Expert Notes Spray No Aid On Bugs Now A University of Idaho agricultural extension service entomologist said in Twin Falls Saturday that the application by Magic Valley farmers of better leafhopper insecticide at this point in the season is probably of little value.

W. P. Portman, who has in Twin Falls Saturday to confer with County Agent C. W. Deigh, said that because of an unusually heavy infestation of leaf hoppers from the north, the number of leafhoppers in the area was several thousand times what it normally is.

Portman noted that insecticide control of leafhoppers is difficult even under the best conditions that can be had because of the large number of leafhoppers in the area is low. He explained insecticide definitely applied to crops, but added that a leafhopper landed on a plant sprayed with the insecticide, the leafhopper could transmit the virus before the insecticide killed it.

Armed Parents Against Jail Term for Children's Misdemeanors

LOS ANGELES, June 7 (UPI)—"something police blame the children for doing."

W. Richard Meyers, director of the Wilmington community center, said "these mothers (and the fathers) are being punished for a situation over which they have no control."

He said "The kids can use these sentences as a weapon over their parents."

Ceremonies Mark Halfway Point for Idaho National Guard Training Camp

BOISE, June 7 (UPI)—The midway point for many Idaho army and air national guard units, at Gowen field near here for 150-day training, was reached today with ceremonies and a relaxation.

Units of the 10th armored cavalry returned from field maneuvers for a day of rest, and at the same time, some 600 troops of the 18th field artillery battalion and the 4th army band arrived to commence annual maneuvers.

Training for the air guard will continue through the summer, according to Col. Martin H. Johnson, 124th fighter group commander.

The 15-day and 16-day aerial gunnery and ground training will end June 14 when the group's 650 airmen and officers return to their homes for a relaxation.

The highlight of army guard activity today was the dedication of the new home of the Idaho Military Academy, located at Gowen field. Cadets attending the academy began their instruction today also in preparation for their commitments in the guard.

Gen. John E. Walsh, Idaho adjutant general and state training officer, dedicated the renovated building. Lt. Col. H. V. Smith, academy commander and state training officer, for making possible the IDMA.

"This project is the result of imagination and people to make it out," Walsh said.

On hand for the dedication were 12 junior cadets and 20 senior cadets.

West's Solons Head Drive to Find Minerals

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UPI)—Western congressmen will start a drive this week to get through contracts in three weeks legislation to support a continued national hunt for minerals.

Sen. James E. Murray, D. Mont., chairman of the senate interior committee, said today he plans to put before the committee his bill to continue the prospecting support bill, which is due to expire June 30.

The prospecting program has been carried on for six years by the defense-minerals exploration administration. It was authorized under the defense production act. Unless revived it will be discontinued on grounds it is no longer needed for national defense.

Only three weeks remain before the end of the fiscal year—and getting any bill through congress and signed by the President in that time would be difficult.

Property Owners Get Warnings on Growth of Weeds

City property owners were reminded today that they are responsible for the growth of weeds in Twin Falls.

Carl Solberg, city fire inspector, pointed out that a city ordinance requires property owners to keep weeds from growing on their property by moving, spraying or cultivation.

The inspector said he was primarily concerned with weeds growing high and becoming dry and adjacent to well-kept lawns.

Both noxious weeds and grasses are under the terms of the ordinance, Solberg noted.

Property owners who do not take care of their weeds properly can be charged for city care of weeds, Solberg stated.

Water, Sewer Plan Receives Support Here

Water, sewer plan receives support here. Among the disease organisms which are carried by the city's three and a half million gallons of raw sewage daily are those which cause typhoid, cholera, paratyphoid, infectious hepatitis and polio-myelitis. Dr. Krellkamp told the directors that such diseases could be carried by fish or carried by polluted water, but by flies, mosquitoes and rodents. They also are carried by fish or carried which may come in contact with anyone who may fish or hunt in Rock creek canyon.

Severe Hailstorm Hits Montana City

BILLINGS, June 7 (UPI)—A severe eight minute hailstorm in the immediate Billings area early this evening shattered windows and neon signs, but a weather bureau official said it was "not nearly as bad" as the million-dollar hailstorm of July, 1955.

FISHERMEN FAIL. PAUL, June 7—Andy Halber, John Hadden, Leiland Nielsen and Ronald Sampe spent opening day of the fishing season at Nealey. They reported no luck.

Another real possibility is transmission by means of dusts from growing potatoes and irrigated with this sewage-polluted water. It is noted.

Should we wait here in Twin Falls on constructing our sewer disposal plant until we have 100 per cent proof that we need it? Dr. Krellkamp said the seven Rock creek sewage discharge points are menacing the health of the community. He said the discharge points are "dead breeding grounds" for disease-carrying rodents.

Following the presentation of the report to the directors, the group voted unanimously to endorse and support the entire $1,600,000 bond issue. The bond issue includes the sewage treatment plant, in addition to cost $440,000, additions and improvements to the existing city water system, estimated at $235,000, the extension of the present sewer system to about 400 homes in the city.

Information concerning the bond issue. "Fact sheets" containing favorable information about the issue will be given to club and organization representatives so that they can present factual information to their group members.

City Manager Joseph H. Latimore spoke to the directors and reminded them of the recent similar sewerage treatment plant elections in Idaho Falls and Pocatello. He pointed out samples of "fact sheets" prepared by Chamber of Commerce groups in the two communities which have favorable information about the bond issue.

Dr. Krellkamp also read a statement of information from Dr. J. Woodson Creed, local public health director, who said that he could tell from the information then available to him, there was no "critical need" for the sewer treatment plant.

Dr. Krellkamp rejected the argument that the city was not in need of sewage disposal. He said that the city was in need of sewage disposal and that the city should start now.

Team Reports Money Stolen From Clothes

Twin Falls police were investigating the theft of approximately $100 from the clothes of a woman who was shopping at the Montana Plaza store when she was told that her money was stolen from her clothes.

The woman, who was identified as Mrs. Edna Schack, reported the theft to police at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Sheriff Edmond Schack, Cowburn, and a deputy from Nick Schack, general manager of the store, searched the money from the players' clothes in a dressing room at the store. Schack and police officers said there was no indication that the money had been broken into. The money was found in a dressing room that had not been touched since the woman left the store.

Sheriff Schack called the store manager and asked why he reported the theft after the team left.

The store manager reportedly said that he had not seen the money and that there had not been any other people in the store at that time.

Struggle Over Hells Canyon High Dam Ends, but Recrimination, Charges Fly

WASHINGTON, June 7 (Special)—A controversy over blame still crackles among the coals, but the fiery 8-13 battle for Hells Canyon is over. The most ardent congressional supporters of public power in the Northwest admit that last week's 15-13 loss in a House subcommittee and insular affairs subcommittee kept the last hope for the long-sought high dam.

Liberal Democrats have been licked before, as they tried to prevent private development of the Snake River, by Wayne Morse, Gracie Plost and his company. Always kept up a rousing attack on the Republican opposition. Now Senator Morse, D., Ore., admits "We've thrown in the sponge." Sen. Plost, D., Ida., sadly says, "There's not anything we can do."

Only the partisan recriminations remain to make the blame for final abandonment of plans for the grandiose 722-foot dam.

Although Democrats control the recrimination, and a irrigation subcommittee, Mrs. Plost claims the dam's defeat was "strictly party-line" by the Republicans. Only the switch of two southerners from the Democratic ranks swung the vote.

"Perhaps when the Democratic sweep congress in November," Republican opponents say, "we'll have another chance."

Rep. Al Ulman, D., Ore., also assigned a GOP party-line tag to the defeat.

Republican opposition leader Rep. John Taylor of Pennsylvania disagreed. "We could have had four more Democratic votes against it," he claims.

A private poll indicated that other subcommittee Democrats who could be counted on to oppose the Hells Canyon dam in the future are J. R. Rutherford, Texas; Leon W. O'Brien, New York; H. P. Bink, California, and Adam Clayton Powell, New York, absent from the vote because of his tax-evasion trial in New York, would have opposed the dam.

Dropped by Tammany hall Democrats, the Harlem preacher has been backed by New York Republicans.

The last resorts have been abandoned by Hells Canyon supporters as hopeless. In the Capitol, Mrs. Plost said it was "too late" to move to discharge the committee, even on the slim hope of getting the necessary 218 House signatures on a petition. A spokesman for Senator Morse said court action to stop work on the three dams being built by the Idaho Power company was "not worth trying. The experts say that's a hopeless cause."

Members of Oregon Democratic Sen. Richard L. Neuberger's staff said "we acknowledge defeat. The House committee vote was decisive."

Spokesmen for Sen. Frank Church, D., Ida., said "We haven't heard of a single thing left to do" on the house floor. Representatives Ulman said "This is, indeed, a sad and disheartening day. To me Hells Canyon was a very personal matter because the great gorge of the Snake river cuts deep along the borders of my district for 150 miles."

Dam opponent Rep. A. L. Miller, R., Neb., said shortly "it would not be in the public interest for the government to buy out the $7 million dam work already done by the private utility there."

Only a $100,000 ghost, a "sturdy" proposal offered by Interior Secretary Fred A. Stinson to survey the Snake and possible sites for dams at Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley, remains on the schedule of the house appropriations committee.

At Dinosaur national monument another old dam controversy appeared to be ending in defeat this spring for public power advocates. Plans to build park service facilities in the area were going ahead, and in the view of several congressmen, would probably permanently rule out construction of the proposed Echo Park dam, near Vernal, Utah.

Car Rolls Over In Area Mishap

A 21-year-old Twin Falls driver lost control of a 1953 Plymouth Friday and the vehicle rolled completely over in a borrow pit three miles east of Twin Falls near highway 30.

The driver, Allison Barkley Owens, 153 Eighth avenue east, told State Patrolman R. E. Young the stop sign at the entrance of the county road to highway 30 was hidden by the branches of a tree. He told Young that when he did see the sign he applied his brakes with great force.

The Plymouth skidded partly around, hit the side of a culvert, and turned completely over. Owens, the only occupant of the car, was not injured. Damage to the Plymouth was estimated at $500.

State Board Has Program For Bureaus

MOSCOW, Idaho, June 7 (AP) - The state board of education discussed Saturday the programs of the state department of education and its department of vocational education in a meeting here.

The board is trying to project for the next biennium, starting July 1, 1939, the estimates of school enrollment and how much money is to be sought from the state legislature next January to provide for the state's share of the minimum education formula. Alton B. Jones, state superintendent of public instruction, said.

The current state share of the minimum education formula is $22,000,000.

Complicating the consideration, said Jones, is the fact that the department has provided that special instruction for retarded pupils was the responsibility of local school districts receiving minimum aid from the state.

"This has meant many special schools have been started during the past year for the retarded youngsters and presents an uncertainty in projecting needs for the 1939-1941 period," Jones said.

Union Heads Soothe Irate Car Workers

DETROIT, June 7 (AP) - The United Auto Workers Union officials Sunday soothed a rising sentiment among Chrysler workers and held them on the job during the car workers' strike in the auto industry.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said it was millions put on them by the company during the first week of no-contract operations. He demanded immediate strike action.

Art Hughes, head of the UAW's Detroit branch, told newsmen he believed Chrysler workers will stay on the job the next week. He said stewards and committeemen were advised to turn the other cheek to anything they considered strikes which they considered strikes which they considered strikes.

He said the union, when it comes to signing a contract, will demand satisfaction as to grievances that arise during the no-contract period.

Two Are Hurt in Truck Crash on Rogerson Curve

Two Twin Falls men were injured slightly about 7:45 a.m. Saturday when the truck in which they were riding mistook the curve at the south edge of Rogerson on highway 82.

Injured and taken to Magic Valley Memorial hospital by State Patrolman D. L. Cain were John Thomas Duchan, 35, 1660 1/2 Lakes boulevard north, driver of the truck, and a passenger, Roland Phillips, 44, Twin Falls. They were treated and released.

Patrolman Cain reported the driver came around the curve too fast and did not see the curve until too late. He was driving north. Estimated speed at the time of the accident was 65 miles per hour. Posted speed is 45 miles per hour. Charges are pending against the driver.

The patrolman reported the 1938 Dodge three-quarter-ton truck was demolished. The truck is owned by Western Heating company, 124 Shoshone street west. Damage to a fence and two highway reflector signs was estimated at $40.

Captain Held For Voyage to Nuclear Tests

HONOLULU, June 7 (AP) - The Golden Rule's gray-haired skipper, who sought to prohibit U. S. nuclear weapons tests by sailing into the mid-Pacific test site, was in jail Saturday with three of his crewmen.

Albert Smith, Bligow, 32-year-old former navy lieutenant commander from Coa Coe, Conn., drew a 60-day sentence Friday for conspiring to sail the 30-foot ketch into the Eniwetok area despite a federal court injunction.

The three crew men had received identical sentences the day before.

A. L. White, Los Angeles attorney, announced in San Francisco he had asked Justice William O. Douglas of the U. S. supreme court to stay the injunction forbidding the Golden Rule from entering the nuclear test area.

I have a letter from a discouraged boy who thinks he has "no chance." He does not say what it is he wants and thinks he has no chance to get, but he says that with his lack of ground of home, his lack of friends of influence, he has no chance.

He must choose between defeatist thinking and hopeful thinking. The defeated thought will bind him to a do-nothing level which is fatal.

He will need sound mental and physical health. He has a choice here too. By pushing away defeatist thinking and calling up all his forces of will, backed by the spiritual ones of hope and faith, he can open his mind to sound health and that will prove to be a tremendous lift toward success.

He can choose between health of body and the lack of it by taking

MAGIC VALLEY COWBOYS SLATE TWO DOUBLEHEADERS WITH BOISE THIS WEEK

Magic Valley Prepares to Start 'Move' for Pioneer League's First-Half Crown

Magic Valley Cowboys, currently on a four-day lay-off, are taking the opportunity to prepare themselves for a backstretch finish which they hope will carry them to the Pioneer league first half championship. And they face a big obstacle this week when they take on the tough Boise Braves in two straight doubleheaders Tuesday and Wednesday. The first half ends June 24. It's hard in the pitching department, plus a plague of injuries, the Cowboys currently are five games off the pace set by Peacocks leading Pocatello. Going into the Peacocks schedule, the Cowboys were fifth in the league, which is tightly bunched with four teams separated by only two games.

Manager Dick Wilson feels the pitching has cost the Cowboys a chance to be breathing down Pocatello's neck right now. Not blaming them in the least, Wilson pointed out it is hard to win consistently with only four pitchers available. The best pitcher in the league from the first through the eighth man, the personable skipper said. (The Cowboys were second in team batting according to official statistics, just one percent, a point behind Peacocks, 253.) "Other teams may have two or three better hitters than some of ours, but right down the line our lineup is the most powerful."

His statement was thoroughly backed up in the game Thursday, when the Cowboys pulled the Timberjacks 16-11 but still lost the game. The most serious problem is pitching, he added.

Asked if the Chicago Cubs had any chance of winning, Wilson said, "If they have, we'll get them." But the Cowboys got a big shot at the title when they defeated Herberger, Cowboy pitching ace and leading pitcher in the league, who announced he would leave for a local doctor.

Herberger, whose last outing was a 1-0 victory over the Peacocks at Pocatello, has been sidelined for the past two weeks by a leg infection. The injury, which is likely to last three to four weeks, has put him in a position to win a rotation and fighting him to win a two game split will give the Cowboys in second place at the present time.

Herberger on the sidelines, Jim Prevat, newly acquired from the Cubs via Burlington, has seen some service along with Joe Martin and Gary Tolman. Because of the lack of pitching depth, Wilson said, the team has lost the past three weeks, winning a game in the clutch and spelling off its rest in the other intervals.

But the Cowboy "blight" has not been relegated to the pitching staff alone. Thursday's loss to Peacocks, 3-0, during a disastrous game, was due to a combination of an injury. Owen escaped further injuries Friday night when the catcher was driving over him. He was contending early in the game, but because of high winds obscuring the sign. He saw the sign in his mind, however, his brakes but the car skidded and Jerry Fishel, a first line catcher with a healthy 228 batting average, and time limitation takes away 300 as a team.

Charles Herberger, a pitcher, still is carried spot the individual batting line but Charles Herberger has a batting average of .100 as he leads the hitting for the local. However, Westerspoon, 261, is three percentage points behind Magic Valley's Al Owen, who missed last week's action because of an injury.

Manager Dick Wilson was second high for the Cowboys, at 21 in the league, with a 338 mark, a decline of 21 points, while Joe McElroy was fifth with a 287 mark, a decline of 15 points. Zimmerman with 233 and Don Davis, 210, and Ken Fisher, 207, were the only other locals over the 200 mark.

The pitching department, Wilson said, has been maintained his struggle both in the pitching department. The 18-year-old Chicago native was tops in percentage with a 7-0 record and his earned run average of 1.27 also topped the loop. Joe Thornhill had the dubious honor of leading the league in homers, 6, and Joe Martin had the most wild pitches, 4. Two other pitchers were tied with Herberger with seven wins but both have lost two to defeats.

Named Director
ANAHEIM, Calif., June 7.—Stan Bailey, ex-Twin Falls resident, has been named director of the National Amusement and Pastime Commission, a committee for the 1960 Olympic games at Squaw Valley.

Currently merchandise director at Disneyland, Bailey is the son of a well-known baseball player. He lived in Twin Falls several years before moving to Northome, Minn.

Cowboys Move Into Second Spot in Loop Team Hitting

Magic Valley Cowboys pulled themselves to second place in the Pioneer league for team hitting last week, just one percentage point behind the pace-setters. According to statistics compiled by William J. Weiss, official league statistician, the Cowboys currently are hitting 284 as a team.

Charles Herberger, a pitcher, still is carried spot the individual batting line but Charles Herberger has a batting average of .100 as he leads the hitting for the local. However, Westerspoon, 261, is three percentage points behind Magic Valley's Al Owen, who missed last week's action because of an injury.

Manager Dick Wilson was second high for the Cowboys, at 21 in the league, with a 338 mark, a decline of 21 points, while Joe McElroy was fifth with a 287 mark, a decline of 15 points. Zimmerman with 233 and Don Davis, 210, and Ken Fisher, 207, were the only other locals over the 200 mark.

Approximately 500 of the 650 Twin Falls area youngsters signed up for the fourth straight time. The score was 6-3. The young Yankee batters drove in four runs, three of them with a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning. That was all the league-leaders and Whitey Ford needed. The lefthanded pitcher was reached for 10 hits but he went all the way for his sixth straight victory and his seventh of the season. He has lost two.

New Christian College Needs Furniture, Reports President

Editor, Times-News:—As you know, Magic Valley Christian college is scheduled to open at Albion this summer on the campus formerly occupied by Southern Idaho College of Education.

The new college does not receive any support from the state nor from any church organization. It is a private organization and must depend on contributions from interested individuals to repair and reactivate the campus as well as to meet its operating deficit.

The campus is now beautiful. About half of the necessary plumbing and heating repairs have been made inside the buildings. Five hundred gallons of paint have just arrived on the campus and will be put on this summer with volunteer labor.

We need furniture for the lobbies of the dormitories, for the dean's apartment and the guest rooms. I am wondering if there might be people who have good used furniture—living room sofas, bedroom sofas, chairs or divans, etc. that they would be glad to give to the college for this purpose? Of course, we would be happy to have new furniture but good used furniture would serve our purpose. Also a television set for the girl's dormitory and one for the boy's dormitory would come in handy as well as one for the student center.

Perhaps if your readers knew just how hard we are struggling to raise money and to do this work, which will mean so much to this section of Idaho, some of them would give the very things we need. Such furniture may be brought to the campus or if we are notified at the very times we will try to get someone to pick it up for us.

Our thanks to our neighbors for all the help they are giving us.

GEORGE W. DEHOPF
(President)

Taxes, Water too High, Says Note Of T. F. Woman

Editor, Times-News:—I think Arlon Eastman has the apt idea and a few more people ought to make a kick.

I bought a house a few months ago and I see, by the receipt, the taxes were nearly $115 and will be probably more this year. This is an old house, probably 40 years old, and no doubt cost about $2500 to build at that time, but the tax collector doesn't allow for depreciation.

And another thing: I've lived in other states and other cities in Idaho and never have had to pay such terrific prices for water and sanitation. Water is too high here, and some places don't charge for hauling garbage. The ones who do don't charge near as much. Not even in Boise.

Now they are talking about charging $2 more for a sewage plant. It is too high now.

Senate Labor Bill Has Added Critics

WASHINGTON, June 7 (UP)—Fresh criticism of the senate's proposed labor bill came Saturday from Sen. Carl Albert, R., Nev., who said it "doesn't face up to the reality of the situation at all."

Albert was the second Republican on the special senate subcommittee investigating committee to attack the legislation at its hearing. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R., Ariz., who voted against the measure in the labor committee, called it a "talk test" bill.

The measure is designed to curb abuses by giving rank and file members greater control over union affairs and by requiring public reporting of union financial dealings.

Lawsuit Is Won By Area People

A $18,000 lawsuit involving Ray and Ruth Pezler, part owners of the Horse B'n club south of the Idaho-Nevada state line, was decided in their favor by a 12-member superior court jury in Idaho, Calif.

The suit involved a real estate transaction in which Mr. and Mrs. Pezler had sued for $13,000 damages on a contract. Represented by Twin Falls attorney Lloyd J. Walker of the firm of Kramer and Walker, the trial lasted six weeks.

After the Pezlers sued for $13,000, the defendant filed a cross-complaint for $400,000 charging fraud. Both cases were joined and heard in superior court.

The jury awarded the Pezlers $18,000, cost of the suit and $5,000 for attorney fee. It also dismissed the $400,000 suit against the Pezlers.

Bishop Attacks "Right to Work"

WESTMINSTER, Md., June 7 (UP)—Methodist Bishop O. Bromley Odom said today that the so-called "right to work" laws not only are fraudulent, but represent a deliberate means to weaken labor.

"So-called 'right to work' laws are fraudulent," Odom declared. "They are neither intended nor designed to guarantee work or to establish the right to work. These laws are sponsored by the same reactionary forces that once sought to destroy labor organizations."

The bishop addressed the Methodist annual conference conference, which includes the District of Columbia and all of Maryland except the eastern shore.

Water Transforms Desert; Idaho Ranch for Youth Molds Character of First Students Accepted for New Home

This well at the Idaho Ranch for Youth north of Rupert provides more than 200 inches of water to irrigate about 200 acres. The Rev. James E. Crowe says the ranch has two wells now. (Staff photo-gram)

One big family is the present policy at the Idaho Ranch for Youth where the first six students, Mrs. David Hewitt and the James H. Crowe family crowd around one table at mealtime. Mrs. Crowe is seated at right and Mrs. Hewitt faces camera at far end of table. Next is the Rev. Mr. Crowe and the Crowe and two children are seated next to him. The other youngsters are all students at the ranch. Only one rule is enforced at the Idaho Ranch for Youth: If a student ever runs away, he can never return. All other "ways of doing things" at the ranch are termed "policies" by the Rev. Mr. Crowe who is founder and serves as superintendent of the ranch. Proper behavior and manners are among the basic "policies." (Staff photo-gram)

Idaho Ranch for Youth Open House Set June 22

The Idaho Ranch for Youth, 111 miles north of Rupert, plans an open house June 22, in which the Rev. James E. Crowe, ranch superintendent and founder, says that while 1,500 acres of the ranch will be opened to the public, the new plan is to offer guided tours around the place and we are going to kill two prime steers for a barbecue for visitors on that day," the Rev. Mr. Crowe says. The six students already at the ranch will pitch in to help make the program a success. They will show visitors around and across the ranch. They are working now to get one building prettied up for the day and also are working in the fields to have them in good condition when the expected 2,000 Idahoans visit the ranch. The Rev. Mr. Crowe notes that that day will be an annual affair at the ranch if it proves successful. "We are having the tour day to show the public what their contributions are being used for, because the ranch is not a project of the board of directors or my own," he says. "It is a project of the people of the state of Idaho," the Rev. Mr. Crowe explains. The ranch was the idea of the Rev. Mr. Crowe when he was attending Lambuth college in Jackson, Tenn., 17 years ago. He was never able to do anything about his dream while he was preaching in Rupert from 1916 to 1921. Citizens of that community pitched in then to give him a helping hand. Because the land he wanted to build the ranch was hard to obtain, it was through an act of congress that 1,200 acres of federal land north of Rupert was set aside and sold to the Idaho Ranch for Youth.

The Rev. Mr. Crowe learned of the act of congress the day after it passed on July 11, 1925, while he was serving as a chaplain in the air force in Korea. When he was released from the service in 1925, the Idaho Ranch for Youth had already been incorporated under Idaho laws as a nonprofit organization by members of a church of directors which the Rev. Mr. Crowe had gathered from all over the state. The ranch by then had been working for the second year. The Rev. Mr. Crowe, who cleared the area, built a well and planted and raised crops. The Rev. Mr. Crowe began working full time on the project as soon as he was released from the air force. He lived in Rupert and traveled around the country doing publicity work to solicit funds for the ranch. Later the Rev. Mr. Crowe and his family moved to the ranch. Through the aid of donations, harvested crops from land he had cultivated on their own and money received from the donors who by then were getting land crops. The third week of last month, the Rev. Mr. Crowe, his wife and two children, and a family cared for while living in a partially completed building at the ranch.

"Since we have moved to the ranch we have made considerable progress in improving the place," the Rev. Crowe notes. They have almost completed their large house, they have improved fences and corrals for cattle, and are now working about 200 acres of land. Four more students have been added to the family which brings the number now to five boys and one girl, ranging in age from 12 to 16 years old. The students are at the ranch because they were unable to be cared for by society other than being sent to the state industrial school at St. Anthony, according to the Rev. Mr. Crowe. He has taken the boys and girls into the ranch because he doesn't feel their sins against society are so great that they need to go to the Idaho institution. The purpose of the ranch is to provide a home and school for youths who are maladjusted, delinquent and need a helping hand, he says. He strives to give them a program of educational living which will develop within the individual students a "sense of honesty, responsibility and service to fellow men." So far the ranch for Youth has been supported by contributions except for the money received by renting land and money from crops the ranch family has harvested. The Rev. Mr. Crowe says now the money received from crops is enough to support the ranch's operating costs and any donations from now on will be used entirely for building.

The building projects include 101 family ranch style houses for students, a chapel, three educational buildings and an administration building. Construction on the first of the 10 family houses will begin next week, the Rev. Mr. Crowe says. Cement blocks and bricks are on hand now at the ranch. The foundation, flooring and heating for the building will cost $10,000 and has already been paid by contributions from the Federated Women's clubs of Idaho. The six students now at the ranch are working every day to improve facilities already there. One boy, 15 years old, works daily driving a Caterpillar tractor-bulldozer, digging irrigation ditches, leveling land and doing other land work. Two boys, 12 and 13, have been helping a boy, 16, to finish the exterior covering on the house. Another boy, 16, helps the Rev. Mr. Crowe's 10-year-old son irrigate and tend the crops or corrals with a wheeled tractor. The 15-year-old girl at the ranch helps Mrs. Crowe and her 10-year-old daughter do the housework. Mrs. David Hewitt, whose husband died two months ago at the ranch of a heart attack while serving as a teacher parent for the students, is remodeling at the ranch with her two small children to help the Rev. and Mrs. Crowe with the students. Mrs. Hewitt helps Mrs. Crowe in the kitchen. The students are all pitching in and working eagerly," the Rev. Mr. Crowe explains. "All have a good

Completion of the family house at the Idaho Ranch for Youth is the main item of work for three students at the ranch. The boys, 12, 13 and 16, are putting 1 by 12-inch rough lumber siding on the house and plan to put 1 by 4-inch planks over the cracks in the building. The tent frame building at the right was constructed because of insufficient space for the students in the two-family house on the ranch grounds. (Staff photo-gram)

Total area of the Idaho Ranch for Youth is 2,500 acres of land, or four sections, which was reserved in a pamphlet area by a special act of congress. Although the ranch is presently growing crops on only about 200 acres of the land, several hundred more acres are leased to individuals. Eventually, the ranch plans to grow crops or grass stock on the entire area of the ranch. At present, it is anticipated some 200 youngsters will be living on the ranch and assisting in its operation. This year, only hay and seed crops are being grown by the ranch because of a shortage of farm machinery. Pickup truck in foreground is used by the superintendent, the Rev. James E. Crowe. ## Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Hobby collections were displayed recently at the mother-daughter luncheon at the Methodist church in RICHFIELD. One of the most interesting collections was that of Mrs. Gwendolyn Frelund who has a button collection which now numbers over 5,000, of which no two are alike. All of Mrs. Frelund's buttons are used in wall hangings or decorations. She is now working on portraits. One hundred buttons were in the first charm strip given to her by a granddaughter eight years ago in Aberdeen, Mont. With these, she began making her first design, an American flag for her Sunday school class of 4-12 club members to salute. A total of 640 buttons was used in the replica which measures 20 by 15 inches.

Mrs. Frelund's friends have aided her enthusiastically in finding unusual buttons, including her Sunday school class.

Many of their contributions were souvenirs which they called buttons. Not wishing to hurt their feelings, Mrs. Frelund used these buttons for a plaque of their own. Included are parts of a bracelet from Italy; six tooth ornaments and articles from Indian graves in Montana.

Members of the graduating classes of 1926, 1927 and 1938 of HANSEN high school held a reunion last week starting with a Saturday evening banquet held at the Orange hall.

The hall was decorated in the school colors of green and white. Bouquets of spring flowers and candles centered the table. Mrs. Rose Pennington, the former Janet Heston's mother, was the guest of honor. Master, JEROME; Mrs. L. G. Yost.

was met by an armed guard. The school was run by a strict discipline and students must be accounted for upon leaving the school for hours, she explained.

She expressed appreciation to the former students for having been included in their reunion plans, and considered it a highlight for this school's activities.

Another highlight of the evening was the visit of Ralph Nyberg, who was school superintendent of several years prior and during the period the students were graduated. He also served as teacher and visited to several classes. He is now a manager of a Splotch outfit in Caldwell.

Bernard Hopwood, present school superintendent, invited the group to visit the school superintendent's office of the building. Many changes and new additions proved of interest and surprise to many who had not visited the school since graduation.

A picnic was held Sunday at the Twin Falls picnic area, though somewhat hampered by intermittent rains.

Attending the reunion were Vergil and Olima (Andrews) Ball, Vernon and Mary Anna (Goodwin) Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Froehlich, Bill and Wilma (Scott) Whelan, Mr. and Mrs. Ira McClintock (the former Annabelle Satterwhite), Mr. and Mrs. Lee Poppewell (the former Rose (the former Margarete Hranec)), and Maurice Hayes, all of Twin Falls.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Drake, Genette; Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Fornwall) Black, Orangeville; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Poppewell (the former Genevieve Hollifield), BUTTE; Harold Chesak, Cedee; Mrs. Emma (Howells) Breddford, and Mr. and Mrs. John Brown (formerly Lou McVey), Twin Falls; Edna Lindgren, Kimberly; and Ralph Nyberg, Caldwell.

Other guests were Mr. Wayne E. Smith, Slater of Delia (Shobe) Terry, and Mrs. Laura Chast, Caldwell, mother of Howard and Harold Chast.

Letters and pictures were received from Mrs. Ed McMurtry, the former Edna the Truskey, Rapid City, S.D.; Mrs. Marjorie (Anderson) Dixon, Carmichael, Calif.; Mrs. Lucile (Havens) Pease, Indian Springs, Nev.

Mrs. Lola (Elsbeth) Gounies, Salmon teacher and senior class adviser for the class of 1937, also sent a letter.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By CAPT. ESTHER WILSON
Commander, Twin Falls Salvation Army

What is it that is appealing in new days? A new friendship, a new life? There is a certain freshness about first things new things. A new day, with the dew still on the grass, the quietness, the chirp of the birds. A new friendship with new interests and new avenues of thinking. A new start with fresh ambition and vision, and zeal. A new life—with everything ahead!

A new era—we date our years from the coming of Jesus to the world. With Jesus something new came. When we read His words in the New Testament we who is a postmaster at El Paso, Texas; Junior Wooten, Eden; Arthur Kopp, California; Mrs. Jeannine (Muss) Peterson, Long Beach, Calif.; Mrs. Louise (Bender) Beck, Kimberly; and the former Ella Mae Bingham, California.

Nearly all have returned to their homes but the Richard Drake family is visiting his sister, Mrs. Jack Redden, and family, Kimberly.

"Something New"

We discover that our Lord declared life came to make, and to be new life. He said in Matt. 8:16, "No man putteth a piece of new cloth into an old garment for that which is put in to fill it up taketh from the garment—either do men put new wine into old bottles; else the bottles break. Do people pour new wine into old wineskins?"

You cannot. He is telling us, except the new spirit of the Gospel to be cast into the old mode of judgment. This is the particular application of His words to that occasion; however, we may apply this teaching to our lives today.

How old is this year? Almost six months. How many of our New Year's resolutions have we kept? We are prone to smile even at the making of resolutions, yet it would be too had if no one resolved to do better. The fact still remains, alas, how soon these are broken.

Why then, this failure to keep our resolutions? It is due to the lack of a winsome heart and strong enough to hold the new wine. You cannot alter your habits if the central purpose of your life remains unchanged. Our lives today also may be changed. New life from the Christ of life may be ours.

So it was with Paul. He started life as a persecutor and ended as a servant of the Lord. What made this amazing change? Not resolutions. He met Christ. His life was changed by the Divine Son of God. He lived near Christ. He instinctively became like Him.

With unveiled face reflecting the character of Christ, he was changed from glory to glory.

Our lives today also may be changed. New life from the Christ of life may be ours.

Students Vie for Job of Running Bulldozer at Ranch; Future Plans Charted by Superintendent and Wife

Remember this bulldozer is one of the most sought jobs among students at the Idaho Ranch for Youth. This duffer is only 15 years old, but he prefers to run the tractor over any other job on the farm. The

Rev. James H. Crowe, ranch superintendent, says the boy does a good job with the tractor and has even repaired it at times. (Staff photo- engraving)

The Rev. and Mrs. James H. Crowe inspect plans for the Idaho Ranch for Youth. In the foreground is a model of a family house to be constructed at the ranch beginning next week. It will house from eight to 10 boys plus foster parents. The Rev. Mr. Crowe originated the idea for the ranch 17 years ago when he was in college. Mrs. Crowe does the cooking at the ranch and will teach school for students who cannot attend public schools because of some disciplinary problem. (Staff photo- engraving)

...and seem to be showing good improvement."

The ranch is cultivating only hay and seed crops because of the lack of machinery to harvest other crops this year, he explains. The farmer who is raising 500 acres of the ranch's land is raising potatoes and other row crops.

The land is irrigated from water pumped from two wells and from a pond which collects waste water from irrigated land north of the ranch.

The 700 acres now being farmed at the ranch are located in the center of the huge L-shaped farm. It is expected by the Rev. Mr. Crowe that within 10 years all of the 2,550 acres on the ranch will be used, irrigated and used for pasture.

The superintendent adds that the ranch does not irrigate with the same water used for growing crops. Besides crop land the ranch will have 250 head of beef production cattle and a dairy herd, according to present plans.

The ranch now has 700 head of beef cows, three horses, one lamb and one milk cow. It also has four bulls, two of them prize winners. All of the animals have been donated to the ranch.

Burro Is Center Of Suit at T. F.

Homer Quinn filed a civil action in Twin Falls probate court Friday seeking the return of his 3-year-old Jack burro or $250 in cash from Mr. and Mrs. Mc Christensen.

Quinn claims that on June 4, he was owner and entitled to possession of the burro he described as being grayish-black with a dark patch on one hip. At that time, he states, he demanded possession from the Christensens and they refused to deliver the burro to him. He claims the burro is worth $250. He also wants the Christensens to pay his attorney $75. His attorney is Earl E. Walker, Twin Falls.

Sheep Blamed for Highway Accident

SHOSHONE, June 7—A band of sheep caused a highway accident north of Shoshone Sunday when Jack E. Cioch, Halley, driving a 1958 Oldsmobile sedan, came over a hill crest and to avoid hitting the band of sheep ran into the borrow pit. About $1500 damage resulted to the overturned car.

Boat License Fees Used for Facilities on River

Extensive Waterways Improvement in County Is Made Possible by Boat Fees

Construction of a boat landing and parking lot on the Snake river shore opposite Niagara springs, northwest of Buhl, was completed last week as the first stage of an improvement program of county waterways for boating.

The Twin Falls county waterways advisory commission secretary, Elmer Anna, said. The landing is the first of several projects of improvement or construction planned for the waterways in the county using county boat license fees collected during 1937 and this year.

Similar work is being accomplished at the old boat landing at Twin Falls, where men and machinery worked this week to widen the parking lot to almost three times the original size and to gravel the approach to the river.

A total of $350 was spent on improvements of the boat landing opposite Niagara springs and commissioners are spending $330 on the landing at Twin Falls.

More improvement work is scheduled to begin soon at Shoshone falls for boating at a cost of not more than $100. Twin Falls City Manager Joseph Lattimore indicates the city will probably match those funds for more improvement.

The new boat dock opposite Niagara springs has been built at a site previously used as a landing, but which was unsatisfactory. Anna explains, improvement on the site consisted of grubbing and grading a parking lot. Some 250 yards of gravel was added to the parking lot and the approach to the river to permit automobiles to back boat trailers into the water to launch the craft.

Anna points out the location provides access to eight miles of water, including good fishing spots where Crystal springs and Niagara springs flow into the Snake river. An land downstream from the dock provides good duck hunting.

During warm months, the area will be good for swimming and water skiing, he adds.

The five-acre location is owned by the state fish and game commission as well as the land on the opposite shore between the two springs. All of the land will eventually be used for a recreation area, Anna believes.

The Niagara springs boat dock was voted first for improvement by the commissioners and representatives of local sports clubs at a meeting held earlier this year when improvements at Twin Falls and Shoshone falls were voted second and third in order of preference by the sportsmen.

If money is available after the Shoshone and Twin Falls project boat docking improvements will be made at Salmon and Roseworth reservoirs later this year when the water is lower, Anna says. And if any money remains then, Murrah lake will be improved.

The commission has only $1,700 to spend on improvement this year, Anna notes. This money will be stretched as far as possible, but will probably not be enough for all of the improvements it has in mind.

More money will be collected next year and the improvements are scheduled to follow.

The money is received by the county from boat owners as payment of a boat license fee. Under state legislation of 1937, boat owners must buy a license each year with a minimum of $2.50. The amount is figured

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAITS Pleasure Has Been Business Here for Fred Stone During Last Four Decades

"If I had it to do over again, I wouldn't change," says Fred Stone of his many years in the bowling and golfing business. Stone, who has lived in Twin Falls for 40 years, has made "pleasure his business" for while being an avid bowler and golfer himself, he has made his living at the two sports for more than 20 years.

Known to hundreds of youthful sports enthusiasts in the area for his interest in them, Stone is the proud owner of several shelves of trophies he has won in both sports despite a physical handicap incurred when he had polio at the age of 22.

Explaining that he has to bowl and golf in his own way "to favor his left side, which was left affected by polio," Stone recalls that his physician told him it was up to him whether he would overcome the handicap.

Employing entirely on his own what are now accepted physical therapy methods, young Stone determined to return to the bowling and golf he loved so well. The number of his trophies is adequate proof of how well he overcame his handicap.

Stone was born in Denton, Kansas, Nov. 3, 1890, and went to school in Whiting, Kansas. His folks moved to Kentucky when he had just started high school and he had to quit school to work on the farm.

When he was 21, his mother was killed in a tornado which destroyed his father's home. It was up to him to see the storm coming and vividly remembers a sign a neighboring house have all four walls fall apart from the force of the wind.

Although the family had a storm cellar only a few feet from the house, the force of the wind made it impossible for them to get out of the house. Young Stone and other members of the family were only shaken and bruised, but his mother died the following day.

Contrary to popular stories, Stone's voice, which is unusually high for a man, has no connection with the tornado experience. He was born that way. "About 99 per cent of the people calling the Stone residence say, 'Is your ma there?' when I answer," Stone laughs.

Stone worked in Topeka, Kansas, for an express company and served as a guard for a bridge the Union Pacific railroad was building across the Emborn river near Omaha, Neb., during the next seven years.

In 1918 the Stones came to Twin Falls where he first drove a truck for a transfer company.

"I've handled every brick in the Twin Falls postoffice," he related.

The pavement in Twin Falls then ran from the Idaho Department Building to Union Motor corner and from the junior high school down to the U. F. depot. Stone recalls being stuck on Main street many times.

One experience he'll never forget is being asked by White mortuary to use his large bay team to pull a hearse. But the mud was so thick, the hearse got stuck near the Pendergrass home on Kimberly road.

Another team was brought, and in the effort to dislodge the mire-hearse, the front wheels were pulled off. Pendergrass had to carry the casket the rest of the way to the Twin Falls cemetery.

That night it turned cold and the hearse remained frozen in the mud for several days, Stone recalls.

In 1920 he quit the transfer business and went to work at a sport shop which he took over in 1924 and ran for two years.

On Sept. 10, 1926, Stone opened a bowling alley located in the present Farmers Auto Insurance company building. The first women's bowling team in the state was organized by Stone with his wife as a member.

Bowling was not considered a respectable sport in those days, he pointed out, so he had Mrs. Stone bring a rocking chair down and sit and knit at the alley to create the feeling that it was a place where women could enter.

"We had a newspaper in the front of the building," he relates, "and women would come and rap to the window and point to the magazine they wanted."

Members of that first women's team, which bowled in a league with seven men's teams, were Lois Vanquize, Ruth Rogers, Mrs. Stone, Mrs. George Beuhler and Mrs. Kercher.

On the night the women's team bowled, the alley would be jammed with people even standing on the counter, and all rooting for the women, Mrs. Stone recalls.

About this time Stone also took up golfing, a sport he still loves. He operated the Canyon Crest golf club located where the Twin Falls Country club golf course which in 1939 was turned over to the city. He remained in charge of the course until approximately 1945.

Mrs. Stone worked with her husband, running the concession. Stone was in charge of the clubhouse and supervised the play.

Stone sold the bowling alley in 1940 but continues as an active participant in the sport. He once had a 229 game—one pin short of a perfect game.

"I never knew when I threw my last ball I was practically unconscious," Stone declares.

He also won the all-Idaho state title at the state bowling tournament at Pocatello, and this trophy, along with the first one he ever won in golf, for fifth place, are among his favorites. Stone has built special shelves to house his many trophies.

—Says he—keeps active in both sports not only because he enjoys them, but for his health.

"If I sat around for several days without any activity, I get so I can't hold the paper steady," he declares.

While this advice may not make bowling and golfing "widely and peculiarly happy," Stone is convinced that participation in sports is beneficial for one's health and happiness.

Before the days of golf pros and instruction, Stone helped boys to learn to play. The three Idaho boys were among his students and proudly recall.

One of Stone's special interests is 1941 in the recreation business. For many years he has been coaching bowling league, Twin Falls and also won the City Bowling and league completely filled with championship teams, he believes.

Stone also likes to fish and make frequent trips to Snake river during winter. He is a fishing enthusiast and doesn't like flies.

Disadvantage of making one's living on recreation is that while everyone else is playing, work both at the bowling alley and golf course is heaviest on weekends and holidays.

He is currently starting at the new Magic Bowl each week. In addition, he works at the construction of Jayces park.

Despite the disadvantage of working hours in the recreation business, Stone says he wouldn't trade his experiences nor the friends he has made during his more than 20 years of making his living at his favored sports.

Aerial Planting Spectacular, but Most Trout Still Planted by "Arm-Strong" Method

Aerial planting of fish is dramatic and appeals to the imagination, but it is a method suitable only for the waters of dry fry or fingerlings in fairly good-sized bodies of water in remote and inaccessible areas. Creel size fish are planted by the more prosaic "arm-strong" system in which the planter hauls his fish in a small tank boat. (Fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Plenty of energy is required equipment for a fish planter. Fred Edwards, Kimberly, southern Idaho conservation officer, casts a netful of creel-size fish into a stream. He will repeat the process at intervals for miles along the channel. Released in summer when food and habitat conditions are at their best for trout, even marginal streams can stock carry good populations of fish for some weeks, sometimes putting considerable growth on them before the pinch of winter cleans out the stream again. The inability of many streams to carry the fish over winter makes it necessary to stock them for the season only. If the fish were released in the fall for the following spring, most of them would die during the winter, and returns would be negligible. (Fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Some Fishermen Go to Fish, but Many Wait Until Trout "Planted" for Them

By BETH RHODEDAUGH (Fish and Game Department)

Some years ago a photographer for a national magazine was making a picture story on the home life of a famous writer, who was also an enthusiastic hunter and owned a fine dog. It was autumn, weather, and he and his dog set out for some hunting pictures. Suddenly the dog barked in a beautiful point. The writer murmured to the photographer and prepared to follow through. The photographer glanced around, noted a prettier background, and said, "Have him come over here and point. It will make a better picture." Many Idaho fishermen are as single-minded as the dog. They go where the fish are, and refuse to perform anywhere else. However, there are many other fishermen who fish a little like the photographer. They want to fish where the scenery is nice, or where good accommodations are available, or close to the highway, or near other entertainment of the party also can be happy. These people are fishing for more than fish, and they are the ones for whom today's fish hatchery programs must be maintained.

Until a few years ago the first type used to strew a little at the wood. The quality of the experience of camping on an untouched high mountain lake or stream and highly superior to a vacation in an improved campground of modern "cabin" on an all-terrain, fuel-oil, peak-loaded or irrigation apped water.

However, as development continues and more people head for the back country each summer, the indefinable "falls line" between the "wild" and "suburban" keeps shifting ominously farther back. In other words, more creel-sized fish in more places is the aim of the fish hatchery program today.

Some states today would have no appreciable amount of fishing at all, were it not for the once scorned "put and take" fishing provided by hatchery programs. Idaho is still fortunate in having a great deal of both kinds, but every year a few new areas have to be closed to keep them fishable all season.

Building a fish hatchery isn't always the answer to fishery problems. Sometimes it won't even help. But hatchery releases of creel-size

Some of the hatchery releases survive and grow to impressive sizes, too, as they have done at Crane Falls lake, Thom Creek reservoir, and other similar places. However, most are intended to augment the public stock of ordinary creel-size trout—the backbone of the amateur fisherman's summer delight.

Inspector Shows Stickyboard Trap

Hugh Hunt, inspector for the state department of agriculture, shows one of the 100-ounce stickyboard traps he has hung in cherry trees throughout the county to determine emergence of the cherry fruit fly. (Staff photo-courtesy)

All Cherry Tree Owners in County Are Asked to Spray, Stamp Out Fruit Flies

The department of agriculture, in a recommendation for use, Daigh said. Proportions are two pounds of 50 per cent quart wettable powder or one quart of the emulsifiable concentrate in 100 gallons of water. At a recent meeting of commercial cherry growers, insecticide dealers and they would stock the new chemical. Another suggested insecticide is methoxychlor, also to be used in quantities of two pounds wettable powder in 100 gallons of water.

While spraying just one tree may seem an unnecessary bother and expense to many city residents, Daigh points out that the only way the quarantine will be lifted for all areas in the county to be treated. One of the advantages of the new insecticide, perhaps, is that it is less toxic than those already in use. Daigh recommends use of wettable powder since it is more readily visible on the trees.

Entomology officials stress that it is important that nearby shrubs and trees also be sprayed or dusted when applying insecticides to the cherries.

Probably no one but an entomologist would ever be able to identify the pest, whose complete name is the western cherry fruit fly. It is slightly smaller than the common house fly, blackish-brown in color with yellow margins on the thorax and thin crossbands on the abdomen.

However, Inspector Hunt points out that in addition to the stickyboard traps used in the county, including trees in Twin Falls.

These traps will be checked periodically by state agricultural inspectors. Cherry tree owners are complying with the spray program. Daigh pointed out that in addition to treating the county of the pest, another important reason for everyone with cherry trees on his property to spray is to save state funds which must be used to carry out the inspection phase of the program.

Public response to the appeal for spraying was wonderful last year. Daigh noted, adding that approximately 700 persons within the Twin Falls city limits have approximately 1,000 trees, according to a survey made last year by county commissioners.

You must season my platitudes with a grain of doubt, my tolerance the tolerant allowances that youth must always make for age.

Heads-up, young man!

My first request to you is to be healthy. It is mostly within your will, in many cases sickness is a matter of choice. It is not physiologically foolish, and nature is being hard put to it to repair your care for your institution in living. If you can't say good and encouraging things to your mother, it is often a good thing to do and always a clever thing to do.

Religion Bull's Charmer

Religion has been along with the family as the teacher, a major of character. For 50,000 years a lost man lived a hunter before he took to the plow.

Probably man's native character as it is today was formed in that time when he had to be greedy because the food supply was precarious and irregular. He had to be greedy for food and mates; he had to be easily stimulated to reproductive ecstasy, because a high birth rate seemed desirable.

What are now, through excess, and major vices, were then virtues—qualities making for survival of the individual or the group. When agriculture, greed, and social organization became the chief tool of survival, these powerful impulses had to be restrained. They were restrained by a moral code transmitted through parental authority, family discipline, and religious instruction.

That moral code, though against the grain of the flesh, was accepted and very much through belief that the code came from an all-wise God who would reward every virtue and punish every vice. I am not sure that civilization could have come without such religious sanctions of the moral code.

Those of you who specialize in religion will find it hard to understand religion, unless you feel, as Newton and Voltaire did, that the harmony of the spheres reveals a cosmic mind; or unless you realize, as Pascal and Rousseau did, that man is in a position to understand so vast a universe that none of us is in a position to understand about it.

Pascal trembled at the thought of man's bewilderment in the presence of the whole and the complexity of each part. "These infinite spaces," he said, "frighten me! Let us be careful how we pit our pitiful realizations against the infinite scope, variety and sublimity of the world."

culture to require mandatory spraying of all trees.

Derald Taylor, Twin Falls, is secretary and other members of the executive committee include Dale Smith, Piler, and Lawrence Bird and Arnyo Green, both Twin Falls.

Leland Pitt, director of the bureau of plant industry, state department of agriculture, points out that since the growers association has agreed to do everything in its power to rid the county of the pest, officials are more concerned with the individual cherry trees throughout the county, particularly in the Twin Falls and Kimberly areas.

"If the control program is carried out as well this year and again next year, there is strong possibility that the cherry fruit fly will be eradicated," he stated.

Regardless of the spray or dust used, the first application should be made within the first five days after the cherry buds are beginning to emerge, and if any of the spray or dust applications are followed by heavy rains, they should be repeated. Thorough coverage of all parts of the trees is absolutely necessary and other trees and shrubs nearby and along fence rows should be treated at the same time.

Final point all growers are asked to remember is the necessity of a post-harvest spray. Reason that unripened fruit or cherries fallen to the ground are a primary source of infestation because they allow the maggot to complete their development and escape to the ground.

So after the cherries are picked whether in the commercial orchard or in your own backyard, the owners are asked to apply a final application of permethrin or methoxychlor to help eradicate the pest.

Speaker Told For Grassman Tour June 12

RICHFIELD, June 7.—James H. Young, Idaho secretary of state, will represent Gov. Robert E. Boyle at a tour of the Most Johnson ranch Thursday, Robert Ball, chairman of the state game committee, announced yesterday.

Johnson is the Idaho and regional grassman of 1937, having won the title last year.

The public tour of the cattle ranch that won northern distinction for Johnson will begin at 9:30 a. m. Thursday at the home place near Richfield, and will continue to the Butte ranch four miles north.

The visit will end at the Richfield school where lunch will be served, featuring beef grown on the Johnson farm.

Short talks will be given by Young, Waldo Prudden, range conservation specialist of the soil conservation service, Ball Lake City; Johnson and Ball.

Other firms submitting bids were Caron Spinning company, Draper and company, C. J. Fawcett and company, and the Fred Whitaker company. Consignment offers were made by the Idaho Wool Marketing association, Pacific Wool Growers and the Portland Hide and Wool company.

Members of the sheep committee of the marketing association are Ed Sherr and Kelvin Jackson, both Shoshone; Donald Riley, Richfield; Joe Jauregui, Dietrich; and Rupert Ornela, Jerome.

The pool consisted of approximately 70,000 pounds of wool from 52 flocks.

Wool Shipped Out By Market Group

Wool from the Lincoln County Marketing association was shipped Friday to Salt Lake City where it has been purchased by R. C. Elliott and company for 40.78 cents per pound.

Other firms submitting bids were Caron Spinning company, Draper and company, C. J. Fawcett and company, and the Fred Whitaker company. Consignment offers were made by the Idaho Wool Marketing association, Pacific Wool Growers and the Portland Hide and Wool company.

Members of the sheep committee of the marketing association are Ed Sherr and Kelvin Jackson, both Shoshone; Donald Riley, Richfield; Joe Jauregui, Dietrich; and Rupert Ornela, Jerome.

Experiment Slated in Using Ladybugs For Aphid Control in Valley's Fields

A proposed experiment by the Security Seed company in Twin Falls will use ladybugs, properly termed lady bird beetles, to control aphid to clover, alfalfa and other legume seed crops on farms in Magic Valley.

George K. Wilkening and Jerry C. Cover, jr., plan to buy ladybugs by the gallon from producers in California and sell the bugs to farmers with the plan of releasing the insects in the legume seed fields.

Wilkening explains that experiments in California have proved ladybugs will consume aphid to such a degree under controlled situations that using the bugs is profitable.

"We don't know for sure if the bugs will work as well here as they do in California, mainly because of the difference in climate, but we are going to give it a try," Wilkening notes.

Aphids which Wilkening proposes to control by ladybugs are found on legume plants in abundance and cause honeydew, a gummy substance on the seeds which make the seed hard to thresh and difficult to process at the seed house, necessitating washing the seeds.

Ladybugs will consume between 40 and 50 aphid a day, Wilkening explains. The ladybug larvae are at even greater menace to aphid. Each ladybug lays five to 25 eggs per day which hatch in approximately ten weeks as larvae and each larva consumes 100 to 200 aphid a day.

Wilkening and Cover propose using ladybugs swifter than chemicals because ladybugs kill only aphid, whereas chemicals are apt to destroy both good and bad insect life.

Some control of aphid is necessary, the men point out. One pair of aphid could increase in a year to approximately 750 million tons of the plant life.

However ladybugs can control aphid and keep their numbers down to practically nothing if given a chance.

The method of controlling ladybugs on the plants so they will not fly away, as explained by Wilkening, is to place the ladybugs in the fields either early in the morning or late in the evening when the temperature is low.

By the time the temperature is high enough for the ladybug to want to fly, they are so interested in eating aphid they ignore flies and continue to eat.

"Ladybugs won't fly unless the weather is warm," Wilkening notes.

Ladybugs can be kept in cold storage, preferably at a temperature of from 40 to 45 degrees for long periods of time. If they are supplied up and if they are given a chance to warm up about once a week.

Because of their storage abilities, the bugs can be used by farmers until the aphid situation in their fields requires some control. Then the ladybugs can be turned loose, with plenty of food to keep them from flying away.

Ladybugs have been and are being used to combat other insects harmful to plants—such as the Colorado potato beetle. Ladybugs consume the eggs of the beetles and help control them.

One type of ladybug chews up bean plants, but none of that type will be used, Wilkening notes.

The seed company plans to begin selling ladybugs about July 1, selling them by the gallon, which amounts to approximately 125,000 bugs. Wilkening believes one gallon of ladybugs will control aphid on three or four acres.
