I. G. Prescott, owner of the Prescott Shetland pony stables, just west of Twin Falls on U. S. Highway 20, stands with four of some 300 registered Shetland and Welsh ponies to be sold next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Filer fairgrounds during the fourth semi-annual Prescott registered pony sale. At left is a sorrel filly. The other three ponies are yearlings. The sorrels are from a 15-hack California consignment. 3,000 Attend Meet of Reds In New York

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—A May day rally in Union square today attracted about 3,000 persons, far fewer than the throngs that attended during the years of the American and Soviet friendship.

The crowd shouted approval of a resolution calling for a "full" summit conference immediately. It also approved resolutions proposing the death penalty for liars, the prosecution of officials who deny voting rights to Negroes, a labor movement to end the "cold war" and adoption of a six-hour work day.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, described by a detective as "the grand old lady of the communist party" said the audience she spoke in the square 52 years ago when the city was for an eight-hour day and 40-hour week.

She predicted the United States would have a socialist system of society "sooner or later."

Patrol Set up to Dispel Invasion

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The Council of the Organization of American States today authorized an international naval patrol off Panama to halt any vessels bringing forces to a new invasion there.

The approval was given only after some debate over the lengthy question of the extent of the territorial sea.

The government of Panama, apparently still believing that red forces could be landed for the 19-member Cuban force which surrendered Friday, asked the authorization through the special OAS investigating committee.

Naval vessels for the patrol work have been given, or offered, by the United States, Colombia and Cuba.

Strike Leaves Patients With No Cool Air

TULSA, Okla., May 2 (AP)—The air conditioning is off at Tulsa's second largest hospital and 600 patients are suffering because of the strike.

The 15-member stationery engineers' union local walked off their jobs at St. John's hospital Wednesday leaving no one to man the complicated air-conditioning machinery. Temperatures have risen 50 to 60 degrees.

Ken Wallace, assistant administrator at the 400-bed hospital, termed the situation "horrible."

He said the lack of cool air was harmful to sick infants, heart and surgery patients.

The best participants in the operating rooms, said Wallace who added the employees could furnish air-conditioning in patients quarters while cutting off administrative personnel.

Not so, said the local's Business Agent G. C. Callahan. "If we could provide air-conditioning to patients alone we certainly would do it," he said.

Callahan said hospital officials refused to sign a new contract even though it included only the provisions of the old contract plus a 10-cent hourly wage increase which both sides agreed on.

Wallace said he wouldn't sign the contract because the union refused to let hospital officials read the new contract.

More Than 300 Registered Welsh and Shetland Ponies Are Consigned to Sale

More than 300 registered Shetland and Welsh ponies will go to the block at the Filer fairgrounds next Thursday, Friday and Saturday during the fourth semi-annual Prescott registered pony sale.

To help boost the sale, a public open house will be held all day Sunday at the I. G. Prescott farm west of Twin Falls on U. S. Highway 20.

Prescott says ponies have been consigned for the sale from several states, including Utah, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, California, Colorado, North Dakota and Idaho.

Forty-five ponies are already at the Prescott stables being groomed for the sale.

"Sometime during the three-day event, a dapple, white-tailed and mottled pony will be given away to a visitor present at the sale."

Auctioneers will be "Col. Ray" Jolley, "Hercules" and "Doc" Jimmy Messersmith, Jerome, and several local auctioneers.

The sale will open at 9:30 a.m. when tack will be sold. The first pony will go under the block at noon, with selling continuing at 9:30 a.m. May 6.

On the final day of the sale, May 5, registered Welsh ponies will be sold at 9:30 a.m. Prescott explains that this is the first time the sale has included registered Welsh ponies.

Top price paid at the previous sale in October last year was $5,000.

Consumers Have Cheap Eggs; Producers Have Depression

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UPI)—American consumers are enjoying cheap eggs. But egg producers are caught in their worst depression since the 1930's.

Some poultrymen are so desperate they have come to Washington to demand government action to boost egg prices and save them from bankruptcy.

A price report issued at the agriculture department yesterday says the national average for eggs in April averaged 28.1 cents a dozen for eggs. That's a drop of 14 cents over 21 per cent in April 1958. Measured against feed costs, egg prices were the lowest in months for April except in 1957.

What this means in human problems was related by poultry farmers to a house agriculture subcommittee yesterday in an inquiry into depressed broiler and egg prices. Almost 200 poultry farmers, mostly from New Jersey, showed up to testify and Miller stressed his testimony and asked the government to do with the poultry market?

To assure fair prices over the long haul, Miller said, would require "restraints on production." He didn't recommend a compulsory control law, suggesting instead that farmers could curb themselves.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—An entirely new and difficult era in the relations between the United States and Latin America may result from the extreme nationalistic policies being pursued by leaders in Cuba as inspired in that region. His recent talks with Washington officials forebode far-reaching changes and possibilities.

Almost every Latin-American republic, including Cuba, is banking heavily on the economic aid of the United States because of declining world prices for their products, or from drought and other natural disasters and extravagance. Their gold and dollar reserves for purchase of necessities are nearing the vanishing point.

The problem which Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his "team" face is economic rather than political. It need American financial aid, whether public or private, whether it flows from the treasury, the war bank, the International Monetary fund or private investors.

The formula which led to Europe's recovery, a grandiose, multi-billion-dollar Marshall plan, is obsolete in the face of the new situation. A program had responsible governments and an efficient industrial and financial base. They needed a minimum of American direction and supervision.

LACK OF EXPERIENCED MANAGERS—Unfortunately, there is no such thing as a free lunch. The Latin-American republics are not so situated. Where there is not wholesale and accepted aid, there is no progress. A lack of experienced economic managers and planners. Unlike Europe, these nations may find a way to hurt themselves by their own policies of coffee, fruits, wheat—so diversified industrialization.

But heavy American investments, whether governmental or from Wall Street, will require economic intervention on a large scale. This funds must be pooled so as to make the best use of the aid. It must be supervised and directed into constructive channels.

In fact, the United States, to a certain extent, will have to regard many Latin-American republics as a sort of economic protectorate. But such an arrangement, no matter how well intentioned, must be supervised and directed into constructive channels.

After asking many of the state's heavy taxpayers to make payments to advance the state's debt, the governor is now asking Michigan from going under, Governor Williams tried to explain the state's financial condition. He denied that Michigan had gone overboard as a "welfare" state, contending instead that a Republican controlled legislature had refused to raise taxes sufficiently to meet the state's financial needs.

He went on to explain that Michigan's system of taxation was outmoded and that the slump in the automotive industry had created widespread unemployment.

But Governor Williams' explanation, was not altogether convincing.

Now it comes to light that the state of Michigan, burdened with its cash crisis, is missing its payroll this week. About $100,000 in state payroll is being held up by the depleted general fund. Even the $48,000 payroll for the legislature will have to be held up.

To say that all this is embarrassing to the state of Michigan would be an understatement. For the last several weeks the governor's office of the Wolverine state has been mailing out all kinds of explanatory matter to the newspapers of the country.

The latest such mailing included reprints of a series of articles in THE TIMES-NEWS trying to convince the critics—being heaped upon the state. It also included a copy of a full page ad, "The Real Truth About Michigan," which was published in The New York Journal American and the New York Times. It is the American Newspaper Publishers association was in convention in New York city.

But all this cannot minimize the fact that Michigan is in serious trouble for the same reason that many other states are headed for the same doom. Michigan just happens to be the first state to go completely overboard. Things are so bad there now that the state is playing with the idea of liquidating its $5-million-dollar veterans' trust fund. Some four million dollars is due for counties for public welfare, including about 2.5 million dollars for about 15,000 families on relief in unemployment burdened Detroit.

MONEY WANTED WITHOUT OUTSIDE HELP—It is questionable whether these emotional and imprudent policies will lead to a recovery. RUSSIAN TRADE DEALS WITH SEVERAL SOUTH AMERICAN COUNTRIES—Now are the economic, diplomatic and political relations between the Soviet Union and several South American countries in Berlin and Rio, overlooking the Latin-American scene. Khrushchev and his associates have made their deal with Brazil, Chile and Venezuela, exchanging machinery for raw materials. Castro has said that he would buy and sell in the Muscovite market.

Thus, the new post-Castro nationalism coincides and clashes with the growing need for American goods and economic aid. How to help them without exhuming the ugly specter of "imperialism and colonialism" will be a task for Secretary of State Eisenhower in his cordial over Berlin and the Middle East.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

BIG GIVEAWAY—Congressmen investigating waste in government might do well to start at home. Right in the capital. The big giveaway of public money is going on at a brisk clip in Washington.

One of the first cases that come to mind is the recent awarding of a contract for the purchase of payroll. Congressmen have been hiring relatives who put in only token hours, and some no hours at all, at exorbitant salaries.

But when a committee of representatives met recently to investigate this Capitol Hill nepotism, the probe turned their fire on the newspaper reporters who had uncovered the dirt.

Rep. Frank E. Smith, D. Miss., said newsmen had been "wasting a lot of time" digging into nepotism when "this great journalistic talent" could have been used to report on more important things.

Of course, the great-great-grandfather was judging themselves to be no action. Why stop a good thing?

Other examples of waste in dodging construction items run every day. Each year thousands in what the southerners laughingly call "wallpaper money" in U. S. foreign aid contracts are paid for jobs that are never completed. An accounting of these funds? Don't be silly.

Creative confusions of the lawmakers at the capital are not neglected. Sen. Paul Douglas, D. Ill., Wednesday pointed out that the plush new senate office building was equipped with a four-million-dollar new subway to save senators 50 steps. That works out to $80,000 a step by Douglas' reckoning. And that's a pretty expensive stair—Nampa Press Post.

A HORRIBLE EXAMPLE—As the nation's outstanding example of financial responsibility the plight of the state of Michigan seems increasingly horrible.

Michigan's taxes are high; but an exorbitant proportion of the tax revenue is earmarked for a variety of welfare programs.

Lately the state appealed for advance payment of some taxes. That's one's own and now. Now the state treasury is bare, and the credit is exhausted. It is unable to meet its payroll this week, totaling about $100,000 and including the pay of the legislature. Next week its four million-dollar payroll for counties for expenses including public welfare.

There are apparently two possible ways out. Governor Earl Williams has proposed that the state set up a temporary stop-gap liquidation of the fifty-million-dollar veterans' trust fund. The Republican legislature won't go along with that. The state is to a one-cent increase in the state's three per cent sales tax. And the governor apparently balks at that.

It's rough on Michigan; but this is a development that may be very valuable to others as an impressive demonstration of what not to do.—Boise Statesman.

NOT SO SMART—Americans aren't so smart. They're not nearly so smart as we think.

Despite the reasons for their smoking and their cancer are linked—our cigarette consumption (not just intended) last year increased, as it does every year.

And despite the overwhelming evidence that bulk vaccine is 85 to 90 per cent effective in warding off polio, $18 million in the summer of 1958 as $35 million still have not bothered to get the shot. Worse, half of our children under 6 aren't yet vaccinated.

We give better preventive maintenance to our automobiles—Eugene Register-Guard.

POT SHOTS

ANENT TICKS, EQUINICIDE

Dear Pops:

The news item pertaining to ticks and the disease of tularemia and result caused me to reminisce a bit. A case of wood tick is the same today as it was 30 years ago. And it's not a sheep tick.

My lambs were going downhill cold as you and feet going out were more ticks than wool so with homemade cabins on the desert, I was a little bit of a crocodile. A barrel of this solution and we started dipping lambs.

Sundown came and we all looked like a walking sack of crocodile solution. Today it is a disease entitled tularemia, but my lambs immediately improved with their crocodile bath.

Now, if space permitted, a bit of fun. The tularemia and I belonged to a crocodile club. I was a member at all, and the hostess had promised I would be sure to be a hot house for the party.

I said, "Hattie, will be there if I have to kill a horse?"

"This night, home at dark, she crocodile, redecorated, jumped into a pool and out on the road. The neighbor's horse, home in the poor light. A crash, and he got home, dangled one front leg back to the house, grab the rifle and hired man's car, meet the neighbor and horse behind him, pulled the trigger, jumped into second model T and headed for the party."

"They were all sitting down as we arrived and Hattie said, 'Well, you did get her, didn't you, Harty?'"

"Yep, but I had to kill that horse first."

"Nobody believed me except the Missus. She was."

WASHINGTON

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Uncle Sam's government gets into some queer deals when it abandons sound business principles and tries to channel its buying into untested areas, so help industries suffering from a recession.

Most of these well-intentioned efforts cost a lot of money and do little good. It's the taxpayer who feels it.

Three fine examples of this kind of government aid program are:

Depressed U. S. railroad equipment—builders put up a plea that this money should be spent here. A deal was made with India that it would spend half the allocation in the U. S. half in other countries.

If India had been able to spend the entire sum in other countries, it would have received 100 locomotives and 11,200 railway cars. The deal worked out, India had to increase the allocation by $2 million dollars. This was to pay for the higher cost of procurement of the U. S. half. But for the $3 million, India got 100 locomotives and only 5,500 cars.

India deposited the equivalent of only 30 million dollars in rupees to pay for this equipment. The U. S. got paid for the rest of the extra $3 million dollars, to pay for the additional equipment India didn't get.

"Which," as the old saying goes, "is a hell of a way to run a railroad."

Elko Schedules Amateur Rodeo

ELKO, Nev., May 2 (Special)—The Silver State Stampede, All American Amateur rodeo has been scheduled for June 12 through 14 at the fairgrounds in Elko. John Gamnik, coordinator of the event reported Saturday.

First Eagle Scout in Alaska Visits Grandparents in Area

BURLEY, May 2—Larry Matthews, the first Eagle Scout of Alaska, a former resident of Burley, is visiting here after returning from the social-centennial Lincoln parade in Springfield, Ill., where he represented the state of Alaska.

There were 14,000 Scouts there representing 42 states of the mainland along with Hawaii, Puerto Rico, India and Alaska.

Young Matthews came to the States accompanied by his father, Howard Matthews, who is the commissioner of education for Alaska.

He works in San Francisco, Washington, D. C., and Chicago on school business. Matthews is a former principal at Heburn high school and lived in Rupert.

The Matthews family has lived in Jurupa for the past six years. Mrs. Matthews is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Crater, Burley. Larry was in Burley, visiting his maternal grandparents as well as his paternal grandparents, Mrs. Lillie A. Matthews.

Larry left Friday and will meet his father in Seattle to fly back to Juneau. He has a 16-year-old brother, Keith, who is a Cub Scout.

Three Zones Involved in Tuesday Election

Class A school district No. 411 residents in zones 1, 3 and 4, will cast ballots from 1 to 7 p.m. Tuesday as voters cast ballots from 1 to 7 p.m. at Bickel and Lincoln schools. The men are seeking election to the three positions, with two candidates running in zone 3. Voters will be residents of the district, taxpayers or the parents or guardians of minor children in the district. Candidates are, zone 1, William Powell, incumbent, and Eldon L. Jackman; zone 3, David Barry, incumbent, Donald K. Zuck, and zone 4, Henry Colner. (Staff photo-enshrining) appliance salesman for Sears, Roebuck and company.

 During his first year as a member of the local Jaycees group, Jackman served on the board of directors, becoming a first vice president the following year.
 He elected to the trustee position of the Jaycees in 1958. Jackman will be following in the footsteps of his father who served for 10 years on the school board in Provo, Utah. He has two boys in school to work for Dewellers. Zuck is next year, Jackman says, and I hope to purchase a seat for the firm, Zuck says. He has two sons and a daughter, Donald, 7, and Diane, 3.
 The board will also have as the trustee the family attends St. Edward's problems facing local schools to be the first and foremost representative to the board of directors, Zuck is also trustee of the school district Holy Spirit committee. Zuck Powell, 32, is the father of two school children and a son, Marilyn, 7. A member of the Lions club and Naucy, 4 and Gary B. Ice Age Animal Found on Farm

LAPAYETTE, Ind., May 2 (AP)—A prehistoric party, the newly complete skeleton of an ice age elephant, has been unearthed accidentally in northern Indiana farmland.
 Parts of the skeleton were discovered by a soil conservation party digging ditches last week in Fulton county, Purdue university geologists were notified, and they suggested an excavation project.
 So far they have recovered several hundred bones weighing more than 400 pounds.
 The skeleton is believed to be that of an elephant that roamed the north American continent about 8,000 years ago.
 Powell was appointed to the board of directors, Zuck is also trustee of the school district Holy Spirit committee. Zuck Powell, 32, is the father of two school children and a son, Marilyn, 7. Liquor Costs 5 Cents More In State Now

BOISE, May 2 (AP)—Liquor and wine costs for one a bottle more throughout Idaho today.
 The state raised the price Friday at 111 dispensaries, the only places in Idaho where you can legally buy a bottle.
 The action was taken because the 1959 legislature failed to increase the liquor tax by 2 1/2 per cent, said Fred Charlton, state dispensary superintendent.
 Gov. Robert E. Smylie had asked that the surtax be raised from 7 1/2 to 10 per cent, but the lawmakers refused.
 Charlton said he thought the five-cent raise applied to all varieties of wine and liquor bought at retail prices.
 "This is the more equitable way," he said, and added that the percentage increase might have cut down sales of higher priced brands.
 The money will go into the state fund, from which per capita shares are paid to counties, municipalities and junior colleges.
 Because of the increase, some inner-market dispensary employees will be given raises of five to ten per cent, Charlton said.

Honor Day Held At State Campus

MOSCOW, Ida., May 2 (AP)—Some 200 Idaho high school students were greeted at the University of Idaho's Honor Day today, when university students gave homage to other students for scholastic achievement.
 The students heard addresses by educators and administrators during the day, then were guests at a variety show and outdoor dance at the evening.
 Before returning home Sunday, they will attend the church of convocation message by Dick Verba, Flupper, associated students president.

PAID VACATIONS

HAILEY, May 2 — Mrs. Hattie Clements and Mrs. Ollie Sheppard went to Lava Hot Springs this week. They plan to spend 10 days at the resort.

Three Twin Falls School Trustees to Be Chosen in Election Here Tuesday

Three positions on the Twin Falls school board will be filled Tuesday as voters cast ballots from 1 to 7 p.m. at Bickel and Lincoln schools.
 Trustees will be elected from three zones, 1, 3 and 4. Positions for zones 2 and 6 will be filled in 1960.
 Candidates for zone 1 are William Powell, incumbent, and Eldon L. Jackman. Zone 3 candidates are David Barry, incumbent, and Donald K. Zuck. Running with opposition in zone 4 is Henry Colner. Robert E. Colner, zone 4 incumbent, announced Friday that he was withdrawing from the race.
 To vote, an individual must reside in the district concerned, pay real property taxes or be the parent or guardian of a minor child in the school district under 21 years of age.
 Barry, 34, was raised and educated in Twin Falls, graduating from the local high school in 1942. He obtained a degree in business economics from the College of Idaho at Caldwell. He saw statehood service in the navy and the army.
 Barry and his wife are the parents of four children, Cynthia, 10, Donald, 8, Gordon, 7, and Kathy, 6. All of his children attend Kentucky who starts school this fall, are enrolled in school. They are Presbyterian.
 Zuck elected a trustee position, "I'm a job that somebody has to do. I certainly have an interest in it because of the children. Although I'm only on the board a year, and there's a lot more for me to do every year, I've tried diligently to attend to it at least for another term."
 Colner, 45, lives in Blainmont and Twin Falls most of his life. He has resided in Twin Falls since 1931 and attended university four years later, majoring in social science and engineering.
 Married, Colner's family consists of his wife and three children, Kenneth, 16, Robert, 14, and Deborah, 14 months. The family attends the Presbyterian church.

Foot-Stomping Mannie Shaw Demonstrates Fiddler's Crouch

Corral's foot-stomping, fiddle-playing champion, Mannie Shaw, demonstrates his crouching hoodown style at Welser's Northwest oldtime fiddling championship contest. Shaw, who holds a fiddling jamboree annually in August at his ranch near Corral, placed fifth in the April contest. His homemade fiddle is credited with having the loudest tone of any at the Welser event. Only one other fiddler, Jimmy Wilder, New Meadows, has placed as high in the contest as consistently as Shaw. Shaw's accompanists are Henry Mademacher, Hagerman, piano, and Jen Louler, Twin Falls, banjo. Ross Crispino, Nampa, fiddle, was master of ceremonies. (Staff engraving)

Jan Meyer, Twin Falls high school student, placed seventh in the statewide championship fiddling contest at Welser. She was accompanied on the piano by her mother, Mrs. Betty Meyer Hopper, winner of the first regional championship held in 1956. Mrs. Meyer placed sixth in 1957 and seventh in 1958 in the Northwest contest. She was third in the 1958 regional contest. (Staff engraving)

Rupert Group Plans Road-co

RUPERT, May 7—The annual three-sponsored safe driving road-co will be held in Rupert May 14, according to Al Ralls, local chairman. Applications are being accepted at the schools for drivers between ages 14 and 16. The event is open to students in that age bracket who have not had a moving traffic violation during the past six months. Primary tests will be held at the schools May 14. Ralls explained that the winner of the local contest will be eligible to enter the state contest. Last year's local winner, Dallas Christie, won the state contest and set 10th in national competition at Washington, D. C.

Funeral Is Held For Mrs. Frantz

Funeral services for Mrs. W. W. Frantz were conducted Saturday at the First Christian church. The Rev. Donald Hoffman officiated and music was provided by James O. Reynolds, soloist, and Thelma Bradford, organist. Pallbearers were William H. Bakes, Max L. Brown, R. A. Dingfield, Maurice D. Harritt, Dale Huling and Vey Eish. Members of the American Legion—auxiliary—and auxiliary of Magic Valley barracks No. 509, Veterans of World War I, served as honorary pallbearers. They included Lena Kunkle, Helen Goetzman, Olive Lawson, Ellen Hayward, Pearl Buchanan, Jewell Von Ins, Ella Crow, Mabel Johnson, Paul Johnson, Arville Cormier, Leona Salmon, Christina Petersen, Hazel Russell, Leslie Benoit, Esther Noble, Hazel Bucklin and Wren Pilsion. Concluding rites were held at Sunset Memorial park.

Hailey Riding Club Tells of Future Plans

HAILEY, May 2—The annual breakfast ride for members of the Sawtooth Rangers Riding club has been set for May 24. Their regular meeting was held at the Hitchcock Thursday evening.

Riders will congregate at the rodeo corral here and ride the thirteen miles to the Hot Springs ranch of David Ayars, their usual stamping grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. William Uhrig all Hailey, and Mr. and Mrs. George Venable and Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Hegstrom, all Ketchum, are in charge of arrangements.

Invitation Accepted

The group has accepted an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCoy, members of the club, to a potluck meal at 8 a. m. June 14 at the McCoy summer cabin near Easley. They will ride in the adjoining hills before the breakfast.

Chairmen of the different fourth of July rodeo committees were named. They are Ray McCoy, assisted by Mrs. Theodore Uhrig, advertising; Rupert Howe, ticket sales; Wayne Clark, rodeo and grounds; Morgan DeBoard and Theodore Uhrig, dance; Steven Doreak, rifle; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allred, decorations; and William Uhrig, sprinkling of the grounds.

These committees will meet with President Carl Schoester in the near future and appoint other members on their committees.

Carey Pass Invited

The group voted to invite the Carey people to put on chili and at the rodeo.

Drill practices will begin at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the rodeo grounds and all persons interested in practicing for the jamboree are invited to attend.

The group voted not to sponsor a rodeo queen this year but to sponsor a "Miss Jamboree" contest. The local group will join with the state and perhaps national associations.

Eight clubs are included in the district jamboree association this year. Four jamborees will be held with Clarence Perry and Gooding, Jerome and Twin Falls, Shoshone and Bluffville, and Carey and Hailey.

Delegates Named

Finalists from these contests will compete in contests with other associations. Theodore Uhrig is the local club's delegate to the state jamboree planning meeting which will be held in the near future.

May 23 was set as the next meeting night. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson and Dr. and Mrs. Grant Hawkes were appointed as a committee on arrangements.

The meeting place has not yet been named.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Oscar Clark and Wayne Clark.

4-H Girls Meet

Arta Griffin, hostess, presided Thursday at the Thrifty Laestis 4-H club at the home of her parents.

Sheral Garmeyer demonstrated neck lines. Scholarships for the 4-H club camps were discussed. Cheryl Arma was introduced as a member and Sharon VanAuden was a guest.

Marilyn Robertson, assistant leader, will be hostess for the next meeting.

Rockefeller's Lingual Fetes Noted in N. Y.

NEW YORK, May 2—In New York, A. Rockefeller was called upon to use his command of Spanish and French Friday, but he spoke plain English when the question of presidential aspirations came up.

A woman reporter for a French newspaper asked a number of questions — in French — about social and political problems in his press conference, to which he replied, also in French, that the questions were too important to be discussed in French and he would be happy to discuss them in Spanish with Cecelia Pimentel, 71, a social worker of Caracas, Venezuela, named outstanding woman of the year by the United Women of the Americas.

Still later he mentioned to newsmen that he would speak at the Capitol Hill club in Washington in June. A newsmen asked if that didn't indicate that he was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I don't interpret that way you interpret it," he said, "I am concerned," replied Rockefeller. He went on to say he had helped to found the club and had been an active member for many years.

RESORT TO BE OPENED

HAILEY, May 2—Mr. and Mrs. D.W. Cornish have moved to their summer home at the backwaters of Magic Reservoir to get ready to open their resort for business when the fishing season opens.

Council Bluffs, Ia., on the Missouri river was named that because the bluff on which the town is located was once the site of Indian post-works.

Basin Study On Columbia Begins Again

PORTLAND, Ore., May 2—A seven-state compact for uses of Columbia basin water got one of its periodic studies here today and the chairman said he hoped to have a final draft ready for 1951 legislation.

The Columbia compact commission was set up in 1951. Glenn H. Larson, Thompson Falls, Mont., commission chairman, said he was encouraged over progress toward final agreement since last fall.

The compact will be submitted to congress after it is ratified by the four principal members, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon. It may be joined by Wyoming, Utah and Nevada, if those states approve.

The next meeting will be held at Seattle June 8-9. Larson said the office of executive secretary, vacant since last fall, will be filled from applicants to be accepted by May 20 at the commission's Spokane office.

Geneva, Switzerland, was once annexed by France.

Gets BYU Award Byrnes to Visit Churchill Again

ROBERT HALL, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Hall, Rupert, who has been awarded a $500 scholarship from Brigham Young University. The scholarship is based on scholastic standing and school activities. It is given in four installments of $125 for each of the four years. (Staff engraving)

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 3—James P. Byrnes, 80 years old today, says he will renew acquaintance next Wednesday with Winston Churchill at a White House dinner.

Churchill, 84-year-old former British prime minister, is coming to this country as a personal guest of President Eisenhower.

When Byrnes was secretary of state during World War II he had many contacts with Churchill. President Franklin Roosevelt referred to Byrnes as the "Jamboree president."

Remarkings on current events Byrnes said he felt the former never would have given many months notice to get out of Britain if he intended to go to war with it. He added that he couldn't imagine A. Hitler, new secretary of state, "exceptionally well-qualified."

Plans Concert

BARBARA SHOOK... will present violin concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Hurley high school auditorium.

Boise Group To Sponsor Music Event

HURLEY, May 2 - Barbara Shook, violinist from Boise, is presenting a concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Hurley high school auditorium.

College Unit To Give Play At Shoshone

SHOSHONE, May 2 - The Vesper Players, Linfield college students from Astoria, Ore., will appear at 8 p.m. Saturday, bringing Biblical plays to the Shoshone Baptist church.

The program of the Vesper Players is designed for the worship service in the church and will be presented in the church sanctuary.

Equipment Brought - The group uses no special props or elaborate stage settings. Lighted costumes and effects are all a part of the equipment which they bring.

One of the plays which the players present is "The Omen at the Wells" written by W. Somerset Maugham. She is a Linfield alumna of the class of 1935.

The cast has six members, including the director, and all are volunteers. Players represent several of the churches in the vicinity as well as various fields of study at the college.

Group Started in '32 - Religious drama has served the church from its infancy. In 1932 a group of Linfield college students, realizing the need of promoting drama in the churches of the West, organized a troupe and sought Prof. R. D. Mahaffey to join them as director.

The purpose of the players over the years has been to present the drama in the churches as a dramatic and local portrayal. They also assist local churches in their own program of church drama.

PTA Group Gives Fete on May Day - Parents and 94 pre-school children were guests at a May day party given Friday by the Harrison PTA.

The children will enter the first grade next fall. British War school principal, welcomed the guests and while the children visited classrooms she spoke to parents about enrollment requirements and school policies.

George Choung, school nurse, spoke about the school health program. Committee members in charge of arrangements were Mrs. Douglas Trail, chairman; Mrs. David Barrett, Mrs. Bob Peacock and Mrs. G. W. Westbrook. Others who assisted were Mrs. Don Rutchings, Mrs. Otis Black, Mrs. Nancy Williams and Mrs. Richard Heinz. Cookies were provided by first grade mothers.

Mrs. Gus Ealand and Miss Way presided at the tea table which was decorated with a beautiful array of flowers and green tapers.

Pastor Resigns - The Rev. Richard Williams, pastor of the Community Baptist church, has announced his resignation to church trustees.

The Rev. Mr. Williams announced this week that he and his wife and two daughters will move to Westminster, Calif., the latter part of May. He came here as pastor of the Baptist church some two years ago from Fabernort.

Plans for Benefit Program Discussed

Mrs. Norman Sigmon, left, Mrs. Ray Burton, center, president of the Rupert Jay-C-Ettes, and school superintendent Camden Meyer discuss plans for the benefit program being sponsored by the Jay-C-Ettes on Thursday to raise funds for the Exceptional Child school.

The school has been a project of the Jay-C-Ettes since it was started in 1927. The school is not operating now because of lack of a teacher, but it is planned to hire a teacher so the school will again be in session next fall. (Staff photo-engraving)

Rupert Jay-C-Ettes to Hold Show to Raise School Fund

RUPERT, May 2 - Top Music Valley talent will be featured at the benefit show being sponsored by the Rupert Jay-C-Ettes Thursday.

The show, to be held at the Linfield county high school auditorium, will raise funds for the Exceptional Child school which is a project of the Jay-C-Ettes.

This has been a major project of the local organization since the school was first started in 1927. This fall, the school will open in a new building in the addition being built at the Pershing school in Rupert.

Before this it was held in a room at the Iyeburn school. Since the death of Mrs. Ruth McGraw, teacher of the special class, the school has not operated because the district has been unable to find a replacement.

School superintendent Camden Meyer said yesterday that the board of trustees hopes to have a teacher for the class this fall.

The new quarters, for the place will feature an outside entrance with a ramp to accommodate those who must use wheel chairs, and will have private rest room facilities and a drinking fountain in the rest room for the convenience of the children.

Arrangements will be made for serving hot lunches in the room. According to Mrs. Ray Burton, president of the Jay-C-Ettes, the group hopes to raise sufficient funds to buy special equipment.

Clerk to Move

SHOSHONE, May 2 - Patricia J. Hurley, who has been office clerk for the farmers home administration here, is transferring to the PTA office in Salmon, her home town.

Roy Gloom, Shoshone supervisor, stated Mrs. Robert Haddock will be working in the office on a part-time basis until a full-time clerk can be located.

SIE'S STILL PATIENT

HALLEY, May 2 - Mrs. Pauline Goulette is still a patient at Sun Valley hospital where she has undergone surgery as a result of a car accident in which she was injured Labor day 1938. Both legs and her body are in a cast to her chest. She celebrated her birthday anniversary yesterday.

Hailey Club Will Work on Project

HALLEY, May 2 - Members of the senior class of Hailey high school will climb the south slope of Carbonate mountain northwest of Hailey this week-end to enlarge the "H" which was placed there last week-end by several of the class boys.

They also will put up the first marker commemorating the class of '38, which started the tradition. The class members have announced that in future years it will be the responsibility of the freshman class to repaint the "H" as part of their initiation into high school.

Last week's adventure was somewhat curtailed by wind. Although it's started the ascent they soon gave up and had hamburgers prepared for the boys who made the climb.

The letter is painted on a ledge.

Shah of Iran Interested in Ex-King of Italy's Daughter

ROME, May 2 (U)-The Shah of Iran, still looking for an heir to his throne, heard back to back news reports with matrimony in mind that he is interested in the daughter of Italy's ex-king. The word that the Moem Shah is definitely interested in Princess Maria Gabriella of Savoy, a Roman Catholic, and is ready to handle the religious obstacles came today from an Iranian royal court spokesman in Rome. "The marriage would be looked upon with pleasure in Iran if religious difficulties can be overcome," said the spokesman, Chodjedineh Chah, Iranian cultural counselor here. Chah said the Shah may see Princess Maria on his six-week visit to Europe. The Shah plans to spend some time in Switzerland, where Maria lives with her parents, former King Umberto II and ex-Queen Maria Jose. Maria now is visiting in Portugal with her father. The handsome, 39-year-old Shah needs to stabilize his position at home by providing a male heir to the throne.

Local Tuberculosis Workers Told of Enormous Job Ahead

"The task of eradicating tuberculosis in the United States is still enormous," district tuberculosis association officers were told Friday by Jack Gleason, New York City, assistant to the managing director of the National Tuberculosis association.

Gleason met at the Twin Falls city hall with county chairman to outline ideas for making the seal sale more successful. He pointed out that receipts from the seal sale are the only source of funds to carry on the association program.

At present, one of the greatest problems we face is that of public apathy," said Gleason. "Since new cases in the United States are still being reported, people seem to feel the disease is whipped, and this is far from true. The incidence of cases has not dropped proportionately to the death rate decrease, and constant vigilance is necessary to reach our goal of eradicating the disease by 1970."

Early locating of infected persons through mobile X-ray units is responsible in part for the death decrease, Gleason said, attending the school were tuberculosis.

The cost of tuberculosis to the American people is still 700 million a year, Gleason reported. This doesn't include family aid or wage loss.

A number of cases of lung cancer and heart disease have also been located by the X-ray unit, and in several health cases, have been responsible for saving lives.

Five undiagnosed and untreated cases of tuberculosis in Magic Valley could result in 31,250 cases in five years time, at the normal incidence rate, Gleason said, making a continuation of testing a vital program, Gleason pointed out.

He explained new testing methods which may be used with school children, and new treatment methods used for children showing positive reactions on tests. Members of the staff of the South-central district health unit participated in the discussions.

Changing for Liquor Laws Eyed by City

At a meeting of the Twin Falls city commission Monday night, an ordinance amending the liquor ordinance was presented for consideration. The ordinance would bring local laws in line with recent changes made in the state statutes.

The commission will listen to the report from the city attorney on the results announced, but were by the supreme court on the White (Hindman) firm company zoning case.

A request for a curb out will be acted upon and an ordinance varying part of the alley in block 11 at the Cove hotel site will be heard.

With the change in banking hours, the commission will discuss closing of city hall offices on Saturdays.

A revised plan of the Floyd-Sterner subdivision is to be submitted for approval of the board.

Provisions to be adopted include: City day, Senior City month and Law day, USA.

The April payroll will also be submitted for approval of the commission.

Alabama's first settlers were French.

Special guests of the evening were the young people, who will be eligible for membership next year.

Carolyn Ravenscroft and Hollie Conklin served the 25 young people who attended.

Actress Thelma Ritter Says "Star" Doesn't Mean Actor

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Veteran actress Thelma Ritter says she thinks Hollywood could take a lesson from the theater.

The word "star" has been kicked around so much it has lost its meaning, she says.

"Some very fine actors aren't very big film stars aren't stars," she says.

There should be one-star stars, two-star stars and three-star stars, just as the military has one-star generals, two-star generals and three-star generals.

"If the movie industry ever does adopt such a system, it would be quite a problem to figure just how many stars there should be," she says.

For Thelma Ritter has been nominated for an Academy award in supporting actress roles. She is widely recognized by producers and the public, as one of the most dependable performers in show business.

The love of acting has been a major mainstay of her life, and it started young. She was born in Brooklyn, the only child of a church soloist and his wife.

"The French have an old saying: 'An only child makes three fools,'" she said, "and there is some truth to it."

"But an only child has a great luxury—the luxury of being lonely." People today don't appreciate the advantage of being lonely individually. They seek loneliness en masse."

Lonely Thelma Ritter, at the age of 8 was doing monologues in clubs and churches. At 10 she went to work in an office to earn the money to attend a drama school.

"I could afford only one year at the school."

There followed 14 years of stock throughout New England, low-paid years of hard work during which she played literally hundreds of roles. But looking back on them now she thinks of them as pretty wonderful.

During that time she met and married a young actor, Joseph Moran, now a retired advertising executive. They have been married more than 30 years, have two children.

"Young actors now need 10 times the equipment I needed when I started," she said, "except for the work of a few writers, such as Eugene O'Neill, the plays were pretty bad. They often didn't require much talent."

"Much more is demanded of young actors today. Modern plays are written with a deeper insight of how people really are."

How does any young person ever hammer up the courage to try for a career in the field as capricious as the theater?

"The average professional actor works under three months of each year, and earns only about $1,200."

"I remember one time years ago when I became tired and disgusted with the life. I threatened to quit and take a 9-to-5 job, and my roommate just laughed and said, 'You won't be happy. You can't do anything but squares.'"

Poachers to Meet

HAILEY, May 2—The Poachers club will meet at the Blackhawk Thursday evening at the club officers.

The club was organized one year ago by a group of Blaine county residents interested in the game development and protection. Its charter officers were: Donald Nicholson, president; Gerald Egan, vice president; and Ray McCoy, secretary-treasurer. The terms are now expired.

At-First Meet

MOSSBO, Idaho, May 2 (U... William H. Baker, head of the department of biological sciences of the University of Idaho, was elected first president of the Idaho Academy of Science in its initial meeting today on the Idaho campus.

Baker had served as temporary president during the year's operation last year.

Alvin R. Allen of Northwest Nazarene college was elected vice president. John J. Gallagher, Porterville, was named secretary.

About 100 members attended the meeting and plotted the course of action for the coming year—heard three major addresses and 31 research papers by professors and students.

The academy claims 240 members.

Idaho state college was selected for the second annual meeting April 20-21 next year in Porterville.

Utah's Governor Lists Confidence In Air Defense

SALT LAKE CITY, May 2 (U.P.)—Gov. George D. Clyde said today he has "a lot more confidence in our air defense program" after a tour at Maxwell air force base, Ala. Clyde returned to Utah from an air force war college.

"We have a lot of problems to work out in regard to international tensions," Clyde said, "but I know our defense position is on a sound ground."

Clyde said the public should have little better informed about defense.

"I am more fully convinced that we have got to be consistently on the alert if we are to remain at peace," he said.

Martha Mead To Be Band's Guest

MARSHA MEAD, soprano-alto of the recent "Carousels" production, will be guest artist at the third annual "pop" concert to be presented by Twin Falls high school band at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Mead will be featured in selections from "South Pacific," and the Spanish song, "Granada."

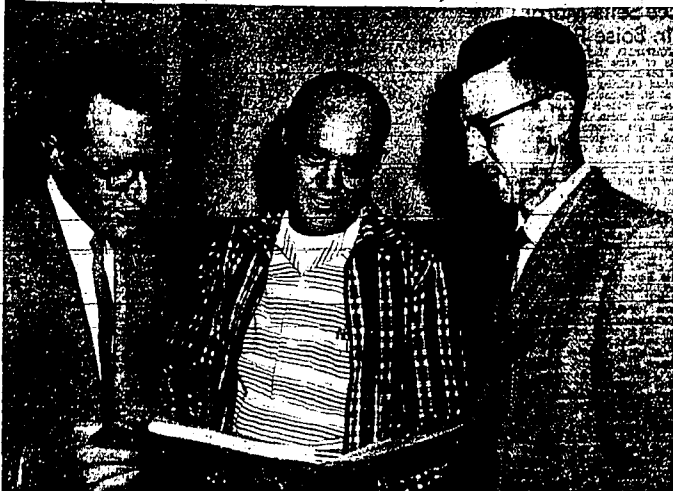

Directed by instructor Del Slaughter, the band will perform special concert arrangements of light classics, standard popular music and colorful South American numbers.

Another special feature of the concert will be the Walter Schumann "Variations on a Folk Song" in styles of famous classical composers.

Charles Rattelle will serve as narrator and the school dance band will add variety, Slaughter reports.

Elementary school children will be admitted free if accompanied by their parents.

Southern Idaho Insurance Group Presidency Changes

Following election of officers at the May meeting of the Southern Idaho Insurance Association, following President Norman Henshaw, left, went over important points with new President Glen Terry, center, and Ross Prather, vice president. Grant Reynolds, Jerome, was named by the group as national committee man. (Staff photo-graming.)

Insurance Men Elect, Review Plans for Sun Valley Meeting

New officers were elected Saturday by the Southern Idaho Insurance Association, and plans made for several members to attend the state convocation in Sun Valley May 22 and 23.

Glen Terry, Twin Falls, was named to head the group for the coming year, and Ross Prather of Twin Falls, was elected vice president.

Terry will appoint the new secretary, National committee member elected at the meeting was Grant Reynolds, Jerome.

Terry reported on the new national association building recently purchased in Washington, D.C.

Hairing National Committee member Clifford Merrill reported on progress of reorganization of state insurance laws authorized by the last session of the legislature.

State and local bylaws will be postponed until next year, said Grant Russell, legislative chairman. This will give local groups an opportunity for study and discussion, he said.

Ray Waggoner, Boise, was a guest.

Soviet Theory About Moons Called Fiction

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., May 2 (U.P.)—Soviet scientist's theory about the two moons of Mars was termed "scientific fiction nonsense" by a U.S. astronomer today.

Dr. E. C. Sipher, internationally recognized authority on Mars and director emeritus of Lowell observatory here, said the Russian theory was baseless.

"Soviet" scientist I. Shklovsky theorized that the two small moons were satellites orbiting by a now extinct race of Martians.

Dr. Sipher said bodies of such size, one moon is 15 miles in diameter, the other seven, could not have been manufactured and launched.

"It would be comparable," he said, "to propelling the entire land mass of 12,660-foot San Francisco peaks near Flagstaff into space."

Concluding rites were held at the Wendell cemetery.

Study Center Is Opened in Italian Town

LA SPZAZIA, Italy, May 2 (U.P.)—North Atlantic allies opened an anti-submarine research center in this Italian Riviera town today and an American admiral denounced the Soviet submarine menace.

The center, financed by a U.S. grant of 2 1/2 million dollars, is staffed by military and civilian experts from the United States, Canada, Denmark, France, West Germany, Italy, Holland, Norway and Britain. It will be supervised by the supreme Allied Atlantic command with headquarters at Naples, Italy.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, supreme allied naval commander in the Atlantic, attended the dedication ceremonies along with other high officers and United States and British navy men.

He said it "is known that the Soviets have a very strong underwater fleet, capable of maintaining communications between the countries of the free world."

Boy, 4, Can't Stop Smoking

MADERA, Calif., May 2 (U.P.)—Curtis Glenn Sanders, Jr., was only 6 months old when he began eating cigarettes. A month later he began smoking them.

Now 4 1/2 he got the habit so bad he can't break it, say his parents. And he has added ping and clear.

His parents say they have tried to deprive him of his smacks but then he cries, often to the point because he's too young to handle matches safely, they help him light up.

Signals Mixed

CHERBOURG, France, May 2 (U.P.)—A Boy Scout marching signals caused a small French traveler to go around here Friday night.

The Scout was making "off" signals with flags atop a cliff. The traveler, captivated about to enter port, believed the Scout was in charge of controlling traffic following an accident and ordered "full speed ahead."

The traveler hit a sand bank and was around until high tide.

U. S. Blamed For Reliance On H-Bombs

WASHINGTON, May 2 (U.P.)—The association of the United States says overreliance on hydrogen weapons is forcing American diplomacy and strategy into a corner.

"The present military posture of the United States is out of balance," the association says in a full influence on war and peace negotiations, that lie on the broad "line of the flag" at one end, and "the nuclear war" at the other.

"The association is headed by Maj. Gen. A. J. Dezer, Bridge, N.J. A committee which prepares the pamphlet listed as its chairman Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, former army chief of staff.

The organization describes itself as a nonprofit educational association of about 60,000 members. Members include civilians as well as active and retired army men. The group long has promoted army objectives.

The report said the association is gravely disturbed that so many American assets that war in Europe will necessarily be an exclusively thermonuclear war. We believe this is unrealistic.

Drought Darkens Wheat Prospects

BOZEMAN, May 2 (U.P.)—Drought clouds the outlook for spring wheat, University of Idaho extension economist Wayne Robinson said today.

Dry topsoil has delayed seeding in many areas and moisture reserves in the soil are short, he said.

Many farmers were reported seeding in the hope of rain.

Reds Are Active In Tibetan Area

KALIMPONG, India, May 2 (U.P.)—The Dalai Lama would find Tibet completely communized if he returned to his homeland, Tibetan travelers report.

They gave this account of life under the reds in the Himalayan land.

Feeling is accelerating the political indoctrination of the Tibetans, whipping up anti-Indian feelings, and confiscating properties of merchants and land owners.

IDAHO FALLS TAKES SOUTHERN IDAHO LOOP TRACK CROWN

Nampa Is Second, Bruins Third; High Wind Spoils Record-Breaking Efforts

The Idaho Falls Tigers, rated a darkhorse for team honors, scored heavily in almost every event, won six first places and breezed to the Southern Idaho conference track and field championships here Saturday. The Tigers, who entered the meet with little fanfare but had been impressive in taking the Rick's college invitation, piled on 47 points to easily outdistance runner-up Nampa, which had 35 1/2. Twin Falls Bruins surprised by finishing third, thanks to their blazing 440-yard relay team and two field events.

The Bruins secured 24 points to take third over previously unbeaten Borah, which scored 14 points in fourth place with 22 points.

The favored Lions didn't score a single first. Boice was sixth with 16 points and Poestello, the outstanding champion, 10 1/2.

Four teams took all the first ribbons for the day. Idaho Falls won six, Nampa with three and Twin Falls with three and Boice two.

A 15-mile-per-hour wind precluded addition of new records to the books and spoiled several outstanding performances. Larry Hendrickson scored 11 feet, 7 inches to better the existing record by one-eighth inch and Robertson, Nampa, jumped over the low hurdles in the best time ever clocked in the state—19 1/2. The wind also knocked out Idaho Falls-Borah double over 101 and Dick Jensen, Boice, whipped through the 220-yard dash in 22 1/2.

However, one record had to stand. That came in the revised 100-yard dash when Nampa won in 49 1/2. The medal was changed this year with the first two men in the race, Nampa's Jimmie and the old style of the first man, runner Jimmie.

Larry Clark, meet manager, said after the meet he wanted to carry the records on field events unless objections were lodged for some official area. The decision allowed Nampa to win the pole vault record, which had been set by Van O'Connor, Caldwell, in 1954. Clark, who was the meet director, turned in by Thompson, Nampa, the old branding mark, won in 1953.

Another outstanding performance was in the 100-yard dash when Nampa's Jimmie won in 49 1/2. The medal was changed this year with the first two men in the race, Nampa's Jimmie and the old style of the first man, runner Jimmie.

Pirates Clinch Tie For District Honors

HAGERMAN, May 2.—The Hagerman Pirates clinched at least a tie for the district class B baseball championship Saturday as they turned back the Hanley Wolverines 7-3, thanks to a four-run outburst in the sixth inning. In a second game, the Hagerman frosh nipped the Junior Wolverines 2-1. The Wolverines took the lead in the first game when H. A. Ford, righty single and Miller lived on extra base runner. Lefty Inchausti walked before Buff came through with a two-run single. Fordy scored on the first error.

Hagerman bounced back in the bottom of the third to tie the count and then exploded with the winning rally in the sixth. McCannan led off with a single and Palmer walked. Adolph singled both home. Then Kiser started it again with a walk and Bradford's hit sent the third run across the plate. A catcher's choice brought in the other run.

Mike Preston was credited with the win, finishing 13 Wolverines batters. He had a 2-0 record, the only extra base hit of the tilt.

The Junior Pirates scored first in the second game as walk and Adolph's single setting the stage for the first run to score on an error.

Halley batted back into a tie on a walk and Rice's double but Inchausti's Tupper carried home the deciding run when he walked, stole second and scored on McCannan's second run.

The Pirates will entertain Durley Tuesday afternoon.

By The Associated Press
The San Francisco Giants scored into the National League lead Saturday, slipping out in a 9-5 victory over the Milwaukee Braves before 20,127.

Outdistancing a furious 11-hit assault on four Milwaukee pitchers, the Giants made it two in a game in their first series of the season with a 3-0 win.

Frank Robinson and young Vada Pinning headed off slugging batter for Cincinnati, Reds, who won 3-0.

In five games this week, including four victories, the Reds have stacked up 52 runs.

Ernie Banks slammed a three-run first inning double and Johnny Gory tripled him home, accounting for all Chicago runs in the first inning of the game against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Roberto Clemente singled home the winning run with one out in the ninth inning to break up a 1-1 ball game and give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Giants Blast Braves; Take First in Loop

The Twin Falls 440-yard relay team overcame a two-minute headwind to win by more than 15 yards in the most decisive victory of the day. Frank Nelson lived up to his favorite role by hurling the flag 143 feet for another five yards and leading the team in scoring punch of Jerry Ridgeway and Larry Rogers came through with 42 points in that event for first place.

Both Ridgeway and Rogers came within an inch of beating Nelson in the old record of 8 feet, 10 inches after they had clinched the one-mile relay at 2 feet, 10 inches by making the second time the conference high jump top with Gary Gammans in 1953 for first at the same height.

Strong running Larry Kincheloe built up hopes for a fourth berth in the mile relay, but a 100-yard standing effort in the third leg of the event, Kincheloe brought the Twin Falls team to a second place in the second-place, one-mile relay. That, with a spectacular kick against the string-hind on the back stretch.

But the final man, Bill Pressy, who under a blistering wind, was taken by Nampa and Borah in the home stretch. Pressy started on the heels of Harwar's four-fourths of the race before the home free with a superlative 22 second flat quarter mile.

Killebrew's 2 Homers Pace Senators' Win

By The Associated Press
If a man in Killebrew hammered his third and fourth homers in two days and Jim Lemon connected with the bases loaded at the Washington Senators feasted on Detroit pitching for the third day in a row and blasted the Tigers Saturday 15-3.

Roy Sievers and ex-Tiger Ron Sanborn of Washington also hit for the circuit. The five homers were the most ever hit by a Washington club in a nine-inning game.

Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm survived a ninth inning scare and rattled the Cincinnati Reds to Kansas City batters for a 3-1 victory.

The big right-hander limited the A's to five hits while his battery mate, big Gus Triandos, smote the winning blow in his fifth home game of the year with Gene Woodling on base in the fourth.

Southern Herb Score limited the New York Yankees to six hits in the home stretch. Cleveland's 15-2 victory to set a two-game series with the world champions. The Boston Red Sox 14-0 home game, with homers by Jackie Jensen and Pete Runnels, leveled the Chicago White Sox 3-3.

Sanborn Repeats In Rifle Match

Grant Sanborn repeated as the top marksmen of the Twin Falls rifle intra-club match last week, posting a score of 400-343.

Sanborn, who won the first match of the series, posted his total in the 40 shots at 50 meters under the lights.

Following him were Frank Jensen, 400-328; Jo Ann Sanborn, 400-324; A. O. Becker, 400-304; Don Cole, 400-292; Harold White, 400-282; Morris Moore, 399-282; Dorothy Sanborn, 398-253; Ruth Moore, 396-292; and Andy Yarnall, 391-252.

Another night match will be fired Monday evening at the club grounds on Washington street north and the canyon.

Idaho Falls Man Wins SIC Half-Mile Crown

Idaho Falls' Russell breaks through the tape to take the Southern Caldwell center, out-dueled Poestello's Gerlach for second place in the conference 800-yard run Saturday, leaving the field strung out. White Shaw, Nampa, 30 yards behind, came in fourth. Russell's first behind him. The first Idaho Falls man took charge of what size—was only one of six the Idaho Falls team noticed in taking the veloped into a three-man race in the home stretch. Young of conference crown. Cal Wins Meet

BERKELEY, Calif., May 2 (AP)—Clutch performances by California's Jerry Sebert and Alan Clayton and a triple victory by Willie White enabled California to win the state high school track and field championships over Stanford 78-53 today.

Stanford led 50-40 points into the last four events, but Sebert upset Stanford's Eric Caudille in the 800 and Gaylord surprised Stanford's Bob Monzingo in the two-mile.

Dykes Named Detroit Boss; Norman Fired

DETROIT, May 2 (AP)—Bill Norman was fired today as manager of the Detroit Tigers and Jimmy Dykes was named to succeed him.

Norman's dismissal came immediately after his team lost 15-3 to the Washington Senators. It was Detroit's third straight loss and the 15th in 17 games this season.

Norman, 48, had the job less than two years. He took over last June 10, when Jack Tighe was fired in Boston with his team in last place.

Dykes, long-time big league manager and coach, will take over the Tigers before Sunday's double header against the New York Yankees in Briggs stadium here.

Dykes has been coaching for the Pittsburgh Pirates this season. He was a coach for the Cincinnati Reds.

Sox Swap 2 Men for Bill Hoelt

DETROIT, May 2 (AP)—The twinning Detroit Tigers today swapped south-paw pitcher Billy Hoelt to the Boston Red Sox for utility infielder Ted Lepo and pitcher Dave Sider.

Hoelt, at the time of the trade, was one of only two Detroit pitchers credited with winning a ball game this year. The Tigers lost today's game with Washington to stay at the bottom of the American League with a 2-15 record.

While Detroit obviously is desperate to come up with a winning combination, Hoelt, a 20-game winner in 1954, has good much of the last two seasons in the managerial position of the American League at 24-78.

Lepo, who has played every infield position except first base, has a big league batting average of .147. But in Detroit's Briggs stadium, he had a .287 average over a six-game stretch last season and won an extra-inning game with a homerun off Hoelt.

Sider has a lifetime mark of 34-25 and was 8-9 with Boston last season. He has a career average as a member of the hall of fame.

Both Hoelt, 26, and Sider, 27, had their winningest year in 1950. Hoelt was 20-4, Sider 12-12. Lepo, who will be 29 in July, had his best major league season at Boston, 1952, when he hit .265.

Big Seven Meet Stated Monday

GOODING, May 2 (AP)—The Big Seven conference track and field championships will be conducted Monday at the Gooding high school track field.

The meet, originally slated for Friday, was washed out, then blown out Saturday.

Minico's Spartans are favored to pick up their third consecutive major title of the year, but will have strong competition in Jerome and Durley.

Vigilantes Still Ride at Night Along Highways in Regions Around Santa Fe

SANTA FE, N. M., May 2 (AP)—The vigilantes still ride out of Santa Fe when it's moonlight on the mesa and the shadowy stretch of the highway north of town. People in thin-lipped, grim, silent, they turn off their television sets, put out their thinking man's fingers, slip into their loafers and out of their adobe houses. Saddling up their stationwagons, and convert-bles, they ride north, jaws set, eyes clear, minds joined in a common resolve to protect a way of life. There are the billboards on the highway north of town. People in thin-lipped, grim, silent, they turn off their television sets, put out their thinking man's fingers, slip into their loafers and out of their adobe houses. Saddling up their stationwagons, and convert-

Other cities welcome new industry and business and progress in the form of paved streets. Here, these things are resisted, not always successfully, but, loudly, in other places, the voice of the arid cry out alone and unheeded against the law to build any building, business or private dwelling, in anything but the adobe style. An artist aroused can be a terror. Not long ago some progressive-minded radicals managed to push through a paved street in a residential district. The day it was completed an enraged sculptor tore out-of-his-house with a sledge hammer and broke up a long stretch of curbs.

Santa Feans can't get mad over a variety of things — billboards, paving, street lights, modern buildings of glass and steel, super-highway cutting across a lovely foothill of the majestic Sangre de Cristo mountains.

But their most consistent source of irritation seems to come from Texas. Santa Feans can tolerate Texas tourists' money but not Texas tourists' money constantly. They grumble constantly that Texas are taking over their old slopes in the winter and their trout streams in the summer. Recently many people in town were enraged by a published picture showing several hundred soldiers from Texas riding the Lone Star flag on a nearby ski slope.

"Such damned galls!" said a dignified lady of Spanish origin. "In Santa Fe, only the Spaniards and Americans are referred to as natives. The Indians are called Indians and everyone else, regardless of how long they've been here, are Anglo. Both Spanish and English are spoken by the legislature, in the courts and political campaigns. The first families are Spanish. Many claim to be descended from the old conquistadores who came here in search of gold—an expedition which not only antedated the Mayflower but must have been even more crowded.

Santa Fe's Plaza has seen much of the ebb and flow of history. To begin with, it was an Indian pueblo. Then the Spanish set up shop here. Then the Indians retook the place and held it from 1699 to 1806 until the Spanish reconquered it. It was at the Plaza that the covered wagons coming down from Independence, Mo., on the Santa Fe Trail ended their journey. Here that ox-drivers, cowboys and gamblers used to take bets and criminals were locked in stocks or hogged in public. It was here that the first automobile was once sat in chains.

The original production of "Floradora." ("Tell Me, Maiden, Are There Any Stars Home Like You") played for 18 years in American theaters.

Regular Gardener Would Find 25 Acres of Asparagus Is Not Funny

After the asparagus crop is cut in the field, Mrs. Overfield, left, and Mrs. Martin take it to a nearby and cut it into seven-inch lengths and pack it in crates. They haul the crates to Twin Falls. On an average day they will cut about 600 bunches. Their asparagus is being sold in such widespread spots as Boise, Idaho Falls, Ketchikan, and Pocatello. (Staff photo-entouring)

HAZELTON, May 2 — The normal gardener struggling with the average garden under normal conditions can find himself in an abnormal situation if he plants an acre of asparagus.

Although that may sound like a mathematical equation, those who have attempted asparagus gardening know that their ability, ambitions bigger than their ability, to consume asparagus soon find themselves cutting the fast-growing plant from dawn to dusk in a desperate effort to keep ahead.

How would you like to care for a 25-acre bed of asparagus?

Well, two Magic Valley housewives are undertaking such an unusual operation on a sprawling farm south of Hazelton.

They are Mrs. Rod Overfield, Hazelton, and Mrs. Kenneth Martin, Eden.

Between the two of them — and a few part-time workers they are supplying most of the asparagus — they have about 25 acres.

This is a noble achievement, but it isn't done with ease. Their day begins at 5:30 a.m. and ends in the mid-afternoon, when they truck their produce to market in Twin Falls.

Their partnership began early this spring when they decided to be responsible for the 25-acre bed of asparagus. The bed is on a farm leased by Rod Overfield from Glenn Trull, Twin Falls.

Trull started producing the asparagus bed in 1955 when he started the crown, or the root systems. After they had matured for one year, he transplanted them. In 1958, an acre. During the 1957 growing season the plants were allowed to mature.

Last year was the first year the asparagus was harvested.

Trull said he planted the asparagus to see what the crop would do in this country in respect to yield and quality.

Last year the yields were heavy and the quality was fine," he says.

"Last year it yielded just under a ton an acre," Trull estimates the bed will yield about one and one-half tons per acre this year if all the crop is cut.

But that was somewhat of a problem last year. It yielded too much for local use and not enough to keep a cannery busy.

Last year, and this year, the bed is yielding asparagus to such widely spread communities as Boise, Idaho Falls, Ketchikan, and Pocatello — virtually all of Southern Idaho.

According to Trull, last year, the (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

Grazing Controversy in Region Said Top Interest to Everyone

BY CHARLES L. DAUBERTZ
 (Former Supervisor, Sawtooth National Forest)

The present controversy throughout southern Idaho between the stockmen and the forest service and bureau of land management is one which should be of great interest to everyone. It is not just a stockman — government — grazing problem.

The stockmen are opposing the reductions with considerable vigor. Some organized groups of livestock operators and some individual leaders of the industry have stated they propose to carry their opposition to their congressman. This means it will go to the secretaries of agriculture and interior.

It should be recognized that this highly controversial and complex question is one in which all the people of southern Idaho, and many others, have a vital interest. It is not just a stockman — government — grazing problem.

It also must be remembered that it is not a new question. It has been a constant one, sometimes seemingly cool and at other times hot, ever since any control was first attempted over the grazing of livestock on these public lands.

The question is "whether proper use should be made of these lands but rather one having to do with what is proper use and the manner in which the amount of use proper is to be determined.

The forest service and the bureau of land management, both committed to the policy of multiple use in the management of these lands, Stockmen generally agree with this principle. In the application of this principle both these agencies hold to the theory that these lands should serve the greatest good to the greatest number of people in the best way.

For southern Idaho the means serving agriculture in the best way and to the greatest extent possible, since the livestock industry is an integral part of agriculture it means further that these lands should serve this industry to the full extent of their capacity, consistent with all other legitimate uses.

With full agreement on these principles the question of the amount of livestock use which is proper still remains. The present seems to be one of the times when great has resulted in the boiling pot.

It helps to understand some of the problems involved to know that both the bureau of land management and the forest service think that the greatest function these lands can perform for agriculture is that of the production and orderly discharge of water to be used for irrigation and other uses vital to (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

These people are cutting their way through a 25-acre bed of fast-growing asparagus on a farm south of Hazelton. From left are Mr. and Mrs. Rod Overfield, Hazelton, and Mrs. Kenneth Martin, Eden. This is the second year the bed has been harvested. This year the two women have taken charge of the cutting. Overfield has enough to keep him busy with the remaining 25 acres of farmland. The project keeps the women busy from 5:30 a.m. throughout the day, but they have managed to stay ahead of the asparagus by employing part-time help and by letting buyers cut the asparagus themselves. On average days there will be from 10 to 15 carloads of people at the farm cutting their own asparagus. Many of them are putting it in home freezers. The crop was planted to determine what the plant would do in respect to yield and quality in Magic Valley. It is obviously another crop well-suited to Magic Valley farmlands. (Staff photo-entouring)

Strict Policy of Local Schools Over Last Two Years Improves Attendance Record

At the fall of 1957 Twin Falls school district No. 411 had the lowest attendance record in the state. The policy that Supt. Ernest Ragland has established at the Twin Falls school district since that time has resulted in a "very high" rate.

The policy is a tough one and resulted in the expulsion of 100 students from school, but it has benefited the schools and the community.

It estimates the policy has resulted in a 20 per cent attendance increase in the schools.

Always Beta Good

Attendance notes the attendance policy has been good in this district. It adds the policy has led the district to "book" a high order of attendance.

It says the trustees throughout the district have given the opportunity to establish their own attendance policies by the 1957 state law.

In 1957, school boards had an amended law enacted. That law simply stated that trustees of school districts between the ages of 7 and 16 would send such children to public or private or parochial schools if they were physically or mentally unable to attend school.

No Exceptions Made

The law required the children to attend school, but it made no provisions for dealing with tardiness or truancy.

Commenting on the 1957 law, Ragland says, "If the student was irregular in attendance, we had to tolerate it. Nothing said they had to be punished."

The trustees of this was that you never heard of a child between 7 and 16 being put out of school because of irregular attendance.

"The law stated they must stay in school so the schools felt they must make every effort to keep the students in school, but there was no means of compelling truancy."

In 1957, the legislature provided that the individual boards of trustees in each school district could set up their own attendance policies.

Could Have Been Liberal

"We could have made our policy quite liberal and allowed excessive absence," Ragland says, "but that kind of policy would have discouraged all kinds of careless attendance." Commenting on the effect of excessive absence has on a classroom, Ragland notes, "It means the student not present has missed the particular work of that time. This adds work on the classroom teacher, and to demoralize other classmates who are present."

"In making this determination, each attendance officer shall consider the failure of a student to attend 50 per cent of each scheduled period of the school day to constitute an absence."

Four Excess Categories

"In making this determination, each attendance officer shall consider the failure of a student to attend 50 per cent of each scheduled period of the school day to constitute an absence."

Realizing that some absences are unavoidable, the board has set up four broad categories of excused absences.

The first is sickness or death in the family. The second is the participation of the student in educational experiences or approved travel with permission of the attendance officer obtained prior to such absence.

Parental Finalize Child

Ragland explains that the student is taking a trip that is an educational experience, we wouldn't penalize the child. We don't give truancy charges when these people can't arrange such trips at other times of the year.

It is an urgent necessity to perform work, with approval of the county superintendent, the school attendance officer obtained prior to such absence.

The fourth excess absence involves "contingencies not within the control" of the student or the parents or guardian.

"After all," he says, "parents must feed and clothe their children before they can educate them."

Ragland explains that the attendance officer is not to make "contingencies not within the control" of the student or the parents or guardian.

Covers Broad Area

"This could be a physical breakdown of a vehicle or extremely bad weather conditions," Ragland observes.

Ragland stresses that the board of trustees attempted to make a broad area of acceptance for absence. Any absences that don't fall into the four categories are termed unexcused.

The policy as set up in 1957 gave trustees the power to "expel" from attendance any child who in its judgment has repeatedly violated the attendance policy.

Truman Bounces Along at Age 75

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., May 8 (AP) — In an age when national pressure often is an excuse for emotional collapse, Harry S. Truman even his best friends had never had anything more pressing in his mind than the next "golf" game.

Approaching 75, he is still about him a hearty self-confidence. Each semester the student starts a conference with the attendance officer, the principal of his school to settle his own problem and plan to settle his second offense the next time.

"We give the student a chance to settle his own problem and plan to settle his second offense the next time," Ragland says. "Seldom is the parent notified of the first offense. If the parent is notified, the principal has no choice but to talk with the parent or guardian."

During this conference, the principal tries to find out if the parent is keeping the student in school. The second offense "conference" often many trustees as the parent's attorney. Ragland says, "The parent is notified of the first offense. If the parent is notified, the principal has no choice but to talk with the parent or guardian."

Conference Held

"On the third offense of the student, the student is notified, having repeatedly violated the attendance policy."

The student is then either suspended and not permitted to attend school for a period of not more than five days or his case is referred to the board of trustees for proper action, depending on the judgment of the attendance officer.

public approval later, the dismissal of a "lively" general, a host of other incredible strains and stresses that might have bent the population of a nation.

"History may record Truman as a great president or a poor president, but in either case it will have to agree that this was one of the soundest eyes ever to be made with affairs of state. There was, and is about Truman, a rare and enviable thing, a nobility, a decision, action, no regret."

Blessed by Friday

New news on the through his dismissal Truman's birthday is this Friday—Truman still radiates all the qualities of a man who has no regrets.

As always, he walks, he talks, he smiles. He is a man who has no regrets. He is a man who has no regrets. He is a man who has no regrets.

Both boys and girls who have been expelled since the policy went into effect, Ragland says none of the students had been from elementary school.

"While we regret the need to expel any student, we are glad we haven't had to expel any elementary school students, although it could be done."

Deals With Truancies

In addition to penalizing the student for excessive absence, the policy also provides for dealing with excessive tardiness. Three days of unexcused absence are considered equal to one unexcused absence.

Ragland emphasizes that parents have an important role in carrying out the policy.

"In other words, there has to be a partnership between the school and the home and unless both do their work we can't succeed," Ragland emphasizes.

"I feel for the most part that the policy has been well received in problems in the school district. I believe it has been responsible for more regular and punctual attendance," says the superintendent.

One of his duties

"I have not seen any policy that is any better than this one. It must be one of the strictest attendance policies in the state."

"While we want to administer as reasonably as possible, we feel we can give the community better schools by adhering to the policy closely and carrying out its provisions," he adds.

Truman's favorite subject is American history. He has contributed his own share, but he says paying attention to the great tribulations of the world of his own independence.

His roots here go deep. He was born in Independence, Mo., and his father, a school principal, was a member of the first class of the town's first school. One of his schoolmates was Elizabeth Virginia Wallace, whom he married in 1913. His daughter, Margaret, was born in 1924. Here in his course Margaret, Truman has political views.

New York newspaperman, before a hearing Truman clan, Margaret, has since presented the ex-president with a grandson, and another grandchild is on the way.

All this is familiar story to Independence — and everything about Independence is familiar to Truman. His political views are (Continued on Page 8, Column 1)

Midget Orange Tree 30 Years Old Has 15 Ripe Oranges

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Although a Burley tree is 30 years old it is only two and one-half feet high with about 25-inch spread. The orange tree belongs to Frank McCormick and he has it placed in his barber shop window in the National hotel. He purchased the little tree from a nursery in Illinois. The tree now has 15 ripe oranges weighing down its small branches. McCormick said it has had as many as 16 oranges at one time. It has borne fruit every year, and at present is loaded with its well-known fragrant pale pink blossoms. The tree remains green, throughout the year, and there are always a few leaves drying and falling.

McCormick says the fruit continued to grow after it had turned yellow, and that some of the fruit had remained on the tree for three years. He adds that the oranges are sweet and juicy. "The only other day and uses some com-

Lucky IGA Customers Win Week-End Trips to Elko, Nev.

Picture above shows many of the seventy persons who spent the week-end of April 17 and 18 in Elko, Nevada as guests of the IGA. Customers of IGA throughout Blaine Valley were requested to write a check naming and address on entry blank and deposit them with their IGA merchants. Names were then selected by a drawing and the winners were notified. The trip to Elko included two nights lodging in a hotel or motel, cocktail hour and dinner Saturday night, $5.00 in gift checks for each couple, a "ucky" box coupons for each couple and a full gas tank for making the trip which was given immediately by the Sinclair marketers. They were also festured as guests at the current store, after in Elko, a confidential time was reported by everyone making the trip. (APR.)

Planting Grass on Rangeland Provides More Grazing; Properly-Managed Range Preserves Present Forage Around Area

Increased planting of grass on rangeland holds part of the answer to future grazing along with proper management of existing range. This area, contoured and planted to grass, was fenced to protect it from grazing until restoration was complete and recovery permanent. (Forest service photo—staff engraving)

These sheep grazing along the headwaters of the Salmon river, serve to illustrate a problem which has come to a head between the forest service and bureau of land management on one hand and various stock interests on the other. The crisis was precipitated by slashes in grazing quotas which are being opposed by some groups.

Of stockmen, Government agencies contend grazing use of public lands must be curtailed now—drastically in some cases—to preserve watersheds and grazing areas. On the other hand, stockmen say such restriction in some cases will ruin them. (Forest service photo—staff engraving)

Grazing Controversy in South Idaho Termed of Top Interest to Everyone

It helps to understand these proposed adjustments in grazing use by looking at the history of livestock grazing in general in south Idaho and how these grazing permits were first established.

Early Sheep Use

The ranges of southern Idaho were used extensively by sheep as early as 1825. This early use was made by migrating flockers on their way from Oregon and California to Montana and the Dakotas. These sheep outfits often consisted of as many as 100,000 head with individual bands of 5,000 to 10,000 head. Sheep raising was started in eastern Idaho as early as 1853 and in western Idaho about 1856.

There are some records which show that cattle were raised in south Idaho as early as 1854. Some cattle were brought from Texas and settled in the Raft river area in 1858. In 1860, cattle were imported from Idaho to the railroad at Chubbuck, Wyo. In 1864 it is reported that there were about 200,000 head of cattle on the open ranges of south Idaho. Some of the herds of that time were as large as 15,000 head.

In these early days the cattle were grazed on the open range the year around. It was after the hard

It is pretty generally agreed by all who are acquainted with the facts, and this surely includes stockmen, that these lands had been heavily overgrazed for many years. It was further agreed that some control over this use was necessary in order to stabilize the livestock industry.

Adjustments Needed

From this history of grazing use on these public lands and the history of control and lack of control it is obvious that some adjustments in the amount of use and some regulation of such use had to come. Many adjustments have been made since these lands were first placed under administration.

Little Known This

At that time little was known about the amount of forage use which could be safely made of such lands and watered management was given little if any consideration.

The many other uses such as wildlife and recreation in general which are highly important, now were not given consideration in the issuance of the early-day grazing permits.

Grazing Act Passed

On June 28, 1934, congress passed what is known as the Taylor grazing act. This was the beginning of control of grazing on what was known as the public domain. The bureau of land management, under the department of interior, now has under administration about 11 million acres of land in Idaho.

However, to allow over use and subsequent damage to these grazing lands it must be recognized that all agriculture will suffer. Where adjustments are needed the sooner they are made, the smaller they will need to be.

Since all such proposed adjustments are to be made by grazing allotments, and not on a blanket basis, one can consider the need for them only by a careful study of the allotments involved. One cannot intelligently approve the need for such adjustments on the basis of the overall reductions of livestock use of the past.

Questions Discussed

I have recently discussed this question with the federal agency representatives—and some of the leaders of the livestock industry. They know and I know that some adjustments must be made in livestock use in some areas.

I cannot agree with those who oppose the reductions on the basis that they will upset the entire economy of southern Idaho. It is my contention that if an area is being overgrazed to the extent that the land value is being impaired, some adjustment, as is necessary, must be made in order to stabilize the economy of Idaho.

To me the only basis for opposition to reduced use by livestock is that the area is not being damaged by such use. This basis must be established by men who have the necessary technical knowledge and

Fish and Game Department Biologist Studies Goose Eggs

Seven eggs can be counted in the wild goose nest, foreground, being hunted by a fish and game department biologist as part of the annual nesting studies conducted by the department. This is the eighth year of study on four units and the sixth year in two other units. Figures obtained from the studies reflect yearly trends.

Islands, one man stays within 5-20 feet of the water's edge and the other stays inland around 10-50 feet.

An attempt is made to time the first check to take place just prior to the beginning of hatching. This has varied within the space of about two weeks in the years the checks have been taken. The first check is taken about April 15 on the Homedale unit where the earliest hatch occurs and approximately one month later on the Island park unit which has the latest hatching date. The Homedale unit averages about 2,000 feet in elevation while island park lies at 8,100 feet.

The majority of the nests are discovered when the goose is flushed from the nest. Some, of course are located by noting pieces of down on surrounding vegetation or by walking close enough to the nest to see the eggs or nest structure. The pertinent data on each nest are recorded on a sheet. Visual estimates are used for the distances from and above water. The predominant cover type is all that is recorded.

Management Survey

Actually, since this is more a management survey than a research in nesting study, this type data is taken mostly to help in finding the nest on the check. Most of the nests are marked by tying a numbered tag on some sort of nearby vegetation. Those that are referred to prominent landmarks are not tagged.

Roosts are made approximately one to two miles from the first visit. If the timing is right, all of the live nests found on the first visit have had time to hatch. The check consists of revisiting the live nests found on the first visit to see if they are successful. Unsuccessful nests due to flooding or desertion are obvious, although in some cases it may be difficult to determine which came first. Destroyed nests are also

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Mrs. Watts Has Devoted Good Portion Of Life, Flown Many Miles for Lodge

Mrs. W. O. Watts, Twin Falls has devoted a good portion of her life and flown more than 100,000 miles in the interest of the Rebekah lodge, the women's auxiliary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Watts has been an active member of the Rebekah since she was 18 years old. It was at that age that she was initiated into the Rebekah at Middleton, Ida.

After holding various high Rebekah offices, she was elected president of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies. She served as president in 1935 and 1936.

Other Offices

Prior to holding the highest office in the Rebekah, she served first as the assembly president in Idaho in 1919 and 1920, treasurer of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies in 1933 and 1934 and vice president of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies in 1934 and 1935.

Her career as an official in the Rebekah started when she was elected president of the local lodge three years after she was initiated.

Mrs. Watts notes she could hardly have escaped her interest in the lodge. Her father had been an Odd Fellow for many years and the night she was initiated into the lodge, her mother and father also were initiated.

She explains that an Odd Fellow-member can become a Rebekah only if the Rebekah can't come an Odd Fellow. The Rebekah operates under the administration of the Odd Fellows as a degree of Odd Fellowship. They are not a legislative body.

Organized in 1851

The Rebekah was organized in 1851 as the first women's auxiliary of any fraternal organization. Mrs. Watts notes that the OOP is recognized as the only world-wide fraternal order under one name and the various Rebekah lodges throughout the world also operate under one officer, who is responsible for the supervising grand master of Odd Fellows.

While Mrs. Watts served as president of the Rebekah, she traveled to all but four states in the United States and the Canadian provinces except Ontario and the Maritime provinces.

During her tenure of office her job was to visit the various conditions of the Rebekah and work as an advisor and official. She presented the fraternal program that has been handed down from the past and also an individual program created by her.

Took Almost Year

When she took this visitation schedule took practically an entire year. She explains that although the president doesn't visit the Rebekah lodges throughout the rest of the world, those lodges are still under her jurisdiction. Coordination of the remainder of the lodge's program is done by correspondence.

Mrs. Watts is proud of the results of her program. She set up a program to stimulate correspondence and understanding between the various lodges and members throughout the world. Her program encouraged members to write for it.

ulate doctor who wishes to enter eye research.

Mrs. Watts points out that this will promote the best of both research program and continue studies with the assurance of financial support.

As a member of the committee, Mrs. Watts makes frequent trips to write a present program throughout the year.

Other Programs

Two other college programs sponsored by the Odd Fellows and the Rebekah are the 54 separate homes scattered throughout the United States, which cost nearly $4,500,000 a year to maintain, and the United National Program for Youth, an all-around program trip to the United Nations each year for 700 high school students.

In the time that Mrs. Watts wasn't working on Rebekah administrative details, she found time to write a present program to 10 prominent women of the city. The program is "Women of Today" it is presented in lecture form with a choir background. Mrs. Watts narrates.

It presents the lives of Sarah, Rebekah, Deborah, Mother of Isaac, Ruth, Naomi, Hannah, Esther, Olympia and the Rebekah.

The program was presented in the first time at the state assembly last October at Boise on April 4 at Burley at a meeting of the Northwest Odd Fellows convention.

The program also was presented at the Twin Falls Episcopal church on April 7.

Teaches Piano

Besides her work with Rebekah, Mrs. Watts also finds time to teach piano. She has been teaching piano for 30 years. Because of the time she must spend with lodge administration she has had to cut her pupil list to about 20. A few years ago she had 40 to 50 pupils.

Devotes Year-After-Year

During the year after year as president of the Rebekah, she says, "My students gave me a year leave of absence."

Speaking of her work with the lodge, she says, "It has been tremendous, interesting and continually educational. And it gives me many opportunities for doing something for others."

Mrs. Watts has one more year to serve on the committee ahead of her. She says she has plenty of work still to do this coming year.

Right now she is looking forward to the Rebekah convention in Pittsburgh in September.

Chasing Wild Geese in Spring Is Job Of Fish and Game Department Workers

BY ROBERT L. SALIER

Idaho Fish and Game Department workers are busy chasing wild geese in the spring. Remember the song about the "wild geese" flying by in the sky? Well, the fish and game department has the opportunity each spring to satisfy the public's interest in the song but the travel implied doesn't amount to much since they don't even have to leave the Green State.

Started in 1932, Canada goose nesting studies have been conducted in several areas of Idaho. This year is the eighth year of study on four units and the sixth year in two other units. It is believed that the figures obtained from these nesting studies accurately reflect the yearly trend of goose production. They were originally undertaken to determine the extent of nesting and annual goose production in the several areas.

Standing studies in the years which have shown the areas where these production units contribute to the harvest. The importance of such work.

The Homedale unit includes most of the islands in Snake river from the Walters ferry bridge on Owyhee county to Olds Ferry in Washington county with the exception of the section between Spass and Ontario, Ore. The Hyslop-Ontario section was checked for two years, but no nests were found on the island checked and it was dropped from the survey.

47 Islands Checked

It was felt that enough islands were checked above and below the section to detect any shifts in nesting use should they occur. Nesting checks are taken on 47 islands in the approximately 80 miles of stream covered. The islands range in size from a few hundred square yards to several hundred acres.

The Glens Ferry unit includes most of the islands in the Snake river from Glens Ferry in Blaine county to the Brannen bridge in Owyhee county. Checks are taken on 20 islands in this 23-mile stretch of river. The islands in size from a single rock to about 20 square yards to 15-20 acres.

The Mud Lake unit includes most of the islands in the western portion of Mud lake, an irrigation reservoir in Jefferson county, depending on the year, and the amount of water in the reservoir varies in different periods. About 30 islands are checked. These are all quite equal with most of them having one nest apiece.

Units Defined

The Blackfoot unit includes the nesting of the islands in the Blackfoot reservoir, an irrigation reservoir in Caribou county. Checks are taken on 16 islands in the reservoir ranging in size from a few square yards to 20-25 acres.

The Snake river unit includes one island in Island park reservoir, an irrigation reservoir in Fremont county. This island is approximately 5 acres in size and supports almost all of the goose nesting on the river.

The North fork unit includes all the islands in approximately five miles of the Snake river in Fremont county.

The basic principle of the study is that the same birds are covered in the same manner each year, preferably by the same person. An established procedure is to have two men walk around each island. The survey is covered completely, on the large

Digitizing in Eastern Idaho

Total counts for the years 1932-45 have been 3,340-2,987-3,691- and 1837. The 1932 counts are not completed yet, but those taken to date are quite comparable with those of last year.

Banding Effort Made

An effort has been made to band a representative sample of geese produced on most of the nesting study units. Through this program we have learned that there are both resident and migratory goose populations in Idaho. Practically all of the geese in southeastern Idaho are year-round residents. Most of those in southeastern Idaho leave the state each fall and migrate through Utah and winter in Arizona and California.

Geese from band returns have been used as a basis to modify hunting regulations to afford and protect to some extent populations in several areas of the state.

Proper game management requires that as much information as possible be gathered on the various species. It is felt that the nesting studies, aerial counts and banding programs being conducted in Idaho have and will continue to furnish us with valuable data necessary for the perpetuation of the Canada geese in this state.

No One Cited in Rupert Arrest

RUPELT, May 2—No citations were given in a collision in front of the Rupert postoffice Thursday afternoon.

A 1938 Oldsmobile driven by Lawrence G. Rauch, Rupert business manager, was struck by a car driven by a 1936 Volkswagen, driven by Mike S. Brown, Heyburn.

Damage to the Oldsmobile was estimated at $180 and $250 to the Volkswagen. A passenger in the Rauch car, William Gub, was treated for minor injuries by a local physician.

After 18 Months, Orchid Plant Blooms

For more than 18 months M. M. Moore, Twin Falls, has kept a watchful eye on an orchid plant that was given him last week. It rewarded him by bursting forth with two blossoms. Actually Moore has given the tropical plant little special attention. Once or twice a day he spritzes it with an atomizer to keep it moist. The plant has remained healthy at room temperature. (Staff photo-entourage)

Man's Orchid-Raising Prowess Taken Casually; Plant Not Being Pampered

M. M. Moore, Twin Falls, takes his orchid-raising prowess pretty casually. Moore was given an orchid plant as a gift from his daughter, Mrs. E. M. Tinker, and served as Christmas present and morale booster. Moore was just recovering from a heart attack. At the time Moore supposed the plant would last for just a few weeks in an ordinary room without special care, but the stubborn plant has tenaciously hung on to life and just last week proved itself by bursting forth with two large purple blossoms. Moore believes the blooms will stay on the plant about one week. Although he hasn't taken orchid raising too seriously, Moore says he is in the process of changing his attitude towards the plant. Lots of Visitors "I've had lots more company since this plant has blossomed," he says. He is thinking about getting some more plants to stimulate his visitor traffic. During the plant's year and one-half residence with Moore, it has perched in an east window and had no special care other than an occasional dousing with water from an atomizer that Moore keeps handy. Other than the occasional moistening the plant has had to get along with only Moore's body-guarding. He tries to save it from hard knocks. It seems it had a close call several weeks after he got it. It was knocked from a table to the floor, shattering the table and had, blemish, the plant was able to muster until recently. Not First Experience. Since then Moore has kept a watchful eye on the plant. This is Moore's first experience with flowers, since he had his first heart attack six years ago, he has spent a good deal of the summer months working with

Cowboy Who Applied for Job in 1923 Finishes 35 Years as Postal Employee

In 1923 a young man walked into the Twin Falls postoffice and applied for a job. He was dressed like a cowboy, complete with boots and hat. As he left, one of the postoffice employees whispered, "That darn cowboy will never make it."

That "darn cowboy" was William H. McDonald who retired Thursday after spending 35 years and 6 months as a carrier and distribution clerk at the Twin Falls postoffice.

No one knows what happened to the whippersnapper. During his years as a mail carrier he has met a lot of people delivered mail in sub-zero weather, waded through muddy Twin Falls streets and fought off his share of dogs.

McDonald worked as a mail carrier from 1924 to 1948. During the years he delivered mail McDonald made the acquaintance of many families in Twin Falls.

For the first 13 years he delivered mail on the east side of the old townsite. In 1948 he started working as distribution clerk in the postoffice building.

Carrying mail on Twin Falls streets in the twenties was somewhat different than now, according to McDonald.

"The mud in the north part of town was a 'right' then," he recalls. "You could mire a duck on some of those streets. One time both of my overboots slipped off in the mud. One of them I never did find!"

McDonald has carried his share of mail in bad weather. He recalls that one day several years ago the mercury slipped to 30 degrees below zero while he waded his daily route.

Speaking of winter carrying McDonald says when he first started carrying mail, the mailmen weren't given Christmas day off, but they still managed to enjoy the holiday.

He explains that as they delivered mail they were invited by the residents to join the festivities. On the way back to the office the mailbags were loaded with presents, socks, candy and other small Christmas presents.

"I think I must have walked around the world about three times," McDonald says. "There I got a chance to work inside as distribution clerk."

The distribution clerk distributes all the mail to the city and rural carriers and to the postoffice boxes. There are three distribution clerk employed in the Twin Falls postoffice, so since 1948 about one-third of the mail arriving in Twin Falls has passed through McDonald's hands.

He notes that in the course of his career he has gotten to know practically everyone in Twin Falls, if not personally, at least by name alone.

This has its disadvantages. The person in the office who knows the most people in the town is burdened with the "mixes."

"Mixes" are those cryptic little letters that arrive through the mail addressed "something" like this: "John Doe, Twin Falls."

It is the responsibility of the person in charge of the "mixes" to place these letters in the hands of the addressee. McDonald has been doing this for years. Christmas, with its deluge of Christmas cards, is a bad time for "mixes."

"Mixes" also are caused when someone writes a farmer and the rural route isn't known or written on the letter. He knows the rural route.

For years McDonald has been re-addressing letters to surrounding farmers. He knows the rural routes by heart. One man told him Thursday, "Those farmers are going to have 'mixes' for McDonald."

a devil of a time getting mail now that you are gone, McDonald." In addition to performing his regular work, McDonald was instrumental in saving a fellow worker's life in May, 1957. At that time, Bert Bollinger, was injured seriously when a loaded rifle in the mail discharged as he was unloading it from a truck. The slug struck Bollinger in the upper arm and caused serious bleeding. McDonald and three other postal workers acted swiftly, giving first aid and calling an ambulance. They got Bollinger to the hospital in time. He recently returned to work.

For this bit of fast action McDonald and the other men received a citation from the postmaster general. The other men were Wayne Modlin, Carl Newman and Jerry Alder.

Now McDonald and his wife are getting ready for retirement in a new home they just purchased. They plan a visit to his brother in California next month.

But in some respects McDonald isn't retiring. He says his new lot is 2 1/2 feet deep and is covered with fruit trees and garden plots.

But he laughs and says, "I'm not going to let this lawn interfere with my fishing and every once in a while I'll go down to the office and straighten them out."

The other workers at the office say they are going to save the "mixes" for McDonald.

T. F. Women Planning for Observance Of National Home Demonstration Week

Many women, members of 29 home demonstration units in Twin Falls, are planning to observe National Home Demonstration week this week.

The annual theme is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World." The theme of Twin Falls county is "Tomorrow's Safety Depends on Today's Action."

The highlight of the week will be a special program at 8 p.m. Friday in the Twin Falls American Legion hall. The program will deal with safety and civil defense.

Featured speaker of the evening will be G. R. Humphries, science teacher at Hansen high school. He will speak on "Radiation."

Humphries attended a radiation institute at Brigham Young university last summer. The institute was for science teachers and was sponsored by the national science foundation and the atomic energy commission.

During the winter he attended a new techniques in artificial respiration for small children will be demonstrated by Idona Kollege, junior 4-H club leader from the Salmon Tract Units 4-H club.

A suit will be presented on "Training of Block Workers," featuring Mrs. Earl Meyer, Mrs. Lyle Schindler, Mrs. Raymond Hahn and Mrs. Orvin Hahn.

A model basement-bomb-shelter will be set-up in the auxiliary room of the hall by Mrs. Hector Loughmiller, Hollister. Mrs. Loughmiller will describe the room and answer questions concerning design.

Alva Borders, apartment director at Buhl, will deliver a short talk on "Safety."

There also will be a teen-age panel discussion on safety.

The home demonstration activity is sponsored by the U. S. department of agriculture, University of Idaho and the county board of commissioners. They plan, finance and administer the extension program.

Home demonstration clubs are scattered throughout the county. There are nine in Twin Falls, four in Filer, three in Buhl and one each in Cassiopolis, Kimberly, Hanger and Murtaugh.

Home demonstration work is termed a "honey-do" campus program. The purpose of the club work is to give the homemaker new and easy ways to care for her household and family.

Most of the club meet on a monthly basis. At the club meeting a program is presented by members dealing with such household topics as food, clothing and home management.

The women who present the program have previously attended a workshop. At the workshop they are instructed in certain phases of home economics by specialists in the field. They then take newly-learned information back to their individual clubs. Usually members from each club attend each workshop.

Any homemaker is eligible to join the clubs, or a group of homemakers can form their own club. Florence Schultz, county home extension agent, can advise interested persons about any vacancies in neighborhood clubs or advise them in how to form a club.

9 Filer Scouts Join Troop

NINE new members were presented at a meeting of the Scoutmaster of Boy Scout troop at a meeting this week.

The new members are: Bob Rude, Jimmy Jenkins, Don Hoffman, Marvin Hill, Paul Hardisty, Gary Dougherty, Billy Rutherford and James Rutherford.

Any boy interested in Scouts is welcome to attend the next troop meetings at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the American Legion hall. Scout leaders add.

Harry Truman Still Bounces Along as He Nears 75th Birthday Anniversary

The birthday party was held in the home of his friend Louis L. DeWitt at the home of his wife, Mrs. DeWitt. Truman's daughter, Mary Margaret, was the guest of honor. She was accompanied by her husband, Dr. J. B. Spencer, and their two children, John and Mary. Truman's son, Harry, was also present. The party was a family affair and was held in the home of Mrs. DeWitt. Truman's health is reported to be good. He is still active and continues to work for the Democratic Party. He is expected to continue his work for several more years.

The senate, Harry Truman has often said, was the heart of the nation's public life. It was there that day in April, 1945, when the maximum hour bill was passed. Truman's 75th birthday anniversary is being celebrated in a number of ways. He has written his memoirs, is the active member of the Democratic Party, writes, reads, and, in his comfortable appointed office, applies himself to many of his duties. Invitations to make speeches and attend functions pour in. Only a fraction can be accepted. Last week he walked the streets of the state capital, Boise, where he has his office. He was seen by a large number of people. He is still active and continues to work for the Democratic Party.

Truman was in Southern California for a series of talks. There was a political address at Omaha, and a ceremony in connection with the Oregon centennial wagon train. In Lamar, Mo., Truman attended a function marking the birth of the state. The schedule was topped off by three lectures to students at Columbia University and an appearance at Washington for a citizens' forum launching the American point four program.

Not long ago Truman had a thorough checkup from his doctor and was pronounced in excellent physical shape. Then the doctor asked about his memory.

"I told him I had no trouble with my memory," Truman said with a grin, "and that same night while I was making a talk at the Grandview Masonic lodge, I suddenly remembered I'd forgotten to drop by and bring my brother Vivian to the meeting."

K. H. Grange Hosts Elmore Pomona Meet

KING HILL, May 3—King Hill Grange will host a meeting at the Elmore county Pomona Grange with members from Okanogan and Mountain Home districts.

The fifth degree obligation was given to Mrs. James Gerke and Mr. William Cain by Master Rodney Ruberry. Reports of Grange activities was given by Mrs. Ralph Greenleaf, Mountain Home; Melvin Helwich, Mrs. Rodney Ruberry and Mrs. Frank Jones, King Hill, and Carl Lindgren, Gibby Ferry.

Appointed to the legislative committee were Charley Farmlid, Okanogan; Arthur Latta, Mountain Home, and Wesley Pink, King Hill.

Rich Edwards, Elmore county agent, spoke on the experimental station at Caldwell and reported a feeding demonstration will be held Saturday.

On May 16 a program on sheep diseases is scheduled and one on goats will be held May 23.

The Grange women's trio, composed of Mrs. James Gerke, Mrs. Frank Jones and Mrs. Frank Jones, was accompanied by Mrs. R. I. Berry, Frank Jones sang and Berny Berry recited a poem. Mrs. B. Spencer, lecturer, was in charge of the program.

Refreshments were served by the William Cain and Mrs. Melvin Helwich, assisted by Helwich, Ols and Mr. and Mrs. Ruberry.

National Baby Week Is Real Success at McLemore's Home

By HENRY McLEMORE
National Baby week was a smashing success at our home. Also a hoisting one.

Using the extraordinary strength that has come to her after nine months on Earth, Megan snatched three bottles, put a whacking dent in her putty and wrote initials to the combination trapezoidal music box that hangs over her bed.

Her biggest moment came when, in her blue moment chaise when, out of the blue, she suddenly discovered that the tablecloth was possible, that it was fun to pull, and she pulled it. It took "Charlie" the poodle half an hour to lick up what landed on the floor.

The hoisting during the baby week served as background music to Megan's most spectacular production to date — her first picture. I had no sooner felt that I was on the tip of my finger than I was on the phone, ringing up everyone whose number I could remember.

It never dawned on me, and I to open her mouth for inspection.

Megan's first tooth might not be a little early, but it is a little late. The dentist will know how to reveal that treasure. Fathers are crazy. I'm sure. But they can't help it.

Sometimes I had expected half the town to drop whatever it was doing and tear over to my house. Of course they wouldn't have anything had they raved over Megan's mouth. I have tried every trick right down to a shoe horn, but with no luck.

It doesn't seem possible, but I would rather see that first tooth than anything I can think of. I know it must be beautiful. I know it must be the most extraordinary tooth ever given to a baby girl.

After all, a tooth is a tooth, and not much more, and while people have spoken of them as pearls, single teeth, standing alone, certainly are accurately described as objects of overwhelming beauty.

National Baby week served as background music to Megan's most spectacular production to date — her first picture. I had no sooner felt that I was on the tip of my finger than I was on the phone, ringing up everyone whose number I could remember.

It never dawned on me, and I to open her mouth for inspection.

Top Soldiers of NATO Bluntly Inform Political Bosses to Look Reds in Eye

PARIS, May 3 (U.S.)—The top soldiers of NATO have bluntly told their political bosses to look the Soviet Union in the eye at any summit conference.

"If there is another Munich it won't be our fault," said one general who daily makes the military implications of threats from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

This pointed advice to Western diplomats was based on a soldier's view of the military machine forged in 10 years by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The machine has been built, its general readily admitted, but it can do the job.

Beleaguers Reassured

In essence, this was the message given to the 15 NATO nations after they, somewhat apprehensively, set Soviet reassurances of their strength in the light of Khrushchev's ominous jabs at Berlin.

The supreme allied commander in Europe, Gen. Lauris Norstad, now adding wrinkles to his still boyish 53-year-old face—view to Washington to report to the U.S. congress.

Norstad asked for more missiles to beat up his skin defences. He presented 215 divisions in NATO's central European arsenal are not enough, he said. He wants 30 divisions with atomic arms.

Despite these alarming short-comings, Norstad said his forces could go a long way toward backing up any Western diplomatic demands. His "internationalism" is strengthened by the judgments coming from Norstad's sprawling, informal headquarters outside Paris.

Cosmopolitan Staff

In this little Pentagon American, British, French and other Allied officers work easily with German "ex-Wehrmacht" officers now beginning to play bigger and bigger roles.

It is accepted here, as an article of faith, that NATO's force can hold the pass in Europe, although the job would be pretty sloppy with the forces now available.

These are the sentiments of a wide range of Allied officers who daily witness the strength and weaknesses of the alliance. Interviews with NATO diplomats reflect the same frank admission of many flaws—but confidence that NATO can do the job.

The job, simply stated, is to convince the Soviet Union that she cannot overrun Europe and will not be allowed to chew up NATO nation-by-nation. To accomplish this, NATO must have diplomatic as well as military strength.

However, international rivalries die hard. Just keeping in step takes a disproportionate amount of NATO's time.

The allies involved were few but the action emphasized by de Gaulle's belief that NATO should have national commands rather than international forces under integrated command.

This is perhaps NATO's most serious internal argument.

The theory of integrated forces is lifeblood to Norstad and his deputy, ruddy-faced British paratrooper Sir Richard Nelson. One, a warrior whose career started in the World War I trenches in France.

Effectiveness is Question

The immediate effectiveness of NATO's forces is a question for both the Soviet Union and the West to ponder.

One factor making them tremendously effective is that Norstad has the personal power to react immediately to any attack on NATO countries. He has learned in advance he will use atomic weapons.

Technically, Norstad is supposed to consult with his political bosses, but he has done. However, the West has recognized in advance that Norstad might not have time, and has given him, in advance, the necessary direction.

Another factor is the push-button quiet communication network now has his troops are strung from Norway to the remotest frontier of Turkey—where giant radars watch Soviet missile shots—and he can get them into action immediately. American atomic warheads are generally close at hand and American missile units are scattered throughout NATO's forces, mainly in Germany, Italy and Turkey.

A third factor is NATO's sizeable network of supply dumps, ammunition depots, oil pipelines, nuclear stocks, hospitals and other military installations. The atomic devastation of Europe would have to be almost total to wipe out this network.

Without atomic weapons, the NATO force—mainly American, British, Canadian and German troops now that the French are fighting in Algeria—would probably be run off the battlefield by World War II standards. Yet with atomic weapons they are expected to hold.

Backing up the ground troops is a tactical air force which also packs a big atomic wallop. It is held up mainly of British, Canadian and American planes and the number is secret, although probably around 2,000 or more. Lack- ing are some 300 French fighters, held out of NATO's forces for years because the French demand their own atomic weapons at the price, and the U.S. says no.

Coming into service are American Redstone missiles which can carry atomic warheads 200 miles officially and probably more. These are now in Europe in insignificant quantities, however. The U.S. forces also have six- and eight-mile Redstone missiles in quantity and atomic shells are now trimmed down to fit the army's largest standard artillery piece.

With this ground and air atomic firepower, officers at SHAPE confidently expect to be able to spread a belt of destruction through Soviet-held Europe stretching across East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. By this awesome belt of destruction no coordinated Soviet units could pass—at least—that is the theory. Beyond this, strategic air command bombers would lose their H-bombs.

Enlist in Army

John W. Ziers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ziers, Fishbald, and Robert L. Hildreth, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hildreth, Cardiff, have enlisted for three years each in the army.

VISITS REPORTED

ALMO, May 2—Mrs. Alvin Anderson, Provo, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ward, while her mother is visiting relatives in Los Angeles.

New York City covers an area of 320 square miles.

Northside Parley Set at Shoshone

SHOSHONE, May 2—Northside Communities, Inc. will meet here May 28, it was reported at a Chamber of Commerce meeting this week.

Herb Love was authorized to print another 2,000 napkins with chamber emblems to be used at banquets and entertainments in the community.

Gene Pouser reported having completed the door numbering survey as made by a chamber committee, stating the matter will now be taken to the city council. If it is approved there, the project will be carried out. Gene Pouser and Henry Gabala head the project. It was announced a meeting to organize a Western Idaho-Oregon Industrial council will held May 12 in Jerome.
