Retaliation Over Statement About Gas Prices Seen

SHOSHONE, April 11—Charges were made here Saturday that a Shoshone service station operator has lost his lease because of a criticism last month against the petroleum industry for maintaining high gasoline prices.

Senator Jack M. Murphy, Lincoln county, assistant senate majority leader, made the charges in a letter to Ralph Wickberg, Boise, chairman of a committee appointed by Gov. Robert E. Smylie to investigate gasoline prices and tax policies. Wickberg also is commissioner of public utilities.

Murphy said Frank H. Carothers, who is president of the Associated Retailers' organization for Idaho, has been informed by the state attorney that his lease will not be renewed because of a statement he made last month in the premises which he has occupied for many years.

Carothers, who is a member of the service station Friday at the Utah Oil company corner and opened a new station at the Shoshone-Riverside station location which he owns. He will handle gasoline supplied by Shell.

The charges of high price were made by Murphy, Carothers, Ed Eldridge, Twin Falls, district president of the retailers group, and his brother-in-law, Fred A. Adenauer, who is the secretary of the organization. Neither of the other two men had reported receiving notices of lease cancellation.

"At the time they made their statement, they were not aware that they might be jeopardizing their service station leases by speaking of it as they did," Murphy said.

The mock legislature also gave approval to a bill which would amend the state constitution to provide for a four-year term for the governor and two-year terms for the legislature. The bill also would provide for a biennial election every year rather than every two years.

The young lawmakers also gave attention to the problem of equalization of state funds among the counties. A bill amending the so-called equalization formula in the school fund formula was passed.

Other bills passed by both houses were a bill to amend the compulsory inspection of automobiles every two years, examination of the state constitution, and a bill to amend the state constitution to provide for a four-year term for the governor and two-year terms for the legislature.

Highway Piracy Aids Cancer Drive

Larry Wheeler, member of the Twin Falls Lions club, continued as a pirate, 'stashes away' a donation from two University of Idaho students returning to campus, during the "Crusade for Cancer" roadblock Saturday on Addison street near Maurice street. Fellow members were on hand to take care of collections and serve refreshments for the drive, which netted about $600 for the cancer fund. Nearly 25 members of the club worked on the road block, a service project of the club. (Staff photo—enlarged)

Budget Balancing Is GOP's 'War' Cry; Morton Is Leader

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The Republicans picked a new national chairman, a 1960 national convention city, and a campaign battle cry today. They are, in that order: Sen. Thurston B. Morton, Kentucky, Chicago. Budget balancing. The GOP national committee was unanimous in selecting Chicago for the party's 1960 presidential nominating convention site. It set July 25 as the starting date, two weeks after the Democrats' convention in Los Angeles.

Morton succeeded Alere Alcorn, Connecticut, who refused to tell the national committee in accepting its unanimous designation as chairman.

"When the fight comes on the budget, I'm in President Eisenhower's corner because I've never known it."

The budget—balancing theme, was endorsed by Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, was chosen by nearly every speaker.

These included Sen. Harry Goldwater, Arizona, chairman of the senate Republican conference committee; Rep. Richard M. Simpson, Pennsylvania, head of the house Republican conference committee; Sen. Everett Dirksen, Illinois, the senate minority leader.

Morton, a husky 46-foot former assistant secretary of state, singled himself as a "middle of the road" Republican.

The 1960 a new conference he announced he would call in some time ago he was inclined to support Nixon for the 1960 nomination.

He said he would like to have come to know Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, New York, who when the late-arrived under-secretary of health, education and welfare early in the Eisenhower administration.

As for the two possible rivals for the 1960 nomination, Morton said he would "absolutely" endorse either party.

"I don't see any reason why we haven't got time to engage in either party scraps or civil war."

Morton, a 51-year-old World War II veteran who served in the Pacific, said he has no intention of resigning to make room for a senator, said he has no intention of resigning to make room for a senator.

U. S. Worries About British, German Feud

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—The government was reported highly concerned today about a worsening rift between the British and German governments.

But the British appeared determined to avoid an open fight with the West German government, which has been reported to be "stalling" the British.

Adenauer's charge was the subject of a cabinet discussion, British officials reported. They said the consensus among ministers was that Adenauer had exaggerated the situation and that the British were deliberately trying to "impair the mood of Great Britain."

27 Escape Injury in School Bus Accident

Dr. H. H. Hull, 32, route 2, Burley, was arrested for drunken driving Saturday night after an accident at the Red Cap corner about one mile north of Kimberly in which 25 passengers in a Blaine county school bus escaped injuries. The bus, driven by Ronald F. Weck, 35, was returning to Carey from the Burley Musical festival. Hull was driving east on highway 30. State Patrolman H. E. Carr reported Hull's 1952 Ford was in the wrong lane of traffic when the accident occurred. Carr received a citation for driving with the bus. Carr said the bus passengers and Hull all escaped injury.

Whoa! Hawkins!

Wayne L. Hawkins, 18, route 2, Twin Falls, made it to the state station in a full-on race Saturday afternoon without an accident. At the state station, he was stopped by police officers. Hawkins couldn't stop his 1958 Plymouth coupe from taking a spin at the Five points east Mobile station. As a result, the car hit the folding door of the service entrance, went on through the station and knocked down the rear door. The rear door fell onto a parked car owned by John O. Floyd, Hansen.

IT WOULDN'T WORK

Dear Ghodter:

A good thing most of us can figure out is how different, fancy and fast ways to waste money. Just think what would happen if folks were to save up and put their money instead of using it on things they don't really need. Why hoard and amass with a will in no time at all we'd all be millionaires and anyone with a whit of sense can readily see that such a situation just will not work. It will cure bees and no grubs, so to speak.

MORE TRAFFIC LAW CONFUSION

It is not surprising that a recent district court ruling in Rupert on a speeding violation under Idaho law is causing statewide comment.

Figuratively speaking, this ruling has thrown a monkey wrench into the traffic law enforcement machine. Highway patrolmen can't help but be in a state of confusion in making arrests for speeding, and the continued use of radar equipment for the apprehension of speeders would seem just as illogical, particularly in this judicial district.

County Agent Gives Advice For Pruning

Advice on proper pruning of trees is given area gardeners by County Agent C. W. Ditch, who says the best time is when growth has stopped and the first step is to take out all dead and diseased wood. Good weather for several years in many parts of Idaho has made trees grow tall and lanky. Vigorous trees are recommended by Tony Peterson, horticulturist of the University of Idaho extension service. He says the county agent is giving a thorough job. Good pruning removes the danger of a high and lanky tree blowing over. Prune hybrid trees and hybrid perennials every year, Ditch advises.

Weak canes tend branches turning to the center of the bush should be cut off. Leave no stubs. Slice them off short. Remaining strong canes should be trimmed to a uniform height of 18 to 24 inches. Cut back to one-fourth of an inch above a bud pointing to the outside of the bush. The new shoots will grow to the outside, making a bush of more rather than creating a lump. Perennials need thinning, but not such heavy pruning, they note.

Clipping and pulling up dead branches to the length of canes most desirable. Remove diseased wood. Following the blossoming period, a few of the older canes should be cut out and new canes cut to the level of the old ones, as they need a little thinning of old and dead wood, Ditch says.

Plenty of Troubles Plaguing Chinese as Meet Approaches

TOKYO. April 11—Revolution in Tibet, peasant discontent over the commune, loss of prestige in the economic difficulties—all these plague red China as she prepares for the opening of her rubber stamp parliament, the National People's Congress.

The meeting, starting Friday, will approve the country's budget and discuss a succession for Mao Tse-tung as president.

All the important decisions have already been made.

Mao presided over a Central committee session April 2 to 9 in Shanghai-Peiping said reported.

"The plenary session discussed and decided on the nomination of candidates for leading posts in the state organs," the broadcast said.

The names of the candidates will be submitted to the first session of the second-National-People's Congress.

Reports from Peking said the Central committee decided to elevate Vice President Chou Teh, Mao's old comrade-in-arms, to the presidency—but the Yu gao jing agency Thursday, reporting from Peking, said the next president may be Premier Chou En-Lai.

Some of the regime's troubles may be aired before the congress—troubles that Australian Foreign Minister Robert Casey says will keep the red Chinese from embarking on foreign adventures.

But Casey can appear before the delegates secure in the knowledge that there will be no angry blarney at the policies which have plunged China into serious difficulties in Tibet.

Instead, he probably will be able to

SPREADING Adventure

Good taste and simplicity go hand in hand. To this we might add good sense, for it is indeed good sense to insist on simplicity of line and design when you select "basic" pieces like sofas and lounge chairs. These pieces represent a major portion of the expense of your living room furnishings. In all probability you'll live with them for a long time.

If they are basically simple-of-line design—and well constructed, they will be at home in any living room today, and will still fit with the fresh decorative schemes of future rooms.

Neutral colors, like the grey and beige tones, give greater leeway for changing room colors. . . they take kindly to brilliant color accents—pillows, pictures and accessories.

Truck With 30,000 Pounds Of Apples Wrecked on Grade

RUPERT, April 11—A GMC diesel tractor semi carrying a 30,000-pound load of apples and driven by Alvin K. Farmer, Hingopis, Ill., failed to negotiate a slight curve and jack-knifed at the foot of the grade approaching Ruff River Friday.

The driver escaped injury. The accident occurred at 5:30 a.m., 2 1/2 miles east of Rupert on highway 30 north.

Mechanics who examined the wreckage said a king pin in the right front wheel apparently had broken, causing the steering mechanism to fail.

The truck went into the borrow pit on the right hand side of the road where it jack-knifed. Both the tractor and semi were demolished. Damage was estimated at $28,000.

The truck had to be pulled apart by a wrecker and a caterpillar operated by Walker Toews. A crew of men from the Engle construction company, working nearby, used cutting torches on some of the wreckage.

The apples were on consignment from Washington to Kansas. State Patrolman Roy Thomas investigated.

The Amazon river in Brazil was named because early explorers thought the long haired figures were women. They were men.

$6,126 Asked In Court Suit To Pay Loans

Southern Idaho Production Credit Association filed suit in Twin Falls district court Friday to collect $6,126 plus $274.68 interest from the O. L. Milton and Sons firm and two King Hill residents who bought hay from the firm.

Named in the action are John D. Milton, George Milton, O. L. Milton, Emma Milton and LaVar Milton and T. G. Heath and Bernadine Heath.

The association lists loans to the firm and interest, Feb. 7, 1958, for $2,100; March 1, 1958, $1,100; March 22, 1958, $1,000; Feb. 6, 1959, $674.23.

The association claims that the firm entered into a check mortgage with the association. The association claims it attempted to secure payment of the loan from the firm but payment was refused.

Foreclosure proceedings were begun Feb. 11 to collect $27,521.70 plus $2,870.67 in interest still due from the firm. Receipts of $10,713 from the firm, Twin Falls county, $21,624.20, Cozias, $1,041.95, and Elmore, $3,740.

In addition, the association claims that 200 tons of hay were sold from the farm property in Blaine county for $1,600 while the property was mortgaged to the association. It seeks recovery of the full $1,600.

Collection costs totaling $14,623.23 and a $759 attorney's fee are also sought.

The association is represented by William J. Langley.

Nicest wagon that ever joined your family!

Chevy's station wagons should really be called family wagons. You can choose from five models, including the four-door nine-passenger Kingswood, with its rear-facing rear seat.

Here's a brisk and breezy wagon that'll take on any chore you name, from a trip to the beach to a journey home from the lumberyard. There's room, you see, for a whole lot of cargo—a space ten feet long, with the rear seat and tailgate down.

These wagons are easy to load, too—you just roll the rear window into the tailgate, and flip it down flat. No lugging to wrestle with.

Chevrolet's so easy to handle it's a natural for the lady of the house. Big, safe brakes, too. Chevy's even got bigger tires—they come as standard equipment on every one of our wagons. But why not fall in love with a Chevy first-hand—at your Chevrolet dealer's!

She Started With Little Violin

Jana Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hopper, 831 Elm street, the only Idaho recipient of a scholarship to the summer music camp at Interlochen, Mich., compares the eighth size violin she used when 2 1/2 years old with the full size violin she now uses. (Staff photo-engraving.)

Local Violinist Is Awarded Scholarship to Music Camp

Jana Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hopper, 831 Elm street, has been awarded a scholarship to the summer music camp June 28 to Aug. 24 at Interlochen, Mich.

Mrs. Hopper, who is concert mistress of the Twin Falls high school orchestra, received half the cost of the summer music camp expenses from the scholarship. The music camp is affiliated with the University of Michigan. She was the only recipient in Idaho.

She started practicing on her eighth size violin at 2 years of age. She has received no formal music training other than what she has received from her mother and school. Mrs. Hopper attended the Juilliard school of music in New York City.

Mrs. Hopper says her daughter learned rhythm and counting from her early experiences with the small violin.

Mrs. Meyer had sent in a tape recording with her background in music and her application for the scholarship.

Mrs. Meyer will compete in the high school division of the music camp. There are four divisions. About 1,250 music students from the U. S. and a few foreign coun-

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI In an effort—truly a worthy one—some schools have adopted the group method. This divides the class into several groups each on a different level of ability and achievement. This is the pattern of the old little red schoolhouse. In that day and circumstance, there was no other way for the teacher, who had a total of about 25 pupils varying from 6 to 14. That teacher had to teach the A, B, C's and the complete reader so the lines had to be drawn sharply.

Jewelry Craft Is Program Of Young Adults of YWCA

One of the current phases of the YWCA young adult program is jewelry craft. According to Mrs. Helen Dunn, executive director of Twin Falls YWCA, this is designed to give young married women a common interest and to work at that level. Mrs. Dunn says one of the biggest problems is to make it possible for the very young newlyweds to find an outlet for their talents. Mrs. Dunn adds along these lines Twin Falls has the best young adult program in the state under the direction of Mrs. R. O. McCall. She notes that many young married women find themselves happy with their homes and situations but with small children and no money or other pleasures within their reach. It is to this that the jewelry craft program is directed. The program is to be a common denominator to branch out in friendship.

The lapidary and enamel craft jewelry workshops she is conducting for teen-agers and young married women is giving them a chance to develop their creative instincts and a common denominator to branch out in friendship.

Hansen Unit Backing Bill By McClellan

TWIN FALLS, April 11—Farm bureau members decided to favor the McClellan labor bill in preference to the Kennedy-Brant bill Tuesday evening at their regular meeting held at the Grange hall.

Members felt the Kennedy-Brant bill did not cover the problem as well as the McClellan proposal. Members were urged to write their congressmen to urge the executive government's agenda.

Jack Long gave a report on the county meeting. There was a discussion on the consolidation of highway districts.

A contribution of $10 was made for the latter drive. Discussion was held on policy development after dinner with meeting at Pleasant Friday and Saturday.

There will be a study on the highway district consolidation at the Twin Falls office in Twin Falls at 8 p.m. Thursday. The agricultural division of the Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the County Farm Bureau and Citizens, is conducting a discussion on the merits of a highway consolidation in the Twin Falls city hall at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Walter Shouse, program chairman, presented a safety skill. The lively part were Mrs. Ray Assendrop, Mrs. Duane Perkins, Mrs. W. G. Elinger, Mrs. Shouse, Mrs. J. B. Gibbs, Kimberly, Mrs. Fred Thierie, Mrs. D. O. Welker, Twin Falls; Mrs. Don Huns, Piler; Mrs. Melvin Opplicher, Buhl; Mrs. Heber Longmiller and Mrs. Leroy Messer, Salmon tract.

Mrs. Chester Nelson, Twin Falls, narrated the skill. The women present were happy to see the broken glass, knives, and scissors on hats.

4-H Club Elects Chiefs Saturday
New officers and committee chairmen were elected Saturday afternoon during the regular weekly meeting of the Busy Friends and Nibble Fingers 4-H club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Newman.

Officers and chairmen are: Gilda Newman, president; Linda Kerbs, vice president; Lilly Green, secretary; Judy Fessenden, game leader; Diana Cooper, song leader; Karen Leathers, newspaper reporter; Connie Newman, club reporter; Carol Schroyer, demonstration; Myrna Plimley, program; and Nancy Prazer, refreshments.

Mrs. Green served refreshments and demonstrated knit-tying. The girls will meet again next Saturday at the Newman home.

Swans Search for Nesting Site as Spring Reaches Region of Hailey

This pond is the private domain of the pair of swans at Clarendon Springs northwest of Hailey. Although the hills still appear bleak, the swans know spring is here and they're combing every little inlet looking over possible sites for a nest. (Photo by Dorothy Foley—staff engraving)

HAILEY, April 11—It's mating time for the whistling swans at Clarendon Springs. Over a creek catch some five miles from Hailey, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Handell returned to their room. Some last week end one of the first times he had was to turn for four swans out of their winter quarters onto the five-mile lake. Each day the ice is receding under the warm sun and one pair of swans is evolving every tiny inlet.

Facilities, Service Increase at 50-Year-Old Library

At the Twin Falls library near its 50th anniversary, two eighth grade students from Twin Falls high school get same advice on research methods from Librarian Arthur L. DeVolder. The boys are studying in the new Youth and Research room, a recent addition to the library. From left, the boys are Jim Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Collins, and Duane Hankins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Hankins. Both boys are preparing assignments for Jack Hartman's language arts class. (Staff photo—engraving)

T.F. Library, Marking 50th Year, Had Unusual Period of Formation

Few libraries passed through such an unusual formation period as did the Twin Falls public library during the founding days of the town.

Boston baked beans, Sletland ponies and carts, rummage sales and opium balls, all played a role in forming the fledgling library. This week is National Library Week and the Twin Falls public library is celebrating its 50th anniversary.

Loser of Rock-Lifting Match Five Years Ago Now Olympic Contender

TERMOE, April 11—Five years ago Jerry Englebert engaged in a rock-lifting contest with another boy on a farm near Jerome, Idaho. So Englebert decided to become a little stronger and he did. One Englebert is a contender for a spot on the 1960 or 1964 Olympic weight-lifting team.

Looks easy, doesn't it? That's Jerry Englebert, Jerome, under the 300-pound barrel. Englebert has been training for weightlifting since five years ago when he lost a rock-lifting contest. Now he is in active search now. Where do you search after you've already searched in every possible place.

According to Mrs. Joseph H. Seaver, a Twin Falls resident, the person responsible for forming the library, Mrs. Warren H. Barnes was the person who launched the library project in the desert town that was then Twin Falls.

Arthur L. DeVolder, Twin Falls city librarian, points out an area slated for remodeling. In the near future he hopes to construct a balcony above the non-fiction stacks. This will give space for about 500 shelves, providing shelving area for 11- to 12-thousand non-fiction books. (Staff photo—engraving)

Books Donated Mrs. Seaver says, "Interested persons in the community gave us books, probably in the neighborhood of 100."

She laughs when she recalls some of the original volumes in the library. During the search for books they found a group of agricultural research volumes, impressive of size and extravagant of design.

Portland Family Went on Sunday Drive, Then Vanished Completely

PORTLAND, Ore., April 11 (AP)—On Dec. 7, 1958, between 1 and 2 p.m., Ken Martin backed his red and white Ford station wagon out of the carport of his home in north-east Portland.

He had money in the bank, he had money in his pocket, he had money in his car. He had money in his house. He had money in his car. He had money in his house. He had money in his car.

She Still Fights Polio

Mrs. Virgil Cross, Jerome, who was one of the most severe polio cases in Jerome county in 1914, operates a telephone calling service in her home. Though nearly every muscle in her body was affected through special training and perseverance Mrs. Cross is able to feed herself and hold a pencil. Her daughter, Susan, and husband still are the chief cooks. (Staff photo-entourage)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mrs. Virgil Cross, JEROME, has a telephone most busy housewives would envy. Mrs. Cross' phone is actually office equipment. With the aid of a small, but powerful, microphone she can talk on the phone from any room in the house, simply by switching the microphone on and dialing. Mrs. Cross' phone, however, isn't for the convenience of being able to do two things at once; she had one of the most severe polio cases in Jerome county. In February, 1914, she started three long months in a respirator in St. Luke's hospital, Boise. In July of that year she was moved to the Eka convalescent home for a year. At one time Mrs. Cross asked her therapist if there was a muscle in her body that was not affected. Her therapist told her if she could "roll" her tongue, that was the one place not affected. Mrs. Cross is now a business woman well known by her voice to members of civic clubs in Jerome. She has run a telephone voice seems to be echoing into the phone. This is caused from the voice "bouncing off" the walls, she says.

In 1919 her main problem was finding herself, for at that time someone had to feed her. She spent several months in a hospital in California, a rehabilitation center for victims of all types of nervous accidents and victims.

The center fitted her with the "brace" that now sits on her knees, table and enables her to feed herself. She also was taught to write again with the aid of a brace attached to her wrist to hold the pencil, which she manipulated with her wrist. Now she has developed enough strength in her wrists so she can hold the pencil without the aid.

Mrs. Cross is the mother of three children, including Dallas Cross, who is in Washington, D. C., and whose wife just presented the Crosses with their first grandchild, a girl.

Larry, their second son, is a freeman and a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity at the University of Idaho, Moscow. Susan, their daughter, is in junior high school. Though Mrs. Cross is unable to do the things she can do around the house, Susan and her father, Jerome county agent, are the chief cooks.

Often a community is apt to take for granted the day-to-day services of some of its members, but the residents of the HEYBURN area have experienced the unselfish of a respected citizen who has devoted a lifetime to public service and friendly and helpful assistance during the past decade. Mrs. Rosella Grace Erick Dixler, Mrs. Dixler has been postmaster at Heyburn since Feb. 9, 1914, when she acted in that capacity until commissioned postmaster by President Franklin D. Roosevelt Feb. 20, 1915. Residents of the community can recount her efficient and conscientious service rendered through the years in a most friendly way.

She received her early education in HAZELTON and EDEEN schools. She continued her studies by pursuing her favorite career of nursing. Her formal training was taken at the University of Utah, followed by nurse's training at the St. Luke's General hospital in 1923. Mrs. Dixler started her nursing career as a private duty nurse at Nampa and TWIN FALLS. Later in 1927 she was appointed manager of the ROBERTT general hospital, in which capacity she served for two years. She held the position of school nurse in Catoia county under the WPA from 1928 to 1933. She also served as nurse for the farm labor camp in PAUL, in 1931. Although Mrs. Dixler, a graduate nurse, is qualified to hold top positions in the field of nursing, she continues to furnish Heyburn a first class postmaster, and still continues to exercise her nursing talents, as time allows, to all of the community needing her services. There is hardly a family in the community which has not benefited by her untiring efforts in time of need. She was married to Chauncey Dixler in 1929. They had four children, Glen Dixler, Heyburn; Mrs. Fern Sawyer, Leon, France; Jack Dixler, Twin Falls, and Mar-

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By ERNEST HASSELHOLM
Pastor, First Baptist Church
Some young pranksters, bent on having a bit of unusual fun, hid themselves in a large department store. Then after the store had closed and all the clerks left they came out and hid in the store to have their fun.

They went through the store changing price tags. They changed the price tags on everything they could get their hands on; nothing was safe. All they did was to rather haphazardly change the price tags.

In the morning a customer came in and was amazed to see a milk coat valued at several hundred dollars bearing a price tag of 45 cents. The clerk had price tags of 45¢ price, suits at $2.25 apiece, wastebaskets at $1.75.

But in spite of their playfulness they were establishing a rather realistic symbol of life. For in daily living there is an apparent confusion of price tags. We put a price tag of $1200 on our own personal automobiles and a 50-cent price tag on the Word of God and its truth. We put an enormous value on the pleasure that lasts for a moment, unmindful of the high price of shame, disgust, sickness and the nervousness of those we love.

We put a high price tag on time and mark it down as being without value. A high price is put on our business but the home and the family are passed by as unworthy of our time and attention. Likewise, prayer and worship and giving and service are set down as unimportant as prices while we pay attention to the things of this world.

The door flew open and Gregory flew out as the car was going 50 miles an hour. His father slung on the brakes, leaped out and ran back to find his son's remains. But Gregory Lee met him halfway, running down the turpentine with only a few pavement bumps.

"Confused Price Tags"
An exuberant price for the trinkets of life. It has been revealed that in recent years we have increased our expenditures as follows: Jewelry 250 per cent, theaters 41 per cent, automobiles 203 per cent, whiskey 220 per cent, beer 317 per cent. On the other hand we have decreased our savings as follows: 30 per cent less to churches; 20 per cent less to general benevolence; 21 per cent less to Community Chests; and 18 per cent less to colleges. Surely price tags are confused. Jesus detected this tendency in His day and put into words a great, guiding principle that ought to un-tangle our confused price tags. He said, "But seek ye first the king-

Churchill Plans May Talk to Ike

MOSCOW, April 11 (UP)—It's been 11 years since traffic claimed a life in the city of Moscow. The last traffic fatality was on April 8, 1924, when 10-year-old Bertha Louise Little was struck by a car and killed near the city hall. In recognition of the city's achievement, Gov. Robert E. Smylie wired Mayor Spencer Lewis. The wire read: "In the darkening shadow of Idaho's most tragic highway fatalities, your achievement stands out like a beacon of hope. Let all Idaho salute your record."

What's Your Hurry?

Why rush to your destination, merely to check into a hotel — perhaps at a disagreeable hour — and incur additional and unnecessary hotel bills? How much more pleasant to enjoy the luxury of a leisurely trip by train!

In a Union Pacific Domliner you can take time to relax. To take a break from tension, rush and routine. To enjoy traditionally fine food, served graciously amid the beautiful surroundings of the famous Diner. To catch up on your rest in the very latest type Pullmans. Or in the peace and quiet of a private room you can work, or read, or rest undisturbed.

When you feel like stretching your legs, you can visit the Lounge, where you'll find beverages, magazines, writing desk, music and congenial companions. Or visit the Dome cars, where you really see scenery — at ground level. What's the sense of rushing there, when it's so much fun getting there!

Many other advantages when you travel by train. Your nearby Union Pacific Railroad ticket agent will gladly tell you about them.

It's different with freight. Speed's important. You can't sure your freight, cotton or corned, gets fast, careful handling and on-time delivery when you specify Union Pacific.

Summer Home Need Not Be Elaborate

Summer homes in forest areas have a wide latitude, with some being little more than shelters to keep the owner and family out of the elements while "camping out" during summer months. Such a summer home is this one on Warm Springs creek. Some simple summer homes like this one are constructed completely by the owner at a relatively small cost. (Forest service photo—staff engraving)

Enjoyment of Summer Home Is One of Popular Types of Outdoor Recreation

By CHARLES I. DAUGHTERY
Former Supervisor, Sawtooth National Forest

One of the popular types of outdoor recreation in Magic Valley is enjoyment of summer homes and the many opportunities for recreation found in the surrounding areas.

Many summer homes are located on private land and many of these are so located that they are accessible for use in the winter as well as summer. The ones I want to tell you about now are located on national forest land and are in particularly attractive settings. There are at present 15 summer homes on such land both north and south of Twin Falls.

15 Areas for Them

There are 15 summer home areas, some of which have had homes on them for many years. Some of them are filled to capacity. There are four such areas: Jarvis, 50 recent lots which may be obtained by individuals as sites for summer homes.

"These areas are widely scattered all the way from the hills south of Twin Falls to the Sawtooth valley country on the headwaters of the Salmon river. Some are in the Big Smoky area and several are on Wood River north of Ketchikan.

The area most recently set aside for this purpose is in Sawtooth valley and lies between Alturas, lake and Pettit lake. It is a beautiful area within itself with a fast-flowing mountain stream running through it. The home sites are located in the fringe of the timber and look out upon a mountain meadow which is at times covered with wild flowers.

View is Majestic

From this area one can look out upon the Sawtooth peaks to the west and north and to the majestic White Cloud mountains to the east. This scene has been described by many as simply being "out of this world."

These areas have been set up for summer home occupancy under the national forest principle of multiple use. In order to be considered suitable for such use the area must be somewhat isolated from other types of use. A safe water supply must be available or at least a water supply which can easily be made safe for domestic use. Such areas are usually scenic in themselves and also have a distant scenic view of mountains, rivers or lakes.

Opportunity to Relax

All of this is intended to give the owner of a summer home the opportunity to rest and relax in surroundings which are quiet and beautiful to look upon. You usually have a place where children can play and find the minimum of hazards. Each area is divided into lots which average about one-half acre in size. A generous scattering of timber separates each home from the others. This gives, to some extent, a feeling of privacy and isolation. The corners of the lots are permanently marked so that one will always know the boundaries of his own lot.

When the lots are established the location of the proposed home is marked on the ground, indicating which way the house is to face. This is done with the thought of taking advantage of the best view from the house and also to avoid conflicts between adjoining home owners by having one home in the back yard of another. With this sort of planning it is seldom found desirable by the home owner to fence his lot. A fence seems to detract from the natural beauty of the place and rarely serves any practical purpose.

Procedure Noted

While I am not in the business of advertising these lots all I might say, would anyone like to have one and build a cabin upon it? The first thing to do is to select the locality where you would like to have such a home. Next you should visit the summer home area in that locality. If you are pleading you can select the lot which suits you best. If any help is needed in doing these things you may always get assistance from the local forest officer.

After a lot has been selected then one should go to the forest supervisor for the lot. The supervisor is located at the forest supervisor in Twin Falls and make formal application for the lot. Upon payment of the fee for one year you will receive the exclusive right of use of the lot for the purpose of building a cabin upon it and using it thereafter.

Plan Copy Required

After one has a permit and before construction of the house can start he is required to submit to the forest supervisor a plan of the proposed building showing the floor plan, a front elevation, a side elevation and a cross-section. The plan should show types of materials to be used all dimensions and layout of the structure. It should also show complete specifications of construction, covering materials and finish.

These plans can be approved quickly and upon receiving such approval one is ready to build.

There are a few good reasons for having the plans approved before construction is begun. Many people are unaware of the need to have their homes built to withstand the heavy load of snow which accumulates upon them each winter. The buildings should be set high enough above grade level to allow drainage away from them during the heavy runoff of water in the early spring.

It should also be noted that the buildings should meet other provisions for sanitation and should meet the state laws and the requirements of the U. S. public health service. By doing these things one protects his home from damage when fire is not there. He also protects the health of himself and family and makes sure that his improvements will not constitute a hazard to other home owners of the area. Such planning seems to be good insurance for all involved.

It should not be interpreted from any of these requirements that all homes on a given area must be built to look alike. There is ample room for the selection of materials to be used and types of construction to meet one's individual taste. One is not required to build a large home or to spend any certain amount of money in doing so.

Ideal Place to "Hill"

When one has completed such a home, even though it is not an elaborate one, he and his family have an ideal place to which they can retreat for week-ends or other times and get away from the strain and the tensions of modern-day living. It gives a family an excellent opportunity to get away where they can really live with and for each other in a manner which is so often denied so many in this fast and sometimes frenzied life we live today.

The above described summer homes are the ones which many have thought of and accepted as the only ones to be had. There is, however, another kind of summer home which is coming into use at a rapid rate. This is the trailer house or the mobile home. For years these have been used in the south as winter homes.

Loser of Rock-Lifting Contest Five Years Ago Is Olympic Contender Now

Jerry Englebert, Jerome, poses with a few of the trophies and medals he has won in various weightlifting contests across the nation. Englebert shattered long-standing records in the 108-pound class at the Salt Lake City Invitational meet in February. He has lifted a total of 350 pounds in the three events in a weightlifting match. Englebert estimates that if he can total 1,000 pounds by 1964 he may have a chance to make the Olympic team. (Staff photo—engraving) is a stepping stone to every sport there is, if it is used properly."

He explains that each sport uses a different set of muscle groups and that the athlete can develop the desired muscle groups by weightlifting.

Currently Englebert has his eye on a berth on a future U.S. Olympic weightlifting team. According to his records in various matches throughout the country, Englebert is not too far from that objective.

He modestly says, he has no chance of attaining in the 1960 team, but he is definitely fighting for the 1964 team.

Englebert is currently lifting a weight problem. But he not like most persons, he wants to gain weight in the multiple use of the wild lands which belong to all of us.

Weight Gained Fast

When he first started in competition he lifted in the 140-pound class, but he soon weighed too much for that class. Now, although he weighs 300, he must compete in the 108-pound class. This forces him to compete with heavier men. A few pounds make a lot of difference.

He estimates if he can get up to 100, he can add 20 or 40 pounds on his total poundage lift in the three events.

By 1965 pounds in the three events, but in order to be a strong contender for the Olympic team you've got to total about 1,000 pounds.

"I've roughed, got about 150 pounds to go," he adds.

Englebert is working on his father's farm and training without the benefit of a coach. He regrets the lack of a good coach.

"You never get so good you can't learn," he says.

He works out three days a week, for about three or four hours each session.

He explains the intervening days give the body time to build up from the workout sessions.

Won in Service

While he was in the service — he was just released last fall — he won and placed high in several notable contests.

He won the 108-pound class in the Lower Peninsula, Tidewater AAU championships at Ft. Lee, Va. in February, 1957. Last fall he won the Central California AAU weightlifting championships at Modesto, Calif. At that contest he competed in the 108-pound class.

Now Englebert is looking forward to the Pacific Coast AAU championships. They will be held May 15 and 16 in Portland.

He looks second in that respect.

"After that meet there will be more and eventually, maybe, the Olympic meet. If I get in and sincerely am an important part of a weightlifting training program, Englebert will make it.

Incidentally, Englebert has another hobby in addition to his weightlifting — he ties trout flies.

Wendell to Seat New PTA Heads

WENDELL, April 11—New officers of the Wendell PTA will be installed April 23, Mrs. Glen Anderson, president, reported at a meeting of the executive board this week at the high school library.

A file sale will follow the regular meeting April 29 at the grade school. Mrs. Harry Smith and Mrs. Frank Jeffries will be in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Claude Mull, room representative chairman, and Mrs. Earl Schrenk, assisted by Mrs. Dale Gilbert, Mrs. Everett Cox and Louise Peterson will contact all mothers in grade, junior high and high school concerning the file sale. Mrs. Walter Rasmussen will make posters to advertise the meeting.

A film on civil defense will be shown by Larry Roe, Gooding county civil defense director. Refreshments will be served.

Firm Gets Area Distributorship

WENDELL, April 11—Wendell Gas and Oil company, managed by Nolan G. Cooper, was appointed county-wide distributor for Union Oil company products, it was announced today by Union Oil officials.

Cooper, who has been a resident of Wendell for the past 10 years, came to Wendell from the Eden area where he had resided for 20 years. He has been operating the new station on North Idaho street for the past six months.

In addition to the oil distributorship for the county of Gooding, Cooper says he will have mechanics on duty 14 hours daily.

Mechanics and attendants for the new station are Elmer Lowry and Bill Chaplin, both residents of Wendell.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Cooper and their four children reside at 225 First avenue east.

T.F. Library, Now 50 Years Old, Had Unusual Formative Era in Early Days

covered in the basement of the Bedford drug store. There were confiscated by the enter library builders, placed in the reading rooms, and the library was formed.

Mrs. Weaver notes there was no time for anything in those days but work, and she adds that the town had a great many persons who were interested in the formation of a library.

A charter for the library was formed in 1908 and officially adopted in 1909. In August, 1909, the first formal purchase of books was made.

Women as Librarians

Until the fall of 1909, women of the committee had served as librarians. At that time they hired P. B. Hinshel as full-time librarian. For his services he was paid $25 per month.

In 1912 the library became a city department and the city council assumed full responsibility for maintenance of the library. The first budget allotted the library was $1,200. The budget, itself, is an indication of growth. Last year the library received $26,500.

Library Moved Around

In its foundation days the library moved from one location to another. From 1910 to 1913 it moved three times, each time to larger quarters to accommodate the growing collection.

Arthur L. DeVolder, librarian in an article in the Idaho Librarian, official publication of the Idaho State Librarian, notes, "The library collection had grown from 150 books in 1909 to 2,900 volumes in 1913, partially because of the generous donations of books received from the Peter and Pooler Memorial collections comprising nearly 1,000 items."

DeVolder tells of the early librarians, "Miss Helen Dickson of Chicago, a graduate librarian, replaced Mrs. Rogers in late 1911 and served as librarian until her resignation in July, 1915.

"She did much to help the growth of the library. She was replaced by Miss Jessie Fraser, a graduate of Iowa State college and the Riverside Calif. School of Library Science in August, 1915.

"Miss Fraser came to Twin Falls from Salt Lake City and her name was linked to the institution for the next 31 years.

Active in Events

"A charter member of the Business and Professional Women's club, she participated in library activities in the local, state, regional and national levels. She died in 1947.

In his article DeVolder notes, "An interesting highlight in the library's history is its attempt to obtain a $20,000 grant from the Carnegie foundation for a library.

"However, the library board was notified that it would have to guarantee a minimum of $2,000 a year for maintenance of the building as well as ownership of the site and expense money for operation.

"On March 15, 1915, a note from Mrs. Burton E. Morse to the city council indicated that it was hoped to receive $20,000 from the foundation if the support could come from the city in purchasing a site and providing for maintenance and operational funds.

Mrs. Morse's plan in 1915

"In May, 1915, money was granted to purchase the present site from L. I. Bennett; but mutual understandings between the city officials, the library board and the Carnegie foundation led to withdrawal of the offer of aid from the foundation and plans were terminated in 1917.

DeVolder notes that the library hired an assistant for Miss Fraser in 1920. The student, Edith Dyer, was in charge of the children's program and worked with Miss Fraser in programming book weeks, library days, story hours and many activities still in progress.

He adds that Miss Dyer, although she is now working part-time, still plays an important role in the library's activities.

In 1920 a mass meeting was held to find larger quarters for the library. The result of the meeting was that the library moved to the Elks building.

But the move became complicated, DeVolder notes, "On this occasion the path was not so smooth in moving to the new location as it took a court suit to settle whether or not the library board was authorized to rent space from the Elks lodge when members of the board were also members of the lodge and they would benefit indirectly.

Became Supporter

"The instigator of the suit, Mr. O. A. Brewster, lost the case, but in years to come became an ardent library supporter and upon his death left a bequest which aided in furnishing part of the new building after 1929."

According to DeVolder the "Twentieth Century Club" spearheaded another drive for a library building.

His funds were hard to raise and it was not until 1927 when the possibility of obtaining PWA funds on a matching basis revived interest and enthusiasm in the project.

He says, "Plans were immediately developed and by July, 1928, the library board was able to meet the terms of the grant.

Bond Issue Okayed

"In September, 1928, the residents of Twin Falls voted for $27,500 bond issue for the purpose of building a new library at the city-owned site at Beacon street and Fifth avenue east which had been purchased in 1915.

"Plans for this 80-by-65-foot building were designed by Andrew McQuaker. Combined with the public works administration it cost $22,500 the construction of the $25,000 library was Nov. 2, 1929.

A year later, on Nov. 2, 1930, the building was dedicated.

DeVolder adds, "The library was

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

William L. Eames, One of Almo's Civic Leaders, Still Is Active at 93 Years

ALMO, April 11 — One of the most active residents of this community is William L. Eames, who has been postmaster, justice of the peace, library public and collector as well as serving on the school board and taking an active part in the LDS church.

He recently observed his 93rd birthday anniversary.

Still active, Eames mows the lawn and cares for his chickens. He always has a pile of kindling wood chopped and his relatives say they find it odd to see him with all the wood he can cut.

Born in Utah

He was born in Plain City, Utah, where his parents, who were LDS converts, had immigrated from England. Young Eames started out to "seek his fortune" at the age of 12 by doing chores and herding cows for a neighbor. He was paid with a double-barreled shotgun, which was highly prized by the new owner.

However, misfortune soon caused him to part with his prized possession. On a hunting trip with a neighbor boy, an old army mucker, his companion was using discharged in his hands, hitting Eames in the leg. He was up bed nearly all that summer with infection. Since he had no money to pay the old army doctor who cared for him, the mucker took the shotgun for a ransom.

Started Work at 15

When Eames was 15 he went to work in a brickyard, and in 1883 he first came to Almo with a hunting party. A brother, Harry Eames, took Eames's rights on land on Edwards creek and the next spring, Eames and his brother-in-law, John Eames, and the latter's family settled here, living in a wagon box for a house.

The next year he returned to Plain City to help his mother who later moved to Almo, settling on Edwards creek.

Eames worked for his brother, Eames and freight producer to Ferris, Utah, on the Southern Railway. He later moved south of Almo. They furnished butter, eggs, potatoes and other products to the railroad for hotels and machine shops which were located there then.

In 1893, Eames and two brothers, Harry and Robert, purchased an small store in Almo where they, Ansel E. Ward, now stands. Eames has been in the mercantile and ranching business most of his life.

Active Republican

An active Republican, Eames has served as commissioner for the Almo precinct many years. He was trustee for the local school district for 11 years at different times, and recalls when the first brick school house was built. Eames also was on the board in 1918 when the three school districts here were consolidated and the new schoolhouse built.

One of his hobbies has been music and he played in the brass band in his home town at the age of 12. He was on a committee appointed to purchase a set of band instruments in Almo, and recalls the three members of the group appointed by the ward as officials for the instruments. The investment paid off, however, for giving concerts, and playing at dances and dramatic events, the instruments were paid for in six months.

Sunday School Workers

Eames sang bass in the choir and "gave" club of the Almo LDS ward. A sports enthusiast in his younger days, Eames played baseball, fishing and hunted. He also was an expert swimmer, credited with saving the lives of three boys by swimming and pulling their feisty boat to shore in a branch of the Vetter river.

He has served as secretary of the Sunday school here for 15 years and in the MIA presidency, as well as being a Sunday school teacher, ward teacher and home missionary.

During World war II he was truly a building that had been obtained through "sweat and tears" because it was a hard-earned job for all the cooperating townspeople over a 30-year period to obtain the structure.

"And, ironically enough, it was the bequest of a retired carpenter, who once carried out the court his objection to quarantining the library in the Elks building and who also fought the selection of the present library site who left $3,544.04 to the library for improvement.

Since World War II there have been many physical and service additions to the library. In the mid-40s the separate reading and reading nook was established, and the children's room was opened as a separate juvenile department in 1952.

Record Collection Started

In 1954 the library, in conjunction with the Twin Falls Music club, started the record collection. Now there is a collection of about 200 adult and juvenile records.

There has been constant addition to the shelving and display cases. The youth and research room will be dedicated Wednesday.

Currently, DeVolder is planning the library's future. He says, "Plans for the library's future include the expansion of the collection by building a helioptic in the non-fictional book stack area; more shelving better lighting, increased use of audio and visual aids including microfilm, increasing reference services and study of city and county cooperation for expanded services.

"Other plans include a center in the lower corridors of the library to display the artifacts of the region, art work of local artists and articles and as a center for other types of cultural displays."

Sums up Role

Summing up the role of a library, DeVolder says, "Today's library with its 28,000 volumes and its record, picture and pamphlet collections is a living proof of what civic pride can bring about. The present library with its enrollment of over 12,000 patrons has an average circulation of 180,000 volumes a year and a 26-day circulation. It is an important part of the community for it disseminates a wide range of information, old and new."

The library has come a long way since the days of the Sheel-ham place and the Boston baked beans.

Cow Elk 'Cooperates' With Wildlife Program

Plastic ear-tags of various colors are used for marking and identification purposes on elk, deer and antelope as one of multi-phase wildlife restoration and management program in Idaho. This cow elk, along with hundreds of others of both sexes, has been live-trapped in huge circular stockade-type traps during winter when range feed is short and man-cured hay becomes a real tid-bit. At one end of the trap enclosure are catching corrals and heavy-timbered chutes into which the game animals are crowded for ear-tagging, and in years past, sometimes for leading into trucks for transshipping to other ranges where new herds are desired by fish and game department. (Fish and game department photo-staff engraving) tained more liberal provisions with respect to approving strictly management projects for game lands. The P-R law was amended to permit the spending of as much as 20 per cent of the appropriation for management purposes.

Under P-R legislation, revenue comes from the excise tax paid by arms and ammunition manufacturers, and under D-3 the funds are collected in much the same manner from taxes on fishing jobs, creels, rods, artificial lures, baits and flies.

Parment Limited
Payment of federal funds may be made only to the fish and game department in Idaho, or, as in some other states, the authority invested in the law to wildlife conservation functions. Under these provisions, the state agency makes all payments for lands, labor and other expenses. It then receives its proper pro-rata share of project costs from the federal treasury. In Idaho no contracts can be made between the department of interior and any contractor or party other than the state department of fish and game.

All areas acquired under these acts become the property of the respective states and are maintained and administered by them under state laws.

All structures built and all equipment purchased with these cooperative funds likewise become state property.

Examples of what has been done in Idaho with the newly four million dollars of federal aid money received under provisions of the two laws follow:

1. Land acquisition and transplanting of big game animals such as elk, deer and antelope.
2. Land acquisition for rehabilitation of wildlife and development purposes to make areas suitable for birds and animals. The Management and Sand Creek management areas perhaps are foremost among a score of more similar projects in Idaho.
3. Many investigative projects have been conducted to determine wildlife problems related to game management.

Belt-Tightening Predicted for Idaho Programs on Restoration of Wildlife

by JIM HUMBOLD

As all over the nation as well as in Idaho year by year.

But dedicated federal funds for wildlife restoration is another matter. A backlog of 13 million dollars, for example, which accrued under the P-R act during World War II when manpower and material shortages created bottlenecks, now is exhausted and by 1960 there may be another substantial drop.

And a recent news item states that when Alaska was admitted as the 49th state, its federal aid allotment for fish and wildlife programs jumped from $10,000 to one million dollars, thereby reducing funds available to all other states by about four per cent, that apparently is the maximum amount available to Alaska. The law specifies that more shall receive less than one-half of one per cent, not more than five per cent of the total appropriated to all the states.

Area, Hunter Basis
After making deductions for administering the net and for the conduct of work in the territories, appropriations of funds are made in the ratio of area each state bears to the total square miles of the country, and the ratio of hunting license holders in the state compared to all Americans.

Almost three and one-half million dollars of P-R funds have been spent or encumbered in Idaho since 1923 to help check the depletion of wildlife resources and to stimulate restoration to desired levels. In addition, about $600,000 more federal money has been spent under the Dingell-Johnson act in Idaho since 1922 on fisheries restoration and management projects.

Funds Encroached
These federal monies are specifically earmarked as to how they can be spent and the projects most likely to be reimbursed. Foremost among these requirements is that the state shall have passed a law prohibiting the diversion of fish and game department funds to finance the many activities of management programs.

Prior to passage of the P-R act, income from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses represented practically the only revenue available to finance the many activities of the Idaho department. Lack of adequate funds in the past prevented the conducting of much-needed restoration work.

Consequently, the federal-aid funds were made available to the states for undertaking cooperative programs for increasing wildlife populations, obtaining information through field studies for improving the management of wildlife and fish to be harvested by hunters, trappers and fishermen.

With the passage of the D-3 or P-R act, which cen-

Under Pittman-Robertson federal aid program, state fish and game department is reimbursed for wildlife restoration, game management, research and land acquisition projects. ### Dollhouse Display Symbolizes History of Club Here

Mrs. V. M. Patrick, a member of the Magic Toastmistress club, points out one of the rooms in the dollhouse display members devised to illustrate the club's activities at a club contest to be held in Twin Falls May 12. The contest will be entered by 15 clubs that will display scrapbooks, bulletin boards or whatever they choose to illustrate club history. The Magic Toastmistress club members built the dollhouse and filled it with figures to symbolize the club's activities since its inception in December. (Staff photo-engraving)

New Toastmistress Club Using Novel Display in Contest Slated for Council

In an effort to win a contest the council contest will go on to the regional contest in Helena, Mont. The international contest will be held in Minneapolis, Minn., in July.

Most of the clubs will exhibit displays denoting activities for a full year, but the Magic Toastmistress club was formed only last December, so it will present a six-month schedule of activities.

That this year's international enthusiasm of members.

Members have constructed a little dollhouse to illustrate their brief, but active history. There are four rooms. Each room, and its decoration and furnishings, illustrate a phase in the club's history. There is an Aladdin doll placed by the first room to take the viewer through the journey to the four rooms.

The rooms are entitled Magic carpet number one, two, three and four. Between each room is a display area for displaying highlights through the journey to the four rooms.

The second goal noted, "Creativeness," hangs on the wall of this room. Magic Journey number three, with its goal of "Confidence" hanging on the wall, portrays the person that all members pass through when they must give their "ice-breaker" speech. This is their first speech.

This is portrayed by a small doll-like figure sitting a malt at a small chank of ice.

Room is started.

This room also is staffed with a judge of the speech, a timer, a line pencil and a photograph of the group at one of its meetings—all vital individuals and items in the "day-by-day" activities of the club.

A person making a tour of the small exhibit, on his way to the final room, passes a small trash can containing small notes symbolizing negative traits toastmistresses have discarded as they have improved as speakers.

Trails Are Laid

The trails are intricately complex, puzzling, poor sportsmanship, grammatical errors, stomp, worry, fear and being tongue-tied.

The final room, Magic Journey number four, is the last room. Its goal is "communication." On the floor of the room are miniature bases, packed and ready to go. This symbolizes the lives of the members that their exhibit will win a trip to the regional and international contests.

WEEDS?

spray WEED-B-GON - kill lawn weeds, roots 'n all!

Use the ORTHO Lawn Sprayer and simply spray lawn weeds away! Or use an ordinary sprinkling can. It's the easy way to wipe out oxalis, plantain, dandelion, chickweed, dock, thistle, wild onion...even poison oak and poison ivy. What's more, weeds don't grow back once they're killed with WEED-B-GON. Most die from the roots up with just one application.

Wendell Area Grange Holds Special Meet

WENDELL, April 11 — More than 60 members attended the regular exchange program Tuesday evening at Wendell Grange No. 6.

Wendell Grange officers gave their opening drill week followed by drill work, by West Point Grange No. 20. Officers from both Granges were seated at each station.

Ben Guilford, Wendell Grange master, introduced Elmer Hansen, West Point master, and Marvin Lowry, master of Orchard Valley Grange.

Orchard Valley Grange, with Mrs. Keith Wert as lecturer, was in charge of the program which featured the history of Orchard Valley Grange in the form of a history lesson with Mrs. Harold Eales as teacher.

Others taking part were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Strickland, Mrs. Keith Wert, John Wert, Willard Wert, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lowry, Mrs. M. A. McCloud, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eales, Mrs. John Wert, Mrs. Florina Schmidt and Harold Eales.

The musical part of the program included a piano solo by Fagnia Wert; accordion solo, Faye Lowry; steel guitar, Dee Lowry; old time fiddle, Patricia and Phil Wert; and guitar and accordion duet, Faye and Dee Lowry.

Four ten officers for Wendell were C. T. Crow, overseer; Mrs. J. Slickle, chaplain; and Mrs. Fenton Hoy, Postmistress.

Master Guilford reported the work on the Grange building is progressing rapidly. Mrs.

Portland Family Just Disappeared on Sunday Drive "up River" Last Dec. 8

Highway" means to many people up the highway which skirts the Columbia river and leads to spectacular mountains and gorgeous scenery.

Did the Martins literally mean up the highway? Or did they simply mean riding out into the country?

Mrs. Welch called and extended the dinner invitation to the Martins. As it was a surprise party, Martin noted to Mrs. Evans that his wife had had a bout of the flu and setting out would be a good change for her.

The Blakes left some time after 1 p.m., the Martins got into their 1954 stationwagon and drove off. Somebody saw them leave.

Some time later in the afternoon, Dan Baxter, who runs a gas station at Cascade Locks, 42 miles up the Columbia river highway east of Portland, sold five gallons of "regular" on a credit card signed by Martin.

Later in the afternoon, a "hollie" Ken Hove announced the benefit dinner for the Idaho Parson for Youth to be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Ray Ruby, home economics chairman, reported 19 dinners served Monday evening for the home and their partners.

Wendell Grange officers will fill the chairs at West Point Grange April 17. Hasegawa Grange will present the program.

Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hashman, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ruby, Mr. and Mrs. John Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Johnson.

where a car might skid into a canyon.

That left two principal possibilities: A slide into a canyon or into the Columbia river, which is deep and swift beside the highway, or foul play. There was no clue suggesting one over the other.

Early in February, a spot of red paint was seen on a rock on the Washington side of the Columbia river above a deep, undercut. Could the Martin car have hit the rock and bounded over a cliff into the river?

The paint was scraped and sent to a laboratory in Washington for analysis. It was not fast paint.

That, say police, was the last real clue.

And four months later, in the house at 135 Northwest 56th avenue, the Sunday breakfast dishes remain in the drawer and the comics lay scattered in the attic.

People who know Ken Martin say he did not enjoy driving at night, and would not have driven after dark on one of the side roads.
