U.S., Soviet Split Openly Over Aim Of Nuclear Talks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union split openly today over the aim of talks opening next week in Geneva to ease the nuclear arms race. The U.S. state department, in a note to the Soviet Union, said the Russians in polite but firm language said the Geneva talks must be limited to work on the military problems involved in eliminating the surprise element. The Soviets, in a note a week ago, spoke of definite moves in the field of disarmament. This was read here as meaning insistence on immediate agreement on a disarmament inspection zone in eastern Europe.

Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference yesterday he was not discouraging talks. But his subordinates in the state department are divided over whether the Western nations really are getting anywhere in their talks with the Russians.

Some experts are convinced that the Soviets' immediate motive probably is to weaken Western resolve rather than to move toward disarmament.

Others contend that the danger of a nuclear war is so great that it is worth the risk of a limited disarmament measure in good faith and for the open possibility of a permanent ban on nuclear weapons. According to this, they would move cautiously, however, attempting to bring every advantage possible for their own side.

In the talks on suspending nuclear tests, which opened at Geneva last week, the U.S. has been insisting on a permanent ban on such testing. They have set that as a condition to stopping their own explosions and negotiating an inspection system to enforce the ban.

King Hill Hunter, 70, Dies of Heart Attack

KING HILL, Nov. 8.—Bob Hoyt, 70, King Hill, died of a heart attack Friday while hunting deer in the vicinity of the old Frank Berry ranch, north of here. His body was found by searchers about 4 p.m. Saturday after an all-day hunt. Mr. Hoyt had left his home here Friday morning, telling his wife he would be back before dark. When he did not return, authorities were notified and they started searching the rugged, lava-strewn terrain in the vicinity of the Berry ranch along King Hill creek.

Driver of Death Car Gets 5-Month Term

ABE C. RENTLEMAN, Pocatello, was sentenced to five months in the county jail Friday afternoon when he was convicted of negligent homicide. Rentleman drove a 1949 Hudson sedan into a 1953 Buick driven by Arthur TenBroek, Twin Falls, on a curve on highway 93 near Rogerson last Aug. 30. TenBroek was killed instantly and Rentleman's brother, Gerald Rentleman, died on the spot. Three other persons were injured in the smash. Rentleman was cited by State Patrolman Howard G. Smith at the scene of the crash. He said at the time that Rentleman told him he had been drinking in a Nevada club and estimated he drove his car 70 miles an hour around the curve on the wrong side of the highway.

Big Diamond Is Donated to U.S. Institute

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A 6.48-gram Hope diamond, a million-dollar gem with a three-century legend—of course this time, it is an exhibit to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington as the gift of a New York jeweler.

Gen. dealer Harry Winston will donate the Hope—largest of the world's blue diamonds—to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. The diamond, which is being shipped to Washington by registered mail, is valued at $1,000,000.

Toward Moon Shot Fizzles After Brilliant Takeoff; Ignition on Rocket Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Nov. 8.—Wary air force missilemen, their dream of moon conquest shattered for now, today attempted to solve the mystery of why moon rocket Pioneer II fizzled in flight after a brilliant launching. The 52-ton rocket, carrying the 10,000-pound satellite, roared off its launch pad at 2:30 p.m. but the flight ended less than 45 minutes later when the third main stage rocket failed to ignite. It was one of the most spectacular launchings ever witnessed at the cape. The area was illuminated for miles as a light cloud cover reflected the bright flash of rocket fire.

Canvass Shows New Mark Set For Off-Year Vote in County

More Twin Falls county voters went to the polls Tuesday than in any other previous nonpresidential election. Official figures released Saturday by T.W. Stivers, county clerk, show 15,790 voters cast ballots in the county's 46 precincts. 1,263 more than voted in the last non-presidential election in 1954. In that election, 14,767 ballots were cast, high for an off-year election until Tuesday. The highest recorded in presidential election, when 17,663 ballots were cast. Estimating roughly, Stivers believes total registration for Tuesday's election was below the high mark of two years ago of 23,000. In other words, if the number of voters registered for Tuesday's election is set at roughly 20,000, then the county was the 12th in presidential election, when 17,663 ballots were cast. Estimating roughly, Stivers believes total registration for Tuesday's election was below the high mark of two years ago of 23,000.

Vandals Start Blaze At Filer High School

FILER, Nov. 8.—Vandals pushed 20 bales of straw against the southeast corner of the Filer high school and set them afire shortly after midnight Saturday. The fire was seen by Martin Adams, Filer policeman, about 12:15 a.m. and he summoned fire trucks. The east door of the gymnasium was damaged extensively and minor damage was reported to the area inside the gymnasium on the other side of the doors. Deputy Sheriff Wayne Hankins, who investigated the fire, says the string ties on the bales were removed. The bales had been in use Friday night during the Filer harvest ball, but had been stacked 15 to 20 feet from the building.

Rupert Phone Company Gets Loan for Line

RUPERT, Nov. 8.—Further expansion of the Project Mutual Telephone company to serve home-steaders of the northern project in Washington, Idaho, is being announced Friday. A $184,000 loan from the rural electrification administration in Washington, D.C., is being used to finance the construction of 64 miles of new lines in the Minidoka area. The lines will be installed in the next few weeks.

Malta Burglary Solved; Cash Doubles in Stolen Money Bag

BURLEY, Nov. 8.—Efficient interstate communication between law enforcement officials resulted in the speedy solution of a burglary reported at Malta Thursday. Cassia County Sheriff LePage Layton reported Saturday.

Thursday morning the sheriff received a call from Myron Gill, owner of the Utah oil station at Malta, reporting that burglars had crawled through a window and taken an Idaho Bank and Trust money sack containing about $40 in cash. In addition, candy, cigarettes and gum were taken.

Friday night, Burley Police Chief George Warren received a telegram from Colorado state police in Denver that three teen-agers and a 21-year-old man had been arrested for burglarizing a service station at Oak Creek, Colo.

The sheriff at Steamboat Springs, Colo., went to Denver to take into custody Paul Z. Holt, 21, who listed his address as Seattle; George W. Richlin, 16, and Paul B. Tracy, 14, who also ended in failure.

T. F. Chamber Lists Speaker For Thursday

Dr. T. Donald Bell, head of the annual bibliography department, University of Idaho, will speak at the annual Oration of the Year award banquet honoring Charles Harris at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Legion Hall.

Chamber of Commerce directors meeting Friday noon were urged to attend the banquet, bringing family or friends, as guests if possible. Tickets will be available at the chamber offices.

Possibility of bus service for Twin Falls was discussed. It was suggested that Lloyd Cox, franchise agent, meet with the Commercial division of the chamber to iron out any problems that might arise.

Reporting for the nominating committee, Warren Barry advised postponement of the report, as some of the suggested directors have been out of town this week and could not be reached for confirmation of their nomination.

Directors accepted a recommendation by Ray J. Holmes, highway committee chairman, that the local chamber pay $17,000, or 40 percent of the cost of moving the proposed site of the Bliss Junction. Remainder of the cost will be shared by other area chambers. The new highway between Bliss and Ingerman necessitates the relocation.

Holmes also urged directors to attend the public hearing Nov. 20 on the new superhighway. He suggested they discuss the proposed routes.

Ward to Address Tuesday Meeting

JEROME, Nov. 8.—Mayor Theodor Ward will be the featured speaker for the Veterans day celebration Tuesday, sponsored by American Legion post No. 61 at the high school.

The event will begin at 11 a.m. and will feature musical selections by the high school band directed by Iwan Davis.

The traditional football game between Bliss and Jerome will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the Bliss field. Entrance will be open for the day, but books and public offices will be closed as well as lumber yards, implement stores and the grocery stores. Remaining open will be restaurants, variety stores and department stores.

Members of the American Legion and auxiliary will hold a dinner at 7 p.m. at the Legion hall. Mrs. Carl Reuter, Grangeville department president and Mrs. Gus Callen, fourth district president, will be the honored guest. Bob Parkinson, guest speaker, will talk on his experiences at Boy's nation.

No School Tuesday

BIOSHORE, Nov. 8.—There will be no school Tuesday, Veterans day. The Legion and auxiliary here will open at 7 p.m. at the Manhattan cafe for dinner and a program.

In advance, so a decision might be reached as to the one offering the most advantages for the local area, and a specific recommendation can be offered by the chamber.

Declo Activities

DECLO, Nov. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hendricks, Fort Hall, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Merrill, Encampment, Wyo., former Declo residents, visited friends here en route to Alton where they were called to attend funeral services of the mother of Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. Hendricks.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cardon, who have spent the past two months in Declo, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gillette and Mr. and Mrs. Fred West, have left for their home in Grandview, Wash.

Mrs. Carol Spencer and daughters, formerly Declo, returned from New Mexico where they have been visiting relatives for a month. They also spent three weeks with Frank Jensen and W. W. Williams, Jr., in Alamosa, N.M.

Toastmistresses Report for Meet

"Drive New Worlds" was theme for the regular meeting of the Twin Falls Toastmistress club Friday at the Pocatello hotel.

Mrs. Van Wilson was awarded the blue pencil for her speech, "Idaho Alpine Products." Mrs. Wilson told of this business venture and showed products already on eastern markets.

Other speakers were Mrs. H. H. Burkhardt and Mrs. Reese Williams. The discussion, Mrs. H. H. Burkhardt conducted a vocabulary study. Mrs. Gordon John served as topic mistress and Mrs. J. E. Mills, toastmistress.

ELECTION NAMED
BIOSHORE, Nov. 8.—There will be a special meeting of the Farm Bureau at 8:30 p.m. Monday at the Manhattan cafe. Officers for 1959 will be elected. State convention delegates will be selected and a membership drive noted.

Attend Workshop

WENDELL, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Frances Lamb, director of the Idaho State High School Press association, will be in charge of the eighth annual workshop at Idaho State college campus Saturday.

William Maxwell, Gooding, led a panel for business managers.

Students from Wendell who accompanied Mr. Lamb to Pocatello were Paula Ydrarnoz, Julie Strickling, Diane Huston and Karen Cox.

Driver Given Jail Term for Crash Deaths

Three men were given jail terms for the deaths of two children in a car crash Saturday. The driver, a 30-year-old man, was sentenced to 12 months in jail for the deaths of a 4-year-old boy and a 3-year-old girl. The crash occurred on Clear Lake bridge, near the intersection of Main and Lincoln streets in Jerome, on Saturday. The car was driven by a 30-year-old man named [Name]. The children were killed when the car rolled over. The driver was charged with negligent homicide. The judge sentenced the driver to 12 months in jail. The other two men involved in the crash were given shorter sentences. The case is being handled by the local police department.

Rupert Artist Plans Annual Open House for Nov. 16

Clara Hoeller, Rupert artist, will hold his annual open house at his studio a mile west of the Milton high school on Highway 25 Sunday, Nov. 16. An exhibition of his oil paintings, including about 20 new canvases, will be on display from 1:30 p.m. Irene Buckley, art instructor at Burley high school, will assist with arrangements. In previous years between 500 and 600 persons have attended the event. Hoeller displays a scene he painted in the Teton mountains. (Staff photo-entouring)

Damage Suits Are Filed for Car Accident

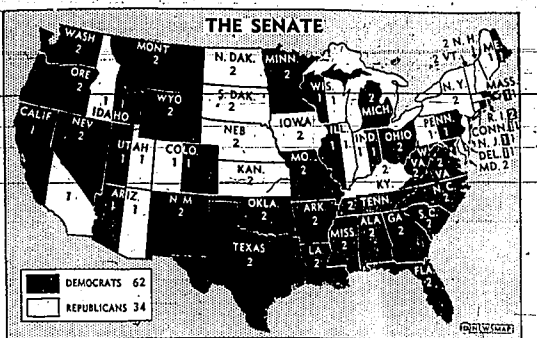

BOISE, Nov. 8 (U.P.)—Parents of a Washington youth and a girl of the University of Washington were filed today in the U.S. government court by Mrs. John B. Borelli, Seattle, one of the five young people who were killed in the accident. The suit was filed in the federal court in Washington, D.C., by the attorney, Victor Langdon of Washington, D.C.

The two young men were returned to the University of Washington with two other youths, who were killed in the accident, from a summer camp, Laurel Bonifacio, 18, of Seattle, who was seriously injured, and a girl, who was seriously injured, who was returned to the University of Washington.

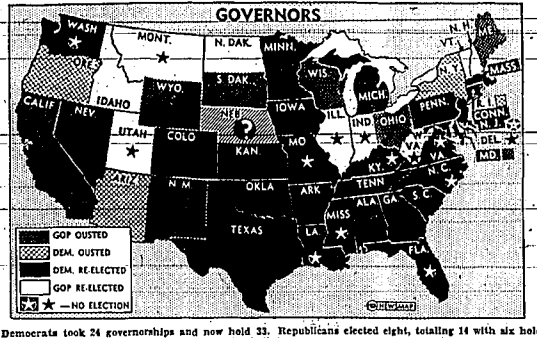

Both complaints filed in U.S. court alleged the car in which the five young people were killed was wrecked as a result of the negligence of a bureau of land management fire truck driver. The accident occurred while the truck of Glenn H. Langdon, 41, of Seattle, was driving on the highway. The accident occurred while the truck was making a left turn on a city street, according to a report.

A coroner's jury, after an inquest, found there was no criminal negligence involved in the accident. The coroner's jury, which was held at the coroner's office, found that the car, funeral expenses and the cost of the funeral for $12,000, were paid by Mrs. Borelli. The coroner's jury also found that the car was worth $12,000 and that the car was insured for $12,000. The coroner's jury also found that the car was insured for $12,000 and that the car was insured for $12,000.

America's 'Brown Paper Bag' Clubs Are Fast Disappearing

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
NEW-YORK, Nov. 8 (U.P.)—That grand old business institution, lunch in a brown paper bag, is rapidly vanishing from the American scene.

It is the place to the liquid lunch of extra-dry martinis, spiced with big talk.

The man who came to dinner with a brown paper bag never discussed office problems at the noon hour. He was too busy sipping sandwiches.

And the only midday drinker he did was an occasional pull of beer on a hot day or maybe a bottle of egg nog at Christmas time.

Lunch was mysterious, exciting, even socially revealing when served in a brown paper bag.

A fellow could come to work with a lot of pickled herring and if he worked outdoors, say as a carpenter or lineman, he was stale roll, and by a good trading wind up with a full course meal from the paper bags of his fellow employees.

In the process, he'd learn which

Donated Meat Will Be Asked To Aid Lunch

CAREY, Nov. 8.—Helping supply the meat needed for the school lunch program through community collection was planned at the 37th meeting Thursday night.

The meeting was conducted by President Thomas Hunt, who reported a possibility of lowering the cost of lunches if meat is provided in his report on the finances of the school lunch program. Vernon, school principal, said the only meat commodities received through the government has been approximately 200 pounds of turkey in past years. Lunch meat has been supplied through the government.

Approval was voiced for teams to call on residents for donations to begin the project. The project provides buying calves and having various willing members raise them. Donations of feed and pasture will be accepted as well as cash donations.

Those who will contact the residents include Mrs. Keith Hunt and Mrs. Jimmy Peterson, Littlewood street; Mrs. Boyd Gooding, 2101 Florida street; Mrs. Laurel Judy and Mrs. Vincent Olsen, south Carey; Mrs. Joe Busch, 1011 1/2th street; Mrs. Allen Patterson and Mrs. Martin Albrecht, Main street; Mrs. Joe Bush and Mrs. Harold White, 11th street; Mrs. Bill Molyneux and Mrs. Bally Molyneux, Pischo.

Reports on public are to be given to H. Kay Thatcher by Nov. 17. It also was decided that fathers should accompany the public teams when they travel to "play" out-of-town games. A list of those willing to go will be made and two will be appointed each time.

Study groups were conducted by Leonard Chalkley, 11th street; Mrs. Vernon Ezzner, Intermediate; and Mrs. Leon Peck, adolescent. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gail Roberts, Mrs. Preston Pyrah and Mrs. Rex Albrecht.

Members of the girls chorus included Hazel Whitby, Linda Thatcher, Lele Twombly, Dianne Murelock, Margaret Pyrah, Simpson, accompanied by Camille Rhodes.

Mothers, announced by the chairman, Mrs. Marlin Albrecht, are Mrs. Harry O'Crowley, Pischo; Mrs. Keith Hunt, 11th street; Mrs. Donald Baird and Mrs. Jimmy Peterson, second grade; Mrs. Kelle Judy and Mrs. John White, fifth grade; Mrs. Gene Swat and Mrs. Charlie Green, fourth grade; Mrs. Leo Day and Mrs. Leon Peck, second grade.

Camp Fire Girls to Start Conservation Project

Marion Rhodes, Twin Falls, left, conservation officer for Idaho fish and game department; Mrs. Pierce Roan, Twin Falls, president of Camp Fire Leaders and Guardians association, and City Manager Joseph H. Lutzmore look over plans for the conservation program, being launched as the organization's Golden Jubilee project. (Staff photograph)

Camp Fire Girl Project Topic Used for Meeting of Leaders

"Oh Cars—Do You!", theme for the National Camp Fire Girls' annual public conservation program, was the keynote of a special training meeting for Camp Fire leaders and guardians at the Camp Fire office Friday.

Mrs. Donald Wallace, program chairman of the board, conducted the training meeting, introducing Joseph H. Lutzmore, Twin Falls city manager, and Marion Rhodes, fish and game conservation officer.

Lutzmore told the group of the parks and recreational areas in this locality, their needs, and how Camp Fire girls could assist in the beautification and development in carrying out their golden jubilee project.

He also pointed out the importance to teach safety in Camp Fire in connection with activities in recreational developments. E. R. Cransler, city director of parks and recreation, will work with the girls in these projects.

Rhodes suggested specific projects the girls could carry out for the wildlife section of the jubilee project. He pointed out that in many instances, natural nesting places for birds have been destroyed, and nests made of sticks or boxes could be made by the girls. Sixteen-inch-long trout, as well as cover for wild game in the forests could also form projects for conservation. He suggested:

Rhodes suggested specific projects the girls could carry out for the wildlife section of the jubilee project. He pointed out that in many instances, natural nesting places for birds have been destroyed, and nests made of sticks or boxes could be made by the girls. Sixteen-inch-long trout, as well as cover for wild game in the forests could also form projects for conservation. He suggested:

Students Plan to Honor Teachers

Twin Falls high school chapter of the Future Teachers of America association, sponsored by Elsie Lindgren, decided to honor Twin Falls high school teachers during American Education week, Nov. 9 to 15. Girls decided to present flowers to teachers—Margaret Wallon is in charge of the committee.

A tea honoring teachers was set tentatively for Thursday. Claudette Mendolia heads the refreshment committee, Carol Hoover, invitations, and Catherine Johnson, decorations. Shirley Daniel and Sarah Beer will represent the Future Teachers as an interview conducted Thursday evening on KLLC-TV.

Local Woman Heads Efforts To Get Funds

Mrs. R. T. Campbell, 704 Grand avenue, Twin Falls, has been named to head the local fund drive for the Idaho chapter, Arthritis and Rheumatism foundation, according to James Julius, Boise, campaign chairman for the Idaho chapter.

A goal of $2,500 for Twin Falls was set at a meeting held with Mrs. J. Stewart Green, field representative, at the Idaho chapter and Greater-Neuritis-national office representative, Salt Lake City.

Julius reports that Idaho's total has been set at $25,000, the minimum needed to maintain and expand existing services in Idaho.

"I should like to remind every one who has not been directly approached by our volunteers in Idaho that arthritis is the nation's number one crippling condition—11 million victims, 40,000 of whom live in Idaho," Mr. Julius said.

At present, the Idaho chapter has displays and literature pertaining to self-help devices which relieve a handicapped person immeasurably, supplies medical bulletins to every doctor in Idaho and subscribes to the "Arthritis and Rheumatism" Journal for hospital libraries.

The Idaho chapter also constitutes a percentage of the amount donated to the research program for the disease, and the program of service to arthritic persons.

League of Women Voters Thanking People Who Help

Editor, Times-News:—Now that the hotly contested election is over, though hardly forgotten, the Twin Falls League of Women Voters wishes publicly to extend our appreciation to those many individuals who supported us in our pre-election services to the voters.

We are largely indebted to the financial contributors who for many years have made our public service a reality.

Our appreciation also goes to the candidates who almost without exception felt their responsibility to the voters.

Miss Babcock Is Wed to Daigh in Candlelight Rite

Carolyn Helene Babcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Daigh and Mrs. Warren Daigh, were united in marriage in a candlelight ceremony Tuesday evening at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Norman E. Stockwell.

Vows were exchanged before the altar decorated with arrangements of white and yellow chrysanthemums with flanking spiral candelabra. The church was lighted by candles. The seven-branched menorah on both sides of the church. Bruce Roberts and Henry Wendling, Jr. served as candlelighters. Flower girls in the choir files were Princess Helen Burns containing bouquets of white standard and yellow chrysanthemums with cascading strands of variegated ivy.

Mrs. Robert White, originally played the prelude and accompanied Donna Metzger as she sang, "O Perfect Love" and "Though I Speak With Tongues of Men."

Escorted by her father down the aisle marked with strands of variegated ivy and clusters of chrysanthemums, the bride wore a classic of Pandora gown of white tulle. It was fashioned along princess lines with a chapel train. Bridesmaids were dressed in blue and white with red neckties and traditional long sleeves. Her veil of traditional blue lace was attached to a band of blue pearls. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of red and white roses with a few ivy strands for accent.

Attending the bride were Sarah Hannah, maid of honor, and Barbara Johnson, bridesmaid. They were groomed identically in white-rose velvet cocktail-length dresses. The dresses with scooped necklines and short sleeves featured simple bodices along princess lines cascading down the length of the gown. Matching velvet headbands were of silk. The bridesmaids wore a mosaic of white carnations and Elysian roses accented with ivy while the bridesmaid carried a large nosegay of white carnations only.

Dr. Howard Trovies, Rupert, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Robert Parish, Filer, and Harry Turner. The bride's father, Mr. Lawrence R. Daigh, and her mother, Mrs. Carolyn Helene Babcock chose a gray and gold brocade dress with matching shoes and small sequined hat. She carried white Phalaenopsis orchids with white satin ribbons. The groom wore a dark suit with a white shirt and a white tie.

Following the ceremony a reception was given at the Turf club. Near the entrance, on small table holding a flower filled milk glass lamp, Edwina Hillman attended the guest book. The serving table was covered with a white rayon embroidered cloth and centered with a symmetrical arrangement of pink carnations and red roses. Strands of amethyst were intertwined through the silver candelabra on each corner of the table. Red roses were tucked into the garlands. Mrs. Jean Swain and Mrs. William Ford presided at the coffee service and pushed bowls, respectively. The bride's cake was served from a silver stand round table draped with strands of amethyst and white tiered cake initiated in silver. It was topped with a nosegay of white carnations and orchids. The bride and groom were seated at a table with tiny strands of amethyst and red roses. Mrs. E. L. Roberts and Mrs. Elmer Hillman served. Mrs. Clara Aton Bastian provided back.

Oregon Miss Is Wed to Schwarz in Church Rites

HILLSBORO, Ore., Nov. 8.—Anna Simanet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Simanet, and Lawrence Schwarz, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Schwarz, were united in marriage Oct. 19 at the Mount Olive Lutheran church at Forest Grove. The Rev. Arthur Wadsworth of Concordia college, officiated at the double ring ceremony before a background of baskets of bright red and yellow chrysanthemums. The white candles on the altar were lighted by Edwina Hillman and her bridesmaids, cousins of the bridegroom. The pews were marked with white satin bows and streamers.

Mrs. Kenneth Reade played background music and accompanied Lawrence Schwarz as she sang "O Perfect Love" and "O Lord, Most Holy." The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length princess style gown of white lace over tulle with a chapel train. The bodice was embellished with flowers and featured a sweetheart neckline and short sleeves with matching tulle. Her fingering veil of net was caught by a crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis centered with white orchids and tied with white satin ribbons. For her maid of honor, the bride chose her sister, Janet Simanet. She wore a dress in a white tulle and a red and white striped sash. The bridesmaids were Mrs. John Poe, Corvallis, Ore.; Mrs. Gray Connor, Springfield, Ore.; and Kathy Simanet, sister of the bride. They wore dresses and flowers were the same as those of the maid of honor. Flower girl was Sharon Matthews, 12-year-old, niece of the bridegroom, who was dressed in light green tulle. Ralph Simanet, brother of the bride, was ringbearer. For his best man the bridegroom chose his brother, Bernard Schwarz, Edwina Hillman, and Kathy Simanet, sister of the bride. They wore dresses and flowers were the same as those of the maid of honor. A reception was held immediately following the wedding ceremony in the church parlors.

Idaho Vandals Retain Little Brown Stein With 14-6 Win Over Montana

BOZEMAN, Mont., Nov. 8 (AP)—The Idaho Vandals turned the breaks into victory Saturday night in a 14-6 non-conference triumph over the stubborn Montana Grizzlies. The Vandals, running hot and cold behind a work-alike forward wall, grabbed the lead after a misplayed interception in the first quarter and never trailed. The Grizzlies, losing their eighth straight game, played their best defensive football of the season, but could score only on an Idaho fumble recovered in the third quarter.

Army Tops Rice 14-7 In Last Minute Pass

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 8 (AP)—Army struck on a 64-yard pass from quarterback Joe Caldwell to halfback Ed Hawkins with only 52 seconds left Saturday night to beat Rice 14-7. Cadets turned back a Rice drive with a last-minute pass to Caldwell, full-back reserve, who threaded through to a Rice field goal attempt.

LSU Trounces Duke 50-13, Stays Unbeaten

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 8 (AP)—LSU moved to a 10-0 record in the 20-year-old game with a 50-13 victory over Duke Saturday night. The Tigers, who have not lost since the 1938 season, scored on a 58-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Earl Roper to fullback Bill Dyer. Army struck back for 70 yards and a touchdown in the eighth quarter.

Economist to Begin Series On Decisions

Dr. Robert Wilson, University of Idaho extension economist, will direct a meeting next Thursday to open the fall-winter "great decisions" program.

Sponsored by the Foreign Policy Association, the group is formed primarily to discuss current foreign policy problems confronting the nation.

County Agent Warren Dalgh emphasized the program is not limited to persons engaged in agricultural pursuits, but includes all citizens vitally interested in the foreign policy of the nation.

William R. Campbell, San Francisco, associate regional director of the association, will assist with the meeting in the county extension meeting room at the old hospital.

Henry Turner has served as chairman for the past year, with Dr. Van Wilson, vice chairman, and Mrs. Wilson, secretary. Fieren Schultz, president, anticipates that a new slate of officers probably will be selected Thursday.

Buhl chairman for the organization is John Crawford with James W. Greed, Filer, serving as Filer chairman.

The League of Women Voters, American Association of University Women, school boards and ministers, are among those who have shown an active interest in the program, in addition to agricultural groups, Dalgh reports.

Canal Company Ends Fall Task of Cleaning, Repairing Long System

The Twin Falls Canal company has just finished its fall cleanup project. Water was turned out of the canals last Sunday and for the next four days the canal company was busy cleaning and repairing various areas along the 100-mile canal system.

Alfred Peters, general manager of the company, explains that this is a biennial work project, usually taking place during late October and middle March. Water was retained longer this year because of the unusually dry fall.

Peters said this type of work has little surprise. The company is never really sure of the amount of work to be done until the canals are empty.

Another project during this cleanup is the removal of mud banks or silt that accumulates on the stream side of a sharp curve in the canal. The silt drifts in these areas, and, if left there, will eventually change the channel of the canal and damage the canal bank.

Alfred Peters, general manager of the Twin Falls Canal company, points to a concrete structure that has been damaged by expanding ice. Such damage is repaired either during the spring or fall cleanup project.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A battery-operated school caution signal has been put into use at the elementary school at WEEDVILLE on state highway 46 crossing in the north part of town. The blinker signal is operated by a rechargeable battery that activates constantly blinking caution lights. The local Jay-C-Bikes spearheaded the project to help eliminate some of the problems of patrolling the highway crossing near the grade school. Mrs. Thelma Bunn was chairman of the project for the sponsoring organization. The blinker signals are manufactured by the companies of the Idaho state prison and are available to anyone at near cost of materials and workmanship, according to Mrs. Bunn. The proceeds of the sales of the blinker signals are used to purchase additional materials for the construction of additional units.

Various World II organizations have pledged money to the Jay-C-Bikes to assist in purchasing the caution signals.

Sponsoring organizations thus far include the Wendell Lions club, American Legion auxiliary, Bebech Lodge No. 20, Twin City FFA, Wendell Grange No. 82 and several individuals.

Police Chief Bill Austin has expressed his appreciation to all assisting in the project.

Rulon Hurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hurst, and former resident of SPRINGDALE had a close call with death in the Wyoming mountains during a freezing snowstorm while he was en route to the top of the mountain as a television engineer.

Hurst is a resident of Billings, Mont., and was caught in a sudden storm Oct. 20 while driving a Medicine Wheel, Mont., to repair a relay station. He was accompanied by TV technicians who were brought down in a light snowfall far from their destination and Hurst decided to walk to the station to make the repair while his companion returned to Lovell to get a jeep.

Within minutes both men were in trouble as a wind and snowstorm struck with fury. His companion returned to the car and when he couldn't signal Hurst back by honking the horn, he stuck off for Lovell, thinking his companion was safe at the relay station.

After spending the night in the raging blizzard for the station, unable to see in the storm and walking over hazardous terrain, Hurst was nearly frozen when he detected the sound of diesel engines which he identified as equipment for the relay station. The temperature was 18 degrees below zero.

He spent the night at the station after radioing to the TV station that he was safe. Next day he was rescued by a military wood-type vehicle which had to push through 10 inches of snow.

Hurst graduated from BURLEY high school in 1941 and served with the army overseas. He is married to the former Emma Jolley, WINTY.

His living room is completely filled with toys even stacked on top of one another. The backyard is full of discarded toys he has brought there on repair and to top it all off, he has a two-wheel tractor on the lot which is used for general workshop and which also has often been illustrated.

Among the items now ready for delivery to the state school at GOODING and the children's home at Boise are 18 wagons, six from tiny to large, and 10 tricycles.

There are bicycles, doll houses, dolls, ironing boards, scooters, iron, automobile, telephones, trucks, high chairs, and a large toy drum with all types of symbols and beeping sticks.

2 Miners Return To Hailey Homes

HAILEY, Nov. 8—William Brooks and Marvin Peterson, who have been doing mining work in the Stanley basin county the past summer, have returned to their homes here for the winter.

Cold nights were the deciding factor in their move home, they state.

Brooks reports Western Fluorite has shipped 22 carloads of uranium ore and other rare metal oxides the past summer, and that Phillips Petroleum has shipped 15 carloads. The shipments were made from Ketchum and Mackay.

The Sidney Mining Company, Ketchum, did considerable exploration work on some of the claims discovered by Brooks and Peterson, and plan more extensive work next summer.

There is a story that Samuel Johnson, on one of his frequent visits to the lower levels of London, found in a gutter a poor woman of the streets, bore her to his own lodging, gave her nourishment, and restored her to sobriety. When the story was known, he was not criticized for this but rather praised for performing a Christ-like act.

The church cries for talented workers "not those who are well-qualified seem never to be available. Their secret orders, clubs, chapters and other organizations occupy their time and receive their contribution of service, but these are neither the chief good nor the cardinal value in society. The pity is that good people with high moral standards who lead clean lives are possessors of noble and worthy ideals, yet they become occupied with trivialities that they lose the sensitive presence of God and the vital meaning of religion. They do not plan to go, but simply wander into uselessness.

Twin Falls Canal System Drained Twice Each Year for Repair Work and Removal of Debris and Obstructions

Operating his bulldozer in an area of the canal where water would not flow normally, Cliff Montgomery removes rocks and debris from the channel of the canal. The material will be used to fill a badly washed section of the canal. (Staff photo-enslaving)

Alfred Peters, general manager of the Twin Falls Canal company, inspects a canal turnout just one of the many inspections that must be made while water is turned out of the canal system for the biannual cleanup. (Staff photo-enslaving)

Alfred Peters, left, general manager of the Twin Falls Canal company, and Henry Woodland, superintendent of construction, discuss canal repair problems during the time last week when the canal system was drained. Twice each year, the entire canal system is drained for inspection, maintenance work, repairs and debris are removed. Last week, water was turned out of the canal system for four days for work which is conducted twice a year. This year's project was delayed somewhat by warm weather, which necessitated use of water for bed fields longer than usual. The leader in bottom of canal is removing debris from the channel. Soil and rock removed from the channel are used to build up banks along canals. (Staff photo-enslaving)

Canal Company Ends Autumn Task Of Cleaning, Repairing Long System

"puddled-in" with a good soil that will settle and be firm. Most that grows in the canal during warm weather presents its problems, too. In the summertime, moss accumulates. In such proportions that the water level in the canal is raised and water flow is retarded. Moss is removed by suspending a heavy chain between two tractors on opposite canal banks and then dragging the chain through a mucky infested area.

"Peters said the company started using Xylene, a by-product of gasoline, in some of the smaller canals to kill moss. Xylene is harmless to other plants and animal life, according to Peters. It kills the moss by breaking down the plant's air cells. The company used 10,000 gallons of Xylene during the first year. It has used it extensively.

"Muskra, sappers and badgers are a big headache to the company, Peters said. The company started poisoning the pests in 1957 and had had some success. But the animals still cause damage. Peters explained it is not uncommon for a muskrat to burrow into the water-side of the bank and eventually connect with a badger or sapper burrow from the opposite side. Water then runs out, and if the bank is not excessively soft, a major break can occur.

Peters said this happened just last spring. A leak occurred in a badger burrow and the bank began washing away. The company's emergency truck arrived just in time to place metal pilings and save the bank. The truck, maintained on a 24-hour schedule like a fire truck, carries equipment needed to meet common emergencies, such as metal interlocking pilings and sand sacks.

In the spring cleanup, Peters reports there is sometimes considerable ice damage to the banks, turn-outs and gates. Pressure from the expanding ice will chip and crack concrete structures, and only during the time that water is turned out can this be repaired. Work involved in the fall and spring clean-up is about equal.

But canal repair goes on the entire year. When the canal is full, the banks can still be repaired and rip-rapping and water-logged land can be drained. Improvements in modern machinery have greatly lessened the labor involved. Peters said that with 100 employees, can usually get the job done in four days with four large bulldozers, one large loader, two large draglines and two banam draglines. The draglines are used to remove all deposits and re-build banks. Peters, who has been with the company for 33 years, said that in the early days 500 men were on the company's payroll and most of the work was tedious hand work.

At that time, employees would set up camp on the construction site. Since Twin Falls gets its water supply from the canal, the company is under some pressure to get the

They're Equipped to Hunt Fish or Game

Bow, Arrow Continue to Increase in Popularity for Hunting; Tips Listed

For hunting, the bow and arrow has gained immense national popularity in the past few years. Now, however, has everything from crocodiles to elephants.

One bowhunting magazine conducted a survey showing that during the 1947 season 25,114 men and women bowhunters trod the fields in search of deer or other big game. This was a 25 per cent increase over the preceding year and 50 times the number of bowhunters in 1945.

On the basis of the number of bowhunters to total population, the survey showed that Idaho ranked third with one bowhunter out of 741.

These figures illustrate that the sport is enjoying a fantastic growth in popularity. Last year it was estimated there were 100,000 bowhunters in the field. Those 800 hunters bagged 45 deer. This is not particularly outstanding success rate, but the sport is new to most of the hunters, and that rate could be improved this season.

It is difficult to estimate the number of deer killed by bowhunters, but in Twin Falls alone eight members of the local archery club, Ol-Yo-Kwa Bowmen, Inc. got their deer this fall. This figure doesn't include many area bowmen who don't belong to an organized club.

The successful club members are Jay Barrett, Kenneth Burson, Derlin Campbell, John Holladay, Wayne Ingard, James Masterson, Robert Stoenhagen and Lynn Thomas, who is also president of the Bull Archery club.

Most experienced bowhunters agree that one reason for the somewhat low success rate of bowhunters is in addition to the bowhunter's more obvious handicaps, is that many novice hunters enter the field without the advice of more experienced hunters. Eventually they become good hunters, but only through time-consuming trial and error.

Beginners often make the same mistakes. Mistakes that the experienced bowhunter has made and can be avoided by simply lending an ear to the experienced bowhunter and taking advantage of his experience.

James Masterson, Twin Falls archer, Burson, Erling Burgess and Don Cryder, came up with bits of advice for the beginning bowhunter or archery and hunting in the United States. The men agree Idaho is one of the most fortunate areas for the bowhunter. For the state provides today pre-season and post-season in specified areas for bowhunting alone.

Another obvious but often overlooked bit of advice for the beginner is to sharpen the hunting arrow broadheads to a keen cutting edge. Beginners often overlook this simple but vital detail. Masterson says, "It doesn't matter how much value, but rather on its re-hemmering effect, the more elastic the fatter and more humane the kill. An animal hit with a sharp broadhead arrow will leave a clearer blood trail, making tracking easier."

The men advise the beginning hunter to outfit himself with equipment that fits well. Often a beginner chooses a bow with a draw weight far above his ability to shoot accurately. Roughly, a person should start with a bow with a draw weight about the power over which he can draw comfortably.

For example, if you can comfortably draw a bow with a draw weight of 45 pounds, you should probably begin with a 40-pound bow.

Burson points out that archery forces a person to use the seldom-used muscles of the back, neck, shoulders, arms and hands. It's muscle tone that counts. I've seen women that have never shot a bow in their lives as men. It's all in the individual," he explains.

With the recent improvement in archery equipment, bows with high draw weights are no longer needed for big game. Most hunters have created a bow that draws easier, but casts an arrow with greater

A small point offered to the beginner, but an important one, is to keep both eyes open when you shoot. With both eyes open, the hunter has better vision and can estimate distances with more definite accuracy to the bowhunter.

Another point overlooked by the novice bowhunter is off-season equipment. Burgess urged the serious bowhunter to practice constantly in the winter months. He suggested that a standard target at about a half mile range, be used. Burgess says, "Vary your conditions, shoot uphill, downhill, and across valleys. The men said this kind of practice better conditions the hunter for hunting."

Burgess said a group of bowhunters sometimes will strike out through the woods playing a form of bow and arrow follow-the-leader. The leader will attempt a certain shot and the remainder must follow suit.

Burgess told of a more rigorous type of practice. When Burgess, John Sackett and Wayne Ingard were preparing for a state archery contest, they devised a Spartan-type practice. They played the follow-the-leader practice game on the banks of a river. But when one member missed he had to shoot an arrow across the river. The rules were that all such arrows must be retrieved by swimming the river.

The weather was cold at the time, Burgess admits few arrows were shot across the river, but none retrieved.

Beginning bowhunters often fail to carry enough archery equipment into the field. According to the men, more than one hunt has been spoiled for the want of a bow string. They suggested any hunter should carry extra strings, a file for sharpening broadheads, points that have been dulled, and at least a dozen arrows, preferably more.

In the field, a common mistake for the beginner is to aim for the whole deer, rather than pick the chest cavity and aim for the vital. The beginner often becomes nervous when facing big game and will usually aim for the entire animal, re-

Machines Used to Harvest Record Beet Crop

Machines such as this harvester operated by Al Dougherty, Twin Falls farmer, are used to harvest Idaho's huge sugar beet crop each fall. The machine digs, tops, lifts and loads beets for delivery to sugar plant. Dougherty pauses to talk over harvest progress with Robert Day, Amalgamated Sugar company's district manager at Twin Falls. Dougherty, who has grown sugar beets a long time, reports a yield of about 25 tons of beets per harvested acre for this year's crop. (Western Best Sugar photo-left engraving) and then will sometimes break when drawn. Arrows should be placed in an arrow rack. A rack that stands across vertically and secures the feathers.

Burson offered this final advice: "Join a club and practice on the field course where you will shoot with other archers and pick up good pointers and advice that they are always willing to give you. Practice on legal small game such as jackrabbits and quail. Put up a couple of baits of straw in the back yard and iron out your bow shooting habits. All this is a must if you want to bring the law of averages to your favor."

The local club, Ol-Yo-Kwa Bowmen, Inc., is not limited to Twin Falls residents alone. Anyone interested in the club's activities, which include organized hunts, monthly tournaments and archery classes can contact Erling Burgess, club president.

ing that something so large would be difficult to miss. This is not the real test of the bowhunter is how well he attacks his game, and how accurately he places his arrow.

Burgess aimed up the bowhunter's creed when he said, "Look upon the stalk as a contest with yourself. I get more enjoyment out of the stalk than out of bagging the game."

Another point, easily overlooked by an archer who lives in a dry climate, but who intends to hunt in a wet area with considerable rainfall is making his equipment moisture-proof. A good coating of especially prepared wax will avoid warpage of wooden bows and arrows.

Feathers, also, can be moisture-proofed to insure true flight.

"Ordinary" type of equipment can be important. Burson said a good modern bow requires no special care, but that when it is placed in storage it should be suspended vertically from a peg, or placed horizontally on several pegs, distributing the weight evenly. Don't stand a bow in the corner like a rifle.

Bows and arrows should be stored in a place of moderate temperature; heat does more damage than cold. Burgess has seen many bows warped and distorted by leaving them in a closed car in hot weather, or by placing them on top of a hot car. Fiberglass bows must be protected from rough treatment. Fiberglass will "bruise" and chip

Magic Valley Harvest Nearing—Epd on Giant Sugar Beet Crop

Day said the bulk of the Twin Falls district harvest was accomplished in just 17 days. Harvesting had to be held down until Oct. 20 because of warm weather. He said the local processing plant probably will operate until mid-January to complete the sugar-making campaign.

In this district alone, Day said some 51,500 truckloads of beets would be processed and about 6,000 freight-carloads, with the mill shipping in excess of 3,000 tons of beets every 24 hours.

The bumper crop came at a time when United States beet sugar producers are being called upon to fill their biggest marketing quota in history under the sugar act, which regulates all sugar production and marketing in this country. The beet sugar quota currently stands at 2,547,488 tons, or about one-fourth of the nation's total needs for the year.

The enlarged quota for beet sugar resulted, in part, from "deficit" in the Hawaiian, Puerto Rican and Virgin Island supplies to this nation. Growth and labor troubles here have off-shore supplies by a total of 2,776,000 tons. These so-called "soft" quotas are to be filled by other sugar producers, under terms of the act, with the beet sugar producer providing almost half of the total.

Of course Daddy will be all right—he's going by TRAIN

It's true! You can forget about traffic accidents, fogged-in landing fields and slippery highways when you travel by train.

Instead of spending hours cramped behind the wheel of your car, how much nicer to stretch out in a comfortable, adjustable leg-rest coach seat, or get a good night's sleep in a peaceful, quiet Pullman.

How much nicer to relax in the lounge car, where you'll find music, magazines, a writing desk, and beverage service.

How much nicer to enjoy fine food, freshly prepared and graciously served in a famous Union Pacific dining car.

Or to sit up in the Dome and really enjoy the scenery, at ground level. Ah, that's real traveling! Sure beats tiresome driving. Certainly a great deal safer... and probably cheaper!

Next trip, enjoy the peace of mind and relaxation that comes from traveling the safe, restful Union Pacific way.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Emerson Pugmire Has Earned Title of "Mr. Hagerman" in 30 Years of Work

HAGERMAN, Nov. 8.—Emerson Pugmire counts well his 30 years of work in Hagerman. Since coming to the community 30 years ago he has been active in both LDS church and civic affairs...

In addition to serving as mayor he has been a Grading company commissioner since 1928 and currently is chairman of the Hagerman city association and the public utility Idaho district health unit board of directors.

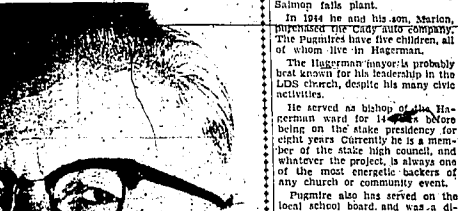

His enjoyment of working with people is amply illustrated by spending every month from the present ladder designs were drawn.

It will be a "vertical lift" fishway around it. The ladder will be on the north side of the dam, at a water level which varies nearly 10 feet during the course of a year at the dam site...

Although not a project to be completed in Idaho, it is necessary that other states have provided structures at natural barriers either to facilitate the passage of fish or to open up for them some new frontiers.

Research aspects of the Dagger Falls project were completed by the department in 1949 when a topographic crew made a topography survey.

Idaho in 1883. Pugmire grew up in the Bear Lake country, and his construction work in his early years. While in the work, he picked up the nickname of "Em" which he still bears.

EMERSON PUGMIRE

He served as bishop of the Hagerman ward for 14 years. Before being on the state presidency for eight years he served on the board of the state high council, and while on the project, is always one of the most energetic backers of any church or community event.

Pugmire also has served on the local school board and was a director of the local hospital board for several years. He is a member of the Goodwill hospital board.

Under his leadership, the Pioneer celebration July 24 has grown from a mere picnic to one of the outstanding events of the area.

Each year a rodeo is held in conjunction with a picnic and other community events.

Pioneer Woman at Rupert Has Long, Colorful Life in Valley

SUBJECT: Mrs. Maud Doyle, resident of the Rupert area since 1904, has had a long and colorful life since arrival here with her husband and family in a wagon from Nebraska, via Steamboat Springs, Colo., Wyoming, Bear Lake county, Blackfoot, Carey, Arco and Halley.

Born Sept. 25, 1870, at Lincoln, Neb., she attended school at Sutton, Neb. She was married there to Irvin Nickerson on July 31, 1889. Of six children, only two survive, George Nickerson, Rupert, and Mrs. Doris Larson, Seco, Mont.

In addition to her own children, Mrs. Doyle raised two granddaughters following the death of one of her daughters. They are Mrs. Janice Dick, Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Jean Anderson, Postville, Iowa.

She tells of deciding to come to Idaho after a few years spent in Denver and Steamboat Springs, Colo. The trip was made in a "wagon" which had been used as a stagecoach for a time. They left Steamboat on Aug. 1, 1890, coming across southern Wyoming.

She recalls when they crossed the Berthoud pass, the eastern slope was all right and the ascent gave them no trouble, but on the western down grade, the first four miles was "corduroy" and hard to ride over.

"The only trouble they had was one steep grade. The doubletree broke and the wagon, children, household goods and all started back down the grade. The men of the party were able to get large rocks behind the wheels and stop the outfit short of going over a cliff.

"They came first into southeastern Idaho, into the Bear Lake country. In order to get to Halley, they had to go north to Blackfoot to cross Snake river, then on through the Arco and Carey county into

Halley, arriving there Nov. 1, 1890, just three months since they left Colorado. They got the last available house in Halley.

Mrs. Doyle recalls fall was open weather similar to this year and that the only storm they encountered was at Opal, Wyo. It didn't slow them for long.

When they heard of the opening of the Minidoka project in 1904, they discussed the possibility of coming here. Nickerson, a painter by trade, didn't think much of the idea of taking up land, but at the insistence of his wife, he made a trip down here to look over the land.

"An investigation," Mrs. Doyle picked out a spot on the map where she thought she would like to farm. She recalls that it took several days and quite a bit of urging to get Nickerson to go down to the land office in Halley and sign up for the land.

They came to Rupert and took up 80 acres two miles west of town. Mrs. Doyle still owns 40 acres of the original homestead which lies across the road west from the new Minidoka county high school.

For the first year or so, the children had to walk the three miles to Pioneer school, and when the district could finally afford a school wagon, Mrs. Doyle drove it. She would have to start about sunrise in order to make the route and get to school on time. After she would drive back home to her delayed work returning again in the afternoon for the children.

They had no canal water on the farm until 1907, hauling all water they used from the pump in town or from a neighbor west of them—what is now the Moller place. Since she would drive in, let the cattle drink, start back, and let them rest at the present site of the haymill for an hour or so. This went on for several weeks until they finished a well.

Since their only saddle horse died about the time they moved down here, she had to walk on these trips.

When asked how she ever found time to do her housework, she said it didn't take much time since there wasn't much house. Mrs. Doyle says some of her most pleasant memories are of this period when they worked from early morning until late at night.

Between crops, Mr. Nickerson worked for the government building the power plant at Minidoka dam. It was at this job that he met an accidental death when rocks from a bank fell, striking him.

Mrs. Doyle moved with her four children to Rupert where she built the house she still occupies. She sold the contractor she had just so much money and that she wanted all the house he could give her for that amount. What came out was a two-story, three-bedroom house. She still does most of her own work and lives alone in the house.

She worked for about 12 years in various stores in Rupert and for several years was Rupert reporter for the Times-News.

In 1925, she was married to G. W. Doyle, Rupert. He died in 1938.

Mrs. Doyle was a charter member of the Pioneer Grange which was
