

Radio 'Hams' May Pick up Atlas Signals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—Radio "hams" can pick up broadcast signals from the Atlas satellite, Army signal corps experts, who designed the satellite, said that radio amateurs, with specially designed receivers, could tune in on transmissions from the satellite.

It was pointed out that the satellite, in which signals are received in a generally along the track of the equator, is over the southern part of the United States.

However, under unusual conditions, signals might be received by amateurs located to the north of the satellite's path.

The Atlas was equipped with two transmitters, in addition to one designed purely for tracking purposes. These transmitters are on 122.425 and 122.805 megacycles.

Dirksen Gets Support From Solon of East

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—Sen. John Marshall Butler, R., Mo., today announced his support of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R., Ill., for Republican floor leader in the bitter fight over party control in the Senate.

At the same time Butler's Republican colleague, newly reelected Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Maryland, refused to take sides for or against the Illinois senator for promotion from assistant leader to succeed the retiring Sen. William F. Knowland, California, as leader.

Dirksen Support Asked
Butler, in a statement, called on his party to close ranks behind Dirksen with the fling at a group of insurgent Republicans led by Sen. George D. Aiken, Vermont, and John Sherman Cooper, Kentucky.

"We cannot hope to regain control of Congress through a piecemeal legislative program, our fundamental principles preclude all efforts to outdo the new and for details."

Battle is predicted.
Aiken said the fight to oust the present GOP leadership in the Senate will be carried to a final vote in the Republican caucus on opening day, Jan. 7, "even if we have only five votes."

Nevadans Are Hurt in Crash Friday Night

A traffic accident which kept off the Twin Falls streets for several hours Friday morning resulted in the hospitalization of two Nevadans and a Washington, D. C. man.

Shortly after 10:15 p.m. Friday the Twin Falls sheriff's office received a call from the Hollister port of entry station reporting an ambulance that had been called to an accident in Nevada. The driver of the ambulance was identified as a Nevada resident and was informed none had been notified of an accident.

Officers at the port of entry station had received a call from an ambulance in Nevada asking that the ambulance not be sent. No other information was given.

On Jan. 6, a Saturday State Patrolman D. L. Cain received another call from the Hollister station reporting a man who had been involved in an accident had reported two persons who had been taken to the Memorial hospital by private ambulance. The wrecked vehicle involved had been from Horseshoe, Nev.

Patrolman Cain went to the hospital where he found Miss Betty Davis, a Washington, D. C. woman, being treated for injuries. They had been in the hospital for several days and had appeared on the scene shortly after the accident.

Miss Davis, who is 35 years old, was being treated for a fractured left foot and his wife, 36, was being treated for a fractured right hand. She was reported in "good" condition. Cain reported the accident to the Washington investigation disclosed the Thompson vehicle, a 1955 Pontiac, traveling south on the highway, crossed a few miles north of the Nevada-Idaho border. A 1956 Plymouth driven by D. H. Hixon, 1330 Spruce street, came along and attempted to push the stalled Thompson car out of the highway.

The patrolman was told that while being pushed, the Thompson car crossed the highway and struck the right hand side of the highway. Hixon applied the brakes of his car and the Thompson car rolled across the highway and off the left side. The Thompson car struck the right hand side of the highway three or four times. A misunderstanding as to who was being pushed caused the accident. The investigation Saturday night.

Property Owners Finance Sewer Project

Sewer Project for Portion of City Is Started After Four Years of Planning

A sewer project, which has been under consideration for four years, started this week following approval by the city commission Monday night.

The project covers the area from the Perrine couple east to Eastland drive on the north side of Ellabeth boulevard to an area equivalent to the extension of Ninth avenue east.

The first attempt to provide sewerage disposal for this area was in the preparation of a local improvement district, in which bonds are sold, with a lien against each individual piece of property. A number of fiscal agents from bonding firms looked at the area and decided the population density was not sufficient to justify local improvement district bonds.

Bonding firms usually require about 65 to 90 per cent of the property to be secured to justify the bonds. This area was only about 25 per cent occupied.

The second attempt to provide the facilities was made with a request that property owners advance the cash for construction of the sewer line, with the city employing a contractor to complete the project. This method failed because a number of property owners did not wish to put up the necessary cash.

The third attempt to construct the sewer was made at the time of the recent bond election for the sewer project.

Ten acres of the original area was taken out of the project with the construction of Morningstar school, which connects directly to the Morningstar trunk line sewer. The area north of the school to Ninth avenue east and the area north of the Ellabeth boulevard project still remains to have a sewer construction program.

In approving the project, the city commission expressed a desire to establish additional sewer projects of this type. The city engineering department has on file a number of plans and specifications for other areas and would like to have the opportunity to work with property owners on other similar projects.

City Manager J. H. Latimore points out that this is the most economical method of constructing a sewer line, in that it eliminates the necessity for setting up and selling other local improvement districts or revenue sewer bonds.

Other projects of this type, which have been completed within the city in the past few years are the Monte Vista, one and two districts, totaling $77,000; Lynwood sewer district, about $50,000; Spruce street district, approximately $600; Crawford and Winmore subdivisions, $10,000; a Latimore project in the vicinity of Jackson street and Birch avenue, $3,000.

Move of New Trial Denied Caril Fugate

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 20 (AP)—District Judge Harry Spencer today denied Ann Fugate's motion for a new trial and formally sentenced her to a life imprisonment in the Nebraska Women's reformatory for murder.

The 35-year-old Caril Ann was indicted last month of aiding and abetting the slaying of Charles Starkweather, a man of the 11 killings attributed to him. The jury specified that the really should be life imprisonment.

The Nebraska supreme court ruled yesterday to set aside the death sentence imposed on Starkweather for the slaying of Robert Jensen, 17, Neenah, Neb., and ordered him to die in Nebraska's electric chair next March 27, Good Friday.

Caril's attorney, John McArthur, based his motion for a new trial on 11 alleged trial errors including the 11 let on the outcome of the trial prior to his selection for the jury.

McArthur said he will appeal to the Nebraska supreme court.

Searches for Missing Pilot Are Fruitless

BOULDER, Colo., Dec. 20 (AP)—Air and ground parties returned to base here and in Denver late today without a trace of a private plane and its pilot who vanished on a flight to Seattle Dec. 7.

"It's kind of a hopeless task," said civil air patrol Capt. Charles F. Howard.

He was referring to chances that James G. Robbins, 51, a Seattle engineer, might be found alive in the northern Colorado Rockies. Robbins left Denver alone three weeks ago in a twin-engine Piper Apache. He hasn't been heard from since.

Robbins is the father-in-law of Tom Lindbergh, son of Charles G. Lindbergh, the first pilot to fly the Atlantic alone.

Today's all-around search was mounted under a directive from the FAA at Fort. An earlier search was abandoned last week.

Six CAP planes ranged over the mountain country west of Fort Collins in north-central Colorado, along the intended route of Robbins' plane. A ground party that included the

Coins Returned; They're No Good

BELOGRADE, Yugoslavia, Dec. 20 (AP)—Alexander Zemanovic, an official of the Belgrade City Transport company, received a call from the Red Cross to come get some money.

Puzzled, he went to Red Cross headquarters and received a sealed envelope containing four coins which totalled two dinars (two cents).

It was the money he had to give up to German troops when he was taken prisoner in 1941.

The coins returned to him are now worthless since the currency has been changed. He said he will keep them anyway for a souvenir.

Surveys Completed

BOISE, Dec. 20 (AP)—The federal housing administration reported completion yesterday of housing conditions surveys in both Idaho Falls and Mountain Home areas.

Missing pilot's son, Richard, 25, Seattle, and his son-in-law, Wade Vogel, Denver, persisted particularly areas without luck.

They were checking out individual reports of possible wreckage and areas where private planes were reported seen or heard on Dec. 7.

Identify Arthur Everson and CAP officials said the search will continue tomorrow.

Allies Asking End to Soviet Berlin Moves

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—The United States, Britain, and France will send notes to Moscow in the next 10 days demanding that Premier Nikita Khrushchev drop his six-month Berlin ultimatum and condition for opening East-West negotiations on the whole range of German reunification problems.

U. S. officials said today they are anxious to have the note delivered by the first of the next 10 days. Khrushchev has any counter-proposals for a resolution of the Berlin situation by his trusted friend and troubleshooter, First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

Talks Expected

Mikoyan plans to come here in the first two weeks of January for a visit with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov. While here he is expected to talk with President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles, and perhaps Vice President Nixon and other officials.

Diplomats speculated further that he also probably would want to talk with some Democratic leaders just as Sen. Humphrey, D. Minn., talked recently with Khrushchev.

Loans Request Expected

The present estimate of officials here is that Mikoyan's primary purpose in making the trip is to start a drive for U. S. loans to finance a greatly expanded trade between this country and the Soviet Union.

He would be stands to gain, whether this mission succeeds or fails. If he is able to open up trade channels, the Soviet Union then could buy large quantities of goods.

1958 Polio Cases Up 40 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—There have been 40 per cent more cases of paralytic polio in the United States so far in 1958 than in the equivalent part of 1957.

The public health service, including the figures in its weekly report on diseases, said the number of such cases is still far below the 1952 figure.

There were 59 paralytic polio cases reported last week, the service said, of which 10 were in Texas. The total for the year stood at 3,003, compared with 2,125 last year and 6,610 for 1956.

The total of all polio cases, paralytic and otherwise, reached 8,862 for the first 50 weeks of 1958 and passed the corresponding 1957 total, 5,522. The 1958 figure was 15,228. A total of 90 polio cases was reported last week.

Politicians Fight

BEAULIEU, Dec. 20 (AP)—Fighting broke out in the South Korean national assembly today when guards tried to remove bedding of opposition Democrats who were staging a sit-down strike.

It needs for its rapid economic expansion aimed at overtaking U. S. production. If he is rebuffed, his government can make a great propaganda play against the United States.

Extension Is OK for Idaho Power's Note

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—The Federal Power Commission has given a new extension date on promissory notes issued to finance construction of dams in the controversial Hells Canyon area.

The federal power commission authorized the firm yesterday to issue unsecured notes to banks up to Dec. 31, 1959.

The original authority was to have expired Feb. 28, 1958, but was extended to Dec. 31, 1958, and yesterday's action extended the expiration date again.

Idaho Power company is building two dams in the Hells Canyon stretch of the Snake river between Oregon and Idaho. Public power proponents had urged a single large federal dam.

The FPC authority involves note issuance of up to 40 million dollars.

Chamber Endorses City Commission's Resolution Asking New Hansen Bridge

Members of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce Friday noon voted in favor of a resolution passed by the city commission asking the state highway board to expedite construction of a new Hansen bridge.

Ray J. Holmes, chamber president, reported that the highway board had approved the plan to build a new bridge. He said the board had agreed to hold a public hearing on the project at the city hall on Monday.

Holmes said the board had also agreed to hold a public hearing on the project at the city hall on Monday. He said the board had agreed to hold a public hearing on the project at the city hall on Monday.

legislative, which has been adopted by six states, and constitutional home rule, used by 24 states. Ward pointed out that about 30 additional changes are made at each session of the legislature, in laws pertaining to municipalities.

He pointed out the falling of ward legislators spend their valuable and brief time every two years in trying to draft legislation which cannot possibly be suitable for the situations in all cities.

Ward pointed out that municipalities are actually operating illegally under the present system. In many cases it is impossible for them to operate under state provisions, such as the two-mile limitation for the protection. Ward described the current regulations pertaining to municipalities as a "hodge-podge."

Stating his belief that "most city officials are among the most capable and most responsible people in the communities," Ward said taxpayers should have no fear of their continued responsible actions provided they were given home rule privileges. Taxable levy amounts would still be up to the state, but administration would be handled in a more realistic way, Ward said.

The authority to issue revenue bonds would be expanded. Under present statutes, they may be issued by a municipality only for water-sewer or off-street parking projects.

It was pointed out that officials from some cities have expressed opposition to the home rule plan, as it would eliminate their immunity to many problems.

Ward feels this type of official explain plans for the road widening project.

The board voted unanimously for approval of the city manager form of government and a vote of confidence in the management of J. H. Latimore. This action was taken as a result of petitions being circulated, asking a vote on the question.

Ray J. Holmes, announced that members of the state highway board will hold a meeting with property owners and voters along Kimberly road at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the city commission room of the city hall to discuss plans for the road widening project.

American Girl Loses Life in Mexican Blast

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 20 (AP)—A pre-Christmas vacation trip to Mexico cost pretty blond Betty Arnold her life in a mysterious explosion last night. Police investigators said today the 23-year-old graduate of Rice Institute in 1957, was one of the victims of the blast in the La Ronda bar that killed four other persons, employees of the fashionable cafe. She was identified by a school classmate.

Bomb Said Cause Investigators say the explosion apparently was caused by a powerful bomb but had no official explanation of the motive. The bar is a favorite night spot for foreigners and Mexican socialites and several Cuban socialites had been among the diners to have been among the diners.

Idea Checked Whether they were a target for the numerous followers of Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro who here were a subject, the investigators were sure. Several prominent Mexican politicians also were among the diners but none was sufficiently controversial to be the object of such violence.

Investigators discounted reports that a gas main explosion might have caused the blast. Miss Arnold died soon after she was removed from the ruins of the building. One rescuer said she called for help in Spanish as she was placed in the ambulance.

The daughter of Houston attorney and Mrs. W. N. Arnold, Jr., the girl flew to Mexico City yesterday to visit friends, her sister Virginia said in Houston.

She and her brother, Richard Herron, was with her. He had a fractured skull, Betty Dowers, a secretary in the U.S. embassy, and Elmer Reilly, believed to be an American, were injured slightly.

Welding, machine shop and electronics have been lengthened to two years, he said. Courses in radio and television have been changed to basic electronics, intermediate electronics and advanced electronics.

Christensen said statistics indicate a need for 200 per cent more electronics technicians by 1961 than were needed this year.

Family Disappears; Father to Be Missed in Santa Claus Act

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 20 (AP)—Santa Claus won't come to Portland's Candy Lane this year. This is because Kenneth Martin—who plays the role at the annual neighborhood Christmas celebration—"has vanished."

He and his family left home the morning of Dec. 7 to get Christmas presents for their home. They have not been heard from since.

The papers and personal articles of a family with three young daughters still are scattered around in ordinary Sunday morning confusion at the Martin home.

But some of the giant candy canes which save the blocks in front of the house their holiday name—Candy Lane—are up this year.

"We just don't have the heart to pull the decorations down," said Mrs. Elmer Reilly, a neighbor.

The Martins, Ken, 14; his wife Barbara Jean, 48; and their three daughters, Barbara, 14, Virginia, 12, and Sue, 11, left home in their car two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Evans of Hubbard visited the Martins that Sunday morning, and were told the Martins were going out the day after. Mrs. Martin said she was sorry, but the family was going out to look for greenery.

The Martins were an outdoors family, and no one thought anything of it until the next day when Martin failed to show up for a business appointment.

Sirens from five counties organized searches. The slopes of Mount Hood, wooded areas along scenic lumbered Larch mountain were checked.

Two helicopters and several planes searched from the air. Skin divers searched a lake. Two firemen let themselves down the face of a wind-swept cliff at Crown point in the Columbia river gorge. A motorcycle club offered to try roads difficult to reach by car.

Gradually all the clues were discounted, and Dec. 15 the official search was called off. Unofficially, police checked out more false clues as they prepared to send a nationwide circular to police agencies.

They were in the off-white and red station wagon, one which the Martins had obtained by trading in a late 1957 Buick. Martin had won it in a contest.

Clackamas county Sheriff Joe Stube said his office discounted the

Army Is Getting Canine Recruits

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—The army is getting a ready response to its call for recruits in the canine corps. It is organizing for entry duty at the missile bases sprouting up around the country.

Six weeks after the army, acting for itself and the air force, announced it was in the market for 1,000 qualified German shepherd dogs, more than 2,000 letters have come in from owners offering to sell or donate dogs.

The army quartermaster corps, in charge of dog recruiting, has already accepted 20 animals. These dogs were among a larger group that entered a basic training class at Ft. Benning, Ga. Another 10 are undergoing special training at Lackland air force base, Tex.

Change in Shoes Saves Man's Life

PARIS, Dec. 20 (AP)—"I would be dead if I hadn't changed my shoes," said 24-year-old Yves Chollet as he thanked his head today.

Chollet, a student, "was caught" in a blast of pistol fire below his building in Algiers on the streets.

A bullet struck his skull. A quartermaster at the time told him to change his shoes. Chollet would have been killed.

Normally Chollet wears a pair of sturdy triple-toed shoes to his class. "Yesterday, he changed to a normal pair with about half-an-inch less sole."

Advice Given For Santa by Psychologist

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 20 (AP)—Attention Santa Claus: Here's some advice from a psychologist. Don't feel guilty about it. In buying pleasure-giving toys, it's better than leaving educational toys which children aren't ready to use.

And here's a note to parents from Dr. Geolo McHugh, Duke university child psychologist. "Don't let Christmas gifts to children represent a form of self-indulgence on the part of the adults."

Fail to follow this advice, says McHugh, and your child might react Christmas morning as you expected.

"I would caution parents against expecting an equal return in love and enthusiasm from the child on Christmas morning. If, in buying the presents, they've really been satisfying their own personal emotional needs," warns Dr. McHugh.

The psychologist, author of several books and many magazine articles on child and teen-age behavior, warns against the high pressure sales pitch for educational toys.

Dr. McHugh thinks many parents give their children toys they don't think the children need, or toys the parents want as children. The inevitable result is disappointment among children. Dr. McHugh says.

"In a nutshell, give the kids what they want, not what you want them to have."

Preview of Happy Smiles to Come Thursday

The children of Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Sickett, 568 Clinby drive, from left, Cheryl Ann, 3 1/2; Billie, 6, and Bobbie, 8, like all children can't resist an occasional pre-Christmas language of gifts under their tree, and they carefully replace them. Most children are more than willing to be cooperative about such things before the happy day but it is a little harder on Christmas day to get them to come out of their cozy dreams and be excited as mother's helper instead of Santa's helper. BRUINS EMPLOY STOUT DEFENSE TO KNOCK OFF JEROME 41-34

Twin Falls Ices Win With Surge In Second Period

Twin Falls Bruins, benefitting from a second-quarter surge by their second platoon, switched the defensive tables on the Jerome Tigers Friday night and handed the Tigers their second setback of the year. Unraveling their tightest defense of the year, the Bruins stifled the Jerome attack from midway through the second quarter to the end of the game and during that time never were threatened.

The Tiger defense, which held the key to Jerome's 41-point lead, was the Bruins' key to victory. The Bruins couldn't get the necessary offensive thrust to offset the Tiger defense, and the concentration of both teams on defense, the game began on a fast offensive note, both teams hitting good percentages.

By the four-minute mark of the fourth quarter, defense was the prime factor.

The Tigers led only once during the night, Ron Kuhn punching through a jump shot in the first minute to give Jerome a 2-1 edge. Bill Warner and Larry Kinchelo hit fielders to regain the lead at 5-3 and Jerome was behind at that point.

But Twin Falls couldn't shake the visitors, finishing the first quarter with a 10-14 edge. Jerome cut that margin to 15-14 with four minutes to go but by the end of the quarter the starters and Twin Falls was off.

Earl Strong and Kinchelo, the last of the starters to go, saved the deciding surge its initial thrust and then while Jerome could maintain only a free throw, Frank Nelson and Tom Ballantyne got field goals and Rene scored a free throw. Twin Falls had a halftime edge of 24-18.

As the second half opened, Twin Falls built up the bulge to 19 points and held it there for most of the period.

The cool shooting Tigers tried to come back in the last period and succeeded in closing to within six points on a jump shot by Kuhn. But when Earl Strong, Hilton and Dave Fox scored to offset field goals by Jerome, and two Parkinsins free throws.

The teams look turns holding on the others. Top gunners, Jerome field Dave Fox and his 12-point average to eight while Twin Falls saw Bill Blum, Jerome's top gun with a 10-point average but three points. Kuhn took game scoring honors with 15, however, while Kinchelo paced Twin Falls with nine.

Coach Mel Reynolds' Twin Falls sophomores kept their season record perfect by coming from behind 47 to defeat Jerome to a 51-34 decision. The Jordan junior Bruins, who now have a 10-1 record, were paced by Danny Keller with 21 points.

Seivers Sinks Two Free Throws to Let Bellevue Nip Carey in 2 Overtimes

BELLEVUE, Dec. 20—Senior Lee Seivers calmly sank a pair of free throws in a sudden overtime, to give the Bellevue Bulldogs a hard-fought 36-34 Northside conference victory over Carey Friday night. Seivers, who scored only six points all night, came up with four of them at crucial moments, his second field goal of the night coming in the first overtime and then the two free throws. It was a tough defeat for the Carey Panthers, who after trailing throughout the contest, pulled up to tie in the closing minutes of the regulation game, which ended 32-32.

Two Bruin Points on Way

Twin Falls' Bill Warner, No. 11, lays in a field goal for the Bruins over the defensive swipe of Ron Kuhn, No. 30 of Jerome, during the fast action that marked the opening of the game between the two schools Friday night. The Bruins went on to win 41-34. Looking up at the basket is Bill Block, No. 22. (Staff photo-entourage)

Bellevue, which lost a sudden-death contest 40 to Castleford last week-end, boomed off to a 10-4 first quarter lead but Carey bounced back in the next period to cut the margin to 14-12 at intermission.

The teams went through the next period almost matching points but Bellevue came up an extra free throw to enter the last eight minutes with a three-point edge. They held it until the closing minutes when Don Rush potted a Carey field goal to tie the game.

Bellevue started the overtime with a two-point edge. Seivers' two-pointer and sophomore John Briggs pulled Carey back into a tie of one of his own.

Then it remained only for Seivers to "clutch through" at the free throw line.

Shoshone pulled to within a 34-31 count at halftime but Richfield roared off again as the third period opened and went into the final period with a nine-point bulge. Shoshone took its turn at outscoring Richfield in the final quarter but could knock only four points off the Tiger lead.

Controversy Boils Over Plans to Keep Wilderness Area for Future

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (AP)—People are opposing the proposed plan to set aside a large area of land in Idaho as a national wilderness area. The plan, which would protect 1.8 million acres of forest land, has sparked a heated debate between conservationists and those who favor development.

Christmas Tree Is Only One of Many Traditions Added to Date

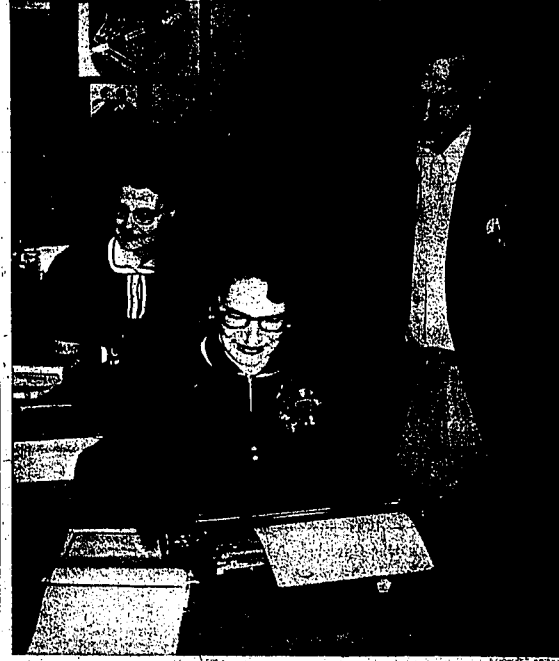

If you've recently collapsed in your favorite easy chair, pre-occupied with the way Christmas has slipped away your savings, and cast a holiday-dry eye at your planning Christmas tree and wondered how an idea has been added to the religious implications of Christmas, you needn't feel disgruntled. Holiday traditions have been centuries in forming and consequently they're a little confusing.

The West has had its influence on Christmas tradition. In western areas even the lowly sagebrush has taken its place on the Christmas scene, Julie Dodds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dodds, Kimberley, sits before a sagebrush tree. The sagebrush has been sprayed heavily with artificial snow.

First Series of Adult Education Classes Closing; Interest Strong

The first series of adult education courses offered by Twin Falls high school is drawing to a close. Interest in the courses has been strong, and according to Principal Vernon L. Lefebvre, the courses probably will become a regular offering of the school. Only two courses, typing and a class in dress pattern alteration, were offered in concluding series, but Lefebvre says the next series, which will begin in January, will offer several classes.

One of the most popular classes offered in the adult education series at Twin Falls high school has been the class in elementary typing. The course, taught by Jerry Hamill, standing, totals 48 hours of class work and meets for two-hour periods from 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. From left, students are Benjamin Briggs, Mrs. Frieda Garrison and Mrs. Eldon Lyon.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, their daughter, Rachel, 9, and son, Hyrum, had just come to Marsh basin, Idaho, on the morning of Dec. 21, 1938, and were living in a log room, about 15 feet square with an earthen floor and roof, a fireplace for cooking, heat and light, for there were no windows. A quilt was used to keep out the cold and wild animals which were plentiful and there was no furniture. In early November, Lewis started for Medicine, Idaho, to get supplies for the winter, but soon after his departure heavy snow fell and with no roads, travel was impossible.

Isolated from civilization, no word was available as to the safety of the father. During this period, Yule time came and on the morning of Dec. 24 the young mother and two children looked wistfully in the direction from which Lewis should return.

At the present site of Marsh basin, Abibon and wondered what sort of holiday her neighbors miles away could be having. She also thought of her happy Christmases in her native land of Sweden, but she had accepted the gift of the object of her desires and left her home to come to America.

Suddenly her attention was taken by a dark object coming across the snow directly toward their log cabin. "Soon it will be the object of my desires," she thought, and she ran to the door which brought a messenger which she had invited to spend the holiday.

Perhaps no invitation was ever accepted with more gratitude and soon the pioneers had traveled eight miles to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Pettit and their children, Elsie, Emma and Monroe. Pettit, who felt they must have a Christmas tree and a cedar tree was presented but the problem of decorating it now loomed.

Exhaustion prevailed and soon a piece of soft pine and a sharp knife produced a lot of curly shavings and the tree was decorated. Each of the children received one piece of store candy which had somehow been obtained earlier.

The 9-year-old Lewis boy was the late Hyrum Lewis, Declo, long-time resident and civic leader there. Marsh basin was a part of Orofino and county in 1878. After the long winter there was great rejoicing when this father returned safely the last of March.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"What Will Christmas Mean to You?"

By REUBEN G. FINNER, Pastor, Our Savior Lutheran Church

Several years ago a middle-aged couple living in Pacific City, S. D., took a trip to see Yellowstone park. One evening after they returned the husband remarked as he lay in bed: "We could just as well have stayed at home. As we went through the park the one activity that we saw more than any other was looking at license plates to see where the other people had come from. We could have looked at license plates back home in Rapid."

It certainly is true that they could almost as well have stayed home. It's a pity to spend precious moments looking at license plates when one has the opportunity to view God's beautiful creations in nature.

Yet, there are those who yearn for "arrivals" at the Christmas season who are content with the shallow pleasures of Christmas trees, Santa Claus, getting and giving, visiting and feasting. Truly, they are the ones who have come to the moment when they could view the Grand canyon of the Yellowstone but who instead are content with looking at license plates.

What will Christmas mean to you?

I once heard a lady remark, "I hate the thought of Christmas coming. By the time we purchase all the gifts we are expected to give, it will be July before we get out from under the bills."

These are people for whom Christianity is more of a problem than an answer.

What will Christmas mean to you?

Program Given

The Christmas program was presented at the December meeting of the Washington school PTA Thursday afternoon at the school auditorium.

Second graders under the direction of Mrs. Mae Browning, Evelyn Carey and Mrs. Ernest England presented a play, "The Bulky Brownies." Several selections were performed by the rhythm band, melody bells and carolers.

Elba Party Held

ELBA, Dec. 20—The grade school and LDS primary held a Christmas party at the recreation hall this week. Frolic music was by Blythe Beecher and prayer was offered by Lee Darrington.

Paula Beecher sang, Ardel Wickel, Brent Wickel, Harold Wickel, Nancy Wickel and Wayne Smechbrecht gave the disciples and the followers of Christ. They are the people who want God to be real in their lives, and for whom God has become real when they encountered Christ in the stable in Bethlehem.

These are those whose lives were empty and meaningless in regard to all eternal values and truths. All history and life took on meaning and purpose for them when they encountered the God of heaven and earth as the Christ Child.

These are the people who sat in darkness and in the shadow of death, were one. Upon them the Light of the World has shone.

Christmas means a shining star in the midst of darkness, Christmas means that God has sent us a Savior to free us from sin and death, Christmas means life and light in the midst of darkness and death.

What will Christmas mean to you? Will you be looking at license plates?

Starkweather Death Slated

On March 27

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 20 (UPI)—The Nebraska supreme court today upheld the first-degree murder conviction of mass killer Charles Starkweather, 26, set for March 27 at the date of his execution.

The supreme court said the red-haired slayer must be put to death in the Nebraska state penitentiary's electric chair because he must be hanged, it said, on that date.

Starkweather, former garage collector who shocked the nation last year with a savage murder spree which cost 10 persons their lives, had originally been sentenced to hang, but the jury specified the death penalty.

However, the execution date was postponed pending outcome of his appeal to the state's high court. That appeal is now pending in Lincoln, Neb., and is expected to be decided in a month.

Starkweather admitted 10 slayings on a week-long murder orgy last January with his girl friend, Carol Fugate, 15. He later admitted an 11th slaying, which was committed a month before the murder rampage.

Carl was convicted Nov. 21 of the same charges of first-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. Her attorney is seeking a new trial.

Starkweather married Eleanor Lee, BURLEY.

After graduating from the University of Michigan law school in 1931, he began his legal career in the coast artillery from 1933 to 1936. After the war, he returned to Idaho to practice law.

He came to Rupert in 1947 and was associated with Judge Hiram A. Baker, now district judge residing in Twin Falls. In 1950 he was elected prosecuting attorney for Lincoln county and served in that office until he was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge R. W. Beckwith.

Bellwood is a member of the board of commissioners of the Idaho Bar association and in this position which was responsible for his selection to attend the New York conference. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Bellwood, live in TWIN FALLS, and he has a son, Sherman J. Bellwood, Jr., 14.

Ornaments Provide Practice for Class

It isn't a small tree, the boy is tall. Solid geometry student Jim Whitehead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin L. Whitehead, clutches a geometric Christmas tree ornament as Mrs. Thelma Toolson, Twin Falls high school geometry teacher, looks on. The ornaments were made as a spare-time class project by the solid geometry students. Possibly reflecting a modern interest in science, the ornaments illustrate a never phase in the ever-changing Christmas scene. (Staff photo-encouraging)

Lions Club Holds Annual Yule Fete

WENDELL, Dec. 20—More than 40 children were guests at the Lions club for the annual Christmas party at the civic club rooms. Entertainment included songs, games and Christmas movies. Highlighting the evening's entertainment was the appearance of Santa Claus with treats and gifts for the children. Douglas Schrank, Dr. Harold Holm and Mrs. Fred Glend were in charge of the arrangements. Dinner was served for club members at the Grange hall preceding the event.

Continuance, plum pudding was born. Scots, ever alert to take their national product, have a tradition called "first footing." The first to enter a home on Christmas morning shouts "First footing" and presents a gift to the household to insure future happiness. In return, he is given a shot of whisky and it must be taken in one swallow. In Scotland, this tradition is popular with the local tipplers and with inferior local variations, can be observed throughout the world.

Christmas cards were originated in England, according to some historians, shortly before mid-nineteenth century. At the time it was common to write all personal letters during the holiday. Legend states that one nobleman, tiring of writing so many letters, had the first Christmas cards printed. Probably one of the worst jokes created in recorded history was voted by Charles II during a Christmas meal in England the tradition of Christmas meat is roast beef. The king expressed his love for an exceedingly nice piece of loin of beef by imitating the knighting ceremony and using his sword to dub the roast "Sir Loin."

From such shoddy humor the air-join steak received its name. On the serious side, the idea for Christmas seals came from Denmark. In 1903 a Danish postal clerk conceived the idea of using Christmas seals to raise funds to combat tuberculosis. The seals were introduced in the United States in 1907 and in the course of time have helped lessen the danger of tuberculosis. Holland has one of the most interesting traditions. It is a common prank to wrap up a present with several "outer" layers, each labeled a different name. This increases the suspense as the present is passed from person to person, finally arriving at the true present receiver.

The Irish have a custom called "Feeding the Wren." This is based on the legend of St. Stephen, a Christian martyr, whose death is celebrated Christmas. Legend states that St. Stephen was betrayed by a chattering wren that he attempted to hide in the bushes from his enemies. In Ireland the wren is forced to penance for its treason. It is customary for the children to carry a wren in a cage from house to house, collecting money for charity. But with all the additions and traditions, there remains only one real reason for Christmas, the observance of the birth of the Christ Child.

Thus, under such unfortunate circumstances, ever alert to take their national product, have a tradition called "first footing." The first to enter a home on Christmas morning shouts "First footing" and presents a gift to the household to insure future happiness. In return, he is given a shot of whisky and it must be taken in one swallow. In Scotland, this tradition is popular with the local tipplers and with inferior local variations, can be observed throughout the world.

Flag Modernized Without Expense of Whole New Flag

Clayton B. Burkholder displays his answer to solving one of the nation's expense problems. He has designed a new flag, incorporating the new Alaskan star, that will enable flag owners, including the government, to modernize the existing American flag by simply sewing on a new star. Burkholder has placed the new star in the middle of the present rectangle of stars. (Staff photo-encouraging)

T.F. Man Notes Ike Talks About Slash Of Expenses, Makes Flag to Cut Costs

"President Eisenhower is always talking about cutting down expenses. It was always a poor guy and I've always worked a lot and I think a lot about that." These are the words of Clayton B. Burkholder, Twin Falls, who has designed a new United States flag that incorporates the Alaskan star in such a manner that present flags can be altered easily, avoiding the necessity of junking them. "Burkholder says, 'When I heard they admitted Alaska, I got to thinking it's got to go in the flag somehow. I didn't think it was a good idea to change the balance of the flag.'"

"It was just a thought of mine. I thought that if you have to add stars, they should be added besides the old stars and balanced in the center row. 'This doesn't change the flag at all,' he explains. Burkholder, who finished the flag on his 63rd birthday anniversary, Nov. 23, says it is his first venture into flag design. He points out how much money would be wanted, both government and private money, if the flag was altered so the present flag was useless.

Each year he sends out about 100 Christmas cards that he has decorated carefully with various illustrations, scroll work, and colorful Christmas scenes. Most of his work he does with a pen and colored ink. He has been sending the Christmas cards out to his friends all over the nation since 1955. He has never received formal art training, but "I've always been a good penman and I like to keep practicing." Burkholder explained that his interest in penmanship began when he was a child in a country school house. At Christmas time the teacher used to reserve the blackboards for the week preceding Christmas so Burkholder could decorate them with colored chalk. "I used to draw in school when I finished my lessons, too," he says. "Sometimes the teacher would see the drawings and tear them up, but he kept on drawing."

One of the more unusual ways Burkholder keeps in practice drawing with pen and ink is to complete the Times-News Christmas coloring contest cartoons. He has colored the cartoons for the last two years "just to keep in practice." Burkholder, retired from the hardware business, first moved to Twin Falls in 1914. Before retiring, he worked for 38 years for J. J. Young and Cole Price. Asked what he would do if his flag design were used, Burkholder looked surprised and said, "Why I don't know, I just don't know!"

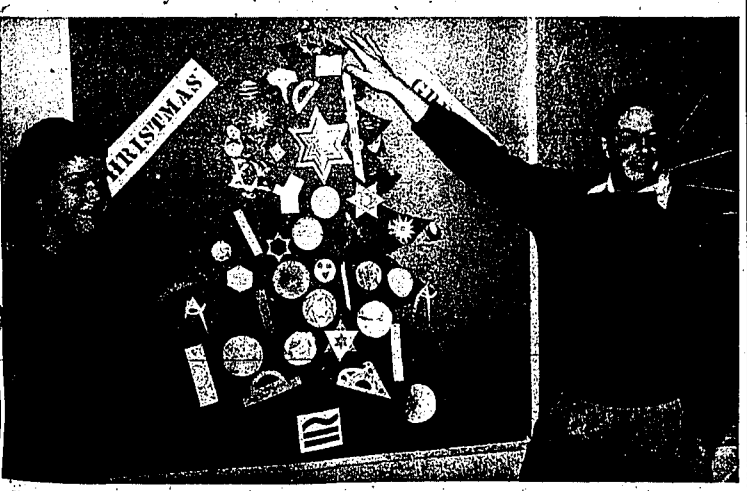

Christmas Tree Only One of Many Old Traditions Added to Day's Observance

(Continued From Page 19) and sang a Christmas song. In times of France, people who had the logs and fireplaces prepared the tradition by baking special cakes. The cakes had chocolate icing and assembled bark. The deliciousness of a Christmas favorite, and was historians claim it later evolved into the common chocolate cake. Finland has one of the most unusual and original customs, and mainly one of the coldest, Christmas traditions.

mas begins with a bath and naked roll in the snow. On Christmas eve the entire family takes a bath, known as the sauna, in a steamhouse that stands separate from the living quarters, then roll in the snow. This cough-inviting tradition is followed by a light meal of barley porridge and almonds, with cream and sugar, and fish and prune tarts. The Finns believe, and few folks would care to challenge their belief, that this meal can induce greatly one of the coldest, Christmas traditions.

Continuing in the gastronomical horror line, the English have a quaint legend explaining the creation of plum pudding. The legend states that an early English king was lost in a blizzard on Christmas eve. Unable to return to the castle, a member of the hunting party, using questionable judgment, improvised a meal by combining the remains of a stag, flour, apples, dried plums, eggs, ale, brandy and sugar into a pudding and boiling it in a sack. Thus, under such unfortunate circumstances,

Geometry Practiced in Decorations for Yule Tree

More geometry isn't all work and no Christmas spirit. Joan Abernethy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Abernethy, and Roy Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. Collins Helms, all Twin Falls, point to some of the geometric Christmas designs made by plane geometry students in Mrs. Thelma Toolson's geometry classes at Twin Falls high school. Father-Son Teams Promote Gun Safety

Father and son teams such as N. G. Stubblerfield and 13-year-old Del Stubblerfield have lots of fun in forest and field. They also form links in a chain to pass hunting lore, gun safety habits and good outdoor manners down from one generation to the next. Del is a seventh grade student at North Junior high school in Boise where he received gun safety training sponsored by the fish and game department in cooperation with the National Rifle association and hundreds of sportsmen throughout the state. Writer Declares It's Only Natural for Boy to Want Gun, Especially in Idaho

By JIM HUMBLED

It is as natural for a boy to want a gun as it is for a duck to find water, particularly in Idaho with its wide-open spaces and vast public domain. Indeed, the youngster who does not find a rifle or shotgun under the tree Thursday morning is likely to hustle over to the home of the one who did get one.

One question frequently asked by parents as they face up to this problem is "If it's when should we give our boy a gun?" There are many answers. One is to be found in the Idaho fish and game laws which prohibit anyone under the age of 12 years to have in his possession any shotgun, rifle or other firearm while in the field or forest or in any tent, camp, auto or other vehicle.

It must be remembered, however, that there is no magic accruing automatically to that 12th birthday anniversary. There are some 14 million kids in their teens scattered across this country, including Alaska, and governing their hunting and fishing habits are 49 different game codes. And just as some boys and girls mature physically faster than others, some youngsters develop responsibility and a respect for the rights of others more quickly than others.

He may pick-up the rifle, open it to check the empty breach, quietly throw it to his shoulder and draw a bead on a picture ornament on the wall. Then he might hand it to the boy's owner and point to a fly flying outside the window—making sure the youthful novice again examines the breach. And should the gun be handed to another, or put away without checking the breach—should it ever accidentally point at another person—a reasonable familiarity of an atom (though temporary) explosion should occur.

Dry shooting practice such as this can save lives as well as shells when the gun ultimately is taken to forest or field. It is a time for handling empty guns until they become more than tools, more than extensions of eyes and hand, to become a safe and efficient accessory to the boy it must become almost a part of the owner's very being.

In the event that no older member of the family is capable of giving firearm safety training to the proud new owner of a gun, remember that every community in the state has trained men who are qualified and willing to help teach proper gun handling habits. These men know that about 2,600 men, women and children are killed each year in the United States in gun accidents—and that most of these could have been prevented if simple safety rules had been learned and practiced by victims and shooters alike.

Already more than 20,000 Idaho junior and senior high school students have received instruction in safe firearm handling techniques in a program which since 1956 has actively enlisted hundreds of sportsmen to provide systematic training

In the classrooms and on the firing range.

The program is backed by the Idaho fish and game department in cooperation with the National Rifle association, knowing that it does reduce gun accidents in the home, as well as in the field.

An indoor pellet gun is used in the schools because it is ideal for demonstration work and prepares students for actual practices when firing range instructors (usually local sportsmen) take over.

Everyone should always treat every gun as if it were loaded; always point the muzzle in a safe direction; and always make sure of targets. Most youngsters know that the .22-caliber rifle has furnished real sport to more people than any other kind of gun. But they must learn that it is a real gun—not a toy—and must be treated with respect because a .22 bullet will carry up to a mile and may glance off at an angle from flat hard surfaces, twig or water. Adults, too, should remember that it is best never to shoot all bottles or similar targets for this reason.

The youngster who gets a gun for Christmas will not be likely to break the curfew on city streets. He will be more likely to roll out before sun-up and be where the dawn wind may do with his life.

Dworshak Is Against New Dam for State

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20 (UPI)—U. S. Sen. Henry Dworshak said today he opposed construction of the Fanny Cliffs dam on the middle fork of the Clearwater river because it would destroy steelhead spawning grounds.

"With increased steelhead run resulting from changes in the Columbia river fisheries, I believe we should keep the middle fork of the Clearwater open to spawning areas," said the Idaho Republican.

Dworshak said construction of Bruce Eddy dam on the north fork, with the middle fork left open, would give a balanced use of the river with power development and flood control benefits, plus wildlife usage.

"The fish and game department fisheries survey showed there is plenty of spawning area on the middle fork," Dworshak pointed out that the proposed dams, including those on the Salmon river, should not be connected for at least a decade.

"We should not build these dams that would close off spawning areas for the entire waterbed of the Salmon until we see how atomic power comes along," he said.

Dworshak pointed out that some dams are needed now to provide slackwater navigation to aid in flood control and storage to protect the nation's investment in dams already built along the Columbia system.

Buhl Grange Has Birthday Dinner

BOHLE, Dec. 20—Buhl Grange met Thursday night for its quarterly birthday dinner, Christmas program and gift exchange. Twenty members whose birthdays came in October, November and December were honored.

The program opened with group singing of Christmas carols led by Mrs. Les Williamson. Mrs. Blunche Smith sang a Christmas story entitled "I Hear Santa Claus."

A "devotional—candlelight—service" was given with the reading of the financial report by Mrs. M. C. Shrader and Milo Davis, furnished the background music for the candlelight ceremony. Mrs. M. C. Shrader, had charge of the program.

A gift exchange followed and treats were given.

Chorals Given

JEROME, Dec. 20—A group of Bach chorals was featured at the Tuesday performance of the Variety choir, conducted by David Greiff.

The concert included solos by Lynda Gill, and Jo Wilson, soprano; Kathleen Clark, alto; and Bob Parkinson, baritone.

The annual Christmas concert by the high school band, eighth grade choir, beginning band and junior band was held Thursday night.

The high school band played several Christmas songs featuring a concert solo by Adrienne Allen, accordion solo by Pat Okawaki, and a piano solo by Bonnie Wilson.

The term "roose music" probably was coined by Aldo Leopold, one of the founders of the Wilderness society, but it now has become a symbol, representing herds of elk in high meadows; mountain sheep all-bounded on a splintered crag; elk imagery stands for the wild calls of coyotes, for moose splashing through a remote lake in the back country for the roar of waterfalls, the symphony of singing streams, and the wide horizons of an uncluttered desert.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Superintendent of Youth Ranch Is Man With Mission to Help Wayward Youths

RUPERT, Dec. 20—The Rev. James R. Crowe, superintendent of the Idaho Ranch for Youth, is a man with a mission—a mission to help wayward youngsters. With abundance of faith, together with hard work and his driving conviction in the importance of his work, that mission will be completed.

The ranch, a new Idaho method to rehabilitate potential or actual juvenile delinquents, was opened officially last April. It is the culmination of 25 years of dreaming, planning and hard work by the Rev. Mr. Crowe.

The minister says he has always been interested in the problem of youth misadjustment. Stressing the importance of the ranch, he says, "Throughout my preaching career I saw that the various apomorphoses and youth groups such as the 4-H club and the Boy Scouts weren't actually holding the youth who needed the most attention. A certain number of them would always drift away. Their home environment would overpower the church environment, because the church didn't have them long enough to offset their bad home environment."

"I reasoned that if I could get them before they were placed in a reform or industrial school and put them in wholesome ranch environment for their growing patterns for good character and religion, they would be overpowered."

"In a ranch environment that resembles a normal home, you can meet and contact youngsters, reason their own problems and guide them in their thinking," he adds.

His object is to build the Idaho Ranch for Youth into a self-supporting institution, so that the youngsters will feel they are providing for themselves, rather than being supported by charity donations.

The Rev. Mr. Crowe says he first became interested in youth work when he was going to college in the early years of the depression and his interest was sharpened by serving in World War I and the Korean war.

He was born and raised in a small cattle and cotton ranch near Hillsboro, Tex. He attended school in Hillsboro, but his father's financial reverses he was forced to attend school in his junior year.

Undecided as to whether a re-educating 4-H project that netted him $500 that year. He began with a "roose music" band and collected the eggs. By the time the year was over he had made more money, in returns for his investment, than any other 4-H boy in Texas, and he still had 20 breeding hens left.

He was the first person in Texas to incubate turkey eggs and as a result of the incubation process he got double egg production. As a prize for the 4-H project he was sent to the International Livestock show and 4-H congress in Chicago.

Young Crowe returned to school in the fall of 1929. He finished school at Somerville, Tenn. A friend was the football coach and wanted the youth to play football and help him coach the team.

He arrived in Somerville penniless after losing his last dollar in a baseball pool in a small town in Texas. "I hadn't decided to become a preacher at that time," he laughs.

At Somerville he earned his bread and butter by janitorial the Presbyterian church and courthouse. When he left Somerville for Lambeth college at Jackson, Tenn., the newspaper gave him a purse of $100 and a new suit.

College years are busy years for anyone, but for the future clergyman they were a whirlwind of activity. He played football, took care of the college tennis courts, was head waiter in the school dining hall, picked up the campus laundry for a local laundry, helped teach freshman biology in his senior year and served as a part-time preacher in the local Methodist churches.

He was licensed to preach by the Methodist church two years before he was graduated from college with a major in religion and minors in biology and history.

Following his graduation in 1935 he served as a circuit preacher in the hill country of Tennessee. He had five churches to serve at intervals of about 15 miles. Lacking a car, he walked the distance between each church on Monday and preached for the following week at each church.

In the fall of 1935 he was sent to another circuit on the western boundary of Tennessee. It was coming up in the world," he muses, "I had one more church and I was getting closer together."

"That same fall" he and his wife were married. "She taught school and I preached," he says. "She'd go one way and I'd go the other each morning."

In that depression year the Rev. J. P. Crowe and his wife earned a

He says, "The infant's mother's course gave me an added thrill in the actual way in which the child is born."

Later that year he was sent to another chaplain school at Madison, Wis., where he was assigned to the fifth air corps, which shipped overseas.

When he arrived in New Guinea he says, "I thought my circuit was over, but they put me in flying a circuit. I was flying a circuit and I had some fun. I had five different points to cover islands and different points in New Guinea. I preached to everything from mesa hills to mountains in 1942."

The chaplain was released from active duty in 1944.

Discharged from the service as a major, after a short tour in Kentucky, he was appointed pastor of the Methodist church in Rupert.

In 1946 he started looking for a place for his projected boys ranch. At one time he tried an abandoned section but he was ousted. He secured, and partly convinced he could never afford to buy the ranch, he was advised by George Brexler, Rupert, to buy some public land.

He followed Brexler's advice, and in 1948 he began negotiations to buy public land north of Rupert with the aid of the Rev. Sen. Glenn Taylor, Rep. Hiram Blaine, and Sen. Henry C. Dworshak, the state's chief of government. He returned in 1952 he finished his preliminary approval to buy the land.

There was no question that by would get the land, but he had to win contrary votes in congress, but he did.

When the special act of congress approved the purchase of the land, which will be held in trust by a board of directors, the Rev. Mr. Crowe was in Korea.

He had been called back to his service in 1951, spent 14 months in Korea as deputy chaplain of the fifth air force, and supervised 20 chaplains when he returned from the Korean war.

He says, "In 1956 and 1957 I made 50,000 miles talking to anyone who would listen to me about the ranch. After living in Jerome from 1935 to 1955, he spent 4 months in Korea as deputy chaplain of the fifth air force, and supervised 20 chaplains when he returned from the Korean war.

He began working on the Idaho Ranch for Youth, and his preliminary plan had three boys under his supervision before they moved to the ranch last April.

Now the ranch is entering its first winter, and many of the Rev. Mr. Crowe's plans are being realized. There is always a shortage of money and there is currently a shortage of living space on the ranch.

But the donations continue to arrive and a building program is under way.

The Rev. Mr. Crowe's objective is a ranch that is self-supporting in its right, and anyone who has objective in a minimum of time.

'Hobby' Becomes Master of Hagerman Woman, Forces Her Into Doll Business

HAGERMAN, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Henri LeMoyno, Hagerman, has a hobby that has nearly "taken over" her life. She has a growing doll business that she has created out of a hobby. The dolls, which are made of wash-and-drip-dry stuffs, can endure all the washings and cycles of the modern washing machines and then hang dry and be good as new.

The dolls, weighing in at only one ounce, were designed by Mrs. LeMoyno as an improvement on the rag doll. Her object was to create a doll that was lighter and more attractive than the conventional rag doll and one that could be laundered.

She became interested in creating a doll while she was making a rag doll for her grandson. According to Mrs. LeMoyno, a conventional rag doll is so heavy that when a child swings it by the arms and legs it eventually flies apart and they seldom launder successfully.

In the summer of 1934, her curiosity whetted, Mrs. LeMoyno hunted a series of materials tests to determine the best material for the covering and the stuffing.

After constructing several dolls of various components, she eventually came up with the winning combination of dacron stuffing, that won't mat when washed and drip-dry.

She is assisted by Mrs. Dan Nielsen, What Point, who specializes in the faces of the dolls. Mrs. Nielsen is the only person with whom Mrs. LeMoyno shares the doll pattern.

The "Jenny Bae"—Mrs. LeMoyno's trademark—dolls require considerable time to make. She estimates she didn't actually begin making the dolls in any amount until this fall, but after she had placed them in a few gift stores she found herself the operator of a small business—complete with one helper.

She estimates she and her helper have made about 60 dolls.

The Christmas rush has accelerated the doll demand and Mrs. LeMoyno says she is sewing practically all the time. This interferes with her other activities—teaching piano, directing the Hagerman Methodist church choir and ice-cream writing.

Most of her customers have been in the Boise valley, but she says that she is beginning to get customers from Magic Valley and that Vogue, Inc., of Twin Falls is selling the dolls.

Mrs. LeMoyno, who doesn't really seem to mind, says, "The hobby has taken over."

Mrs. Henri LeMoyno displays two of the dolls she makes as a hobby. The dolls are made from wash-and-drip-dry cottons and are stuffed with dacron. They can be washed in the conventional washing machine and go through all the wash and rinse cycles. Mrs. LeMoyno says she created the dolls in an effort to make one more attractive than the old-fashioned rag doll. She started making the dolls as a hobby, but now she is the operator of a growing doll business. (Staff photo-engraving)

Mrs. Morgan says the course will be offered in the future if the demand is great enough. January, a course in "methods of meat cookery" will be offered. Potato Conveyor Helps Eliminate Bruising of Spuds

Vern "Foxy" West, Castleford, has designed a labor-saving potato conveyor that eliminates bruising when spuds are stored in the cellar. West says considerable bruising occurs when the potatoes are unsacked after they have been hauled from the fields. West's conveyor transports the potatoes from the truck bed to the pier, eliminating carrying the sacked potatoes to the pier. West says if the conveyor and pier are adjusted properly the potatoes drop less than six inches. (Staff photo- engraving)

Inventive Castleford Farmer Develops Machine to Eliminate Potato Bruising

Farmers who tire of having their potatoes graded down by buyers because spuds are bruised could follow the example set by an inventive Castleford farmer. Vern "Foxy" West, who farms northwest of Castleford, has lessened the problem of potato bruising with a relatively simple conveyor he has invented. West built the conveyor when he decided his potatoes were being handled too much. He said in his area most farmers sack potatoes in the fields. Then the sacks are hauled to the cellar, and the potatoes are dumped on a pier and stored. According to West, this handling invites potato bruising, and results in lower prices for the crop. When he built the conveyor, his object was to omit much of the handling. Often workers are careless when they remove the sacks from the truck, unsack the potatoes and place them on the pier—the machine that distributes the potatoes evenly within the storage area. West's conveyor omits this process by conveying the potatoes directly from the truck to the pier.

The potatoes must still be unsacked on the truck and placed on the conveyor, but, according to West, there is less damage when the conveyor is used. He says most workers are appreciative of the work-saving device and take more care with the potatoes. It takes less men, too. "Except for the man who operates the pier, the men never have to leave the truck. It takes only three men to unload with the conveyor, rather than the normal crew of five," he said. And the conveyor is faster, too. He estimates that under average conditions the potatoes can be unloaded, with less damage, about twice as fast with the conveyor. West's cellar is 120 feet long. Often he has filled one side of the cellar in a day and a half. "There have been years where there wasn't a sack of rot in this cellar because of bruises," West said. West explained that if the pier operator is running his machine correctly the potatoes seldom drop more than six inches in the entire trip along the conveyor to the pier, to the storage area. Many potatoes are bruised when the potatoes are dumped from sacks into the pier, or when the pier isn't leveled properly. The conveyor was made to West's specifications by the Paul Equipment and Welding Shop, Paul, for an approximate cost of $350. West believes he is the only farmer in this area with such a machine. He hasn't bothered to patent the conveyor, modestly claiming someone in another part of the country has probably designed one.

the idea, but they won't spend the money. West points out that "some people spend all summer raising a crop of good potatoes, and then beat them up when they put them in the cellar—that's something I don't understand." "There is one thing I know, when the potatoes leave this cellar they are nice potatoes, regardless of how they are treated later," West added.

Chamber Is Told Hearings Report

JEROME, Dec. 20 — H. Silbaugh reported at the Chamber of Commerce this week on his recent trip to Cour d'Alene to testify at the hearing of bill S-3114 on the Columbia River Development corporation. Silbaugh reported that there were 25 witnesses from several organizations all opposing the bill. Silbaugh also reported on a trip to Idaho Falls Tuesday for a Committee of Nine meeting. The possibility of having a Jerome county convalescence home was discussed. Dr. Charles Parker will head the committee to discuss this with county commissioners. Approval was given to the estimated budget for next year's season of the three reservoirs. Thomas Larson reported meeting with the county commissioners on the possibility of getting a quarter here done for next season.

Wendell Grange Holds Yule Fete

The program was arranged by Mrs. J. H. Freeman, lecturer. Mrs. Freeman was narrator for the candlelight service, "The Light of the World is Jesus." J. H. Freeman was soloist and Susan Freeman played the background music of Christmas carols. Other numbers included
