WASHINGTON—Who are the "spenders" whom President Eisenhower has named to the cabinet? The answer: Although President Eisenhower refuses to identify them, he has named them to the cabinet. He has named them to the cabinet. He has named them to the cabinet.

Rexburg Unit Battles School Moving Plans

REXBURG, Nov. 29—A Rexburg group will fight the proposed move of Rexburg High School to Idaho Falls. The group is called the Rexburg Unit. They are fighting the move because they believe it will harm the school's reputation.

APPROACHING A SHOWDOWN

It won't be long now until the next session of the legislature will be deciding how much more money the state will spend and how the increased load will be saddled upon the taxpayers during the recent election campaign. Republicans and Democrats alike, primarily concerned with influential votes, went on record repeatedly against any new "massive" tax—particularly a tax on the automobile.

INCONSISTENT CRITICISMS

In his pre-election report, the ADA hierarchy gave the two Democrats a good deal of credit for their support of the board reductions on individual income taxes and other federal revenues. However, they have now charged their critics with inconsistency, and quite rightly. Although the ADA insists on tax cuts, it has also been demanding higher federal salaries, urban renewal and slum clearance.

DOES ADAI STEVENSON WANT TO RUN AGAIN?

"Is it the general opinion of the people of Idaho that they would like to see Al Stewart run for a second term as governor?" This is the question that the ADAI is asking. Stewart is a former governor and has served two terms. He is now a member of the ADAI.

There was never a more opportune time for increased state expenditures

There was never a more opportune time for increased state expenditures than now. The Idaho Citizens' Committee for Good Government is calling for a referendum on the issue. They believe that the state is in a financial crisis and that a referendum is the only way to solve the problem.

RULE-OR-BURN ATTITUDE OF ADAERS

In general, the "spenders" criticized by the President represent the party wing associated with the American Labor Party. They are the "spenders" who are in favor of higher federal salaries and other federal revenues. They are the "spenders" who are in favor of higher federal salaries and other federal revenues.

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT.

FAMOUS LAST LINE

"You should see all the pressure we have put on the fourth row." This is a famous last line from a play. It is a line that has been used many times and is a very popular one.

Views of Others

The irony of the plea for higher teacher salaries in Idaho is that so many of these papers take in paltry amounts. They are the "spenders" who are in favor of higher federal salaries and other federal revenues. They are the "spenders" who are in favor of higher federal salaries and other federal revenues.

ANOTHER USE FOR TOYS

Just a suggestion but why not take or send the toys to the Idaho state school, as there are many parents who don't want their children or grandchild to be in a residential program on there. Unbreakable toys would be best. If you have any of the children there, I have first hand knowledge of their needs.

They're Really Scratching in 'Henyard'; Solons Hunt Office

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The really scratching around in the U. S. Capitol today is over the office of Sen. Matthew Neely, D., Va., who died in 1957. That means he steps in as a senator immediately. He has an office here, his secretary, and a desk in the Senate office building. But if you want to be technical about it, Neely isn't in session so he probably won't be sworn in until Jan. 7, 1959, with the rest of the new crop.

How the rest of the pecking order determined?

If a man ever has served in the house, he is given credit. Curiously, a man was elected to congress in 1934, served one term and was beaten. He still would have seniority over a man who was elected in 1936 and had served ever since.

Being a governor also helps, and finally, if everything else is equal, the man from the state with the largest population gets first choice.

Getting the right office is even more of a chore this year for two reasons. An unusually large class of newcomers, and a second senate office building that may, or may not, be ready for the opening of congress.

Around 40 senators will be in the new building. Under the seniority system, the men who have been senators longest get the crack at the best offices, some of which are sinecures.

But many won't move. They have become attached to their present location, or simply don't think it's worth the bother. Yet each has to be canvassed to see what he wants.

If the new building isn't ready, by the way, new senators will move into their predecessors' offices with the same of musical chairs to begin as soon as the building is finished.

Oh, yes, the bottom of the list.

Chas. McCree, D., a new senator from Wyoming, never has been elected to any office, so he brings up the rear, at least until the final returns from Alaska are in.

"I think a college professor," McCree taught at the University of Wyoming—"is at the bottom of the list," he said.

And he was right.

Son Cleared, Mother Says

BURLEY, Nov. 29—Paul D. Tracy, 19, son of former Yost residents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Tracy, has been cleared of any connection in the slaying of a woman at the Utah Oil service station, Manila, his mother reported here, who now resides with his parents at Brigham City, Utah, and his school acquaintances were speaking from Brigham City to Manila when offered a ride in an automobile driven by Jerry Nelson, 21, Seattle.

Subsequent investigation disclosed that Nelson had stolen the car in Seattle. He admitted the Manila slaying upon arrest.

Nelson talked the boys into releasing him to Denver where they were arrested. While Tracy slept in the car, his two companions were slaying in Burlington, Kan., a girl at Oak Creek, Colo.

Divorces Okayed For Two Women

Two divorce decrees were granted today in Twin Falls district court by Judge Hugh A. Baker to women charged cruelty.

Mrs. Alice L. Kuntz was divorced from Charles M. Kuntz, 58, who was ordered to pay $25 monthly support for each child. She has two children.

The wife married Aug. 20, 1950, and her community property was divided by James M. Cunningham, Twin Falls attorney.

Mrs. Annie M. Anderson was divorced from Charles E. Anderson, 47, who was ordered to pay $25 monthly support for each child. She has two children.

The wife married Jan. 11, 1952. No community property was divided. She was represented by E. W. Johnson, Twin Falls attorney.

Wrong Day

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 29 (AP)—Some day they may laugh about it.

Today William McCormick, his wife and two of their friends were in a little put out.

A few minutes after they were married, McCormick felt sick.

Four hours later his appendix was out.

No honeymoon; no moving into the new home for a while.

To top off the day, two friends driving to attend the wedding party—which later was called off—treated police citations for backing their horns gayly.

Permits Sought

APPROXIMATELY A building permit to construct a 10 by 12-foot addition to his residence at 162 Harvard street has been filed by Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Snively, 419 Sunrise boulevard, and has applied for a permit to construct a 10 by 28-foot addition at a cost of $2,000.

High Finance Is Conducted by California Banker, Small Boy

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29 (AP)—"May I help you?" asked the banker. "I want to borrow $5," the boy replied.

"What are you going to do with it?" "Buy a model aircraft carrier kit," the boy said.

"How much does it cost?" "Three dollars," the boy said.

"Then why do you need five?" "I want to buy some Christmas presents for my mother and father," the boy said.

"Assistant Cashier Mike Musante got up a loan application form," the banker said.

"Name? Billy Justice. Age? 8. Married? No. Occupation? 'I go to school — and help my father.'"

"Do you get paid?" "Yes—15 cents a week."

"Have you anything to put up as collateral?" "I have a baseball and glove," the boy said.

"I'll get a bat in the car," Billy said. He ran outside and returned with the bat.

"I think we can lend you the $5," said Musante. Billy signed a note agreeing to repay the loan at 40 cents a month. Also 10 per cent interest, the bank's rate for small loans—another 40 cents.

"If you don't pay, we may have to sell this collateral and maybe possess your aircraft carrier," Musante said.

They shook hands. Musante gave Billy five silver dollars.

Billy's father, Harmon, general manager of a bottling mill, had stood outside in the lobby of the bank of America branch throughout the transaction Friday. He told Musante the deal's background.

"Billy had asked his dad for the $5 loan. Justice told him: 'You know, when I need money I go to the bank and borrow it.'"

"Let's go to the bank," said Billy. Musante told a reporter: "Ordinarily the bank doesn't make loans to persons under 21. This is a case of instructing the younger generation in getting money the way a dad would have to."

1,300 Farming Youths Gather At Convention

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—Thirteen hundred farm kids came to Chicago today to live it up, city style.

And most any Chicagoan, stunned by the program facing the youngsters, would be happy to trade it for a few days' rest on a farm, milking cows, tending stock, filling silos and handling grain.

The attraction is the 37th National Farm Youth Congress, an annual rally at which outstanding rural youngsters are rewarded for achievements in many classes of competition.

In the big hotels the maîtres d', accustomed to chilling champagne, were lining cans of milk. Hora d'oeuvre chefs were calling up all their artistry to make eggs look nothing like the simple hen fruit back home.

The congress will run through Thursday. No two days are identical. No, mom and pop don't have to mortgage the farm to let junior have this fling. Companies and benefactors that underwrite the 4-11 club activities pick up the check.

Most of the kids—win-all-expense trips to Chicago for the congress.

Peron Claims Conflict Near In Argentina

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Nov. 29 (AP)—Juan Peron said today that "civil war is near in Argentina."

President Arturo Frondisi's government within six months.

Peron, who ruled Argentina as a dictator for 10 years before being chased into exile in September, 1955, cheerfully talked with an interviewer.

"I am ready to leave for Argentina whenever the people call for me," he said.

Peron, confident that his return would be greeted with a "cavalry" of economic affluence and internal troubles in Argentina are warning so rapidly that certainly Frondisi cannot remain in power much longer.

In Argentina, Peronist trade unions Saturday elected a new, tough labor policy of the Frondisi government and called for a 48-hour general strike.

Frondisi already has declared a state of siege in the country to cope with an outbreak of wildcat strikes.

France's Right Wingers Take Over Assembly

PARIS, Nov. 29 (AP)—France completed election of its new national assembly Sunday, with moderates and right-wingers in the position of power.

Success for candidates apparently will be in direct proportion to how closely they have tied themselves to Premier Charles de Gaulle and how they have secured the voter, they have a refraining new political outlook.

The biggest single formation shaping up in the assembly—first under the infant Fifth Republic—will quite clearly be the right-wing De Gaulle unit under a new republic.

The most important name in the assembly will be that of Jacques Soustelle, the political musician behind the Fascist-tinted Algerians of last May 13. He may command around 200 seats in the assembly.

Coming down with the communists will be virtually all of the serious-minded moderates—de Gaulle has clearly wanted as a counterweight to the bearded right.

The new national assembly, the lower house, will have 545 permanent seats; 465 from continental France, 67 from Algeria, 10 from Sahara, and 10 from overseas departments.

16th Nuclear Reactor at Arco Site to Be Dedicated Tuesday

IDAHO FALLS, Nov. 29 (AP)—The 16th nuclear reactor to be put into operation at the national reactor testing station near here will be dedicated formally Tuesday.

The newest addition to the atomic energy commission's sprawling eastern Idaho test station is the Argonne low power reactor, a type designed to prove the efficiency of a small, easily transportable reactor to supply power and heat in remote areas.

Largest Collection

The AEO site near here has, according to the AEO, "the world's largest and most varied collection of reactors of all types—research, testing, power, and propulsion."

Under propulsion are those successful prototypes for powering submarines and large sea-going vessels—and the one still under development to power an airplane.

Seven others are under construction or planned.

19 Other Projects

There are 10 other projects complementary to reactors, such as a plant to process uranium fuel elements and facilities to treat used elements for safe disposal.

Idaho's Initial Radar Station To Open Soon

COTTONWOOD, Nov. 29 (AP)—In less than two months, the first radar station in Idaho will go into operation near here.

Crews, now practicing eight hours a day, will soon join Washington, Oregon and Montana radar stations in a 24 hour a day sky surveillance schedule.

The Cottonwood radar unit is sited on a 5,800-foot bluff five and one-half miles from here and is manned by 82nd aircraft control and warning squadron personnel.

Frank S. Palmer commands the installation.

The unit will "see" images from an unmanned gap filler radar station at Water-Idaho, 60 miles away in the Lewiston valley.

Construction of the unit began in 1952 and buildings include administration, dispensary, bachelor officers quarters, recreation hall, two airman's dormitories, a dining hall, supply and maintenance building, heating plant and motor pool shop.

2 Soviet Papers Take Slap at Tito

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 (AP)—Two Soviet newspapers took a backhand slap at President Tito today in making a direct plea to the Yugoslav people for better relations between the two countries.

Pravda and Izvestia made no mention of Tito in messages of greeting to the Yugoslav people on the 16th anniversary of the founding of the Yugoslav Communist Republic.

Instead both newspapers denounced revisionists, those accused by Moscow of attempting to split the communist bloc by retreating to the Kremlin line. Tito is regarded by communists outside Yugoslavia as a leading apostle of revisionism.

TORRANCE, Calif., Nov. 29 (AP)—A Sheriff's deputy found two youngsters in his bed—a boy and a dog.

The boy wouldn't talk. Williams called the sheriff's office on the phone.

After several minutes of questioning, the deputy learned that the boy had a mother who had a few black cats and his mother wouldn't let him stay at the home.

They took Billy home where his mother, Mrs. Beulah McArthur, said neither her husband nor she had three more could be screened to accommodate the dog.

They started to call the press.

"You can't do that," protested Billy. "He really belongs to another kid in the neighborhood."

The deputies left, and plans were made for the search to spend the night in the family car.

But the animal's presence may be brief.

"I was afraid they'd kill Billy," they took him to the pound. Billy sobbed. "I don't want to go. I don't want to go. I'll find him. I'll find someone."

 The post office department said today it will be working full blast with deliveries on Christmas day and the days afterwards — including Sunday — to keep up with the crush of late-mailing and Christmas letters.
 Assistant Postmaster General L. Robt. Walker said regular postal workers will be given compensating time off after Christmas for their holiday chore. Extra workers hired to help out will receive pay.

Lure of Politics Strong for Derr

BOISE, Nov. 20 (UP)—The lure of politics remains strong for Bile Sen. A. M. Derr, who lost Nov. 4 gubernatorial fight with Republican Gov. Robert Z. Donnell by 114 votes.
 He said today that he plans to seek appointment as an attaché of the 1959 legislature which convenes in January.
 Derr, who lives at Clark Fork in north Idaho, will not return as a state senator in January.

 He added that he had no political plans for the future, but was not "disinterested in politics."

BOB ANDERSON LEADS UNBEATEN CADETS OVER MIDWEST AIR FORCE BEATS COLORADO, VOTES TO TAKE BOWL BID

Unbeaten Cadets Overcome Early Case of Jitters and Navy Touchdown, Cop Win

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22 (AP)—Bob Anderson battered Army's line for two touchdowns today, forcing the Army to bounce a case of jitters for a 22-6 victory. Cheving out yardage at a steady pace, Army's junior halfback from Cocoa, Fla., punctured Navy's first half dream of a major upset. Coach Earl (Red) Blaik used his lone home end more as a decoy than an offensive weapon in this fiercely fought contest before a throng of 102,000 half-frozen fans. Trailing 6-0 after Pete Hawkins' fumble of the opening kickoff gave Navy a quick opening for a 35-yard touchdown march, the cadets closed ranks. They shut off a Navy drive by taking the ball on downs on the Army 14 early in the second period and dominated play the rest of this clear, cold afternoon.

Transfers, Graduation Cut Camas' Experience

FAIRFIELD, Nov. 22 (AP)—Transfers and graduation bid deeply into the basketball experience at Camas County high school last spring, leaving Coach Earl (Red) Blaik with only four returning players to defend the state title against the defending champion Portland Friday night. Tom Gill and Jack Prostenzon, a pair of two-year men, paced the returning letter winners.

Williams Leads Notre Dame To 20-13 Come-From-Behind Victory Over Southern

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29 (UPI)—Quarterback Bob Williams came off the bench to replace the flashy George Izo with the Irish trailing and led Notre Dame to a 20-13 victory over Southern California before 65,903 fans in Memorial coliseum. Using his favorite option plays and the rushing of Norm Oydnic, who took over for Nick Pietrosante after a leg injury in the second quarter, Williams generated two touchdowns and drove to over 100 yards in a 13-play drive that culminated in a 34-yard touchdown drive to victory. The Irish star, thrilled by the big crowd by passing for one touchdown, pulling 10 pounds of Izo's passes and setting up Southern California's second score. The 30th meeting between the two teams in their interspersed rivalry was a rough affair in which men on both sides suffered injuries. Pietrosante and Bill Mack both played about a third of the game and had to leave when Southern California center Ken Aint was hospitalized with a neck injury.

Four Local Printers Have 139 Years of ITU Membership

Oldest Continuous Union in T.F. Marks Local Golden Anniversary

The local union in Twin Falls in Idaho marks the 50th anniversary of its existence—the International Typographical Union, local 10—observing its 50th anniversary today. The union's auxiliary sponsored a banquet last Sunday at the banquet, Rex Fienner, charter member of Twin Falls 10, recounted formation of the local.

Fienner noted that when the local was being formed there weren't enough Twin Falls printers to get a charter from the national office. It took eight printers, and there were only five in town. So three former printers, working at other jobs at the time, supported the budding local by paying dues until there were eight printers in town.

At the banquet, a pamphlet of reminiscences written by Fred Ojers was read by Stanley Curfew, president of the local. In the pamphlet, Ojers recounted some of the trying times experienced by the young local. He wrote, "Monthly Union meetings were held in the pressroom of the Citizen, then occupying the basement of the present Twin Falls mortuary building, when the Citizen folded, which it did shortly after my arrival, we met in various places about the city. Some sessions were held in the city park on the public benches. We had no privacy, Ojers. We met in the new Odd Fellows building, sharing the main floor with dancing classes of youngsters shepherded there by their instructors. We met elsewhere (Continued on Page 25, Column 1)

Children Face Exciting Christmas; Toys Bigger, Gaudier and Noisier

If this isn't the happiest Christmas for the small fry in money a year, it won't be the toy-makers' fault.

Toys are bigger, gaudier and noisier than ever. There is a toy for every purpose and to suit every whim.

A trip through the carnival-like toylands that have sprang up in the local stores would make you believe you were a Gulliver in Lilliput. There is a toy replica for every known adult item.

If, through some magic, the adult world would suddenly disappear in a whoop and smoke, life would go on in kidland uninterrupted. The adult world has been completely and perfectly reproduced in scale and served up to the youngsters in brightly colored polyethylene.

"Soup to nuts" is an inadequate description of the toys on sale. Everything from Van Bonner's real-life gun and toy frontier forts to stizzling ray guns and space-age rockets stations are available. And if the child is hooked there are always medieval awards and abrids.

According to most merchants, wider use of plastics and more intricately driven toys are the major news in this year.

In the old days, toys that moved if they moved at all—were generally propelled by a hand-wound spring and, if they worked at the beginning, were usually good for a maximum of three to three and one-half windings before they went to the great toy hereafter.

Now, many toys are propelled by flashlight batteries and perform more efficiently and silently than their predecessors. And they are bigger, too. One jelted foot-long plastic tank, perfect in the last detail, is powered by electric batteries and automatically loads and shoots a clip of ammunition as it creeps along on rubber tracks.

But, it's the child's wants, not his parents' pocketbooks, that are the designers. One of the newest toys, obviously designed by someone with a grudge against parents, is a polyethylene toy pneumatic hammer. The noise it produced would delight any mischievous child and give a real pneumatic hammer an inferiority complex.

The young gun-slinger probably has more choice now than ever before. Plastics have enabled manufacturers to produce a He-like weapon that, according to one salesman,

Trouble's brewing in toyland as two frontier personalities prepare for a showdown. Wild Bill Hickock, alias Steven Burk, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Burk, threatens Zorro, alias Mike Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ford. It's a bright season for children as they inspect the many Twin Falls toylands and prepare for the holidays. (Staff photo-ensaving)

Bales of Straw Prepare Ranch Building for Winter

The Rev. Mr. Crowe and his family and five ranch youths are living in the house. Last week they installed a new parlor stoker that the Rev. Mr. Crowe says will be an improvement over the old stove they had been using. (Staff photo-ensaving)

Idaho Youth Ranch Preparing for First Winter; Work Is Plentiful

The Idaho Ranch for Youth near Twin Falls is preparing for its first winter by stacking bales of straw around the base of the building to insulate it against winter winds. The house is a wartime housing building that had been adapted for use as the main living quarters.

Until a parlor stoker was installed during the past week, the six-room house was difficult to heat according to the superintendent.

Two hundred cubic yards of gravel have been placed on the dirt road leading from the county road. The Rev. Mr. Crowe says that last winter the gravel from the ranch was nearly impossible to place.

The ranch site, then under construction, was a muddy and the county road stretching from Acquia was nearly impassable at times. They had to use a D-4 Caterpillar to reach the ranch site occasionally. But this winter he anticipates little trouble from the elements. Last winter, while preparing to move to the ranch, the Rev. Mr. Crowe lived with his wife and daughter and three ranch youths at a rented farmhouse south of Rupert.

The Idaho Ranch for Youth entered into a contract with the federal government to buy 2500 acres of land at the appraised value. The bureau of reclamation appraised the land at $1000 per acre. The ranch will pay $1 per acre per year until the full appraised price is paid. The first payment was made last July, following a development period.

Seven hundred acres are under irrigation now, 500 leased on a share basis.

Rush for 1959 Auto Plates Slated To Open in State Monday Morning

The rush and crush of 1958 Idaho vehicle license sales will begin at 8 a.m. Monday when a horde of vehicle owners will converge on the county assessor's office seeking low numbered tags.

County Assessor Clifford D. Thompson, if this year follows the example of the past, a crowd of 300 people will be lined up three abreast before the office door.

Jan. 10 is the deadline to display new plates. This deadline was extended from Jan. 1 to provide at least one additional pay period following the Christmas holidays.

Thompson explains the office will sell about 16,200 sets of tags in 1959. Seventy-five per cent of the plates will be sold in the six-week rush period. On rush days the office will sell as many as 500 tags.

To cope with the rush of the sales, the office adds four additional "salesmen" working "part-time" in selling tags and in the many filing chores accompanying sales.

The women start work about 10 days before sales begin, Thompson said. This enables them to become acquainted with any rule changes and to assist in various preliminary work.

"We are fortunate in having the same girls come back year after year," Thompson points out.

One of the major jobs to be done before the first sale day is to notify the major vehicle fleet owners in the county, such as the various trucking companies, and other businesses with a fleet of vehicles.

Thompson estimates there are about 11 such fleets in the county. The owners are asked to prepare and submit their vehicle registrations to the assessor's office so they can be processed. This alleviates counter work in dealing with such large buyers and generally speeds tags sales.

Thompson estimates that no license plates leave the office until Monday.

There will be four girls selling tags at all times, and Thompson urges all applicants to bring the necessary documents.

Idaho residents must bring either their automobile registration or their title of ownership. Without these documents, tags cannot be sold. If the documents have been lost, duplicates can be sought through the assessor's office.

Former out-of-state car owners now applying for Idaho license plates must bring their out-of-state title and a motor inspection certificate issued by any law enforcement agency. If there is a lien on the car, the office must have either the original or a photostat copy of the contract. Such contracts are filed at Boise.

Thompson says, "If out-of-state people would go to windows number one or three, the processing would be faster." He explains his more experienced personnel will be working those windows.

The press of tag seekers will subside after the first few days, Thompson notes, then, shortly before the deadline in January, it will begin again.

Thompson says the "first-come, first-served" policy rather well. "In the majority of cases the people are orderly throughout the entire process."

During the year about 25,000 pounds of license plates will be sold by the office, amounting to several hundred thousand dollars. In 1958 the office has sold about $30,000 worth of tags.

This amounts to approximately half of the money collected by the assessor's office throughout the year. The office also collects personal property tax. In 1958 this amounted to about $400,000.

Thompson points out there is a deputy assessor's office in Buhl at the Idaho Insurance agency. "The office accommodates people in that area," Thompson says. The office, which sells tags all year, will sell about 3,000 sets a year.

The Twin Falls office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on week days and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

Workers at Assessor's Office Prepared for Rush

The Twin Falls county assessor's office is prepared for tomorrow's rush of 1959 license plate seekers. Judging from past experience, Clifford Thompson, county assessor, says about 300 persons will be waiting in line in the early morning for the low numbered tags. Thompson said it isn't getting for the line to form the night before the tags go on sale. Getting ready for the rush are, from left, Mrs. E. R. Hoke, Mrs. Leonard Arvold, Mrs. Donald Mohaworth, and, in the background, Mrs. Roy Harding. (Staff photo-ensaving)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Allen Hardin, a resident of Minidoka county more than 45 years, has moved to Washington to make his home. Hardin came to Idaho from Canada to which he had migrated as a boy from London, England. He was born in London, England, in 1903, there was no electricity on any of the farms. It was mostly horse and buggy days. He and his brother, Ben Hardin, were farmers, but soon became known for their fine horses. During all of these 45 years, he engaged in farming.

He and his wife were the parents of two sons and a daughter. All three were graduated from the University of Idaho.

The sons served in the navy and air force during World War II. Both live at Mount Lake.

Hardin also owns a farm there and will live on the farm and raise in his honor as Mr. HAYWARD. He helped to build the Methodist church, which Mr. Hardin was the following church services.

A few months before Mr. Hardin died, Hardin asked permission to see a pair of pliers hanging from the ceiling. He said he saw in his machine building looking for something when he saw the pair of pliers hanging from a nail.

A hole had been made in the hands and a thing had been run through it.

At that moment he saw them he knew they had belonged to Frank M. Bohon who had been an early day pioneer and farmer. He had told the new Bohon had given them to Keith when he had worked for him on the threshing machine, and Keith would like to have them. He credited Mr. Bohon for the pliers. They wouldn't be lost and he knew Keith would appreciate having them.

David Niven Resents Brevity Of Life; He Has Much to Do

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—David Niven resents life. Not the weary length of it, but the brevity of it. "I want to live another 100 years," he said. "I want to go on and on, doing. I can't visualize myself retiring and sitting in a little house by the seashore or the mountains."

"I resent deeply the fact I can't read all the books I want to, know all the people, see all the places."

As a debonair in his own right, Niven means the problems of living with a mixture of granite and quicksilver. "The handsome Scottish-born actor, after a harum-scarum, impetuous youth, settled down to become one of Hollywood's most durable players of light comedy roles."

After 6 1/2 years of service in the British army during World War II (he emerged a colonel), he quickly resumed his star status. He was one of the first Hollywood stars to venture into television, despite a film mogul's stern warning that "if you do, you'll never work in my studio again."

"That's all right," Niven assured him. "I haven't worked in it for the last 10 years anyway."

Since then he has been busier than ever. As vice president of the Four Star Playhouse he has helped supervise the production of nearly 1,200 TV dramas. He makes a dozen or so TV appearances a year, acts in two or three films.

In his latest "Separate Tables," he portrays a lonely, seedy, scandal-hunted man, a role his fans may find somewhat surprising.

"I try to look for something different every time," Niven said. "My theory is that if you are lucky enough to make a good living acting, it's better to keep working than to sit around a year waiting for the perfect script."

"You learn something every day you work."

War left a stamp on his thinking, as it does on all who spend much time in it.

This is his personal philosophy: "I think we all eventually evolve our own faith. I am convinced that heaven and hell are right where we are now—in this Earth."

"Life is an 'ephemeral grand national spectacle. We are given certain talents to get over, and certain opportunities. And if you don't, the opportunity, you miss them."

"It really doesn't matter who the winner is; getting under the course that counts."

"Life is like having a garden full of lovely flowers. If we don't look after them, a horrible little weed comes up and blows a seed of unhappiness into the garden, and some foul weed springs up and ruins the whole thing."

Niven right now seems like a man up to his chin in rhododendrons.

The price of fuel oil in the U. S. went from $1.53 a barrel in 1946 to $2.27 in September, 1948.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By R. T. CRONK
Pastor, Seventh-day Adventist Church

Perhaps you have heard the story of the professor who hung on the wall of his classroom a large sheet of white paper upon which no marks were visible except one small black spot.

When he asked the class what they saw, the response was unanimous. The only thing they could see was the black mark.

We all have a big capacity for observing. Some of us have an over developed capacity for seeing black specks.

Why is it, no one can explain. When Judger beheld the glory of the Son of God he discerned what he thought was a little black speck in the character of Christ.

When he "saw" that, he forgot about the broad expanse of pure white "glory" that surrounded—the Son of God. Actually there was no blemish of character in Jesus. It was only a dark pigment of Satan's imagination transposed by envious eyes to the person of Christ.

It is possible that the reason we see so many black marks in others is that there are spots in our own eyes. There is danger that we shall impute to innocent people our own defects of character. In most impressive language Jude condemns those who "are spots in your faces of charity... feeding themselves without fear; clouds that are without water, carried about of winds; trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots; raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame; wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever." Jude 17, 18.

It may be true that our associates and acquaintances have spots in their lives. But it is the work of Christ to remove the dark marks of sin. We can help these erring ones to find the Saviour if we will point then to Jesus. It is likely that they are altogether too conscious of their mistakes as it is. They need encouragement.

The Thanksgiving season is more than just looking forward to filling the gastronomic vacancies. It is to share our hopes with the hopeless, our courage with the discouraged, our sympathy with the like tempted.

This will make the true spirit of charity... feeding themselves without fear; clouds that are without water, carried about of winds; trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots; raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame; wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever." # Even Cows "Winterized" at Idaho Ranch for Youth North of Rupert

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Carl Boyd Farms and Has Dairy Herd; Serves Eight Years on School Board

Even the cows are winterized. The Rev. James H. Crowe, superintendent, and three boys at the Idaho Ranch for Youth prepare one of their milk cows to trim her hooves. During the past week the boys have been busy preparing for the first winter they will spend on the ranch. (Staff photo-engraving)

The Rev. James H. Crowe, superintendent of the Idaho Ranch for Youth, stands on the foundation of the ranch home unit now under construction. About $15,000 in cash will be needed to buy materials for the interior partitions, windows and roof. There is sufficient material for the walls, but construction can't be continued until all materials are on hand. In the background is the main ranch building, the only living quarters presently available on the ranch. (Staff photo-engraving)

Idaho Ranch for Youth Preparing for First Winter With "Plenty of Work"

The present problem is the task of completing the second ranch home unit. The Rev. Mr. Crowe hopes the unit can be completed by mid-summer or early fall.

The Rev. Mr. Crowe estimated 200 acres will eventually be tilled. But the major problem facing him is a lack of housing for applicants. They come from widows, orphans, civic clubs, probate courts, and agencies who need to place troubled youth somewhere.

According to the Rev. Mr. Crowe, 10 boys must desire to go to the ranch if they ever run into "trouble," he says. "If they ever run into trouble, we want roof, windows, interior partitions and furniture."

The family home units will house 10 boys and foster parents. As the ranch grows, additional units will be added, each with a set of parents. Each unit will have six bedrooms, a master bedroom for the parents and six bedrooms for 10 boys.

He calls them home units because he feels they approximate the design and will create the atmosphere of the regular family home. Each unit will be self-sufficient, complete with kitchen, utility room, recreation and study rooms.

The Idaho Federation of Women's Clubs has pledged to completely furnish the kitchen in the first unit, and the Twin Falls Bricklayers' union has pledged to do the masonry work when material is available for the roof and windows.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles has pledged between $5,000 and $10,000 by June, the Rev. Mr. Crowe says. And the Lockwood Graters foundation, Gerine, Neb., is considering an appropriation. Major pledges and contributions are continually bolstered by smaller cash donations received all the time.

So far, the ranch has skated precariously along on slim donations, preparing for the day when it will be completely self-sufficient. Since the ranch is supported now entirely by private donations, money is a prime concern.

"It's been a long fight with a short stick," he muses.

Cornals for horses and 22 head of Santa Gertrudis cattle have been completed. The sturdy corrals were made from 2 by 10-inch planking and used railroad ties given the ranch by the Union Pacific railroad. Water is being piped to the corrals.

The next major project will be construction of the dairy cattle pens, adjacent to the present corrals. Plans call for 40 to 50 head of dairy cows to start. In time, he hopes to expand the dairy herd to 100 head.

He says the dairy project eventually will support the home unit now under construction.

Jersey and Holstein breeders associations in Idaho have pledged to supply a starter herd of dairy stock.

The Rev. Mr. Crowe says he could now get several head of cattle but he lacks proper equipment and shelter to begin a dairy. He eventually plans to build two permanent windbreak sheds, corrals, feed storage bins, and a milking shed that will house bulk tank, milking facilities, and a refrigeration system. He estimates the entire group of dairy facilities will total about $12,000.

The blueprint next calls for a ranch machine shop. "We need it both for practical and rehabilitation purposes," he explains. The machine shop will give the boys a place to learn how to repair machinery, learn how to use tools, and also give us a place for our own equipment.

The ranch now has one room for laundry. The boys can't do laundry, but they are constantly attempting to keep the five boys and three members of the staff family in clean clothing. When ranch personnel increases it will be necessary to build a centralized laundry to serve the two home units and other home units that will be added eventually.

This Christmas, a business firm in Pocatello has promised to give the ranch a washer and dryer.

According to the Rev. Mr. Crowe, the forging projects will be undertaken before 1961. By that time there will be a need for the third home unit and another irrigation well. He estimates he will have 25 to 30 boys by that time and it will be necessary to put more land under irrigation.

He hopes to be able to undertake the home unit and irrigation well projects concurrently.

The next project will be expansion of the vocational and remedial education facilities. The Rev. Mr. Crowe says that a year ago the boys at the ranch are taken out of school for a year. "We have to keep them out of school a year," he says. "We want to want an education," he says. During that year a boy works on the ranch and receives remedial training to bolster any weak points in his formal education. This is necessary before many of the boys can re-enter school.

He wants to expand the ranch's vocational facilities so the boys can acquaint themselves with electrical work, plumbing, carpentry and other vocational handicrafts. He is a strong advocate of the type of training as a starting point for a rehabilitation program.

The next project he plans to undertake will be construction of a small infirmary on the ranch campus. He believes this is necessary to protect the health of all the ranch personnel. The infirmary will be operated by a registered nurse and will have an isolation room for contagious diseases.

An "educational quadrangle" is another future project. The quadrangle will include a chapel, gymnasium, school building, and two residential high school buildings that will operate on a 12-month schedule. The remedial classes will be taught by the parents who also supervise home units.

The last project in his construction blueprint is an administration building. This building houses the ranch's communications system and provides secretarial space for the administrators.

Although the money for such an extensive plan is not available at present, the Rev. Mr. Crowe has forged ahead with what work he can afford at present.

A good example is his beautification program. A confirmed optimist, he has already started work on landscaping of the proposed ranch "campus."

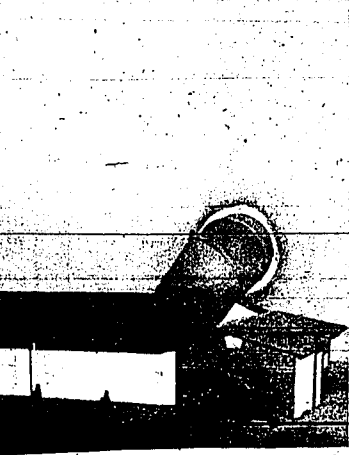

In 1955, when he was still living in Jerome, he started a small tree nursery. The original plants are now about three feet high and he will start transplanting them next spring.

"People thought I was crazy when I started the nursery then," he says. "Everyone asked how I could do it. I just told them that I was growing up in a hard place and I was ready. If they were ready—would have to be ready."

Ranch Superintendent Displays Model of Planned Quarters

This is what ranch home units will look like at the Idaho Ranch for Youth. The Rev. James H. Crowe points out the front area of the building on an architect's model. The plans for the building were drafted to the ranch by the Thomas, Ross and Stanfield architectural firm, Jackson, Tenn. Each unit, self sufficient, will house 10 boys and a set of foster parents and will be equipped with its own kitchen, utility room and study room. The Rev. Mr. Crowe hopes to have the first house completed by mid-summer. (Staff photo-engraving)

Carl Boyd, farmer south of Twin Falls, has not only found time to take care of a dairy herd, but also has served eight years on the board of education for class A school district No. 411, Twin Falls.

Boyd, the eldest of seven children, was born on a farm near Aurora, Neb. He attended high school at Giltner, Neb. In 1922, Boyd, with his parents and his brothers and sisters, moved to Idaho. His father had bought an 80-acre farm north of Kimberly and had been farming above the Boyd clan from Nebraska.

Farming conditions in the early twenties were uncertain in Nebraska, according to Boyd. His father wanted to move to a better farming area and a more healthful climate.

After two years studying business administration at Gooding college, Boyd began farming in 1923. He bought his present farm, south of Twin Falls, from his father, R. F. Boyd and began farming for himself.

After a year of bachelor farming, Boyd met Leta Sebire, then a Missions teacher, who was visiting her parents in Twin Falls. They were married in 1924.

After several years of diversified farming, Boyd started his present dairy herd in the late 20s. Since then he has specialized in dairy farming and has been successful.

The Boyd family has three sons, Richard and Roger, who are twins, and Jack. Boyd said the twins were born on the week his birthday anniversary, Dec. 22, so the Christmas holidays are a busy time.

He began his school board work in 1950 when Oscar H. Olmstead retired after many years of service. Boyd was elected to the board in 1950 and has been reelected twice, in 1953 and 1956. In 1956 board members elected Boyd chairman.

He terms it, "The nicest board of men I have ever worked with. It stresses the importance of the board's responsibility in allocating the nearly one and one-half million dollar annual school budget."

"We were supposed to meet on the first Monday of each month," Boyd notes, "but with such a large system, we often meet once a week."

The board is composed of Boyd, J. P. Anderson, David Barry, William Powell and Robert Stephan. The big problem of the board since Boyd has been a member has been enlargement of the physical plant.

The Board has been successful in securing the construction of four-room schools, two 10-room buildings, and a new addition on Harrison school. Such construction is made possible by a two-million plan facility levy passed last winter at a special election.

taxpayer's burden, has endeavored to lessen costs whenever possible. Boyd cites an example of such economy by pointing out the board saved considerable money by utilizing the same construction plans for both Morningstar and Harrison schools, two 10-room buildings.

In a week ago the board approved construction of a four-room addition to Morningstar school. The need for the new building was based on the school population of Morningstar. Boyd says the board hopes construction is extremely difficult, but it is complicated by the fact that the election depends upon the approval of two-thirds of the vote of real estate owners."

The board, understanding the need and will have an isolation room for contagious diseases.

An "educational quadrangle" is another future project. The quadrangle will include a chapel, gymnasium, school building, and two residential high school buildings that will operate on a 12-month schedule. The remedial classes will be taught by the parents who also supervise home units.

that we lower the taxes, but they don't want an increase," he stated. "I'm against too much federal aid to local schools," Boyd said. "When that happens the local people lose control of their own school system." He points out that when the government sets the policies, it will naturally have greater control.

He adds that competition with neighboring states for teachers is becoming increasingly rough.

Another problem now facing the board, is the current controversy over high school student cars. The traffic problem created by the cars has been a headache for some time, Boyd declares. But he hopes that through cooperation between the school administration, and the student body, an effective system will be reached by the end of the year.

Boyd, in addition to his school board work, is also active in other organizations. He is vice president of the Twin Falls Labor-Sponsoring group, and he sits on the official board of the Methodist church. He also finds time to belong to the Elks and Masons, including all the degrees to Elmer.

When Boyd's term expires in 1960, he will have served nine years on the board. Asked if he intends to run for election again, he said: "My plans are indefinite. I don't plan to sit at this time."

He adds, "I believe nine years is long enough for anyone to serve on the board. I would like to see some younger men take an interest in the school board activities for I believe in a balance between younger and older board members."

Commenting on the job of the volunteer school board member, Boyd says, "It's a job that takes a lot of my time, but it's an enjoyable job. You're well paid in knowing you're doing a public service."

It Always Helps if You Select Your Own Gift

The best way to get what you want for Christmas is to select it yourself. Kim Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Yvonne Anderson, helps grandfather, Henry Kulk, select a sure-fire Christmas present from a well-stocked Twin Falls toyland. (Staff photo-entgravings)

Small Fry Face Exciting Christmas as Toys Are Bigger, Gaudier and Noisier

A matter of time before someone gets hurt while cleaning one.
One of the more elaborate sets is a convertible pistol that features a take-down barrel and a removable shoulder stock—an illegal item in many states, but evidently it's "no-holds-barred" in toyland.
The most outstanding feature according to a salesman, is that most of the toys are in such realistic scale, particularly the trucks and farm implements. And the toys are getting bigger. One merchant said they are so large it is difficult to find shelf space.

There are trucks and vehicles to catch any child's eye. There are fish hatchery trucks with real water and life-like plastic fish, uranium haulers, street sanitation trucks, street graders, cement mixers and communications trucks that actually ring the bell. The plain, common, flat-bed-truck is on the road to extinction.
Other items of interest are the construction sets. There are sets for frontier forts, Arctic weather stations, and for Cape Canaveral missile sites.
One customer was overheard stating he thought he'd wait and get his own set of the sets after he got his degree in engineering.
Even tricycles have gone modern. One model resembles a rocket. Such archaic toys as marbles and Chinese checkers are hard to find in the space-age toyland.
The game supply is extensive, too. There are educational games that teach youngsters the proper sequence of the presidents and the major historical events occurring in their administrations. And at the other end of the scale there are games on how to build a castle—something every child obviously should know.

Another game involves planning an automobile production line. And for the neighborhood bon vivant and junior sophisticate there is always the miniature roulette wheel.
If the kids can't think of something to do, there is the "Dennis the Menace" Mitchell Kip, a supply of shocking items that include a rather moldy set of false teeth and a camera that shoots a rubber worm through the lens when the shutter is tripped.
All in all, the season looks good for the package-fatties. Everything is available, the problem is finding room under the tree for the various and gargantuan toys. One salesman told the prospect for next year's was dim, for everything is already on the market.
Maybe next year someone will design a magic kit that will make parents disappear, or one that will instruct the modern child in the intricacies involved in building a frankenstein monster, or a swamp of hysteria, the probable cause is an unconscious attempt to develop an excuse for not facing a difficult situation. The problem which seems insolvable to the person is "converted" into a physical symptom or disability.

The change in sensation often present in hysteria is particularly interesting. The ability of some part of the skin to "feel" is generally lost entirely. A pin can be stuck deep into that area without causing any pain. But the areas involved do not follow the course of the nerves exactly.
The treatment of symptoms of true hysteria is often difficult. The cause of the mental strain must be sought and studied. Gradual persuasion and re-education is helpful for some, but other methods must be used on many occasions.
The successful treatment of hysteria is a challenging and difficult problem. Doubtless the newer methods available to psychiatrists are increasing the number of recoveries.
Like other mental disorders, the ultimate aim of research is to find out more about the causes of hysteria so that it can be prevented or treated promptly and effectively.
There are more than 5,000 different paper products.

It's Not Hysterical Medical Hysteria Called "Challenging Disorder"

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA-Service
Among the challenging mental disorders with which physicians are sometimes faced is a condition known as "hysteria."
It should not be confused with the same word when used in such familiar expressions as "don't be hysterical." The latter is usually used when a person becomes emotionally upset and gets into a laughing or crying fit or shows uncontrollable fits of rage.
Hysteria from the medical viewpoint is something quite different. The patient with true hysteria has disturbances in sensation, perception, convulsions, or is unable to move certain muscles. Such symptoms, however, are not caused by a recognizable disease of the nervous system like a brain tumor or polio. In hysteria, an attack of convulsions may be started because of some emotional situation. The convulsions allow the victim of hysteria to escape from a difficult situation.

Of course, not all convulsions are caused by hysteria. They must be distinguished from the convulsions produced by epilepsy or from other nervous or mental conditions.
Loss of power and muscular movement or paralysis caused by hysteria may occur in almost any part of the body. It is important, but sometimes difficult, to make a correct diagnosis.

Grizzly-Bagged-by-Elk-Hunters During Montana Trip

It's a grizzly if it has a somewhat concave facial profile, long slightly curved claws on front feet, a decided hump over the shoulders and a wild appearance of hair on back and sides. This one was bagged by west of the continental divide on the White river, one of the Five big rivers about 20 miles south of Glacier national park. It was caught while food in camp and was knocked down by first shot fired by Gus Leto (immediately left of grizzly) who was still in his sleeping bag. Also in on the kill was Art Burns, standing. Two other men in party are Burt Rounson, right, and Liren Peterson. Picture was taken by Don Orcutt of the Boise office of federal fish and wildlife service. The party "hit-out" on elk and, in addition to the grizzly, bagged two mountain goats shown in picture. Grizzlies have been a protected species in Idaho for more than a decade, hence the fish and wildlife service hunters went to Montana for the hunt. (Staff engraving)

Grizzly Bears of Western U. S. Moving Close to Extinction Despite Protection

By JIM HUBBARD
The Fish and Game Department grizzly bears of Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado are moving closer to extinction than ever before than a decade ago.

Although the grizzly bear has long been a protected species, the grizzly population in the northern Rocky Mountain region is declining rapidly. In 1957, Idaho's 60-odd grizzlies, for example, were reduced to 30. The grizzly bear is being hunted in the northern Rocky Mountain region, and the eastern part of the state is a "Yellowstone national park" where the grizzly bear is being hunted.

Survey of 20,000 Highways Accidents Shows Safety Belts Provide Protection

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was a safety belt, anchored to the frame of the car, accomplishes what the human body cannot do for itself—it ties the body securely at the same speed as the car. In a pile-up it reduces the force applied to the doors to virtually nothing.

The Cornell studies emphasize that, contrary to common belief, belts are of value in low-speed accidents as well as high-speed ones. Suppose you sit down in a chair. You are then, applying a load of four body of one pound per square inch.

Now put an ice pick point-up on the chair. Sit down slowly. The point of the pick covers an area of 1/16th of an inch—which means you are putting the entire weight of your body on a far smaller area. The pressure now applied against your body is almost five times per square inch.

That is what happens in an automobile when it comes to a sudden stop. Your body hits a relatively small but solid object, in the car even at low speed.

Despite strong scientific evidence to the contrary, there are still serious arguments advanced against the use of seat belts in automobiles.

Here are the arguments, followed by points from the Cornell automobile crash injury research project:

Argument: Belts can cause serious internal injuries.

Answer: Evidence available from thousands of accident reports shows bruising and submersion accidents are extremely rare.

Argument: Belt often fails because of poor design or installation.

Answer: The most recent study by Cornell on this subject showed that of 712 belts involved in accidents, only 11 failed to function as intended. Some resulted from physical destruction of the belt anchorage or from the belt being twisted.

In one case, the belt used was a cheap, low-quality one that failed because of normal use and deterioration. While it is true some belts are not as efficient as others, evidence shows that even an inferior belt is better than no belt at all.

Oldest Continuous Union in Twin Falls Observes Its Local Golden Anniversary

under equally awkward circumstances."

Kenneth DeMont, secretary-treasurer of the local for 14 years, gave a short, explanatory talk outlining the functions of the union and the use of union dues.

According to DeMont, the national union spends about one million dollars each month for pensions for retired union members. Members are eligible for pension after 25 years of membership and when they reach 60 years of age.

DeMont adds the International Typographical Union is the oldest union in North America. It is 100 years old this year, and has a total membership of 112,000. DeMont notes ten per cent of the membership are pensioners. Many pensioners live at the union's Printing Home at Colours Springs, Colo.

DeMont explains the home was built at the turn of the century at a total cost of 11 million dollars because many printers had tuberculosis, an occupational disease then because of damp, and poorly ventilated working quarters. He says the average life span of a printer is 50 years of age.

The Twin Falls local has a membership of 33 journeymen and two apprentices. This membership includes one pensioner and two journeymen—George Blackwell and M. O. Turner—who are currently working on the "Stars and Stripes" at Arden and Oler.

The men in Germany elected to retain their membership in this local. Twenty-eight members work at the Times-News.

The oldest member in terms of membership is Oler, with 41 years. Five members have worked for the Times-News over 20 years. They are Kenneth DeMont, Robert A. Dingfield, Victor D. Dripas, Charles Hentze and "Stars and Stripes" at Arden and Oler.

This is one of the 20,000 accident reports contained in the files of Cornell university medical college's automobile crash injury research project.

These 20,000 case histories have collected the Cornell researchers to find out if you wear an auto safety belt you have a better chance of avoiding injury or death in a high-speed accident.

The Cornell case histories are more than just accident reports. They are reports from cooperating state police in 22 states over the last 10 years, they describe in detail everything that happened in an accident—how they occurred, how the car was damaged, how the driver was injured.

John C. Moore, director of the Cornell project, began recommending the use of seat belts when his study indicated only about 8,000 cars had them.

Now he says "from the additional data accumulated in more than 20,000 accidents involving about 50,000 cars, it is our considered opinion that there is no better single way available at the present time to reduce the risk of injury and death in automobile accidents than wearing a seat belt alive!"

The Cornell researchers cite two main reasons:

1. The belt keeps occupants inside the car.

2. The belt keeps occupants from being thrown out of the car.

The Cornell experts have concluded that the most serious danger to a driver is being thrown out of the car.

They have found that in a head-on collision, the car is stopped or slowed down, but the occupant continues moving forward at 50 miles an hour. Try imagining what it's like toward your windshield at 50 miles an hour.

California has ordered its 12,000 official state cars equipped with belts, including all state police vehicles.

In New York, every new car must have a back seat by the state will have belts.

The Ford Motor company, which in the past three years has topped the industry in seat belt sales ($27,386 installations), is frankly advising its dealers to step up belt sales efforts.

The tide on safety equipment is turning," a Ford official told UPI.

Belts have been the biggest educational problem but word of mouth advertising, plus publicity given stories on belt advantages, is starting to have an effect."
