The housing authority board of commissioners. They are responsible for the operation of the housing units under jurisdiction of the federal housing administration.
This housing authority board decided not to pay the sanitation fee until the city council has been paid.
He pointed out that the contract which the authority has with the city stipulates that the city shall make any change to the contract. The authority does not make to other city residents, and since there was no contract collection fees for the time of the contract, the federal inspector advised the local board payment for the collection fees was not valid.
City Attorney Langley stated that similar cases have arisen in other cities where the city has not paid the sanitation fee.
In Arkansas, the ruling was that the opposite. Courts there decided that the city was not responsible for the collection fees for the time of the contract, and a recent court ruling was that the city could not collect the fees.

104 Accidents Caused Death Of 135 People

BOISE, June 29 (AP)—The 135 people who have been killed in traffic accidents in Idaho this year died in 104 accidents, a state police report showed yesterday.

What's more, said Capt. A. E. Perkins, 28 of the fatal accidents were single car smashups, involving only one vehicle.

In some instances it is impossible to determine what caused these "accident accidents," Perkins said. "Investigation indicates speed might be responsible in some cases and in others it appears that human error is to blame."

One single-car accident killed the person in a hospital, Perkins said, and another smashup, involving only one car, took the lives of four people. There were four deaths in two other single car accidents which claimed the lives of three people each.

A state police report showed 301 traffic deaths were caused during the past year, with 40 resulting from a use of radar speed detection equipment.

The department of law enforcement reported deaths of 50 Idaho motorists were suspended during the week in charges of reckless driving or for failure to comply with safety responsibility law provisions.

Key to Current Mideast Problem Said Early-Day Camel Driver—Mohammed

By United Press International

From the long view of history, the key man in the Middle East crisis is not Gamal Abdel Nasser, but a camel-driver named Mohammed who was born in the Arabian city of Mecca about the year 570 A.D.

Mohammed founded the religion of Islam. This religion today is the most dynamic uniting element in the explosive mixture known as Arab nationalism.

Adherents of Islam prefer to be called Moslems. They intensely dislike the term "Mohammedans," which many westerners apply to them. They feel it implies that they are ship Mohammed instead of God. Nothing could be further from the truth. Mohammed never claimed to be, and has never been regarded by Moslems as, anything more than a human prophet.

Virtually all Arabs are Moslems, but not all Moslems are Arabs. Islam ranks third in size among the world's religions (after Christianity and Buddhism) with an estimated 250,000,000 followers.

Outside of the Arab states, the main centers of Moslem strength are Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and India.

The Islamic religion united the Arab world more than a thousand years ago for its first "golden era." This was the era that saw Moslem caliphs spread their faith at sword point across the entire sweep of North Africa and into Spain. Umar, the second of the four "rightly guided" Caliphs, defeated the Persians at the battle of Qadisiyah in 637, and he was the first to conquer Jerusalem. The modern Arab nation-state has inevitably recalled this chapter of history as he listens to Cairo radio, appealing for pan-Arab unity and "strengthening the deep association between his religion and his yearning for a place in the sun."

There are sectarian divisions in Islam, but they have never been a factor as important as they are in Christianity. The principal division is between the orthodox "Sunni" who comprise the vast majority of the Moslems, and the "Shi'a" who differ from the rest primarily in their insistence that spiritual rulership must be vested in a descendant of Mohammed.

The best-known group of "Shi'a" are the followers of the Aga Khan.

"King Faisal, who was murdered in Iraq's revolt, was a 'Sunni,' so was King Hussein, who is threatened by nationalist uprisings in Jordan. And so is Nasser, Islamic scholar, who is threatened by nationalist uprisings in Jordan. And so is Nasser, Islamic scholar, who is threatened by nationalist uprisings in Jordan.

Islam's beliefs have many striking parallels with Judaism and Christianity. These are not accidental.

Mohammed was familiar with both Judaism and Christianity, and he drew from a two-week trip to Yon Yon regarded Islam as a "fulfillment" of the older religions. He taught that Jesus was an authentic prophet, but that his life was cut short before he could complete all Allah's bidding. The Koran spells out a "Moslem" religion and moral obligations in explicit detail.

The religious duties prescribed by Mohammed's faith were written down in a book called the Koran. Moslems regard this book the same reverence and authority that Christians accord the Bible. They believe it is the word of God, revealed to him by the angel Gabriel.

The Koran depicts God as a compassionate ruler "whose law for man is more tender than the wing of the mother-bird for her young."

Governor Faubus Stays With Firm Anti-Integration Ideals

When Orval E. Pabus was asked to give the first of the 100 addresses, one of his campaign aides said that Pabus was the only candidate there would be no integration in the state's schools where he was a resident. "I was in a school district oppose such action," he said.

Today, as he sought endorsement from the voters, Pabus said the same. In fact, he said, he was the only candidate to oppose integration.

Pabus and the two men he faced in the Democratic primary, except for the fact that he was a Republican, were more moderate. And on the issue of integration, he was the only one in the record of his party to oppose it.

He said he would not support any kind of troops to enforce integration. He said he was a native Arizonan and that he was a native Arizonan.

Jim Carter fondly calls his family of six his "team." They are one for all and all for one, in all things. In this very wonderful and sensible devotion to teamwork, Jim naturally chose the life insurance offered by the Idaho Mutual Benefit Association. Idaho Mutual was FIRST with family protection, the kind that makes it possible for ALL the family to be protected. The policy offers SIX BENEFITS, including death benefit, double benefits for total permanent disability, waiver of premium, and power-of-attorney benefits. The Carter family has $12,000 of this wonderful SIX-WAY protection which it put in force for only $42.04. Idaho Mutual can "team up" YOUR family in mutual benefit life insurance at low cost. 'Q' Fever Waning in Gem State After Long Siege in Magic Valley Regions

BOISE, July 29 (UPI) — A baffling, persistent disease called "Q" fever, which took on epidemic proportions early this month, apparently is diminishing in Idaho. But in the short space of four and one-half months, 57 persons, most of them in Twin Falls, Minidoka and Cassia counties, were infected with the disease, but rarely fatal. Authorities are not sure what caused the sudden drop, but they suspect hot weather may be a factor. In any event, the disease incidence was higher than in any previous year. The unique thing about Q fever is that it is a zoonotic disease, meaning it is transmitted from animals to humans. It is caused by a micro-organism called Coxiella burnetii. The disease is most commonly found in sheep and goats, but it can also be found in cattle, horses, and pigs. # Faubus Faces Vote in Third Term for Job

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 29 (AP)—Arkansas voters decide today whether to grant an almost unprecedented third term to controversial Governor Orval Faubus.

The electorate man who brought the troops to Central Borneo in 1958 to attempt to prevent integration and became an international symbol was expected easily to top his two opponents for the Democratic nomination. But both opponents hope they could force him a runoff. The 48-year-old Faubus ended his campaign last night with the slogan of "Dixie."

The only person Faubus mentioned by name in his speech was Harry Ashmore, a Little Rock editor and a Democrat who won a Pulitzer prize for his editorials on the Little Rock integration crisis. Ashmore has bitterly criticized Faubus.

Faubus held a copy of Ashmore's book "Epiphany for Dixie" and said an epiphany is "something that comes to a person's mind."

Ashmore said in a front page editorial today that the issue is not whether voters support Faubus, but whether "we will commit ourselves to outright defiance of the federal government."

The right of way of segregation was not an issue, but rather how the federal government would carry the federal courts, an action that brought federal troops to the Little Rock Central high school.

Faubus maintained he was "right" in his national campaign. He said the federal courts, an action that brought federal troops to the Little Rock Central high school.

Candidate Chas. Finkbeiner, 37, well-to-do Little Rock packer, also opposes use of troops and said he would not support Faubus. He said he would not support Faubus.

Another important issue involving the racial question was the action of the Little Rock school board. Rep. Brooke Hayes against Ashmore, attorney for the segregationists. Hayes said that the school board has labeled integration "part of a communist plot" and has attacked Hayes' role as a peace-maker and intermediary with the White House in last year's school crisis.

Coastal Areas Due for More Storm Fronts

By United Press International

More thunderstorms were predicted for central California today following an outbreak of violent electrical storms that killed five persons and injured two others.

The victims were killed yesterday when a lightning bolt struck the house where they were picking peaches. The storm touched off at least a dozen fires in the Sierra Nevada foothills as it rolled up the San Joaquin valley.

The Frank July thunderstorm activity was blamed on a tropical low off the California coast, which moved northward along the coast to the Rockies.

Thunderstorms also hit the East, with the heaviest rain falling in the night occurring in the Southeast.

A light but steady drizzle accompanied the rain in the Southeast. Yesterday, it was the third time in the last 48 hours that rain fell in the Southeast.

Lighter rains fell in the Southwest during the night with amounts of about one-fourth inch in Phoenix, N. M., and Midland, Tex., and more than one-half inch in El Paso, Tex.

Scattered afternoon thunderstorms were predicted today from the southern tip into the Southwest, and along the Atlantic coast from Florida through the Carolinas.

Partly cloudy days were expected over the northern section of the United States, with scattered showers along the northern border and possibly in the Great Lakes.

Extension Denied On Shepherders

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Sen. Frank Church, D. Idaho, said yesterday that he would not support an extension of the federal law that permits sheepherders to graze on public lands.

Church said he would not support an extension of the law, which has been in effect since 1934. He said the law was "outdated" and "should be replaced by a more modern law."

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Baby sitting by young girls is a common practice these days especially now in vacation time. Girls as young as 12 or 13, sit with babies in the evening when the father and mother of the children leave the house. Girls of secondary school age are often engaged for this work and they are very likely to be alone in the house until midnight, or later.

It is good for the girls to feel responsible for the care of the little ones left in their charge. What is not so good is the fact that they are alone in the house and that some of them invite their boy friends to come to stay with them. This is a time when trouble can begin. Such a time between these young and inexperienced teen-age children is likely to end in grief for both of them. (When if only one in a great number comes to grief by this practice that one is too many.)

I know that this statement is bound to bring me indignant letters from girls who feel responsible for themselves, and who are so. What I am troubled about is the danger to which the inexperienced child, exposed to feelings she has scant control over, runs when she, alone in the house, invites the company of a boy.

The boy, too, needs protection from such a situation. He does not know by experience the only way he will ever really know—and that must be denied him for the time being, what he is doing when he enters into intimacy with a girl. He should not accept any such invitation, nor should the girl offer it. Children are children and they cannot be watched all the time. Telling them is not enough. What then?

I would not allow a girl under the age of 16 to baby sit at night. Even then I would take a good look at her and have her responsible. The law she must respect.

Of course, there are girls for whom this statement is not necessary but it will do no harm. The great group of girls go safely through their adolescence but one per cent get into trouble. Some of these could be kept safe by thoughtful and affectionate care.

It is the duty of every parent to teach his child the truth about sex. Dr. Patrick's "Sex Education" includes a list of booklets and pamphlets to help parents explain to their child a correct and sane attitude toward sex. Write to Dr. Patrick, 1000 Broadway, New York 10, N. Y.

which would restrict them to farm work only.

Mrs. Helen Henderson, juvenile officer, told of the mother's side of the picture. In visiting different women in the state she has found that most of them have a dread of the 14th birthday anniversary for their children. "We protect them," she says we can, then we turn them loose with a big grin and say, "and hope away," "we wait on."

Mrs. Henderson said "School is no place for a car. It is a means of cutting classes; a means of having a cigarette and, in some cases, necking parties are carried on during school hours in the car provided by you parents." She emphasized that when one child is given a car, others use that as an excuse for being able to drive one. If "we'd all say no, we'd all be happier." She is of the opinion that owning and driving an automobile by juveniles tends to theft of gasoline and hubcaps.

Roy Thomas, state patrolman, noted that none of the neighboring states the driver's permits until the age of 16. He commended the Burley high school for its driver training school and said that in cities where these schools are held, fatalities are substantially lower. He urged parents to check on their driving habits and road manners as in many cases they were worse than their children.

Sheriff LePage Layton, concluding speaker, favored the age of 15 years, with restrictions, for drivers.

A short question and answer period followed. Senator Barlow answered a question concerning extra state patrolmen. He said 15 new patrolmen, costing $400,000, had been added, but fatalities were still increasing, proving that more people are "sleeping at the wheel." He opined these patrolmen are underpaid but are doing a fine job.

Austin Wallace, first vice president, who was in charge in the abseence of Jess Parsons, president, admonished those present to take these ideas back to their service clubs and to the PTA meetings and try to work out something concrete that can be presented to the next legislature.

Harold Holmes spoke briefly concerning highway construction. He said that milling will begin Thursday of this week, highway 30 will be closed for two or three days and asked the cooperation of local Don Chisholm gave a report on the grassman tour last week and said brochures are to be finished as soon as possible.

Mrs. Fred Anderson, secretary-manager, reported on the progress of the harvest street festival. Three stockmen have each donated a beef and services of a professional barbecue cook have been secured. It is hoped streets will be completed for the event between Sept. 15 and 20.

Price of Food Due for Drop, Agency Notes

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UPI)—The agriculture department today forecast lower food prices during the coming months.

Details of food prices for the remainder of the year are likely to average below the record high prices of the January-June period, the department said in its publication "The National Food Situation."

However, prices for the last half of 1958 still will be "slightly above" those in the last half of 1957.

Demand Is High

"Supplies of some foods—particularly meats and fresh fruits and vegetables—will be somewhat larger than in the first half of 1958," the department said. It added consumer demand for food is expected to continue high this summer and fall.

Meat supplies now are on a seasonal upswing, the department said. Compared with a year earlier consumers are expected to have more pork and top grades of beef per person but less veal and lower grades of beef.

More Chicken, Less Turkey

More chicken and about as many eggs are in prospect but less turkey. For poultry supplies of turkey are expected this summer and fall are expected to be about at the year-earlier level.

Supplies of food from crops will be as large this summer and fall as in the first half of 1958. Food production, according to July 1 indications, will be a very high level. A large part of the increase over last year will be in crops such as wheat for winter consumption. Rates have been declining rapidly. Among items expected to be in heavier supply than in the last half of 1957 are edible oils, potatoes, melons and fresh deciduous fruits.

Romulo Notes Need for End Of 'Cold War'

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UPI)—President Ambassador Carlos Romulo said last night that "if we do not end the cold war, the cold war will sooner or later finish."

He also appealed to Americans not to scrap the United Nations in despair should it fail to solve the Middle East crisis.

Romulo, addressing the ninth international conference on Home Economics being held at the University of Maryland here, called the U. N. the only "bridge to lasting peace and international security."

With the United Nations, he asserted, the world might be plunged "into a welter of confusion which could lead to a third world war."

Romulo said "the road to peace is a long and difficult one, but it is a road that must be followed, and it is a road that must be followed by all nations."

"It's the Water" that makes the difference in brewing

Under "Beer and Brewing," the Encyclopaedia explains that for centuries in the past certain localities in Europe, such as Burton-on-Trent, Munich, Pilsen, Dortmund and others, have enjoyed the reputation for producing beer of such distinctive character that it could not be duplicated elsewhere. The unusual composition of their brewing water was found to be the secret.

The naturally perfect water from Olympia's own artesian wells has the same rare character so essential to perfection in the art of brewing... so necessary for a beer of unchanging quality and flavor.

Visitors are always welcome to "One of America's Exceptional Breweries," Olympia Brewing Company, Olympia, Washington, U.S.A., 6:00 to 4:00 every day, 10¢ to 15¢.
