He'll Sell Items Made by Handicapped

Products of Disabled People To Be Sold All During Year

Door-to-door selling of Live, Inc. products on 12-month basis will begin in Twin Falls Monday, being the one-night drive held early by local Lions club members. For several years Lions clubs all over the state have sponsored year-long one-night selling campaigns on door-to-door basis, making houses to purchase brooms, mats and items made by disabled individuals. Live, Inc. headquarters in Boise, beginning Monday, Charles Ward, Twin Falls, will sell Live, Inc. products every day. Ward himself is handicapped, his eyesight being severely limited. Live, Inc., founded in 1919 as a state-wide, non-profit organization, designed to employ the handicapped, offers opportunities of severely disabled persons. The corporation operates a diagnostic evaluation and treatment center in conjunction with a sheltered workshop. The organization's primary function is placement of severely disabled individuals in the competitive labor market. The center attempts to evaluate the total individual and provide services required to aid him in returning to a normal way of life. Those who cannot be placed in business or industry are provided sheltered employment and are paid a piece work rate. E. E. Jellison, Twin Falls, Live, Inc. director, says, "It is our philosophy that all disabled persons be employable if given the necessary services and the proper job opportunities." At present, Jellison says, the center employs about 20 individuals. Attempting to sell Live, Inc. products with single-night campaigns throughout the state has not resulted in enough volume to keep everyone at the center working full-time all through the year. Efforts by Lions clubs in Idaho through the year with single-night campaigns have been beneficial. Officials feel now that, if individuals in various communities throughout the state could make sales all during the year, more Live, Inc. products could be sold and more disabled persons employed. More sales in Magic Valley also will mean an opportunity for Ward to make a living in the area. Presently, Jellison points out, profits from sale of the corporation's products have been returned to Idaho. From now on, however, Ward will retain the profits as salary. Items manufactured in the sheltered workshop include survey grade stakes used in highway work throughout the state, wooden plant hobbles, bow cists, household and custom rubber door mats and colorful, hand-woven three-rings.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLING POT SHOTS

WASHINGTON—The American military and political position in the Far East from Seoul to Singapore has steadily deteriorated in recent months, although all is quiet on the Korean peninsula.

The current excitement and diversion over the Berlin crisis obscure the fact that this vital line is being steadily eroded by the American military and financial assistance sustains two aged heads of state, King and Queen, and the Emperor and Empress. But the people are not happy under the semi-feudal rule of King and Queen, and the Emperor and Empress. There is a strong popular and political movement in both Korea and Manchuria, and in Washington entirely satisfied with their performance, and must continue to restrain them.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—If Vice President Nixon is concerned by the growing speculation that he may be the next presidential nominee, he should be very busy.

Mr. Rockefeller's nomination near the end of the year would be the least likely of his chances. Every impression of a man so recently elected to the presidency would be that he is not the man to lead the nation.

There is good reason why this should be the case. The vice president is not the man to lead the nation. He is not the man to lead the nation. He is not the man to lead the nation.

McLemore Considers Visits To Pentagon as "Physical"

BY HENRY McLEMORE

Whenever possible, I always visit Washington in April.

I do not come to the nation's capital to lobby with statements or to see the cherry blossoms.

I come for a physical checkup. The very best way I know to find out what shape you are in physically and mentally, is to make an appointment with someone whose office is in the Pentagon and then try to find them.

But there is an unwritten law that calls for a visitor to the Pentagon, no matter how high he is, to answer a question or two before he is allowed to see the chief of staff.

It made me happy to be able to find General Ely's office to answer a question or two before he is allowed to see the chief of staff.

MAGIC VALLEY'S OPPORTUNITY

Judging from the attendance at a meeting in Wendell last Thursday evening, there is considerable interest in reactivating the Niagara-Crystal springs recreational area project.

Approximately 45 representatives of Chambers of Commerce, farm organizations, fish and game associations and the like were in attendance at the meeting. The Snake river canyon expressed enthusiastic support of renewed efforts to get the project under way as quickly as possible.

Plans for developing the Niagara-Crystal springs recreational area were brought to a final conclusion several years ago when a development company sought to harness these waters for a proposed irrigation project.

Now that it appears unlikely these waters will be put to such use by the company, as was explained at the Wendell meeting, the Wendell Chamber of Commerce has adopted reactivation of the recreational project as its main objective. In this move, the Wendell Chamber of Commerce has the support of Northside Communities, Inc., composed of towns on the north side of the river. The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and other south side organizations also will join in supporting the project.

Developing the outstanding natural attractions in Magic Valley is not a new idea by any means. It has been suggested many times in the past as a great potential for the enjoyment of the people of Magic Valley and Idaho generally, but as a rich resource from the standpoint of tourist traffic.

It has been pointed out repeatedly that the tourist business could easily become Idaho's greatest industry because there is no state in the nation more generously blessed with natural scenic attractions.

Our new state department of commerce and development is attaching more and more importance to tourist trade and with the additional funds the Magic Valley has received from the national government should not overlook this big opportunity.

There is no question the Niagara-Crystal springs area would be a good place to start the major over-all development of Magic Valley's many attractions, because it is one of the most spectacular points of interest.

While we are concentrating on the development of Niagara and Crystal springs, however, we also should take advantage of every opportunity to make the most of those attractions already easily accessible.

By a valley-wide system of standardized directional signs at all these accessible points of interest, we could be paving the way for increased tourist traffic.

The improvement of the roads to these attractions, the building of lookout points and protective fences would be a long-range project, the eventual development of which would probably result in the increase in tourist traffic, with all communities, highway districts, the state highway department and the department of commerce and development cooperating.

Fortunately, all of Magic Valley could benefit from such combined cooperation because outstanding attractions are scattered throughout the area. The Cities of Rock near Oakley and north of Gooding, Sun Valley in the Hatley and Ketchum country, the hot springs near Arco, the Thousand Springs in the Hagerman vicinity and the many attractions along Snake river canyon are examples suggesting the extent to which one of the greatest tourist areas in the United States is being developed.

Fortunately, also, these many exceptional attractions are made available to us by nature, to remain intact for all time if we have the foresight to protect them from encroachment. We need only to provide supervision and maintenance at the points of interest and the necessary facilities for the public's convenience and protection.

Here is one undertaking in which all of Magic Valley should be interested for its common good. The interest now being shown in the development of Niagara and Crystal springs as a recreational area is the indication that it's a good place to start.

How enthusiastically all Magic Valley joins in getting this project under way, both from the standpoint of immediate accomplishment of all those things which can be done now with a minimum of expense and aid from the viewpoint of long range planning, will determine whether we are ready for the greatest opportunity now before us.

It is gratifying to note there already appears to be much agreement on the wisdom of such an ambitious project. Let's hope this feeling becomes so widespread that we'll soon be seeing the results that can only come from renewed and combined enthusiasm.

Some men have no secrets from their wives—they've either confessed or been found out.

AMERICAN OCCUPATION IRRITATES NATIVES

On Okinawa, our far Pacific Gibraltar, the natives had tens of thousands of acres of arable land that were being used for growing rice and other crops. In fact, the occupation of so many fields and farms by a foreign power is the basic cause of the present-day discontent of Americans around the world.

Indeed, Britain over seemingly permanent Allied occupation of the island of Okinawa, one of our most friendly countries, from Britain to South Korea.

A Japanese court has held that establishment of U. S. bases, military installations and the presence of American troops is illegal under the MacArthur Peace Treaty and the Japanese Constitution.

It is expected that a higher court will reverse this verdict. Nevertheless, the adverse effect undoubtedly will be felt in the minds of the Japanese industrial interests, and of the anti-United States in the diet.

OBJECTION TO U. S. FOREIGN POLICY—These groups also object to the obstacles which American foreign policy has caused in the way of trade with Communist China and Russia.

They also object to the American policy of re-establish the pre-war system under which they exchanged manufactured goods for raw materials from the United States.

But Southeast Asia represents the most serious threat to our peace and stability. The area is a hotbed of economic power and influence. Despite all the official and diplomatic praise of the SEATO alliance, it is only a facade for the American expert who sees that the U. S. has the forces could take over the whole area as quickly as the Japanese overran it after Pearl Harbor.

RED CHINESE ECONOMIC GAINS CAUSE—The Chinese economy is being rapidly developed by the Communist government, especially in view of what has been done in the past.

Two factors increase the danger of a communist take-over by subversion, infiltration or actual war.

Since the British and French pulled out of Southeast Asia, it has become a political vacuum. There is no stable government anywhere with the possible exception of the United States, which is the only member of SEATO.

The people do not understand such terms as freedom, democracy, or republicanism. They are being misled by these western blessings. As Prime Minister Nehru said, "It is not the people who are misled, but the world's population—understand it food. And if communism can fill their stomachs, even though it empties their minds and souls, communism may conquer."

VIEWERS OF OTHERS

One thing the weather bureau has spunk that agency, no longer content with keeping track of such things as temperature, humidity, wind and so on, it has begun to look out for the comfort of its viewers.

The higher the figure, the greater the discomfort of summer, with 75 being the figure that will likely indicate the most comfortable. At 75, the temperature will be 75, the humidity 10. It will also register 75 when the temperature is 85, humidity 20, it's pretty comfortable.

Several things are wrong with the whole idea. First, it is difficult right now to imagine anybody's being uncomfortable at summer weather. We'll put it up, no matter what the index says, it's not to us now in March. Second, one man's discomfort is another man's glory. Some like it hot, some like it cold.

The greatest discomfort cannot be measured by index. It is in the mind. We speak now of that most uncomfortable of summer experiences—looking out the window at a cobalt sky and green grass and leafy trees. That when the mind shifts from the track of work on the desk toward a golf course, a walk on Fall Creek, a high mountain meadow at the foot of a snow-capped, or a sunbathed strip of life-filled sand. That's a kind of wonderful discomfort that the weather bureau will never be able to measure.—Eugene Register-Guard.

READY TO RASSLE

Well, the day has arrived! The weather is no longer as hot as our money. Now it's our blood, as well, they are taking for.

Oh, sure, this time it is only a small sample of the farmers for the good purpose of studying an obscure bug that associates with cows and people, having no effect on cows and relatively minor effect on people.

How long until they attach a special container to our income tax forms with instructions for counting our copious and enclosing in attached container all except a bare minimum needed for survival? They can't do it? Wagon bet?

I'll hand over the money grudgingly—very grudgingly—but, they will be getting me to get a single drop of it.

Major potatoes are being imported into Idaho! Yep, that's right. Actually, they're seed potatoes, but spuds, nevertheless. Four cartons of them are being shipped from Aroostook county, Maine, about 10 days ago, but we don't know the point of arrival in Idaho.

The source of this information is a copy of the Fort Falls Review for April. The seed spuds are called "Rural Russets."

Lincoln PTA Seats Heads, Hears Report

RUPERT, April 18—Mrs. Darrell Smith was elected for a second year as president of the Lincoln PTA at a meeting held Tuesday night and a report on the school building needs was presented.

Officers elected to serve for the next year are Mrs. Roy Hansen, president; Mrs. Leola Lehto, first vice president; Mrs. Leola Lehto, second vice president; Mrs. Edna McHardy, secretary; and Mrs. Edna McHardy, treasurer.

They gave recommendations for the improvement of the school building at each of the schools.

The group felt the district should ask for a bond for the maximum amount of $900,000. They felt Meyer reports that with this amount, the present school could be improved and still leave sufficient funds to build a new building to take care of the needs for a long period.

Meyer said that an additional $200,000 is expected for the next five or six years.

Proposed remodeling for the Lincoln school included complete renovation of four classrooms, sidewalks and gutters to the building, at an estimated cost of $75,000.

Washington school would need new auditorium seats, including new stairs and curtains, and new lockers.

Reflooring of two classrooms and repairs to the outside of the building were also needed.

Meyer also pointed out these suggestions for improvements: landscaping and backdropping of playgrounds. There were other lesser suggestions.

Needs suggested for the Paul school included a new kitchen and lunchroom, and remodeling of basement rooms now used for three classes.

The need for a central storage plant for the hot lunch shop was discussed, and the board felt the addition of a metal working shop at the high school would be good.

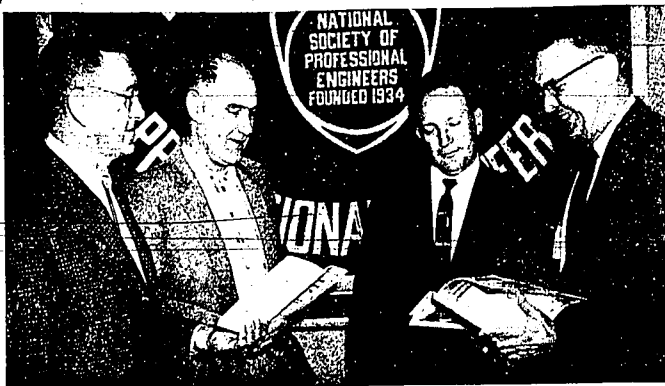

It could be housed in the present agriculture shop rooms, with new quarters constructed for the agricultural classes.

Meyer pointed out that the agriculture class at Mission is the largest in the state. In addition to these suggestions, it was felt that there is a need for a new school building at the high school to handle growing enrollment.

Mrs. Hatch introduced program numbers, including girls from the male department of the high school who received their letters in the recent music festival at Burley. Janice Williams and Sue Olson and a Miss Mrs. Sue Olson, Jane Gordon and Deanne Nielson, all sang. Susan Smith was accompanist.

APPLICATIONS TAKEN HANSENY, April 18—Members of the PTA hot lunch committee announced that applications for a bookkeeper-cashier for the hot lunch room for next year may be sent to Mrs. Guy Wilson, Box 14, Hanseny, before April 20.

Engineers Told Changes Set In Naming County Surveyor

The way has been paved for elimination of the elective position of county surveyor, state engineers were told Saturday at their state meeting in Twin Falls.

Passage of a bill by the 1950 legislature providing for a constitutional amendment for appointment of surveyors by county commissioners, and setting up qualifications, is expected to be followed.

Under the present law, the county surveyor must be a resident of the county. It was pointed out that many of Idaho's counties do not have qualified surveyors in residence.

Sumner Johnson, Nampa, state president, conducted the sessions attended by about 20 engineers from throughout the state.

Means of adopting public officials on procedures which should be followed in employing engineers and in acquiring engineering services formed a part of the afternoon discussion.

Noted in an active members of the association were James Higgins, Boise; William Lebar, Idaho Falls; Joseph Merrill, American Falls; and Howard Pilkington, Lewiston. Robert Gray, Boise, was admitted in the engineer training class.

Spot Improvements are Requested

Spot improvements are requested on 30 miles more of unimproved road westward from completed improvements on the Bonanza-Thurs creek road and southward from Castletief to Devil creek. Grades should be relieved, the most serious and gravel topped, added to facilitate winter travel, the program reads.

Continuing members say

Continuing members say, "It is not justifiable to demand that they make the long detour through Twin Falls for doubtful access into this country to the detriment of their purpose and convenience. The association is not content that this short-term program be deferred to accommodate a timid and fluctuating budget stretched out over several years."

The Salmon Falls creek crossing

The Salmon Falls creek crossing south of Castletief is "overdue for attention," association members believe. "This two and one-fourth miles canyon road lying half in the Bull district and half in the Twin Falls district is the crucial access link for the entire western half of the country into Bonanza, Three Creeks and the Jarbridge mountains," they continue.

Improvement of the crossing will

Improvement of the crossing will "virtually affect Bull, Castletief, Hagerman, Dixie, Gooding, Wendell and Little Lost River."

To association members, the Salmon Falls creek crossing, described as a "barrier and impediment to the crossing," represents a bar, "both real and psychological, to the development of the entire area to the south."

People are afraid of the Lilly grade, it is claimed.

Members also say the road is impassable for wide equipment adding, "As long as this grade continues to be neglected, just so long as the area south of it is condemned to isolation and economic depression."

The association contemplates the permanent improvement of the crossing to be of "greatest importance" urges both highway districts involved to collaborate in planning and budgeting the project.

The association's final point call for "more frequent and regular maintenance of existing roads.

The Bull district is "comparatively faithful" in draining its stretch of state roads, the association says, but the grade is "steep and heavily traveled so that the effects of eroding just only a few days." In contrast, it is claimed, "the Twin Falls district is negligent of its mileage." For example, it is said, the gravel and dirt highway from Salmon crossing south has not been serviced this year and is now quite rough.

It is recommended that the gravelled highway in both districts be serviced at least monthly from spring to winter and that the necessary roads to the highway be dragged two or three times as needed during the season.

The association also suggests that directors of the Bull and Twin Falls districts and other interested parties make known in writing to the association their views on a proposal to construct an improved road from Castletief westward beyond Balanced rock and then southward.

In addition to approving seven major recommendations for work during the next year, the members expressed unanimous appreciation of evidence that their needs are being recognized, conveying gratitude and sincere thanks to the Bull and Twin Falls district members for their cooperation and to our many friends for their unflinching support.

Members also stated they fully realize they cannot pre-empt the whole resources of the Bull and Twin Falls districts, even though the need for these roads is acute and their economic and social justification firmly established.

However, after deliberate consideration, we recommend to the districts as a basis upon which the proposition that our project merits a larger proportion of their attention, a mutually acceptable program for improvements and a generally higher standard of construction than they have heretofore been willing to give it.

The group reiterated the purpose of forming the association, "to concern itself with and to intervene in all matters pertaining to the achievement of highway and access roads required to open up and develop the approximate 400 square miles lying in the southeast part of the county."

The group also elected two additional directors, Maxine Querry, Jr., Castletief, who will remain as the association's secretary-treasurer, and Jeter Loughmiller, two other directors will be elected to

Don't Be Afraid to Use Color!

Color can work decorating magic for you! And the wonderful thing about it is that you don't have to be a magician to use it. The great beauty of nature that excites us is largely the beauty of color. Yellow is the color of the sun, of the flowers, of the intense heat—when modified it produces coy warmth, or exciting drama. Blue is peaceful—gives a restful effect. Green is the garment of growing things—is beautiful and alive. All other hues are the result of combinations of these basic colors.

When you plan your color scheme, determine first off what you have color in your room. Do you want to add or diminish light? Must it stimulate or relax? Add a sense of greater spaciousness to a small room, or contribute coziness to a large one? The answers to these and other questions will dictate which colors to use.

The simplest color scheme of all—the monochromatic scheme—was chosen for the room sketched above. Varying shades of beige have been used throughout. Beige walls are tinted with yellow to give the effect of sunlight in a room of northern exposure. Golden brown upholstery fabrics and the soft patina of the hand-rubbed wood finishes add richness. An interplay of textures keeps the room from being monotonous.

Earns Distinguished Flying Cross

Capt. Gail W. Poulton, left, 34-year-old native of Twin Falls, shakes hands with Maj. Gen. James H. Hitzges, Air Force academy superintendent, after Hitzges presented Poulton the distinguished flying cross for outstanding air rescue work in Colorado last year. Son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Poulton, former local resident, Captain Poulton also carried out rescue work during the Korean war and during disastrous flood floods near Denver. (Air force photo—staff engraving)

High Award Presented to T.F. Native For His Helicopter Rescue Missions

Helicopter rescue missions during last June and August by Capt. Gail W. Poulton, a native of Twin Falls, resulted recently in awarding the distinguished flying cross to the 34-year-old pilot.

Captain Poulton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Poulton, formerly of this area, was awarded the citation during a special ceremony held last month at the office of the superintendent of the Air Force academy, near Colorado Springs.

Presently assigned as a special assistant to the superintendent for public relations work, Poulton was able to complete an extraordinary number of rescue missions while participating in a special flight on June 29 and August 1, 1958, near Del Norte, Colo., and Evans, when he piloted helicopters on rescue missions above published maximum capabilities of the aircraft.

The citation continued, "His exceptional demonstration of flying skill and resourcefulness enabled him to rescue his fellow men in spite of the most difficult conditions of both rescue missions."

Captain Poulton also has received the commendation ribbon of the Air Force and public service award.

One of the missions for which the captain was commended in 1958 flew a Sikorski helicopter 1,200 feet higher than the highest altitude for which it had been tested.

Into rugged Colorado mountain country, Captain Poulton and a doctor flew to rescue a pilot and an author and his wife who had crashed. They located them in a box canyon high in the Rockies, believing that the air in the box canyon would not support his craft for taking off. Poulton landed on a ledge overlooking the canyon and, with the help of a forest service team and the physician, brought the passengers to the top of the canyon.

Four rescue teams, stationed at a nearby lookout post, used a jeep to carry the passengers down the steep slope to the top of the canyon where Poulton's helicopter waited.

Because the passengers required immediate hospital care, too much time would have been lost by driving the forest service jeep down to the hospital.

After rescuing the two passengers and carrying the body of the pilot out, Captain Poulton flew back for the doctor. Darkness fell and in mid-air, while the doctor trainee was in the air, Poulton was awarded a flash-light on the top of the canyon. Poulton landed the craft, Captain Poulton's second rescue mission last year involved a lost air force officer who was notified that a member of a hunting party and apparently wandered away from his companions in heavy snow and became lost. Poulton was sent about five miles to find him.

For three days the search was carried on intensively. Finally, when the hunter was spotted in Montana, Poulton and other searchers were pulled off the mission.

The hunter, apparently dying of malaria and financial difficulties, had decided to make it appear that he died and had headed for Canada to assume a new identity.

During the Korean war, Captain Poulton picked a wounded pilot from the wreckage of a plane shot down by the communists. The helicopter's gas tank was punctured by enemy fire and the craft landed on the Korean coast and a friendly island. A navy team picked up Poulton and the pilot and returned them to Seoul.

Captain Poulton also flew rescue missions during the disastrous Cherry creek floods near Denver. In all, Captain Poulton flew 63 combat missions as a helicopter pilot in Korea. In addition to his recent citation he wears the silver star, bronze star and air medal with one oak leaf chain. He also has received a decoration from the Sikorski aircraft firm for his helicopter missions.

Born and educated in Twin Falls, where he was graduated from high school in 1940, Poulton and his wife, the former Ethel Cleverley, Idaho Falls, are the parents of three children, Tamara Sue, 6; Brenda Jo, 4; and Darl Lynn, 3.

His work at the academy includes showing visitors the new ultra-million-dollar air force school.

A few weeks ago Poulton reported to his parents on a tour of the academy.

Complete Sale Data Needed By Wool Men

GOODING, April 18—James P. Gunning, chairman of the Gooding county agricultural stabilization and conservation office, reminded wool producers today to be sure sales documents they have received for selling wool during the past year contain all information required under the wool incentive payment program.

Gunning stated it is particularly important that the sales documents show the true sales proceeds including deductions made for freight and other marketing charges.

The county ASC office, where the program is administered, has the authority to adjust sales proceeds when changes are not shown. Where false information is filed, both the producer and wool buyer are subject to penalties.

Producers will be eligible for payments to be made this year under the 1958 program for wool and unshorn lambs marketed not later than March 31, 1959. Later marketing will be eligible for 1959 payments.

Letting will be eligible for payments under the 1958 program. Applications for payments under the 1958 program will be due by April 30 at the ASC office. This cutoff date is for the calculation of a final acreage for the 1958 program for wool and unshorn lambs marketed during the 1958 season. The payment rate will be announced and payments will be made to producers.

Dr. Paul D. White, former state veterinarian, says that most cattle then live for years.

Return From Tourist Is Big, Secretary Tells GOP Women

Idahoans receive a greater return for their tax dollars for the money spent on tourist promotion than in any other state, Louise Shadlock, secretary of the department of commerce and development told Republican Women Friday afternoon at the Robert J. Sutcliffe home.

Percentage-wise, the tourist industry in the second largest business in the United States, according to Miss Shadlock, is leading the four states of the Pacific Northwest showed an increase in tourist business while most other areas showed a decline.

"Between eight and ten millions of tourists are expected by Oregon during the centennial celebration this year, and many of them will spend some time in Idaho," she said, "and it is our duty to keep the tourist in Idaho longer," she stated.

Gifts to tourists which indicate something of the economy of the area are an excellent means of advertising the state. Examples such as a host of split peas, with a split pea soup recipe printed on the side, and samples of ore from the Bunker Hill mines at Kellogg passed out to a tourist information card.

Enthusiasm and courtesy of Idaho hosts is of prime importance in making Idaho promoters of the tourist, who do come to the state, Miss Shadlock concluded.

Mrs. J. Woodson Creed was elected to head the group during their afternoon session, conducted by Mrs. Robert Stephan, retiring president. Other new officers include Mrs. James Koutnik, vice president; Mrs. Clyde Van Auden, filer; secretary and Mrs. Carl Irwin, treasurer.

Those who are now so eagerly seeking to discover "what is wrong with our schools" might consider this, might even approve the remedy which is smaller classes, better teachers, (they exist), more time. Last and of high importance, a schedule that permits a teacher to enrich his subject by the use of his literature, visual aids, trips to places of interest allied to care of your children. The standards are set, fail to say, "Get a good one or pass as you may." It will always stand by you. Cheap ones don't work well.

As the years passed and more things were needed by more people we looked for ways of making them faster. We found three ways, and in finding them, discovered that they could be sold cheaper.

The demand for cheapness grew stronger until we reached the point of mass production and a dumbed things off of the assembly line. With this speed and quantity production came loss of quality.

Now if we want quality in anything we use, quality of time, form and color; strictness of construction; accuracy in fittings, general all around quality, we search for a lone handworker, one who loves his labor and order this thing to be created by him.

That's the idea - creative work. We are losing that in the rush for quantity. Nobody has time to think, plan, try out ideas, nor can he afford to work that way because nobody can afford to pay him save in exceptional cases.

This might not be so bad if it did not permeate the whole social structure. It is so in education as well as in all other fields of activity. Small classes in which the teacher can see each pupil as an individual and treat him as such are not the rule. Big groups of 40 or 50 students confront the teacher today. These pupils must be so informed as to be able to pass the standard test. To do this old tests are brought out and the pupils hounded up on them. They must "pass."

Some of them cannot "pass." The dashing wave of instruction roll over their heads, there is not time to study their needs and qualify

TURLEY TO FEATURE PROFESSIONAL BOXING CARD IN T. F.

Several Local Boxers Set To Participate in First T. F. Card in Eight Years

Gene (Poops) Turley, promising Twin Falls middleweight, will get a shot at his first main event before the homecoming May 4, when professional boxing will be reintroduced to Magic Valley. Cliff Thiede, Idaho Falls, currently handling the wrestling card, will promote the boxing card under the sponsorship of the Twin Falls VFW chapter. Turley, who has proved to be a crowd-puller in the Boise arena, will be performing before a local crowd for the first time in his professional career. He will meet tough Thurman Stevens, who has fought all the top middleweights on the West Coast.

Thiede said the local fights are being promoted primarily to give Magic Valley boxers a chance to fight in their home area. He added that there are more boxers who will be used in the preliminaries, but said the full card will not be completed until Monday or Tuesday.

Bill Moran, Turley's manager, noted Turley "hasn't picked a partner" to give home fans their first chance to see him in action. In his last outing, Turley, now Joe Sedillo, Twin Falls, in the third round of a punch.

"Stevens is a very heavy puncher," Moran said. "You can't hit him in the head with a lead, but he is in good luck. He has won two weeks ago it gave him no trouble while he was adding another win to his record in the Boise arena."

A muscle injury in Turley's back also is rounding into shape and should be completely healed by fight time, Moran said. The two weeks ago it gave him no trouble while he was adding another win to his record in the Boise arena.

A May 4 card, which will be staged at the Twin Falls high school gymnasium, will mark the return of professional boxing to Magic Valley after an eight-year absence. The last bout in Twin Falls was between George Westfall and "Indy" Dick Wolf in 1951.

THE WORK

For a Happier MOM!

Make Monday being day work twelve times easier! Day her an Ironrite Automatic Iron!

A recent scientific study, conducted by L. G. Laura Laboratories in Paris, shows that old-fashioned hand ironing requires twelve times more work than ironing on an Ironrite. Cardiac recovery time—the time necessary for the heart to return to its normal resting rhythm—is nearly eight times less when ironing the easy, Ironrite way. And an Ironrite iron is any valuable item... really, ready and in one-third the time.

Make your Mom a happier Mom. Buy her an Ironrite Automatic Ironer for Mother's Day. For detailed information on work required for ironing and other household chores write for your free Laura Report.

Check Points for Mom

- ✓ Irons anything you can wash
- ✓ You sit down and relax while ironing
- ✓ 1/3 the ironing time
- ✓ 8 times faster cardiac recovery

They Make Pigs of Themselves

Until three weeks ago Mrs. William T. Howard was deathly afraid of pigs. It seems Mrs. Howard became her fear of pigs when she was offered some young ones that either had to be raised on a little or die. Her five of little animals went out and she has nursed 10 pigs back to good health. (Staff photo-entouring)

Fear of Pigs Beaten to Raise Motherless Crew

HAZELTON, April 18 — Mrs. William T. Howard, Hazelton farm wife, had a morbid fear of pigs until three weeks ago, but now is playing Florence Nightingale to a scowling crew of rambunctious little Yorkshire pigs. Mrs. Howard's love for small animals was put to a test when she was offered a batch of pigs that either had to have special care or die. She passed the test with flying colors. Now she has 10 little pigs and ten tiny piglets that she has nursed to Mrs. Howard. It all started when a neighbor had some surplus pigs. Two of them were from a litter too large for the sow to handle, and eight were from a litter that the sow refused to mother. The neighbor offered them to Mrs. Howard. "I'm scared to death of a pig," Mrs. Howard says, "but I can't stand to let anything die. I have eight of the pigs Mrs. Howard got when they were just a few hours old. They were chilled and weak. She continued to nurse them back to health by keeping them in a warm place in the house and feeding them by bottle. For a while the animal situation was pretty hectic on the Howard farm. "We really had a time," she says. "We had a new baby call where I took him in the barn. The old cat had three kittens."

Problem of Retarded Children Being Met Now by Public Schools for Magic Valley

Problems of providing education for retarded children in public schools becomes more difficult and complex each day. Deft with problems of finance and administration schools also must cope with the need for providing various specialized training. One of the problems facing area schools is how to provide adequate training for mentally retarded children. Problem Presented Since public schools are committed by law to educate all students that are educable, the problem of educating retarded children, who are usually educable under special classroom conditions only, presents a problem to administrators. Expense, teachers and materials must be provided to begin such a program. The Gooding and Burley are two Magic Valley communities that have grappled with the problem. Twin Falls public schools, No. 411 will open a special classroom for retarded children next fall. Members Hailed Money The Burley school began four years ago as a result of work by a parents' council. Members raised money to furnish the school and hire a teacher. Later the school became a part of the Cassia county school system. The Gooding school was started last fall. Dec Keller, superintendent of schools at Gooding, says the school system had no finances for such a project last fall. So the school was financed by getting a sort of civic tuition from towns that would educate their own children. Gooding, Wendell, Hagerman, Bliss and Shoshone. The school is now in a spare classroom in Gooding high school. According to Ernie H. Ragland, superintendent of Twin Falls schools, the district will hire a teacher to handle the classroom to be opened next fall. Ragland notes there will be

Two boys in the Gooding Opportunity school work at the work bench in the classroom. The class is funded at the Gooding high school building and was started last fall. Ten children in the class range in age from 8 to 18. The class is taught by Mrs. Richard Mabbutt, Shoshone. The class was supported this year by a sort of civic tuition paid by surrounding communities. This class also is the yearly project for the Idaho Jay-C-ettes. They have provided $1,500 towards furnishings and supplies. (Staff photo-entouring)

U.S. Prepares 'Dazzling' Economic Show for Reds

By CYNTHIA LOVRY NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—America unveils a gallery of its economic wonders before a Moscow audience this summer, and it should be a dazzling show for both sides and the U. S. tourists who get a chance to see it. In its more futuristic aspect, the American National exhibition is a highly pertinent commentary on the main street. It is a new kind of show with a renewed interest in the United States as a land of work-saving contraptions. Where newspapers had the brown ink of the pursuit of leisure-time

Basic idea of the six-week exhibition scheduled to open July 23, is to show the Soviet man-in-the-street how his American counterparts live, work, learn, produce, consume, and play. But additional factors have entered into the planning. First, the U.S. government is eager to put the nation's best cultural, scientific, and technological achievements on display. Second, the Soviets have asked that we exhibit as many of our mass-produced hard goods as possible. At all events, the Soviet press started taking potshots at the show well in advance. Referring to an American home to be displayed, the Russian news agency Tass said: "There is no more truth in showing the TV Mahal as the typical home of a Bombay factory worker, or Buckingham palace as the typical home of an English millionaire." Officials for the firm shipping the house to Moscow said it would sell in the United States for $100,000—well within reach of American workers. "The U. S. government is putting

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

The Rev. S. C. Orr, Buhl, recently returned from a seven-week trip to Japan where he visited his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Crane, and their four children. Crane is employed by the armed forces at Yachama. The Rev. Orr notes that Japan is as up-to-date in many things as the U. S. but old customs and traditions still linger in the Orient. Japan is smaller than the state of California and is very mountainous with only one-sixth of the country under cultivation. With only this small portion under cultivation Japan is still able to produce 80 per cent of the food for its 92 million people.

The Rev. Mr. Orr, who is 83 years old, is a retired pastor of the Presbyterian church and is still occasionally called upon for his services in the local church. He is originally from Princeton, Pa., and moved to Buhl 53 years ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Con Annett, Buhl, as well as his mother, Mrs. Annett Pappas, DECLIO, left this week for a six-week trip abroad. Their first stop is Athens, Greece, where they will meet Steve Adams, BURETT, who has already spent a month in Europe.

Mrs. Pappas will visit her native country and see some relatives. This is her first visit there since she left it when she was 11 years old to come to America.

The group has purchased a car and will motor through western Europe before their return home June 1. They have reservations on the Jet airliner for their return trip. Dr. Annett will attend a medical meeting in Rome.

Visits Parents

ELIDA, April 12—Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wickel, stationed at the army Selfridge air force base, Mt. Clemens, Mich., are guests of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wickel.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Lloyd are visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lloyd, Pocatello.

up almost four million dollars to help stage the show. Much of this will go into renting land, constructing buildings and mounting art shows and putting on musical and scientific demonstrations. Motion pictures, slides and still photographs will show the best of our architecture, our most impressive schools, our working men, family togetherness, dedicated scientists and research teams while charts and graphs will show our gains in public health, longevity, education and such.

5,000 Examples Promised
Meanwhile, private industry has responded to invitations to contribute production samples—promising more than 5,000 different examples ranging from a six-room, pre-fab, ranch-type home to the latest in lipstick and animal care products. Many companies are sending along demonstrators and maintenance crews to make sure the cake mixes rise properly, the washing machines turn out electric white sheets and that the electric brain comes up with the right answers to Ivan's questions as it

One prime headache Nelson has is how to reduce the number of eager prospective exhibitors. The average Soviet citizen may wind up believing that the most popular average American hobbies are hunting, fishing and camping out—under self-erecting tents, of course.

"We just don't have room to set up a bowling alley," says Nelson.

Official Visit

HAILEY, April 12—Alvah Knowlton, Fairfield, district deputy grand patriarch, made his official visit to Ivanhoe Encampment No. 4, IOOP this week.

W. H. Fairman, chief patriarch, was in charge of the meeting.

Attends Contest

HAILEY, April 12—Mrs. Harold Butler, Mrs. Willis McFarther and William Butler have returned home from Albany, Ore., where Butler competed in the regional American Legion oratorical contest. While there they visited several coast towns.

Off-Balance Picture
A slightly off-balance picture of how the average American lives may result from a shortage of exhibition space, a desire to show as much as possible and from constantly mounting pressure by buyers to Ivan's questions as it

Kiwanis Club at Declo Welcomes Three Members

DECLIO, April 12—Three new members joined the Declo Kiwanis club at the weekly dinner meeting Tuesday night at Alvin's cafe.

They are Francis Lynch, Lawrence McCall and Jerald Malloy. Reports were given by Lloyd Blake, who with his committee, met with the village board, and presented plans for a village and community cleanup week to be held May 1 to 9. The village board voted to cooperate with the club.

Wayne Lentz, chairman of Child welfare, reported the Kiwanis club would sponsor two junior boys of the Declo high school. A Royal state at Boise and one girl from the junior class of the high school to Girls' State at Collierville.

It was decided to not hold the regular meeting on next Tuesday night on account of charter night which will be held April 24.

Preston Stokes, who is assistant postmaster of the Buhlly postoffice, showed slides of postoffice operations.

Schools for Exceptional Children Operating in Gooding and Burley; T. F. Council Works for Class Here

Mrs. Richard Mabbutt instructs some of the children in the Gooding Opportunity school in their reading lessons. Mrs. Mabbutt, who has taken special training in teaching retarded children, has a class curriculum that consists of social science and vocational training. Mrs. Mabbutt notes that retarded children do better studies and vocational training. (Staff photo-engraving)

Mrs. Harry Witter, head teacher at the Burley school for retarded children, instructs two students in the principles of sewing. Sewing is one of the primary vocational subjects taught at the Burley school which was started four years ago by the parents' council. Today the school is part of the Clatsop county school system. Students range in age from 7 to 19. (Staff photo-engraving)

These are the new officers of the Twin Falls County Council for Retarded Children, a 25-member parent group. Council members work on improving teaching facilities for retarded children, parent and public education, suggest legislation and sponsor money-raising projects. A new class for retarded children is planned in Twin Falls next fall. Members of the council note this is a step in the right direction of special education for retarded children. The dream of the council is to establish eventually a centralized Twin Falls county school for retarded children. There are now 60 students from Twin Falls county at the Nampa State School. Many of these students could live at home if there were adequate teaching facilities, according to members of the council. Officers are, from left, Mrs. J. B. Hill, Bull, president; Mrs. Kellie Brown, Kintner, vice president; Mrs. William Hughes, Twin Falls, secretary; and Mrs. Shesby Williams, Bull, treasurer. They were elected at a recent meeting. Problem of Retarded Children Being Met Now by Valley's Public Schools

In which educating retarded children differs from educating other school children.

"Mrs. Mabbutt explains that children are first screened before they are placed in the class at Gooding. At Gooding the children are evaluated first by a psychologist and a psychiatrist and recommended to the screening board. The screening board consists of the superintendent of schools, county nurse, president of the Gooding Chapter for Retarded Children, and Mrs. Mabbutt.

The decision is then made if the child should leave the public school and enter the opportunity school. Only educable children are placed in the opportunity school.

Purpose of Screening

"The purpose of the screening process is to screen out the emotionally disturbed child," Mrs. Mabbutt explains. "These emotionally disturbed children who are placed in the opportunity school are not fair to other children."

The classroom situation differs from the regular public school classroom.

Mrs. Mabbutt explains her curriculum at Gooding is evenly divided between social science and vocational training.

According to Mrs. Mabbutt, one of the basic purposes is to train the children to the limit of their ability and to teach them social responsibility.

With proper training and background, many can grow into valuable and useful citizens.

"The classroom situation must be realistic and the teacher must use concrete material. These children don't understand abstractions or generalizations."

Mathematics Added

A subject such as mathematics is added to the curriculum to be useful in this type of classroom.

Since the teacher must be more specific, more classrooms are needed. Room is required to display drawings and photographs and other samples dealing with the lesson at hand. This helps the students grasp the meaning of the lessons and to relate it to everyday life.

She notes that authorities say retarded children with IQ's between 50 and 70 are educable, but she adds that most depend on the child's home training. Often children with lower ratings can be educated successfully to a point of social responsibility.

Mrs. Mabbutt says retarded children are usually much happier in a special class. "The students are compatible," she says. "In the public schools, they are often in an uncomfortable situation."

"They know they are different, and you have to help them face their handicap."

Lacks Competition

Another characteristic of the class designed for retarded children is that it lacks competition. "These children should never be placed in a situation where they must compete," she says.

Mrs. Mabbutt has a class of 10 children ranging in age from 8 1/2 to 18.

Class starts at 8 a. m. and the majority of the morning is devoted to the academic side of the curriculum. During the morning the children study reading lessons aimed at improving their usage of the written and spoken language.

They also study the calendar, learn how to take various measurements and, in general, practice performing the basic day-to-day functions they must do the rest of their lives.

Ann Severance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Severance, works with one of the students in the Gooding Opportunity school teaching some of the principles of rug weaving. Miss Severance, a senior at Gooding high school, plans to major in special education in college. She helps the regular teacher during the last period of each day. (Staff photo-engraving)

Henry Witter, head teacher; Mrs. J. C. Banks, music teacher; and Mrs. Martin Williams, who teaches recreational subjects and dancing.

The Burley school has a larger enrollment than the Gooding school, 18 students, ranging in age from 7 to 19.

The class schedule follows roughly the same procedure of the Gooding school, with emphasis on reading, social manners, some work with numerals and vocational handwork.

The students also have regular periods for music and dancing.

Less Equipment Needed

Mrs. Witter notes it is easier to teach this vocational subject because many subjects, such as sewing and rug weaving, don't require the tools and equipment that are needed for classes in vocational training for the boys.

Mrs. Witter hopes to broaden vocational activities for boys with training in woodwork, gardening and leatherwork, and hopes to install a kitchen for the girls.

Mrs. Witter, like Mrs. Mabbutt at Gooding, has found subject matter must be specific and any abstractions must be avoided. She notes that the big hurdle for the children is reading. Once they have learned to read, and understand simple exercises, the training can progress at a more rapid rate.

"Here again, abstract meanings confound the children. For example, Mrs. Witter says the average retarded child can understand the meaning of such words as dog or cat, but that words such as 'it' or 'is' are a big stumbling block in the reading program.

One of the basic objects, according to Mrs. Witter, is to provide something at which the child can succeed.

"Here competition accomplishes nothing. You can't set one student in competition with another. Each student must achieve at his own rate," she says.

She notes that in public school competition situations students are able to compete, but the retarded child is just discouraged.

Actually the problem of educating the retarded child is a pioneer field in education.

Asked for Information

Mrs. Witter wrote the department of health, education and welfare and noted for information concerning education of retarded children. The department simply replied that she would have to take existing classroom material and adapt it to use in her classroom.

"We've had to learn as we go along," Mrs. Witter says.

She says the best that such a school can hope to do is teach the students the basic skills. Using these skills, the students often can become self-sufficient citizens. Without these skills they are often buffeted about by society throughout their lives.

The Burley school has students who commute from as far away as Coeur d'Alene.

When the school was first founded it accepted all students that were enrolled, but Mrs. Witter which children are chosen to be placed in these classes is a delicate subject.

Regland says, "I hope the state board of education will set up certain criteria that will be rather specific, so school administrators will know just what the law says."

Regland notes that as soon as the board makes the criteria more specific, the special classrooms will materialize faster. But the special classroom in Twin Falls will not be delayed.

Working on Criteria

Regland is working on setting up the district's own criteria to fit this district's requirements. The classroom will be located in one of the elementary schools.

"Training for handicapped children is generally conceded to be good business and it is certainly a proper entitlement of these boys and girls as it is of those going to regular classes," Regland says.

"There are many children who can't make progress in an academic situation that are trainable and can learn to take care of themselves if given the proper special education.

"In these classes they can learn to fill a place in society and be self-supporting," he points out.

After Man's Leg Broken in Farm Accident, Neighbors and Friends Prepare His Fields for Planting Crops

The man with the crutch, Martin L. Holsten, Buhl, fractured his right leg in a farming accident Jan. 3. Since then, members of the Lutheran Laymen's league of the Clover Lutheran church have worked furiously in a spirit of neighborliness to prepare and seed Holsten's 100-acre farm. Recently a crew of 18 men, complete with tractors, trucks and manure spreaders, turned out to plow, fertilize and do other farm work. In one day they prepared 24 acres for seeding. "When the men came here to do the work, I just told them what I wanted done and they went to it," Holsten says. "We have some wonderful people here."

On April 10 the men arrived about 7:30 a.m. and finished in the late afternoon. They worked fast, with a great deal of teamwork, and seemed to enjoy the project. They are Donald Martens, Waldo Martens, Wayne Schroeder, Robert Lutz, Harvey Rife, Hugo Meyer, Elmer Schroeder, Edwin Lierman, John Burkhalter and Martin Klenp.

This group and an additional five men helped sow seed in late March. The other men were Cecil West, Vally Koster, William Reinhold, Richard Kolman and Albert Schroeder.

"This is the second time in 10 years Holsten has been able to farm. He had pneumonia 10 years ago and a group of men performed the same service for him in the spring planting time."

Friends Help Farmer Whose Leg Was Crushed in Farm Accident in January

The spirit of neighborliness has not diminished in Magic Valley. On Jan. 3, the lower right leg of Martin L. Holsten, a farmer six miles south of Buhl, was crushed in a farm accident. That was one of the coldest days of the winter. For over an hour he lay unnoticed in sub-zero weather.

Now he is recuperating in a full-length leg cast and is unable to perform his normal farming duties. But this hasn't hindered his spring planting.

Winter Game Count Helps Set Seasons

So-Cal facilitates work of big game census-takers in Idaho. During fair weather and foul last winter, field technicians hiked, snow-shoed, snow-catted and flew over some of the most wintry areas conducting general surveys and detailed trend counts. Dale Tanner, Marcell Murch, with binoculars, and Martin Luther look for big game in Soldier Mountain region. The completed business of setting 1959 hunting regulations began soon after the general big game season started last fall. New regulations will be determined by fish and game commission at Boise and released later this week. (Idaho fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Big Game Regulations to Be Set This Week After Long Study and Surveys

By JIM HUBBARD
Idaho Fish and Game Department big game seasons, but limits and other hunting regulations for 1959 will be announced this week following the regular quarterly meeting of the Idaho fish and game commission. This news cannot be released today because the answers are unknown by anyone answering—and won't be until the five-member commission has a meeting of minds concerning the many details.

Meeting Scheduled
The commission is scheduled to meet Thursday morning in the Boise office of the Idaho fish and game department, and a public hearing will be held that afternoon.

Year's new fishing and hunting seasons and regulations were established more or less arbitrarily by state legislators, but all this has been changed.

Responsibility now is placed by law with the fish and game commission for determining when an open season may be declared for the taking of game fish, game birds or game and fur-bearing animals, or other wildlife, for which no season now exists... at its regular quarterly meeting in April.

Provided by Law
Public hearings also were provided by legislative act in establishing the right of all individuals and represented groups or organizations to meet with the commission prior to setting new hunting and fishing regulations. Here the purpose was to obtain orally or in writing their ideas, personal or group observations and other material for consideration before the commission fixed new regulations or revised older ones.

There was a time not so many years ago when public hearings attracted widespread interest and enlisted the proverbial "two-cent-worth" of thought from many impatient sportsmen, which woodmen, foresters and technicians of various kinds. They frequently meet with fish and game department or other specialized personnel for consultation on necessary biological information. Most of them get together perhaps once a month, but some meet from September through May, at least, to exchange observations, opinions and inform reports about wildlife problems. By the time April and the public hearing rolls around, most of the members already have been over the ground from one to three or more times. They know the territory and are setting new regulations begun soon after the hunting season opens in early fall. It starts with statistical data from previous years, such as deer and elk figures, fencer counts, and other surveys, trend counts, bird composition, and other information gathered by the fish and game department through the cooperation of the bureau of land management and the U. S. forest service.

Reports Made
On-the-spot reports from state checking stations began pouring in to the game management technicians in Boise, and hunter reports came showing deer, coyotes and place of kill were brought in with each mail delivery; caribou which peaked up during high points of the seasons to several thousand per day.

There's where the pie-saw puzzle simile is appropriate. There are many pieces or factors in good game management practices, all of which must be fitted together to make the best of all possible pictures.

This picture includes the combined thinking of farmers, ranchers, loggers and sportsmen of all kinds, range specialists, livestock and game biologists; of conservation officers and watered experts.

As indicated, forestry meetings over the state fish department field officers, forest managers and other personnel together in a series of technical meetings which, incidentally, have just been completed. There are final meetings of the many other groups, the land-users, the sportsmen, et al. And to reiterate, most farmers, ranchers, woodmen, foresters, technicians and businessmen are sportsmen in their spare time.

Many Differences
There are many differences of understanding of the Idaho wildlife situation today, some of which are honest conflicts of interest. These differences are important—the final decisions made with respect to fish and game regulations—and they are carefully preserved in the general picture presented to the commission. Of course there always will be conflicting requests, and occasional impossibility of harmonizing the diamorphous. But there are far fewer these days than there were before the development of intergroup meetings, wildlife biology meaningful information and the

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT. Jack Farrar, Manager of Municipal Airport, Tallies Varied Background

Farrar, radio announcer, civil air patrol commander and aviator, has a varied background and tallies a varied background. A well-known personality in the community for many years, Farrar has been the manager of the airport since the spring of 1957.

Since then he has worked steadily to improve and enlarge facilities at the field.

Farrar says he has always been interested in aviation and the future of air travel, but it wasn't until he became manager of the airport that he had other than an avocational interest.

In fact, Farrar started out his career as a farmer and worked for many years on the staff of KCTV before he became manager of the airport.

A life-line resident of Twin Falls county, Farrar was born and raised on his father's farm south of Burbank, Calif. He attended high school at Burbank and was valedictorian of Twin Falls high school.

Active in FFA
During his high school days he was active in FFA work. He was a police scholarship awardee by Sears, Roebuck and company for his FFA work.

He attended the University of Idaho for one year and the second year he went to Alton State Normal school. He worked for a short time with the Lockheed Aircraft corporation, doing sheet metal work in Burbank, Calif. Then he returned to farming and worked with his father, J. J. Farrar.

World war II was getting under way and Farrar, because his father was frozen by government regulation to his job.

He worked as a farmer until the fall of 1946. That fall his entire bean crop was ruined because of excessive rain at harvest time, so he quit, to make ends meet, sought a job in Twin Falls.

Due to talk time in 1942, Farrar had worked for a brief period at KCTV. He answered an advertisement by KCTV that requested someone interested in radio announcing. To his surprise he got the job and worked there for the next 11 months.

Farm Experience Valuable
His farming experience proved valuable. Most of the time Farrar worked as farm program director. He produced two farm programs a day, edited farm news, interviewed agricultural officials and farmers about current interests and news concerning agriculture.

During that time Farrar worked extensively with members of state and U. S. farm organizations, and 4-H and FFA student groups.

In 1957 Farrar took the job of airport manager. Asked why he made such an unusual switch in occupations, Farrar said: "I always loved aviation. I started flying many other relative, new techniques.

All of the information and recommendations aid the commission in setting new regulations and revising other regulations. The fish and game commission will complete its deliberations this week, and summary reports of its decisions will be made public soon thereafter. The state hunting map and regulation details will be printed and ready for general distribution by early summer.

JACK FARRAR

one of the weather stations. Such a line will be installed sometime in May.

This will have a great effect on the traffic in and out of this field. There will be a telephone booth in the lobby. All the pilot need do is lift the receiver and he will immediately be in touch with the Durley FAA station.

It will be much easier to file a flight plan and get weather information.

As wing commander Farrar is responsible to the regional commander in Denver. The basic mission of the CAP is to provide aviation education and encourage civilian interest in air travel and development. The CAP works with the department of aeronautics and air force in search and rescue operations.

A big aid to air travel will be present. If a pilot leaving Twin Falls wants to file a flight plan or check on weather along his projected route, he may visit the federal aviation agency communication station at either Gooding or Burley.

This entailed making a long distance telephone call and Farrar says the inconspicuous, discouraged pilots from checking on weather and filing a flight plan.

Since he has been manager, Farrar has been trying to get a direct line installed from Jostin field to Farrar believes more pilots will be encouraged to check on weather conditions and the flight plan, then telling of their projected routes and expected arrival time that aid searchers in case the pilot should have trouble.

Another feature to be installed soon is a radio relay station. This will enable pilots flying in the Twin Falls area with radio sets of limited power to communicate directly with the FAA communication station in Burley. Without the radio relay device, they would be out of communication with the Burley station.

"This is a safety and convenience factor in flying," Farrar says, "as a step for better service at the airport."

Dulles Are Varied
Farrar's big wish is for a communications station at Twin Falls, but he makes no estimate when that will be approved.

As manager of the field, Farrar has varied duties. He is responsible for field maintenance, building and ground maintenance. He works with the airlines and private pilots, and he also has charge of the entire 702 acres that comprise the airport land.

During the past year his farming experience has been of value. He has been reseeded airport land to dry land grass. Only about 200 acres remain to be seeded.

With 702 acres the air field has more for expansion. This year a 100-foot extension was made on the main runway. And Farrar points out that the day will come when there will be a need for another runway extending in a southeast to northeast direction.

Serves in Many Ways
Farrar says an air field serves the community in many ways. Thousands of dollars in crops are saved through crop spraying each year, and he adds it is hard to estimate how much time and money are saved each year through the use of air travel and air freight.

He explains, "airline-busmen are using air travel more each year. Thousands of dollars in crops are saved. And one of the most important uses of air travel is for air ambulance service in case of emergency."

"A lot of people don't realize the value of air travel to a community," Farrar says. "Before a community can grow it has to have an adequate airport. The future of air freight and air travel is unlimited."

Ping-Pong Tables Ready for Youth Center Opening

Buhl Youth Center to Open Saturday After Two Years of Community Effort

Committee invited several civic and community leaders to discuss the project. Much interest was shown and the youth center planning committee was composed of Robert Weaver, chairman, Dr. Stanley Kern, Mrs. Joe Peterbacher, Mrs. Ernest Holland, Earl Pence, John Hepworth and Mrs. Robert Bailey. Mrs. Julia Maples has been hired as a salaried supervisor of the youth center. She has had no previous experience but is well liked by school officials said.

The recreation center project was originated Sept. 11, 1951, by the Buhl Youth Center. Mrs. Stanley Kern, a member who had moved to Buhl from Burlington, Ia., reported on a youth center which had been in operation successfully for 15 years.

Mayor E. H. Hines discussed the matter and felt a center was needed for Buhl youngsters as they had no place to go and were driving in cars and leaving Buhl to find some recreation. Mrs. Kern worked at the youth center in Iowa making details on what made the center successful.

Sophomores on the roll are Dana Lee Anderson, Jane Croft, Sharon Depek, Clyde Cooch, Juanita Hagen, Sharon Holley, Leslie Larson, Fredrick Mabitt, Sharon Stene, Fred Oyer, Jerry Silva, Linda Boling and Karen Webb.

Freshmen are Judy Allen, Laverne Bernard, Darlene Burgess, Karen Dille, Joyce Hinkmaker, Carol Mulea and John Sabala.

Daughter Better HALEY, April 18—Mayor Jack Davies returned home Wednesday evening from Boise to attend to business matters. Mrs. Davies remained there to be with their daughter, Helen Davies, who is still confined at St. Alphonsus hospital.

Davies reported his daughter is much improved and is now conscious and able to converse. She will remain in the hospital in some weeks. Doctors have not yet diagnosed her malady, which struck her suddenly April 4.

Former Supervisor of Forest Inquires, Does Mountain Lion Actually Scream?

By CHARLES I. DAUGHERTY
Forest Supervisor, Sawtooth National Forest

Does the mountain lion or cougar, scream? It argued both ways. Some say that since a noise as they heard could not possibly come from any other animal.

But the mountain lion has never been heard to scream. It is said that the animal has been seen at the same time and place where I have never heard any noise.

Another interesting question about these animals is how much they prey on man. In the past, they have been known to attack and kill man. In some areas where they were relatively unharmed by man are no varied and as interesting as the lion's scream.

Mountain lions, or cougars, aren't hard to handle when they're young, but has anyone ever heard them scream? Arguments still fly pro and con on the matter of mountain lion screams. These two young lions were two of five captured in last winter's age.

Another interesting question about these animals is how much they prey on man. In the past, they have been known to attack and kill man. In some areas where they were relatively unharmed by man are no varied and as interesting as the lion's scream.

Some men who have studied the lion professionally feel that livestock losses by lions are often over-rated. One thing which seems to have been pretty well established about these animals is that they relish the flesh of young colts. Numerous people who have raised horses in areas where lions were numerous have testified to this fact many times. They also have been able to furnish proof of such activity.

Snake Water Supply Good, Report Notes

REPORT, April 18—The upper Snake river will once more provide its dependable supply of water for irrigation season. All reservoirs will be controlled with a minimum of flood damage occurring, reclamation officials report.

Several canals of the upper Snake are already diverting irrigation streams, and it is expected that more canals will be running by not later than Monday.

It is forecast that natural flow will be about the same as for last year when the so-called floodwater rights of 1916 priority were cut off on June 12, compared to about 100 million gallons of water on July 1. This cut normally occurs about July 15.

Business organizations have donated various materials and have sold materials to the recreation center at cost. It is felt that every one in the Buhl and Castelford areas has contributed in some way.

Students from the Buhl and Castelford areas also have assisted in the fund drives. The industrial arts class of Buhl high school has also donated labor.

Phone Firm Split Makes New Record

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—The stock market today split the week at the inspiration of the telephone. It was the steepest gain since the week of the firm's biggest advance in about 18 months.

Shares of the firm's stock split 2 to 1 and traded at new highs of $100 and closed the week at $110. The gain was the result of a combination of over-optimism in the market and the fact that the stock of the firm was the only one of its kind to rise.

The performance was a dramatic reversal of the previous week's decline. It was the result of a combination of factors, including the fact that the firm's earnings were up 10 percent and its stock price was up 10 percent.

Livestock Prices Drop During Week

CHICAGO, April 18 (AP)—After hitting new high prices for the season in several spots last Monday, the grain futures market went into a fairly general decline the remainder of the week.

Wheat prices were down 1/2 cent to 1 1/2 cents, and corn prices were down 1/4 cent to 1/2 cent. This was the result of a combination of factors, including the fact that the market was overvalued and the weather was favorable.

"Some Things God Wants You to Know"

By ROBERT C. SCHRECKENBERG
Pastor, Trinity Lutheran Baptist Church

It is without doubt that we are living in the last days, the days just before the Lord comes for His bride, the church. One of the indications of this is the vast increase in knowledge.

Daniel speaks of this when he writes, "Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased." Daniel 12:4.

This is the age of Epitaphs, Van-guardians and D.D.s. We truly have increased in knowledge and there seems to be no end to our potential achievement. I have often thought, "Are we getting too smart?" We hear that we have the know-how and capability of destroying ourselves and the world. (purely intellectual) we have forgotten the spiritual knowledge which is more important than intellectual. Along with the intellectual we should be training the spiritual side of man, too. The lack of this spiritual understanding is also in keeping with the end of "Woe" for we read that "There shall come a falling away first." II Thessalonians 2:3. However, Christ is still waiting to save all those who will come unto Him. Because we have to Him we need to know a few things.

First, God wants us to know that there is an authoritative Book. This Book is the Bible. In the Bible is the only place we can find out about God and man. He said about His words "That heaven and earth shall pass away but my words shall not pass away." Matt. 24:35. The Bible is the only rule of faith and practice because it is the Word of God. This Book has stood the test of time; criticism, burnings and various other means of destruction but yet it stands because it is God's Word. The only sure word we have in our changing, fickle world.

Secondly, God wants us to know that we are sinners. His Book tells us "that all have sinned and come short of the Glory of God." Rom. 3:23. We are sinners by birth and by choice. We are not born sinners, but sinners. This is the truth whether we like it or not. Since man is a sinner he can do nothing that will please God. Until a person receives Jesus Christ as personal saviour, all his good works are as filthy rags in God's sight.

Thirdly, God wants us to know that we cannot save ourselves. It is a fallacy to believe that by our own actions, whatever they may be, we can inherit eternal life. Being a good citizen, paying our debts or being philanthropic, as good as these are, will not gain us one ounce of eternal life. If these things could save, Jesus Christ would have been a fraud and a "phony" for He said, "No man cometh unto the Father but I."

by Me." So it took the sinless Lamb of God, Jesus, to die on the cross.

Fourthly, God wants us to know this about Himself, that he can save. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16.

Fifthly, God wants us to know how to be saved. This is of utmost importance. With so many crying "This is the way," we need to get it straight that there is only one way to be saved. The Bible teaches, "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." John 1:12. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved and thy house." Acts 16:31.

This is the way and the only way. If there were some other way God would have said so. Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life." The way to be saved is simply to receive Jesus as your personal saviour.

These things are what God wants each of you to know. When we know these things, not only intellectually, but in the heart, "for with the heart man believeth unto righteousness," then it is that we can become born again and come to know God.

Anything Causes 'Em Cause of Headache Can Be Cause of Headaches

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Perhaps a good way to open a brief discussion of headaches is to quote from one of the fine books on this subject, emphasizing as the quotation may be. The following is taken from the preface to Moench's book on headache:

"The person with a headache often finds himself a medical orphan. He is fortunate indeed if the headache is transient, for otherwise he may find himself on an excursion to the ophthalmologist, otolaryngologist, neurologist, dentist, psychiatrist, osteopath and chiropractor. They run to X-rayed, massaged, analyzed, fitted with glasses, relieved of his turbidities and teeth and too often eliminated with this unfortunate interest."

It was stated in a recent report that recurrent headache is present in over 60 out of 100 people. The kind of headache called migraine was found in somewhere between five and 13 out of 100, depending on what standards are used for its diagnosis.

There are undoubtedly recurring headaches of many different causes, including those resulting from muscular tension, allergy and high blood pressure.

The symptoms of these may differ one from another. But a headache is a headache to the one who has it, so that quite often, in order to determine what kind of headache is present, special tests are needed.

Many headaches are brought on or made worse by emotional strain. The emotional cause may be of any kind, but sometimes a headache also serves as an excuse for avoiding any contact which the patient wants to shun. This is a sort of card-before-horse affair, in which the headache comes before the emotional stress.

Once in a while headaches are related to sinus dilatation or some other physical disorder. For all these reasons the successful treatment of those who suffer from recurring headaches is not easy. Headaches commonly arise from relaxation of the blood vessels in or near the brain—vascular headaches. In this type of headache the treatment consists in giving some medication, which causes the blood vessels to contract.

Rapid relief is sometimes been obtained by injecting adrenalin into the veins. Also favorable reports have been made on the injection into the veins of a substance called sodium picotinate (not related to nicotine in tobacco).

Migraine is one of the most important forms of headache.

As a rule this type of headache is located on one side only. Before it starts the sufferer often has peculiar sensations. In migraine attacks given just before an attack may stop the attack before it can go too far.
