Budge-as-Treasury Watchdog, Merely Squeaks, Man Asserts

Editor, Times-News: I was interested in a news item that appeared Aug. 18 under the headline "Budge Terms Demo Practice as 'Rampant'."

Without entering into any discussion of general semantics with regard to the use of the word "rampant" in the paper or what I might point out to you from Idaho, I might point out that a rampart is a fortified wall or a line of defense. It is an argument used to cause the future use of it to be better for the future use. It probably is the future use that is irritating Mr. Budge.

School kids often run to their teachers and complain about the big boys in the same "rampant" that Mr. Budge has complained to the Times-News. If I were an artist I would draw a picture of the situation which would tell the story better than a letter.

Mr. Brennan, the heat, and a lot of other things seem to be frustrating Mr. Budge. He should know better now that it is an old and evil custom for American legislative bodies to wind up in a rash of 45 second speeches and dead and dying bills.

He also should have known that the Kennedy-Ives labor bill was "winding up" for approval and having some of his very expensive aids work studying it. It should have informed the people that it was a "good-for-nothing" bill that, but one senator had voted for, from where I sit. It seems to me that any labor bill that would be passing to our congressman would hang labor on a sour apple tree of delight. His efforts are to delight the Chairman of Congress, the House Statesman, and a conservative Idaho Farm Journal and to put labor back in the lap of John D. Rockefeller. That would be "good-for-everything."

Budge is very little good. As a wrack on the apron of the government, by the government he merely squeaks until the conservative press of Idaho hears him.

Certainly we need watchdogs of the treasury. But, should-a-saw-bye before 45 second period of congress and to something besides a pet paper by telephone.

To give a contrast: I was in Indiana when Borah and Beveridge raised his name and roared against some wrong in the government the way they did in Idaho.

Hamer's voice just barely squeaks through the door. If he didn't use a direct wire from Washington we wouldn't know whether he was alerted over the head by an upper-classman or just his mables.

P.S. I certainly like your new idea of this newspaper. It is a good one. I am sure you are at least nearly right on your communicable and personal stand on

Local Man Wants Shuffleboard for Recreation Here

Editor, Times-News: Over 35 years ago the Twin Falls city council decided to build a walking pool in the city park for the use and enjoyment of the small children. Its use in the summer months has fully justified the cost.

This project may have been the beginning of the wonderful programs that have been developed for the young people.

Many of the older youngsters hope this is not the end of the program of the playing pool.

While we are beyond the age of "bobbing, weaving, tumbling" and other sports, there is one thing we can enjoy and that is the game of shuffleboard.

A spot in the city park should be used for two or three shuffleboards. That, with a few benches, would provide a place for visits and recreation. It is a most interesting game and requires skill.

Knoll Grange Has Program During Meet

Mrs. Elmer Dosselt gave a humorous reading, "Sixteen Tons of Garden Soil," at the meeting of the Knoll Grange Friday at the Knoll Community Center.

Edith Knight, who gave a report for the home economics committee, said 10 dozen cookies were taken to the Horton Nursing home by Grange members. An appetizing report on bean prices was given by Tom Haffel.

Mrs. Bryan Plot reported on the community service and Elmer Dosselt read comparisons of past farming operations as compared with present-day farming.

With Mrs. Oscar Ford as narrator, the 4-11 girls gave a fashion show, using their own sewing projects. Mrs. Rosa Ward, judge of the garments, gave advice and comments.

Carolyn and Beverly Park presented a piano duet; Joyce Ford twirled a hula; Laura Lee Harper gave a piano solo; Joyce VanAlstede gave a reading; and Ileen Ford played the cornet. Group songs were sung by the girls who attended camp.

The next meeting will be election of officers and a winner and marshmallow root, at 8:30 p.m. Sept. 12. Children of Grange members are invited.

Dies Committee Aide Issued Red Warning 2 Decades Ago

Editor, Times-News: Twenty years ago today Dr. J. B. Matthews, a staff director of the Dies Committee of congress, gave his first testimony before the Dies Committee on the inroads of communism in this country.

Then, and in later testimony, he exposed the machinations of the communists as tools of the USSR and as a menace to the lives of the American people—even clergy, political figures, artists and others—in communist fronts. He introduced a list of more than 2,000 communists and front organizations in the government.

At the press, the public and our officials paid more attention to Dr.

Matthews at the time, the sell-out of China, the theft of the atom secrets, the casualties of the Korean war, and the slanders that threaten us as they testify before the Dies Committee and maybe even here at home, need not have been.

Today, 20 years later, without official position and in spite of ill health, Dr. Matthews carries on by exposing the cancerous growth of our body politic.

So well have the communists done their work that Dr. Matthews' exposures still go unnoted. But, like John Paul Jones, he says "I have not yet begun to fight."

Readers Helps Asked by State Body for Tourist Information

Editor, Times-News: The department of commerce and tourism has received thousands of requests for information concerning our state during the current season, and we have answered them all with material and information available.

It will be greatly appreciated if you will ask your readers to write to the department with information which would be helpful to us. Many visitors and potential visitors are interested in seeing Idaho and places not ordinarily listed as the major tourist attractions of an area, which will prove to be a scenic attraction and give the traveler an opportunity to visit an unworked spot. If any of your readers have such a favored place in mind, we would like to know about it.

The department also has an increasing number of inquiries concerning hot springs; and while we have a fairly large number of them, we know there are hundreds more located in various places throughout the state.

Increasing inquiries are received relative to local items of manufacture and hand crafts. Various communities produce articles characteristic of their respective areas, and we would like to know of these, i.e. pottery, leather and woodwork; jewelry.

We will appreciate any information received. Thank you.

Plight of Indian Much Worse Than Negro, Virginian Claims

Editor, Times-News: The NAACP's demands of immediate integration has sounds of common sense. Using force has never accomplished anything satisfactory. Force is the evil that made the Negro his present plight.

The South has helped and educated the Negro, he being a descendant of Africa, while the Indian, America's first citizen, is set aside. We send millions abroad for friends, but that won't last and is hardly appreciated and the Indian still suffers in poverty and neglect.

Northern agitators push integration with the Negro, saying he should be in the white schools. The Negro should be proud of his race as is the Indian who desires no integration with the white man, only to be able to retain their identity and the chance to live good useful lives on the reservations.

Negro children get their education, but there are some 8,000 Indian children without school facilities. There are many undernourished Indian babies who do not know the taste of fresh milk from the time they are weaned until school age. The average life of a Negro is 60, a reservation Indian is 37.

The Negro lives well in America, his only problem is that he wants to go to the white school, thinking he will then be the white man's equal, while the Indian has many problems. He is today the worst fed, poorest housed and clothed and the shortest-lived racial group in America. The Negro is being given offices and appointments. Is the Indian being

George Perry Claimed After Heart Seizure

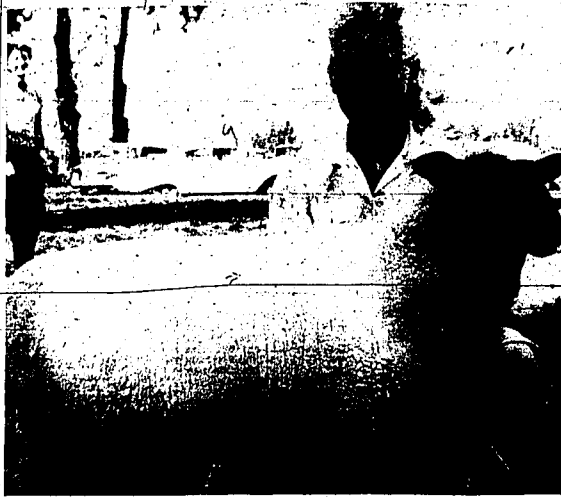

RUPERT, Aug. 23—George Stephen Perry, 70, veteran Rupert city employee, died at 2:30 a. m. Friday at Minidoka county hospital, following a heart attack.

Mr. Perry had held several positions with the city, recently being employed as custodian at the city's new civic building. He was born Feb. 13, 1888, at Mapleton, Utah. He was educated in Mapleton schools and attended the Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. He was a member of the LDS church, holding membership in the high priest. Case Is Filed for Life Estate Here

A civil action was filed Friday in Twin Falls district court by Floyd Hicks and Lora Hicks, heirs of Mrs. Lottie Matilda Papineau, against Perry E. Papineau who holds a life estate in property left by Mrs. Papineau.

The complaint says Papineau has misused and wasted real and personal property which by inheritance is slated to go to the Hicks brothers after Papineau's death. They seek $10,500 as irreparable damages for waste and ask the court to appoint a trustee to take possession of the property and impose the proceeds of the present crop. A reasonable sum is to be applied for payment of taxes, water assessments and upkeep of the property. The balance is to be paid Papineau for each subsequent year during his life.

The Hicks brothers are represented by William H. Stokes, Twin Falls attorney.

Dwarfed Girl, 11, Grows More Than 3 Inches With Treatment

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 23 (AP)—A dwarfed 11-year-old girl has grown more than three inches in six months under treatment with human pituitary growth hormone, a University of California scientist reported today.

The treatment, undertaken at the University of California, produced the largest pituitary hormone growth rates thus far reported.

Pituitary growth preparations also have been used successfully in Boston, New York, and Canadian research centers.

The case of the dwarfed girl was reported in a paper before a conference on clinical organization of hormones, Dr. J. L. who first isolated the animal and human growth hormones. Dr. J. L. is director of the university's hormone research laboratory.

Eight months ago the girl was hospitalized and put under the care of Dr. Roberto Escamilla, gland specialist, and Dr. John J. Hutchings and Dr. William C. Denner, pediatrician.

She was no more developed physically than a normal child of 6 1/2. Her trouble was diagnosed as dwarfism due to an infection at six months which damaged her pituitary gland.

Under large doses of the extremely precious hormone substance, the girl shot up from 47 1/2 inches to 47 1/2 inches. The normal height for her age is 58 inches, and the normal growth rate before adolescence is about two inches a year.

The hormone substance is extremely scarce because it comes from human pituitary glands at autopsy. With sufficient knowledge of the make-up and working of the hormone, scientists may be able to supply away some of its nonessential parts and come out with a relatively simple molecule which will be just as effective as the hormone substance produced by the pituitary gland, Dr. L. said.

4 Are Handed Judgments by Court in T. F.

Four men were sentenced to the state penitentiary Friday by District Judge H. A. Baker with two of them receiving commuted sentences to the county jail.

Donnie Bannister, charged with larceny of a $50 forged check to the Frontier Service station, Twin Falls, which was purposely altered by Lewis Reitz, was sentenced to serve not more than 14 years in the penitentiary.

Manford Frank Helm, charged with larceny of a check without funds in the bank previously sentenced to not more than five years but placed on probation was charged Friday with violating the probation terms. He had been placed on probation on Oct. 29, 1957.

Among the men whose release were provisions that be continue a course of instruction at Idaho State college and refrain from any school activities. A probation report showed that since his probation, he has on numerous occasions consumed beer, frequented clubs and taverns and has not regularly attended church. The court revoked the probation.

George McKernan, who pleaded guilty to a check forgery, was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary and to 30 days in the county jail.

Another man, charged with giving a forged check to Jasper Gas and Oil company, Piler, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

Another man, charged with a bench warrant and benching by violating his probation, received an extension of his probationary period.

Previously placed on probation for two years after pleading guilty last fall to first degree burglary, Kindred was reported to have violated the terms of probation by staying out after midnight. Judge Baker extended the probation period to three years.

The court also ordered Kindred to be at home by 11 p.m. each night so to conduct himself in a gentlemanly manner, which the judge said does not include throwing rocks at tourists at Shoshone falls.

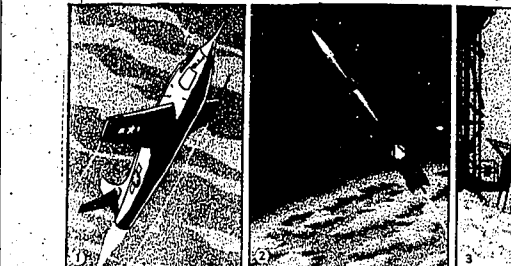

Kindred and two other boys had thrown rocks at camping tourists. Other occasions when Kindred reportedly violated his probation were on April 7, by operating a motorcycle in a loud and reckless manner at Kimberly after midnight, and on May 7, when he frequented the Snake River canyon after midnight without a valid cause.

Dewey Austam, charged with forgery of a check given Courtney Mackin, will enter a plea on Monday at 10 a.m. The court appointed W. J. Langley to represent the man.

Edward M. Fahrnehols appeared Friday before Judge Baker to answer a charge of presentation of a fraudulent account in an effort to obtain benefits from the employment security agency. The attorney claims that last December Fahrnehols claimed he did not earn any money when in reality he worked for Globe Food and Seed company and was paid $7200.

He will enter a plea on Monday.

UPWARD TO THE STARS (6)—Historic 'Beep'

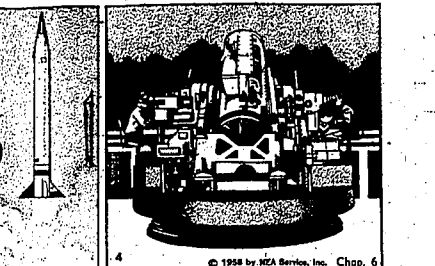

In 1945, when the allies overran the German rocket base at Peenemunde, they were amazed at the progress achieved. Fortunately for the world, Germany had far behind in developing atomic bombs. She had much equipment and many of the German scientists.

For the space age, the period from 1945 on was one of intense research in many fields. One striking achievement was the first contact with another heavenly body—Mars was bounced off the Moon in 1946.

(1) In 1947 the first of a series of rocket planes, the Hell X-1, broke the sound barrier. Later, the X-2 and Douglas Skyrocket pushed the speed and altitude records higher, probing the limits of the atmosphere.

(2) In 1948 a WAC-Corporal rocket, attached to the nose of a captured V-2, attained a speed of 5,100 miles an hour and rose 252 miles. The first man-made object had briefly touched outer space.

By Don Oakley and Ralph Lane

(3) The American-designed rocket was the Glenn L. Martin company's WAC research vehicle, Viking. It was a direct forerunner of the complex and sophisticated Vanguard, Viking No. 11 set an altitude record for single stage rockets in 1954-1958 miles.

(4) The ordinary man in the street remained unconcerned with the bewildering number of different types of rockets and speculations about interplanetary flight. Then a strange new object in outer space, picked up by tracking instruments like that shown above, brought a sudden awareness of the rapid approach of space travel. On October 4, 1957, the first Sputnik was launched. A dry "beep-beep" with a Russian accent pronounced the day when man himself would venture into the limitless space surrounding his Earth. Next! Thrust.

U. S. Military Frowns Over Ban on Tests

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—A poll of the military and nuclear establishment shows a strong and happy acceptance of the administration's decision to declare a 12-month holiday on nuclear weapons tests if the Soviet Union goes along.

Officially, the armed forces were saying nothing. But a sounding out of feelings at the Pentagon showed a lack of enthusiasm for the idea coupled with a conviction that the U. S. nuclear stockpile is so full of variety of nuclear weapons that a test suspension limited to one year would have little long-range effect.

As president Eisenhower made the proposal to Moscow Friday, there would be nothing to prevent this country from going ahead during a year of negotiations on a far-reaching test ban.

The joint chiefs of staff are producing and stockpiling existing models of atomic weapons. High officials have said this is the intention.

Research would go ahead in military fields, too. Nothing in Eisenhower's proposal would in any way bar the military from developing new missiles and other vehicles for carrying nuclear warheads. It would prevent only the testing of the warheads themselves.

The joint chiefs of staff are confident to have been consulted about the test suspension proposal and to have indicated they could live with the decision under the safeguards and limitations spelled out by Eisenhower.

Two Bouncy Millionaires Will Battle to Be New York's Chief

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP)—A couple of bouncy millionaires, springing from the ranks of the New York Republican Nelson Rockefeller, will battle it out in the fall for the governorship of New York.

The sons of the Rockefeller oil empire and the Harriman railroad interests will be nominated officially by their parties' state conventions, opening Monday and running through Tuesday.

The Democrats set meeting in Buffalo and the Republicans in Rochester.

Harriman, now governor, had no competition in seeking nomination for a second four-year term. Rockefeller had to beat out some formidable rivals, including Leonard W. Bruce, a former New York governor.

Both men are immensely wealthy, but neither will say how much money he has.

Harriman's assets have been estimated at anywhere from 40 million to 100 million dollars. Rockefeller is said to be just as rich, if not richer.

Money is not the only thing they have in common, however.

Both have won reputations as human dynamos — energetic, tireless men who pour out their criticisms into whatever might be their latest interest.

Both have held high office in national administrations. Harriman, 68, was a key player in President Roosevelt's "fair deal" program. Rockefeller, 50, held important jobs under both Truman and President Eisenhower.

Four years ago, when Harriman became Sen. J. P. Morgan Jr. to become governor, he was the millionaire newcomer to political campaign. Rockefeller, who never has run for public office, steps into a similar role.

Harriman was also underdog then. Now, many observers regard him as the favorite—and Rockefeller the underdog.

If experience counts, Harriman has the edge. During his first term, he pushed a successful campaign technique into a political enough for tuberos begonias, are among a few of the things in the planning stage.

The only plants really missed by Mrs. Platt are a pink flowering dogwood and an English holly. These two she was afraid to move, but wants someday to start another dogwood.

An interest in plants is attributed by Mrs. Platt to her college major, biology. It would have been biology, but she thought biology was a broader subject for teaching.

It also started a chain of other interests. Growing plants led to flower arranging which led to giving demonstrations for a variety of groups and exhibiting.

Ceramics also came out of the arranging. It was her own idea to make a number of the plants and figurines. One summer while her husband was attending summer school in California, she attended classes there in flower arranging and ceramics.

Period arrangements led to delving into history to gain a knowledge of that era. The collecting of driftwood and amphibians also stemmed from this, and led into wood finishing.

She is a past president of the Twin Falls Garden club and the Bowl and Gloom club and presently a member of the Leaf and Petal club, a Magic Valley flower arranging group.

Mrs. Platt feels it takes living with, and planning to landscape a yard, with sun, shade and wind factors to consider. Their next objectives are trees for a wind break, and possibly a fence, not too high or too tight, perhaps with a few Florida roses.

Local points in the garden haven't been fully decided upon, a bench, around a cut-laid weeping birch is tentatively planned, trees to be replaced, lists temporarily placed for boundaries, a shield for the others, a cistern was added to a flowering Clematis and pink holly, the choice of a tree for the front, shade

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

I am all for making and keeping children happy. Happy children are good children. They learn faster, grow in better health and in richer quality of mind and are easier to teach and to live with.

But life, even for children, is not one long smooth stream of happiness. Life has its rough patches, little ripples of annoyance, depths of grief—and children do not escape living. They have to learn to deal with disappointment, pain, failure, grief and rise above them to grasp and hold on to happiness.

Parents in their desire to shield their children from life's rough ways try to smother and to hide the hard facts of daily living and make the children happy. Nobody can make or give happiness. That is a matter of the spirit and it will be evoked by the spirit and will of each one of us, children included.

Things, in themselves, cannot make children happy, the parents who create themselves to give their children presents, expensive things they cannot well afford, are making a mistake. They are not conferring happiness on their children. The delight in getting an expensive toy, car, or so on, the gift of the moment, fades fast to be replaced by discontent. Wants that are supplied without personal effort, rarely mean anything to the recipient beyond the momentary pleasure and satisfaction of getting what was wanted.

Children really want or need very little of material things to make them happy. They want to know they are loved and wanted in the home, on the playground, in the neighborhood. Give these essentials they are happy and contented. When they meet disappointment, hard luck or failure, they are soon comforted by those who love them. They can stand up to

Top Net Players In 3 States Enter Open Meet Here

Entries from the top tennis players in Utah, Idaho and Arizona continued to pour into Twin Falls Saturday as the local tennis club began rounding final plans into shape for the annual Idaho open tennis tournament. The tournament will begin at Harmon park courts Friday afternoon and will continue through Labor day, reports Bill Trimmel, Idaho tennis association president and tournament chairman.

Trimmel said the last year's tournament, expected to attract several thousand spectators, drew 3,400 tennis fans. These include Mrs. Barbara Chandler, Boise, who took women's singles honors, and teamed with Anita Solasoli to capture the championship in women's doubles. Men's singles winners were Wayne Pierce, Salt Lake City, and Bob Nozter and Ed Leonard, Idaho Falls, in the defending men's doubles titles.

The event will include 13 individual tournaments for juniors. Trimmel said trophies will be awarded winners and runners-up in each division.

At the same time, Trimmel issued a call to Twin Falls residents to provide housing for those competing in the junior events. He asked local residents to provide sleeping space and breakfast for the juniors, adding the participants will provide their own meals. Those willing to help out with rooming are asked to contact Lory Trimmel, housing chairman, at R-3216 W. Main.

Trimmel said the tournament youngsters are the backbone in our drive to revitalize interest in tennis by providing it for all ages. Twin Falls residents can encourage greater participation of the juniors by making the open meet a success.

Stanford Coed Gets Women's Amateur Title

DARREN, Conn., Aug. 23 (AP)—Anne Quast, an imperturbable Stanford university coed, won the 58th annual title of the women's amateur tennis championship Saturday with a late three-set surge which stunned Barbara Rokoff of Baltimore, Md., 3-1.

The 20-year-old Marylander, Washington, D.C., in the final match, struck with lightning swiftness in the afternoon after Miss Rokoff, seeking her second championship, had forged into a three-hole lead.

But, fighting from behind with no emotion showing beneath her dark spectacles, tied the match back to 20 sets ahead of it in the 30th when she rang in an uphill putt of 30 feet. Then clinched with a birdie three on the 31th.

Miss Rokoff, a scrappy little blonde with a marvelous touch around the greens, didn't know what struck her. "I was so nervous," she said, "I don't know what happened."

Weighty and shaken by Miss Quast's late rally, which seemed to come from nowhere, the 28-year-old Sacramento girl began mulling early putts after playing steadily during the early stages of the match.

Barbara missed simple three-foot putts on the 21st hole, for the 20th when she was in an uphill putt of 30 feet. Then clinched with a birdie three on the 31th.

This was all the opening. Miss Quast needed. She quickly proceeded to play the last seven holes in four under par—the most withering stretch of golf of the tournament.

A magnificent pitch and an eight-foot putt saved her on the par five 28th, leveling the match. She barely missed another putt of eight feet on the 29th when she sank a long putt from 30 feet on the next on to go ahead for the first time since the third hole of the morning round.

Michigan Man Wins Overall Shooting Title

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 23 (AP)—Ned Lilly of Stanton, Mich., came from far back with a blazing two-event finish Saturday to win the overall championship as the 69th Grand American Trapshoot closed.

The 42-year-old retail lumber dealer broke 88 of 100 to tie for the national double title Sunday and then won the Vandalia handicap, the final contest, with 99 of 100 out of 200. His 202 total has never been bettered in competition.

Lilly broke 97 of 1000 championship targets here this week, handicaps and 100 to yards, 200 to the latter, race two targets are simultaneous.

The all-around championship based on the North American clay target shot was shared by two over that year.

John Koehn has coached 34 Idaho State baseball for 12 seasons.

State Champs to Enter Regional Playoffs

Phillips-Weils, newly crowned Idaho state softball champions, have entered the regional tournament at Boise today and will open the meet there in the first game Friday afternoon.

"We feel we have a good chance of winning the tournament," Garrett said Saturday, noting the team has two of the top pitchers in Idaho. The two, Jim Tackett, and Clint Nelson, are the best pitchers in the state softball tournament on four shutouts and an error set in the only two runs scored against them.

Tackett, playing his first year locally after a long career in other parts of the country, got Phillips-Weils started with a 6-0 victory over the host team, Idaho Falls, Saturday. Phillips-Weils, who played out of the third round of the LDB all-church tournament last week, followed up with two shutouts Saturday, beating Wallace 3-0 and then knocking off the defending state champions, Moscow, 5-0.

Tackett came back on the final day of local playdowns, Idaho Falls, 4-2 in the semi-final and then closed out the tournament with a 2-0 shutout of Caldwell. Bob Crocker, another veteran, is being counted on in the regionals.

In addition to the stellar pitching, Rex Wells was named most valuable player for the three-day tournament, which featured the best in the state. Joe Mowry, Phillips-Weils speedy centerfielder, wound up with 11 points and was named batting hero for the tournament. He boasted a .572 mark over the five days.

Gil Hodges soaked a grand-slam home run for the Dodgers in the fourth inning, providing the home team with the sixth in a five-game win over the Cincinnati Reds. The San Francisco Giants finally dug a defeat on Wednesday at home Saturday, 5-2, on home runs by Willie Mays, Lon Wagner and Willie Kirkland.

Effective relief pitching by Paul Nelson, buried in a large part, secured the Giants victory, first over the Reds Saturday, 5-2, on home runs by Willie Mays, Lon Wagner and Willie Kirkland.

The victory watched by 17,114, brought the second-place Giants within six games of the league-leading Milwaukee Braves who lost to Los Angeles in a four-inning game at Seals stadium Sunday for a five-game sweep.

Pittsburgh's high-flying Pirates Saturday turned in their 12th victory in the last 17 games, trouncing the Cleveland Indians 5-1. Pirates' Ernie Banks hammered his 41st homer deep into the left center field bleachers. The drive drove Ernie Mays into a tie with Babe Ruth's record in 1927. Ruth also collected the 24th home run in 1927 with a two-run homer by Wally Pate and two RBIs by Billy Herman.

St. Louis' Bob Gibson pitched a two-run homer by Wally Pate and two RBIs by Billy Herman, leading the league in batting, while the league's top pitcher, Nino Escobar, pitched a three-inning shutout for the Philadelphia Phillies.

Weight, Balance Build Football Hopes for Bruins

"A little heavier on the line and a better balanced backfield" is how Twin Falls head coach Bob Hilliard describes his 1958 team Saturday after its second tryout. Despite the loss of several individual stars and two All-Big Six players, Coach Hilliard is confident of matching last year's record and wants to add it. "It will be no surprise if the Bruins come up with their best year since 1951."

Engberg Sees Shaky Future For Pioneer

"SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 23 (AP)—Pioneer League President Ed Engberg said Friday: "We are not sure we should keep the present club in existence."

Engberg was commenting on the drop in league attendance.

"Total paid attendance for the 1957 season was 245,500, compared to 242,000 in 1956," he said. "The attendance at the same time a year ago was 242,000, which moved to 245,500 last year."

"The situation will depend upon what action the major league clubs in the form of assistance and working agreements," Engberg said. "It is quite evident, unless they operate unless they provide assistance... and where the situation is..."

Cowboys' Hit Average Dips to Fifth in Loop

Magpie Valley Cowboys' team hitting mark fell below .280 for the first time this year as only three men stayed above the .300 mark. Statistics released by Pioneer league statistician William J. Weiss, showed the Cowboys' aggregate hitting average for the year fell two points to .277.

Manager Dick Wilson continued to carry the big bat with a .254 mark followed by Joe McElroy at .329. Al Owen's .325 was the only Cowboy mark above .300, although four were grouped in the .200 class.

In the pitching department, Charles Herzberger dropped his earned run average a few percentage points last week to 3.20 per nine innings which was good for sixth in the league. Herzberger also tops the loop in number of complete games with 14 and he and Jim Prevatt continued to lead the "home runs allowed" department with 19 each.

Coach Is Optimistic

PULLMAN, Wash., Aug. 23 (AP)—Coach Jim Sutherland said Friday Washington State college will definitely have a better football team than last year's.

"Our objective can be reached this year with hard work and continued spirit."

"We realize we'll be facing the best in the regionals," Gordon pointed out, "but we have the hitting to make it plus the pitching staff which will compare with any staff we'll meet."

The team will leave early Friday to keep their 7 p.m. date with their host team. The tournament will continue through Labor day. Included in the meet will be state champions of Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California and the host team.

Workers Clear Howell Canyon Area for Winter Ski Activities

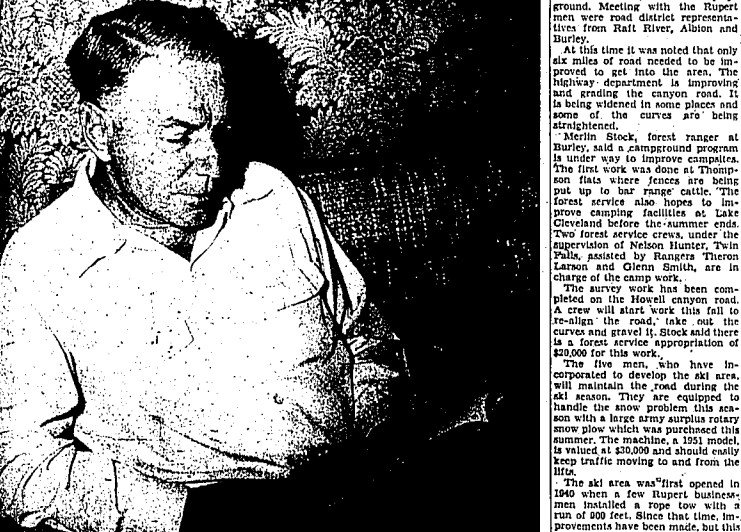

Each week-end from six to 12 volunteers from Minidoka and Cassia counties have worked to clear aspens and underbrush for the ski run in the Howell canyon area. Five Rupert men have incorporated in developing recreation area, which was first started in 1910. From left to right: Charles Norby and J. V. DeThomaz, with the shovels. Forest Service, Rupert Men Ready Canyon Site for Winter Ski Season

August, Aug. 23 - Five men, led by the forest service and the county department, have been busy this summer to improve the ski area at Howell canyon in the winter season. The men, Dick Benson, Charles Norby, Dean Anderson, Con DeWane and Harold Fredrick, all have been clearing timber and making other improvements in an area three-quarters of a mile south of the old ranger station for the installation of a ski lift to be called the Pomeroy Promitt. The small shelter, 26 by 18 feet, will be moved from the present location further up the canyon to serve until a larger one can be built. Present plans call for the small, junior run to be ready for operation by rope tow this fall. This run will be about 900 feet long and will have a small jump. The big run will be installed on a north slope and in time will have a chair lift in operation. Within the next two years, a pony lift will be put in to take care of skiers. This run will be around 3,800 feet when completed. Snow conditions in this area are ideal. In March of this year, there were 105 inches of snow at the top of the slope and 64 inches at the foot. Sufficient snow for skiing can be expected on the north slope in the middle of November until May 1. Last July 1, Benson said he skied the run and it was in excellent condition there are no slides in the area to spoil the snow pack. Friends hereabouts are saying this area has been the condition of the roads. Several meetings were held in the spring between representatives of Cassia and Minidoka counties in regards to improving the area which is readily available to both counties as a summer and winter playground. Meeting with the Rupert men were read district representatives from Fall River, Albion and Burley.

Former Twin Falls Woman Authors Tale About Life on Vast Nevada Cattle Ranch

Exciting tales of the West, romance and stories of petty intrigue in frontier living are all included in a biography recently of the press, 'Only the Mountains Remain' by Nora Linder Bowman, a former resident of Twin Falls. It went on sale Aug. 15 and already has won wide acclaim as an intimate account of activities on three million acres of wilderness ranched by Utah Construction Company from 1908 to 1915. An authentic narrative of the move recent old West, the book explains in storybook fashion how Nora Linder, at the close of school in 1910, went with a roommate to visit friends at UC ranch in northern Nevada. From that visit to brenting up of company holdings in 1915, Mrs. Bowman brings the story alive with experiences, including an explosion, range fire, business and other in-convincences of frontier living. The book is a biography of the Bowman as they meet challenges of a cattle ranch as large as UC could present. By actual measure, the construction company owned or controlled on third part of the entire state of Nevada. Mrs. Bowman had been teaching school in Ogden, Utah, when an invitation came for her and Kenneth to visit Yerns, a friend of her husband and Herman Way before returning to her Wisconsin home to welcome her brothers back from the First World War. However, upon spending several days at the ranch and meeting a man destined to be her husband, Mrs. Bowman found she was in honor of the author by Scribner's operations and the title Bowman was in love with her. In fact, Bowman was so certain

French Youths Stop in Shoshone

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

On last Christmas day in Florida, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Mitchell, SHOSHONE, became friendly with seven students from France who were preparing a meal adjacent to where they were camping. The Mitchells invited the group to join them for a meal.

When the students learned that Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell were from Idaho, they told them they were planning a trip to Yellowstone national park. The Mitchells invited them to visit and the meeting was arranged for this summer.

True to their word, all seven have visited the Mitchell ranch in north Shoshone in two different shifts. The first to arrive were three girls and a youth who stopped early in the summer. The last contingent, three young men, arrived this month. The party had split to save time and to complete summer school.

The trip was conceived last winter when five of them were working on masters' degrees at Purdue university in Indiana. They were joined by two students from Yale.

The Mitchells were amazed at the way the frugal French students were able to squeeze in a 10,000 mile trip in their busy schedule before they left for France after two weeks. They were able to stretch their limited funds.

The group purchased a 1950 Plymouth stationwagon and were able to borrow sleeping bags. They managed to collect tents, an old stove, an lexbox and other camping equipment.

To give their plans a test, they made the 3,000 mile trip to Florida where they met the Mitchells, during their three-week Christmas vacation. The big trip from Indiana included all national forests to the west coast, down into Mexico and back through the southern part of the United States to Indiana. The first group made the tour, turned over the car to the second, and returned to France.

En route they have continually been asked how they manage to see so much country in the short time they have. In addition, their expenditures are carefully planned to save money. All their meals from cooked cereal for breakfast to dinner, are prepared in camp. Their budget has been so successful they have been able to purchase film for color slides of their trip.

Valuing at the Mitchells' this month were Michel Robin, who received his masters degree in industrial management in June and will leave immediately for France, and Claude Raymond Pinche and Paul Bueles, who will return to France in the spring, after they receive masters' degrees in scientific research.

Robin will enter the armed service on his return to his homeland. All French youths must serve although they may delay until they are 25. A serviceman receives about 25 cents a day.

Upon completion of his service duties, he will then be ready to finish his background education to secure a job.

Living conditions, the youths state, are quite different in France. Bread, for instance, is six cents a pound, and there are very few large cars and cars are driven many more years than here. There is a car for about every seven persons in France. "Twenty-two year old boys just don't have cars," they said.

Pinche and Bueles both gradunever spent time on a farm before. Their fathers are a car dealer, a highway engineer and implement man. The boys had a great time hunting Idaho's jackrabbits.

Mira Pavlovic, 28-year-old Yugoslavian student who visited the Mitchells, has had considerable publicity on her research work at Yale. She was the subject of articles in the June 7 Time magazine and in the July 14 Life magazine. Her name was used in the Time issue, but only the experiment with a picture of her subject, a baby chicken, was mentioned in conjunction with the life story.

The experiment which has proven successful, involved the operating on eggs that had been incubated for 33 to 40 hours. At this point the embryo is 0.2 inches long, and the blood system is so primitive that the organism does not bleed.

She cuts a square hole in the egg shell, then uses modified watchmaker's forceps to cut off two of the five parts of the undeveloped brain. The detached tissue is picked up with a suction pipette and transplanted to the head of another embryo that has been prepared by similar surgery to receive it. Finally, the hole in the second eggshell is covered with transparent material, and the egg with its patch-work embryo is replaced in the incubator.

Unique Method Is Used by Twin Falls Chopper Farmer for Harvesting Straw

W. G. Sommer, one of four Sommers who help each other farm, drives tractor pulling a hay chopper mulling grain stalks for bedding. One of the above farm is John Sommer, driving the truck. The Sommer family harvests straw in what it thinks is a unique method. Instead of leaving equipment idle after haying season, the Sommers keep it busy saving hours of hand labor while harvesting grain stalks for bedding. The farm owner says several advantages are derived from this method, including ease of handling, small cost. (Staff photo-engraving)

John G. Sommer, a farmer in Twin Falls since 1919, watches a farm hand power box as it unloads chopped straw into an already large stack of mulched grain stalks. For two seasons Sommer has been chopping straw instead of putting it into bales. As it is chopped in the field, the straw is loaded into trucks with suitable beds. As soon as the truck is full, it is driven to the stack and unloaded automatically. Sommer says this process is much easier than loading and unloading bales. The chopped straw is stacked with a tow band attached to a tractor. (Staff photo-engraving)

Unique Method of Harvesting Straw Practiced by John G. Sommers Family

Probably a unique method for harvesting straw in this area is being practiced by the John G. Sommers family on their ranch south of Twin Falls. Yesterday morning four members of the family began on 22 acres. Despite rains and other interruptions, the next day the entire field was cleared and the straw stacked. In actual hours, Sommer figures it took only 10 to clear the field. How does he do it? It is simply a matter of utilizing common equipment to its fullest potential. When haying is over most farmers put aside appropriate equipment. But not Sommer. He rakes the already cut grain fields which produce straw. Then, instead of baling, as most farmers do, Sommer uses his hay chopper to mulch the grain stubble for bedding. As the hay chopper cuts up the stubble, Sommer has his son drive a truck along side to catch the straw bedding. He uses two trucks because the chopper is so fast it can keep two constantly on the go. The trucks are farm models and have power boxes. Upon receiving a full load, the truck is driven several hundred feet to where it is stacked. Instead of necessary lifting to hoist bales from truck to stack, the power box does that part of the process. Each stack has a moving bed, a part of the power box. Similar to a conveyor belt, the moving bed automatically unloads the mulched straw onto the ground. From there it is stacked into a nice uniform pile with a farm hand hay stacker mounted on tractor. It simply pushes against the partially scattered hay, lifts it up to the pile's top and drops the contents. This means the entire straw crop is harvested without being handled by human hands. And according to Sommer, the process is considerably cheaper than baling, as well as being much faster.

Use of Universal Language Esperanto Is Urged for World Unity by T.F. Man

(Continued from p. 17) ... into one could learn about 10 percent of the words he knows and still be able to express the general thoughts, observations and feelings of his native language.

These dictionaries and textbooks are available in 112 national languages. Esperanto is used in 112 national languages. This widespread use is much greater than that of most national languages.

The largest Esperanto library in America is at the University of Wisconsin. Among these are translations of literature and many great names in literature and science.

Other works translated to Esperanto include the Bible, the Koran, the Talmud, the Quran, the Bhagavad Gita, the I Ching, the Tao Te Ching, the Analects, the Zoroastrian Avesta, the Vedas, the Upanishads, the Bhagavad Gita, the I Ching, the Tao Te Ching, the Analects, the Zoroastrian Avesta, the Vedas, the Upanishads.

Among 10 to 12 million who speak Esperanto throughout the world, many are members of special organizations promoting the language. These groups consist of clubs, schools, academies, journals, magazines, and other organizations.

Gerber notes savings in foreign advertising and correspondence if Esperanto were to be used. He figures this is just good business. He mentions American films in Esperanto could be understood all over the world without extra and often prohibitive expense.

Gerber predicts an advantage that "cannot be overestimated." But using a language has its disadvantages, too. Gerber often remembers a word in one language but "I can't remember it in German or English," he remarks.

Increase in Popularity of Riding Behind "Comeback" of Horse and Higher Prices of Animals

Ann Blake, Twin Falls, and Jolynn Bruce, Jerome, learn to ride horse, a pastime that has declined steadily until recent years. New riding clubs and increased demand for horses reflect the growing popularity of horseback riding. (Staff photo-engraving)

Higher prices for horses and a demand for better stock result from increased popularity of riding. This purebred Arabian Genesee horse, owned by Helen Caudle is pastured at the Walter H. McCallie farm north of Twin Falls. The sire of Genesee was Galahad, registered Arabian stallion owned by Miss Caudle. Demand for such stock has increased with the growth in interest in riding. (Staff photo-engraving)

Prices of Horses Rise, Saddle Sales Are Gaining as Riding Popularity Returns

Apparently there are more riding clubs in Magic Valley than in many years, but if you're in doubt, drive along any highway or street, and chances are you'll see several youngsters—even adults—out riding. Horseback riding has gained in popularity in the last two years. As partial proof, saddle sales are up significantly this summer, new riding clubs are being formed, and the price of saddle horses has increased.

A. E. Vaughn, general manager of a local department store, says his saddle and bridle sales are up 30 percent over last year. He notes a "very definite two-year trend." He says more people are entering to the higher price saddle for appearance. However, ranchers and cowboys still are his largest buying group.

Despite the great numbers of saddles being sold to ranchers and cowboys, Vaughn states, "We're getting more riding that never rode before—riding for health, pleasure and recreation." There's more of a "desire for pleasure" and some people are staying out of cars and off highways.

Max J. Buckentin, Twin Falls harness maker, agrees with Vaughn. "Yes, there's a lot more horseback riding," he says. He has experienced greater sales in saddles, stirrups, bridles and saddle bags.

"He observes there are two types of saddles being sold today, dude type and those used by ranchers and cowboys for making a living. Buckentin estimates there are 40 registered stallions in Magic Valley. Other sources agree, and say there didn't used to be any registered breeds. The oldtime harness maker calls the return to horses "just a fad." However, he adds he's "all for it. It's a good thing for kids."

Another harness and saddle dealer, Martin L. Fox, says after making it business at the shop. "In fact things got so bad, last year the firm didn't make even one saddle. However, we're back to making saddles again," notes Fox.

He estimates his total increase in leather goods this year about 25 percent. The gain has been mostly in saddles and bridles.

"The harness and bridle dealer agrees that more people are riding for pleasure than ever before. He attributes much of the new popularity of horses to better facilities for riding clubs. Besides, we've found a lot of kid business this year," Fox declares.

Last week another riding club was formed in Jerome. That brings the total of clubs in Magic Valley to 14. About six weeks ago one was formed in Eden. On the average to her. Miss Caudle says Weyerhaeuser Timber company wants work horses to clean underbrush on reseeded forest land because tractors and other equipment will injure seedlings, but the firm can't acquire enough to keep them supplied.

"There's just not enough horses," Miss Caudle emphasizes.

But there's room for disagreement about everything. Walter H. McCallie, a horse trainer all his life, doubts there are more horses for riding today in the valley than before.

"I wouldn't say there are more, but there's lots of them," McCallie says.

The trainer notes there were more horses after the war because at that time there were fewer cars and fewer tires to put on them." People didn't travel as much then, he contends.

"Now there are too many other things to do," McCallie says. "Too many cars, boats, camps and fishing areas to take up one's time."

Picnic Held

HAILEY, Aug. 23—Thirty-five employees of soil conservation area 211 from Twin Falls, Rupert, Burley, Gooding, Shoshone, Hailey and Jerome attended a picnic at Enaley Hot Springs, recently.

Lloyd Williams, of the Jerome work unit, and Walter Hankins, Twin Falls work unit, were awarded diplomas from the USDA soil conservation services training center at San Luis Obispo, Calif. by Forrest Closser, area III conservationist. Closser also presented Robert Diehl of the Hailey work unit with a 10-year service award from the department of agriculture.
