'Unavoidable' Crash on Anti-American Highway Snow, Ice Plague Mob Is Active in East, Death Toll Rises

Cassia County Highway Takes Burley Man's Life

BURLEY, Nov. 28—The highway death of Vern Lee Hunt, 41, Burley, Friday afternoon was described by Cassia county Sheriff LePage Layton Saturday as happening in an unavoidable accident after an investigation by his office. Hunt was killed when he was thrown from a 1948 Buick while driving by James A. McMillan, 50, Burley, when the car went out of control 10 miles west of Burley on highway 30 Friday afternoon. McMillan is charged with driving the car into the ditch and causing the crash.

County's No. 1 License Plate Shown

The United States territory of Idaho announced the first sale day of its new license plates on Tuesday. The plates are of white background with green letters. County Assessor Clifford Thompson anticipates the first sale day will be a repeat of last year when a small group of residents camped overnight on the courthouse steps to be the first in line to buy the coveted low-number plates.

PANAMA, Nov. 28 (UP)—Panamanian and U. S. army troops joined forces and staved off a menacing mob of anti-American demonstrators seeking to march on the Panama Canal zone tonight. Thwarted bands then turned back to spread mob rule within this capital.

Normal week-end traffic, plagued by scattered snow and ice from the Midwest to New England, pushed the Thanksgiving holiday highway death toll upward at a steady clip today. The toll mounted at the rate of four deaths an hour, maintaining a pace which started last Friday. Bad weather—snow, sleet and patches of freezing drizzle—put travel on slippery footing from the Upper Mississippi valley into northern New England.

Violent deaths were not limited to the highways, however. Three children burned to death near the eastern Kentucky town of Bradwell when flames engulfed their home. A home fire at Joliet, Ill., killed two small children, both under 2 years of age.

An Associated Press survey of a recent week-end period similar to the current one shows that 800 deaths were reported in the United States during the period. Snow and ice were the leading cause of death, with 400 deaths reported. Other causes included automobile accidents, fires, and other miscellaneous causes.

There is a comparison of traffic fatalities for 1958 and 1959 in the table above. The table shows the number of deaths for each state in both years. The total number of deaths for 1958 is 4,600 and for 1959 is 4,800.

Stroms Dump Snow Into Lakes Region

New storms dumped snow in the frigid Great Lakes region today. Heavy rains raised flood threats in New England. A long dry spell brought prayers for rain in California. Warmth from California were issued for northern Florida. Snow piled up five to eight inches in northwestern Pennsylvania and two to three inches in the southwestern part of the state. A championship high school football game was postponed in Pittsburgh. Snow reached ankle depth in the Chicago area, and put traffic on a treacherous surface.

Strong winds carried rain into Atlantic coastal areas. Gusts of force 40 to 50 mph were reported in White Plains, N.Y. Warnings of minor flooding were issued in New England and one to three inches of rain overflooded small streams and brooks.

Sleet, freezing rain and snow peppered the northern sections of New England today. A cold front, moving into northern Florida, dropped temperatures to 40 to 50 below zero in Tennessee. It was 80 in Miami at the same time.

The weather bureau forecast freezing temperatures for extreme northern Florida and said the weather will be mainly clear and calm through the end of the week. A cold front is expected to move into the Gulf coast on Tuesday.

Saturday was the first consecutive day without rain in San Francisco. Archbishop John J. Mitty was in Rome, California, for the 24th annual California peace conference to lead prayers for rain. Bishop John G. McElroy, bishop of California, said his flock along the coast is praying for rain.

Final approval was given Friday to a bid of $69,772.5 by the Duffy Construction Co. for the widening of Twin Falls for improvements to Kimberly road and for building a new bridge over the canyon. The project is a 1.45-mile concrete bridge will be located near the point where Rock creek enters the canyon.

The Kimberly road project involves a stretch of about six and one-half miles east of Twin Falls, where a four-lane divided highway will be built. The section is part of highway 30. Work will begin about April 1 with completion by October 1.

State officials said work will begin immediately on slightly more than two miles of access road and will give the use of gravel for the Kimberly road project and construction on the interstate highway.

The access road will begin at a grade road west of the canyon and run to the rim of the canyon. The canyon wall is 100 feet high. A 1.45-mile concrete bridge will be located near the point where Rock creek enters the canyon.

Labor Leader Asks Change In Doctrines

BLACKPOOL, England, Nov. 28 — Hugh Gallatell asked the British Labor party today to dig up away from its traditional Socialist doctrine involving state ownership of means of production, and to revise the party constitution written more than 40 years ago.

"We don't aim to nationalize every private firm or to create an endless series of state monopolies," he said.

Speaking for 70 minutes at a special conference called to assess party reasons for three straight election defeats, Gallatell declared, "It's no use warning the boss-men of a bygone age."

Gallatell said the party executive would spend the next few months working out "fundamental principles of British democratic socialism as we see them and as we feel them today—in 1953, not in 1913."

He said he hoped these proposals would be forward-looking and still seem relevant in 1970.

He did not see state ownership of industry completely overboard, Gallatell, a moderate, has been trying for years to move the party away from nationalization which he called an ideological prison. But his speech today was the furthest he ever has pushed his viewpoint.

Arthur Bevan, longtime rebel leader but now Gallatell's lieutenant, will wind up the conference today Sunday afternoon. If he agrees from attacking Gallatell's line the party will have reached a corner. If not, warfare between left and right-wingers undoubtedly will break out again.

Idaho Guard Sets Sunday Boise Confab

BOISE, Nov. 28 (AP)—Methods of adding 700 men to the Idaho national guard in the next several months will be discussed at a conference here Sunday, Col. George D. Bennett, chief of staff, announced today.

He said 12 guard commanders have been called in for the one-day session.

"We feel keenly," Bennett said, "that it is vital to the continuing growth of the state's guard that this objective must be attained as our share of the 400,000 man national strength allotment for the national guard."

He said addition of the 700 men would increase the strength of the Idaho guard to 4,000. Attainment

Boy Scientist Gets Results From Soviets

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 28 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy whose space research got the brush in his own country drew useful results when he turned to the Soviet Union for help.

Robert Graham, who has his own laboratory and works hard in it, got what he asked for when he wrote to Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the Soviet academy of science.

The academy shipped him a box loaded with soil samples from the Ukraine, the central Siberian uplands and the tundra. In these areas winters are bitter cold.

Robert had been after soil samples from cold weather areas since deciding to set up a laboratory environment similar to that on the planet Mars and see whether bacteria can live in it.

Robert's other letters brought these results:

The U. S. department of agriculture sent him a pamphlet on "suitable mulching in the Great Plains."

An assistant to Gov. William Bran of Alaska said it would be impractical to send Alaskan soil.

The Mt. Palomar observatory in California, asked for an analysis of Martian atmosphere, sent data on another subject.

The U. S. embassy in Iceland came through with a soil sample.

The Holland tunnel between New York and Jersey City is used by more than 25 million vehicles a year.

Penstocks Readied for Use at Oxbow Dam

Towering nearly three times as high as the man inspecting one in center, 25-foot-diameter steel penstock sections resemble colossal cannon as they await installation in their tunnels at Oxbow Power company's new Oxbow dam. Two of these 40-foot-long sections will be welded to two shorter straight sections and a 45-foot curved "elbow" section in the tunnels to form each of Oxbow's four penstocks.

Purpose of the 113-foot-long penstocks is to feed water from the project's intake tunnels to the 200,000-kilowatt powerhouse. Sections are fabricated in a specially designed yard by assembly-line techniques using automatic welding machines. They will be moved to the tunnels on crawler tracks like the one in foreground and hoisted into position in the tunnels. (Staff engraving)

Service Feud Of Torpedoes Is Said 'False'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall's recently disclosed account of army-navy bickering over the use of aerial torpedoes during World War II has been called "utterly false" by a retired admiral.

Marshall in an interview published posthumously by U.S. News and World Report, said the navy balked at supplying torpedoes to army air corps bombers, and then deliberately provided inadequate instruction in their use.

As a result, he said, the army fliers never did learn how to arm the torpedoes so they would explode.

Retired Rear-Adm. Leslie E. Gehrus, naval air commander in the Alaska theater at the time, has given his own account of the incident in the current issue of U.S. News and World Report.

Gehrus said the idea to equip land-based B29 bombers with torpedoes for use in the Aleutian Islands originated with army and navy pilots based together at Kodiak, Alaska. Far from balking he said the navy command gave unstinting approval and worked hard to make the plan succeed.

The army bombers lacked the special equipment of the navy torpedo planes, he said, making launching difficult. And the army pilots proved slow to learn the special techniques required.

Mission Work Is Requested By Pope John

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 28 (AP)—Pope John XXIII Saturday urged Roman Catholics everywhere to support the activities of their church.

The 78-year-old pontiff made his plea in an encyclical letter to bishops. He issued it on the anniversary of a similar message he first issued made 41 years ago by Pope Benedict XV.

Since then the Roman Catholic church has made much progress in the mission fields, especially in Asia and Africa, he said. He underlined these achievements but pointed also to problems still to be faced.

Many mission territories, said the pontiff, are going through social, economic, and political revolutions "heavy with consequences for their future."

He did not mention communism by name, but he emphasized the need now for spreading the gospel today.

"The good battle for the faith," he said, "is fought not only in the secret of conscience or in the privacy of the family, but also in public life and in all forms of social activity."

The Pope appealed for youth to "dedicate themselves to mission work for 'the true good of people.'"

He referred to current widespread aspirations for independence and civil liberty in some mission territories and said these are sometimes accompanied by "excesses that are not at all in harmony with authentic and profound spiritual interests of humanity."

Sen. Kennedy Opposes Use of U.S. Funds for Birth Control

DENVER, Nov. 28 (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy D. Mass., regarded as a likely candidate for his party's presidential nomination, said today he opposes the use of federal funds for any sort of birth control measures in other countries.

"Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, said in an interview.

"I don't think it is in the national interest to spend funds in that manner. It is up to the countries themselves."

He said the use of federal money for birth control measures "would be objectionable from the point of view of the United States."

"It is a question that is too personal, since it involves the life of each country," he said.

Kennedy said he had held that view for some years. He added he preferred not to comment on a statement by Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, San Francisco.

Bishop Pike said he believes leading Roman Catholics should bring into the open their former declining observance of U.S. Catholics of the church ban against contraception.

Earlier, two New York newspapers, the Herald Tribune and Times, published comments by Kennedy concerning a statement by Roman Catholic bishops of the United States concerning use of public funds for birth control at home and abroad.

Curfew for Young People Is Practice Of Long Standing in Nation's Cities

By FRANCIS STEWART
Associated Press Staff Writer

Curfew time tonight and every night for thousands of young people all over America.

In Walla Walla, W. Va., the curfew on city at the village hall is a half of a bell rope at 10 p.m. and runs away. The ringing at 11 to be off the streets.

The village board recently approved funds for a new bell rope.

Some towns sound church bells at 10 o'clock. After that, youngsters under 16 have about 15 or 20 minutes to get off the streets. On football game nights the curfew is a little greater.

Police Chief Harry Wolf estimates that the curfew has reduced offenses by juveniles under 16 by 85 per cent.

A much different view comes from Buffalo, N. Y., a city of nearly 600,000 population. Says police Lieut. Howard H. Wheeler, head of the crime prevention bureau: "We'd almost have to double the size of the police force in order to enforce a night curfew. If we were to put one in, it would mean that to be worthwhile, neighboring cities and villages would have to do the same. Otherwise, ours would be a waste."

Pointing up the marked contrast in attitude is the case of Chicago, where more than a million youngsters are affected by curfew regulations. All under 15 must be off the streets by 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and by 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Police Lieut. Michael Delaney, head of the youth bureau, says the law is publicly accepted and that it has been beneficial in holding down youth crime. The law has the support of all agencies dealing with youth problems.

Authorities point out that modern day youth problems are much more difficult because now "the kids are on wheels." They go tearing about the countryside in cars—sometimes stolen ones.

George Head, Anadarko, Okla., leading figure in that state's youth leadership enterprises, put it this way:

"One difference between here and New York is that local gangs are motorized."

The reference was to the young gangs of New York City, where 31 youthful slayings have occurred on the streets since the first of the year. New York has no curfew, there has been some talk of establishing one but the ruling fathers appear to favor lighter police surveillance of the streets instead.

Another new type of problem has been the congregation of youngsters in drive-in theaters and restaurants and resulting altercations. In Orlando, Fla., certain restaurants recently started hiring off-duty police to preserve order.

Hours and ages covered by curfews vary widely around the nation. But in general the hours of 8 and 10 p.m. are the most popular deadlines and the top age limit seldom exceeds 18.

However, Prichard, Ala., a town of about 4,000, imposed a rigid curfew in August after an outbreak of gang delinquency. Youngsters under 21 must be off the streets between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. Jail terms up to six months and fines reaching $100 can be imposed on both youths and their parents. Police say everything is quiet now.

In Oregon, all children under 18 are covered by a 1933 state law prescribing a midnight to 4 a.m. curfew period.

A Cleveland ordinance in effect since 1943 bans children under 12 from city streets between dusk and dawn, and those under 16 from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. The law is invoked only when special situations arise.

Penalties for curfew violations over the nation range from a warning out for youngsters to severe measures affecting both child and parents.

Probably the stiffest is in Sacramento, Calif. Parents are subject to $50 fines and 10 days in jail for first offenses of their offspring, and as much as $500 and 90 days for third violations.

However, authorities can't recall the last prosecution, they are so rare. The law applies to unaccompanied children under 18 on the streets after 10 p.m. unless they have a good reason.

A typical favorable comment on the curfew comes from police Lieut. Ernest Bauer, head of the department's juvenile division at Phoenix, Ariz., where parents of chronic offenders have been jailed.

"We think it's a real good weapon against delinquents," he says. "Generally we have real fine cooperation. It gives parents a hammer over the kids' heads without making them out as old fogies."

The guayule plant, the manihot tree, leandrophis shrubs and Cassia trees yield some rubber as well as rubber trees.

Times-News Forum - Voice of the Reader

Businessman Sees Annexing Of Areas to T. F. as Stupid

Editor, Times-News: I am writing you my latest letter after the usual simple attempt to get the city to annex the areas west and adjacent and adjacent areas. I am sure you are very few people who are aware of the extent of some of these areas now being considered for annexation from Falls Ave. One area extends from Falls Ave. One area extends from Falls Ave. Another area extends one mile west of Washington street at Falls Ave.

The area contains several 17-acre farms. Two farms in particular, one of 17 acres and one of 20 acres, are the astronomical population of four persons.

I operate a business in Twin Falls and find it difficult enough without adding more burdensome taxes. Do you believe the $15,000 tax revenue these annexed areas would pay to the city for the services of water, sewer, police and fire protection, street and irrigation maintenance, street lighting, etc.?

Where do they expect to get the money from? I moved out of the city and drilled my own well because these men's thoughtless attempt to sprinkle a small lawn on the tank of an upstairs water tank.

It is costing $40,000 to relocate the electric utilities on timberly and an additional $15,000 for increased lighting, what would be the cost to furnish street lighting in these areas?

I understand the bonded indebtedness and mill levy in the city is to be limited to 10 mills. It is so, what is the next step but to raise valuations and taxes again? These men seem well schooled in the process of siphoning off a large chunk of the taxpayer's money. The things they seem to be doing are the sound business practices that are necessary for the general welfare of the community.

This magical 25,000 population figure comes with the money, gasoline and liquor taxes are included in the cities on a per capita basis. How does the present population of 25,000 and 1,300 from the annexation equal 25,000? With a population of 25,000 with a population of 25,000 to have done all this? Fuller seems to have less population and less taxes.

Before the city manager, at a lower mill levy, there was no charge for garbage haul, water rates were lower, no $2 water turn-off, water and sewer taps were about half the present cost. Digging for water and sewer lines was done by hand; now we have coded, heavy machinery to do this work. Meanwhile, the private contractor, through the use of the same type of machinery, has been able to reduce his prices. We now have a sanitary fill (garbage dump) for the purpose of this job. The top of solid rock in a lot of this area, which is supposed to serve the purpose of a water line.

I have nine one-half acre plots in the northwest section which are being sold for $1,200. Some have a curb and gutter which cost $25 per foot or $120 per foot. I have a 26-foot curb and gutter which have to be installed at a cost of $225 per foot or $120 per foot. I have a 26-foot curb and gutter which have to be installed at a cost of $225 per foot or $120 per foot.

It makes a total cost for this area of $32,012.50. This is too expensive on which to build a house. Perhaps the city could sell it for a park. In the country, curbs and gutters are not required and a 26-foot curb is acceptable at a cost of 10 cents per foot for one-half the road, thereby effecting a saving of $100. After all, I drive to town on a 24-foot roadway. But the city manager points out the things that are better roads which naturally cost more to construct. 17 Washington street north of the city is a better road, road building abilities, leave me out.

I believe you will find the statement in the Nov. 22 Times-News issue to be false concerning the free use of the city library by country students.

As far as benefits from the airport, the city does have $40,000 very much to me to see a picture of Mr. Twin Falls seeing Miss 1959 off to the airport.

Yours for a cleaner and more orderly, expanding city, staying in the bounds of economical reason.

Man Declares He Doesn't Like Way Schools Are Run

Editor, Times-News: The school educators have poor wisdom and it makes trouble if a child has to be kept home when they are sick.

If they want to go to a basketball or football game they order a bus but we taxpayers pay for to cite the children all over the county. That is all right. The educators are trying to tell the parents what they have to do, but there are big boys going to junior high schools that are doing just as they please, throwing spitballs, talking, running hot red cars all over town at noon.

It is about time the educators at our school run the school and let us fathers and mothers handle our children at home. If they run the school the way they ought to they will have all they can do and more. Make these men who don't want to learn behave or send them home.

CALIFORNIA VISIT
Haley, Nov. 28-Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Decker, of Falls, Ore., visited Valley friends yesterday when they drove from Falls to Twin Falls for a special Thanksgiving day with Mrs. Decker's daughters, Mrs. Joan Brackenberry and her children.

Writer Resents Theme of Santa In Decorations

Editor, Times-News: I am a large number of us are disappointed over the city decorations. Again the mythical Santa Claus is the theme of the decorations. We really observe his birthday completely out. We presume it is the Christmas tree that represents in a better way the commercial aspect of Christmas.

That people will look at his features and buy far more holiday merchandise than they would if the Christmas child were given his rightful place in the decorative scheme. We doubt the truth of this theory. We are not living in a pagan community by any means.

A great many people around and about our growing city believe that the spirit of giving at this time of year is centered around God's supreme gift of his son to a suffering world.

This is entirely real. Nothing mythical or imaginary about it. So why decorate with the extreme beauty of the Nativity, its deep and abiding appeal to a worried and benighted people?

And why would a decorative scheme like this have any adverse effect on the buying of the holiday goods? We don't believe for one moment that it would.

18th Anniversary Is Noted By Nation's Civil Air Patrol

Editor, Times-News: On Dec. 1, 1941, a week before the bombing of Pearl Harbor, the civil air patrol became an official auxiliary to the United States air force.

During World War II, the civil air patrol flew thousands of courier missions. It also, later in the war, flew constant patrol on anti-submarine missions which accounted for at least two U-boat sinkings.

Several CAP members gave their lives in these operations. Today the civil air patrol flies about 100 per cent of all the search and rescue missions in the continental United States.

The civil air patrol maintains a communications net that is national wide. The CAP is equipped to send mobile units into the field at a moment's notice, as in the catastrophic disaster in the Yellowstone park area this summer.

The civil air patrol has a full time program for cadets, teaching and demonstrating various aviation activities to the young people of our community.

Twin Falls now is the headquarters of the Idaho wing. There also is a Twin Falls senior and cadet squadron for further activities.

The United States air force has shown that the CAP is important to them by establishing a USAP-CAP office at Twin Falls.

Anyone interested in service to his community, state and nation and with an interest in aviation is invited to get full information from USAP-CAP office at the Twin Falls airport.

Study Claims Chinese Will Export Goods

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—A department of agriculture study said today that for the foreseeable future communist China will continue exporting agricultural products in order to pay for imported industrial equipment and supplies.

The report was issued against the background of proposals for the Chinese mainland as the result of the recent visit of the Chinese minister to Washington.

The analysis was prepared by Hughes H. Spurrlock of the department's far east division.

"The fundamental question concerning Sino-Soviet trade is whether China will continue purchasing farm products toward the Japanese bloc or turn in greater force toward western Europe and Japan for more of its import needs in industrial equipment and supplies," the study says.

"The study also notes that cultural products in payment," Spurrlock said.

"The weight of evidence seems to favor continued integration of Chinese trade with the Soviet bloc, he said."

Fraternity Is Not Popular, Lawyer Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP)—College fraternities appear to be losing their popularity, says Francis M. Higgins, Indianapolis attorney and national alumni president of Delta Tau Delta.

"I have visited campuses in spite of swelling college enrollments," he told the National Interscholastic Athletic Association today.

"I am discovering that each year an increasingly smaller number of men are going through the process. This is particularly true, he said, in the larger state institutions.

"While there are increasing expressions and reports of increased membership, fraternities now are becoming more and more a minority group on campus," he said, adding:

"Fraternity men as a group are becoming less popular than the average male student. The masculinity of fraternity scholarship may be fading in most cases to the extremely low scholastic standing of only a few members of the chapters in question."

"We find among many of our undergraduate chapters alarming increases in truancy, absenteeism, and a tendency to disrobe university regulations to indulge in general social activities, to include in general, tomfoolery, which not only brings the university into disrepute, but which occasionally results in the headlines of tragedy."

Date of Miss Twin Falls Contest Nears

Miss Twin Falls of 1936, Mrs. Charles Brown, the former Naomi Qualls, and Donald Zuck, chairman of entries committee for the 1936 Miss Twin Falls contest, look over some early applications of entries for the local contest to be held Dec. 20 at the Twin Falls Junior high school as a preliminary contest of the Miss America pageant to be held in September at Atlantic City, N. J. (Staff photo-ensaving)

Pageant Is Being Readied to Select 1960 Miss Twin Falls

The 1936 Miss Twin Falls pageant, sponsored by the Twin Falls Lions club, will be held Dec. 20 at the Twin Falls Junior high school auditorium, according to Robert Baker, general chairman of the event.

The Miss Idaho eliminations will be held next June in Boise, leading to the selection of Miss America of 1937 next September in Atlantic City, N. J.

"To be eligible for the pageant, a contestant must be from 18 to 25 years old on Sept. 1, 1937, must be a high school graduate by Sept. 1, and must never have been married. She also must possess talent, either trained or potential, which may include playing a musical instrument, dramatics, dress design, singing, or any one or more of these."

"If she wishes to pursue a professional career, such as nursing, she may present a three-minute talk on her reasons for selecting the career or her training to date and aims in that profession."

"Any Twin Falls resident, knowing of a young lady with these qualifications may suggest her name to the committees."

Joint Space Effort Plan Said Studied

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 22 (AP)—The secretary of the Swedish space research committee today said 10 European countries may pool their resources for launching a joint space effort.

Dr. Ernst Brunberg said the idea for the project was originated by Prof. Enrico Fermi, an Italian physicist and former associate of a Nobel Prize winner and nuclear pioneer, Enrico Fermi.

Brunberg said his committee would certainly welcome the participation of any country interested in European space research effort.

The committee is composed of several of Sweden's top space experts, headed by Prof. Lomax Hulten.

Brunberg declined to name the other members of the committee who will participate in the project. He added, however, that they might include members of the European nuclear research center in Geneva, Switzerland.

Regular Mail May Be Sent Via Airlines

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (AP)—One of the small world routes during the Christmas rush under a civil aeronautics board proposal, will be to use airlines to carry mail to do this, but the railroads have opposed the idea.

The CAB proposed a rate of half that paid for airfreight for airmail, or about 19 cents a ton-mile.

The airlines had agreed to this rate for December, but indicated they would not continue to carry ordinary first-class mail.

The post office agreed, saying it wants to establish a permanent rate in hearings. The postoffice said that the proposed rate would be heavier than ever and it wanted to utilize unused capacity of airlines for mail.

The CAB denied preliminary protests against the plan by the Association of American Roadbuilders, the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, and the Railway Express agency.

Kiwanis Club Tells Region Leader Slate

OGDEN, Utah, Nov. 22 (AP)—Utah-Kiwanis district Kiwanis tonight installed William H. Bishop, Ogden, Utah, as their governor. He succeeds Dr. Peter B. Ellsworth, Idaho Falls.

The three-day district convention ends Sunday after a luncheon. More than 200 Kiwanians from the two states have been attending. The district includes an area from George in southern Utah to Weber, Utah.

Officers installed include Leroy Olson, Ogden, Utah, secretary; treasurer, Glenn W. Coffman, Springville; John Joseph Seber, Sugarhouse, Utah; Howard Watts, Ogden; John A. Clawson, Alameda; Dr. Clara F. Conley, Caldwell; and Ronald H. Shaikam, St. George.

Nearest Justice Must Take Case

BOISE, Nov. 22—The nearest accessible justice of the peace must handle arrests made by Idaho state police, State Law Enforcement Commissioner E. H. Hopper said Friday.

The state police have been reminded of the instruction. The question had been raised by a Boise jurist of the petty crime, chairman, Jr., who had said some arrests were not handled on this basis.

Hopper noted that many violations occurred at times other than normal 9 to 5 office hours, and the law provides that the "most accessible" magistrate be used.

Tunnel Begun in Victorian Era Under English Channel Is Still Considered

DOVER, England, Nov. 22 (AP)—At the foot of the white cliffs of Dover, the English Channel is still considered a barrier to traffic between the British Isles and the continent.

Experts estimate the tunnel could quickly attract one million cars a year, six million passengers and 800,000 tons of freight to give an annual income of $30,000,000.

After deducting operating costs, they believe the project could yield seven and three-quarters per cent annually on capital—enough to allow investment from all over the world.

However, active financially, the project faces tough opposition. British debarments have long looked on the channel as their surest defense against a continental assault on their homes in war and their morals in peace.

Old soldiers still talk the same way and none louder than Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

"This channel tunnel is a wild idea," he said.

Gooding Unit Hears About Mental Work

GOODING, Nov. 28 — C. R. Gooding, director of the institutional services for the executive committee of Gooding county health association with the mental health association with the county executive committee, New Horizons recently organized a meeting at the Idaho state school chapel Wednesday evening.

Members voted to distribute booklets on various business offices to the collection of mental health.

Dr. Paul V. LaRue, president of the association, reported to the group that 25 clergymen, representing 13 communities and 11 denominations, attended a "religion-mental health" workshop on marriage counseling at the local Baptist church recently. It was decided to have another workshop in Gooding next fall.

Appointment Told

The Rev. Mr. LaRue announced that Dr. William Matsumi, New York, representative of the National Association for Mental Health, has been named professional and research director for the organization.

He said the appointment is in line with the national organization's new emphasis on an all-out national mobilization to conquer mental illness through research and medical science, the same emphasis which are now completing the conquest of infantile paralysis.

"This emphasis, he added, is embodied in the organization's new slogan—'mental illness... a next step'."

Dr. LaRue recalled that the discovery of the discovery of the polio vaccine, Dr. Jonas Salk proposed that science turn its attention to mental illness. "We are ready for that now," the Gooding county association president declared.

Mental Program Explained

He stated that Dr. Matsumi, who is also president of the American Psychiatric Association, has a large-scale research program on schizophrenia. This program is being carried out through research projects in research centers in the United States and Canada, he added.

The schizophrenia research center, the president said, "have conducted many of the tests responsible for the high rate of recovery of patients suffering from these illnesses which account for more than 50 per cent of all the mental patients now in mental hospitals."

He said the program is to improve and recovery for patients suffering from schizophrenia is 60 per cent as compared with 30 per cent 25 years ago, he added.

Expanded Work Planned

According to the Rev. Mr. LaRue, the National Association for Mental Health will now under the guidance of Dr. Matsumi, push an expanded program of research not only on schizophrenia, but also all the mental illnesses. He said to the group that the association will also put new effort into bringing the latest scientific advances to the mental hospitals and community treatment centers that everyone suffering from mental illness can be given the best scientific treatment in time.

He said he said that the National Association for Mental Health is in the process of building an unbreakable team—research, treatment and prevention, and the people—all the same combination that has, all but wiped out polio, and that will concentrate on the conquest of mental illness next.

Baptist Youth Fellowship Officers Selected

Fred Annin, Boise, past president of the Baptist Youth Fellowship state convention, hands the gavel to Thomas Harris, Nampa, new president of BYF following the election of officers Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist church, David Wells, Twin Falls, left, was elected vice president for the central association. Jerry Tanko, not shown, Blackfoot, was elected east association vice president, and Larry Suter, Wilder, first association vice president. Officers were installed Saturday night at the banquet. The annual three-day convention began Friday and will conclude Sunday noon. (Staff photo-photography)

the snowy winter weathers from toddlers to oldsters are glad to own a pair. They are warmer than gloves. Young children love mittens that serve a dual purpose such as little puppets that keep the hands warm, too. With a red palm making a yawning mouth and a white stripe running down the black back and white pom-pom for a tail, one easy to knit pattern resembles little toadstools. Here are directions for the standard puppets for the 7 to 10-year-old. Use No. 3 and 4 knitting needles and 4 ply, red, black and white yarn. Wind a small bobbin of black yarn with about seven and one-half yards and one of white with about four and one-half yards. Beginning with No. 3 needles and black yarn, cast on six stitches. Row in ribbing of knit 2 and purl 2 for 20 rows. Change to No. 4 needles with black yarn. K 2 and tie on black bobbin and K 4. For the next row P 7 with the black yarn bobbin, pick up white yarn from underneath black strand and P 4. Drop white bobbin and pick up black from underneath white strand and P 25. Continue in this manner always picking up new color from underneath strand to prevent holes. When 18 rows from ribbing are completed, place a pin at each side of work.

On remaining stitches, work 20 rows, continuing white stripe then decrease for up as follows: Row 1: slip 1, K 1, K 2 together through back of stitch; K across continuing white stripe to within last 2 stitches. K 2 together through front of stitches, K 1. Row 2: P repeat row one; P one row. The next meeting will be held Dec. 5 at the Gun club.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI. When you say children differ from one another, and often parents of their heads in agreement. But in many of them, disagree. Usually, it seems almost impossible for a father or mother to see each child as he is gifted, mediocre, or dull, as he may be. It seems as though every parent fuss about each child, picturing him as a shining star in some celestial field or other. That is fine, but it makes a parent happy for the moment and gives him respite from duty. But the time comes when the child stands squarely before his child and parents. Something must be done and without loss of time. How the parents must look at his child and try to see him as he is, not as he wishes he could be. The child will do better in the field in which he is proficient, and there are no stars so prominent in something, than he ever is in a field in which he has no or no ability. Lately we have had a run on the engineering classes. True, we need engineers. But how many? How many boys and girls have they? To take such courses? It is to push a pupil who is weak in mathematics into the engineering classes. It is sheer waste of time and the least of the most precious. When a pupil reaches the seventh grade, it is time to take a steady and a clear look at him to see just what he likes doing, what he does best, what interests him most in the activities he spends before him. This one does to avoid assigning him to studies that he cannot master well and to direct him to the courses that will enable him to enter secondary school and college in classes that will profit him. Too many young people have arrived at college entrance time only to discover that they are not prepared for entrance. This is a shocking experience and it can be avoided by taking heed during the seventh grade term. It is best to have a talk with the most experienced of the pupils' teachers. Talk frankly about your hopes, ask for the teacher's opinion on the chance of their children. Plan ahead for the future education of the child within the limits of his abilities. Always be his cheerer or he would not have reached the seventh grade. Be willing to go along with him rather than with the dream you hold for him. What you lose in success, his happiness and his usefulness. But start at the seventh year, don't wait until he is ready for high school before planning for his future education. Angelo Patri offers regular lectures on child and teen-ager behavior and training. If you would like to have his training, call 336-4422. He will be in the city, 4/6, Times-News, P. O. UCLA Fashions Early Lead and Coasts Past Utah for 21-6 Win

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (AP)—Half-back Bill Kimer and Jim Johnson got together on a 65-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter. A punt on Utah's 21-1. A crowd of 13,023, smallest of the big college football games this year, witnessed the contest in Memorial Coliseum. It wound up UCLA's season with 6-5 record. UCLA with one to go has a 5-3-1 record. UCLA played it cozy but safe. The Bruins went under wraps in the second half with their 21-6 lead, unveiling its little secret in view of its big inter-sectional battle next week with the nation's top-rated team, undefeated Syracuse.

Fulmer and Webb To Take Lessons From 1958 Match

LOGAN, Utah, Nov. 28 (AP)—A lot will be said about the last fight between NBA welterweight champion Gene Fulmer and challenger Spider Webb before they meet Friday night in a 15-round nationally televised bout here. Less than 15 months ago, Fulmer, then without the title, came on like a maddened bull in the final rounds and squeaked out a 10-round decision over Webb. That fight was in Salt Lake City.

Allen Paces Florida Past Miami 23-14

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP)—Florida's Dick Allen turned out to be the quarterback who in place of Miami's Fran Currey led the Florida Gators to a 23-14 upset that knocked Miami out of a Orange bowl bid. The loss left Miami with a final record of 6-4 and moved Oregon (8-1) into the Orange bowl game at Miami New Year's day, against previously named Missouri. The Florida Gators played their best game after a mediocre season and Allen was at the best of his long college career that was interrupted three years by military service.

Syracuse Scouts Lured UCLA Team

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28 (AP)—Assistant coaches Roy Simmons and Bill Bell of Syracuse scouted the Utah-UCLA football game today and expressed praise for the UCLA players. Syracuse and the Bruins met here last Saturday. The scouts said that the Bruins have several backs who are capable of going "all the way." They added that UCLA also has several backs who are capable of going "all the way." They added that UCLA also has several backs who are capable of going "all the way."

Buffs Rally In Last Half, Nip Air Force

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 28 (AP)—Colorado quarterback Ole Vidner-ouder led his lights after a miserable first half and pitched two touchdowns in the second half today to defeat Air Force 15-7. Vidner-ouder completed only four of 19 passes in the first half but he fired scoring bullet for 11 yards to fullback Chuck Hartigan. Vidner-ouder fired Jerry Gerten in the second half. The Buffaloes preserved the victory in the final 30 seconds. Air Force quarterback Rick Mayo, who threw for 200 yards, failed to move the Air Force 60 yards down the Colorado line where it was 4-0 at the end.

Air Force Gets in High Gear On Minuteman Development

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (UP)—The air force is moving into high gear on development of the Minuteman missile. The first intercontinental missile that will have a range of close to 8,000 miles.

The air force calls the Minuteman a second generation missile. It means the Minuteman will be a great improvement on the first generation of intercontinental ballistic missiles. Those are the liquid-fueled Titan and Atlas just now becoming operational.

Production and assembly of the new missile will be done in Utah, the air force announced Friday. It said the Thiokol Chemical corporation will produce the powerful first stage booster of the three-stage rocket that the Minuteman could be ready to use by 1955.

Details of the Minuteman are secret, but this much is known: It will be smaller than the Titan and Atlas, small enough in fact to cart around on a railroad car. It won't require the agonizing count-down procedures needed to fire a liquid fuel rocket. It will cost as much as a kid's Fourth of July skyrocket.

Although it will cost plenty, it will be cheaper in the long run than present liquid rockets. Figures are a secret but Pentagon sources indicate that after research and development are completed, each Minuteman will cost about one and one-half million dollars.

It will not require a huge, complicated base, such as is being readied for the Titan and Atlas in California and Wyoming. The Minuteman can be stacked in a relatively cheap underground also, or carried around from place to place.

It will keep it can be stored, ready for instant use, for a year or more, with its fuel already molded into place. It should be more reliable.

This, perhaps, is the solid fuel missile's greatest advantage over the cumbersome, temperamental liquid rockets. The liquid fuels are dangerous to handle, and the rocket cannot be fueled until just before it is ready to fire. And the process is slow and painful, with many delays and setbacks.

The liquid rockets also are tremendously complicated. To get the liquid fuel to the right place at the right time, they are fitted with hundreds of delicate turbines, pumps and electronic equipment. If any of these gets out of whack, the rocket fizzles.

Solid fueled missiles are much simpler. The potent fuel is poured into the fuel chamber in a plastic form. When it hardens into place, it will stay there indefinitely, ready to touch off. Most of the machinery that complicates a liquid rocket is eliminated.

The Minuteman is a big brother to the Polaris, the navy's solid fuel missile. It is intended to be fired from atomic submarines anywhere in the seven seas. But the Minuteman will have a range more than three times that of the Polaris.

Paper Scores Reporter for 'Speculation'

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 28 (UP)—The Polish newspaper Zycie Warszawy called New York Times correspondent A. M. Rosenthal today for recent articles on Poland and East bloc affairs written in Vienna.

Rosenthal, who spent one and one-half years as the Times correspondent in Warsaw, was supposed to have written ago and told his reporting had proved too deeply into internal Polish affairs.

The Zycie Warszawy article called Rosenthal's Vienna reports "speculations allegedly originating from Polish sources."

In order to add credibility to his reports, it continued, he stated "that he could not write this from Poland because he was afraid of being arrested," the article added.

"One must be very naive to believe that in Poland a foreigner, even an accredited correspondent, can be arrested no matter what he intends... well, well, Vienna, the capital of the opera, inspires one with all kinds of ideas. Even with the most ones."

The newspaper mentioned the subject of only one historical article, which concerned Chinese-Soviet relations.

It commented "speculating on alleged chicaneries among countries of the socialist camp is a favorite occupation of a certain category of western publicists. There is nothing new in this. It has been carried on for years."

The newspaper did not mention the subject of another article disclosing the defection to the United States of Polan Col. David Monast, high military intelligence officer who once served as military attaché in Washington. Monast's defection never has been mentioned in the Polish press and officials have refused to discuss or comment on it.

Shah Says U.S. Relations Good

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 28 (UP)—The Shah of Iran, discussing the forthcoming visit of President Eisenhower, said today "Iran relations with the United States have never been as good as now."

The Shah was asked at a news conference what he planned to bring up in talks with Eisenhower. While he did not say Iran would ask for more U. S. military and economic aid, the Shah replied: "The United States never has hesitated in extending help to Iran but our expectations are greater than what we receive."

"It is our duty to safeguard the interests of our country on every occasion and it is definitely of benefit to the United States to see that Iran becomes successful in this aim."

Blind Wrestlers Get Pointers From Coach

Coach Floyd Gerke, wrestling coach at the Idaho school for the blind and blind, Gooding, instructs two wrestlers in techniques of a match hold. Teaching blind and partially blind boys wrestling requires that the coach spend a great deal of time teaching each.

Big Apples Grow in Hagerman Area

Frank Dickerson, Hagerman, pioneer apple grower in that fruit-rich area, holds some of the big, red apples that are characteristic of the Hagerman area. In a comparatively small area around Hagerman there is much commercial fruit growing. Dickerson, who has been in the commercial fruit business since 1929, says the success of the Hagerman orchards is due to the sandy loam soil. He illustrates that during an average year 15,000 bushels of apples, 10,000 bushels of peaches, and 5,000 bushels of pears are grown within a few miles radius of Hagerman. (Staff photo-engraving)

Cluster of Orchards at Hagerman Is Impressive

HAGERMAN, Nov. 28 — Orchardists make a good showing around Hagerman in an average year. Dickerson attributes the sandy loam soil of this particular area and the general interest of the orchard owners to the high output for such a small area. Dickerson has been an active orchard man in the Hagerman area since 1929. He says the orchard interest was started there by an early Hagerman pioneer, the late M. J. Durfee, who started his 120-acre orchard in 1920. Dickerson says the orchards have prospered, except for the occasional poor crop years, and they continue to grow. Growth of the orchards has been a continual process, with the bulk of the commercial orchard planting taking place in the 1920's and 1930's. He says the area is particularly conducive to growing fruit because of the sandy loam soil, which contributes to the long life of a fruit tree. He notes a peach tree will live twice as long in this type of soil as will other fruit trees. He explains the soil that drains the water is better for fruit trees. Soil that holds the water, subsoil, is destructive, Dickerson says. (Continued on Page 21, Column 1)

X-Ray Devices Speed Service at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital

Magic Valley Memorial hospital has just installed $45,250 worth of X-ray equipment that will speed the services of the radiological department and enable it to offer more extensive X-ray services.

During the past week finishing touches on the installation were made by a crew of technicians who have traveled from as far as Denver to install the equipment.

The new devices are some of the best and most modern equipment available and will make the radiological department one of the best-equipped departments in the incipient mountain region.

Two units have been installed in the hospital. The larger is a 500 milliamper unit, with a 150,000 volt X-ray output. The smaller unit, a sort of little brother to the bigger unit, is a 200 milliamper, 125,000 X-ray volt device.

Permits Speed The two units will enable the department to handle patients much faster. The units are in adjacent rooms with the same power source.

The big unit is a General Electric Imperator Mark II and is a combination radiograph and fluoroscope. It is highly automatic and an excellent example of engineering genius. The machine makes the physician's job easier and in many respects does a better job than older models.

One of the big advantages is that the machine can be used as a fluoroscope and X-ray unit simultaneously. This enables the physician to take an X-ray at precisely the right moment, for instance, if he wants to photograph a moving heart at a certain stage. The high speed of the unit—1/120 of a second—can freeze body motions.

Guest Work Avoided This takes a lot of the guess work out of exposing an X-ray plate, virtually guaranteeing a correct exposure each time. This means the patient will get less X-ray radiation and a smaller amount of costly film will be required.

The high amperage of the unit means the unit is faster, requiring less time to take a given picture. This is particularly valuable when taking X-rays of small children who won't sit still, or patients who can't control their bodily movements.

Table Rotates The entire table will rotate 90 degrees in either direction, putting the patient either in a standing or up-ended position. This is a particularly valuable feature when doing myelographic X-ray work which entails injecting a fluid in the spinal column and then rocking the patient from a standing to an up-ended position. The flow of the fluid is traced through (Continued on Page 21, Column 1)

Technician Cecil Watson demonstrates how Magic Valley Memorial hospital's new X-ray unit can be rotated to a vertical position and used as a fluoroscope. One of the big advantages of the new unit is that it can be used as an X-ray unit and fluoroscope at the same time. Margaret Egan plays the part of patient. The radiologist can take an X-ray at precisely the right time by using the fluoroscope and can get a good X-ray of a moving part, such as a heart. (Staff photo-engraving)

Boys at Youth Ranch Enter Into First Winter With Jersey Cattle

RUPEST, Nov. 25 — The Rev. James R. Crowe, superintendent of the Idaho Ranch for Youth, and the boys at the ranch are heading early in the morning and late at night caring for their new Jersey dairy herd. The ranch was given a herd of registered Jersey cows last February. The cattle were donated by various Jersey breeders and all the boys are now accomplished milkers. The cows are milked while they are tied to the corral fence. The biggest need at the ranch now is a loafing shed for the dairy herd. The Rev. Mr. Crowe expects to have a shed constructed by Christmas. He says the Idaho Eagles and the Eagles auxiliary have pledged $3,000 for a loafing shed and construction is expected to start soon. The loafing shed will be the nucleus of an eventual grade A milking set-up. After the loafing shed has been completed, a milking parlor is planned adjacent to it in the future. This will facilitate milking and (Continued on Page 21, Column 1)

'Unfair' Price of Sugar Blamed on Sugar Act Rules

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (UPI)—A spokesman for bankers and industrial sugar users says consumers will pay unfair sugar prices until Congress amends the act of the federal sugar act dealing with the production of quota deficits. Under the act, when areas like Puerto Rico cannot fill their quota, the rest of the deficit is allocated to American sugar beet producers.

Joseph M. Creed, counsel for the American Baker Association, says the beet growers, mostly in the West, could not economically export the sugar to the Northeast. As a result, Creed said, sugar prices in the Northeast continually are being forced up and pulling up with them sugar prices in other parts of the country.

Farmers Wait to See What Future Holds for Price of Cattle and Feeds

Which way are cattle prices headed, up or down? Is the decline temporary or permanent? For some time, the market has been a question that has plagued cattlemen and farmers more than a month and has led to a wait-and-see attitude on everyone's part. Although cattle numbers have been reported high, both in range herds and in the feedlots, no one really believes there is an over-abundance of cattle. Last summer, for example, the cattle market was so tight that many local observers felt that if these animals sold high there was no reason to expect a decline in the fall. As a result, some feedlot operators contracted their cattle for a high price, and some ranchers held out for what they considered to be a higher price in the fall.

The situation is strange, because last year when a drop was predicted by some observers, none developed. This year, early predictions saw 1959-1960 there'd be a decline, but instead it has happened now.

The wait-and-see attitude began in the fall when some feeders of crops this year both in the West. While rains fell, the banks and other lenders couldn't expect any payments on past debts, pending the outcome of the harvest. In this situation, it's difficult to get any loans for cattle this year. The increase of interest rates hasn't helped.

Bigger Pay Bills For Farm Labor Looming in 1960

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (UPI)—Agriculture department economists say the nation's farmers will have to pay a bigger wage bill for hired farm labor in 1960 than in 1959.

The economists said farm labor outlays this year would total 2.6 billion dollars in wages and nearly 500 million in board, housing and other benefits.

Their report that farm wage rates, which rose six per cent this year, would rise again in 1960. Farmers were expected to replace some of their employees with machines next year, but the increase in wage rates was expected to more than offset the reduction in numbers of workers.

Farm Women Go To Outside Work At Quicker Pace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (UPI)—The agriculture department reports farm wives have been taking outside jobs at a faster rate than in previous years.

The report covered the 1950-1958 period during which farm income fell and farm families turned increasingly to outside employment. The department said the percentage of farm wives holding outside jobs increased by one-third, from 17 per cent to 24 per cent. The percentage of farm wives holding jobs outside the home rose by about one-fourth, from 26 per cent in 1950 to 33 per cent in 1958.

Research Papers Presented at Annual Bean Conference Going Into Booklets

Research papers read by specialists at the third annual dry bean research conference in Twin Falls recently have been gathered by Bert Enlow, program chairman, and are being printed in booklets.

These papers, which will be made available to farm groups, cover subjects such as the effects of carbonaceous materials like grain straws, corn cobs, sawdust and sucrose, with sucrose also reducing plant emergence. This may explain, in part, the slow start beans have in beet rows. This information which surprised many of the researchers met at the conference may astonish area farmers.

Nitrogen Added. In Magic Valley bean growing areas, the practice has increased of adding large amounts of available nitrogen, 100 units to the acre, to the straw before it is plowed in the fall. If a bean crop is anticipated the next year, however, this practice increases the nitrogen matter in the soil. However, the study is still incomplete, and other observations point out that alfalfa hay, while increasing early root infection, reduced the total damage by the end of the season. Also, while the carbonaceous material reduces early damage, no advantages were detectable by the end of the year.

Root Rot Discussed. Root rot was the most widespread disease, with wilt and wilt-like symptoms and rhizoctonia fungi reported. In alfalfa hay, where these materials are present in the soil, there is an earlier infection, an increase of seed decay, and the damping off.

Work with fungicides also was described and areas of promise pointed out to other researchers. Wyoming experimenters found that by using a combination of fungicides and gibberellin, the growth stimulant, root rot was reduced significantly. They also found that Pinto 111 was highly resistant to root rot infections in their soils.

The report stated also that contents of dry beans from healthy plants contained more crude protein and amino acids than from plants infected by strong pathogens. Idaho reports were based on building resistance to early rot and common bean mosaic by plant breeding programs, and also to the effect of irrigation on the quality of the beans.

Farmer Working Ground Just Like It Was Spring

Just a few miles east of Twin Falls, a farmer is working his ground as though it were the first days of the end of November.

As every farmer can visualize, the first days that will dry off next year are to be dug, and the last will be made the corrugates. Arrington figures that he will pull roller-catch harrows sloped down—and drag the ridges into the corrugates in the spring.

As the harrows drag the ridges down, the dried crusted chunks will be taken to cook beans. Under utilizing the corrugates, and the last will be made the corrugates. Arrington figures that he will pull roller-catch harrows sloped down—and drag the ridges into the corrugates in the spring.

Arrington said, "I'm not one to go to experiments and be mean just that, although to the farmer who drives by the land just a few days before he starts to work, the preparation may look experimental."

Arrington explains he is trying to extend his beet growing season by working his ground now the way farmers do at Caldwell, where the average tonnage is higher than in this region. The plan was furnished by the allied-sugar company, Twin Falls.

The idea is to get the ground completely ready now so he can jump in with his plow as soon as the weather turns favorable for seed planting. Competition by snows and rain will not be as severe a problem as it may seem, according to the idea worked out by Arrington, and the beet company agronomists after much study at Caldwell.

Gooding State School Wrestling Team Counts Success in Three Years

This is the wrestling team for the department of the blind at the Idaho school for the deaf and blind, Gooding. This is the third year the school has had a team and the boys have been rather successful in past years. Last year Bob Caron and Eugene Shaffer won second in state competition. From left, boys are Lonnie Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Jansen, Hazelburg; Danny Cammack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Cammack, Hazelburg; Lee Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Robinson, Hazelburg; Bob Caron, son of Mr. Francis Caron, Wallace; Paul Bens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bens, Boise; and Gerald Firklin, son of Mrs. Vardella Firklin, Boise. Team members and the coach are looking forward to winning some state championships this year. (Staff photo-enlarging) able to get only five students for the team because of the small enrollment. Last year they had six students, and this year the team will probably number six.

Farmer says this is a disadvantage for them. They don't have enough boys for inter-team matches and can't produce the normal 18-member wrestling team. Some schools hesitate before they will travel any distance to wrestle only six boys. Consequently, the Gooding school has to do much of the traveling.

Interest in the team is high. It has given the blind students a competitive sport; increased their interest in school, and given them more outlet for their physical energies. This year there will be letter writers awarded team members.
Farmer says, "We think this is the best sport for the blind student. It gives them confidence. They can compete with the sighted boys and it builds their morale. It has helped them scholastically because they are able to take a more active interest in the school and represent it in athletics. And it helps them meet and know other boys around the state."
The parents have taken an active interest in the team, too. Some of them will travel 150 miles just to see their boys wrestle.

The boys work hard at the sport. They practice in a large basement room of the dormitory five days a week. They work out from 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. They start with calisthenics, then hold wrestling drills, and conclude with two or three six-minute matches.
All restwork is done in the hall ways of the dormitory. The totally blind boys are able to sprint the distance of the hallway with their fingertips on the wall. This enables them to know approximately where they are by counting the doorways. They then turn and run the other way. Gerke says he avoids collisions by keeping the boys running in an orderly clockwise direction.
The school is now considering

Problems of Housekeeping On Moon Are Being Studied

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 23.—Lunar trips may be some years away, but scientists are already hard at work on the housekeeping chores you'll have when you get there.
Dr. James G. Gaume, director of space medicine at the Martin company's Denver division, and planning specialist Dandridge M. Cole have been busy on a "lunar house simulator" for two years.

The simulator, says Dr. Gaume, will duplicate as nearly as possible living conditions on a lunar base, with all the special equipment and installations earthlings will need.
It is to be a neat, self-sustaining package that would shelter a group of five moon colonists with every modern convenience enjoyed on their own planet.
Cole points out that the inconvenience of living in a sealed structure on the moon shouldn't be overestimated.
"Many city dwellers spend all most their entire lives indoors," he says, "even the suburbanite may spend 90 per cent of his time in his air-conditioned house, office or automobile."

deck of the inner chamber. The median deck would contain a laboratory, animals for food and more plants for gas exchange and food. Living quarters for the five-man crew would be on the lower deck. The base of the sphere would contain tanks, pumps and mechanical equipment.
"When operating, the lunar housing simulator will include a closed, self-sustaining ecological system, including humans, animals and plants," explains Dr. Gaume. "Such a closed system will be necessary on the moon, where all materials will have to be transported from Earth."
"Energy for the various processes in space will be derived from solar or nuclear sources."
The house would contain approximately 2,000 square feet of floor space. It would have a living room, bunk beds, a kitchen, animal cages, even a television set.
The occupants would grow their own food and raise their own animals for meat. Fish for seafood would be stocked in tanks.
Alaska has eight mountains higher than any mountain in the old 48 states.
Green plants, for gas exchange and food, would occupy the upper

Wood River's Fire Unit Will Elect Officers

SHOEBONE, Nov. 22.—Commissioners for the Wood River fire protection district will be elected Dec. 7. Voting will be at the Wood River center Orange building on Northwest Shoebone. Polls will be open from noon until 7 p.m.
All three commissioners' terms expire at this time. Two new officials will be named for four years and one for a two-year term.
Appointments made by the original commissioners were approved by the county commissioners in an election after the club was formed last year.
Those who were appointed and have served since that time are B. B. Kelly, chairman; Keith Jackson and Louis Race. Jackson served as clerk.
A used fire truck was purchased from another locality this year, on a time payment plan, and is housed in Shoebone. The Shoebone volunteer fire department mans the truck on its call into rural areas.
Hopes of people in the Northwest district are to have a truck located near the district.

New X-Ray Unit Installed at Hospital Is Mobile

Cecil Watson, chief X-ray technician at Magic Valley Memorial hospital, demonstrates the new X-ray machine installed recently in the hospital. This is the largest of two new units. It is a 500 millimeter unit, with a 150,000 X-ray output. Watson demonstrates

Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Gets New X-Ray Devices to Speed Service

The X-ray unit will rotate and get a patient in a standing position. It is valuable for stomach X-ray work, particularly when searching for ulcers.

Another feature of the unit is that the X-ray tube, mounted on a large overhead track that enables it to be moved all over the room, has an adjustment on it that permits the physician to control the size of the area through which the X-rays pass. Older units usually had set sizes. This feature permits the physician to select very small areas, such as a gall bladder, and concentrate the rays in this portion only. This results in a sharper image on the film and limits the amount of radiation through the patient.

The easily moved X-ray tube will be handy for accident victims or patients who are awkward to move from a stretcher or bed. They can be brought to the room and photographed on the stretcher or in their bed.

Another feature of the unit that distinguishes it from the average device is the orthograph attachment. This permits the physician to take an X-ray of a body section, or a thin section of that portion of a body. A normal X-ray results in a picture of the entire cross-section of the operating room. This will enable surgeons to X-ray patients while an operation is in progress. Such a unit would be particularly useful when operating for gall stones, elusive little things that are difficult to find without X-ray. The unit would cost $7,113.

Another unit they hope to purchase when funds are available is a scierograph, a $7,000 unit, which would enable physicians to take X-ray photographs of the vascular system when working with a heart or lung patient. The machine traces the path of a fluid injected in the arm and rapidly photographs the course of the patient's blood through his arm, heart, lungs, and back into his outlying vascular system.

John C. Calhoun resigned as vice president of the United States after he was elected to the senate in 1852.

Now the hospital administration is looking forward to the day when they can afford to expand their X-ray equipment and provide even more and better services.

The hospital administrator, Mrs. Irene Oliver, says the administration eventually would like to install an overhead X-ray unit in

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT "Keep Busy, Keep Young" Is Motto for Mrs. McClusky, 83, Early Buhl Pioneer

Buhl, Nov. 28—Mrs. Louise McClusky, 83, is an early pioneer of Buhl, who has kept young with her motto for living, "keep-busy, keep-young."

Mrs. McClusky was born Oct. 20, 1876, at Ann Arbor, Mich., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Altmendler. Both parents were from Germany. She was the fourth child in a family of six. All eight sisters and one brother are still alive.

Plano Maker
Her father was a piano maker, and the whole family was musical. Mrs. McClusky, who loves music, would walk one and one-half miles to take music lessons and used to sing in a quartet composed of her sisters.

She became a milliner at the age of 18 and worked at this trade for 10 years. Desiring more education she went to night classes at the YWCA and studied literature, art and history.

In 1902 she moved to Ogden, Utah, for a brief period, serving as manager of a millinery store there. Upon her return home she was married to the late Dr. C. R. McClusky, who was attending the University of Michigan, studying to be a doctor of medicine. The couple were married at the home of her parents on Dec. 23, 1903.

Lived in Michigan
They made their home for one year at Mackinac Island, Mich., then moved to Boulder, Colo. and lived there two years while Dr. McClusky finished his education. Mrs. McClusky was interested in her husband's work and used to read and study his books with him. Upon his graduation she followed him to Santa, Ind. In 1905, a lumber-camp town, where they owned and operated a small hospital. Mrs. McClusky had anxious moments as the doctor would have to treat patients, carrying a lantern to ward off wild animals.

Because of the doctor's health they returned to Ann Arbor for a short time, coming west to Buhl June 21, 1908, where her husband set up his practice again. Dr. McClusky also served as mayor of Buhl for six years.

They love children but were unable to have any, so they assisted several youngsters to further their education and give them a better start in life.

Adopted Children
Finally on July 20, 1920, they officially adopted four youngsters, all of the same family. They have two daughters, Sara and Ruth and two sons, Robert and David.

The children were taught by the McClusky to share with others and assist those in need, whenever possible. Dr. McClusky died Nov. 17, 1908. Mrs. McClusky has raised the children well upon Mrs. McClusky.

In 1929 depression struck the McClusky to share with others and assist those in need, whenever possible. Dr. McClusky died Nov. 17, 1908. Mrs. McClusky has raised the children well upon Mrs. McClusky.

Received Degree
Both daughters received their teacher's degree. Sara, now Mrs. Fred Spielmann, lives at Buhl; Ruth is Mrs. Luther Moore living at Irion, and David, now in the father's footsteps is a doctor of medicine practicing in Twin Falls, Idaho, who is making the armed services his career, having served in it more than 18 years, is stationed in Germany. Mrs. McClusky also has eight grandchildren. The children and grandchildren have a custom of spending Christmas at Mrs. McClusky's home.

In 1942 Mrs. McClusky was runner-up for Idaho's "Mother of the Year" and was presented with a certificate of life membership in the American Mothers Chapter of Idaho.

Active in Church
Mrs. McClusky is an active member of the Buhl Presbyterian church, having joined the church July 18, 1908. She is the oldest living member of the church. In 1909 she helped organize a Missionary society and served as its president several times.

In 1913 she was elected president of the Presbyterian church of Southern Idaho, serving in this post until 1916. From 1938 to 1941, she was state president of the Synodical for the Presbyterian church in Idaho. She also attended the first national meeting of Presbyterian women in Buckle Hill, Penn., in 1930 as an Idaho representative.

Honorary Membership
She was presented an honorary membership in the national board of the Presbyterian church in 1954 she was honored in a special service and presented a pin and certificate, making her an associate of the board of education of the Presbyterian church in United States.

that the McClusky home was dismantled in 1939, to make room for the site on which the postoffice was built.

Mrs. McClusky enjoys landscaping and gardening. She took a correspondence course and has sent a certificate from the American School of Landscaping. She has been in a class in painting at the Buhl high school and assisted with landscaping the Buhl city park.

Given Violet Seeds
In 1918 when she was presented violet seeds from France, she raised the flower and has sent the seeds throughout Idaho, as well as planting them along highways wherever she could do so. She has been an active member in the Garden Friends of which she has served as president.

She was president and helped organize the first Civic club in Buhl. She is a member of the Order of Eastern Star and a past member of the Tuberculosis association. She served on the board of the adult council for the "Y-Teens," a branch of the YWCA.

Mrs. McClusky has been asked to keep busy with her many hobbies which include fashioning jewelry and placards for the Y-Teens. The placards are made of small sea shells tinted in soft pastel colors and placed against stiff paper which she can make flowers appear unbelievably lifelike.

Makes Reproductions
The delicate embroidery Mrs. McClusky has been able to make lifelike reproductions of many domestic and wild flowers. In addition to placards she makes jewelry such as brooches and earrings which she can make to match any ensemble. All of her designs are original.

She does delicate embroidery work on pillowcases, which are all original patterns made and delivered from all types of materials. Like all other artists, she has a signature—a four leaf clover—which is worked into a design in some place on her work.

Mrs. McClusky keeps busy with her hobbies making things for her friends and relatives which also includes making hats which she does on her own. She has a millinery work. Another of her hobbies is collecting antique vases. Several of her collections are more than 100 years old.

Brood Stock Produces Half Cocks, Half Hens

Young pheasant abundance determines the level of hunting pressure each year. Brood stock usually produces a new generation of half cocks, half hens. When the land has as many as it can hold, the surplus has to die.

In some areas—hence the hen hunt was canceled. At the same time, upping the bag limit from three to four cocks does not increase the pheasant kill to an equivalent amount.

Question of Crippled Birds Is Posed - After End of Valley Pheasant Season

One of the many questions in hunters' minds when the shooting day or hunting season ends is "How many birds did I wound during the hunting season?"

Although time-consuming and not entirely free from error, it was at large land mass. Stokes studied every phase of pheasant management during those years.

Questions on 1959 Ringneck Pheasant Season Answered by Game Department

BY JIM HUMPHREY Idaho Fish and Game Department Regional questions have been posed regarding the 1959 Idaho ringneck pheasant season.

In the future as populations warrant, it is pertinent to remember that every year pheasants breed and produce a number of young pheasants—half cocks and half hens.

Such a study would have to take into account the number of birds that were shot on the land, whether hunters used dogs, experience of hunters, hunter and bird density and many other factors.

Blake says that in an area such as Magic Valley, where the average number of birds per acre is relatively high, the crippling losses probably would be lower.

1. Why was the pheasant season canceled last year? The spring nesting normal production occurred. Idaho had just gone through two excellent pheasant reproduction years.

The question, "Why did the commission pick a poor pheasant year to up the bag and possession limit?" is not the first year for a possession limit consisting of two daily bag limits.

With the exception of a few months, Stokes spent the entire season in the field studying the management of the pheasant population. He points out that total crippling losses tended to decrease.

Expired Cards Mean Money to Library

Arthur DeVolder, Twin Falls librarian, holds one of the borrower's cards issued by the library, pointing to the metal plate attached to the card. These cost the library about 10 cents apiece and he is currently trying to recover about 3,000 expired cards that are floating around the county. The combined value of the plates is $300 and, since they can be reused, it would save the library a great deal of money if holders of expired cards would either send in old cards or bring them when they want to renew them. (Staff photo-gravure)

3,000 Persons Costing Library Money For Overdue Books and Expired Cards

Three thousand persons are costing the Twin Falls public library a good deal of money each month by not returning books and cards on time. The library is having trouble tracking many individuals who have books overdue and who have expired library cards. The average borrower probably doesn't realize how much of an expense this is to the library.
