Big Plane Crashes In Italian Storm, 71 Believed Dead

MILAN, Italy, June 26 (UPI)—A Trans world airlines jetstream plane bound for Chicago with probably 71 passengers aboard disintegrated in a thunderstorm tonight, killing all aboard. "There are no survivors," TWA spokesman said. "The plane crashed in a storm over the Adriatic Sea. The jetstream airliner was split in two by lightning just moments after taking off from Milan for Paris, and Chicago. TWA spokesman said the plane carried 69 passengers, "probably" three TWA officials and a crew of nine.

The crash occurred at the end of the year. It topped the death toll in the Feb. 2 New York crash of a Lockheed L-1049 Super Constellation from Chicago to New York. The crash in which 69 people died, in which 69 people died, in which 69 people died.

The official said that in addition to the 69 passengers officials listed on the plane were 11 crew members. The plane was en route to New York from Chicago to New York. The plane was en route to New York from Chicago to New York.

Supreme Court Says Smylie Runs Bureau

TOPEKA, Kan., June 26 (UPI)—The state supreme court ruled today that Gov. Robert E. Smylie is chief officer of the state bureau of public accounts.

The high court ordered issuance of a writ of prohibition restraining State Auditor Joe L. Williams from assuming the duties of the bureau chief, and directing the governor to appoint a successor.

The unanimous opinion, written by Justice E. Knudson, rejected the auditor's contention that the bureau has no legal existence.

The tribunal further held the bureau has authority to make a beneficial use of all funds in the state treasury as required by statute. The high court said the bureau is not a mere advisory agency as contended by Williams. The governor's petition alleged the bureau had the duty of making a complete audit of every fund in the state treasury.

Williams, represented by Attorney General Frank Benson, contended the bureau had no legal existence except that some of its powers rest with the auditor.

House Balks on Tax Changes by Senate

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Senate-house conferees today abandoned most of the tax-sharing proposals the senate put into a bill extending corporate and estate taxes for another year. Their compromise bill will be brought up in both house and senate Monday.

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—House tax leaders balked today at accepting major tax law changes added by the senate to a bill to continue corporate and estate tax rates at their Korean war level for another year. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D., Ark., chairman of the tax-writing house yesterday said he would not support the bill unless the senate insist on limiting the legislation to a simple extension of the current rates. In a session running past midnight, the senate voted to repeal the 10 percent corporate tax rate and to raise the estate tax rate to 50 percent.

Union Denies Added Talks In Steel Crisis

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—The United Steelworkers union refused today to hold further negotiations with the steel industry on a new contract. The union, instead, issued a direct talk tonight with steel company executives.

David J. McDonald, the union's general secretary, said there was no point in continuing what he called "fruitless" negotiations with the industry. He said the union's position is firm and that the four-man industry committee refused to make any proposals.

The industry said earlier that it would accept a two-hour morning session with McDonald during a change made by the union's bargaining team. McDonald had broken off negotiations.

"We're trying to get real negotiations," McDonald told a news conference. "We've had no negotiations yet."

McDonald said that the last steel contract was negotiated in 1950, and that the industry had not made any concessions since that time.

Legion Parade Is Attraction of Big Convention

Free, Firing See Governor Long Is For His Enemies

Highlighting the American Legion convention Friday was the parade along Main avenue starting at 2 p.m. Early estimates indicated about 20,000 persons were expected to watch. Besides the parade, the keynote speech to a joint session of Legionnaires and the auxiliary and a speech by Sen. Henry Dworshak featured the second day of the four-day convention. William R. Burk, a candidate for national commander, told the packed Legion hall Friday morning that the American Legion and the auxiliary are a living entity and that Americans will make sacrifices in both peace and war. Burk gave the keynote address at 11:35 and was followed by Sen. Dworshak, a past Idaho Legion commander.

The senior staff of 420 Legionnaires and auxiliary members that the U. S. was behind the two organizations and by "following the mandate of the American Legion, we (the U. S.) made the world safe for democracy." Sen. Dworshak said the Legion has been a stimulus to inspiring the country to assume responsibilities for defending our nation.

Burk questioned why Legionnaires should think of themselves as professional veterans. He said people talk about professional politicians, professional politicians and professional soldiers.

The former commander of California said, "A professional soldier is a citizen who in time of peace disciplines himself so that in time of war he can win that war."

"A professional politician disciplines himself in time of war so that in time of peace he can win that peace."

He stressed the need of universal military training in time of peace so that the country is ready whenever necessary. He explained the effect of the American Legion's efforts on the rest of the world.

Legion Fun Units Install Leaders

COVINGTON, La., June 26 (AP)—Louisiana's Gov. Earl K. Long swept out of a jammed courtroom a free man today—complete victor of his family and of officials who committed him to a state mental hospital. Governor Long immediately set up a temporary station at the Great Southern hotel in this summer resort town near Lake Pontchartrain. From room 221, the governor is expected to drop the axe on political enemies. Judge Robert Jones of the state's 22nd judicial district signed the order dissolving court action brought by the 63-year-old governor asking release from a state mental hospital at Mandeville. The ruling ended 27 days of confinement in two mental hospitals near Mandeville and Covington.

The governor's advisers said he would remain in Covington—about 73 miles from the state capital at Baton Rouge—"at least several days," maybe a couple of weeks.

Informed sources in Baton Rouge said they expected the governor to head-chopped this afternoon.

"Long's on a rampage," said one of them, who asked not to be named. "He's going to get a lot of people turning their backs on him."

The governor's first target was State Police Supt. John Nick Brown. State police assisted when Long was taken into custody after the state hospital at Mandeville. The police arrested and escorted E. P. Roy, former state police chief, to replace him.

Other sources indicated Long would call special session of the legislature. Some of the governor's pet bills failed in the recent fiscal session. After he was from Galveston, Tex., for psychiatric treatment.

Acting Governor Drevlow Sees No Needs for Special Session

BOISE, June 26 (AP)—Lieut. Gov. W. E. Drevlow, who is chief executive of Idaho until next month, today said he sees no need for a special session of the state legislature at this stage of a tax dilemma. While Gov. Robert E. Smylie is away from the state on his tour of Russia, Drevlow is governor and would have the power to call a special session. As presiding officer of the 1959 session, Drevlow also is a defendant in what he calls a "friendly suit" to correct an error in the major tax law passed earlier this year.

Attorney General Frank L. Benson said Thursday he would ask the state supreme court for more time to answer a correction order requested by the two legislators who brought the suit.

Benson said he favors a special session of the legislature to amend the new tax law, because in his opinion an error voids the present law.

Arnold Williams, secretary of state, said he agrees with this view. He suggested a special session might be held next January.

Drevlow told the Associated Press today: "I don't see any reason why we have to call a special session in the near future." He said he thought the suit before the court should be settled first.

Benson said he would argue against the two Republicans who brought the suit.

He said the legislature should correct its own law.

The court has asked for an answer to the correction order by June 30.

"I disagree in toto," Benson said, "that the supreme court can correct the law by an order. It is not its function to usurp legislative functions."

As it was officially filed, the law is for a levy of 3 1/2 percent of the first $1,000 of taxable income. The legislature intended it to be 3 percent.

African Lion Roams in U.S. Desert Areas

AMDOY, Calif., June 26 (AP)—An African lion is roaming the lava beds and arid wastelands of the Mojave desert, according to a report by Sgt. Robert Lorimer. Sgt. Lorimer says the lion has been showing up regularly to the consternation of miners, housewives and travelers on U.S. Highway 66.

The lion escaped from his cage after a traveling circus truck had a highway accident last March.

There are no cattle ranches in the area, and the few settlers who have, keep their chickens here. There is a danger the 120-degree heat may force the animals to roam settled areas in search of water.

The lion—whose ruts are beginning to protrude because of his desert diet of jackrabbits—has been seen four times in the last six days.

One homeholder said he opened his front door, saw the cat staring at him, grabbed his gun, fired three shots and missed each time. The lion padded off.

Processing Need Is Noted at Annual Burley C. of C. Event

BURLEY, June 26—A top Idaho businessman told audience at the annual Burley Chamber of Commerce dinner Thursday night that one of the biggest problems facing the burley business and industry is the lack of a home market for the crop.

H. V. Hansberger, president of Boise Cascade corporation, said that Idaho should take full advantage of its resources, such as lumber and potatoes, by processing them from raw marketable products.

"This is the soundest way to link ourselves with the markets of the future," he asserted.

Hansberger was the principal speaker at the Burley Chamber of Commerce annual dinner, attended by a capacity crowd of about 300 in the Burley Hotel.

He noted that Burley is a "community in transition from agriculture to industry," and enumerated the assets of the area as 1. Large increases of land—2,000 acres; 2. Fertile soil; 3. Good transportation.

He also mentioned the efforts of the Burley Chamber of Commerce.

McLemore Mixes Postoffice, Haircut Phrases at Barber

BY HENRY McLEMORE
This is the 60th in a series of columns about haircuts, which I have had in various styles, and I have learned the German word for "haircut" is "haarschnitt". My latest trim came today in this ancient city on the Danube, in a barber shop which I had learned of through a friend. I entered the shop with confidence, for last night I boned up on my German phrase book. Paying particular attention to the chapter entitled "hairdresser" I felt I was ready to cope with any crisis that might arise. I could say "niest zu kurz" (not too short), "schneiden sie nicht zu kurz" (don't cut any off the top), "ich habe den schheitel auf der andern seite, in der mitte, nicht schneiden" (I put my hair on the other side, in the middle, don't cut there), "schneiden sie ein bisschen vom pony ab" (trim the fringe a little). And that's not all. If, in a moment of madness, I had decided that I would look better with a beard and curls, I could have ordered them with a sharp "mit wellen und locken" and if I had elected to have a crew-cut I could have demanded it with "konservativ, bitte". And, as I don't like clippers, I have even learned the German word for "electric hair-scissors" is "strommaschine" so I could have said "mit der strommaschine, bitte". Under the immense strain of speaking a foreign language, my mind cracked momentarily, and I began using the phrase book phrases on "photography" and "the post office" which I had memorized a week ago. Only I did not at first realize my mistake. The first thing I said to the barber (I know now) was "zu welchem schneider muss ich gehen?" (Which window do I go to?). Annoyed by his puzzled look which I took for disparagement of my command of German, I spoke sharply. "Entwickeln sie film?" or, "Do you develop film?" When the barber still gave me no sign that he knew what I was talking about, I unconsciously pulled out a picture I had taken years ago. "Kommen sie es an der toilette einrichten?" which means, "Can you take it in at the wash?" At this, the barber, evidently

Water Decree Right Upheld By High Court

June 26 (AP)—The supreme court today upheld the validity of a decree awarding water rights in Butte county.

The ruling reverses a judgment of the Butte county district court, which had dismissed action brought by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson. The Andersons brought the suit to compel Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cummings to remove drains from a water channel above their farm, who own land above the Anderson farm, was obstructing the flow of water.

The district court dismissed the case a year earlier the same court had a decree quieting the Andersons' title to the use of water on the lands above. In reversing the lower court, the supreme court held that the lower tribunal erred in dismissing the Andersons' suit to use of the water.

The unanimous opinion was written by Justice E. B. Smith.

Idaho Okays Contract for Road Offices

BOISE, June 26 (AP)—Contract was awarded Thursday for a building to house 24 road offices after the Idaho supreme court remanded the state highway commission's bid for a $1,000,000 roadhouse which held up earlier action.

The court ruled that gasoline tax revenue, which the state's constitution dedicates solely for highway purposes, provided the legal basis for financing construction of a building.

That is so, the court said, because the providing of space for employees to work is part of the job of constructing, maintaining and repairing highways.

State highway department offices now are located in rented quarters in several buildings in downtown Boise.

Under the contract to construct the building was the R. E. O'Connell Construction Company of Boise. The firm bid $1,000,000 which offers were opened nearly a month ago. But the state highway department said it changed its requirements since it had been made and the contract amount was trimmed by $80,000 to $919,700.

The contract is for the three-story, steel and glass building which will house the highway department and for a one-story which will provide space for some units of the law enforcement department.

A separate building to serve as a radio shop and vehicle maintenance structure also will be built. The job bid for that project was $1,000,000. The contract for it will be let in July.

The department awarded a $25,000 contract to the Otis Elevator Company of Boise to install an elevator in the three-story portion of the office building.

The way for immediate construction of the building was cleared when the state board of examiners authorized the transfer of $500,000 from the highway fund to the state building fund. An additional $1.4 million dollars will become available in the fiscal year which begins July 1.

"Discoverer" Rocket Fails In Orbit Try

VANDERBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., June 26 (AP)—The fourth Discoverer satellite rocket soared into Thursday in a test of equipment expected to carry monkeys into orbit later, but failed to go into orbit.

The air force said that radio data will be required before it can determine why the rocket did not go into orbit.

The capsule in the rocket, now known as empty, it orbit had been scheduled to be launched, but was carried skyward this autumn, provided earlier tests produced sufficient information.

The air force said tracking stations in Alaska could not contact the rocket on its first circuit around the earth. This tended to confirm findings of the preliminary studies made in testing the satellite launching that orbit was not achieved.

The 75-foot white rocket—a Thor IEM first stage and Bell-X-1 second stage—was skyward from a pad on the edge of the ocean at the West Coast missile testing base. The time was 3:49 p.m.

It rose vertically into a clear blue sky on a long tail of yellow fire, then curved slowly toward the south. Like all Discoverer rockets, it was intended to orbit around the pole.

It was in sight more than two minutes, trailing a long, wispy vapor.

The first stage seemed to function perfectly. Preliminary telemetry reports indicated that the second stage of the satellite vehicle fired.

The second stage rocket, all of which was supposed to go into orbit, was to cut in two and one half minutes after the first stage burned out.

Goal of the Discoverer series is to test techniques which will enable man to venture into space and return safely.

Plan to Open Little Rock's Schools Told

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 26 (AP)—Little Rock school board members today officially announced plans to operate Little Rock's schools on an integrated basis.

They said at a press conference that 36 hours before that they had decided to proceed with the plan without the aid of federal force.

The governor was not available for comment on Thursday night's news.

The five-man board announced a unanimous decision in a terse statement after a brief executive session.

Official plans to open the schools on a token program of integration were announced after a three-judge federal court struck down a Federal court school closing law and ordered control of the schools to be turned over to the state.

No Joke

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., June 26 (UPI)—Twenty St. Bernard dogs were arrested yesterday for taking a humorously mischievous approach to the threat of man-eater sharks in California's coastal waters.

The dogs, owned by Robert L. Williams, 21, and Harvey L. Stovall, 23, were taken into custody for eating 300 fish along the oceanfront today.

"Please do not feed the sharks," the sheriff said.

The dogs were taken to a press conference today at 3 p.m. before that they had decided to proceed with the plan without the aid of federal force.

The governor was not available for comment on Thursday night's news.

Idaho's Counties Figure Out Their Assets and Liabilities

BOISE, June 26 (UPI)—When Idaho's 44 counties added up all the property they owned last Jan. 1, they had a whopping chunk of real estate worth $33,965,232. That big figure was just one of hundreds contained in the 29 pages of a consolidated budget statement submitted yesterday for the fiscal year ending on the January date.

When everything was added up, it was a pretty good picture of the state's assets and investments—the total was a lot bigger: $52,242,147. It was also a pretty good picture of the state's liabilities—the total was a lot bigger: $18,276,915.

The state auditor's office pointed out. The report was prepared after three months of work by deputy auditor. Cash on hand totaled $10,069,221.26, the largest single figure under assets. Taxes receivable came to $10,555,999.44, but experts quickly pointed out that the figure was probably much reduced in the nearly six months since it was reported. Delinquent taxes amounted to $2,011,105.69.

The 23 million-dollar-plus fixed assets include courthouses, property, equipment and other tangible things by the counties as a whole. Former county 20 county figures reported the largest amount in county property, $1,065,009.29.

If one were to subtract the net assets from the liabilities—what the counties owe each other, county would get a little more than one million dollars. In other words, said the auditor's office, if a county were to sell everything it owned in tangible and intangible property and pay off all its outstanding debts, there would be slightly more than $4 million dollars to divide equally.

On Jan. 12 date, the counties had current bills amounting to $1,632,444.51 and owed the state of Idaho $1,149,232.32 for its share of taxes. Long term liabilities including 19 1/2 year bonds added up to $4,454,689.22.

Reserves in special account schools, state bonds and current liabilities, all banks and trust accounts to $1,299,292.57.

Ada county was in the lead in delinquent tax receivable with $274,901.23 and Clear Lake had the largest amount at $152,889. Ada county's total assets were also the largest at $9,451,472.41 and Owyhee was the smallest at $468,525.72.

Twelve counties failed to report on time and the figures for the previous fiscal year were used instead.

Figures Told Should Bomb Blast Country

WASHINGTON, June 25 (UP)—An aggressor hit the United States some morning with nuclear weapons—10 bombs and there would be 43,900,000 killed, 100 million injured and some 200 million after hours or days of suffering from burns, wounds and diseases.

There would be another 20 million injured, but not so badly as the first.

These are estimates made by the office of defense and scientific research for a sense-house atomic energy subcommittee considering the effects of possible nuclear war.

The figures compare with the United States population of around 170 million.

It was assumed that warheads would have the power of almost one-half billion tons of TNT and one-half billion tons of TNT included in the 253 weapons are estimated to have fallen on 70 cities and 100 military installations and 100 military installations.

Usually estimates assumed the bombardment began at 11 a. m. New York time last Oct. 12, 1945, and assumed the people had no shelters other than homes or buildings, and that some would have been outdoors.

On this basis the civil defense people estimated that 25 million of the whole population died.

The committee received testimony that carefully designed and underground shelters could hold casualties to eight per cent of the population.

This testimony came from Walter S. Dill, of the U. S. naval biological laboratory at San Francisco, who said studies of rats could cut the loss to three per cent.

Storge estimated it would cost $100 million to build a national shelter program.

New Wheat Unit Given Go Ahead
BOISE, June 25 (UP)—The state board of examiners authorizing the new Idaho Wheat commission to proceed yesterday with the preparation of contracts for research, advertising and promotional work.

The commission's plans were reviewed for the examiners by Harold W. H. administrator. He said when contracts are ready for signature they will be presented to the examiners for approval.

Once approval is given, he proposed that expenditures under the commission contract be made without further action. The board approved that plan.

The wheat commission was set up by the 1958 legislature. It will be financed by a tax of one-half cent per bushel, collected at the time of the first sale of wheat grown in Idaho.

Mrs. Khrushchev To Visit in West
COPENHAGEN, June 25 (UP)—Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev is going to make her first visit to the West this summer, Danish foreign ministry sources reported Thursday.

The sources said the Soviet Prime Minister's wife is included in the party for her husband's Scandinavian tour in August.

Like all wives of leading Soviet officials, Mrs. Khrushchev stays out of the limelight and is virtually unknown to westerners in Moscow.

Professor Finds Birds More Like Humans Than Believed

NEW YORK, June 25 (UPI)—The birds, a segment of life which almost everybody is for, may be closer to us socially than we had supposed.

For instance, like fledglings and lake kids. As the young of both the bird and human families grow older and larger, they take on attitudes of seeming indifference to their parents and marks rejection of them, and aggression toward them.

Take the threat-ruse-bluff routine. Birds often avoid a mutually destructive fight by using a ritual of bluff and threat to frighten and confuse opponents. Any resemblance between this act and the human act of international diplomacy is perfectly natural.

Take aggression. If you take a bird that is not very aggressive and you let it win encounters with other birds, it will become more aggressive, strutting and throwing its wings around like a dictator.

These thoughts for today are from the observations of Dr. William A. Diller, a tweedy, pipe-smoking professor who is in a foundation of bird behavior patterns. Dr. Diller occupies the R. T. French chair of ornithology at Cornell University. He presented the chair in rump-deep in African lovebirds.

Dr. Diller and a group of graduate students are recording in detail the behavior of about 200 lovebirds.

Dr. Diller says generally, Dr. Diller says, approach the problems of learning with about the same portions of timidity and resolve that afflict the human male. The parrot is scared that if he walks directly and boldly up to his lady friend he'll get a stink peck on his hindquarters. Torn between fear and love, he adopts a waltz that is half forward and half sidle, a sort of waltz sidle.

Where bird and human being part behavior birds do not have to watch their diet. They stay trim. The only exception is the nesting young of the South American Oil bird, whose parents feed it plain nuts. The non-flying young get so fat that the males thrust wings through them, and use them for lamps.

Dr. Diller's African lovebirds are very social. They spend a lot of time ganging together in groups or colonies. In a group, everybody does everything together—feeding, preening, yawning, if one says yawns, they all yawn. If one preens, they all follow suit.

This is called "inductive mimicry." Next time your wife yawns while watching a stenographer at work, tell her that's what she's inducing in you.

Asked if there was ever a "honeymoon" among his groups—a fellow who didn't do things the group was doing but went his own way—Dr. Diller said if such a thing happened, the bird would probably be sick, or, to be brutally plain, off its rooster.

But, in such a case, with the specimen that is not acting independently, the others begin imitating it and it becomes the leader. And if you want to draw a human behavior parallel, you're welcome.
