Idaho's People Are 'Tired Of Patch, Scratch Method Of Finance,' Official Says

BOISE, Feb. 2 (UPI)—The head of the legislature's tax-writing committee today told the house that the people of Idaho were "tired of the patch-and-scratch" method of financing the state government. Reporting to the house on the reactions at public hearings in the past two week-ends throughout the state by the house revenue and taxation committee, Chairman J. W. Monroe, D., Nez Perce, said "the people want a more permanent and a little broader-based tax structure." The committee held "grass roots" hearings last week-end in Idaho Falls, Pocatello and Twin Falls. The previous week-end hear-

17 Cars of Freight Train Are Derailed

SHOSHONE, Feb. 2—Damage to Union Pacific property was estimated at $25,000 to $30,000 today following derailling of 17 railroad cars of an eastbound freight train in the vicinity of Owinza, between Dietrich and Kimama. The derailling occurred about 10 a. m. Sunday, resulting in a passenger train, the westbound Portland Rose, being routed via Rupert, Jerome and Bliss while the mainline track was blocked. By the time the next passenger train, the eastbound Portland Rose, arrived in the area, the tracks were back in operation. But since 3:45 p. m. Sunday, when mainline tracks were placed back in operation, crews from Glenns Ferry and Pocatello have been busy clearing up wreckage of the 17 railroad cars.

Now Survey Shows Levels Are Still Low

Water content of snow on the ground to the south of Twin Falls continues below normal and below last year's measurements, according to the Feb. 1 snow survey. Moisture, as recorded on four glass electrode stations, is only slightly better than a year ago and fully unchanged from January measurements, reports W. A. Lough, chairman of the board of advisors for the Twin Falls soil conservation district. Snow on Deadline ridge measures 10 inches in depth with a water content of 11.3 inches as compared with 12.5 inches and an average water content of 17.2 inches for four years. Mountain has 31 inches of snow and 8.6 inches of water content as compared with 18.1 inches of water last year and the 13-year average. Measurements for other stations, including station, snow depth and water content this year, snow depth water content for the same last year and the average in Shoshone basin, 9 and 2.7, 8.3, and 4.5 for three years; for Creek, 13 and 4.1, 3.3 and 10.6.

One-Man Rule Declared at End in Russia

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (UPI)—A Communist official emphasized today that a one-man rule no longer exists in the Soviet Union. Nikolai Shvernik, a member of the presidium of the Communist central committee, reaffirmed the principle of "collective leadership" in a speech before the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party, which said the principles of collective leadership had been fully re-established in the Soviet Union since the 19th party congress in 1956. It was that time that Nikita Khrushchev denounced the excesses of Stalin's one-man rule. Khrushchev is now undisputed leader of Russia, and delegates at the current congress have heaped praise on him. But observers have said that it has not been the type of excessive adulation poured on him.

Increased Benefit Funds Are Mailed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—The government begins mailing letter checks today to more than 12 1/2 million social security beneficiaries. Social Security Commissioner William L. Mitchell said the benefit checks will be about seven per cent higher. They will go to old age survivors, and disability insurance beneficiaries. As a result, the January payments will run about 50 million dollars higher than in the previous month when they totaled about 600 million dollars.

RED ACTIONS INCREASE

PAPEI, Feb. 2 (UPI)—The new commander of the nationalist Chinese army said today the communists are increasing military activities along the China coast opposite the nationalist-held offshore islands. ## Schools in East State Integrate

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 2—Virginia reluctantly but calmly pulled down the historic barricades to racial integration today and 21 Negro children entered white schools in Norfolk and Arlington county. Cordell J. Pollock, stretched around a seven schools, had little to do. There were no disturbances whatever on or near the schools grounds in either community. Nor were any incidents reported from within the buildings themselves. This is a state which once was the symbol of Southern leadership in massive resistance to integration took the first hesitant steps to accept it for the time being. Gov. J. Lindsay Almond, Jr. said he was highly gratified at the peaceful changeover. Norfolk School Supt. John J. Brewbaker voiced pride in all the people of his city. "Virginia and the entire nation should be proud of the manner in which our city has shown the fine caliber of its citizens," Brewbaker said. ## $10,000 Cash Is Found by 3 Eastern Boys

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 2 (UPI)—What everybody dreams of—finding hidden treasure—has come true for three youngsters who found $10,000 cash in a vacant lot. Now all they have to do is wait and see if anyone else claims it. Under state law the police can hold the money 30 days. However, the police in suburban Creekton, where the boys found the money, say they might keep it 90 days just to be on the safe side. The boys were hunting for rabbits Saturday when Jimmy Weiglein, 11, stumbled on a large paper bag. He called over the other two, Otis Montgomery, 13, and Roy Anderson, 14. All live in Cheektowaga. The cash was in bills from $1 to $100, plus $87.75 in coins. Police counted $9,514.75 and estimated another ten bills might be worth another $500. The bag also contained three wrist watches, three rings and two small keys.

Cubans Check Bomb Set Off Amid Pilgrims

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Authorities ordered an investigation to determine whether a bomb explosion in the midst of a religious procession was accidental or a counter-revolutionary act. Three persons were killed and 80 injured, many seriously, when the bomb exploded yesterday in the midst of 15,000 pilgrims in a procession at El Cobre shrine outside Santiago de Cuba in Oriente province. Three persons were understood to have been arrested in the preliminary inquiry. The explosion first was thought to have been caused by an abandoned army or rebel mine in the Santiago area, which had been the scene of some bitter fighting in the long rebellion that toppled the Fulgencio Batista regime. But experts said later that absence of a crater indicated the blast was caused by a bomb or a grenade. The violence occurred shortly before Fidel Castro returned to his Sierra Maestra stronghold to launch his land reform program in which state-owned estates will be divided among Cuba's tenant farmers.

One Is Enough

SUFIELD, Conn., Feb. 2 (UPI)—Republican National Chairman Meade Aclorn wasn't looking forward today to another term. "One hitch in this job is enough," Aclorn said yesterday at his home. "Anyone who has served in this job for one term has served just about as long as he would want to." Aclorn's term expires at the GOP national convention in the summer of 1960. He succeeded Leonard Hall two years ago yesterday.

Peron Starts New Drive of Peronists

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Deposed Argentine Dictator Juan D. Peron launched a new drive to reorganize the Peronist party today at his new residence, outside the city. A spokesman for Peron said he left his suite at a downtown hotel there to move to a home some six miles outside the city. The spokesman said the move was made so that Peron "may devote more time in more peaceful surroundings to the task of reorganizing the Peronist party by giving instructions to his followers in view of the recent changes in the political situation in Argentina."

Groundhogs, Weather Bureau Agree on One Point: Winter Cold Has Been Severe

By United Press International Rival groundhogs at Punxsutawney, Pa., and Sun Prairie, Wis., and the weather bureau agreed on one thing Monday—the nation is in the grip of one of the severest cold waves of the winter. Shadow or no shadow, any groundhog which didn't jump back into its warm burrow after sampling the morning air risked a case of frostbite. An Arctic air mass which invaded the nation during the week-end spread from the Rockies to the Atlantic. The severe cold pressed as far south as Missouri where Kirksville registered three below zero early Monday. The cold air advance touched off a band of snow and freezing drizzle in the Southern Plains through western Oklahoma and most of Texas. Roads were open in the storm area, but extremely hazardous. New snow Sunday accumulated to a depth of eight inches at Gage, Okla., and the northeastern section of the Texas panhandle, Wichita, Kans., was hit by a seven-inch snow-fall and amounts ranged up to a foot in rural areas between Wichita and Gage. During the night, a band of freezing drizzle stretched from Wichita Falls, Tex., through Abilene and San Angelo, West of that line snow extended into most of New Mexico, while rain fell to the east. The heaviest rain was along the Texas coast with more than an inch at Houston in a six-hour period Sunday night and three-fourths of an inch at Beaumont, Galveston and Kingsville. Lone Rock, Wis., recorded an early morning reading of 23 degrees below zero Monday after registering 40 below early Sunday. By contrast, Key West, Fla., reported a 23-degree reading early Monday. Other early morning temperatures included six below zero at O'Hare Field, Chicago, five at Boston, 14 at New York City, 24 at Washington, 49 at Atlanta, two below at Minneapolis, 33 at Dallas, 38 at Seattle and 41 at Anchorage, Alaska. Clear skies accompanying the cold meant bad news for those who acknowledge the groundhog as a weather prophet. It means the furry animal will see his shadow and be frightened back into his hole for six more weeks of frigid weather. At Sun Prairie, members of the groundhog club found their weather predictor snowed in and brought brooms and shovels to get their groundhog out into the open.

C-47 Transport, Carrying Gem Guardsmen, Crashes In Texas; 3 Men Are Dead

KERRVILLE, Tex., Feb. 2 (UPI)—A chartered C-47 transport with 28 men on board, many of them Idaho air guardsmen, 18 inches of ice on its wings, its landing gear frozen tight and one engine out, crashed and burned last night while trying to make a belly landing. Twenty-five of the men escaped, but three were killed and the fire almost consumed the bodies. The victims were W. O. Epps, 42, Portland, Ore., first pilot; Harvey Hitt, 36, Oswego, Ore., second pilot, and an Idaho air national guardsman, Robert C. Griffith, 19, Ola. Twenty-five of the 28 men on board were members of the air national guard from Idaho and adjacent states. Three were crew members, Third Officer Bill Wittliff, 42, Eugene, Ore., escaped with head, jaw and chest injuries.

Blaze Destroys Rupert Church

Crowds gathered at Rupert Saturday to watch firemen fight the fire at the Assembly of God church. The building was destroyed by the blaze and investigation of the cause is still continuing. The entire rear of the building was in flames when the fire was first discovered, leading firemen to believe explosion of a stove caused the blaze. (Staff photo-engraving)

Search for Lost Danish Ship Continues but Hope Is Small

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Four planes and two ships searched the ice-choked North Atlantic today for clues to the fate of 95 persons on the Danish motor vessel Hans Hedtoft which disappeared after striking an iceberg four days ago. Moderating weather aided the search. But no trace of the bright orange vessel or its passengers and crew was immediately visible. Faint radio signals had raised hope yesterday that at least some survivors were alive in a lifeboat or on an ice floe. But search directors said today there seemed little likelihood the signals were related to the Hedtoft. Royal Canadian air force search and rescue officers said it was believed the signals came from an aircraft or an aircraft distress signal. They were not on a distress frequency, they said, nor on frequencies known to be available to the Hedtoft's radio or the radios in its lifeboats. The 2,875-ton vessel, built for the Copenhagen-Greenland run to withstand heavy ice conditions, was on the return leg of its maiden voyage when it radioed at 11:45 a. m. Friday: "Collision with iceberg." Its position was 37 miles off Cape Farewell, the southern tip of Greenland. It was last heard from about four hours later. Although the search for the survivors by 1,000 men of six nations continued, hope had almost been given up. If any of the Hedtoft's 40 passengers and 35 crewmen would have got away, the lifeboats would have had to buck 20-foot, ice-laden seas driven by 60-mile-an-hour winds. The owners reported yesterday that an American search plane sighted what appeared to be an overturned lifeboat drifting in the sea near Greenland. The pilot, Maj. Emerson Fitzgerald, U.S. air force, described the lifeboat as white with a black stripe, which did not fit the description of the Hedtoft's boats. The U.S. coast guard cutter Campbell and three other vessels searched all day yesterday without finding a trace of wreckage or survivors. Four U.S. air force planes, a navy P-3 and a Canadian Lancaster scanned thousands of miles of ocean without success. Search conditions were reported to be extremely dangerous.

Boise Driver Jailed, Fined $300 in Crash

William B. Laidlow, 31, Boise, arrested for drunken driving after an accident Saturday night six miles north of Jerome, was fined $300 and sentenced to six months in jail by Justice of the Peace Glen Vining Monday. Three months of the jail term was suspended. Laidlow was driving a 1955 International pickup which careened off a country road, struck two trees, overturned and then landed upright. Laidlow's son, William Leslie Laidlow, 11, received fractures of his right arm and leg in the wreck. He was reported in good condition at St. Benedict's hospital, Jerome, Monday.

Rupert Death Count Cut to Manslaughter

RUPERT, Feb. 2—Lucille Haram, who was to have appeared Tuesday for trial on a first degree murder charge, appeared Monday before Judge Sherman Bellwood to enter a plea of guilty to an amended charge of involuntary manslaughter. The amended charge was accepted by Jake Wall, complaining witness, Laurence Duffin, defense attorney, asked for pre-sentence investigation, which was granted. Judge Bellwood set sentencing for 10 a. m. Feb. 23. The $2,500 bond was returned to the custody of the sheriff to be held in custody in the Minidoka county jail.

Stay Home

BERN, Switzerland, Feb. 2 (UPI)—The men of Switzerland decided yesterday 654,924 to 323,206, that woman's place is in the home—not in the voting booth. By that vote, the men who are Switzerland's only legal voters turned down a government proposal which would have given women the vote in federal elections. Similar local propositions, however, have been rejected repeatedly. ### Musicians Go Back to Work With Contract

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—Members of the American Federation of Musicians went to work today at three major networks with a new five-year contract.

The union and the networks agreed on the terms of the pact yesterday.

The settlement ended a strike by the musicians, who were ordered to stop work at midnight Saturday when the old contract expired. No programs were affected.

The new contract gives staff musicians a later wage increase and a pension plan, plus payment for shows that are rerun. The networks agree to reduce their staffs in some cases under the terms.

The networks involved are the American Broadcasting company, Columbia Broadcasting company, National Broadcasting company, and the Mutual Broadcasting company. Staff musicians will not get a pay increase until Feb. 1, 1961, when their salaries go up 10 per cent.

The minimum pay for network radio and television shows in New York is $220 a week. The amount varies in other cities.

Liberace Pair, Mother Patch Their Trouble

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2 (UPD)—The feuding Liberace-lee, brother George and mom—have kissed and made up.

Planiest Lee and mom, smiling at each other, revealed the reunion to a reporter in their Sherman Oaks home—the one with the piano-shaped swimming pool.

"Mom doesn't criticize my real estate ventures any more," said Lee. "She thought I was plunging in too deep before. But that was only because some envious people misled her because I was the most successful person in the family."

"Now even mom's got the real estate bug. She's got her eye on a triplex apartment. We've sold this house, and mom will live on one floor of the triplex and rent the other two."

Only three months ago, the Liberaces—once one of show business' closest families—turned cold toward each other amid the following events:

—Mom criticized some of the friends Lee had at his Palm Springs home and said they were taking him for a ride.

—Mom was quoted as saying she didn't watch either of her sons' acts since they broke up. George plays the violin.

—George took to the road with his own show with the parting comment that he could do very well on his own.

—Lee pointed out that George's brief venture into the frozen pizza business was not exactly a success.

"George and I speak to each other all the time now," said Lee. "He called me from Dallas just the other day to read the clippings about his show. We even had dinner recently."

Mom said she really didn't have anything against Lee's celebrity friends.

Final Honors Held For L. Darrington

ELBA, Feb. 2 — Funeral services for Lorenzo Darrington were held Saturday afternoon at Elba LDS ward chapel with Bishop Orville Beecher officiating.

Prayer at the home was given by Don Chandler with music by Barbara Udy, organ, and Ray Blatter, violin. Invocation was by O. John N. Nye.

A. M. Barker gave the obituary and speakers were Louis Ottley and Bishop Beecher. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Darrington sang a duet, Ann Taylor was soloist and a quartet number was given by Mr. and Mrs. Darrington, Mrs. Fawn King and Lewis Eames.

Benediction was given by Ruben Ward.

pallbearers were Keith Darrington, Rulon Darrington, Kenneth Darrington, John Darrington, Kay Darrington and Virgil Durfee.

Concluding rites were in Elba cemetery where the grave was dedicated by E. S. Miller, president. Ronald Davis was bugler.

Mark Sugar Beet Industry Anniversary

Lighting candles on big birthday cake to mark 80th anniversary of U. S. beet sugar industry are Jack Claiborn, Kimberly, president of Idaho Beet Growers association, and Pat Strasser, "Miss Beet Sugar," during annual meeting of California Beet Growers association at San Francisco Friday. ### Benson Says Realistic Attitude Saves Beet Sugar Producers From Surplus

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told a meeting of Intermountain and western states sugar beet growers here Friday that a "realistic" attitude by sugar producers has saved the industry from the "fantastic and indefensible" surpluses of other farm commodities.

Addressing some 700 sugar beet growers from several western states at the annual meeting of the California Beet Growers association, Benson declared that cooperation by congress to revise the "out-moded" support programs for wheat, cotton, corn, rice, peanuts and tobacco is a critical necessity.

"By next July," Benson said, "we will have more than 9 billion dollars of surplus farm commodities in government inventory and under loan. The cost of storage on these government stocks will be about one billion dollars a year. This is fantastic and indefensible."

Noting that the United States beet sugar industry this year is celebrating the 80th anniversary of its founding at Alvarado, Calif., Benson pointed out that beet sugar "operations have been realistic—geared to market conditions."

He paid special tribute to early-day Mormon pioneers who played an important role in the development of the industry in the Intermountain area and related some early history of this saga of sugar.

Benson told his audience that the sugar beet industry "is in a solid position. Production last year was about 15.3 million tons of sugar beets. This was about 30 per cent above the 10-year average and only slightly below the all-time high of 1957. Yields per acre in the past two years have been higher than ever before.

"But you are not burdened with surpluses as producers of some other crops are. Your industry has done a good job of expanding production and markets simultaneously."

Among those who heard the secretary's message were Idaho grower leaders Jack Claiborn, Kimberly, president of the Idaho Beet Growers association; William M. Carson, Weiser, president of the Nysa-Nampa Beet Growers association, and Arvil Millar, Shelley, member of the national beet sugar industry policy committee. All participated in business sessions earlier in the week with members of the board and officers of the California Beet Growers association.

The secretary said that the sugar act is "realistic legislation that has brought benefits to sugar beet and sugar cane farmers, to consumers of sugar, to the sugar industry as a whole, and to our foreign suppliers."

He warned, however, that the sugar program cannot be used as a model for general farm legislation because much of our sugar must be imported, which is not the case with most other farm commodities consumed in this country.

The secretary pointed out that legislation is now being introduced into congress to extend the sugar act, which would expire at the end of 1960. He said extension has full administration backing and that a bill recently introduced in the senate was signed by 48 senators.

"You know a good doctor for this?"

It's a question we answer all the time. Sometimes it's someone new in the neighborhood. Sometimes it's an old friend who just doesn't happen to have a family physician. The boy sprains an ankle... the baby runs a temperature... Grandma has a bad cough. Troubled people often turn to us for help, and rightly so. We work closely with physicians, providing the medicines they prescribe and use in their offices. We know who they are, their specialties, their office hours. In an emergency we're good people to ask. And we're always happy to be of service to our friends and patrons.

February Is Month for Great Men, Nothing to Be "Pitied"

By The Associated Press

Thirty days hath November, April, June and September, February hath XXVIII alone, And all the rest have XXXI.

English chronicler Richard Grafton was long on logic, short on spelling when he dashed off that bit of doggerel 400 years ago—and, incidentally, fixed February in the popular mind as a thing to be pitied.

Poor February! Shortest month of the year, even when an extra day is added for Leap Year. Poor little February! Just a few odd days thrown together to keep January from bumping into March.

But if you were born in the year's shortest month, you're in mighty good company. The trademark "born in February," is one of distinction.

Take American presidents, for instance.

Besides George Washington (Feb. 22) and Abraham Lincoln (Feb. 12), there was William Henry Harrison (Feb. 9), who won election in 1840 on the campaign slogan: "Log cabin and hard cider." Things political have changed a bit since Harrison's day. What recent politician has campaigned to the tune of "Split-level and dry martini?"

Take almost-presidents, too.

Aaron Burr (Feb. 6) went down in history as the only man who ever tied for the presidency and lost in a playoff after 36 ballots of sudden death overtime. Thomas Jefferson beat him.

Horace Greeley (Feb. 3) also was a presidential also-ran but he is better remembered for his advice: "Go West, young man." While other went West, Greeley stayed home and made a fortune.

Gen. William T. Sherman (Feb. 8) was never a candidate but he might have been had he not informed his fans: "If nominated, I shall not run; if elected, I shall not serve." No one yet has found a more succinct way of declining the political life.

The world is richer for the men of science who were born in February.

A Pto. Nicholas Copernicus (Feb. 19) had a lunch the Earth revolved around the sun (it does) and wrote a book about it. The book was banned for 300 years as heresy.

Thomas Edison (Feb. 11) invented, among other things, the electric light and the phonograph, both of which have proved a boon to the young folks. How else could they BUENA PARK, Calif., Feb. 2 (AP)—Two small planes, locked in mid-air, exploded and plunged in flames yesterday into the backyard of a suburban home.

Both pilots were killed. They were Eugene Willison, 33, and Donald D. Everson, 26, both Buena Park.

The two planes collided at about 500 feet.

WASHINGTON—A great American aviation firm has been paid $22 million dollars by Pentagon paymasters for cargo planes which it never delivered. But the five-year old bills of that company's small subcontractors still remain unpaid, with the result that they face bankruptcy which has created more unemployment and depressed areas.

This is only one example of the litching which thousands of small business firms have suffered because of the armed services' red tape, indifference and admitted partiality to the larger corporations. With a backlog of unpaid claims now estimated at 4 billion dollars, the victims have abandoned all hope of Pentagon satisfaction, and have turned to congress for relief.

NO IMPROVEMENT DESPITE PROMISES BY PENTAGON SPOKESMEN—Pentagon spokesmen promised to "clean up" this situation when it was exposed in this and other columns several months ago. They said that they would cut the red tape and forego the prejudice which has blocked settlement of these unjustified claims.

But there has been no improvement, according to the sufferers' current complaints to their senators and representatives. They are still paying interest on bank loans needed to enlarge their working forces and to buy material.

They have had to cut their personnel in many instances from 400 to a maintenance crew of 10 or 20. They have had to borrow on their insurance or from friends merely to finance fruitless negotiations with the military bureaucracy at Washington.

In a blistering denunciation of Pentagon negotiators as "tyrants," Justice William O. Douglas proposed that a board of civilians be established to handle these claims, figuring that they would be less prejudiced. But the uniformed lobby has been able to block such a reform.

RETIRED OFFICERS HELP GREAT CONCERNS—It is not the great corporations which suffer from these incredible delays—General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Raytheon Manufacturing company, North American Aviation, Boeing, Martin, Convair, etc. They get paid promptly for obvious reasons.

Almost every large firm and prime contractor has employed retired generals, admirals and air force officers. They know their way around the labyrinthine corridors of the Pentagon building. Having promoted many of the officers handling defense finances, they get de luxe "treatment"—no waiting, no delays, no gagging.

BIG FIRMS HANDLED WITH KID GLOVES—In fact, Gerritt Westlink, a member of the air force's general staff, pleads guilty to the charge of discrimination in favor of big-edged corporations. In a recent interview, he said:

"Of course, we handle the big firms with kid gloves. When you contract for a B-52 or a missile, you are dealing with the only outfit that can produce your article. You need it, so you keep him in business."

Westlink does not seem to realize that his "big firms" must rely on thousands of small subcontractors. One current unpaid claimant, for instance, manufactured chairs for those undelivered cargo planes. Another turned out C-rations for the Korean force. Westlink refers to these small firms as "the pork and beans boys." He apparently has not heard of Napoleon's maxim that an "army marches on its stomach."

EXPERTS PLAN INVESTIGATION—Two experts on military affairs, flooded with constituents' complaints, plan to investigate the general procurement problem, especially the admitted favoritism toward a few great corporations. They are Rep. Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the house armed services committee, and Rep. F. Edward Hebert of Louisiana, who heads the special armed forces investigating committee.

Besides the discrimination against small firms freely conceded, they charge that the Pentagon winks at excessive profits, favors a few "buddy" firms through a noncompetitive bidding system, stimulates inflation, boosts the national defense budget and creates a self-perpetuating monopoly.

LAWYERS' RECESSION

Most of us don't give much thought to the financial status of men in the distinguished professions of law, medicine, and the like. We assume they're doing all right.

As far as doctors and dentists go the assumption is pretty good. In the period from 1929 to 1951, dentists boosted their average annual earnings 83 per cent, while nonsalaried doctors raised theirs 157 per cent.

But lawyers, it seems, haven't fared so well. A Mississippi attorney addressing the Pennsylvania Bar association said the slump in lawyers' annual pay has been just 58 per cent in the 1929-51 span. U. S. industrial workers, though admittedly starting from a much lower base, have done better than that with a gain of 131 per cent.

The lawyers' costs are up, too, to the point where they eat up nearly 40 per cent of gross revenues.

In 1954 net income of one third of all practicing lawyers in the nation was below $5,485.

These factors, coupled with others, have made the law a less attractive profession to Americans. The share of the national income devoted to legal services is down to about a third what it was 25 years ago.

The Mississippi lawyer, John Satterfield, said lawyers themselves are partly to blame because they don't get together effectively on their economic problems. Fees for identical services may differ by 500 per cent.

Many people look upon experienced lawyers as a painfully expensive luxury, and turn to various lay agencies for some sort of legal assistance.

Top legal advice evidently can't come cheap. The lawyers' dilemma is how to assure themselves a proper return without pricing themselves out of the market.

We all have a great stake in seeing that the profession of the law remains healthy and vigorous.

When we as individuals clash head-on with government, or with each other, it is the lawyer who moves into the tangled web of conflict and gives real, living meaning to the ideas of liberty and justice we all prize. Without him they would be mere words and phrases.

OPENING FOR NIXON

The surprisingly sharp complaints against President Eisenhower's indifference at the Des Moines meeting of the Republican national committee provide an opening for Vice President Nixon to take even more complete charge of the party organization and affairs.

Eisenhower will not be moved by the Des Moines criticism, according to his friends. He may take to television more often, deliver a few more speeches and statements on behalf of the budget and the legislative program. But he will not tour the country, invite the dese-dose-dem politicians to the White House, or reorganize his quiet, leisurely routine.

The politicians apparently recognize and bow to his attitude. It is to Vice President Nixon's office rather than to the White House that they are flocking with their complaints, their reports on the November disaster, and more constructive suggestions for the future. It should also be noted that they are not heading for Albany.

Nixon's position is still precarious, however, with respect to the election rather than to the nomination.

Although a middle-of-the-roader and a loyal Eisenhower supporter, he realizes that he must work quietly for more liberal legislation. He has kept on good terms with both the liberal and conservative factions in the senate. He has tried to prevent their squabbles over the leadership and rules reform from degenerating into a bitter and permanent division.

After all, he knows that his own hopes for the nomination—and election—will rise or fall with the success or failure of the administration in the next two years. The nomination will not be worth a plugged nickel unless he and Eisenhower can reshape the party nearer to the popular desire and demand.

SPEED AND SAFETY

With American Airlines now flying its big Boeing 707's coast to coast, the pure jet age in U. S. commercial air travel is really upon us.

Eastbound flights from Los Angeles to New York will take only 4 1/2 hours, westbound trips about an hour longer.

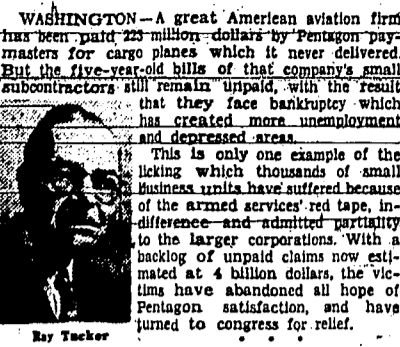

In thus telescoping time, Americans who climb aboard the jets will find themselves racing at 600 miles an hour, at altitudes up to 35,000 feet and more.

It should be comforting to the jet-age passenger, therefore, to know that these bold thrusts into higher air are taken under the most careful safeguards.

All pure jet commercial flights over U. S. soil, and that includes National's Florida runs and the continental approaches by transatlantic lines, are not only under the constant guidance of FAA's air traffic control but are watched on radar screens.

No other commercial flights are thus observed. And the setting up of this radar net, relying heavily on established air defense command stations, is a big milestone in American air safety.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

AT SOMEONE ELSE'S EXPENSE

An astute observer of the 35th state legislature in session at Boise, John Corlett of the Idaho Daily Statesman, notes that one development which he terms "early" is the formation of an economy bloc.

And what is so remarkable about organization of a "hold the line" movement when all evidence is that some rigid controls are necessary? Estimates of the amount needed in the general fund budget have ranged downward from 103.8 million dollars to the 70.9 million dollars proposed by Gov. Robert E. Smylie. This last figure is no piker's estimate. Smylie's proposal ups the general budget 4.5 million dollars over the expenditures of the past biennium.

In trying to hold down spending to prevent further inflationary trends, Idaho's legislative leaders have the example of the head of the national government.

President Dwight W. Eisenhower has left no doubt that he intends to battle in keeping the budget at 77 billion dollars.

Any rise in federal spending should be viewed in light of inflation and taxes. President Eisenhower's battle for a balanced budget has the support of economists in both Democratic and Republican parties. The president has taken a firm position against leaving a record of increasing spending, mammoth deficits, rising federal debt, inflation, higher taxes and possible wage and price controls.

Many persons believe that spending on local, state and federal levels is inadequate for services which they believe would be beneficial. All of us who struggle to balance bank accounts in the three figure class find it difficult to visualize the millions needed for the state expenditures or the billions which President Eisenhower considers in the federal budget he has presented.

But we can all understand the taxpayer, who in urging more money for schools stated: "But the money will have to come from pockets, richer than mine." What this taxpayer was suggesting was that state and federal funds are in higher figures and therefore the money is more easily available.

Let us not overlook that the money for local, state and federal expenditures all comes from the same pockets—Yours and mine.—The Gooding Leader.

THE BANKING FREEDOM BILL

The Idaho legislature should pass promptly a bill sponsored by Sen. Vernon Daniel, R., Fayette, to permit Idaho banks to choose whether to close or stay open on Saturday during the summer months.

This freedom of action should be guaranteed to the state's banks even if the banks object. Bankers generally are known for their opposition to government paternalism and interference in private business. They certainly should receive legislative encouragement to stand by their guns in this instance.

During the last session of the legislature, banking interests generally supported a bill to require banks to close at Saturday during June, July and August. Many Idahoans felt that the banks should be required to stay open. Others maintained that the banks certainly should not be required, at least, to close. This newspaper, for example, argued that each bank should be free to choose whether to stay open or close as a matter of business freedom. But the banking interests, arguing that it would be unfair competition for one bank to remain open while others closed, pressed for compulsory closing. The legislature duly enacted their objective into law.

Immediately afterward signs appeared in the banks to the effect that the banks "are required by state law" to be closed on Saturdays—a neat device to transfer any customer ill will from the banks to the legislature.

Now the senate aeronautics committee has introduced at Daniel's request a bill to give the banks the freedom of choice they so richly deserve. We're not sure how aeronautics got ahold of this one, unless high finance gets the same legislative channeling at high altitude, but it is one bill which should receive swift and bipartisan approval.—Lewiston Tribune.

THAT'LL TEACH EM!

Dear Gent:

Sometimes I think people who live in the country have much more patience than people who live in town. Everytime we go driving in the country, the same thought occurs to me. How many times have you been driving along and seen a pile of rubbish someone has dumped out of a car into the borrow pit or right on the edge of the road? You can scarcely drive more than a few hundred yards outside Twin Falls before you spot one of those eyesores, regardless of the road you choose.

I think people in the country shouldn't put up with it. I think they should watch for these litterbugs and get their license numbers. No, I don't have in mind turning them over to the law, although there is a law against such roadside litterbugs.

What I have in mind would better serve the ends of justice.

Get the license numbers of these litterbugs, phone the sheriff's office and find out who bought that license. A deputy can give you the name and address.

From there on, you have two courses of action. You can drive past the offenders' house and leave rubbish back in his front yard. However, this would make you just as bad as he is. Probably the best thing would be to carry the rubbish up to his front door, ring the bell, and explain to him that you saw "this stuff" fall out of his car and you just know he lost it, then hand it to him.

Two or three dyed-in-the-wool water skiers were checking Snake river above Shoshone falls the other day with water skiing in mind. They said they were getting just bit tired of waiting for the regular snow-type skiing, so thought the river should be about ready.

Well, they talked it over, looked at the river and examined the place where they put boats into the water. Then one of them put his hand in the water, swished it around.

"There's one thing about it," he told his friends, "if you fell or lost the tow rope, you'd get about one good splash of that water and you'd run all the way to shore on top of the water!"

Must have been a bit on the chilly side.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

On the night of Nov. 5, 1958, Ben Hecht broadcast on channel 7, WABC-TV, New York, a shocking expression of hatred for the entire German people which he justified in part, although not altogether, by a recital of a horror which he said he had observed with his own eyes in Berlin at some vague time in 1919 or 1920.

Hecht said among other statements, "I saw 2,000 men, women and kids brought out, handcuffed together in groups of four. The 2,000 were prisoners. They hadn't been tried, but on this night they were all killed. They were executed by four machineguns that went after them as they walked up and down the prison yard."

Since then, I have received from a reliable professional research librarian and journalist text from articles which Hecht filed to his paper at that time, the Chicago Daily News, which reduces the figure of 2,000 to 200, contains no reference to "kids" and reduces the number of women to four. However, the story in the News does not claim that Hecht saw any of these 200 persons actually put to death.

In the TV broadcast, Hecht said that about 1 o'clock in the morning he climbed a tree outside the yard of Moabit prison and with an opera glass "was able to overlook the yard." He said, "I stayed there two or three hours and while I was there I saw 2,000 men, women and kids" and so forth as above.

The news article under Ben's name says nothing about a tree or an opera glass, but it does report that he asked "a lad whom I recognize as one of the men-in-charge of the guard at the Adlon hotel 'what has happened?'" And that the young man whispered, "220 men—all men and all Germans. We stood them up and we made them pass in front of the machineguns. Did you hear the howling? They fell like dominoes, two by two."

In the article, Ben intimated that these persons were communists although that early in the communist world revolution the term "communists" was not agreed upon as a general label for such revolutionists. Accordingly, in describing the efforts of the improvised patriotic government to put down the Russian terror within Germany, Hecht said, "The government is still fighting the mob army of Spartacists, workers, marines and red guards."

He said the prisoners who entered the prison yard between files of government soldiers and who presumably were put to death, "had been captured by the soldiers in their clean-up of the working men's sectors of the city." It is historic fact that the Spartacists, as Hecht called them, more generally known to history as Spartacists, were members of the treasonous communist movement.

The leaders were Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht, historic communist revolutionists. Both were killed in revolutionary action in Berlin, possibly under the Ley de Fuego whereby prisoners are told to run and then are shot in flight. The term "workers" was a familiar communist label of those days, as in the "workers and soldiers councils" of Petrograd.

The "marines" referred to probably were taken in the revolution at Kiel where marines of the German navy were the prime movers of the BURLEY, Feb. 1—Thirty-five shareholders attended the annual meeting of the Mini-Cassia Federal Employees Credit Union Friday night in the dining room of the Nutcracker hotel. President Ray Fillmore conducted the meeting.

Elected directors for two years were James Howard Anderson and Al Gabbell, both incumbents, and Don Mulick, John Telsak and elected to the supervisory committee—Wallace Sharples to the credit committee, each for a three-year term.

Treasurer Joseph Bradish gave his annual report, stating that the union had made a healthy growth in membership and deposits since it was organized in 1955. The original membership was 57 and the present membership is 252. The treasurer was voted an increase in salary for his excellent service.

Guest speaker of the evening was the managing director of the Idaho Credit Union League, Wade Gustin, Nampa. His talk was supplemented by a 15-minute film. Light refreshments were served.

Georgia Solon Wants "Better U.S. Justices"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Sen. Herman E. Talmadge urged today to require that any appointee to the supreme court must have at least five years of experience as a judge.

The Georgia Democrat, in a blistering attack on the present court, said the constitution is "completely and strangely silent on the question of the qualifications" for supreme court justices.

As worded, he said, it would let the President "appoint a plumber... a high school student... an alien... or himself."

Talmadge made his plea in a speech prepared for senate delivery. He introduced a bill to require that future justices must have served five years as an appellate or district judge or as a justice of the highest court of a state.

The Georgia senator said only Associate Justice William J. Brennan, Jr., of the present court would have qualified under his bill.

Talmadge said that under the present wording of the constitution, "we have seen appointments made on the basis of political persuasion rather than the qualifications of the appointees."

There Are Days When Henry Wouldn't Mind Red Communes

By HENRY McEMORE

Mind you, there aren't many of them, but there are days when Henry wouldn't mind a Red Commune. He has a family, with everyone living in huge communes, or dormitories, has a certain appeal to a husband.

Dormitory life would be noisy, and a man wouldn't be likely to get his eggs done exactly as he liked them, nor would he have much first claim on the morning paper.

But there would be an advantage or two for a husband in a commune, and there's no getting away from it.

For one thing, he would not be at the mercy of those mad, sudden, unpredictable decisions that wives have a way of making.

One moment a wife will be in a quiet corner reading, a look of calm on her face. The next—and this without warning—she'll be on her feet, her face as set as those of the Mount Rushmore memorial, announcing:

"Every curtain in this house is dirty, and they have to come down this minute."

There is no use for a husband to say, "Hold on a minute!" or to point out that the curtains certainly are no dirtier than they were 10 minutes ago, when everything appeared to be all right.

Neither is there any use for him to ask why this split-second decision. It will only cause trouble. The best thing for him to do is to get the little ladder out of the kitchen, or stand on a chair, and start taking down the curtains. Resistance is useless—she'll be on her feet, her face as set as those of the Mount Rushmore memorial, announcing:

"Sometimes a husband will refuse to take down the curtains for his wife, saying, 'Take 'em down yourself, if you're so set on it.'"

He always regrets this action, for wives cannot take down curtains without yanking down the rods at the same time, and it is the husband who has to put them back again.

Another peculiarity of wives that men would escape by living in a Chinese dormitory is that sudden desire to see a movie that strikes them once in a while.

It hits them like lightning. They'll go for months without mentioning a movie, and then—Bang!—they've got to see one.

The urge to see a movie never strikes them early in the day, but invariably strikes at a time when, only by breaking one's neck, is it possible to get there on time.

No matter what action the husband takes when the movie fever hits his wife, he is bound to lose. If he refuses to go, she goes into a junior pout.

If he agrees to take her, and starts tearing around to get ready she tells him he doesn't want to take her, is mad because he has to, and is acting like a martyr.

Wives are a race apart, and that's for sure.

Tests Ban Urged In Spite of Risks

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Twenty-two prominent scientists, clergymen, editors and business and labor leaders, have called on the United States, Russia and Britain to ban atomic tests even if there is a risk of cheating.

In identical letters to President Eisenhower, Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan the group said "there are elements of risk in any agreement."

"But," they said, "the risks of continuing the arms race indefinitely are even greater."

The letters were signed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt; Socialist Norman Thomas; Joseph E. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers union; James B. Carey, president of the Electrical Workers union; Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review; Atom Scientist Ralph Lapp; Robert R. Nathan, chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, and others.

Violation Claimed For Property Sale

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton C. Mays filed suit in Twin Falls probate court Friday against Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Jensen, claiming that the Jensens violated the terms of an agreement reached by the couples.

Mr. and Mrs. Mays allege that a sale agreement Aug. 23, 1958, stipulated that the Jensens were to provide a purchaser's title insurance policy for property and the policy has never been provided.

Mr. and Mrs. Mays claim they made a down payment for the property of $150 and took possession on Aug. 23. They provided the house with $330 worth of improvements, including labor, but made no additional payments on the property when no provisions were made for the policy.

They allege the Jensens have locked them out of the house and prevented them from entering the property.

They seek recovery of the $150 down payment, the $330 worth of improvements and attorney fees. Their attorney is H. N. Jewell.

Papers Asked in Couple's Estate

A petition for letters of administration of a community property estate were filed in Twin Falls probate court Monday by Floyd Raymond Lilly whose wife died Jan. 9 and left no will.

The estate consists of real and personal property in Lemhi county on which payments are still due Lilly; Floyd Lilly company, Twin Falls, including accounts, inventory and supplies, and property in Twin Falls.

Probate Judge J. Dean Mosher has set a hearing on the petition for 10:30 a. m. Feb. 26. Lilly's attorney is William J. Langley.

Tugmen Strike

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Four trans-Atlantic liners prepared today to maneuver in and out of their berths without tugs as a result of a two-day-old tugmen's strike which tied up harbor traffic and cut off fuel deliveries to Manhattan.

Four thousand tugboats and oil craft workers went on strike for higher wages Saturday at midnight, but the walkout had little effect on the harbor yesterday because it was Sunday. Approximately 450 tugs and oil craft are tied up.

Small Sports Cars' Friend Really Angry

Mrs. Lewis, self-appointed champion of the small sports car, is so angry today that she has threatened to sue the manufacturer of the little cars from bullying the little cars.

She said the truck backed into her car, but the judge accepted the driver's version—that the accident was Mrs. Lewis' fault.

She came out of her cell Saturday night hopping mad and ready to make a national fight out of it.

With more and more small cars being sold every day, this is a national problem, she declared. "Nobody gives the little sports car a break."

Benson Warns About Surplus Wheat Danger

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson said today congressmen from farm areas might "throw over the farm program" unless the price support system for wheat was revamped.

He said, "to promote a program that continues to stimulate more production of the same commodity doesn't make sense to me."

Benson said in a copyrighted insert in the magazine U. S. News and World Report that the present wheat program had put three billion dollars worth of the grain in government warehouses.

President Eisenhower asked congress in his farm message last week to clamp tighter planting restrictions on wheat or reduce price supports. He proposed that price supports on wheat and 11 other crops be pulled down by basing them on the market price rather than the 5-year-old parity formula.

Benson warned that under the current agriculture program the farm surplus could pile up "to the point where it will crash down on our heads." He did not elaborate.

Benson branded as "unsound and dangerous" a new farm proposal which some Democrats were reported to be drafting. It would permit farmers to sell their products at the market price and then collect an additional government subsidy.

Benson said this plan would cost more than 10 billion dollars a year.

"It would mean greater costs and greater dependence on government," he said. "I'll not be a party to it."

He did not say if this meant he could resign if congress approved the Democratic program.

Happy Mothers Meet

Mrs. Frances Chionchio, left, and Mrs. Dora Tavarez, whose babies were kidnapped and returned safely recently, smile as they meet in the Chionchio home in Brooklyn, N. Y., for the first time. Baby Lisa Rose Chionchio, who was snatched from a hospital crib, yawns disinterestedly. ### Church Feast May Net $400

SHOSHONE, Feb. 2—The first in a series of money-raising projects for the local LDS church building fund, held Thursday night at the church recreation hall, was termed a success by those in charge. They estimate that more than $400 will be cleared.

A smorgasbord dinner was served in a lamplight setting with individual tables decorated with winter flowers.

The Relief society was in charge of the project, under direction of Mrs. V. F. Perron, president.

Mrs. Douglas Hansen, assisted by Mrs. Hansen and Harley Handy, was in charge of tables and table decorations.

Mrs. Louis Anderson was in charge of cleanup, assisted by MIA girls, and Mrs. P. T. Bateman was in charge of the meat dishes. Mrs. Harley Handy, assisted by MIA girls, was in charge of serving. Mrs. Burton Thorne was chairman of hot dishes; Mrs. Cal Bateman, salads; Mrs. Ross Boyd, breads and rolls; Mrs. L. T. Sorensen, punch; Mrs.

This Story Relates How Giant Russia Grows up in 10 Years

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—This is the story of how a giant grew up. One is the cool Western feeling of superiority. In its place: Uneasiness, worry, self-criticism. Ten years have brought the Soviet Union self-confidence and achievement.

Ten years ago, compared with the United States, the Soviet Union was away back in the economic woods. Hope was being expressed that Soviet citizens, fed up with tyranny and poor living, would kick up their heels.

There is little of that any more. There is no evidence to support it.

Today the Soviet Union is indisputably the world's second economic power and is closing the gap. It has shown such amazing scientific and industrial progress no one here is trying to laugh off the danger.

Instead Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's boast about closing the gap, and Soviet accomplishments, have forced debate on whether this government is doing all it can to keep the gap open.

This country decries socialism. But, ironically, too much Soviet progress could force the American government into even greater participation in the American economy.

The greater the participation, the greater the degree of socialism.

Ten years ago the United States outclassed the Soviet Union militarily. Not now. Hardly any more predicts victory for either side in war. The guessing now is that both sides might be obliterated.

Ten years ago at this time the Soviets did not have an atom bomb.

The United States still had a monopoly. It was not until September, 1949, that the Soviets had their first atomic explosion.

Then the United States went on to develop the hydrogen bomb. The Soviets caught up with that, too.

Now both sides have a plentiful supply of both kinds of bombs.

In 10 years the Soviets have made gigantic strides with jet planes, submarines and missiles. A decade ago the idea of an intercontinental missile was only a gleam in a scientist's eye.

It was a shattering blow to American complacency when in the fall of 1957 the Soviets sent up their sputniks. They showed their continued lead and superiority in this field with their moonshot in 1958.

There is no better evidence of American concern than the searching investigation begun last week by the senate preparedness subcommittee into the state of American missile development as compared with the Soviet Union.

The Eisenhower administration takes the position that the missile gap has been exaggerated. The President himself said last week he sees no reason for a "hang dog attitude of humiliation."

The fact that word "humiliation" occurred to him—in relation to the Soviet Union—is a sign of the times.

The Democratic leadership in congress accuses the administration of concealing information about the missile gap and putting economy ahead of national security.

While the debate goes on Secretary of State John Foster Dulles paid an indirect tribute to the So-

Quiet

ATLANTA, Feb. 2 (AP)—A suburban drive-in has noticed quite a decline in horn-blowers since its carhops began handing out cards with this verse:

When you want to call your driver
And you're sitting all forlorn—
You will get him to you quicker
With your lights than with your horn.
For there ain't a man among us
Who has eyesight that has grown
To the point where he can look around
And see whose horn has blown.

Pageant Planned

BUHL, Feb. 2—Kent Giles, chairman of the Miss Buhl pageant committee, announces entry blanks for the pageant are available and may be obtained from him at the Idaho First National bank here.

Girls who are members of the senior class or graduates are eligible to enter this contest which is the fourth annual beauty pageant sponsored by the Buhl Lions club. The club also will take nominations from people who know of girls who would be interested in participating in the contest.

Karen Kast was last year's winner.

Official Visit of Rebekah Leader Made in Leader

WENDELL, Feb. 2—Mrs. Edith Cleveinger, Burley, president of the Idaho Rebekah assembly, made her official visit to Idaho Rebekah lodge No. 98 Thursday evening at the IOOF hall.

Other honored guests were Mrs. Lillian Hughes, Gooding, past president of the Rebekah assembly; Mrs. Ray Lancaster, assembly song leader; Mrs. Shirley Shropshire, Jerome, assembly outside guardian; Mrs. Manning Patterson, Gooding, district deputy president; lodge deputies Mrs. Tom Lowman, of Marguerite lodge No. 98, Gooding; and Mrs. Max Miller, of Idaho lodge No. 98, Wendell. Mrs. Owen Bolin introduced the guests and Mrs. Fred McCloud and Mrs. Laurence Hashman presented each with a corsage of pink carnations.

Other guests introduced included Mrs. Florence Schrieber and Mrs. Ethel Porter, Gooding; Mrs. Jean Easton, Mrs. Mabel Overman, Mrs. Minnie Jewel, Mrs. Doris Spoford, of Springdale Rebekah lodge; Mrs. Ernest Campbell, Bellevue; and Mrs. Alice Turner, Hazelton.

The lodge officers, under the direction of Mrs. J. B. Hartwell, staff captain, presented special drills in honor of the assembly president. Mrs. Cleveinger explained her five point program in a message to the lodge using as her theme "Build for the future. It can be done."

The Rebekah district meeting will be held Feb. 21 in Gooding with registration to begin at 1 p.m. The banquet preceding the special meeting was served at the Presbyterian church by the Mariners club. Table decorations were arranged by Mrs. M. A. McCloud, Mrs. A. F. Brown, Mrs. N. J. Mason and Mrs. J. C. Kendrick. The Bible on a miniature gold altar was the highlight of the pink and green decorated table for the honored guests. Pink carnations in low bouquets and pink tapers centered the other pink and green decorated tables.

Mrs. S. K. Bingham served as mistress of ceremonies. The program arranged by Mrs. Fred McCloud and Mrs. Dale Gilbert included songs by Eddie Terry and Lyle Hills, Jerome, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Willa Hills; dance routines by Marcia Harley, Marcia Nelson, Robyn Frith, Sylvia Durfee, Jeri Eaton, Ellen Jensen and Donna Tucker; a solo by Melva Thaele, accompanied by Karen Cox, and "An Evening Prayer" by Mrs. Wayne Fagg, the hymn selected by Mrs. Cleveinger for her year.

Other committees for the event were Mrs. J. B. Hartwell and Mrs. DeLoe Newman, corsages, and Mrs. Harold Brown and Mrs. Laurence Hashman, gifts.

A tea honoring Mrs. Cleveinger was given by Mrs. Frank Jeffries, noble grand of the local lodge, Thursday afternoon. Other guests were officers of Idaho Rebekah lodge No. 98.

Couple to Make Pocatello Home Following Rites

GOODING, Feb. 2—Mr. and Mrs. Boyd E. Wilson, recent newlyweds, are making their home in Pocatello where the bridegroom is attending Idaho State college.

The couple was married Dec. 21 at the Fairway Park Baptist church at Hayward, Calif. The bride, the former Jeanie Irene Patburg, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Patburg, Hayward, and the bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wilson, Gooding.

The Rev. Elliott Paulsen performed the double-ring ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white satin fashioned with a lace bodice and traditional long sleeves. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was held by a pearl and sequin crown. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid and tied with satin streamers.

Geraldine Hall was maid of honor in a beige lace and satin ballerina-length dress. Bridesmaids, Sandra Crocker and Kay Hawk, wore ballerina-length blue lace and satin dresses. They carried nosegays of yellow and beige chrysanthemums. Cynthia Patburg, sister of the bride, in a powder blue accordion pleated nylon frock, was flower girl. She carried a nosegay of yellow chrysanthemums.

Mrs. W. W. Williamson, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. William France, Gooding, and Norman Strobel, Walnut Creek, Calif., were ushers.

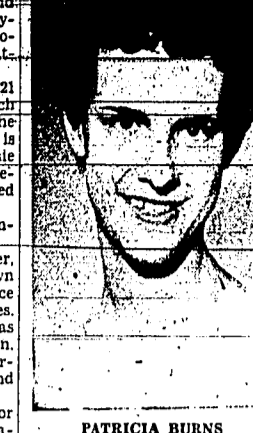

Mrs. Beth Tarman, pianist, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Audrey Anderson who sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "Oh, Promise Me." Mrs. Patburg selected a royal blue satin dress with blue accessories. Mrs. Wilson wore a two-piece cinnamon silk dress with salmon accessories. Each wore a white orchid corsage.

After the ceremony a reception was held for 150 guests—in the church parlor. The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Laurence Boyles. A buffet lunch was served by Mrs. Boyles and Robert Boyles. Miss Hall and Miss Crocker attended the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Santa Cruz the bride chose a black and white jersey sheath dress with black accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

She was graduated from Hayward high school in 1958 and was employed as bookkeeper for the Hayward Electric company. The bridegroom was graduated from Gooding high school in 1958 and attended the University of Idaho and ISC.

Care of Your Children By ANGELO PATRI After school is dismissed, teenagers—boys and girls, too young to work, too old to loaf for something worthwhile to do, are at a loose end. This is especially pressing on those who live in cities or big towns where houses are built on the edges of the plots with no place for the children to play either inside or outside. The fortunate ones who live in the open country, or on the farms, have wonderful advantages. These children always have work to do that has to be done on time and up to a standard which in itself is a liberal education. The household duties await the girls and the outdoor chores the boys. Often the girls have animals to care for—chickens, turkeys, pheasants. The 4-H club and the Future Farmers of America take up any spare time these children have. They have time and place to play, companions interested in the same things, and their home, church and club are always there waiting for them. They have no idle hours in which they have nothing to do. Maybe that is why there are so few of them in trouble with the neighbors and the police. Turning to look at the boys and girls in the city the picture is different. Homes are crowded. So are the streets. So is everywhere. Even the schools. The children must go somewhere and when busy, decent people do not see that the children need space, leadership and instruction there are always those who are willing to take the children over and bend them to their ill ends. It is the old story of Satan finding work for idle hands. Playgrounds are fine for the younger group, but the time comes when the older boys and girls weary of play. Their minds and bodies are calling for worthwhile work, for activity that allows growth, skills, usefulness to develop and there is no answer to their call. It should be possible in the cities and the big towns to keep schools open after regular hours and supply teachers of arts, crafts, physical culture, games—all teaching leadership. It is disheartening to parents and teachers to hear the same old story, "No money." Any newspaper, any morning, tells the story of great funds being asked for activities which to their minds are far less important than the preventive work for growing boys and girls. Some day we shall have the good sense to hire every boy and girl in his district, follow his growth and development and when his situation at home, his record in school and community are not satisfactory, take him over and place him, to his advantage in a twenty-four hour a day school. Too, we will not allow housing that provides no space for children. Parents should start training obedience at a very early age then life will be happier and pleasant for both the parent and child in future years. Dr. Patri's booklet No. 391, "Obedience," explains how to start. It contains the training benefits achieved. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. # Bengals Near Loop Crown But Face Big Test in Two Games With C-State Bears

The Idaho State Bengals are within four victories of completing an unbeaten Rocky Mountain conference basketball season and nailing down their seventh straight league title. But they have their work cut out for them next week in a two-game series at Colorado State college. The Bengals are 6-0 in league play, while C-State dropped its first game last Saturday to Colorado college 74-69. Idaho State takes a respite from league activity this week.

Fast Finish Snares Furgol Golf Melon

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 2 (AP)—The 1959 gold rush of the golfing brigade in California was over today, with Marty Furgol the latest to hit pay dirt and Art Wall, jr., carrying the most loot. Furgol, a 41-year-old veteran from Lemont, Ill., came from behind in the last nine holes to win the $20,000 San Diego Open Sunday, with rounds of 70-71-64-69—271—14 strokes under par. The win gave him $2,800 and his first tournament victory in five years.

Wyoming Eyes Upset Victory In Utah Clash

By The Associated Press
Western State would be a better team than this week for defending champion Wyoming to catch fire in the Skyline conference basketball clash. The opportunity will be at hand Saturday night for the luckless Cowboys and Coach Ev Shelton. They invade Salt Lake City, seeking to accomplish what five other league teams have tried and failed in doing: Stopping title-bound Utah.

Leading World Billiards Star, Hoppe, Is Dead

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—Willie Hoppe—"Mr. Billiards" for a half-century of near-flawless play—died Sunday at 71.

"If You Please, Sir"

A humble Casey Stengel 'serves' his 1959 contract to Bob Turley, pitching hero of the New York Yankees in the '58 World Series. Turley, who was voted the outstanding major league pitcher of 1958, signed up for an estimated $32,000, a raise of about $7,000. Other Yankee players, however, have balked at accepting contracts which would pay them less than last year. (NEA telephoto)

Soviet Leaders Confer

Bundled against the cold are Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, second from right, and mustached Anastas Mikoyan in Moscow's Kremlin gardens as they talk things over with other delegates to 21st congress of Russian Communist Party. This is the first picture of Khrushchev with Mikoyan since the latter's return from visit to the United States. (AP wirephoto via radio from Moscow)

Bill Would Start Fight of Disease

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Sen. Lister Hill, D., Ala., and 55 colleagues joined today in sponsoring a bill to launch an international research attack on disease and disability. Their "Health for Peace act" bill would set up a national institute for international medical research as part of the national institutes of health. It also would create a national advisory council on the problem. Fifty million dollars a year would be authorized for expenditures under supervision of the secretary of health, education and welfare.

Test

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 2 (UPI)—Four Iowa lawmakers who are renting a house from Rep. Howard Reppert, Des Moines, introduced a bill to prohibit a legislator from existing other legislators until the session is over. When Reppert objected, Rep. Vern-Elsie replied "we just wanted to see if you listen to each of the bills read up here."

CHINESE NAME TOP FILM
TOKYO, Feb. 2 (UPI)—The communists announced today that a movie called "Daughter of the Communist Party" had been chosen overwhelmingly as red China's best film for 1952.

Solution

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Feb. 2 (AP)—Chris Stanley had been biting himself too frequently, so he had his two front teeth removed. They were the only two he had. Chris is a month old.

Followed

ASHLAND, Ky., Feb. 2 (AP)—Odd, thought W. S. Patton, how closely a pickup truck had been following his car. Then he got out and learned why. His car was towing the driverless truck. Patton said he apparently hooked bumpers with the truck in pulling away from a parking place.

3 TRAMPLED TO DEATH

SINGAPORE, Feb. 2 (UPI)—One aged man and two elderly women were trampled to death in a weekend stampede to collect Chinese New Year money packets from a Chinese temple outside the city. More than 2,000 people and beggars who waited night-long stormed the temple gate when it was opened yesterday morning for distribution of packets containing five Malaysian dollars.

DO YOU HAVE ARTHRITIS?

Here is a message you will want to read.

Your doctor can tell you there is absolutely no known cure for arthritis. Medical research specialists are now engaged in several projects to find a cure, but as yet none has been found. Naturally, we all live in hope they will be successful, but until that time, we must content to get the best relief possible.

Right now there is a fast, safe and effective reliever agent—called Eruva. Eruva's ingredients have been used in hospitals and clinics prescribed by doctors, and have helped scores of men and women to lead happy and full lives. You can be sure nothing is faster, safer or has been proven more effective than Eruva for temporary easing of a minor arthritic condition or its related diseases... rheumatism, neuritis, sciatica, lumbago and pain, too. Try Eruva today. Ask your druggist for a generous trial-size trial size bottle. You must be satisfied with the results of your purchase or it will be refunded by the maker. There are larger, economy sizes also, for continuous use.

Assault on Dam Projects Ban Planned by Western Senators

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—A bipartisan assault on the Eisenhower administration's ban on new river dams is planned by western senators. Democrats and Republicans indicated at a recent meeting with directors of the National Reclamation association they would join forces in seeking federal appropriations for water projects. No appropriations for new projects are called for in President Eisenhower's federal budget for the year beginning July 1. Most of the 15 senators from 12 states who attended the meeting agreed with NRA directors that modest appropriations should be made to get new projects under way, especially those already authorized by congress. Sen. James E. Murray, D., Mont., chairman of the westerners' committee and frequent critic of the Republican administration's dam-building policies, led off with a biting saying water resources are being neglected. Sen. Gordon Allott, R., Colo., called for three types of legislation: 1. To protect western state water rights. 2. To teach people of the East, Midwest and South the importance of reclamation to the nation as a whole and. 3. Appropriation of slightly more than 14 million dollars to start construction of projects already authorized "which we can't hide because they're on the shelf and ready to go." Sen. Alan Bible, D., Nev., said he was intrigued by a house bill calling for expenditure of a million dollars annually for 10 years in weather modification experiments. It has been estimated, he said, weather modification might add a million acre feet of water to the Colorado river supply. Sen. Frank E. Moss, D., Utah, a new member of the interior committee, said it is "tremendously important that we push forward... and get project appropriations. Another new senator, Gale McGee, D., Wyo., said he and Moss had just returned from a military briefing at which it was argued that domestic spending should be stopped in favor of military and defense expenditures. Sen. Frank Church, D., Idaho, termed reclamation the "foundation stone of the economy of the West. "We have to continue," he said. Sen. Henry Dworshak, R., Idaho, said congress is responsible for development of the nation's water and other resources. He expressed belief the most potent opposition to reclamation project comes from agricultural areas of the Midwest and South which fear the projects will add to commodity surpluses. Dworshak noted that in the past he was virtually the only westerner on the senate appropriations committee, but this year he'd have sympathetic help in handling project requests from new members of the committee. William E. Welsh, secretary-manager of the Reclamation association, gave the committee a list of projects compiled by the federal reclamation bureau. Listed as being authorized and ready for construction are Chief Joseph Dam project, Great Western division, Wash.; Smith Fork, Colo.; Hammond, N. M.; Seedska-dee, Wyo.; Almenna, Kans.; East bench, Hardin and Yellowstone, Mont.; Red Willow, Neb.; and Trinity River division of the Central Valley project, Calif.

Fronzidi Ends Tours at New Miami Airport

MIAMI, Feb. 2 (UPI)—Argentine President Arturo Fronzidi ended his history-making U. S. good will visit on a symbolic note yesterday by dedicating a new air terminal hall as an important bridge toward closer U.S.-Latin American relations. An estimated 8,000—including many Latin Americans—attended the colorful sun-bathed ceremonies to bid Fronzidi and his wife farewell. Argentine Airliner First Speaking through an interpreter, Fronzidi expressed pride that the first plane to officially use the 20 million dollar terminal was an Argentine airliner. He called the airport the beginning of a "fraternal bridge" toward closer ties with Latin America. He said he would forever be like the plane he boarded yesterday—"Messenger of peace between nations and fraternity among people." Airport One of Largest Local officials said the terminal, which is more than 2,000 feet long, has runways more than two miles in length to accommodate the growing demands of the jet age. They said it made Miami International airport the largest such facility in the world. Fronzidi's participation in the dedications ended the first such tour of this country ever made by an Argentine president. After his address, he and Sonora de Fronzidi walked down a long red carpet and boarded the presidential plane for the return flight to their homeland, with stops en route in Ecuador and Chile.
