Russia Denounces Tape Recording U. S. Uses to Prove Shooting Incident

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — The state department said tonight it is shocked that Russia would denounce a tape recording the United States says proves Russian fighters shot down an unarmed American transport. The department accused the Russians of compounding previous denials with a "new and transparent" one. In broadcasts beamed around the world, the Soviet radio tonight accused the United States of a "sensational farce" in producing the recordings.

Moscow radio commentators employed such words as "clumsy," "transparent," "staged" and "farce" in describing the recording. The state department said in a statement: "It is shocking that the Soviet government has now compounded its previous false denials that it possesses vital information in this case by this new and transparent denial of the authenticity of a tape recording which its ambassador and air attaché in the United States nervously refused to listen nearly three weeks ago."

"The whole world knows perfectly well the humane basis of American policy and is consequently able to appreciate as well as do the American people that the United States government refrained from publishing this evidence, after having given to the Soviet government solely the hope of obtaining information on the 11 missing crewmen."

The United States government says that this Moscow radio statement does not reflect the considered attitude of the Soviet government. "The United States government hopes that the Soviet government will reconsider its present intransigent attitude in this case, which is shocked world public opinion, and will supply this information."

The state department made public Thursday the transcript of what called a recording of Soviet fighter pilots talking to each other by radio as they attacked the four-engine transport. The plane went down Sept. 2 after it had crossed the Soviet-Turkish frontier. At least 11 American airmen died.

The Russians have maintained they know nothing of the fate of the 11 men aboard.

Officials have said it was because of a failure to obtain any information from the pilots of the plane in Moscow that they finally decided to make public the transcript of the broadcast.

The state department says the transcript was "absolutely authentic" but declined to say how it was obtained.

Coroner's Jury Blames Jerome County Driver for Auto Death

Driving under the influence of alcohol and on the wrong side of the road were the causes of an accident near Rupert on Thursday which took the life of a 69-year-old retired Rupert farmer, a coroner's jury decided Saturday. The jury of nine found that Jacob J. Maier was killed in an accident about three-fourths of a mile west of Rupert on highway 25 and the accident was "caused by criminal negligence done by an act of Edward Heil, Hazelton, as indicated by evidence shown and testimony heard."

The jury decided Heil was traveling west in the wrong lane of traffic and that testimony indicated Heil was under the influence of liquor.

No charges have been filed against Heil yet. He and Maier were drivers of two Buicks which hit almost head-on in the fatal accident.

Witnesses at the inquest, conducted by County Coroner Robert C. Walk were Karl Kaufman, Paul, first to arrive at the scene of the accident; State Patrolmen Roy Thomas and Marvin Snyder, and Deputy Sheriff Howard Fink, investigating officers. Prosecuting Attorney William T. Goodman questioned the witnesses.

Members of the jury were Charles Frisen, Darrell Georges, Vaughn Blair, Clyde Bott, Lowell Horne, Charles Parker, Thurman Hess, Henry Fournier and Donald Dickson.

Archie W. Hitesman, 25, King Hill, pleaded guilty of negligent homicide Saturday before District Judge Charles Scoggins and is scheduled to be sentenced at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Hitesman is charged with the death of an 8-year-old girl, Pamela Powell, as a result of a two-vehicle collision near Bliss on Jan. 25. He has been held in the Gooding county jail in lieu of a $2,000 bond since his release from the hospital. Five other members of the Powell family and a passenger in the Hitesman pickup truck were injured in the accident.

Walter O. Harner, Buhl, was arraigned before Judge J. Dean Mosher on charges of negligent homicide. Her attorney is Tom F. Alworth.

U.P. Reports Freight Rate Cut on Spuds

Freight rates are being reduced on potatoes being shipped from Idaho to points east of Chicago and north of the Ohio river, reports A. H. Genge, traffic manager for the Union Pacific railroad.

The reduced rates are scheduled to go into effect soon. The reductions will vary from eight cents to 21 cents per 100 pounds under present rates, according to the minimum shipment.

Reduced rates from points of origin in the western part of Idaho and eastern Oregon will be effective March 5. The new rates will be effective from southern Idaho points east of Kuna and Hill Crest, including the Idaho-Falls and Twin Falls districts, on March 11, Genge said.

U.S. Lag Is Charged For Berlin Proposals

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — A wrangle involving the British embassy and the state department indicated today that Britain thinks the United States is lagging in making plans to counter a possible red blockade of West Berlin.

On another front of the preparations for meeting the latest Soviet challenge in Germany, however, it appeared that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is making headway. Dulles is seeking to unfreeze Western policy on German unification and thereby gain the opportunity for new Western initiative.

Diplomats here attach much importance to a decision reported in Bonn to the effect that the West German government does not consider holding of free elections an essential first step in a reunification scheme.

That opens the possibility, diplomats said, that the West German government might be willing to have some contact with the East German regime in prospective East-West talks.

Any reunification formula which did not start with free elections would almost inevitably require some initial understanding between the two German governments.

Foreign ministers of the United States, France, Britain and West Germany will meet in Paris in mid-March to discuss dealing with the Soviets at a possible Big Four conference this spring or summer, it was learned today.

Reliable diplomatic sources confirmed the mid-March meeting has been set and said an invitation to the Soviet Union for a foreign minister conference on European security and German reunification could result.

Bill Authorizing City Tax Offered

BOISE, Feb. 7 (AP)—Idaho cities and villages would be authorized to levy a one per cent sales tax under a bill introduced by the house revenue and taxation committee today.

The bill, offered to the committee by Rep. H. Grant Gardner, R., Payette, was regarded as a countermeasure to an expected proposal for a statewide sales tax.

Plane Listed Late On Nevada Flight

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 7 (AP)—The federal aviation agency said tonight a single-engine plane was listed as overdue on a flight from El Monte, Calif., to Elko, Nev.

The pilot, identified only as Wamaker, reportedly last radioed for weather information from Tonopah, Nev., earlier in the day. The FAA said he asked about weather at Elko and at Gooding, Idaho.

Gooding sources reported hearing a message for Elko about 5 p.m. from an unidentified pilot who said he was turning around because of the weather.

FAA spokesmen here added the plane was not found at any airport along its route.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The senator disarmament subcommittee disclosed tonight testimony that without inspection in Red China a nuclear explosion of any size in that country could go undetected.

Plans of Army On Launching Base Defeated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—An army proposal to begin building a complete nationwide system of anti-missile launching bases even before the military knows whether the weapon will work has been turned down by the defense department.

The army is understood to estimate the cost of the projected Nike Zeus anti-missile missile (AMN) system—weapons, bases and all the servicing and support features—at between five and six billion dollars.

Defense department experts are reported to figure it at about twice that much.

In submitting its budget requests for the coming year, the army urged that it be given money now for construction sites, training crews and crewmembers providing equipment for launching the weapon it hopes to perfect.

Army advocates of the plan argued that the air force was permitted to go ahead with building JOEM launching bases in the United States and ICBM bases overseas before the weapons themselves were combat ready.

Defense department officials defended that there was substantial difference, that at least the air force had assembled and tested actual missiles which are the prototypes of those to be sent to the bases.

On the other hand, the defense department pointed out, the Zeus missile still remains well short of the hardware stage, being presently still composed of only a series of parts.

Seven Million Increase Proposal in Legislature Draws Criticism, Praise

BOISE, Feb. 7 (AP) — An increase of nearly 7 million dollars in Idaho's general fund expenditures, to a total of $71,600,000, was proposed today in the state legislature. The recommendation, from the joint senate finance and house appropriations committee, drew immediate criticism, primarily for its failure to boost school funds beyond the limits proposed by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

But, he added, drew commendation. Sen. Arthur Murphy, D., Shoshone, the majority leader described it as a "remarkably clear-cut picture of the state's financial requirements."

In the house, Rep. Gregg Potvin, D., Power, assistant majority leader and a member of the house revenue and taxation committee, said his group "has a comprehensive scheme laid out which is more than adequate" to provide tax revenue to meet the proposed appropriations total.

He did not disclose what the committee had in mind.

Sen. Howard C. Hechtner, D., Nes Perce, chairman of the joint committee, said "I know there are those who will not be satisfied" with the recommendations.

"But," he added, "there are those who will be. By presenting our report now we are allowing the legislature 24 extra days to act. We feel it is better to tell you now what our proposals are than to wait until the 59th day when there is no time left."

The proposed expenditures of $71,600,000 for the two-year period beginning next July 1 compare with $64,700,000 for the current biennium. They represent a slight increase over the $70,000,000 proposed by Smylie.

The finance committee recommended $34,800,000 as the state's share of the public school program. That would be a gain from the 22 million-dollar-of-the-current-biennium but it was nearly 8 million dollars short of the 32½-million-dollar goal set by the Unified Education council.

Sen. F. W. Bergerson, R., Blingham, said he is opposed to federal aid for education but added "Such a state-terse budget will only invite federal aid to education."

Sen. K. C. Baylow, R., Cassia, said he thought the public school share should be between 27 and 28 million dollars.

Sen. Leonard Cardiff, R., Clearwater, said the committee "did a very good job for a state that is standing still."

Sen. Jack Murphy, R., Lincoln, and R. H. Young, R., Canyon, said they felt last bills should be brought upon before the appropriations are considered.

Traffic Offender, 16, Has Theme Sentence

A new type of punishment for juvenile traffic violators who cannot be forced to pay fines was imposed Friday afternoon by Justice of the Peace George E. Scott when he sentenced a 16-year-old Buhl boy to write a 5,000-word theme on "Traffic problems in the United States and the state of Idaho."

Although not unique in the country, this is the first time in Magic Valley the theme assignment has been used as a punishment other than in youth rehabilitation act cases. The sentence was imposed upon Donald Sams, 16, Buhl, who last Sunday lost control of a 1942 Ford he was driving and wrecked the vehicle about three miles west of Twin Falls on highway 30.

State Patrolman R. E. Young issued the youth two traffic citations, one for having no driver's license and one for speeding 70 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone.

Last Wednesday, Sams and his mother appeared before Justice Scott and the boy entered a plea of guilty to both charges.

At the time the boy and his mother indicated they would be unable to pay any fines imposed upon the youth. Inasmuch as the boy was under the age of 18, he could not be committed to the county jail in lieu of payment.

"A judge can fine a juvenile for traffic violations," the judge stated, "but that is as far as he can go. He can't collect the fine, nor can he be committed to jail."

41 Sign Petitions on Local Hospital Costs

A petition signed by 41 Twin Falls county residents protesting the proposed county budget for 1959 and particularly the amount budgeted and to be appropriated for the Magic Valley Memorial hospital because they believe the amount to be "excessive, unreasonable and unnecessary," was filed with county commissioners late Friday afternoon.

Submitting the petition to the commissioners was Roy Fuller, Twin Falls, who said he secured the names in the Murtaugh-Hansen area only. He said he received "many requests" from other parts of the county to sign, but had concentrated his efforts only in the east end. Only one person contacted in that area refused to sign the petition, he noted.

The petition states, "We, the undersigned taxpayers of Twin Falls county, do hereby object to and protest against the proposed budget for 1959 and particularly to the amount budgeted and to be appropriated for the county hospital for the reason that the amount is excessive, unreasonable and unnecessary."

Fuller told a Times-News reporter he thought those on the hospital board were "good men" and "we're not out to get anyone."

He said he has heard a lot of talk about the hospital being too high in its rates and just wanted to know why. "Maybe the hospital isn't too high, I don't know, but we want to know."

Bloodmobile Due

RUPERT, Feb. 7 (AP)—The bloodmobile will be in Rupert Wednesday between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Civic building.

The quota for Minidoka county is 150 pints. Last time the county missed the quota and collected only 77 pints.

Mrs. Bob Snapp, chairman, urges all who can to donate blood.

Technology Strikes Parity, Farm Bloc's Ideal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Spreading agricultural technology has hit parity, the cherished ideal of the farm bloc.

To give farm technology another name, you could call it the art and science of applying scientific knowledge to increase agriculture's efficiency.

It already has cut down sharply on the number of farms and farmers needed.

It has virtually eliminated the horse and mule from the farm.

It has cut deeply into the need for farm hired hands.

It has reduced the number of acres needed to produce a given quantity of crops.

Now it has snipped a little off the parity yardstick. Some have likened this to reducing a yardstick to 34.8 inches.

"Early made a legal standard in the early 1930's, it is a rule for measuring farm prices. It is declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them. It is designed to give farm products as much purchasing power in terms of nonfarm goods and services as they had in a past favorable period, usually 1910-14, with adjustments for modern trends."

Ever since parity was set up, congress has made efforts to legislate prices at that level for producers.

Except in periods of shortages, such as wars, these efforts have met indifferent success. Now some farm leaders want to abandon the standard. These include Secretary of Agriculture Benson and the American Farm Bureau federation. Many other farm groups want to keep it.

Parity just met up with technology when Benson ordered revisions in determining the statistical elements that go into the makeup of parity. This action came as a surprise to most farm groups. Few in Benson's own agency knew it was coming.

These revisions had the net effect of reducing parity prices about 3.3 per cent. A similar reduction of the yard would put it at $4.8 inches.

He Had Close View of Airplane Propellor

A wrong turn at Cleveland's Hopkins airport nearly cost the life of Andrew Bird, 70, sitting at wheel of his car. He drove under the wing of a huge four-engine air force plane and a propellor sliced through the roof of his car six times and just missed his head, front and rear. He said he had wanted to watch the planes come in for landings. Damage to the plane is estimated at more than $33,000. (NEA telephoto)

Hagerty Said To Intervene For TV Case

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—President's Secretary James C. Hagerty was accused by a former congressional investigator, Bernard Schwartz, today of having intervened in a TV case for political reasons.

Hagerty shot back that "Mr. Schwartz was either misinformed or was deliberately lying."

Schwartz, who got bounced a year ago from his job as chief counsel of the house subcommittee checking regulatory agencies, made his charges in a new book, parts of which became public in advance.

Schwartz saw behind-the-scenes wiretapping reaching up to the White House on important cases decided by the independent regulatory agencies. The legislative oversight subcommittee went on under Rep. Owen Harris, D., Ark., without Schwartz—to air cases involving such high officials as President Eisenhower's No. 1 aide, Sherman Adams, and federal communications commissioner, Richard A. Mack. Both Adams and Mack resigned in the hubbub that followed.

Snow Falls in Most of Area

Snow hit many areas of Magic Valley Saturday and slick roads were reported late Saturday in most areas.

The Eden-Hazelton area had a skiff of snow and roads were slick. About one-half inch of snow was reported at the Hollister port of entry station where roads were slick and covered with snow and ice.

At Hazelton, light snow was reported early Saturday.

Snow fell all day at Magic mountain, and Claude F. Jones, ski lift operator, said he would plow the road early Sunday.

Coroner Jury Holds Driver Caused Death

 A coroner jury held a driver in Twin Falls responsible for Saturday morning on a charge of drunken driving, repeated offense.
 The jury, after a preliminary hearing and was bound over to district court on a $2,500 bond. The driver was charged with drunken driving in Gooding county on March 20, 1951.
 Roma Jensen, 44, Jerome, was fined $100 by Jerome Police Judge Robert Kahler Saturday on a drunken driving charge. Miss Jensen was arrested Tuesday by Jerome city police on East Main street. She submitted to a blood alcohol test which registered .373. A reading of .150 indicates intoxication, according to officers.
 In other court action in Jerome, Lewis D. Shovel was fined $13 and costs Friday by Justice of Peace Glen Vining for going 68 miles an hour in a 55-mile zone four miles west of Jerome on highway 25. Shovel was cited by State Patrolman Marvin S. Wright in a radar check last week.
 Jack Lewis, Castleford, was fined $50 and costs Friday night when he appeared before Mrs. Amos Williams, Castleford, justice of the peace, on a charge of reckless driving.
 Lewis was cited by State Patrolman Richard Burns after a one-car accident at 9:45 p.m. Friday. His driver's license will be suspended for 30 days.
 Patrolman Burns reported Lewis was driving a 1953 Chevrolet pickup truck on the Castleford road three miles south of Buhl and ran off the right side of the road. The truck struck a guard rail, Burns reported. It then glanced off the guard rail and careened down the center of the highway and went off the right side of the road and tipped over on its side in the borrow pit. When it stopped, it was facing the opposite direction from which it had been traveling. The pickup was demolished but Lewis escaped injury. Patrolman Burns was assisted by Deputy Sheriff Curtis Pryor.
 Glen W. Horsey, 20, Twin Falls, was cited for reckless driving Saturday night after a 1957 Plymouth he was driving crashed into a power pole near the intersection of Eldridge avenue and Locust street south.
 Police reported Horsey was driving the vehicle, a taxicab, toward Kimberly road on Locust street south. Sid marks indicated the driver had applied the brakes about 68 feet before crashing into the power pole.
 Horsey was taken to Magic Valley Memorial hospital where he was examined and later released. Police reported the man's physician stated Horsey might have a broken rib.
 He was released from custody because of the injuries and is to appear in police court Monday morning.
 About $200 damage was estimated to the vehicle.
 Two drivers were cited by city police Saturday night for speeding after an officer observed the two racing past Magic Valley Memorial hospital.
 City Patrolman Kenneth Johnston was leaving the hospital where he had gone to complete the investigation of an accident when he saw the two cars apparently racing on Addison avenue. He chased the lead car and radioed the license number of the other vehicle to the station. Other area cars went to his assistance.
 Johnston caught the lead car at Curry. It was driven by Fred W. Mackey, age unknown, Fairfield. State Patrolman D. L. Cain apprehended the other car just east of Curry. It was driven by Robert W. Mahanes, 20, Jerome.
 Mackey was cited for driving 65 miles an hour in a 55-mile zone and was fined $10 and $3 costs by Justice of the Peace Robert E. Pence. Mahanes will appear in city court on a charge of driving 40 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone. Johnston said he could not clock the first car until he had chased it out onto the highway.
 Zelma A. Garrison, 43, Twin Falls, was fined $50 and costs Saturday by Judge Pumphrey on a charge of failing to yield the right of way. She was cited by city police Monday at the intersection of Main avenue and Seventh street east.
 Charles E. Davidson, 72, 303 Fourth street north, was fined $25 and costs Saturday morning when he appeared before Judge Pumphrey on a charge of failing to yield the right of way.
 Davidson was cited by city police Friday after his 1950 Chevrolet collided at the intersection of Highland avenue east and Blue Lakes boulevard south with a 1958 Chevrolet driven by Warren P. Skinner, 43, Twin Falls.
 Damages were estimated at $200 to Davidson's vehicle and $100 to the Skinner car.

Cache Valley Meeting Held In Paul Area

PAUL, Feb. 7 — The Mini-Cass district of the Cache Valley Artificial Breeding association held a dinner meeting at 8 p.m. Friday at the Paul school auditorium with 100 persons in attendance.
 Rex Garrett, Burley, was elected to the board of directors for a three year term.
 R. W. Hawkes, chairman of the board, welcomed the group. Elmo Packer, Logan, talked on the value of breeding to high class sire. In comparing the production differences between herds where bulls and artificial methods were used, Packer pointed out the artificial program has paid $1,500,000 to patrons in the past 10 years.
 Guests at the meeting included W.G. Priest, Minidoka county agent, and Glen Bondly, Cassia county agent.
 Field men from milk processors present were Clyde Ross, Jerome Cooperative creamery; Mack Kump, Kraft foods; Carleton Tolman, Sego Smith, company, Rupert, and Vance Smith, Rupert county agent in charge of club work.
 Dr. G. Robert Fairbrother, Burley veterinarian, also attended the meeting.

Book Reviewed

Mrs. Sterling Vaughn reviewed the book, "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" at a meeting Wednesday night of the pre-school PTA at the city hall. Appointed to a nominating committee were Mrs. Eugene Champlin, Mrs. Arthur Greener and Mrs. Walter Hankins. Mrs. Greener reported on the school administration meeting on Jan. 22.
 The next meeting will be March 4 at the city hall with the executive board to meet at 7 p.m.

Clinic Takes First Win in Suit in Court

 1958. Shortly after his separation from the clinic, Dr. Covington began practicing obstetrics and gynecology in Twin Falls.
 The partners brought suit in district court, alleging that Dr. Covington had knowingly violated terms of the agreement. Testimony was heard before Judge Bellwood on Dec. 1 and 2, 1958.
 Dr. Covington argued that the agreement was unreasonable and against public policy. He alleged he signed the agreement under duress.
 In a memorandum of decision, Judge Bellwood denies that the agreement violates public policy. Commenting that it is important "to scrutinize carefully" all contracts limiting a man's "natural right" to follow his profession anywhere he pleases in a lawful manner, Judge Bellwood states that it is "just as important to protect the enjoyment of an establishment in a profession which its possessors have built up by their own honest application to everyday duty and the faithful performance of the tasks which every day imposes upon the owner."
 Judge Bellwood states, "Public policy would seem to give to those who thus labor the right to every legitimate means to protect the fruits thereof and secure the enjoyment of those (fruits) to themselves."
 "Freedom to contract must not be 'unreasonably bridged,'" Judge Bellwood states, adding, however, that "the right to protect by reasonable restrictions that which a man by industry, skill and good judgment has built up" must not be denied.
 As to the 25-mile radius limitation, Judge Bellwood finds that "The territorial restraint is not so wide as to impose on (Dr. Covington) a hardship much greater, relatively speaking than the ensuing advantage to the (clinic)."
 Judge Bellwood continues, "The reasonable and fair protection to which the (partners) are entitled can only be obtained by the parties conforming expressly and exactly to the terms of their contract. (Dr. Covington) is in the wrong. He is deliberately doing that which he plainly agreed not to do."
 The partners who brought the suit are Dr. Joseph W. Marshall, Dr. Ellwood T. Rees, Dr. David A. McClusky, Dr. George W. Warner and Dr. Royal S. Cutler. Representing the clinic are Stephen, Stephan and Heap, local law firm.

Increase for Money Gets 2 Reactions

 University of Idaho and Idaho State college would receive exactly the same as the amounts recommended by the governor. The university's appropriation of $8,237,367 compares with $6,915,000 in the current biennium and the $4,731,208 for the college compares with $3,925,170.
 There was no change in the recommended amount for the state industrial training school—$910,500 compared with the current $721,885.
 Lewis-Clark Normal school in Lewiston would get $445,200 instead of the governor's recommended $397,600 and the current appropriation of $377,761.
 The committee recommended $1,561,756 for State Hospital North compared with $1,438,166 recommended by Smylie and $1,150,016 in the current two-year period.
 For State Hospital South, the committee recommended $2,243,275 compared with $2,452,995 recommended by the governor and $1,969,149 currently.
 Smylie, in making his recommendations, said the increases over current spending could be financed by repealing the present 35 percent allowance in the income tax law and boosting taxes on liquor and cigarettes.

 find out," he stated. "This will stop the hollering one way or the other."
 "I'm sure he'd not ask anyone in Twin Falls to sign the petition, although he states he had several requests from residents in the Twin Falls area."
 County board Chairman Russell (Bud) Larsen said he would welcome any protests against the budget. He said the petition would be discussed by the commissioners at their regular meeting Monday and he would present it to the hospital board during its regular monthly meeting Monday afternoon.
 The hospital's 1959 budget calls for a maximum spending program totaling $1,038,845. During 1958 the hospital spent $941,501. The only tax money used to support the hospital, $60,000, comes from a one and one-half mill levy. The balance of the hospital budget comes from hospital revenues.
 A public hearing on the tentative budget, calling for a maximum 1959 county spending program of $1,915,795, including the $1,038,845 hospital budget, is slated for 10 a.m. Monday. Anyone desiring to protest should appear at the courthouse at that time, Larsen said.

Construction Gain Reported for City

Construction in Twin Falls during January increased 18 per cent over January of last year, according to figures received through the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company.
 While a breakdown shows that dwelling projects are somewhat less than a year ago, alterations, additions and repairs are up considerably, bringing the January figure to $80,620.
 In the state as a whole, construction was ahead of last year, with 70 per cent increase in new dwellings in the nine leading cities. Commercial and industrial construction also was ahead of the January, 1958 figure.

CHEVY'S NEW HI-THRIFT 6

More miles are back in a gallon of regular-grade gas—up to 10% more—and Chevy's new Hi-Thrift 6 engine puts them there. It also gives you more "zip" in the speeds you drive the most.

Here's an engine that always seems able to coax extra miles out of a tank of regular-grade gas. In fact, if you're one of those drivers who keep tab on things like gas mileage, you'll soon see for yourself that this new Hi-Thrift 6 gets up to 10% more miles a gallon.

Another thing you'll like about this 135-h.p. 6 is the extra pep it gives you for passing and climbing hills. This is due to higher torque at normal speeds.

It may be hard to believe anything that looks and moves like this '59 Chevy can be such a stickler for economy. But—whether you pick the Hi-Thrift 6 or a vinyl-packed V8—this is just one more reason Chevy's the car that's wanted for all its worth. Stop by your dealer's and see.

The smart switch is to the '59 Chevy!

McLemore Sorry He Can't Try For Moon; Riches Sure Thing

By HENRY McLEMORE
Due largely to my shape, which is not at all suitable for the cramped quarters of a nose cone, I am not being given serious consideration in the selection of the first man to go to the moon.

I regret this because the man I would like to be chosen automatically becomes a millionaire the moment he waves goodbye to his wife from the launching pad at Cape Canaveral, and yells to her to be sure to write.

He will not have been off the ground 10 minutes before Ed Sullivan will have canceled a dog act from Japan, a lango team from Madagascar or a couple of Finnish contortionists to make room for the space traveler's return.

Krupp has continued to grow bigger, only recently acquiring Bochumer Verein, which manufactures specialized steels. Under a theoretical Jan. 31 deadline fixed by the allied cartelization order, Krupp was to sell his company's coal holdings. There is not the slightest evidence any intention ever existed to carry out the decartelization order which is now a dead letter.

The justification for ignoring it is that technological efficiency demands larger and larger units. It is argued, too, that with Krupp and the Ruhr industrialists within the European steel and coal community, the size of the Krupp empire is no longer a threat.

Still another money matter troubles the U.S.-West German relationship. Last year the West German bundestag sounded off on the necessity for the United States to repay large and small holders for assets taken during the war. The bill is $400,000,000 and it would have to be met by the American taxpayer.

While Secretary of State Dulles at one point gave his official blessing to this claim it is unlikely that an economy-minded administration will push it. Beneath the large talk of unity and German reunification these are some of the pinpricks troubling relationship between the wartime enemies who are today close allies.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday Ray Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international politics and economics. His columns are sent to him at 7055 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON — "President Eisenhower and his fiscal advisers keep talking about the possibility of a tax cut within a few years," writes O. P. Charleston, S. C., "provided the Democratic congress does not go to the limit on spending. What are the prospects in that line?"

ANSWER: I doubt if there can be a tax cut within the next 10 or 20 years, and I find that most impartial students of federal finances agree. The administration's optimistic forecasts, coupled with the wide-spread opposition on Capitol Hill, are politically inspired.

Ray Tucker

LITTLE HOPE FOR TAX REDUCTION—In view of future national defense needs and domestic rebuilding, it is almost certain that the budget will jump from Eisenhower's estimated 71 billion dollars for 1950 to at least 85 billion dollars in future years, and that the public debt limit will have to be raised to 300 billion dollars. We will actually spend 92.5 billion dollars in fiscal 1950.

Eisenhower has said that certain types of planes actually cost their weight in gold, which is valued at $35 an ounce. With a progressive increase in labor and material changes, the 40 billion dollars now allotted for defense will leap to about 50 billion dollars. Pentagon experts have testified that their budget requests were cut by 7.5 billion dollars for 1950.

COURAGE NEEDED TO OFFSET BUDGET INCREASES—The 77 billion dollar budget allows almost nothing for reconstruction and expansion of our cities, schools, highways, conservation projects, jet airports, depressed areas, etc. Current economies in these essential fields will have to be made up eventually in the form of much larger budgets.

A courageous administration and congress could offset these increases, of course. They could cut costs and boost revenues by eliminating the 26.5 per cent allowance for oil depletion, reducing farm price supports, taxing farm and rural electrification co-operatives, cutting off pensions to underserving veterans, and charging for many kinds of government services to agriculture, business and industry.

WHAT MIGHT ALIENATE VOTERS—As I recently noted, President Eisenhower has asked for re-termination of some of these benefits, but there is no chance of favorable congressional action. Too many voters would be alienated.

Without wishing to be a Cassandra, I anticipate a tax increase rather than a reduction, if the government is to fulfill domestic and foreign requirements. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, showing rare courage, has already said that he will need 75 million dollars in new revenue to run the state of New York.

SENATOR JOHNSON TOO FAR IN FRONT—"Is it true that senate Democrats have begun to rebel against senate Majority Leader Johnson?" asks M. L. Houston, Tex.

Answer: I would not call it a "rebellion." Senator Johnson has been too successful in pacifying liberals and conservatives for them to question his leadership.

But he has stirred some soreness by his heroics. He heads the inquiry into national defense needs, he sponsors his own civil rights bill, he keeps his hand on over-important committees. In short, he is getting too far in front of the parade, and that is a cardinal mistake in a drum major. He should parcel out responsibilities to his colleagues instead of running a one-man show.

PRESIDENT'S PROPOSAL TO SELL NAVY OIL LANDS—"What is the story behind the President's proposal to sell the navy's oil lands in California, Wyoming and Alaska?" inquires T. G. Everett, Wash.

Answer: There is a dramatic background here. More than 30 years ago, a cabinet officer—Interior Secretary Albert B. Fall—went to jail because he leased the California and Wyoming (Teapot Dome) tracts to Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair.

They put up a two-pronged defense. One was that drilling by private leases on the boundaries of the navy fields was depleting the government's hoarded oil. The other was that the oil should be extracted and stored at Pearl Harbor in anticipation of a war with Japan. But government scoffed at the "yellow peril" threat.

Eisenhower now agrees with defense attorneys about the depletion of navy oil because of private drilling. Moreover, in view of the swiftness with which wars start today—oil deep in the ground—would be of no help. Finally, new oil reserves of fantastic dimensions have been discovered here and abroad since the Teapot Dome-Elk Hills "scandals."

ABOLISH 'EM!

Why don't we abolish the state legislature and congress?

Yes, it may sound funny, but that's a serious proposal.

Look at it this way: Everytime those two august bodies are called into session, the net result is less money in your pocket.

Now seriously, just you stop and think of one good example where you, personally, have gotten anything out of either the state legislature or congress. Are you stumped?

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

SPENDOSIS

President Eisenhower, ruffled by critics of his new budget who he says are "on all sides" of the spending question, has accused them of having "budgetary schizophrasia."

Well, we don't question the possibility of developing a psychosis after contemplating administration plans to run through 77 billion dollars in a single peace-time year. But we suggest that psychiatrists might find the resulting disturbance to be not only schizophrasia but also a combination of acrophobia and claustrophobia.

Acrophobia from the towering height of the budget and claustrophobia from the queasy it puts on all taxpayers.—Wall Street Journal.

SHORT MEMORIES
People never learn, do they?
Remember back a few years when Idaho's primary election was held on the second Tuesday in June. Yes, that's right, the second Tuesday in June. I can well remember, but that's an entirely different story.

Anyway, now I hear some of our legislators want to go back to primary elections on the second Tuesday in June. Some few voters may recall that Idaho now holds its primary election on the second Tuesday in August. It's been that way for several years.

As I recall it, and I won't wager any coin of the realm on it, the law was changed to the second Tuesday in August because there was too much time between the primary election and the general election in November. Seems folks even forgot who was running for what and why.

Now the complaint—largely by politicians, it seems—is that there's hardly enough time between the primary and general elections to campaign properly. So we'll go back to dragging it out for five months.

Pots, if you have any influence (Pot Shots note: We don't) tell those guys to stop fooling around!

A. Reader, Twin Falls—Yes, there may be some interest in the antics of the legislature, but only the humorous antics are of any interest in this corner. EVERETT PHILLIPS PASSES IN RUPERT
RUPERT, Feb. 7 — Everett N. Phillips, 83, long-time resident of Rupert, died 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Minidoka hospital.

He was born May 27, 1875, in Rush county, Indiana and was married June 2, 1904, to Bessie Grace Spidle at Logan, Utah.

The couple came to Rupert in 1910 where he farmed and worked as an engineer on the railroad until his retirement several years ago.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Lockett, in 1940.

Survivors besides his widow are two brothers, Merrill Phillips and Erlie Phillips, both Portland, Ore.

Funeral services are pending at the Walk mortuary.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—This capital had a visitor the other day who moved about in the highest places with the smiling self-confidence that marks his worldwide operations. Berthold Beltz, No. 1 agent for Germany's Alfred Krupp, was busy pouring oil on slightly troubled waters.

A series of incidents has served to cast doubt on the intentions of the powerful Ruhr industrialists who have been among the important backers of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. Foremost among them is Krupp, who has emerged 12 years after the end of World War II with a coal and steel empire greater than it was before the war.

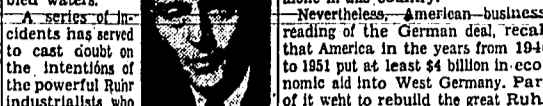

Beltz, who travels from one capital to another on business and high politics of big business for his employer, was here ostensibly to reassure Americans about the recent quota that West Germany imposed on American coal. This will have the effect of shutting off most of the U. S. coal that has been exported to Germany. Talking with high administration officials and a half-dozen leading senators Beltz radiated goodwill and the assurance that something could be worked out.

But what may well be a deeper source of American unhappiness is the contract just signed by three Ruhr steelmakers with Soviet Russia for $18,000,000 of steel pipe for the new 12,000-mile network of oil and gas pipe lines Soviet planners are projecting. In December the department of commerce refused an American exporter a license to sell $2,500,000 of similar pipe to Russia.

While American officials are curiously reluctant to talk about the different standard applied by Bonn and Washington, it appears that steel pipe is not on the strategic embargo list agreed to by the western allies. Since, however, all shipments behind the Iron Curtain must be licensed, the government can exercise its own arbitrary discretion.

What makes this situation so interesting is that since word of the German-Russian steel pipe deal became known, the American exporter has filed an identical application for a license to ship pipe to the Soviet Union. His argument is that if the West Germans can do it, why can't I? This will be passed on by Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss himself who is almost certain to reject it.

With steel output rising to 80 per cent of capacity from a recession low of less than 50 per cent, American steelmakers are not too anxious for the Russian business. In order to sell to the Russians it is necessary to take manganese or chrome or some other ore in exchange which interrupts normal trade relations. . . . Because of these same difficulties German officials express doubt that the Ruhr steel masters, even if they had the capacity, would supply any considerable part of the 12,000 miles of pipe. That figure is small, of course, when put alongside the 120,000 or more miles in oil pipe lines alone in this country.

Nevertheless, American business, reading of the German deal, recall that America in the years from 1914 to 1951 put at least $4 billion in economic aid into West Germany. Part of it went to rebuild the great Ruhr industrial complex.

With the revival of the Ruhr, Krupp has continued to grow bigger, only recently acquiring Bochumer Verein, which manufactures specialized steels. Under a theoretical Jan. 31 deadline fixed by the allied cartelization order, Krupp was to sell his company's coal holdings. There is not the slightest evidence any intention ever existed to carry out the decartelization order which is now a dead letter.

The justification for ignoring it is that technological efficiency demands larger and larger units. It is argued, too, that with Krupp and the Ruhr industrialists within the European steel and coal community, the size of the Krupp empire is no longer a threat.

Still another money matter troubles the U.S.-West German relationship. Last year the West German bundestag sounded off on the necessity for the United States to repay large and small holders for assets taken during the war. The bill is $400,000,000 and it would have to be met by the American taxpayer.

While Secretary of State Dulles at one point gave his official blessing to this claim it is unlikely that an economy-minded administration will push it. Beneath the large talk of unity and German reunification these are some of the pinpricks troubling relationship between the wartime enemies who are today close allies.

CASTRO SKEPTICAL OF NYE'S DENIAL
HAVANA, Feb. 7 (AP)—Alan Robert Nye's denial that he plotted to assassinate rebel chieftain Fidel Castro was received with skepticism today by the revolutionary leader himself.

Castro told a news conference he did not believe the ex-navy flier's profession of innocence. But he said that is a matter for the courts to decide.

The 31-year-old Korean war veteran from Whiting, Ind., insisted to reporters that he signed no confession, as announced by police. Police headquarters said it had four tape recordings of Nye's purported confession.

Nye insists he came to Cuba to help the rebels.

McLemore Sorry He Can't Try For Moon; Riches Sure Thing

By HENRY McLEMORE
Due largely to my shape, which is not at all suitable for the cramped quarters of a nose cone, I am not being given serious consideration in the selection of the first man to go to the moon.

I regret this because the man I would like to be chosen automatically becomes a millionaire the moment he waves goodbye to his wife from the launching pad at Cape Canaveral, and yells to her to be sure to write.

He will not have been off the ground 10 minutes before Ed Sullivan will have canceled a dog act from Japan, a lango team from Madagascar or a couple of Finnish contortionists to make room for the space traveler's return.

Russ. Trawler Is Grabbed by Norway Crew

ALESSUND, Norway, Feb. 7 (AP)—A big Soviet fishing fleet of 300 trawlers hugged Norway's four-mile territorial waters in pursuit of herring. One trawler was arrested and brought to port by a prize crew but was released.

Eight Norwegian warships, headed by the destroyer Stavanger, rushed to these waters Friday after the Soviet fleet showed up offshore and some trawlers invaded the four-mile limit. They were all back in international waters by the time the naval patrol appeared.

Rear Adm. Erling G. Hostvedt, commander of the western naval area, said the invasion may have been accidental and that appeared to be the case in today's incident.

About two years ago a large fleet of Soviet Union drifters invaded Norwegian territorial waters off Alessund.

Norwegian warships, firing warning shots, seized 20 including a large depot ship. The Russians lost their catch and had to pay fines.

'Conversion' Set Topic of Sermon

BURLEY, Feb. 7.—"The General's Conversion" is the subject of the Rev. Richard H. N. Yost's sermon to be preached Sunday morning at First Methodist church.

It will relate the account of Alexander, a general in the Syrian army of Old Testament days and make application of its lesson of his coming to know the true God of the Israelites.

Choir music will consist of several responses and an anthem under the direction of Mrs. Marvin Pearson. D. G. McClaffin will play a violin solo accompanied by Mrs. Keith Uscola, church organist.

Boy Scout Sunday also will be observed, with Boy Scout Troop 20 and Cub Pack 20 members as guests.

Missionary Will Speak in Burley

BURLEY, Feb. 7.—The Rev. Lawrence Robinson, Methodist missionary to the Belgian Congo for 10 years, will speak at the First Methodist church at 8 p.m. Tuesday. It was announced by the Rev. Richard H. N. Yost, pastor.

Home on a year's furlough, Rev. Robinson is completing his studies toward a master's degree in education. He will report here on his work in Belgian Congo missionary schools since 1949. He was assisted by his wife.

The Rev. Mr. Robinson is a member of the Idaho Methodist conference. He served churches at New Meadows and Baker, Ore., before entering missionary work.

Other churches in the area which will be hosts to the Rev. Mr. Robinson include Rupert, Monday night, and Jerome, Wednesday night.

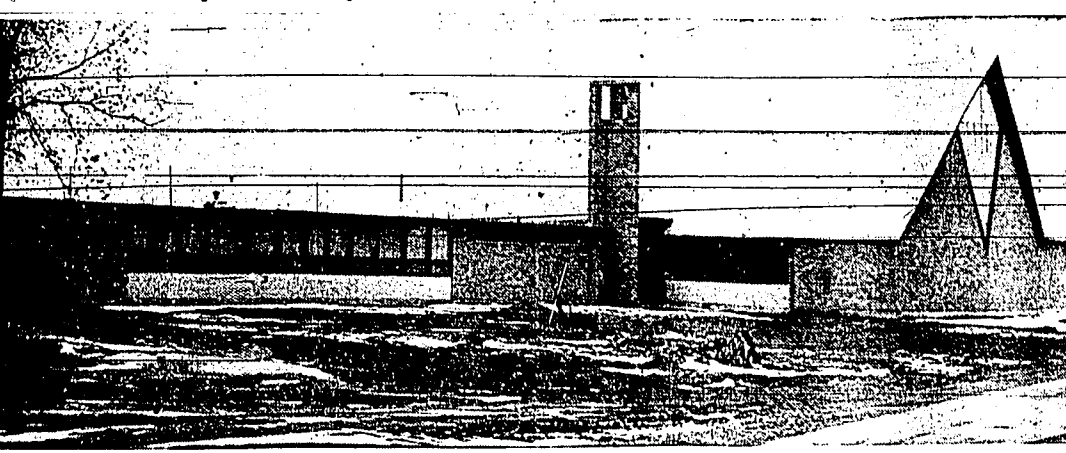

Dies at 111

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Georgia Ann Cross, a 111-year-old Kentucky-born former slave, died today.

She was born in Todd county, Ky., in 1847, according to records in the family Bible.

"I don't know what's made me live so long," she often remarked. "I just let the next day come as it will."

New Burley Presbyterian Church to Be Dedicated Today

The new Burley First Presbyterian church will be dedicated at 4 p. m. Sunday. Residents of Burley and vicinity have been invited to attend the services. The new church is located at West 21st street and Burton avenue. The Rev. Theodore Gill, president of the San Francisco Theological seminary, will be the main speaker. The old church, located at West 15th street and Oakley avenue, was built in 1913. (Staff engraving)

Burley's First Presbyterian Church Set for Dedication

Debate Is Feature At Grange's Meet

A debate on "Why we will never have a woman president" was main feature of the program at Mountain Rock Grange meeting Thursday night. The judges, Mrs. V. W. Williams, Mrs. Charles Jones and Mrs. John Dean, judged the women winners by a few points.

During the business period, Victor Nelson was appointed a delegate to the wheat commission meeting. Reports were heard from Mrs. Charles Odell, community service; Mrs. H. W. Reidemann, home economics, and John Dean, Pomoona.

Mrs. Reidemann conducted an Abraham Lincoln contest with prizes won by Charles Odell and Mrs. Dean Davis. Final silver offering for the March of Dimes was taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rayl and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rayl served refreshments.

The Feb. 19 meeting will be a Valentine party.

Reports Show Work Picture Has Improved

Figures released by the employment security agency show that the unemployment situation here is less severe than a year ago.

Job placements made by the local office for January totaled 191, as compared to 154 in 1958.

Cases Are Filed By Bureau Here

The Statewide Adjustment Bureau filed suit in Twin Falls probate court Friday seeking $135 allegedly owed the bureau by Leland J. Hansen.

The corporation also seeks eight per cent interest on the $135 from Friday until debt is settled.

In another action, the bureau seeks $35 from H. David Hawk for alleged indebtedness and eight per cent interest from Friday until the debt is settled.

The bureau seeks payment of four accounts allegedly owed by Bennie Cliff, $43.93 plus six per cent interest from Dec. 21, 1957, for an account with the Magic Valley Memorial hospital; $19.95 plus six per cent interest from Dec. 30, 1957, for a Roper Clothing company bill; $7.10 plus six per cent interest from Nov. 6, 1957 for a Paul Kalfbleish Television service bill, and $4 plus six per cent interest from July 27, 1958, for a Magic City Fuel bill.

Attorney for the bureau is Lawrence B. Quinn.

Attendance up

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 7 (AP)—Church attendance in the Soviet Union increased 15 per cent the last five years, a Soviet churchman told an interviewer here.

The Rev. Paul Sokolowski, of Dmitrov, said about 35 per cent of the Soviet's 200 million people attend more than 20,000 Russian Orthodox churches throughout the country.

Minister Attacks Legislators Asking Retail Liquor Licenses

Editor, Times-News: I have a copy of a letter I have forwarded to the house ways and means committee at Boise. A newspaper article informs the public that though the laws of Idaho forbid any employe of a municipality, county, or the state to have a retail liquor license, the house ways and means committee is introducing a bill in the legislature to permit members of the state legislature to secure retail liquor licenses. Of course some of us are "thrilled" that some of you men in Boise are giving our Gen. State this nice publicity.

"When at least half of the highway deaths in the Rupert area in the last few weeks and from 25 to 30 per cent of the highway deaths across the nation for years past have been caused by liquor it surely is a sad state of affairs if some of the members of our state legislature went to join in this business.

"Apparently some of us 'lubbed' quite badly if some of the members we elected to the state legislature are that kind of people. Through the years I have had the impression that we preachers and law officials ought to set an example of decency before the public.

"We make laws against drunken driving, murder, wife-beating and child-abuse; then we pay out plenty of money to hire city, county and state police to enforce these laws. Now some members of the state legislature beg for the privilege of personally contributing to this path of ruin caused by liquor. Maybe some of the sanity tests that are applied in the state mental hospitals ought to be applied to some of us who are 'running loose.'

"Yours for helping keep Idaho deserving of the title, 'Gem state.'

Jaycees Grateful For Aid Extended In Yule Programs

Editor, Times-News: We of the Twin Falls Jaycees would like to take this method of expressing our sincere thanks for the wonderful cooperation that has been rendered us by your newspaper and the merchants you represent in Twin Falls county.

We especially want to thank the Times-News and all of its staff members who have given us the necessary publicity and, many times after hours, help that was necessary in making our Christmas activities a tremendous success.

To all of the merchants in Twin Falls and surrounding area who were so gracious to allow us to place milk bottles in their stores, donated goods and services and cooperated wholeheartedly in all of the various phases of this program we of the Twin Falls Jaycees are deeply grateful and wish to say "Thank you."

We realize that our past Christmas activities would not have been possible without the cooperation of all the people who were either directly or indirectly connected with our shopping tour, TV telethon, General Palsy party and wiener roast and bonfire.

We are looking forward to making this annual event even more gratifying and beneficial to the community in which we live.

Airman Disputes Claim of Marine To Speed Record

Editor, Times-News: In the Times-News of Tuesday, Jan. 27, it was stated that the present speed record from coast to coast is held by Marine Maj. Glenn at three hours and 23 minutes.

I would like to bring to your attention that on the day before Thanksgiving, 1957, six RF 101 Voodoo jet fighters flew from Los Angeles to New York City in three hours and five minutes, or 18 minutes better than Maj. Glenn's time.

Two of the F 101s flew nonstop Los Angeles to New York and return in seven hours and 42 minutes.

Summary Refers To Russ Appeals

MOSCOW, Feb. 7 (AP) — Tucked away on the third page in Pravda's summary of the 21st Soviet communist party congress is a statement that appeals had been received against "decisions of expulsion from the party."

The summary, printed Friday, had students of Soviet politics interested. The account quoted Premier Khrushchev as saying the appeals had been received and had been referred to the party's central committee.

There was no indication who had appealed the decisions.

CLUB TO HEAR HUMORIST
BURLEY, Feb. 7—Robert A Miller announced today that Bob Ringer, a West coast humorist, is to be the guest speaker at the Feb. 12 meeting of the Burley Knife and Fork club in the Elks dining room.

Feedlot Tour Has Some 100 Cassia People

BURLEY, Feb. 7—About 100 persons participated in the annual feedlot tour held in the Burley area Friday, according to Cassia County Agent Glenn Boddy.

The group visited four ranches in the Burley area, had dinner served at the Burley Elks hall and also listened to speeches there.

First stop on the tour was made at the Spencer Black farm. There the group saw a feeding setup of a heavy cable over the top of the feeding manger to prevent cattle from going through.

Problem Solved
Black told the visitors about a problem he solved. He said some time ago his cattle would not drink or eat. Cause of the problem, Black said, was a short in the drinking water from an automatic water heater.

The group next visited the Blaine Curtis ranch. While there Wade Wells, Boise extension animal husbandman, discussed points that should be looked for in picking out select animals to be used as sires. On the Ray Freymiller ranch the group heard discussions about the special feeding of animals.

Feed Lot Seen
The last stop of the tour was made at the H. O. Hall ranch. There the group saw a unique feeding lot arrangement. Each of Hall's pens turned out into an alley that leads into the loading chutes and scales, are handy so that everything is taken care of before the livestock are taken to market.

At Hall's ranch the group also looked over a display of feeding equipment.

After the 1 p.m. dinner at the Elks hall the group heard talks by Wells and J. J. Dahmen, superintendent of the University of Idaho experiment station, Caldwell, who reported on experiments station results and also talked about antibiotics and stilbestrol.

Tranquillizers Discussed
Raymond Hall, beef specialist of the Charles Pfizer company, San Francisco, talked on the use of tranquillizers in cattle feeding.

Virgil Kennedy, farm management specialist of the University of Idaho extension service, spoke to the group on the farmer's future.

Dance Conducted For School Group

Shirley Wilson and David King were crowned queen and king of the junior high school Sweetheart dance Friday night sponsored by the eighth grade home making classes.

Home economics instructor Mrs. Richard Smith was sponsor of the dance, assisted by Robert D. Wilson, Marvis Nelson, Myrtle Williamson and Mrs. John Anderson of the faculty.

Mrs. Vera O'Leary and J. C. Watts acted as judges in a hula hoop contest won by Lyle Browning. Entertaining in a floor show were Linda Koozts and Sharon Whitley, vocalists, accompanied by Jean Ann Smith, and Marion Eller and Susan Puckett in a modern jazz dance.

Music was provided by "The Dukes," high school musicians, for the nearly 700 young people present. Games also were played.

A question and answer period completed the event.

The tour dinner was sponsored by the Burley Livestock Commission company, the Union Feed company, the Burley Flour mill, the Feeder Grain supply and Farmers' Equity.

Farm-Business Day Studied by Local Chamber

The possibility of organizing a Business-Farmer day similar to Business-Education day was discussed Friday at the meeting of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce directors. William Grange, secretary-manager, reported that considerable interest in the proposal was shown by members of the Agricultural division at their meeting Thursday night.

Walter Shouse, Warren Daigh and Melvin Oppiger will work on the committee to set up an agricultural display at the airport, Grange stated.

Mrs. Doris Harper has been named hotel association representative and will work with chamber officials for that group.

Former board member Lyons Smith was reported.

Smith requested on house bill No. 33 requiring that all perishable foods be packaged and dated. A resolution was passed by the legislative committee of the chamber opposing the bill as discriminatory against agriculture.

Grange announced the state bowling tournament will be conducted in Twin Falls Feb. 28 through April 19. Area teams will bowl during the week and out-of-town entrants on week-ends. Grange was instructed to plan suitable promotional materials for the tournament.

Expenses and tuition for the secretary-manager to attend a special short-course at Stanford university was voted by the directors. The local chamber manager has participated in these courses for several years.

$61,605 Still Required for New Hospital

BURLEY, Feb. 7.—The Cassia Memorial hospital committee met this morning with architect C. A. Sandberg to determine final costs of the new hospital. It was found that $61,605 is still needed to construct and equip the facility, an amount which must be raised from memorials and contributions.

Final cost of the structure—fully equipped, will come to $983,700. Sandberg presented a detailed statement of the costs, based on bids and actual equipment costing proper.

Cost of the building proper, including architect's fee, is $833,400. This includes alternate items considered necessary for the welfare of the community.

Cost of additional equipment (taking into consideration all of the equipment being donated by Drs. Terrence, Kelly and Dean, Cottage hospital) is reported at $110,310.

Cost of the land is $23,000.

Expenses connected with landscaping, sidewalks and surfacing of parking areas are $20,000.

$75,105 Provided

Of the total cost federal Hill-Burton money will provide $475,105, leaving Cassia county with a share of $511,605. From the sale of bonds Cassia county will raise $450,000, leaving $61,605 to be raised.

Sandberg advised the group that the cost of the hospital has increased a full $60,000 since the bond was passed 14 months ago.

The commissioners, in order to sign the contracts by Feb. 10, have requested that memorial contributions be presented or pledged before that date. Memorials received to date amount to $11,401.27.

Contributions Received

Contributions have been received from the following: C. P. Clear, Chicago, $600; Raft, River LDS stake, $1,050; Cassia LDS stake, $2,500; Starbuck Ferry community individuals, $531; C. A. Sandberg and Sons, $600; Catholic Altar society, $50; Kiddy-Ville style show, $202.30; First Ward Senior Sunday school (C. Haight Memorial), $150; Oakley Chamber of Commerce, $200; Rotarians, $1,500; Lions, $1,500; Soroptimists, $1,100; Burley Home Improvement, $58.47; Charles C. Haight memorial, $402; Rawlins J. Harper, John Clark and Weldon Beck, county commissioners, $600; Joe Shelby, $100; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lee, $600; Bert Farwell, $50; and the Burley Farm Bureau, $1,500.

Hot Lunch Program Starts at Hailey

Richard Broyles, second grader, and Rosalie Peterson and Lora Jean Wall, first graders, heartily approve of the Hailey hot lunch program which got under way this week at the St. Charles Catholic church. The project, sponsored by the Hailey PTA of which William Mallory is president, started too late to receive government aid. However, Cecil Olson, Boise, state hot lunch program director, has arranged for surplus food from other schools in southern Idaho to be used. (Staff photo-engraving)

Crime Prevention Week Here Is Planned by Exchange Club

Appointment of a general chairman and special committees to direct National Crime Prevention Week activities this week was announced today by James J. May, Jr., president of the Exchange Club of Twin Falls, local sponsor of the observance.

Ivan Skinner, Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, was named chairman. He issued an appeal to all residents of Magic Valley to take an active interest in the fight against crime by participating in the activities planned for the week.

The theme for this year's observance is "Be a Partner in Crime Prevention." He urged every law-abiding citizen to make that slogan a personal challenge during the observance and throughout the year.

Activities during the week will consist of "Go to Church Sunday," "Know Your Policeman's Day" and Exchange club day which will be featured by a special speaker in the field of law enforcement.

May announced that Exchange club members will be available during the week to speak to any group or organization on the subject, "Be a Partner in Crime Prevention."

Right sheets will be distributed on "How to Raise a Juvenile Delinquent in Twelve Easy Lessons," "Ten Rules on How to Be a Good American Citizen" and "Protecting Life and Property."

Assisting Skinner will be Gordon Glasman, Edward Heap, Norman McIntosh, Kelly Cargill, Len Hoerner, Kenneth Webb, Gordon Bjorn, Elwood K. Whitehead, Larry Sorenson, M/Sgt. Robert Richards, Dr. Donald Sontus, Howard Wiseman, Robert Kimbrough and Alvin Jenkins.

Three Chosen Delegation to Boise Session

Three Twin Falls high school senior girls have been elected to represent Twin Falls at the state convention of Future Teachers of America, announced Shirley Daniel, president of the local group.

Jean Ann Frederickson, Karen Koontz, Frances Peavy and Miss Daniel will attend the meet in Boise in mid-April.

The group decided to send gifts to retired teachers now residing at a Horton's Old Folks Home as a project for February. Chairmen are Myrna Schiffer, Carol Lindemer, Miss Frederickson and Katie Anderson.

Members plan to spend a day in early March observing teaching in action at Twin Falls schools. Future teachers will determine the school, grade and subjects they wish to visit.

PTA members also discussed the twirp (girl-ask-boy) dance they are sponsoring April 3.

Situation questions and discussion of them were on the program, which was in charge of Miss Koontz, "Narcotics Light" and Barbara Kroll.

Miss Daniel announced that an PTA club for juniors was organized last Thursday.

At the new organization's next meeting Feb. 19 the girls will be initiated and elect officers and delegates to the state meeting.

Insurance Agent Awarded Honor

Virgil H. Smith, president of the Beneficial Life Insurance company, Salt Lake City, has announced the induction of A. E. Larsen, Twin Falls, into the Beneficial Life exclusive Multi-Million club. To qualify for the club, an agent must have $3,000,000 or more of life insurance actually in force on the records of the company.

Gold watches were presented to Larsen and his wife by Smith. Feature speakers were William H. Bakes and Roy Babel, a member of the Twin Falls stake presidency.

Larsen joined Beneficial Life in 1939 and became the general agent at Twin Falls in 1951.

Divorce Sought

Mrs. Shannon Darrah filed suit for divorce in Twin Falls district court Friday, charging her husband with extreme mental cruelty.

The couple was married in Caldwell Jan. 19, 1958, and has no children or community property.

Mrs. Darrah asks that her former name of Joyce Davenport be restored.

Her attorney is Guy L. Kinney.

Visitors in Eden Homes Are Told

EDEN, Feb. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Jim Foster and family are visiting her mother, Mrs. Susie Watkins, and other relatives here. They were called here from Pasco, Wash., due to the death of his father, George Foster, Twin Falls.

Sgt. Jack Harman left this week for his base at Washington, D. C., after being here for the past two weeks with his brother, Wes Harman, and family following Harman's serious injury in a car-pileup wreck east of Twin Falls Jan. 17. Harman returned to his home here Wednesday from Boise where he had gone for further treatment.

Ronald Hawley returned to his home here Wednesday from San Diego, Calif., where he has been stationed with the U. S. air force. He received his discharge and will remain here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hawley.

Agenda Outlined For City's Board

The failure of five property owners to pay maintenance fees to the city for upkeep of the Larkspur Esplanade will be discussed at the Monday night meeting of the city commission.

The future of the ball park and the current contract with Magic Valley Ball club also will be up for consideration.

City Attorney William Langley will make a report on the use of city funds for the public library.

License applications, building permits, departmental reports and bills also will be handled.

Heyburn PTA Founders Day Well Attended

HEYBURN, Feb. 7.—A large crowd attended the PTA Founders day program at the junior high school auditorium Thursday evening. Mrs. Louis Simpson, secretary, was in charge of the meeting.

Orvin Jenks gave the opening prayer and Mrs. Q. D. Brown led group singing accompanied by Lund Christensen.

Past PTA-president honored were Mrs. Akeyl Hondo, Mrs. Dell Holmes, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Marjorie Vogt and Mrs. Ivan Ellason.

Superintendent Speaks

Camden Meyers, superintendent of schools, told of the increase of students in the schools and of the building problems the public must face in the future.

Mrs. Jess Hymas, PTA county council president, gave a message on the history and purpose of the PTA.

A salute to the teachers was given by Mrs. Ivan Ellason and Mrs. B. R. Pyle. Mrs. Alton Tremayne reported on the Heyburn kindergarten.

Pageant Presented

Mrs. Mariat Judd, program chairman, presented the pageant, "Guide Well Thy Trust," narrated by Mrs. Frank Ravsten.

Danny Hondo played a violin solo. Mrs. Brown gave musical reading. John Stone a saw solo and Mrs. Eldred Bair a reading.

Children participating in the pageant were Darwin Hayden, Bruce Hansen, Mike Nussgen, Roscoe Orton, Fred Judd and Dean Hurst.

Mrs. Verna Cole's third grade had the highest percentage of parents attending.

Refreshments were served by the fourth grade home room mothers, Mrs. Devon Smith, Mrs. Jack Jamison, Mrs. Richard Graf and Mrs. Jake Kerbs.

Former Resident Of Burley Helps Make Recording

BURLEY, Feb. 7.—A new song by a former Brigham Young university student, Loren Nichols, was recently recorded with Tab Hunter doing the vocal, says a report from Provo.

Nichols is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Nichols, Burley, where he graduated from high school. He later studied dancing in New York City and appeared in several big productions there.

Nichols who had been residing in Salt Lake City, recently went to Hollywood where he is working for a tie concern as well as doing his own recordings.

Nichols' title on a Warner Brothers label is "What Can I Give My Only Love."

While at BYU, Nichols organized the Rockettes, a special dance group which works with the student program bureau and which is presently coached by his sister, Carmie Sue Nichols, a sophomore at BYU. Music used in the Brigadier assembly last quarter was composed by Nichols.

Nichols also participated in several student assemblies and was a member of Val Hytic.

Glenns Ferry Moose Lodge Names Group

GLENN'S FERRY, Feb. 7 (AP)—The nominating committee for the Local Order of Moose was announced at the regular meeting of the lodge at the Moose home. Marvin Wootan, governor, presided at the meeting.

Members of the nominating committee will be the elective officers: Wootan, Floyd McKee, Eddie Bostic, Wallace Rubery, Jim Shrum, Jim Curtis, Ralph Clark and Roy Sharp; Past Governors Loren Thompson, Steve Parry, Harry Bergstrom, Rue Case, and the members appointed by the governor, Joe Doyle, Ed Smith, Joe Greco, Carl Alexander and Claude Sheaffer.

Discussion was held on a plan to change from a beneficiary fund to a welfare fund and all members will receive written notification of the date for a vote on this plan.

Plans were discussed to change the meeting nights to the first and third Monday instead of the first Monday and the third Tuesday. A vote on this will be taken at the next regular meeting.

Floyd McKee reported on the Sugar night and it was voted to buy a typewriter for the secretary.

Plans were started for the graduation dance in honor of the senior class of the high school.

Rupert Area PTA Might Be Divided

RUPERT, Feb. 7.—The Lincoln-Washington PTA will meet Tuesday to discuss the possibility of dividing the group into two separate units, one representing each school.

Featured speaker for the evening will be Kenneth Henderson, Cassia county probation officer, who will speak on juvenile problems.

The library committee plans to have a display table with books which may be purchased and contributed to the school library.

There will be a Founders day observance and a silver offering taken.

On the program will be a square dance group from the Lincoln school under the direction of Mrs. Del Thompson.

Refreshments will be served.

Miss Maykuth Is Wed to Ramey in Pocatello Ritual

POCATELLO, Feb. 7.—In a solemn ceremony last Sunday at the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Lynn Maykuth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Thielten, Mackay, former Twin Falls resident, became the bride of Marsh Ramey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ramey, Boise.

The altar, decorated with palms and green huckleberry sprays with white calla lilies formed the background for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. A. E. Cox. Small garlands of greens and calla lilies were fastened to each of the pews down the aisle which the bride was escorted by her stepfather.

Marge Ragan, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. J. C. Gardner at the organ.

The bride wore a gown of satin appliqued with Chantilly lace with seed pearls centering each lace flower. The sculptured-Basque bodice featured a bateau neckline and traditional long sleeves. The floor-length skirt ended in a cathedral train. A small crown of seed pearls and iridescent sequins held her fingertip veil of tulle which also was appliqued with pearl centering lace flowers. She carried a bouquet of white calla lilies and greens. The gown was designed and made by the bride's mother.

She was attended by Glenda Smith, maid of honor, and Sandra Bradford, Ann Strohmenger, Jo Ann Dent and Kay Ramey, bridesmaids. Miss Ramey is a sister of the bridegroom and the other attendants are Alpha Chi Omega sorority sisters of the bride.

They were attired in white crystalline street-length gowns trimmed with wide blue ashes. Miss Smith wore a blue feather hat and accessories and the bridesmaids wore white feather hats and accessories. Their gowns were designed and made by the bride.

Flower girl, Jan Sticks, Mackay, was trotted in in a crystalline, also fashioned by the bride. Best man was Robert H. Jones. Ushers were Rod Ehlers, Darrell Coy, Valhd Nehoral and Brent Maykuth, brother of the bride.

The rings were carried by Jay Thielten, brother of the bride, and Brent Bernsten.

Mrs. Thielten chose a baby-blue brocaded satin dress with matching coat and hat. Mrs. Ramey selected a French blue lace and satin dress, a sequined hat and blue accessories. Gardenias formed their corsages.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Bannock hotel ballroom. Callalilies and bouquets of calla lilies, blue carnations and greens decorated the blue and white skirted refreshment tables.

Serving were Mrs. Ken Deming and Mrs. Henry Sticks, both Mackay; Mrs. Rolland Bradford, Pocatello; Mrs. Louis Michel, Bozeman, Mont.; and Mrs. Ed Ehlers and Mrs. Frank Thielten, both Twin Falls. Guests were registered by Helen Kilpatrick and gifts were displayed by Janet Cavanaugh and Mrs. Tom Cavanaugh.

For a wedding trip to Columbus, Ga., the new Mrs. Ramey changed to a turquoise silk dress, white feather hat and turquoise accessories. They will make their home in Georgia where the bridegroom will be stationed with the army. The bride was graduated from Twin Falls Business college and this month from Idaho State college. She was Alpha Chi Omega president; Associated Women's president; chosen as the outstanding sophomore student, member of Silver Tassel and Pi Kappa Delta and was secretary to the dean of women.

The bridegroom also was graduated this month from IBO with a degree in pharmacy. He was president of the Interscholastic Knights.

Wendell Rebekah Lodge Hears Talk On Civil Defense

WENDELL, Feb. 7.—Larry Roe, Gooding county civil defense director, was guest speaker at the Monday evening meeting of Idaho Rebekah lodge No. 96 at the IOOF hall.

Roe spoke of the role of the church in civil defense and compared the political ideologies of communism and democracy. He stressed the need for Red Cross emergency first aid instruction throughout the county.

The film "Flash of Darkness" was shown. Roe was assisted by Grant Zollinger, local American Legion commander, and Mrs. Quincy Gates.

Following the discussion, pamphlets on civil defense and "The Church and Civil Defense" were distributed.

Mrs. Frank Jeffries, noble grand, presiding for the regular business meeting. A communication was read concerning the visit of the bloodmobile from 2 to 6 p. m. Feb. 24 at the American Legion hall. Volunteer donors for the blood bank were signed up.

It was announced the Rebekah district No. 6 meeting will be held Feb. 21 in Gooding. Wendell officers will present the altar ceremony. All officers are asked to attend a practice meeting at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the IOOF hall. Mrs. J. B. Hartwell, drill captain, will be in charge.

Mrs. M. A. McCloud reported attending the Piler lodge meeting for the official visit of Mrs. Edith Cleverger, assembly president of Idaho.

Mrs. Jeffrey and Mrs. J. D. Quary participated in the Mothers March for polio. Mrs. Orlando Jacobson, program chairman for the American Cancer association, announced a cancer film available for organization programs.

Medic Auxiliary Holds Benefit for Education Funds

Thirty-five tables of bridge were in play Friday at a benefit sponsored by the South Central Medical auxiliary in the Bishop Rhea auditorium of the Episcopal church.

The desert bridge is the third annual fund-raising event sponsored by the local group for the American Medical Education foundation. Mrs. Charles B. Beymer, auxiliary president, explained the foundation is a non-profit organization aiding 85 approved medical schools where student tuition covers less than 20 per cent of actual cost.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Beymer, with ticket sales conducted by Mrs. A. D. Gillespie and Mrs. Wayne Schow. Mrs. Vaughn Pond, AMEF chairman, was in charge of the event with Mrs. C. F. Wurster, Mrs. William Peterson, Mrs. F. H. Fox, Mrs. Dean Affleck and Mrs. Glenn Voyles assisting.

Two tea tables shared a center arrangement of red carnations flanked by red and white candles. The valentine motif was extended by Mrs. Harwood Stove and her committee to each place setting. Winners of prizes donated by local pharmacists were Mrs. Donald J. Milliken, Mrs. J. C. Thesen, Mrs. Glenn Whitney, Mrs. W. M. Arnold and Mrs. Melvin E. Anderson.

A unique feature of the benefit was the booth of Madame LaZonna, whose skill at fortune telling was available for the guests. At the close of the afternoon she was introduced as Mrs. William Middleton.

Adding to the project fund was the sale of homemade cakes under the direction of Mrs. George Warner. Bridge winners for the afternoon were Mrs. Frank McAtee, Mrs. Kenneth Moon and Mrs. Kenneth Rayhorn.

A telegram greeting was read from the state auxiliary president, Mrs. E. R. W. Fox, Coeur d'Alene. Approximately $1,000 is contributed to the Medical Education foundation annually by the nine Idaho auxiliaries, Mrs. Beymer reported.

A nurses loan fund also is sponsored by the South Central auxiliary, with Mrs. Morton Cutler, chairman. It is available without interest for students enrolled in nursing or other related medical fields and is supported by the annual sale of "Today's Health."

Presiding at the tea tables were Mrs. Simeon Hopper, Hazelton; Mrs. Vern Anderson, Buhl; Mrs. Ivan Anderson, Piler, and Mrs. Charles Terhune, Burley.

Gooding Society Has Study Meet

GOODING, Feb. 7.—The topic of the theology lesson given to the First Ward LDS Relief society last week was "The church organized in the last dispensation." Mrs. Staley Cheney is class teacher.

Following the lesson visiting teachers reported on recent calls. "Next Tuesday at 10 a. m. members will be given demonstrations on whole wheat bread baking and the use of glue. The women also will work on quilts."

SPEAKING OF Furniture

CHOOSE AND CHERISH

There is no other furniture style that we know of that has enjoyed such enduring popularity as our own Early American. Perhaps this is due to our undying regard for the early colonists whose courage, ambition and faith brought them to the New World. It was they who heaved the humble forests and patterned the humble beauty of their furnishings after the styles of their forbears. They were not content to just copy—they varied the originals—added new features and innovations and developed a distinctive new style. All of today's American Provincial furnishings are—in one way or another—descendants of this style. It's a warm, friendly, simple style that imparts a feeling of homeliness and shelter to any setting. The bedroom shown in the above sketch has been furnished in Early American maple. The warm, rich wood tones become a part of the color scheme and show up importantly against the soft pinkish beige of walls and carpet. Wallpaper in a soft French blue used on one wall matches the blue of the bedspread and dust ruffle. The bed is an authentic reproduction of an early model. Large double dresser provides maximum drawer space. Enjoy the warm, inviting feeling that authentic Early American furniture will impart to your home. Every piece in our collection has been carefully chosen to bring you authentic styling, high quality and unquestionably good value. Choose the pieces you need now. Add more later.

Textile Authority Displays Possible Future Fabric

Anything can happen in the world of fashions and fabrics, says Dr. Dorothy Siegert Lyle, Silver Springs, Id., left, while showing a dress made from paper to Mrs. Kenneth Marshall. Dr. Lyle, one of the nation's top authorities on textile care, told of the latest developments in the industry to more than 200 persons this week at the Washington school auditorium. She also is recording secretary of the American Association of Home Economists. Mrs. Marshall is president of the Twin Falls Home Economist in Homemaking group. (Staff photo-engraving)

Expert Tells of Fashions In Fabrics and Handling

The fabric field is becoming more complex, says Dr. Dorothy Siegert Lyle, Silver Springs, Md., one of the nation's top authorities on textile care, and textile labeling of synthetics is increasingly important. While listing fiber content alone will not tell the whole story of what to expect from the new blends, she adds, at present it is the only guide the consumer has to go by. Dr. Lyle told more than 200 persons here Thursday night of what she says is the most fascinating job in the United States, that of watching the fabric and fashion market to spot articles requiring special handling, and of some of the new fashion trends in fabrics. Receiving her doctorate in textile research from Pennsylvania State University in 1948, for the past 10 years she has been interested in fashion and fabric behavior tests for manufacturers who bring out new fabrics which fall. While, she notes, in proportion to the total of goods manufactured it is a very small percentage that does fall, that small percentage can cause a lot of customer dissatisfaction. As director of consumer relations for the National Institute of Dry-Cleaning, a non-profit trade association, it is her job to spot the items causing trouble, find the reason and impart it directly to the textile manufacturer, garment maker or dyer, as the case may be. In conjunction with this a textile advisory committee reviews test methods to determine damage, recommends ways to place responsibility and assists with reports on how to solve by contacting certain segments of the industry. This committee is composed of the research department head of a national department store chain, a dye chemist from Du Pont, a Better Business Bureau representative and a Rhode Island university representative. The current aim of her department is to educate the consumer on some of the adverse properties of the new fabrics and what can happen and why. For example, she explained one of last summer's popular colors, a melon shade, was made from a resin-bonded pigment. This is not actually a dye; pigment particles are added to a fabric in a solid color or design. In some cleaning methods the yellow pigment would go out and the pink stay in. When the consumer is alerted to these things proper precautions can be taken as to care in handling and mishaps avoided, she notes. Manufacturers are aware that customers are becoming trained to look for accurate labeling and are sometimes truthful as displayed in a shirt displayed by Dr. Lyle. The man's shirt was purchased in an eastern store and labeled "Guaranteed to fade." But, she said, it was smart on the part of the manufacturer because the shirt, priced at $12.95, was of imported Madras cotton, and even though it would become lighter, the purchaser would like it more and more. She noted garments can be damaged by the home seamstress and retailers as well as the manufacturer. A frequent complaint is a stain that appears to be oil or grease in a dacron and wool blended fabric. The heat sensitive dacron is shrunk while the wool fibers are brought to the surface by too hot an iron while pressing. This cannot be removed, and while it is a temptation to increase the heat of an iron when pressing out hard-set wrinkles, it is unwise to do so, she added. If above "rayon" setting on the iron is used, a press cloth should be used and then with caution. In a study of jersey knits, which Dr. Lyle said were important in fashions this year from separates to cocktail dress and coat linings, it was found shrinkage percentages had gone up. This was found in the greatest degree to be the fault of

Group Feted at Lincoln Session

SHOSHONE, Feb. 7. Men of Lincoln chapter No. 42, Order of Eastern Star, were honored at the Tuesday night meeting at the Masonic temple. An imaginary sixth degree presentation was given in skit form.

Mrs. Robert Ferebauer conducted the session and announced an ESPARIS benefit card party for Feb. 17. The fund is for scholarships for young people taking religious training.

The charter was draped in memory of three past worthy grand patrons of Idaho. The ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Morris Gerard, Mrs. Elden Guthrie and Mrs. M. R. Brown.

Mrs. Nina Hall reported on the death of Mrs. Elden Gehrig's mother and of calls she had made to members of the chapter who were ill.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. D. L. Stuckey and Mrs. Zanle Alexander at tables decorated by Mrs. Elden Gehrig with Masonic emblems.

Fathers Feted by Oakley LDS Unit

OAKLEY, Feb. 7. "Daddy date" night was observed by Homebuilder class members and their fathers of the Cassia stake second ward last week at the LDS church recreation hall.

The group was served at tables decorated with popcorn snowmen and miniature snowmen nut cup favors.

Invocation was given by Bishop Joel E. Rasmussen. Welcome speech was presented by Ireen Hardy; humorous reading by Carolyn Martindale, and a song by the Homebuilders.

The event was under direction of Primary class leaders, Edith Mathews, Larks, Mrs. Melvin Paske, Blue Birds, and Mrs. James Warner, Seagulls.

The manufacturers do this, she explains, because the consumer feels she is buying a luxury garment. Some of the fur-like fabrics are printed to look like mole, embossed to look like broadtail, or a curl is stitched to cotton-back fabric to resemble Persian lamb. Dr. Lyle says the latter is one to inspect closely. If the curl is just glued on it could separate when being cleaned.

Also new is an acrylic fabric that looks like polar bear, a 100 per cent dycel that resembles otter and the popular racoon of the 20's.

Among other new fabrics mentioned are a brushed mohair that is coming into the field this year and will appear on the markets next fall and winter. She places it in the luxury class and says it would take special care in wear and handling as it will be especially susceptible to abrasions in wear areas.

Another interesting new textured fabric in her display was a wool and reindeer hair fabric.

She also said flat rib failles are coming in quite strong in place of the older raised round weaves. Fabrics, like fashions, move in cycles and she predicted the comeback of silk organdy and moires. Other new dress-up materials are a crepe back satin and organdy with a satin face which is of a peau de sole construction bringing yarn to the surface in a satin effect.

Also noted as interesting developments in synthetics are coating fabrics of acrilan, arnel, zefran and furlen with cashmere appearance. Another of dyneel and beaver hair, she said, made a good composition because beaver imparts water repellency and dyneel, wrinkle resistance.

While it has possibilities for the future, but not now, she had a beige street dress made of paper for display purposes. It has an attractive sturdy appearance but is of a rather unyielding texture. To Dr. Lyle, the possibilities of what can happen in the world of fashions and fabrics are unlimited.

Woman Tells of Holland at Club Meet in Hansen

HANSEN, Feb. 7. Mrs. Albert Schmitz, reporter, gave a talk on the Holland films on Holland at the Latavah club meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Grant Carlson.

She also told of her many experiences there during the German occupation and the Holland way of life. She stated that married women do not work in Holland, and there are no juvenile delinquency problems. They have school 11 months of the year, all but August, and attend school 10 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmitz, both Hollanders, came to Idaho eight years ago, and have returned to Holland for a visit once since their arrival here.

Mrs. William McGow, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Schmitz. Walter Shouse gave a report on the Nampa state school and phases of the mental health program.

Mrs. Ronald Koford was welcomed as a new member. Letters from Sens. Frank Church and Henry Dworshak and Reps. Grace Pflast and Hamer Budke were received in reply to one sent to the congressmen recently on the stand which the Idaho Women's Federated Clubs have taken against a dam on the Bruce Eddy on the Clearwater river until a survey can be taken to determine the impact on the wildlife there. All letters stated they were in accord with the Federated clubs stand and would work for a complete survey. They also stated that no dam had been approved for that area at the present time.

Projects for federated clubs adoption were read by the secretary. Uses of the CARE packages sent to Mexico also were read, stating the rehabilitation packages containing self-help materials had been helpful in severe flood areas in Mexico.

A letter was read concerning the community achievement projects of the groups listing projects which may be helped by the individual clubs.

The club report was filled in by Mrs. Hugh Sanderson, acting president, with the help of committee chairman. The report will be sent to Mrs. Keith Amerndt, president of the fourth district federated group.

It was decided to raise the annual dues of the local club from $1.50 to $2 per year. A discussion was held on the art project which is sponsored by the federated clubs through the penny art fund. It was decided to ask that Hansen school students participate in the art contest through the local group.

The March 3 meeting will be an Idaho products luncheon to be held at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. C. C. Clarke. Members are asked to bring a covered dish and table service.

Mrs. Charles Bally is program chairman.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

To be able to speak clearly, to say what one wants to say that the listener has no difficulty in understanding, but gets the message exactly, is to have a hold on successful living. It is surprising how many people who meet who have not this skill. They should have it because their speech mechanism is perfect and their brains are in good health, but for one reason or another they cannot speak clearly, simply, directly. A friend wants to tell an experience he has enjoyed and starts with, "Well—you know—ah, er we were going up this mountain—what was the name of that place, Joy? No, no, that other one—well anyway—ah, er—" by this time the listeners have lost interest. The story is finished, maybe not, its flavor and point were lost at the start. Grownup people have speech habits hard to break so they are left to us as they please by the rest of us who turn our ears inside and save ourselves the distress of listening. But surely we can do better with the children who are learning to talk? First, no baby-talk. Talk to the children in simple, clear words. Expect them to do the same when they have the ability. That ability will come sooner and with greater power if the children hear clear, accurate speech at home. Next—tell them stories such as Aesop's Fables and encourage them to tell them to a good listener when they reach the stage of ability that allows them to use connected sentences. Teach children to talk in sentences. One word answers are not enough to teach children to talk well. Ask them to make a story sentence of what they said and praise them for doing so. This is the teacher's task. The yes or no tests are not helpful in teaching English expression. There should be tests, maybe just one question, that demand full sentences as answers.

Murtaugh Clinches Tie in Southside Loop by Edging Castleford Wolves 49-48

MURTAUGH, Feb. 7.—The Murtaugh Red Devils saw an early lead melt away to nothing here Friday night and then had to come from behind in the last second to edge the Castleford Wolves 49-48. Murtaugh clinched a tie for the Southside conference crown with the victory. Castleford was on the short end of a 39-29 score going into the last quarter and immediately started to correct the situation. The Wolves began finding the range on long shots, and while holding the Devils to 10 points in the quarter, racked up 19 points of their own.

In the final period Castleford sank seven out of 12 shots from the floor. The final field goal for the Wolves was dropped in by Griggs with only seconds left in the game and gave Castleford a 48-47 lead. Griggs was fouled as he went in and had a chance to stretch the lead, but he missed from the free throw line.

Andy Ward of the Devils grabbed the rebound and fired a pass to Gary Nebeker who dribbled between two Castleford players, who appeared to be waiting for the buzzer to sound, and went all the way in for a game-winning layup. There was one second left.

The junior varsity game was won by Castleford 45-30.

Coach Fines Red Wings for Poor Showing

DETROIT, Feb. 7.—Coach Sid Abel slapped $100 fines on 14 of the 18 members of the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League Friday for their poor showing in losing 5-0 to the New York Rangers Thursday night. Only Forbes Kennedy, Lou Maroon, Warren Godfrey and Norm Ullman escaped fines.

Abel said the Friday night game was Detroit's worst National Hockey League tilt in his 20 years as player and coach.

"The loss was the Red Wings' third in a row. They have won only four of their last 22 games."

Detroit, league champions eight out of the last 10 years, currently is in fifth place, only one point above the tail-end Toronto Maple Leafs. The Red Wings' next game is against Toronto here Saturday.

Abel laid on the fines at Friday's Detroit practice. Red Wing spokesmen declined to reveal what player reaction developed, if any.

White Sox to Be Sold; Bill Veeck Has First Choice

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney today through her attorneys officially announced that she has agreed to sell her majority interest in the Chicago White Sox with Bill Veeck having an option to buy that extends to Feb. 18. She also disclosed that if Veeck does not exercise the option, her shares of stock will be sold to 39-year-old Charles O. Finley, of Chicago, owner of one of the largest insurance brokerage firms in the nation, specializing exclusively in the field of professional group insurance.

Finley, a new name injected into the sale, has offered $2,700,000 outright with a down payment of a half million dollars.

Veeck, if he exercises his option, has 45 days to close the deal. His basic price also is $2,700,000. But his transaction stipulates the following: If Veeck does not succeed in buying 80 per cent of the club's stock within 360 days the price is reduced by $175,000. If he doesn't succeed in three years in gaining control of the board of directors, it is reduced an additional $200,000.

Dorothy controls 500 more shares of club stock than her brother, Vice President Chuck Comiskey. The brother and sister have been feuding in court over stock disposition, virtually since the will of their mother, Mrs. Grace Comiskey, who died in 1936 was probated.

Veeck, who once owned the Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns, has been trying to buy out Comiskey's shares of stock. But Chuck has steadfastly refused to sell.

Dorothy has disclosed that there is an obligation on Veeck's part to pay Chuck the same price that he would pay her, if her brother ever should sell.

Attorneys for Dorothy said that Finley wants Chuck to remain in the club, but she would like to see the club sold to a new owner.

They also said the Finley deal will become automatic if Veeck doesn't exercise his option or if he does exercise it and fails to come up with the money within 45 days.

Finley lost the services of Mike Tegan when he sprained his ankle in the third quarter. Coach Paul Olson said he hopes Tegan will be ready to play by next week-end.

The 15-round title match pits Brown, 32, against Johnny Bussio, 24-year-old New York City challenger who took a unanimous decision from the champion in a 10-round overweigh, non-title match Nov. 5.

Bussio's impressive decision broke Brown's streak of 20 fights without defeat and renewed speculation that the age of the champion is beginning to tell.

The challenger is a slim 7-5 favorite. Brown, a native of Baton Rouge, La., has 33 knockouts among 73 victories since turning professional in 1946. There have been nine draws and 16 losses.

The challenger turned pro in 1952 and has scored 15 knockouts while winning 36 matches, losing seven and battling to a draw once.

Medley and Morris Account For 47 Points as Kimberly Turns Back Vikings 73-63

KIMBERLY, Feb. 7.—The Kimberly Bulldogs, holding a precarious margin for most of the game, spurted away in the waning minutes of the fourth quarter and dumped the Valley Vikings 73-62 here Friday night. The Little Six conference clash was marred by a total of 61 fouls but the resulting free throws didn't change the result. The Bulldogs' victory was paced by Junior Dennis Medley and Ken Morris, a sophomore, who accounted for 49 points between them. Medley was high with 27 tallies, most of them gained on flying jump shots from the sidelines while Morris, a smooth working center despite his lack of experience, used tips and mid-air jump shots to mount his total.

Kimberly jumped to a 10-4 lead early in the first quarter as Medley hitting on side shots and free throws. But Valley pulled back into contention, trailing 12-10 at the end of the quarter.

Gary Regan hit on clutch shots as the second period opened to keep Kimberly on top but with half the period gone, Chuck Webb hit a long shot to tie it 19-19. Medley struck back with a flying jump shot from the side again before Cranney converted on a 22-21 edge. It marked the last time Valley was ahead as Morris, who piloted the rebounding for Kimberly, hit a free throw. Farnes put a rebounding hand quickly sent Kimberly ahead 23-19.

After Carl Kelly's field goal tied it, Morris hit for four straight and Kimberly was on top for keep.

In the third period, Medley and Morris combined to give the Bulldogs a 49-38 edge but Blaisie's two goals and Webb added five points as Cranney and Kelly kept the Vikings narrowed to 45-35. The Vikings continued to narrow the goal and free throw margin. That cut the margin in 35-52. Medley and Tate fought the Kimberly attack with six points and the Bulldogs went on from there to register their final margin.

Valley won the preliminary 47-35. The box score:

Jerome Tigers Defeat Burley by 50-47 Tally

BURLEY, Feb. 7.—The Jerome Tigers nearly blew a seven-point lead in the final period here Friday night, but they found the range from the foul line in the last two minutes to hang on and fashion a 50-47 victory over the Burley Bobcats. Jerome took the lead in the second quarter and had little trouble staying ahead until the final period. Burley couldn't hit for field goals and managed to keep close only because of good work at the free throw line. Burley got 23 charity points out of 24 Jerome fouls.

In the fourth quarter, however, the Bobcats began creeping up, and with two minutes to go tied the Tigers.

Jerome, which had notched only five free throws up to that time, got a break with four Burley fouls and made them good for seven points, enough for victory.

The preliminary game went to that Jerome junior varsity 37-35.

Brown Defends Title Against Johnny Bussio

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 7.—Joe Brown places his world's lightweight boxing title on the line a sixth time Wednesday night, and the men with money are not quite as confident he'll retain it.

The 15-round title match pits Brown, 32, against Johnny Bussio, 24-year-old New York City challenger who took a unanimous decision from the champion in a 10-round overweigh, non-title match Nov. 5.

Bussio's impressive decision broke Brown's streak of 20 fights without defeat and renewed speculation that the age of the champion is beginning to tell.

The challenger is a slim 7-5 favorite. Brown, a native of Baton Rouge, La., has 33 knockouts among 73 victories since turning professional in 1946. There have been nine draws and 16 losses.

The challenger turned pro in 1952 and has scored 15 knockouts while winning 36 matches, losing seven and battling to a draw once.

Richfield Is 57-47 Winner Over Bellevue

BELLEVUE, Feb. 7.—Richfield capitalized on Bellevue defensive errors and went on to win a 57-47 Northside basketball tilt here Friday night. What was a tight game most of the way, was broken wide open in the last two minutes when the Tigers pushed ahead from a tie for their 10-point winning margin.

In the preliminary, Richfield's junior varsity won 55-40.

Bruins Nip Lions In Overtime, Bow To Bulldogs 49-35

NAMPA, Feb. 7 (AP)—Nampa high school clipped Twin Falls 49-35 tonight. The victory kept Nampa in third place in the Southern Idaho conference. Nampa drove to a 37-20 halftime lead and despite a cool second half rolled to the victory. Ron Dike and Roger Nelson made most of the Nampa first-half action, Dike scoring 14 of his 16 points.

Twin Falls outscored Nampa 15 points in 12 in the last 16 minutes of play. Dave Pix, the sharpshooting Bruin, led the visitors with 13 points.

Bill Hilton paced the Bruins to victory over Borah Friday night, hitting four straight points as the overtime period opened.

The teams traded leads in the first quarter before Dave Pix guided Twin Falls to a comfortable half-time edge. From there Twin Falls built up a 10-point margin in the fourth quarter before Borah suddenly erupted and tied the game in the final seconds.

Hilton opened the overtime with a long jump shot and then added two free throws to insure the win for Twin Falls.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY

The plan offered Saturday to form a Magic Valley Bengal Gridiron club to support the athletic programs of Idaho State college seems a long overdue step for local ISC alumni to support their school.

While numerous individual ISC alumni have been trying to hold the Bengal banner, these personal efforts have resulted in little or no concrete support for the school.

So far as local support of ISC is concerned, the Magic Valley school may just as well be far away from Magic Valley as any university of Idaho. Neither local athletic fans nor the school has shown any real desire in promoting common interest. It has been months since an ISC coach has spoken to a local public meeting. A touch of personal acquaintance does far more than a hundred press releases.

The Bengal Gridiron club of Magic Valley will do much more for ISC in this respect than its financial contributions. If local ISC alumni will rally around this starting point, a club that will become self-sustaining will continue here for a long time. And the featured speakers of these meetings will give this area a great deal more insight and interest in the aims and objectives of the school.

We heartily support this idea and urge every person interested in Idaho ISC, be they alumni or simply "fans," to let Jim Blake or Ray Sherwood know of their desire to join the Gridiron club. And we hope it will be an active organization.

The University of Idaho Vandal Boosters in this area long have been instrumental in supporting the Idaho programs. Usually at least $1,000 is sent to the school's athletic scholarship fund each year. There are enough ISC alumni in Magic Valley to sponsor a similar annual fund drive.

Still speaking of ISC, we have a few answers to the reason Idaho State's basketball team is so heavily loaded with out-of-state players plus its mid-year scholastic fall.

The first and biggest reason is finance, which comes as no surprise especially since ISC has announced a big deficit in the athletic fund. The lack of money and the corresponding limit of athletic scholarships make it impossible for ISC to compete with other larger schools for state athletic stars.

To offset this, the Bengal recruiters must go to the areas where a surplus of talent is found. And this leads to another problem which also has been carried home lately.

When possible the athletes prefer to stay within the "home area" so the schools in those areas have first crack at them. The athlete is looking for as big a scholarship as he can find while the school is searching for top talent and boys who can remain scholastically eligible.

Since the "home schools" filled up, the surplus usually is found in inferior athletes or the "borderline" cases in the academic department.

ISC, being an "outsider" usually is forced to gamble on a player the recruiters know is good enough on the basketball floor but shaky in grades.

In previous years, the Bengals have been fortunate, losing only one or two players at semester time because of grades. What the school has most feared came true this year, however, when six of the boys including some starters, were ruled scholastically ineligible.

So those are the two problems ISC is facing and they truly are undesirable situations. This helps to explain the number of out-of-staters on the Bengal hoop team. But we still would like to see some strong pressure exerted by ISO and all Idaho schools in keeping local prep stars in the state. Everyone knows Idaho produces too few to let many, if any, get away.

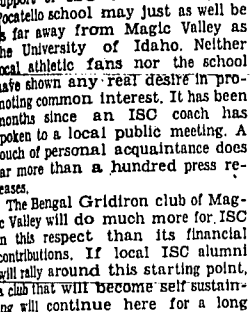

A rash of sprained ankles struck the Big Seven conference Friday night, some of the league's top scorers being hobbled. But it isn't really as bad as it would appear. The conference race is sewed up with Minico leading the marbles and the rest of the teams will only be filling the schedule and waiting until tournament time.

With tournament coming up Feb. 26, the coaches and teams are preparing for the biggest phase of the campaign.

As one coach noted, "we lost too many games at the first of the season to hope for a conference championship. We've been aiming at big-time games for a long time."

Another said, "I hope we can pull up to the conference to a respectable finish but we were eliminated last week and the tournament is our big hope for making it a successful year."

We don't infer these coaches are telling that boys to go out and lose, they want to win as badly as the fans in the stands. But they aren't trying to bring their charges to a peak at this time. Let them do most of their own psychological building and then come to the biggest hurdle at their highest mental pitch.

Utah Frosh Dump M.V. Christian by 88-49

BURLEY, Feb. 7.—A red-hot Utah frosh team dumped the Magic Valley Christian college 88-49 here tonight as it breezed to an overwhelming victory. The Utah frosh, who were not overpoweredly tall, but from angles as they roared off to a 44-20 first half lead.

The Panthers, whose average was less than 20 per cent for the night, also had a frigid night at the free throw line, where they usually are strong.

Magic Valley will play ISC frosh on a date not determined as yet and then make a return visit to Logan Feb. 21.

Vandals Knock UCLA Out of Title Contention on 91-87 PCC Victory

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP)—Idaho upset UCLA's basketball team Saturday night 91-87. Walt Torrence, UCLA forward, gave a great individual performance as he scored 38 points. The defeat knocked the Bruins out of Pacific Coast conference championship consideration. They were leading the race until California shaded them Friday night. Idaho was in front most of the way. The Vandals led 47-46 at halftime and put on a late spurt that gave them a five-point lead. For the last two minutes they executed a beautiful stall, working the ball into scoring position, only to pass it back out to maintain possession.

Idaho's 91 points was high for the season in the PCC. All five Idaho starters plus the only sub, Joe King, were definitely on their game. King engineered the play that probably beat the Bruins. He speared John Liveous with a lightning pass and enabled him to go on through for a lay-in shot. This play boosted Idaho's margin to 82-79 just when the Bruins were threatening to tie the score.

King did a great job of replacing B. J. Schaffer. He hit five of his six field goal attempts in the last 10 minutes of play, and the Vandals, instead of suffering by the loss of Schaffer via the foul route, were spurred on to a victory.

UCLA connected on 32 of 78 field goal tries to 35 by Idaho in 77 attempts.

Forming of Local ISC Booster Club Studied

Plans to organize Idaho State college alumni of Magic Valley into a booster club will be set into motion Monday by a group of Twin Falls ISC graduates. Ray Sherwood and James Blake, who are heading up the committee exploring the possibility of organizing local ISC alumni, said Saturday the speed with which the group is organized will depend on the interest of Idaho State's friends and alumni in the Magic Valley area.

Sherwood said the purpose of the first phase of the project will be to find out if there is enough interest in this area to warrant the organization. If response is good enough, then the basic plans of organization will be laid out.

"We feel the club should have at least 100 persons show interest at the start," Sherwood said. "We want members from all over Magic Valley, not just from Twin Falls."

"If we can organize, we plan to hold monthly meetings and bring down the ISC coaches and athletic department figures to let Magic Valley know what ISC is doing," he added.

The purpose of the group will be to support actively the programs of the school "both financially and spiritually," Sherwood continued.

"We planned on calling the group the Bengal-Gridiron club of Magic Valley."

All area alumni interested are asked to contact Sherwood at Valley Sporting goods or Blake, Orchulara drive, Twin Falls, by mail as soon as possible.

Hailey Takes 59-50 Victory From Kimberly

HAILEY, Feb. 7.—The Hailey Wolverines, getting a 23-point effort from Harold Ridgway, built up an early margin that proved big enough to offset a 25-point rally as they defeated Kimberly's Bulldogs 59-50 tonight.

The Wolverines fashioned a 14-point margin in the fourth quarter when Kimberly coupled a full court press and torrid shooting to cut the margin to nine points. Medley got eight Kimberly points in the flurry.

Hailey jayvees took the preliminary 55-47.

Idaho Seeks Schedule With ISC for 1959

MOSCOW, Idaho, Feb. 7 (UPI)—The University of Idaho has taken the first step to bring about athletic competition with Idaho State college.

University athletic director Robert Gibb said today Idaho has definitely approached Idaho State college regarding scheduling of basketball and football contests for the 1959-60 season.

Gibb said he has contacted Idaho State athletic director John Vesser at the suggestion of university president D. R. Theophilus to see if suitable arrangements can be made to start competition between the two schools next fall.

He said that he had received no reply so far from Vesser.

At a meeting in Boise last month, the state board of education asked the presidents of the two schools to take appropriate action. The board's request was prompted by a memorial adopted by the state legislature urging the two schools to engage in regular sports competition.

New Champs Use Fast Break in Staying Unbeaten

RUPERT, Feb. 7.—The poised Minico Spartans clinched the Big Seven conference basketball championship here tonight as they raced past the undermanned Oakley Hornets 65-32. The victory gives the Spartans a 9-0 record and a stretch of 12 straight without last team able to tip the Minico men, that defeat coming back in early December.

The Spartans used their commanding height to dominate the boards and sent feet galloping down court in endless relays in posting the decision tonight. The undermanned Hornets could manage a rebound only on long bouncing rebounds and they scored only six points in the first half.

Trojans Cinch Tie for Loop Championship

WENDELL, Feb. 7.—The Wendell Trojans clinched at least a tie for their second straight Little Six conference championship here tonight as they stormed past the Shoshone Indians 49-20.

The victory gives the Trojans an 8-0 record in league play with only two games remaining. Only Hailey has a chance to tie them. However, the Trojans, who haven't been defeated in league play for two years, must lose both of their final outings while Hailey must have two victories.

Wildcats Edge Tigers 34-32 In Last Second

FILER, Feb. 7.—Junior Jack Peterson pumped through a long one-hander from the top of the key in the final second of the game tonight to give the Filer Wildcats a 34-32 decision over Jerome's Tigers.

In the slow, deliberate type game, Jerome went into a slower mood in the fourth quarter and the score was tied at 30-30. For three minutes the Tigers searched for a Filer defensive lapse but then were called on offensive charging. Albert Nice went to the foul line and put the Wildcats ahead 32-30.

Jerome struck back immediately, Ron Klum hitting a jump shot to knot the count again. Filer elected to go for the final shot of the game and tried a goal in the last 30 seconds. The shot failed but Jerome knocked the ball out of bounds. The Wildcats held the ball until the last few seconds were ticking off, then passed to Peterson who hit the clincher.

Jerome won the preliminary.

Minico Senior Wins Rupert's Speech Event

RUPERT, Feb. 7 — Dick Reed, Minico senior, placed first in the annual oratorical contest Wednesday night at the high school auditorium. This contest is sponsored by the American Legion and was based on the constitution of the United States. Rex Herndon was named as second place winner in a field of six contestants.

Presentation of awards was made by Vern Peterson, Oakley, who is first vice commander of the Idaho department of American Legion.

Reed received a pen and pencil set and the opportunity to enter the district meet at Piler Feb. 18. Herndon received a pen.

Judges were Rev. Rhinhold Opp, Paul; Dr. E. O. Phillips, Mrs. LaVonne Colbert, Ronald Brown and Bruce Mar, Rupert. Earl Buttican acted as official timer, with R. L. Culley and H. H. Judd serving as the scoring committee.

The evening's entertainment opened with the Minico band playing the national anthem under the direction of Wayne James.

Mrs. Billie Anderson, accompanied by Mrs. Howard Bruns, sang several numbers. A vocal group, under the direction of James, sang and Gary Corless played piano selections. George MacDonald was chairman.

Farmers Night Date at Rupert Set for Feb. 25

RUPERT, Feb. 7 — The annual Farmer's night sponsored by the Rupert Chamber of Commerce will be held Wednesday, Feb. 25, at the Minico auditorium.

The program committee has contracted for professional entertainment. This part of the program will take about an hour with another hour of amateur entertainment sponsored by the various business firms.

George Fowler, heading the refreshment committee, is planning for another capacity crowd. Sandwiches, coffee and soft drinks will be served.

All farmers of the area are invited to attend the stag night event. Another feature of the program will be presentation of the county "Grassman of the Year" award. The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Ladies night March 11 at the high school auditorium. Mrs. Jane Klebe is general chairman.

Missionary Sets Talk for Jerome

JEROME, Feb. 7 — The Rev. Lawrence H. Robinson will be honored at a local Fellowship dinner at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Methodist church.

Robinson, a missionary on furlough from the Belgian Congo, is a native of Idaho, having completed high school and attended college in the state. He also is a graduate of the University of Utah and attended Boston university school of theology. He has studied in Belgium and has been a missionary in the Belgian Congo since 1948.

While in the states, Robinson plans to enroll at Kent State university, Kent, O., for graduate study to complete his masters degree in education.

Following the dinner Wednesday evening, the Rev. Mr. Robinson will speak to the group.

Automatic Fish Cleaner Used at Clear Lakes Plant Devised and Built by Hatchery Workers

Employees at the Snake River Trout farm, Buhl, operate the automatic trout eviscerator that was designed and made at the farm. It is the only one like it in the world. It was put in operation on Jan. 5 and since then it has processed more than 100,000 pounds of trout. The machine was built, primarily, by Jesse (Ted) Eastman, Jr., left, plant superintendent, and Nyal Hoffman, processing foreman. They worked without plans or instruction. (Staff photo-engraving)

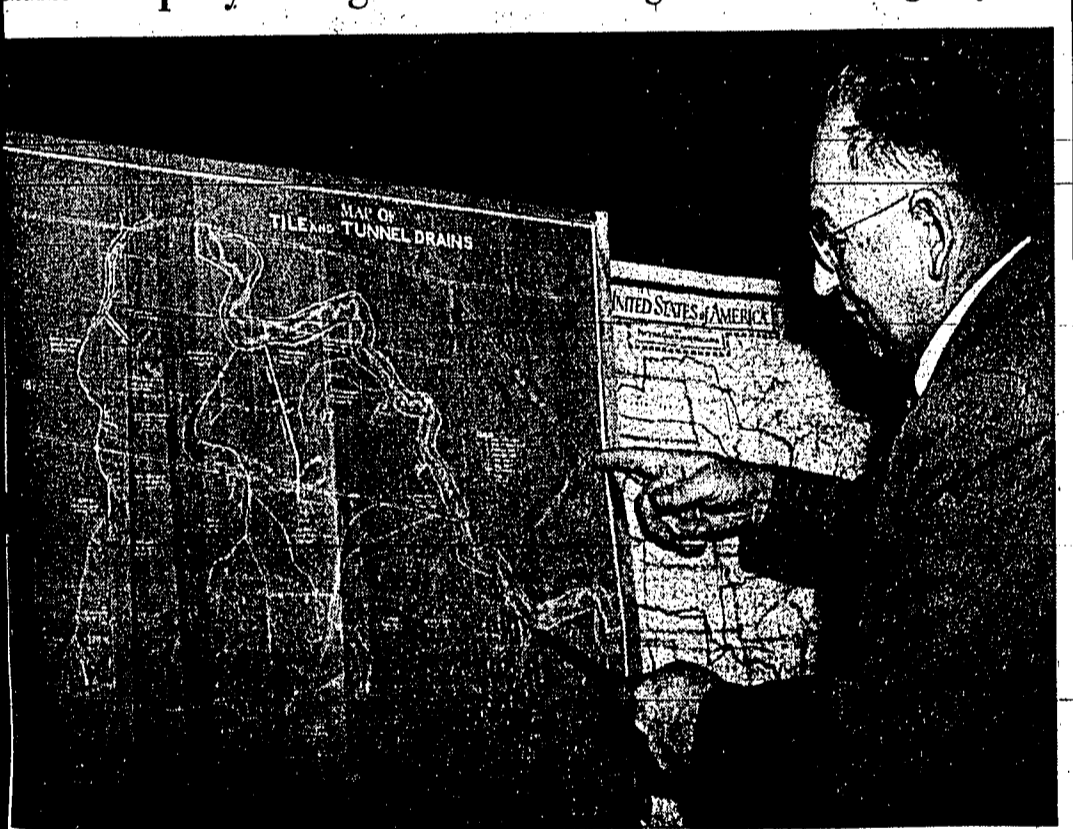

Nyal Hoffman, processing foreman at the Snake River Trout farm, loads the mechanical eviscerator with four dead rainbow trout. In seconds the trout will emerge at the end of the machine completely cleaned. Each separate conveyor line will process 14 trout a minute. The machine was the brainchild of Hoffman. He first thought of such a machine several years ago. He made a few rough drawings and started a pilot model. Last year he and Ted Eastman, plant superintendent, began working seriously on completing the machine. (Staff photo-engraving)

Ingenuity Is Chief Ingredient Used to Make Novel Contraption to Solve Fish Processing

Anyone who believes good old ingenuity is dying should take the Snake River Trout farm to solve processing problems. An efficient trout eviscerator has been designed and constructed by members of the farm's staff. Since the Rubie Goldberg invention was put into operation Jan. 5, it has processed 100,000 pounds of rainbow trout. This is more trout than some trout farms will process in one year. The machine was constructed on trial and error basis by men who have virtually no mechanical background. The major portion of the work was done in the farm's shop. Four men responsible for the final creation are Nyal Hoffman, processing foreman; Jess (Ted) Eastman, Jr., plant superintendent; Robert Erkins, president of the Snake River Trout Farm, and Harold Christofferson, maintenance superintendent at Sego Milk Products company, Buhl, who did much of the intricate welding and lathe work on the machine. The machine, which gulps a dead trout at one end and mechanically cleans it and then flips it on a conveyor belt ready for sorting, was Hoffman's brainchild. According to Eastman, Hoffman first thought of such a machine about five years ago. He made some rough sketches, and even started a pilot model that contained such off-beat items as bicycle wheels, but the idea was dropped until January, 1958. Then "operation eviscerator" went into full swing, and Hoffman and Eastman started working on a pilot model. According to Erkins, nothing was safe that could possibly be used in constructing the model. Even the motor from a dishwasher was cannibalized to feed the hungry model. The madcap inventors utilized dental plate brushes. By March the pilot model was finished. The pilot model was smaller than the present model. It would process only one fish at a time. The operational model processes four fish at a time on four separate conveyor chains. Operating at full speed, the operational model will process 14 fish each minute on each conveyor chain, or 56 trout a minute. Construction on the operational model began in September after all the gremlins had been removed from the one-fish model. It was completed on Jan. 5. Eastman estimated about 1,500 man-hours were consumed in constructing the pilot model, and about 3,000 man hours in constructing the operational model. Eastman, Hoffman and Christofferson did the lion's share of the work. Eastman says the machine cost about $10,000, including labor and parts. Erkins adds that there are enough parts left over to make another machine. Except for the base of the machine, the entire gadget is made of stainless steel and plastic. This eliminates rust problems and complies with the pure food and drug laws. The machine currently is operated about four hours a day for six days a week. According to Eastman, the machine solved a pressing processing problem at the farm. It seems the rate of fish production was outstripping the farm's ability to process them. But the machine has solved that problem. Eastman says, "The machine is capable of processing about 6,000 pounds of fish a day." And he adds that another shift could be added to the present shift and the machine's output doubled. "Our trout production was forcing us to double our processing, but we didn't have the plant space for the additional workers needed," he says. "It notes the farm would have to hire six men to take the place of the machine. Compared to the 60 fish per minute processed by the four conveyors, Eastman estimates a man will average about four fish per minute in the course of an eight-hour day. It takes five men to operate the machine, two loaders and three washers and checkers on the end of the machine. The loaders place four fish on

Canal Company Manager Shows Underground Drainage System

Alfred Peters, general manager of the Twin Falls Canal company, points with his right hand to the intersection of Main and Shoshone streets and uses a pencil to indicate an outlet of one of the 40 large water tunnels the company has constructed to carry off underground water that collects above lava rock strata. The tunnel he points to runs underneath South Park. Peters notes that the 40 tunnels and drainlines in the fall and early winter, during peak flow, carry off a total of 202,500 gallons per minute. (Staff photo-engraving)

Canal Company Continually Waging War on Tract's Drainage Problems

Since 1913 the Twin Falls Canal company has been working steadily to solve the drainage problem that arose shortly after the tract was opened. At first the company began to drain off excess water that collected above the impervious rock layers below the soil with small tile drains. Eventually, in 1926, the firm began building larger tunnels to carry off the water. Now the company has constructed 300 drain lines, varying in size from six inches to 30-inch concrete pipes and stretching for a mile in length, to tunnels six feet high and four feet wide that are 6,700 feet long. There are now 40 of the larger tunnels and the total cost of the drainage work, according to Alfred Peters, general manager of the Twin Falls Canal company, is $2,000,000. Peters says, "The drainage work will soon cost as much as it cost to put the project under water," $3,500,000. The canal company is now spending about $25,000 a year on drainage work, according to Peters. The company doesn't anticipate building any more large tunnels, but will continue constructing smaller drains. Some of the tunnels, most of which lie below the low line canal, are an impressive size and carry off a phenomenal amount of water. The Orchard tunnel is 6,700 feet long and extends from a point just north of Magic Valley Memorial hospital on Rock creek in a generally north-easterly direction. Underneath the junction of Sparks street and Eller avenue west the tunnel turns and runs directly east, paralleling Eller avenue. It is exactly 150 feet north of Eller avenue. The tunnel extends to the area between Eller avenue and Harrison school. The Harvey tunnel, which emerges one mile north of Cedar crossing, flows at a high point of 10,800 gallons per minute. According to E. C. Green, superintendent of drainage for the company, there are 11 tunnels within a mile radius of the Twin Falls city limits. All of the tunnels on the tract were constructed between 1926 and 1951. The cost of the work varied with the soil conditions, and at times the work was expensive and dangerous. Green, who has been with the company since 1927 and has worked in six different tunnels himself, says the cost of the work varies between $5 and $24 per foot. "Four to five feet a day is sometimes a good day's average," he notes. "This work is dangerous as well as expensive. Peters notes since the tunnels were started, five men have been killed in the construction, and two men have died of pneumonia contracted while working in the tunnels. Peters says the tunnels are about 30 to 40 feet under the surface of the soil, and most of them are started from a creek bank base and drilled under the land to be drained. In areas where there isn't a creek bank nearby the tunnels are begun from a deep trench. The water from the land above flows into the tunnels through "wells" that are drilled from the surface down through the top of the tunnel ceiling. The drilling doesn't stop there, though. The wells are drilled through the floor for another 150 feet. Any water that has collected above an impervious rock layer below the tunnel floor can then rise through the wells and flow out the tunnel. Peters explains that the lava rock

Worst Critics Impressed By Texas City's Schools

This is the "after" picture of rainbow trout when they emerge from the machine ready for sorting, filleting, and packing. Ted Eastman, plant superintendent and one of the builders of the machine, demonstrates how the machine efficiently cleans the trout. Eastman says the machine is capable of processing 1,250 pounds of trout an hour. (Staff photo-engraving)

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Feb. 7 (AP)—Word is getting around in the trade that this west Texas city has come up with something radically different in public school programs. Even the most violent critics of American education are impressed by the curriculum. School folks come to take a look at the physical layout, and walk away talking to themselves in envy. As the word spreads, the mail pours in: "How did you do it?" The school authorities here do it by letting their imaginations run wild, then taking infinite pains with the details. They keep the best of the old, and try the most promising of the new. All the time they work toward just one goal: The best possible education for every child, regardless of his capabilities. This approach has touched off a chain reaction in San Angelo. As the pupils learn more in the lower grades, the courses in the upper grades must be beefed up to hold their interest. Consider, for instance, the limited teaching of science in the elementary grades. In the fall of 1955, Robert H. Mayfield, curriculum project director, set about to find a new approach to make a grade school science program effective. For two years Mayfield and his assistant, physics teacher Claude C. Woolley, studied the problem. They held long conferences with the teachers of grades one through six, then called in junior high teachers to insure continuity of the program. It was first decided to cover six major areas of science in each of the first six grades. These are nature (biology, zoology), the universe (astronomy, space, meteorology), the earth (geology), simple machines (levers, inclined planes, wheels and pulleys), electricity and magnetism (door bells and compasses) and heat, light and sound. Few grade school teachers could handle such a program. It was necessary to teach the teachers how to teach science. This was taken up in a series of teachers' handbooks which outline just what scientific concepts are attainable by the pupils in each grade. Next came the mobile library-laboratory units. Each unit is in the form of a desk and is designed especially to deal with one of the six major study areas listed above. Last year the new science program was in effect only in grades one through six. This year a new course was started for the seventh grade, introducing science of measurement, elementary astronomy, botany and chemistry, functional anatomy, and heat, light and sound. The same course is also being taught to this year's eighth graders. Since the seventh graders are getting it this year, a new course must be ready for them when they start eighth grade next year. This system, while it obviously improves the teaching of science, has some built-in work-makers. It seems likely that the whole science curriculum, from first grade through high school, must be overhauled. "By the time kids have eight years of science as we are teaching it," says Mayfield, "they're going to be too far advanced for what is now ninth-grade science. We're going to have to boost this thing up all along the line." This comment bears out what Supt. George B. Wadzsek says about the San Angelo system: "In 15 years, the kids with the IQ's of 75 (well below average) are going to be learning as much as the average student is today." The grade school science program is just an illustration. Every course of study in the San Angelo schools is being developed in the same way. And, it isn't easy. Teachers with many years' experience are sometimes loath to adopt new ideas. Students who have although they can't add two and two don't like being told they can't take physics because their math grades aren't high enough. Inflation-prone parents—and every town has 'em—who want their kids to go to college are apt to become irate when they learn their little Jimmy just isn't college material. "A kid who wants to be an astronaut but has poor algebra grades and poor background in mathematics will waste the teachers' time, and he

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Carolee Riley, RICHFIELD, is the first girl to enter the chariot races sponsored by the Magic Valley Cutter Races association. Miss Riley, 12, is following in the footsteps of her father, Carl Riley, who was one of the organizers of the chariot and cutter racing competition.

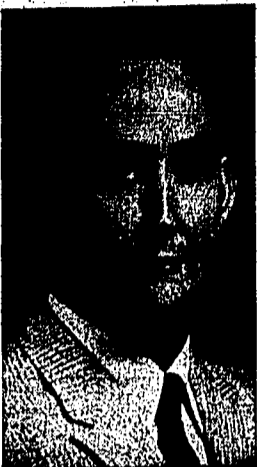

Miss Riley was followed the next day by another Richfield girl, Nicki Nield, 11, who drove the same team of burros in competition with Jack Riley, who has always raced his own burro team. Nicki is the daughter of Orin Nield, another Richfield race driver. Both girls competed in the burro races at BURLEY.

Fat and Jack Riley, both 12 years old, own the teams of burros. Their fathers, Ralph Riley, Jr., and Cotton Riley, brothers of Carl Riley, made the small carts for the race drivers. The boys have raced at RUPERT, Burley and Richfield, and plan to take their teams to Sun Valley in mid-February.

Still another driver, Victor Crystal, 10, Rupert, enjoyed the thrill of winning with Pat Riley's team. Two burro races were run on each day of the week-end chariot race events two weeks ago.

No training was received by any of the young burro drivers. Jack Riley enjoys the races although his team has not won a single race. This competitive spirit was helped out at Burley by a couple of "hot shots," causing them to lose some of the traditional burro lethargy, but too late to win.

Zay Crystal, Victor's father, Rupert, and Cotton Riley, Richfield, are also competitors in the chariot races. Their sons, and many other young people often accompany relatives who travel to the chariot and cutter races in Magic Valley.

Sheriff Thomas (Wild) Conner of Lincoln county was called to investigate an odd accident last week when a team of horses ran away and hit a state highway department vehicle driven by Gene W. Tuttle, Boise, on state highway 28 near Richfield.

Tuttle said he saw the horses were going to run into the truck and had applied the brakes. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $150. The horses, which were slightly injured, belong to Bruce Sorenson, Richfield.

David Rayborn, TWIN FALLS, is among a group of Idaho State college students who left last Sunday for a three-month tour. He is the son of Mrs. Lillian Rayborn, Twin Falls, and was graduated from KIMBERLY high school. His wife, the former Paula Ireland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ireland, will not accompany him on the tour.

The navy flew the USO company, known on the tour as ISCO touring theater, to Auckland, N. Z., where they will travel six weeks in connection with the New Zealand holiday festival.

The company will perform Mollie's "The Miser" and William Inge's "Bus Stop." Rayborn, who is stage manager for the company, plays two small parts in "The Miser."

Also in the tour is Beverly Redman, ALBION, who plays in "Bus Stop" and will supervise makeup.

Accompanying the 10 students is Dr. Hal J. Todd, assistant professor of speech and drama, and Mrs. Todd, instructor in social sciences.

Second phase of the junket is a USO-American Educational Theater association tour of American military installations in the Pacific, including Japan, Korea and other Far East points.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Upon Which Side Do We Stand?"

By MERYL E. NEMNICH (Pastor, Grace Bible Church)

Last November, a group of men, 600 strong, met in Cleveland, O. There they passed resolutions asking the United States to recognize red China and acceptance as a member of the United Nations. Now, this would-be-of-no-particular-importance, but for the fact that these men claimed to represent 38 million church people. A claim that is debatable. We doubt very much that this group represents the true sentiments of even a small minority of those 38 million church people.

Comments upon his action in the Nov. 30 issue of "The Worker" is one Joseph North, and I quote from his article, beginning with the very first statement: "Secretary of State John Foster Dulles came to the world order parley of the National Council of Churches in the U. S. A.—where he has always wielded a powerful influence—and gave them both barrels, of his foreign policy outlook; i.e. that he is on the side of the angels of peace, and that the socialist lands are in league with the devils of war. But the conferees, some 600 spokesmen representing 38 million churchgoers, did not see eye to eye, with this architect of brinkmanship." End of quote.

We deeply regret that any group of men in America would give atheistic communism so much to use for propaganda. We thank God for the men both within and without the National Council of Churches, who have raised their voices in protest to this action. We must protest that these resolutions do not represent us, nor do they represent many others of like precious faith. We believe the time is now that members of local churches, should cry out in no uncertain tones against the action of these 600 men at Cleveland. Why should God's people be for what God Himself is against?

And God has something to say about this matter in His book, the Holy Bible. In Ezekiel 38 and 39

chapters, we have description of a terrible conflict yet to take place, between—Russta—and—her—Allies (China is one) against certain other nations. In chapter 38:2-3 we read: "Son of man, set thy face against Gog, the land of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him and say, 'Thus saith the Lord Jehovah; I am against thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal.'"

Bible students for many years have pointed out that these names refer to Russia and her allies, Gog, the ruler; Magog the land Meshech and Tubal, ancient names for Moscow and Tobolsk. The American Standard revision of 1902 adds, "Rosh" and reads like this: "I am against thee O Gog, the chief prince of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal."

The Almighty God is so much against them that He takes a hand in their defeat. The 39th chapter of Ezekiel, verse 20 reads like this, "I will turn thee back and leave out a sixth part of thee." How foolish for mortal man to think that in linking himself with what God is against, can ever bring peace and happiness to our world.

Let us make certain that we are on God's side. During the trying days of the Civil war, Abraham Lincoln was asked by a friend, "Are you sure the Lord is on your side?" He replied, "It is more important that I am on the Lord's side."

Let us speak up for what we know is right and let the world know we are on the Lord's side. During the Franco-German war as the German troops came rolling across the land, a little old lady was seen, standing in front of her home, that she was soon to leave, waving her walking stick and shouting at the approaching troops. Someone called out, "Come on, aunty, you can't stop them." Her reply was to the point: "No! But they will know on which side I stand."

BLISS, Feb. 7—Orville Reddington, March of Dimes chairman, reports that the total for the drive in the Bliss community was $250.11. Events used to raise this amount included a dance reguue, a party, the Teen-Tops-donations and coin collectors.

Reddington thanks the community for its support of the project.

Carolyn Clore Wins Contest

BUHL, Feb. 7—Carolyn Clore won first place in the local oratorical contest, sponsored by the Buhl American Legion Thursday night.

Miss Clore was last year's runner-up. Onah Dee Mackie was second place winner and Fred Ash placed third.

The speakers each gave a 10-minute oration on "Privileges and Responsibilities of an American Citizen." The speakers then presented extemporaneous talks on the subject, drawn that evening, which was "Amendment Seven, Trial by Jury."

John C. Hepworth, Robert Bailey, Mrs. Alva Borders, Mrs. Emil Bordewick and Dr. Charles E. Marsh served as judges.

Marshall Blmcoe and Bill Gwin were official timers. Kenneth Walker, Clifford Cook and Don Brannen served as clerks. George Goodner was chairman of the contest.

Miss Clore will enter the district contest to be held in Filer Feb. 18.

Student Works in City Clerk's Office

Colleen Bryant, daughter of Mrs. Almee Bryant, is a high school student working in the city clerk's office for experience. Mrs. W. H. Littlefield, clerk in the office, is teaching Miss Bryant how to audit invoices and instructing her in the use of the calculator. The first day on the job she was assigned to take dictation from Joseph H. Latimore, city manager. It was her first contact with business procedure, outside of classroom, and she says, "I shook all over." (Staff photo-engraving) the business man with the work of the business department at the high school.

Mrs. Payne stresses these girls are taking business major. At Twin Falls high school all business courses are elective, in contrast with many schools that have a specific business major.

About 85 per cent of Twin Falls graduates enroll in some type of business course, such as the beginning and advanced courses in typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping, office machines and office practice.

The girls were assigned to the different businesses according to their interests and background. There are many different kinds of businesses represented, ranging from law offices, insurance offices, furniture stores, and sheriff's office to banks, hospitals, travel bureau and city offices.

Mrs. Payne adds there is little specialized secretarial work done in Twin Falls and the girls usually get a basic, well-rounded introduction to business office practice.

Most of the girls will be doing typing work and other office jobs such as filing correspondence, dictation, bookkeeping and receptionist duties.

"They will be doing general office work," she says. "And my assignment is to visit the offices during these two weeks and see how they are progressing."

She explains the girls in addition to their normal daytime work also will prepare a daily log of their office activities and turn it in at the end of each school week.

"Most of all we want to give them an idea of just what a business means," she says. "We want them to learn how important it is to be accurate, and how a small error can have a great effect on a business."

Mrs. Payne says the new emphasis on academic subjects has not slowed students' interest in vocational subjects.

Quoting government statistics, she says 21 million women work away from home in the United States and that half of them are married.

"It's about as hard to run a business office now without a woman as it is to run a home," she says.

The girl high school graduate is extremely job-conscious now, whereas a few years ago they were more marriage-conscious.

Girls who intend to go on to college are interested in the high school business courses, too, because they realize there are many openings in the business world for women, even in the smallest cities.

"And so these girls, even if they are going to college, have prepared themselves for business jobs," she says.

She adds most of the girls will not turn to office jobs immediately upon graduation from high school, but most of them will go on to college or business college for additional training before they go to work.

"The students seem to be satisfied with the new plan. 'I haven't seen one yet who wasn't very busy,' she adds. "It's a stimulating experience for them, and it's the real thing!"

Typing, Shorthand Students Here Get Actual Experience as Part of Studies

Something new has been added to the business school curriculum at Twin Falls high school. Starting on Monday, students in the advanced typing and shorthand classes of Mrs. Stanley Payne began working for two weeks in on-the-job training in the offices of 25 Twin Falls business establishments.

During that time they will do all the work that would be required of them if they were regular employees of the business. The course meets throughout the year from 2 until 4 p.m., the last two periods of the day, and for these two weeks the girls will be working in the businesses during that time. Twenty-five senior girls are enrolled in the course, advanced typing and shorthand, but Mrs. Payne states the course also serves as secretarial training.

Mrs. Payne says this is the first year such a program has been added to the course. Until this year the classes weren't scheduled at the end of the day, which made on-the-job training feasible because of the transportation factor. This type of training is common in many parts of the country, according to Mrs. Payne, but this is the first time it has been tried in Twin Falls.

Student Gets Practical Experience in Law Office

Marcella Ostler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.-L. Ostler, and senior at Twin Falls high school, takes dictation from William J. Langley, Twin Falls attorney. Miss Ostler is one of 25 girls in the advanced shorthand and typing class working without pay for two weeks in on-the-job training in local business and professional offices. (Staff photo-engraving)

Letters were typed by the students and written with the aid of V. L. Lefebvre, high school principal. Lefebvre says, "The businessmen of the community were more than cooperative, they were vitally interested in the school's program, and what they could do for the student."

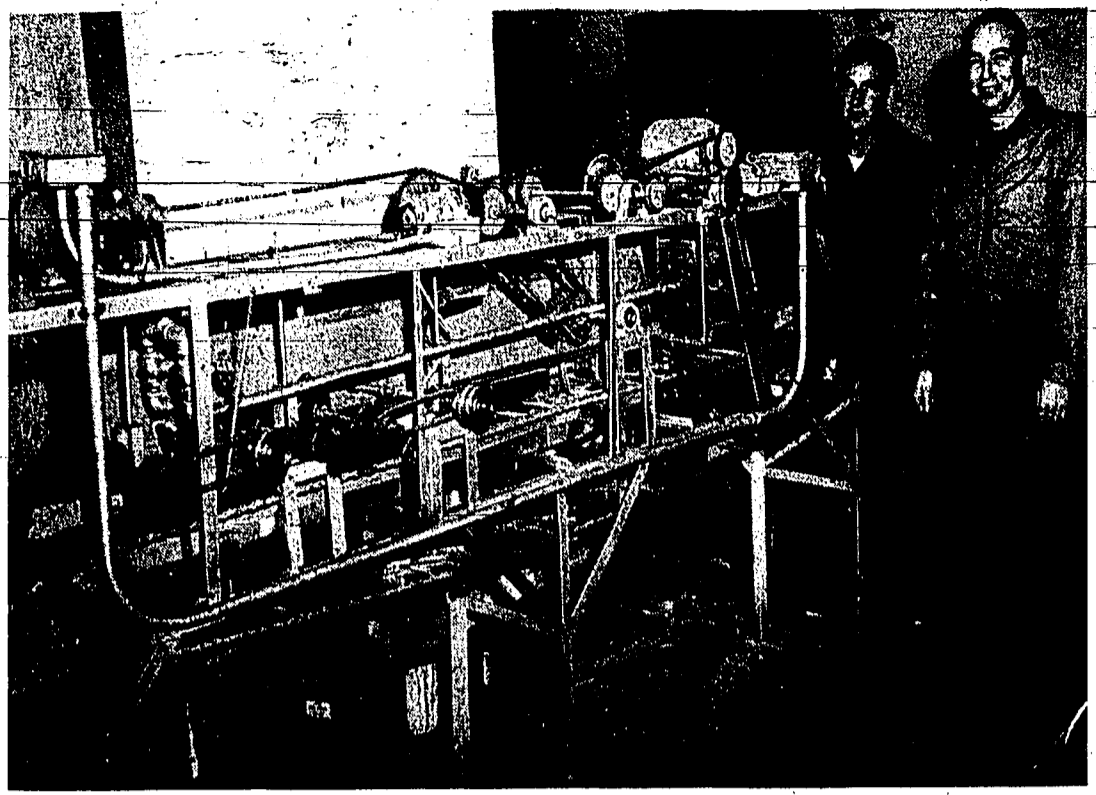

Lefebvre says this program is an experiment this year and its continuation will depend on the success. When the two weeks are over, Lefebvre and Mrs. Payne intend to confer with the "employers" and learn their reaction to the program and see if they can make some suggestions and criticisms.

Mrs. Payne says that the program has three prime objectives. "Our first objective is to get the student over the fear that one has when starting on the first job."

"Secondly, we want to acquaint them with what is expected of a girl in a business office."

"And finally we want to acquaint them with the real thing!"

Many Hours Used to Make Pilot Model for Fish Cleaner

According to Jesse (Ted) Eastman, Jr., left, more than 1,500 man hours went into the construction of this pilot model. The men began work on the pilot model in January, 1958, and it was finished in mid-March. Most of the work was done by Eastman and Nyal Hoffman.

Neither man has had mechanical training and the machine was designed by trial and error. Robert Erkins, right, president of the Snake River Trout company, says every possible item, including parts from a dish washer, went into the machine. (Staff photo-engraving)

Ingenuity Is Chief Ingredient Used in Contraption to Solve Fish Processing

(Continued From Page 15) The plastic receptacles at the rear of the machine. The conveyor then takes the fish through a series of operations during which it is slit from the throat to the vent and the gills and viscera completely removed. The process leaves the head intact, which is the traditional manner to clean trout and aids in product identification.

During the cleaning process the fish is cut first across the throat in two different places, then slit lengthwise by two rotary blades. The fish is then eviscerated and the gills are removed by mechanical fingers and rubber buffers and brushes. The fish is then flushed by water and is ready for further processing and packing.

The machine is powered by five electric motors. There is a separate motor for the main drive mechanism, brushes, slitting knives, gill cutters, and the conveyor belt that carries the fish to the sorting table. The machines will process fish ranging in size from nine to 13 inches, the average market size trout. It could accommodate larger fish by making adjustments, according to Eastman.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

A. H. Jagels, Buhl Dairyman, Is Kept Busy by His Work With Cooperatives

For 35 years A. H. Jagels has been a member of the Jerome Cooperative Creamery. For 27 years he has been a member of the board of directors and for nearly 20 years he has been president of the cooperative.

If this hasn't been enough to keep a full-time farmer and dairyman busy, Jagels also has been president of the Challenge Creamery and Butter association for the past six years.

The two non-salaried jobs consume almost two months of Jagels' time during the year. The head office for the Challenge Creamery and Butter association is in Los Angeles and as president of the association Jagels must attend about 11 meetings each year of the board of directors and executive directors.

The Challenge association is an organization of 17 cooperative units like the Jerome Cooperative Creamery. Member cooperatives come from four western states, Idaho, California, Nevada and Colorado.

Selling and advertising are handled by the Challenge association for member units.

Jagels, a pioneer in the Jerome Cooperative Creamery, is also a long-time resident of the valley.

He came to Magic Valley exactly 40 years ago this month from Nebraska.

He came out here in two immigrant railroad cars packed with furniture, machinery, a team of mules and three Holstein heifers. The three heifers were the foundation of his present herd of 70 head of Holsteins.

His wife and oldest son, Norman, had been sent ahead to Buhl. They settled on the farm where he now lives, six miles south of Buhl.

Jagels was born and raised on a farm near Hastings, Nebr. After earning a business degree at the University of Nebraska, Jagels began working for a bank in Davenport, Nebr.

But the indoor job soon got on his nerves. "In the spring of the year, when the birds were out there singing, I would get the blues so badly I couldn't stand it."

He worked in the bank for two years, then resigned his position as assistant cashier and leased his father's farm to return to the farming he loved.

But two crop failures in the unpredictable plains states discouraged Jagels with that type of farming and he became interested in the irrigated, more consistent farming in

A. H. JAGELS

Nebraska at that time. In 1919 he bought 80 acres and in 1922 he added 80 acres to the original farm. Since then Jagels has carried out diversified farming and developed his dairy herd. For the last two years he has been in semi-retirement and has leased his farm to his son, Norman.

But his work with the Jerome Cooperative Creamery and the Challenge Creamery and Butter association is nearly a full-time job. To illustrate the size of the two operations, Jagels says the Jerome Cooperative Creamery had gross earnings of $7,143,000 in 1957. The Challenge Creamery and Butter association 79 million dollars in 1958.

That's a lot of dairy products and it takes considerable time to administer such operations, but Jagels seems to enjoy his work. "It's not all easy work," he says, "but the people you work with are such nice people that it makes it all worthwhile."

Jagels explains that the cooperatives, which are not allowed by law to make a profit, were first formed by the farmers so they would earn a fair return for their produce.

"Any cooperative will return to the member any income over and above the cost of operation." He says there are 2,400 active members from seven Magic Valley counties in the Jerome Cooperative Creamery.

The creamery has three plants in the valley, located at Jerome, Twin Falls and Burley. He explains that the Jerome plant processes grade A milk, butter and non-fat dry milk; Twin Falls processes cheese, cottage cheese, and ice cream, and the Burley plant acts as a receiving station and weighs the milk and then ships it either to Jerome or Twin Falls. The three plants employ 150 persons.

Butter, cheese and non-fat dry milk are shipped to the Challenge Creamery and Butter association for packaging and distribution, but the remainder of the products are sold here in Magic Valley.

Jagels says he believes the cooperative method is a fair method to handle dairy products. "The only way it can fail is to have inefficient management, or not have enough volume to carry on business."

He adds that some small cooperatives have failed because they were not large enough to take care of their overhead.

Jagels explains that a cooperative pays its members an advance payment for products and the advance payment is an underpayment. Any earnings, minus the cost of operation, are returned to the farmer at the end of the year. This underpayment is made because the exact value of the products can't be estimated at the time the cooperative buys them.

Jagels says his experience with the Jerome Cooperative Creamery and the Challenge Creamery and Butter association has always been stimu-

Paul Scout Troop Puts on Program

PAUL, Feb. 7.—In observance of Boy Scout week, troop 50 gave a program at the LDS church under the direction of Larry Harper, troop leader.

Talks were given by Dan Stapleman and Keith Wright. Colors were posted by Ivan Garsten.

Herbert May, national commissioner for Scouting, spoke. Harp was assisted by Dan Zohner. An opening prayer was given by E. Crystal and closing prayer by E. Reece.

Working with other members of the 17 cooperatives that form the Challenge Creamery and Butter association has been a continual process, Jagels says. The cooperative has been able to help by the other's mistakes and organization has helped each cooperative grow.

Twin Falls Canal Company Continually Fights Drainage Problem Across Tract

and broken lava formations that will allow water to filter through, eliminating the drainage problem. To illustrate how much water must eventually be carried off the land in one growing season, Peters notes, "there is an average of better than six feet of water placed over the whole tract."

Green and Peters say the water coming from the tunnels is particularly desired by fish hatcheries. It is pure, even temperatured, and has a relatively constant flow. Green notes five fish hatcheries are located at tunnel openings at Buhl, Filer and Twin Falls.

Biologists Study Pollution Affecting Game Fish Habitat

Watery wonder worlds are observed in fish and game department biologists Osborne Casey, left, and William E. Webb as part of a survey to determine on a statewide basis the location of natural and man-caused pollution affecting game-fish habitat. Bio-assays are made, as required to determine causes and effects of impaired water quality and how it can be prevented or corrected. Fisheries biologists also experiment to learn fish tolerances to varying amounts of solids and low oxygen contents in water. Webb is using glass burettes to test oxygen content of Boise river water. Survey showed that some Idaho streams contain pollutants such as domestic and municipal sewage, industrial wastes, silt from soil erosion and applied toxicants. (Fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Pollution of Some Idaho Streams Kills

Actual and Potential Beneficial Uses

By JIM HUMBIRD

A statewide survey undertaken by the fish and game department has found that some Idaho waters need "washing." Pollutants such as domestic and municipal sewage, industrial wastes, silt from soil erosion and applied toxicants are impairing the suitability of streams for beneficial use, actual or potential.

Conservationists are interested not only in anything which is deleterious to good fishing, but also in all-revealing aspects of clean waters. This broadens the scope to include not only silt, more than weeds—dead fish—killing herbicides, more than municipal sewage which other states has made certain allowances "too thick to navigate, so thin to cultivate."

For example, commercial fertilizer was added in quantities to waters of Stanley lake in Sawtooth valley a few years ago because assays showed an imbalance with respect to four major elements necessary to fertility. This was believed to be the reason the lake was a good trout producer—the silt was low in nitrogen.

During August, 1957, enough fertilizer was added to Stanley lake by the fish and game department to bring the nitrogen content into balance with calcium, potassium and phosphorus. While this was still strictly an experimental measure, a better nutrient balance of game fish now exists in the lake. There has been a notable growth of algae and insects and a marked reduction in the numbers of the microscopie animal, holopectum, which normally is associated with calcium-poor waters.

Another example of what might be called "natural pollution" involves a general opinion on the part of bio-chemists that Bear lake does not produce many trout because of an unusual combination of small quantities of lead, zinc and copper which act as a catalyst in the water.

Located in the extreme southeastern corner of Idaho and extending across the border into Utah, Bear lake is about 20 miles long and four to eight miles across—a sizeable body of water. Formidable as the job appears, fish and game departments in both states are cooperating in study projects which hopefully will lead to the change of the nutrient complex and establish a good trout fishing lake in that section of the country.

It is true that most Idahoans do not have to travel many miles to good fishing waters whenever they have a few spare hours and the urge to lunk a baited hook or try out a new fancy plug or dry fly.

Idaho residents are in a unique position because at least half of their 175 million fellow Americans in other states are served by municipal sewer systems which either have inadequate treatment facilities—or none at all. Such inadequacies add many miles to fishing trips, as well as to softshoes where swimming, skiing, boating, picnicking and the like are the objects.

But it also is true that Idaho does have a stream-pollution problem. These will grow with population and industrial expansion, unless prevented.

Council Seeks Opinions for Pair of Plans

SHOSHONE, Feb. 7—Possibility of erecting a new city building or the purchase of the Gooding building on South Rail street were discussed at the city council meeting this week. Both proposals may be put on the ballot at the city election in April, officials said, to get citizen opinion on the matter.

Information would be distributed prior to the election to inform the public. The proposed new building would house the city offices, library and be used for storage. The Gooding building would be used as a city hall and library if that proposal were adopted.

Plans for a youth center for the community will be discussed by the city council when the plan is presented them by a youth committee. Action on the matter was taken Tuesday night following introduction of the topic by State Patrolman Willard Baker, Shoshone.

Patrolman Baker said the youth might elect their officers and handle all by the supervisory department. Discussion was also held on where to keep one of the city fire trucks.

A building permit was granted to Mrs. Lizzie Drummond, Gooding, to build a shed at the rear of a residence she owns here, on block 12 of the original townsite of Shoshone.

Announcement was made that C. D. Low had purchased the city owned railroad tank at the west edge of the city. He will remove it and do all cleanup work and provide $800 worth of gravel to the city for the tank.

The tank had been given the city by the railroad a year or two ago with the idea that it might be used for purifying the water for a city swimming pool at the park, but investigation has proven that would not be possible.

Beer and liquor license permits were granted Weldon Shonk, at the McFall bar.

won't get it anyway," says Mayfield. However, the San Angelo system encourages such students to reform their habits and bring up their grades in summer school in an effort to qualify for the physics course.

Wadzek hasn't had as much trouble with those influential and irate parents as he expected.

"It seems they either accept the situation or send their children to private schools," he says. "Either way, it takes the heat off us."

They're Married After Five Years Apart

After five years of separation, this couple was married during the Christmas holidays. They are Mr. and Mrs. Guy Fouasson, Buhl. Fouasson is the Spanish and French teacher at Buhl high school. Fouasson, a naturalized American, met the girl who was to become his wife while he was serving in the U. S. army in Germany. She lived in Aschaffenburg, Germany. (Staff photo—engraving)

German Girl, Transplanted Frenchman, Brought Together With English Letters

BUHL, Feb. 7—For some couples marriage is something that can be accomplished in a few hours by series of military events—he arrived in Germany.

Fouasson was stationed in Aschaffenburg where he met Miss Ecker. But he met her just before he returned to the U. S. and was able to court her for only two months. Interfering, pass-restricting months. Then he was shipped out and the fate of the romance hung in the balance of correspondence.

Romance carried on by letter is trying enough, but in their case it had its own added difficulties. Neither speaks the other's language with any fluency, but each speaks and writes English.

And so with this common language they proceeded with their correspondence. For five years the letters moved with increasing frequency between Germany and the United States, culminating in a proposal.

In the meantime, Fouasson was finishing college in the United States and moved to western Germany when just a child, and lived in Aschaffenburg, 47 kilometers south of Frankfurt.

At this point it appears impossible they would ever meet, but enter the U. S. army, changer of all things normal.

After one year at Texas Technological college, Fouasson entered the army and after a complicated series of military events he arrived in Germany.

3 Trailer Owners Get Fined in Buhl

BUHL, Feb. 7—Four paid fines when they appeared before Justice of the Peace C. E. Rudy Thursday.

Reed P. Maughan, Buhl, was fined $2 and costs for failure to license his homemade trailer and Robert H. Brailsford, Hagerman, was fined $5 and costs for failure to license his trailer. Both were cited by State Patrolman Richard Burns.

Douglas W. Mander, Buhl, was fined $5 and costs for failure to register his two-wheel trailer. He was cited by State Patrolman B. G. Harding.

Farris C. Cline, Buhl, was fined $3 and costs for having no rear reflectors on his truck. He was cited by State Patrolman M. J. Bays, Jr.

Mementoes of Early Baseball Games Here

Mrs. Warren Skinner, one of the first baseball fans in Twin Falls, poses here with some relics of the city's first baseball team. She holds a suit that was worn in the first games played here, and a pennant that she used to wave at the games. Mrs. Skinner recalls she was a staunch supporter for the team and more than once was asked to stop yelling for the team because she was flustering the opposing team. (Staff photo-entouring)

Pioneer Resident "Razzooed" Baseball Teams, Recalls Early-Day Dust Checks

Mrs. Warren Skinner, of Twin Falls, tells of the time when she "razzooed" baseball teams that opposed local players so effectively they requested that she be removed from the stands. She also recalls when "dust checks" were given in Twin Falls rather than rain checks. Mrs. Skinner, who has been an ardent baseball fan since before she came to Twin Falls in a stagecoach from Shoshone in 1904, says the early times were the heyday of baseball in Twin Falls. Mrs. Skinner's first husband, Louis Kiersted, who died in 1916, pitched for the team. The baseball team was the first effort at organized athletics in the new city and

Abraham Lincoln Was Born 150 Years Ago in Dirt-Floored Kentucky Cabin

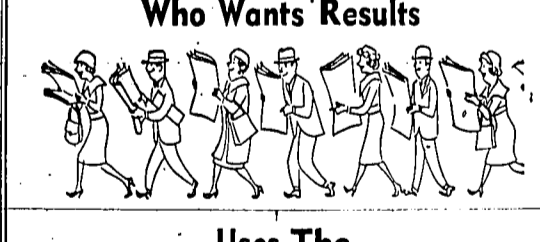

BY ALLAN NEVINS
Copyright, 1959 by The Associated Press
It is 150 years since Abraham Lincoln opened his eyes in a one-windowed, dirt-floored cabin near Hodgenville, Ky. It is almost 84 years since Stanton broke the hush at his deathbed with the words, "Now he belongs to the ages."
No statesman ever grew more sturdily than Lincoln grew between 1854 and 1865: Grew from a prairie politician to the beneficent dictator of a great nation in its most terrible crisis. No leader of modern times has grown more steadily in fame and worldwide influence since his death. He is like the mountain peak that at near view seemed little more than equal with its fellows, everybody on the team could hear me."
The dust used to give the teams about as bad a time as Mrs. Skinner. She tells of the time when games were postponed because the dust was so bad fans couldn't see first base. When this happened the crowd was given "dust checks."
"One time I had the team over for dinner. And the dust got so bad you could hardly see the person across the table."
She and her husband were living in a dusty barn, waiting for their house to be built on the lot that is now the Sears, Roebuck and company parking lot.
"Pretty soon everybody except for one fellow stopped eating. And if you listened real carefully you could hear the sand grating in his teeth as he ate."
Nearly everyone in town went to the games then and there was a lot of community spirit. The grandstand was one of the first structures to be built in town, and the team was financed by holding dances and charging admission.
People would get so excited about the games they would hire special railroad coaches to take a group of Twin Falls citizens to games at Pocatello.
The team broke up after a few years because there were so many team members who were itinerant workers, making team organization difficult.
Aside from being one of the original baseball rooters in Twin Falls—she and her husband were among the first 200 persons to move to Twin Falls—Mrs. Skinner is one of the charter members of the Royal Neighbors club, a woman's auxiliary to the Modern Woodmen.
There were 16 charter members and according to Mrs. Skinner, she is the only one living.
Twin Falls was a rough and ready town in the early days. After seeing a man get shot down in front of her in the street, her husband insisted she carry a .32-caliber pistol when she walked alone.
Her husband worked as manager of the Delano Store at Bellevue before they came here in 1904. He then worked as a surveyor for Paul S. Bickel, engineer in charge of the canal project.
Mrs. Skinner was married to Warren Skinner in 1921. But she says Skinner doesn't share her delight in baseball. Since then she has been gradually changing until she now shares his interest in fishing.

RELAXED HOSTESS! Mrs. M. J. McGeachin, left, is shown entertaining her monthly bridge club at her home in Idaho Falls. With her automatic gas furnace on the job, she can entertain at a moment's notice. Her home is sparkling clean all the time, free from soot and grime. Dirty dishes afterward are no problem either because her gas water heater just naturally supplies gallon after gallon of piping hot water. Mrs. McGeachin agrees with thousands of Idaho housewives... nothing surpasses natural gas, the silent servant. Adv.

City's Library Gives Out List of New Books

A number of new titles have been added to the collection of the Twin Falls public library, Arthur L. Deppeler, city librarian, announced today. He stated that the selections are the first of a large number of new titles.

The fiction titles are "The Bushwickers," a western by Frank Grady; "The Second Chance," a contemporary novel by Almet Jenks; "The Pistol," a war tale with a new twist by James Jones; "Doctor's Orders" by Hamilton Johnston, an engaging novel about doctors; "The Scientist" by Elizabeth Ezzar; "The Bell," by Iris Murdoch; "Pioneer, Go Home" by Richard Powell, a story in which an unclaimed land runs afoul of the government, and the problems with the government-social workers and practically every social worker are offered include "Prize Stories 1958," edited by Paul Engle; "Mutiny" by Frank Tinsley; "A Book of Confessions" on a dramatic story of conflict on a British ship, and "Elephant Hill" by Robin White, the 1959 Harper prize novel.

Adult non-fiction items are "Wisdom," edited by James Nelson, a collection of 24 conversations with older wise men of our day; "And the Bridge Is Love" by Alma Mehler Werfel, autobiography of a woman who was married to three outstanding men of the past generation; also "A Book of Aphorisms" by Daniel George; "Cats in the Belfry" by Dorcas Tovey, the reminiscences of a Dorcas Tovey; "Compulsory Medical Care and the Welfare State" by Melvin S. Rindler, a criticism of the welfare state; "Central Intelligence and National Security" by Harry Howe Ransome is a searching probe into the activities of the CIA and its effect on American freedoms. This item was donated to the library by the Rotary club for the William Eldridge memorial collection.

The library has acquired a new reference book entitled "Who's Who of American Women," which contains the names of four Twin Falls residents, "Ernest Bellini," "Elsie M. Lindgren," "Crystal Rosendahl" and "Anna Hansen Hayes," as well as 67 other prominent women residents of Idaho.

Among books of interest to teenagers are "Brave Young Hearts" by Betty Burris, a love story; "Gridiron Crusader" by Dick Friedlich, a football tale and "Beware the Mouse" by Leonard Wibberley, a satire. Non-fictional items are "Arctic Wild" by Lole Crisler and "Jet Pilot" by Henry B. Lent.

Wash Now and Then Skin Important to Good Health of Rest of Body

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Over the whole, the skin gives remarkably fine protection for the rest of the body. But it will not stand untended abuse. Its proper care is important to the maintenance of health.

Actually the skin is much more than merely a protective layer. It contains sweat glands which empty moisture on the skin. This evaporates and cools the body in hot weather or when overheated from exercise.

It is interesting to note that dogs, for example, do not have this mechanism. They must cool the body by evaporation from the tongue, which is why the tongue hangs out so far when the dog is hot.

Oil glands help to make the skin loose and pliable. The skin is uncomfortable or looks bad when there is either too little or too much oil.

Improper clothing, overheated rooms or insufficient exercise all interfere with the normal ability of the skin to regulate body temperature. Clothing delays the loss of heat by enclosing air between garments and the skin, or between the fibers of the clothing itself.

The kind of fiber and the nature of the weave is important. Woolen fibers keep air in the mesh quite well. Cotton and many other fabrics retain air less well and are consequently known as "cooler" fabrics and are worn more in hot weather.

Rubber clothing has certain special uses, but it is not desirable for long wear. Rubber is not porous and prevents normal evaporation of moisture from the skin.

There are a lot of synthetic fibers with many special characteristics. Black or other dark colored clothing absorbs more heat than white and is thus desirable for the colder seasons—and vice versa.

Bathing several times a week is usually considered desirable, not only because of its cleansing action on the skin, but also because it stimulates the circulation and muscles and nerves in the skin. Perhaps bathing should be less frequent in cold weather.

Water at temperatures of about 96 degrees to 100, with the use of soap, is considered most desirable for cleansing purposes and comfort. For stimulating purposes, the cold bath which brings a warm glow to the skin and a feeling of well-being is often good.

However, one who is elderly or whose blood circulation is poor must be careful of the shock of a cold bath or shower.

A reasonable amount of sunlight is good for the skin as well as for the body as a whole. Certain rays of the sun produce vitamin D in the skin which is important for good health. Sunlight which tans the skin without burning it is the best.

The face, hands and hair should be kept clean, nails trim and hand-nails removed. Thorough cleansing of the face at night to remove the accumulation of dirt is important if one wishes a good complexion.

A reasonable amount of attention to our outer covering is wise for men as well as women.

Budge Favors GOP Labor Bill Over Kennedy-Ervin Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Congressman H. Budge said today he will support the administration labor reform bill because he feels it is far better legislation than the Kennedy-Ervin bill introduced in the senate.

Representative Budge said, "The administration bill, introduced by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R., Ariz., goes a lot farther toward protecting union members and the public from labor-boss abuse than does the Kennedy-Ervin bill which is little, if any, better than the do-nothing Kennedy-Ervin bill of last year."

He said the Kennedy-Ervin bill would make it harder for rank-and-file members to enforce through legal action the responsibilities of those handling union funds than under the administration proposal and that it contains weaker proposals than the administration plan for removal of union officers by rank-and-file action.

"In addition to other glaring omissions," Budge said, "the Kennedy-Ervin bill does not provide for union reports on financial dealings with employers other than loans to a business enterprise. It does not require certification that election standards are met. It does not close loopholes in the matter of bribery between labor and management representatives. . . and it does not contain any provision for making certain kinds of important union records available to inspection by members."

He added, "It also lacks any provision for removal of union officers by rank-and-file action."

For stimulating purposes, the cold bath which brings a warm glow to the skin and a feeling of well-being is often good.

However, one who is elderly or whose blood circulation is poor must be careful of the shock of a cold bath or shower.

THIS WEEK WE CELEBRATE THE 49th ANNIVERSARY OF BOY SCOUTING IN AMERICA

With the Greatest Advancement in Boys Work Ever Offered! IT'S NEW! IT'S GREAT!

Broadening the field of interest for our senior group of boys — age 14 years and up . . .

EXPLORER SCOUTS

A major revamping of the boy scout program . . . the most sweeping ever in this country . . . will go into effect this year. Available for boys not in scouting as well as experienced scouts.

The purpose of the change (for boys of this age) is to bring the program more in line with today's teen-agers. The reason behind the change is the waning appeal of modern minded youngsters for the traditional programs.

The revamped program will put less stress on outdoor life and play up socializing, parliamentary club experience, career guidance and community service. There will be fewer camping trips and more visits to colleges, factories, and research laboratories, etc.

OFFERING HELP ON THINGS BOYS FEEL THEY MUST MAKE DECISIONS ABOUT IN THE NEXT FEW YEARS.

Explorer posts will be encouraged to specialize in subjects ranging from aeronautics to zoology. Experts will be invited to speak at post meetings and, wherever possible, permission will be sought to enable scouts to use professional facilities and equipment in the community.

Along with how to rub two sticks together and the art of pitching a tent, the new-model Explorer will be taught correct attire for every occasion, proper table manners, and how to play host at a dinner party or banquet.

Explorers will continue to wear their traditional dark-green uniforms and overseas caps. But for social activities, they will sport dark blue blazers, gray slacks and maroon ties.

The new program stems from a recent nationwide survey of adolescent boys made by the Institute for Social Research of the University of Michigan for the Boy Scouts of America. Among the findings:

Occupational strivings and the need to make a job choice are of important concern to boys. Part of this general concern focuses on education decisions and the prospect of military service.

Most boys in the age range "are quite dependent on parental authority and are not yet sure of their own internalized standards of behavior."

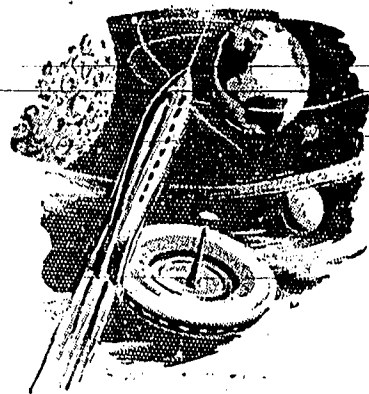

All boys or parents who are interested in this new and unusual scouting program are invited to contact your scout office or scout officials for complete information.

Boy Scouts Today

Scouts of the Universe . . . Tomorrow

We salute the Boy Scouts of today . . . alert, active, sharing importantly in the life of the community and the nation. And we look to them to carry on the American tradition of exploring new frontiers. Many of today's Boy Scouts will be scouts of the universe tomorrow . . . working to expand man's knowledge and use it well.

SNAKE RIVER COUNCIL SERVES 3,968 BOYS in all 3 Divisions — Covering 8 Magic Valley Counties
