Crowd of 6,000 on Hand for Golden Jubilee Fete for Wendell; Lee Speaks

WENDELL, July 4.—About 6,000 persons turned out Saturday morning for the beginning of the long-Wendell golden jubilee celebration sponsored by the Wendell Commercial. It was the largest and most colorful celebration in the 50-year history of the city. Featured speaker to mark the incorporation of Wendell on Oct. 12, 1915, was J. Bracken Lee, Salt Lake City, former governor of Utah and present chairman of the For America organization.

Lee, who spoke for an hour and a half, was well-received by the crowd. He said that the people who settled in Wendell in 1885 were not persons of fortune, but they were persons of spirit. ### Flight to Sun Valley to Get 2-Year Test

BOISE, July 4 (UPI)—The population of Sun Valley as a seasonal commercial airline stop was set for a two-year test starting next fall.

An order from the civil aviation board Thursday granted authority to West Coast airlines to fly out daily commercial services to the big resort area, which is the big tourist attraction in the state.

Huffer, the daily commercial bus service by rail and road, flight 5119 Planned.

Just as West Coast plans to schedule its experimental service to Sun Valley, the airlines are to plan in the planning stage, according to the airlines' station agent here. But he expects to hear more on the plans in about two weeks.

He anticipates that the airline will set up a schedule something like that of the service to Mexico which gets one flight a day as a seasonal basis.

Although the season at McCall runs only about three months for commercial flights it may be longer for Sun Valley, Curt McCall, the airline's general manager, guessed the season would "probably end up about five or six months a year."

But McCall and Hawkins said the airport at Hatley—that's the one that will serve Sun Valley—can not have a paved runway. This could cause problems both in winter and summer.

McCall said the airport has a fine turf field. But he said it is a pain to have "daily" service over a grassed period we would try to work out a deal with the city county to put out on the "acceleration" portion.

Location, Weather, Limited.
The field also is subject to two other limiting factors, its location and the weather. The airport is in the center of the month of a deep canyon and, McCall said, "There is no possibility of taking air in and out in bad weather."
Subject to visual flight rules—that is, limited to use in weather permitting the pilot to see where he is going rather than relying on instruments—the airport does not even have a "minimum" ceiling year-around service.

Water sports lovers, however, possibly could get service in good flying weather throughout the slow season if the demand appeared great enough.
"After a couple of years of service, if they think there's enough traffic to justify it," McCall said, "it might be worth considering keeping it plowed open."

West Area's Wheat Yield To Be Lower
SPOKANE, July 4 (AP)—Winter wheat producers in most of eastern Washington and Oregon can look for a decline in wheat yields this year, according to a survey by agricultural agents of the Northern Pacific railway. The survey estimates yield will be down to seven bushels in the acre.

Columbia and Walla Walla counties will have the heaviest yields, said the report, with yields of 8 bushels to the acre. Walla Walla county was not included in the study, but agents said acre-yields there will average slightly under 15 1/2 bushels.

Yields in other counties in eastern Washington were estimated at this rate: Adams, 27 bushels to the acre; Benton, 23; Franklin, 21; Lincoln, 16; and Wasco, 23.

Oregon yields are estimated at 31 bushels in Jefferson county, 24 in Umatilla and 23 in Wasco. The estimates in the report were based on the late June condition of the crop. Averages were based on county-wide estimates, including both the best-yielding land and areas where the crop normally was light.

JAPANESE URGES SHINTOISM
TOKYO, July 4 (AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida has called for the official restoration of Shintoism, the Japanese religion of ancestor and nature worship. Shintoism was stripped of its ties with the state after World War II.

Brothers Land Riley Creek Beauties

These two fish were caught at Riley creek by Michael Schroeder, 11, and Marshall Schroeder, 8, both sons of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Schroeder, Hahul. The biggest fish weighed seven and one-fourth pounds and the smaller one, six and one-fourth pounds. They caught the fish on nightwaters, using casting rods and 12-pound test line. Schroeder says it took each boy about 25 minutes to land the fish. Several times during the fight the boys were dragged in the stream, and he says "These boys were shaking so bad during the fight they could hardly walk." But he adds that when it was all over they wanted to return the next day. He says, "I just told them to give them all the line the fish wanted and not to let the line go slack, and pretty soon the fish just rolled over on their back and gull." (Staff photo-encouraging)

Thief's Auto Is Found in Utah Canyon
SALT LAKE CITY, July 4 (AP)—Another automobile believed to have been used by fugitive John Lee Dinnant was found today hidden in a canyon adjacent to Salt Lake City.

Dinnant, 31, Steyer, Utah, is charged with the armed robbery of the Valley State bank's branch in suburban Union, in which $11,775 was taken.

The Salt Lake county sheriff's office said a 1953 Ford convertible was found hidden in Little Cottonwood canyon.

The federal bureau of investigation said earlier that another car, the one in which the bank robber fled after the holdup, was recovered last Saturday in Zeko, Nev.

Ferry Wylie II, special agent in charge of the Salt Lake City FBI office, said that Dinnant definitely was seen in Salt Lake City Sunday—the day after the car was found in Zeko—and he was driving a different auto.

'Hot Campaign' for Votes Is Noted in First UAR Election

CANHO, July 4 (AP)—Candidates' choice of their families, prouising everything from more streetcars to the right to choose a husband are waging a hot campaign in the United Arab Republic's first nationwide election Wednesday.

In both the Syrian and the Egyptian regions more than 120,000 candidates are entered in the race for 22,000 seats on local councils of the UAR National Union, the only political group allowed to function. There is no treatment of voters for or against President Gamal Abdel Nasser's regime.

But the election is producing some lively races. The candidates represent almost all levels of society.

When elected to the local councils they will choose provincial councils which in turn will elect a general congress of the National Union from which Nasser will pick a provisional parliament.

The candidates are battling over local issues and questions which directly affect the everyday lives of the constituents. The usual big issues of Arab politics—Palestine, Algeria, Aden—are scarcely mentioned.

One woman candidate is promising legislation permitting women to choose their own husbands instead of having to accept the

WASHINGTON—Why, as you told us several weeks ago, and I did not believe you then, is President Eisenhower so unpopular? He is the most popular Republican party after so many years of apparent indifference? Inquires T. P. Tampa, Fla.

Answer—I think that President Eisenhower is answered by an understandable pride. He would not like to be thought of as a military man, or to approach his military reputation. He does not want to be ranked with our second-rate category of military leaders. He is a civilian. He will do all he can to convert the outcome of next year's presidential election into an endorsement of his administration.

WASHINGTON

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—The hand experience still seems to be the best teacher in convincing new government of the dangers of international communism.

The United States itself had had a taste of the danger of international communism. It was the war, and it was in Korea, Indo-China and Hungary.

All these things must have caused considerable disillusionment, but certainly not a complete loss of faith.

This, however, is no cause for gloating or "we-told-you-so" from the vast power which has tried to point-out the dangers of his past policies.

The United States in particular has one thing to consider in this connection. It is that the United States and the other leading nations of the free, independent world, are now—now—not as a part of the cold war—but to help dependent India, is still a good bet.

Church Urges Hearings for Age Problems

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Sen. Paul McClellan, D. Md., today urged that the Senate hold hearings on the problem of aging in Idaho sometime after the congressional recess.

The subcommittee, headed by McClellan, has held several public hearings and collected data on the problem of aging in Idaho. He said that the rate of increase of the aged in Idaho is increasing more rapidly than in the rest of the country.

Church wrote McClellan that an Idaho hearing "might well be of considerable value to the subcommittee in its study of the problem."

McClellan said that the rate of increase of the aged in Idaho is increasing more rapidly than in the rest of the country.

Queen Takes First Day Off During Tour

PARRY SOUND, Ont., July 4 (AP)—The Queen and Prince Philip took their first day off during a 10-day tour of the United States and Canada, as they arrived in Parry Sound, Ontario, today.

The royal couple, who are on a 14-day tour of the Great Lakes and Michigan, arrived in Parry Sound from Chicago, where they are due to leave tomorrow.

The only thing on the Sunday schedule was a religious service at the parish church.

The Queen and Prince Philip were headed for what they expect to be about the biggest reception of the six-week tour.

Their schedule gave them a day off before going into Chicago and another day afterward as they sail to Lake Michigan to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The Queen probably will need the rest of the 13-hour Chicago rail lines up to predictions.

In Windsor, Ont., thousands from Detroit, starting their fourth of July holiday, came across the Detroit river Friday to turn out to see Elizabeth on her one and three-quarter hour stop there.

Then, about 4,000 small boats from the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river to the Detroit and St. Clair rivers to Sarnia, Ont.

U.S. Ambassador Talks in Moscow

MOSCOW, July 4 (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, in a plain-speaking Fourth of July talk, told the Russian press that the United States believes the road to peace lies in peoples being governed as they themselves wish.

"This is what we ask for ourselves and this is the true meaning of this Independence day we are celebrating—and this is what we want for others," Thompson said.

The ambassador spoke on television in Russia.

Dedication for 49-Star Flag Recalls Vermont's Struggle

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—The official dedication of the new 49-star flag this July 4 is the final step in Alaska's admission to the Union.

Alaska's road has been a long one, but few states had a stormier time or fought harder for recognition than did the 14th state, Vermont.

This is the story of how the flag was changed from its original 13-star design for the first time.

Vermont could well be called the orphan of the Revolution. At the outbreak, the wild territory north of Massachusetts and between the New Hampshire and New York was commonly known as the New Hampshire Grants. This became the name of the numerous land grants made to settlers by the government.

But New York had challenged that right and an order from King George III and a later royal case held in favor of New York.

The sturdy pioneers, threatened with displacement, refused to accept the decision.

Under the leadership of the fiery Ethan Allen, a militia was formed, later to be known as the Green Mountain Boys.

The people were divided into two factions. In the East the authority of the West was recognized; in the West it was defied.

When the Revolution began in 1776, the New Hampshire Grants had little reason to join in it. But Lexington and Concord proved for the time being, the old enmity with New York.

On May 10, 1778, the Green Mountain Boys captured the fortress of Fort Mifflin on Lake Champlain.

This was the first victory by Americans in the war. Ethan Allen's blustering, "in the name of the great Jehovah and the Continental Congress," served as a much-needed rallying cry to the disunited colonies.

Vermont sent statehood petitions to congress. Finding little sympathy there, it took a vote in Jefferson and in January, 1777, issued a proclamation of independence. Vermont was bent on freedom, with or without the rest of the country.

The constitution later adopted by the new republic of Vermont was the first to forbid slavery and establish manhood suffrage.

After the war, Vermont's proportion of disputed lands by force and conditions of near civil war were a headache to the nation.

Congress passed a resolution disapproving Vermont's riotous behavior. Some quarters proposed partitioning it between New York and New Hampshire.

George Washington cautioned against trying to coerce Vermont.

"The inhabitants," he said, "are a hardy race, composed of that kind of people who are best calculated for a soldier."

But the old soldiers were departing. On Feb. 18, 1790, president Ezra Ripley of Yale wrote in his diary: "Ethan Allen died this day and went to hell."

Younger and more temperate men came along. They had a lever now to pry open the Union. Kentucky, a slave state, was clamoring for admission. The North looked about for a political counterbalance.

Washington and Alexander Hamilton in 1790 proposed Vermont finally made peace with New York and that state's opposition was withdrawn.

In Bennington on Jan. 8, 1791, a convention made formal petition for statehood. Washington presented it to congress and on July 18 the first President signed the act that made Vermont the 14th state.

On March 8 at a celebration in Rutland the federal flag was raised for the first 15 stars and stripes. Vermont was already welcoming the next state, Kentucky, which was admitted the following year.

The original flag had been adopted in 1777. Vermont's 15-star and 15-stripe flag anticipated the first official change that was made by congress in 1795 when there were 15 states.

Later, when more states came in, adding a stripe for each one made the flag too cumbersome. Congress then ordered that after July 4, 1818, the flag would return to its original 13 stripes, and with each new state a new star would be added to the field on the July 4 following its admission to the Union.

In spite, quickly Vermont 158 years ago led the way for all the other stars that were to follow.

Teacher Attacked in YWCA Rooms

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 4 (AP)—A woman principal, teaching in a school in St. Louis, was attacked Saturday in her room at a YWCA building.

Both the woman, Madge Harper, 38, of 10 Golf street, Orange St. O., and her assailant are Negroes.

Mrs. Harper told police the Negro man threatened to kill her and held a knife at her throat during the attack.

She said she was awakened by a noise in her fifth-floor room and that she cried out. "If you scream again, I'll kill you."

The YWCA branch, at 2709 Locust in the downtown section, offers housing accommodations, and about 30 women were in the building at the time. Police said some of the guests heard Mrs. Harper scream until after the attack.

Mrs. Harper said the man beat her about the head and face when he first entered, then placed a pillow over her face. She was released after an examination and treatment at a hospital.

320 Recruited

BOISE, July 4 (AP)—The Idaho national guard reported Saturday that 320 men have been recruited in a 15-day period ending July 1.

Public Parley Set to Open Hospital Bids

HAILEY, July 4—Sealed bids for the construction of the new Blaine county hospital are to be opened publicly at the courthouse at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

It is anticipated that the one-story concrete, masonry and frame hospital building will be started soon.

The new hospital will contain 10,500 square feet of floor space and the estimated cost, exclusive of equipment, is $225,000.

Local citizens and organizations have already pledged to furnish the new structure includes surgical, medical, obstetrical and emergency facilities and care.

The hospital site is located on the south end of Main street, just off Highway 93, on ground donated by the city.

The building is being constructed so that a sanitarium and a minimum-care wing may be added as an integrated part of the initial construction.

MR. AND MRS. ROLDO H. HYDE (Keller photo - left engraving)

Francis Badger, Roldo Hyde Wed In Church Rites

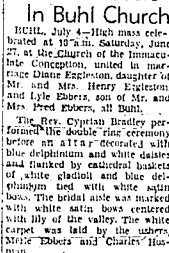

ROBERT, July 4—Francis Badger and Roldo H. Hyde exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony performed at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 4, at the Methodist church, 201 N. Main street, officiated by Bishop Rex P. Hill of the Twin Falls fifth ward.

Francis Badger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Badger, Rupert, has been making her home at 201 N. Main street for the past five years. Roldo H. Hyde, 32, is the son of Mrs. J. E. Hyde, Boise, and the late Dr. Hyde. The wedding party took their pictures before the fireplace, which was decorated with tall bouquets of lavender carnations and white gladioli placed on either side, and with a large floral piece over the mantel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of lace over tulle and satin. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with panels of the lace, alternating in tiers in the center front and back, with tiny seed pearls coating the lace medallions of the scalloped edge. The fitted bodice featured a narrow neckline bordered with lace-trimmed medallions, and tapered by point elbows. Satin covered the bodice and skirt, and the back of the bodice.

Experts Term China Claims 'Propaganda'

WASHINGTON, July 4.—U.S. experts are convinced that Communist China's "forward step" if it really falls on its face altogether—can be measured in much smaller strides than Peking claims. They say it includes some steps backward. "They regard as incredible red boasts about the massive economic program which got under way last year. They suspect Peking propaganda will play up China's food losses for needy neighboring India, are watching the outcome of the Chinese experiment. The new surge of nationalism in underdeveloped countries carries a great importance for economic advance. The communist way, featuring promise of vast gains starting from scratch, beckons. China's "forward step" is a new demographic method. Some major flaws in the red program are showing up as shortages put out by the Peking regime. Peking's nationalistic figure on doubling red China's food production, yet at the start of 1959, Peking disclosed a serious food shortage, requiring rationing that hardly squared with the claim of mounting food production. Sliced output was supposed to have climbed. But red propaganda suddenly fell silent about what was supposed to have approached the same-pig iron furnaces in the backyards of the millions of citizens.

Collection of Flags Displayed Here to Mark Fourth of July

Mrs. Hay Halouka holds the edge of an imperial Russian flag which is one of 17 flags displayed in front of the Halouka residence, 205 Blue Lakes boulevard north, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Halouka looks at the national flag of Afghanistan. The Betsy Ross flag, a Confederate flag, a Betsy Ross flag, and two 48-star United States flags.

17 Flags in Collection Are Displayed Here in Independence Day Observance

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Halouka, 205 Blue Lakes boulevard north, have collected flags as a hobby only since Christmas, but already have many different ones. Saturday morning the nation and Twin Falls residents were displaying all kinds of American flags, the Haloukas erected 17 flags in front of their home. The flags include 12 foreign flags, the U.N. flag, two U.S. 48-star flags, a Confederate flag and the Betsy Ross flag, the original U.S. colonial banner. Besides these, the Haloukas have 24 state flags. Halouka said he wrote to chambers of commerce in all 50 states requesting replicas of flags of the respective states. He received some immediately while others states said they didn't have flags to give away. Now Halouka is trying to obtain the other 24 flags to complete his collection. All of the state flags are four-by-six-inch replicas. The Haloukas try to obtain the state flags and each flag they receive. "It's very interesting," said Mrs. Halouka. One of the more interesting flags is that of Ohio. It is a burgee-type flag that looks similar to a pennant with a full-hill in the right end. This flag is the only one of that type the Haloukas have collected. The colonial flag is a replica of the Betsy Ross flag. It has 13 stars in a circle. Most of the flags from foreign countries the Haloukas have bought. However, an Imperial Russian flag was made by Mrs. Halouka's mother, Mrs. E. Kaale, 627 Main avenue west. Mrs. Kaale and her daughter both came from Siberia, where Mrs. Halouka was born. The Russian flag has three white stripes, the top one being white; the second one, red, and the third one, blue. The Imperial flag went out of existence after the Russian revolution of 1917. Halouka said he hopes to collect all the state flags, as well as other flags, and banners from royal families throughout the world.

Industrial Saarland Returns Again to Germany's Control

After World War I it was placed under the League of Nations with the French in occupation, but the Saarlanders in a plebiscite voted heavily to return to Hitler's Reich in 1935. After World War II the area became a French protectorate with its economy oriented toward France. French francs became the legal currency and a customs barrier cut off the Saar from Germany. Then it was decided to make the Saarland a self-governing territory within the controlled pool under guardianship of the West European Union, embracing Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy and West Germany. But the Saarlanders would have none of this, either, rejecting the plan. In a plebiscite the French bowed to the inevitable and after hard negotiations agreed to the Saar's reunion with Germany. A joint announcement Saturday set the date for the turnover of the Saar to the German economy. The Saarlanders will be the most advanced of the deadline reflecting the cordial relations of the three former enemies. Twice the French have occupied the disputed border region after World War and twice it has been returned to Germany.

Judging Set For Lincoln Grass Event

BIOSHONE, July 4.—Judging in the county Grammar of the year contest will be done Wednesday. Judges will leave the courthouse about 9 a. m. and interested persons are invited. Judges are Harley Handy, Shoshone, of the bureau of land management; Mont Johnson, Richfield, former winner of the state and Northwest title in 1957; John Poulson, Fairfield, Cassia county; and Floyd Dodson, Hailey, world title contestant with the 50th conservation service. Members of the contest committee are Floyd Silton, Ward, Millon Lawrence, Tewa and Harce. Messery, all representative farm organizations. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the contest in the county. Lloyd Smith is chairman. Five entries in the contest are Glen Gruff, Oscar Krarup, Roy Rapp, Howard Block and Ervin Drumm. Winner in the county contest will be eligible to enter the state contest.

Members of the Shoshone and Jerome clubs will provide the program.

Man Is Drowned As Boat Capsizes

IDAHO FALLS, July 4.—A 14-foot motor boat capsized on Palouse river late Friday, drowning a man and leaving other occupants of the boat uninjured. Bonneville county sheriff's office called the coroner to identify the man, identified as the father of five children. Officers said the boat was in the river about 10 miles from Idaho Falls. The boat was carrying a 3-year-old son, 10-year-old daughter and Richard Owen, 11, who was the only survivor. The boys were washed to shore when the boat overturned. The victim's body was recovered.

Some 1,000 Children Swarm Around Riley Creek to Start Fishing Season

Plus worms, salmon eggs and state fish hatchery area last Wednesday in the creek that is open only to 5 p.m. and the limit is five trout.

Normis Irish, right, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Irish, and Frank Dilhaas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Arntsen, both Gooding, battle and net a large rainbow trout in one of the man-made ponds on Riley creek near the hatchery building. (Staff photo-engraving)

And each year youngsters swarm to the area equipped with fishing from a cane pole and line to adult-type fishing tackle.

Creek is short The creek is a short, spring-fed stream that meanders for about one and one-half miles through the grounds of the state fish hatchery south of Hagerman.

According to Conservation Officer Alonzo Brown, Wendell, there were more children and parents waiting for the 8 a.m. starting time than any other time in previous years.

Other Catches In addition to the Idaho cars, there were cars from Texas, Maryland, Kansas, Washington and California.

The thing that impresses the on-looker is the intense seriousness with which the children go about fishing. There is little horseplay.

But most of the time the fishing is a quiet thing, done with utter concentration. Parents can help with some of the details, but the law limits parental action to simply holding the hook and helping the child net the fish. Adults can't touch the pole.

Occasionally a parent, or older guardian, will break under the pressure of the excitement.

Two-Week Science Courses Completed by Pair

These two Twin Falls high school students just returned from a two-week science course sponsored by the National Science Foundation. They are Bill Prates, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh U. Phillips, and Mrs. D. H. Witherspoon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh U. Phillips.

Students Enlightened and Puzzled By Special Courses About Science

Two Twin Falls high school students have returned from a two-week science course sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

The boys, who will be seniors in Twin Falls high school next fall, are Bill Prates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh U. Phillips, and Mrs. D. H. Witherspoon.

Both boys spent from June 12 to 28 at science courses at nearby colleges. Phillips went to Oregon State college and Prates went to Brigham Young university.

The program was broad and covered a wide range of subjects, including physics, chemistry, mathematics, geology, botany, astronomy, animal husbandry and zoology.

According to the two students, the object of the course was to give an insight into opportunities in the many varied fields of science and an initiation into college science classes.

Both Phillips and Prates say they know they want to go into some field of science but the doors to so many different areas were opened to them that they are now puzzled because of the wide choice of specializations.

The courses, which are taught by the finest staff members of the two schools, offer the widest possible topics, including physics, chemistry, mathematics, geology, botany, astronomy, animal husbandry and zoology.

They stayed in college dormitories with other high school students during the two-week course.

Prates noted that the association with other students interested in science was an education in itself. They were able to discuss their studies with other towns and other states.

Many students attend practical courses through the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station at Aberdeen.

General Retires, Declares Funds Are Not Spent Wisely on Defense

WASHINGTON, July 4—Gen. Nathan D. Twining, retired as the Gen. Nathan D. Twining, declared his retirement and four days of his state of almost total inactivity with U. S. military subjects, including military manpower, money and strategic concepts.

As he stepped down after four years as army chief of staff, the intellectual soldier consented to an interview on a broad range of subjects, including military manpower, money and strategic concepts.

Not Spent Wisely Twining said that the U. S. defense dollar is not being spent wisely.

The nation is not moving into the long-range missile field and from sufficient speed.

Surprised The 51-year-old, 6-foot soldier said he was "unpleasantly surprised" by the recall of Adm. W. Radford, former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, as defense secretary.

and probably have thousands of American lives. He commanded the Eighth army during the latter stages of the Korean war.

Twining is the only man who retired in the army as a colonel and pleasant-but somewhat reticent man who does not give opinions lightly.

It is known, however, that as a policymaker he fought for his views on military matters. Radford, who served as JCS chief from 1955 through 1957, is retired.

Twining spent two years opposing Radford's strategic concepts, which he did not view as the admiral's advisory capacity with planning.

Advised Theory Radford has long advocated the massive retaliation theory of defense, whereas Twining has argued for the balanced force concept, that is, a force capable of fighting any type of war, large or small.

Twining was appointed army chief of staff after a distinguished career. He was the first American general to land in France in World War II, parachuting with his 101st airborne division on D-day. In the Italian campaign, he made a daring three-day trip behind the German lines to reconnoiter a proposed jump near Normandy.

Twining's proposed jump near Normandy was approved by the project, and he was the first to land in France in World War II.

Typical Riley Creek Trout Displayed in Three Youngsters' Limits

These three Jerome youngsters beam over their full-limit catches caught during opening day for juvenile fishing on Riley creek. The stream banks were lined last Wednesday at youngsters from all over southern Idaho and even a few neighboring states swarmed to the hot-water fishing waters near the Idaho state fish hatchery south of Hagerman. This is an average catch, demonstrating the type of trout caught there. From left, youngsters are Jerome, Alvin and Michael Watson, sons and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnes Watson, Hagerman. Children are taken to the area by carload. (STAFF photo-photographing)

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By H. DEL HEARNE
(Lieutenant, Salvation Army)

The hour was late when the tired workman stepped off the trolley and started up the dimly lighted street—his eyes were unseeing. In his unseeing he failed to see the dark shadow that lurked in the alleyway and that stepped out behind him as he passed.

But when the gun barrel pressed hard in his back and a harsh voice said, "This is a robbery," he could only raise his hands and drop his head. He was the mercy of the gunman. At that moment he was completely surprised to what he would be demanded of him: His money and/or his life.

At that moment he had no choice in the matter but knew, his fate rested entirely in the hands and at the whim of a thief. When he raised his hands in surrender, he signified that all he was or would be depended on the outcome of his relationship with his assailant.

The Apostle Paul found himself in a similar position, when confronted by the Lord Jesus Christ as a shining light on the Damascus road. All he could do was yield in full submission, saying, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" (Acts 9:6)

All of us, like Paul and in the manner of the three gunmen, at some time in our lives are "stealed" by the devil.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Henry W. Tucker, Cassia county probate judge for 26 years, and his wife celebrated their golden wedding anniversary this month. The TUCKER couple observed the event with a family dinner. The Tucker have four children, two sons and two daughters. Bert Tucker, Oakland, Calif., is a registered special nurse, and Neill Tucker is the district teacher of French at Orem, Utah. They have nine grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. All but two grandsons were able to attend.

Judge Tucker used to be with the State bank of Oakley, and was school principal at Oakley, Cowley, and Dingle, in Bear Lake county.

Mrs. Tucker is a charter member of the Sarah Yeamann camp of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers. She does much of her embroidery work, making her own designs, crocheting, and is currently making an applique quilt top. Ten years ago while recuperating after an operation, she learned to paint. Among the many pictures she has painted is a large scene picture of each of her children.

She said she knew she "would be around" when each of her grandchildren were married. So she is making wedding presents for them in advance and putting them away. She makes fancy embroidered pillow cases and tea towels for the boys and girls in an apron for the ones going to the girls. She wraps them in dark paper so they will not discolor.

Tucker came to this country in 1860 from England, going to Bear Lake City. He now holds six degrees, three honorary. He has the title of doctor of civil law, doctor of laws and doctor of philosophy. He obtained these from the University of Ann Arbor, Michigan, the University of Southern Minnesota, and the University of Minnesota. He passed his bar examination in 1915 at Bear Lake and was admitted to the bar by the Idaho supreme court.

His biography appears in "Who's Who in the West" and also in the "Biography of America's Great Men." Among the honors bestowed upon him are an honorary knighthood in the Golden Rule, and a knight of the Order of Little France by Prince Charles of Bourbon. He is a member of the Order of the Pontifical order, Thierstone order, and the Order of the Iron Voltaire university of France, and Andre Research university and Institute, Venice, Italy.

The judge has studied several different languages. He is still busy with his judge.

Some 1,000 Children Swarm to Riley Creek on Opening Day of '59 Season

On the end of their child's line glances justly about for a warden, and then grab the pole and give the young Jack Walton a moment's assist.

But such weakening of the will is uncommon, and is more often reflex action than intent. Usually even the smallest angler is able to fight his own battle with even the "big ones."

The young fishermen haven't yet learned—the fine-points-of-stretching the truth and then insisting that the facts can't be checked.

Thron points out that adults interested in taking their children to the area to fish can also enjoy good fishing in some of the many ponds at either end of the Riley creek area. Adult fishing is allowed in those areas.

Eight Ponds Available

There are eight ponds that can be filled. The Frank Oster ponds, north of the hatchery buildings, are open to adult and children fishing during the same hours and same months—August and September—as Riley creek. The ponds north of Riley creek are open to fishing 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. during July, August, and September.

There is a limit of five trout,

Woman on Decko To Visit Brother

DECELO, July 4—Rachel Lewis left Wednesday for a two-week trip to Bear Lake, where she will visit her brother, Reed H. Lewis, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. David Roy and family have returned from a visit in Salt Lake City.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Durrington are leaving for Anaheim, Calif., where they will visit his brother, Charles Durrington, and family, and bring home his mother, Mrs. Mamie Durrington. She has been in California for the past month and broke her hip. She is now convalescing at the home of her son, Charles Durrington.

Wendell Citizens Report Journeys

WENDELL, July 4—Mr. and Mrs. Arne Stuck, Los Angeles, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Stuck.

Mrs. John Gates and family, College Place, Wash., are visiting Mrs. Beale Genson, mother of Mrs. Gates, and other relatives here and in Gooding and Jerome.

Mr. and Mrs. Vera Peterson and son, Camper, Wyo., were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Denton Adams.

Fred Malix arrived home Wednesday from his work in Spokane and Boise to spend the holiday end with his family.

Mr. Alen Nelson, Boise, is visiting her aunt, Myrtle Truole.

Pocatello Plant May Open in Fall

WENDELL, July 4—Henry C. Dewarshak, R. Id., electronic equipment for the army Nike-Zeus missile program, says this fall at Pocatello if the senate acts favorably next week.

A senate appropriations subcommittee has recommended that 137 million dollars be approved in procurement funds for the program.

COMPLETES COURSE

PILER, July 4—Norris A. Thilman, aviation electronics technician first class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thilman, route 1, Piler, has completed a course in beginning algebra through the armed forces institute, Madison, Wis. He is stationed at Moffet field, Calif.

Mrs. Claude W. Vallette, DECELO, had visitors from as far as Ohio, Arizona and Colorado to view her garden last month. People signed the guest book from Caldwell, Ogden, Utah; Columbus, Miss.; Pocatello, Idaho; Piler, Calif.; Bountiful, Utah; Moses Lake, Wash.; Phoenix, Ariz., and Denver, Colo.

One couple, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hendrickson, Davis, Calif., came especially from Los Angeles, Calif., to view the flowers and meet Mrs. Vallette. Mrs. Hendrickson is a horticulturist and has long wanted to meet the Decele Hendricksons. They stayed several hours, then started back to California, saying they had seen

Project Completed in Two Winters

Aldo Dallolio stands in one of the rooms of the new herringbone pattern milking parlor that he has built during the last two winters. He recently completed the project. He did all the work himself and built quite a few innovations of his own design. By doing all the work himself and searching out the bargain buys on construction materials, Dallolio estimates that he has saved about $7,000 by constructing the parlor by himself. (Staff photo-gravating)

Spraying in Wheat Field Delayed for Weed Growth

In order to get plenty of leaf growth on Canadian thistle, John Parish, standing in back of spray jeep, had to let wheat grow into the soft dough stage. This field was purchased last year by Parish, who also farms another 160 acres north of Curry. The county jeep, driven by Kenneth Jones and guided by fieldman Ernie Pritchard, is spraying the thistle with two pounds of 2, 4-D per acre. Warren Lowery, standing left, said this application of weed-killer will not injure grain past the blooming stage. (Staff photo-gravating)

Paul Dairyman Points Way to Saving Of $7,000 by Building Milking Shed

TWIN FALLS, July 4—If dairyman in Valley would like to save much money by utilizing only materials that he was able to buy at reduced prices, he has been collecting materials for the parlor from farm auctions, junk yards, dispersal sales and other places where he could buy materials for reduced prices. "I started collecting materials five years ago. I knew I was going to build a new parlor, but I didn't know then I was going to build a herringbone parlor," Dallolio says. Dallolio estimates he paid about $3,000 for the materials in the building. A comparable building, built by a private contractor, would cost about $10,000. "Dallolio started on the parlor, but he finally got them out of his own hands."

Cuts Costs on Feeders

But the delay in the plans didn't hinder Dallolio. Dred of waiting he proceeded with construction, utilizing the plans from "the magazine article." Dallolio built his own parlor for two basic reasons, he wanted to save money and he wanted to alter the plans for the herringbone parlor designed by most manufacturers. He made quite a few changes. The average parlor handles about 12 cows at a time. They enter from one side of the parlor and stand side to side in the stanchions lining the side of the parlor. The cow farm a herringbone pattern as they stand at the feed boxes. This enables a farmer to move freely in each opening between the two rows and since the cows are at an angle they are considerably easier to handle and milk. The milk is piped directly from the cows, through stainless steel or pipe pipes to milk cans of built milk tank, depending on the way a dairy operates. Dallolio cut the size of his parlor from the normal 12 row parlor to a six-row parlor. He explained the reason for this was that a small, 21-cow herd there was no need for the added space. This enables him to allow more room for each cow. He built a 60-inch stanchion instead of the normal 36-inch stanchions.

Each feed box is controlled by a pull cable from one end of the working pit. Each cow can be fed by pulling the cable that operates that feed box. Another change from same herringbone patterns is the individual drain for each stanchion. Many parlors have only the single drain for each side. Dallolio will be able to save quite a bit of water because of the individual drains. It will take less time and water to clean out the parlor. Dallolio saved money on the metal shields between the rows of the stanchions and the pit by utilizing galvanized steel roofing material.

Various Pipe Used And he saved considerable money by utilizing the use of metal pipe in constructing the herringbone framework. He used pipe—steel, iron, aluminum and galvanized steel—throughout the valley. The framework is constructed of 1, 1 1/2, 2 and 3 inch pipe. Dallolio did all of his own welding.

When he built the framework, Dallolio developed a unique arrangement at each end of the parlor. When he opens the gate that admits the cows to the stanchions, a system of levers also opens the outside doors.

Dallolio also saved money by piping both hard and soft water to the parlor. The soft water will save him about $72 in detergent bills each year, he estimates. Dallolio notes that economy of operation is the theme of his farming operations and he adds that it has helped keep up with the price squeeze. Another change in conventional design is the door system in the parlor. Dallolio built only one entrance door and two exit doors. This means there was no construction and in the winter, cold drafts are cut considerably.

Dallolio conserved on the construction of the actual building, too. It is made entirely from old railroad ties he purchased several years ago.

The inside dimensions of the parlor milking area are 16 1/2 by 21 feet. The cooler room is 10 by 21 feet. Currently Dallolio is piping milk directly from the cows into the milk cans in the next room. Eventually he plans to install a bulk milk tank. Now the cans are kept in the cooler in the next room. Dallolio sells his milk to the Jerome Cooperative Creamery. His herd produces about 5,000 pounds of milk each week.

Converted Pastors Dallolio saved about $175 alone by converting the pulpit from his old hang-on milker to the standard Universal pulper. Everything except the Universal milk equipment for four cows, a 66-gallon hot water heater and the mechanical mixer outfit that supplies both the house and parlor is either equipment that Dallolio owned previously or that he had simply made.

Within one week Dallolio hopes to finish some minor construction and qualify for a grade "A" license.

With noxious weeds bursting into full bud or bloom on cropland throughout Twin Falls county, all county spraying vehicles and crews are busy at their various assignments. ### Second Growth Found In Spuds Planted Early

Second growth of potatoes planted early is indicated in planning reports from the Idaho potato growers in Twin Falls county. The situation is so rare for early planting in this area, growers didn't know what was happening to their tubers or why. The vines and tubers were growing in abundance. The second growth was found on the old spud, the second growth occurred. It was thought by some that if water had been kept up by one day during the hot night period in June, the growth may have been curtailed. Indications are that only those fields planted between April 1 to 11 are showing quality losses in growth.

Area Sweet Cherries Scarce; Late Spring Frost Hit Trees

As Magic Valley residents are discovering, sweet cherries are a scarce item in orchards around the Twin Falls area this season. The frost has gone into the trees hard after they began to ripen. In the canyon orchards, which were hit hardest by frost, apples also will be short. It is in orchards, who has an orchard north of the city, said his apple crop will be light, but he heard fruit growers in the canyon were going to Sept. 15.

Control Panel Works in Emergency

Merritt Showell, Twin Falls electrician, stands before the control box that controls, both manually and automatically, the big, 100-kilowatt emergency generator recently installed at Magic Valley Memorial hospital. Within 10 seconds after commercial power fails the control box mechanism will automatically turn on the diesel engine and channel the auxiliary power electricity into the hospital. (Staff photo-graming)

Army Surplus Engine, Generator Will Provide Emergency Power at Hospital

Utilizing an army surplus diesel engine and generator this hospital and generator Magic Valley Memorial hospital has installed an emergency electrical plant that possibly could save many lives in the event of commercial power failure. The big 100-kilowatt engine and generator arrived at the hospital on Christmas eve. Staff workers and a crew of men from Showell's Utility Service, Twin Falls, have been working on the installation since late February. By purchasing the army surplus the need for such a unit. A hospital is mighty dependent for electricity for operation of its lights and equipment, respirators, iron lungs, rocking beds, injections, cooking and laundry equipment, boiler room equipment, and the general building lights. Outages vary in length from just a few minutes to the 12-hour period in 1931. The reason varies from simple operation of a lightning rod to a house call in a transformer.

Cat Falls Power
In May, 1934, two young boys loosed a cat in a transformer box and caused an outage in western Twin Falls. And in the winter snow and ice often cause short outages. It is for such common and unimportant reasons that the hospital needed the unit.

Although the hospital has not had an emergency power unit, it has always managed to get along on batteries and manual operation in the past.

Hopkins recalls that in 1933 an outage occurred when there were 20 patients in iron lungs. The administration immediately contacted several service clubs and about 20 members arrived to help operate iron lungs.

Located to North
The emergency unit is situated just north of the hospital and the switching mechanism is in the basement. Plans are presently under way to house company the outdoor portion of the unit.

Merritt Showell, who supervised the installation of the electrical equipment, explains that the emergency unit automatically turns itself on when there is a power outage. He says an automatic switch connects the hospital equipment to the generator within 20 seconds after a power outage.

And he adds that when the commercial power is over and the mechanism automatically switches the hospital back on the regular power line.

Used Once Already
Hopkins says that on June 25, shortly after the final work had been completed on the generator, there was a power outage and the generator switched itself on and worked perfectly during a five-minute power outage.

Hopkins says, "It worked perfectly. There was a slight flick of the lights just as it turned itself on, and then it ran normally."

Hopkins says the engine has a fuel capacity of 87 gallons, enough to operate the generator for 24 hours. If the power should ever be out for a longer period, the hospital administration has made arrangements for a fuel tanker to park beside the engine and supply fuel continuously.

Sundin says the feeling of the hospital administration is that the emergency generator, Tate says, "With this new emergency generator we can assure patients of continuous service. There could be a critical situation in case of power failure, and in many ways our service will now be continued without interruption."

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Active Gardener Finds Local People Take Good Deal of Pride in Gardens

"For a city this size, the people are very garden-minded. It is a pleasure to take strangers around the city and show them the town because the people take such pride in their gardens."

This comment is made by Mrs. T. W. Hicks, who is known throughout the community by her interest in gardening. She has been a mainstay in the Twin Falls Garden club for nearly 23 years.

Born in Bristol, England, Mrs. Hicks says her interest in gardening dates to the time she was a young girl in England. Her father was an ardent gardener and Mrs. Hicks says gardening is more popular in England.

From the most humble cottage to the most elegant mansion, flowers grow in great profusion throughout England, she says. She explains there is a natural interest in gardening, but adds that the warm, moist air of the Gulf stream and the long twilight hours enjoyed during the summer months at that latitude contribute to gardening interest. She says the twilight hours sometimes last to 10 or 10:30 p.m.

Came to Idaho
Mrs. Hicks came to the United States in 1927 and came directly to Magic Valley shortly after marrying Hicks, a former ranch subject who had come to the United States and had been farming in the east of Twin Falls. Hicks also is an ardent fisherman. Hicks received his United States citizenship in 1918 and she received hers in 1929.

Mrs. Hicks became active in the Twin Falls Garden club in the early 1940's. During her membership she has served two consecutive years as president of the club in 1947 and 1948.

She also has served on many committees within the club, such as yardwork, flower program, show, and membership committees.

Has Other Duties
In addition to her duties on the local club, Mrs. Hicks also works with the state garden organization. She is presently state vice president of the Idaho Federation of Garden Clubs. She was elected to this position during the state convention at Lewiston, June 14 and 15.

Last year she served as the district organizer for the federation. It was her duty to contact all garden clubs in her district and promote the aims of the federation.

She notes that as a state officer in the federation she has had work for greater expansion of the roadside development program. She would like to see more trees, shrubs, flowers and picnic areas along the state's highways. She says this would add to the beauty of the state and also serve as a convenience to travelers.

MRS. T. W. HICKS

She would like to see a strict enforcement of the littering law. Asked why she liked gardening she explains, "It is mostly the challenge and the satisfaction you make through gardening."

She notes clubs such as the Twin Falls Garden club promote interest in flower gardening, ornamental and civic beautification projects and stimulate interest in home gardening.

Meet Once Monthly
She explains the 65-member club meets once a month at a member's house and a constructive and informative program is presented. The programs serve to educate the members in the care and raising of flowers, how to prepare plants and flowers for gifts, how to offset pests and how to prepare the soil. These are just a few advantages to be gained from club membership, she adds, "It's a safe hobby because the members become so absorbed in flower culture that they have no time for housewifery."

Mrs. Hicks adds gardening is sometimes a real panacea for the ills of the nerves.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hicks keep themselves busy caring for their 100-by-100-foot house lot, which is literally covered by more than 100 different varieties of flowers.

"From March to November the garden is in bloom," she says. "It's a hedge-hedge garden—not a formal garden—but we do have blooms all the time and are very interested in flower gardening."

Report on Roses
"They send us so many roses year and then we raise them and then report on their growth, color, texture, vigor, habit, form, shape and disease resistance. We let them know how the rose plants adapt to this area."

They have been test gardeners for about 10 years.

In addition to being a member of the Twin Falls Garden Club, Mrs. Hicks also is a member of the Bowl and Blossom club, a small

In the past, the War Relocation Authority has received an annual appropriation of $25,000. The absolute minimum for 1936 is $25,000. The War Relocation Authority has been asked to contribute to the defense effort.

Farmer Expenses Raise Farm Costs

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Farmers in farm wage rates are expected to rise about eight per cent this year, according to a report by the Agriculture department.

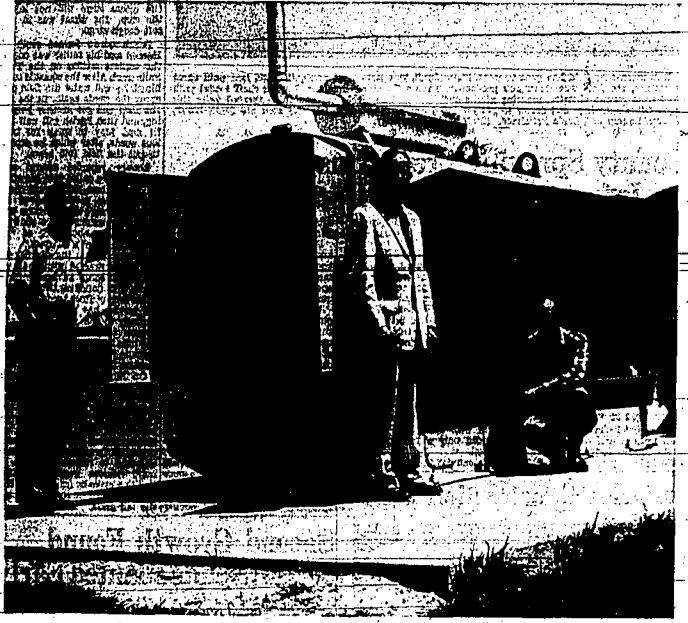

The report says that farm wages have increased nearly six per cent since last year.

Prices farmers pay for such things as cattle, baby chicks and feed are expected to rise about 10 per cent higher than last year.

Students More Informed, but Puzzle Over Studies After Science Courses

During these lectures the company or industry representative explained how certain sciences play a vital role in their function. Students were shown how science is given practical application in the world of commerce.

When the students weren't busy with the lectures and course material during the day they had access to recreational facilities of the campus.

Prates and Phillips say one of the most interesting and valuable portions of the course material was the advice they received on how to choose their courses during their last year in high school.

The students were told to enroll in a foreign language course, preferably German, French or Russian, and to get all the English they could.

Idaho's Fund Has $1,188,121 Balance

BOISE, July 4.—Idaho—ended the fiscal year with a fund balance of $1,188,121, State Treasurer Helen Swenson says.

This is the sum in the state's fund at the end of a two-week fiscal period ending June 30. It was computed by Swenson, a Republican, and State Auditor Charles Williams, a Democrat.

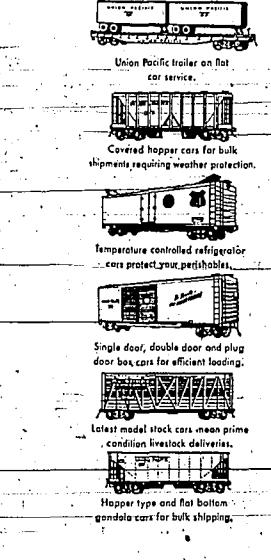

The final figure was a political issue in last fall's political campaign.

Democrats charged that the state would be in the red if June because the Republican administration overestimated available revenue.

Swenson said Idaho's general fund will go in the red when a transfer of several million dollars is made to the state school fund later this month.

Removing Bones From Trout Looks Like Relatively Easy Task for Expert

This is the first step in removing all the bones from trout. Mrs. Hunt first makes an incision on both sides of the dorsal fin. If this is made at the proper depth and the correct angle that the fin will lift free of the fish. (Staff photo-engraving)

In the second step the backbone is cut free of the fish. This can be done by placing the fish on its back, but would be easier to build a wooden wedge out of three pieces of scrap lumber. This keeps the fish from twisting as it is cut. First cut along both sides of the backbone, starting at the rear of the body cavity, and cut to the head. Then start at the rear of the body cavity and cut along both sides of the backbone to the tail fin. (Staff photo-engraving)

After the backbone has been removed from the middle section of the fish it is slipped free at the extreme ends. Scissors are used to clip off the four fins at the outer edges of the fillet. (Staff photo-engraving)

Trout Farm Expert Shows Fishermen How to Take Work Out of Eating Fish

BULL, June 13—Fishermen who are extracting bones from trout fillets—plus a sharp knife. Employees at the company do not take a lesson from Mrs. Paul Hunt, Wendell, an expert on the matter. He says that the fish steady with the backbone removed. A similar holder can be constructed from a few odd pieces of lumber.

The first step is to eviscerate and wash the trout in the familiar manner. Next take a sharp knife with an equal sharp point and cut along both sides of the dorsal fin. If this is made at the proper depth and the correct angle that the fin will lift free of the fish. (Staff photo-engraving)

Then turn the fish so the tail is nearest you and, starting where the last incision began, cut along the backbone to the caudal, or tail fin. Do this on both sides of the backbone.

If this is properly done and the incision is made at the proper angle with the blade cutting slightly under the backbone, the knife beside the backbone at center backbone—complete with the rear of the body cavity. Cutting through the ribs, cut along the side of the backbone. All that holds the backbone is a bit of tissue at the extreme ends of the backbone. Slip these points free with a pair of scissors.

For you have a fish that is completely boneless except for four fins and the rib bones that remain.

Use Scissors

Using a pair of scissors, cut a short incision between the gills and the pectoral fins. This incision will enable you to insert the scissors and with one sweep remove a pectoral fin. After you remove the pectoral fin, use the scissors to cut out the two ventral fins along the sides of the fillet. Now the only bones left are the rib bones on the outer sides of the fillet. They are just under a thin layer of tissue, and this is where you need the sharp knife of a butcher and the patience and delicate touch of a neurosurgeon.

The fish or what is left of it is now lying flat on its back on the cutting board. Turn the head of the fish so it is nearest you. Place your non-knife-wielding hand on the fish behind its head.

This Knife Needed

Then take the thinnest, sharpest knife you can get. Borrow or steal an, better, from the middle of the fillet to the outside. Literally shave the thin layer of tissue and the rib bones from the fillet. After you have done this on both sides, if you haven't missed any steps, the fish is boneless, except for the head and the tail, and is ready to pop in the frying pan.

This is the last—and most difficult—step in removing the bones from a trout. The only bones that remain are those tiny rib bones on the outer edges of the fillet. They are situated under a thin layer of tissue and must be literally shaved from the fillet. In this photograph Mrs. Hunt uses a razor sharp knife with a thin blade to remove the bones from one side of the fillet. When both sides have been de-ribbed the trout is bone free. Good luck! (Staff photo-engraving)

Mrs. Paul Hunt, Wendell, holds a "before" and "after" example of a rainbow trout. The trout on the left is the normal way fish are prepared for the kitchen—eviscerated, but full of annoying bones. The trout on the right can be eaten with a devil-may-care and festive, rib-free bones. (Staff photo-engraving)

Detroit Will Not Welcome U.S. Not Alarmed Over Statements

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The State department says Thursday it is not alarmed by menacing statements by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The State department says Thursday it is not alarmed by menacing statements by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Statements followed publication of Khrushchev's statements that Khrushchev had taken a very tough attitude toward the West in a private conversation with former Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

John H. Mikkoyan was not injured.

A large portion of Detroit's population there is anxious to what "Mikro" says from certain countries, says a source here.

SHARE ALIKE

The bedroom that is to be shared presents a greater challenge, decoratively speaking, than one that is planned for a single occupant. In the shared room, comfort, requirements, color preferences and style tastes of both occupants must be considered.

Comfort is always a personal matter. Sleeping equipment should be chosen to "fit" the sleeper. Bedroom colors are best kept to soft, restful, subdued tones. Simple, graceful styles are relaxing and therefore well suited to sleeping quarters.

All of these factors have been taken into consideration in the distinctive bedroom sketched above. Color scheme is composed of oyster white and young-sprout green. Arched lines of contemporary furniture are understating and restful, keep room from becoming dated.

Note how twin beds and double dresser have been grouped against a long wall to give new interest and take advantage of a long, narrow room . . . and to make bed-making easy. The double dresser functions as a double-duty piece with hamp on either end to serve both beds. It also mirrors adds a feeling of greater spaciousness to the room.

Price-tan curtains (need no ironing) filter the light which may be shut out completely by closing the shutters.

Movement has been introduced with the floral pattern on the bedspreads and big wing chair.

Whether you're furnishing a tiny one-room apartment or a mansion-size home, we have all the furnishings you'll need. Beautifully styled pieces for living room, dining room, bedroom—pieces you'll be proud to own, happy to live with. Make us your furniture headquarters. Always.

ONE OF THE 7 BIG BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Take it not from us, but from official results of this year's Holidays Economy Run. Chevy's penicillin-6 delivers the most miles per gallon in its field. For a pair of these Chevrolet slices with Chevrolet's standard car, you get the first two places in their class, getting the best mpg figure—a whopping 25.0—of any full-size car, and here are more expert, impartial opinions and on-the-record facts backing us up on Chevy's best, six-bolt-in.

BEST TRADE-IN

Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST STYLE

It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "Chevrolet establishes a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES

In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by N.A.S.A.R., Chevy's let-out-stopped both of the other leading low-priced cars—and why not? Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings, to help lengthen brake life by as much as 66%.

BEST ROOM

Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* make this clear. For example, Chevy's front seat hip room is up to 63 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST ENGINE

Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unqualified praise. As SPORTS CAR'S ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST RIDE

MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy "the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself. Instantly. And your Chevrolet dealer can tell you about one list of other advantages besides these 7 big ones!

Water Piped to Picnic Grounds

Aubrey Mahannah, Castelford, samples some of the water flowing from a pipe at the Balanced Rock crossing picnic grounds. The water was piped from the east wall of the canyon to the picnic grounds at the west side of Little Salmon Falls creek. (Staff photo-engraving)

Picnic Area Built at Balanced Rock Crossing Is Good Recreational Spot

CASTLEFORD, July 4.—A project begun several years ago by Castelford residents continues to offer recreational facilities for both tourists and residents of Magic Valley.

The project is the picnic area at the Balanced Rock crossing on Little Salmon Falls creek. It was developed through the efforts of the Castelford Community Men's Club.

Built by Members

According to Aubrey Mahannah, president of the club, the area was built by the members of the service club to provide picnic and recreational facilities for persons traveling to Balanced Rock.

The area is upstream from the creek crossing. Members started work on the area in the winter of 1955. Since then they have continued to add to the area and maintain it.

Stoves Constructed

The club has constructed four picnic stoves of native stone against the western wall of the canyon. The creek is just a few feet away in the narrow, high-walled canyon.

Mahannah says picnic tables were built by members and donated by merchants from surrounding towns. Two of the stoves were built last year by members of the Castelford high school PPA. The club furnished materials and PPA members did the work.

Since the project began members have planted about 100 elm trees, but a considerable number has fallen—victim of beavers through the years.

Trees Along Wall

The trees are planted in line along the western wall of the canyon and serve to shade the picnic areas. They are watered by excess drinking water that pours from a pipe in the picnic area. Club members piped water from a spring on the eastern wall of the canyon under the creek and into the picnic area.

Although picnic area installations have been damaged by vandals, club members have managed to maintain the area and keep it clean.

Mahannah explains that most of the maintenance work is done in a spring cleanup session and after that interested members continue to make cleanup parties to the area throughout the picnic months.

Successful Project

Mahannah believes this project is one of the most successful undertaken by the club.

"The year we built this was one of our most active years and it created a lot of interest in the club. Now people from all over

Church Helps Visit of Polish Girl to Valley

renovation, department of potatoes. She came here to study Idaho's methods of growing potatoes and combating potato diseases, her specialty in Poland.

She notes that potatoes are one of Poland's most important crops with more than 100 varieties of potatoes grown throughout the country.

Going to Aberdeen

Attendance in the program currently at Bertie's poultry farm in order to finance her stay in the United States, she will go soon to the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station at Aberdeen. There she will be employed as a research worker in potato research.

Miss Hertzogowicz has her master's degree in potato horticulture and is working on her Ph. D. degree in this area. She is employed as a research worker in Poland.

Although the program is sponsored by the Church of the Brethren, with the cooperation of the Polish government, the total expenses of the exchange students are not paid while they are here; they must work and support themselves.

Transportation Paid

The Polish government pays transportation both ways and the Church of the Brethren operates an orientation center at New Windsor, Md. At the orientation center the students are placed in various regions throughout the nation.

"When they arrive where they will spend the duration of the exchange program, the local Church of the Brethren assists the student in finding housing and jobs that will help in their studies.

Miss Hertzogowicz has been in Twin Falls since the middle of April. Since she has been here she has been living with the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Hill, pastor of the Church of the Brethren. For one week she lived with Mr. and Mrs. Alan A. Spitzer.

Returning to Fall

she will go to Aberdeen and then return here in the late fall after potato harvest. She then will be employed by Vern Youth and work in his potato warehouse and storage house, which are possessed in the United States. She will return to Poland in March, 1960.

The program was started in 1948, but because of diplomatic relations between Poland and the United States the program was not resumed until 1958.

The program grew out of the personal friendships made by the Polish scientist, who studied at Cornell university immediately after the war.

Aside from contributing to the professional knowledge of both Polish and American agriculturists, the program also is designed to contribute to the cultural understanding between the two nations.

Student-Vary

Miss Hertzogowicz notes students are placed throughout the nation and study a variety of things, some study apple growing, ornamental gardening, or even such things as bee-keeping.

There are five women and 13 men in the United States under the program this summer. Miss Hertzogowicz notes this is a common occupation for women in Poland. They work in all phases of agricultural research. During the summer months in Poland Miss Hertzogowicz works in an agricultural research station, and in the winter she works in a laboratory.

There are two things that impressed her immediately—the abundance of prepared foods and the population per square mile in Idaho compared to Poland. She notes that the population per square mile in Idaho is seven. In Poland it is 228.

One of her girl friends in Poland wrote recently and asked how

Girl Raising Two Tiny Jackrabbits

Two Tiny Rabbits Unearthed in Job At Airfield Leading Life of Leisure

Two week-old rabbits are living in a hole in the ground near the Tegan residence on Falls avenue east.

They sleep in the house at night, are moved outside in the sunshine during the day, and sippe milk from a silver sugar spoon at meal time.

Right now Joan Tegan, 12, is caring for the two bunnies. It started about two weeks ago when her brother, Ralph, a student at the University of Idaho, who is working on the construction crew at Joalin field, brought the rabbits home.

Found at Airfield

During the course of earth-moving operations at the airfield, the two rabbits were unearthed and evicted from their home. They soon found a new home in a cardboard box in the Tegan home.

The family tried to feed the rabbits alfalfa at first but it was abandoned, next they tried milk in a sugar spoon and this was the answer.

Do Well on Milk

Right now the rabbits are doing their bit for Uncle Dairy month by making milk slutations of themselves. "They eat quite a bit," Joan Tegan says. "For them, anyway."

Miss Tegan says the rabbits sip milk from the edge of the spoon and one of them gets a firm grip on the edge of the spoon with his teeth to insure that he gets his milk.

Plan to Raise Them

She says the family probably will keep the little rabbits until they are fully grown and then turn them loose.

She adds that they had another, but dissimilar, wild pet summer—an owl.

"He was just a baby, too," she says. "He had great big black eyes and we fed him hamburger. But he got away."

Puppy Is Curious

The major problem facing Joan now is how to deal with their 6-month-old German shepherd puppy. "Daisy" is the pup's name and he is curious—maybe too curious about the rabbits. But Joan is keeping a close watch.
