State Agricultural Aide Says No Poultry Feed in Idaho Contains Hormone

BOISE, Dec. 12 (AP)—Idaho's agricultural commissioner said today that as far as he knows no poultry feed containing the growth stimulant condemned by federal authorities has been used in Idaho. The federal food and drug administration has warned against the use of diethylstilbestrol in poultry feed. It said it may cause cancer.

"I can tell," said Stanley Trenthall, state commissioner of agriculture, "none of this material was used in any poultry feeds sold in Idaho. If any individual grower used this material we have not been informed of it."

Trenthall and State Health Administrator Terrell O. Carver issued in an earlier statement that they do not want to worry about using poultry—they had on hand.

They said the FDA had warned that diethylstilbestrol is used in some poultry in this area, says John Bertie of Bertie's Poultry Farms.

He made the comment Saturday following a federal food and drug administration warning that diethylstilbestrol is a potent carcinogen and that it should be labeled under federal laws, Bertie said. "It would appear on the label."

None Used

Carver said the federal reports indicated the industries are taking steps to assure that consumers of poultry are not eating poultry in full confidence.

U.S. to Take Treated Fowl From Market

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The federal government today announced that it will take from the market all poultry treated with diethylstilbestrol, a hormone which has been found to cause cancer in test animals.

Less than one per cent. of the nation's poultry have been treated with the hormone, on a basis of premium-priced birds called "caponics." However, not all caponics have had diethylstilbestrol.

The agriculture department was cited Friday that it would withdraw poultry if it is found to contain diethylstilbestrol.

Officials said they had no idea how many treated fowl would be affected or what the total cost to the agriculture department would be.

Acting Secretary of Agriculture said that he would not be confused with caponics. "Caponics are surgically unsexed birds which have not been treated with diethylstilbestrol."

Caponics were treated with diethylstilbestrol in the same manner as the five other characteristics.

Harter to Get icy Welcome By Diplomats

PARIS, Dec. 12 (AP)—U.S. criticism of the resignation of French military policies today insured a icy welcome for Secretary of State Charles A. McNamara when he arrives for preliminary talks before the foreign ministers meeting in Paris today.

McNamara is expected to arrive in Paris today. He had planned to fly to London, where he will remain until he returns to Washington.

Harter said before leaving Washington he will press NATO members to support their military policies.

NEWS BULLETINS

NEW DELHI, Sunday, Dec. 11 (UPI)—President Eisenhower took today a flight from New Delhi to the people of rural India. The American chief-of-state was up before 8 a.m. to continue over an 11-hour whirlwind round of travel and has been in the city for almost 10 days.

HALIFAX, Dec. 12 (UPI)—A Royal Canadian navy plane crashed over the bow of the British battleship in the Atlantic ocean today, killing all four crewmen aboard the plane. The plane, a twin-engine carrier-based submarine patrol and attack aircraft, was taking off from the carrier in a routine exercise about 200 miles off Halifax.

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Dec. 12 (UPI)—Cypriotes tomorrow will elect a president to govern them when they become an independent republic Feb. 18. More than 228,000 islanders are expected to vote after two weeks of heated campaigning in which political debates often were followed by fist-fights.

Settlement Is Made for Council's Post

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 12 (AP)—A compromise agreement was reached tonight ending the East-West deadlock over filling a vacancy in the U. N. security council. It was agreed that a Turkish candidate would split a communist Polish and U. S. two-year term with Poland serving the first year. The agreement was disclosed by U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge after a conference which included representatives of the Soviet Union and two contesting countries and Victor Andres de Peru, president of the general assembly. Earlier the general assembly approved unanimously a plan for giving the United Nations a role in the peaceful exploration of outer space.

The assembly approved a U. S. Soviet plan setting up a new U. N. study group on outer space. It had been recommended earlier in July by the assembly's political committee.

The assembly failed to approve a new Asian-African resolution urging international French-Algerian talks for ending the 5-year-old rebellion in Algeria. The vote was 30-22 with 20 abstentions, which fell short of the required two-thirds majority. The U. N. vote was abstained on the resolution.

But even with Algeria disposed of, an agreement was still hours away.

Agreement on outer space was reached in approval of a resolution setting up a U. N. study committee to study international cooperation in the peaceful uses of outer space.

Oliven representation on the committee were seven communists, five neutrals and 12 countries from the West or allied with them.

The pattern for the agreement was similar to that which produced a similar U. N. agreement on a disarmament resolution earlier in the session.

Probably the largest crowd ever assembled in Twin Falls, an estimated 20,000 persons, turned out Friday night to view the religious parade sponsored by the Twin Falls ministers association. Record Crowd Lines Streets to View Initial Christmas Parade

A record crowd estimated at 20,000 persons jammed Twin Falls streets Friday night to witness the first religious Christmas parade in the city. The parade, consisting of nine church choirs and 22 floats, enacted God's dealings with man from the creation to the ascension of Christ. Live human and animal models were used to carry out the theme, "Put Christ back in Christmas."

The hour-long spectacle, conceived and carried out to emphasize the religious implications of Christmas, seemed to leave a deep impression on the thousands and was termed a high success by the sponsors. The only dissenting comment voiced was that the parade moved too slowly, exposing the throng to the chilly December weather longer than necessary.

Otherwise, spectators appeared cheerful and seemed to enjoy the parade. Floats gave evidence of painstaking care extended by their construction and the continuity of the unfolding story left no doubt that many hours of planning had gone into the project.

The parade committee composed of the Rev. Paul E. Kenny, minister of the Valley Christian church; the Rev. Norman E. Stockwell, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension; the Rev. Robert Kelm, minister of the Church of the Brethren, and Rev. Homer Walkup, minister of the Assembly of God, had high praise for the cooperation of everyone who made the parade possible and said they thought spectators would be glad to see it.

Giant Rocket Is Destroyed In Test Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Dec. 12 (AP)—A Titan, America's biggest missile rocket, exploded into a roiling inferno today as it lifted off on its most critical test flight.

The 88-foot intercontinental-range giant barely straggled from its launch pad when it was ripped by tons of burning rocket fuel. The Titan sent an orange ball of fire soaring hundreds of feet into the air.

A cloud of black smoke capped the spectacular scene. When the wind blew the smoke away, the Titan service tower was a fire-blasted mass. None of the 60 members of the launch crew, in a blackhouse 100 yards away, was hurt.

The blowup was almost identical to the last Titan launch on Aug. 14. That missile also rose, but then was consumed in a holocaust.

The August explosion was blamed on a faulty release mechanism. There was no indication of what caused the latest blowup.

Both the ill-fated launches were aimed at igniting the Titan's huge second stage for the first time. If successful, it would have been the most powerful rocket engine ever fired in flight by the United States.

The 41-foot second stage was set to ignite after a 47-foot first stage had reached an altitude of about 77 miles. It all had gone right, the 40,000-pound engine fired, but a dummy warhead to aid launch large 2,000 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

Minister, 44, Takes Presbyterian Post

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nehru held private talks tonight on a range of pressing world problems. More personal discussions between the two will follow Sunday. Tonight's meeting came after a dinner Eisenhower gave for Nehru at the U. S. ambassador's residence. There was no official announcement on the ground covered, but reliable informants said the talks centered on issues ranging from India's border troubles with red China to world disarmament.

After the meeting Eisenhower returned to his suite in the Indian presidential house for the night.

The two had their latest meeting in the president's suite last week. It was his fourth day of Eisenhower's visit to India, which was a glowing tribute from Nehru to Eisenhower's pilgrimage to the east of peace.

A U. S. official said the three hours of discussion Eisenhower and the leader of the world's most populous democracy have had projected a "renewed cordiality." He declared U. S.-Indian relations at the moment were at the highest peak since India became independent.

M. C. Gharia, Indian ambassador to Washington, said Eisenhower's visit to India will open a new chapter in world history. One such chapter is the meeting of Eisenhower-Nehru meetings so far seems to be an easing of tension between India and the United States. Eisenhower's remarks on boundaries, water rights, and the princely state of Kashmir claimed by both countries.

The Indians are reported to have been assured that U. S. military aid will be granted as long as India is in the anti-communist camp and not a menace to India. The second time in Nehru's repeated statements that there are no problems between India and the United States.

A communique the two will issue before Eisenhower's departure from New Delhi says the two leaders of negotiation rather than force to settle disputes. It also is expected that the two will discuss the means of warding off the annihilation of humanity.

The two leaders are expected to sign a joint communique of affection for Eisenhower for the masses the past three days. The communique is expected to be signed by Eisenhower and Nehru's wife after a Sunday afternoon. (Staff photo—UPI)

Heart Seizure Takes Life of Ted Scott, 53

Ted Scott, 53, Twin Falls county farmer and Idaho state representative, died about 11 p.m. Saturday of a heart seizure at the home of friends in Twin Falls.

Mr. Scott was stricken at the home of his wife, Mrs. Scott, at 400 E. 1st street, where he and Mrs. Scott were with friends. Although Mr. Scott had been ill for several years, his death was totally unexpected.

Mr. Scott lived on a 340-acre farm near Twin Falls. He was president of the Beet Growers association and former chairman of the Idaho State Fair. He was elected to the state house of representatives in 1954 and was chairman of the Idaho State AP and AM. He was a Royal Arch Mason. He belonged to Twin Falls churches, the U. M. W. and the I. O. O. F.

He was born Nov. 23, 1903, and died at his home in Twin Falls, Idaho, Dec. 12, 1956.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Katherine Scott, and three children, Mrs. Gene Sharp, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Lowell White, Whittier, Calif.; one brother, Mr. Fred Scott, Twin Falls, Wash., and four grandchildren.

His father, A. R. Scott, died April 19, 1954, at the age of 80.

Funeral services are pending at a date to be announced.

Woman Is Killed In Idaho Crash

COAMBRIDGE, Ida., Dec. 12 (AP)—A car went out of control today on a road here and over-turned, killing Mrs. Emma L. O'Connell, 41.

The car, a 1955 Ford, was driven by Mrs. O'Connell, who was traveling alone. She was killed instantly.

The car was traveling south on Highway 101 when it left the road and rolled over. The driver was not wearing a seat belt.

The cause of the crash is not yet known. The Idaho State Police are investigating the accident.

Fly to Georgia

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon flew to Albany, Ga., today to spend the week-end with Mrs. Nixon's mother.

Nixon's office said they are visiting Mrs. and Mrs. Nixon's mother, Mrs. Nixon, in Albany, Ga., today. The trip is in a private plane and expect to fly back late Sunday afternoon.

Emigration Eyed

TAIPEI, Formosa, Dec. 12 (AP)—Nationalist China's interior ministry today is studying proposals for emigration of 60,000 Chinese from Formosa to Brazil.

The plan was submitted by eight businessmen, including two former governors of mainland provinces. Brazil long has accepted immigrants who will back out under the plan.

Ike, Nehru Meet, More Talks Slated On World Events

Area Men Suggested For State Court Job

BOISE, Dec. 12 (AP)—Indications pointed today to the naming—probably soon—of a south-central Idaho man as a new member of the state supreme court. Suggested as possible choices are District Judge Charles Scroggin, Gooding, and District Judge J. W. Porter, Pocatello.

The post is vacant as a result of the death last Wednesday of Chief Justice James W. Porter, who lived for many years in Twin Falls. Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who will make the appointment, declined any comment on who he will name.

But there was speculation by informed sources that it is likely Porter will be chosen from the same geographic area from which he came.

Only one vacancy has occurred since the death of Chief Justice Smylie has been governor. He chose a district judge, Henry H. Moore, to fill the vacancy.

It is believed that he again will choose the new justice from among the south-central Idaho area. A suitable one is available.

Scroggin was elected to the state supreme court in 1954. (Continued on Page 2, Column 1)

Appropriate Honored at Local Rites

COAMBRIDGE, Ida., Dec. 12 (AP)—A store Santa Claus in this rural town is named Jack Frost. He has a birth certificate to prove it.

Funeral services for Idaho Chief Justice James W. Porter were held at 3 p.m. Saturday at Reynolds funeral chapel with the Rev. J. W. Porter, Pocatello, officiating.

Funeral services were held at Twin Falls and Boise Saturday for the 72-year-old justice.

Mr. Wood was a man for whom a complete justice was not only a high aim, but a main objective. It was his life.

The Rev. Mr. Wood is brother of the state supreme court and a former Episcopal minister.

Justice Porter, in frail health for several months, died of a heart ailment, treatment of which was complicated by a fall that fractured his right leg a week before his death Wednesday.

The Rev. Mr. Wood recalled Justice Porter's World War I service and the fact that he had been in the military. He had been in the military and had been in the military.

Senator Says Drug Prices Are too High

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Sen. Easton Kefauver, D., Tenn., said today public hearings had demonstrated that drug prices are "clearly too high."

Kefauver is chairman of a senate subcommittee on antitrust and competition. He said his subcommittee will hold testimony about prices, profits and costs of several hundred drugs, largely used by millions of sick people.

Kefauver said testimony showed large manufacturers are selling these drugs below to the government and to foreign sales outlets at prices far below those charged retail druggists and the public.

Kefauver said his subcommittee is interested in the use of patents and licenses to control the distribution of medicines; also in whether exaggerated claims are made about the drugs.

He said his group has evidence that 250 million dollars is being spent yearly for drugs that are no good.

"I want to see that it is not good," Kefauver said, "and that it will seek quicker action to protect the public from quack drugs."

Kefauver said the senate inquiry will resume public hearings about mid-January on another group of drugs. Other sources said this probably would be antibiotics.

A senate investigator said a large drug firm uses only 14 cents worth of raw materials to make a product it sells for 45¢.

Invasion for Paraguay Is Said Quelled

ASUNSION, Paraguay, Dec. 12 (AP)—The government of President Alfredo Stroessner announced today that the "invasion" of Paraguay from outside the country tried to invade Paraguay today but was quelled.

A communique said one group of Paraguayan political exiles had tried to cross the Parana river from Posadas, Argentina, but was intercepted by a Paraguayan naval launch and "great delinquents" threw their arms into the water before surrendering without a fight.

The invaders were seeking to overthrow Stroessner's five-year-old regime.

The F. I. E. L. groups—calling themselves a liberation army—moved in at dawn, but rumors of a conspiracy had spread. Friday night and police-and-troop were on the alert. Government quarters gave an account of the day's events.

One group of 11 insurgents was captured in an assault on the city. By the next day the Parana across the Parana river from Posadas, Argentina, these sources said.

Demo Predicts Poor Returns On Ike's Trip

Demo Predicts Poor Returns On Ike's Trip—A demonstration predicted today for the opening week to the presidential inauguration in Washington, D.C., Dec. 12. It was expected that the United States would avoid serious difficulties in the meeting of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan, and De Gaulle. The demonstrators placed the major share of the blame on France for NATO's current military weakness.

Stevenson took time out from a week of hunting at the Marshall Field plantation to make his comments in an interview with the Savannah (Ga.) Morning News.

"The United States, Stevenson said, is no longer the center of gravity as a world power, thanks to the diplomatic disintegration which has taken place during the present administration.

"In fact," he continued, "things got so bad we had to invite Khrushchev to this country. And now the President has had to go around the world in an attempt to restore our prestige and leadership."

QUEEN SHOPS—LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II has started Christmas shopping. She visited two big London department stores last Sunday and went through the toy department looking for gifts for her young courtiers.

Governor to Tour Strike Torn Town

Governor to Tour Strike Torn Town—Governor Albert Lea, Minn., Dec. 12 (AP)—Gov. Orville Freeman, accused Saturday night by Wilson and company of using troops to aid striking United Packinghouse workers at the firm's plant here, said he will come to Albert Lea Sunday to make a personal inspection of the situation.

He added at a news conference in his St. Paul office that he would not remove the national guard from the plant until "the damage is removed."

Freeman declined comment on Wilson's plan to go into federal court seeking an order forcing the governor to reopen the plant.

Freeman said a company statement accusing him of using the guard to help the strikers was difficult to understand.

"Bloodshed and loss of life is an ever-present and active danger in this dispute," said Freeman, "where this danger is removed, the guard will be removed."

He said he would come here Sunday morning to make a "personal appraisal of the situation." His plans are to meet with citizens representing all viewpoints, the governor said.

Freeman early Friday sent troops to Albert Lea and proclaimed martial law.

Heart Seizure Takes Life of D. Inchausti

Heart Seizure Takes Life of D. Inchausti—Heart seizure took the life of David Inchausti, 64, died at 6 p.m. Saturday at Sun Valley hospital. Mr. Inchausti was taken to the hospital after a heart attack Oct. 9. He was born June 28, 1908, at Acord, Spain, and came to the United States in 1916. For many years he was employed as a ship-repairer and later became foreman of the Drake ranch near Challis. In 1925, Inchausti returned to Spain and on Dec. 30, 1925, married Maria Espinosa Lamigue at Yborningue, Spain. The family lived in Challis, Postville and Yborningue before moving to Hailey in 1950.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are one son, David Inchausti, Jr., attending Gonzaga university, Spokane, Wash.; six daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Abegien, Boise; Mrs. Mary Louise McCool, Gannett; Mrs. Josephine Bledsoe, Bellevue; Mrs. Rose Waldron, Juniper; Inchausti and Inchausti. He is survived by two grandchildren, and two sisters in Spain.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday at St. Charles Catholic church. Mass will be celebrated at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday at the church by the Rev. Jerome O'Connor.

Concluding rites will be in Hailey cemetery under the direction of the McGoldrick funeral chapel. The family suggests contributions to the St. Charles hospital as memorials.

Auditorium Report Is Feature Of Chamber Directors' Meet

William Orange, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, reported on investigations he and Henry Willis made of technicalities that make it possible for the city and school district to construct a new auditorium.

He reported to directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon Friday noon at the Roubidoux hotel Desert room. The Blue Gulch project also was a main topic of discussion. City Manager Joseph H. Lattimore reported on the Kimberly road project meeting.

Orange said he and Willis attended a meeting about three weeks ago with the mayor, the school board and Charles Stark, Idaho Falls Chamber of Commerce, to see how an auditorium might be suitable for Twin Falls. The Idaho Falls auditorium was built in 1922 and 1923 for about $205,000 and seats almost 2,200 persons. Orange said the auditorium is separated from the school building by one inch, which the law permits, and the inch is covered with metal striping. The back half of the auditorium has rooms which are utilized by the high school for classrooms.

Orange said the law will not let the city or other organizations build on school property. The school district in Idaho Falls decided to let the property on which the auditorium was built. The city voted bond levies to supply money to build the auditorium. Orange reported on the proposed Blue Gulch project at Buhl to utilize surplus water that normally goes into Snake river from the Twin Falls tract. The Blue Gulch group, made up of 85 farmers who own land on the proposed project, feels the project can irrigate 20,000 acres. It was found the project would have no effect on the Salmon tract.

New Wendell Chamber Unit Officers Told

WENDELL, Dec. 12 — Eugene Soares was elected president of the Wendell Chamber of Commerce at the Thursday dinner at the IOOF hall.

Other officers elected are Keith Davis, vice president; Mrs. S. K. Bungum, secretary-treasurer, and Ben Morgan and Grant Zollinger, trustees. Each of the trustees will serve two years, replacing Dr. H. F. Holzinger and Douglas Schrank whose terms expired. Holdover trustees include Clyde Petersen, J. Forrest Weaver and Charles Miller.

M. H. Metz, chairman of the nominating committee, reported the action has been taken to amend the chamber bylaws to allow officers to be re-elected for the second consecutive year.

A committee was appointed to try to secure 100 per cent membership for the organization during the coming year. Members are Clyde Petersen, M. H. Metz, Garlan McCulloch, Mrs. J. O. Petersen, Ben Morgan and Mrs. Bungum.

The Christmas decorating committee chairman, Ben Hogan, reported on installation of street lighting and will see about the erection of the Nativity scene. Hogan announced that the lighting will be removed Jan. 3.

The exterior lighting and decorations will be judged for prizes Dec. 18 to 24.

Mrs. Petersen, member of the local recreation unit, reported to the committee on her investigations on estimates of a swimming pool costs. More research will be done on the subject.

The dinner was served by women of the Toketah lodge, Mrs. Dale Gilbert, Mrs. Lawrence Hashman, Mrs. Max Oratzer, Mrs. Nels Christensen and Mrs. William Woods.

Legion's Yule Program Held In Hagerman

HAGERMAN, Dec. 12 — A Christmas program was held at the joint meeting of the American Legion and Legion auxiliary Thursday evening at the Legion hall.

Mrs. Ernest Billard gave a reading, "America's First Christmas Tree." Mrs. Haycock sang a solo, "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," accompanied by Mrs. Clawson; Mrs. Willis Justice read the Scripture of the first Christmas and Christmas carols were sung, accompanied by Mrs. Clawson at the piano.

Vernon Mavencamp, Legion commander, reported renovation of the hall was nearly completed. Enlargement of the Boy Scout rooms, building of a storeroom and concrete walk, installation of new lights in the basement and mahogany paneling in the dining hall are completed, he said.

Painting the interior of the hall is next completion, he reported. All work has been donated by members of the Legion and auxiliary.

During a separate auxiliary meeting it was voted to allow the high school Spanish club to use the hall. An open house for the hall was planned when repainting is completed.

Mrs. Ben Durfee, president, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Adels Kirland gave the opening and closing prayers.

Members of the Legion voted to donate $10 to the Boy Scouts fund drive at their separate meeting.

Refreshments were served at tables decorated with a Christmas theme of greenery.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Durfee, Mrs. J. D. Ellis and Mrs. William Christensen.

100 Go to Mason Turkey Banquet

WENDELL, Dec. 12 — Approximately 100 attended the annual Masonic turkey banquet Thursday evening at the Masonic temple.

Members of Wendell held No. 12, Job's Daughters, refreshment and served the banquet.

Judge Cheron Wax, Twin Falls, spoke on the United Nations. He was introduced by Clyde Petersen, master of ceremonies.

Musical entertainment was presented by the Kala Quatu quintet, vocal soloist Rhonda Munk, Jerome, and pianist Estelna Wilson, Wendell.

Arrangements for the event were made by the Masonic communication, Clyde Petersen, Phil Ellreth and A. J. Dkystira.

2 Fined for Not Having Mirrors

WENDELL, Dec. 12 — Justice of the Peace J. O. Miller fined two men yesterday for operating trucks without rear view mirrors.

Thaine H. Strickland, route one, Hagerman, and Frank Larson, rural Hagerman, were fined $8 and $5, respectively.

Both men were cited by State Patrolman M. J. Bays, Jr.

Briefs Asked In Irrigation Land Lawsuit

BURLEY, Dec. 12—District Judge Sherman Bellwood ordered attorneys for both parties in the Miller-Lorr Lift Irrigation trial to prepare written briefs for submission to him within 30 days after the transcript of oral testimony is filed.

He issued the order after both plaintiffs and defendants rested their cases and made final arguments.

The trial began four weeks ago. During that time the court heard from a parade of witnesses for both sides. The defendants had 28 catalogued exhibits and the plaintiffs about 75.

The case, a consolidation of three separate suits, arose from an authorization of about 4,000 acres to the Miller district on Oct. 9, 1932.

Judge Bellwood yesterday named Judge pro tempore to preside over the Miller case until it is settled in district court. He has announced that he will retire as district judge in January.

Fire Safety List Placed on Trees

SHOESHONE, Dec. 12—Christmas trees on sale from Shoshone will have an attached slip telling fire safety rules in handling the trees during the holidays.

Carol Ross, a North Shoshone several years.

Shoshone BLM Office Lists Range Project Completions

SHOSHONE, Dec. 12.—Through the cooperation of the range users and other agencies, the Shoshone district office of bureau of land management reports the completion of many range improvements and rehabilitation projects this summer.

Since July 1, 1969, 6,500 acres of rangeland have been plowed, 8,000 acres reseeded with alfalfa and wintergrass, 27 stock water reservoirs dug, and eight catiguards and 25 miles of fence built for protection of seeded areas and for better management of the federal range lands.

A survey of forage available for livestock use on the federal range was made in the Hatley area which included approximately 100,000 acres.

Beginning in May, 1969, the Shoshone district intends to spray some 7,700 acres of brush in order to eliminate competition of native grasses. This program has been quite successful on selected areas in the past and has provided much more available livestock feed in these areas, officials report.

A new program of marking location and directional signs was instituted this year.

The signs are made by district personnel and range users. They will identify bureau of land management projects and help the public travel to hunting and fishing spots.

All the projects mentioned here or will have 30 per cent or more cooperation by the range users and other agencies.

For instance, approximately 20 miles of fence was built by range users along U.S. highway 30 from Bliss west to Henderson hill. The materials for this fence were purchased jointly by the state highway department and the bureau of land management.

On a seeding project north of King Hill approximately 100 pounds of bitterbrush seed furnished by the state fish and game department was planted with the

Reminder of Seal Sale Is Given Area

There is still time to buy and use the Tuberculosis association Christmas seal, reminds Mrs. C. J. Sliger, Twin Falls drive chairman. The Christmas seal sale began last month for the 84th year and approximately 9,000 families in Twin Falls county received the seals. Mrs. Sliger said, "For many families it is as natural to put the Christmas seal on their Christmas cards as placing Christmas stockings on gift wrappings," she added.

Mrs. Sliger says the Christmas seal sale makes possible the work of 5,000 local and state associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis association. Some 94 percent of the money collected in Idaho stays in the state. It is used for educational purposes, principally to keep people informed of the dangers of tuberculosis, how it can be detected and checked before hospitalization becomes necessary, she explains.

Christmas seal funds also pay for the mobile X-ray unit being purchased jointly by Twin Falls and six other Idaho Valley counties. Mrs. Sliger says it is hoped the current seal sale will raise enough money to permit wider use of the mobile unit during 1960. The seal sale is the only source of revenue for the year-around tuberculosis program in Idaho, Mrs. Sliger points out.

Plans to begin construction within the next few days of an all-modern restaurant were announced Saturday by the Twin Falls

Livestock Commission company, Inc. The 40-foot by 40-foot building will be of concrete block with a glass front. The restaurant will take up the major portion of the building, with the remaining space to be utilized for restroom facilities and a barber shop or office space. A company official said a manager for the restaurant will be announced in the near future. Complete meals will be served for the convenience of customers transiting livestock trucks and the general public. The building will be located next to the commission company grounds on property owned by the company, Jensen and Ullman contractors, have been awarded the contract for the project.

Shoshone's Gun Club to Select Slate

SHOSHONE, Dec. 12—The Shoshone Rod and Gun club will meet at Memorial hall at 8 a.m. Wednesday to elect new officers and make plans for a membership drive.

After the election barbequed beef will be served along with refreshments by the Tom Walker Distributing company. Howard Knives will furnish the barbequed beef.

Wildlife reports by the Idaho Fish and Game department will be shown by Stanley Larson, conservation officer.

In a roundup report of the past year's activities, officers report the most successful and beneficial project was the sale in handling guns classes. About 25 persons have completed the course.

The final class for 1939 will end with an examination Monday. This class is composed mostly of housewives.

More classes are scheduled next year and emphasis will be on enrollment of high school age students.

Mrs. Nichols, 76, Claimed by Death

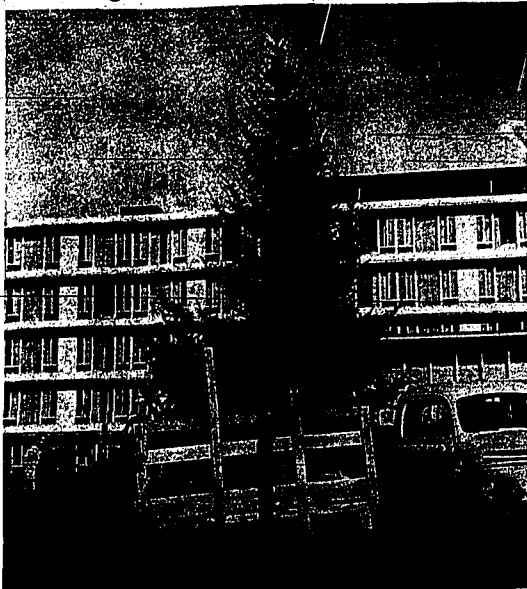

Mrs. Ina Ruth Nichols, 76, 653 Locust street south, who moved to Twin Falls from Gooding in 1937, died Friday at Magic Valley Memorial hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Nichols was born May 24, 1863, at Lincoln Center, Kans., and came to Idaho from Arizona in 1931. Her second husband, Edward Nichols, died in 1932. She was a member of the Buhl Church of the Nazarene.

Surviving are two sons, Guy Staunert, Arizona, and Floyd Staunert, address unknown; a daughter, Leatha Douglas, Ticonderoga, N. Y.; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Drake, Lakeland, Calif., and Mrs. Clara Bray, Sacramento, Calif.; and two granddaughters, Mrs. Don Peterson and Mildred Staunert, both Twin Falls.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Monday at Reynolds funeral chapel with the Rev. George H. Briggs, East Freymont Church of the Nazarene, officiating. Friends may call all day Monday until time of service.

Large Tree Donated to Hospital

This blue spruce donated to Magic Valley Memorial hospital four years ago by Mrs. H. L. Stayer, 1704 Ninth avenue east, was moved to the hospital grounds Friday by a work party of Twin Falls. Grange members Mrs. Stayer donated two evergreens to the hospital in memory of her husband who died July 11, 1933, after spending some time at the hospital. The two evergreens were his favorite trees. Mrs. Stayer says a Grange crew headed by I. T. Crood plans to try moving the large pine Monday or Tuesday. (Staff photo—engraving)

Former Area Resident Dies

WENDELL, Dec. 12—Mrs. Jean Stevens Niccum, 25, Albany, Ore., formerly of Wendell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wolford, Wendell, was killed Thursday in a car accident near Oak Ridge, Ore.

Her husband, John Niccum, and two children, John Lynn, 6, and Caroline, 16 months; and a sister of her husband also were involved in the mishap. The two children were bruised extensively and are still in a Eugene hospital. Niccum and his sister were released.

Mrs. Niccum was born Dec. 29, 1913, at Hagerman. Her family moved to California for a time, but came back to Wendell in 1941.

She was graduated from Wendell high school.

She was married April 11, 1936, to John Niccum in California. Following their marriage they lived at Nyssa, Ore., before moving to Albany, Ore.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday at the LDS Community church, Nyssa, Ore. Last rites will be held at Nyssa.

Reds Report Changes for Negro Policy

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 (AP)—The American Communist party announced today an about-face on long-established Negro policy. The party no longer advocates the formation of a Negro nation within the United States, party leaders said.

The objective now "is to secure to the Negro people with all speed the complete realization of genuinely equal economic, political and social status with all other American citizens."

The action, taken in a resolution adopted at the party's 17th national convention in a Harlem hotel, marks a fundamental change in the line of the American Communist party dating back to 1930, a party spokesman said.

He said the former policy is being abandoned because it smacks of segregation.

Santa Shook As Lad Slugs Him

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 12 (AP)—Ho, ho, ho. And "what's your name my fine young fellow," chorused a part-time Santa Claus in suburban Prairie Village as he boosted a lot onto his knee the other day.

Without a word, the youngster, about 4 or 5 years old, slugged Santa in the mouth, grabbed some candy from Santa's hand and skedaddled.

Santa, who is Jim Dimsal, an art student from Des Moines, had to go to a dentist for repairs to a cracked tooth. His mouth began swelling, so penicillin was administered.

Dimisal had a penicillin reaction and spent Thursday in bed. Friday, he was on his feet but rather uncertain about resuming his part-time job behind the beard.

"That kid shook me," Dimsal said.

Census Plans Reported by U. S. Bureau

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—A couple of do-it-yourself gimmicks to be used in next year's census will save the government considerable time.

The census bureau made public today one of two do-it-yourself forms—a four-page item that will be mailed to the nation's 35 million households late in March.

Householders will be asked to fill out this form before census takers make personal visits late in April. The census takers, officially called the enumerators, then will merely copy down the information instead of asking questions that might be difficult to answer on the spur of the moment.

The bureau tested this advance form last February in two North Carolina counties. It said use of the form had cut the average visit of the census taker to seven minutes from about 15 minutes and produced more accurate information.

Basic questions on the advance form include: names of all residents of the household; address, color or race; date of birth; marital status; number of rooms in the household; whether the dwelling is owned or rented, and whether it has running water, plumbing and cooking facilities.

In addition, census takers will leave at every fourth household a somewhat longer form asking more detailed questions about the dwelling and its residents.

Householders will be asked to fill this out themselves and to mail it promptly to the local census office.

Mrs. Miller, 91, Taken by Death

Mrs. Luluinda J. Miller, 91, died at the Horton nursing home at 7:50 p.m. Saturday after a year's illness.

Mrs. Miller was born Jan. 22, 1868, in Missouri Valley, Ia. She moved to Twin Falls in 1907 from Akron, Ia., and was residing at 229 Harrison street before she entered the nursing home. She was a member of the Christian church.

Surviving are two sons, Roy S. Miller, Redding, Calif., and Richard W. Miller, Twin Falls; two grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Emma Hine, Roman, Mont. Mr. Miller died July 9, 1958.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. Monday at the Reynolds funeral chapel with the Rev. Ernest Hasselblad of the First Baptist church officiating. Final rites will be in the Twin Falls cemetery.

Traffic Reports For Month Poor

BOISE, Dec. 12 (AP)—A bad start for the last month of the year was reported today for Idaho traffic accidents.

Robert B. McCall, state safety director, cautioned motorists about December traffic congestion. He said "Weather conditions are unpredictable, traffic patterns change and drivers are venturing into communities they seldom visit at other times of the year," said McCall.

He noted that five traffic deaths were reported during the first week of the month compared to only two deaths during the same period one year ago.

Faces Life Term

Jacob Gordon, 20, Twin Falls, faces a maximum sentence of life in prison after pleading guilty in district court Friday to lewd contact with a minor boy. He was arrested and charged with the crime by city police on Nov. 26.

Gordon is being held in the county jail while a pre-sentence investigation is being conducted. Judge Theron Ward will set the sentence after studying the report.

Trade Promises in Boise Church

Linda Schwager And R. C. Yanke Exchange Vows

GLENN FERRY, Dec. 12—Linda Louise Schwager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Schwager, Hammett, and Ronald C. Yanke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Yanke, Boise, exchanged wedding vows in the Boise First Presbyterian church at 7 p.m. Dec. 4. Dr. Frank L. Henrick performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white tulle and lace gown fashioned with a chapel train, sabine wreath and long sleeves. Her finger-ring veil of imported French illusion was held in place by a half-hat of sequins and pearls, belonging to her sister. She carried a cascade of chrysanthemums and carnations. She wore a single strand of cultured pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. James O'Neil, aunt of the bride, Los Angeles, Calif. She was gowned in a white tulle and lace gown, fashioned in princess style with a large butterfly bow of pale satin in front. Her bride's attendant, Miss Evelyn was held by a crown of blue sequins and she carried a bouquet of red chrysanthemums. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sheldon Yanke and Helen Wolfgang, both Boise. They were gowned identically to the matron of honor.

Elizabeth and Katherine Hill, 4-year-olds, twin girls, dressed as flower girls. Best man was Sheldon Yanke, brother of the bride, and ring bearer was Carl Nicholson and John Yanke, Doris Olson, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. Evelyn Jones. The wedding music was furnished by the wedding music.

The reception for 800 wedding guests was held in the Banquet center, Boise, with a buffet supper and a wedding dance. Mrs. Otto Neuen, Hammett, served the three-tiered wedding cake. The bride and groom were decorated. She was attended by her daughter, Dorothy, Dianne Hill, bridesmaid, and the young hostesses. Mrs. Schwager chose a cocoa brown afternoon dress with brown and pink accessories. Her bride wore a white tulle and lace gown. The next regular meeting will be held Jan. 4 at the home of Mrs. J. B. Swisher, 223 Dubois avenue.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

In true Christmas tradition the children should receive three gifts: one for the soul, one for the body and one for the spirit. The gift for the soul is always a book. The good book will last for a lifetime. The gift for the body is always a new pair of shoes. The gift for the spirit is always a new book. There are a few modern works that are good Christmas gifts and I would like to call attention to them. "Favorite Poems Old and New" by Helen Ferris is as fine a collection of the best of our language and our literature. Any child or young person who is not familiar with it loses at least in his education the best of our language.

There are a few modern works that are good Christmas gifts and I would like to call attention to them. "Favorite Poems Old and New" by Helen Ferris is as fine a collection of the best of our language and our literature. Any child or young person who is not familiar with it loses at least in his education the best of our language. The second book is a collection of stories, old and new, also old and new. "Favorite Poems Old and New" by Helen Ferris is as fine a collection of the best of our language and our literature. Any child or young person who is not familiar with it loses at least in his education the best of our language. The third book is different. It is written for the use of the adolescent boys and girls in the language they can readily read and understand. It deals with the problems of the daily life of the young people meet and offers suggestions and advice they can readily accept. This is the sort of book that makes the impression on young people that parents long to make and find so difficult to transmit. It is not too high priced for any interested parent or grand relative can easily afford it to the best-loved child. It was written by Virginia Weaver Woodruff, and is called "Living Along in the Teenage World."

Books should be a part of every child's life. The radio and TV are not enough. The books have a longer life and more realistic basis being in every family library through their own reading.

T. F. Miss and Davidson Mark December Date

Candy-Wreath Is Change For Advent Observance

visits from friends are always enjoyable at Christmas time. Give them a true holiday greeting by making your doorway say "Welcome" in a different way. The Christmas wreath dates back to the sixth century when the Roman Catholic church first used the four Sundays preceding Christmas as Advent season and green wreaths hanging on doors marked Advent.

There are many variations of this time-honored tradition. One might be a wreath of gaily wrapped candies with a pair of children's blunt-tipped scissors attached. This is a novel way to say "Merry Christmas" to the postman, paper boy, or any visitor knocking at your door. The scissors makes it obvious they are to help themselves to a holiday treat. The family of Mrs. Gaylord Toler demands these every year and they are simple and easy to assemble. Mrs. Toler begins by cutting a piece about six inches long from the bottom of two ordinary wire coat hangers and joining the ends together.

She chooses the more flexible hangers because they more easily form into circles. She uses two together to make a sturdier base for the wreath. After the hangers are wrapped and the candy in place, one hanger alone might pull out of shape. After making two matching circles of the same size join together with masking or adhesive tape. Then cover with enough paper to give the circle body, taping as necessary. Mrs. Toler uses about three one-half pages of an old newspaper, folded into fourths. This is then wrapped with aluminum foil and she finds six-inch widths easier to manage, crumple, mold and twist firmly around the paper-covered circle. An unlimited number of bright-yourself, the wreath doesn't last long, especially when friends of the Toler's three children, Jeff, 11; Tam, 9, and Lisa, 5, drop in.

Sheepmen at Burley Plan Yearly Meet

BURLEY, Dec. 12 — "All sheepmen of Cassia county whether a member or not are urged to attend the annual Cassia Livestock Marketing association meeting to be held at the Elks hall at 10 a.m. Tuesday," states County Agent Glen Boddy.

In addition to the regular meeting a program has been planned that will be of special benefit to all sheepmen, he said.

Wade Wells, Boise, extension animal husbandman representing the University of Idaho, will speak on feeds. Mel Clear, Boise, secretary of the Idaho Wool Growers association, will talk on the activities of the association. Robert Hays, Twin Falls, of the agricultural research service, will speak on the problems of poisonous plants.

Burley's Rifle Club Popular

BURLEY, Dec. 12 — "The response to the Junior Rifle and Pistol club is most heartwarming," stated Mrs. W. H. Russell, club secretary and official, after 35 boys turned out Thursday.

Twenty-five club members target practice. She explained that only 10 boys at a time could shoot, when the others wait their turn eagerly.

Those helping with the club are William Majors, Ed Miller and Hal Taylor.

"These men are doing a wonderful job with these boys," Mrs. Russell said. "We all want to express our thanks to the Burley police department which over a building furnishes the rifles and pays for its upkeep," she added.

Some parents came out Thursday to watch the boys. Arrangements will have to be made for transportation for most of the boys.

A treat is planned for the boys next Monday, and they will not meet during the holidays.

Richfield's PTA Plans Yule Party

RICHFIELD, Dec. 12 — Plans were made for a Christmas observance for Thursday's PTA meeting when the executive board met this week.

Mrs. Clifford Davley, program chairman, said the speaker will be the Rev. Ralph A. Lawrence, Richfield Methodist minister. Special song numbers will be presented by the Richfield chorales.

Mrs. Roy Thakka, district vice president, Shoshone, and Mrs. Ben Walker, district treasurer, District, made official visits to the executive board meeting. Mrs. Thakka answered questions and discussed the exceptional teachers scholarship fund and study group.

Mrs. Manuel King was elected membership chairman, replacing Mrs. Eugene Padden who resigned.

Mrs. Davley, Mrs. Ralph Riley, Jr. and Mrs. Grant Flavel were named to the life membership committee.

Heyburn Grange Plans for Work

HEYBURN, Dec. 12 — Executive Westland Grange members discussed work to be done on the hall basement when they met Tuesday.

A Christmas program will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Santa Claus will appear and the children will get treats.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Steve Ucola, and Mrs. Edwin Apsa.

Final Rites Held For Mrs. Cahala

JEROME, Dec. 12 — Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Cahala were held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Catholic funeral chapel with the Rev. Ralph Pobergoff officiating.

Mrs. Jack Russell was soloist and Mrs. Marshall Pater pianist.

Palbearers were Clyde Kuder, Truman Lamson, Del Buckala, Guy Fitzgerald, George Miller and Melvin Wild.

Final rites were held in the Jerome cemetery.

Orchestral association. At 16 years, he was the youngest soloist ever engaged on the Telephone hour's coast-to-coast broadcast. At 17, he recorded the violin sound track for MOM Mollon Picture company, and has recorded many numbers since then.

Robin has appeared with the New York Philharmonic orchestra 63 times. His current season's schedule includes his eighth trans-continental North American tour, fourth extensive European tour, and second tour of Israel. His fifth European tour is scheduled for March.

Animals Are Involved in 3 Car Mishaps

SHOSHONE, Dec. 12 — Three automobile accidents involving animals have been reported to the local sheriff's office. A dog caused one and the other two involved a cow and a calf.

At 6:30 p.m. Thursday, five and one-half miles north of Shoshone on U.S. highway 93, Frank Thistler, Twin Falls, struck a dog, causing it to lose control of the 1938 Chevrolet pickup truck at the edge of the road. It overturned into the borrow pit.

About $200 damage resulted to the vehicle. The dog had to be shot. The owner of the dog has not been determined.

At 7:10 a.m. Thursday, four miles east of Dietrich, Roy McDonald, Shoshone, driving a 1931 Oldsmobile, struck a white-faced calf. The calf belonged to Jack McClure and weighed about 400 pounds.

The calf was not killed outright. Damage on the Oldsmobile was estimated at $240.

This third accident occurred on U.S. highway 93. A 1930 Plymouth belonging to Earl Olesky, driven by Laurence T. Breeding, Twin Falls, struck a young heifer belonging to Earl Olesky. About $200 damage resulted to the Plymouth.

Milk Hauled to Creamery in 500-Gallon Trailer

After the morning's milking, this 500-gallon milk tank is uncoupled in the barn from a compressor unit and then hauled to the local creamery, thereby saving about $150 each month. The milk in the tank is cooled to 45 degrees within 15 minutes after 350 cans are milked out. The outfit belongs to Mervin Johnson, Richfield, Idaho.

Richfield Farmer's New Dairy Setup Incorporates Novel Features, Ideas

RICHFIELD, Dec. 12—The new dairy setup on the Monte Johnson farm at Richfield is everything people said it was.

The barn is spacious and large. The herringbone system uses six cows on each side above the central pit. It is ultra-modern, and presently 80 Holstein cows are milked into a bulk tank in an hour and a half. Soon to additional cows, as they freshen, will be added to the string, and some tentative plans are being discussed to enlarge the herd to several hundred.

What some admirers have neglected to relate are the striking "home-brewed" ideas incorporated in the entire layout both inside the barn and outside in the yards.

Johnson is perhaps best known as a rancher and as "Idaho Grassman of the Year" for 1957. Operating his 125-acre farm on the edge of town, he also has 2,000 acres of land planned to dryland graze. He was the first in Magic Valley to plant Latax orchardgrass back in 1953. He claims it doesn't get mature by cutting time.

He uses this ranchland to run usually about 400 Holstein calves. It is the end of April and the first of August, advocating the policy that young stock should be taken off grass after green stuff has been eaten.

"This year, however, we will run more than 100 Holstein calves on the range, plus additional white-face stock he will purchase in the spring and sell for feeders late next summer."

This experience with livestock over the years and the Pandora's box of ideas implanted between Johnson and his two partners in the dairy enterprise help explain the many new features found in the layout completed this fall.

His partners are Curtis Parko, his son-in-law, whose prime responsibility is handling the dairy cows, and Linley (T.M.) Sanders, his brother-in-law, who has many novel ideas that he works out with a welding torch.

Among the most striking features at the barn is the bulk tank mounted on a low trailer built mostly by Sanders. Each day a vertical garage door is lifted and the pickup truck hitched to the trailer to haul the milk, still in the bulk tank, to the local creamery. This plan saves about $150 a month in hauling costs, besides the labor in pouring the milk out of the tank into cans.

Hauling the dairy milk bulk tank presented a special problem because of the cooling compressor. The compressor remains in the barn, and quiet coupling hoses had to be arranged so that there wouldn't be any leakage of the freon. The manufacturer of the tank said that no such coupling device would work, and that no such device could be found anywhere in the United States. But today, you can see it on the Johnson farm.

Another striking device which works off a pushbutton arrangement from the milk parlor is the "hot" electric gate in the holding pen. The holding pen is built on a sloping concrete floor with a capacity of 100 cows. With that many cows, there are always the reluctant tail-enders. Whenever the button is pushed in the room the hot gate slides inward, crowding the cows so that even the most sluggish cow wants to come into the barn.

Linley has worked out a system of small gates in the holding pen for cutting a cow from the herd by pulling a few cords inside the milk parlor.

Other innovations are the gates themselves, the heavy springs that keep them shut, and their construction. First, there is the gate to the holding pen. It can be opened wide from either side, and is built of pipe and industrial

End of Lamb Grading Surprises Some Residents of Valley in Sheep Business

The cessation of lamb grading by the federal government, as announced by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson came as a surprise but not many persons involved in the sheep industry throughout Magic Valley.

The notification goes into effect Jan. 4 and is supposedly for one year's duration. Among the reasons given by the secretary of agriculture were that the reports he had received "clearly indicated a lack of agreement within the lamb industry" over the results of the grading program.

The notification indicated to some observers that undue pressures had influenced him in discontinuing the program, which in itself had been voluntary among packers.

"The implications of the program can be found in the records of the hearings held last spring before the subcommittee of the senate committee on agricultural appropriations."

At that meeting, which included senators and representatives of the department of agriculture, the pros and cons of lamb grading were discussed, with the department indicating favor for continuing the program.

Lamb feeders were reported to be opposed to the present system of grading choice because too high a percentage of finish was required to indicate that grade. They claimed there was too much feathering of fat on the ribs and sheathing of fat on the legs of the lamb. The result was so much fat on the carcass that the housewife had to discard a large part of the cuts she purchased which made it expensive and wasteful.

The feeders felt they were losing the consumer market for this U.S. choice grade and also was expensive in the feedlot.

On the other hand the chairman and retail council were in favor of retaining the grade. They claimed the grade "choice" was a feature they had built up through intensive advertising over the years, and if it was discontinued, the housewife would get her buying guide.

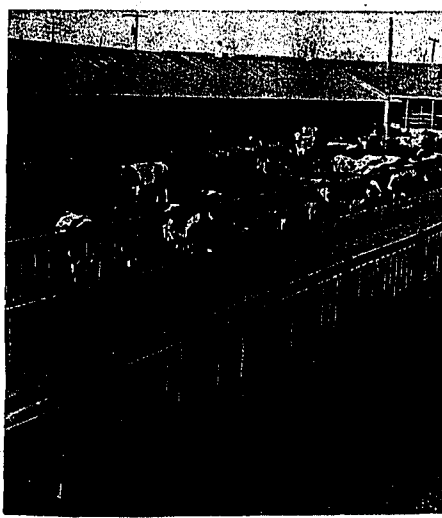

The large packers were against federal grading in any form. Their reasoning was that the smaller packers preferred by some segments of the nation, but that retail cuts were preferred by others. In view of this, they questioned the value of a standard that was variable and inconsistent, and included more lean meat. However, they felt that if the standard were removed, the smaller independent packer would be at a distinct competitive disadvantage against "the nation-wide packer."

Harris Smaller Firm

Large firms have well-advertised brand names, whereas the smaller ones don't have any such names, they can use to replace the words "choice" and "select."

As a result, small firms could be crowded out of the industry, (Continued)

Many New Features Used in Richfield Dairy Corral

At the far end of this corral is a holding pen that has many of the latest features designed not only by commercial firms but by the three men in the dairy venture at the Monte Johnson farm, Richfield. The yard itself is a storehouse of ideas for constructing close woven wire so that it is light.

Then at the corral, which are large enough to hold more than 100 head each, there are gates that swing in and out, and which can be raised if the manure pile is too high at the bottom in the center and early spring. These gates are held by set screws and slide up or down on the pipes which are fastened to heavy posts.

Johnson said he wanted gates at different places in the corral, gates that serve also for cutting purposes, and gates that are even built of upright railroad rails set in concrete.

Having had considerable experience with cattle in the feedlot, Johnson built his driveways and feeding ramps for the cows at the manger, and included more lean meat customary in this country.

Instead of a six-foot feeding ramp for the cow, he built a concrete ramp nine feet wide. He is aware that the pasture price behind the length of the cow at the manger, but he couldn't see any reason why he should be on the ground, or the manure loader either for that matter, as the reason for getting on the ground would have a hole behind the concrete platform.

"I wanted the cow when she backs out from the manger, to be able to move behind the other cows without having to get off the platform, and with a six-foot platform she has that amount of room. It is about 10 feet in the other corral, and it was too wide. I also tried it at eight feet but that was a little better. She couldn't walk behind another cow without stepping into the dirt on her way down to another place at the feed bunk."

His concrete feed bunk is built high enough so that he can feed as well as chopped hay. The manger, all concrete, is 20 inches wide at the bottom and 28 inches wide at the top. The height is 28 inches which is also convenient for the automatic feeder mixer that is driven down the concrete driveway, dumping chopped hay three times.

The driveway itself is 10 feet wide, and has a unique saddle or dip at the far end. The reason for this dip at the lower end of the driveway is to corral the manure from the corral to a small catch-pen from where Johnson and his partners get liquid manure for the fields.

The dip also is concrete so that under no circumstances will the manure ever slip or hitch-center when the weather is wet and sloppy.

Other unusual features around the feed bunks are the railroad rails set in the concrete for posts, and the pipes used for hand spray instead of hickory sticks or cables.

Back at the barn, Johnson was asked a question that has been raised by many dairymen about the herringbone system.

"How well does this system work where you stack cows without any breakers in between? Where you're breaking in heifers?"

Since the cows stand at an angle to the manger, the manure from the feed bins into which the grain falls from overhead chutes, could be broken up by the manure heifers and it might be disastrous if one began bucking and spraying the manure in the milk tank was placed.

Johnson said that there was little trouble with the manure, surprisingly, and that he had never had to huddle a heifer or even use a manure breaker for back. He and his two partners had broken about 50 fresh heifers since the herringbone system was installed.

"It seems that when the heifer managed another cow against her back, she doesn't pay so much attention to what we are doing down in the pit. Oh, sure, when she sees the manure heifer for the first time, she kicks at them, but she keeps on eating and we put them in again if she means to kick them over."

Johnson also intends to go into DHIA, test if and when he can use the milk meters that are now being used by the dairymen in the past two or three years. However, because he would need more time to make a record, he plans to test for all dairymen on test to contribute to their purchase since

Feeders Are Divided on Use of Hormone for Fat

Although many Magic Valley cattle feeders have never used the hormone, desihydrocholesterone, they feel their feedlot gains along, others who use it are doing much for it or much against.

Those who favor the hormone, which can be implanted in the ears of the cattle, or fed in minute quantities mixed in the grain, feel the cattle make on feed, and also that the gains are made with an improved conversion ratio.

In this attitude they are backed up by testimonial found in farm reports and by hundreds of reports that claim that the hormone has never discriminated against the hormones.

Those opposed to the hormone, which is commonly called "atlibacetyl" even though there are other names, and also has some outstanding ideas for construction of manger and feed ramps. The posts are railroad rails set in concrete, and the pipes used for hand spray through which light filters. (Staff photo—Crawling) ers have no attitude about its use, some are finding fat is piling on the outside rather than throughout the carcass, as is expected with the hormone. It has been reported that where the hormone is used, and the animal is not fed a full ration of high protein concentrate, that the animal will do poorly, as some Montana ranchers discovered when they implanted atlibacetyl before they sent the cattle out on the range. The result of the use was that the animals looked starchy, rough-coated and developed high tail-heads, indicating a poor level of nutrition, that brought them less money.

It also has been reported that in some instances, where the hormone is fed in the feed, that the animals would come down with disease unless they were fed Terramycin, too. This points perhaps to a higher rate of metabolism, when the body is more likely to break down unless other foods or drugs are used to fortify an increased tolerance to disease, or body disintegration.

Strangest of all, perhaps, is the way that the hormone found (used in feed industry) developed originally many years ago to clean a cow out after she had calved, to help parturition, and a local veterinarian reported it didn't work for that purpose, though.

Then it was used, and is still used, to bring a cow into saliva with the dosage used being much higher than is used for feed purposes.

"It also is used to abort calves forming in heifers that have been purchased for fattening. The idea is to have the feed poured into the heifer for fattening purposes not so much for a developing calf. Also when heifers bring higher prices, when it is used this way, the heifer will come into estrus within three days, and then it will settle down. Its use for feeder steers also seems to work so that the gender is neutralized somehow, with the end result being a greater gain with less fat."

There are dosages of this hormone being sold for feeder lambs here, but it does no reports have been made that it has been used for them in Magic Valley.

Years Have Been Spent Improving Hobby by Studying Ceramics

Paul Yost is putting the finishing touches on a pot. It took him one minute and 50 seconds to complete this phase of the construction. Now the pot has to dry—this is called greenware—and then it will be baked in a kiln until it is hard. (Staff photo—engraving)

Greenware, after it is dry, is placed in the kiln and baked. Then it is placed again in the kiln and glazed with coatings of various colors, depending on the potter's desire. Glazing is the last step in the pottery-making process. Yost notes that except for some of the modern tools, such as an electrical kiln, methods of making pottery haven't changed in thousands of years. (Staff photo—engraving)

Paul Yost shows some of the ceramics he has made through the many years that pottery making has been one of his hobbies. Although Yost has never received any college credit for studying ceramics and pottery making, he attended night classes for six years to study the methods of fashioning, baking and glazing pottery. (Staff photo—engraving)

Hobby Results in Intensive Study of Ceramics by Valley Man for 12 Years

You never know what you will find. Some pots come out of the process a disappointment and some are perfect. A potter never knows what he has for sure until the kiln is opened.
There are three basic processes in making a pot—the initial pot that is made with wet clay, the drying of the greenware, and the final glazing when the finish and color are added.
He says pottery-making is an excellent hobby and art training for young children. "Kids take to this like ducks to water. They like to create and make things in three dimensions."
Grade school classes have visited Yost's shop several times to watch the pottery-making process. Students are fascinated with the work and usually surprise him by asking searching and intelligent questions.
"It's too bad there isn't more opportunity for young children to work with pottery in public schools," Yost says. "But most school boards feel this is too expensive for school room use."
Actually, setting up a private workshop needn't be more expensive than any other hobby. He says a potter's wheel can be built for about $20 to $30, but a person can spend up to $200 for an electric wheel. Some cheaper wheels are operated by a foot pedal. A furnace retorts between $100 and $200, of more, depending on the size and which the wet clay is kept, costs only a few dollars, and the few handtools needed won't cost more than $4.
"Clay can be found anywhere," he said. "You can find tons and tons of clay in an inexhaustible supply that can be found all over the valley. Persons see it and never know just what it is. I've never gotten around to all the clay deposits that I've heard of in this area."
Yost gets clay from the banks of Snake river near Hagerman and then grinds it into a fine powder in a conventional farm feed hammermill.
Yost says the hobby, once learned, is never forgotten. "It is like riding a bicycle—once you learn to throw a pot on a wheel, you never forget it. You may get rusty, but you never forget it."

Old blind caused by unexpected events, such as sickness, accidents, or even death.
Brown notes that a sudden change in the economical picture can disrupt budgets. A good example in this area would be a crop failure.
Brown notes businessmen who sell an intangible service or something that can't be repossessed with any financial gain are the ones who are hurt the most by delinquent accounts. Doctors and other professional people are sometimes hurt by delinquent accounts, or merchants who sell goods that are readily consumed, such as food, clothes or services.

Brown points out that a city the size of Twin Falls is affected more directly by delinquent accounts than larger or smaller communities. He explains that under $2000 seldom have bill delinquency trouble and the credit loss is low because of the personal basis on which business is conducted.
But in cities between this size and 30,000 or over the loss is high because many merchants still try to do business on the same personal basis they did when the city was smaller. This doesn't always work. In larger cities credit is harder to get because of the impersonal way in which business is conducted. Merchants rely more on credit ratings.

Brown burst one balloon dear to the hearts of the men consumers. Sometimes women are accused of being the more avaricious of the two sexes. He says they are about alike. Men are just as concerned with "keeping up with the Joneses" as their wives.

Hepatitis Case Reported for Heyburn Area

HEYBURN, Dec. 12 — A few cases of hepatitis have been found in the county by Minidoka county health officials. It was reported at the village board meeting this week.

This disease is primarily spread through sewage water. It was noted in connection with the electricity Tuesday on the $7,000 bond issue to provide a sewage system here.

Three Heyburn citizens met with the board to ask if anything could be done to keep out the old buildings being brought into the village. Members stated they felt public opinion might be used to discourage persons who bring in old buildings and do nothing to repair them. A zoning project is under way to see if some control can be exercised over the problem. Harold Hurst, chairman, noted.

Building permits were issued to Z. E. McCann to build a shop and storage west of town and to Ray Wall to build a home on East 18th street. A beer license was issued to Amos Hall, restaurant operator on highway 30.

IN PLAY CAST
IDAHO STATE COLLEGE, Dec. 12 — Marvin Cox, Paul Rind and Don Dethorne, Gooding, are members of the cast of Hamlet being presented at 120 W. Wednesday through Saturday at 8:15 p.m.

It is estimated that if all the paved airport runways in Florida were laid end to end they would form a roadway 30 feet wide from Miami to Sitka, Alaska.

Report Featured At Grange Meet

RICHFIELD, Dec. 12 — Olin Ross reported on the rural life department plans at a meeting of the Richfield Grange this week.

Ross and Norman Mills reported on a recent Farm Bureau meeting. Birthday calendar reports health officials. It was reported at the village board meeting this week.

Members discussed over pictures for the birthday calendar with no decision made. Under consideration are pictures of the High school choral group, Cub Scout group and Richfield schools.

Plans were made for a potluck dinner and Christmas party at 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 20. Popcorn balls and candy, made by women of the Grange, will be taken. Mrs. Odell Chatfield and Mrs. Max Behr were hostesses. Christmas cards were sung during the program hour.

House Will Provide Shelter for Transients

Lieut. Del Hearne of the Salvation Army stands outside the emergency-shelter house. The shelter is used to house transients who come through the country and arrive in Twin Falls temporarily out of funds. They can stay here while they look for work or they can simply stay the night. While they are here they are given the opportunity to work for their board and room. (Staff photo-extravaganza)

Potato Growers Set Rupert Meet

RUPERT, Dec. 12.—A meeting, sponsored by the Tri-County Potato Growers association, is being held at the Mimco high school auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Monday. L. A. Gillette, president of the group, said that since it is not possible for group members to contact all area growers and explain to them the bargaining association aims, he urges all growers in Magic Valley to attend the Monday night meeting and hear the plan outlined and discussed. Gillette said that all aspects of potato contracting will be discussed and voted upon. The group has signed up about 65 per cent of the area growers contacted so far by members of the board of directors, giving the group the right to bargain with the processors for a fair price for their potatoes.

Yule Program Featured for Area Grange

HOLLISTER, Dec. 12.—An acrobatic presentation of "The Yule Program" was featured at the Hollister Grange Christmas program this week. A musical, chapel, recitation and a poem were given by Lila Chadwick. A tableau was portrayed by Marilyn Skeen, John Leaning, Patricia Lanning, Shirley and Raymond Joslin, Gregory Lanning, David Chadwick and Terry Decker.

The origin of Christmas carols was read by Heber Loughmiller, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Nelson and Mrs. Marcus Skeen.

Treats were distributed to members' children by Chadwick and Bud Decker. The program was arranged by the Grange lecturer, Mrs. David Chadwick, assisted by Heber Loughmiller, reported on a Grange promotion program for the coming year, with Hollister, Murtaugh and Pier Granges being on the committee to organize the program.

Plans were made to start the Grange hall improvements with a great room and cement steps being laid. The work committee was discussed for future outside clean up and improvement of the Grange grounds.

A special committee of Mrs. Lyle Schmitzer, Dale Kunkel and David Chadwick was appointed to attend a meeting Monday at Pier for discussion of the 1940 Twin Falls County Fair Grange exhibit. Grange members voted to have a Grange sponsored holiday dance for the community members. This is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 20 with the public invited.

Hosts for the evening were W. J. Lanning, Howard Mills and Leroy Flenor. Next regular meeting will be Jan. 13.

Transactions of Land Are Halted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The interior department yesterday suspended for at least 60 days all public land sales and transactions by its bureau of land management involving land appraisals. Elmer J. Bennett, acting secretary, said the action was taken after a request for the suspension was received from Rep. John E. Moss, D. Calif., a member of the house government operations committee.

Bennett said the department was advised that the committee is making a study of land appraisal and land appraisal techniques. Bill Director Edward Woolley said Bill field offices have been instructed to suspend all approval actions on land transactions where appraisals are involved.

The president of Turkey is elected for a four-year term by members of the grand national assembly from the own ranks.

College Plans Memorial Fund to Honor Pioneer Veterinarian of Magic Valley

A memorial fund has been started at Washington State university to honor the late John W. McCoy, long-time dean of the school of veterinary medicine and a veterinarian who practiced in Gooding from 1910 to 1920 and in Twin Falls from 1920 to 1923.

In 1923 he joined the veterinary medicine faculty at the college. He retired as dean emeritus of the school of veterinary medicine in 1932.

Hours Noted For Burley's Mailing Time

BURLEY, Dec. 8.—Beginning Monday morning the Burley Post office will be from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Postmaster Joe Lambert announced.

Mailing of Christmas parcels thus far is slightly ahead of the volume for the same period last year, he noted, urging all patrons to mail their packages and cards immediately.

Large barrels will be provided in the lobby of the post office and out of town cards and letters. The cooperation of mailers in the use of postage stamps is urged.

Unsealed Christmas cards with nothing written either than the name of the sender can be mailed for three cents. If forwarding or return address should be plainly written on one side of the parcel or if a written message is included the rate is four cents.

Mailers of Christmas gifts are reminded to make certain that sturdy containers are used for packing and that plenty of cushioning material is used. Only strong twine or cord should be used for tying and the address and return address should be plainly written on one side of the parcel only. Gummed labels often fall off, so when they are used it is recommended that scotch tape or gummed tape be applied around the edges of the label to afford added protection, he said.

DR. JOHN E. MCCOY

Dr. McCoy died Jan. 15, 1938. A sister and a brother live in Twin Falls. They are Izzita McCoy and Oscar McCoy.

It is the belief of the school that the proposed award will perpetuate the memory of Dr. McCoy, further his work of good teaching and bring recognition to the men who are currently doing outstanding work in clinical veterinary medicine. School administrators hope sufficient gifts will be received to enable the school to invest the principal and maintain the John E. McCoy award. The school has set a minimal figure of $5,000 as necessary to do this. The recipient of the award shall be selected by the faculty of the college of veterinary medicine. In the event that less than $5,000 is given the school believes it would be far better to have the money serve a good cause in the purchase of teaching equipment rather than as a permanent fund that will not yield sufficient income to maintain the award.

If a permanent memorial fund is established, it is to remain so long as the college of veterinary medicine shall exist—or until modified by a majority vote of those present at a duly called meeting of the alumni of the college at the annual veterinary conference. If the veterinary conference is no longer in existence, other meetings shall be called as recommended by the faculty of the college.

Surrounding Soil Controls Fish Production of Lake

This aerial photo of Sawtooth lake shows the surrounding area which controls fertility of the lake. In general, Idaho lakes located on alkaline soils or fed by streams flowing across them are fertile.

While waters situated on or draining acidic soils are infertile. This knowledge is an important factor in managing Idaho's thousand lakes. (State fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Lake's General Productivity Depends Upon Fertility of Soils Underlying It

By ROBERT H. IYVING

Idaho Fish and Game Department, said the general productivity of a lake, like a farm, usually depends on the fertility of the underlying waters mainly by wind and wave action. On the other hand, unlike a farm, a lake may be quite productive even though its substratum is infertile, provided inflowing waters drain fertile soils.

The mountain ranges of central and northern Idaho, from which the major parts of the Salmon, Boise, Payette, Clearwater, St. Joe, Coeur d'Alene and Priest rivers rise, are composed predominantly of acidic granites. In contrast, the plains and mountain ranges of southern and parts of western Idaho are composed predominantly of alkaline basalts, sediments or metamorphics. From this area the major parts of the upper Snake, Bear, Lost, Wood, Bruneau, Owyhee and Water rivers.

It can be stated, in general, that the waters of Idaho which are situated on, or which drain, alkaline soils are fertile whereas waters situated on and drain acidic soils are infertile.

One factor of heat is required to raise the temperature of one gram of water one degree centigrade and, therefore, a lake must absorb vast quantities of heat in order to increase its temperature by a few degrees. When water cools to the freezing point the ratio changes drastically and water would give off 80 calories of heat to cool one gram of water at 32 degrees Fahrenheit into ice of the same temperature. Some of the larger lakes, such as Pend Oreille and Bear Lake, store up such great quantities of heat during the warm summer months that the winter is not cold enough, or long enough, to cool their waters and form an ice cover.

Water is peculiar in that it has its greatest density at 32 degrees Fahrenheit. Water is not only lighter when warmer than 32 degrees, but also becomes lighter from 32 degrees down to its freezing point at 32 degrees. As water freezes, it expands into ice and the ice being of greater volume per unit of weight is lighter than water and thus floats.

As a result of changes of density at different temperatures, waters at different depths tend to form layers that do not mix readily even when the surface is agitated by wind action. Since water is a poor conductor of heat, little heat is absorbed by the water. Heat is transmitted to, or taken from lake water mainly by wind and wave action.

Light is essential to the growth of aquatic plants. As a result, the production of these plants in lakes is restricted to those water zones into which light can penetrate. Aquatic plants furnish either directly or indirectly the carbohydrate and protein supply for the aquatic world.

In the process of photosynthesis, carbon dioxide, nitrogen, water and phosphorus are taken up by phytoplankton and sunlight, are converted into plant tissue. During this photosynthetic process, oxygen is produced and released into the water. The absence of sunlight, oxygen is consumed and carbon dioxide released. Of course, lake also obtain oxygen when the air is mixed with the water by wind and wave action.

Decomposition, an opposite process to photosynthesis, reduces matter, both plant and animal, into its simplest component parts. Decomposition is important to our lakes as it puts essential nutrients back into circulation making them available for new plant and animal growth.

During periods of darkness, such as lake waters under cover of ice and snow or the dark bottom waters of a deep lake, this decomposition process tends to reduce the oxygen supply and increase the amount of carbon dioxide and other noxious gases. During prolonged periods of darkness, decomposition may continue until all the oxygen-consuming plants and animals perish.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Richard Smith's Busy Music Schedule Has Chance to Wear Director's Baton

It is possible to wear out an orchestra leader. Richard R. Smith is the man to do it. For the past several years he has directed the Twin Falls orchestra in this community.

Currently Smith is directing the valley-wide orchestra in the third annual Christmas program, directed by the Twin Falls Civic Symphony orchestra, students of the Twin Falls high school orchestra, ninth grade orchestra and five elementary school orchestras.

Practically everyone who is active in music in this area, from the young child to the senior citizen, has had a chance to wear a baton for a rehearsal session.

In all, 215 public school students and 100 private students have had a chance to direct the other musical groups in his spare time—night and day.

Smith has been public school orchestra director since 1939, when he came here from the University of Idaho. He has a busy schedule, but Smith believes in his work and feels there is a real need for musical expression here.

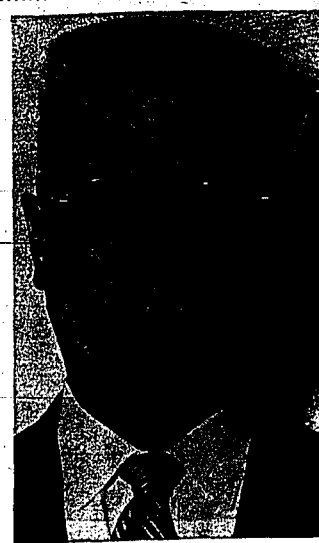

"I think Twin Falls is in dire need of various entertainers of the musical kind because of the remote location of the town, away from any formal cultural program."

He believes many of the problems of the musical groups in this area would be minimized if the community had an adequate auditorium—either a civic auditorium or combined civic and school auditorium.

He explains if the community had an adequate auditorium large or small groups would be attracted to the town because they would realize a financial return from such an engagement. An auditorium would attract symphonies or even full symphony orchestras if it had a large enough seating capacity to hold large audiences.

He points out several benefits from such a building. "It would give the children a chance to perform in good and formal settings and enable them to learn stage deportment." And it would also enable the non-participant students to listen to music in an atmosphere intended for musical presentation.

He adds adults would receive the same benefits—in addition to the satisfaction of knowing they had helped to improve the town.

Smith has been active in state musical organizations for many years. He is currently general chairman of the Idaho Music Educators annual conference, which will be held in Boise in March. He has been associated with the Idaho Musical Educators board of control for the past 10 years. He was president of the IME from 1945 to 1948 and he also served as secretary-treasurer.

He has been the IME representative on the Idaho High School Intercollegiate Activities association for the past four years. This is the body that sets dates for high school activities. He also has been president of the secretary-treasurer of the fourth district Musical Educators association.

In Twin Falls he has been treasurer of the Community Concert band.

he taught all sorts of classes, in smaller schools. He had eventually got his M.A. degree in education from the University of Montana.

Except for two years, 1944 to 1946, in the marine corps, he had taught in the Falls since 1929. While he was in the Falls, he was stationed at San Diego where he directed the orchestra. Later he was in the "Halls of Montana" network program and also played in the orchestra. Later he was in the third marine division based on Guam and then formed a dance band for island dances. Speaking of his marine career, Smith says, "I was a private first class and graduated a corporal."

He has been associated with the Idaho Musical Educators board of control for the past 10 years. He was president of the IME from 1945 to 1948 and he also served as secretary-treasurer.

Burley Minister Talks to Kiwanis

Dr. C. L. Burley, minister of the First Presbyterian church, was guest speaker Wednesday for the Kiwanis club meeting.

He was introduced by Clifford Sutton, who is chairman of the church and community project. The Rev. Mr. Burley spoke on "The Contribution the churches have made to our American way of life."

A report was made that the Kiwanis "Christmas tree" had been put up in the park. The village of trees is helping with the lighting of the tree and also street lights have been installed.

Christmas tree will be in Dec. 19 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the park. The event of the party will be held in an indoor installation of the new effort will be held Dec. 21 at a Ladies night meeting.

Water is peculiar in that it has its greatest density at 32 degrees Fahrenheit. Water is not only lighter when warmer than 32 degrees, but also becomes lighter from 32 degrees down to its freezing point at 32 degrees. As water freezes, it expands into ice and the ice being of greater volume per unit of weight is lighter than water and thus floats.

As a result of changes of density at different temperatures, waters at different depths tend to form layers that do not mix readily even when the surface is agitated by wind action. Since water is a

Harrington Fork Campgrounds Being Doubled in Size

A. F. (Swede) Lundy, forest service employe, shovels debris into a trench on Harrington fork camp grounds of Rock creek. He is working on expanded facilities at the picnic area. The work will be completed by next spring and will double the size of the area from a

23-family unit to a 31-family unit. A family unit is five persons. At the Harrington fork picnic area, new tables and cooking grills have been built, the area resceded, and eventually the toilet and water facilities will be expanded. (Staff photo-engraving)

Forest Service Completes First Part Of Rock Creek Recreation Area Work

Sawtooth national forest personnel are finishing the first leg of an extensive rehabilitation and construction project on the recreation area along Rock creek from the headwaters of Rock creek. According to Edwin A. Fournier, forest ranger, eventually the 10-acre picnic and recreation area along the creek will be doubled in size to accommodate ever-increasing crowds. This project is, in part, a result of the national project called "Operation Outdoors," a program initiated in 1957 by the U. S. forest service. Funds were made available to rehabilitate and expand public recreation facilities throughout the United States. The forest service is now starting on the Rock creek area, after spending past months improving high-priority areas near Redfish lake and along Wood river.

The area is the first to undergo extensive rehabilitation. Most of the area along the creek were started under the COO program and are now in need of expansion and improvement. Fournier says the Harrington fork area was originally intended as a 23-family unit. A family unit contains five persons. He says by the time remodeling is completed sometime next summer the unit will accommodate 31 family units. The area will be resceded, redesigned, new tables will be added, additional grills constructed, the water supply expanded, and additional water, toilet, and garbage facilities added. Right now several sturdy picnic tables have been installed and the area is being resceded with Kentucky bluegrass. New camp stove grills have been built out of pre-cast concrete sections and steel grills. Juniper and willow shade trees will be planted. The present between Harrington fork and Magpie basin. "But these won't be built until the rehabilitation work and expansion have been completed in the old areas." In addition to the work on Harrington fork and replacing nearly 30 road and campground signs along the road, all the roads in the 10 areas have been graded and some of the roads have been relocated. Fournier points out that construction along the road is necessary to prepare for the anticipated traffic that will enter the south fork when the road is hard surfaced in the next few years. TRAINING IN GERMANY RICHFIELD, Dec. 12 — Army Sgt. Lyle D. Woodbury, whose wife lives at 2388 Normal avenue, Burley, recently participated with the eighth division's 26th infantry in combat efficiency training tests in Germany. Sergeant Woodbury is a first-team leader in company B of the infantry in Baumholder. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland R. Woodbury, live on route 1.

New Grills, Facilities Being Installed in Forest

Forest Ranger Edwin Fournier kneels by a fire and one of the new grills at Harrington fork camp grounds on Rock creek. Forest service crews have been resceding the area for the past few months. Eventually 10 areas along Rock creek, from the boundary of the Sawtooth forest to the headwaters of Rock creek, will be doubled in size. This is a part of the forest service's "Operation Outdoors," a plan whereby existing public park facilities will be revamped and expanded to cope with increasing population and more leisure time. Four new picnic areas will be added to the present canyon sites. (Staff photo-engraving)

Records for Dairy Herds Are Reported

JEROME, Dec. 12 — Of the 89 herds on test in Gooding - Lincoln - Jerome Dairy Herd Improvement association testing unit No. 2, 41 herds averaged more than 30 pounds of butterfat for November, according to the report of Ben Russell, tester for this unit. The top 10 herds included Ralph Martin, Hunt, with 45 registered and Holsteins, which averaged 1,442 pounds of milk and 52.5 pounds of butterfat; Ralph Taylor and Sons, Wendell, with 32 registered and grade Holsteins averaging 1,377 pounds of milk and 49.9 pounds of butterfat; Horace Meservy, Dietrich, with five registered Guernseys, averaging 207 pounds of milk and 44.4 pounds of butterfat. Claude Bernard and sons, Hazelton, with 41 registered and grade Holsteins, averaged 1,355 pounds of milk and 48 pounds of butterfat; Harvey Davis, Jerome, with 22 grade Holsteins averaged 1,068 pounds of milk and 38.4 pounds of butterfat; Gordon Martin, Hunt, with 12 registered Holsteins, averaged 1,040 pounds of milk and 39.2 pounds of butterfat. John A. Nogenen, Jerome, with nine grade Holsteins, averaged 970 pounds of milk and 37.5 pounds of butterfat; William T. Howard, Hazelton, with 13 registered and grade Holsteins, averaged 941 pounds of milk and 37.3 pounds of butterfat; Clyde Kaserman, Eden, with 30 grade Holsteins, averaged 1,021 pounds of milk and 36.8 pounds of butterfat. Russell reported that 81 cows in his unit produced more than 30 pounds of butterfat for the 30-day month of November. The top 10 includes Dagmar, registered Holstein, owned by William T. Howard, Hazelton, produced 2,580 pounds of milk and 82.5 pounds of butterfat; Ralph Martin, Hunt, with 45 registered and grade Holsteins, owned by Hugh and Henry Reid, Jerome, produced 2,220 pounds of milk and 82.5 pounds of butterfat; Stacey, registered Holstein, owned by Fred Russell, Hazelton, averaged 2,460 pounds of milk and 88.5 pounds of butterfat. Claude Bernard and sons, Hazelton, produced 2,100 pounds of milk and 82.5 pounds of butterfat; Konig, registered Holstein, owned by Ralph Martin, Hunt, produced 2,100 pounds of milk and 82.5 pounds of butterfat. C. C. C. registered Holstein, owned by Lyle P. Anderson, Jerome, produced 2,100 pounds of milk and 81.3 pounds of butterfat. Peuffin, grade Holstein, owned by Fred Russell, Hazelton, produced 2,460 pounds of milk and 82.5 pounds of butterfat. The registered Holstein, owned by William T. Howard, Hazelton, produced 1,950 pounds of milk and 84.4 pounds of butterfat. Registered Holstein, owned by Claude Bernard and sons, Hazelton, produced 2,180 pounds of milk and 85.0 pounds of butterfat. Lorna, registered Holstein, owned by Fred Russell, Hazelton, produced 2,150 pounds of milk and 81.7 pounds of butterfat.

Young Scout Receives Eagle Badge

Mrs. C. E. Harder, Jerome, plus the Eagle Scout badge on her son, Robert, only 12 years old. Robert received the Eagle badge Nov. 18 at a court of honor in Jerome. He had to complete work for 21 merit badges in the 18 months he has been a member of the Boy Scouts. He believes Boy Scout work has been beneficial to his school work. (Staff photo-engraving)

Jerome Boy, 12, Is One of Youngest Scouts Ever to Receive Eagle Award

JEROME, Dec. 12 — Robert Harder, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Harder, Jerome, is probably one of the youngest, if not the youngest, holder of the eagle Scout award of the Boy Scouts of America. In just 18 months of membership in the Scouts, Harder has earned the 21 badges necessary to attain the eagle badge and also has contributed his fair share to troop activities. He is a member of troop 10 of which Guy Kennedy is Scoutmaster. Harder received his award Nov. 18 at court of honor at the Jerome Methodist church. Since last spring Harder has been with similar interests throughout the country, he says. This summer he spent two weeks at Cape Horn. The Snake River council summer camp. He went on the 50-mile hike through the middle fork of the Salmon river country, attended a junior leadership camp in addition to the regular two-week camp, and was lapped for the Order of the Arrow, an honorary group. Mrs. Harder notes that her son actually has been interested in the Scouts since he was just a young boy. His older brother, Eugene, a senior at Jerome high school, is also an eagle Scout and a member of the Order of the Arrow. Firm Scout Supporter Mrs. Harder is a firm advocate of the Boy Scouts. She says a busy boy is a good boy and she believes Scout work is one of the most constructive ways in which to keep a boy busy. "I think there is a period in a boy's life when there is a mental and physical need for this kind of work and the Boy Scout program fills that need. Harder is currently looking forward to the national Boy Scout jamboree next July at Colorado Springs.

Award Is Given To Shirley Young

JEROME, Dec. 12 — Shirley Young won the speech award at the regular meeting of the Jerome Toastmasters club this week at the Maple Valley cafe. Mrs. Eugene Young, toastmaster, chose as her topic "Fun is for any time." Mrs. Agnes Hunt, president, conducted the meeting. Guests from Twin Falls were Mrs. Laveta Strong and Mrs. Cecil Lester. Mrs. Brown presented an oral reading "A Nickel for Christmas" and Mrs. Strong spoke on "If We Could Make It So." She also reported on a workshop on speech building. The next meeting will be Dec. 22, with four members giving oral readings.

21 Badges Earned Harder says this enabled him to spend a great deal of time on his Scout work in the past months and still not harm his school work. Last year he estimated he spent from four to five nights a week working on his merit badge assignments. 21 Badges Earned Harder has earned 21 merit badges: first aid, citizenship in the home, cooking, camping, swimming, lifesaving, hiking, citizenship in the community, soil and water conservation, first aid, scholarship, home repair, pioneering, citizenship, stamp collecting, reading, public health, hiking, safety, personal fitness, citizenship in the nation, nature and canoeing. He says lifesaving and first aid are the most time-consuming of the merit badges. Outdoor aspects of the Boy Scout first applied to young Harder. Boy Scouts gives boys many chances to meet other boys.

Inventory of Egyptian Museum Is as Exciting as Making New Discoveries

CAIRO, Dec. 12—Egyptian antiquity was missing from the dusty basement corridor of a 2,500-year-old mummy recently in 1958, collected dust for more than 20 years. Nothing was done about it.

The perfectly preserved mummy, in an exquisite coffin, was not found in a museum record. Officials who had dug it up, and how it got to the museum.

This is just one example of the chaos which Dr. Selim Hassan, emergency curator of the museum, is uncovering in the handling of Egypt's ancient heritage.

His inventory after discovery of the theft of Tutankhamen's 3,000-year-old gold-plated scepter from a museum showcase.

Investigation in the wake of the theft disclosed additional unpublished and careless management of the museum collection.

A report prepared from the files of the registration department of the museum showed 28,000 pieces of

Yule Program Is Given to Grange

JEROME, Dec. 12—A Christmas program was presented by Leonard Boyd at the regular meeting of the Canyonside Grange this week.

The program included a Christmas pantomime by Mrs. Lawrence Campbell and her three grandsons.

The first world war, Hassan says he was lived in 1920 by former King Farouk when he suspected the king of selling archaeological treasures.

Some of the boxes from Luxor, Minia, San el Hagar and East Zang, all scenes of important excavations, have not been opened since their arrival at the museum.

Says Hassan: "Wandering through the basement of the museum is just as exciting as making new discoveries. You never know what you may come across."

Teacher Talks At PTA Meet

BURLEY, Dec. 12 — Hotels in Japan furnish guests with a kimono but no towels, stated Mrs. Ray PTA meeting Wednesday evening of experiences she and her husband had during their year in Japan.

Mrs. Field, who is now principal at the Overland elementary school, was with the air force dependent school in Japan for a year.

Mrs. Field discussed the living standards of the people in Japan and described seeing a most spectacular and beautiful Fourth of July fireworks celebration.

"They learned to sit on the floor and if you didn't learn to eat with chopsticks you would starve," she noted.

She related the "jay man" type of fishing where the natives use wild to catch fish for them, then pull in the fish and take the fish from their hands.

Mrs. Walter Povison, PTA president, announced that Lefoy Cunningham received the door prize when Mrs. Clyde Goodman received the room count for the lower grades and Mrs. L. E. Murphy's room for the higher grades.

During the program the high school quart sang two numbers and Christmas carols were sung by the Madrigal singers of the high school.
