Chamber Sets Plan for New Business Unit

Agreement was reached Monday noon at a meeting of the Commercial division of the Chamber of Commerce on formation of an executive group with one representative from each type of business.

Since a number of the groups have organizations, they will be contacted by chamber Secretary-Manager William Grange and asked to participate in the new group.

It was brought out that this committee would not operate as a steering group taking action on problems, but would serve as a liaison between the commercial division and the various trade organizations.

The new group would meet monthly, with the merchants continuing to meet weekly.

Consensus on the question of trying to organize a Business-Farmers day similar to the Business-Education day was favorable, although many felt it could not be done advantageously this spring. J. L. Dondanville of the implement dealers suggested January as the only time when farmers could plan to take part in such an activity.

Grange explained plans to display a Snark missile in May and asked for suggestions on the best procedure for handling the project. Guests included J. G. Roth, Louis Svehlak, Dondanville and Norman Tarter.

Wives Mixup Follows Bills, Bills and Bills

SAN JOSE, Calif., Feb. 9 (AP)—I didn't want two wives," says Brian Wahlken, a jobless 22-year-old draftsman who was jailed yesterday in a bigamy investigation.

"Things just got mixed up and I couldn't straighten them out," he told a reporter.

Police said Wahlken, who lives at nearby Mountain View, started his double life in November when he married Rachel Belasco, a 27-year-old theater usher in Reno. His first wife is Jenny, 24.

Bills, Bills, Bills Come
"Jenny and I were married early last year and there were bills, bills, bills," Wahlken said. "Bills for the wedding, bills for the honeymoon, bills for clothes and food. I had to get away from it all."

He met Rachel and dated her every night for three weeks. "Things just kept rolling along" until they "drove to Reno and got married," he said.

"It was going to be a new life. I was going to get a job and, as soon as I could, I was going to get a divorce from Jenny," he said.

No Job Found
He didn't find a job and police said that while he was drawing $40 per week unemployment checks he lived one night a week with Jenny and the other six with Rachel. He told both working wives his absences were due to job hunting, police added.

Jenny talked Friday to Rachel's mother, Mrs. A. J. Belasco, and compared notes on rumors she had heard about her husband. Among the information exchanged was the fact that both wives were pregnant.

Rachel Complains
Rachel complained to police and Wahlken said he is finished with Rachel.

"First she talked about an annulment, then she goes for this bigamy charge. If I get a chance I'll try to make it up with Jenny. She can cook!" Wahlken said.

Jenny said she would think about that when he gets out of jail.

LITTLE LIZ

You have reached maturity when you find yourself giving good advice instead of setting a bad example.

One American In four has this disease

Physicians call it obesity, but it's just as unhealthy if we call it pounds—too many pounds. In some places a chief cause of early death is malnutrition but in this country the Grim Reaper's number one helper is overeating. Overweight people subject their heart and blood vessels to undue stresses and strains. Every ounce of excess flesh is a menace to health. Which is why so many of us diet today. And those of us who are wise see a physician first. We, as professional pharmacists, know how effective a doctor's advice can be.

Many Church Leaders Plan 5-Day Confab

GENEVA, Feb. 9 (UPI)—Religious leaders from all over the world gathered here today to review the common problems facing churches of the Orthodox, Anglican and Protestant faiths.

The occasion was the semi-annual executive committee meeting of the World Council of Churches, which embraces 171 Christian churches, other than the Roman Catholics, in some 50 countries.

Future council policy probably will be heavily influenced by the decisions of the committee, whose five-day meeting opens at 8:30 p.m. Top interest is Pope's Plan

Top interest was centered on a planned discussion of Pope John XXIII's call for a worldwide church gathering, probably in 1961, to discuss ways of increasing Christian unity.

The committee may indicate some of the subjects the world's non-Roman Christians would like to discuss in any meeting with the Vatican.

The committee meetings at council's world headquarters here will be held in strict secrecy. They end Feb. 13.

Lutheran to Preside
Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, U. S. Lutheran leader, will preside at the discussions.

Other Americans on the committee are Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, Presbyterian; Prof. George Floryovsky, Orthodox; Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, Methodist, and Dean Liston Pope, Congregationalist.

Episcopal Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill is expected to sit in at the committee sessions in his capacity as one of the five presidents of the council.

House Denies Senate Part in Tax Measures

Sen. Howard Hechtner, D. Nez Perce, advised the senate that beginning Wednesday, the committee budgets "if there are enough votes will re-open a study of general fund to do so."

Under the provisions of the senate probate bill, defeated by the senate, the probate court would be given authority to send juvenile offenders directly to the state industrial training school at St. Anthony instead of having to refer their cases to the board of health with a recommendation for such action. The bill also would give probate judges power to jail offenders for a period of not more than 30 days.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that it may not be much of a "hold the line" budget for Idaho after all.

Chairman Hechtner, joint finance appropriation committee declared today that the Idaho legislature will be facing with the "responsibility" of providing public building funds at this session to eliminate hazardous conditions at some state institutions.

Hechtner conceded that this would necessitate expansion of the general fund budget of $71,600,000 presented to the legislature Saturday. This budget was less than one per cent higher than the amount recommended by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

"How much will be needed," he said, "we won't know until we have received the needs. But my guess is it will be less than $2,000,000.

The legislative fiscal chief said that he planned to call his committee into session to consider the problem early this week, "probably tomorrow."

Indonesia Set For Arms Aid Of Americans

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Feb. 9 (UPI)—President Djuanda today announced that Indonesia will receive the most immediate future arms deliveries from the United States to equip 20 Indonesian army units for the fight against the rebels.

The announcement of a "no-strings-attached" agreement came during a one-hour meeting between U. S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones and Djuanda. It marked a reversal of position by the United States.

Djuanda emphasized that the arms deliveries were agreed upon on a similar basis to shipments made last year. These were in the form of long-term credits "without specific conditions."

This means, the premier said, that there were no strings attached in the transaction which he said was made on a government to government basis. He made it clear that the deal did not fall under the U. S. military aid program.

The premier said the United States did not ask for specific guarantees that the arms would not be used for an attack on West Irian, Indonesia has claimed West Irian (Dutch New Guinea).

Asked about the possibility of a protest by the Netherlands over the sale, Djuanda replied, "They are free to do so—they have done so often."

East Germans Blast Berlin's Mayor Brandt

BERLIN, Feb. 9 (UPI)—The East German communists said today West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt has gone on the "cold war-path" through the United States.

The official communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland berated Brandt for meeting in Washington with Mrs. Eleanor Dulles, sister of the secretary and a state department adviser on West Berlin. She retained her family name after her marriage.

It said the secretary, his sister and their brother, Allan, are the three leading cold war fighters in the United States. Allan Dulles is head of the central intelligence agency.

Thick Smoke Kills Five in Small Fire

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9 (AP)—"The smoke was so thick that I lost the children," moaned Mrs. Mildred Plumher.

She had tried to save her five-nieces and nephews. But they suffocated yesterday in a pre-dawn fire that damaged their two-story brick home in southwest Philadelphia.

The three Negro girls and their two brothers, children of Mr. and Mrs. Major Long, sr., were Marion 7; Joyce 6; Linda 5; Major, Jr., 4, and Robert 2.

FIREMEN CALLED

JEROME, Feb. 9—Firemen were called at 7 p.m. Friday to the David Greff home where a fire resulted from a leaky oil furnace. Fire, smoke and water damage amounted to approximately $300 to the home and $300 to personal belongings.

Law Signed

BOISE, Feb. 9 (UPI)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie today signed into law a bill creating an Idaho wheat commission to promote the sale of grain and its products.

A five-member commission will be appointed by the governor from a list of nominees submitted by the Idaho State Wheat Growers association.

The law also provides levy of a half cent per bushel tax on wheat sold through commercial channels in order to finance the advertising and promotional activities of the commission.

Smylie also signed into law a bill which would allow irrigation districts to acquire land within district boundaries for park purposes.

Boise Man Gets Praise as Hero

BOISE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Air force officials have told relatives of Idaho air national guardsmen involved in a Texas plane crash that Airman Clare R. Baldwin, Boise, has been commended for heroism in connection with the accident.

Baldwin pulled Bill Wittliff, 42, Eugene, Ore., from the wreckage Feb. 1, they said. Wittliff was the only member of the three-man crew to survive.

Col. James M. Trall, IANG chief of staff, said yesterday the pilot, W. O. Epps, 42, Portland, Ore., saved the lives of the survivors by deliberately crash-landing the plane after it was unable to land at the Kerrville, Tex., airfield.

The plane was running out of fuel and as much of two tons of ice crusted its wings, he said.

3 Children Dead In Yakima Blaze

YAKIMA, Wash., Feb. 9 (UPI)—Three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker were burned to death today in a fire that destroyed the family home near here.

The victims were Robbie, 3; Donald 2 and Tammy, 9 months.

The children's father, an airman stationed at Larson air force base, near Moses Lake, north of here, was en route to Yakima after being notified of the tragedy.

Mrs. Baker told rural firemen she had built a fire in a heater after which she went next door to the home of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Coleman. Ten minutes later, she looked out the window and saw flames shooting out of the house.

Meeting Sees Drive Movies

JEROME, Feb. 9—Mr and Mrs. Tom Blinger showed films of their cattle drive at the regular meeting of the Jerome Historical society Friday evening at city hall.

The films showed the cattle drive starting in Jerome and going to their summer range 40 miles from Reno.

The Ridgways have been participating in these drives for three generations. They also showed pictures of branding, dehorning and other operations at the cattle ranch in California.

The program was introduced by Russell Howell, chairman.

During the business meeting, conducted by Ben Davis, president, purchase of a tape recorder was discussed. Howell said the voices of Jerome pioneers will be recorded with their stories of early Jerome.

The Jerome Civic club plans to purchase the recorder for the historical society.

The next meeting will be held March 6 at city hall.

Money Interested Medics Unwanted

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (UPI)—Dr. Conrad A. Elvehjem, president of the University of Wisconsin, said today that students motivated by a desire for a highly lucrative career should be denied admission to medical training.

Speaking before the 55th Congress on Medical Education and Licensure, Elvehjem said motivation is a major factor in learning, but the type of motivation also is important.

He said students whose motive is money "are not likely to be really educated by any method, and for the sake of the (medical) profession, as well as all humanity, it is best that they be denied admission to medical training."

POCATELLO, Feb. 9 (UPI)—Tim Brennan, Pocatello, has been appointed executive secretary for the eastern region of the Petroleum Retailers of Greater Idaho. This was announced today by Arthur L. Lalmer, president of the organization's district one.

Northrup-King President Will Speak at Firm's Branch Banquet Here Thursday

Maurice Keating, Minneapolis president of Northrup-King and company, will be featured speaker at the company's 75th anniversary branch banquet at the Turf club Thursday night, reports Emery Chatter, Twin Falls branch manager.

Also speaking will be Ralph Kelly, Boise, vice president of the firm's Intermountain division. A social hour is scheduled at 6:30 p. m. with dinner at 7 o'clock.

All permanent Northrup-King employees and their wives from the Twin Falls area and St. Anthony branches have been invited to the anniversary banquet.

Northrup-King started as a small wholesale seed house in Minneapolis in 1884. Since that time, the company has expanded its operations and is now the country's largest general wholesale seed house.

In the past 38 years the firm has opened 43 sales and processing plants, most have been in the western states, source of flour, vegetable, grass and forage crop seeds. The Twin Falls branch handles mostly bean and pea seed.

It was to handle these seeds that Northrup-King began looking westward. The first western branch was established in 1918 and the company began its real westward growth about 1930.

Northrup-King has tailored seeds to the varied growing seasons of each region. It was a pioneer in developing seed corn, that would mature in shorter growing seasons and did much to help push the edge of the corn belt north and west, Chaffee says.

More recently, it has been breeding hybrid sorghums and has extended its sales efforts on hybrid corn and sorghum to Kansas, Nebraska and parts of the southern United States.

The garden packet seed business, nationally known, is now only a part of the firm's far flung activities. It is a large producer and seller of hybrid corn and sorghum, buys and sells huge quantities of small grain for seed, is one of the largest distributors of grass seed for lawns and alfalfa and other legumes for pastures, Chaffee points out.

Today, its largest volume of sales is in farm and grass seeds. The company buys these from farmers and small country shippers in every major producing area, where they are raised under rigid specifications.

Northrup-King produces or buys all vegetable and flower seeds needed for bulk sales and packets. About 95 per cent of all vegetable seed is produced in Idaho and other western states under the firm's supervision and management.

The company also sells a large volume of vegetable seeds to canners, freezers and the wholesale seed trade.

Store Robbed And Safe Shut

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 9 (AP)—"Are you Louis Goltz of Pfeiffer's?" a male telephoner asked last night. "Yes," Goltz said.

"Well, your store was robbed Saturday night," the caller said "and hung up."

Goltz, manager of Pfeiffer's Men's store, went to the store. It had been broken into through a window.

Surely no money could have been taken, Goltz said—cash was not kept in the store overnight.

The safe had lettered across its face: "This safe is not locked."

Below it was written: "It is now."

The intruders had locked it.

Lonely Youth Finds Mother

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9 (AP)—A curly haired youngster who hiked through South American jungles in search of his mother files to New Orleans today and a happy reunion with her.

Carlos Telmeo Lince, Jr., 14, ran away from his home in Bogota, Colombia, last July because he did not believe his father's story that his mother had died years ago.

He came to Los Angeles, his birthplace, looking for clues.

A news story carried on The Associated Press wires was read by his mother, Margie Hill, now working as a waitress in Crystal Springs, Miss.

Mrs. Hill has not seen her son in eight years. She and the boy's father, a Colombian airlines pilot, were divorced.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON — Domestic political considerations in the United States and Britain complicate Secretary Dulles' current attempt to reach an agreement with Russia and our allies over the future status of the two Germans and the peace of Europe.

Due to last November's sweeping reverses at the polls, the Eisenhower administration feels that it must win a victory in the field of foreign affairs to recoup losses in anticipation of the 1960 elections.

Prime Minister Macmillan faces the same pressures and problems. Whereas the Conservative party had appeared to have regained voter confidence after the Suez canal fiasco, recent polls register surprising strength for Hugh Gaitskell's Labor party.

In both countries as well as in France, Italy and Spain, the political tides have been running against conservatives of every stripe. In almost every instance, the shift is due to economic difficulties resulting in unemployment, inflation and higher taxes.

EISENHOWER, MACMILLAN ANXIOUS FOR BIG FOUR TALK — It is axiomatic that when the party in power faces domestic troubles, it seeks to distract the public by adventures abroad. In the ancient days, monarchs used to resort to wars for this purpose.

Today, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan hope to achieve the same end by winning a peace. And that necessitates some kind of a settlement with Russia that will relieve the tensions, the fears and the expenditures of the "cold war."

For these reasons, Washington and London are more anxious than ever before for a "Big Four" conference. Moreover, both Dulles and Macmillan have hinted at the possibility of new and novel solutions for the impasse in Berlin and central Europe generally.

DULLES' IDEA SHOCKED ADENAUER — Dulles, for instance, shocked Chancellor Konrad Adenauer with his suggestion that Germany could be unified by other means than "free elections." This undoubtedly would mean a confederation of Communist and West Germany which Adenauer would never accept.

Dulles has said that the West might agree to German communists' control of access arteries to Berlin, regarding them as merely "agents" for Moscow. He disapproves completely of certain Pentagon proposals that we crash any blockade of Berlin with tanks.

In his conference with Sen. J. William Fulbright, new chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, Dulles said that he might present other counterproposals to Khrushchev.

EMBARRASSING POSITION OF MACMILLAN — Macmillan is even more eager for a workable arrangement than the American secretary of state. He would like to call a general election within a few months lest the Labor party make further gains. With Moscow's ultimatum on Berlin expiring on May 27, his position is extremely embarrassing.

He can hardly ask for a vote of confidence, if the "cold war" becomes even more intense between now and the day the Russians turn control of Berlin to the East German Communists.

U.S.-BRITISH SOLUTIONS ANATHEMA TO ADENAUER — Neither Adenauer nor General de Gaulle suffer from the compulsions that beset their Anglo-American opposites. Despite improved relations with France's historic enemy, de Gaulle is not too keen for a united and powerful Germany. Khrushchev, of course, is playing on these fears in opposing location of U.S. nuclear bases in West Germany.

Adenauer cannot abide any of the Dulles-Macmillan solutions — confederation, acceptance of the East Germans as Russian agents, demilitarization and neutralization of all Germany, withdrawal of Allied troops, or any weakening of his sector. The chancellor is adamant on these issues. Unlike the Republican and conservative regimes, the German Chancellor and the virtual dictator of France are so firmly established that they do not need to worry about domestic politics — and hostile politicians.

POVITY AND PEOPLES

Argentine President Arturo Frondizi gave congress a brief, blunt message which should strengthen support of the economic assistance program. Poverty, he said, is a source of danger to peace and freedom, and "peoples without hope are not free peoples."

Mr. Frondizi's own country is not as free as he would like to believe. Argentina underwent a decade of turbulence and tyranny. It is not poverty alone that is the cause of its ills, but the fact that it has not demanded more of its existence in Asia and Africa as well as Latin America. And a foreign policy which never recognizes this demand will be unacceptable wherever mass misery exists. — St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

POT SHOTS

OUCHTA BE A LAW — There ought to be a law against these people who speak up in time to spoil an otherwise excellent story.

This type never looks more than half alive. They never catch on to a story until the person telling it gets right down to the punch line, or maybe just long enough to spoil the story, look around for the applause they never get and sink back into their coma.

Or maybe it would do to declare a bounty on them. I. Glare (Twin Falls)

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT. — The mother of these nine puppies is a collie and a good stock dog. The pups are 2 months old. You can phone REwood 3-6175.

HIGH COST OF LIVING — Here and there you find little spots of interest in what the state legislature plans to do. Don't get us wrong, because it appears no one is up in arms over it. Just mildly interested. But this includes only those few people who can find time from more important things to be mildly interested.

That was the sort of conversation reported to us the other day. One fellow pulled a pack of cigarettes from his pocket, passed them around and allowed as how such a practice might be more expensive after the legislature increased the cigarette tax.

Another fellow, puffing away on the free cigarette and holding a glass of beer in his other hand, agreed and said it sure was terrible what was happening to the cost of living. Then he added it was all a fellow could do to buy a little food now and then with what was left over from the beer and cigarettes.

Yep, clear-cut evidence that the state legislature is pushing the cost of living higher and higher.

YOU MISSED IT — Several months ago I wrote a letter and you have never used it. Don't you think I'm entitled to an explanation, at least? I signed the letter just like I signed this one. I. M. Watling (Twin Falls)

Pot Shots note: Except for the obvious "crank and crackpot" letters, Pot Shots endeavors to acknowledge every note that is not printed. That's why "Our Bulletin Board" appears so often. Right now we wouldn't be able to recall the particular letter to which you refer, but if you had been watching, there probably was a notice on the bulletin board explaining why.

OUR BULLETIN BOARD — Want One, Twin Falls — Maybe you haven't tried very hard. We saw one in a store just the other day and we're sure that any hardware clerk could tell you where to get one. Sorry.

SOME ARE PHONY — Dear Sir: How does a person go about finding out what charities are worthwhile and which ones are phony? Because of the charity racket, I'm sure some very worthwhile things are being neglected.

But after you've given $5 to some drive only to have your friends snort and label it "phony" it makes you wonder. I. Ben Took (Burley)

Pot Shots note: Usually your Chamber of Commerce can give you the word on the ones that are on the up and up and the phonies. Like you say, some worthwhile causes usually suffer because of the phony ones. That's why we've hesitated to come right out with the Pot Shots Retirement Fund.

FAMOUS LAST LINE — They'd probably speak to each other except they can't think of anything to say. GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK — In contemplating the Teamsters union it is well to remember that this racket was

Mr. Kennedy said Sparks, at the age of 30, had spent 19 years in prison, that Mitchell had spent "a number of terms in the penitentiary" and that Ferrara "had a long criminal record."

Enlarging, Bobby Kennedy said: "Sparks was arrested for house-breaking and two cases of burglary and larceny. Numerous arrests for investigation and suspicion of robbery. He was transferred from the state penitentiary to the state hospital for the insane."

Joe Bonmarito threatened to kill Norman Portner, drive over his wife, kill his child. Arrested for assault, malicious destruction of property, numerous arrests for gambling. He runs a crap game continuously even as a union official at the present time.

Joseph Bona is a known associate of prostitutes, arrested for prostitution, assault to kill. People to whom you gave instructions.

The next one is white slavery, grand larceny, armed robbery. Another one arrested for shooting his mother; two years for burglary. They were the ones you told to go out and keep the cabs off the streets."

Mr. Gibbons explained that "these people" happened to be employed as drivers when he acquired union jurisdiction over them. Thus they were thrust upon him by the employing companies. He could not exclude them from the union.

In the 1944 Roosevelt rally at the SFAH, the young naval officers, briefly home from the war, were beaten up by goons because they refused some elaborate special homage to their commander-in-chief, Merriman Smith, of the United Press, described the banquet scene, with the late Dan Tobin presiding, in terms of drunken frenzy, with Roosevelt aglow in the role of political patron as he dominated the levels of his loyal henchmen, the Teamsters union.

I am reminded of Roosevelt's 1944 gala by the testimony of Harold Gibbons, a professional unioner and Jimmy Hoffa's chief henchman, taken by the McClellan committee last Sept. 2. Robert Kennedy, the brother of the senator from Massachusetts, took part as counsel. I do not undertake to explain why the Kennedy boys, both partisan Democrats, have shown such zeal to discredit the organization which in September, 1944, arranged the opening rites of the third-term campaign of the Democratic president who hated "wah."

Brother Gibbons, stationed in St. Louis as regional strap of the Teamsters union, had been cornered in a situation involving the purchase of an "independent" union which he controlled, by the International Teamsters, for $78,000. This was paid in the form of "severance" to a small group of individuals. Gibbons managed not to admit outright that this money was the purchase "price" of a large body of faceless toilers who never held membership meetings but expressed their will through him.

Gibbons was disingenuous — St. Louis cabdrivers' strike, attended by violence, in 1953. It was his job to get the cabs off the street, "peacefully" if possible, but, as it turned out, "with violence." He abhorred violence on the same ground that the American people regret violence in war.

Gibbons acknowledged Sparks, Mitchell and Ferrara as active rank-and-file workers who helped drive cabs off the streets.

Mr. Kennedy said Sparks, at the age of 30, had spent 19 years in prison, that Mitchell had spent "a number of terms in the penitentiary" and that Ferrara "had a long criminal record."

Enlarging, Bobby Kennedy said: "Sparks was arrested for house-breaking and two cases of burglary and larceny. Numerous arrests for investigation and suspicion of robbery. He was transferred from the state penitentiary to the state hospital for the insane."

The next one is white slavery, grand larceny, armed robbery. Another one arrested for shooting his mother; two years for burglary. They were the ones you told to go out and keep the cabs off the streets."

Mr. Gibbons explained that "these people" happened to be employed as drivers when he acquired union jurisdiction over them. Thus they were thrust upon him by the employing companies. He could not exclude them from the union.

In the 1944 Roosevelt rally at the SFAH, the young naval officers, briefly home from the war, were beaten up by goons because they refused some elaborate special homage to their commander-in-chief, Merriman Smith, of the United Press, described the banquet scene, with the late Dan Tobin presiding, in terms of drunken frenzy, with Roosevelt aglow in the role of political patron as he dominated the levels of his loyal henchmen, the Teamsters union.

I am reminded of Roosevelt's 1944 gala by the testimony of Harold Gibbons, a professional unioner and Jimmy Hoffa's chief henchman, taken by the McClellan committee last Sept. 2. Robert Kennedy, the brother of the senator from Massachusetts, took part as counsel. I do not undertake to explain why the Kennedy boys, both partisan Democrats, have shown such zeal to discredit the organization which in September, 1944, arranged the opening rites of the third-term campaign of the Democratic president who hated "wah."

Brother Gibbons, stationed in St. Louis as regional strap of the Teamsters union, had been cornered in a situation involving the purchase of an "independent" union which he controlled, by the International Teamsters, for $78,000. This was paid in the form of "severance" to a small group of individuals. Gibbons managed not to admit outright that this money was the purchase "price" of a large body of faceless toilers who never held membership meetings but expressed their will through him.

Gibbons was disingenuous — St. Louis cabdrivers' strike, attended by violence, in 1953. It was his job to get the cabs off the street, "peacefully" if possible, but, as it turned out, "with violence." He abhorred violence on the same ground that the American people regret violence in war.

Gibbons acknowledged Sparks, Mitchell and Ferrara as active rank-

If Americans Should Starve, Hank Blames Food Packers

By HENRY McLEMORE — It is entirely possible, I have decided, that the richest nation in the world, the United States, might some day starve to death.

If it does, full blame can be laid on the doorsteps of the packagers—those experts who are determined to put up food in containers which are next to impossible to open.

The growth of unopenable, or near-unopenable, containers, has been a rapid one. As recently as 10 years ago a man could buy food with a reasonable expectation of getting at it.

Within a decade, however, packagers have so developed in wile and know-how, that to buy a package today is to risk having eventually to use it as a doorstop, or take it to the nearest railroad track and ask an engineer to run over it for you.

For instance, take the packages stamped "press here."

A better legend would be "use sledge hammer here."

A recent survey (I made it myself, and it was county wide) showed that of 1,247 men, women and children who attempted to open these packages with pressure of the thumb, only three had sufficient strength to push in the little tab. And of these three, two were professional wrestlers and the other an unemployed circus glant.

To get at the contents, the other 1,244 had to place the carton on the floor and either kick it in or smash it with a hammer.

One of the housewives in my survey showed me a box of cereal that had been on her pantry shelf for seven months.

"All the members of my family have had a shot at opening it," she said, "but not even Tom, my oldest boy, who plays tackle on the high school football team, was able to break through the press here."

Rivalling the press here packages for impenetrability were those marked "cut along dotted line."

LET'S HAVE ACTION! — Although the Idaho Democratic state chairman has voiced support of a change in the state's primary election system, and a bill has been introduced in the senate for such a purpose, there is reason to fear no definite action will be taken by this session of the legislature.

It's along about election time that the people of Idaho get thoroughly disgusted with their primary set-up, and the last election was no exception.

In fact there was so much criticism following the election that spokesmen for both the Democrats and Republicans left little doubt in anyone's mind that our primary law would be overhauled during this legislative session.

But politics has a funny way of cooling off and public clamor usually increases in direct proportion to the elapsed time after being aroused.

There's talk in Boise now that some gesture will be made to change our primary system, which would amount to patchwork instead of decisive action.

And that's probably what will happen unless the people themselves demonstrate more of an interest while this legislature is in session.

We need only to recall how many times we have been unhappy with the outcome of our elections, principally because our primary system permitted minority candidates to be nominated. In some instances we have been more than unhappy. We were actually chastened and subjected to ridicule.

Quite frankly, our primary system works against good state government and discourages many well qualified individuals from seeking public office.

Usually, as we have pointed out before, it has been difficult in previous sessions of the legislature to change our primary system because the party in power hesitated to discredit further some candidate who had been elected as a result of the system's weakness.

Now, however, the Democrats, solidly in control of the legislature, lost the governorship because of the candidate who emerged the winner of the nomination in another Idaho primary fiasco.

The Democratic leadership is now in excellent position to change our primary system and the Republicans would have no excuse to drag their feet, now that we have such an unusual opportunity.

But whether or not we get such action, judging from all the double-talk in Boise, will rest with the people themselves. It's being said that because of all the heavy responsibilities facing this legislature, it may not have time to do a thorough job of overhauling our primary.

There may be a few things more important than giving Idaho a better primary election system to assure us better government, but not many. And the legislature presently is concerning itself with many routine matters nowhere near as important as the primary.

The people should realize that this is the best opportunity we have had for years to bring about the necessary change. How well they impress their representatives in the legislature with their desires for such a change will be the determining factor.

The Times-News suggests to all its readers in Magic Valley that they make it a point to impress upon their legislators now's the time for action!

ANTI-TRUST PROBLEMS — Assistant Attorney-General Hansen's plan to emphasize the Clayton rather than the Sherman act will make a great difference in the prosecution of alleged or prospective monopolies.

The Sherman act can be invoked, according to judicial interpretations, only after mergers have been formed, and after it has been proved that they operate in restraint of trade. However, because the monopolistic status may have been achieved over a long period of years, and possibly by means then regarded as legal, the government has been reluctant to prosecute for fear of disrupting historic economic arrangements. Moreover, judges and juries have been loath to convict. It was for this reason, presumably, that former Attorney-General Brownell did not go through with his plan to act against the "Big Three"—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—on the ground that they enjoyed an undue and dangerous share of the automobile market.

Time, Events to Affect Nixon, Rockefeller Political Futures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Time and events between now and 1960 will affect chances of both Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination.

The pressure of events, and the two men's responses to them, will almost certainly raise or lower their political attractiveness, at least as compared with each other, before it's time for the Republican nominating convention.

The very nature of the vice presidency ordinarily leaves the holder of that office overshadowed by the White House and with little room to do than preside over the senate. So Nixon might seem the one least likely to be affected by events and therefore best able to retain what popularity he already has.

Rockefeller's job requires more direct action. The governor's leadership, his administrative ability, his policies and his thinking will undergo in these next two years both testing and examination.

He can't stand still. His performance as governor of the nation's richest and most populous state will tend to increase or diminish his presidential prospects since voters of both parties around the country will be watching him.

He has already shown a willingness to stick his neck out. Almost his first action as governor has called for protests by some voters who would be affected by what he wants. A 777-million-dollar tax increase including a boost in income taxes.

His reasoning: He wants to avoid a deficit in state spending and balance the budget while still providing enough funds to avoid cutting some state social programs, like aid to education and localities. He has a fight on his hands and at this moment can not be sure of winning.

Nixon, whose job calls for little need to stick out his neck, could rock away his time in the senate, avoiding stands on controversial issues which might cost him popularity.

But Nixon is an aggressive man. He may feel it necessary for him to take sides—or he may feel forced into it as a member of the Eisenhower administration—on issues seeking ways to maintain reasonable price stability while sustaining economic growth.

University Notes Second Semester Enrollment Mark

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Feb. 9.—Students were back in classes for the second semester at the University of Idaho today—more of them than in any previous second semester of the university's history.

The new record high enrollment for the second semester has reached 3,666 and is expected to climb to the 3,700 mark when all late arrivals have completed registration. The total for the second semester a year ago was 3,622.

"Not only are there more new students than expected, but there are fewer drop-outs," said Registrar D. D. DuSault. "Normally, we expect an eight per cent drop in enrollment from the first to second semester, but this year the drop is only about six per cent."

Last fall's enrollment of 3,917 set a record for first semester registration.

Family From Midwest Lost Minus Trace

SILVER LAKE, Minn., Feb. 9 (UPI)—Authorities today admitted they have hit a dead end in their search for a contractor who vanished Dec. 30 with his wife and five small children, leaving behind a pile of debris.

Friends discovered the disappearance of Earl Zarust, 30, a native of Silver Lake and a town councilman, and his family when they noted milk and newspapers untouched on the doorstep.

Front Door Is Open: The front door of Zarust's newly built home was left unlocked and a Christmas tree stood in the living room.

Don Knot, a business associate, said Zarust left four buildings uncompleted and owed him $11,000. Knot said he is finishing the buildings to try and get his money out of them.

McCloud county Sheriff Leon Odegaard admitted he was unable to find a trace of the missing Zarusts in more than a month of searching.

"We don't know what to do next," Odegaard said. "We've checked every angle. There simply isn't a trace of them. The only thing we can think of now is to ask help from higher authorities."

Warrant Is Refused: However, the situation is further tangled by refusal of relatives to swear out a missing person warrant for Zarust.

"That's what puzzles me," Odegaard said. "Why doesn't some relative come and list Zarust as missing? The family is coming in to check daily to see if we've found him."

The sheriff said no one saw Zarust, who has been in the contracting business for nine years, his wife, Caroline, and their children, Sandra, 10; Susan, 8; Cary, 5; Douglas, 3, and Russell, 2, leave their home or the town.

There was no sign of a struggle, Odegaard said, and some of the family's winter clothing was gone. He said the family apparently left in their late model automobile.

Jersey Dairy Herd Beginnings Delivered to Ranch for Youth

RUPERT, Feb. 9—The beginnings of a good sized dairy herd were delivered to the Idaho Ranch for Youth Saturday when the Idaho State Jersey Cattle club unloaded 26 heifers which had been pledged earlier in the year.

The Rev. James R. Crowe, superintendent of the ranch, says plans now call for a class A dairy barn to handle the herd. The first of the heifers is due to freshen around April 1 and some type of barn will have to be ready soon after that to take care of the herd.

The Rev. Mr. Crowe pointed out that the only dairy stock of the ranch previously were animals kept to provide milk for the staff and students.

Until the donation of the Jersey herd, the ranch has emphasized beef cattle.

FBI Gets Into Jewels Theft Of $400,000

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 9 (UPI)—The FBI today checked the possibility that a master key stolen by an international jewel thief may have been used in the hotel theft of gems worth an estimated $400,000.

The jewels were reported missing yesterday from a $100-a-day suite at the Americana hotel.

Police recalled that International Jewel Thief Harry Sitomero, now in jail in Cleveland, was arrested with a master key to all the Americana's rooms the day it opened in 1956.

The key was recovered, but an impression of it could have been made, authorities said.

Victims of the theft were Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Greenbaum and Mrs. Arthur Cole, Mrs. Greenbaum's sister, all New York. Greenbaum is chairman of the board of Hertz corporation, the nationwide rental car organization. Mrs. Cole is wife of the owner of the Mort Dress salon, New York.

Investigators had little to go on in what they said was the biggest jewel theft in the history of Miami Beach.

The FBI said at first that $500,000 worth of jewelry was taken from the eighth floor suite. They later scaled the figure down to $400,000. Greenbaum himself was evasive and said the loot may have been "half" the $500,000 figure.

Another City Prepares for School Issue

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 9 (AP)—Alexandria completes plans today for integration of three public schools.

Tomorrow this northern Virginia city will become the state's third locality within eight days to reluctantly admit Negroes to classrooms in previously all-white schools.

State and local officials have expressed hope that the admission of nine Negro children to the Alexandria schools will be accomplished as peacefully as the entrance of 21 Negroes into Norfolk and Arlington schools a week ago.

No Police Plans Reported: While heavy police reinforcements accompanied integration at nearby Arlington's Stratford junior high school last Monday, there have been no reports of special police preparations at Alexandria.

Local officials said they have no plans to appeal the integration order to the U. S. supreme court—a step taken by Arlington officials two weeks ago without success.

A last-ditch appeal for a stay of the district court ruling was turned down Saturday by Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the U. S. fourth circuit court of appeals, Baltimore.

Hunt for Lost Family Stalled

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 9 (UPI)—A lack of clues has stalled the search for a missing family of five which vanished Dec. 7 of last year.

Ken Martin, his wife, and their three daughters disappeared after driving east of here toward the Cascade mountains to get Christmas decorations.

The most solid clue to their disappearance was that they purchased gasoline at Cascade Locks, east of here on the Columbia river highway on the day they vanished.

Authorities believe the family met with an accident. No evidence of foul play has been reported.

The Columbia river was lowered at one time by army engineers by regulating water through a dam but no trace of the family was found there. Sheriff's officers said they could have gone off a mountain bluff.

Scores of leads have been checked out and the search has covered a wide, rugged mountainous area east, north and west of here.

The Martins told friends on the Sunday they vanished they were going to return home that afternoon.

Part of Airliner Under Scrutiny

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP)—The instrument panel of the American Eastern plane which crashed into the East river came under close scrutiny again today by investigators seeking some definite clue to the cause of the crash.

The nose section and cockpit of the plane were recovered Saturday night. A civil aeronautics board spokesman said the whole cockpit was in excellent shape. He said a clock on the panel was still running when it was pulled from the water.

The plane plunged into the water last Tuesday night with the loss of 65 lives as it approached La Guardia field. There were only eight survivors.

No Cheating Seen at U.S. Bridge Meet

By JACK V. FOX
 NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (UPI)—The best bridge players are at their favorite sport this week so we can expect to see the Statter Hilton-to-Over to the Statter Hilton-to-Over these rumors that sometimes they cheat.

Last year there was a ruckus in Rome when Italy beat America for the world championship. A couple of losers noised it around that the winners used a sly trick—they held their fine Italian hands high in the air for good cards and down low when they got a better hand.

Tricks Must Be Subtle
 Well, we can report that if there is any trickery it's a lot more subtle than a trick under the table. The game is played in a glass "fishbowl" before 500 spectators. We usually saw the Italians keep their hands low all afternoon and draw good cards.

Yesterday's match pitted Harry Rubel, owner of a New York bridge club, and Lee Hazen, a lawyer, against Walter Avarell, an Italian magistrate, and Giorgio Baldoni, a young Roman public utility worker with a charming smile.

We watched their mannerisms with unwavering intensity. Here are what our notes show:

Observations Made
 Rubel starts spectators by drawing a plain tam-o-shanter on his head. Italians do not protest. Playing in glassed box, 10 by 10 ft., soundproof. Equipped with chairs, four ashtrays, jug of water, glasses, box kleenex and telephone. Referee and commentator also in booth. Draped with American, Italian and Argentinian flags. Italian is also in the tournament representing South America against champions of North America (Europe).

"I never say 'pass.' Say 'no.' Italians speak English. Must wait three to five seconds before making any bid lest hasty 'no bid' indicates very weak hand.

Afternoon round of play ends. Americans win. Tournament goes on all week. No cheating observed."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, who directed the government's daring intelligence operations during World War II, died yesterday. He was 76.

Death of the former director of the office of strategic services was attributed to a heart ailment. He had been in Walter Reed Army hospital here for some time.

Medal Won
 Donovan won the medal of honor for leading the famed "Fighting 69th" regiment of the Rainbow division in World War I. His fighting prowess became a legend of the war.

His nickname of "Wild Bill" stemmed from the exciting methods he used in training his men and the aggressive example of spirit and vigor he set for them.

Operation Is Worldwide
 The OSS operations Donovan headed during World War II were worldwide in scope. The organization conducted important research at home and during exploits abroad, many of them behind enemy lines.

President Harry S. Truman in 1946 decorated Donovan with the oak leaf cluster to the distinguished service medal he received during World War I.

Donovan was defeated in 1932 when he ran as the Republican candidate for governor of New York. The winner was Herbert H. Lehman.

Senator Blast Shrugged Off By Union Man

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 9 (UPI)—A former labor official today shrugged off Sen. Barry Goldwater's, R., Ariz., attack on union bossism and a United Auto Workers legal action.

Gov. Lutes, former publicity and education director of local 974 here, said Goldwater's charges Saturday that the local spent $7,000 between 1952 and 1954 on unlawful political support was "all union politics."

"I'm not worried about it," Lutes said. "The money was used to get out the vote, to see that people went to the polls. I told the FBI this."

Goldwater, here to address the Peoria Bar association, said the FBI gave him copies of canceled checks issued by the union and made out to the 18th Illinois congressional district.

In his talk, Goldwater said he would switch to the Democratic party if that party developed the "courage to fight the power now vested in union bosses."

Union bossism, is the "civil rights problem of the North," and must be fought by "some political force in the country. If it's the Democrats, I'll join them."

he died. Surviving with his widow and brother are a son, David, Berryville, Va., and five grandchildren. Services will be in Arlington National cemetery Wednesday.

New Idea To Politics in Vote on Fund

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9 — Cong. Hauer H. Budge has termed congressional action on the veterans housing bill "politics—but not politics—pure and simple."

Representative Budge said Democrats in the house and senate apparently were agreed on one thing—that President Eisenhower's budget should be broken—but that they differed on how badly.

He pointed out that Texas Democrat Sam Rayburn's house Democrats had voted 300 million dollars for the program, but that Texas Democrat Lyndon Johnson's senate Democrats had, on the same day, cut that amount in half to 150 million dollars.

"All this," Budge said, "came on top of statements by President Eisenhower and the veterans administration that the 200 million dollars in the current budget for the program was sufficient and that neither the additional 300 million dollars nor the additional 150 million dollars was needed or even wanted."

"That the action of the Democrats was political," Budge said, "is quite obvious. However, it can hardly be called 'pure' and with even the Democrats unable to get together in their machinations, it certainly cannot be called 'simple.'"

Marjan Martin Pattern

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

One of the finest household aids a family can own is a reliable alarm clock. Nobody likes a direct order. That grates on his feeling of personal dignity and he resents it. He knows when to get up and when to do the next thing without someone else telling him all the time, doesn't he? Anyway he feels that he does that he answers life call grumpily with that drawled out "Al-l-r-right."

He doesn't feel so resentful when the alarm clock calls him. That's different. The clock has no designs upon his freedom, no planned anyway. It just rings because it was set. It's time to get up and one has to, so that's that and no argument.

Children, even more so than adults, resent direct commands, so wise mothers use the alarm clock to give the necessary commands as often as it will work. This must be learned by experience. Discrimination in all things, you know.

Set the alarm to rouse the school children. Let it suffice. Try not to reinforce its call with a direct order. That weakens the clock's authority. If it is not obeyed, let the culprit take the consequences of lateness. He will soon respect the clock.

Use the alarm clock to mark the end of playtime when the children are playing in the house before mealtime. A child absorbed in play is not likely to respond immediately to a call to come to the table. His whole being, mind and body, are centered on his game and must be allowed gradually to withdraw and turn to something else. Set the alarm, to call about five minutes before it is time to stop, wash hands and brush hair for the appearance at the table. This will save wear and tear on both parents and children.

A busy mother can save her nervous energy by setting a timer on the stove to ring for her attention on the clock to remind her that it is time to give the child his medication, to end his rest period, to bring him in from play. She can set it to mark his bedtime and he will obey it more cheerfully than he will her reminder.

Like all other mechanical helps the mind that directs its use is all important. Most of us can use such a device profitably.

A cowardly attitude is often due to shyness. Dr. Patri discusses this trait and offers his advice in "Let's P. L. C. Shy Child." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Congress May Consider Hells Canyon Dam Dream Again During This Session

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Hells canyon dam, the world's highest dam in the continent's deepest canyon, exists and persists only as a gleam in the eyes of engineers and politicians.

Congress this year probably will decide if the multimillion-dollar project ever will become anything more than a dream and a symbol of one of the nation's biggest public-versus-private power fights.

The apparent winner of the seven-year fight, Idaho Power company, by the end of 1959 will have two rival dams standing in the Hells canyon stretch of Snake river spilling Idaho and Oregon.

Public power advocates, in order to build the high Hells canyon dam, would have to persuade congress and President Eisenhower that it would be good business to take over and pay 100 million dollars for Idaho Power's Brownlee and Oxbow projects.

This expense added to Hells canyon's estimated construction cost of 250 million-plus dollars would at-fect the benefit-cost ratio of a project which has been turned down by several congresses and the Republican administration. A project's benefits must exceed its cost to get congressional approval.

No Hells canyon authorization bill has been offered thus far this session. Indications are none will be introduced unless and until proponents believe the outlook is favorable.

Engineers for years dreamed of placing a 732-foot-high mountain of concrete in a 7,000-foot-deep gorge below the peaks of the Seven Devils mountains.

Until recently U. S. army engineers had Hells canyon listed as a key project in their flood control plan for the Columbia river and its tributaries, including the Snake. It is being omitted from a new report being prepared by the engineers.

Backers claim the dam would add a million kilowatts of generating capacity to the federal low-cost power system in the Pacific Northwest. It also would provide flood control, navigation and other benefits.

Federal reclamation bureau engineers approved the proposal during the Truman administration.

Dreams like Hells canyon die hard and often. Hells canyon dam has been born and killed four times.

Authorization bills for the project were offered in 1953, 1953, 1955 and 1957. The latest bill made the most progress, having passed the senate and died in a house committee.

During all these years, while Idaho Power was seeking a federal power commission construction license, Hells canyon was a hot issue in political campaigns in the Pacific Northwest.

Idaho Power, following a year-long FPC hearing, got a license for three dams, Oxbow, Brownlee and one near the proposed federal Hells canyon site. All three sites would be flooded by the federal project.

The company estimated its three dams would cost 133 million dollars and produce as much power and other benefits as the single high dam at no cost to the taxpayers.

It claimed its proposed one-million-acre-foot Brownlee reservoir would be adequate for flood control and that the proposed four-million-acre-foot Hells canyon reservoir is not needed in the Snake river.

Validity of the FPC license was challenged and taken to the supreme court, which upheld it.

Both parties made Hells canyon a national political issue in recent campaigns. The Democrats claimed the issue was: Full versus piecemeal development of water resources for the benefit of the people or to enrich a private utility.

Republicans said the issue posed this question: Why saddle the taxpayers with a job that private industry is anxious and willing to do? And, are you for private enterprise or creeping socialism?

Idaho Power has Brownlee dam virtually completed and Oxbow under construction. It has made no announcement scheduling construction of the low Hells canyon dam.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D., Ore., recently placed in the Congressional Record a speech he made Nov. 22 at Portland, Ore., in which he indicated congress might again consider Hells canyon legislation.

If engineering studies prove Hells canyon's benefit-cost ratio would be favorable after taking over Idaho Power's dams, Morse declared, "We must renew our all-out efforts to achieve authorization of a high federal dam."

A public power engineer reportedly is making a study into how much material could be salvaged and how much power could be sold if Idaho Power's dams were operated during construction of the high dam and junked later.

Little enthusiasm or optimism for Hells canyon can be found in congress. No member has announced or indicated he or she would introduce Hells canyon legislation.

Some sponsors of previous bills will say privately they have little hope and that introduction of Hells canyon legislation would be only a gesture.

One said introduction of a bill which probably would never get to either the senate or house floor could only serve as an embarrassment to Democrats who this session increased their numerical superiority over Republicans in committees.
