Hawaiians to See Winter in Boston Area

BOSTON, Dec. 27 (UPI) — Ten Hawaiians tried out ice skates for the first time today at the frog pond on the frozen Boston common.

The YMCA members, spending in part from 10 to 15¢, are enjoying the Christmas season in the city.

Earlier this week they romped in the snow at Springfield, Mass., while in Boston, the boys also planned to visit the "frigid" Garden State.

Old residents, Boston and New England, Old North church and an ice show.

The group attended a banquet to which 140 guests were invited to the Hall Church of Hills, where the boys will present a gift to the church from the Rev. and Mrs. Glenn Fiske, Hawaiian missionaries supported by the Boston church.

The boys will leave Boston tomorrow for a vacation in the White House.

The group will be in the United States under the leadership of Robert Fische, secretary of the Honolulu Fiske, Hawaiian missionaries of Springfield.

The group's expenses were paid through savings or donations from friends and relatives.

Money Setup In Europe to Not Harm U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP) — The shakeup of European currencies announced today is not likely to have any noticeable effect on the average American, at least for the time being.

The shakeup achieves its goals, the effect may be felt by American businessmen in the form of increased orders and by U. S. workers in greater employment opportunity and general prosperity.

The move was welcomed by official Washington. The state department called it a "satisfactory forward move." Per Jacobson, managing director of the International Monetary fund said, "It will help in the international exchange of goods and services."

"This is a big step," Jacobson said, "in the establishment of an effectively functioning international monetary system."

The state department also saw in the move by Western European countries progress toward ending restrictions on international trade. The department said the actions are evidence of West Europe's healthier economic position.

Truman Plans Lecture Talks For Columbia

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP) — Former President Truman announced yesterday he will give a series of lectures on the presidency next year at Columbia university.

He spent part of the day discussing plans for the lectures with Columbia officials. They will be similar to lectures he has given at other universities.

Truman and his wife have been spending the holidays with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Daniel, and their 18-month-old grandson. Truman said he had a "great time" watching the boy open his Christmas presents.

Truman talked with newsmen during his customary early-morning walk.

He said he hopes 1959 will bring peace and prosperity for all the world.

"However," he added, "I am not a prophet, nor the son of a prophet, and it is only a hope."

Cars Damaged

58th damage was reported Saturday as the result of a two-car accident in the 100 block of Second avenue south which involved a 1958 Buick driven by Katherine J. Hadley, 29, 210 Casswell avenue, and 1953 Chevrolet driven by Phillip Williams, 48, Twin Falls labor camp.

City police reported slight damage to the rear bumper of the Buick car and slight damage to the front bumper of the Williams vehicle.

Danish Ruler Stricken With Lung Trouble

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 27 (AP) — King Frederick was put to bed Friday with a minor rupture in one lung, caused by a violent coughing spell.

The 59-year-old monarch was taken to the Royal Frederiksborg hospital at Fredensborg, north of the city, and Wednesday. He was flown here Friday in an ambulance plane.

A medical bulletin from the royal court said the king will require a few weeks of rest, but emphasized the all-out non-smoking.

"The king's condition is satisfactory," the bulletin said.

It was said by his personal surgeon, Prof. F. R. Thomsen, Dr. Jens J. Hansen, chief surgeon at one of Copenhagen's biggest hospitals, and Dr. Erik Bandler of Aarhus, one of Denmark's leading lung surgeons. Bandler flew here with the king.

A court announcement said it was hoped the king will be able to make his usual address to the nation over the radio-New-Year's evening on Jan. 1 and the couple's three daughters were with the king at the hunting lodge for a Christmas vacation. They returned from Trend Saturday.

Former Mate For Bergman Asks Custody

ROME, Dec. 27 (AP) — Roberto Rossellini has asked the Rome civil court to give him custody of the three children of his marriage to Ingrid Bergman because of the Swedish actress' relationship with Miss Schmidt.

Miss Bergman, whose marriage to the Italian film director has not yet been formally dissolved under Italian law, was married to Schmidt in London last Sunday.

When she and Rossellini obtained a legal divorce in November, 1957, custody of the three children was awarded to Miss Bergman.

A petition filed with the civil court last week by Rossellini's lawyer said that this request.

The children are Roberto, born seven days before Ingrid's divorce by proxy in Mexico from Peter Lindstrom in 1950, and 6-year-old twins, Isabella and Isotta Ingrid. They last were reported in Paris.

High Steel Bridge To Link Highway

PAGE, Ariz., Dec. 27 (AP) — The region's highest steel arch bridge, and the nation's second longest, will be completed shortly after the first of the year.

The bridge at Glen Canyon dam will link a 10 million dollar highway system in Utah and Arizona. Dedication services are tentatively planned for February.

The concrete and steel arch is 700 feet above the normal flow of the Colorado river and measures 1,228 feet from abutment to abutment.

It will be the only bridge across the Colorado in more than 150 miles from Marble Canyon, Ariz., to Moab, Utah.

Oregon Plane Crash Victim Uses Nerve In Learning Her New Life as "Cripple"

FRESNO, Calif., Dec. 27 (AP) — "Just a minute you guys," said the pretty blond. "This is my show, remember?"

With that Mrs. Patricia Davis showed her husband from their wheelchair and nearly-lifted herself into the driver's seat of their automobile.

"I'm going to learn to drive this thing again. I'll have to learn to get myself in and out, too."

This is the sequel in the saga of Patty and Bruce Davis, a young couple from Fresno whose light plane crashed in the snow-covered mountains of northeastern Oregon last spring.

Davis was unable to move after the crash. Davis wrapped her as comfortably as he could, leaving most of his own clothes with her.

Then, dressed only in shoes, drawers and a light jacket, he "struggled through the snow for three days until he found an isolated farmhouse where he summoned help."

"Those three days in the snow almost killed Mrs. Davis. Stricken with trouble she lost her left foot and eyes from her right foot."

She underwent five operations in the hospital at John Day, Ore., but she was able to return to Fresno no later in July.

What kind of Christmas has it been for a young woman with two children when she cannot walk? "Just wonderful," she says with a huge grin. "I never thought I would see another Christmas. I had my white Christmas in the snow in Oregon."

Davis, entertainment director of a motel chain, said, "This is just a matter of doing one thing at a time and she's done far better than anyone had a right to hope."

Mrs. Davis added, "The roughest emotional hurdle was trying to walk the first time. It's very painful. The prostheses just isn't part of you. I've tried three times now."

"There are a lot of things we used to worry about but we don't worry now," said Davis. "Money no longer means a thing to us. We know what it means just to be alive now."

Mrs. Davis shrugged. "We have not done without anything as a result of the accident. For the most part, we're probably living higher now."

She now works as an actor's agent and helps her husband with his work. "With my work and Bruce's work and answering letters from all over the world and the big job—having my kids up—I just don't have time to feel sorry for myself. Do they still fly?"

"Oh, yes," said Davis. "That was the only thing we really got out of our insurance. A new plane."

"And I still fly with him," said Mrs. Davis, smiling with a smile. "We must be out of our cotton-pickin' minds," she said.

No Worry

IDAHO FALLS, Dec. 27 (UPI) — Although snow on the Snake river watershed is far below a year ago, Watermaster Lynn Crandall sees no reason to become alarmed yet.

He said it was too early to start worrying. Crandall noted that the long-range forecast called for below average precipitation for the next month.

Diplomats Ask Where Leader Wishes to Go

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP) — The state department tried politely today to find out what Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan wanted to do on his U. S. visit next month.

Apparently, it didn't get very far. Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy called Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov to his office. They conferred for about 30 minutes. Afterward, all either of them would say was that they had discussed routine matters, including the expected visit of Mikoyan some time in early January.

To all questions, the ever-smiling Menshikov responded with little more than a friendly laugh.

Pair of Rich Mutts Will Join Stockholders of Water Works

SAN JOSE, Calif., Dec. 27 (AP) — Mac and George, a couple of rich mutts, are joining the ranks of San Jose Water Works stockholders.

Mac is a part Irish terrier, part everything else. He's 10. George is a 4-year-old mostly cocker spaniel. Neither will ever have a worry as to where their next meal comes from.

Their late master, Thomas F. Shewbridge, directed in his will that the profits from his $100,000 estate go to provide for his two pals.

"I wish the dogs to have the best of care," he wrote in a will dated Feb. 28, 1938. The 50-year-old childless widower died Dec. 11.

His will, filed for probate Friday, ordered all his assets, including a 17-acre valuable prune ranch in nearby Campbell, turned into cash.

He then said common shares of water works stock should be bought with all dividends going for the care of the dogs.

The stock closed Friday at $53. It pays an annual dividend of $2.40.

The American Trust company, administrators of the estate, figure it will come to $80,000 after taxes or 1500 shares.

That'll mean better than $3,000 a year for Mac and George.

Shewbridge put a 20-year maximum on providing for the dogs. After that period, the entire estate is to go to any surviving legal heirs.

FBI Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP) — The justice department today reported it handled more than 31,000 criminal cases in 1958. They were divided into 1,000 separate categories ranging from aeronautical offenses to wool-labeling violations.

Malcolm Anderson, head of the criminal division, said primary crimes such as bank robberies, forgeries, liquor violations, interstate transportation of stolen motor vehicles and property, mail theft, extortion and embezzlements still comprised almost half of the total case load.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on most news subjects. Questions and answers are published weekly.

WASHINGTON—How serious is the revolt of the Republican liberals in the senate? asks H. C. Tucker, N.Y. "It is a serious matter, and a serious advance and political power by a few ambitious men... Dirksen, Bridges, Aiken, Cooper, etc."

Answer: In my opinion, and it is shared by most capital hill observers and commentators, it is extremely serious. It is a revolt of the Republican liberals in the senate... It could lead to the threat of a split in the Republican party in 1960, which began with the western Republican break with Herbert Hoover. Most of the break was in this year... The fight really centers on basic principles affecting the extension of the Eisenhower Administration... Aiken-Cooper left-of-center, they differ on the handling of such matters as the civil rights, foreign aid and the regulation of business.

U.S. Congress which makes it a criminal offense for government officials to receive gifts that might influence their decisions.

Applying these standards to the Goldfine case, if he expected to benefit from his gifts, they are not to influence government officials and so were illegal.

It is in this light that renews are expected to keep a fast eye on income tax returns which list business expenses and such items as night club, restaurant or other entertainment for government officials.

It is the result of IRS continuing interest in added expense account deductions claimed by taxpayers as business expenses, plus disclosures that Bernard Goldfine tried to pay a $100,000 bribe to a government official for a job in the Treasury.

PRICES AND INFLATION

Although the nation's leading economists are generally agreed we have about weathered the recession and the business outlook for 1959 looks promising, there is one factor that continues to keep them both concerned and puzzled—inflation.

Our new economy, it seems, is undergoing a general upheaval in the process. The law of supply and demand still plays an important part, but with the modern American consumer no longer much concerned with such things as "saving up for a rainy day" a nation-wide spending spree seems to defy any possible alleviation.

As a result, we continue to show progress and appear to be prosperous, while the value of our dollar shrinks with ever-increasing inflation. All the while, the saying goes, "the small get smaller and the big get bigger."

It may be easier to understand this change in our fundamental economy if we try to analyze it on the local level. When we speak of the small getting smaller and the big getting bigger, we see evidence of that all around us—whether it applies to the small neighborhood grocer or the average farmer.

And inasmuch as agriculture is our basic economy, it's particularly interesting to hear the farmer's side of the story. We have heard him say many times, for instance, that while the cost of farm machinery has skyrocketed, the price for what he produces has nowhere near kept pace. Because the small farmer cannot do without certain basic pieces of this high-priced farm machinery, he finds it impossible to make a living on the smaller parcel of land. He is forced with no other way of trying to exist, acquiring more land, or getting out of farming altogether. More and more are throwing in the sponge, with national statistics reflecting fewer and fewer farmers. More and more farm land is falling into the hands of the larger operators.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAMS FOR CONGRESS

There will be three legislative programs before the next Congress. The moderate platform of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and the ultra-liberal platform of Speaker of the House, Charles McNamara, are the two main ones. The moderate platform of the Democratic party. The Republican liberals will undoubtedly favor the ultra-liberal platform of the ultra-liberal platform of the Democratic party.

Bonfire Chairman Started as Participant

Chairman of this year's annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas tree bonfire is Willard Moore. Right, who attended his first Jaycee bonfire in 1948 as an enthusiastic 11-year-old participant. George Bever, who directed every Jaycee bonfire since 1946, looks over publicity clippings of the 10 bonfires held by the Jaycees. Never, now over the maximum 30-year age limit set by the Jaycees, has watched the annual event grow from two bonfires at one location to bonfires at six different spots in the city. Between 1,200 and 1,400 youngsters attended last year's fires. (Staff photo-engraving)

Yule Bonfire Participant of 1948 Is Chairman This Year

A young man who attended his first Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas tree bonfire as an 11-year-old participant in 1948 is chairman of this year's annual Yule fire.

This year's chairman is Willard Moore, a local bookkeeper. Moore, who has attended the bonfire for one year, remembers the first time he attended a Jaycee bonfire he was an enthusiastic participant.

The Jaycees held a fire in the morning and one in the afternoon in 1948. Approximately 300 Twin Falls youngsters were on hand for the fun and free wieners and hamburgers. Bever, director of the fire, says the first bonfire in a vacant lot on Second avenue east—the site of the present city hall—the event has been under the direction of George Bever, however, is now older than 30, the maximum age for Jaycee membership.

Last year, Bever says between 1,200 and 1,400 children attended the event at six different locations throughout Twin Falls. A year ago 1,600 wieners and buns were given out to youngsters, not only from Twin Falls, but from the entire Magic Valley area.

Moore says trees will be burned at six different spots in the city. Details will be announced later.

"This year again there'll be no age or resident restrictions," Moore says.

Christmas trees for the bonfire are picked up throughout the city by personnel of the city's parks and recreation department. Bever praises Ernest Crane, department head, and all the department personnel for cooperation they have given the Jaycees during the years.

Fire department personnel supervise the bonfires.

Study Set for Power Station At Idaho Dam

BOISE, Dec. 27 (U.P.—) Sen. Frank Church, D. Idaho, said today he has asked for a study of the feasibility of developing a small power plant at Peck dam on the Snake river. The dam was built by the army engineers for irrigation and flood control. It does not produce electrical power.

Consideration of the project was given by the Senate committee on the public works committee, but it was not reported. The committee, however, has authorized to make the study.

The full realization of the Lucky Peak potential, described as an excess of 300 million kilowatt hours per year on average, would require an installation in excess of 100,000 kilowatts, the senator said.

Not satisfied

He said the "wholesalers feel that the cost would not be justified at present."

"However," he added, "preliminary analyses have been made for installations ranging from 30,000 kilowatts to 60,000 kilowatts which show favorable economic aspects."

Warrent Study

"These economic figures depend on Boise area irrigation development conditions and the marketability of the power, which warrants further study," he said.

Church said the corps told him generation at the dam would be possible during the irrigation season.

"Such power would be particularly suitable for use in irrigation pumping rather than for meeting industrial or residential loads," church said.

Poland Loses Delegates for Vatican City

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 27 (U.P.—) The election of a new pope has in effect dropped the representatives of the former governments of Poland and the Vatican city.

The two diplomats who had been accredited to the Vatican city by the Polish regime were expelled from the city on Dec. 27, 1958, because they were not expected to be among the representatives of the new pope who will call on Pope John during the next several days to present new credentials.

The Vatican city is a small state in the center of Europe, which is surrounded by Italy.

Wall Follows Car Home With Trail

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27 (U.P.—) A brick wall followed 200 Bailey home today.

Well, not all of it. Officers said the wall of a bar to Bailey's garage was pushed into the street.

Inside the garage, officers said was Bailey's car well splattered with debris.

Bailey, booked on suspicion of misdemeanor hit-and-run, acknowledged to officers that his car "crashed" the wall.

Import Quota on Sugar to Be Told

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (U.P.—) The agricultural department will announce early next week domestic marketing and import quotas of sugar for 1959.

The combined quotas will be the amount of sugar the department figures Americans will consume during the next 12 months.

Those prevailing now, Big shares go to domestic sugar beet and sugar cane producing areas. Cuba gets the largest import quota.

Cold Wave

FAIRBANKS, Dec. 27 (U.P.—) A cold wave is moving toward Alaska and the mercury is expected to plummet to below zero within the next two days, the Fairbanks weather bureau predicted today.

A low of 20 below zero was forecast for tonight. Galea, on the Yukon river, took a chilly bonanza on the coldest spot in North America today with 41 below zero.

Hailey Boy Killed, Car Wrecked When It Hits Horse

Richard (Pucky) Hawkes, 17, Hailey, died of injuries received when his 1958 Oldsmobile struck a horse and went out of control Christmas eve six miles south of Bellevue on highway 22. The car traveled 350 yards from the point of impact with the horse, shearing off a power pole and leaving the Gannott area temporarily without lights. The youth died Thursday night at St. Alphonsus hospital, Boise. His death was the 49th traffic fatality for Magic Valley this year and the fourth for Blaine county. (Staff photo—engraving)

Day Following Christmas Most People Are Good, Notes Boyle

BY HAL BOYLE

likes to review the dying year. Joe Blough the typical American, lying there in his living room couch might put it this way—if he talked out loud:

"I started the year running scared, but it hasn't been half bad. Not bad at all.

"The guy down the street lost his job, but he got another one three months later, and seems to be doing all right now. Everybody else in the neighborhood is working today—whether he wants to or not.

"The boss has been pretty good to me, though. Last July he'd skip the year-end bonus this time. But he made it again—although he did say he didn't know how much longer he could stay in business. He's been saying that—ever since I was an office boy.

"The wife says things keep getting higher and higher, and a dollar won't buy what it used to. But looking back, I guess it never did, guess inflation is a big danger, but I don't see what a guy any can do about it—except join my union.

"I'm in viewing the problem with thoughts.

"I thought sure this year one of these double-dome scientists would come up with a cure for baldness, and the common cold, but no—no. I don't think about it, but I guess it would be a real surprise to wake up some morning and find the only hair on my head is on my worry.

"The world is still not at peace and any year they don't blow the bugle—well, it's a good year."

Faster System On Launching Atlas Is Told

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (U.P.—) A new faster system for launching the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile was disclosed today.

The Radio Corporation of America said it has developed an electronic checkout and launching system that will make the missile ready for firing almost immediately after a warning of impending enemy attack.

Arthur L. MacCarney of RCA Defense Electronics Products said the new system is designed to reduce substantially the "count down" period for launching the missile from 10 to 15 hours now required under developmental or experimental conditions.

MacCarney said the system uses a digital computer technique to determine whether a missile is ready to go. If any parts need attention, he said, the checkout sequence spots them quickly.

Men Report Yule Spirit for Trees

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 27 (U.P.—) Three men felling Christmas trees decided to quit early Christmas eve although they still had 100 trees in stock.

Before leaving they put up this terse outside notice: "Wireless and trees 31. Drop money in mail slot. Be honest, have the Christmas spirit. Merry Christmas."

They found $10.00 in their mail box Friday. Ten trees remained. Twice they should have had $10.00 more in receipts, but they believe as the quality of the trees declined, customers made their own adjustments.

Unromantic

BUDAPEST, Dec. 27 (U.P.—) Selling the Danube is hardly as romantic as the songs would have you believe—if you set out from Communist Romania.

Under a new government decree, anything traveling on the river banks of the Danube must be given a permit to give the ministry of interior 30-days advance notice of a planned trip and all aboard and intended stops.

Cut Is Noted In Air Force B58 Bomber

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (U.P.—) The air force has decided to continue the B58 supersonic jet bomber program but to cut by about 10 percent the purchases planned for the current year, military sources said today.

Enough money will be sought during the fiscal year which starts next July 1, the sources said, for two additional wings of B32 long-range jet bombers.

Both plans reflect an air force decision to push forward with what it considers the most important seeking perfection of its intercontinental ballistic missiles.

At one point several months ago the economy move threatened to end the B58 program.

But Pentagon officials said today that funds available will make possible the purchase of slightly more than 70 planes, instead of the 80 originally planned. These include a dozen or so B38s already developed by the air force by Convair division General Dynamics corporation.

Eden Man Says Not All Facts Brought Out at Road Hearing

Editor, Times-News:

While a delegation from the First Segregation association met with a neighboring Chamber of Commerce to discuss one reason for fighting for the use of Plan C in routing the interstate highway through the Eden-Highway area.

This delegation learned that at the hearing held in this city by the recent force of the state highway commission, the citizens of this city were not informed that if Plan C were adopted, the present highway road would be improved to a four-lane access road.

They were not informed that by use of this access road, the distance from Twin Falls to all points east would be exactly the same as if Plan A were used; nor were they told that this 11.4 miles of access road plus Plan C of the interstate highway.

BRAINERD, Minn., Dec. 27 (U.P.—) Was the opportune moment, Mrs. David Emery and just pulled a 45-pound walleye pike from Pelican lake when he walked Bruce Nelson, Brainerd Daily Dispatch photographer, looking for an ice fishing picture.

Nelson reached his camera then attempted to lift the fish to an ice chisel for an appropriate pose.

The walleye gave a flip, fell from the hook, into the hole and swam away.

It was the only fish Mrs. Emery and two companions caught. Nelson retreated to shore—no picture.

Cuban Leader Takes Move to Repel Threats

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 27 (AP)—President Fulbright today issued a growing rebel threat to his government. ... informed sources in Havana are convinced that climactic developments are imminent in the so-called rebellion led by Fidel Castro. ... Some government troops are reported to be in the process of attacking fellow Cubans in the civil strife that already has brought heavy casualties, economic dislocation and hunger to parts of the country. ... Batista ordered 2,000 troops to the province of Las Villas under a new commander. The army warned the civil population that it intends all-out ground and air attack against any rebel attempt to occupy and hold the central province. The rebels are active in a wide circle around Santa Clara, the provincial capital.

Aide Reports Red Intrigue Iraq Problem

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Waldemar J. Gillman, U.S. ambassador to Iraq, said today the possibility of communist penetration into the government of Gen. Abdel Karim Kasim is "one of the most disturbing factors" in that country's situation. ... Gillman, who returned home on the liner Independence, said, however, communist penetration is not inevitable and he would not lose faith in Iraq. ... He said there was no question but that there were "red" intriguers in Baghdad against Asst. Secretary of State William L. Rountree, the communist inspired. ... Gillman returned home to become director general of the foreign service in Washington. He will be succeeded as ambassador to Iraq by Jack Fernigan, minister, counselor at the U. S. embassy in Rome.

Grandpa Ike Takes Things in Hand; Gets David Warm Duds

GETTYSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 27 (UPI)—President Eisenhower decided today that his 10-year-old grandson, David, needed some new clothes, particularly rugged outdoor wear for the Eisenhower farm where the temperature remained below freezing. ... After making the decision, the President got the approval of Mrs. Eisenhower. Then he and David, as quietly as a President can, proceeded to the shopping center at downtown Gettysburgh shortly after 9 a.m. ... Car Follows ... A secret service follow-up car accompanied the Eisenhower's big black limousine. ... The storekeepers of Gettysburgh were dealing with the big smiling man in the heavy sports jacket and overcoat before they quite realized that a merchantile history was being made. This was one of the President's exceedingly rare visits to downtown Gettysburgh. ... Eisenhower, a fine dresser, himself, decided first on dress clothes for David. They went to Fitzer's Mens Wear just off the town square. The President smilingly said he wanted to see a suit for his 10-year-old grandson. ... The help was distraught, they sold only adult clothing, but they did have a pair of high-top wool slacks, $150. David did not need a cap. He had one on. ... The President peeled off fresh cash in each store and his total outlay came to $600.80 plus sales tax.

Woman's Age Is Her Own Affair

BY ALICIA HART
HEA Beauty Editor.
A woman's age is her own affair. That won't keep people who should know better from asking her how old she is.
But the fact that they ask doesn't mean that she under any obligation to tell them the truth. She may answer anything she pleases, from "73" to "22."
In this day of really wonderful cosmetics, massage machines, hair driers and pretty clothes, a woman is able to keep her age her own secret for longer. She has every right to make use of these new aids as they're placed at her disposal.
And if her onlookers are puzzled because the years go by and she doesn't seem to change, that's not her worry.

Happy Is Hostess Able to Serve Instant Hospitality

This is the time when days are continually punctuated by friends as they just "drop in." Informal hospitality flourishes and a smart hostess will be ready to practice her skills as a hostess.
Casual invitations to drop by are accepted readily and friends are not to call unexpectedly, if the anticipated visit throws you into a state of alarm you mix half the fun of the occasion.
Many homemakers with earned salaries as gracious hostesses are the provisions on hand and the scale of how and where to serve their plans, whether for one or a dozen. This enables them to produce refreshments with the minimum of contact which, in this busy age, is a great asset.
Tentative is the owner of a home ready for cozy sheets of prepared appetizers, or hors d'oeuvres, may be fully slipped under the broiler for quick service.
New Year's cheer or a sheet of tiny appetizers will show almost as well as you can ready the water in a cup of tea or brew a pot of coffee.
From time immemorial, practical conviviality has been synonymous as hosts and hostesses have and the traditional elegance may make economical in serving large numbers of guests and festive in spirit as well as in appearance. Even the ancient Greeks and Romans centered their parties and the punchbowl.
What better way for today's modern hostess to center her New Year's open house—decoratively, elegantly and informally.
It doesn't have to conform to the traditional elegance of a dinner in warm red and white. Million stick stirrers is truly "warm" hospitality.
Heat two quarts of apple cider.

Teacher States Dance Boom Is Without Bounce

New Year's Eve—there's all dancing more but with less jump, says a veteran teacher of terpsichore.
The nation is having a tremendous revival of ballroom dancing," said attentive Mrs. Sidney Baer, president-elect of the American Society of Teachers of Dancing.
Mrs. Baer, who teaches in her native Louisville, Ky., said that, around the nation, dancing school enrollment is on the increase, ballroom dance competitors are being recruited, and even the old folks are taking lessons in the mambo and cha-cha.
"And the children? Well," said Mrs. Baer, a pretty blonde in her late 30's. "They have to learn or grow up wallflowers."
Mrs. Baer said it was difficult to determine why the increase in dancing as a pastime, but thought television was partly responsible. Especially with the children. "Every little girl is twirling around the living room and demanding lessons," she said.
"Today's ballroom dancing has less bounce and wiggle, so far as adults are concerned. Teen-agers still rock and roll with plenty of vigor."
"Even the Lindy hop has calmed down," said Mrs. Baer. "Maybe it's because we're less nervous people than we were during and after World War II."
Some of the sedate style of the English dancing also is rubbing off on American steps, she said. But not to the extent that check-to-check dancing is gone.
"That," she said, "depends on the time, place and person. Check-to-check was never a ballroom position we taught anyway."
Mrs. Baer was elected president of the Society at its recent convention at the Hotel Astor. She will take office Jan. 1, succeeding Mrs. Viola Austin. The society's purpose is to keep in step with all the new steps and also elevate the level of the teaching profession generally.
The president-elect, wife of a Kentucky state representative, has been teaching dance for 20-odd years, is concerned in tap, ballet and ballroom for children.
"Even the children are asking for lessons in 'that slow stuff,'" she said. They like both the waltz and fox trot.
"And boys no longer consider dancing lessons 'stale,'" she said. "The boy might have to be pushed a little more, but once in class he enjoys it."
On paper, bouncing to cool and crisp.
To clean skittles, add remaining one-fourth cup butter, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon onion powder; toss the same way and sprinkle with remaining one-fourth cup cheese and paprika. Mix all of the cereal with the almonds. Store in tightly covered container at room temperature.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI
Many times I am asked, "Shouldn't my child have music lessons?" I keep asking but so many times I hear that, parents buy an instrument and that's all there is to it.
I say "Yes," every time. "Music is the language of the soul," the poet says. It is the language that we all use and no truer word could be said. It is the language that we all use and no truer word could be said. It is the language that we all use and no truer word could be said.
Children need and should have music. In this day of materialism, they get far too little and if they can have some in period of music it will be all to good for them and their community.
True, many children are all set up on an instrument, take a few lessons, and then find out that it is not what they want. It means discipline, it means hard work, it means giving up. That is the time when the child would benefit by learning to play this instrument that he asks for and that he practices.
Children cannot know what is best for them at the time or in the future. Parents generally have some idea about both and the responsibility for the child's growth and development is theirs.
It is surprising to those who are in touch with the children in early adolescence group what music can do to soothe the savage beast. We had a group of "old-timers" the teachers, called them "old-timers" because they were in energy, ripe for mischief. One day I picked up a French horn and said, "I can play it." I saw play and blew a blast that brought the orchestra leader on the run. "What's that?" he asked me. "I can play it," I said. "That was when the drum corps was started. The orchestra teacher taught them to play a march. We got them undisciplined and the teacher marched with them up and down the street playing it with might and main. The children smiled and applauded their "roughness" who had become this proud strutting band.

Give the child who wants to play; the orchestra for those who want to play; solo appearances for the teacher's pupil who wants to lift of an audience. These are what lift the spirit of the children and the atmosphere of a school. Get the children to sing, play an instrument to play in the orchestra and you give them spiritual food, spiritual strength. Love for something beautiful in the realm of the language.

ISG TROUNCES ALASKA TWICE; AGGIES TAKE PAIR FROM IDAHO

Bengals Cop 89-46 Victory At Burley Gym After Tying School Scoring Mark Friday

BURLEY, Dec. 27—The Idaho State college Bengals spattered momentarily in the opening minutes of the game and then roared off to their second straight decision over University of Alaska Polar Bears 89-46 here Saturday night. The Bengals romped to a 100-58 decision in Pocatello Friday night, tying a scoring record along the way. A fairly good crowd watched as the undermanned Polar Bears scrambled to a 5-5 tie in the opening minutes but then the ISG height began asserting itself on both backboards and Alaska never was in the game again. With John Beckie, 6 feet, 8 inches, and Homer Wickett, listed at 6 feet, 5 inches, leading the way, the Bengals hurried to a 41-17 halftime lead despite earlier substituting by ISG coach Grayson.

Wildcats Breeze to Win Over Bonneville

FILER, Dec. 27—The Filer Wildcats broke over the 500 mark Saturday night as they defeated the Bonneville Bees 48-38 in their season record fourth victory here. Coach Paul Ostyn cleared the bench after Filer had built up a comfortable 15-point lead. In the fourth quarter, Bonneville cut the margin to seven points which was the closest the team had been since the second quarter. Filer completely smacked the Bees in the opening quarter, running to a 10-3 lead. Then they began raking the Bees' defense with their ability to draw fouls and make free throws count. They held an 18-6 lead at halftime and topped the way to a 15-point edge late in the third period. Bonneville, although it scored 15 points in the last quarter, never seriously threatened.

St. Joseph's, St. John's to Play for Title

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—St. Joseph's and St. John's are scheduled to meet for the national basketball championship on Monday night. The game will be held at Madison Square garden.

They will meet in the championship game on Monday night in the wind-up of a triple header. Dayton and Utah will play for third place after Holy Cross and Syracuse decide the fifth spot in consolation preliminaries. Holy Cross and Syracuse qualify by winning afternoon games. The jump-shooting Crusaders overcame a 20-10 deficit to win 58-50 after Syracuse, triggered by a 10-inch Eddie Goldberg had rallied to beat Cornell 66-60.

Utags Post Wins Of 64-63, 69-60 In 2-Game Series

BOISE, Dec. 27 (AP)—Little Max Perry and big Bob Ippen teamed for 37 points Saturday night to spark the Utah State Aggies to a 69-60 victory over the University of Idaho State Vandals. It was the second straight for the Aggies who edged Idaho 64-63 at Twin Falls Friday night. Perry, a 6-foot, 6-inch guard, and Ippen, a 6-foot, 5-inch center, were the mainstays in Utah State's seventh basketball victory in eight games.

Baylor Player Passes South Past North

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—Baylor University, a spectator appeal from Baylor, passed for five touchdowns and a field goal on Saturday night to guide the South to a 40-20 rout of the North in the 11th annual game of the Orange Bowl.

It was the seventh victory for the South in the series' featuring the Florida state team and the three touchdowns by Stacey were another record of the series.

It was the seventh victory for the South in the series' featuring the Florida state team and the three touchdowns by Stacey were another record of the series.

It was Thusus who blew hot and pulled the Aggies into their narrow victory over Idaho. Thusus followed with a hook from 10 feet out.

Thusus jumped a 30-foot shot for the Aggies and then moved and headed. Idaho rallied late in the first half briefly and early in the second half.

This surge carried the Aggies to a 69-60 lead and Perry dished a pair of free throws to boost the total to 64. Charley losses by John Vandous and Wharton Coleman brought the Vandals to within a single point. With one second left, Coleman drew a foul through the free throw line while the crowd was remembering how a similar situation gave Idaho a victory last year. But Coleman missed and Ippen grabbed the rebound to close out the game.

The game started out nip and tuck fashion but in the last minutes of the first half Junior Joe King hit on five straight points to give Idaho a 30-20 lead at intermission. As the second period opened, Walton, a Twin Falls man, hit two straight jump shots to give Idaho a 35-20 lead after trading baskets over the next seven minutes.

Utah State began the long way to a 69-60 victory over the Aggies in the second overtime period for a record 119-109 basketball triumph over West Virginia in Chicago stadium tonight.

A crowd of 12,735 saw Northwestern's thrilling victory over fifth-ranked West Virginia in the first and starting Seattle defeated Chicago 70-49 in the opener of a twin bill.

Regulation play in the wild finale ended in a 92-92 deadlock, the 10th time the score was tied in the game.

The first five-minute overtime ended in a 99-99 tie when Buddy Bolyard hit a West Virginia basket with 30 seconds left.

The combined total of 227 points broke the Chicago stadium two-team total of 187 by DePaul (94) and Minnesota (93) in 1954.

It also broke the stadium high for one team, 115 by Kentucky against Loyola (59) in 1957 and bettered Northwestern's single game scoring record of 102 points set against Western Michigan in this year's season opener.

Scott, Lewis, and Johnson were the top scorers for the Aggies. Perry and Ippen were the top scorers for the Vandals.

EASTERNERS BATTLE WEST TEAM FOR 26-14 SHRINE GAME WIN

84-Yard Kickoff Return by Pitt's Dick Haley Provides Spark for East's Attack

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 (AP)—Pittsburgh's Dick Haley sprinted 84 yards for a touchdown on a kick-off return, firing the East to a 26-14 victory over the West Saturday before 60,000 fans in Kezar stadium. The decisive dash by the 185-pound Pitt comet in the third period was the longest scoring run in the 34-year history of the Shrine charity football game. But, in the fourth quarter, Colorado's Eddie Dove went the same 84-yards distance with an intercepted pass for the West's second touchdown.

Filer Comeback Tops Madison Quint 52-45

FILER, Dec. 27.—The Filer Wildcats staged a fourth quarter rally Friday night to come from behind and whip Madison of Rexburg 52-45. The Wildcats had to overcome a 20-point second-period splurge by Madison that saw the visitors go off the floor at halftime with a 27-17 edge. Filer pecked away at the lead during the third quarter and brought the margin down to 47-33, in part by scoring a touchdown. Mike Tegan and Mel Hine teamed up on some terrific free throws that made the difference for the Wildcats—who were outscored by seven field goals from Madison.

East Texas Is Tangerine Bowl Winner

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—East Texas State converted a fumble and intercepted pass into two quick touchdowns in the fourth quarter Saturday and upended Missouri Valley 26-7, in the Tangerine bowl. The score was close until the Lions struck for the two scores only 63 seconds apart. The outburst carried the Tangerine Bowl championship and halted an 11-game losing streak.

BYU Is Upset By Dartmouth In Hoop Meet

DARTMOUTH, N. Rebels Make Tally In First Quarter Stand up for Win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—Mississippi beat Florida 7-3 today in the Gator bowl football classic with all the scoring coming in the opening minutes of a gray, drizzly day. Jim Anderson, who came in as a substitute when the Ole Miss ace fullback, Charley Flowers, was injured, scored the game's single touchdown after Mississippi had swept 70 yards downfield on the kickoff. Florida, with Gator quarterback ace, Jimmy Dunn, contributing a 50-yard kickoff return of a 14-yard drive, promptly scored back to Mississippi 11. There the Miss held and with the ball placed down on the 17, Billy Booker kicked a field goal for three points.

T. F. Man Convinces, Confuses Self In His Experiment With Hypnotism

one year ago Lamorne Stevens by others. The subject claimed, under the name of the "Bridy Murph" case and started to do some "hypnotism" on his own. He is convinced of certain points of hypnotism and confused subject back to a "pre-life" subject.

Lamorne Stevens demonstrates his methods of hypnotizing a subject, using his daughter, Mrs. Howard Eustacher, as a model. Stevens has been interested in hypnotism since he read about the Bridy Murph case a few years ago. He started studying hypnotism to disprove for himself the facts in the Bridy Murph case, but now he is involved in a similar case. (Staff photo-engraving) and place-names given by "Bridy Murph" inter proved to be true and outside of the scope of the subject's normal knowledge. The subject told of being born as Bridy Murph, related her entire life, and even gave a somewhat detailed account of her death. Clergyman and scientists attempted to prove and disprove the facts in the case.

But, to many minds the case ended not proved or disproved, but swamped in a sea of arguments. To many people, that is where the case stands today.

Such a story is unfolding now in Twin Falls, Stevens, after one year of studying hypnotism, has found a subject he has been able to "regress" into not one but three "pre-lives."

This could be confusing, but Stevens takes it in his stride, although slightly "staggered" during "hypnotism" to prove to himself that the Bridy Murph case was a hoax.

"That's why I took up hypnotism to prove it wasn't so," he says. "I'm the kind of guy who believes that seeing is believing."

He explains, "When I was a kid a fellow gave me five dollars to go on a stage and not like I was hypnotized. That's the reason I never believed in hypnotism."

When he started his hypnotism hobby he simply checked out some books from the library and began teaching himself. His first subject was his wife, Marjorie.

"When I hypnotized her I thought she was just trying to get along with me. But I told her to hold her arm out at arm's length. I held mine out, too. At the end of seven minutes I was first to take hers out for 21 minutes. Then I was convinced. When I woke her up from the trance, she wasn't even tired."

Until three months ago, Stevens limited his efforts to parlor tricks. Then he started reading about the "pre-life" thing and decided to try hypnotic regression.

He explains that to regress a person under a hypnotic trance, the subject must be an extraordinarily good subject.

According to Stevens, only about six out of 20 persons can be regressed effectively. It takes a deep somnambulant sleeper to be regressed successfully, he explains.

The woman, who declines to be named for various religious reasons, has been regressed four different times by Stevens. The first time she was regressed the told of a life she lived as a young girl in northern Spain in the 14th century.

The second regression she told further of life in Spain and then Stevens took her to another life in Lakeville, Conn. The third time she related more about her life in Connecticut and it was the fourth regression that really shocked Stevens.

During that regression Stevens took the subject to her life in Spain, and then attempted to take her to a "pre-life" subject.

Clergymen Discuss Merits, Background of Resolutions

Three Twin Falls pastors discuss the merits and spiritual background of New Year's resolutions. From left are the Rev. Ralph Wiley, pastor of the Valley Christian church; the Rev. Donald B. Blackstone, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; and the Rev. W. A. MacArthur, pastor of the First Methodist church. They were asked for their opinions of resolutions. (Staff photo-engraving)

Clergymen Give Opinions on New Year's Resolutions, Their Value

God bless me and my wife, My son, John, and his wife. No more. Amen.

According to one Twin Falls pastor, that's the kind of philosophy that too often underlies a person's thinking when he makes out his New Year's resolutions.

In an attempt to get the views of some Twin Falls pastors regarding the common, but sometimes non-serious, practice of making a list of New Year's resolutions, three clergymen were interviewed and asked their opinions on this tradition and what relation it has to religion.

People compile all kinds of resolutions, both important and unimportant. What, are the ones that really count?

The Rev. Ralph Wiley, pastor of the Twin Falls Valley Christian church, believes the resolutions that count are those that benefit the most people.

To give an example, the Rev. Mr. Wiley says, "If I lose 20 pounds it is practical and good, but the ones that count are the ones that reach out of my own particular world and touch some other person's life."

He believes one should set a goal that is within one's ability and is practical. "The resolutions that are worthwhile," he says, "are the ones that make Christianity practical."

According to the Rev. Mr. Wiley, too many people coach Christianity in vague language that isn't grasped by many people. When it is put on a practical basis, it is more readily understood and practiced.

A good resolution, according to the Rev. Mr. Wiley, would be to make a resolution to live in peace with your neighbors and your family. "Many people are wishing for peace in the world," he says, "the most practical place to begin is at home and with your neighbors."

Each year as people start the new year with a list of resolutions, great value is generally attached to a person's will power, but the Rev. Mr. Wiley pointed out that will power itself isn't enough.

"Religion has a relation to will power, but some of the strongest-willed people in the world aren't religious," he noted. "Religion can help channel the will power in the proper direction."

Religion's role, according to the Rev. Mr. Wiley, is that it gives a person a goal in life. "When a person has a goal he will develop the will power to reach that goal."

"A person will keep a resolution only if he is convinced of its value," he added.

The Rev. Mr. Wiley, who is somewhat skeptical of the worth of New Year's resolutions, says he feels it is better to make resolutions throughout the year as you meet the changing situations in your life.

He pointed out that too often resolutions are too self-centered. "The self-centered person is like the whirlpool that eventually swallows itself. Something that is of value must touch both your life and other lives," he says.

"If a man's views mankind as an end in itself, his resolutions are going to be very self-centered. But if a person views mankind as a means to an end, his resolutions will recognize the spiritual foundation of life," he explains.

The Rev. Donald B. Blackstone, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, believes there are three conditions that require the attention of resolutions.

"The first condition," he says, "is when a person feels that his life has become too empty. The second condition is when you are not getting anywhere, or when you are simply going around in circles. And the third condition is when there is something that is happening you — in other words, when you are your own worst enemy."

He adds, "Everyone should examine his own life and see if these conditions exist."

"To make a resolution, you first have to propose a change," he says. "But you have to take steps that will fulfill this resolution."

He points out that a change is possible for every person, and some persons go about it in different ways. "Some individuals can take themselves in hand and firmly make a change in their living habits, but most people need the stimulation of other people," he says.

"This is hard to do because many people have too much pride to accept the help of others and because

Funds From Rabbit Drive to Help Work on Church Recreation Area

Smaller members of the rabbit drive patrol defend jackrabbits after they had been chased during a drive near Hollister last week-end. The rabbits are particularly thick in that area and have ravaged grain and hay crops for the past few years. Some farmers have cut little or no hay because of the invading rabbits. (Staff photo-engraving)

Nearly a ton of jackrabbits bit the dust southwest of Hollister last week-end as 75 members of the LDS second ward church, Twin Falls in a money-raising mood, moved into the sagebrush and clubbed 493 of the pests.

The rabbits were sold for 10 cents apiece and the money will be used by the ward to help finance a recreation area being constructed one and one-half miles above life all life on Magic Mountain.

At the current price, the 493 rabbits will add $49.30 to the ward's treasury. The rabbits are processed and used primarily for mink food. Most of the rabbits are eventually shipped to Wyoming.

More drives are planned by the ward in the near future.

One drive member said the Callen ranches, which border the drive area on the north, lost an estimated 60 tons of alfalfa hay during the last growing season from the invasion of rabbits.

The rabbits, besides eating valuable hay, increase other ranches' costs. The Callen ranches, in an effort to thwart the rabbits, have constructed six miles of electrically rabbit-light fence.

The fence itself, not counting labor costs, is priced at one dollar for

The sagebrush was literally a sea of jackrabbits as a crowd converged on the rodents and drove them into a rabbit-light corral. The rabbits were locked in the corral and speedily dispatched by club-wielding

Twin Sister Pioneers Still Live at Paul

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A diplomatic reply has been sent to India by Mrs. Lester Stubbs, RICHTFIELD, who had been asked, with her husband, Lester Stubbs, to adopt an exchange student's son. Her letter read in part: "Dear David, Kumudini and son, You made us very happy by giving your American mother and father the sacred obligation of naming your first born. Never have we been so honored. This is the first of our seven grandchildren to be named Lester. We hope the name of Lester David pleases you as much as it does us. We are so happy about the baby for you both. We know how much you will love and enjoy him as he is growing up and we sincerely hope that one day he will be able to come to the USA and meet us and spend some time with us. Quite possibly he can go to school here in America for a year, but we do not wish to wish to call him our grandson in India and treat him as one of our own. We desire the very best in life for him but wish him to make his own decisions as we do here in America after we become of age. Charles Dunham, RUPERT, visits us quite often and asks about you. He says you owe him a letter. He was so interested in this last letter of yours that he has now sent you to the University of Idaho to be printed in "The Idaho PIONEER" with your picture. Many of the interesting things about exchanges students are printed in this paper, which is sent to them and our exchange students in other countries. This will help more people to know your country and ours. "We wish you and your family a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. This is our Christian custom. May God bless and keep you safe, Mom, Dad and Boys."

Living in the village which they helped found in an unexpected way, people call claim, but Mrs. Nellie Clark and her twin sister, Mrs. Stella Crossen, who make their home in Paul, have this distinction. Mrs. Clark, who was born in La Plata, Mo., Oct. 28, 1876, came to Idaho with her husband, the late Tom Clark, in 1907. They took up a homestead which is the east part of the village of Paul. That summer they lived in a 13 by 14-foot shack and slept in the newly built barn in the neighborhood. It was a hard summer for the family with five children. The wind blew constantly and it seemed and it was added into the picture. Many times they would have to sweep away the sand in order to get out the door. They had a living summer they built their home, a six-room house with three bedrooms. It stood for many years on the corner of highway 21 and 25. The house was built by Henry Kestel and his father for only $2,000. Open house was held when it was completed and 72 people helped them build it. In 1911 they bought their first car, a new case, and also learned to drive. She can not recall whether it was the first car in Minidoka county but it was one of the first in Idaho. During the lifetime of Clark, he was active in politics. He was a staunch Republican and in his honor to introduce the late William E. Borah at a celebration in RICHTFIELD. In his excitement, Clark replaced his hat after the Star Spangled Banner was played. In vain Mrs. Clark tried to catch his eye to get him to take it off, Clark introduced the speaker and

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Jesus Dominates" BY CAPT. ESTHER WILSON Salvation Army. It has been said that "when Shakespeare created Shylock, the Jew, he hid no intention of making him the hero. But the fact was Shylock is such a powerful personality that, villain though he is, one cannot help but be intrigued by him. He dominates the play. Yet Shylock does not appear in the Merchant of Venice till the third scene and quite a few of his scenes are quite a few of his scenes in a 12 act play until the stage is set, and the atmosphere is just right. The Bible story has one person only who "dominates the play," for He is greater than all other characters. "When the fulness of the time was come," writes Paul, "God sent forth His Son." On that first Christmas the Lord made his appearance upon human kind. "Hark the glad sound! The Saviour comes; Let every heart prepare a throne; And every voice a song." His entry was a humble one. Born in a manger, no crib for His bed, the car may hear His coming, but in this world of sin, where meek souls will receive Him still, the dear Christ enters in. As the poet Lysons has so aptly said: "Who would so silently this wondrous gift, is given." Humble and undimmed though it was, the entry of Jesus to the scene of our world was heralded from the highest to the lowest. The angels heralded His coming. To some the vision of angels seems improbable, but their appearance at such a time need not surprise us. Heaven "enshined the lowly cattle shed." The shepherds heralded His coming. In the matter of getting in touch with God, the simple, unlettered man is at no disadvantage, for prayer is an experience—and words are an attitude. It is to humble hearts that God reveals His secrets. The wise men heralded His coming. It is later that the Magi arrive, the traveling ones, using reason rather than heart, logic rather than intuition, to the wrong place—Herod's palace—to seek the Babe. Reason can take us so far, and how satisfying it is to God, but at a point in the road we must follow the star "Wherever it went," and however inconspicuous it appears. Arriving there we must offer gifts worthy of our station. Fairfield Reports Christmas Event FAIRFIELD, Dec. 27 — Sunday school at the Fairfield community church presented the Christmas program, "The Message of the Bells," this week. Scripture verses were given by Jo Ann Gill, Linda Cox, Gordon Van-skike and Ted Thornton. Duets were sung by Mrs. Karel Topinka and Mrs. Roy V. Dunagan and Mary and Lillian Knowlton. Ed Reagan sang a solo accompanied by Sharon Carman. Pantomime characters were portrayed by Gary Gill, Jim Gill, Clara Barrard, Miss Carman, Clinton Krahn, Lee Daniel, Walter Farmer, Mrs. Lee Tucker and Einar Johnson. Mrs. Lee Daniel played an organ and Mrs. Karel Topinka acted as narrator. Evelyn Joyce Dunagan gave a recitation. Mrs. Kath Sizem was chairman of the program, assisted by Mrs. Jim Kevan and Mrs. Ed Krahn.

Church Members Hold Rabbit Drive to Raise Funds for Recreation Program

The quiet desert sounded like a Indian campground as men, women and children stilled wildly at the rabbits attempting to escape through the enclosing line of drivers.

Rabbits were everywhere. They ran under horses, between children's legs and jumped over sections of sagebrush as driven by 75 persons on foot and eight persons on horseback.

The riders started sweeping through the country in a wide arc late in the morning. As they moved through the sage they whooped, whistled and rattled cans. The rabbits were driven through the sage by the racket.

Later, at 1:30 p.m., the riders were joined by the crowd on foot. A wide human and horse fan was formed and screaming and yelling moved slowly through the sage. The rabbits were driven ahead of the crowd into a V-shaped fenced area. At the point where the fences converged there was a high fenced corral that would hold the horde of rabbits.

By 2:30 the rabbits were beginning to bunch together as the crowd pressed them closer to the corral. When the crowd drew within a few hundred yards of the corral the sagebrush was literally crawling with jackrabbits.

quies about 500 persons and 25 horsemen. The people on foot formed the line and the riders keep the line even and watch for gaps.

Magic valley assistants aren't the only rabbit chasers in the state. Last week-end nearly 5,000 rabbits were bagged in eastern Idaho. About 1,000 persons formed a line and moved through areas of Jefferson county and lessened that area's rabbit population.

According to the Associated Press, war was declared in that area about two weeks ago after the rabbits continued to plunder the crops.

Other rabbit drives have been held in the Burley-Rupert area where several thousand jackrabbits have been taken in "wind-rising" drives during the past few weeks. More drives are being planned in several parts of the valley in which rabbits are more abundant.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT George Breazeal, Early Minidoka Area Pioneer, Has Had Long, Eventful Life

RUPERT, Dec. 27 — George O. Breazeal, early pioneer of the Minidoka project, recalls many interesting experiences of his long and eventful life.

Breazeal was born April 7, 1870, in Virginia. His ancestors had come to the United States from France in 1727, settling in Virginia. Descendants have lived there continuously since that time. He tells of recently sailing away from the old home place back there.

After he had grown up in Virginia, Breazeal went to Mississippi where he was engaged in business near Greenville. This operation was for draining and reclaiming swamp land for farm use.

After several years spent there, he came to Idaho in 1878, going first to the Bellevue area where he located an interest in some mining property and later to Mackay where he again engaged in mining.

In June, 1904, he filed on the farm south of Rupert where he made his home as a pioneer family and retired and moved into Rupert. He still owns the farm but rents it now.

In 1901, he married Estler Werry, daughter of a pioneer family at Bellevue. They raised three children. The eldest son, Lex, was adopted when his mother, a sister of Breazeal, died. Another son, Henry Breazeal, lives in Rupert and operates a real estate office. A daughter, Mrs. Esther May Jones, lives with her son in Pocatello where she teaches school. There are three grandchildren.

Mrs. Breazeal died in 1928. In 1929, Breazeal married Mrs. Lulu Murphy.

Breazeal has spent many years serving in one capacity or another in the community. He says he was never a farmer. When he first started to operate his farm, he didn't know how to plant potatoes and had to ask a neighbor to show him.

GEORGE O. BREAZEAL

He served 12 years as a director for the Minidoka Irrigation district, serving up until 1945.

He recalls that in the early days, when land was being prepared for farming, irrigation water was ready three years later than anticipated. Many people left because they lacked the funds to pay until they could raise a crop. After the farms were under irrigation, a large part of the land was sold to the government "sub" until fields were covered with water.

In order to raise money for a system of drainage ditches, the government raised the water cost from $2 per acre here to $4. He recalls quite a fight over this issue since the north part of the county did not have the problem and was reluctant to help bear the expenses of draining the water out of the land. This fight was settled, and times became better.

He recalls one year he raised potatoes, dug, sorted, sacked and loaded them on the train and was paid 27 cents a sack for them. He still feels lucky, as some of the growers did not sell their crop.

Breazeal pays tribute to the women of the early days, saying they really had a big share in the hardships and accomplishments of the pioneers. He recalls helping his wife take washing to the river banks. They would build a fire, heat water and wash. While there, they would all take baths.

Breazeal is almost 69 years old and expects to live to be 100. He is in good health, drives his own car and still takes an active interest in community and civic affairs. He is an active member in the Old Settlers organization.

More Housing Funds Plea to Get Objection

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—In an anti-recession move earlier this year, congress voted one billion dollars to buy mortgages on homes costing $13,500 or less. The idea was to encourage building of lower priced homes.

These funds have run out. Efforts will be made in this new session to get more money for this purpose. The Eisenhower administration, which took the initiative last spring—is likely to do so again.

The money went to the Federal National Mortgage association—called Fanny May, from its initials. This agency buys the mortgages and, in turn, sells them to private investors.

It deals in mortgages insured by the federal housing administration.

The idea of the program was not only to encourage builders—buying mortgages from them would give them more cash to use—but to encourage building particularly in the low-priced home field.

The billion dollar fund was run through last April over President Eisenhower's protest.

Already Fanny May has committed the full billion. When congress returns next month efforts will be made to get another billion for Fanny May to buy mortgages in the low-priced field.

But this week there were indications the Eisenhower administration may try to block this as part of its economy drive.

It was this week that Eisenhower announced his proposed budget for next fiscal year would be 77 billion dollars or about three billion less than is being spent this bookkeeping year, ending next June 30.

Such a budget reduction would require cutting some government programs, particularly eliminating others.

In a statement explaining the President's 77 billion goal, the White House said, "Reductions in total spending will be achieved in part by reason of the ending of temporary programs in agriculture, unemployment insurance, and housing."

Heading off another billion for Fanny May to use seems a likely economy target for the administration.

Old Poster Reminds Him of Tragedy

Samuel Perrins, long-time resident of Maple Valley, displays the Sells-Floto circus poster found in a building being razed in Twin Falls. When Perrins saw the circus perform here in 1927, a tiger escaped his cage, terrorized about 500 crowd members and killed a small child. Perrins was an eye-witness. As found by James Glinda. Old Poster Found in Building Serves To Remind Early Resident of Tragedy

Buildings often contain remnants of former times, as a circus poster advertising Sells-Floto circus found hidden in the walls of the Corey building, 333 Shoshone street south, was recently razed. It was a poster that simply tells of coming attraction and is of no particular importance, but it serves to remind some of the older residents of this area of a major tragedy that occurred in Twin Falls at Sells-Floto circus in 1927. At that time a Samuel Perrins, who was an eye-witness, saw a tiger escape from its cage, terrorized about 500 people and killed a young child. (Continued from page 12) There is sometimes a mistrust of others. The Rev. Mr. Blackstone believes this is the point where religion can assume a role in the resolution-making tradition. He points out that religion has a continuing concern in developing the individual and in offering the wisdom of the past to the new generation. He says, "It also unites us with others. We stimulate, influence and encourage each other to fulfill our promise to ourselves." The Rev. Mr. Blackstone believes that the capacity to accept help and counsel is often lacking in individuals according to the Rev. Mr. Blackstone.

Beaver Distribution Illustrated for Idaho Streams

Game Biologist Roger M. Williams points to shaded areas on map showing beaver distribution along Idaho's 4,600 stream miles. The total length and the portion that is subject to continual beaver damage complaints also are illustrated by game management areas enumerated I through V. Eastern Idaho's District V contains the smallest total stream mileage but has the largest amount of beaver complaint potential. The Primitive Area or District II is the largest in total stream length, yet only three per cent is subject to beaver damage to private property owned in the region. Beaver Protection in Remote Areas Is Termed Objective of Program in Idaho

By JIM HUMPHREY Idaho Fish and Game Department Beaver protection in remote mountain watersheds is a prime objective in the management program of the Idaho fish and game department, and that includes protection of the industrially light rodent from too many of his own kind. When the headwaters become over-colonized in the back country, available supplies of foodstuff such as willow and aspen bark become limited, forcing younger generations of the beaver population to migrate where they collide with civilization. Here their vigorous engineering work in the construction of mud-and-pole dams and homes is inimicable to the interests of their neighbors because it also floods arid lands, wrecks man-made ditches — and causes complaints. These increase geometrically with the size of beaver populations upstream. Coming generally from farm organizations and irrigation districts, the complaints are directed into the department and, on at least one occasion, to the state legislature. This led to a joint resolution or memorial from that august body which said in effect, "Do something about the beaver situation." It was during the first half of the 19th century that the beaver was all but exterminated, and he speculatively held its own for the ensuing 50 years in the now era of mining and homesteading. The first legislative act more than 50 years ago prohibited the trapping or killing of beaver for five years, but it is suspected that laws did not provide much actual protection, except for about one year in 1905, general beaver trapping has not been legal until the first general season in 1957. Recognizing the need for harvesting beaver pelts, the 1941 legislature passed the caretaker trapper law, which set up a system of trapping areas or allotments of beaver to be taken by designated individuals. These men also were responsible for "doing something" when damage complaints were received during off-seasons when beaver fur was not prime. The quota of beaver to be killed from each allotment area was approved by the fish and game commission each season on the basis of recommendations from local conservation officers. Pelts were sent to the department and were sold in large lots through fur auction companies. The state retained a portion of the net proceeds, and the remainder was remitted to the trapper as his compensation for operating the allotment.

The department's objectives in beaver management had evolved to the plateau where it remains today: (1) To keep populations at a low level in agricultural areas; (2) To remove surplus animals in the higher, forested watersheds to prevent depletion of the food supply and consequent downward migration into complaint areas; and (3) To transplant beaver to suitable drainage basins that are not naturally populated by the beaver. These aims recognize the damage beavers are capable of inflicting on man's developments, yet appreciate their beneficial effect in "back country" streams where their dams create fishponds, waterfowl nesting areas, habitats for other furbearers and the like. The operations of the allotment trappers, under supervision of local conservation officers, were designed to achieve these ends. This program was stabilized with about 65 permanent trappers in 1957, but continued as a beaver management project for the next 11 years. In 1968, the price of beaver pelt broke and trapping ceased to be a lucrative venture. Trappers were falling far short of the quota of beaver recommended for pelting and many of them resigned. If replacements could be found, they did not stay on the job much more than one season. Two approaches to the long-range solution of the beaver problem were taken. First, the department requested the legislature shorten the season, closing it on April 15 in all but the 13 counties of eastern Idaho, which continued open through May 31. The final analysis of last season's trapping has not been completed, but a preliminary tabulation indicates that the total catch probably will be close to 24,000 pelts. How the first open season affected the population of beaver pelting to date and a mid-season evaluation was made it appeared that an adequate harvest would be attained and the fish and game commission shortened the season, closing it on April 15 in all but the 13 counties of eastern Idaho, which continued open through May 31. Former North Star School Moved 42 Miles for Carey Church

The congregation of the Carey Presbyterian church organization just four years ago, held the Christmas program in their new church building, climaxing several years of work. The former North Star school, located at the mining camp at 25 miles, was purchased and moved the 42 miles from Triumph to Carey, moving the 25-by-55-foot building posed a problem but was solved with the cooperation of Blaine county commissioner. Approaches were graded to Wood river to bypass the east fork bridge which was too small for the building. Truck and school were towed through the river to bypass the major bottleneck. Carey Presbyterians Realize Dream - Of Remodeling Old North Star School

HAILEY, Dec. 27—A dream was realized by members of the Carey Presbyterian church when the Christmas program was held in the new church building Sunday evening. After organization of the church in Carey four years ago, with the Rev. Charles Shirk as pastor, members have met in various places. When Robert L. Larkin died he bequeathed $3,000 to be used toward a new church building. With this money and other donations, the church building commission purchased what was the "North Star school" located at the mining camp of Triumph. The problem of moving the 25-by-55-foot building from Triumph to Carey, a distance of some 42 miles, was encountered.

Declo Residents Report Activities

DECLO, Dec. 27—Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Jones and family, San Diego, spent Christmas with Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. John Palmer. Jones is in the navy stationed at San Diego. Sol Leonard is visiting in Dumas and Anastasio, Tex., during the holidays. Mrs. Annie Lynch has returned home from Kemmerer, Wyo., where she attended funeral services for her brother. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reeves and sons, Aberdeen, S. D., visited relatives in Declo Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Nile Porter and children, Boise, spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Anderson have gone to Phoenix, Ariz., to spend the holidays visiting Lee's aunt, Mrs. Margaret Toone.

The Cunningham House Moving service, Twin Falls, brought the building intact the six miles from the ranch home of Rupert House near Triumph. House had purchased the schoolhouse from the mining company and moved it to his ranch nearby. It was taken to the mouth of the east fork gulch and the bridge over Big Wood river. The bridge was too small for the schoolhouse, but Blaine county came to the rescue and graded approaches to the river just north of the bridge and furnished a tractor to pull the building and the truck across the stream. Spectators held their breath as the building swung to one side but it righted itself and came safely out on the other side of the stream. At several points where the telephone wires crossed the road it was necessary to lift them, and at one place they had to be disconnected. There were several other places wires were too low, so the roof was taken off the building. Although discouraged for a time members of the commission, Gilbert Cross, Les Green, Lionel Hutton, William Aiken and Mrs. Alf Billingsley, started on the work of rebuilding the church when it finally arrived at the lot the church had purchased. A new plank roof had been completed, windows installed and a gas heating unit is ready for use. Benches are being used for seating. When completed it will house a chapel, kitchen and two restrooms. An altar and pews and appropriate facilities for communion also are plans for the future. Roy Simpson, who lives next door, is allowing members to use his deep

Last Honor Paid To Mrs. Trappen

JEROME, Dec. 27—Rosary was recited for Mrs. Gertrude H. Trappen Monday night at the Crippin funeral chapel. Requiem mass was celebrated Tuesday at St. Jerome's church with the Rev. Bernard McBride officiating. Pallbearers were Charles Macshall, Ralph Dunn, Emmett Smith, Bob Bartholomew, Fred Webster and Mac Ambrose. Final rites were held in the Jerome cemetery.

Divorce Asked

Fred W. Mackey filed a divorce suit Friday in Twin Falls district court charging his wife with desertion. They were married Nov. 27, 1934, at Lovelock, Nev. He claims she deserted him on April 27, 1937. They have no children or community property. He is represented by May and May, Twin Falls law firm.

Everything Blurred? Good Sight Is Vital for Driving Car in Safety

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D. (Written for NEA Service) When driving a motor vehicle or walking near traffic, each of us is truly at the mercy of others. According to a recent article in the Sight-Saving Review, one car in 12 is involved in a serious crash each year. In fact the total of traffic deaths in the nation was in the neighborhood of 40,000. It may come as a surprise to some readers, but the rate was about twice as heavy in the rural areas as in the cities. About one-fifth of the road accidents involved children. The fatalities per mile driven at night are triple those of the daytime. Furthermore, night accidents are twice as likely to be fatal as those of the day. Although only one-third of all driving is done at night, two-thirds of the traffic deaths occur at this time. In the case of pedestrians, the night driving situation is even worse, since 70 per cent of those who die from traffic accidents are killed at night. There are many factors involved in traffic accidents. However, one of them is surely related to vision. Important as this is, a visual examination for renewal of a driver's license is required routinely in only 13 states. Even where this is done, the requirement for corrected vision with glasses varies considerably. No state yet tests for night vision or glare resistance, although in several states drivers are restricted to daylight hours if their vision is not adequately corrected. Progress is being made in this area. The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators recommends that the driver's license of those requiring glasses be stamped: "Must wear corrective glasses while driving." Turning again to night driving, the three most important visual factors involved are discrimination under conditions of poor illumination, ability to see against glare, and recovery from glare. The article suggests that tests for these faculties should be simplified and adapted for the driver's examination. Depending on what is found, some should be restricted to daylight driving. In other cases, glasses can be constructed and worn which effectively lessen disturbance from headlight glare. Another step which can be taken to reduce the hazards of night driving is by improvement in high lighting. Accidents preventable by good lighting cost the nation annually 10,000 lives and 187 million dollars, it was pointed out. While modernized lighting is expensive, it can be had at half the cost of a traffic accident. It can expedite pedestrian and motor traffic, increase property values, reduce crime, and promote better driving by older people. As one older the vision, both at night in the day, tends to deteriorate. Consequently, for the safety of drivers as well as others, regular examination of vision is particularly desirable.
