Iraq Pledges It Will Honor Treaty on Oil

LONDON, Aug. 30 (UPI) — The Iraq government has pledged to honor the terms of the oil treaty which it signed in London last month.

The assurances were given to O. H. Harridge, managing director of the internationally-owned Iraq Petroleum Company, which has returned from talks with the new leaders in Baghdad.

The new Iraq government has reaffirmed its intention to honor the agreement with the foreign oil companies, and it is expected that the treaty will be kept on the oil flowing.

As an immediate outcome of this agreement it was reported authoritatively that plans will be put in operation to double the oil output from the present level of 30 million barrels by the end of 1961.

The operation lies in the hands of the Iraq Petroleum Company which is owned in equal parts by United States, British, Dutch and French interests.

Years after the time of the recent Baghdad coup for the future of the Iraq oil appears to have now been assured by the government's proclaimed desire for continued cooperation with the Western interests.

There was, however, one indication that before long the Iraq leaders may seek modification of the treaty terms to secure a larger share of the profits derived from the oil operation.

Harridge's interest on the spot sounded has encouraged hopes for compromise when the issue is raised in the near future.

Profit Shared 50-50

The Iraq government has in turn announced that it will increase the oil output in the country will be increased to 60 million barrels a year by the end of 1961.

The present profit sharing for Iraq oil follows the established pattern in the Middle East—it has been arranged on a 50-50 basis.

But this will have been modified in Iraq's favor when another oil state in the area obtains better conditions.

Upward Adjustment Seen

Predictions in informed quarters were that some upward adjustment probably would have to be made in the near future, but nothing definite has been settled.

From its present output of which was pledged to produce 30 million barrels in royalties a year.

Iraq presently holds third place among oil-producing nations, with oil comes from the fields in Kirkuk, Mosul and Basrah.

"Idaho Water for Idahoans," Derr Urges at T.F. Meeting

Sen. A. M. Derr in a meeting with Twin Falls county officials Friday said that although he strongly favors legislation which would provide for revenue to the state "it is by no means the only way to solve the water problem."

Derr said the existing water program should be an overall program for state development.

Retaining the water of Idaho for Idahoans for all time and the use of such water to create a new highly profitable independent business for Idaho is the basis of the water storage program proposed by Derr.

Democratic candidate for governor said the water program could be a "win-win" proposition.

"Landowners could build dams on small streams, and store flood waters over the winter months without altering any existing downstream rights," Derr said.

"According to the estimate, the state could receive a value of $30 per acre foot for downstream use in irrigation and power generation. If the state retained $10 per acre foot to supervise the release of the stored water, it would be able to insure construction of adequate dams and protection of a waterway."

Low-Powered Atom Weapon Tests Planned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI) — The Washington Post said tonight the United States expects to test soon a low-powered nuclear weapon which would be portable device which could be fired from a bazooka-like infantry rifle.

The Post story said the device would have a power equivalent to 100 tons of TNT.

The atomic energy commission declared immediate comment on the story.

The device would be a one-tenth kiloton nuclear weapon, the Post said. One kiloton of TNT is the equivalent of 2,000 tons of TNT.

The Post said the intention on the device came from authoritative sources after an official Pentagon announcement Friday that more than half of 10 forthcoming tests in Idaho will be of fractional kiloton yield.

The Post said the new device was referred to as a "hand held" or "portable" weapon. The description "hand held" is a misnomer, the Post said. The device would be a "hand held" or "portable" weapon. The description "hand held" is a misnomer, the Post said.

A native of Junction City, Kans., Lee was graduated from West Point in 1959 and held several posts in the corps of engineers at home and abroad. He was on the staff of Gen. Leonard Wood in France in World War I.

Oil Workers, Students End Rioting Wave

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 30 (UPI) — Oil workers who with students united in a week-long strike ended their protest today.

The students staged another demonstration, this time a parade through downtown Mexico City.

There was hope that the week-long wave of riots and strikes might be over. One man was killed and 33 injured Friday.

Police stayed in the background, but students had to march by two main streets with firemen standing by ready to play hoses on the crowd at the first sign of trouble.

The estimates of the crowd ran from 20,000 to 50,000, well below the student leaders' prediction of 100,000.

The students, who began their protests a week ago over a threatened pay increase of less than one cent, carried banners demanding the government to take over the bus lines and pull its troops out of the university area, where the students are still holding many of the buses they seized during last week-end riots.

However student leaders reportedly watered down their demands during an early morning meeting. They were said to have agreed to have a commission merely study the problem.

Shortly before the demonstration an agreement was reached between new elections in two sections of the oil workers union where dissident leaders claim control. The dispute was not connected with the student protests, but the students backed them up.

Controversy Rages on Alleged Rigging Of Television Quiz Show "Twenty One"

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (UPI) — An investigation into the integrity of the NBC television quiz show "21" focused today on friends of Herbert Stempel, a former contestant whose charge that the show was rigged has sparked a full-blown controversy.

Officials of both NBC and the program itself have hotly denied the charges.

Two newspapers, the New York Post and the New York Journal-American, reported that friends of Stempel said he had told them what the questions and answers would be on a given night and what would happen during his appearance.

"The friends said when they tuned in, the show followed Stempel's predictions, the papers reported.

Meanwhile, two persons described themselves as friends of Stempel were questioned by Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office. They were not identified.

Some people have long suspected that some television quiz shows exert controls enabling contestants who capture the public fancy to win fabulous prizes.

A couple of disgruntled contestants on a couple of programs have lighted matches in television's quizshow factory. People are running, yelling, pointing, hiding. Some deny that a match has been lighted. Others are trying to scratch matches themselves.

In the midst of the confusion New York district attorney Frank S. Hogan, who is investigating, said at least four quiz shows as the result of complaints reported that nothing has been uncovered thus far to warrant grand jury action.

An agent long associated with quiz shows probably quit a finger on the source of much of the chaos when he says:

"The public notion of a fix is a good deal different from that of the producers' of some quiz shows. They think of themselves as showmen who must put on a good show. Personally, I don't think their coaching of contestants extends to supplying answers to questions in any show I know of."

"But I do believe that many will do anything short of downright cheating to keep a popular contest going."

The continued popularity of quiz shows appears to depend on whether the public continues to have faith in them. And this is why the current investigation has such explosive force in network television.

The quiz show business is a mainstay of commercial television in its infancy. It was the first major industry to appear on the air—or coming, or going—about 25 shows representing a bankroll of almost as many million dollars. The prospect of public and sponsor interest in them makes the agencies and networks shudder.

The present trouble began when a stand-by contestant on Dotto filed a complaint with the New York district attorney's office charging the program with irregular practices.

The program's sponsor, Colgate-Palmolive, after investigation, informed the producer-owner of Dotto that it washed its hands of the program. The CBS-TV and NBC-TV networks wanted the show from the air without notice.

The district attorney's office identified the complainant as a young part-time butler and bit actor named Edward Milgramer, Jr., of New York, and announced extension of its inquiry to three other quiz shows.

Harvard Man Avers Pastors Lack Courage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI) — A Harvard psychologist said today that the major denominational Protestant ministers have failed to show much courage during the Army's anti-communist racial trials.

Dr. Thomas F. Pettigrew declared here, though Southern-born, Southern-reared and a Southerner, that he was not a Southerner, and that he did not identify any of the ministers.

He made the statements in reporting to the 60th annual meeting of the American Psychological Association on Tuesday and a colleague made of approximately 100 ministers, including two Jewish rabbis, in Little Rock, beginning last October.

The psychologists wanted the show from the air without notice.

The district attorney's office identified the complainant as a young part-time butler and bit actor named Edward Milgramer, Jr., of New York, and announced extension of its inquiry to three other quiz shows.

Townsend Silent

PARIS, Aug. 30 (UPI) — Group Capt. Peter Townsend arrived in Paris today but steadfastly refused to say why he broke off with his second world war in Yugoslavia. The sudden change of plans touched off rumors he was going back to see Princess Margaret, who gave up his name because it was divorced, but there was no confirmation of this speculation.

Townsend had arrived in Yugoslavia with announced plans to make a film of world war, touching some of the most interesting on his earlier tour. He left suddenly Friday.

Iceland Defies Britain's Ships In Fishing Ban

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 30 (UPI) — Iceland's defiance of Britain's gunboats tonight and went ahead with plans to uphold her fishing ban in waters 12 miles off the rocky shores.

"This little capital was calm. Icelandic fishermen were not to be shooting at the Icelandic fishing ban goes into effect at midnight Sunday."

Something at sea more than 100 British trawlers—angling for the cod fish in Icelandic waters—were steaming this way under the wing of an armed royal navy fleetery protection squadron.

Iceland said it will take action against any foreign vessel which extends the ban to the waters of the present four-mile limit, which has been made clear what this action will be. But Icelandic fishermen boats, some armed, were in readiness along with an observation plane.

The skippers of the British trawlers have orders to offer passive resistance if they are approached by the Icelanders. Britain contends Iceland is violating the principle of freedom of the seas by its unilateral extension of territorial limits and is encroaching on fishing grounds where British ships have operated for her annual catch.

Widows Pensioned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI) — Nearly 900 of the estimated 1,400 surviving widows of Confederate Civil War veterans have filed for pension under a new law, the veterans administration reported.

The VA said most of them made the applications after they were notified by the law President Eisenhower signed in May. The agency said efforts are being made to locate the widows through the new congressmen from Southern states and agencies of the states.

AFTER LABOR DAY—LET'S GO!

Labor day is like a fresh start. After an exuberant week-end, the nation settles down to its normal nine-months-of-the-year routine.

The holiday itself is a glorious hallelujah to the warmth and pleasures of the summer. Parks and quiet spots on meadows are like great mechanical snakes with everyone who is here wanting to go there and the there, here. But the day after, most of us shake the sand out of our hair and there is a general feeling that's got on with life. In most families, it's the children who call the tune. It's back to school for them and, truthfully, most of them are glad to get back to a busy routine. The little boys like the excitement of seeing old pals and the little girls want to wear their new dresses. So away they go. Back home, mother has been on edge due to the unkempt appearance of the house, a natural by-product of informal summer life. There's the sink and the dirt to dig in, and the old tiger, housework, which has been back into its cage where it can be more easily managed.

Meanwhile, down at the office, the stresses and strains of half the force being on vacation are over. You can get people on the phones and its a relief that the machine is again off half speed. Labor day is always a new start for business. The public's wandering attention is again focused on the home and community life. The bustle of the bus is back in the stores and market places.

It is an especially meaningful new start for business this year. Another page in the great suspense story, "Boom or Bust," is being uncovered. Everyone holds their breath while the cloth masks of the new modes are whipped off with a fanfare. Will business snap back by Christmas? So the nation is vitally interested as trade and industry split on their hands, get a firm grip on the hammer and start hammering the economic structure for the '59-'59 season. Another group in our great American community is singled out to consider this Labor day as a starting place for great endeavors. This group, this holiday is named after—Labor Day.

This powerful, surging people's movement which we honor today must dedicate itself anew to hold to the traditions of the past and conduct itself for the general welfare. During the past year, the machine has black marks have been affixed to its record, largely the smears fingerprints of too-powerful leaders, irresponsible and venal. The nation hopes that Labor, too, this year will rally behind the more mature of its leaders and go on to do even greater and more glorious in the name of the American workman.

Okay, Father Time, we're sunburned, tired of hot dog meals, and ready to settle down to business. We want to see what's going to happen. Let's go.

ALASKA ALTERS POLITICAL MAP

Nothing but the formalities remain now to bring Alaska into the union as our 49th state. Government officials and representatives will be named, and the President will proclaim the new state's entry later on. No one imagined after congress voted Alaska into the union that its citizens would do anything but endorse the action at the polls. Yet the overwhelming Alaska approval of statehood was a warmer response than expected.

Thus the die is cast. A pattern that has held since 1912 is broken, and may soon be shattered again if Hawaiian statehood should be approved in congress at the next session. Certain political effects would follow on their own, regardless of trends in the nation. But as it turns out, the addition of representatives in congress from Alaska accentuates a westward shift of power that has been in progress for some time.

Of particular significance is that shift will be Alaska's two senators. If two more from Hawaii should later be added, the senate's regional ratio of strength will be markedly altered.

Furthermore, new census figures will be upon us in 1960. Current estimates of population indicate that California stands to gain at least half a dozen more house seats above its present 30. And Pennsylvania, there will be other western gains.

All these, and Alaska's seats, must be taken out of the hide of the East, the South and the Middle West. Big states which are growing, and as fast as western areas, will suffer losses.

The changes will not affect the 1960 elections nor the 1961 make-up of congress. But by 1962 the necessary redistricting should all be taken care of, and the political map will have a different look.

Also involved, of course, will be the balance of power in the national conventions, with all that means for future and its leading figures have a place in the spotlight in a way undreamed of a few decades ago by all, but the sunniest optimists.

Alaska's half million square miles, soon to expand the union's area by one sixth, underscores the shifting of the political center of gravity. Times are changing and the men who seek great office must change with them.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—The unhappy history of a year ago promises to repeat itself with the principal cast of characters in the same roles and striking the same postures. The unhappy history of a year ago promises to repeat itself with the principal cast of characters in the same roles and striking the same postures.

At the same time he made his peace with Daniel Webster, the champion of federal authority, and the union and state presidents with less willingness to defend the federal system—the drift toward nullification brought the nation to civil war.

Constitutional struggles such as the current one put the judiciary and in particular the chief justice in the forefront of a political struggle when the executive is reluctant to act. Earl Warren, as political judge, has been called upon to act in the country at large and especially in the Southern states.

The more democratic critics call him anything from communist to usurper and tyrant. His more political critics say that he does not know the law and is expressing his political prejudices in decisions such as that toward nullification.

For this cry of politics on the part of the court is also ample precedent. The Supreme Court has not been so much a political arena since the days of Chief Justice John Marshall.

What is painfully clear is that under the American system of dual federalism, the executive and judiciary are not to be separated. The executive and judiciary are not to be separated.

In the case of the Cherokee Indians, who had a treaty with the federal government, versus the state of Georgia, Chief Justice John Marshall, ruled in 1832 that federal authority was paramount.

This ruled President Andrew Jackson, a strong believer in states rights, but he refused to enforce it. He refused to enforce it. He refused to enforce it.

In his message vetoing a charter for a national bank Jackson wrote: "The federal government, versus the state of Georgia, Chief Justice John Marshall, ruled in 1832 that federal authority was paramount."

"This seemed to many an invitation to nullification, and South Carolina actually adopted a nullification ordinance containing a serious attack on the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court," wrote Chief Justice Marshall, who had been prevailed upon to remain as chief justice.

It is much cooler up here than it is in California. It is much cooler up here than it is in California. It is much cooler up here than it is in California.

C. H. UTO, The Dallas, Ore. machinist: "This area looked pretty good. It's a good place to live. It's a good place to live. It's a good place to live."

Uto said roads between here and the Dalles were in pretty good shape except for some repairs at Oregon.

Arkansas has about 2,760 miles of navigable water routes in the state and along its borders.

Smith Family Is Living in Ruben

PAUL, Aug. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith and family moved last week to Ruben to live. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have been in Paul for many months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. August March have as guests their nephew, Larry and Lorraine Luden. They are spending the summer here but will leave Sunday for their home in order to start school.

RELATIVES VISIT
PAUL, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Alma Smith was visited by her brother, Earl and sister, Mrs. M. Griffith, Lamoni, Nev., Tuesday to Thursday.

For a brief moment I started away and when I looked back I was gone. Vanished—as if by a magical spell. Mystified as to what had happened—he hadn't reached the bank and I was positive he had not returned to the one he had intended to go to. I went forward to investigate.

I was a useless creature. Even if I were a ghost, I would not have been able to see through the glass. I was a useless creature. Even if I were a ghost, I would not have been able to see through the glass.

It was a useless creature. Even if I were a ghost, I would not have been able to see through the glass. I was a useless creature. Even if I were a ghost, I would not have been able to see through the glass.

Bliss Woman Irate Over Plans Executed by U.S. Land Agency

Editor, Times-News: We are told "The Good Lord helps them who help themselves" and I am sure that the citizens and cattle industry are about the only people I know of who have managed to stay out of the train or get mixed up in the "wily racket." The president of the National Cattlemen's association said he was proud to lead such a group of good Americans. They have refused to sell their backlands for only a mess of pottage.

Land Grab Must Cease, Kimberly Writer Declares

Editor, Times-News: Apparently the gentleman who wrote the article, "Grave Risks," suggesting we buy Sunday's paper doesn't know all the facts. The Readers Digest article about the "land grab" is a million acres of the waste and injustice carried on by this land is mostly for gunnery ranges and is miles long and wide. Farms, ranches and roads all must move when they take over this land. They are taking more all the time even though they abandon old tracks.

Business Closing On Veterans Day Is Urged In T. F.

Editor, Times-News: We, of the women's auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars post 2126, Twin Falls, would like to urge every business establishment to close their place of business on Veterans Day. This day has been set aside by the congress of the United States as a day to honor all men of all wars. It is indeed little enough tribute to the men who fought for this country.

Recognition With Red China Listed As Math Problem

Editor, Times-News: With a stated population of 600 million, the question of the recognition of Red China becomes a problem in higher mathematics. One hundred million Russians (that's all there are in the world) hold 800 million human beings of their nationalities imprisoned behind the Iron curtain. Of these 800 million, 600 million are Chinese. By the "back-door movement" look to America with hatred; look to America with contempt; look to America with superiority; look to America into our enemies. We, and all our possible allies, likewise total 600 million.

Parents Grateful To Little League Coach For Work

Editor, Times-News: We would like to thank publicly James Greed, coach of the Little League baseball team sent from Twin Falls to the tournament at Sun Valley the past week-end. His earnest and devoted coaching, plus his friendly yet firm handling of the boys enabled them to make an excellent showing in a tough, competitive tournament where they were beaten only by the team which later took the championship title.

Alfalfa Varieties Listed by Agent

With fall seeding time at hand, County Agent C. Warren Daigh pointed out Saturday that rangeland and labonian varieties of alfalfa are most likely to give the best results. Idaho tests show rangeland and labonian among leaders in yield. They produced about six tons to the acre in a three-year trial at Twin Falls. They were also outstanding in tests at Aberdeen. Buffalo is also quite satisfactory. All three varieties are recommended by Howard Roylance, agronomist of the University of Idaho extension service, Daigh says. Some others are good, but not quite so dependable. In addition to their high yield, rangeland, labonian, and buffalo are resistant to wilt and stand cold weather. Roylance said the so-called creeping types—rhizoma and nona—did not show creeping characteristics in the Idaho trials. Yields were comparatively low.

Make Your House Into A Freedom Home! With LIFETIME ALUMINUM SIDING YOU'LL ENJOY

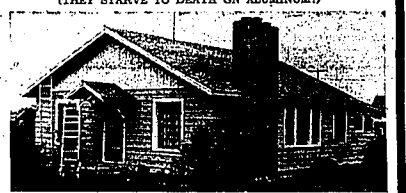

DEE PACE HOME . . . KIMBERLY ROAD EAST . . . TWIN FALLS, IDAHO Long a show place of Magic Valley, this fine, large farm home of brick and frame construction gains a new lasting beauty with LIFETIME aluminum siding! Mr. and Mrs. Pace decided that ALBUQUEN MAROON and CHATEAU WHITE would be the colors to best enhance the natural beauty of the buff brick and architectural style of the house. Utilizing the wonderful versatility of this modern material, we applied our vertical panels on the house horizontally . . . to lower the profile and conform with the modern trend to low, massive proportions! For contrast, the wide overhanging eaves were done in CHATEAU WHITE vertical panels. A home that is cooler in summer's heat and warmer in winter's frigid cold . . . it is now a home that brings new pride of ownership to the Paces!

- FREEDOM FROM REPAIRS (ALUMINUM WON'T BUGS, WARP, OR WEAR OUT!) FREEDOM FROM PAINTING (LIFETIME BAKED-ENAMEL FINISH ENDS HIGH COST OF PAINTING EVERY TWO TO FIVE YEARS!) FREEDOM FROM DRAFTS (EXCLUSIVE WEATHER-LOCK DESIGN GIVES YOUR HOUSE UNPARALLELED PROTECTION!) FREEDOM FROM SIZZLING HEAT (UNIVERSITY TESTS PROVE 84 TO 85% OF SUN'S BLISTERING HEAT REFLECTED AWAY FROM LIFETIME ALUMINUM SIDING!) FREEDOM FROM SHIVERY COLD (MAGIC-MIRROR INSULATIVE QUALITIES OF LIFETIME ALUM. SIDING SAVES YOU UP TO 35% IN FUEL!) FREEDOM FROM FIRE (CAN'T POSSIBLY BURN . . . PROTECTS WALLS AGAINST TEMPERATURES UP TO 2,000 DEGREES!) FREEDOM FROM TERMITES AND PESTS (THEY STARVE TO DEATH ON ALUMINUM!)

ROBERT WILSON HOME . . . SOUTH OF CITY . . . TWIN FALLS, IDAHO A man who really knows wood . . . Bob Wilson is owner-operator of Wilson's Planning in Twin Falls. For years, he tried to find a paint or wood preservative that would last on the siding of his house and garage. When first he saw this modern siding material, Bob exclaimed, "That's just the answer to my problem!" He chose beautiful PRIBLOND YELTONE horizontal siding for the walls. No painting, ever for this modern product guarantees complete freedom from upkeep worries and expense!

FINIS ROSS HOME . . . FIRST STREET EAST . . . HANSEN, IDAHO A stunning combination of ELORADO CORAL and CHATEAU WHITE, the Finis Ross family chose to contrast the conventional horizontal siding with striking vertical panels in the gables. By their own testimony, the Finisses have experienced substantial fuel savings due to the unequalled insulative value of LIFETIME aluminum siding!

Women Look Forward to T.F. County Fair

Mrs. Joseph Kucera, right, and Mrs. Blanche Brunet, left, superintendents in the Women's Fair building at the Twin Falls county fair, are conferring over last year's fair and discussing the coming one. (Staff photo-encouraging)

Fair Is Opportunity for Women to Display Work

Fair time is premium time. The women's department and the kitchen and Pantry department at the Twin Falls county fair this week are an opportunity for women to display their best handwork, inventive cake making and perhaps obtain recognition for their efforts. Mrs. Joseph Kucera, right, one of the superintendents of the Women's department, is anticipating approximately 150 entrants in her division. This includes articles crocheted, knitted, embroidered, appliqued, sewed and textile painting. Underneath bed spreads, quilts, infants and children's wear, dresses and coats and knitted and crocheted wear, as well as carving and needlework, ceramics, needlecraft, and a miscellaneous display. The picture division includes oil, watercolor, pastels, thesis, pen and ink sketches, charcoal and wood and embroidery. Most of the participants enter their classes, bringing as many as 15 items to enter in most every class of each class. As in the past, the women's department is pleased to have a large number of entries, cut work, appliqued, crocheted, knitted, embroidered and other classes. The majority enter in 10 or 12 items. Many of the entrants enter articles year after year, and Mrs. Kucera noted that the items entered last year were of a high quality. She thought it amazing that women had the time to do these things. Mrs. Kucera said it is interesting to observe the satisfaction the women obtain from entering the exhibition and the excitement as they bring their friends into the building to see their displays. Mrs. Blanche Brunet, left, one of the superintendents of the Kitchen and Pantry department which also is in the Women's building, noted she had about 50 entrants.

WENDELL, Aug. 30—The welfare of retarded children was discussed by members of the Gooding County Association for Retarded Children during a meeting with the director of the community services division of the National Association for Retarded Children for New York City.

Manford Hall, director of the New York group, met with Gooding county members at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Kuper, who are currently touring the northwest and meeting with groups interested in the problem.

Hall says 610 units, including one in Hawaii, belong to the NARC. Its membership total nearly 50,000 in membership and active members. Geographically, NARC embraces all of the 48 states, District of Columbia, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

It is also in active communication with comparable organizations in all of the United States. Only three of the 12 units in Idaho belong to the NARC. The NARC was organized in 1950 and its goal is 1,000 units by 1963.

Hall displayed material, including lists of films available for showing, organizations wishing to assist in the program. Lists of booklets and pamphlets are available for those interested.

The Gooding county opportunity class room will open in Gooding, Sept. 2, with Mrs. Clifford Mabbutt, Shoshone, in charge. The classroom is located in the Gooding County school and will be under the supervision of Dee Ketter, superintendent of Gooding schools.

The Gooding opportunity school room is the state project of the Idaho Jay-C-Ettes for the coming year.

Court Orders 15-Year Term For Burglary

Elmpton Arnold McCollum, Twin Falls, was sentenced to not more than 15 years in the state penitentiary Friday after he appeared before Judge Hugh A. Baker in Twin Falls district court and entered a plea of guilty to first degree burglary.

McCollum was discovered by city police inside the Co-op Service station after two women in the area reported to police she had honed glass break in the building. He was charged with entering the building at night with intent to commit larceny.

Judge Baker sentenced Nicholas Esparragoza to five years in the state penitentiary for burglary check without funds in the bank. The sentence was committed to five months in the county jail which term was commuted to 30 days in jail and a four-month probation. He has six weeks after his release from jail to make good any bad checks he has written.

Edward M. Fabrenholz entered a plea of guilty to a charge of including the employment security agency to pay him benefits for unemployment by making false statements and representations. A presentence examination was requested by his court-appointed attorney, L. B. Quinn. Date for sentencing was set for 2:30 p.m. Sept. 19.

Judges Decide Young Aren't Going to Dogs

PASADENA, Calif., Aug. 30 (UPI)—Judges from throughout the nation sharply disagreed Friday with Director J. Edgar Hoover's statement that the nation's youth is "going to the dogs."

Rather, the judges felt, today's youth is better informed, more inclined to action and more obedient than previous generations.

The jurists came to the defense of the younger generation yesterday in a resolution passed by the Advisory Council of Judges of the National Probation and Parole Association, meeting in conjunction with the American Bar association.

Hoover broadcast a request that the resolution deplored Hoover's statements before the ABA this week about juvenile crime.

Hoover said that the nation had an understanding, now it was the time for stricter control.

"We believe that in his speech to the ABA, Hoover stated or implied three fundamental fallacies," the judges declared.

"1.—That there is a general breakdown of law and order amongst the present youth of America as contrasted with earlier generations.

"2.—That the satisfactory and complete answer to crime is a 'get tough' policy with primary emphasis upon the use of iron bars as a tool for correction.

"3.—That there is an increase in crime which is directly attributable to our probation and parole system.

"4. Approve resolution

The resolution approved by 44 juvenile, criminal and appellate court judges, held that none of the propositions were true.

"While we recognize the eminence of Hoover in the field of criminal justice, we feel, too, that apprehension and correction are equally important for public protection and that persons active in their fields should be heard," the resolution stated.

"We do not believe the younger generation of our country is going to the dogs."

Space Experts Predict Russia Will Send Man Rocketing Into Orbit, Back Again

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 30 (AP)—With in perhaps a year a Russian will fly into space and come home again, space experts predicted today.

Several western scientists cited a minimum timetable of a year for Russia to send a man orbiting around the earth in a recoverable satellite or at least give him a brief rocket high jump of a few hundred miles into space.

Making the first human leap into space seems to be the main Soviet target, delegates said at the close of the general assembly of the International Astronomical Federation.

But they don't put it past the Russians to try to grab off the first glory of making the first explorations of the moon and embarrass the United States again.

"I'm flabbergasted they haven't done it yet," said Dr. Kurt Stohling of the naval research laboratory, Washington, D. C.

"We gathered the definite impression here that the Russians want to be first to the moon," said Dr. August Frederick Staats, of Bremen, president of the German Rocket society.

"The Russians said it wasn't true that they had already tried once and failed," Staats continued.

"We urged them not to try to hit the moon but just to circle it. This is in line with the idea no one should contaminate the moon with anything until it can first be learned whether any kind of life exists there naturally.

"The Russians agreed this was a good idea, but I—Soviet Premier—Khrushchev told them to land a rocket on the moon—because that might have bigger propaganda value—then I'm sure they would try to hit it."

Staats agreed with Stohling and others that man-in-space could be a reality within a year or two. England's Kenneth W. Gaitan, vice president of the British Interplanetary society, estimated five to ten years.

Just a year ago, all this seemed fantasy, but the space age is developing with revolutionary speed.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Friendships made when the community center of KIMBERLY was being born and when sagebrush was being grubbed by hand or rail were renewed at the annual Eagebrush Clubbers picnic held on a Sunday afternoon recently at the Kimberly park. Festivities started in pioneer times can never be forgotten, for all endured the same hardships and extended helping hands to neighbors, who in turn were helped by them. Though the interested members date back to the years from 1905 to 1925, the group has been in existence for about 10 years. Some of the early settlers decided to have an annual get-together to renew old acquaintances and that is how the group was started. They also decided to always hold the picnic on the third Sunday of July.

They have met in other places, sometimes the TWIN FALLS canyon park, and the BUBBA park, but their hearts were in Kimberly, so they saw chosen that as their meeting site the last few years. In fact, Mrs. O. D. Tilley states that she believed their group may be sort of instrumental in helping to stir up the interest in Kimberly residents to beautify the park. A concrete comment was made, the park has been greatly improved with many added attractions for making it a meeting place, and is still being improved.

Those attending the picnic from out-of-town included Oila Eganess, Mountain Home, who acted as chairman for the afternoon, and Mrs. Eganess, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Tilley, who farm south of HAGEN in the ROCK CREEK area. Mrs. Tilley is secretary for the group, Mrs. Madeline Monroe, who came in 1905 to the Rock Creek settlement, and Mrs. Lucy Hatfield, both now of Buhl; Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Kuy and son, Pler; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunn, Aberdeen; Mrs. Stella Fenton and Mrs. Edna Kemp, Twin Falls; Mrs. Mary Walker, Hansen, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson, near QUINCY.

From Kimberly were Mrs. Dora Nail, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Patterson, Pearl Tusey, Mrs. W. M. Van Houten; Mr. and Mrs. Gari Ridgeway and family, Ella Edmons, Mrs. Charles Galie, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stepper, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woods, Mrs. Maude Newcomer and Mr. and Mrs. Lew Brown.

Many reminiscences were shared. Chaslie Dunn told of his first meeting with his wife in Kimberly. Mrs. Mountain Home, who acted as chairman when Charlie drove up with a bunch. (She called it snatching up.) Arriving a four-horse team hitched to a wagon. Her comment was "Well now, see who has brought into town!" Mrs. Harry Wilson, also a clerk, said, "Oh, that's only Charlie Dunn!" They were then introduced. She thought him quite a character at first, but history proved that she changed as she later became his bride. Charlie Dunn's father was an early settler on land between Kimberly and Hansen on what is now highway 30. He built the house which was later purchased

T. F. Man Grows Big Serving of Spuds

He also grows with flowers and has a rock garden. "My wife, Thelma, puts a year's supply of beans, carrots and corn in the deep freeze," he says, adding, "We've got enough lettuce for the whole neighborhood." Twin Falls County Fair-and-Rodeo officials say Hutter's potato is of exceptional size. (Staff photo-engraving)

Preparation for the dive took approximately 30 minutes and was done with care. The Rev. Mr. Cronk used a U. S. Divers Inc. Aqua Lung. It is known as the Cousteau-Gagnan process and features a demand regulator. The tanks, when filled with 2,200 pounds of compressed air, and the harness weigh 35 pounds.

The diving suit is a special dry type Italian "Pirelli." It is a two-piece suit and is worn over mesh type long underwear. The helmet is a close fitting neoprene water-tight which permits equalization of water pressure on the divers' eardrums. The diving suit consists of form fitting trousers and jacket.

Four feet or flippers were worn by the Rev. Mr. Cronk. He explains that 90 percent of his propulsion depends on the flippers. When he dives for the bottom the diver goes head first at an angle. When surfacing the hands are held at the side.

Neyman sealed the Rev. Mr. Cronk into the suit. Talcum powder is sprinkled liberally on the inside of the suit before it is put on. The two-piece rubber suit is made water-tight at the waist by two rubber belts or hoops.

One belt, which has a groove on the outside is rolled in such a manner the trousers and upper garment are folded. The other or outer ring is then slipped over the body and laced in the groove of the first ring.

sure" on his sinus while on the dive. His diving has been done in fresh and salt water at widely separated spots around the United States.

The density of salt water is greater than fresh water but he says he believes the pressure at various depths is the same. The Rev. Mr. Cronk has pursued his hobby off the Florida Keys, in the huge Sound, near San Diego, in the Little Wood river, Payette lake and the Snake river.

He assisted in the search for a drowned child in the Little Wood river and for the bodies of three fishermen who drowned two years ago near Massacre rocks on the Snake river.

In addition, he has explored the underwater city of Roosevelt in the Idaho primitive area near Stunigite. The mining city was founded in 1905 as the result of a rock slide which blocked the outlet of the

Ike's Statement on Slower Integration Not Surprising to News Talk Watcher

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—That President Eisenhower has finally decided to slow down the integration of public schools is not surprising to anyone who has carefully examined his new conference statements over the past 12 months.

"All whole theme — although he never fully said so until Wednesday — has been that this is slow process. He's talked of patience, of educating people on the issues, and said laws could change the hearts or minds of people."

But what came as a surprise was the time he chose to say publicly that he thinks the supreme court's order to end public school segregation should be carried out at an even slower pace than its going, only after the court has had time to consider the case pending the courts.

But his statement Wednesday about slower integration came one day before the supreme court was set to announce its decision on integration at Little Rock's Central high school should be resumed or not.

A reporter quoted Newsweek magazine as saying Eisenhower had told friends he thought integration should slow down. Asked if that was correct, the President said he didn't have any more to say on the subject.

However, Eisenhower denied another part of the magazine story that he had said he would like to see the law which he wishes the high court had never declared null and void in 1954 definitively and unconstitutionally.

Never throughout news conferences — going back to February 1955 — has he given any sign that he had any clear plan for enforcing the supreme court's order.

He's repeatedly mentioned talking to educators, clergymen and occasional governors he met about the need to get people to understand the problems of integration and obeying the supreme court. He's refused repeatedly to say whether he thinks the court's order was good or right.

All he ever really said about his intentions was that he had taken an oath to enforce the law.

At one time—Sept. 11, 1956—he seemed to think he himself couldn't do anything, that the job was up to U. S. legislators.

But what he said: "The federal government is not allowed to go into any state unless called upon by the governor who must show that the governor is unable with the means at his disposal, to preserve order."

And on July 17, 1957, Eisenhower said: "I can't imagine any set of circumstances that would ever induce me to send federal troops into a federal court and into any area to enforce the order of a federal court because I believe the common sense of America will never require it."

But a couple of months later—when Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus used the national guard to block a court order to integrate Central high school — Eisenhower sent in federal troops—not at Faubus' request, but over his protests.

It will long be argued whether Faubus ever would have used the troops—had said he'd use them when and where necessary.

Eisenhower apparently didn't even know on July 17, 1957, whether he could use troops, for he told his news conference that day: "Now, there may be that kind of authority resting somewhere, but I certainly am not seeking any additional authority of that kind, and I would never believe that it would be a wise thing to do in this country."

But after the Little Rock experience and while federal troops were still there, Eisenhower—on May 14, 1958—was asked if he'd send troops into other states if necessary to compel obedience to a court order.

He said: "Now, I don't know. I am not going to try to predict what the exact circumstances in any other cases will be."

On Aug. 6, 1958, Eisenhower, reminded that another school year was approaching, was asked if he had any plans for personal action to head off tension by such means as talks, statements or special instructions to the justice department.

He said: "Well, I haven't pinned at this moment any particular speeches . . . I believe we have got to look inside ourselves."

And, returning to the theme he has stressed, he said: "More law will never solve this problem."

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT "Mr. T. F. Fair, Rodeo," Is Busy Man As Local Fairtime Rolls Around Again

When fall of the year rolls around, one of the busiest men in the county is Tom Parks, Filer, better known to many as "Mr. Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo."

Weeks before the annual event is slated for the Filer fairgrounds, the dynamic veteran fair manager can be seen in several of the half-dozen places at the same time, and he continues to lead his assistants and co-workers in merry chase until the gates are closed and the midway cleared of the last fair-goer for the year.

The title which has been dubbed on the dark-haired man who came to Idaho in 1910 from Colorado has not been by accident. For 45½ past 28 seasons Parks has managed the annual Twin Falls county fair and county rodeo now window for Twin Falls county residents to display the fruits of their year's labor.

It is said that Parks in only busy just prior to and during the fair would be a great injustice. As soon as the gates are closed on the night of the fair, the man whom the county fair board has seen fit to appoint as manager begins making plans for the fair a year hence. From that time on, Parks is busy in the county searching for new entertainment, planning for new spaces for exhibits and making arrangements for the fairgrounds which he has helped to build.

It is during the winter months that contracts are made with rodeo producers, carnival owners and sportsmen for the forthcoming harvest festival.

Each January, from about the 10th to the 16th, Parks visits the county and makes his annual trip to Denver to attend the Rodeo Convention and Stock show.

It is while on this tour that Parks signs up many of the acts to be featured in the fall. "Everyone who has anything to sell in the business comes there," he says.

Lead January, Parks met a family of four from the Shamrock ranch near Westboro, Mo., which impressed him with a brother-in-law. Before the convention was over, Parks was assured he would have the McChesney family trick riding and roping acts at the Filer fairgrounds from Sept. 3 through 6.

Another act contracted by Parks for the 1936 fair and rodeo is a Brahma bull and horse act presented by George Taylor, an Oklahoma, Twin Falls county fair manager feels is one of the best shown in the rodeo business.

Always aware that he must please many persons with many tastes in entertainment, Parks constantly keeps his eyes and ears open for new acts which is about different. During the past year he says he was fortunate to find an act which will please the people who are more inclined to like automobiles than horses and bulls.

Although operating on a tight schedule, Oval Kliesburg, a daredevil driver and clown who knows Parks, agreed to have his auto act rotate to the Twin Falls county event although he could be here for only one day. Parks was given the chance to get the 50th anniversary show to the southern Idaho for the first time and Kliesburg agreed to appear on the afternoon of the final day, Sept. 6.

Searching for entertainment and new ideas is only part of Parks' activity during the off-season. Since the beginning of his long reign as king of the Filer fair grounds, he has worked hard and cleverly at building a place where the county can hold its annual fair with pride.

Starting out in 1932 with practically nothing more than a vacant piece of land and a lot of hope, he has built up the area just on the east edge of Filer until it now boasts 40 permanent buildings, no counting the horse barns with 50 or more stalls.

"Jack of all trades," Parks has done much of the carpenter work himself. During the past year he has increased the size of the grandstand to 120 feet long and 100 feet wide. Posts which previously have blocked the view of some members of the audience have been removed and replaced with less conspicuous ones.

Two new buildings have been added to the circle of white structures at the fairgrounds during the off-season. One is a full building, 33 by 60 feet with a 10-foot ceiling. It is to be used for exhibiting furs. A new building, 46 by 72 feet has been which was added to the fair for the time last year. Additional space was added to the antique building, building to be constructed during Parks' tenure as manager of the fairgrounds is the livestock stock pen which measures 750 feet around the outside walls. Living on the premises with his two sons, Gary Baxter, and George Baxter, Mrs. Tom Parks and her moving at a steady pace.

During the off-season he raises hay on the parking lot and mid-way at the fall for feeding the rodeo livestock.

Street Festival Expected to Attract Thousands to Burley

BURLEY, Aug. 30.—What started out to be a free beef barbecue for Burley's "street festival" has turned into a beef and lamb barbecue.

The additional meat is the result of a statement made by Garret Kidd, Burley area sheepman, to the effect that "if you'll serve lamb, too, I'll get you enough to fill one barbecue pit." So the city, instead of building two pits, is now ready to build three.

The barbecue will be the main attraction that will bring an estimated 6,000 visitors for the festival in the downtown area beginning at 5:30 p.m. Sept. 20. The event will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, to celebrate the completion of several miles of city street reconstruction which has been going on for the past five months and includes two state highways running through the business section.

Workers Get Booths Ready for County Fair

Booths of various organizations began to make their appearance on midway during the past week at the fair grounds. From these booths, hungry fairgoers will purchase hodge, hamburgers and other items when the Twin Falls county fair opens Wednesday. C. A. Smith, Filer, runs water lines to service the booths which will be operated by county organizations. (Staff photo- engraving)

Fairgrounds Humming with Activities As Many Workers Ready 4-Day Event

 water pipes to the booths. The man whom some would envy Fred Holloway who rode on top of a 600-gallon water tank while a team of horses about the fairgrounds during the past year. From time to time he would drive the team to an overhead water spout near the wagon tank. Holloway is so sure he had such an easy job he complained he had to get up early to feed and harness the team before beginning his day-long job.

The newly constructed "Dog House" carpenters and painters will be housed the more than 100 exhibits this year. Located in the northeast corner of the grounds, several head of bucking horses closed in the sun on the new hay recently taken in the midway. In an adjacent area two Brahmas bulls eyed the gleaming in their eyes.

On the average just to the west of the original fairgrounds plot, large piles of hay lay in the sun waiting for someone to haul them away to make room for the hundreds of cars that will park there during the fair. Two men worked on the gate and ticket office at the entrance to the large parking space.

At the chutes in the rodeo arena, two men installed public address equipment which will be used by the rodeo announcers, horse race callers and special attraction speakers.

Elsewhere, some of the exhibit halls were getting their faces scrubbed with long-handled brushes of their makeup renewed with freshly hauled paintbrushes. In just a few more days they would have thousands of callers, none of whom would be particularly interested in the buildings themselves, but who would be extremely interested in the exhibits housed within. If, however, the buildings didn't look proper, the crowd might move on and never view what was displayed on the inside.

Amid all this beehive of activity, Tom Parks, secretary-manager of the fair, moved swiftly from place to place, assuring himself that everything would be proper when Wednesday morning rolled around. Actually, Tuesday will be the first day when some of the major entertainment will begin. On that day the sleazebag circus and carnival units which have been playing separately elsewhere in the state during the summer will start to operate as one unit for those who seek thrilling rides and other carnival enjoyments.

Although Parks is the man in charge which makes the fair tick each year, there are hundreds of others who assist in keeping the annual event moving on a smooth schedule. Approximately 1,500 free passes are issued each year to those who in some way help to keep the pendulum swinging.

Among these hundreds who are responsible for the fair are seven men who serve on the fair board without pay.

Curta Eaton, Twin Falls, has been chairman of this group for several seasons. Other members are Henry L. Lehman, vice chairman, Buhl; Duane S. Parkins, Murtzbaugh, C. D. Grove, Kimberly; Parley Harmon, of Castleford; Ben G. Mottern, Twin Falls; and Clyde Smith, Filer. Smith was recently appointed by the county commissioners to replace W. W. Reed, Filer, who resigned because of ill health after several active years on the board.

There are at least two other springs in the fair clock without whose assistance the chimes might not toll properly each year. They are Parley's daughter, Mrs. Baxter, who has been assisting her father with the fair "since the very beginning." Each year she takes her vacation from a Twin Falls law firm so she can help.

The other is Mrs. Dexter's son, Gary, who rides in the Filer posse, helps in a million ways at fair time and even rodeo himself in a bear skin one year as part of an act put on by the rodeo clowns.

This year fairgoers may see him dressed in a clown costume, riding about the grounds on his pet calf.

Tomorrow and Tuesday the fairgrounds activity will continue, then will come the big four days that many Magic Valley residents have been waiting for, and the week afterward all activity will be reversed.

The booths will be torn down and stored, the water pipes will be replaced, the debris will be cleaned away and for another 11 months the fairgrounds, for the most part, will lay silently on the east edge of Filer as a reminder that once a Twin Falls county residents meet and display with pride the handwork of their year's labor.

Sambo Likes to Forage for Own Food... but Sometimes He Likes a Handout, too

Just to prove he can, Sambo, the angling fellow of Shoshone falls, prepares to sample the contents of an opened can of cat food. Much of the time Sambo, who has adopted three families at various times at the Idaho Power company installation at Shoshone falls, dines on fish and usually leaves people strictly alone. (Staff photo engraving)

Self-reliant Sambo, who has spent 14 years in the Snake river canyon near the Idaho Power company camp at Shoshone falls, usually forages for himself. However, at the picture indicates, he's not adverse to accepting a handout now and then. In this case, the feeding hand belongs to Mrs. Albert W. Lutloff who has her husband, standing by, complied the first family Sambo adopted some nine years ago. (Staff photo engraving)

Sambo, Shoshone Falls 'Angler,' Lives His Nine Lives in Independent Fashion

Sambo, the fishing fellow of Shoshone falls, has stretched his nine lives out over a 14-year span and is as fine, thank you, despite the years of winter and curious canines, the big jet-black cat currently in his third set of adopted families, as he visits when it suits him for a handout. But, make no mistake about it, Sambo is independent and depends upon no one for his livelihood. He's as adept at looking for fish with his claws along the edge as an expert angler is at a hook and line.

Best Hunting in Gem State Is Found Far From Civilization

Proper equipment and pack stock always makes a big game hunting trip more pleasant and successful. Even though hundreds of deer and elk are taken close to roads where they may be brought out without difficulty, the best results are usually obtained by going back into the mountains away from the pressures of civilization. A fine trophy animal and pleasant memories usually follows such a hunt. (Fish and game department photo)

Changes in Regulations for Deer and Elk Hunts Throughout Idaho Given

By LEVI MOHLER
(Idaho fish and game department)

BOISE, Aug. 30—Several changes in the regulations concerning deer and elk hunts for this year are somewhat new to Idaho sportsmen and our sportsmen have reported a number of inquiries regarding methods and procedures to be followed.

Although the "multiple" deer hunting units and the "combination" elk hunting areas established in Idaho this season are a change from our standard operations, both systems have been used successfully in a number of other states to provide a proper harvest and management of game animals.

High deer numbers in certain areas have brought about the "multiple" deer hunts. On the other hand, the popularity of elk hunting, particularly in accessible places, has made it necessary to devise restrictive regulations to maintain elk herds at desirable numbers, while still permitting general season hunting over most of the state.

Feeling that a more or less detailed explanation and procedures would be of aid to the hunting public, the following information has been compiled:

The new features relative to eastern Idaho elk will permit a limited harvest of cow elk while leaving all hunters in that area a chance to hunt bull elk.

The 1958 regulations permit any hunter to use the regular 1958 elk tag on antlered elk in area E-11 which includes practically all the eastern elk area from Gilmore summit east and south along the Montana and Wyoming lines to the Blue Lake-Franklin-Onedda country along the Utah line. In the same area only 250 persons hunting controlled elk hunt permits may legally take cow elk.

With careful management, including restricted hunting, the elk herds of eastern Idaho increased steadily in the years before the start of the present general hunt. Then in three consecutive years, 1955 through 1957, general hunting seasons on elk reduced the population in some areas and tended to stabilize the population in other areas.

The 1958 season should hold the elk population near its present level in some parts of eastern Idaho and probably permit some increase in gains in other eastern areas. The regulations established for 1958 will provide the maximum increase and will insure that a high carry-over of cow elk will be on hand to produce young in 1959.

It is expected that many eastern Idaho elk hunters will head for the central and northern Idaho rather than hunt near home in a "bull-only" hunt. But the lure of a handsome trophy from the home area will undoubtedly make for a busy season there too.

For deer hunters, the new feature for 1958 hinges upon the multiple deer hunting units which effect the middle fork of the Salmon, part of Owyhee county and a large southeastern area lying in three counties and reached easily from a triple-point, Soda Springs, and Grace. All three of these areas have an abundance of deer and the liberal regulations there give the hunters a chance to hunt in the close range. The herds so they will come nearer to "winter" range.

The regular 1958 deer tag may be used for deer in any open only in the middle fork of the Snake (area D-11 on the same map). Another tag, called "extra

T. F. Resident Due for Trip

Earl E. Haroldson, 553 Fairway drive, has been selected to attend a two-day "national opinion poll on 1959 automobiles" in Detroit, Oct. 8 and 9.

The expense-paid trip and program are sponsored by the Ford Motor company, through the cooperation of the American Institute of Public Opinion, Princeton, N. J.

A telegram from Dr. Gallup received Wednesday morning by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce said 400 community representatives throughout the country will tour Ford installations and meet with Ford executives and Henry Ford II.

Haroldson will also be joined a 1959 Ford to drive for 30 days upon his return from Michigan.

Mrs. Rodney Tegan, acting chamber secretary-manager, dress Haroldson's name from a hat filled with names of Twin Falls service club members.

Buhl Unit Plans Election, Dinner

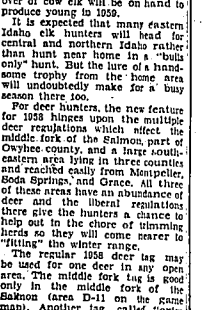

BUHL, Aug. 30—Election of officers and the quarterly birthday anniversary dinner will be held by the Buhl Grange at 7:30 p. m., Sept. 11. It was announced at the meeting Thursday night.

Final preparations were made for the county fair.

Blanche Smith, lecturer, was in charge of the program and introduced Billy Southwick who spoke briefly and demonstrated his 4-H bug project and weed collection.

The closing thought was presented by Mrs. Smith entitled, "Thoughts of a New Member." Mrs. Emma Bell and Mrs. Henna Davis served refreshments following the meeting.

THE NEW APPROACH

There is a new approach to home decorating today. It can be summarized in one word—Individualism. Simply copying of a pattern or period is, happily, a thing of the past. And the follow-the-leader attitude—that of having one's home look like hundreds of other homes—is completely outmoded. Today we want our homes to be individually our own; planned to fit our special patterns of living, with the style or styles of furniture we like combined with colors and fabrics that are of our own careful choice.

Space gives a leading role in today's home decor, and we select and arrange our furniture with an eye to making every inch of our homes livable.

The furniture in the bedroom sketched above has a traditional feeling, yet the space-saving arrangement gives the room a definite contemporary flavor. Large double dresser merges plan-

There's No Safe Test Eating Wild Mushrooms Can Have Deadly Result

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
(Writer for NEA Service)

"Is there a good safe way," a reader asks, "for telling whether a mushroom is edible or not?"

This is an important question. Indeed, every year a good many people pick mushrooms in the woods or fields, take them home and cook and eat them. Sometimes disastrous results there are a good many deaths from mushroom poisoning.

There is no reliable test for determining whether mushrooms are edible or not. Such claims as that a mushroom, if eaten, turns silver black, falls to pieces or is found next to a rusty nail cannot be counted on.

Indeed, the popular method of testing the edibility of mushrooms by preliminary feeding is particularly dangerous. One of the most poisonous mushrooms is said to have a good flavor—but I hope never to try it.

The only safe mushrooms to eat are those which are commercially cultivated.

In the United States most cases of poisoning are caused by mushrooms of the amanita family, the best known of which is sometimes called the "death angel." The poison from the "death angel" or amanita phalloides, is technically known as a toxin.

About six to 18 hours after eating this dangerous mushroom the symptoms begin to appear.

These usually consist of nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and severe abdominal pains. There may be great thirst, inability to urinate, dizziness, the "fly amanita" which is commonly used in medicine. The symptoms appear usually within three hours after eating this mushroom. Vomiting, there is also vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal pains. In fatal cases, convulsions and coma may follow. If identified early enough, a kind of mushroom poisoning is treated with atropine. In properly directed cases about out of ten recover. It is surely unwise to pick mushrooms in the woods when one can be bought so easily.
