Twin Falls in 1870, started and city started, depleted the growth of the area through the lens of his camera. Many of his early trips were made by horseback with one horse being needed to carry the bulky camera equipment used in the early days.

The negatives on which the historic scenes were exposed had a glass base which made them extremely heavy and bulky to carry. A box of 10 dozen of the 8- by 10-inch plates weighed just over 80 pounds and again some three pounds for the

The city of Jerome was just getting growing pains when this photo was made in 1909. One of the more prominent buildings in town was the land office, left, while the two towers of the North Side Inn, then under construction, are visible in the center of the picture. Many such scenes are included in the Clarence E. Bisbee collection of early photographs which has been purchased by the Twin Falls County Historical society. (Bisbee photo-staff engraving)

Engineers, Prominent in Every Phase of Living, Observe Week

There's an engineer behind almost every phase of modern life. The local chapter includes all leading even the most every-day activities, engineers in Twin Falls. They will sponsor a display in the city out as they begin their observance today of National Engineers' week.

The national observance is directed by the National Society of Professional Engineers. In Magic Valley, the South Central chapter of the Idaho Society of Professional Engineers is making the week, says the president, Harold Lackey. The local chapter includes all leading even the most every-day activities, engineers in Twin Falls. They will sponsor a display in the city out as they begin their observance today of National Engineers' week.

Engineers' week is held annually during the week in February of the birthday of George Washington, considered the founder of engineering in America. He was a surveyor, designer and builder.

Washington held no title as an engineer, Lackey says, but the men practicing the profession now, nearly all of them college graduates, hold little as engineers of one of the six recognized branches in Idaho, electrical, chemical, agricultural, civil, mining or mechanical.

That there are agricultural engineers, who are trained in four different categories, soil and water, farm structures, rural electrification or power machinery. A number of such engineers are employed around Magic Valley, Lackey notes.

Thomas H. Curtis, employed by the soil conservation service, is an agricultural engineer specializing in soil and water. He works principally in irrigation, designing small diversion dams on streams, planning farm layouts and land leveling.

Lackey points to William E. Berry, another agricultural engineer employed by a rural electrification specialist. Berry does considerable work in planning irrigation pumping systems and farm lighting problems.

The chapter president notes several electrical engineers, as could be expected, are employed by the Idaho Power company. In Twin Falls, W. G. Walstra is the firm's electrical supervisor for Magic Valley.

Electrical engineers work in the design and construction of almost all the operations of the Idaho Power company. They design and supervise construction and installation of generators, power lines, transformers and substations.

Lackey says automobiles, trucks, tractors and machines are mostly designed by mechanical engineers, and their construction supervised by mechanical engineers.

He notes there are few mining engineers in Magic Valley, but in northern Idaho many are employed supervising mine operations and designing new methods.

Lackey points out agricultural, civil, mining and electrical engineers are more closely related in education than chemical or electrical

Bisbee negatives which now are the property of the society. The old glass negatives form a picture history of the Twin Falls area from shortly after Twin Falls was first established. One of the original suitcase boxes, containing some of the nearly 2,000 negatives obtained, is between the men. The heavy glass negatives are being stored on shelves which will protect the historic objects from injury and breakage. (Staff engraving)

Course of History Almost Changed by Washington's Treacherous Indian Guide

BY TOM HENSHAW
 AP Staff Writer

"They enticed the Indian as a cold, dark Pennsylvania forest. The boy acted like a good idea at the time. But now, neither Christopher Gist nor the major was sure.

The redmen asked too many questions. He turned sourly when his rifle was declined. And Gist's forest was warned him they were being led astray by the dark woods. They

"How much further?" the major asked.

"Two whoops," said the Indian. They trudged on through the cold, dark Pennsylvania forest. The young major was bone-tired and the sobbing back of the tireless Indian guide, it paces ahead, somehow related him.

The forest thinned suddenly and they were in a snow-covered clearing hemmed by tall white oak trees. Light from the dull gray sky was a relief after the dark woods. Their vigilance relaxed.

It was then the Indian suddenly whirled and fired at them. "Are you shot?" cried the major. "No," said Gist. "With that, they overpowered the Indian. Gist wanted to kill him but Washington insisted on letting him live."

It was just a small and not unusual incident in the continuing struggle in the wilderness where England and France were warring for a continent. It would have been long forgotten but for two things.

The major's name was George Washington. And it was the first time he had come under fire. Washington was a 21-year-old gentleman-major, politically appointed of Virginia militia at the time. He was on his way to military mission, bearing an English message directing the French to leave the Ohio Valley.

The French, of course, were much too cautious to laugh in the major's carnal young face. They caviled with certain polite directives of their own and eviscerated him back where he started. Everyone, that is, but George Washington. Some were on that tough mid-

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

HAGBERMAN, which has been hit by a series of disasters first over the past three years, has almost completed rebuilding. The building housing the local theater and the "POOP lodge" hall, which was destroyed last April by a building caught fire again and burned to the ground last November 4 in the fire which burned the equipment and the equipment of the theater and warehouse belonging to the Hagberman highway district.

The theater and the small frame building which had been decided to the state by Henry Molony were not rebuilt. Mr. Molony died the day after Christmas.

Odd fellows purchased a vacant building owned by Hiram Gilman and formerly occupied by Hites Grocery. They have converted it into a lodge hall with a kitchen, the back made from the store room. The insurance did not quite pay for the remodeling but the members are painting with the help of the Union Rebekah Lodge.

Council members of this "do-it-yourself" project are Howard Bird, Joe Howard and Merle O'Leary, with Mrs. H. H. O'Leary, representing the club.

The new Hagberman fire house is the building owned by Lloyd Jensen which was a cafe. Citizens of the community pitched in the building and the members are painting and clean the apartment. The building is being used as a long-term mortgage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Calhoun occupy the apartment now. The fire department had no insurance, but an American Legion benefit of $2,000 was borrowed from a bank in Boise and is being used to purchase a fire truck and equipment. The building is being purchased on a long-term mortgage.

Glenn Erickson is chairman of the Hagberman fire district board. Oswald is a fire chief and Dana Gilmore is the board member. The Hagberman highway district rebuild the garage using laminated wood beams and sheet steel construction. The new building is almost twice as large as the original. There is now space to store the tractor and the pump and the fire truck. In addition, there is an office and a work room. Road commissions are being held in the building. Glenn Erickson and John LeMayre, Glenn is clerk and Leslie H. Brien is superintendent. Insurance largely covered the building expense.

For the first time in 13 years someone besides a member of the A. H. Stampe family has won the Times-News for PAUL. In the summer of 1945, Arnold Stampe Jr. and Harold Stampe took the prize. Arnold was an eighth grader and Harold was in the sixth. Arnold gave his part of the route up when he was graduated in 1950. When Harold finished school in 1952 he turned his route over to his little brother, Bonnie, a fifth grader. Bonnie carried only half of the route until a year ago when he took over all of it.

Ronnie resigned Feb. 1 after carrying the route for a couple of weeks. He won many prizes and awards in contests.

Children's Group Notes Valentines

HAGBERMAN, Feb. 15 — A Valentine party was held for members of the primary department of the local church Wednesday after school. Mrs. D. H. Gold was in charge. Mike Williams gave the opening prayer. Miss Hupp gave a short talk after group singing. Teachers in charge of games were Mrs. Arlene Carlisle, Mrs. Jack Allen, Mrs. William Choules, Mrs. Alton Moyra, and LeRoy Nelson. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gold, Mrs. B. K. Hendrix, Mrs. Ed Larson and Mrs. Merrill. The closing prayer was given by Russell Aaker.

EXERCISES HELD KIMBERLY, Feb. 15 — Clifford Fyke, chairman, appointed Mrs. M. and Mrs. P. M. Bjurson, Kimberly, to take part in special training exercises in the Pacific ocean aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Midway.

"Self-Righteousness and Christ's Cross"
By R. E. CROW (Pastor, First Baptist Church)
At this season of the year we turn our thoughts towards the ancient shores where with them in making Christ to the cross.

What is not so obvious is that modern society is filled with non-religious "Pharisees" who compound the error of the religious person by retaining their own failures because of the hypocrisy of religious people. How often the non-religious man boasts that he is a good moral man who pays his bills, takes care of his family, supports good causes, and that he is better than most religious people who are in the churches.

His fine sense of public morality is commendable, but his self-righteousness is despicable. He shares just as much in the spite of the Pharisees who crucified Christ as does the self-righteous man who boasts of his religious perfection. True religion is "to love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and thy neighbor as thyself." The man who loves God loves his world; his work, his home, his people and his country. Instead of pitting himself in either his righteousness or his religion, he is through his love through religion or without it.

Facing the challenge of Christ they did not for they loved the greater of men more than the praise of God. Today, 19 centuries later, we still have those who share in their spite in the midst of modern society. Any one who practices his religion for the praise and recognition of man rather than for the honor and the glory of God is one of their number though not of their name. Anyone who makes an insincere profession of Godliness shares in their spite. Anyone who practices piety for personal profit has his hollow ambition. Anyone who prides himself in his own righteousness and in his own religiosity has been tainted by their hollow pride.

Farm Bureau Sees Pictures Of Idaho City

HANSEN, Feb. 15 — O. A. Kellner, Twin Falls, showed pictures on Idaho City as the program featured at the Farm Bureau meeting Thursday evening at the Grand hall. Mrs. William Anderson introduced Kellner.

Walter Shouse gave a report on the pea and green clover meeting. He stressed the use of certified clean seed and discussed potato diseases, explaining how to detect potato and green clover.

Alfred Peltogy gave a report on the pea and green clover meeting. He urged farmers to read their contracts and understand them before signing, also to insist when payment should be made. He discussed different experiments being made to speed up bean cooking.

Lee Hestlam invited Farm Bureau members to attend the next meeting of Orange an open meeting. Farmers and businessmen of the community will get together to discuss better understanding.

Walter Shouse welcomed 23 new members. Refreshments were served.

Honor Roll Listed

IDAHO STATE COLLEGE, Pocatello, Feb. 15 — Robert H. Dalry, Rupert; Laura Lee Falk, Burley; and Marilyn R. Waxall, Jerome, were high honor students, receiving all A's during the first semester. Receiving all A's except one B, were Elmore H. Dean and Henry P. Hestlam, both Burley; Carol Berntsen, Jack H. Lasher and Ronald F. Melton, all Twin Falls.

Members Discuss Plans of Meeting

Members of the fourth district FFA executive council discussed the annual state convention Wednesday at the Twin Falls high school. The convention is scheduled for March 20 to 22 in Boise. The convention program was explained by Mrs. A. W. Morgan, district adviser. The chapter decided to provide transportation to the convention.

A potluck was held after the meeting. Food was furnished by the girls attending the meeting. Praying at the meeting was Sharon Moore, 1933 president. She called upon the other officers for reports.

Parties Held

HANSEN, Feb. 15 — Valentine parties were held in classrooms of the first six grades Friday afternoon. Room mothers served refreshments. The seventh and eighth grades held a combined party and dance at the school Friday evening.

Church Sets Special T. F. Revival Meet

A series of special revival meetings is being held in Twin Falls at the First Church of the Nazarene in observance of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the national Nazarene church, according to the Rev. W. Elton Green, local pastor.

Featured speaker during the special meetings is the Rev. William Griffin, Tampa evangelist. The meetings are being held until Feb. 23, starting at 8 p. m. daily except Saturday, with a 10:45 a. m. Sunday service.

Born in Canada, the Rev. Mr. Griffin received his early religious training in Canadian Nazarene College, Red Deer, Alberta, and later was graduated from Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa.

The evangelist organized and helped build the "Canyon City Church of the Nazarene in Caldwell."

"Described as 'a forceful preacher,'" the Rev. Mr. Griffin emphasizes the Wesleyan doctrine of heart holiness in his sermons. He has preached throughout the West, Northwest and western Canada.

Special music will include singing by soloists, duets and choirs.

The Rev. Mr. Green urges the public to attend the special meetings.

classified in four groups, registered, associated, affiliated and engineers in training. Most Magic Valley engineers are registered, meaning they are college-trained, have had four years of responsible training and have passed the Idaho examination, Lackey explains.

Lackey goes on to explain an associate engineer is a man who works as an engineer but is not licensed, an affiliated engineer is engaged in engineering projects although not trained as an engineer and an engineer in training is studying at an engineering school.

Engineers hired by the public, such as consulting engineers, and those working for the public and government agencies must be licensed, or registered, Lackey points out.

However, engineers employed by private firms do not need to be licensed and many are so employed in Magic Valley, Lackey reports.

He says civil engineers are the most predominant in Magic Valley, then irrigation projects in the area are supervised by civil engineers, who are educated chiefly in construction, design and operation of public works. Until 1930, all engineers were licensed as civil engineers, but now the different branches of engineering are recognized in Idaho, Lackey says.

Library Assisted for One of Many of Club's Projects

A new library stack was presented to the Twin Falls municipal library recently by the Twentieth Century club of Twin Falls as one of the many community projects undertaken by the oldest and largest women's club in the city. Accepting the order for the new stack from Mrs. Arlet Kelly, club president, is Howard Berkhart, chairman of the library committee. The club presented the stack shown in the background last year. The women have been working on a youth room at the library. (Staff photo-entraping)

Interests so Wide It's Hard to Keep Up, Says Chief of Oldest Local Club

club meets regularly and the women discuss or listen to speakers on subjects dealing with the department.

Regular club meetings are held the first Tuesday of each month from September through May. Usually an entertaining program is featured, Mrs. Kelly says.

"We try to get speakers at our meetings who can keep us informed of new advancements. At our October meetings we heard Orin Breen, public relations director for the National Association of Manufacturers, speak on 'What Is America.'"

April, a man from the atomic energy plant at Arco will speak on the benefits of atomic energy in the home," Mrs. Kelly notes.

"A style revue will be presented at the March meeting," she adds. "Being affiliated with the State and National Federation of Women's Clubs means the club works on state and national civic projects, and Mrs. Kelly adds, "it means the group has more strength when working together."

During the 52 years of existence of the Twentieth Century club, members have accumulated considerable money in their savings, which we dream of using to build our own meeting hall," Mrs. Kelly says.

Much of the club's money earned through club projects has been used for community betterment. Just recently the Twentieth Century club gave $25 for the Christmas Nativity scene in Twin Falls. In 1953 the club hired a qualified teacher to instruct polo patients at Magic Valley Memorial hospital and later furnished $750 for a room at the new hospital.

In 1955 the Twentieth Century club sent $200 to Korea to help educate Korean children. For many years the club has a scholarship fund, but it was discontinued recently.

"One of the first of the Twentieth Century club's contributions to the community of Twin Falls was the drinking water park, presented in 1915. In 1936, members paid for the construction of the wading pool at the park."

As part of the Idaho Federation of Women's club projects, the Twentieth Century club donated $64 to the Idaho Ranch for Youth. The Idaho Federation is promoting the Youth Ranch and all of the clubs in Idaho affiliated with the Idaho Federation are donating money for the ranch.

But cash donations are not the only help the club provides. Each year members can fruit and vegetable for the children's home in Boise. Club members help in community drives to raise money by going from door to door collecting money.

State projects entered by the Twentieth Century club include the State Federation's project to reseed burned areas with pine trees and helping in the penny art fund where art projects of school children from all the grades are judged in district and state contests. Projects are displayed at state and national civic projects, and Mrs. Kelly adds, "it means the group has more strength when working together."

Poetry also is judged in the statewide contest sponsored by the state Federated Women's club, but cash awards are made to winning entrants.

More recently the club has devoted efforts toward helping youths of the community and has worked hard at the projects, following the motto for this year, "Everything is possible with tomorrow."

dream too foolish, no goal too high." Helping the young citizens has included mostly our work in trying to get the youth room of the Twin Falls city library equipped," Mrs. Kelly said.

Besides the two book shelves, each costing nearly $750, the club bought chairs for the room and had them finished.

"The Twentieth Century club is not the only group interested in the project. The club sponsored a tea for other service clubs to interest them in the youth room at the library."

Success in the projects undertaken by the Twentieth Century club will make it eligible for a prize contest each year by the Idaho Federation, Mrs. Kelly says. The prize is a cash award and the club will put the money back into other projects. A $100 award was given in 1957 last year in a successful community project.

The state project of helping the Idaho Ranch for Youth might qualify the Idaho Federation for a national prize, Mrs. Kelly notes.

At least 40 new members were brought into the club in the past year, Mrs. Kelly says, adding that membership is open to any woman endorsed by two active members.

Four of the original 1906 members of the club are still active. They are Mrs. C. J. Hays, Mrs. John E. Hayes and Mrs. J. H. Seaver.

er. The fourth, Mrs. Emma Clouchek, lives in Portland and is active in a Federated club there.

"Twenty-five past presidents of the club are still living, Mrs. Kelly said. Each president holds office for one year.

Two members of the Twin Falls club have been presidents of the Idaho Federation of Women's clubs. They are Mrs. P. B. Wilson and Mrs. H. L. Hogsett.

President-elect of the Twentieth Century club for next year is Mrs. R. J. Hawes.

So the club carries on, following the motto of all Federated Women's clubs, "Loyalty to our aim, to our work and to each other."

Awards Given to Contest Winners

HANSEN, Feb. 15—Robert Pettigrove presented awards for the "Wildlife Conservation through Harvest" sponsored by the state wildlife federation.

The Southern Idaho Fish and Game association of which Pettigrove is chairman, sponsored the local awards.

Ann Bennett received first award of $10; Christy Crockett, second, $10; and Janet Larsen, third, $5. Betty Davis, Lila Taylor and Joyce Johnson received honorable mentions and each received $3 awards.

They are all members of the seventh grade.

The contest was county-wide, but Hansen was the only school to enter in the contest. The essays will be entered in the state contest.

Some engineers, such as agricultural, are capable of doing civil, mechanical or mining engineering work, he notes.

Electrical and chemical engineers often can do each other's work and the work of the four other engineering branches, although it is uncommon, says Lackey.

The engineer president notes in much of it, but are licensed only by survey, Lackey explains.

"Flat Paw" Detachment Is Permanent, Effective Part of London Police Force

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Britain's force of flat paws is growing. Detachment of trained police dogs has become a permanent, effective part of law enforcement.

The mere appearance of a police dog in a tough district, said a metropolitan police force spokesman, "has a salutary effect."

In plain language he meant the toughies are afraid of the doggies. The nation's police departments started using trained dogs in 1913 when two Labradors were assigned to the London suburban division.

The war came. And for some reason just in the whirl of history, but went the dogs. Unofficially it was reported that one of the dogs bit a cop.

In 1945 Police Commissioner Sir Harold Scott started using them again. He had been impressed by results in West Germany and Holland.

Once more Labradors were recruited and again they were employed in the suburbs and not in the city areas.

them into some of London's toughest areas.

One night a crowd of rowdies gathered on a sidewalk in Whitechapel and refused to move. They began to obstruct traffic.

Ritzy, a tough Alsatian, was introduced to them. He put them to flight. Traffic flowed normally within five minutes.

Word got around to other districts. More dogs were trained and put to work.

Then came the great Rex. He had been a watch dog at the French embassy, but when the ambassador installed a set of burglar alarms, Rex was through on the diplomatic beat.

The police took him and he proved to be the greatest flat paw here of the force.

something vital went out of me," Holman retired in few months.

In 1955, London flat paws arrested 1,168 humans.

Last October, the metropolitan police force issued a call for 100 more Alsatians. The commissioner, Sir John Stiller, said he wanted to boost the police dog strength to 300 to patrol London's 200.

A number of Londoners donated their dogs to the force.

Here the doggy recruits are trained in tracking, following a scent, obedience and making an arrest.

Magic Valley Lambing in Full Swing

Just as soon as possible after lambs are born they are taken to lambing sheds and placed in individual pens with their mothers. This lamb is only minutes old and its mother cleans it up while waiting to be taken to the sheds. (Staff photo—enlarging)

Lambing, Sure Sign of Spring, Brings Thousands of Lambs to Flocks in Area

Lambing operations—a sure sign of spring—were in full swing last week in Magic Valley with large flocks almost halfway through and farm flocks almost completed. An estimated 21,000 head of ewes in Twin Falls county will have nearly 117,000 lambs, according to estimates of the Twin Falls county agricultural stabilization and conservation office. Of that figure, 25 per cent are range flocks and 75 per cent are range flocks.

Other counties throughout Magic Valley will have almost as many lambs and in some counties the lamb crop will be larger, officials believe. The lambing season begins about the middle of December for most farm flocks and about Jan. 15 for Brockenridge's sheep. In ranch north of Twin Falls, Brockenridge's sheep are shorn. He takes them to the desert near Carey during the spring and fairs into the mountains about the east foot of the Boise river during the summer.

During the winter, Brockenridge keeps his sheep on his ranch north of Twin Falls. Many range flock owners north of Snake river near the desert feeding grounds and near the summer pastures in the mountains. Many sheep owners south of Snake river pasture their sheep on the south hills. Lambs raised on the Brockenridge ranch will be sold in July for slaughter. The lambs are a cross between black face and white face. While face ewes are used because they produce good wool, part of the money product of sheep. Black face ewes are used for most qualities.

Brockenridge's lambing operations began about Feb. 5. He keeps the ewes in a corral near the lambing sheds. Lambs are born in the corral and as soon as possible afterwards they are taken inside the lambing sheds to individual pens for four pens where the lambs eat their first milk, are kept warm and dry and their ewes are checked for sufficient milk. Lambs and ewes are kept inside the lambing shed for 24 to 36 hours, then taken outdoors to pens holding four to eight ewes and lambs. In the outdoor pens the lambs learn to know their mothers and are cared for by the shepherd.

Sheep that their lambs first by smell, then later by sound, according to Brockenridge. The confinement is partially to teach the lamb to recognize the ewe in the range. "Bum" lambs, or lambs whose mothers have died, are raised with ewes whose lambs have died. These lambs are not accepted as orphaned lambs because they can tell by smell if it is not their own. Brockenridge, like most shepherds, solves the problem by skinning a foster mother and placing the skin of the dead lamb over the orphan. Because of the small the ewe will accept the orphaned lamb. Orphan lambs are in the lambing shed on the Brockenridge ranch until the lambs are a few days old before docking lambs. Lambing operations should be completed throughout Magic Valley by March 15, according to Brockenridge. The ewes are checked for sufficient milk and the lambs will be taken to spring pastures. Ewes that have lambs born, about 10 per cent die at birth or shortly thereafter. About one and one-half per cent of the ewes die during lambing and an equal amount die on ranges either from nature causes or loss of sheep during lambing depends greatly on weather conditions according to Brockenridge. Rain is the worst weather for lambing because it soaks into the skin of the animals. Snow can be shaken off. At least 85 per cent of the ewes have multiple births, but some die and for every 100 ewes between 125 and 150 lambs are expected.

Advice Given Veterans for GI Insurance

BOISE, Feb. 15—An easy-going method of converting GI loan insurance to permanent plans is available to any of the 3,200,000 World War II veterans who cannot afford to convert the full amount of their term policies at one time, according to Donald Cowley, manager of the veterans administration center, Boise. Cowley says the law and VA regulations permit these term policyholders to convert as little as $1,000 the first time, then any amount thereafter they desire, in multiples of $500.

By converting portions of the total amount, Cowley points out, the annual dividends may be used in the process to reduce the cash outlay to the policyholder at the time of the conversion. The decision to convert is for each policyholder to make, Cowley says, since it is based on his need for permanent and future life insurance, his ability to pay the premiums and his family status. For some veterans, Cowley says, term insurance is preferable. For others permanent plans are indicated.

Permanent plan policies available to World War II term policyholders who wish to convert under this easy-going method are: ordinary, 10- to 20-year life, 30-year life, 20-year endowment, endowment at age 60, and endowment at 65. Cowley says 10,500 World War II veterans in Idaho hold term policies only, while 4,500 hold some form of permanent GI insurance.

Future Events Slated in MYF

SHOSHONE, Feb. 15—Plans for activities were made Wednesday at an executive meeting of the Methodist Youth Fellowship at the home of Mrs. Charles Olaboy, adviser. Lessons from the Old Testament will be presented over the next three months. Three books will be covered each week with three members of the organization given assignments. Officers will be elected at the Feb. 3 meeting to serve six months. Nominated were Howard Horn and Beth McKay, president; Robert Hill and Judy Strickland, vice president; Joy Edwards and Anne Firebaugh, secretary; Janice Olaboy and Sharon McInerney, treasurer; Elizabeth Elam and Myrna Edwards, song leader; Bill Kerker and Rodney Olaboy, program chairman. Assignments for the next meeting include Joy Edwards and Myrna Edwards, lesson; Margaret Elam, recreation; Beth McKay, Janice Olaboy and Ann Firebaugh, refreshment.

American Legion Okays Donation

SHOSHONE, Feb. 15—The local American Legion voted to give $500 to the Wood River Convalescent center for furnishings this week. The amount will be matched by government funds to make $1,000. Roy Bate, commander, was in charge of the meeting. A building committee is studying plans for remodeling. The Legion also decided to insure the Little League ball team. It will sponsor this year, Robert Haddock is Legion sports director.

Deer Surprised on Wintry Range

Caught napping in the sun by an Idaho fish and game department survey plane, a bunch of mule deer are leaving an established routine of their own choice, moving freely about instead of being concentrated on a crowded winter range. (Idaho fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Precarious Life of Mule Deer Fawn in Current Mild Winter Is Mere "Breeze"

BY BETH RHODENBAUGH Idaho Fish and Game Department The precarious life of the mule deer was a breeze in Idaho this winter, comparatively speaking. Deer research shows that the brunt of winter falls heaviest on the ewes and the immature animals. The losses of very old and sick or injured animals can be regarded as natural pruning of the herd, but an excessive loss of fawns is bad business. It is easy to see why even normal winters are hard on immature animals, especially on over-used ranges. The youngsters are inexperienced and incautious. They are smaller and weaker than the adults. It will soon be time for lots of forage. This is fine in the lush pastures of summer, but the picture usually changes abruptly when the first starts moving downhill for the winter.

At lower elevations the forage may be browsed so high the young animals cannot reach any good feed. Now that it is only a little hindrance to their mothers' exhausts the flourishing youngsters. Under such conditions losses are heavy, though a few manage to eke out a precarious existence chewing on the dead stubs left by previous years of over-browsing.

This is the situation that leads to stagnant herds, a high percentage of large, old animals, a low production rate, a progressive decline of carrying capacity of the winter range, a matching decline in total numbers in the herd. The picture throughout Idaho is much more cheerful this winter. Again, a mild winter has followed a fairly good harvest. Fawns are nibbling the forage that their harassed mothers probably would have pre-empted. Warm spells throughout the

Report Given On Assembly For Students

Mike Gray, student body president, was master of ceremonies for the Twin Falls exchange assembly presented in the high school gymnasium Friday afternoon. The program was introduced by two numbers by the Statesman with Layton Severson conducting. A dance number was presented by Patsy Miller, Judith Sims, Bacon, Joan Anderson, Jo Ann Shoup, Carol Smith, Marilyn Harper and Byrne Dore. A pantomime, "Ghost Riders in the Sky," was presented by Carl Lindemer, Angie Arrien and Margaret Wallon. Other pantomimes were "Dry Bones," presented by Karl Anderson, Bonnie France, Threlkeld, Karen Chatterton, Carl and Southwick, Helen Sumner, Ed Ealing, Anne Montgomery and Winnie Hinton; and "All Because You Kissed Me Last Night," by Gary Koontz, Susan Chaire and Orville Meyers.

The rock 'n' roll band with Jerry Van Buren, Larry Henman, Doug Dale, and Bob Owen, Bob Owen and Shirley Daniel played "Money Honey" and "River Day." A cornet band, with numbers, was given by John Affick and Larry Henman, accompanied by Miriam Beckwith. They played "Moon Glow" and "Stardust." Shrin Johnson gave a reading. What the conclusion of the assembly cheerleaders Joan Anderson, Be Lee, Don Staples and Rita Lantz led three years ago.

winter have brightened patches of green grass on south-facing, snow-baked slopes. The deer, young and old, have remained scattered and healthy. This is the almost unanimous opinion from all areas in the state, and here the exceptional areas show at least a fair crop of grass.

Now, with the hours of daylight lengthening and the sunlight getting warmer every day, the potential danger appears to be past. Only the most extremely unaccustomed type of weather could do much harm now, as there is scarcely less enough left for much damage before spring. The story for the past several years has been similar to this. Usually the average age of the problem herds has grown younger, and the herds are a more vigorous. Weather and harvest management have combined to give the problem ranges considerable improvement. There are still a few herds marked by the symptoms of undermarking, but for the most part Idaho mule deer herds are in good form.

Pilot, Gunner Take Aerial Warfare to Coyotes

Milton Robinson, left, piloted the plane from which Don Heath, with shotgun, killed these four coyotes. This is rather a rare photo because the coyote predators usually leave the predators where they fall. The Robinson-Heath team works for the fish and wildlife service, but their aerial warfare against coyotes is financed by stockmen, fish and game department and the federal service. They hunt mostly white snow in the ground, making the animals easy to spot. (Staff photo-entourage)

"Just Another Method to Kill Coyotes," Says Airmen of Using Planes, Shotgun

"It's just another method of eliminating coyotes," explains Milton Robinson, predatory and rodent control supervisor of the federal fish and wildlife service. Robinson pilots a Super Cub airplane from which the gunner, Don Heath, kills coyotes with a 12 gauge shotgun. The team works up and down the Snake valley from Boise to Pocatello and Idaho Falls, killing coyotes which have eluded all other methods. Robinson has been flying airplanes to kill coyotes for 10 years. Heath has been his gunner since last fall. Together, they make daily trips, scouring areas for coyotes. Most of the coyotes they kill have been pointed out to them by stockmen who want the coyotes killed because of the danger to their stock. Last week they were flying in Magic Valley, attempting to kill coyotes which had eluded traps set by the U. S. fish and wildlife service. They killed several coyotes, four of them on the Clyde Bacon ranch northeast of Jerome. The operation is accomplished by the federal fish and wildlife service, but is financed jointly by the federal government, state fish and game department and stockmen's associations in the state. Robinson and Heath hunt during the winter months when there is snow on the ground, mostly from December to March. They prefer to hunt on snow-covered ground because it is much easier to see coyotes from an airplane, according to Robinson. Since Dec. 1, Robinson and Heath have killed 158 coyotes in 100 hours flying time in southern Idaho. During the 10 years he has been flying in Idaho, Robinson has accounted for more than 2,600 coyotes from his airplane. Although coyotes can be killed by other methods, killing them from an airplane is more sure and selective, Robinson says. Coyotes can't escape sometimes from traps or get too smart for trappers and won't be caught. Hunting coyotes on land with a rifle is usually not successful because coyotes can elude hunters too easily. Traps set for coyotes often wind up catching sheep or other animals, Robinson adds. When shooting coyotes from an airplane, molting is killed except what the gunner shoots, and that kills the coyote, Robinson says. Coyotes seldom escape from the aerial hunters, unless they hide in brush near power lines or in deep brush where the plane can't go. "But if we see coyotes in the open, we usually kill them," Robinson says. A good gunner seldom misses a coyote from an airplane, but it takes a bit of experience to become a good gunner, Heath says. "We can be pretty selective, too," Robinson adds. "We shot coyotes in bands of sheep and not injured any of the sheep." The aerial coyote hunting method of Robinson is to fly slowly over the brush area at about 200 feet (lakes) above the ground. When they spot a coyote, Robinson, who rides in the front seat of the two-seat airplane, opens a window on the left hand side of the cockpit. Heath gets his shotgun ready to cause a shotgun up to his shoulder. Heath gets the barrel out the window. Heath shoots out of a window on the left side of the airplane because it is impossible for him to hit the coyote shooting from the right shoulder. Left-handed shooters fire from the right window. When Heath is ready to shoot, Robinson slides the plane at about 30 miles per hour to within 30 to 40 feet over the running coyote. Because of the speed of the plane, the "streak" action of the coyote and because Heath is unable to move the gun around much, he has only about one second to get off. Heath is usually able to get off only two shots each time the plane sweeps low over the coyote, but they seldom have to make more than two runs at a coyote. When a coyote is running full speed it usually eludes about 20 feet in the snow after being hit, according to Robinson. During January and February coyotes are mating and run in pairs. Often, hunters can shoot both coyotes on one pass if they run one in front of another, Heath says. Shooting from an airplane is by no means a new method of killing coyotes. In 1924, Lamont Stevens, who works for the Twin Falls city (fish and game) department, began shooting coyotes from the air for sport. Later

Unique Device for Livestock Feeding Featured in Leaflet

A unique livestock feeding device like the grain equipment, was built built by Melvin Sackett and his son, by the Sacketts in their farm shop. Johnny Sackett, who farm north-east of Twin Falls, is featured in the December issue of the Farm Electrification leaflet. One of the feeding operations described in the article shows grain moved from an underground pit by a conveyor belt to the center of the feeder. It drops by gravity flow into a grinder, where concentrates may be added, and then is moved by auger to a feed mixer. After the ground feed is mixed, it is metered onto a conveyor-belt feeder, where baled hay is added as the belt moves the feed out to a feeding area. Baled hay is moved into the Sackett barn lift by an elevator which,

Charles E. Bisbee, early-day photographer who collected a remarkable pictorial history of the Twin Falls area, had this photo of an early-day stage in his collection, which has been purchased by the Twin Falls County Historical Society. This stage was the main link of transportation between Twin Falls and Jerome. It traveled down through Snake river canyon, using a bridge in the vicinity of the present Blue Lakes Country club. At one time, it also used the old ferry above Shoshone falls. T. B. Perrine, father of the Twin Falls tract, owned the stage line. The photo was taken in front of the Perrine hotel which used to feature a large courtyard at the entrance. (Bisbee photo—staff engraving)

Kicker points out that the paper on these negatives is more than five decades older than that of modern negatives, and that it is more resistant to water and thus "will aid greatly in the preservation of the negatives."

Before placing them on the shelves, each carton of the negatives was opened and inspected. Kicker said only one of nearly 2,000 plates was cracked. "The condition of the negatives is in a good state of preservation," Kicker said, "and good prints can be made from almost any of them. Be-water trail across western Pennsylvania. Washington turned his back on a prospective life of ease and became an able and dedicated soldier.

He commanded men for the first time. He conducted negotiations with the French and with the mischievous Indian, who twice he nearly lost his life. On that "near" of the course of American history has depended.

They spent the first night in an abandoned Indian cabin. Next day they were at Murrumbidgee town, an Indian encampment in what is now western Butler county, Pa.

There they took on the services of the treacherous Indian.

After the shooting incident, Gist and George took off on a forced march for the Allegheny river and the safety of an English trading post. It was some 15 miles away through drifting snow and cracking cold air.

They were six men under the Gist command when the company set out on the Willa creek (now Cumberland, Md.) in November 1753. The little troop included Christopher Gist.

Gist had spent most of his 40-odd years among the Indians and foremost of the western colonial frontiers. He knew them both in all their moods and he proved an able tutor to the inexperienced young major.

That's why it was Gist whom Washington chose for a companion who would deliver and answer his mail to the Virginia command and look out on foot to hasten his return to Virginia with information about the French.

It was the day after Christmas, 1753, when the major and his companion cut out from the group and headed on what was to be the first advantage of Washington's army life.

They reached the Allegheny—and bitter disappointment. Despite the intense cold, the river had not frozen. Solid ice reached out about 50 yards from each shore. Midstream was open water, dotted with tumbling ice cakes.

There was only one thing to do. They constructed a crude raft of logs. It was dark when they finished but they decided to make a night crossing. The lure of the snug trading post a few miles across the river was strong. They'd rather not spend another night in the snow and cold.

They had barely pushed off when they noticed they hadn't. The current was swift. Rushing ice floes threatened to snamp their raft. They poked frantically but at the height of their efforts, Maj. George Washington fell overboard.

Valley Achievements Will Be Feature for 4-H Club Week

Achievements of more than 2,100 4-H members in the United States' Valley 4-H club members and their parents and volunteer leaders will be recognized during National 4-H Club Week, March 2 to 8.

Donald Youst, assistant county agent, says the week will be observed locally with window displays in Twin Falls, Blaine, Kimberly and Plover and news stories telling the public of the work of the 4-H organization.

"There are more than 2,200,000 4-H members in the United States," Youst says. "In Magic Valley there are 233 clubs, with 700 members in Twin Falls county," he notes.

The 4-H clubs are guided by public-spirited men and women who supervise the boys and girls in a wide variety of interesting and worthwhile projects in farming, home-making, community service and other activities," Youst says.

Club leaders are assisted by the county extension staff.

Hold Your Nose Air Pollution Studied for Likely Key to Varied Ills

BY EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for News Service
Recently I was kindly sent a thick book containing abstracts of hundreds of articles written about the effects of pollution of the atmosphere on the health of human beings.

The growing volume of studies on pollution of the atmosphere reflects increasing concern by health authorities about the acute and possibly long-term effects of pollution of the air on the people who must live in it.

Deaths from acute atmospheric pollution with so-called smog have been reported from the Meuse valley, Belgium, in 1930; Donora, Pa., in 1930, and in London, in December, 1952. It is believed that the smog in the Meuse valley and of Donora, in Donora, 20, and the four-day smog in London—4,000 deaths.

It is thought that the harmful effect of smog is not the result of contaminants in the atmosphere, but rather the presence of substances already present. Thus not only is there the release of these substances—principally by industrial plants and possibly automobiles—but also they fail to escape because of the development of a stable, quiet air, with what is known as temperature inversion.

The latter means that instead of the air cooling with altitude, it gets warmer for some distance above the surface of the atmosphere. Accordingly, smoke, exhaust fumes and other products of industrial society are kept from escaping into the wide open spaces of the upper atmosphere. There are preventive measures which can be employed. In the case of Donora, Pittsburgh has had the best record. Others are trying to do likewise.

There are interesting sidelights to the problem. It was reported that during the London fog, prize cattle in a show were badly affected but ordinary cattle in the same area were not. The prize animals were kept clean while the ordinary ones for slaughter stood in the family backyard odor with fairly high concentrations of ammonia. It was assumed that the ammonia neutralized the sulphur dioxide gas and hence reduced atmospheric pollution of the animals to not receive.

Besides studying the acute smog episodes, there is need to explore the possible effect of atmospheric pollution on such diseases as chronic bronchitis, sinusitis and cancer of the lung. Such investigations are underway.

Farmers Advised Of Date Changes

Area farmers were reminded Friday that the closing date for filing acreage reserve agreements had been changed from March 7 to Feb. 15—London—4,000 deaths.

Fred Scott, chairman of the Twin Falls county agricultural stabilization committee, advised all producers that no agreements will be accepted after Thursday.

Scott says anyone interested in the program should bring acreage figures for all of their crops for 1956 and 1957 to get their soil bank base established. The base must be determined before an agreement can be completed.

Scott says no agreement already completed can be cancelled after Thursday.

Equipment Is Being Put in Valley Center

GHOSHONE, Feb. 15.—Installation of equipment at the Wood River Convalescent Center has begun and applications of patients may now be sent to the administrator, Mrs. Anna Keltine. It is planned to open the center by March 1.

The ultra-modern home is staffed by registered and practical nurses, the administrator announces. There are private, semi-private and four-bed rooms available. Convalescent patients from the age of 12 years and older are eligible.

All donations are matched by government funds, and the matching program will continue to 30 days from the time the first patient enters the center, Mrs. Keltine said.

One of the latest contributions to the center is $500 to the Chartered Underwood Memorial fund. Mr. Underwood drowned when fishing at Clear Lake.

Odor Elimination Studied by Three

PAUL, Feb. 15.—Harold Wilson, Otto Kocill and James Stevens have been named a committee of three to investigate eliminating odors from the drainage ditch through Paul.

Jay Merrill, Chamber of Commerce president, announced the opening of a drainage soon in the Paul hotel building next to the recently opened Idaho Bank and Trust company offices.

Classrooms using the space will be moved to the old hotel dining room and remodeling work will begin immediately.

Raymond Pulley Paid Last Honor

Funeral services were held Saturday for Raymond Pulley at the Twin Falls mortuary chapel with the Rev. W. A. MacArthur officiating.

Survivors were Mrs. Stanley Piller, Oravid; Mrs. Russell Piller, Caldwell; Mrs. Harold Hobson, Gustav; E. M. Burtal, Nappi; Nutting, Paul Stroberg and Charles Lunte.

Concluding services were held in Sunset Memorial park.

Considerable Maintenance Is Reported on Rock Creek Road

A considerable amount of maintenance work has been done on the Rock Creek road since fall through the joint efforts of the Twin Falls highway district and the Sawtooth national forest, according to Edwin Forner, Rock Creek district ranger.

Forner notes the lower portion of the road from the end of the pavement to the third fork was graded last before hunting season last fall. This work was done by the highway district.

"This same portion was graded again by the highway district during the first part of this month," he says.

Forest service road crew graded all of the road late in October, he notes. "Drainage ditches were installed," the ranger says.

Forner says snow-removal equipment belonging to the highway district has been used several times during the winter on the upper portions of the road. "A rotary plow and a road grader with a side wing were used to widen the cleared road and parking areas," he added.

Valentines Made

Twelve members of the Twin Falls high school chapter of Future Homemakers of America prepared 100 valentines to send to patients at Magic Valley Memorial hospital.

Girls participating in the project included Nancy Egbert, Elma Burdette, Velma Berry, Vivian Hendrickson, Clara Lou Denton, Virginia Hansen, Paty Jones, Louise Davis, Gloria McClintock, Sharon Parkin and Jean Sheppard. Darlene McClain was chairman.
