People Are Divided Here For Increased Spending, Plans for 'Holding Line'

Members of the revenue and taxation committee of the Idaho house of representatives heard sentiments both for and against higher spending and new means of raising taxes at a public meeting held at the Twin Falls junior high school auditorium Saturday night. More than 250 persons attended the meeting at which Rep. J. S. Monroe, chairman of the committee, and others heard testimony pertaining to the state's taxation problems. Opinions were varied, but several persons asked that the tax line be held with no new broad base tax imposed.

The meeting, scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. was delayed for at least half an hour because committee members arrived late. This was the last of a series of five meetings held throughout the state. During a meeting at Pocatello Saturday afternoon, the plane used by the group was grounded. They were forced to travel to Twin Falls by automobile.

Besides the chairman, those explaining the tax question prior to testimony from the audience were B. Braslie, Boise county; Greg Potvin, Power; Ira Kistler, Gooding; C. Sutton, Washington, and Sen. Ray Cox, Shoshone.

Monroe explained at the opening of the meeting, "This is something in legislative halls. We devote (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

No Trace Found of Danish Ship Or 95 People Aboard Missing in Atlantic; Darkness Stops Search

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 31 (AP)—Three rescue vessels searched the stormy north Atlantic until dark tonight without finding a trace of the vanished Danish ship Hans Hedtoft. Then dangers of a new storm and a gathering icepack forced the vessels to flee to the open sea and suspend their desperate hunt until morning. Fear mounted that all 95 persons aboard the Hedtoft were lost. The little passenger-freighter reported shortly before noon yesterday she had hit an iceberg and was sinking. She was returning to Denmark on her maiden voyage to Greenland.

Royal Canadian air force search and rescue headquarters reported the three ships — the U. S. coast guard cutter Campbell and the German trawler Johannes Kruss and Poseidon — had left the icepack area at darkness.

The Campbell was more than 100 miles south of the ice area where the Hedtoft was last heard from. Coast guard officials in New York said it would resume the search at dawn.

The Campbell and the Poseidon had fought their way to the area through 24-foot waves and a mottled sea of icebergs and floes.

They joined the Johannes Kruss, a sturdy little German trawler which had been criss-crossing the treacherous waters in 60-mile winds throughout last night and today.

A U. S. air force Super Constellation circled overhead but its 12-man crew said it found no sign of the 2,785-ton Danish ship. The plane also is equipped with radar.

The clouds later began closing in and an RCAP spokesman said visibility dropped to about half a mile and the ceiling to 100 feet. Weather observers feared a new storm was moving into the search area.

Legislature Group Gets Plan to Up School Fund 2 Million Dollars

BOISE, Jan. 31 (AP) — A plan to add two million dollars to Gov. Robert E. Smylie's "hold the line" public school spending proposal was submitted to the joint education committee of the Idaho legislature today. The plan calls for about $26,600,000 in state aid to public schools in the next two years. The committee also is considering a bill calling for $32,500,000, as proposed by the unified education council. The 1957 legislature appropriated 22 million dollars as the state's share of public school costs.

Smylie's overall proposed budget of 71 million, which he said could be balanced by adjusting present taxes, includes $24,600,000 for the schools. Of this amount $1,600,000 is required by law to cover increased enrollment.

The extra million dollars comes in by way of a proposal to calculate state aid on the basis of current enrollment, instead of last year's enrollment.

Smylie told the legislators that any substantial increase over this amount would require enactment of (Continued on Page 6, Column 1)

Citizens Split Even on Tax, Official Says

POCATELLO, Jan. 31 (AP)—State Rep. James W. Monroe, D., Nez Perce, says Idaho's residents appear split about 50-50 on proposals for and against levying a sales tax in this state.

Monroe conducted a hearing of the house revenue and taxation committee here today which about 50 people attended. Monroe is chairman of the committee.

Tax Called Shame
 Mrs. Gladys Messex, speaking on behalf of the Idaho Federation of Teachers, said of the sales tax: "It is a shame to put that kind of a burden on poor people."

Mrs. James Phelps, representing the Cooperative Legislative committee, spoke in favor of a sales tax to help finance education. Her group is composed of several education organizations.

Farmers Oppose Land Tax
 Several witnesses, mostly farmers, said they were against a property tax because it had to be paid whether the farmer made any money or not.

Monroe said feeling across the state is for relief in property taxes if a sales tax is enacted.

Several witnesses spoke in favor of a severance tax—a levy on extraction of minerals from the land such as lumber and metals.

Former State Sen. Andreas Skele, Butte county, suggested a one cent per bottle tax on soft drinks.

Hawaiian Visitor Receives Key to City

J. Ted Davis, chairman of the Twin Falls city commission, presents "key to the city" to Uliana Kealoha, Aloha Airlines representative, at Joslin field Saturday afternoon. She and two other representatives of Aloha stopped in Twin Falls Saturday afternoon and evening to publicize the forthcoming all-jet service from Pacific Northwest cities to Hawaii. Hawaiian Trio Winds up Busy Tour of Northwest in Busy Day in Twin Falls

 Three good-will emissaries from Hawaii were winding up a busy visit to the Pacific Northwest with a busy afternoon and evening in Twin Falls Saturday.

From the time they were greeted on their arrival at Joslin field until they ended the day with appearances at the turf club, the three Hawaiian ladies were kept busy meeting people, singing, dancing and not incidentally—calling attention to all-let air travel scheduled soon from the West coast to Hawaii.

The visitors are Helen Thompson, Uliana Kealoha and Caroline (Cookie) Wasko, all employees in the sales department of Aloha Air lines in the islands. Sponsors of their visit here are Pan American Airways and West Coast and Aloha air lines, plus the Magic Carpet Travel Agency of Twin Falls.

Greeting the trio when they arrived at Joslin field were various local representatives and J. Ted Davis, chairman of the city commission. Davis presented the ceremonial key to the city to the three girls. From then on, it was never a dull moment for local people, if not for the visitors who have been going through similar rounds of entertaining for the past week.

The girls spent the afternoon at the travel agency office, talking with visitors who had been to, or are contemplating a trip to the islands.

The evening began with entertaining large crowds at the Roundup room of the Rogerson hotel which was enhanced with Hawaiian decor.

Proficient in both the ancient native songs and dances and the more modern types, the girls sang and danced to the accompaniment of a guitar, concluding their entertainments with an intricate hula using feathered gourds with guitar and vocal accompaniment.

Other appearances during the evening were made at the Turf club and the Blue Lakes Country club.

Since this was the last of 100 appearances this week, the native beauties confessed they were beginning to "run out of gas," a statement belied by their vivacious entertaining.

Enthused about the Northwest and the warm hospitality shown them, their only criticism was that snow should be flattered. It was the first view of snow for Miss Wasko and she thought it should taste like shaved ice cones they buy at baseball games to accompany hotdogs.

The girls do not consider themselves professional entertainers. "Music and dancing are a part of our way of life—we learn both while (Continued on Page 2, Column 4)

Grocery Costs Used to Back Sales Tax Bid

PAYETTE, Jan. 31 (AP)—Comparison of grocery purchases in three northwest states was cited tonight to show that food costs are lower with a sales tax.

A Republican exponent of the sales tax accused both major parties of "political dishonesty" toward such a tax.

Rep. George L. Crockham, Jr., of Canyon, delivered the charges in a speech prepared for a public meeting here.

Data Produced
 Crockham produced data on purchase of food on both sides of Idaho's border to support this allegation.

"Silent approval of more hidden taxes is sanctioned robbery of the low-income groups."

He said his information showed food costs to be higher in states where the taxes are hidden than in states where they are "openly applied as in the case of sales taxes."

Legislators Blasted
 Crockham added, "The failure or the unwillingness of the Democrats (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

Two Men Held Here For Armed Robbery

Twin Falls city police were holding two Washington men Saturday night as suspects for armed robbery of the Truck Lane market, 404 Fourth avenue west. The robbery occurred about 7:45 p.m., and the two men were caught about 10:30 p.m. in a local hotel. Police identified the two men as Marty Kidd, 25, and Robert Johnston, 22. One of the men told an officer they were from Spokane. Police Chief Howard Gillette said his office received a report that two men had entered the store and one man had said "This is a holdup." The men forced Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Worthington, owners of the store, and customers to the rear of the building. There were six persons in the store at the time.

2 Men, Three Boys Held on Theft Charge

Grand larceny charges face two men and three juveniles arrested by Twin Falls county and city law enforcement officials late Friday for stealing two lambs from the Howard Annis farm northwest of Curry.

Confined in the county jail on bonds of $1,000 each are Jerry Jones, 202 Washington street, and Joe Brown, 350 Fifth avenue east. They appeared before Probate Judge J. Dean Mosher Friday night, waived preliminary hearing, and were bound over to district court. The juveniles will be handled in probate court.

Jones and Brown were arrested along with three juveniles by Deputy Sheriff Wayne Hankins, Ernest Marlow, city juvenile officer, and City Patrolman Wesley Dobbs.

According to Hankins, the 3-week-old lambs were found in the trunk of Brown's car.

Annis called the sheriff's office Friday night, reported the theft and said that a teen-aged youth had been to his home about 11 p.m. Thursday asking if Annis had "two bum lambs" he could give him for use in a 4-H club project. Annis said the youth had given him his name.

Hankins says the youth was questioned, admitted taking part in the theft and named the others involved.

When officers located Brown and Jones, the lambs were in the trunk of Brown's car.

Largest Budget for Church Is Approved

Delegates to the 50th annual Episcopal convocation of the missionary district of Idaho adopted the largest budget in their history, and in addition, pledged $59,000 to the church extension program. Explaining the needs of the extension plans were the Very Rev. Richard Combs, dean of the cathedral at Spokane, Wash., and the Rev. Garrett Conklin, of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley, Calif. They reported that 4 million dollars will be needed in the next three years to complete the project.

Petitions Asking Cut in Hospital Spending

A few county residents are collecting signatures on a petition aimed at reducing spending at Magic Valley Memorial hospital.

Roy Fuller, Twin Falls, who obtained figures of proposed 1959 county spending at the county clerk's office Saturday morning, says he and some taxpayers with whom he has talked in the last few days are convinced that county hospital expenditures are too high.

The hospital's 1959 budget calls for a maximum spending program totaling $1,038,845. During 1958 the hospital spent $941,501.

County Clerk T. W. Shivers points out that the majority of funds needed for hospital operation does not come from taxpayers in the form of property taxes. Patient fees cover most of the hospital's yearly cost.

The only tax money used to support the hospital, $60,000, comes from a one and one-half mill levy. Shivers says it is possible that the hospital mill levy may be discontinued, with increasing hospital revenue from fees.

Fuller believes hospital expenditures need not exceed the million-dollar mark. "We'd like to know where that money's going and why," he says.

In Fuller's opinion, more money should be expended on upkeep of the courthouse. Working conditions are overcrowded, he says, and the building is "dingy and dirty" in appearance.

Fuller expects to present his views and the petition to the county commissioners before Feb. 9. Commissioners are required by law on that day, the second Monday in February, to set the year's final budget figure. Until that time, any county taxpayer is free to object to any part of the tentative budget.

The tentative budget, calling for a maximum 1959 county spending program of $1,915,765, was approved by the commissioners Jan. 20.

Fuller says he is hoping to get "four or five pages" of signatures on his petition. Since it is not necessary to present a petition to the commissioners in order to raise an objection to the budget, Fuller apparently seeks the signatures to bolster his arguments.

According to Fuller, every person with whom he has spoken recently agrees that hospital expenditures are too high.

Jail Term for Topsy Driver Is Suspended

Neal Dotson, charged with second offense drunken driving, was given a suspended jail sentence of 18 months when he appeared in Twin Falls district court Friday before Judge Theron W. Ward.

Judge Ward placed Dotson on probation, stipulating that he was to abstain from the use of any intoxicating beverages. Dotson was arrested on the second offense charge Dec. 24.

He is represented by Rayborn and Rayborn, local law firm.

Norman J. Webster, Rexburg, paid a fine of $150 and costs Thursday when he appeared before Hollister Justice of the Peace Edward Hendstock on a charge of drunken driving. Webster was arrested Thursday by State Patrolman D. L. Cairns.

Thomas Clark, 27, Boise, was fined $40 by Justice of the Peace Glen Vining Saturday morning when he pleaded guilty of leaving the scene of an accident without giving his name or reporting the mishap to police. The complaint was signed by B. F. Darrow, Jerome. Clark also paid $88 for damages to Darrow's car. The accident occurred last Saturday on highway 25 west of Jerome.

Lawrence D. Alvey, 27, was cited by city police Friday evening for following another vehicle too closely after an investigation into a three-vehicle collision in the 1700 block of Kimberly road. Total (Continued on Page 2, Column 7)

County Signs Public Health Unit Contract

A contract agreed upon Wednesday night by members of the county commission and health officials was signed Friday afternoon by the commission, bringing Twin Falls county back into the southcentral Idaho district health unit.

The contract, similar to the one held by the county prior to withdrawal from the unit, goes into effect Feb. 1. It provides for cancellation at the end of any month-upon-advance notice of either party.

Budget for the medical setup includes salary for a medical director to administer the unit. Only eleven-twelfths of the budgeted $13,558 amount will be needed, notes Russell C. Larsen, chairman of the commission, since one month of the year expired before the agreement is effective.

The county will continue to maintain the indigent program independent of the unit, and maintains a county doctor and nurse for this work.

Other local groups participating in the unit are the city of Twin Falls and the Twin Falls school district.

Space Exploring Said High in Cost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The cost of space exploration, like its objective, is "astronomical," a space official said today.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of the national aeronautics and space administration, gave some dollar measurements in a talk to the American Legion's national security commission.

Dryden estimates that the cost of putting a satellite into orbit runs between two and three million dollars.

He said, "Our first orbital bomber will cost in the neighborhood of one billion dollars."

Man Living at Wendell Given Carnegie Medal for Heroism

WENDELL, Jan. 31 (AP)—Wayne Davis, 23, is one of 19 persons throughout the nation selected by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission to receive a bronze medal for heroism.

Davis, who moved to Wendell a few weeks ago, was recommended for the award by the Exchange club at Pocatello where he rescued a high school boy from the icy Portneuf river in a tragic accident which took five lives last February.

The commission's account of the heroic action says, "Davis saved Lynn B. Evenson, 16, Pocatello school boy, and attempted to save (Continued on Page 6, Column 3)

 Branham served refreshments to the mothers at the War Memorial hall at the close of the march.

Woman Driver Averts Serious Mishap in Bus
 SHOSHONE, Jan. 31—Quick thinking and action on the part of a woman school bus driver, Mrs. Elsie McGhee, Shoshone, was credited by officers with averting a serious accident here Thursday afternoon.
 According to Deputy Sheriff Charles Feugh, Mrs. McGhee, driving a 1954 empty bus after delivering the children home Thursday, began to pass a 1957 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Clarence Tew, Shoshone.
 As she was about to pass, the back wheels of Tew's truck locked, throwing the truck sideways across the road. For a second Mrs. McGhee applied her brake, then felt the bus slide, indicating it would roll into and possibly over the pickup.
 She immediately drove the bus into the narrow pit. In the process, the bus caught the back of the pickup, causing around $250 damage to the bus and $75 to the pickup.
 The accident happened six and one-half miles north of Shoshone on U.S. highway 93. The bus stopped just a foot from a telephone pole, Deputy Feugh said.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday Ray Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Requests may be sent to him at 7005 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"What do the Republicans mean," inquires Mrs. L. O. (Lewell) Mass, "when they say that they must make over the 'image' of their party in the public mind? And how are they going to do it?"

Answer: National Chairman Maude Alcorn, as well as President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon, figure that they have lost the mass voting groups—labor, farmers, independents, liberals, middle income groups and racial elements. They have voted Democratic in three straight congressional elections because they regard the Democrats as more concerned for their daily and humble interests, whereas the Republicans, in their opinion, cater to big business and industry, to the wealthy and the socially prominent.

REMAKING PARTY "IMAGE" DIFFICULT—Frankly, I doubt if they can remake the party "image," especially as they have only deepened the general impression that the GOP is a reactionary organization in its policies and personalities, from top to bottom.

They have named two of the most conservative men in public life today as parliamentary and political leaders. I refer, of course, to the new house minority boss, Rep. Charles A. Halleck, Indiana, and to Sen. Barry Goldwater, Arizona, the new chairman of the senatorial campaign committee.

Both are anti-everything for which the great majority of the American people, rightly or wrongly, have been demanding for the last generation. But after all, it is the President who creates the "image" of whatever party he represents. And, as GOP-ers admitted at their Des Moines powwow, President Eisenhower has not helped in this respect. He associates only with wealthy representatives of big business and industry, and with the socially illustrious—at Washington, Gettysburg and Augusta.

ALLEN-HUMPHREY IKE'S CLOSE FRIENDS—To be more specific, the President's closest friend is George E. Allen, who came to Washington as an assistant hotel manager from a small town in Mississippi, but who is now a director in some of the nation's greatest corporations. He is author of the comic book entitled "Presidents Who Have Known Me."

Republicans note, however, that he was an intimate friend and adviser of former Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, who appointed him to several important posts. Next to Allen as a presidential companion is George M. Humphrey, former secretary of the treasury and one of the nation's top industrial moguls.

Thus, as they openly grumbled at Des Moines, Eisenhower spends week-ends and long evenings with them, whereas he gives only about an hour or two each week to his leaders on Capitol Hill and the work-horses of the party organization.

And, as the people seem to grasp, he spends no time with spokesmen for the labor, the farm, the educational, the social welfare and allied movements. A President, of course, has the right to choose his own friends and playmates. But he should realize that, as the leader of the nation and a great party, he should hobnob more frequently with as many representative citizens as the pressures of his office permit.

WHO INVITED MIKOYAN?—"Is it true that President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles contrived the Mikoyan visit?" asks T. L. Houston, Tex., as well as many other readers.

Answer: The three men largely responsible were Eric Johnston, head of the Motion Pictures Association of America; Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland industrialist, and Adlai E. Stevenson. It was Johnston who actually suggested to Khrushchev that not he but a lesser official tour the United States.

When Mikoyan applied for a visa as a result of their suggestions, there was nothing Dulles could do except to grant it. With some help from what former President Truman criticizes as "unofficial diplomatic tourists," Ambassador Menshikov arranged for the Mikoyan dinner at New York, Washington, Cleveland and San Francisco.

Johnston and Stevenson had given hostages to the Kremlin by their acceptance of Khrushchev's hospitality. In fact, Johnston recently negotiated a fine deal under which a certain number of Hollywood motion pictures will be shown behind the iron curtain.

And Stevenson, as representative of the Authors' League of America, hopes to persuade the communists to pay royalties on pirated publications of American writers' works.

SPUDNIK FRIED—Idaho has declared war. The battle of rice and potatoes is in full cry. Anyone who dares to say potatoes are more fattening than rice is in big trouble with our neighboring state.

Some coast-to-coast salesman—a half-baked peddler, in Idaho's opinion—has been suggesting that if people don't want to be fat and flabby they should lay off the potatoes and take to the paddy product. Senator Henry Dworshak is hollering foul at the top of his lungs. He has gone all the way to the federal trade commission with figures to prove it.

The department of agriculture, say the Idaho solog, tells you that 100 grams of cooked rice contains 111 calories, while that amount of potatoes goes only 81 calories—even with milk added for the mashing. He goes further than that. He's willing to match the average Idaho wastrel with the miff of the average rice-eater anywhere. To be completely honest, it must be added that the senator's theorizing works around to the affirmative position that the way to get slim and trim is to eat potatoes.—Spokane Chronicle.

POT SHOTS

THAT PROVES IT!

Years ago I read a little sentence that has been proved over and over through the years—Some recent thinking in Pot Shots has served to prove it all over again.

How can so many people choose to write about the weather? They either approve, disapprove, don't believe it, expect it to get worse or better. And not one single reader has volunteered to do anything about it!

Which proves the gentleman's contention that, "Everyone talks about the weather but no one does anything about it."

WHO'S FOR FOOTBALL?

Back in the days when I was in school, basketball was one of the more uninteresting things in my young life. The years haven't changed the situation.

Now for my complaint; Can't we have something else on the sport pages besides basketball? It sure gets tiring day in and day out. Who cares, anyway?

Surely something else is happening in sports. If this sort of thing keeps up, I'm going to start reading the society page for excitement.

VIEW OF OTHERS

FOR PROGRESS BY CONSENT

The civil rights issue in the United States is at base a racial issue. And the philosophy of effective progress will not be that of a racist in deep Georgia or of an absolutist in Vermont to whom right is right and left is done with it. It will be that of one who has lived in both worlds and who sees the good and evil in each.

Senator Lyndon Johnson is a gifted operator in the "art of the possible." But he is something special, too, in the context of this deep issue which divides America geographically and racially. He is a Texan, but a rancher, not a planter. And he stands sufficiently detached from both Deep South and urban North to see that the cleavage is not simply one between good people and bad people. His speech introducing his surprise civil rights bill is one of exceptional perception.

He is mindful that the civil rights act of 1957 rested upon the realistic, if not enthusiastic, consent of both sides. And he proposes to extend the life of the civil rights commission two years. He knows that much as people of good will may differ in attitudes toward color they are alike in their abhorrence of terrorism. Senator Johnson would have federal authority move against bombers of churches, schools, and homes.

He is aware that desegregation of schools involves the factor of association—and of exaggerated fears of unwanted closeness—whereas access to the ballot, free of discrimination is a political, not a social, right guaranteed unequivocally by the Constitution. And that the ballot is the key to many other rights. The senator's bill avoids the complications of the school issue—as did the 1957 measure—but would strengthen the federal hand in enforcing the right of suffrage.

And Senator Johnson's idea of a racial mediation service goes to the very heart of any long-range solution: restoring rational and friendly communication between the white and Negro group. This is in line with what this newspaper has urged repeatedly ever since the desegregation decision.

After all, some 140,000,000 white and 16,000,000 Negro Americans will be living side by side in the same communities and countryside for as far ahead as anyone can see.—Christian Science Monitor.

Idaho has declared war. The battle of rice and potatoes is in full cry. Anyone who dares to say potatoes are more fattening than rice is in big trouble with our neighboring state.

WASHINGTON

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The big test of Republican National committee Chairman Maude Alcorn's plan for sweeping reorganization of the GOP machine is whether state and local committees will accept it.

Alcorn will accept it, it might come down to the precinct level. The new plan was unveiled by the chairman at the Republican National committee meeting in Des Moines.

Main element of the plan is to recruit two million GOP campaign workers for the 1960 election. It would put the party on a year-round operational basis to replace the seasonal, just-before-election drives.

It would include a weekly television broadcast to cost from two to five million dollars a year. A new party magazine would be issued. GOP national headquarters would be enlarged, particularly in the public relations department.

And a brand new system of nine committees, conferences and clubs would be set up at state and local levels.

All this is the result of conferences begun last summer by President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and Alcorn. This revelation indicates the three leaders felt things weren't going right even before the election, in which, as Alcorn says, "We took a bad beating."

Alcorn wants to erase the labels of "big business" or "special interests" and "right to work law" hung on his party—falsely, he says—by its opposition.

But the main reason for the GOP "humiliating defeat" is seen not as issues but lack of organization and not enough work. So now he wants to build up a new sales force.

At its head would be a new "study committee" made up of Republican officeholders and party leaders. It would apparently match the Democratic Advisory committee, only it would be expected to have more congressional leader support.

Senator Asks Fund Release

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (Special)—Release of 20 million dollars in "impounded" farm loan contingency funds is asked by Sen. Henry C. Dworshak, R., Ida.

The Idaho lawmaker said the state's share of farm loan funds was nearly exhausted. Use of the contingency appropriation has been blocked by budget bureau action.

After a conference with William Baugh, Idaho state director of the farm loan administration, Senator Dworshak said he would request the President to release the blocked money.

Under current appropriations, loans totalling 10 million dollars were authorized in Idaho this year. The Idaho senator noted that the loans were to be repaid to the federal government, and thus did not represent outright expenditure.

Under the operating loan section, a farmer could borrow from the government on his crops. Other programs grant building and other types of loans.

U.S. and Cuba Ties Are Close No Matter Who Controls Isle

By The Associated Press

American advertising terms run through Cuban Spanish—Cuban sugar sweetens American breakfast food.

Trade between the United States and Cuba runs more than 400 million dollars annually on each side. These are examples of an interchange built up between the two countries since the Spanish-American War of 1898 freed the lush island from Spain.

Close ties are dictated by geographic, historic, and economic facts of life, whether a Fulgenio Batista or a Fidel Castro is top man among Cuba's six million people.

Among these facts: The United States buys about half the six-million-ton sugar crop that is Cuba's mainstay. Cuba is only 90 miles across the Florida straits from Key West, Fla.

American motor cars, TV sets, household appliances and machinery are among products flowing the other way.

Private interests in the United States are estimated to have more than a billion dollars invested in Cuba. The biggest of these is the American and Foreign Power company, with about 221 million dollars in Cuba's major power company.

Cuba and the United States are partners in a military aid pact. The U.S. navy maintains an important Caribbean base at Guantanamo bay, near the island's southern tip.

A gleaming monument on Havana's Malecon Boulevard bears the inscription: "Liberty dearly bought is fondly cherished."

White steps lead up to 75-foot marble shafts which support a bronze American eagle with wings spread. It is Cuba's tribute to the United States.

Real Handy
RUPERT, Jan. 31—Deputy Sheriff Howard Platt didn't have any trouble estimating the damage in a minor accident Thursday at Winn's Service station here. One of the drivers, Douglas D. Brown, Boise, is an insurance adjuster.

Fred Winn, proprietor of the station, was backing a 1955 Chevrolet pickup out of the driveway and failed to see the Boise pair pulling into the pumps. The pickup struck Brown's 1958 Chevrolet on the left side, causing an estimated $150 damage. Damage to the rear end of the pickup was set at $15.

U.S. Adds up Space Success; Falls Short of Soviet Actions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—One year after launching their first successful Earth satellite, America's space scientists could count the score and find:

Their efforts will fall short of Russia's in terms of rocket propulsive power, weights of payloads placed in orbit, and altitudes achieved.

They have at least matched the Soviets, they say, on the basis of scientific information obtained.

It was a year ago tonight when a Jupiter C army rocket roared up from Cape Canaveral, Fla., and shot a 30-pound satellite, called Explorer I into orbit around the Earth 1,000 miles high.

Now, 12 months later, Dr. T. Keith Glennan, head of the civilian space agency, told the senate's space and preparedness subcommittee in testimony yesterday that: "I don't think we're back of the Russians at all, except in propulsion. We're at least as good as they are, except in propulsion."

In the year since the army's top missile scientist, Dr. Warner von Braun strode triumphantly onto the stage of the great hall of the National Academy of Sciences here to give reporters first details of the Explorer I launching, the United States has:

Successfully placed in orbit two more army Explorer satellites. Explorers I and IV are still whizzing around the Earth and will be doing so for about five years.

Orbited one navy Vanguard satellite, a grapefruit-size moon that is still gunning along at altitudes up to about 2,400 miles, sending radio signals from a solar-powered radio. It will be in business for an estimated 200 years, but it's the only successful Vanguard out of seven attempts since Dec. 6, 1957.

Sent two space probes called Pioneer I and Pioneer II to heights of 71,000 and 66,654 miles respectively before they plunged back and re-integrated in the Earth's atmosphere.

Pioneer III was to have shot past the moon and gone into orbit around the sun, as the Russians say their Lunik space probe did a few weeks ago. But, though the Pioneers fell far short of their goals, scientists say they gained a lot of information about radiation in space.

Placed in orbit for about a month a 4 1/2-ton Atlas satellite, bearing 150 pounds of radio equipment which relayed a recorded Christmas message from President Eisenhower back to Earth.

This satellite performed other communications tricks in the first known test of a system which scientists predict will someday make possible global radio and television broadcasts via satellite relay.

The United States has yet to place an animal in orbit, as Russia did with the dog Laika in Sputnik II, fired Nov. 4, 1957.

The Americans sent a monkey and a mouse to substantial heights in the nose cones of nonorbiting missile shots.

On the scientific data front, U.S. scientists contend that despite the smaller size of their satellites they scored a unique achievement in being the first to discover a band of potentially dangerous radiation in space.

It is called the Van Allen Belt in honor of Dr. James Van Allen of the State University of Iowa, who discovered it while analyzing data first picked up by Explorers I and II.

The Americans also were the first to report evidence that the Earth is pear-shaped, rather than spherical—information gleaned from observations of the little Vanguard.

And for the immediate future? Possibly, another Vanguard try will be made in a few weeks.

The army may take another shot at the moon around the end of February.

On the West coast, preparations are being made for the first of a dozen launchings this year of Dis-

Bald Bird May Help Get Cure For Bald Men

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—A bird that gets bald may come to the rescue of bald and balding men.

The bird is the male adult waterfowl.

It's his natural misfortune to lose the feathers on top of his head. The pattern is much like ordinary baldness in men, says Dr. James B. Hamilton, chairman of the department of anatomy, State University of New York, Brooklyn.

Bird Solution May Help
Learning why the birds get bald might help explain human baldness and its remedy.

Dr. Hamilton spoke today to a conference on hair growth and hair regeneration. The conference was sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences.

Some mysteries about baldness are being clarified, and there are hopes the cause can be found, said Dr. Irving I. Lubowe. He is dermatologist of the New York Medical college and conference chairman.

Some Hair Growth
In one particular kind of spotty baldness, known as alopecia areata, long-term treatment with some hormone like drugs stimulated hair growth in a significant percentage of patients, Dr. Lubowe said.

The drugs, which included prednisone, prednisolone, and methyprednisolone, must be used carefully to avoid undesirable effects, he cautioned.

Public Forum Area Man Feels Open Primary Better Than Convention Plan

Editor, Times-News:

It seems we have reached a stage in our political party control over all candidates, that does not work out 100 per cent, as witnessed by our last election. And so the politicians of both parties are making some effort to change the rules. The voters rejected the candidates of the party in power, except the one who controls most of the appointed offices.

In doing so the ground was cut from under the present majority party. The Democrats have not for several years been able to award their faithful henchmen a political job in Idaho. So they try to change the rules to correct this. From now reports the political bosses are toy-

State Legislator Clarifies Speech On State School

Editor, Times-News:

Your paper apparently misrepresented a statement I made from the floor of the senate in which I reported my findings at the industrial training school at St. Anthony.

The letter quoted in your paper from George E. MacDonald, Jan. 25, and another addressed to me appear to have obtained the same impression.

Here is the statement as quoted in another paper which correctly reports my statement.

"After looking things over Burtenshaw made the remark that if the legislators wanted to hold the line they should refrain from visiting the institution because the need for additional money is very obvious."

I have always been in favor of improving conditions at the state institutions. A correction as to my true sentiments and feelings toward the institutions should be made.

2 Fliers Reach 58 Days Aloft In Air Record

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 31 (AP)—Those two endurance fliers are still up in the air over the Nevada-California desert. They've been up 58 days.

And they don't seem to be in any hurry to come down.

"We're just enjoying ourselves now," radioed one of the fliers, Robert Timm, 32, Las Vegas.

"We have no worries and it's just a matter of seeing how far we can stretch it out."

Timm and John Cook, 33, Los Angeles, flying a single-engine Cessna 172, broke the old endurance record of 50 days, 18 minutes on Jan. 23. They were shooting for a record of 80 days.

With 58 days aloft behind them they now say they want to go for 70 days.

Timm and Cook are helping to raise funds for the Damon Runyon Cancer fund. Contributors get a chance to win a $10,000 prize by guessing the closest to the time the two men remain in the air.

The fliers pick up fuel and supplies from a speeding truck at the Blythe, Calif., airport.

Politician for France Is Into Parties Affair

PARIS, Jan. 31 (AP)—A Paris scandal involving teen-age girls at late night parties brought an indictment today against Andre le Troquer, bald and dapper president of the last national assembly.

The one-armed 74-year-old politician was indicted for an attack on public morals, an indefinite charge under French law which could later be spelled out and mean 10 years in prison on conviction.

Indictment Requested

Le Troquer said he had been indicted at his own request so that he could clear his name by having full access to the facts. He had earlier written to a French newspaper flatly denying any connection with the case, which is called here "The Rose Ballet."

He denied that his suburban villa had been used for any such girls' evenings.

The name The Rose Ballet was given the affair by French newspapers. In French minds the phrase invokes thoughts of the primrose path and ballets performed elsewhere than the theater.

Affair Spotted Year Ago

The affair came to light last year when juvenile authorities were suddenly beset by mothers complaining their daughters were being led astray.

The mothers said businessmen and industrialists entertained the young ladies in villas outside Paris. The daughters sometimes didn't return home until after dawn. Just who named Le Troquer or what the specific charges against him are is unknown.

He is one of France's best known political figures. He lost his right arm in World War I.

Chicago Fire Costs Mount

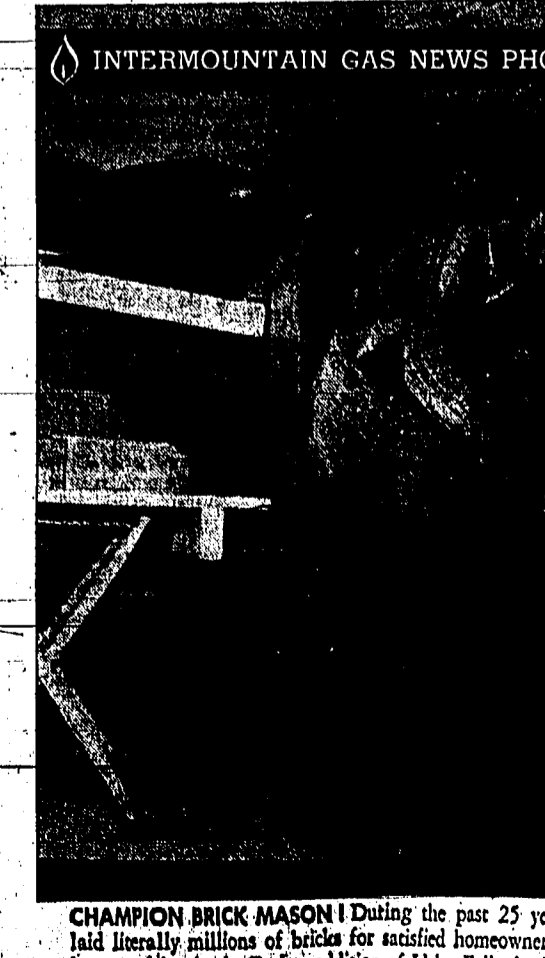

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Our Lady of the Angels school fire flickered out two months ago, but the costs and consequences go on and on.

Outlays for the victims and their families alone add up thus far to $450,000.

Steps to safeguard Chicago's schools will run into millions.

The expensive aftermath of the Dec. 1 disaster may extend to your town, too.

"The old-style school building is a national problem in a country 182 years old," commented Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn. "America has many, many school buildings that need to be rebuilt."

CHAMPION BRICK-MASON During the past 25 years, Richard Jacobsen has laid literally millions of bricks for satisfied homeowners in Eastern Idaho. Shown here working in the Packer addition of Idaho Falls, he is proud of the new all-gas homes being built by Idaho Lumber Co. Natural Gas will heat these homes efficiently and economically, just as it does the kilns where the quality bricks Mr. Jacobsen uses are made. All-gas homes are just naturally happier homes!—Adv.

Hair Cut at 2 Months

Barry Brackett, 2-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brackett, route 3, Twin Falls, traded his shaggy hair Friday for a regular haircut. Barber William Hapley said Barry was the youngest child he had seen in his 18 years of barbering who really needed a haircut. Barry behaved beautifully for the project, which usually brings protests from small fry. (Staff photo-engraving)

Jaycees Hold 1959 Contest For Students

Twin Falls high school students and others from throughout Idaho are competing in the Junior Chamber of Commerce "My true security" contest, successor to the "Voice of democracy" event held in previous years, says Duane Sawyer, Jaycee chairman.

In Twin Falls, students will write essays to be given to Mrs. Vernon Hedner, English teacher at the high school, for semi-final judging. Essays will be on the theme of "Do I want everything... given to me or do I want to work for it and earn it on my own?"

The local entries, tape-recorded, will be judged by a panel to be selected by Sawyer and Eldon Jackman, co-chairman. An eight by 10-inch photo of the winner and a tape-recording of the talk will be entered in the state contest.

The state winner will receive a $1,000 scholarship to the College of Idaho and a plane trip to the national contest in Washington, D. C., where winners will spend three days. The national winner will receive another $1,000 scholarship and the two runners-up will receive a $500 scholarship each.

Hungary Cuts Activities for U. S. Legation

BUDAPEST, Jan. 31 (AP)—Hungary announced tonight it is curtailing the activities of the U. S. legation here.

A foreign ministry statement distributed by the official news agency MTI said Hungary feels compelled to take the step because of U. S. reaction to a Jan. 27 note proposing diplomatic negotiations to settle differences between the two countries.

The Hungarian announcement came less than five hours after the American legation returned the note as unacceptable on the ground it was offensive and contained a veiled threat.

Notices Given at Same Time

The U. S. legation's announcement that it had sent back the note came at the same time the Hungarian government made its limitation action known.

The Hungarians did not define the limitation to be imposed and the U. S. legation said it had not yet received notice of any such action.

The foreign ministry statement referred to previous complaints of undermining work of the American legation in Budapest and illegal American bodies against the state and social order of the Hungarian People's republic.

Assistant Delivers Note

James W. Pratt returned the note as head of the U. S. legation in the absence of Charge d'Affairs Garret G. Ackerson, Jr. Pratt said he acted on instructions from Washington.

He said he pointed out the language was offensive and it contained a veiled threat in stating that Hungary would be forced to take some undefined action if the United States did not agree to negotiate.

Report Given on Work in Benefit

Patricia Fields, vice president of the Busy Doers 4-H club, reported at the Saturday meeting the group had earned more than $10 for the National foundation drive at the benefit carnival.

The 4-H pledge was led by Laura Lee Harper and Andrea Vanau-deln led the pledge of allegiance.

An illustrated talk on protecting hearing was given by Miss Vanau-deln. Miss Fields spoke on protecting food and water supplies.

A discussion type program centered on rounding out three meals. Hostess was Laura Lee Harper.

The group will meet at the Knoll community center at 2 p.m. Feb. 14.

Red Believes U. S. Wanting Peaceful Life

MOSCOW, Jan. 31 (AP)—Dep. Soviet Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan said today he deduced from his visit to the United States that American leaders "are disposed to allow a policy of peaceful co-existence."

Mikoyan spoke to the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party. Describing his talks with leaders in the United States, Mikoyan said: "I no longer heard the former statements about the policy of containment, of thrusting back and so on."

Dulles Attacked

Mikoyan then swung into an attack on U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Referring to Dulles' statements at a news conference on Jan. 27, Mikoyan said these "did not show that Dulles was true to the spirit of our meeting."

Dulles told his news conference he did not feel there was a genuine Soviet desire to end the cold war, but "there is a very strong desire to make us think the cold war is ended."

Phrase Not Accepted

The Soviet coined phrase "peaceful coexistence" has found little acceptance in the West because it is often interpreted as a passive posture opening the way to communist penetration.

Mikoyan made a strong plea for more trading between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Arms Aren't Wanted

"We do not intend to buy arms from America," he said. "We have enough of our own and of better quality."

He said the Soviet Union was ready to conclude trade agreements with America for three, five or seven years — if the United States would lift "discriminatory" tariffs off the traditional items of Soviet export.

Magic Valley Woman Receives Maico Award

Mrs. Jessie Sparks of 430 Borah Street, Twin Falls, Idaho is shown being awarded the new "Decidedly Different" Malco Thin Line Hearing Glasses in the Malco Electronics hearing promotion just concluded by Vern Hedner of the Malco Twin Falls Hearing Center.

Mrs. Sparks has worn hearing aids for several years, and was amazed at the tremendous improvement made in hearing aids. She says the new clarity, performance and design of the Malco hearing glasses is something she never dreamed could be achieved. Mrs. Sparks recommends them highly to others who have been "putting up" with the old conventional "transmitter-on-body" type aids, where extra noises interfered with her normal hearing. "This," she says, "is like living in a new world—it's wonderful." Adv.

Interest High In Early Gem State History

Various organizations and schools throughout Magic Valley are showing a decided interest in the history of Idaho territory during the first 100 years of its existence.

This observation was made by O. L. Kellner, volunteer field representative of the Idaho Historical Society, who is assisted by his wife, Mrs. John, in engaged in doing research into the early history of the state's ghost town areas. Photographs are taken of the various areas during the summer season and lectures and slide shows are presented during the winter. Items of historical interest also are displayed.

Three shows produced so far have been seen by more than 7,000 individuals in Magic Valley since 1958. After the research project is completed, probably within the next two years, the field notes and pictures will be given to the historical society where they will be available for use of persons interested in this phase of the state's history. The project is now in its third year, says Kellner. All towns pictured were "ghost" in the early days of territorial formation.

The areas visited and pictured so far include Silver City in Owyhee county; Idaho City and surrounding ghost towns in Boise county; and also the old towns and sites of Alamo and Rocky Bar in Elmore county, as well as Sawtooth City, Vienna, Custer and Bonanza in the Stanley basin area.

During the past week the show, "Central Idaho Ghosts" has been presented to members of the Presbyterian Men's club in Twin Falls, and members of the Falls Avenue club at a polluck supper entertained by members' husbands.

"Silver City" has been shown to members of Twin Falls junior high school student body at Kimberly, Murtaugh PTA, the Boy's club of Twin Falls high school and the student body of Hansen high school. "Idaho City" has been shown to members of the Twin Falls Elks lodge.

Among showings set for the immediate future is "Silver City" at a dinner meeting of the Twin Falls board of realtors at the Rice Bowl on Wednesday, Feb. 4; Canyonside school PTA in Jerome county the evening of Thursday, Feb. 5; district Boy Scout court of honor at Washington school in Twin Falls the evening of Wednesday, Feb. 11.

"Idaho City" will be shown at a meeting of the Shrine club at the Legion hall in Twin Falls the night of Monday, Feb. 9, and also at the Pershing PTA meeting in Rupert the evening of Thursday, Feb. 12.

"Central Idaho Ghosts" will be featured at a meeting of women of the Presbyterian church the night of Feb. 27; Newcomer's club on Saturday afternoon, March 7, and at the regular Kiwanis club session Thursday noon, March 26.

Three Crashes Reported Here

City police investigated three accidents Friday evening. No injuries were reported and no citations were issued.

Damages estimated at $200 to a 1958 Chevrolet driven by James W. Mullins, 44, Mountain Home, resulted at 2:40 p.m. Friday when the Mullins vehicle was struck by a 1952 Dodge driven by Harrison J. Zilliox, 61, Kimberly. The Mullins car was parked in front of 1155 Highland avenue east. Damages to the Zilliox vehicle were estimated at $25.

A 1959 Dodge driven by Frank C. Barnes, 88, Jerome, and a 1947 Dodge driven by Lyn Peterson, 14, 330 Blue Lakes boulevard, collided at the intersection of Third avenue east and Second street. The Peterson car was undamaged with damages to the Barnes car estimated at $20.

Two cars collided at noon Friday at the intersection of Shoshone street east and Tenth avenue, a 1957 Plymouth driven by Warren F. Brown, 47, 385 Pierce street, and a 1935 Oldsmobile driven by Nora M. Allen, 27, 376 Pierce street. The Allen car was undamaged with damages to the Brown car set at $35.

MAN, YOU'RE KILLIN' THAT POOR GAL!

We like to be pampered, waited on, and served, and so do you. The oil man brings the oil; fills the tank, measures out how many gallons, leaves a bill. We never see him, but we know he's been there. He'll be back if we pay the bill.

Now, you want to get out a letter to your customers. So you instruct your already overworked secretary to type each one, address each envelope, fold each letter, lick each envelope, affix each stamp and take it to the postoffice.

Yeah, you're killin' that poor gal, and all unnecessarily, too. We'd serve you you know. Here's how. We'd multigraph that letter, fold it, address the envelopes, stuff, seal and stamp them, and even mail them for you.

Go on and kill your secretary if your conscience doesn't bother you, but you'll have to hire another one, and we'll be out of business.

Legislature in Utah Handles Funds Affairs

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 31 (AP)—Tax exemptions and extensions locked the money balance in the Utah legislature last week and it was pretty hard to tell whether this meant more or less state revenue.

Eventually, it will no doubt mean more if only because the state needs more.

Fuel Tax Hike Rejected

On Monday the senate rejected a one-cent increase in the diesel fuel tax. But yesterday it gave overwhelming approval to the off-highway gas tax refund bill on second reading.

The off-highway bill will probably come up for final action on Monday, but appears to be assured of passage. The diesel tax increase would have brought in a quarter of a million dollars a year, but the off-highway refund would lose a half million, or maybe a full million.

Withholding Tax Bill Starts

However, the house came to the state. The state withholding tax bill was introduced. It may bring a million a year.

Then, too, there were several measures introduced in the senate to extend the sales and use tax to some now-exempt items — such as

'Old Men' Get Tests; Results Are Not Poor

LUBBOCK, Tex., Jan. 31 (AP)—Lubbock kids, your old man isn't so dumb.

A schoolteacher dropped 30 questions in front of Lubbock Exchange club members the other day. Of the 31 persons at the service organization meeting all passed.

The questions were designed for seventh, eighth and ninth graders. The questions were not the easy ones. They were designed for teenagers not too far from college who had studied the subjects intensely before the tests.

'Vacation' Was Long

It had been a long time since the Exchange club members had done any formal studying. The questions were on spelling, social studies, science, mathematics, word meaning and language.

Mrs. Marlin Hayhurst, a substitute teacher in the Lubbock school, gave the exam. The "students" received 25 minutes in which to answer.

90 Errors Made

Out of a possible 930 errors, only 90 were committed. That's better than a 90 per cent average.

The members didn't sign the answers. Instead, they gave their occupational titles.

The one-perfect paper was from an accountant. Six missed only one question. One member missed seven out of 31, still a passing grade by many standards.

Circle Problems Hardest

The hardest question, missed by 14, was this:

If the radius of a circle is doubled, the circumference will be increased by how many times — 2, 3 1-7, 4, or 8 2-7.

The answer is 2.

The shortest water route from the United States to Europe would be the — Indian ocean, Atlantic, Pacific or Arctic.

Two men approved this sentence: "Mother didn't give the baby no pie."

Governors Seek Civil Rights Acts

DETROIT, Jan. 31 (AP)—The governors' conference on civil rights called upon congress today "to authorize broader federal action with regard to voting rights, to facilitate orderly desegregation of schools, to curb violence and intimidation and to enact federal fair employment legislation."

At the same time the 18-state conference called upon President Eisenhower "for strict executive enforcement of existing laws and executive orders."

Gov. Orville L. Freeman, Minnesota, who was chosen chairman to succeed Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan, said the conference's action was unanimous. Six governors were present; 12 others represented.

Gov. William G. Stratton, Illinois, was elected vice chairman.

STRIKERS TO TALK

Benefit Show Held in Area To Aid Drive

WENDELL, Jan. 31—The sum of $75 was raised at the talent show given for the National foundation Thursday at the grade school auditorium.

The program was opened with music by the junior high school band and closed with numbers by the high school band. The bands are directed by Frank Webster, school music director.

Other entries in the varied program of vocal and instrumental solos and ensembles, readings and dance numbers were classes in three categories, high school, sixth grade and junior high school, and all entries under the sixth grade. Judges were Mrs. George Wahler, Mrs. S. H. Albertson and Mrs. Wayne Fagg.

Winners in the high school division were Melva Thetic, soloist, accompanied by Karen Gow, and the clarinet quartet, Sharon Bungum, Gloria Casper, Shirley Myer and Virginia Beck.

Winners in the junior high school division were Ricky and Kathy Strickland, Gooding, who gave a dance routine, accompanied by their teacher, Mickey Short, Shoshone; and Earlene Wilson with a piano solo. Lynda, Sandra and Bruce Fagg, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Eaton, sang "The Little Blue Boy," for first place in the younger division and Douglas and Tommy Petersen were second with a steel guitar duet, accompanied by their father, Martin Petersen.

The talent show was under the direction of James Todd and Mrs. J. Glen Anderson, co-chairmen of the March of Dimes, and Mrs. Jane Petersen, Gooding county chairman of the National foundation. M. L. McBride was the master of ceremonies.

Storm Causes Area Mishaps

SHOSHONE, Jan. 31—Three accidents were reported by Lincoln county sheriffs officers this week, several caused by the poor driving conditions following the Wednesday storm.

Damage to a 1958 Volkswagen pickup truck owned by Lawrence Beard, Twin Falls, was set at $100 when it went off highway 93 12 miles north of Shoshone Friday afternoon and overturned after the driver fell asleep. Deputy Sheriff Charles Peugh investigated.

Damage to a 1958 Chevrolet driven by Mrs. Amy Robertson, Dietrich, was estimated at $500 by Sheriff Thomas Conner following a collision with a 1958 Ford pickup belonging to Gene Coffman, Shoshone, at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday five miles east of Shoshone on state highway 24.

Mrs. Robertson said snow and a slick road caused her car to run into the path of the other vehicle. Damage to the pickup was $450, the sheriff said. No one was injured.

Wednesday morning Carlos Berrioch, Shoshone, lost control of his 1957 Ford and it ran off the road into an embankment three miles south of Shoshone on U.S. highway 93. Damage is estimated at $125.

WENDELL, Jan. 31—Dr. Eugene Hart, Boise, Idaho state librarian, was guest speaker at the Hub City ETA meeting at the grade school. A film was shown picturing the journals of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

Mrs. Glen Anderson, president, reports a resolution was passed recommending to the school trustees the installation of metal fire doors to the stairway at the grade school. Fire hazard at the grade school because of the hot air vents and inadequate fire escape facilities was explained by Wayne B. Fagg, superintendent of schools, and James Todd, grade school superintendent. Open house was held.

Lucky Winner Is Ordered to Help

DETROIT, Jan. 31 (AP)—A Detroit woman who won $140,000 last fall in the Irish Sweepstakes was ordered yesterday by Probate Judge William J. Cody to pay $50 a month toward support of her mother.

After the government collected its share of her winnings, Mrs. Emelia Krause had $52,000 left. The judge said that left her in a better position than her three brothers to support their mother. Therefore, he ordered her to contribute. Mrs. Krause had offered to pay $20.

Winners Told

SPOKANE, Jan. 31 (AP)—An Oregon girl and Washington boy outdebated 340 other students from Washington, Idaho, Montana and Oregon today to win $500 scholarships to Gonzaga university.

Consuelo Torres, Beaverton, and John Cooney, Spokane, were judged "best overall debaters" in the two-day high school competition sponsored by the Gonzaga English department.

Another Cuba Army Chief Is Due for Death

HAVANA, Jan. 31 (AP)—Capt. Pedro Morejon, condemned to die by rejection of his appeal from a revolutionary trial, made his last confession to a Roman Catholic priest in La Cabana fortress today.

Only the order of the fortress commander, Maj. Ernesto Guevara, remained before he will face a firing squad.

Another Captain Executed
Another Batista army captain, Ramon Mirabal, was executed by a firing squad at Cabalgan in Las Villas province, news dispatches reported. He had been convicted of major war crimes by two revolutionary tribunals and twice sentenced to die.

This pushed the nationwide unofficial total of executions to 263 since the rebels of Fidel Castro triumphed a month ago.

Maj. Jesus Sosa-Bianco, convicted here Jan. 23, is still awaiting action on his appeal.

4,000 Are in Jail
More than 1,000 men accused of war crimes against the rebels are still in prison in Havana, and about 3,000 are in provincial jails.

Maj. Humberto Sori Marin, auditor-general of the revolutionary army, issued indictments against Batista and 24 high ranking army officers, accusing them of treason, rebellion, sedition, desertion, misappropriation of funds, robbery and acts against human rights and collective security.

The charges apparently were in preparation for seeking extradition of Batista and his supporters.

Five Divorce Orders Given In T. F. Court

Decrees for five divorces granted in Twin Falls district court Friday by Judge Theron W. Ward have been filed with the county clerk.

Mrs. Jesse Le Roy Black was granted a divorce. Her attorneys are May and May. Judge Ward granted a divorce to Joseph L. Hoffman, granting him custody of the couple's minor child and awarding him possession of a 1950 Chrysler. Mrs. Hoffman was given possession of a 1953 Dodge and household furniture. Judge Ward confirmed a property settlement agreement. Hoffman's attorney is Lawrence B. Quinn.

Judge Ward awarded custody of four minor children to Mrs. Kenneth D. Pollard in granting her a divorce Friday. She also was given possession of household furniture. She is represented by Quinn.

Mrs. Frank E. Wyant was granted a divorce, receiving custody of two minor children. Wyant was ordered to pay $50 a month each for the children's support. Mrs. Wyant was granted the couple's household and kitchen furniture and a 1954 Buick.

Wyant was awarded possession of a 1956 Chevrolet and ordered to pay the couple's debts. Mrs. Wyant's attorneys are May and May. Mrs. Arthur R. Rytlung was granted a divorce and restoration of her former name, Helen Joan Thorpe. She is represented by Murphy, Schwartz and Cunningham.

Report Given on Contest Results

Twin Falls placed first, Filer second, and Buhl third, in the South Magic Valley district of Future Farmers of America parliamentary contest, it was reported Saturday. The other chapter competing was Murtaugh.

Each team took the floor for five minutes, then each participant was interviewed by the judges separately.

Primary purpose of the parliamentary procedure contest is to learn to transact business in an orderly manner. It also develops leadership and courtesy among members.

The Twin Falls team will represent the South Magic Valley district at the state contest to be held in Idaho Falls in March.

Pep Club Formed For Boys in T. F.

A new boys Pep club has been formed to combat unsportsmanlike conduct at two previous games, states David Angerbauer, president of the new organization.

Dulles Will Go To Europe for Serious Meets

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will fly to Europe next week for urgent consultations with British, French and West German leaders.

His evident mission is to try to wipe out allied differences and get better policy agreements on approaching an East-West foreign ministers meeting and averting a possible spring crisis over Berlin.

The state department announced today that Dulles will leave Tuesday. He will stop first in London, then go to Paris and finally to Bonn. He will be gone about a week.

His main purpose is to talk with foreign ministers, officials said, but it was considered certain he would see British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer as well for important and possibly decisive talks.

Dulles' trip introduces a note of urgency into allied planning which has been going on intensively for several weeks.

There was evidence of allied disagreement earlier this month when Dulles told a news conference that East and West Germany might be unified by some means other than free elections. Adenauer's government became alarmed over the possibility that the United States was abandoning the free election formula.

The most dangerous problems facing the Western powers is what happens at Berlin May 27. That is the date set for Russia's announced intention to turn over occupation authority to the East German government.

Idaho Students to See Power Plant Model

Scale model shows reactor installation and support facilities of a 12,500-kilowatt nuclear power plant. This model will be part of an exhibit by Atomics International, a division of North American Aviation, Inc., for the annual Thomas A. Edison high school science tour at the national reactor testing station near Arco. The reactor core is located underground and consists of 78 slightly enriched uranium fuel elements and seven control rods. Atomics International will build this type of reactor to provide heat for the generation of electricity for the city of Piqua, O., as part of the atomic energy commission's power demonstration reactor program. (Staff engraving)

Science Students to See Atom Power Plants at Arco Station

Scale models of 12,500 and 150,000 kilowatt nuclear power plants will highlight an exhibit by Atomics International, a division of North American Aviation, Inc., for the Thomas A. Edison high school science tour Feb. 7 at the national reactor testing station near Arco.

Models of power plants which utilize organic moderated reactor as the heat source will be displayed. The 12,500-kilowatt model will include a number of features to be incorporated in an OMR that Atomics International will build to generate electricity for the city of Piqua, O. Such a plant would be sufficient to provide power for a city a little larger than Jerome.

More than 2,000 science students and teachers from 62 high schools within a 400-mile radius of Idaho Falls will participate in the tour. Exhibits are planned by atomic energy commission contractors with installations at the NRTS. Tours of several nuclear projects will be conducted.

The AEC and its contractors stage the event annually in observance of the birthday anniversary of Edison. It is part of a program to interest young men and women in careers in science and engineering.

Atomics International is operating the organic moderated reactor experiment (OMRE) for the AEC at the testing station. The OMRE is the prototype for development of both large and small capacity organic moderated nuclear power plants. Application of the OMR to marine propulsion also has been studied.

Soviets Might Finish A-Ship Ahead of U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The United States has four nuclear powered surface ships under construction, but Russia apparently is going to put one into operation a year ahead of this country.

A semiannual report of the atomic energy commission issued today lists three atomic propelled ship projects for the navy and one for the merchant marine.

Spring Completion Planned

It notes that Russia has announced its nuclear propelled icebreaker will be ready for actual use in the spring of 1959.

Not before next year will the first American atom powered surface ships be ready.

The nuclear merchant ship Savannah is scheduled for sea trials in 1960, the AEC report says.

And about that same time the cruiser Lon Beach should be completed, navy records indicate. The other two atomic navy ships—the 80,000-ton, four reactor carrier Enterprise and a nuclear destroyer are scheduled for completion in 1961.

U. S. Leads in Subs

However, the United States continues to hold an apparently long lead in the nuclear submarine field. The report noted that there are now 33 nuclear powered U. S. navy submarines built, building or authorized by congress.

Four of these are now operating in the fleet. A fifth, the Seawolf, is laid up in a yard with atomic fuel removed preparatory to a year-long project of replacing the reactor plant.

To date, there has been no official word that Russia has completed a nuclear submarine.

URANIUM MILL PLANNED

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 31 (AP)—Western - Knapp Engineering, San Francisco, will build a new uranium processing mill in Wyoming's Gas Hills area, Federal Uranium announced today.

Trips Noted

EDEN, Jan. 31 — Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rasmussen and Janet, Porell, were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Rasmussen, Hazelton, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lange.

Terrell Hansen has spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hansen. He is a student at ISCO Pocatello.

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Petterson, Spely Lake, Mont., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis, and other relatives here this week.

Military Data Is Brief

The AEC report, covering specifically the last six months but generally all of 1958, contained only brief data on military weapons.

During the July-December period, it said, "emphasis continued on research and development activities designed to improve and increase the United States arsenal of nuclear weapons."

Year's Lowest Cold Covering Northern U.S.

The coldest weather of the winter numbered parts of the Northern Plains Saturday while a new storm over the midcontinent dumped up to six inches of snow.

The mercury never even flinched with the zero mark at Bismarck, N.D. The city had an overnight low of 39 below and by midday the temperature had climbed back only to 25 below.

Cold Covers Big Area

Throughout the day Saturday subzero cold lingered from Montana eastward into upper Michigan.

Snow blanketed the Central and Northern Plains and the eastern slopes of the Rockies.

Blowing snow fell in southwest Kansas and northwest Oklahoma, with accumulations up to seven and eight inches.

Drizzle Falls in New Mexico

Freezing drizzle spread from New Mexico across the Texas Panhandle and into southern Kansas.

The leading edge of colder air surged across northern Florida but readings pushed into the balmy 80-degree range in southern sections.

Although fair skies brightened most of New England a few snow flurries drifted across northern Maine.

$1,500 Asked For Fracture By Store Suit

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Martin are suing the owners of the Drive-Way market because of a finger fracture Mrs. Martin claims she received there nearly a year ago.

In an action filed in Twin Falls district court Friday against Jack C. Carson and Artell C. Kelly, the Martins seek $1,500 in damages and $84 to cover medical expenses.

The Martins claim that a store employee's negligence resulted in permanent injury to one of Mrs. Martin's fingers. They state she bought groceries at the store on Feb. 15, 1958. An employee carried the groceries to the car and the Martins say he negligently slammed the right rear door on Mrs. Martin's hand.

Representing the Martins are Murphy, Schwartz and Cunningham, local law firm.

Dangerous

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Smoke gets in your eyes—and it can be dangerous, a surgeon has reported.

Writing in the British medical magazine, "The Practitioner," surgeon James H. Doggart said today "smoking is closely linked with dimness of vision and most of the victims of tobacco amblyopia (partial loss of sight) have smoked strong pipe tobacco many years."

Dennis Ambrose And Coast Miss Exchange Vows

JEROME, Jan. 31—Donna June Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry H. Wheeler, Redlands, Calif., became the bride of Dennis C. Ambrose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Ambrose, Jerome, Jan. 17 in the University Methodist church, Redlands. The Rev. Ronald E. Cameron officiated at the ceremony.

The bride's regal wedding gown of antique-bridal taffeta was trimmed with pearl embroidered Alencon lace. The molded bodice was styled with modified Sabrina neckline and the bouffant skirt fell into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was held in place by a Queen's crown of lace embellished with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. For jewelry she wore a gold cross necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

A corsage of pink elfe roses was placed on the Bible belonging to the bridegroom's mother and carried by the bride. She also carried a handkerchief which had been carried by her own mother at her wedding.

Preceding the bride and her father down the aisle were her four attendants, Paula Griffith, maid of honor; Neena Hudwiger, Joy Robinson and Judy Harrison. They wore pink and white tulle sheaths with Miss Griffith's trimmed in white velvet and the bridesmaids in pink velvet. Cascades of pink carnations were arranged for the attendants to carry with white carnations added to the honor attendant's bouquet.

Ronald P. Robbs was best man. Ushering the 200 guests were Robert Forstel, Morris Samons and John Johnson.

Carolyn Handley, in a dress identical to those worn by the bridesmaids, was candlelighter. White bows decorated the pews leading to the altar with its candelabra, palms and arrangements of white stock, white pompons and candytuft.

Virginia Fair, soloist, was accompanied by Harold Jensen on the church organ as she sang "At Dawning" and "Because" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" during the reading of the nuptials.

Both mothers of the couple chose aqua as the color for their dresses. Mrs. Wheeler's dress was made of lace over tulle and Mrs. Ambrose's of velvet. They wore corsages of pink rosebuds.

In the church's Fellowship hall, Mrs. Lynn Hansen, sister of the bridegroom, took care of the guest book during the reception.

Pink carnations and greenery surrounded the four-tiered wedding cake decorated with white wedding bells, lilacs-of-the-valley and pink roses. The cake was served by Mrs. Martin Badger, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Russell Pilkington. Mrs. Robert Murphy and Mrs. Al Rountroupe poured.

Lynda Webster and Linda Wheeler attended the gift table.

The new Mrs. Ambrose changed into a blue suit with hat to match before leaving on her wedding trip to Las Vegas and Jerome. The newlyweds will make their home in Redlands.

The bride, a 1956 graduate of Redlands high school, attended the University of Redlands one year, and is employed in the engineering department of the California Water and Telephone company. She is a past honored queen of Job's Daughters and served as grand Bethel representative of California.

Ambrose, an airman first class, is serving in the air force stationed at March air force base. He was graduated in 1954 from Jerome high school and later attended the University of Idaho. A past master counselor of DeMolay, he served as Idaho State second-preceptor and junior counselor.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

This is a land of plenty to be known they are engaged to be married and it might be that this wealth of things has gone to our heads, particularly where children and youth are concerned. We seem to be anxious to give them the rewards of work of maturity, before they are ready to manage them, or even to understand the meaning of the obligations inherent in them.

For example we think it is so "sweet" to dress the kindergarteners who are being promoted to the grades in cap and gown and lead them in solemn procession to their new classrooms. This gives the children pleasure but the real pleasure of the occasion is that of the adults watching.

"Aren't they just darling? the little loves."

"Don't they look wonderful — so innocent, wearing those black gowns and caps. Look — They're actually turning the tassel!"

Great fun for adults, this masquerade of learning.

A high school youth is going to his class prom. Not the once important prom at the close of his secondary school career, just a class prom. The "kids" just can't wait for that. So this boy scarcely out of his teens must have a "formal," a tuxedo. Again, how sweet he looks, so boyish in his borrowed dress.

"I say borrowed because it has been borrowed, or plain lifted, from his later, more understanding years when it might have been more satisfying, more of a reward, more a symbol of hard gained maturity. He has been cheated of this feeling by having his symbol bestowed upon him before he was ready for it before it could have much meaning to him. It should mean more than just another suit."

We do the same thing to the girls. They are gowned in full evening dress when they are still in elementary school. The dresses are so pretty, the girls look so "out of this world" in them. They are out of the world they belong in and that is not good. Next thing one

Carolyn Laird Is Wed to Bishop in Reno Ceremonies

JEROME, Jan. 31—In recent rites solemnized at the Park wedding chapel in Reno, Carolyn Marie Laird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Laird, became the bride of John Edward Bishop, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bishop.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Raymond Walters before an altar background of American Beauty roses with single tapers and flanking tiffany baskets of snapdragons and candelabra at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 17.

The bride wore a white dressmaker suit with white feather hat and complementing accessories. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Laird attended her daughter as matron of honor and George Bishop served as best man for his son.

She wore a dress of blue satin brocade, matching accessories and a pink rosebud corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a winter white wool dress with accenting accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Holiday hotel in Reno. They are making their home in Palo Alto, Calif., after a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

The bride, who was chosen Miss Twin Falls of 1956 and was distinguished by her marriage, is a junior at San Jose State college, San Jose, Calif., where she will continue her studies. She was graduated from Jerome high school.

Bishop, also a Jerome high school graduate, is a pre-med student at Stanford university, Palo Alto. He will attend Utah State university, Salt Lake City, next year, where he received an appointment to continue his studies in medicine.

Ceramics Shown For Mentor Club

Ceramics were displayed and the process of making them explained at the Wednesday meeting of the Mentor club at the home of Mrs. Walter Miller.

Mrs. Tom Bucklin, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Otto Caldwell who told about the ceramics.

The club decided to contribute to the Mexico CARE project. Each member was assessed 50 cents to cover added club expenses.

A party was planned for husbands to be held Feb. 24 at the home of Mrs. A. F. Witley with Mrs. Tom Alworth and Mrs. Mallard Ewing assisting. There will be no February meeting.

Guests were Mrs. Lyman Stewart and Mrs. Caldwell. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Lee Eldredge.

Dinner Held for Fathers of LDS Primary Groups

DEULO, Jan. 31—Lark Bluebird and Seagulls girls' classes of the LDS Primary held their "daddy date" dinner Wednesday night at the recreation hall. Each girl invited her father to be a special guest.

The welcome was given by Nona Lee Jacobs, mistress of ceremony. A toast to "daddy" was given in unison by the girls. The opening prayer was given by Dean Darrington.

A toast, "Friendship Ties," was given by Julia Bywater with the response, "Family Ties," by a father, Darrel Darrington. A toast, "Spiritual Ties," was presented by Bishop J. Harry Darrington.

The tables were decorated with ruffled dolls and placards of little boys and girls under the direction of Mrs. Clarence Phillips.

The girls sang "Good Night, Daughter and Good Night Daddy" and Linda Larsen led the closing prayer.

Games were directed by Mrs. Cleo Richardson. The game "Tit Tat Toe" was played by a girl and her daddy, and the prize winners were Janice Schmidt, Ray Schmidt and Robert Powers.

There were 22 girls and 18 fathers present. The primary presidency were special guests. They were Mrs. Davis Matthews, Mrs. June Schmidt and Mrs. Sally Taylor. Burley stake board members present were Mrs. Gene Nielson and Mrs. Betty Johnson.

Lark class teacher is Mrs. Barbara Vosberg and class members are Elaine Darrington, Merrill Osterhout, Sharon Matthews, Ida Phillips, Linda Larson, Gwen Jacobs and Della Hurst.

Bluebird class leader is Mrs. Clarence Phillips and class members are Willine Kidd, Nan Darrington, Jean Darrington, Susan Darrington, Susan Powers and Charlotte Houser.

Seagull class teacher is Mrs. Cleo Richardson. Members are Janice Schmidt, Carolyn Wimpsey, Julia Bywater, Nona Lee Jacobs, Luane Powers, Laurene McGraw, Charlotte Matthews, Patty Moon and Sharen Kidd.

Couple Honored

EDEN, Jan. 31—Mr. and Mrs. Allan Baker were honored at a farewell party at the Eden Church of Christ. Church members served a dinner in the church basement. The honorees were presented a gift from the congregation.

The Bakers, who have resided here north of town for many years, left this week for Portersville, Calif., to make their home.

LaVon Bymaster And Walker Wed In Lincoln Ritual

RICHFIELD, Jan. 31—LaVon Bymaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Bymaster, Dietrich, exchanged marriage vows with Ernest Walker at 4 o'clock rites Wednesday afternoon at the home of the Rev. Ralph Lawrence, Shoshone, officiating minister. Walker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker, Richfield.

The bride chose a white afternoon gown accented with pink for the double ring ceremony. Attendees were Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Johnson.

A dinner was held at the Manhattan cafe following the wedding.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of Dietrich high school. Walker attended Richfield schools and served three and one-half years in the air force—formerly employed by Boeing Aircraft company in Seattle. He is now associated in business with his father at Richfield. They are at home on the Walker ranch.

Local Women Seek Answers to Legal Problems

From left, Mrs. Wesley Sonius and Mrs. Thomas H. Curtis are discovering this is the hard way for the average woman to obtain information concerning legal matters. Mrs. Sonius and Mrs. Curtis are among the many women who are becoming increasingly interested in estate planning and community property laws and were seeking their information from the Twin Falls county law library. (Staff photo- engraving).

Community Property Laws Are Kind to Idaho Women

"I don't suppose that every married woman living in Idaho has cause to give thanks daily for the fact that she is married or the fact that she lives in Idaho, but if she is married and lives in Idaho she should give thanks daily that there is a community property law in this state," is a local attorney's comment regarding community property laws.

Because of these days of high inheritance taxes a lot of interest is being shown by women in community property laws and estate planning. Another reason is because this community has reached the stage where widespread accumulation of wealth and generation building the Twin Falls tract is beginning to pass.

TWIN FALLS CRUSHES CALDWELL 42-29 BEHIND TIGHT DEFENSE

Bruins Hurry to Big Lead in Third Period, Coast in

Twin Falls Bruins surrounded the Caldwell Cougars with an ironclad defense Saturday night and crushed the Southern Idaho conference leaders 42-29. Although the Cougar shooting percentage was low, much of Caldwell's inability to hit stemmed from the sticky man-to-man defense Twin Falls employed. Defensive honors went to center Dave Fix, who held Jim Keller, conference leading scorer, to six points, four of them in the final quarter when Twin Falls held a 15-point advantage.

Rogers Paces Bruins to Win Over Braves

Larry Rogers triggered a momentary Twin Falls rally early in the fourth quarter and that brief surge gave the Bruins a 37-34 Southern Idaho conference victory over Boise Braves Friday night.

Rogers blew life into a faltering Bruin machine that had been tied by the Braves late in the third quarter and leading most of the way. Under his leadership, Twin Falls struck for seven straight points and then fought off a Boise full-court press just often enough to capture the victory.

Both teams spent their time on offense waiting for an error in the opposition defenses. Twin Falls stayed with its man-to-man defense while Boise again tried the zone which stymied the Bruins earlier this year.

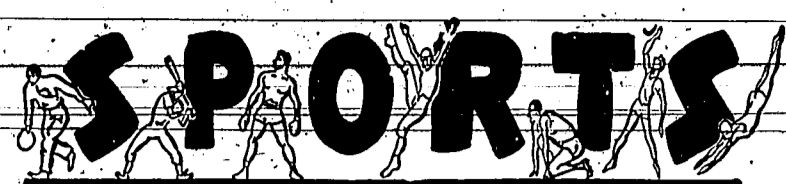

Boise drew first blood as the Bruins opened only to have the Bruins come back to make it a score again first quarter. Boise was on top 9-7 at the end of the first eight minutes.

At the second quarter opened, Bill Hilton who filled in with some timely outside shooting all night, and Dave Fix collected goals to give the Bruins a lead. They were tied seconds later but Ulrich shoved the Bruins ahead for keeps. By halftime Twin Falls was on top 20-16 after leading by six points at one stage.

Boise opened the second half with a full court press and with 42 seconds remaining in the game, Embrey hit from the top of the key to tie the count at 25 all.

Rogers got a free throw to make it 25-28 and Fix got a left-handed semi-hook shot just before the buzzer. Hilton came through with another of his 20-foot jump shots as the period opened and Rogers, who was controlling both boards at this time, pulled down a rebound and stuffed it back in to give Twin Falls its biggest lead of the night at 32-25.

The Boise press, which hadn't started play up to that point, started rattling Twin Falls and the Braves started coming back. They crept to within two points before clutch Hilton canned another outside shot. Again Boise pulled within two points as Laubenthal hit a soft jump shot. The Bruins got their last point when Boise coach Dan Fodrea was charged with a technical foul for protesting a decision too vigorously.

17-Year-Old Jumper Tops 7 Feet at Millrose Games

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Fantasy John Thomas, the 17-year-old Boston university freshman, became the first man in history to jump seven feet indoors tonight when he cleared the height in the Millrose games.

He missed — badly. Didn't even come close. Then it was Dumas' turn. He missed, too. Back came young Thomas, who incidentally never had seen the great Dumas before.

Russian who caused all sorts of consternation last year when he cleared the height with a built-up shoe. After he'd made seven feet, Thomas asked the officials to raise the bar to seven feet, one and one-fourth inches, which would shatter all world records, indoors or outdoors, if he made it. But he missed on all three tries.

Burley Bobcats Pull Away in Final Quarter to Defeat Boise by 54-49

BURLEY, Jan. 31—The Burley Bobcats sharpened up their collective shooting eyes both from the field and free throw line in the fourth quarter here Saturday night as they turned back the Boise Braves 54-49. It was a non-conference game. Free throws turned the battle for the fourth district team. Boise got 19 field goals compared with 17 for Burley but the host Bobcats hit on 20 of 31 charity attempts. Boise could turn 17 Burley fouls into only 11 points.

The Bobcats had to overcome a minor deficit early in the game and then outscorped the Braves for the remainder of the game. Boise took the first quarter lead 12-10 but Burley rebounded to tie it 23-23 at halftime.

The teams saw-sawed through the third period, Burley winning it on top 35-33. Then the Braves started committing fouls as the Bobcats threatened to pull away. Burley paraded to the free throw line to put the Capital city crew safely behind them.

State Minimum Wage Change Discussed at Chamber's Meet

A discussion was held at the Friday noon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors on the minimum wage law passed by the house Thursday. While no recommendations resulted, feeling of the group was that the measure should be considered from all aspects with consideration to the over-all economy of the state before being enacted into law.

It was pointed out that the increase from 75 cents to $1 for the minimum was not the major item to the employer; but the additional increase for other wage brackets in comparison.

City Manager J. H. Latimore declared that in the case of the city recreation program, where several students are hired during the summer, wages of other trained personnel would have to be adjusted, with the brunt going right back to the taxpayers.

Chamber Secretary-Manager William Grange announced that more than 100 reservations have been made to date for the annual dinner meeting Tuesday night.

Speaker for the 40th anniversary observance of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce will be Jordan J. Crouch, Reno, Nev. The dinner meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the American Legion hall.

Invocation will be given by the Rev. W. A. MacArthur and Roy Painter will be toastmaster. The high school ensemble will sing, directed by Robert D. Wilson.

Crouch, who is widely known in the West as a speaker, is vice president of the First National bank of Reno. He is past president of the Reno Rotary club and has held numerous other civic posts.

Two hundred and seventy-eight teachers and businessmen have indicated they plan to participate in the Business-Education day sponsored by the chamber Wednesday, Grange reported.

Ray J. Holmes recommended the unit retail membership in the Highway 93 association.

On a motion by Edward Heep, the board endorsed action of valley-wide chambers favoring the present department of commerce and development and opposing proposed legislation to transfer it to the state department.

Warren Barry reported for the industrial development committee on plans for expansion and reorganization.

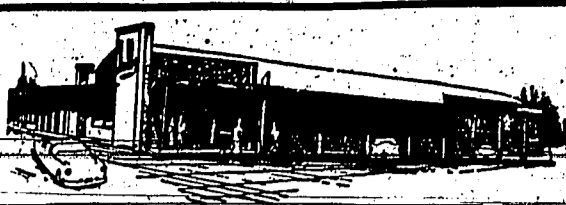

A guest was Marvin Christensen.

Only One Area Poultry Processor Affected by New Inspection Laws

Only one Magic Valley processor affected by federal legislation became effective Jan. 1...

John Bertie, manager of Bertie's Poultry Farm, displays some of the chicks that the farm places with 21 contract growers in Magic Valley.

Bertie says certain basic changes are demanded by the department of agriculture before it will approve a poultry processing plant.

With new equipment the plant can process 10,000 chickens during an eight-hour working day... Bertie says most plants have had to increase the amount of floor space in relation to the volume of the product.

T. F. Man Still Practices Art of Horseshoeing

Jack Meuser, long-time Twin Falls and Magic Valley blacksmith born in Germany, started shoeing horses shortly after the turn of the century in New York City.

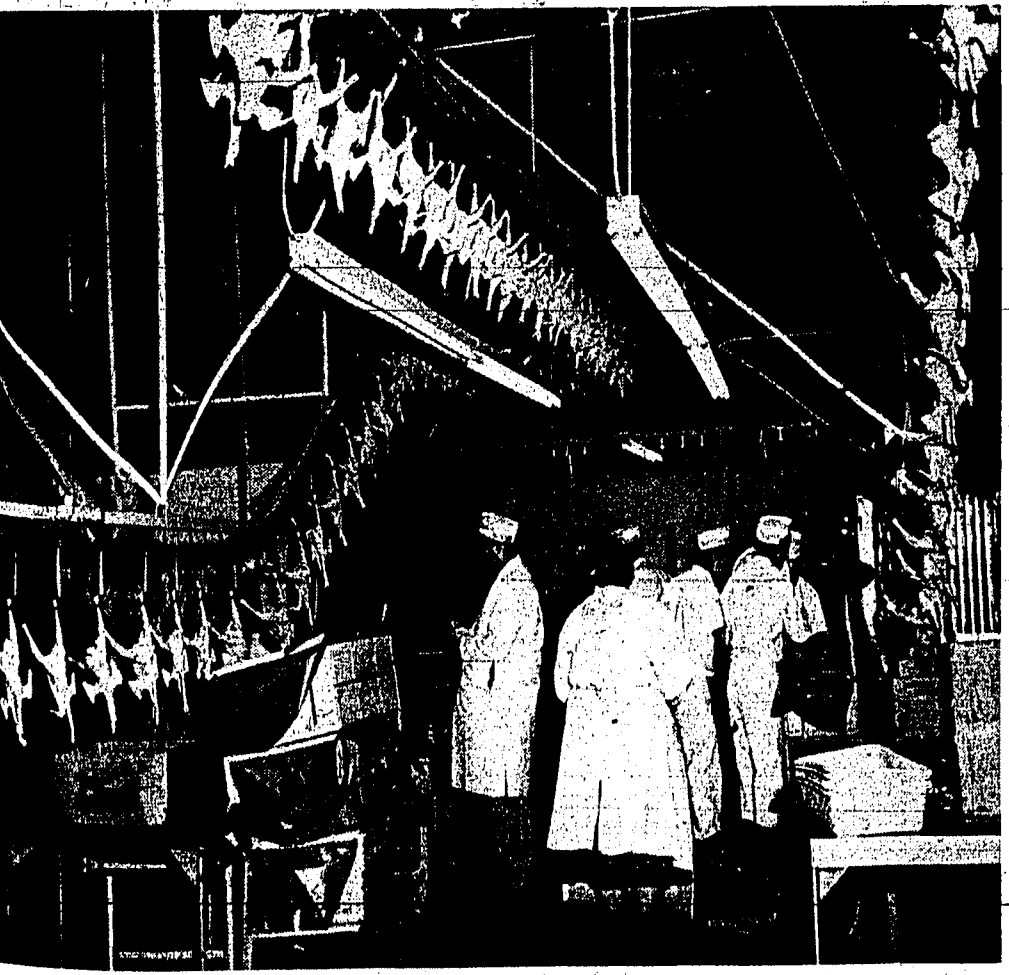

Horseshoers Getting Scarce; Good Ones in Demand, T. F. Man Says

In today's automobile era, horse-lovers often are heard grouching about the relative lack of trained persons to shoe horses.

Meuser said the cobblestones of the city streets rapidly wore the horseshoes and the horseshoeing business was rather lucrative.

Meuser, who is also a wheelwright and blacksmith, says learning the trade of a horseshoer was difficult.

This is also a problem with modern day horseshoers, but Meuser says the main reason younger men don't enter the trade is because of the long apprenticeship time required to learn the various intricate ways to shoe horses and because of the hard work.

Employees and John Bertie, left, work in the packing area of the plant. At this point the chickens have been cleaned and are ready to be packed and sent to buyers.

No-Nonsense Approach Being Used On Education by School in Texas

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Jan. 31—There's a no-nonsense approach to education in San Angelo, it's based on the theory and practice that students go to school to learn, not just to have a good time.

Basically, it's a simple idea. You make school an attractive place to spend the day. You outline a course of studies that encourages every student in every grade to do his level best.

In most public schools this would be an invitation to bedlam. Not here. The students move quietly through the halls between classes. The snack bar breaks are sociable, but not noisy.

other buildings, it is completely air conditioned. It has carpeting on the floor, indirect lighting, sofas, easy chairs, coffee tables with vases of flowers, magazine and newspaper racks, a building-long picture window of glass that overlooks a patio and a view of the tree-lined North Concho river.

First Woman to Be Married in T. F. County Recalls Much Travel Needed

Mrs. Leslie P. Jones, the first woman to be married in Twin Falls county, says getting married then required considerable travel.

Mrs. Jones, one of the first residents of Twin Falls, came here with her parents in 1905. She was married to Leslie Jones on March 7, 1907.

She explains that Twin Falls county was formed from a portion of Cassia county on March 1, 1907, but that the records hadn't been transferred to Twin Falls by the time she and Jones were married.

Mrs. Jones. Now she is the church historian for the First Methodist church and in the past served for many years as Sunday school superintendent.

Mrs. Leslie P. Jones, the first woman married in Twin Falls county, holds one of her favorite keepsakes, a ribbon she wore Aug. 5, 1905, when the railroad first arrived in Twin Falls.

Consider the library. Like all the other buildings, it is completely air conditioned. It has carpeting on the floor, indirect lighting, sofas, easy chairs, coffee tables with vases of flowers, magazine and newspaper racks, a building-long picture window of glass that overlooks a patio and a view of the tree-lined North Concho river.

Mrs. Jones notes that it was the only laundry in town then. She tells of the time the laundry was being moved from Third avenue east to Third avenue south. The laundry was going to be out of commission for a few days, so Jones, to make sure Twin Falls got clean laundry, shipped all the laundry to Pocatello and had it done.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Life is never dull at the Grant Reynolds' home in Jerome. The Reynolds have five daughters, including two sets of identical twins. The girls are Nancy, age 18, a senior in Jerome high school; Karen and Sharon, 17 years old, who are freshmen this year, and Bobbie Rae and Billie Sue, age 9, in the fourth grade. The twins are all in separate rooms in school, so their teachers can tell them apart. Even so, when Karen and Sharon were younger, a teacher walked in Karen's room, touched her on the shoulder, and told her she could go home because of her tooth.

Karen went home, reporting she was sent home because of her tooth. When Mrs. Reynolds questioned her, she found Karen didn't have a toothache. The puzzle was solved when Sharon walked in after school, hand to her jaw, moaning with her toothache.

Last year Billie was punished in school for being in the wrong room, when a teacher mistook her for Bobbie.

When the older twins were 12, Karen broke her arm, then broke her other arm while trying to give Billie a ride on the bicycle. While her arms were in casts, the other girls had to feed her, and help her dress.

In both sets of twins, one is left-handed and one is right-handed. The three older girls are active in extra-curricular activities. Nancy belongs to chorus and band, playing the bassoon and clarinet. She is librarian at noon at school, and helps the county nurse, Jean Overfield, whenever she can, with bloodmobiles and polio clinics.

Karen and Sharon are in the band, playing the drums and clarinet. All three girls are members of John's Daughters.

All the girls were born in the old Twin Falls county hospital. Although so many women in one house could present a problem to some families, the Reynolds family seems to run like a well-oiled clock.

Reynolds maintains that the bigger the family the better the harmony among the children. "We have no room for bawls-babes here," she says. "They've had to learn to compromise."

He says in such a large family, the girls have learned to give and take, something he says many children don't learn until they enter public schools.

According to some authorities, a man spends most of his fruitful years waiting on women. And in the Reynolds home this necessarily would be multiplied by six, but it seems Reynolds saw the handwriting on the wall years ago and now he seemingly has everything under control.

In fact, it seems he enjoys a somewhat enviable life.

Just as Reynolds prepared to answer a question about waiting on women, Bobbie Rae piped up. "That's a laugh! We wait on him! We get everything for him. Every night he has about a million cups of coffee."

According to Billie Sue and Bobbie Rae, their father, displaying true control, reigns supreme over his brood from a large easy chair in the corner of the living room each night when he comes home from his insurance business.

The two youngest agree the chair is somewhat like a throne, but Billie Sue is quick to add, "Yes, but we find money under his chair, so that's okay."

When both parents work, (Mrs. Reynolds operates a beauty parlor) management of such a family could be a problem. But the Reynolds family seems to have devised a successful system.

Without Nancy Jean, serving as sort of lieutenant, the family would lack coordination, but Reynolds has the chain-of-command pretty well worked out among the children and each has her own duties and can take care of herself without bothering the busy parents or Nancy Jean, who prepares most of the meals and gets the younger twins off to school in the mornings.

As Reynolds says, there are no bawls-babes in the family.

According to the girls, the only time there is a womanly conflict is when one of the twins, especially the younger set, disagrees with the other twin on the clothing to be worn that day. The twins usually wear matching clothes.

Billie Sue says about a year ago she and Bobbie Rae had a short spat over the major question of whether to wear a dress or slacks.

It seems this was one of the few times the girls weren't able to work out a compromise. So each went her own way. Billie Sue chose the informal slacks and Bobby Rae donned the more chic dress.

Billie Sue says her attire that day was better because she "could do rougher things." Bobbie Rae was silent.

Having a large family of girls can have its definite advantages. Reynolds is probably the only man in the nation who actually starts buying his Christmas presents in July. This rare trait is a necessity, according to Reynolds, for it avoids the mountain of bills that one would face if the presents were purchased in a conventional manner.

But this good habit has its drawbacks. The young twins say the parents have to scramble to find adequate hiding places for the presents over such a long term.

Reynolds reveals he has solved the problem by hiding the presents at the neighbor's house.

Vacation travel doesn't seem to present a problem to the family. Reynolds says they all went to southern California — three in the front seat and four in the back — during last summer.

The six women set a bag-packing record and the entire family took only three suitcases and two wardrobe bags.

Reynolds says he believes in dealing with children in a mature manner. If this is done, they will react in the same manner.

"What's fair for us is fair for them," he says.

"Education is a lot of things, but mostly it is getting along with people."

Jerome Man Is Surrounded by Women, Including Two Sets of Twins

It's not unusual to have five daughters, but when they include two sets of twins, the family starts to border on the unusual. C. Grant Reynolds, Jerome, poses with his feminine family. From left the girls include Karen, Billie Sue, Nancy Jean, Bobbie Rae, Sharon and Mrs. Reynolds. The older twins are 14 years old and the younger are 9. Nancy is 18 years old. Reynolds says the most important phase of education is learning to get along with each other, something the Reynolds family has accomplished. "We have no bawls-babes in this family," he says. About the only friction that ever develops is when the twins can't decide what they should wear for the day. They usually end up by wearing identical outfits as they did for this picture. Mechanical Pickers Used to Remove Fowl Feathers

John Bertie points to a line of chickens about to enter the mechanical chicken picker. In this process the feathers are removed by a series of rapidly moving rubber fingers revolving on a cylinder. The chickens pass through two of these pickers. Before they enter the picker they are immersed in a "soft scald" tank. The water is 118 degrees. The chickens pass two times through the tank. (Staff photo-engraving)

Only One Poultry Processor in Valley Effected by New U.S. Inspection Law

plants the lay inspectors work under the constant supervision of the veterinarian.

Dr. John Harms, Wendell, is the resident federal inspector for Bertie's.

Bertie says when Dr. Harms first arrives at the plant in the morning he inspects the plant for cleanliness. He then inspects the live birds that will be processed that particular day. He inspects to see that they are healthy birds in a sanitary condition. Any unhealthy birds are rejected. Then processing starts, and each bird is inspected by Dr. Harms in the post mortem state. They are inspected internally for any disease that was overlooked when the bird was in a live state. Any suspicious birds are rejected.

Contaminated birds are denatured so they cannot possibly be consumed by humans or animals.

The processed birds are packed in ice and cooled and eventually sent to the consumer.

Bertie says, "Twenty-five per cent of our products move in interstate commerce, basically Montana and Nevada." He explains that Bertie's Poultry Farm doesn't actually market the birds in the states, but sells them to distributors who do.

Processing plants operating under the U. S. department of agriculture poultry inspection may use official identification marks on the products. The marks are applied under the supervision of the inspectors and are printed on the individual packages, on paper inserts to be placed in the containers, or on metal or paper tags that are usually attached to the wing of the bird.

A mark stating, "Inspected for wholesomeness by U. S. department of agriculture" is placed on the package material. This mark is attached to all kinds of poultry products.

In some instances the poultry products will be federally graded in addition to being inspected. This is not a mandatory process.

The poultry is graded and placed in three different grades, A, B or C. These grades take care of the individual differences between the birds and facilitate poultry buyers when they are buying the birds in large lots.

Grading is based on health, vigor, feathering, conformation, fleshing, fat covering and general freedom from defects.

Since 1950 Bertie's Poultry Farm has been hatching its own chicks and then having them raised by Magic Valley farmers on a contract basis. Bertie says it is a part-time project with most farmers and it is possible for some of them to make $2,400 a year raising chickens for the plant.

The plant's hatchery produces 20,000 chicks a week to supply 21 growers. Most chicks are returned for processing when they are about 63 days old. They average about three and one-fourth pounds at that age.

"Our goal is to process two million birds during 1959. We processed one and one-fourth million birds in 1958," Bertie notes.

"We expect to double the growing program within one year. We hope to have about half a million chickens on feed by this time next year," he adds.

Currently, the 54-employee plant is processing for three days a week and packing one day. The remainder of the week is spent in general maintenance and clean-up work.

Chickens aren't the only poultry processed by the plant. Last year the plant processed 47,000 turkeys. "We hope to process 100,000 next year," Bertie says. The turkey processing begins in June and lasts until the new year begins. Bertie says the profit per pound is about the same on turkeys. The plant can process 800 hens and 500 tom turkeys per hour.

According to Bertie, the poultry inspection act has affected only one other processor in Idaho, the Stone Poultry company, Nampa, because it is the only other processor engaged in interstate commerce.

He notes that five plants in Utah are federally inspected, seven in Oregon, five in Washington, and none in Montana and Nevada.

Chickens Emerge From Machine

These chickens have passed through two chicken pickers. John Bertie, manager of Bertie's Poultry Farm, holds a chicken just as it emerges from the picker. By operating at full speed the plant can process 10,000 chickens during one eight-hour working day. (Staff photo-engraving)

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Highway Director J.D. Sinema Watches District's System Spread in Forty Years

In 40 years with the TWIN FALLS highway district, Director J. D. Sinema has seen this area grow from a region with just a few rocky, assiduous roads through the sagebrush to the present-day total of 770 miles, including 560 miles of oiled roads exactly the distance between Pocatello and Boise.

"That is quite a bit of road surface, and since 1926 Sinema has been director of the district and responsible for road maintenance and construction in this district.

He began working for the district as a resident engineer in 1919.

"When I first came here there were hardly any hard surfaced roads," he says. "About the only surfaced road was the road leading from Twin Falls to the hospital.

"For the first two years I worked here all I did was stake out and inspect concrete structures, preparing to put in the roads."

Since he came here, 482 miles of oil and gravel roads have been constructed in this district.

The big problem is the safety factor. Automobiles have outgrown roads.

There were no stop signs on the state highways then, and he recalls, "We weren't worried about the narrow bridges then. This is a problem that creeps up on you."

Maintenance was a particularly bad problem then. Most of the work was done by the farmers who lived in the general area. They worked on a contract basis with the district and were responsible for a certain segment of the roadway.

Road machinery was in a "kindergarten" stage then and grading and hauling were done with team and wagons. Road construction was tedious work.

Until Sinema became director, all work was done by contract. But directors and Sinema decided to do their own construction.

"We were able to get the job done cheaper then, because we were able to save the contractor's profit," he notes.

Sinema comments on mildness of the present winter and says that ranches and farms would be snow-bound for weeks in the twenties. The district got its first snowplow in 1931 and until 1937 it had to get along with that single snowplow.

"As soon as we got that one plow people ran us ragged," he says. "They knew we had one plow and couldn't understand why it couldn't be everywhere at once."

But Sinema says his contact with the public throughout the years has always been pleasant work, and the public has been a great aid to the office by reporting road problems in remote areas, greatly aiding the office in its inspection program.

"We've been here so long the people know where to holler when something goes wrong," he says.

One of the things he has enjoyed about his job is that he has been able to see the area grow from a relatively primitive area into a modern, irrigated farming region.

He first came to Twin Falls in 1906, after spending about 11 years in Yakima, Wash. He was born in Orange City, Ia., and moved to Washington with his parents when he was 3 years old.

His father, Levi Sinema, operated a general merchandise store in the brary just to sit around in comfort and gossip?"

"Any abuse of the library means loss of their library privileges," says the superintendent. "More than that, they are sent to supervised study halls for double sessions. They don't like that. But we have little trouble—these kids know we don't stand for any foolishness."

The no-nonsense approach is applied everywhere in the San Angelo schools.

One day Wadzek read in the paper that a teacher had been fired by another Texas school system for being too rough on the kids, giving them too much homework. Wadzek phoned the teacher and hired him on the spot.

There was no problem, either, when the U. S. supreme court ruled on May 17, 1954, that segregation in public schools is unconstitutional. About 10 per cent of San Angelo's students are Negroes and at the time they were in segregated schools. Two weeks later they showed up for classes as usual, and were reassigned to integrated schools.

"We haven't had a racial incident yet, and we won't," says Wadzek.

300 block of Main avenue south.

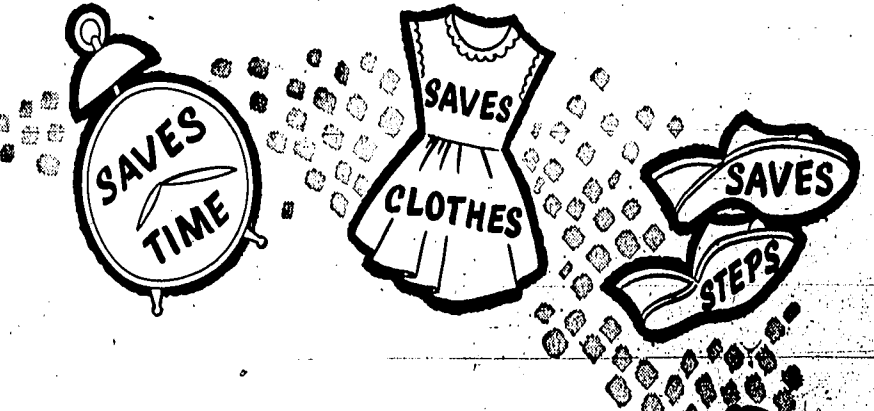

After graduating from public schools in 1911, Sinema worked for the telephone company until 1917 and then worked as an instrument man for the state highway surveying crews. He worked mostly in northern Idaho, and was one of the men who surveyed White Bird hill, between White Bird and Orangeville. The hill has 14 switchbacks and Sinema says the surveying work there was a real task.

Sinema spent one cold winter surveying the roadway to be constructed on the north shore of Coeur d'Alene and in 1919 came to Twin Falls to become resident engineer for the highway district.

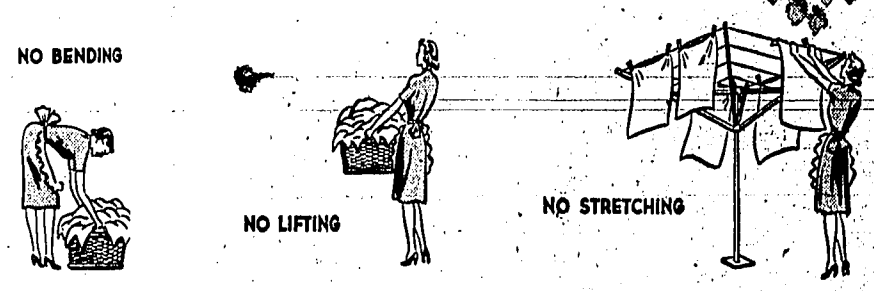

Noting how the district has grown, he says the permanent crew has grown from six to 17 men, and instead of contracting horse and wagons for the work the district now owns equipment assessed at $120,000.

In 1922 Sinema married Irene Vassar, and they have two children, Mrs. E. H. Hall, who is now living in Darmstadt, Germany, and Gerald Sinema, Phoenix, Ariz.

Pellet Riflemen Practice on Indoor Range

Joe B. Hill, left, counsel of the Hansen Modern Woodmen of America lodge, and Robert Perkins, president of the lodge's rifle team, practice shooting on the 35-foot indoor range in the Woodmen hall in Hansen. The rifle team shoots 22 caliber pellet rifles. The lodge's national office started the rifle program in the 1930's as a form of inexpensive entertainment for lodge members. (Staff photo-engraving) according to Mrs. Weech. But in 1945 the women were allowed to join the club and compete on the teams.

She says Magic Valley Woodmen lodges were particularly active in rifle competition until the war restricted team travel because of the gasoline shortage. Later, many of the lodges had trouble finding adequate indoor range space.

But many teams, even when they were restricted on travel, managed to have postal shoots with other Woodmen throughout the state. They had traveling trophies that required a person or a team to win three times before gaining permanent possession.

The Hansen camp won two of these trophies.

In the 1940's the Woodmen camps at Buhl, Gooding, Jerome and Twin Falls were as active as the Hansen camp is now, according to Mrs. Weech. But now Hansen must seek competition within its own lodge or with other lodges at scattered points throughout Idaho.

Currently the Hansen team meets once a month for a shoot at the Modern Woodmen of America lodge in Hansen. The lodge has a 35-foot indoor range.

Mrs. Weech says about 30 members of the 150-member lodge are engaged actively in the shooting program. She adds that about 50 per cent of the shooters are women and frequently they are better than the men.

Aside from preparing for the state shoot in the spring of the year, lodge members have two teams within the club membership—a red team and a green team.

Opposing teams are drawn by team captains once every six months. Each team has 12 members. The teams meet and have one match each month. Then at the end of the six-month period total scores are tabulated and the losing team treats the winners to a dinner.

The shooters shoot at three targets all from an off-hand position at the 35-foot range, and fire four shots at each end. The highest possible score is 60. "We have quite a few shooters who will make a score of 50 regularly," she says.

She points out this is a difficult target to hit. The bullseye on the target is exactly the size of a dime.

"Only two men have shot a 60 in competition in Idaho. One of them is a Hansen lodge member, Joe Hill. He shot this in the state meet in 1956."

The state meet this year will be held March 21 and 22 at Rigby, Mrs. Weech says attendance at the state meet is strong. Sometimes 14 men and 14 women's teams are present.

The state competition is shot with five-man teams, with three different categories, men's teams, women's teams, and camp teams that can utilize both men and women shooters.

According to Mrs. Weech, the women frequently make a good showing on the camp teams, sometimes better than the men.

She adds that one Hansen lodge member, Mrs. Joe Hill, a real sharpshooter has made the Hansen Camp team for the past 10 years.

Mrs. Weech notes that the state shoots are held on 30-foot indoor ranges.

All the shooting is done with Crosman 22 caliber air rifles that are powered by carbon dioxide gas. The lodge owns five of these rifles. Mrs. Weech notes that if a shooter fires a shot in competition and it is obvious that the gas supply in the rifle is low, judging from the sound, the shooter is given an additional shot.

Hansen Lodge Keeps High Interest in Shooting Program Started in 1930's

HANSEN, Jan. 31—Since the 1930's the Modern Woodmen of America, a fraternal and life insurance organization, has sponsored air rifle competition between various camps across the nation. In the last few years the interest has waned in many states, but in Idaho, and particularly in Hansen, interest is still at a high level. Mrs. Miles Weech, Hansen, camp secretary since 1945, says rifle competition was started by the national office of the organization in the depression to offer inexpensive entertainment to members. The teams flourished for many years, particularly in the Midwest, but in recent years only 10 to 12 Midwestern states and Idaho still maintain the former interest. There are no national competitions now, only state-wide competition. Idaho is one of the most active states in the nation. And judging from some of the trophies won by the Hansen camp, it is one of the more active camps in the state. The Hansen camp team won the state championship last year at Boise. In the 1930's rifle team activities were strictly for the male members.

Historical Items Obtained for Museum

DeWitt R. (Rusty) Young holds some of the historical relics from the early days in this area that will be placed in small museum the Twin Falls Historical society is preparing. Young displays some of the 1,600 Bisbee photos the society acquired from the Bisbee estate. Bisbee's old camera and tripod are on the desk which belonged to I. B. Perrine, "father" of the Twin Falls tract. (Staff photo-engraving) personalities, wonders of nature—practically everything of interest, then and now. Bisbee did a good job of identifying each photograph, so prints into categories will not be too difficult. Although the pictures were purchased from the Bisbee estate, Young says the society doesn't have much money to devote to buying such items. He hopes that individuals with an interest in the region's history will donate material to the society so it can be preserved and presented to the public. Young, who has a good memory for such material, has had many items promised to the society and he will gather them together and place them in the museum in the future. "We want anything you would put in a good museum, but we don't just want people to clean out their attics. We want anything pertaining to the early days of Magic Valley," says Young. He adds that the society wants the privilege of screening the material before accepting it. He stresses, "If people give us valuable items they will be taken care of, permanently, won't be thrown out, in the alley for the city to pick up." In addition to the myriad pictures taken by Bisbee the society also has his old camera and tripod. The society has I. B. Perrine's old desk and a phonograph given him by Thomas Edison. Young says he believes the phonograph was given Perrine by Edison because Perrine was instrumental in constructing one of the first electric powered railroads in the United States. The railroad ran from Twin Falls to Shoshone falls. According to Young, it was built primarily for tourist travel to and from the falls. Young says many items of interest have been promised to the society. One of the more important is the first register from the Perrine hotel. Young adds that Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hayes have many items that will be placed in the museum when it is ready. Anyone who has items of interest to the society should contact Young. In addition to preserving items from the past, the society is now carrying out a program of interviewing older residents and getting their stories about the early days. The interviews are tape recorded and will be filed for future reference. Young stresses, "This society is not an oldtimer's society. It's an historical society to preserve what the oldtimers know about the region. "Anybody is entitled to come to the meetings and join the society," he adds.

Historical Society Developing Local Museum to Preserve Early Day Items

The Twin Falls Historical Society is well on its way to creating a museum containing various items that will illustrate the way of life in this area during the early days of settlement. Particularly interesting are the C. E. Bisbee pictures of the area, covering almost a half-century of regional growth. The society now has about 1,500 prints taken by Bisbee and about 2,000 negatives. The pictures and negatives were acquired in 1958 from the Bisbee estate. They offer a pictorial history of the Twin Falls region, and in the near future will be on display in the room the society has on the second floor of the old Twin Falls county hospital. DeWitt R. (Rusty) Young, president of the society in 1957 and 1958, is in charge of the room and the contents. Young is one of the first persons in this area to take an active interest in the region's history and was appointed representative to the Idaho Historical society by State Sen. Carl Irwin several years ago.

SPEAKING OF Furniture

ROOM "PICK-UP"

A new color scheme, a different furniture arrangement, and a little imagination and ingenuity are often all that's needed to give an old room a complete pick-up, change its mood and even its style. The results will be more successful, if you approach the pick-up project with much the same attitude you would have if you were beginning from scratch. First things to be considered are the activities that will be carried on in the room, its location in the house, the existing furnishings you intend to use plus necessary additions and replacements. Sketched above is a prime example of a room which has been changed in character and mood. Old-fashioned mantel was torn out, and a metal hood installed to inject a more modern feeling. Chalk white embossed-brick wallpaper gives the effect of organic walls. Fireplace hood was painted dull black. The entire scheme has been made to come alive by using a nasturtium-colored carpet. Black-and-white tweed upholstery fabric is effective on sofa and chairs. Here is a room that has been given a color pick-up, a new arrangement, and a bright personality and yet kept smartly simple. Whether you're looking for furniture for living room, dining room, bedroom or den, you'll find a large assortment of handsome pieces here in our store. Styling that will not become dated, quality that you'll enjoy living with, and values that can't be duplicated. Come in today!

They Grow Big in North Idaho Lake

Their color varies greatly with environment. They are usually heavily spotted, with dark flecks mostly above the lateral line. They are in general shaped like steelhead but have a larger head.

Their size may vary a great deal. In most waters they grow only like a regular rainbow. In Pend Oreille the largest taken on rod and reel weighed an even 37 pounds. That fish was caught in 1947 and although many weighing over 30 pounds have been caught—the old record still stands.

Many a fisherman at Pend Oreille has observed Kamloops trolling out of the water, and swears on anything that they would go 40 pounds or more! A few have been watched while spawning in Spring creek at the Clark Fork hatchery and have been judged at over 40 pounds.

Of course, all this guessting does nothing to establish proof, and merely raises the angler's blood pressure. It does keep fishermen coming again and again to the lake as they try for a big scale-breaker and a new record.

The best fishing times at Pend Oreille are in the spring and fall months. Fishing season opens for trout May 1 at this lake and boats appear in numbers large enough to make an impression even on this large lake. Large salmon plugs are favored lures and are trolled near the surface during May and June.

As the surface waters warm, the Kamloops move down, and "weighted" or "lead" lures come into vogue. Several hundred feet of line are necessary for depth, and about that much more for reserve when a huge trout strikes.

Surface fishing again takes place during October and November and results always continue good right up until the last day of the season on Nov. 30. Most fishermen now use large landing nets rather than gaff hooks to boat their fish.

The present regulation permits a valid license holder to take two of these big fish in one day (if you can) regardless of size and weight. That is also the possession limit.

Kamloops fishermen (and women) are a strange and hardy breed. They try and try again until they finally land a big one, then usually try harder than ever to top their old record. Some of these enthusiasts start the other direction and go to lightweight tackle that would be strained to the limit when landing a medium-sized butterfly! It is all in the name of sport and has been especially noticed among salmon fishermen as they have changed to tackle that gives the fish more than an even break.

The weather can get miserable—wind, rain or even snow—the waves splash over the side of the boat, but still they fish. One oldtimer at the lake always gave the same advice when asked how to catch a Kamloops. "Fish from daylight to dark and never take your line and lure out of the water except to take a fish off the hook!" he stated. At least his method had the advantage of perseverance and patience—if you stay with it long enough, you may land a new world's record.

"Tackle-busting" Kamloops like this one held by happy angler have succeeded in establishing new world records for weight in the rainbow trout division. Almost every year since about 1945 the Pend Oreille fish have placed among the first 10 in the nation. Kamloops trout have the capacity to grow "fast and furious" when food conditions are good. When small they feed on plankton and aquatic insects. When they grow to about a foot long they turn to a diet of fish. They prefer the abundant salmon in Pend Oreille. The effect of this tremendous food supply may well be compared to abundant pasture for cattle. The official world's record for this trout was established when Wes Hamlet caught a Kamloops at the north Idaho lake in 1937. (Idaho fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Not Introduced in Idaho Until 1941, Kamloops Trout Have Broken Records

By MARSHALL EDSON
Fish and Game Department

Although Kamloops trout were introduced into Idaho water in 1941 they have succeeded in establishing several new world's records for weight in the rainbow trout division, and almost every year since about 1945 they have placed among the first 10 in the nation.

They have been introduced into several different lakes around Idaho that early beginning, but in one of these—Pend Oreille—Kamloops taken hold and survive in several smaller lakes appeared to revert to normal without the abundant food and room that is present at Pend Oreille lake.

The first eggs were obtained from Kamloops trout at Kootenay lake in British Columbia. These fish were extremely large and produced big eggs. This in turn produced large, healthy fry, which were reared in Idaho hatcheries to around 12 inches in length before they were released into Pend Oreille lake.

These trout were graded and the largest ones saved for brood stock. A brood stock holding pond was set aside at the Clark Fork hatchery for this species and with the exception of a new supply of eggs obtained from British Columbia about 1950, this original source furnished Kamloops for Idaho waters.

Production varied somewhat from year-to-year, but has averaged around 330,000 Kamloops each year for the past 10 years. The bulk of these have been stocked in Pend Oreille lake.

The Kamloops trout is primarily a lake fish. It usually reaches maturity at 3-to 5 years of age, then moves into tributary streams to spawn. Larger Kamloops usually choose main rivers or large creeks—the smaller fish use small streams.

Kamloops trout have the capacity to grow "fast and furious" when food conditions are good. When small they feed on plankton and aquatic insects. When they grow to about a foot long they turn to a diet of fish. They prefer the abundant salmon present in Pend Oreille. The effect of this tremendous food supply may well be compared to abundant pasture for cattle.

The Kamloops have not acquired local names such as many of the other fish in the country. They have been called "Kootenay" trout in Canada, but the name does not have widespread use.

Souvenir of Boyhood in China

The Rev. Keith E. Brininstool, new minister of education for the First Baptist Church, Twin Falls, displays a Chinese wall tapestry, a souvenir of the many years he spent in China as a young boy. His father was a missionary. The Buddhist tapestry tells the pictorial story of a man's trip through life until he finally reaches Nirvana. (Staff photo—engraving) passing south of Australia, on their way to Los Angeles.

The Rev. Mr. Brininstool, who has maintained a strong interest in China, says he believes the Chinese communist state is "a temporary thing." He explains that the Chinese communists gained power by providing widespread physical reforms that endeared the regime to the people.

He notes that the hated warlords were dispatched by the communists and there has been considerable land reform, both welcomed by the mass of people. He feels that Chiang Kai-shek brought about his own demise by heading such a corrupt government and allowing his armies to loot the countryside.

But the Rev. Mr. Brininstool feels the Chinese people will eventually throw off the communist regime. He claims there is a growing group of discontented Chinese who will, in time, rebel against communism.

He points out that Christian churches are stronger in communist China than ever before.

"It's rather an amazing thing," he says, "but the church is growing even under the Chinese government's persecution."

"I personally hope to go as a missionary to the Far East, to either Thailand, Burma or Japan. If we go to Burma or Thailand, we can work with Chinese refugees."

The Rev. Mr. Brininstool speaks Mandarin Chinese, but is getting out of practice because most American Chinese don't speak that dialect.

Asked his opinion of the value of missionary work, which is frequently criticized by some experts on China, he says, "I'm a proponent of missionary work, because the only way you can conquer communism, or any other evil, is with a greater idea."

He estimates it will take about one generation before China overthrows communism. Young Chinese are thoroughly imbued with the communist doctrine, and it will take an entire generation before the communist ideas have run their course.

Defending missionary work, the Rev. Mr. Brininstool says, "In the past, missionaries tried to work with the people without really understanding them." This age is past and the churches, of all denominations, are demanding that their missionaries be trained thoroughly in the culture of the country.

He says the modern missionary is a more rational person than formerly and is an expert on the country's customs. In the past they simply tried to convert the people. Now missionaries often work at a mission in an advisory capacity only, and are actually controlled by the native people. Before the missionaries are sent on a mission they must agree to be supervised by the native people.

The Rev. Mr. Brininstool thinks this is a good plan. "To my way of thinking Christianity will be important there only when it actually becomes a part of the people's lives."

On the question of recognition of communist China, the Rev. Mr. Brininstool has definite opinions.

"I feel that we should recognize the communist government. After all, we've recognized other communist governments, and they are the present government of China," he says.

"Even Chiang, if he was really forced for an opinion, wouldn't admit that he is the present government of China."

"I see no reason for not recognizing the communist government as the government of the Chinese mainland. There is no hope of Chiang ever taking over the mainland, because the Chinese people themselves don't want him because of his corrupt regime."

According to the Rev. Mr. Brininstool, his job here will be to generally supervise all the educational work of the church, including Sunday school, youth work and Scout-like training, and training leaders and general promotion.

Before coming here he was assistant pastor of the Grant Park Baptist church in Portland, Ore., for three and one-half years.

Young Clergyman, Born in China, Has Had Many Experiences in His 27 Years

The Rev. Keith E. Brininstool has packed many experiences into his 27 years. He was born in China, traveled through remote regions of China in a sedan chair while just a young boy, was alternately robbed and treated with respect by hill tribesmen and "flew the hump" from Free China into India during World war II.

When they traveled they went mostly by sedan chair, carried on the shoulders of bearers. The bearers were men who carried sedans when they weren't occupied as bandits. Through the years, they had developed huge callouses on their backs where the yokes rubbed them. The men could carry the sedans 30 (one Chinese mile) in one day, and when he and his sister were traveling to a school, 200 miles from their home, they would travel the entire distance in this manner.

Travel in the 1930's was often dangerous, for the entire country was overrun by warlords who plied the countryside and warred among themselves, each striving to gain the balance of power.

Occasionally they were held up but more often the people were kind and courteous to missionaries.

He points out that in China the foreigner is the object of ridicule or curiosity. For instance, the natives often thought the foreigners were crude for eating with their knives and forks and ignoring chopsticks.

"Yet they were very, very good to us," he says.

In 1935 the Brininstool family returned to the United States for vacation and traveled to the coast on a raft on the Yangtze river. Communists and nationalists were warring in that region and the family was escorted down the river by a detachment of nationalist soldiers.

They returned to China and left again in 1943. The only way they could leave Free China was via the "hump" over the Himalayas into India.

The Rev. Mr. Brininstool says the trip over the mountains was particularly trying because the pilot was forced to fly at 18,000 feet in an un-pressurized airplane, because Chiang Kai-shek had flown over the same route the day before and the Japanese air force was especially alert.

After the plane landed at Calcutta the family spent 42 days at sea.

No Worse Than Cold Lobar Pneumonia Licked Fast by Modern Medicine

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service
Few changes in the practice of medicine in the last 25 years are more remarkable than what has happened in the treatment of lobar pneumonia.

This formerly common infection of the lungs was known as the old people's friend because it so often proved an easy and painless final illness. Today lobar pneumonia is almost a rare disease. When it does develop, recovery is the rule. The speed with which this occurs is amazing to all those who remember what it used to be.

It is interesting and important, even now, to discuss this disease. A typical case starts suddenly with a severe chill. This may last for as long as half an hour. Soon after the chill, the temperature begins to go up. It rises rapidly to around 104 or 105 degrees.

At the same time, a person coming down with pneumonia may have general aches and pains along with a headache. Pain in the chest or side, like that which is present in pleurisy, is also common.

Cough which produces pain and does not bring up much mucus starts early. The breathing becomes rapid and each breath is shallow.

These symptoms can be confused with other conditions, but are certainly suspicious of lobar pneumonia. Examination of the chest by a physician and especially taking an X-ray film generally bring an early diagnosis.

Unless steps are taken to treat the condition promptly, the typical signs develop by the second or third day.

By this time cold sores around the lips are likely to be present, the facial expression shows anxiety, the pain in the side or chest is severe and the breathing is rapid. Cough brings up a fair amount of sputum which is likely to be tinged with blood. The temperature stays high, at 104 and 105 degrees.

Penicillin and its relatives almost always bring remarkable improvement in a short time. A quick fall in temperature and relief of the cough and pain occur rapidly. The breathing becomes slow and normal, and no longer is it necessary to wait for the crisis to know what the outcome will be.

Today, there is only about one chance in 20 or 25 of dying from the disease. It used to be one chance in three. Lobar pneumonia has dropped from being one of the most important causes of death to being one of the least important of the major diseases.

But one should remember that the diagnosis must be made early because the results are much more likely to be favorable than if pneumonia has been present for several days.

Horseshoers Scarce, Jobs' Pay Is Good

faults and to allow for special conditions. The money reason needn't deter the young man from the trade. Meuser knows of one man in California, who primarily shoes racing horses, who earns about $25,000 per year. He adds that many men make about $12,000.

A few young men work with harness and racing horses, but most of the horseshoers are older men. "I'd advise a younger man that likes the trade to stick with it," he says. "But I'd bet if I took 100 men and taught them to shoe, I'd say there wouldn't be one that would stay in the business."

One of the reasons men shy away from the work is because there are so many persons that do their own horseshoeing, right or wrong.

"What is the use of learning something and then have someone else on their own shoes?" Meuser asks.

Too much amateur work is going on in most parts of the country and this tends to undermine the serious horseshoer. But he adds the amateur work shows up in the long run. Most of the horses being shod now aren't shod properly and can't stand hard riding.

"If I had a horse and I couldn't take him 50 miles in one sitting, I'd think I didn't have a horse," he declares.

Meuser asserts most of the men now working at the horseshoeing trade don't have the proper equipment to go about the work with real care. "They lack the tools to properly fit a shoe to a horse. A properly fitted shoe can make or break a horse."

Another thing that hurts the trade, according to Meuser, is the habit that most persons have of letting their horses go too long between shoeings. "The average horse here is shod only once a year," he says.

The work is sometimes rather seasonal, and is at its strongest when the warmer weather begins and the younger people move their activities outdoors.

The beginning of hunting and fishing seasons also is a busy time, for all the hunting and pack animals are shod then.

Young men tend to leave this area after they have learned the trade, Meuser says, and go to California where there is a considerable interest in racing horses and the horseshoer can make a better living.

Meuser claims that a young man who really desires to learn the trade and isn't afraid of the work or horses can enjoy a life as a horseshoer.

"If he takes pride in the profession and really learns to fit a shoe, not just nail it on, he will enjoy a good life."
