

Congressional Spending Was Hec'd Down by GOP and Public, Ike Declares

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower today ripped into the Republican-controlled Congress on the spending issue and other matters. He eroded the confidence of the American public with holding the Democrats in check in a "historic turnabout." In a statement on the record of the 86th congress, Eisenhower brushed aside what he called claims that the administration's budget for 1960 would be cut by congress.

Military Budget to Remain Stationary

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The military budget may remain about the same for the next four years, says Wilfred D. McNeil, fiscal chief. McNeil, who is leaving his job, suggested today in talking with newsmen that perhaps a group of half dozen "elder statesmen" might be appointed to advise the secretary of defense when the joint chiefs of staff can't agree on when military budget makers must disagree in response to questions. McNeil advanced the following ideas:

Gripped—Airliner Is Saved

SHANNON, Ireland, Sept. 19 (AP)—A four-engine airliner with a propeller torn off and unbalanced in the fuselage limped 400 miles today to a safe landing at Shannon airport.

The plane, an Air France Super Constellation, with 21 people aboard, landed as emergency crew stood by at full alert.

The pilot, Capt. Andre Comper, with 16,000 hours of flying, said the propeller on his No. 3 engine (lower left) had broken off during an abnormal speed. Then it ripped away from the engine and planted itself on the fuselage.

The four-engine rapidly lost altitude and soon was skimming the waves. Ice sprays at times whipped into the passenger cabin through broken windows.

The plane, which took off from the Irish and English coasts, did not touch water until it was 100 miles from Shannon. It was taken to Shannon airport to be repaired.

Comper said he had stopped engines No. 1 and No. 2 to keep the plane steady. He said he had lost altitude but he was able to land safely at Shannon.

Khrushchev Bitter About Security Network Thrown Around His Travel in U.S.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19 (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev convulsed, bungled, stunned and generally bewilderment the elite of Hollywood today. In an astonishing performance, the boss of world communism complained bitterly about the tight network of security which had been thrown about him.

Heckled and interrupted speakers who preceded him at the 20th Century-Fox studio commissary-luncheon. Admitted the Soviet Union has a long way to go to catch up with the American way of life.

Khrushchev didn't like this close-circuit, tightly guarded, and complained, and in general played the consummate actor in his attempt to get over his points.

The Soviet premier blasted into the West—a huge American military air base turned into town behind a light screen of security.

Called members of his party to their feet at the luncheon to stand as exhibits of the vaunted worth of the Soviet system.

Khrushchev didn't like this close-circuit, tightly guarded, and complained, and in general played the consummate actor in his attempt to get over his points.

Interior Decorating L'Herisson's Since 1908 JEROME TWIN FALLS 334 Blue Lakes North Room 3 in 5130 N.E. Monday thru Saturday. COLOR DISTRIBUTION The trend today is toward decorating schemes that give each room distinction and character, and at the same time create an interesting relationship of color and style in connecting rooms. This requires an overall plan that starts with the furniture in both rooms. The simplest method is to first with the most important room first, usually the living room. If you connecting rooms are entrance hall, living room and dining room, start by choosing a color scheme for the living room, and then carry the dominant color into the adjoining room in varying proportions. It is always well to remember that it is the distribution of color throughout connecting rooms that provides both unity and variety. A wall color of one room, for instance, carries over one just one wall in the next room. Avoid, of course, obviously equal divisions of color, a ratio of three to five is a good rule of thumb and gives dominant importance to one color in your scheme. A continuous floor color serves to unify in the entrance hall and combine living, dining and room stretched above. Note the strong feeling of kinship between the furniture in both rooms—the definable relationship of line, weight and texture. Would you like some professional advice on how to achieve unity and distinction in your color planning? Our friendly home consultants are always glad to sit down with you and talk over your furnishing and decorating plans. Do make it a point to stop in soon. INTERIOR DECORATING

Teen-Age Miss Sets Example for Little Sister

The need to set a good example for small-Viet provides an incentive for Penny Curt, right, to eat a good breakfast before dashing off to high school where she is a sophomore. Mrs. Robert Curt, who has set an example for the family much of the time, believes adequate breakfasts are vital regardless of the age of the individual. Penny seldom fails to consume a quart of milk daily and keeps a glass handy for making TV or doing homework. (Staff photo-entourage)

Breakfast Necessary for Teen-Agers and Mothers

Teen-agers are not the only ones who need breakfast. Mothers, too, need it. A good breakfast is necessary for both.

Why is breakfast omitted? The circumstances surrounding the eating of breakfast make a difference. Eating alone, eating in a hurry, sleeping poorly, all work against eating a good breakfast.

The modern breakfast is key to the changing tempo of American life. In both husbands and wives, there are three regular meals each day, but do not apply to the children.

From many standpoints, breakfast is the most important meal of the day. It must provide not only sufficient quantity of food, but also the right kind of food.

The kinds of food needed—and the amount—depend on the individual. The kinds of food needed—and the amount—depend on the individual.

the nutrients required—are essentially the same for all persons. Research has demonstrated that breakfast is important for maximum physical and mental well-being, especially in the late morning hours.

Little Miss Carol Mills is a flower girl wearing a pink tulle dress and a white headband. She is standing next to a young boy in a white suit.

The speed and ease with which homemakers can prepare interesting breakfasts with wide variety is due to the availability of so many convenient products which do to make up today's adequate breakfast.

Fruits and fruit juices are available fresh, frozen, dried or canned. More than three dozen varieties of breakfast cereals, eggs and other breakfast foods are quick and easy to prepare.

In 15 minutes or less, on the average, a homemaker can prepare a breakfast that is nutritionally adequate for most members of her family.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

The duty of adults to protect children from harm; physical, mental and spiritual. In infancy the child is more easily acculturated. The little one is close to his mother and family and so is not likely to be influenced by outside influences.

Because of his inexperience he has not the understanding nor the ability to choose wisely and make sound judgments concerning the influences he faces. Hence the duty of parents and teachers to shield the child from evil influences.

BRYANT BOBCATS SMOTHER BORAH LIONS UNDER 40-6 COUNT

Bryant, Church And Moffitt Pace Easy Decision

BOISE, Sept. 19.—The Bryant Bobcats, turning loose straight power from their attack, humbled the Borah Lions with an authority that brought new respect to fourth district teams. The Bobcats turned three Borah fumbles into touchdowns and marched relentlessly during the half to rout the Lions to a 40-6 victory.

Starting from their own yard line, the Bobcats, led by George Moffitt and Tom Church, alternating at full back provided much of the fireworks throughout the game. Bryant advanced the touch-down while Church scored two. Moffitt ran across the six pointer and booted three extra points.

After a defensive first quarter which saw the teams split one yard each, Bryant started the drive toward victory early in the second period. The first back and field goal was scored in 41 yards, being pulled down on the Borah 20-yard line. On the next play the Lions took a fumble and Moffitt converted.

Borah had only two plays after the fumble, but they were enough to bring the Bobcats to a fumble. Only Jim Murray, who in the first play, had been hit through the line for 15 yards. Borah stiffened momentarily, hitting down a pass and ending a drive that had lasted for a six-yard loss. Then Church again scored on another line play and Moffitt again converted.

Again a Borah fumble set the Bobcats up. A Lion lateral was dropped and Paul Harington rushed for the Bobcats. Moffitt struck for 11 on the first play to put the ball on the Borah 18. Two minutes later the Bobcats were on the 16-yard line and Moffitt went over from there and picked up his third conversion.

This time Borah stopped back Mike Orlaham and Hugh Farmer did most of the running and the Lions mixed in a pass or two in the 60-yard in a sustained drive for the sole tally.

Despite a heavy downpour of rain, Bryant scored with four more runs in the second half. A short Borah kick gave Bryant the ball on the Lion 40-yard line. Bryant drove for 20 yards on the first play and a 15-yard penalty augmented the yardage. Bryant then drove for 20 yards on the next three plays, hitting paydirt on the last try.

A Borah fumble followed by a 14-yard run by Church put the Bobcats in scoring territory. Three minutes later Bryant carried the final 32 yards for the score. The fourth extra point was kicked.

Bryant struck again. Burley took a Borah punt on his opponent's 40-yard line and ran for 20 yards. The Bobcats then drove for 20 yards on the first play and a 15-yard penalty augmented the yardage. Bryant then drove for 20 yards on the next three plays, hitting paydirt on the last try.

Kimberly Collects 21-0 Little Six Conference Victory Over Wolverines

KIMBERLY, Sept. 19.—The Kimberly Bulldogs converted a first-quarter fumble, a sustained drive, and a pass interception late in the game into a 21-0 Little Six conference victory over the inexperienced but game Hinley Wolverines Friday night. The game proved one of contrast, the Bulldogs dominating play in the first half while the Wolverines constantly threatening in the last two periods. Despite the loss, which was the second straight for Hinley, the Wolverines showed experience while they fought them. Coach Emory Smith counts only four seniors on the squad and is drawing heavily on the sophomore ranks. He displayed two sharp halfbacks in senior Tom Chiprany and junior Charles Chirleton.

But the Wolverines weren't ready for the fire power leveled at them in the first half by the Bulldogs in quarters. Dick Moffitt, quarterback, Dick Moffitt, halfback, Eric Hove and Doyle Morrill and fullback Don Farnes. Coach Duick Sherman's crew also showed a tough defense that grew stiffer as it was pushed back into its own territory.

Halley fumbled on its second play of the game and fought the Bulldogs as they battled on the yard line. There is a 15-yard penalty and two successive losses on running plays stopped the Hinley drive. But Halley fumbled the punt and Duick recovered for Kimberly on the Halley 15. A pass from Medley to Gary Reagan was good, but the score was nullified because Reagan was out of the end zone. Farnes hit for four yards before Hove getting a key block from Ted Stokert, stormed into the end zone. Farnes plunged for the extra point.

After the kick-off Halley was forced to punt and Kimberly began marching again. Morrill hit for four and then Medley hit Morrill with a 17-yard pass to put the ball on the Halley 23. A penalty stopped the drive momentarily but then Medley turned to the air, hitting Regan for eight yards and then Chiprany, who made a rooping, shoving catch for the final 20 yards and the score. Farnes again plunged for the point. Kimberly threatened again but a pass interception by Chirleton stalled the drive in the second quarter with most of the time being spent in Halley's back yard.

New Church Fountain Is Memorial to Late Rector

A new fountain in the cloister of the Episcopal church is a memorial to a former rector of the church, the late Rev. Leslie Rolfs.

The Rev. Norman E. Stockwell, rector of the church from 1942 to 1954. The Rev. Mr. Rolfs died last year in Delano, Calif., where he served as rector.

The fountain was designed by Hummel, Hummel and Jones, Boise, architects who designed the church and the cloister.

The fountain is a rather unusual bit of construction. It is made of solid concrete. All three tiers were cast in one day in a special pouring form.

The fountain is octagonal. It is ten feet wide and three feet high. There are three tiers.

Some of the preliminary work on the fountain was done by two church members, Bruce Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Roberts, and Jon Shurtleff, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Shurtleff.

The fountain is octagonal. It is ten feet wide and three feet high. There are three tiers.

The fountain will operate throughout the non-freezing months. In the evening it will be lighted by three spot lights. The lights will be controlled by a time-clock system that will turn the lights on at dusk and turn them off at midnight.

In the center of the fountain there is a pump that recirculates the water through the bowl, eliminating the necessity of providing a drain.

The Rev. Mr. Stockwell notes that the fountain is another of the improvements planned for the cloister area. Additional landscaping to beautify the edges of the cloister is next on the list.

Impressive Mosaic Composed Entirely of Egg Shells

The Rev. W. A. MacArthur, pastor of the First Methodist church, and the church custodian, Leslie Spielman, put some of the finishing touches on an unusual mosaic just completed. After they frame the mosaic it will be placed in the corridor of the education section of the building. The entire mosaic, composed of 24 colors, is made of dyed egg shells that have been glued to an old ping-pong table. (Staff photo-engraving)

Unusual Recipe Used by Minister In Novel T.F. Mosaic of Egg Shells

The Rev. W. A. MacArthur, pastor of the First Methodist church, has a new recipe for making wall mosaics. All you need is 2 1/2 cups, a five- by nine-foot ping pong table, 40 tubes of airplane glue and 200 spare hours to spend on the project.

These are the ingredients that have gone into the new wall mosaic just completed at the church. The mosaic is a unique wall mosaic depicting a pastoral scene with the apostles Christ and four contemporary children. It will be displayed at the far end of the corridor in the new education section of the church. Anyone entering the building will see the mosaic at the end of the corridor.

The mosaic is a patience-testing project that started last June during a laboratory for church school workers in Idaho. It started as a demonstration to show an art project that could be done with simple materials with a minimum of expense.

The entire mosaic was done by simply gluing colored pieces of egg shells to the plywood ping-pong table. The Rev. Mr. MacArthur got the idea from an article he had read concerning the process and from an eggshell mosaic he had seen at the Bishop's Methodist church in Idaho Falls.

They first intended to do the mosaic with ceramic tiles or enameled copper, but materials were too expensive and heavy.

So we chose eggshells. They are cheap and easy to get," he explains. He says the congregation has brought sacks of eggshells to the church throughout the summer.

The Rev. Mr. MacArthur estimates he has contributed about 100 hours of his time to the mosaic. The remainder of the work was done by a group of about 20 members of the church, both adult and children.

The Rev. Mr. MacArthur got the idea for the painting from a religious "Tony Curtis" congregation of Singapore.

England apparently has the biggest mobs (some are 500 or 600 strong). Japan has the most highly organized (several have subsidiary branches). Germany has the most militant. In one, each member had the letter "G" tattooed in his armpit, and Italy the most lawless (according to legend, a Napoleon once dined at a mob's table and sold it piece by piece for scrap).

ous calendar he had seen. He adapted the scene on the calendar projected in a large scale to a free-hand sketch. The sketch was then divided into small squares.

He used these proportions were then used in the mosaic. By dividing the eggs into different shades, six different colors were obtained. Twenty-four different colors.

The remaining shades were obtained by coloring the shells. A fast-dry varnish was used to keep the shells from fading in color.

The different shades of colors were obtained by staining the colored shells with the plywood. Every bit of the shading was done with eggshells. No paints were used.

The Rev. Mr. MacArthur has just one more step before the mosaic is completed. He will cover it with a clear lacquer to give it a finish and preserve it. It will be on display at the church.

Traffic Patrol Technique Demonstrated by Student

Garbed in various shades of the rainbow, the patrol work in good and bad weather throughout the school year to minimize traffic hazards, surrounding the elementary schools. Gangs of Juveniles Aren't Peculiar to America Alone

Associated Press Writer... While their modus operandi may differ in detail—some London mobs prefer fan books for redecorating a rival's face while the Tokyo mob favor clubs and daggers but from the worst conditions on guns—these organizations of young punks usually operate for one of two reasons, and sometimes both. Some gangs are formed purely to filliate the battered ego of their members, to stake out a territory, or to raise organized hell, to beat up people and wreck property, to strut and rule the little Caesars purely for the fun of it. Other gangs—like those in Italy and Japan—give less emphasis to their collective "punch" and more to commerce. Their motifs are pure, unadulterated, non-Freudian fancy. Both types of adolescent mobsters move under a variety of names. There are, for example, the "Apaches" and "Blackbrows" of Manila, the "Paddington Leopards" of London, the "Three Cherry Cops" of Tokyo, the "Fire Eaters" of Buenos Aires and the "Pigeons" of Buenos Aires.

Barnett explains that the basis of the traffic patrol is to insure safe and orderly pedestrian traffic near the schools. The patrol is an active part of the school traffic program in Twin Falls. The patrol is made up of 70 students. The patrol is made up of 70 students. The patrol is made up of 70 students.

White Sox Pennant Terminated

Dream Climax for Comiskey

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Winning of their first American league pennant in 40 years by the Chicago White Sox will almost certainly mean a dream for baseball's youngest executive.

It's been a long time coming, but admitted Charles A. Comiskey, 38, the club's executive vice president, said today: "I'm glad to let us lift up Christ—He is the answer!"

The instruction given to Nicholson is applicable today, "We must be born again." The word also tells us, "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me."

Under the "Old Roman" rule, the White Sox won six leagues titles, the last in 1918, six years before Chuck's birth.

It was when his grandfather died, and don't remember too much about him," said young Comiskey.

After a two-year hitch in the navy during World war II, he took over the reins as president of the Waterloo, Iowa, club for the 1935 season.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By ROBT C. SCHRECKENBERG Pastor, Trinity Southern Baptist Church

There were some empty food cans, an old trailer, lack of heat and a little suffering about.

But the thing which caught his attention were sheets of what appeared to be an old diary scattered about.

On the inside of the folder is a crude map with drawings of rivers and their tributaries. One page is dated August 10, Idaho March 19, 1922.

Officers had tried to catch him early this week but his ability to disappear in the forest was almost superhuman.

While occasional words are written in English, many of the phrases are combinations of English and German.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

An excellent yield of wheat has been reported by Oscar Johnson, Blaine area farmer. Four acres of wheat on his ranch averaged 10 1/2 bushels per acre.

One of the earliest settlers of the Blaine area, Johnson came here with his father, Peter B. Johnson, in the fall of 1909.

Oscar Johnson purchased his present ranch in the cutting Mar... area in 1912. The land had been idle for several years after attempts at farming had been made.

Johnson also farms another 54 acres adjoining his ranch which he owns by lease from 1929.

Johnson says his father introduced him to the area in 1909. The area was irrigated at Richfield. A blacksmith, he made the "Red" coupe, cars and used the Richfield ranches in spite of strict control from others.

Under Johnson had brought the coupe—idea—within him from Price, Utah, when he was called Richfield in 1909, but was not able to do so.

There are two primary points he wants to put across to students. The first is the importance of this work and impress them that there should be no hesitancy on the part of the patrol, or the other students, while the patrols are working.

Throughout the year, if the individual schools expect to have a good problem, they call Barnett.

Barnett notes that most motorists are not as well informed as they should be. He says that occasionally an absent-minded driver will violate the patrol's sign.

Barnett explains that the patrol is a diver turns right and blunders through a lane the traffic patrol has closed.

Radish Seed Provides Alternate Crop

Radish seed, a new crop in Magic Valley, may become important, especially to farmers north of Rupert, who are in need of an alternate, rotation crop. The radish pods being observed by Mack Bollinger, field man for Northrup King and company, Twin Falls, were raised on a 4-acre field on the Morgan farm about 12 miles northeast of Rupert. The crop, which is planted in 22-inch rows, is planted and then harvested with a combine. Yields are reported anywhere from 600 to 1,200 pounds to the acre. (Staff photo- engraving)

These seeds from a broken radish pod shown in Mack Bollinger's hand are plump and full. The seed is considerably larger than clover seed and uneven in size. Bollinger, who is a field man for Northrup King and company, Twin Falls, says acreage contracted for seed production probably will be enlarged next year to provide farmers north of Rupert with a much-needed alternate crop. The seed will be produced in Twin Falls and shipped to market gardeners throughout the United States. The problem this year was in crushing the thick pods so combine cylinders could take the seeds. Now the machines are equipped with flax rolls to do the job. (Staff photo- engraving)

Little Change Noted in State's Crop Prospects

BOISE, Sept. 19 (UPI)—There has been a little change in Idaho crop prospects. During August, the U. S. agriculture department said today. It noted an improvement in the prospects for wheat, oats, barley and alfalfa. However, the general outlook for dry beans declined.

Beet Harvest to Start Oct. 5 in This Region

Beet harvesting will begin this year on Oct. 5, reports Robert Day, manager of the Amnethan Beet Sugar Company in Twin Falls. Harvesting will begin about a week earlier than last year and the sugar content and yields should be generally higher on opening.

Frost Damage Is Noted Over Idaho Region

BOISE, Sept. 19 (UPI)—Frost struck Idaho's agriculture last week, the U. S. agriculture department's weather bureau reported. In their joint weekly bulletin the two agencies noted temperatures dipped into the first range the morning of Sept. 2.

"Late planted spring grain and dry peas suffered some damage by frost," Idaho's weather bureau added. "In southeastern and eastern areas, a variable damage resulted to potatoes, corn, sorghum and peas."

In southeastern Idaho, frost on the potatoes caused some damage to the vines, including some killing in a few localities. Most severe damage was indicated in northern and eastern parts of Magic Valley. Some damage resulted to dry beans but the quality was not lowered significantly in areas of a wide range of practical enterprise.

Another company that has radish seed contracts in the area is the Idaho Radish Seed Company, Inc., also Twin Falls. Don Murphy, manager of Cornell, says his company intends to expand its acreage in that area.

The contracted price for the seed is 15 cents per bushel, depending on the variety raised. Yields have averaged about 600 pounds to the acre in this year. Bollinger says yields should be higher this year.

Bollinger attributes the anti-frost damage to the rotation of flax rolls to the self-propelled combines. The flax, or rick rolls, are used for about 100 to 150 acres to crush the thick pods so the combine cylinders can take the seeds.

The crop probably will be raised only in the new area north of Rupert, according to reports from Idaho seed companies, because the farmers there need an alternate crop.

The only crops raised in that area are potatoes, hay, grain and peas. Some elements are being added to raise clover, but to date the seed heads haven't filled. The growing season and the fact that the seeds are raised in an impractical enterprise, radish production will continue to be confined to the area, says Bollinger.

The soil preparation is similar to that for raising beets. Soil fertility should be high. Bollinger says his company recommends up to 80 units of available phosphorus, 40 units of both-nitrogen, and 60 of phosphate. Plowing is preferable to spring disking.

Conditions are similar to beets, although Bollinger says the dirt should be thrown away from the plants the first time they are up. Three cultivations can be made before the crop grows in.

The plants become so tough and dense that one farmer tells of a sack rabbit that jumped into the field and couldn't jump any farther. The farmer who is said to have witnessed this event says he could have gone into the field and caught the enticed rabbit by hand if he had been able to get into the field himself.

Cow Produces 714 Pounds of Butterfat in Second Lactation

Brownie, Holstein cow, has completed her second 305-day lactation and produced 714 pounds of butterfat. She is now a herd of 24 dairy cows owned by Soren Hesselholt, Castle, Idaho. Left, the herd just completed the DHIA testing year and averaged 20.5 pounds of butterfat. Harriet Kreps, right, technician for Hesselholt Artificial Insemination service, points out that Brownie is out of artificial breeding, as are all of the Hesselholt herd, except one. (Staff photo- engraving)

'Artificial' Cow Produces 714 Pounds Of Butterfat During Second Lactation

Artificial breeding, a Holstein cow out of the Twin Falls Dairy Herd Improvement association for producing 714 pounds of butterfat in 305 days on twice daily milking. Brownie performed this feat during her second lactation, a period when many dairymen expect their cows to improve only slightly over their first-calf period.

Brownie was bred to a bull named George L. Dupre, a bull originally from the number for Burrilline Crusader Manda, a bull originally from the Twin Falls area. The growth of artificial breeding for cows has been phenomenal in Magic Valley. It is success, however, has never been demonstrated completely this year by the record of all the cows in the same herd as Brownie. Until a few months ago all cows in the herd were from artificial breeding except one. The herd consisted originally of 34 cows owned solely by Soren Hesselholt, three and one-half miles south and one-half mile west of Castle.

Hesselholt became seriously ill last April and turned his herd over to Calvin Graybeal who has been milking them along with his own cows on the Hesselholt farm. Hesselholt's testing year for DHIA has just been completed. His record included the tests made by Graybeal's herd for the past two months. Hesselholt says this tended to bring his original herd average down.

Despite this, the herd average is 20.5 pounds of butterfat. This average undoubtedly will place Hesselholt and Graybeal in line for the DHIA trophy for having the highest butterfat average for herds over 20 in Twin Falls county. Many of the cows out of 20 pounds of butterfat have completed lactations with more than 500 pounds of butterfat and several others have produced records of close to 500 pounds of fat in about 300 days of lactation.

Family Steamboat Ready for Younger Generation

Ray Bush, left, and Gary Balllesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Balllesen, inspect a steam-powered model boat that has been in the Balllesen family for many years. Gary and Bush have completed refurbishing the boat and successfully launched it on Bass lake, near Twin Falls, today.

Miniature Steam-Powered Launch Is Operated by T.F. Boy, Its New Owner

A miniature "African Queen" is what putting its way around the waterways of Twin Falls county. A steam-powered launch, nearly 50 years old, has been restored to operating order by Gary Balllesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Balllesen, Twin Falls.

The launch is somewhat of a "haunted family" heirloom in the Balllesen family. Balllesen estimates the 44-inch launch was built somewhere between 1919 and 1920. It was given to Balllesen and his brother in the late 1920's and served as a toy for the brothers when they lived in Brooklyn.

Balllesen explains that sailing power and sail launches constitute a popular sport in the East. He and his brother outgrew the boat in the early 1930's and it has remained in storage there since then.

Last spring the boat was sent to Twin Falls. Gary, an avid modeler, had seen the boat while he visits his grandparents in the East and expressed a desire to restore it to working order.

Since then Gary has worked industriously on the boat. He removed the old paint from the steamwood and mahogany hull, patched a few small and screw holes, repaired the rudder and removed the engine and attempted to overhaul it.

But he had trouble getting the hull sealer tight. So the boat had to be taken to Poes Manufacturing company and the entire hull was covered with fiber glass. Now it is waterproof, covered with an invisible layer of fiberglas.

After it had been waterproofed, Ray Bush, Twin Falls, worked on the motor and placed it in running order. The small steam engine is so small that Bush had to manufacture special small tools to use in overhauling it. He built some parts for it and now it is in good working order and is a model lover's dream boat.

Bush explains the steam engine is a twin cylinder, single action engine with a tube boiler and a slide valve. Each cylinder is about three-fourths of an inch in diameter.

The water tank holds one quart of water and the blow-off-type engine that heats the water holds one pint of white gasoline. The boat will run about 15 minutes under normal speed. Five speeds is adjustable and the model will purr along at nearly 10 miles per hour when running full speed.

The steam boiler operates with 45 to 60 pounds of pressure.

Now that the boat is in good repair, Gary is already making plans for modernization. He wants to install a remote control system on the boat that will enable him to operate it from shore.

According to Bush, such a unit will enable him to operate the boat as long as the boat is in line of sight, but 500 to 1,000 yards is the practical operating range.

Right now Gary is currently earning "money" for "the" tennis court unit by mowing lawns in Twin Falls. He is going to be busy the rest of the summer—such a unit costs about $50.

District Judge Theron Ward Outlines Varied Background Leading to Bench

Athlete, soldier, community worker, lawyer, and judge—these are among the vocations and activities of Theron Ward, Jerome, currently a judge of the 11th judicial district court for Idaho.

A native of Idaho, Judge Ward has been a practicing lawyer since his graduation from the University of Idaho law school in 1929. In the years since then he has practiced law in Washington state, served in the army during World War II, practiced law in Jerome and served as probate judge and mayor there.

After high school he attended the University of Idaho and continued to be active in sports. He played three years of varsity football and following graduation he played in the East-West Shrine game. He played basketball and until a few years ago he held the record for the longest run in the East-West game. During the game he intercepted a pass and returned the ball 60 yards.

Ward was well-equipped physically for football—he weighed 201 pounds and ran the 100-yard dash in 9.8 seconds and the 200-yard dash in 21.4 seconds. In addition to football, Ward was a mainstay on the university track team. The dash and broad jump were his specialties. He broadjumped 27 feet, 4 inches and high jumped 5 feet, 6 inches.

Ward was in the service until August, 1940. He was always engaged in legal work, primarily associated with courts martial. He was in Germany from 1940 to 1941, where he was with the air judge advocate. He worked as a sort of circuit judge and passed on all legal questions concerning courts martial.

enough to appreciate the people who came directly to Jerome. He specifically missed Jerome. He was the place I knew best. I had grown up here.

Shortly after he returned to Jerome, he ran for probate judge and held that position until he was elected probate judge for the two-year term. He says the rewarding part of probate court is the work a judge does for juveniles.

It is rewarding to help people work out their problems and see them make good, he says. Ward, always interested in the development, served as mayor of Jerome from 1933 to 1935. One of the city projects of probate court is the purchase of the privately-owned water plant and its subsequent improvement. The first class water system was installed in 1936.

Judge Ward, who is in the 10th year of a four-year term, wanted to run for district judge for many years.

Asked what he likes about the work, he says, "I don't know. I like to see my boys grow up. I like to see them get on their feet. I like to see them buy a house."

He is busy, he estimates he works nine to ten hours a day, five days a week.

"You have to like bench work, despite the tediousness, responsibility, I find that I like it better than practicing a case as a prosecutor."

"I like the complete and impartiality of the bench. A judge must be an impartial justice. I must be impartial. He must be impartial. He must be impartial. He must be impartial."

And, he says, "I like to see you devote more time to the search than while you are building a practice. I like the kind of work I like it because it is more accurate—practically so."

Gardener Preparing for Winter

W. H. Hicks said Twin Falls gardener, dem. illustrates how to bank a rose plant properly before winter weather sets in. Fall can be a busy time for a seasonal gardener. Hicks points out a few of the more important duties a gardener should do in his garden in the fall. (Staff photo—Erving)

Fall Duties in Garden Help Guarantee Healthy, Beautiful Flowers Next Year

"Many of fall tasks mean to the season gardener the beginning of winter duties that can't be postponed until next year," says W. H. Hicks. Much of the work that means difference between an average and an outstanding garden is done at the end of the growing season, as well as at the beginning.

T. W. Hicks, an active gardener for 25 years and gardener with more than 100 flower varieties in his garden, has some suggestions for the beginning gardener concerning fall garden duties.

Hicks is explaining the proper way of gladioli and dahlias bulbs, says the bulbs should be dug up immediately after the first hard frost—after the temperature has fallen to 18 to 20 degrees. He says that in this country this is generally around the first of October.

Hicks stresses that when the bulbs are dug up for winter storage they should be dug so that as much soil as possible clings to them. Don't shake off the excess soil. He explains the idea is to retain the dirt so the bulbs are covered with the moisture present in the soil. This helps preserve the bulbs during the long winter storage.

He adds it is a good idea to inspect the bulbs—while they are under storage, at least once a month. If they show signs of being dry they can be sprinkled with water to preserve the moisture.

The bulbs should be stored in a dirt cellar if possible and preferred in a cellar without a furnace. An ideal temperature is 40 degrees. If the storage area becomes too warm the bulbs will sprout.

Lacking an ideal basement storage area, a gardener can dig a pit outside and store the bulbs there. Such a pit, according to Hicks, should be about three feet deep. The bulbs can be placed in a box, set in the pit, covered with a lid, and then covered with an additional layer of dirt about six inches thick.

Hicks explains the temperature through the winter—about three feet, in an average winter, the temperature will average about 40 degrees, barring a severe winter. Hicks suggests dahlias and gladioli bulbs be planted about May 1, providing the spring weather isn't unreasonably cold.

Other perennials, such as tulips, hyacinths, crocus and most varieties of iris, should be planted during the fall. Hicks says they should be planted about Oct. 1, about three times the depth of the bulb.

Another common and popular plant that requires fall care is the rose plant. Hicks says each plant should be pruned from the severe winter by placing a small hill of soil around the base of the plant. This hill should extend about six inches up the base of the plant. It protects the crown of the bush, the portion that is sensitive to cold weather, if it is just at ground level.

In the spring the rose bush is pruned according to the amount of frost damage to the stems and according to the type of rose the individual gardener wishes to raise. A closely pruned plant will produce a bushy, highly pruned plant will produce smaller roses. The amount of pruning depends on whether the gardener wants quantity or quality.

Hicks says the rambler rose should be pruned in the harsh winter, but if it is placed in an exposed area the stems can be protected by laying the stems on

Young Gangs Are Found in Most Nations

offer laws, more understanding of family conditions, than elsewhere. Other solutions suggested or used abroad are quite unusual.

The Soviets, for example, have anti-gang laws—legal entices to entice the illegal gangs. The premier of Thailand has suggested a "youth bureau"—a centralization of the young thugs. But perhaps the most interesting method has been tried in Athens.

Greece never had a real juvenile gang problem but it did have some hoodlums—small gangs which used to pester old ladies or throw such things as spit.

The Athenians put a stop to such things by using a powerful weapon—ridicule. The young villains were teased and derided, and were paraded, handcuffed, in the streets with a description of their offenses written on a board hanging from their necks.

"Imagine our own young desperadoes, bald and bawling, being led in a parade by the officers of State street or Sunset boulevard. The Soviet Union has its youth gangs but they are not so tightly organized as those in London or New York. Soviet laws are such that any gang organization might find itself ordered to a youth "re-training camp."

Gull—The USSR has its youth hoodlums, thieves, drunkards and "wild" boys in the "suburban" light gangs and "hippy" gangs. To help police combat them, volunteer squads are organized in most large cities.

Pravda reported last year that because of the rising incidence of drunkennes, it is now usual for policemen to be present at youth parties and meetings to guarantee public security.

Until recently, France was not plagued by organized young gangs. But this summer, police on the Left Bank of Paris rounded up 20 adolescents who were terrorizing the neighborhood with whips, iron brass knuckles, chains and knives. The boys were from the slums of Paris and their parents were in the slums of Paris.

Wildly organized countries like Egypt and Laos have juvenile gangs. In Cairo, their absence is attributed to the generally conservative behavior of Moslems, the strict sex mores, and the impossibility of a "youth bureau" in the slums. In Laos, a police officer explained, "Parents control their boys with the stick and the carrot. They are kept in the house and are not allowed to go out at night. They are kept in the house and are not allowed to go out at night. They are kept in the house and are not allowed to go out at night."

Elsewhere in Asia and Western Europe the young gang problem is still a new one.

In London, it's booming. Authorities there say the city has had at least 200 separate gangs, each with its own area or "manor" where the gang rules. The gangs are called "The Paddington Leopards" and "The Angel Gangs" and are active in the area of London from 400 to 600.

Miss Idaho of '50, Now Mother of Four, Has Returned to Burley Area to Live

BURLEY, Sept. 19—It was just nine years ago at this time that Mrs. Paul Brown, the former Barbara Norton, Miss Idaho of 1950, was on her way to Atlantic City and the Miss America pageant.

Mrs. Brown was the first Burley girl to enter this pageant—the first Idaho girl to enter this pageant. At that time there were 27 finalists who received $1,000 scholarships as well as other prizes.

Mrs. Brown has four children—two boys and two girls who receive top talent awards.

The former Miss Idaho stated, "I had a wonderful experience which I shall never forget. I was one of the top ones, but I had a wonderful experience which I shall never forget. I was one of the top ones, but I had a wonderful experience which I shall never forget."

When asked if this experience had changed her life she said, "Yes, it has definitely made my life more glamorous, as a housewife and mother. I have had the opportunity to judge several beauty contests, given several talks, helped with home economic classes and done some modeling."

Mrs. Brown and her family have returned to her native state from Chicago where they have made their home for the last four years. Her husband was graduated from Northwestern dental school this year and is now active in practice in Burley.

They are the parents of four healthy, active children, Bobbie Sue, 7; Paul, Jr., called "Buster"; Michael, 2; and David who is 6 months old.

"Our daughter," she says, "is used to sing little songs before she talked plainly. Of course, I'm her mother and I'm a little partial, but she does have talent."

She states that during her senior year in college she made many trips through the state. It was during this year at college she met her husband.

"Duster is just what his name denotes," she says with a smile. "He is going to nursery school and after the first day he thought he had 'hit the answer'."

"My first child was conveniently born during the next summer and I was able to teach again in the fall."

The former Miss Idaho was finishing her senior year of college at Albion when she was in the Miss America pageant. She spent the summer of 1950 in Boise modeling and being coached.

"I received a beautiful $1,000 wardrobe and I still have some of it."

She states she celebrated her 20th birthday this summer and the Lions club of Boise gave her a party and she was presented some luggage.

"I remember how nice all the contestants were at Atlantic City, just like one of your friends next door," she recalls.

She states that during her senior year in college she made many trips through the state. It was during this year at college she met her husband.

"I was a guest of the Lions club at Sun Valley just before turning over my crown to Phyllis Itakalon who was a student at the University of Idaho."

She was married in August, 1951, in the Idaho Falls LDS temple, then in the fall they moved to Chicago, where she taught school for a year.

The next fall her husband entered college at Utah State College, Logan, and she taught drama, speech, English and choral music at the South Cache high school. "My first child was conveniently born during the next summer and I was able to teach again in the fall."

While in Logan she received her certificate for librarianship and she taught at the Logan Junior high school.

Her husband entered Northwestern and she moved to the Chicago area, where they lived for the next four years.

"I never thought I'd like the city, but we learned to love it there and when we left I cried for 200 miles."

She states that just before they left she wrote a letter to the Daily News saying how they had enjoyed their stay in the Chicago area. "I was surprised I was when they printed it," she says. "Then we received the personal letter from Chicago Mayor Richard Daley wishing us well and saying he was sorry we were leaving the area. I was completely floored to receive anything like that."

"They lived in a small house just behind the Mormon church in Evanston, Ill., while her husband was in dental school."

"I didn't teach while we lived there—I had a different job. I took care of the church and grounds for it was something I could do with my little family. I did the heavy work. He also had a job in a shoe store and was superintendent of the Sunday school plus his studies."

"I guess I've had—about every job in the church at one time or another. I've been speech director, drama director, organist and chorister in several different departments of the church."

She says the church there had at one time been an old madison in the North Shore area and had been converted to a church. It was built in 1863 and is an old landmark.

"We are very happy to be back in our home state," she concludes. "There's no place like home."
