By The Associated Press

Derr, Clark Fork, empaneled gubernatorial aspirant, asserted this view in a letter to the Idaho Press today. "I know full well," said Derr, "that the Republican state chairman, 'that enforcement of laws dealing with local gambling is a fact in the local law enforcement authorities. He knows full well, too, that state officers are everywhere to find out what is going on and what is being done. County Grassman for '58 Came Here 18 Years Ago Operating 80-Acre Farm

A Twin Falls farmer who came to the area 18 years ago with his wife, a 1937 Chevrolet, a few blankets and a handful of Kansas debts is the county candidate for the 1958 Idaho Grassman of the Year award. The 1958 county grassman is Charles E. Harris, who farms 80 acres south of Twin Falls with aid of his wife, Wilma, and 14-year-old son, Alvin. Originally a native of Kansas, the 44-year-old farmer and cattle raiser came with his wife to Idaho in 1940. Mrs. Harris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Marken, after farming the place a year or so, the new owners found the soil did not produce a profitable crop of beans and the alfalfa and grain crops were low yielding.

Drive Carefully!

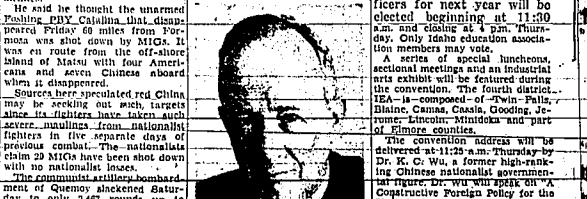

TAIPEI, Formosa, Oct. 4 (AP)—A U.S. Nike-Hercules missile with its deadly antiaircraft missiles is expected to reach Formosa Wednesday to help guard nationalist China against communist bombing attack. It will come during a period of concern about the possibility of a Chinese ground-to-air missile that can be fired effectively 75 to 100 miles at speeds greater than sound. It has the capability of seeking out and destroying an aerial target despite evasive action. Its potential will help free more national aircraft for use if necessary against more than 400 red-starred MIG fighters poised on the mainland. The missile will be repeated in the future as the air drop program grows. Strengthening this belief was a statement by Angus Tal, head of nationalist China's privately owned Paoing Airlines. He said he thought the unnamed flying MIG, China, that disappeared Friday at 10 miles from Formosa was shot down by MIGs. It was en route from the off-shore island of Matsu with 10 American and seven Chinese aboard when it disappeared. Sources here speculated red China may be seeking out such targets as the Paoing Airlines taken such a heavy loss. The unnamed MIG fighters in five separate days of previous combat. The nationalist claim 20 MIGs have been shot down by no nationalist losses. Communist spokesmen, however, claim to have shot down 20 MIGs Saturday night to only 2,677 rounds to nightfall.

Science Set to Probe Oceans to Gain Clues to Next Half-Century's Climate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (UPI)—Scientists of the world today project a massive attempt to wrest from the seven seas clues to what the planet's climate will be in the next half-century.

They also hope to dredge up information on:

- Whether radioactive wastes from the world's growing nuclear industry may safely be discarded in the ocean's depths.
- How man, his numbers rapidly expanding, may reap the maximum harvest of food from the sea.
- The program for intensifying study of the oceans was adopted by the International Council of Scientific (ICSU) which is holding its eighth general assembly here.

Of several projects the major one will be a scientific assault on the Indian ocean. The Indian ocean was picked above others for concentrated investigation because its weather patterns and its "convergence" with the Antarctic ships of more than 20 nations will be mired during the Indian ocean's life and dynamics. Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner of New York, ICSU president, said that when the program is concluded the sea will be the most exhaustively studied ocean in the world.

In this and other oceanographic work to be coordinated by ICSU, the latest scientific techniques will be employed. For example, radioactive materials will be used to trace the motion and mixing of waters.

An ICSU report emphasized three long-range oceanic research problems which it said "may be critical to the future welfare of mankind." They are the problems of radioactive waste disposal, food, and weather.

The weather problem "is perhaps the least well understood of the three," the report said, adding: "It concerns the role of the oceans in climate change. During the past 50 years the average temperature over eastern North America and northern Europe has markedly increased, while elsewhere prolonged droughts have destroyed the work and hopes of decades."

"Will this trend continue over the next 50 years, or will it be reversed?"

The question can't be answered until more information is obtained. Scientists believe the waters of the oceans may play an important role in changing climates. For example, heat from the sun can be stored in the deep water and slowly released over many years to warm the air.

Ocean studies require ships and other equipment which cost a lot of money. The Indian ocean project alone is "being suggested" at around four million dollars. But ICSU believes the possible stakes justify the expense.

"A prediction of future climate," its report said, "would be of invaluable value to society."

2 English Aircraft Inaugurate "Jet Age" in Trip Over Ocean

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Two British airliners ushered in the jet age of transoceanic passenger plane travel Saturday.

One ship, a De Havilland Comet IV of the British Overseas Airways corporation, set a record time for streaking across the 3,500 miles from New York to London in 8 hours 12 minutes.

A sister craft, which stopped for refueling at Gander, Newfoundland, made the London-to-New York trip in 10 hours 20 minutes.

What the British failed to do on water a few days ago, in the America's Cup yacht races, they did in the air—beat the Americans.

Pan American World Airways, which had boasted that its blinger faster Boeing 707 would start the craft.

The world's first commercial jet flights across the Atlantic, plans to send up its first jet flight between New York, Paris and Rome Oct. 26.

BOAC had its giant new jet transport, among each way between New York and London within a few hours after all red tape was cleared to permit such flights.

The eastbound Comet, "Bravo," averaged 500 miles per hour with a top speed of 640 miles per hour. It was expected to arrive about 6 1/2 hours by jet. Pan-American craft take about 11 1/2 hours.

The westward trip will take a little longer because of headwinds. But the jets will make this, too, about 40 per cent faster than other passengers on the plane arriving.

BOAC said the jet liners are equipped to carry 48 passengers and that fares would be the same as first class and deluxe fares on ordinary planes. There are $783 round-trip first class and $472 de luxe.

Each of the historic flights carried a number of paying passengers, some of whom had put in bids for the inaugural flight years ago. Sir Gerard D'Erlanger, chairman of BOAC, one of those on the westbound flight, brought a letter from the lord mayor of London to New York city Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The "Bravo" clipped 15 minutes the previous record set almost two months ago by a Comet. It also set by a Comet for a westward flight from Britain to America.

The two ships passed seven miles above the Atlantic 20 miles from London. But they never saw each other. They were 200 miles apart. Passengers on the plane arriving

Youth-Facing Count as Two Vehicles Ram

ONTARIO, Oct. 4 (AP)—An earlier Oregon farmer died Saturday in a head-on collision between two trucks. The accident resulted in the filing of negligent homicide charges against a Utah teen-ager who was killed in the collision on U.S. 20-28 about seven miles southwest of Ontario, his son, Sam Lione, Jr., about 13, was given hospital treatment for minor injuries, then was released.

Head-on Crash
State Police Officer, L. C. Cooley said Lione's pickup truck and a heavy truck driven by Joseph Oliver Westbrooke, 17, Salina, Utah, collided head-on.

Cooley cited Westbrooke for driving on the wrong side of the highway. The Utah teen-ager later was named in a complaint charging negligent homicide. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Deane Peters, who set bail at $1,500. It was not known if Westbrooke was held in jail here.

No Inquest
George Beecher, Malheur county coroner, said there would be no inquest.

Lining Begun By Crews for Lincoln Pool

SHOSHONE, Oct. 4 (AP)—Work on laying clay to line the bottom of the pond at the city park here began this week. The pond will be utilized as a swimming pool for pond and fish pond.

The clay, a mixture of bentonite, comes from a mine south of Shoshone along highway 92. It is presumed it will stop seepage of water from the pond so it may be kept filled with water for the combination skating and fishing pond.

Peapack is handling the city work with the work of planning the pool and made arrangements for the work. The work was started by seven trucks early this week. City Supv. Bert Terry said the work would be finished in the next few days.

Two city trucks were used, Shoshone and Peapack. The trucks hauled three and two were furnished by District Highway District No. 2.

Drivers were Leon Vansant, Sheriff Thomas Connor, Gene Coffman, Lawrence Banda, Robert Rogers, John Daniels and Frank Brown.

Ed Schwager handled the grading of the L. C. Hill at the city park and L. C. Hill at the city park and L. C. Hill at the city park.

The city is paying all gasoline and oil costs on the borrowed equipment. The excavation work began when the railroad construction company started work in early days. Since then dirt was hauled back into the pond but it never retained water.

Ordinarily the mud will fill from the river. Through the winter, the river is down, the pumps are used to maintain the skating level. The water level was in place in the pond next year for children.

2 Men Are Victims of Ride Crane Toppled

ADSWOOD, N. J., Oct. 4 (AP)—A huge crane toppled into a 22-foot-deep "grave" today, killing two men and trapping two workers. Both were killed, presumably from drowning, as water spewed into the ditch from a broken main.

First aid squads, civil defense forces and other volunteers, digging under searchlights, brought up the bodies today some nine and a half hours after the accident.

Three other men scrambled out as the edges of the trench gave way. One man was killed. The other three were injured.

Michael Landis, 24, Ellensburg, and Fred Zanca, 45, Rutherford, were killed. They were laying a 24-inch sewer line in the excavation.

U.S. to Get Look at "Space" Plane

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—The air force will roll out to public view the X-15 aircraft—designed to carry man on his first excursion to the fringe of space.

The X-15 will be brought out of the North American Aviation company plant at Inglewood, Calif., for inspection by air force officials and the public.

The X-15, with the most rudimentary of wings, is intended for speeds of about 3,000 miles per hour and altitudes exceeding 100 miles. At 100 miles, "visually" the X-15 is "in the stratosphere," the atmosphere disappears. It is the doorway to space.

The first test of the X-15 is expected to come early next year.

U. S. Mission For Formosa Is Discounted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Officially discounted—but did not discount—the possibility that the Eisenhower administration might send a special embassy to Formosa to discuss the Quemoy crisis with President Chiang Kai-shek.

The purpose of such a mission presumably would be to try to persuade the Chinese nationalist government to accept the United Nations' view of the offshore islands near the Chinese mainland more into line with the views of U. S. leaders.

Specifically, President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles feel that Chiang has too many of his forces committed to the defense of Quemoy and Matsu.

Eye Demilitarization
Dulles said last week that if the Chinese communists would institute a cease-fire he thought it would be foolish for China to keep so many troops there. A thinning out of nationalistic forces eventually could lead to demilitarization of the islands.

The view of many officials here is that the U. S. should not be involved in the never-ending campaign to save life and property by preventing destructive fires.

"I request that all business, labor and farm organizations, as well as churches, schools, civic groups, cooperate fully in the observance of fire prevention week."

Tipsy Flier

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (AP)—Thomas J. Pappas, New Jersey steamfitter, has done it again. For the second time in a little over two years, Pappas risked his life Saturday, he stole a plane from Tebeiro airport, N. J., while drunk and made a perilous landing in the Washington Heights section of Manhattan.

"It's the lousy drink," he said, smiling through his teeth.

Smylie Launches Anti-Blaze Week

BOISE, Oct. 4 (AP)—The period of the year when fire prevention week in Idaho is a proclamation from the office of Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

"I request that all business, labor and farm organizations, as well as churches, schools, civic groups, cooperate fully in the observance of fire prevention week."

Rescue Party Hauls Injured Boy Off Peak

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 4 (AP)—A rescue party hauled an injured youth off a mountain peak Saturday night and landed him safely.

He brought down 17-year-old Douglas Chapman from the 9,017-foot peak after a grueling all-day effort.

Chapman was injured Friday afternoon when he fell on the jagged peak while hiking with two teen-age companions.

Struggle Ends
His rescue and hospitalization ended a tense and dramatic struggle by nearly 100 sheriff's deputies and volunteers that started almost 30 hours before.

The leader of the band of gritty men who inched their way down the steep face of the mountain was Salt Lake Sheriff's Capt. C. W. Brimley.

Rescuers had indicated as night brought the boy down in the dark, but they suddenly changed their minds.

Brady said, "We just decided that the boy couldn't stand another night on the mountain."

"We also figured that the men carrying him would be weakened if they had to wait."

Young Chapman's face was distorted by swelling and coated with dry blood.

A preliminary examination indicated he had no broken bones, but was hospitalized for observation.

The youth, who had remained cheerful throughout his ordeal, was conscious as he was carried down the mountain by changing teams of rescuers utilizing a basket stretcher.

'Not Fanatic,' Says Mormon Of Trip Plan

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4—Why does Sam Baker say he's not a fanatic? Other men and drift some 2,000 miles across the Pacific from California to Hawaii.

DeVere Baker said, upon returning Friday:

"I am not an adventurer, a promoter, a fanatic or a fanatic. I am merely a person who wants to know the truth."

Accounts of Travel
"I am a Mormon. In our scripture, the Book of Mormon, there are accounts of travel across great oceans by raft. One of these is the one I have just returned, for modern record."

The next, also based on the Book of Mormon, will take him from the Gulf of Persia, eastward around the earth, to the shores of this continent. It is expected to be two years preparing for his first voyage.

First Voyage
"It is our belief that this voyage was first made by the followers of the Prophet Lehi (hence the name of the Book of Mormon) and that the descendants of Lehi populated this hemisphere, raising a great civilization."

"Why is this important to persons outside the Mormon faith? Because it is our belief that this great civilization was destroyed by war—the same kind toward which we may be heading today."

"It is my hope, in proving the truth of our scriptures, that people may profit by the mistakes of the past and may avoid destruction."

The Power to Ask Protects Your Right to Know

Every day some policy-makers in government, or leaders in other walks of life, make decisions which vitally affect your future and that of your family.

In many countries of the world they would be forced to follow these dictums, blind as unable to ask why, or in many cases unable even to know that they had been made.

In America, everyone with public responsibility knows he must be prepared to answer for his actions. He knows that your representative—the skilled reporter of the daily newspaper—will appear, pencil in hand, to ask pertinent questions that he had better be prepared to answer.

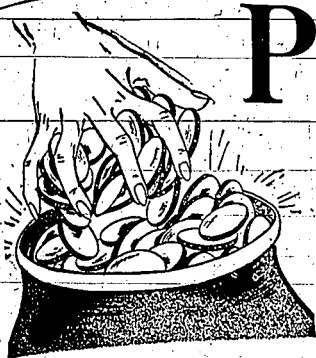

Every day your newspaper, through its reporters and wire services, probes a multitude of newsworthy problems for answers to the whys and wherefores of actions that affect your job, your home, your family and your safety.

The answers-published in your daily newspaper are not fleeting messages, but are an indelible record that give you and your neighbors the basis for discussion and for rendering the ultimate decision on unpopular and unjust actions.

Thus your daily newspaper is an extension of your power to ask questions about policies that affect you. The answers furnish you the basis for constructive judgment. The newspaper is a guardian of your freedom.

Teacher Enjoyed Last Year Spent in England

Miss Justice, music supervisor in Twin Falls elementary schools, made a picture of Guildford, Surrey county, England, where she spent last year as an exchange teacher. Miss Justice described her stay in the English city of about 45,000 persons as "very enjoyable." Being only 30 miles from London, she was able to make several trips to the capital city. (Staff photo-engraving)

Teacher Who Spent Year in England Says Worst Part of Trip Is Getting Back to Work

One of the more difficult tasks of being abroad as an exchange teacher was returning and settling down. Miss Justice had the "worst" part of her trip, she admitted, in returning to her job as music supervisor for the Twin Falls elementary school. During the past year she spent in an English school near London.

But from Aug. 13, 1957, until she began her return trip home last Aug. 21, Miss Justice had the "wonderful experience" of teaching elementary music at Guildford, Surrey county, England, about 30 miles southwest of London.

Her trip was part of the U. S. department of health, education and welfare program of exchanging teachers with other countries. Approximately 500 teachers are exchanged each year on the exchange program. Of those, about 200 are with English.

While the exception of internal travel expenses within the United States, which are paid from the Fulbright travel grant, the exchange teachers pay their own expenses. While in England, Miss Justice received her regular state-side salary, dards and cost of living was quite inadequate.

Newspaper Week Puts Spotlight on Carriers, "Successful Businessmen"

With the spotlight on the nation's carriers during National Newspaper Week, Bill Barnhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Barnhart, 1325 Ninth avenue east, stands as an example of a typical Times-News carrier. Bill has been carrying his own route for two years, with average earnings of $25 per month. Before that he substituted for other carriers for more than two years, and he credits the ease and speed with which he conducts his business to his "valuable experience."

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Sunday clothes, plans for going to town, even a pancake breakfast held last night didn't stop the youth and their advisers at Cathedral Fire-camp from bucket brigades when they heard there was a fire in one of the Baptist-church-camp-cabins.

The fire broke out in the rear of the group, there no doubt would have been a fire in the front of the group, had it not been for the quick action of the youth and their advisers. The fire started from a fire in the rear of the group, there no doubt would have been a fire in the front of the group, had it not been for the quick action of the youth and their advisers.

The Rev. Paul Winkler and a youth were en route to Stoshon from the camp for Sunday services when they saw a smoke and returned to the camp to give the alarm. No one in the camp had noticed the fire.

While flannel pants and other appropriate dress-up clothes for going to Sunday school were hardly the thing to wear to fight a fire but there wasn't time for thinking of such minor items as dress.

Rescue amounted to half a pancake for breakfast, solid Sunday clothes and no Sunday school, but the fire was extinguished.

Are there still some of the red fish which the old-time knew as such in Redfish Lake? Those who used to drive over Helena summit when wagons and buggies were in use, and even those who drove over the old road in cars, will tell you they used to catch redfish that were redfish in those days. The only time they could be caught was in August when they swam up the inlet to spawn. They were from a foot to 18 inches long and their flaming sides flashed through the water as they left the lake to start up the stream.

At no other time of the year were these fish seen and many theories were heard on where they spent the other 11 months of the year. Since the advent of good highways and fast cars the "old fashioned" redfish has disappeared.

Recently two young skin divers from BOISE, and Verle Butler, Wenatchee, Wash., spent some time exploring a small portion under the surface of the lake. Butler reported going down to a depth of 150 feet. The two Bole men came up from the bottom with two boat motors, several fishing poles and large amounts of fishing tackle.

What was most interesting to local people was the fact that they saw a "school" of fish which they described as looking like steelhead.

Improvement Discussed on 4-H Exhibits

Several suggestions are already being considered by Twin Falls county 4-H leaders and fair officials for improving fair facilities for 4-H exhibits, displays and presentations.

Copies of recommendations for changes at the 1936 fair were sent to fair officials by Donald Young, assistant county agent, following a meeting of 4-H leaders Tuesday evening at the Filer Grange hall.

The recommendations include the improvement of livestock washrack facilities; either by constructing additional washracks or blacktopping the area in back of the barns, with faucets and the rails installed.

Some 4-H leaders felt a "no smoking" rule in the livestock barns was desirable, but it was felt this would be difficult to enforce.

One leader suggested that showery be installed in the restrooms since a large number of exhibitors spend the week at the fair.

It was felt that a better show ring was needed, with stock stands and limited seating room for spectators.

In connection with the 4-H building, some leaders suggested that partitions for girls dressing rooms be removed and "dair" type exhibit space be constructed around the perimeter of the south wing of the building. It was also suggested that exhibit space be built in the center of the wing, similar to center display facilities in the west wing.

The group voiced appreciation for the efforts of the fair board in providing additional bleachers in front of the demonstration stage, resulting in an improvement over other years, but for a long-range plan of improvement should be started.

Mrs. Rose Ward, who directed this year's style review, presented a plan helped in sorting out the books of no value which were on hand at the library.

The state library and individuals donated 125 books to the library and there are on hand 100 books on a 90-day loan plan which will be replaced to add to the reading available at the library.

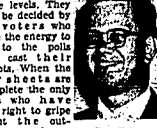

The library board plans to open the library Saturday afternoons and evenings as in the past. Mrs. Mabel Vadez has been hired as librarian.

Unintentionally omitted from the story on Mrs. Dickey's art exhibit this past week was that of Mrs. Irene Johnson also exhibited at the Red Barn studio, Hazelton.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Voice Your Opinions"

BY ROBERT KEIM
Pastor, Church of the Brethren
This fall as never before we, as the people of Idaho, are faced with some fundamental issues that would change the nature of our communities. These issues are before us.

Rev. Keim

As a Christian and as a pastor, I feel moved to take this space to tell you but also to plead with you to voice your God-given right as a citizen of the great land of our Idaho.

There are few areas of our world that still have these privileges and it is up to us to keep them. There are too many of our citizens who would rather complain than to do anything about the condition.

The first step in being a responsible citizen is to be sure that we are registered. This is a simple act of phoning our city hall or precinct registrar to confirm the fact that we are duly listed voters. If we are not, find time to get our name registered, as was approved by the group.

It was further suggested that an amphitheater be constructed, with a shell-type stage, shaped to project sound to the audience, and rooms adjacent to the stage for storage and to allow 4-H members to prepare for their demonstrations.

Along with the stage, it was recommended that closed bleachers be built, suitable for people of all ages, and easily accessible.

The group also discussed the construction of dressing rooms under the bleachers.

Secondly, we should become familiar with both sides of the question involved. Let our minds do some creative thinking and understand the values of both sides. Too many of us are not thinking. We listen to the loudest voice of the closest neighbor's prejudice and then we walk blindfolded into the voting booth. Surely we as intelligent, thinking Americans can see the value of a thing when it is presented.

Thirdly, after we have found the impartial reasoning to both sides we need to weigh the values in the light of what would it do to our community. Would it make it better? Would it be the thing to provide happy homes, pleasant community activity, or would it just make some selfish interests money? Who would be the loser the community and its little ones, both adult and children, or some private concerns?

Fourthly, after weighing the merits of the case we should cast that ballot. I think that it is a shame that out of a population of 22,000 people there are few voters in this city. Can it be true that this small portion of our people have seen fit to throw away their rights? They have not considered it necessary to voice one of the most precious of our American rights.

Some people have complained to me about the candidates they have to vote for in the general election. My reply that is, "Did you vote in the primary?" We need to become more active, all of us, in forming our ballots for the elections. Both parties are always eager for people who will take the time to promote better candidates and better politics. We as citizens in our free land have a right to speak our minds if we have something worth adding. The only reason politics and politicians are corrupt is because we as Christians are not willing to take the time to make them good.

Finally, let us all voice our opinions this fall. Let each one of us follow the step to a better community by voicing our thinking and feelings in a ballot.

Man Survives Two Accidents, Still Makes Own Living

A severe scalding with hot glass and loss of an arm in a logging accident later have not dulled Marlon Shane's determination to earn a living without sympathy or charity. Shane works on files of the same Machine Works in Piler where he is employed as bookkeeper. Killed as a boy in Wendell, Shane was burned severely in Indiana in 1935. (Staff photo-engraving)

After Two Serious Accidents, Man Is Crippled, Determined to Earn Living

What kind of man does it take to survive two serious accidents, one so permanently crippling, and still be determined to work and support his family without anyone's sympathy or charity?

For an answer, talk to Marlon Shane, Twin Falls, as he greets customers and goes about his work at Machine Works on Piler's main street.

Shane is a bookkeeper, who operates a calculating machine, keeps accounts and records figures in books. The only unusual aspect of his job is that he does all this with one hand.

In the spring of 1935, when he was 16, Shane was employed in a Philadelphia Quartermaster company plant in Indiana. He was severely scalded during the operation of a hot tank when one of his men slipped and fell into the tank. The top of his head, neck and shoulders were scalded, and liquid glass came down over his face.

By the time Shane got medical attention there seemed little hope for his recovery. A minister was called to his side for last-minute prayers. The glass had "set" almost all over his face, arms and legs, and he was completely burning out his eyes.

Over the glass was painfully removed, Shane was wrapped in bandages. To contract the effect of the acid in the glass, vinegar was poured over the bandages.

Following this accident and the loss of his right arm and hand, Shane was left with a severely crippled right arm and hand. He was unable to get a job. Most employers shied away from hiring him, he says. Finally the state vocational rehabilitation service agreed to pay him tuition for a bookkeeping course at Twin Falls Business college.

Entering the college in September, 1937, Shane finished a year's instruction in bookkeeping, including training in typing.

and skin graftings on other portions of his face.

Indiana's climate failed to agree with the scar tissue still present on Shane's body where grafting had failed. Having been raised in Wendell, Idaho, Shane knew Idaho offered a drier climate than he could find in the Midwest. Shane found employment as a logger during the summer and moved to New Mexico in the winter.

Two summers ago, working an isolated logging patch with just two or three men, Shane had another brush with death.

"The force of a falling tree, just cut by Shane, caused a smaller one to bounce into the air about 10 feet. When it fell it struck Shane on the left shoulder, driving him into the ground. His shoulder was broken and his arm hung at his side by a few inches of flesh and bone. Fortunately the main arteries and veins in his arm were not severed or Shane might have bled to death on the spot. Other crew members wrapped his shirt around the injured arm to protect it. Six hours elapsed before a hospital could be reached. Doctors gave Shane little chance of pulling through a second, jolting injury.

During the subsequent six months Shane spent in a hospital, his left arm was amputated. In fact, he was unable to find employment once he was released from the hospital, Shane remembers. In fact, he was unable to get a job. Most employers shied away from hiring him, he says. Finally the state vocational rehabilitation service agreed to pay him tuition for a bookkeeping course at Twin Falls Business college.

Entering the college in September, 1937, Shane finished a year's instruction in bookkeeping, including training in typing.

Randel Wilson, dean of men and bookkeeping instructor at the college, recalls, "He had developed such a wonderful attitude that he imparted his optimism to other students."

Wilson remembers, too, that Shane's morale was at a low point when he first came to the college.

"He was very positive he could learn bookkeeping. You see, Marlon had received only an eighth grade education. He'd always been an outcast. And had worked with his hands," Wilson continues.

"But he bounced back in a hurry once he started to learn the course. Actually, he started slowly, too. By the time the course ended, his work was above average," the instructor points out.

When Marlon used to see one of our other students down and out, he'd kid them about having two arms and looking lucky," Wilson continues.

Wilson recalls Shane had most of his trouble with the typewriter. "It wasn't easy for him to learn to type. He had to learn to get his hand centered with the keyboard. It was quite a reach for one hand to be able to get all the keys. Marlon learned it, however," Wilson says.

"Marlon types at his fastest about 30 words a minute now," Wilson says.

"Thirty words a minute isn't fast, but Marlon's typing is accurate," Wilson comments.

At Acme, Shane types statements and correspondence.

Wilfred (Bill) Herrett, owner of the Acme Machine Works, agreed to hire Shane on a part-time basis to see if he would work out. After two days on the job Shane was working a full shift, six days a week.

"Did I have any reservations about hiring Marlon?" Herrett begins when asked the same question.

"No, I didn't. No more than any reservations you have about a man who can do the job," Herrett continues.

"Sure, Marlon is handicapped some extent, but that hasn't made any difference in whether he can do his job. That's what I'm concerned about. He can do the job and I need him."

Herrett says Shane's handicap makes no difference to the other employees. "These men know that performance is what counts," Herrett says.

Shane himself sees nothing unusual in working and earning his own way. Married and the father of three children, only one of whom is still at home with her parents, 42-year-old Shane says, "I had a family to support. After my accident I just wanted to know when I could get back to work."

Shane was asked if he ever felt despondent or ready to quit.

"Well, I wasn't despondent or discouraged about the injuries to myself. What would I get me down was when I couldn't find work because nobody wanted to hire me. I guess they figured I couldn't do the job."

Mr. and Mrs. Shane's son is in Dunsmuir, one daughter is married and another daughter is still in school.

with dedication services held in January, 1955. Like the Church of the Brethren, the present building is planned as the first of three units included in the structure which cost approximately $20,000, are a combined assembly and fellowship hall, classrooms and kitchen.

The East High Church of the Nazarene built a new chapel and parsonage at Broadway avenue and Madison street east in 1951. The unit, which includes a sanctuary, small chapel and classrooms as well as parsonage, is planned so that additional units can be added later. Total cost is estimated at $14,000, including donated labor.

The local Salvation Army which maintains regular church activities as well as welfare operations, built two new buildings at Second avenue and Eighth street north in 1951 at a cost of approximately $35,000. One structure includes the chapel, classrooms and church office. In the other building is the store where used clothing is distributed either free or at minimum cost, and youth and welfare activities are conducted.

Another complete new church edifice valued at $25,000, built by a congregation which began here a few years ago, is the new Southern Baptist church, completed in 1955. Located on Washington street north at Piler avenue is a half block of land, the building includes a sanctuary, combination kitchen-fellowship hall, nursery and classrooms. It, too, is planned eventually to be used entirely for educational purposes. Two more units are planned, then membership growth makes further expansion feasible.

Nearing completion is the new structure of the Church of Christ at Piler avenue east and Sunrise boulevard north, outside the city limits. Dedication for the structure, estimated at $40,000, is slated Nov. 2, when the congregation will begin using the building. The former church, at Third avenue and Third street north, is being purchased by the Trinity Baptist congregation.

The new structure boasts the most modern facilities, including a public address system for the "cry room" so that mothers with babies may hear the services. In addition to a nursery, classroom, "cry room" and fellowship hall are included.

One of the largest church construction projects during the past decade is the LDS building on Main street north which houses the fifth stake and several wards plus being used as a stake tabernacle.

Built at an estimated cost of $25,000, the building includes a recreation hall 80 feet long which has a regulation size basketball floor, and a chapel and classrooms. It was dedicated in May, 1954.

Blueprints are being drawn and land has been purchased by the second and fourth LDS wards at 346 Fourth avenue north for a new addition which will include recreation hall and classrooms.

The Piler avenue Church of God was dedicated on Easter, 1955. Built at 103 Piler avenue west at an estimated cost of $15,000, the building includes sanctuary, kitchen, classrooms and a fellowship hall.

A two-story educational unit with an estimated value of $200 has just been completed by the First Church of the Nazarene at Pocatello street and fourth avenue north. It was first occupied Sept. 21, and dedication services are slated Oct. 12. A fellowship hall, classrooms and a kitchen is to be completed.

A third floor educational wing was built in 1956-57 at the First Methodist church at an estimated cost of $150,000. Much of the labor was donated, and all the painting

Carrier, Mother Scan Monthly Bill

Mrs. James R. Barnhart helps her son, Bill Barnhart, 15, check over his monthly bill from the Times-News. The bill shows the number of papers he has purchased in the past month. On Sunday mornings, when carriers have to get up early, some of the mothers become vital factors in "wakening the boys. However, Mrs. Barnhart says she has never had to rouse Bill. block on Quincy street. He feels it is the best route in town.

Trouble with dogs on their routes is a problem newsmen share with mail carriers. Bill says the only dog that bothers him is one on Quincy street which bounds out as he approaches. The trick is to put a carrier in the dog's mouth. However, one time the hand in which Bill was holding the paper was on the opposite side of the dog, so instead of the paper in his mouth, the dog soon had Bill's leg. The injury was minor.

Each month, Bill and the other 120 carriers at the Times-News, are billed for the number of papers they have purchased in a month. Their statement also lists the people who have paid in advance, which is credited to their account.

Carriers must pay their accounts by the 10th of the month, but Bill states he gets it taken care of within five days after the statement is received for extra bonus.

Concrete evidence that Bill does a good job and is well liked by his customers is the fact that each Christmas he receives about $15 in tips in addition to three or four gifts. One of the advantages to being a newboy that most impresses Bill, a sophomore at Twin Falls high school, is the savings account system. When a boy begins as a carrier, a small amount is pledged from his earnings each month until a pre-determined amount is accrued. Used in lieu of a bond as security, the amount usually becomes the beginning of a regular savings habit for most of the boys.

Bill's savings account is more than $100 and his earnings have paid for a motor scooter he bought last spring. He isn't quite sure just what he will use his account for, but the "new boys" about training the "new boy" for a car eventually.

On Sundays Bill gets up at 5 a. m. and delivers his route in time to attend 8 o'clock mass at St. Edward's church.

Teacher Says Toughest Part of Jaunt To England Was Return to Work Here

Miss Justice was invited to lecture several times at PTA meetings, teachers' meetings and church and school fairs during her stay in England. She described the English as "servants but very good conversationalists." They are "very enjoyniblist" and have a "very good respect for other people's opinions."

Already possessing a slight English accent, which she claims she has had all her life, the young American teacher said she found the "discussion meetings very fascinating."

the school's staff, six men and four women, were greatly interested in music and normally did their own music teaching. This gave them a common subject for discussion.

Mrs Justice described the city in which she taught as being a quiet place where everything closed down in the evening. Most of the city population of approximately 45,000 either were retired from jobs in London or commuted back and forth

She "got along all right with the climate once I got accustomed to it." Actually, she explained, there was less rain here where she was in England than she had seen while going to school at Seattle. As far as the weather was concerned "I became a better Englishman than most Englishmen. There was just enough dampness to keep everything nice and green."

One readjustment she has found difficult since her return to the States is the short lunch hour here. In England school begins at 9 a.m. and at noon an hour and one-half lunch break is taken.

Although school was not dismissed until the last week in July, Miss Justice said the English take long holidays during the term. At Christmas she took a guided tour of the continent, including a visit to

The General Sherman carried a crew of five men. Each man had a job inside the tank, and each job was just as important as the others. Up front, each with a hatch of his own were the driver and assistant driver. Inside the turret were the gunner and the assistant gunner who also cared for the radio antenna. Behind the big mouth of the 75 mm gun, standing in the turret, half in and half out, was the tank commander. Many a tank commander literally

Today, the M4 is obsolete and useless. "It costs the taxpayers money for the army to store them," Major Laughridge said. "It was felt that it would be fitting to present them to towns as memorials."

At present the local tank battalions are using the M47 tank with a 90-millimeter gun. It, too, will soon be replaced with the M48 tank which is the latest and standard tank in the army today.

Compared with the M4, the M47 is a much better tank. It has a eight-inch lower silhouette. It is more than 30 inches wider and more than 30 inches longer. It has two fuel tanks which hold 233 gallons of gasoline and has a Continental V-12, air-cooled motor as compared to the V-8, four-cycle Ford or Continental engines in the M4.

Besides the 90-millimeter cannon the M47 mounts two 50-caliber machineguns and one 30-caliber. It has a maximum speed of 30 miles per
