More Talks Set by Steel Negotiators

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 3 (AP)—Manufacturing in the 81-day-old steel strike took on a note of urgency today as negotiators tried to beat possible Taft-Hartley action to get the 600,000 strikers back in the mills. The United Steelworkers announced its powerful wage policy committee to meet here at 10 a.m. Monday. David J. McDonald, president of the U.S.W., also summoned the union's international executive board to meet in an unusual session at 2 p.m. Sunday. Some observers were optimistic over the developments. But others saw no concrete moves which would result in a settlement of the strike which has cost the steel industry more than $100 million in wages lost and production curtailed. The 110-man wage policy committee either rejected or accepted the union's proposals. It also makes recommendations to the wage policy committee. TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG POT SHOTS

AND PEDESTRIANS Dear Pol Shola:

What a strange and wonderful eye we live in! I just beginning to see the light. I have changed the registration and license plates of cars from the car to the car. I have changed the registration and license plates of cars from the car to the car.

Did you know that our teenagers (I mean you) identify each other and all people by the cars they drive?

That is a conversation I heard in my living room the other day after school.

Brother: "Who was that boy I saw you talking to on the corner today after lunch?"

Sister: "I dunno. Which one do you mean?"

Brother: "Oh, you know; the one with the '56 red and white Oldsmobile?"

Sister: "Oh, that one! He lives out north of town. His dad drives a new cream and blue Rambler. His brother drove a '49 Merc. I mean he has at Moscow this year."

Brother: "Oh, that's a dreamboat; the car, I mean."

And they bring home A's and B's on their report cards. (In Spinnaker) (Jerome)

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT. We want to give away a black female, post-cocker spaniel pup about 10 months old. She's good with children. You can phone 3-2222.

Clody and Tandy are 4-month-old male, one looking like an airedale and the other like a pointer. You can phone 3-2222.

They cover address I'm glad someone else brought up the subject of postage stamps. I have a few extra stamps on me the reason for the recent increase in postal rates. It's because these stamps are so big they have to buy more paper, then more postage stamps for more postage stamps.

KITTENS FOR KIDS DEPT. Dear Sir: I have three fluffy, very long-haired kittens, and one pure white one to give away. Please phone 3-2222.

OUR BULLETIN BOARD Mrs. B. M. Jerome: "You're right in asking the question but we're not going to get it the wrong way. Just as a suggestion, I think you could accomplish more good by hitting it from a little different angle and doing it in a more practical way in the Public Forum. Why not praise the event, point out how fine it is and just give the traditional word of praise to the sponsor? Folks will get the point and no one will be particularly irritated. Thanks, anyway."

INSURANCE INFORMATION Perhaps all this talk about inflation is getting monotonous, but not to the extent that the average American family is suffering.

No doubt about it, mounting inflation is going to get this country into serious trouble unless the trend is checked abruptly. But the problem is to get the Americans to be afraid to continue throwing money to the four winds.

We have been reminded time and time again that our country is now 23 billion dollars in debt. That in 24 of the last 25 years our federal government has spent more than its income and our federal debt has risen accordingly.

It has been made crystal clear to all of us that inflation hurts everyone alike, including farmers, city people, business and labor.

With foreign imports flooding our country, it has been demonstrated beyond doubt that inflated wages and costs are pricing us out of the world market. Anyone of normal intelligence must realize what this is doing to our economy.

Even worse is the result of government deficits and inflation on individual savings. Not only are those with fixed incomes finding it more difficult to save because of steadily mounting prices, but those who are saving more inclined to live it up because their savings depreciate in value as a result of inflation.

If we ever reach the point where we think it safer to speculate than to gamble on savings, inflation will have reached the ultimate.

Maybe it's because he can't see how inflation is hurting him directly, that the average American citizen struggles along with his family budget without getting much upset.

He doesn't take time out to compare his grocery bills with what they were a few years ago; what he is paying for new home appliances, new cars, clothes, services and everything else he buys, he might become more alarmed. Particularly in adding up what he has left for savings to guarantee anything in the way of personal security.

When he takes into account further what is being demanded of him in increased taxes and the portion of the federal debt that is hanging over his head, with no relief in sight, it should appear all the more serious.

For example, as Sen. Henry Dworshak points out, right now the family mortgage of $5,300 which every family in the state owes to the federal government as its share of the national debt, is no small item.

In Idaho, the state's share of the national debt is $1,117,468,044, which means that this sum of money will eventually have to go to the federal government and will not be available for Idaho's needs.

Getting even closer to home, Twin Falls county's share of the national debt is $77,081,288, four highest of all counties in the state—another little statistic for us to keep in mind.

Senator Dworshak, a long-time foe of excessive government spending, calls particular attention to the fact that the federal debt must eventually be paid, plus tremendous interest costs since the debt represents borrowed money used to pay past spending programs.

"I believe we should... begin now to put our governmental finances on a sound basis for the future."

Writer Resents Charge That Demos Had 'Spending Spree'

Times-News:
Just a word to set your right regarding the article in the Twin Falls Times-News under the caption "Spending Spree" by perhaps the ODF unit, but didn't have the editorial fortitude to sign their names to the article. It might be because they couldn't say anything about it.

There is one thing the said "spending spree" was not: it was not a spree. It was a carefully planned and executed program of the Democrats who are holding office in the courthouse here. It was a program of the Democrats as well as the Republicans as well. It was a change and voted for the said and not the party.

One of the items mentioned in the article was the so-called coffee on the third floor. What was a small room lined with a table and chairs for which the ODF unit was to hold a small coffee on all sides, a small coffee with some cups for which the ODF unit was to hold a small coffee on all sides. Just as the ODF unit was to hold a small coffee on all sides.

The county commissioners and their helpers have no apologies to make for the way they have spent the money. All the money was spent for anything except the office space or the office space.

Buyers Who Gave Support at Fat Stock Sale Are Thanked

Times-News:
I would like to express the thanks and appreciation of the ODF unit and the Fat Stock Sale committee to all of the enthusiastic supporters who so generously invested in the youth of our county at the fat stock sale Sept. 28.

Particular thanks should go to the ODF unit, Buhl Feed and Supply company and Independent Feed company, purchasers of the champion steer, lamb and pig respectively. These loyal supporters came to the sale with the intention of buying a champion and they succeeded in their purpose.

Particular interest in the sale was shown by the members of the community. Washington state representative of agriculture, Olympia, Wash. Heitmann is an excellent judge and has had many years of experience at stock show and fat stock sales, and he came here to judge the steers.

First of all, Heitmann was impressed with the number of steers and pigs on hand. The number of animals but was faced with placing 128 animals. That in itself is not unusual, but the manner in which the quality of the animals held up was indeed a pleasant surprise to Heitmann. This is a compliment to all of local central Idaho. It is a reflection of the incentive our buyers have added to the program through their generous support of the annual fat stock sale.

Heitmann further pointed out that he was surprised at the depth of the buyer support at the sale. He stated that he had witnessed many sales in much larger communities where only the top animals received good buyer support. Heitmann felt that the broad support given to such a large sale was an outstanding compliment to the community.

1881 Arrival in Area Says Notes Strictly Correct

Editor, Times-News:
I am kind of an optimist myself, landed at Salmon falls in 1881.

I traveled the Oregon trail down along Snake river. I have been reading the articles written by Lulu Caboun Louch and she knows what she is talking about. I can vouch for everything she has written.

I remember that sometime like 6 years ago I struck the Callahan home tired and hungry after a hard day's trip hunting trout. I was a little bit but they took me and gave me two good meals and a night's lodging and the next morning I was on my way to Pummung. The Callahans at that time lived near Castleford.

School District Not Involved in New Music Club

Editor, Times-News:
An article in the Sunday Feature Section of the Times-News for Sept. 27, entitled "Music Club Plans School Program for Children in Twin Falls Area" has come to my attention with respect to its implications for Twin Falls public schools.

While local school children are the ones expected to participate in the various music clubs, the school district as such, is not directing the program nor supervising its activities. Actually the main contribution local schools in supplying the meeting places which may be school rooms or auditoriums. Many responsible community organizations make use of school facilities nearly every week of a given year.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the children will be benefitting financially from the program in every way contribute to music in the community.

I feel certain that the music clubs regard all school activities as being thoroughly effective and of the most respected quality.

I hope both schools and other music lovers in the community are combining their best efforts in this important area of cultural improvement.

Appreciation Is Voiced for Help in Meeting Blood Goal

Editor, Times-News:
On behalf of the American Red Cross, I wish to extend thanks and appreciation to the many individuals, business concerns and organizations for their splendid cooperation and support of the blood bank program and the drawing which took place on Monday.

This is the first time in many months that Twin Falls has met its quota of blood and I wish to personally thank each and every person who helped make this possible. To the doctors, the nurses and the women who helped with the needles, our sincere thanks, and we thank also the many individuals who donated blood purely from their own efforts and willingness.

She Praises Hagerman Pair For Comment on Local Letter

Editor, Times-News:
I read the article written by Mr. and Mrs. Mullins in Sunday's 28th Public Forum column—also the reply, or rather comment made on the letter to the editor by Mr. and Mrs. Verne Jones, Hagerman.

I wish to endorse heartily the reply made by Mr. and Mrs. Verne Jones, and commend them heartily for writing such a straightforward article. I do not know Mr. and Mrs. Mullins, so there cannot possibly be any personal reason for my feeling as I do. I can only say I stand for truth, right and program, in every way, and it certainly seems to me Mr. and Mrs. Verne Jones of Hagerman have covered the general problems of home, school and teacher well indeed.

My original home is near Chicago. I come from one of the finest Eastern schools, have taught many years and still am teaching. I know every successful teacher has only the best interests at heart for the student—every teacher, principal or superintendent—no loyalty for the general welfare of the student should have either interest or desire to be unfair in discipline.

Appreciation for YES Project Reported

Editor, Times-News:
With the advent of school in the latter part of September, we have discontinued the YES program as a special program but are continuing to put forth a good deal of effort in trying to find work for those boys and girls after school and on Saturdays. It might be of interest to you to know that during the 1958 summer we placed over 500 of these youths in various jobs throughout the community.

We would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the tremendous amount of publicity you gave us during the period of time this program was being carried out. We believe to a small degree that we have rendered valuable assistance to the youth of our community in helping them to promote good work habits and respect for the dignity of labor.

Former Resident of Jerome Weds In Coast-Rituals

JEROME, Oct. 3—Word has been received here of the recent marriage in Walla Walla, Wash., of Tereza Hurley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hurley, Walla Walla, former local residents, to Robert Nurni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nurni, Yakima, Wash. The bride was the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dunn, Jerome.

A background of white gladioli, pink roses and carnations flanked by tall pink lilies in crystal candelabra provided the background for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was panned in a white lace train with full chiffon overlay. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace which formerly belonged to her grandmother, and a small white veil with illusion veil and carried a sheath bouquet of pink, full roses and rosebuds tied with satin streamers.

Mrs. Steve Aresani, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a champagne dress princess styled dress with matching accessories, and carried a rousseau bouquet of pink carnations. Stewart Miller, a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hurley chose a pale pink silk dress with matching jewelry and patent leather shoes. The bride's mother was an ensemble of electric blue with matching shoes and coordinating accessories. Both had white rose corsages.

Pink and white, the color scheme of the wedding, was carried out in the dining room of the Elks club where the wedding dinner was held. The couple ate at home in Seattle after a wedding trip to San Francisco and Carmel.

Nurni is a senior in the school of business administration at the University of Washington. He attended Stanford university his freshman year. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi and the Elks. The bride is a junior at the university and is affiliated with Alpha Phi.

Control Box Helps Lessen Fire Danger for Businesses

L. E. Bartlett, Twin Falls fire chief, points to a control box in the business that is part of a fire alarm system installed in several Twin Falls business houses in an attempt to lessen fire hazards. The control box is connected directly to an alarm system in the business building. It notifies the firemen the moment the temperature rises above a specified point. If a fire started at night it could save valuable time and result in minimum damage to property. (Staff photo-engraving)

Committee Formed Here in 1954
 Finding Work for Handicapped

Since 1954 when a new committee was set up in Twin Falls, it has been busy to eliminate employment discrimination against a million of working persons in our own community. The committee is the physically handicapped group of workers and the committee has been busy since that time to make these jobs easier for the Twin Falls Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

The committee presently under the chairmanship of E. E. Jellison, is composed of about 20 members who are representatives of various service, fraternal, professional and business organizations in Twin Falls. It was the first such community organization in Idaho and it works in cooperation with state and national committees. There are now about 10 such committees in Idaho communities.

This week the committees throughout the nation are celebrating National Employ the Physically Handicapped week. Two members of the committee who are in close contact with problems associated with hiring the handicapped are John Luzzani and Lowell Thurston, both members of the Idaho employment security agency.

According to Thurston the committee's work is primarily public education—throughout the year the committee carries the story of the handicapped workers to the potential employer. It is a job of public education; the committee does no placing of individuals. One of the ways in which the committee works is that each member of the committee carries the information concerning handicapped workers learned in the monthly meetings back to the organizations he represents.

Efficient Method
 Through the years there has been an effective method of combating misconceptions on the part of the average employer. In 1954, the earliest year that records are available, the employment agency placed 125 physically handicapped individuals. This year it has already placed more than 200 workers on jobs throughout Twin Falls county.

Each year, except for 1958 during which mild recession, the number of handicapped persons employed in this county has risen. Thurston explains that the purpose of the committee is to educate potential employers on the advantages of hiring physically handicapped persons. He notes that the idea is to stress the person's abilities, rather than try to convince the employer about the disabled person. We try to fit the person's abilities with the job requirements and so far the community's acceptance has been good.

Thurston notes there are a few basic misconceptions on the part of potential employers concerning the abilities of a handicapped worker. Employers sometimes tend to look at the disabilities of the employee rather than the employee's abilities. Often a handicap has no bearing on an individual's ability to do a specific job.

Thurston says that another prevalent

Peggy Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin (Bud) Morgan, Kimberly, smiles from her desk at the Gem State Oil company office. Miss Morgan is a good example of how a person can be physically handicapped but still hold a demanding job. Miss Morgan was stricken with polio when she was 13. She was graduated from Kimberly high school in 1956. She has been working for the company for over three years as a general office worker and credit manager. She says office work is good work for a handicapped person. She suggests it would be advantageous for a girl to specialize in some phase of office work, such as accounting. (Staff photo-engraving)

Fire Protection Week Serves to Emphasize Alarm System in T.F.

With Fire Protection week, Twin Falls businesses during the past fire insurance rates by 11 to 25 per cent, a considerable amount of money is being spent on fire protection. The fire department is a considerable expense for the business community. These systems, which automatically notify the fire department of a fire, have been installed at Allerton, Young's Dairy, Sears, Roebuck and company, Jerome cooperative Creamery, and the Times-News.

The systems are relatively simple. They consist of a fire detection unit in each room of the building. When the temperature in a specific room rises to a certain temperature, the detector closes an electrical circuit and immediately rings an alarm in the Twin Falls fire station. The unit is connected to the station by a direct, leased telephone line.

Barrett notes the systems, man-made or automatic, are attractive to the business owner because they can cut the cost of this alarm system might give the

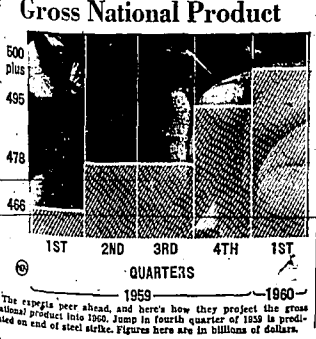

Barrett says, "The main advantage is that we hear the alarm as soon as it is heard in the building. He notes if the fire starts at night this alarm system might give the

U.S. Heading Into Real Boom, but It's Likely to Have Stinger, Survey Shows

By RAY CROMLEY
 NASH Staff Correspondent
 WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (NEA)—This is boom the U.S. is heading into—a real boom. But it may have a stinger in its tail. That's the combined view of top government, private industry and research organization economists interviewed by this writer. A business lull is expected to follow in the fall and winter. The summary of their thinking is that U.S. businessmen and consumers can look forward to the best of 1959 months ahead. Production is moving up rapidly. Unemployment will continue to run two million or a shade more above a year ago. Unemployment will be about 6.5 million or less in October, then rise with the approach of winter and layoffs on the farm.

More big machinery, more surplus to store: That's how experts see farm picture.

A series of tougher strikes is in the offing. Narrowing profit margins and growing competition will force management to put up with fiercer fights against featherbedding. Management will insist on more flexible control over employment attempts to reduce overhead. Unions will fight the railroad-unions battle will be fiercer.

Sales Will Boom
 Sales will boom. Consumer spending this fall and winter will be up five to seven per cent. People are in a buying mood. The price of a low of $8 million or less for the 1960 automobile model. But they're buying everything. Says one respected government economist: "They're putting in air conditioning and swimming pools and buying boats. Used to be a big car was the symbol of prestige. Now people are buying more and more to keep ahead of the Joneses. They're buying anything."

Reason for the Price Rise: nine out of 10 first-rate Washington economists agree—because wages are rising faster than productivity.

Rising Labor Costs
 Rising labor costs, in turn, are forcing a sharp fall-winter-spring business lull in automation and labor saving machinery and equipment. The strike putting in air high wages by cutting down on the work force.

As a result, output per man hour—productivity—should move up 25 per cent faster than in the years before the recession. That's a

Buffalo Grass Provides Casual Experiment Here

An interesting, but casual, experiment in horticulture has been taking place on the corner of Clara Eleventh avenue and Shoshone Street north for the past 10 years. That corner lot is the site of possibly the only plot of buffalo grass in this part of the state. It had an inauspicious, but unusual, beginning about 10 years ago when a roll of buffalo grass was the envy of anyone who tries carrying for and watering less hardy grasses common to most Twin Falls lawns. It requires little or no care. It needs little water and stays in a relative close-cropped condition compared to other lawn grasses. Clara Billiar says her brother brought a small blanket of the buffalo grass to put on their empty lot.

Grass Spreads Like Mad in Vacant Lot

Clara Billiar, Twin Falls, holds a strand of buffalo grass that was transplanted from Nebraska. The grass was planted several years ago and without any special care has thrived. It is sturdy and needs little care. It is probably the only buffalo grass in this town. The grass was transplanted from Nebraska. (Staff photo-engraving)

Machinery-Used in Grading Eggs Here

Eggs are graded at this machine at the Idaho Egg Producers company plant, Twin Falls. The eggs are graded by size and weight and are sorted into each sorting compartment according to weight. There are five grades, and though there is no government inspection service, the Idaho Egg Producers company is the only firm that grades eggs. The company's eggs are provided by farmer producers in Blaine Valley, and are sold mostly to the Twin Falls area.

60 Producers Selling to Egg Company Concentrate on Output of High-Grade

If you want to know how to produce high quality eggs for market, you may want to consult someone who has been successful in the business. The Idaho Egg Producers company, Twin Falls, is the only firm that grades eggs in this area. The company's eggs are provided by farmer producers in Blaine Valley, and are sold mostly to the Twin Falls area. close large blood chicks are sold as bakers. A baker is an egg sold to a breaker company, which is a factory which collects and sorts the eggs and then uses the eggs for dog foods—or in the manufacture of powdered eggs.

After the eggs are inspected they are carried along on conveyors to the grading machine. According to the weight of the eggs, the machine sorts the eggs into five grades, and then the eggs are packed in cartons.

Smith receives for his eggs depends on what is found at the grading and sorting table. That is another reason he takes such extreme care on the farm.

Smith feeds a lot of laying mash to his chickens. The feed is brought out in a bulk truck from the association plant and mixed with water and other supplements. For this reason, Smith has to expect good production from his chickens.

He forces maximum production by extending the chicken's day to 16 hours by the controlled lighting in his 30- by 100-foot insulated, eiderbrock laying house. He also provides them with clean, fresh water and a thermally controlled ventilator.

But no less important is the breeding of his leghorns. He purchases his chicks in Rupert and then puts them in his brooder houses. He has the purchased chicks reared to lay eggs for 12 months.

Peach Seed Will Not Raise Same Sort Of Fruit; Grafting Gives Hale, Elberta

If you ever studied the deep-furrowed, wrinkled skin of a peach, you know that it is not the same as the smooth skin of an apple. The same is true of fruit trees. A peach tree will not raise the same sort of fruit as an apple tree, and vice versa.

Conner will graft to an individual tree for a customer a bud from any other kind of pollen. He tells his customers not to be misled by the name of the tree. The name of the tree is not the name of the fruit.

Conner also will bud graft flowering almonds to peach trees. He will at present, plums and apricots. He has also grafted peach trees to other kinds of trees.

Conner says the distance between buds and therefore future branches would increase next season. Conner said the distance between buds would never change again. "A tree doesn't grow tall all over at once," said Conner. "It grows only from the top and the buds on the main trunk of the tree are the same, only the distance between them varies."

Conner will graft to an individual tree for a customer a bud from any other kind of pollen. He tells his customers not to be misled by the name of the tree. The name of the tree is not the name of the fruit.

Kimberly Experiments May Give Clues As to Best Time for Planting Wheat

When, generally, is the best time for planting irrigated spring wheat? Early April? Late April? And at what seeding rates? Some farmers decide these questions each year, based on the weather and their work load. Others plant as soon as the soil is dry enough to be worked. Others plant strictly by calendar, or by the size of the moon.

For this year, which certainly is a weather year, all the best prices of trial tests conducted at the Kimberly experiment station indicated that the best time for planting wheat is in the latter part of the season.

Bargain Hunting on Private Preserve Isn't so Good by Idaho's Standards

By JIM HUMBOLD
Last week a magazine supplement-section distributed by Sunday newspapers across the land carried an article in which the author proudly proclaimed that he had bagged pheasants, quail, chukar partridge and several fall mallards "all in one day for a private preserve."

It is this stretch of the river, with the 70-odd islands dotting the reach, where the fish-out ducks, quail or other birds and bounces off a rock a few feet ahead of the place not only abounds with migratory and native waterfowl; it also affords "best spawning" conditions.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Lack of Zoning Ordinance Is Cause of Filer's Mayor Building His Own Home

FILER, Sept. 25.—Building his own home is only one of the many accomplishments of Henry Westendorff, mayor of Filer.

HENRY WESTENDORFF

While investigating the possibility of building his own home, Westendorff discovered that it was difficult to obtain for home owners in Filer because of the absence of a zoning law. He decided the best course was to construct the house himself.

It took two years of working mornings and evenings to complete the house. As a home owner and banker, he became more and more concerned about the lack of a zoning law.

Active in Community Always interested in civic affairs, he has been active in many community projects. He was chairman of the Filer gold jubilee celebration.

Some Will Still Have Tough Time

Many farm families who have a surplus of labor, farm workers may find it tough to find a job this fall and winter. It should be easier to find a job in the spring when the weather is warmer and the crops are in better shape. But in the meantime, many farm families will have a tough time finding a job for their surplus labor. The surplus labor is the labor that is not needed on the farm. It is the labor that is left over after the farm has finished its work for the season. This surplus labor is the labor that is the most difficult to find a job for. It is the labor that is the most difficult to find a job for because it is the labor that is the most difficult to find a job for.

U.S. Heading Into Real Boom, but It May Have Stinger, Survey Discloses

The U.S. economy is heading into a real boom, but it may have a stinger, a survey of business executives has disclosed. The survey, conducted by the American Management Association, shows that business executives are optimistic about the future of the U.S. economy. They expect a strong recovery in the second half of 1959 and a continued boom in 1960. However, they also see some potential problems. One of the biggest concerns is the high rate of inflation. Business executives are worried that inflation will continue to rise, which could lead to a recession. Another concern is the high level of government spending. Business executives are worried that this spending will lead to a large budget deficit, which could also lead to a recession. Despite these concerns, business executives are generally optimistic about the future of the U.S. economy. They believe that the U.S. is heading into a real boom, and they expect to continue to grow for many years to come.

The stones in the collection come from such far-away places as Mexico, Spain, India, Ceylon, Burma, Brazil, Egypt, and various places in the United States. Dr. Rees started his hobby, which he has managed to sandwich in with his active interests in fishing and hunting, about 12 years ago. He has since become a national competitor for a few years, although he will be able to compete in the northwest division contest next year. Now Dr. Rees is concentrating on enlarging his collection. He wants to complete his collection of faceted gemstones with all the species with that variations. He is planning to experiment with some different cuts, some fancy cuts and free-hand cuts. Smaller marketing - European businessmen see the possibilities for small cars worldwide when U.S. businessmen do them. They beat U.S. businessmen to the punch on light-weight bicycles, on some types of lighter camera, on sewing machines, and on many other items. More Suitable Items for the Market - Many European manufacturers, while not so advanced as some American products, are more suitable for many world and some American markets. In general, they are small "economy" models that are more practical for small jobs and for some small consumer pocket-books.

Progress With Handicapped Draws Praise

City Commissioner Christmas J. Ted Davis congratulates Ernest Johnson, right, on progress made the past year by the employ the Physically Handicapped committee. Davis proclaimed Oct. 4 to 11 as "Employ the Handicapped week" in Twin Falls. (Miss Phillips photograph)

Committee Formed Here in 1954 Helps Physically Handicapped to Find Work

(Continued From Page 1) ent handicapped employ on the payroll will raise the rates of industrial accident insurance. Thurston says this is not true, and adds that the rates on insurance are determined by the accident experience of the company. Actually, handicapped persons have a lower industrial accident rate than those without handicaps.

Statistics The nationwide statistics on the 10 most common physical handicaps, and the numbers affected, are chronic alcoholism, 4,000,000; heart disease, 2,200,000; hearing defects, 1,500,000 to 2,000,000; diabetes, 2,000,000; epilepsy, 750,000; cancer, new cases each year, 600,000; tuberculosis, 500,000; blindness, 260,000; multiple sclerosis, 150,000 to 160,000; and cerebral palsy, (new cases each year), 10,500.

During the year the committee tries to be the story of the handicapped worker before the public in various ways. It acts through monthly bulletins, gives talks and presents films throughout the year, invites interested business men to the monthly meetings, maintains a booth at the Twin Falls county fair and sponsors two contests.

Other misconceptions are that handicapped persons, because of their handicap, "necessarily" carry a heavier work load, and that their record of absenteeism is higher. Neither is true. Thurston notes that the work load and absenteeism record of handicapped individuals parallels that of the unhandicapped worker.

Each year a high school poster contest is held. The posters are to illustrate the story of the handicapped worker. The contest is open to freshmen, sophomores and juniors. The state winner receives $100. Two students from Twin Falls have won the state award in the past.

The birthday songs were led by Ralph Smith with Howard E. Adams in charge of the birthday project. Dinner was served by the Baptist women's Mission society.

Of course, sometimes a handicap, such as a crippling accident, will force a worker to change occupations. But once the allowance is made for the handicap, the worker can readily adjust to a working situation. There are the four most prevalent handicaps with which he deals in the Twin Falls community: heart disease, multiple sclerosis, disabled veterans, loss of limbs or cripples, and persons with

There is also an essay contest open to juniors and seniors in high school. Local prizes for students in Magic Valley are $25, $15 and $10. Winner of the state essay prize receives $100. In both the essay and poster

Burley Rotary Club to Greet District Chief

BURLEY, Oct. 3 — The Burley Rotary club will host Tuesday, Oct. 13, to Dr. Joseph (Doc) T. Burley, Idaho Falls, district governor who is making the annual visit to the 46 Rotary clubs in Idaho and Utah.

The new district governor, who succeeds Al Walter Stevenson, Ogden, is a native of New Jersey and received his advanced education in Lafayette college, Princeton and George Washington university.

The district governor became a member of the Idaho Falls club in 1929. He was first president of the club in 1939. He has attended international conventions in Paris, Philadelphia, Dallas and New York, and has visited numerous clubs in Europe as well as this country.

Sisters Inspect Progress of Grass in Vacant Lot

Two Twin Falls sisters inspect the front lawn of Hoffala's grass growing in their vacant lot adjacent to their home at 1025 Shoshone street north. Miss Billar, left, holds one of the strands of Buffalo grass that exceeds nine and forms new roots for the grass growing in their vacant lot adjacent to their home at 1025 Shoshone street north. Miss Hill, right, holds one of the strands of Buffalo grass. (Miss Phillips photograph)

Plot of Buffalo Grass Is Providing Casual Experiment in Horticulture

(Continued From Page 1) The grass has a good feature—it grows mostly horizontally rather than vertically. As its strands lie on the ground, they are not so tall as other grasses. Another feature is that its seed-free, evidently being too thick to admit weeds.

The grass spreads by sending out runners. This year the grass plot extended another three or four feet across the lot with the benefit of just a few waterings. On the parking, where the grass received regular waterings because of a small tree growing there, it grew nine or ten feet this summer.

Miss Billar notes that if the grass had received special care it probably would have reached the back of the lot several years ago. The grass plot was sown and planted several years ago when a neighbor, Roy Painter, sowed some Buffalo grass seed at random in her less care.

She says her brother simply scattered bits of the seed around the lot in the area next to the sidewalk. Now the grass has grown toward the rear of the lot and in a year or two, with plenty of watering, should reach the back of the lot.

Miss Billar notes the grass is never mowed and they water it only three or four times during the summer months. She adds this is a "work-free" grass.

Miss Hill, who is in the background, says that the grass is a little stouter than conventional blue grass. It is slowly encroaching on the Billar lawn and killing blue grass. Except for the fact that the Buffalo grass turns brown in September, it is hard to tell the difference between the grasses when they are close-cropped.

Both women watch this survival-of-the-fittest battle between the grasses with interest. They say they don't care which grass survives, but they hope the Buffalo grass wins. It takes considerably less care.
