

Solon Points Out Senate's Early Action

Members given us. I think this type of "bipartisanship" will help us get our "work done."
The legislature was fully organized for business with the resumption of sessions this morning.
Both the house and senate completed their committee structures yesterday afternoon and were now ready to deal with legislation.
Bandelin was the leader in the pre-legislative fight to prevent the election of Sen. O. J. Buxton, D. Teton, as senate president pro tem. He led an unsuccessful fight to get the job for Sen. R. M. Wetherell, D. Elmore.
Bandelin's outburst against the leadership on the floor yesterday almost cost him a spot on the powerful state affairs committee. But in the end, Bandelin and his friends won out.
He was offered the chairmanship of the senate aeronautics committee, but declined and urged that it go to Sen. J. Reid Hogan, D. Franklin, a freshman legislator who defeated Tom Heath at the polls last November. But the leadership disregarded this and he wound up as head of the aeronautics group.
Whatever the reason, the senate speeded up its tempo in the late afternoon after a day of a series of recesses. Just before adjournment until 10 a. m. today—an hour later than the house will meet—the senate approved the so-called "feed bill."

This measure provided $353,404 for salaries of the legislators and other operating expenses of the present session. It was passed under emergency provisions requiring suspension of the rules. The bill, first one enacted by the 1958 session, was approved earlier in the day by the house.
Sen. Wetherell, chairman of the temporary senate rules committee, reported that his group has prepared some far-reaching amendments to the rules.
One of these provides that a motion of reconsideration of a vote by which a bill passed or was killed will be made on the following legislative day. Present rules allow such a motion to be made after proper notice—on the same or the following day.
Wetherell said also that the anti-job provision of the rules had been strengthened. The revision would require appearances before any committee of the senate of a member of a law firm which was a member or associate in either house of the legislature. Six attorney members in the senate would be affected, but not the house, which has nine attorneys among its membership.
In addition to its usual complement of committees, the house named two special or select committees. One was the select committee on elections, which will handle the primary election reform program urged by Gov. Robert E. Smylie in his biennial message. The other is the select committee on minority groups and Indian affairs.
Rep. Gregg Potvin, D. Power, assistant majority leader, was named chairman of the special elections committee. The minority and Indian affairs committee was headed by Rep. Joseph Gary, D. Benewah, who is president of the North American Indian Congress.

Rabbit Hunting Is Profitable Sport, Aids Control for Area

SHOSHONE, Jan. 8.—Strychnine bait is available at the county agent's office here for use in combating rabbits, reports J. Howard Manning, who notes that while the pests have caused much crop damage in the area, the fight to control them has been aided by rabbit hunting which has become a profitable sport with thousands of animals shipped by dealers from the county.
Bait mixed last month by the county agent and the fish and wildlife service under the direction of Owen Ellis, Twin Falls, will be distributed as far as possible.
If farmers wish to bring in their own hay, the county agent will assist with the mixing of the bait or the farmers may secure cans of the paste and mix their own.
Manning states that if the weather turns cold it will be an ideal time to put out the bait. Up to this time, baiting the rabbits hasn't been very successful as the rabbits could secure more choice food, he pointed out.
The state department of agriculture is giving special aid to counties which have a serious rabbit problem. Lincoln county is participating in that project.
Rabbits have done considerable damage to crops in the county, including volunteer grain or third crops of hay. In some instances, they have completely wiped out a field of crops.
Considerable aid has been given the farmers with their fight against the rabbits, however, and to the profit of those who participated.
Grogo Merritt, Shoshone, and Preston Page, Dierlich, have handled the sale of rabbits to the "Top of the World" fur farms, Laramie, where many thousands of rabbits have been shipped from Lincoln county.

Johnson Post Is Secure but Trouble Seen

By United Press International
At a time when Republican ranks are teeming with revolt, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's position as the leader of Senate Democrats was never more secure than now.
But only time will tell whether his leadership will be as effective as the head of a big majority as he was when the Democrats controlled the senate by only a couple of votes.
It is a long way since he was elected to the senate in 1948 by a margin of 87 votes out of a million cast in a runoff election.

Win Starts Johnson
That race, which earned him the name of "Landslide Lyndon," was the springboard for a spectacular career which even a 1955 heart attack could not dim.
But Johnson earned his laurels as one of the most successful floor leaders of modern senate history as a moderate and a master in the art of cloakroom compromising.
There is some question as to whether these particular qualities will be as important in the new senate. Another question, mark it, is Johnson's ambition, if any, in the presidential field. His name invariably figures in speculation about the 1960 candidates.

Politics Flare Inherited
The 49-year-old senate leader inherited his flare for politics. Both his father and grandfather were members of the Texas legislature. He first came to Washington as secretary of a congressman and struck up a valuable friendship with Speaker Sam Rayburn, a fellow Texan who already was a power in the house of representatives.
Johnson was elected a house member in 1937, running as new conservative aspirants. This earned him the also-valuable friendship of President Roosevelt.

Since 1955, one of his biggest problems has been to curb a natural hard-driving pace to somewhere near the work limits fixed by his doctors.

Explaining of School's Move Is Challenged

REXBURG, Jan. 8 (AP)—Rexburg civic interests yesterday challenged an explanation offered by Brigham Young University President Ernest L. Wilkinson which explained the reasons for moving Ricks college from here to Idaho Falls.

In a statement Tuesday, Wilkinson said church officials changed their minds after first deciding to leave the school here partly because of misleading information about the availability of student housing.

The report said that Wilkinson did not consider the original decision to leave Ricks here, a permanent decision, "why he allowed a representative of Ricks college to encourage the people of Rexburg . . . to invest large sums of money in student housing during the past summer and fall."

"Why didn't he have the school at least slow-down the off-campus housing drive?" the report asked.

Atom Blasts Will Release Oil Store

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 8 (UPI)—A bureau of mines official predicts that atomic explosions will be used to release oil from rich shale deposits within a few months.
Richard M. Gooding, assistant chief petroleum engineer for the bureau, outlined a plan for atomic tests at a meeting of oil and gas company representatives and atomic energy commission officials which ended here yesterday.
Gooding said the cost of the first experiment probably will be shared half-and-half by private industry and the federal government.

Rates Changed

OLYMPIA, Jan. 8 (AP)—Automobile liability insurance rates jumped up an average of 3 1/2 per cent for nearly a third of Washington's motorists yesterday.
Reductions averaging more than 10 per cent were ordered for material damage (comprehensive and collision) rates.

Extremely cold weather canceled the fires last Saturday. (Staff photo-engraving)

Yule Tree Bonfires, Canceled By Cold Spell, Slated Saturday

Christmas tree bonfires postponed last Saturday because of severe cold are scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday, according to sponsoring Jaycees.

Crews from the city parks and recreation department have completed picking up trees to be fired Saturday for the anticipated 1,200 youngsters who generally participate.

The bonfire in South Park will be directly across the bridge, just south of the Bishop lumber company; the Dairy park fire will be near the drill tower; Harmon park, on Elizabeth boulevard side; Harrison park, Tyler street side, and the last fire, across from the LDS stakehouse on Maurice street north.

Youngsters are reminded that they must bring their own wiener roasting sticks to the fire. Three hundred pounds of wieners, 1,200 buns and quantities of mustard are being provided by Okay stores, Jack and Jeans bakery, Albertson stores, Wonder break bakery, Independent Meat company and Carter packing company, Buhl. The Twin Falls Feed and Ice company has provided storage, and the fire department will assist Jaycees in manning the fires.

About twenty-five Jaycees will be needed, says Chairman Ransom Brown, who asked Jaycees to meet at the Drury park site at 1 p.m. for their assignment.

"Youngsters who do not have sticks are apt to be disappointed, as the food may all be given out before they are able to borrow any equipment," stated Brown. "There have been as many as 1,500 youngsters at these fires, and the wieners don't last long."

Russian Seeks 4-Power Meet, U. S. Believes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The United States has told its main European allies that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan appears to be seeking a four-power conference on Germany sometime this spring.

But the state department has cautioned that Mikoyan has put forward nothing new which promises successful negotiation.

Main Points Told
The main points of a summary of Mikoyan's confidential talks with Secretary of State Dulles and Vice President Nixon have been given to ambassadors of Britain, France, Italy, and West Germany.

These were:
1. The Soviet plan to turn East Berlin over to the East German red puppet regime by June should not be viewed as a six-month ultimatum. Mikoyan hinted this could be extended.

2. The Soviet Union could be interested in four-power talks this spring on a German peace treaty as well as the future of Berlin. But this was coupled with a reiteration of the Kremlin view that reunification should be left to the East and West Germans to work out for themselves.

Veto Power Wanted
3. Veto power for the Soviets is a firm condition to Kremlin acceptance of an East-West organization that would seek to enforce a ban on atomic-hydrogen weapons tests.

4. The Soviet's much ballyhooed campaign for more American trade has played a minor role in Mikoyan's Washington talks. He may make more of this, however, when he returns from sounding out American industrialists on his flying visit to major American cities.

Atom Submarine Liners "Possible"

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8 (AP)—Atomic submarine liners with speeds of 60 mph on long hauls have been visualized by the navigator of the Nautilus.

Lieut. Commander J. R. H. who chartered the Nautilus in its voyage under the polar ice pack and across the North Pole, forecast rapid commercial passenger and cargo shipping under the sea.

It is entirely feasible that commercial use be made of the atomic submarine in the future, he said at a news conference at 12th naval district headquarters.

He said atomic submarine ocean liners could travel from Japan to England in six days and across the Atlantic in 72 hours.

The sub's commercial passenger service is technically possible now, but not yet practical commercially.

Reds Deny Revolt Of Mongol People

MOSCOW, Jan. 8 (UPI)—The Soviet Tass news agency last night denied reports of uprisings in Mongolia and their suppression by Soviet troops.

Tass said the reports appeared in New Zealand papers and were based on a statement by a Nationalist Chinese government official. It called the reports a "crude invention" and "fool's slander."

Meeting Held

RICHFIELD, Jan. 8—Geneology meeting was held at the Richfield LDS church with George Coates, chairman of the ward committee, in charge.

Prayers were offered by Frank Growthers and Wendell King. Speakers were Clifford Ward on Temple work and Dick Adamson, Carey, on research in Scotland. Sandra Hubbsell, Kay Flavel, Wilma Weimer, Patricia Johnson, and Linda Patterson, Junior Gleaner group, sang.

He Won't Last

LONDON, Jan. 8 (UPI)—Columnist Peterborough in the Daily Telegraph today tells the story of the bright Russian child who was "a year ahead of the other children in his class."

When asked by the school inspector to name the large, biggest factors in the Soviet union, the boy replied: "Brezhnev, Malenkov and Khrushchev."

Navy Pilot Saved From Ocean Raft

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 8 (UPI)—A navy flier who spent 14 hours on a life raft after his plane crashed in the Pacific ocean was rescued yesterday.

Lieut. Cmdr. W. L. Armstrong, 35, Chula Vista, Calif., attached to San Diego naval air station, was reported in good condition although suffering from exposure. He was rescued 20 miles south of here by a navy helicopter team, one of 20 aircraft crews participating in the search.

Record Cost Seen

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 8 (AP)—Cost of paying lawmakers and legislative employees this session will come close to a record half-million dollars.

This was learned here on the second day of the 36th Montana legislature, when the "feed bill" was introduced by Rep. Lloyd Barnard Valley.

By sending a rocket beyond the earth's gravitational pull and into orbit around the sun, the Soviet Union has shown the world that the race for outer space is a sharpening struggle.

RUSSIA'S 'MOON SHOT'

The Russians, to be sure, missed their primary goal, which was to put the rocket into a path around the moon. But they fired their shot farther from the earth than any other man-made space object has ever traveled.

There can be no question that this is another major advance in the conquest of space, and that it is a victory the Russians felt they badly needed.

The world has widely hailed America's success in hurling into orbit the huge, talking Atlas missile. More than any other thing we have done in the space field, this persuaded millions abroad that we were abreast of our rugged communist competitors.

The "moon shot" coming at this time is an obvious Soviet effort to recapture propaganda advantage. Russia lives by threats.

It was abundantly clear to Premier Khrushchev that tough Soviet talk here or anywhere would be discounted so long as the talking Atlas was orbiting unanswared.

It does indicate that the striving for that extra advantage is intense. Little more than two weeks elapsed between our latest leap into space and the Russians'.

The Russian achievement only underscores that we cannot rest for an instant in this race. We must press on at all levels, from the fundamental education of our youth to the special concentrations that will keep America thrusting successfully toward the outer reaches of space.

It would be wonderful if what the Russians have done could be greeted purely as a scientific marvel promising benefit to all mankind. But hostile communism's goals of conquest give all of its triumphs overtones of peril for free men.

With those frightening reservations in mind, the world acknowledges another great thrust by adventuring man into the mysteries of the unknown.

The last general election clearly indicated a marked change in political trends. Observers who watch the political scene closely see more and more signs of the changes that are coming about.

What's happening in Kane county, Illinois, serves as a good example. This particular county, adjacent to Chicago to the northwest, was once a Republican stronghold by more than three-to-one.

But the postwar development and expansion have given birth to many new communities of small and medium-priced ramblers. Besides narrowing the farms and fields for hunting and dairying, they have brought in many young families, who do not want to confine their children to crowded apartments.

As a result, although still Republican, the Democrats have got the former GOP margin to less than two-to-one. Most of the new, young residents are Democrats, and their precinct workers are ambitious lawyers and businessmen in their thirties.

The majority of their Republican opposites are older by about 20 years, with a different and more conservative outlook than that of the thousands of newcomers.

TV comedian Jackie Gleason, putting the epitaph of his own show, spoke some words that have much broader application than just in his ballcock.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Even fairly full recovery from the convalescing recession will not result in maximum employment—or the recall of millions of industrial workers laid off in 1952, according to federal forecasts for the New Year.

The reason for this paradoxical situation is that manufacturers are replacing men and women with machines in order to cut labor costs.

Our high-priced commodities cannot compete with those made abroad. Cut-throat competition from Russia and China—politico-economic "dumplings" as a "cold war" weapon—also cuts down our foreign markets.

It has been estimated officially that this four billion dollar reduction represents the loss of at least 200,000 jobs, possibly more.

STRIKES ANOTHER FACTOR—According to still unreleased federal findings, high wages have led to an unprecedented expenditure in the last six months of 1952 on labor-saving machinery in industry, mining, transportation and on the waterfront.

Strikes that paralyze production and transportation, such as the airline walkouts during the recent holiday season, have been another factor in what amounts to a new industrial revolution.

CUTS PAYROLLS—Although the original price of highly complicated and automatic machinery may be heavy, the extra expenditure is eventually overcompensated for by a permanent reduction in the size and cost of personnel and payrolls.

RAISE IN UNEMPLOYMENT—With a working force estimated at 65 million (manufacturing, mining, agriculture, transportation, services and trades), it has been the official and generally accepted belief that five per cent unemployment—about 3,250,000—constituted a fairly normal and endurable situation.

OLDER PEOPLE HIT—Another unfortunate result is that this mechanization of American industry—machines against men—will operate to the grievous disadvantage of older workers.

DEALING WITH GOVERNMENT—Pocatello again has been brought face to face with the prospect of losing the government installation that has been for several years a substantial contributor to its economy.

The big naval ordnance plant, sprawling over 210 acres, which the government reared in 1941 and 1942 at this southeast Idaho center to meet a wartime emergency, is one of 30 shore establishments which the navy now announces are to be "disestablished" shortly.

Now it is to be closed down, and all but 80 of the 448 persons presently on its payroll must find other employment before next July 1.

What is not the first time the Pocatello plant has been slated for the discard. Some months ago interested Idahoans talked with navy brass in Washington and were given some sort of assurance that full use of the Pocatello facility was planned through next June.

Now it is to be closed down, and all but 80 of the 448 persons presently on its payroll must find other employment before next July 1.

PISSASSO'S 'DIRTY JOKE'—The United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization has many problems, but right now its collective blood pressure is up because of a newly painted mural in the Paris headquarters.

UNESCO commissioned Pablo Picasso to do the mural and paid him $10,000 for the job. A Chicago Daily News dispatch from Paris says members of UNESCO's art commission thought they were getting a bargain until they saw the mural. Then they pronounced it a "dirty joke."

The picture contains three semi-human figures and another four-pronged spider-like figure which Picasso may have meant to represent a human being or "Leucis descending from the heavens."

Our sympathies go out to UNESCO's art commission which is stuck with 100 square feet of mural that defies interpretation. But a nagging question which defies answer is why the art commission chose Mr. Picasso to do the mural in the first place.—Salt Lake Tribune.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—What can come out of the "private" visit of Anastas Mikoyan conducted in the full glare of bursting flash bulbs and grinding newsreel cameras is hard to say.

But, at the very least, a shrewd observer with the full confidence of Nikita Khrushchev will have had an opportunity to know at first-hand the American position not only on Berlin but on the whole range of issues separating the two sides in the cold war.

He will have a look, too, at American industry and that will be a gain. Mikoyan has never let his ideological commitments get in the way of the facts and he can gauge for himself the strength of America's great industrial machine.

He also will be promoting trade and he may ask again for credits from this country to finance an expanded volume of trade. If he is turned down he will turn his failure to propaganda, as he did when this country rebuffed the overtures he made last fall.

Congressional leaders were told at the White House and state department briefings that the Russians have not made known the real reason for the visit. But the visitor will surely not keep this secret for very long.

Interest in Europe in the mission of Mikoyan to the United States is intense. The speculation ranges from the possibility of a "deal" to be worked out between the two powers, which is absurd on the face of it, to the idea that Mikoyan hopes to get approval for a four-power meeting so that he can return and hold out to the 21st party congress the promise of a peaceful settlement.

Mikoyan is irrepressible. This reporter talked with him last summer in Moscow. At that time he was negotiating with an important West German trade delegation headed by Krupp's No. 1 man, Berthold Beltz.

"If your country doesn't want to trade with us the Germans do," Mikoyan told me. "They are here now. They are prepared to do business."

The report current in Moscow was that the deal negotiated with Krupp involved far more than was publicly announced. European trade rivals were convinced that the West Germans had stonewalled a march by signing up a secret, far-reaching agreement for extensive trade in the future between the two countries.

One of his important stops on his American tour has been in Cleveland where he was to be the guest of Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton. Eaton said he intended to get together a group of leading industrialists to hear Mikoyan's proposals for expanded trade.

He said, too, that he will explore ways to find the dollars by which the Russians can expand their purchases in this country. This is in accord with his conviction that expanded trade with Russia and

Rayburn, 77, Again Named Demo Leader

By United Press International. He is known in some quarters as "Mister Democrat" or "Mister Sam." But most of the public knows Sam Rayburn as speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives. He has been given the job again at the age of 77.

Rayburn has led the Democratic party in the house since Sept. 16, 1940, but his activities as speaker are relatively few when placed alongside his 46 years of service in congress. That's quite a record for a country boy, born in the hills of Tennessee and reared on a cotton farm in Texas.

Politics Is His Work. Politics is Rayburn's lifetime work. He campaigned by horseback to win election to the Texas legislature at the age of 24. Seven years later—in 1913—he came to congress and he's been there ever since.

He spends most of his time when congress is not in session on his 400-acre farm near Bonham, Tex., not far from the original 40-acre family homestead.

Rayburn is used to the hard work that comes with the job as speaker. He worked his way through East Texas Normal college sweeping floors at $3 a month.

Now he earns $45,000 a year and rides around in a chauffeured limousine that comes with the job.

Rayburn's trademark is his bald head and his scalp serves as a political barometer—if flushed, the danger signal is showing.

His relaxed leadership is considered one of the reasons for his success, because he does not scatter his shots or waste his ammunition on minor matters. When he goes jump into the fray, the cry goes up through the lobbies and corridors, "Rayburn's up," and Democrats and Republicans alike hurry into the chamber to hear him.

He is one of the few congressmen who have the trust of both the Northern and Southern wings of the party and his leadership has been credited with preserving party unity in the past.

That talent is expected to be tested to the full this session.

NIXON 'BLAMED' In GOP Change. WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—Vice President Nixon is getting the credit or blame—whether he deserves either or not—for being the decisive influence behind some changes in the Republican party.

Rep. Joseph Martin, Massachusetts, who has been ousted as house minority leader, pointed a finger at Nixon's direction in accounting for his defeat by Rep. Charles A. Halleck, Ind.

Asked if the vice president had a hand in bringing about his overthrow, Martin replied, "All I know is that his people were against me."

Martin went on to say that some White House aides had met a month ago with Halleck and implied they were against his reelection because "I was a little more independent than I should be—of them."

Making, Breaking Resolution

Is Best Industry Right Now

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—America's leading manufacturing industry at this time of year is in the making and breaking of resolutions.

Children, first before Christmas, are as good as they can be. But most adults wait until New Year's to start their reform waves. As soon as Santa Claus disappears over the horizon, children start acting worse, and their parents start acting better.

At least their male parents do. That is an odd thing about the making of new-year-resolutions. It is pretty much of a masculine delusion. The thought that her conduct might need a yearly overhaul is unthinkable to the average strong-minded woman.

But this is a rough time for a wife just the same. It is hard for the lady of the house to adjust to the master of the house when he ceases to regard himself as one of nature's noblemen and decides he is, in fact, pretty much of a bum.

"Yep, that's all I am, just a bum," he tells himself in self-pity. "And not even a good bum. I'm a bum bum. I don't see how you've put up with me all these years."

Listening to this is pretty painful to a wife. But even more painful is having to put up with her abject hero during the halo-wearing period that follows.

He is going to do so many things to improve himself and lead a better life. He is going to give up smoking and drinking and poker playing. He is going to quit borrowing money and start living within his means. He is going to concentrate on his own work and quit telling the boss how to run the office. He is going to be kinder to the children and help his wife more with household chores.

Yes, he is going to improve himself in a hundred ways. And for a while he does.

His strange, martyr-like behavior is unenviable to all around him—friends, enemies, wife and children. Even the family dog wonders what came over him.

Mother is kind of worried too. In the week since father mused on leading her a hand in the kitchen, he has burned himself twice, broken four plates and a cup and thrown out three pieces of silver-ware in the garbage.

But by the end of the second week at most father himself breaks a self-imposed code that would bore an angel in heaven. As his rise to virtue was dramatic, so is his fall.

There comes a morning when he refuses to leap out of bed and do deep knee bends. He has two pieces of toast again, his old quota, instead of one.

That night when he returns from work he mixes himself a martini, lights up a cigar, feeds the dog off the sofa, and lets down himself.

He tells Junior to do his own homework and quit looking to him for help. He informs his wife "Don't ask me to take you any place tomorrow night because I am, I'm playing poker."

The tension that has clipped the house for two weeks immediately disappears. Mother and Junior look at each other and smile. Even the broken four plates and a cup and

McLemore Family Faces Big Job of Picking Refrigerator

By HENRY McLEMORE

One of the major problems our family must face up to in 1959 is the selection of a new refrigerator.

In no field have such giant strides been taken as in household refrigeration. From a simple box, with an ice chest on top and a drip pan underneath—the refrigerator—now challenges the space missile for complexity and the gothic cathedral for beauty.

Some of the best brains in the country have gone into the perfection of the refrigerator. It has been said that our nuclear program would be far ahead of that of the Russians had not so much talent been poured into the design of revolving egg trays, pop-out cubes and compartments which keep everything from shoe polish to cole slaw at precisely the right temperature.

There is tremendous rivalry in the refrigerator business. Each manufacturer stays up all night, with an ice pack on his head, trying his best to out-do this competitor. If one another comes back with a secret drawer where personal valuables may be stored at near-freezing temperature.

No sooner does one refrigerator boast of an invisible tray for holding milk bottles, than another tops it with a section where two whole cows, a saddle of venison, and up to three visiting relatives can be stored indefinitely.

To choose the one with the most amazing advantages is indeed a job that calls for family consultation after consultation. And argument after argument.

The husband being a great letter writer, wants the one with the device for storing up to 10,000 steaks and the automatic stamp-ticker. The wife, being a real housewife, wants the one with the endless egg-bell, which is always out of sight, but holds up to 50 dozen eggs.

With us, all difficulties were only half solved when the make of refrigerator is chosen. Then will come the selection of color and trim.

Shall it be in turquoise and of the direction period or in deep coral and ivory? Or would Catalin—coral of the federal period—a best with our living room draperies and window seat?

Our new refrigerator is going in the living room of course. Who would think of putting such a handsome piece in the kitchen, with its steam mops and towels against it?

It will be far and away the most decorative object in our entire house. Already we see that we are going to get a new sofa and coffee table to live up to the refrigerator and all its dazzling beauty.

The one we have in mind is as big as an ice palace. Sonja Herie and her troupe would feel perfectly at home inside it. Think of all the foodstuff we are going to have to buy to overcrowd it.

And overcrowd it we must, for who ever heard of a refrigerator that wasn't?

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 8 (AP)—An armed B26 Cuban bomber flew within striking distance of the missile test center on Cape Canaveral to land here New Year's day and never was challenged by U. S. air defense, the Daytona Beach Morning Journal said today.

They said they knew how to fly the "U.S. airways," apparently meaning the authorized route up the east coast.

First Lieut. Chester J. Loewe, public information officer at Dobbins air force base, said neither the 32nd air division nor the log of the 660th aircraft control and warning squadron, MacDill air force base, Fla., contained information on the plane.

Cost of Living Rise Shown

1947-49 100

The cost of living level in the U.S. is shown in the newsmap. What the level will do in 1959, experts say, depends much on the consumer. If he buys heavily at any cost, prices will go up. If he waits for better deals the prediction is prices will stay relatively stable.

Cost of Living to Depend on What Consumer Does in 1959

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (NEA)—Surprise: In December 1958, the dollar bill likely will buy only two cents less worth of goods than now. That is an average of the guesses by top government and private economists here. Some think the cost of living will go up only one per cent. Some figure a three per cent rise. Of course, many goods are going up a lot more than this, but the overall average will be pulled down by a dip in farm-food prices.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce interviewed businessmen throughout the country. Almost half the industrialists interviewed believe the goods they make will go up. Most other businessmen—except bankers—believe their goods or services wouldn't.

Actually what happens depends on John Q. Consumer. The consumer has a great deal of power in his hands this year, say the economists. According to his whim, he can keep prices down; or he can force them up.

If he buys heavily at whatever the cost, simply because he has the money or credit, prices will go up. If he waits for a better deal, prices will stay relatively stable.

John Q. has the choice this year because he has the money in his pockets and he has enough of many of the things he needs to get by on for another year.

He can buy a car or put it off for a while. The same is true of a home, or a washing machine, or a new TV set. He's in the driver's seat. Producers will be in a position—in 1959—to meet John Q.'s wishes. They will be able to hold prices steady if they have to, say the economists. Efficiency is rising. Earnings are good. These experts say it may be a fight, but they insist manufacturers could hold the line. It all depends on you, the consumer.

The estimated two per cent rise in prices is what Washington economists—on the average—think John Q. will stand for in his present mood.

If they've estimated the consumer's determination incorrectly—if he is willing to buy and buy in 1959—their predictions go out the window. Inflation will be here in a hurry.

As the economists figure it, there should be a no-inflation breathing spell in the next six months. They believe the average of all prices should "hold pretty steady," with a modest gradual rise in industrial goods almost wholly offset by the decline in food prices for the first half of the year.

Increasing output as the U.S. swings out of the recession is bringing higher efficiency. So are the new machines businesses have bought during the past three years at a rapid rate.

New union demands for higher wages should be comparatively light during the first half of the year.

Company profits will be rising. There will thus be only light pressure for higher prices. But they'll likely crawl up gradually, nevertheless.

The second half of 1959 will be somewhat different.

There will be heavy union demands for higher wages. The decline in agricultural prices will have tied out. Government deficit spending will continue.

Best guess: A four billion dollar deficit for calendar 1959. (When President Eisenhower forecast a balanced budget "next year," he was referring to the July 1, 1959-June 30, 1960 fiscal year.) There'll be shortages of some materials and a bidding up of prices of some raw materials.

These things add up to one conclusion: A slow, steady increase in the cost of living for everyone.

What about the strong inflation that a good many people have been talking about? Is it gone?

Not say the economists. But 1959 will be a year of taking up the slack. The time to watch is along about mid-1960 and 1961. Then the pressure for inflation may get real heavy.

The stock markets are already anticipating that inflationary rise. Money is fleeing from mortgages which don't protect investors from a decline in the value of the dollar.

Instead, many men with money are putting their funds in stocks, which rise with inflation. These men believe that if the dollar goes down, then their stocks will go up at least enough to make up for the dollar's decline, and perhaps a little bit more.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 8 (AP)—A sign on a Pittsburgh restaurant reads: "All you can eat for 69 cents." A customer decided it was quite a bargain.

He will get only one dinner each night—for free.

Court Having Trouble With Will Sentence

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 8 (AP)—The court had trouble understanding a Pennsylvania Dutchman when he says, "Throw the cow over the fence some cabbage."

But some of this kind of idiom is a bit more complicated. The Pennsylvania supreme court was asked yesterday to interpret just one sentence of it.

The sentence, without punctuation, was written Oct. 6, 1944, and says:

"Edward J. Ackerman wishes at the time of my death that everything excepted two thousand dollars should go to Helen Schmeig the rest to the Ackerman trust estate."

Meaning Disputed

It was written by Ackerman, a Pittston, Pa., grocer, on the back of a bank deposit slip and has been accepted as his will. What it means is in dispute.

The orphans court, Luzerne county, ruled the will said all of Ackerman's estate should go to Helen Schmeig, except for the sum of $2,000 which should go to the trust estate.

The beneficiaries of the trust estate, Ackerman's three brothers and a sister, contend the will says they should get all of the estate except $2,000 and that this sum should go to Helen Schmeig.

Estate Valued

Thirteen years after the will was written, Miss Schmeig became Ackerman's wife. His estate is estimated at between $20,000 and $45,000.

Counsel for the brothers and sister, attorney William B. Valentine of Wilkes-Barre, said in his brief submitted to the state supreme court, "There is an old saying that you must take a Dutchman by what he means rather than by what he says."

The court, the case under consideration took.

Fine Arts Are Topic of Buhl PTA Meeting

BUHL, Jan. 8.—"Can we make room for fine arts in our curriculum?" was the topic presented at the Buhl PTA meeting Monday night at the F. H. school.

Mrs. Janet Latham, representative of the high school, defined fine arts as those phases of art whose chief purpose is to express or interpret the feeling of beauty. She said fine arts taught in high school included literature, history, music, drama, social dance in physical education, mechanical drawing in industrial arts.

It was pointed out there is no real art course offered in the high school which would include drawing.

Lee Poppelwell, representative from the junior high school, listed literature, music and drama as the fine arts in that school.

Mrs. C. O. Linecum listed music, dance in physical education and literature taught in the Lincoln school. Lucille Huston listed art, music and literature taught in the F. H. school.

In the opinion of the educators more time must be set aside to make room for additional fine arts. He said to inject these additional courses into the present system is a sacrifice of normal preparatory education must be made.

The meeting was in charge of Boyd Rolfe, president. Invocation was given by Rufus Fields. Ephraim Hackett led the group singing. The program was introduced by Mrs. Lorna Anderson, co-chairman.

Mrs. Earl Allen reported that the PTA Cub Scout pack had 29 boys and had raised its own finances last year through a carnival. It also was reported there will be no campaign to solicit funds, but the money raised in the Scout campaign will be kept in the West end.

Dr. Charles Marsh invited all interested in singing to attend the choral group at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Buhl high school.

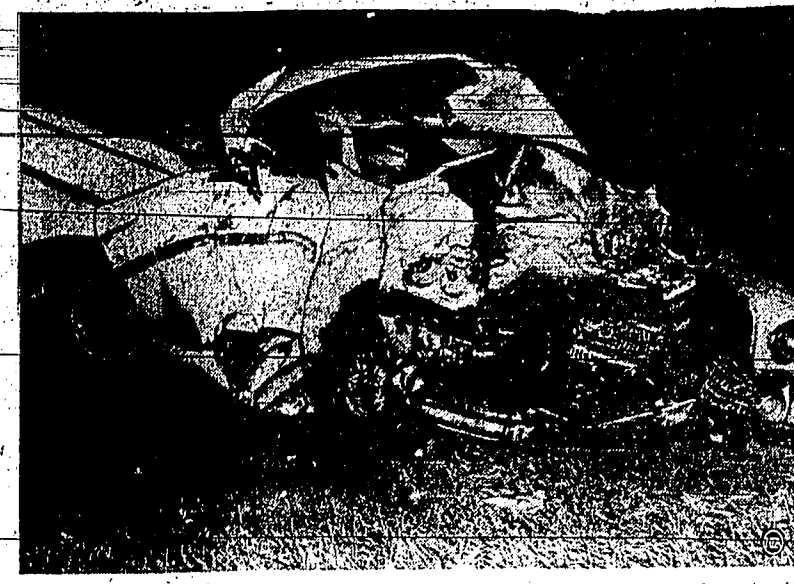

Refreshments were served by the third grade room mothers. Mrs. Garth Atwood, Mrs. James T. Shields, Mrs. Dwan Machecek and Mrs. Tom Holmes.

Marines Cleared

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., Jan. 8 (AP)—The marine corps yesterday dismissed charges against two marine sergeants accused of mistreating recruits from Ohio and accepting payoff money from them.

A third sergeant, Ralph A. J. Grant of Racine, Wis., was cleared of similar charges by a general court-martial last month.

Drivers' Mental Attitudes Checked

Medical researchers are seeking to find if the mental attitude of drivers is responsible for automobile wrecks like the above, in which six members of one family were killed.

Medical Research Specialists Start Probe of Auto Mishaps

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Medical researchers are seeking to find if the mental attitude of drivers is responsible for automobile wrecks like the above, in which six members of one family were killed.

Northwestern university is conducting a long-range project which calls for a physician, engineer and psychologist to investigate certain traffic accidents in the Chicago area. A thorough analysis will be made of their findings to determine both mechanical and "human failures" that play the biggest part in accidents.

What this study reveals about the general health of smash-up victims will be anxiously awaited by doctors who believe the unknown causes of collisions may prove to be physical as well as mental.

These specialists believe that studies should be made to find out

Recent accident statistics show that 80 per cent of all traffic smash-ups are caused by faulty driving. Many doctors, however, view reckless acts like speeding, improper passing, and driving on the wrong side of the road as merely symptoms of the mechanized disease killer.

They believe that the real causes eventually will be found hidden in a driver's mental makeup. It has been strongly suspected for some time that negative attitudes or intense emotions, like fear and anger, cause people to have accidents.

But the exact role which these states of mind play in the annual highway bloodbath is not known. To find out, scientists have established numerous research projects which specialize in probing the minds of American motorists.

A battery of psychological tests is being given by experts of the University of Colorado's medical school to about 4,000 Denver high school students in an effort to learn how to locate potentially dangerous drivers before they ever get behind a steering wheel.

Psychologists are especially eager to find out if one of these tests uncovers the same information concerning the school kids as it did about several air force enlisted men.

When given to the military personnel in an earlier study, the test revealed that the safe drivers were usually very religious and had relatively little interest in subjects dealing with art, music or drama. Just the opposite was true of men who had committed one or more traffic violations.

The Harvard medical school is thoroughly studying the life histories of another group of adolescents to find out what significant differences exist between safe and reckless drivers.

Other studies have shown that accident repeaters are often people who have deep-seated feelings of hostility. They have also revealed that aggressive tendencies, tenseness and fear of criticism are major factors.

Driver Is Injured In Truck Mishap

RUPERT, Jan. 8.—Condition of William Muniz, Burley, injured Tuesday night in an accident north of Burley on highway 21, was reported as "good" Thursday noon by an attendant at the Cottage hospital, Burley.

State Patrolman Roy Thomas, Rupert, reported Muniz, driving a 1953 Ford pickup truck, was traveling north from Burley on highway 21 and started to make a left turn off the highway at Alfresco corner.

The patrolman said lights from an oncoming vehicle blinded Muniz and he was swung into a ditch. The truck went over a 20-foot drop into a drain ditch. Muniz received severe lacerations of the head and face and possible back injuries, the patrolman reported. The pickup was demolished.

U. S. Farmers Set New Record

American farmers, blessed by good weather and aided by modern technology, last year produced the biggest crops in U.S. history, 11 per cent more than the previous record year of 1957. Wheat and corn, the biggest crops, showed marked gains even though they were planted on the least acreage since 1918, 320 million acres. Production records were set for eight crops: wheat, corn, soybeans, barley, sorghum grain, hay, popcorn and tung nuts. Fourteen other crops chalked up new highs for acreage yield. Corn yielded 51.7 bushels an acre last year compared with 47.1 in 1957. Wheat yields were 27.3 bushels an acre compared with 21.7 in 1957.

Food Shopper To Find Array Of Meat Buys

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 — Food shoppers will find a fairly wide array of meats at food counters this week.

Meats at many markets will be round and chuck roasts, steaks, pork loins, chops, bacon, hams and the ever-popular broiler-fryers. Other protein foods bearing very favorable price tags will be eggs and dairy products.

Potatoes Are Plentiful

Although vegetable bins offer fewer selections than recently, there will be ample supplies of potatoes for stick-to-the-ribs cold weather meals, green peppers, lettuce, celery, carrots, onions, cauliflower, tomatoes and cabbage. Canned tomato products also will be good buys.

In fruit, apples continue a headliner. Oranges and tangerines, along with grapefruit, will be excellent choices, too. Many markets will feature winter pears, bananas and avocados.

Best fish buys include shrimp, fish steaks and canned tuna.

That's the overall food picture for the nation. Now, for the situation in this particular area, here's more detail for the food shopper:

Western Picture Told

West — (Arizona, California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming)

Consumers will find eggs an excellent buy in most markets this week-end. Supplies are plentiful and prices are sharply lower than a week ago. Egg prices are down most five to seven cents a dozen in California markets; nine to three to six cents a dozen cheaper in the Northwest.

Red meat prices are mostly unchanged from a week ago. Pork is in generally good supply, beef and lamb supplies are adequate, and calf and veal continue in light supply.

In Los Angeles, where retail clerks are on strike, distribution of meats has been severely reduced.

Butter Supply Is Ample

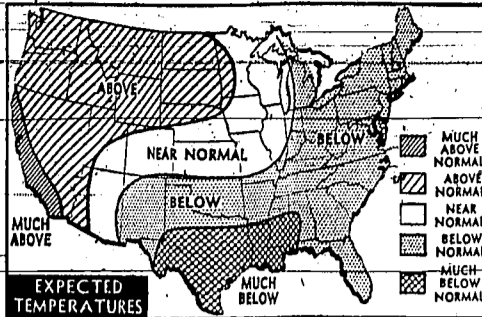

Butter supplies are ample and unchanged in price, except for a reduction of one cent a pound in the Los Angeles area. Supplies of poultry are ample for the demand, with prices about unchanged from a week ago. Fruits and vegetables in plentiful supply include navel oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, apples, cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce and celery.

In good supply are lemons, avocados, broccoli, yellow onions, russet potatoes and tomatoes.

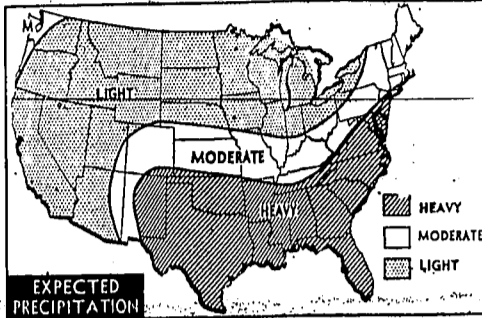

Among the best buys in fish are dumgeness crabs, rockfish, salmon, halibut and oysters.

Weather Picture

Weather maps below show the U.S. weather bureau's 30-day forecast for the month of January. It is not a specific forecast in the usual sense, but an estimate of average temperatures and precipitation for the period.

Thirty-day temperature outlook for January calls for below seasonal normals over the eastern third of the nation, southern plains and Gulf coast. Above normal is indicated for the northern plains and areas west of the continental divide. Elsewhere, near normal temperatures are the prospect.

Precipitation during January, frequently in the form of snow and sleet, is expected to be heavy over the southern half of the nation lying east of the continental divide and in the Middle Atlantic states. Light to moderate amounts are anticipated over the remainder of the country.

Interested in Stock Market? Beware of New York Phonies

NEW YORK (NEA) — Within the next 12 months, Americans will lose $150,000,000 to phony stock market operators.

Almost every sucker will be a non-New Yorker; and almost every swindler will be a New Yorker. The attorney general of New York and the federal government's securities exchange commission — armed with law and force — will make like progress against what the stock market calls "boiler room" operations.

These are the unhappy conclusions of Albert C. Lasher, veteran financial observer and reporter, whose detailed and first-hand findings in this swindle are soon to be released.

"The only protection," Lasher said, "is an informed stock-buying public. But from the looks of the situation, the con artists in the boiler rooms know that the public will not be informed—does not want to be informed."

It is a logical conclusion, Lasher's report shows that the people most often victimized are doctors, dentists, clergymen, businessmen—people who should know better.

"And to make the picture blacker," Lasher said, "the phony operators know they have a better chance to swindle someone who has been swindled once before without knowing it."

If there is any consolation in knowing how and why boiler rooms operate, Lasher's report explains: As more and more information about the stock market is published, and as more and more people become stockholders, the ground for sowing phony seeds becomes more fertile.

People are impressed with long-distance phone calls and will pay attention to what the caller has to say, especially if he appeals to their sense of profit-making.

The more laws are passed to govern securities, the more falsely secure do people feel about their investments.

Sucker lists are available from about 1,500 firms who specialize in this kind of trade.

Give these premises, the boiler room operators are in business. The first step is a sturdy name and a Wall street address to lend a front of dignity and stability to the swindle. Behind the address is usually a small "executive" office for receiving and sending out mail.

The real operation is often in another building in a lower rent section of Manhattan.

"Here is a grubby room," Lasher said, "crowded with desks on wheels—you never know when you'll have to move. Each desk has only a small card file of names and phone numbers and a telephone.

"The salesmen, usually stripped to their undershirts because of the heat of too many people in too small a space, spend an entire working day making one long distance call after another to people they've never met—and never hope to.

Wall street's canyon, for the phonies, is just a front.

Most often, Lasher says, the pitch begins something like this: "Hello Mr. Jones, I'm Fred Smith of the Go-and-Go brokerage house on Wall street. I know the results of this stock situation I'm going to put to you will cement a good relationship between us."

"I don't care if you're a 10,000-share buyer or a 10-share buyer; all I'm interested in is getting started with you and I know a purchase of this stock now is a perfect opportunity."

The drone of the salesman—former carnival barkers, ex-convicts, and so forth—continues. Many of the salesmen wear paper hoods to keep out the noise.

It is also a help, the confidence men find, to use a three-minute egg timer on each call—if there's no bite, when the sand has run out, kill the call and try another number.

What can you do to protect yourself?

"Not much," Lasher said. "If you're going to speculate in the market, you should know how the market works and how to check on stocks and brokers. The information is available. But getting it requires some time and energy—and the boiler room men know it."

Most U.S. Banks Report Doing Same or Better Than Year Ago

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—The tides of business recession and recovery are shown clearly today in the earnings of the nation's banks.

The majority reports doing as well or better in making money as a year ago. But for the first time in several years their gains are small and their profits are coming from different sources.

A sizable number of banks are reporting they made less in 1958 than in 1957.

Business didn't go to the banks for loans as often or for as much last year as the year before. The federal reserve system's easy money policy in fighting the recession gave the banks a smaller return on such money as they lent.

While these two streams cut into banking profits, especially in the first half of last year, they also worked somewhat at cross currents since June.

Most banks are reporting that while profits on loans to business declined, they were able in the second half of the year to increase their earnings on securities.

When U.S. bond prices took a bad tumble at mid year, the banks could pick up some bargains that yielded them well. Then the U. S. treasury had to borrow a lot of money to meet the federal deficit, and it had to pay more interest for such loans.

The bull market in stock helped financial institutions reënt just any such portfolios with pleasant gains.

"The business recovery hasn't sent corporations back to the lending counters of banks as many first hoped.

Reasons given for the tardy return of business to borrowing:

(1) Many corporations have completed their ambitious post-Korean war expansion programs, and have less need for funds.

(2) Many concerns are playing it very cautious still and asking for little banking aid in rebuilding inventories.

(3) Depreciation allowances on the plants and equipment set up during the big business spending boom are now helping corporations to increase their cash flow and take care of current financial needs, with the help of their slowly increasing earnings.

But as the recovery progresses and businessmen grow more confident, the banks look for a modest return to the big business and swelling profits they reported a couple of years back.

Experts Find Atomic Shots Mimic Quakes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (UPI)—Two U.S. atomic explosions which unexpectedly mimicked earthquakes may have torpedoed chances of an international nuclear test ban.

They also have raised the possibility that the Russians, while engaged in test ban talks at Geneva, could be conducting secret underground atomic experiments unsuspected by the West.

New Demands Started

In any event, they have triggered new demands in this country for resumption of U.S. tests aimed at perfecting small nuclear weapons for missile defense and limited warfare.

The fraudulent behavior of the two atomic explosions was disclosed by official sources as a result of this week's statement by the White House that scientific detection of underground nuclear tests appears to be more difficult than once supposed.

Technical experts of the West and East agreed at Geneva last summer that a ban could be policed by 180 detection stations appropriately situated on land and sea. The biggest problem tackled by the experts was underground shots.

Surface Shots Easily Detected

Atomic explosions on the surface or in the air are fairly easy to spot because of the telltale radioactivity they spread through the atmosphere. In deep underground blasts, however, all radioactivity is confined.

The experts said, however, that seismographic instruments similar to those which record earthquakes could be counted on to detect underground shots as small as five kilotons (a kiloton being the equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT).

Conclusion Based on Theory

They based this conclusion on the widely accepted theory that energy waves from man-made explosions carry a signature which distinguishes them from the natural quakes constantly shaking the Earth.

On the basis of the technical experts' conclusions, the East and West on Oct. 31 began test ban negotiations in Geneva with the West voluntarily proclaiming a one-year suspension of nuclear explosions.

But in the same month that the talks started, this country staged underground shots in Nevada which produced seismic data casting doubt on the theory that atomic explosions, if they are big enough, register on distant seismographs.

Two of the underground explosions, the Idaho test of Oct. 1 and the Blaine test of Oct. 30, produced both push-and-pull seismograms.

Stock Market Hits Record High

The stock market rose almost steadily during 1958 to an all-time record high in the most active trading since 1930 as it accurately anticipated a swift recovery from the business recession. Inflation fears moved many to buy stocks and sell bonds. Institutions and big investors bought heavily in what became almost a cash market. Margins rose to 90 per cent, which meant a margin buyer of $100 of stocks had to put up $90, and could borrow only $10. After American Telephone and Telegraph company, in an unprecedented move, voted to split its stock three-for-one. Wall street anticipated a series of splits in the new year among the higher priced shares, a move that will bring prices of stock down to levels where more shareholders are expected to do some more buying next year. Experts say the market still is strong but they warn it may not perform as spectacularly in the new year as it did during 1958.

1959 Congress Will Air These Major Projects

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (UPI)—Here are major issues facing the new congress:

Spending—President Eisenhower has promised a balanced budget of about $77 million dollars and a fight to hold down spending; some of his recommendations—particularly in his defense budget—are sure to be too low to satisfy the Democrats.

Civil rights—The senate probably will tighten its anti-filibuster rule a little, but legislation in this field is unlikely this year.

More Space Funds?

Space — Democratic leaders will prod the administration to move faster in space exploration, contending that new urgency was given by the Soviet "Lunik."

Babooned

TYLER, Tex., Jan. 8 (AP)—A baboon captured a policeman's automobile yesterday.

Patrolman C. E. Sharp was cruising in search of Buckshot, 8 years old, who escaped the Caldwell zoo shortly before.

Buckshot jumped into the police car and bit Sharp on the right hand, ear and on the nose.

Sharp deserted the car, leaving Buckshot in the driver's seat.

Zoo attendants lured the baboon from the automobile into a wooden crate.

Danger of Digging Own Grave By Overeating to Be Checked

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (UPI)—Too much eating, rather than too much eating of this food or that food, may be the real cause of premature hardening of arteries and consequent premature death, in the view of a scientist specializing in the aging process of the human body.

Dr. Chester Solez urged members of the American Geriatrics society to set their research guns on testing the ancient saying that it is possible to dig one's grave with a knife and fork. Science has gone along with that idea in a general way but has never paid much attention to seeking out the whys and wherefores.

It should seek them out, and at once, said Solez, because there is evidence over-eating shortens life, although the evidence is in bits and pieces scattered through the accumulated knowledge of medical science. In his opinion, over-eating can keep the body machinery—busy turning out new tissue to replace old tissue—constantly overwhelmed.

This leads to the machinery turning out inferior tissue, which means blood vessel walls suffer in a way that causes them to degenerate before they should. Moreover, "if the dietary over-indulgence consists of 'empty calories,' even worse tissue is formed," he said.

The most common source of "empty calories" is alcoholic beverages.

Solez was concerned with the chemical activators of the bodily machinery which construct new tissue to replace old. These are enzymes which get the build-up chemistry into motion, step-by-step, and the hormones which regulate both the speed and the amount of the motion.

In certain people the supply of some of these enzymes and hormones may be limited at best, and the result of over-eating "is a relative or absolute shortage."

Insulin, for example, is a hormone produced by the pancreas gland and failure of the pancreas to produce enough of it results in diabetes. Solez argued that insulin deficiency in an individual could cause deterioration of tissue and degeneration of arteries before it causes recognizable diabetes, if it did.

Another hormone he suspected of being involved in artery hardening is the one secreted by the adrenal glands which counters the building up of proteins for body repair.

When all is well, this hormone is useful because it prevents an oversupply. But if there is too much of it being secreted, there is an undersupply of protein and resultant damage to arteries. Over-eating could so upset the intricate balance among hormones and enzymes as to cause a relative surplus of this hormone.

"It wasn't so long ago, Solez said, that many medical scientists held that too much fat in the diet caused hardening of the arteries. Then the opinion switched and a deficiency of the unsaturated fats in the diet was suspected of being an important cause.

"The true answer isn't as simple as that because there is a wide variety of factors involved." Over-eating is one factor but it is especially important, since it is controllable," he said. "If people can get a clearer idea of how and why over-eating leads to arteriosclerosis, they may be more willing to curtail dietary over-indulgence and make a healthier selection of foods."

Teamsters Parley To Unionize Sears

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8 (UPI)—Officials of the western conference of teamsters will meet here next Tuesday to formulate plans for organizing non-union employees of Sears Roebuck and company stores.

The conference said those attending will include Murray W. Miller, Dallas, international vice president and coordinator of the organizing drive.

Teamster President James Hoffa has estimated that Sears stores in 21 states and Canada have a potential of 70,000 additional union members.

FISHERMEN HELD

GUATEMALA CITY, Jan. 8 (UPI)—Guatemala has rejected Mexico's request for the release of 22 Mexican fishermen and two boats captured in Guatemalan waters Dec. 23.

Like to Ask Public Support for Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower will seek public support for his legislative program in every possible way, perhaps including television talks to the nation.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said last night there has been no decision yet regarding television appearances.

"The president's secretary indicated the decision will depend on reception of the administration program by the heavily Democratic 86th congress."

East U.S. Indians Have Own School

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 8 (AP)—North Carolina's Hallwa Indians outspokenly opposed to sending their children to school with Negroes, yesterday won a two-year fight for their own segregated school.

The school, built by the Hallwa and operated with private funds, was made part of the Warren county public school system. The action makes it eligible for state support.

Nasser's Plan For Economic Union Falter

CAIRO, Jan. 8 (AP)—President Nasser's plan for an Arab economic union has about ground to a halt of objections thrown up by the Iraq delegation to the current Arab League council meeting.

The Iraqis have kept the meeting in a preliminary stage ever since it opened Monday.

Arab Plans for Targets

Their chief targets are the proposed Arab development bank and Arab economic union, or common market.

The Iraq regime of Premier Abdel Karim Kassam, which has strong communist support, sees both plans as a long step toward an Arab political union dominated by Nasser and his United Arab republic.

UAR Seeks Approval

At the opening session, the UAR delegation pressed hard for approval of the development bank and economic union as an Arab answer to the European Common market.

The UAR announced unilateral reduction of duties on industrial exports to the other Arab states.

The Iraq delegation, headed by leftist Economy Minister Ibrahim Kubba, went along with the bank and union projects in principle but introduced so many reservations, conditions and amendments that they successfully buried the schemes in subcommittees.

Hawaii Statehood Seen This Session

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (UPI)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D., Wash., predicted today that the new 88th congress will grant statehood to Hawaii.

Jackson, chairman of an interior subcommittee on territories, said Alaska statehood paved the way for Hawaii and "the make-up of the new congress strengthens the outlook."

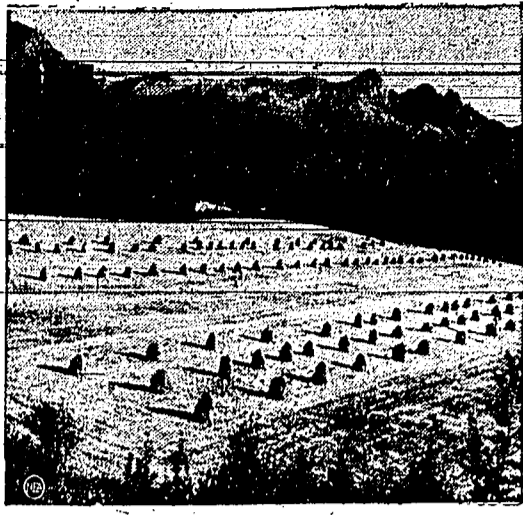

He said he would join in sponsoring a Hawaii statehood bill identical to the one approved by the committee last year. He said hearings on the measure should be relatively brief because "the facts are well-established."

RABBIT DRIVES SET

RIBBY, Jan. 8 (AP)—Two more drives to kill rabbits are scheduled in West Jefferson and Clark counties this week-end. One will be Saturday afternoon in the area west of Dubois and the other Sunday afternoon near Hamer.

Homesteaders Eye Alaska

Would-be 'homesteaders' are flooding Alaskan agencies with queries about farming opportunities. Shown is a farm in the Matanuska valley.

Since Statehood, Alaska Gets Many Queries for Information

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (NEA)—Here are some other sample inquiries.

A Texas housewife wants to homestead near a city where her husband can work as a plumber.

A Florida couple—a nurse and advertising man—want to work at their skills and live permanently in Alaska.

One Maine family asks specific questions about housing, schools, hospitals and stores. Another couple plan to leave for Alaska and the husband wishes to find work in the field of electronics. He will.

An Arizona farmer asks about tillable land, growing season, average temperatures. One practical Montana family, intending to bring a trailer, south east of trailer park, rental and fees charged by Alaska baby sitters.

Letters have been received from dental technicians, lawyers, schoolteachers, nightclub entertainers, home-appliance repairmen, printers, beauticians and boiler-makers.

Many merely pose the general question "what is it like in Alaska?"

From the timbered south-eastern "panhandle" to the treeless Aleutian chain, from the mountainous coastlines to the inland tundras, Alaska's 580,000 square mile area offers a kaleidoscope of impressions. No overall description can be given in a single reply.

Since the chamber finds it impossible to make individual replies, it answers most queries with informative pamphlets. "Data on Alaska," for one, is a collection of assorted facts on resources, basic industries, travel, parks, outdoor sports and wildlife.

The chamber advises that specific information on mineral deposits can be obtained from the bureau of mines, Box 560, Juneau; on business opportunities from Alaska resources development board, Box 2391, Juneau.

The Anchorage organization cautions job-seekers that it is not an employment agency. It refers most labor inquiries to the Alaska territorial employment service, Anchorage.

But the chamber strongly recommends that "those in search of Alaska employment do not venture north without employment assured, technical assistance and three months-in-defense-support—both—grants."

Idaho Gains Fifth Retail Sales Rank

BOISE, Jan. 8 (AP)—Retail sales in Idaho are expected to be the fifth best in the nation this month, according to a report received from the Idaho department of commerce and development.

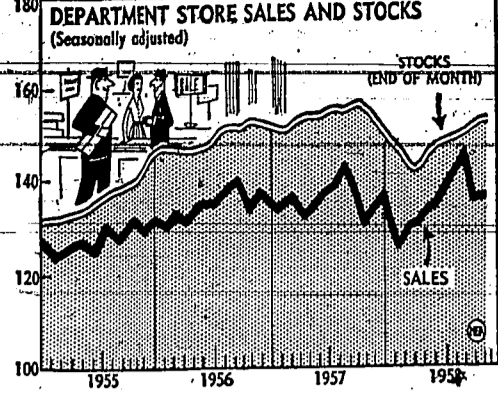

Tide, a business management magazine, listed South Dakota, Delaware, New Mexico and Idaho in that order. It said Idaho sales are expected to be up more than five per cent from a year ago.

CONSTRUCTION WORK CLIMBS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The dollar value of construction work climbed to a record 49 billion dollars last year. What's more, the government said, it is headed higher.

Record of department store stocks and sales shows the relationship between supply and demand. Sales dropped in third quarter of 1957, rose near end of year, then fell again in early 1958. Steady rise carried until past mid-year then dropped slightly, though stocks have continued upward.

U.S. Loans 47 1/2 Millions to Iran

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The United States yesterday loaned Iran 47 1/2 million dollars for public works projects.

The money will go for highways and airport construction, agricultural machinery imports, water and sewer systems and forestry programs.

The loan is repayable in dollars in 12 years at an interest rate of 3 1/2 per cent.

Besides the loan, Iran is receiving during the fiscal year $5,800,000 in north without employment assured, technical assistance and three months-in-defense-support—both—grants.

Dirksen's Win Knack Shown In Solon Test

By United Press International

Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, who survived a "liberal" revolt in the senate Republican leadership, has the knack of coming out on top, even when he loses.

In 1952, only two years after he had been elected to the senate, Dirksen was a prominent figure in the bitter fight for the GOP presidential nomination.

In that battle, he backed the loser, the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio, against President Eisenhower. But Dirksen's star continued to rise.

Dirksen Named "Whip"

Two years ago, he was named senate GOP "whip" or assistant minority floor leader, while a number of the so-called "Eisenhower Republicans" languished in the background.

This year Dirksen's colleagues by a 20-14 vote elected him as their titular leader, despite an organized drive by the liberal group to defeat him.

The vote was a tribute both to his parliamentary skill and his ability to stay abreast of the shifting tides of politics. He began moving closer to the middle ground area represented by Eisenhower during the President's first term.

Since becoming GOP whip, Dirksen has been one of the administration's most vocal spokesmen on the senate floor.

The 63-year-old Midwesterner, a veteran of almost a quarter of a century in congress, retains in full the forceful powers that gained him national attention during the 1952 convention.

The televised finger of scorn which he pointed at former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, New York, an Eisenhower leader, was one of the dramatic highlights of that tumultuous meeting.

But Dirksen now uses his expansive vocabulary and organ-tuned voice more effectively in backstage maneuvering. During the next two years, he will have an opportunity to employ this art to the fullest.

Jerome Jaycees Discuss Contest

JEROME, Jan. 8—A poster-and-essay contest in conjunction with the soil conservation district was discussed at the Monday evening meeting of the Jaycees.

Toy Grindstaff volunteered to chairman the project, Lois Hamilton, vice president, conducted the meeting.

It was reported the national foundation wants to rent Jaycees trapshooting facilities for a day. The Jaycees will rent it for $1.

LeRoy Craig reported proceeds of $825 on the inter-club tennis court project. Hal Walker reported 20 houses were entered in the Christmas-lighting contest. Leon Maceland was first place winner. Judging was done by Jay-O-Ettes.

Following the meeting, Jaycees played basketball in the junior high school gymnasium.

New Congress Provides Daily Test for Potential Presidents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (UPI)—The new congress will provide a daily forum and testing ground for at least four potential candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960.

It will also be the base of operations for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, now the strongest contender for the Republican nomination, although he plays no direct public role in dealing with the legislative program.

Nixon presides over the senate, votes only in case of ties and works offstage as an agent of the Eisenhower administration. He also appears likely to inherit from President Eisenhower the active leadership of the Republican party organization.

Here are the potential Democratic candidates in congress:

Sen. John F. Kennedy, Mass., 41, now viewed as the favorite, will play a key part, just as he did in 1958, in whatever the Democratic-controlled congress does to combat corruption in government. Membership on the foreign relations committee also offers him a vehicle to gain national attention. He has substantial support in the South.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., 47, a likely rallying point for the more aggressive liberals in the Democratic party. However, he is weak in the South. He will be in the forefront of the struggle to change the senate's anti-filibuster rule next week. He is a member of the foreign relations and agriculture committees and chairman of the subcommittee on disarmament but readily and deeply involves himself in issues in other fields, too.

Sen. Stuart Symington, Mo., 57, who is often described as "everybody's second-choice" for 1960, AS a former secretary of the navy, he gets most attention for his frequent attacks on the Eisenhower administration's defense program. Like Kennedy, he is regarded by southern Democrats as much more acceptable than Humphrey.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Tex., 50, dominant figure in writing the Democratic party record during the past four years while majority leader of the senate. Although he insists he is not a candidate, many Democrats consider him a potential contender, at least in case of a convention deadlock.

Another possible Democratic contender is Sen. Estes Kefauver, Tenn., who tried twice and failed to win the presidential nomination. However, he may be kept busy protecting his senate seat in 1960.

While these and possibly other Democratic senators will figure in the pre-convention maneuvering for the 1960 nomination, all of them know that U. S. political parties seldom choose presidential candidates from the senate.

Other possible candidates—Govs. Robert B. Meyner, New Jersey, and C. M. McNamara, Michigan, Gov-elect Edmund G. Brown, California, and Adlai E. Stevenson—can stay aloof from the daily battle.

There is a widespread belief among Democrats that state presidential primaries will not weigh heavily in the selection of the 1960 nominee. Unless one candidate builds a commanding lead, most states are expected to support favorite son candidates or send uncommitted delegations to the 1960 convention.

Report Slated on Schools Meeting

BOISE, Jan. 8 (AP)—The board of directors of the Idaho Citizens for Education said yesterday it plans to release a report Jan. 15 on its survey of Idahoans' attitudes toward education.

The survey was made as an outgrowth of last year's "Lights On For Education" meetings throughout Idaho.

W. D. Eberle, president of ICE, said the board also voted to make a study of high school curricula in the state as its project for this year.

EXPRESS RATE HIKE OK'D

BOISE, Jan. 8 (AP)—The Idaho public utilities commission has authorized the Railway Express agency to increase by 15 per cent its rates on shipments between Idaho points.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Whenever there is a discussion about the treatment of disorderly pupils, delinquents and mischief makers in general, someone announces loudly and positively that all that is needed is the use of a stout stick. I disagree. Force is useless save as a temporary device in relation to human behavior. It has had been an effective check of poor behavior we would not today be making terrible mistakes aimed at the destruction of mankind. What then?

The normal child is endowed with a mind. Before he can be led to behave in the accepted fashion his mind must be reached so that he will do as requested. Beating his body forces it to make the required motions but it does not reach his mind. He remains unconvinced, still only more so, and added to his original misunderstanding is resentment and anger.

I can understand how a mother for a young child might have to give him a slap on his bottom to keep him out of danger but that is an emergency measure and used only because the child's mind has not sufficiently developed to where he can be reasoned into following safe ways. But once a child has reached the age of reason he should not be beaten, cuffed around, physically abused. It is useless, worse, it is harmful to all concerned. School is no place for such treatment of pupils—not even the delinquents.

When we use the term "delinquents" we do not mean young criminals or potential criminals. These are a class apart. Some of them are mental cases; some are products of their environment; all of them are unfit for the services of the public schools. Their presence in them does them little good and does the normal pupils great harm in that they take the teachers' time and energy to no purpose, save keeping them as though in jail.

These pupils, forced by law into the schools should be removed completely from their present environment to a more wholesome atmosphere. A school colony, out of the city, on the cottage and cabin plan, staffed by the best-trained professionals, is my answer to their problem.

Some of these young people could be rehabilitated and made into useful self-supporting citizens; some could be taught to work in what is known as sheltered workshops; some cannot be cured and should be permanently institutionalized. All of them should be removed from public schools for the sake of the normal children, for the benefit of the now helpless teachers, and for their own sakes.

Force such a corporal punishment, is not useful in the treatment of such young people. They are subjects for the psychologists, psychiatrists and experts in social problems. Not the public schools.

Some children are slow at play and slow in school, but Dr. Patri explains in his leaflet, P-11, "Slowness," that "slowness" is not a disease, it is a child. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 10, N. Y.

Yankees Comeback Rated Best

By The Associated Press
The comeback of the year in 1958 was made by the New York Yankees on the green turf of Milwaukee's county stadium where they won the world series.

Trailing 3-1 after the fourth game, the Yanks scrambled back to win the fifth in New York and swept the last two in Milwaukee. Only the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates ever had done this in the long history of best-of-seven world series.

The nation's sports writers and sportscasters gave the Yanks a sizeable margin over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the Associated Press annual year-end poll. The Louisiana State university football team was a distant third, closely pressed by Boston's Pete Runnels, who almost won the American league batting title, and Robin Roberts, who regained his pitching touch at Philadelphia.

Of the 207 writers participating in the poll, 65 put the Yanks first, 23 had them second and 20 more rated them third. The total of 253 points on a 3-2-1 basis compared to Pittsburgh's total of 159 points, including 31 firsts.

Milwaukee's 1957 series triumph and the Yanks' woeful performance in the first four games of the '58 series set up the comeback situation. The job that earned Pittsburgh enough points to finish second was the Pirates' cellar-to-second rise in the National league under manager Danny Murtaugh.

LSU drew recognition as a comeback team, as well as the team of the year, because the 1957 football team had managed only a 5-6 season while the 1958 version was No. 1 team in the nation. LSU ended its regular season with a 10-0 record and added a Sugar bowl victory over Clemson. A total of 18 first place votes and 70 points went to LSU.

Runnels, traded to Boston by Washington last winter, finished second to teammate Ted Williams in the batting race, a fine comeback for a 30-year-old handyman. Runnels drew 12 firsts and 68 points. Roberts recovered his pitching skill for a 17-14 record with the Phils, winning seven firsts and 50 points.

Fuell Given Eligibility if He Transfers

CINCINNATI, Jan. 8 (AP)—The powerful National Collegiate Athletic association council ruled Wednesday that Don Fuell, a controversial figure in football since he was declared ineligible at Auburn, can regain his eligibility if he transfers to a college which has not violated the rules in recruiting him.

Fuell, former star high school quarterback, was declared ineligible by the Southeastern conference on the grounds that rules regarding NCAA principles on amateurism and administering financial aid had been violated when he was induced to enroll at Auburn.

The NCAA placed Auburn on probation until September, 1961, because of the activities of a representative of the institution in these violations. Fuell filed suit in an unsuccessful effort to have his eligibility restored.

A question from Mississippi Southern college brought Wednesday's ruling from the NCAA council, the 18-man policy-making group of the college organization. Fuell still is enrolled at Auburn as a third-semester student, but the implication was that he might transfer if he received an OK on the eligibility question.

In revealing the council's decision, Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, pointed out that NCAA policy is to punish the offending institution rather than the individual athlete in such cases.

Declo Thumps Raft River as Telfer Stars

DECLO, Jan. 8 — Claude Telfer poured through 19 points Tuesday night as he led the Declo Hornets to a 48-30 victory over Raft River's Trojans. The loss ruined Raft River's first outing in Southside conference play while the defending champions, Declo, evened their record at 1-1.

Although the Hornets led throughout the game, it wasn't until the third period they could mount a comfortable margin. They led 9-5 and 21-15 at the first two rest periods, but then stuck with a 15-point effort in the third quarter to clinch the decision. They held a 13-point edge as the fourth period opened.

Dick and Dean Taylor along with Jerry Osterhout provided good floor play for the honors. Declo jayves matched their senior's scoring as they took the preliminary 48-30.

USC Placed on Additional 2-Year Probation for Illegal Recruiting

CINCINNATI, Jan. 8 (AP)—The University of Southern California Wednesday night was placed on two-year probation, effective immediately, in a disciplinary action by the NCAA council. The council said the university was guilty of offering improper inducements to two student athletes. Southern Cal had hoped to be removed from a two-year probation levied against the institution Nov. 13, 1956. The new action by the council, meeting at the 53rd annual NCAA convention, means that during the first year of the new probationary period USC will be ineligible to enter athletes or teams in any NCAA championship event or any of the invitational and like events which cooperate with the NCAA. As usual, names of the athletes were not disclosed. However, the council said they were football players now in school to whom Southern Cal had offered air transportation beyond that permitted by the NCAA code.

Jerome Dominates Early Statistics For Big Seven League Title Race

The Jerome Tigers dominate their top forward Bill Block shares the lead for individual scoring honors. According to figures compiled by the Times-News sports department, the Tigers are first in offense and are based on the averages since the seven competing teams have not played the same number of games. Despite their edge in the statistical department, the Tigers are in second place behind the Spartans of Minico. Minico has one victory and no losses while Jerome is tied with Buhl at 2-1.

In their three outings, the Tigers have racked up 155 points for a 51.7 average while holding opposition to 86.5 per game. Some 100 points have been scored against them.

Block is tied with Wayne Buehl, Buhl for the top average of men who have played more than one conference game. Both have scored 41 points in three outings for 13.7 averages. Ross Drown, Buehl is next with 11.7 followed by Gary Cranney, Oakley, and Scanlon, Gooding, with 11.5 averages on 23 points in two games. Bryant of Burley holds an even 11-point average with 22 points in two outings.

Mel Hine, Piler, top the teams having only one game with 15 points. Gary Anderson and Darrell Dickson, both Minico, followed with 14 and 11 tallies, respectively.

Oakley Hornets prove the top team in foul shooting using a ratio of conversions to opponents fouls. The Hornets have turned 34 opposition fouls into 32 free points. Second place belongs to Jerome, which has 53 conversions for 60 fouls. Oakley's average is .940 to .883 for the Tigers.

In the fouling department, Arthur Burch, Oakley, has averaged four fouls per game while Scanlon is a step behind with seven in two games. Buehl has been charged with the most infractions—11—but has played in three games.

Both teams, Oakley has been whittled down for 37 fouls in two games for an 18.5 average while Jerome has been guilty of 51 in three games for a 17 fouls per game average.

3 Yanks Gain Semi-Finals In Net Meet

PERTH, Australia, Jan. 8 (AP)—The recurrence of an old injury today gave Alex Olmedo a scare, but the young Peruvian has decided to continue his bid for the singles and doubles titles in the Western Australian tennis championships.

"I will play," Olmedo said after the examination of a pulled stomach muscle proved to be of no serious nature. "I can swing a racket okay."

Unknown to the crowd the 22-year-old Peruvian injured the muscle in the first set of a match with Australia's top-seeded Rod Laver, but he persevered to victory, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 6-3.

He was joined in the semifinals by two of his American Davis Cup teammates — Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz and a highly regarded young Spaniard, Andres Gimeno.

In matches played in near 100-degree heat, MacKay smashed Ulf Schmidt of Sweden 6-2, 6-4, 6-2. Buchholz beat Spaniard Luis Arilla 7-5, 6-4, 5-7. Gimeno toyed with Australian Tony Ryan 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

In the semifinals of this 40-year-old event, Olmedo plays Gimeno and MacKay meets Buchholz Friday.

For a few moments Wednesday, it appeared certain Olmedo would be unable to go through with further matches. Olmedo felt so much better after a rest and dinner that he told team captain Perry Jones a doctor's visit would not be necessary.

"I felt the pang in the first set against Laver," the Peruvian said. "It kept getting worse as I played. I couldn't get my breath."

"I first hurt myself in the match with Ashley Cooper in the challenge round."

Pros Hit College Ball Control Game

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8 (AP)—College football coaches, especially on the West coast, are getting too conservative to suit Joe Arnett. He says too much ball control is ruining the game.

The star halfback for the Los Angeles Rams, currently training for the Pro bowl game here Sunday, expressed his views in an interview. "That conservative stuff bores you to death," he said. "You can win 7-0, instead of 32-30, and nobody wants to see you play."
