Wendell Sets Sewage Issue Vote July 14

WENDELL, June 27—Residents of Wendell will vote July 14 on a $30,000 bond issue to finance construction of a new sewage treatment plant according to Mayor Carl M. Gaiser.

'sk' Days Stool Strike Two Weeks

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—The United Steelworkers of America hoveled today to a bid from President Eisenhower and delayed a steel strike threat for two weeks. David J. Retiring Officer of Legion Auxiliary Gets Honors for 33 Years of Service

I believe in the program enough to work it," said Mrs. Alpha Schwartz, Naampa, retiring secretary-treasurer of the Idaho American Legion auxiliary, as she turned up 33 years of auxiliary work, including 30 years as an officer in the organization.

Mrs. Schwartz was honored Saturday afternoon with a luncheon at the Turf club. She asked to be retired from her department position so she could "move like a little." Now she will become president of her unit in Naampa, a position she has never held and desires very much.

She mentioned particularly that she enjoys the fellowship of the women in the auxiliary. She pointed out that the projects of the organization are gratifying to her.

Among other things, she said she went with the veterans here in Billings, Mont. when they were in the hospital. She also noted the auxiliary's activities with girls state and other youth projects throughout the state.

The luncheon came as a complete surprise to Mrs. Schwartz. "I just don't see how they kept it secret from me," she said. "In fact, I didn't even plan to attend the luncheon and was planning to write some checks. However, they insisted that I go, and what a surprise," she continued.

Entertainment at the luncheon included skits by past presidents of the auxiliary for whom Mrs. Schwartz has served. In 30 years, she worked with 40 presidents.

Each skit was part of Mrs. Schwartz's life. She noted that they knew more about her background than she could recall. Concluding the program at the luncheon was music provided by an eight and thirty kitchen band from Billings, Mont. Directing the group of 11 women was Mrs. Martha Hoyler, who donated various costumes to clown around.

The band included spoons used as castanets, a bass drum, and a trumpet, a violin, kettle drum, a harp and one woman played the piano, the only legitimate instrument.

The band raises money to help tubercular hospitals and patients. Among the numbers they did were "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Davy Crockett," "This Old House" and a Highland fling number.

Mrs. Dean Hammon, Ketchum, wrote the skits about Mrs. Schwartz's life.

Upon receiving the gifts, Mrs. Schwartz said, "It's hard to say thank you. I do appreciate everything you've done, thank you. She sniffled as she spoke.

She was born June 7, 1897, in Naama, Kans. Her family moved to Idaho and settled in Payette in 1908. Her father was in the real estate business. The family moved to Mountain Home in 1907, and Mrs. Schwartz went to school there from the third grade through high school.

She was graduated from Alty school in 1915 after attending Link's School of Business, Boise, and Munson Secretarial school, San Francisco. She turned to Idaho and taught at Link's until she was married in 1919 to Earl Schwartz, who had just returned from World War I. Schwartz lived in Boise then.

Immediately after marriage, the Schwartzs moved to Naama where she was employed as foreman of the four year in the U. S. navy. Her husband was several years later that Mrs.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dated States postoffice department headquarters here maintains with a straight face that it has no record of political affiliations of the 621 local postmaster appointments now awaiting confirmation by the secretary.

While this may be true as far as the States postoffice department is concerned, a number of well-known names in the States postoffice department are holding up confirmation of nearly 100 appointments for impure political reasons.

The specific republican charge is that the Democrats are trying to stall confirmation of Eisenhower appointments in the hope that the Democrats can be elected by Democrats in '51.

This was the way it was done in the good old days, when postmaster appointments were considered a fair political patronage for whatever party was in power.

IDAHO EMPLOYERS ORGANIZE

Statewide organization of the Idaho Employers council is a move in the right direction, falling right in line with the suggestion made by President Eisenhower recently.

The President pointed out that businessmen generally have an aversion to responsibilities as citizens. Because of their preoccupation with their individual business affairs, the President reminded businessmen that they were neither taking the active interest in politics nor providing the leadership that is necessary to keep this country on an even keel. He urged all businessmen to recognize that important fact and assume their full responsibility for good government.

And here the other day just as I was getting ready to continue my griping, the intersection suddenly gets busy and a school bus is responsible, but I for one appreciate it.

Disability Filing Dates Told Vets

Arnold Helweg, veterans administration representative, advises that completion of disability service-connected disabilities may be allowed retroactively to one of three different dates, with the date of the application a factor in each case.

If filed within a year from date of release from active service, and if the veterans administration finds the condition payable, disability severe enough at separation to be compensable, payment may be made retroactive to the date of following release.

If filed within a year from date of release from active service, and if the veterans administration finds the condition payable, disability severe enough at separation to be compensable, payment may be made retroactive to the date of following release.

If filed later than a year after release from service, payment may be made retroactive to the date of filing.

This does not mean there is a time limit for filing disability claims as veterans may apply for disability compensation at any time during their lives.

Plans Noted for Future Satellites

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The United States is working on plans to send a big communications satellite into orbit 22,000 miles up. And there's a plan to send service men to live on satellites to keep the satellites in working order.

Director Roy W. Johnson of the defense department's advanced research projects agency led the house space committee about it. He said ARPAs objective is to get the satellite into the prescribed orbit, circling Earth once in 24 hours and therefore stationary over one point, by 1959 or early 1963.

Shuttling mechanics is much farther off, Johnson said, but "definitely have in the study stage a kind of program that would allow a serviceman to go up there and take care of it."

Turkey Raiser Checks Remaining Turkeys After Storm

Gene Hull, area turkey grower, is surrounded by 5-week-old birds which survived Thursday night's rain and wind storm. Bare areas of ground had been a rich alfalfa field before the frightened birds lammed up, beating the growth to the ground. Two hundred and thirty-two birds were suffocated. The birds had been turned out for the first time earlier in the day. (Staff photo-engraving)

Local Turkey Grower Loses 231 Birds As Flock Panics During Wind, Rain

Panel - a flock - pandemonium, was the reaction of about 4,000 turkeys Thursday night when a wind and rain storm hit the Gene Hull turkey farm, four miles west of Twin Falls.

With the complete stupidity which Hull says is typical of the birds, they began to pile up in an effort to keep warm, with the result loss of 231 of the young Thanksgiving dinners.

"People probably wouldn't believe how much heat a pile-up like that generates," Hull said, telling of the mad scramble of the birds to keep warm and dry. "When the heat was extremely frigid, the pile is finally pulled loose, the birds on the bottom are so hot that you can hardly handle them, and the ground steams from the terrible body heat," he added.

While they have had other disasters with turkeys, Hull said this is the largest loss of their 11 years in the turkey business. The young birds had just been moved out to the pasture area from the brooder pens Thursday morning, undoubtedly adding to their instability during the storm.

It is possible to insure the flocks against this type of disaster Hull said, but cost makes it almost prohibitive.

Market value of the birds lost would be about $600, with a potential of double that amount when grown, Hull reports.

Hull said the only weather which could have wreaked more havoc would have been a hail storm.

"Hull would frighten them to death," Hull stated. This is his figure of speech, but a proven phrase.

Child Health Stressed for Yearly Meet

BUN VALLEY, June 27 (U)—The International Pediatric Society's annual clinical convention was held tonight that instruction in pediatric should be expanded in medical school curricula.

"Child health is the concern of society..." said Dr. Robert H. Alway, dean of the Stanford University school of medicine. "More child health instruction is going to have to be given in undergraduate medical school, and also a full two months to all internists. More emphasis must be put on hours and office problems concerned with child health rather than undue stress on laboratory work, and rare and exotic cases."

Dr. Alway addressed a banquet meeting. In his prepared talk he said: "The pediatrician more than anyone else should be aware that one of his goals is to take his patients from the dependency of infancy through the independence of adolescence into true maturity."

The clinical convention opened Friday. It was scheduled to end Sunday with scientific departmental meetings.

Dr. Wesley H. Anderson, Ogden, is society president.

Sugar Beet Growers Told to Maintain Full Wage Records

Sugar beet growers should maintain complete records of all wages paid for sugar beet labor, advised Carl Boy, chairman of the Twin Falls county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee. Payments cannot be made under the sugar act unless all workers employed by a grower have been paid at least the fair and reasonable wage as determined by the secretary of agriculture. Where the worker because of local prevailing wages, field conditions, or other considerations, become the minimums if they are higher than the rates determined by the secretary.

Records to be kept by a sugar beet grower for each worker employed are: hours worked, total hourly earnings, and receipts for "unpaid" wages. Minimum rates are 70 cents an hour for thinning, hoeing or weeding; 75 cents an hour for pulling, topping or loading. If performed by workers between 14 and 16 years of age, the rates may be reduced by not more than one-third. Maximum employment is eight hours a day for such workers, without deduction from sugar act payments to the producer.

The rate per acre for piece-work is $3.50 for first hoeing completely machine-thinned fields or hoe-thinning only on fields with any type cultivation; $11.50 for first and finger thinning partially machine-thinned fields; $14.50 for and finger thinning fields which have not been machine-thinned; $5 for first hoeing, except completely machine-thinned fields, and $4 for second and third subsequent hoeing or weeding. A written agreement between the producer and worker is required in instances where a combined rate for "summer work" is agreed upon. In such case, the rate, regardless of the number of hours or weeding hours required, shall be the sum of the applicable thinning, hoeing and weeding rates specified above.

Where cross-cultivation is performed prior to hoeing or weeding, the specified first hoeing rate, rather than first hoeing following complete machine-thinning, may be reduced by not more than $1 per acre, and the specified minimum rate reduced by not more than 50 cents per acre. These rates are based on 22 inch and 24 inch rows.

Aaron Becomes First Man Elected Unanimously for Annual All-Star Game

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Hank Aaron, Milwaukee's slugger outfielder, set a baseball precedent Saturday when he became the first player ever to be chosen unanimously for the major league all-star game. Commissioner Ford Frick made the announcement in releasing the opening lineup—as picked by the players themselves—for the attraction at Forbes field in Pittsburgh July 7. The same teams, with the addition of three players to each, will also meet in the second 1951 all-star game Monday, Aug. 13, at Los Angeles.

Aaron, receiving a maximum 900 vote, was one of three members of the "champion" Braves named for the National League. The others were third baseman Ed Matthews and catcher Del Crandall.

By contrast, the world champion New York Yankees, who have dominated teams in the past, placed only one man on the American League team. He is Bill Skowron, first baseman.

Even Mickey Mantle was slumped down to the number four spot as the Chicago Indians and Chicago White Sox, who have been battling for first place, each put two men on the All-Star team.

In the early days of the all-star game the players picked the teams. But now it is turned over to the fans. When this was found impractical, the voting was returned to the players last year.

No pitchers were chosen. This will be left to the rival managers—Coye Stengel of the Yankees and Hank Aaron of the Braves.

Aaron is one of three repeaters on the NL team. The others are outfielder Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants and Ernie Banks, shortstop of the Chicago Cubs.

Orlando Cepeda, the Giants' 1950 rookie of the year in the National League, made the team for the first time at first base. Also named were Johnny Temple, Cincinnati second baseman, and Wally Moon, Los Angeles leftfielder.

Repeaters in the American League were catcher Gus Triandos of Baltimore, second baseman Nino Fox and shortstop Luis Aparicio, both of the Chicago White Sox, and the Yankees' Shortstop Rocky Colangelo. Spectacular long-ball hitter, edged Duke Snider down in the first round. Snider, who is a newcomer to the all-star team along with the third base selection, Harmon Killebrew of the Washington Senators.

Completing the team were center fielder Al Kaline of Detroit, who beat out Mader, and left fielder Minnie Mirosa of Cleveland.

Dodgers Whip Pirates for Sixth in Row

The Los Angeles Dodgers won their winning streak to six games Saturday night and moved to within a game of league-leading Milwaukee by blanking the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 before 48,072 Coliseum fans.

The victory put the Dodgers in second place, a full game ahead of San Francisco. Their winning streak is the longest they have achieved since moving from Brooklyn.

Duke Snider drove in the first Los Angeles run and made a great catch that topped the Pirates of at least two runs.

The Chicago Cubs erupted for four runs in sixth inning to beat the Milwaukee Braves 7-1 behind the six-hit pitching of Glen Hobbie.

Ernie Banks crashed his first homer of the year with none on in the seventh while boosting his major league leading RBI total to 71.

The last-place Philadelphia Phillies snapped a six-game losing streak, triumphing San Francisco 7-6. The victory was the National League club's first in 10 consecutive games on the West Coast this season.

Consecutive homers by Dave Philley and Harry Anderson in the seventh inning of Los Angeles carried the club to their sixth victory in the last 21 games.

Ernie Broglio hurled two-hit shutout ball as St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati 5-0.

Bill White put the Cards ahead in the seventh while boosting his season in the first and his record to two more in the second on Gene Oliver's second of the season. Hal Smith poled his ninth homer of the season off Orlando News.

Johnansson Uses Mystery Right to Win Boxing Title

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Ingram Johnansson's "mystery" right hand turned out to be the explosive force that propelled him to the world heavyweight championship. The "thunder and lightning" right hand, which was the undefeated Swede had promised was unleashed by Floyd Patterson felled seven times and stripped him of his crown in rain-soaked Yankee stadium Friday night.

It was a right hand bomb that burst against the jaw of the 5-foot-10 American seconds after the third round had started. The power-packed right smacked Patterson in the jaw on his back and brought him to his knees.

Calmly and coldly, as if he were sighting a rifle, the handsome, blue-eyed Swede dropped his bleeding and reeling foe to the canvas until referee Ruby Goldstein called the daughter-in-law wave of his hand.

It went into the record books as the greatest knockout. The seven counts were 9, 9, 6, 6, 7, 7, 10. It all in two minutes and three seconds. It was a war, a war of attrition. The mighty right—never did Patterson in his lackluster training maneuvers—made the 26-year-old Swede a name to be feared. Problem for Mixed Grain Is Reported

Sen. Henry A. Drenthak, in Twin Falls to attend the American Legion parade Friday afternoon, said that he wasn't familiar with any plans of the department of agriculture to decrease the percentage of wheat in mixed grain plantings.

He added that he has heard that some dealers are separating wheat from the mixed grain sold to farmers and getting a higher profit.

He said, "Congress is interested in taking effective action to curtail the overproduction of wheat, cotton and corn. Excess surplus commodities depresses prices in the market. The soil bank program has not proved successful and one of the committee has received reports of abuses in this program. While acreage is being cut, yields increase, surplus piles up and American farmers are plagued by rising costs of operation."

Asked about the value of price supports and whether lowering them has helped the surplus problem, he said, "Nothing has been done either by the department of agriculture or congress to cope with the underlying problem of reconciling production with consumption requirements."

He was curious to know just how farmers felt about the price support program. Though opposed to government requisitioning of production and pricing, he said this doesn't mean he believes the government should be completely inactive in farm affairs.

Boost in U.S. Forest Roads Fund Sought

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—A program of increased development of national forest roads and trails was proposed in the bill which was introduced in the Senate, including Sen. Frank Church, D., Idaho.

The bill would implement part of a long-range program for the improvement of more than 200,000 miles of forest roads and trails with the largest single investment, estimated at 700 million dollars, earmarked for roads and trails with the spending of 40 million dollars in 1952 and 50 million dollars in 1953. Present authorization is 20 million dollars.

Sen. James E. Murray, D., Montana, the bill contained two new provisions. One would be a limitation on timber purchaser road construction, which he said would reduce "hidden spending." The other would repeal a law which permits 10 per cent of forest service income to be used on roads and trails.

The effect, according to Murray, would be to consolidate such spending in one place subject to congressional review.

Murray said he welcomed the administration's decision that more money be spent on roads and trails. The past three congresses have consistently increased administration appropriations.

Idaho Flag's History Told To Assembly

Mrs. H. L. Hogeist outlined the history and evolution of the Idaho flag at an assembly of the Twin Falls Business Club Wednesday.

Shortly after adoption of the present flag a design of the great seal of the state which symbolized the industry of the state in 1890, Mrs. Hogeist told the students.

During the Spanish-American war Idaho volunteers desired a regimental color to carry into the Philippines. Using the Idaho seal, a color was designed which eventually became basis for the state flag.

After the turn of the century, the legislature adopted a flag with vague directions to the flag maker to the preparation. Improperly designed and colored flags were used until the Idaho Federated Women's club activated persons and the legislature to enact a law in 1941 requiring correction of the imperfect design of the flag which had been in use. Old and new flags were used in the comparison by Mrs. Hogeist.

Glenda Bissing, Bellevue, and Rose Weech, Hansen, sang a duet, "Love, Love, Love," accompanied by Roy Ann Overman, Jerome. Miss Overman also played two piano solos, "Walk in 2 Time" and "Beyond the Sunset."

Plans for extracurricular activities for the summer term were discussed.

Buhl Grange Fetes Pupils

BUHL, June 27—Eighty grade graduates of the Sunnyside 4-H Livestock club, sponsored by the Buhl Grange, were honored with a better dinner and gift when the grange met Thursday evening.

Mrs. Milo Davis was chairman of a program which included Margaret Williams, piano solo; Kenneth Williams, vocal solo, and Johnny Barker, a delegate to Boys' State, who spoke to the group on his experiences while at Boys' State.

A potluck dinner was served to members present under the direction of the home economics committee, headed by Mrs. Kenneth Shrader. A birthday cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Davis.

Members also voted to attend the Sunnyside 4-H Livestock club achievement day which will be held July 15 at the Frank Southwick ranch.

Baptists to Dedicate New Pipe Organ at Rite Today

Today marks the end of a project which has been in progress for five years ago by a special service of dedication with members of the First Baptist church at 11 a.m. A one-hour broadcast on TV inspects wells... Magic Valley Portrait... Classified Ads.

Larry Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bennett, and the Rev. R. E. Hines, minister of education of the First Baptist church, inspect the new church organ that will be used for the first time today. Larry Bennett will be the regular church organist. (Staff photo-contrast)

Mr. Hines, Salt Lake City, tunes the new pipe organ at the First Baptist church. Dunn, who was born in England and learned the trade there, is organ technician for the LDS tabernacle organ in Salt Lake City. Dunn moved to the First Baptist church in 1946. For the past several weeks he has been installing the pipe organ in the United States. He says the organ is the largest one he has installed in Magic Valley in the past 12 years. Each pipe in the organ must be tuned individually. The pipes are tuned by moving the bronze portion either up or down on the pipe. (Staff photo-contrast)

The concert will be played by Melvin Dunn, Salt Lake City, technical supervisor of the LDS tabernacle organ. Mr. Dunn also will explain operation of the big organ during the concert.

Since June 1, Dunn and Wayne Devereaux, Ogden, have been working night and day installing the organ. Devereaux is organist at the LDS tabernacle in Ogden. By the first of the week the men had installed the many pipes involved in the organ and on Tuesday and Wednesday they tuned the organ.

Pipes Range In Size
The pipes range from those the size of a peppercorn canny size to the size of a large store pipe. The many pipes are clustered behind the chancel and below the rose window, completely filling a large classroom on the second floor to the right of the chancel. The classroom formerly was used for junior age girls.

According to the Rev. Ernst Hasselblad, pastor of the First Baptist church, the pipe organ will be an asset to the church and the community.

Speaking of the church services, the Rev. Mr. Hasselblad says, "First of all it will enrich our services of worship with better music." Until now the church has had an electronic pipe organ that imitated the sounds of a true pipe organ by amplifying artificial wind sounds. The true pipe organ uses no artificial sounds. All sounds are made by the sound of wind rushing through the many pipes.

Pipe Organs Scarce
The Rev. Mr. Hasselblad adds, "The new pipe organ also will give the young people in the church a chance to learn to play the pipe organ." He explains the relative scarcity of true pipe organs makes it difficult for young musicians to get a chance to take lessons on such an instrument.

He also feels that the new organ will contribute the type of music denied the individual during the week. I believe the church has a responsibility to develop an appetite for good music."

He says the pipe organ will be available for lessons and practice for individuals throughout the week. "We hope to encourage this phase of the program," he notes.

And I believe from time to time we will want to offer organ concerts."

He anticipates bringing in outside artists, in addition to local talent, for such concerts. He notes the church has had the opportunity to purchase the organ for $10,000. (Continued on Page 14, Column 1)

Field Located in Corner of Jaycee Park Isn't Being Wasted

Hundreds of children were jammed into Jaycee park for the Shrine circus when this aerial photo was taken on June 20. The Shrine circus is just one of many activities utilizing the baseball park in the absence of organized professional baseball. The city parks and recreation department keeps the area busy with a variety of events, including semi-professional baseball being played here this year. One of the next big events scheduled at Jaycee park is the annual fireworks display sponsored by the city of Twin Falls. It is scheduled for Friday night following a semi-pro baseball game. The fireworks are scheduled to start promptly at 9 p.m. (Staff photo-contrast)

National Problem of Abandoned Baseball Parks Causing No Trouble in Twin Falls

Across the nation the problem of what to do with vacant baseball parks puzzles many city recreation directors. Such a problem could have arisen in Twin Falls when the Magic Valley Cowboys dropped out of the Pioneer league at the end of the 1958 season.

But according to Ernest Craner, superintendent of parks and recreation, the Jaycee baseball park is busier than ever.

At the end of the 1958 season city officials met with directors of the Magic Valley Cowboys and agreed to take care of the park during the 1959 season. There is an agreement that the Cowboys could use the park again in 1960 in the event they reentered the Pioneer league.

Attendance Dropped
Craner notes that attendance at Cowboy games dropped off because of the increased competition for the public's attention. He cites bowling, water skiing and television as three activities that have hurt baseball attendance. And he points out that even the major leagues were forced to move in an attempt to lure new crowds.

Another thing that hurt the Magic Valley Cowboys, according to Craner, was that since there were an odd number of teams in the Pioneer league there were excessive "byes" in league play, contributing to excessive layoffs.

But the park did not go to weeds as some city-owned ballparks have the nation.
"We wanted to keep it busy," Craner says. He adds that the park is as busy, or busier, than it ever was.
Used by High School
The action started with the Twin Falls high school baseball season in April. The team played all its home games in the park. The park will offer a variety of activities and entertainment to the public throughout the summer.
Events are such varied activities as Camp Fire Girls jamboree, Boy Scout jamboree, semi-professional baseball games, Knobel league playoffs, Sunday church services, boxing matches, fireworks display, baseball clinics, Shrine Circus, softball team tournaments.
This fall the Idaho State Olympic club will bring in the Idaho State football team and another team to play a regular conference football game in the park.
Craner outlined the activity highlights to illustrate the varied activities planned for the park this summer.
Semi-pro Games Set
From the beginning of the season until late August the park will be busy each Sunday afternoon when one of two Twin Falls semi-pro baseball teams will play.
The American Legion baseball team will use the park for practice Monday through Friday. They will also play their weekly games there, on either Tuesdays or Fridays, depending on the schedule.
On June 13 the Twin Falls recreation department sponsored a baseball clinic for the Knobel league. About 500 young baseball players attended and learned the fundamentals of batting, fielding and throwing. The fundamentals of the game were explained by a staff of hard-boiled players.

Floor of Cave Staked Out for Methodical Research

This crew of professional and amateur anthropologists currently is doing research in the Wilson ball cave south of Dietrich. They are starting a research project that probably will last until early September. The project is sponsored by Idaho State college and Harvard university. The floor of the cave has been staked off and the soil will be studied carefully for Indian artifacts. Ruth Gruhn, (Continued on Page 14, Column 1)

Harvard university and project supervisor, estimates the crew will dig through as much as 10 feet of soil before striking bedrock. Crew workers are, from left, Jim Wagner, Fossilist; Kathleen McKay, Seattle; Janet Gervason and her father, Arthur Gervason, both of Gooding; and Miss Gruhn. Amateurs had dug up parts of the cave earlier. (Staff photo-contrast)

Anthropologists Digging in Cave Near Dietrich for Old Artifacts

DIETRICH, June 27—For the past few days several anthropologists have left their camp on Star lake east of Dietrich and made their way across the rough, dry, dusty desert roads to a high point of land called Wilson butte. At the butte they enter a large lava cave to search for buried artifacts in the soil of the cave's floor. According to Ruth Gruhn, director of the research, the crew will be working on the cave research until early September. Miss Gruhn is a graduate student at Harvard university and intends to use the information (Continued on Page 14, Column 1) discovered from the cave to write a thesis for her doctor of philosophy degree.

The research is financed by a grant from the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. The grant was given to Harvard university and Harvard earmarked the funds for research in southeastern Idaho.
The cave is a big one. It is about 50 feet in diameter and about 20 feet high at the highest point. Actually there are two caves, the main entrance cave and another large cave that is situated down the (Continued on Page 14, Column 1)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mrs. Liane Miller, BURLEY, celebrated her 94th birthday anniversary June 16. She lives with her daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Ryan, 1516 Overland avenue. Two large cakes were presented to her, one from her grandson, Gerald Dunn, and family and the other from Mrs. M. H. King. She shared her cake with her many friends who called during the afternoon and evening bringing her gifts. She has led an active life up until last Feb. 4 when she broke her ankle. She was getting out the back door of her home when a gust of wind caught the door and threw her to the ground. Her leg was in a cast for two months and the attending physician was amazed that the bone had knitted in that length of time.

A short time later she had the flu which weakened her considerably. She is improving steadily and again is able to walk about the house in a walker, and is up most of the day. She was born and reared on a farm in Bremer county, Iowa, in 1856. She was one of 12 children and had a twin sister, Mrs. Willie Deata, who died May 31, 1958. Mrs. Deata visited in Burley many times. Liane was married to Charles C. Miller for several years and when he finished college they were married Jan. 11, 1880. Miller was superintendent of schools at Lanes Spring, Ia. In 1892, he died of a ruptured appendix. They had one child, Hennie.

Mrs. Miller moved to Cedar Falls, Ia., and for a few years taught from Iowa State Teachers college boarded and roomed in her home. The school was then known as the State Normal school. In April, 1909, she moved to Wendell, where she lived until 1923 when she came to Burley to live with her daughter. During the time she was in Wendell she was a practical nurse. Mrs. Miller is a member of the First Methodist church, Burley, and was active until recent months.

Mrs. Miller has three grandchildren, Harold Dunn, Gerald Dunn, Burley, and Mrs. P. Lake, Boise. She has 10 great-grandchildren.

Students from BISHOPNE high school, who attended the two-week music clinic at Ricks college, nearburg, this month, had the opportunity of studying under Dr. Irwin Hoffman, famed orchestra leader who has gone to Berlin, Germany to direct the Berlin symphony orchestra.

Dr. Hoffman taught the classes in his field of study at the two-week clinic and his wife, who goes by her professional name, Esther Glazer, was featured in a violin concert. She is a professional violinist.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By HEUGEN C. FERNER, Pastor
Our Savior Lutheran Church

"I don't believe in sending my children to church on Sunday school," said the minister as he leaned back in his chair with the conviction that he was practicing religious tolerance.

"Misdirected Tolerance" he doesn't, then don't make him a pastor. He is a pastor called on a man to invite him to come to his church. "I had all the church members as well as a younger man. My father made me go to Sunday school."

The pastor arose from his chair and walked over to the man and, shaking the man's hand, he said, "Let me congratulate you on having a father who was concerned about your religious education. There are too many fathers living today in this very city who aren't in the least concerned about the eternal welfare of their children."

"Today that man is a faithful worker in the church. An intelligent Christian faith doesn't suddenly come to growing through some vague, magical process of osmosis. Rather, 'faith comes from what is heard.'"

Certainly it is true that much of our religious training has much to be desired, just as much of the teaching in our public schools has much to be desired. It is imperfect and our teaching is imperfect, just as our knowledge is imperfect and our prophecy is imperfect.

Teachers are sometimes inept and facilities often outmoded. Yet it is through such imperfect teaching vessels that God pours out His grace and salvation among men.

Intelligent decisions are made as to the result of education and training. If we expect our children to make intelligent decisions in matters pertaining to religion

Damages Sought In 2-Car Mishap

A suit was filed in probate court Friday afternoon by Edward Boddy for recovery of $22.05 for damages in a two-car accident May 18, 1950, three-fourths of a mile east of the Red Gap corner.

The action states that William Meyer, driving a 1954 Mercury, negligently operated his car so that it collided with a 1953 Chevrolet driven by Boddy. Boddy claims that total charges amount to $22.05 and asks $100 punitive damages.

Attorneys for Boddy is the Johnson and Olson law firm.

Chevy heavyweight takes all the meanness out of tough hauls!

L.C.F. model 2105 maneuvers long load over rough terrain with ease.

When a truck goes to work for Lester Brothers, Inc., of Martinsville, Virginia, it's in for a life of extra-hard labor. Loads are whoppers—whole sections of Lescop prefab homes. Runs are scheduled without let up. And at the job sites the going's always tough. That's why Lester Brothers specify Chevrolet; why they're adding new ones as soon as the older models need replacing. Chevs take the meanness out of the roughest jobs. And they cost less to maintain than any other trucks Lester Brothers have owned!

A going concern like Lester Brothers, with tight delivery dates to meet every day in the week, demands maximum truck dependability and performance. And, mister, they get it—with most of their Chevrolets going at least 100,000 miles (some of them 150,000) before the engine heads even come off! With big truck V8's that run right along on hurry-up schedules. With Chev trucks that are easier to handle specialists at getting in and out of congested job sites.

This particular operation sure points up Chevrolet's natural ability to handle any kind of job that could come along. It illustrates what we've been saying for a long time—that once you're in the payroll, that tough job loses its fight and settles down to a smooth-running routine. If your job demands even half as much as this one does, you've got good reason to visit your Chevrolet dealer. He's the man with specific information . . . the man to see before another good working day goes by.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck!

Screen Shows Troubles in Wells

A television screen mounted on skids for loading on a pickup truck will be used in the future to detect troubles in wells. First Closed Circuit Television Unit Of Type Used Here to Inspect Wells

As a trouble-shooting service for well-diggers and farmers who get their irrigation water from wells, a service crew watches a 17-inch television camera with a four-inch lens has been brought into Magic Valley by Layre and Bowler Pump Company, 1760 Kimberly road.

Thomas Thompson, left, owner of the local Layre and Bowler Pump Company, C. B. James, engineering field representative from the home office in Los Angeles, check television camera on end of 1500 feet of transmitting cable. The unit will be made available to well-diggers and farm customers on pumpplants to check breaks in well casings while a service crew watches screen mounted on truck. Left tools, sand cave-ins and even the presence of gas in a well will show up immediately on the screen. As other units are made available by the company and an electronic firm, they will be sold to other large pump dealers. Presently, this is the only four-inch "eye" in the United States for use in well operation difficulties. (Staff photo-engraving)

Kimberly Station's Bean Experiments Well Known, but Other Crops Tested

Although the Kimberly Agricultural Experiment Station is known widely for its work with beans, other plant crops are tested. Among these are a group of alfalfa and grasses planted this spring under the direction of John Kolar, assistant agronomist from the University of Idaho and Marshall LeBaron, superintendent of the station.

Dietrich Teacher Discovered Old Artifacts

Wayne Perron, school teacher at Dietrich, displays some of the artifacts he discovered in the Wilson bottle cave near Dietrich. Perron realized the cave's value to professional anthropologists after little exploration. He notified the Idaho State college museum.

This summer the cave will be studied thoroughly by a group of professional anthropologists under the supervision of Ruth Gruhn, Harvard University. The search is financed by a special grant. (Staff photo-entourage) near of the main cave, and then a series of small lava flow tubes. Crew members have measured the distance from the entrance to the end of the small lava flow tubes. It measures about 140 yards. In the inner chambers there is a small trickle of water and crew members point out that in early days the presence of water might have been an attraction to the early-day Indians.

Marked Off Strip
Before they started digging they marked off a strip of the cave floor 21 meters long and three meters wide. This was divided into three meter squares. Two went through the soil in each square, and they will remove the topsoil in help them eventually piece together a cultural sequence from the cave's floor. Miss Gruhn says they have found projectile points, bones and scrapers that date within the last 800 years. Used Intermittently

She notes the cave shows little evidence of permanent structures and it probably was used intermittently throughout the centuries.

Teacher Found Cave
Perron, an amateur anthropologist and school teacher at Dietrich high school, found the cave two years ago and realized the value of the artifacts there. He immediately contacted the Idaho State Museum and told them of the cave. Eventually the grant was received for this study.

Four Magt Valley persons are helping in the excavation, Wayne Perron, Dietrich; Earl Voss, Shoshone, and Art Governance and his daughter, Janet, both Gooding.

By layers until they reach bed rock, and then they will start on another strip 21 meters long. Miss Gruhn estimates they will reach bedrock after digging about eight to ten feet.

In addition to the area persons there is a group of students and trained anthropologists. Matthew Hill, Olympia graduate anthropologist from the University of Washington; James Wagner, Peacelike, sophomore in anthropology at Idaho State college; Kathleen McKey, Seattle, sophomore in sociology at Pacific university; Mrs. Ellis Byrd, Peacelike, senior in education at Idaho State college; Catherine Williams, Engaduck, Conn., senior in anthropology at Barnard college; and Mrs. Orle Outing, Seattle, senior in anthropology at the University of Washington.

Currently the crew works from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., five and one-half days a week. If the work was being done in open trenches it would be pretty tedious for the sun sears the land for miles around, but the crew members have little complaint about the weather as the temperature in the cave is about 20 degrees cooler than the outdoor temperature.

Durma, in southeast Asia, became an independent republic in 1948. It joined the United Nations the same year.

Ruth Gruhn, Cornell, N. Y., and Wayne Perron, Dietrich, pose by the opening of Wilson bottle cave south of Dietrich where anthropologists are studying the cave's contents. The crew works five and one-half days a week and then spends the week-end on a summer's holiday-type week-end, fringing out other artifact sites. They recently uncovered an Indian burial site outside the road leading to the canyon club. Miss Gruhn says it was a prehistoric Indian burial site. It will be later in the summer before she will know the exact age of more than 100 artifacts found there. She notes the burial site was found by Charles Meacham, Jerome, while he was hunting arrowheads. He realized the value of his discovery and immediately notified the Idaho State college museum. Woolgrowers Will Receive Payment Rate

Woolgrowers of Twin Falls county will receive a payment of 70.3 cents for each dollar's worth of shorn wool, not processed marketed during the 1958 marketing year, says Chairman Carl Boyd of the Twin Falls county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee.

The payment rate represents the percentage necessary to bring the national average price woolgrowers got for their wool during the year ending last March up to the established national incentive price of 62 cents per pound. The payment rate on shorn lambs to compensate for the loss on them will be $1.02 per hundredweight of live animals sold. This payment is designed to maintain the normal practice of marketing lambs with the wool on rather than shoring them to obtain the shorn wool payment.

The 1958 wool payment rate is the highest in the four years the program has been in operation. Boyd said. This is the result of relatively low prices received for wool in the market last year. For 1955, the first year of the program, the shorn wool incentive payment rate was 40 per cent; for 1956, it was 40 per cent; and for 1957, 15.5 per cent.

County ASC offices expect to begin making the 1958 wool payment soon to growers with applications by April 30, 1959. The payments are for wool and unshorn lambs. The program was started April 1, 1953 and March 31, 1959.

Buhl Owner of Arabian Horses Claims Breed Little Known, Not Understood

Buhl, June 27—Probably no breed of horse is so little known or so greatly misunderstood as the Arabian. For centuries the breed has been considered a story book horse. This horse has served as a gift for kings, an ideal subject of artists as well as a subject for imaginative and romantic legends.

The Atwoods plan to enter their horses at all the Arabian shows for the coming year, including Blackfoot, Sun Valley, Salem and Salt Lake City. They will enter the horses in the Western and English, "pleasure" division. Their Arabian horse was a wonderful Arabian scribe and much horses and they hope in the future use these horses for a retirement plan.

Herd Increased
The Atwoods' six horses are named Lillian, a gray mare; Nandi, her colt offspring, also gray; Mabebe, a chestnut mare; Sharanah, a mare and her offspring a colt named Sherk, chestnut of color; Mabebe, the stallion, and ValRayn, a golden chestnut colored horse.

The Atwoods started their herd a year ago when they purchased a mare and a stallion and have now increased the herd to six. The chestnut horses also feature white stockings feet.

Both of the Atwoods also Arab can climb and descend banks as well as walk the narrow and precarious trails found in the mountains. The Atwoods have searched throughout the western states to find the horses to suit their own and have purchased three private owners.

He'll Manage Three Big Dams

Maynard C. Welsh, former Magic Valley resident, will oversee operation of Idaho Power company's Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon dams. He stands in front of the mammoth Brownlee powerhouse. (Staff engraving)

Veteran of Magic Valley Power Plants To Supervise Three Snake River Dams

BROWNLEE, June 27—A graying, soft-spoken man who served his apprenticeship at several Idaho Power company generating plants in Magic Valley soon will be tackling a much bigger job. The man is Maynard C. Welsh, his job will be power plant operating superintendent in charge of Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon dams which are in production.

Oxbow Powerhouse—Right now, with Oxbow still in the making and Hells Canyon in the preliminary stages, this 53-year-old Idaho Power veteran is keeping his practiced finger on the pulse of a wide variety of operations. He oversees the clock-work functioning of Brownlee's 120,000-kilowatt powerhouse, where Frank E. Myers, Brownlee plant superintendent, exercises day-to-day supervision of a crew of 11 specially trained technicians.

Double-checks Prints—Welsh, a medium-built man who looks at the complex world of power plant construction and operation through metal-rimmed glasses, also makes sure that Idaho Power's brand two-way system of fish facilities at Brownlee and Oxbow keeps ticking like a fine watch.

And that's not all. He puts his long experience to work, too, on the vital task of double-checking the accuracy of engineering prints that point the way like a road map for the men building the 200,000-kilowatt Oxbow project. Also with in his present realm of responsibility are the Idaho Power inspectors who monitor every detail of Oxbow's construction.

In Welsh's book, a front-row seat at the spectacle of great dams in the making is one of the highlights of his 29 years with Idaho Power.

"Being structures of rock, concrete and steel springing up to remote river canyons virtually overnight is a rewarding experience—one that justifies all the hard work, long hours and know-how that go into a project," he says.

Good Training—Welsh's present busy round of duties is good training for his big job to come. For that job will move him into over-all command of three ultra-modern plants that are among his most intricate and ingenious mechanisms created by the fertile mind of man.

Under his watchful supervision, a force of some 400 men will keep a hefty supply of power for the company's own service area and the rest of the Northwest flowing from the 120 of pen-nat plants 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. He and his corps of technicians also will operate and maintain Idaho Power's far-flung network of fish facilities.

Worked as Oiler—Welsh began preparing for his big job when he joined Idaho Power at its Shoshone Falls generating plant in 1930. Fresh out of Nebraska Wesleyan university with a degree in physics, he went to work at Shoshone Falls in the bottom-of-the-ladder job of oiler.

In 1935 Welsh moved up the rungs to the post of operator, later that year transferred to Thousand Springs in the same capacity. He added the duties of dispatcher in 1941 and then, the following year, shifted to the utility's Upper Salmon falls development as an operator.

Six Plants Built—Welsh got his first taste of business as a hydro electrician in 1941. It was then he became superintendent of the Twin Falls plant—a post he held down for the next three years.

By 1948 Idaho Power was moving full speed ahead on a post-war construction program that saw six new hydro plants built in a twenty-year period. Welsh got into the ambitious expansion with both feet in December, 1948, shifting to the Blue River to supervise equipment installation.

He became Blue superintendent with the completion of the new plant, but soon moved downriver to take part in the fast-paced building of G. J. Steele dam there, as at Blue, he remained an superintendent of the new house of kilowatts when the bulk and bustle of construction was completed in record time.

Is Adopted Idahoan—In 1926 he left Strike to lend his know-how to another great river-harvesting development—Idaho Power's Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon dams.

Though a Nebraska native, Welsh now is a confirmed adoptee of Idaho, both by inclination and marriage. His wife, the former Frances Ochauer, has relatives in the Kimberly area who include Don Taylor, a farmer turned real estate man.

Resonator Tubes Inspected on New Pipe Organ

The Rev. Ernest Hasselblad, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Mrs. Gene Hauserman, church secretary, look over some of the resonator tubes of the new pipe organ that was just installed at the First Baptist church. There are 800 pipes in the organ, ranging in size from three-eighths of an inch to 16 feet. It takes about eight hours to tune the pipe organ. Some of the larger pipes can be seen mounted in a horizontal position in the background. The 800 pipes are clustered behind the church chancel. (Staff photo-engraving)

Richfield Couple Leaves to Study New Pipe Organ Installed in Baptist Church to End Project of Five Years

RICHFIELD, June 27—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Woods have gone to Madison, Wis., where they received a graduate scholarship and scholarship at the University of Wisconsin.

Members worked on their projects. There will be no meeting next week because of 4-H camp. Refreshments were served by Carol Ann Fuller. Next meeting will be held July 9 at the school.

The Rev. Mr. Hasselblad notes the church replaced the old electronic organ because it was obsolete and repairs were becoming costly, and at times, impossible.

Study Made—He explains the decision to buy a new church organ was made five years ago when the Rev. R. E. Cross was pastor of the church. An organ committee was appointed then and in the intervening years they have made a study of the various types and makes of organs available.

Last November they decided to buy the large Welch pipe organ. The organ is made in Highland, Ill. The Rev. Mr. Hasselblad says the church has paid for approximately half of the organ. It is being paid by free-will contributions from the congregation. Individual donations range up to $400.

The remainder of the purchase price will be paid by pledges made by congregation members and by neglected donations.

The Rev. Mr. Hasselblad notes that many organizations within the church itself made generous contributions to the organ fund.

Larry Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bennett, will be the regular church organist. It will be a junior in Twin Falls high school next fall. The Rev. Mr. Hasselblad notes Bennett began to take pipe organ lessons last fall, immediately after the church decided to buy the device.

The organ committee was composed of seven members of the congregation, Russell Bennett chairman; John Bishop, Mrs. Wesley Myers, Dennis Winkler, Mr. Howard Durward, Mrs. Bert Sweet Jr., and Mrs. Merrill Stovell.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

Mrs. W.H. Detweiler Believes Women Have Real Place in Nation's Politics

HAZELTON, June 27—Believe that women add not only a moral but also a spiritual value to politics. I think women are more realistic than men. They realize you can't have good government without divine guidance and I think women realize that more than 25 years.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

These are comments on the current political scene by Mrs. W. H. Detweiler, Hazelton, a Magic Valley woman who has been active in the Republican party and American Legion auxiliary more than 25 years.

Interested in Politics Mrs. Detweiler is currently secretary of the National Federation of Republican Women and a Republican party national committee woman.

She first started working with the American Legion auxiliary in the 1920's and it was her work with that organization that spurred her interest in local, state and national politics.

Born in Reading, Pa. Mrs. Detweiler attended a public school and took nursing training here. After graduation she took the state nursing and army boards at a registered nurse.

She joined at hospital job at the old Twin Falls hospital as operating room supervisor, she explains that a former graduate of the Presbyterian hospital in Reading also was working at the hospital and that she and another nurse were hired to replace the staff.

"I first came here in 1919," she says, "and I was here for a pioneer, but found out later there were many people before me."

She explains she lived in Hazelton for most of her life and the country were completely different from what she had known before she married Mr. Detweiler. She says that her work in the American Legion auxiliary has been a great help to her growing interest in politics.

4,974 Big Game Permits Offered for 1959 Season 58 Controlled Hunts in 1959 Season

BY JIM HUMPHREY Idaho Fish and Game Dept. The 1959 big game permits will feature 58 controlled hunts and draw some 4,974 permits to hunt moose and elk, deer and antelope.

Unlike other years, however, there will be no controlled hunts for Rocky Mountain sheep—this having been swung over to general hunting ranges—although there will be some controls on goats.

Controlled hunts not only are regulated by law, but also are believed to be here to stay because they are important parts of Idaho game management programs. They are highly-valued for at least two reasons.

One is that controlled hunts provide a management tool which can be tailored to limit the amount of hunting pressure on a big game herd or species.

Antelope provide such an example. Considered a vanishing species not so many years ago, it still can be over-hunted without actual data about herd trends and their management needs on which controlled hunt details are based.

Another value is that controlled hunts focus attention on particular areas where population distribution of hunters and ultimate harvest.

22 Moose Hunts will be 22 controlled moose hunts in Idaho this fall, but only 90 permits will be allocated to winners in public drawings. Thus, the maximum number of legal kills cannot exceed 90.

That is only part of the management control available through special hunts. Heretofore, 90 moose, antelope or otherwise, really would decrease any herd in the state, hence special hunts will be open to just two permits, one will have three and four—two moose, antelope and mountain goat in a clearly defined area.

The same rationing system will be worked on the controlled goat hunts.

Distributes Pressure This distributes the pressure while providing a little hunting in numerous places, fitting the needs to animal populations and other known facts.

Rocky Mountain sheep this year has been taken out of the controlled hunt category entirely, although in other years some ranges also have been open to general hunting.

Sheep to be roadside species. The focus itself on which the justly-famous trophy animal is found is little hunting—and with the restriction on horns, the Idaho regulations how are believed capable of remaining in place for present years, even under general hunting.

Vacant Park Here Causes No Problem

On June 18 the Camp Fire Girls had a Jamboree in the park. It was an annual celebration attended by girls from throughout the valley.

On June 20 and 21 the Shrine circus performed in the park. The circus and recreation employees set up the stage and bleachers for the circus.

Fireworks Stated On the evening of July 3 there will be a "buzzer game" in the park, followed by the annual American Legion picnic.

Later in July Crater notes there is a possibility the 128th district softball playoffs will be held in the park. He adds there also is the possibility that the Idaho state softball tournament will be held in the park in late August.

Several churches have approved Crater and made tentative plans to hold Sunday morning services in the park. On Sept. 21, St. Edward's church will hold outdoor services in the park.

On Aug. 13, 14 and 15 the Knights of Columbus will use the park for summer playoffs under the lights.

On Sept. 11 and 12 Boy Scouts will hold a jamboree in the park. This is the first year such an event has been held here and the Scouts will camp in the park during the week-end activity.

Used Every Night Crater says the park is being used every night. It is available to the public and the park must be closed so it can be used every night for two weeks.

Although Crater asserts a class of professional loan is an asset to any community, he adds that a public shouldn't overlook the fine baseball that is being played by some of the amateur and semi-professional teams. He noted one of the best games he has ever seen was played here a few weeks ago that went for 13 innings.

Auto Sales in Nation Going At Fast Pace

DETROIT, June 27 (AP)—For a change, more people are buying more cars this year than the auto industry figures.

Unless sales tumble in the next six months, the total may well approach 6 1/2 million domestic makes and imports, or about 500,000 over the most optimistic estimates.

The sales would divide into about 4 million for the domestic market and 1 1/2 million for export. The foreign total, a record, had been exceeded in 1958.

Harlow Curtice, then president of General Motors, led off last August with 4 1/2 million domestic sales prediction. Other executives had predicted 4 1/2 million.

When a spring sales surge developed for the first time in four years, the industry top brass kept their fingers crossed.

Just over 500,000 cars were on hand when the calendar year ended for retailing. But this means sales should exceed equal production totals about 400,000 cars.

In the first six months production will total about 2,350,000 cars. The industry expects to produce 2,350,000 cars in the first six months of August and September as the car-makers target 1959 models and begin work for retooling.

Unsold new car inventories are something over 900,000. But dealers on the whole are not apprehensive.

They point to the general acceptance of the '59 styles plus the fact that very few potential buyers appear to be hanging back to look at the '60's.

The only exceptions are those who have decided they want to wait for the new models. But the big three—Chrysler's Corvair with the rear engine, Ford's Falcon and Chrysler's Valiant.

Far from dealers admit to only a mild interest on the part of buyers in these new ones.

DETROIT, June 27 (AP)—For a change, more people are buying more cars this year than the auto industry figures.

Unless sales tumble in the next six months, the total may well approach 6 1/2 million domestic makes and imports, or about 500,000 over the most optimistic estimates.

The sales would divide into about 4 million for the domestic market and 1 1/2 million for export. The foreign total, a record, had been exceeded in 1958.

Harlow Curtice, then president of General Motors, led off last August with 4 1/2 million domestic sales prediction. Other executives had predicted 4 1/2 million.

When a spring sales surge developed for the first time in four years, the industry top brass kept their fingers crossed.

Just over 500,000 cars were on hand when the calendar year ended for retailing. But this means sales should exceed equal production totals about 400,000 cars.

In the first six months production will total about 2,350,000 cars. The industry expects to produce 2,350,000 cars in the first six months of August and September as the car-makers target 1959 models and begin work for retooling.

Unsold new car inventories are something over 900,000. But dealers on the whole are not apprehensive.

They point to the general acceptance of the '59 styles plus the fact that very few potential buyers appear to be hanging back to look at the '60's.

The only exceptions are those who have decided they want to wait for the new models. But the big three—Chrysler's Corvair with the rear engine, Ford's Falcon and Chrysler's Valiant.

Far from dealers admit to only a mild interest on the part of buyers in these new ones.

INTERIOR DECORATING

ENDURING CHARM

One of the reasons for the enduring popularity of Early American room settings is that the period furniture of these early periods can be used with high ceilings that express informality, cheerfulness, and a sense of being quaint and charming in style. Provincial furniture offers vast possibilities to the limited budget, and its business makes it an extremely good choice for homes with children.

The craftsmanship of the early years was of a high order. They remembered the ties their forefathers had used back in the 17th century, and patterned their new designs after the original, varying the originals and adding new features. From these techniques our own Early American styles emerged.

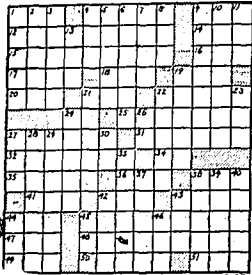

There is a note of charming simplicity in the room characterized by a high ceiling, a paneled ceiling has been painted

Grain Prices Mixed During Week's Action

CHICAGO, June 27 (UPI)—Grain prices were mixed this week on the Chicago board of trade.

Drummed hard futures continued to slip to new seasonal lows daily, owing to ease in spot and local oil.

Compared with last week, wheat was unchanged up 1/4 cent off 1 1/2 to 1, new oats up 1/4 to 3/8, corn off 1/4 to 1/2, soybeans off 1/4 to 3/8, and lint off 1/4 to 2/8 points.

What made small gains through the week, hedge selling continued to progress in the new crop area. A buying wave by Chicago shorts early this week helped the market recover from losses due to increased hedging and shorting the heavy rice, good mill demand. Cash wheat was 73 1/2 higher.

Favorable weather reports and increased offerings dropped corn prices. The 200 bushel contract showed the most losses. Cash in interest bought July. Prices tracked yesterday on reports of heavy rain. Spot corn was steady.

Cash hedges and local traders bought oats, and commodity house dealings were mixed. Reports indicated some damage by insects. Cash oats were unchanged.

Rye registered the greatest losses. July was off three cents, and September and March lost more than two cents. Uncertainty over whether the rye import quota would be extended was a factor.

In soybeans, liquidating pressure and lower oil and meal prices resulted in an easier market. The July contract showed wide swings most of the week. Commercial interests and shorts bought July. The contract continued to take over bears. Cash beans lost 1 cent.

The export trade was quiet. The U.S. and Japan were said to have bought wheat, and Germany bought soybeans.

Outside markets were mixed.
