Blizzard Whips Out of Rockies Into Nebraska

Showers and high winds whipped out of the southern Rockies today into the western Kansas-Nebraska area and brought a warning from the weather bureau of possible blizzard conditions by Sunday. Further south, the wind-driven snow fell heavily to near zero in the high plains area of east central New Mexico and muffled 600,000 people in the communities of Vaughn and Encino. The winds caused some drifting. But by Saturday night all roads had been opened with the exception of one that was expected to clear quickly. The snow and ice glaze spread from the mountains of Colorado, West Virginia and New Mexico to the plains of the Continental divide. A blizzard hit Christmas day, with heavy snow in western Colorado, except Raton pass, was snow-choked by a fall which reached 10 inches on the western high plains near Dault and eight inches at Tace and Los Alamos. It is the heaviest snow in 10 years.

Populated traffic in scattered blizzard areas. A developing storm of recent days moved U.S. route 66 for miles between Albuquerque and Santa Fe. Police officers reported snow-tucked between Tace and Raton. Route 66 was reopened at noon Saturday by western blizzard conditions. The weather bureau warned of a blizzard with heavy snow in parts of northwestern Kansas and northern Nebraska by Sunday. Strong winds of 35 to 50 mph and falling temperatures were expected to accompany the storm.

Over most of the West, but east of the Rockies, a sunny cloudy blanket of snow and sleet. A new stream of cold air came from Canada into the West and the eastern Rockies mountains here.

Storm Brings Snow, Downs Power Lines

Heavy snows that blanketed the Sun Valley region and south hills Thursday and Friday raised the hopes of skiers anxious to take to the slopes. Sun Valley received a Christmas present of 22 inches of snow on the Valley Trail with the fall continuing through Saturday. Late reports indicate a heavy snowfall for about 30 inches on Bald mountain. The snowfall reached Hailey, Ketchum and Fairfield regions bringing with it freezing and icy conditions from Timmerman hill north. The snowfall was recorded as far as Carey.

A communication from Sun Valley indicated all mountain roads were open for travel and recreation Sunday. Reports also reported indicated the roads were open for business. It was necessary. Gairna summit was closed as open, but.

Repair crews from the Mountain States Electric and Power company and from Idaho Power company were rushed to the Hailey area to repair the power lines that were downed through Friday night and worked through Friday repairing power lines downed by the storm.

Telephone officials said Saturday that there were no circuits downed in the Hailey area. The only possible circuit was through Arco to Pocatello, but it is to be repaired by Sunday.

Former Filer Man Injured In Car Crash

FILER, Dec. 26 — A former resident of Filer, James Vincent, 47, was killed in a car crash Saturday in a Blackfoot hospital from injuries received in a high speed accident Christmas eve.

Vincent, daughter, Mrs. Don Taylor, reported that the car was hurt when he got out of his car to see why it stopped while he was driving on U.S. 20, about 10 miles west of Arco. Mrs. Taylor said Vincent's car ran over a hole in the road and was thrown by a shocker.

State Patrolman Clarence Norstrom said Vincent was hit by a car driven by Arco. Mrs. Taylor, Warner was not hurt but was taken to Blackfoot hospital for minor injuries. She was released Friday.

Rockefeller Withdraws From Race With Nixon For GOP Nomination

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 26 (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller, millionaire governor of New York, withdrew today from his race with Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination. But he avoided a blunt-cut endorsement of Nixon, but burred unexpected developments, is expected to carry the GOP colors in the presidential election next November. "I am not, and shall not, be a candidate for the nomination for president," Rockefeller said in a statement distributed to newsmen at the state capitol. Referring to the vice presidency he again said finally he would not accept that nomination. In Washington, President Eisenhower declined comment.

Rockefeller said he withdrew because he had found Republican leaders around the country opposed a contest for the nomination. "In the face of this, he said, he would have had to wage a 'massive struggle' in primary election and that would make it impossible for him to be an effective governor.

As he boarded a train to New York City for Philadelphia, Rockefeller repeatedly declined to say anything further. Rockefeller went to Philadelphia to visit his wife's family.

Although he said his decision was "definite and final," he did not rule out the possibility of a draft at the GOP national convention in Chicago next June. In his statement, he did not mention Nixon by name.

Rockefeller's only unexpected announcement had the effect of a political bombshell in Albany and Washington.

Nixon said in a statement that Rockefeller had made "an excellent impression in the states he had visited in the past few months. People throughout the country are very impressed with a leader of national and international stature.

He said Rockefeller was destined for continuing leadership in the Republican party and the nation in the years ahead.

A Nixon side aide Rockefeller's announcement was a surprise to the vice president.

Rockefeller said he expected to replace the Republican nomination and the Republican program in 1960. But observers say qualifications of the party in 1960.

He said Republicans should devote themselves to invigorating the party's spirit and to clarifying the party's goals and objectives. "In this spirit, I expect to support the nominees, as well as the program of the party in 1960," he said.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Continue At Six Per Hour

The Christmas holiday week-end passed the two-thirds mark tonight with traffic deaths occurring at a slightly lesser rate than for a comparable period last year. But worsening weather conditions clouded the picture for the final day. At midnight (EST), 390 traffic deaths were counted compared with 388 for an equal period last year. But the pace for this week-end continued at more than six traffic deaths every hour.

The National Safety Council expressed hope that the final toll for the 10-hour week-end would fall below its estimate of 650 traffic deaths.

The council pleaded for motorists to "plan ahead and allow extra time before starting home." Warnings of possible blizzard conditions were issued for the western Kansas-Nebraska area. The council said that the weather followed heavy snow, yet slowed traffic to a crawl and was expected to be heavy.

With the Hoffas and their ilk becoming intolerable in the country, acts of violence more numerous the country over, particularly in areas governed by political opportunists, the power of labor manifestly is becoming a serious problem, one which congress cannot sidestep much longer.

G. Winfield, Tycoon, Dies On Christmas

RENO, Nev., Dec. 26 (AP)—George Winfield, a cowboy and roulette dealer who became Nevada's most influential tycoon, died Christmas night at the age of 61.

Death came to the banker, hotelman, mining investor and political figure after an undisclosed but lengthy ailment.

Thousands lost most of their savings when his 12 banks closed during the depression. Many years later they got 40 cents on each dollar denoted.

Winfield came to Nevada as a 19-year-old cowboy with a drive of 2,000-head of cattle from Lakeview, Ore., to Winnemucca in 1895. After working at local ranches he became a roulette dealer.

As an associate of U. S. Sen. George Nixon, he invested in banking and mining in Tonopah on the threshold of his 1905 gold boom.

He financed the first successful prospectors at Goldfield and then persuaded miners, who were quibbling over claims, to sell their property to the Goldfield Consolidated Mines company. The miners went to work on their own claims as employees of the firm headed by Nixon and Winfield.

The combined properties eventually produced about 100 million dollars in ore.

Wearing a gun, Winfield and his partners successfully stood off the International Workers of the World, a left-wing labor group that tried to organize Goldfield workers in 1906.

It was frequently said he dominated the state's Republican party from behind the scenes. He was a GOP national committeeman.

Troops Sent Into Dispute In Mid-East

TERRAH, Iran, Dec. 26 (AP)—Iran reported on New York today in its border dispute with Iraq. Army detachments arrived in the frontier town of Fakhri, Bagdad, and Mousavi Jan north of Baghdad, all in the north largest oil refinery and ports reaching the capital, said. Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem in public papers said Iraq laid claim to the whole breadth of the Strait of Arab, a river linking the Persian Gulf with the Red Sea. The dispute caused the Strait to hold up his Caspian sea honeymoon. He had planned to leave Wednesday of Thursday with Queen Farah, whom he married Monday. Foreign Minister Abbas Aram was reported to have told the Senate in private session that "the government believes it is a claim was mostly for home consumption. A serious foreign issue could be used to shore up Iraq's home front, split between leftists and Arab nationalists. The Iraqi news agency Thursday night denied Iranian army reports that Iraq had sent five armored brigades up to the border. A statement broadcast by the Baghdad radio said that the government wants peace but is capable of surprising aggression from whatever source comes.

Rockefeller spent several hours in Boise Nov. 15 during his Pacific Northwest tour. He was honored at a reception at the Idaho hotel and sponsors said attendance was about double what had been anticipated. Republican leaders in Idaho, however, have listed Nixon as their first choice for the nomination. Among those who felt Rockefeller's withdrawal was about assured Nixon the nomination was Sen. KABUL, Pakistan, Dec. 26 (AP)—Army tanks today were reported patrolling the streets of Kabul, Afghanistan, as an aftermath of rioting Monday. Radio Pakistan, attributing its information to reliable sources, said authorities of the neighborhood killed four and another riot was imminent and south Afghan towns have been reinforced by radio reports. The broadcast said the governor of Kandahar province had been ordered to file Monday dispatches which were surrounded and fired on his home. The demonstrators also were reported to have burned a movie theater and three shops and killed two men and a prisoner to free its 400 inmates. Kandahar is Afghanistan's second largest city and is located about 700 miles south of Kabul, the capital. It is the base in a province of 200,000 people. A series of complaints that the decorations were being taken and damaged sent juvenile officers on an extensive investigation. The people who erected the outdoor decorations wanted immediate action and tempers flared against youngsters who would destroy decorations depicting Christmas. Rather than have the youths appear in court during the holidays the officers solved the problem by sending for parties involved and making the youths responsible for restoring and constituting for damages would be made. Officials and the juvenile officers said they are highly appreciative of the attitude of both parents and the youths.

Martial Law Is Lifted in Strike Town

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 26 (AP)—Gov. Orville Freeman today ordered martial law lifted and strikers crowded to work. Freeman and turned the 73 national guardsmen on duty there over to local authorities to help keep peace at the Wilson and company meat-packing plant. The plant, scene of two days of rock-throwing demonstrations two weeks ago, is scheduled to reopen Monday with non-union help. Negotiations between Wilson and the striking United Brotherhood Workers union are set to continue the same day in Chicago. Local officials at Albert Lea expected trouble from strikers who plan to return to their jobs Monday. Venus Called "Frying Pan" By Scientists

CHICAGO, Dec. 26 (AP)—Specimen visiting Venus would literally jump into a frying pan, a scientist reported today. The planet's surface temperature is 565 degrees Fahrenheit—100 hot for any life to exist, for any animal. Similar eavesdropping on radio waves from Jupiter indicate that planet has a radiation halo which would be 100 times more dangerous for specimen than the Van Allen radiation belts around the Earth, said Fred Drake of the National Radio Astronomy observatory, Green Bank, W. Va. Drake spoke at opening sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The heat of a planet produces radio emission of a certain frequency or signal, which can be picked up by sensitive radio telescopes. "The radio studies have supplied the first observation of the hazy surface of Venus, Drake said. The temperature has been nearly 565 degrees—almost three times the boiling point of water—for at least the last three years. The heat could come from a hot core, or more probably be due to the greenhouse-type heating effect from the thick veil of clouds surrounding Venus, Drake said. Venus' clouds were recently shown to contain water vapor. But water on the surface would boil away, making it "very unlikely that life exists. The planetary surface probably consists, at most, of barren rock and deserts."

Mountain Goats Once Were Called "White Buffalo"

White, long-haired and bearded, the mountain goat walks with stiff, deliberate dignity over broken cliffs and almost barren slopes of primitive areas above timber line, disdainfully regarding the more easy existence offered by rich, sheltered valleys below. Early explorers called them "white buffalo." (Fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Rocky Mountain Goats Are Symbols of High Wilderness Regions of Gem State

By HUMBLED Idaho Fish and Game Department

A symbol of high pristine wilderness regions of Idaho, Montana, Washington, the Canadian Rockies and Alaska, the popularly-named wild goat carries the scientific name "Oreamnos americanus" (a member of the "Bovidae" family). More simply, it is one of a small group of mountain antelope, including the European chamois—which means that it has none of the characteristic goat colour and flavor and is very palatable table fare, especially when young.

Recent studies in Idaho indicate that there are about 200 Rocky mountain goats, about 40 per cent of which are in the Salmon river watershed and another 10 per cent in the Clearwater drainage. Other herds are found in the Pioneer range, the south fork of the Payette and upper Boise rivers, along with the Selkirk and Cabinet ranges of northern Idaho.

Game biologists believe that present population figures may be revised upwards now that ground-truthing is being supplemented by aerial surveys, particularly those using helicopters for the work. Accurate information regarding their numbers and distribution is lacking from the early exploration of the northwest to the present day. Old records hereinafter expressed the belief that certain goats were numerous in some areas.

While, long-haired and bearded, the American chamois walks with stiff, deliberate dignity over broken cliffs and almost barren slopes of primitive areas above timber line, disdainfully regarding the more easy existence offered by rich, sheltered valleys below.

It's these ascetic, tough characteristics which have produced over long years the heavy, three-to-four inch deep, heavy, curly wool from which northwest Indians once made choice blankets. Natural wool was selected from its native range, brushed where it had rubbed off, and from the ground where it had been shed naturally. Cleanliness often reaching several bushels per square yard. This the Indians rolled into yarn by hand, then wove into fabric on looms.

The majority of mountain goats are found in small herds, especially in the summer months when they scatter into even smaller groups. Annual migrations take them from elevations as low as 2,000 feet to above the 10,000-foot level, usually within a range of about 15 miles or more, often within the same watershed. This without further embellishment, graphically illustrates the rugged terrain of their habitat.

Their somewhat worried look has nothing to do with the reports of their no-man's-land ranges high among the crags, although Rocky mountain goats do lack the grace and agility of bighorn sheep. Peering from jet-black eyes, crowned with matching rapiers, curved horns and white, goat-like faces, they do have naturally suspicious looks, at least when the curved horns and shaggy coats and ebony trim, their high-shouldered profile, short-legged and crooked legs, and the fact that the animal can be distinguished easily from all other big game.

2813—Visiting the coast of British Columbia and Alaska in the late 18th century, beyond back the first reports of the American chamois, which they immediately dubbed "white buffalo." Descriptions of the animal, as in the diaries of Lewis and Clark, and numerous references to these animals were made by miners and trappers who ventured into the rock-walled canyons of the northwest. But even as late as 1880 there remained some doubt about the reliability of the legendary "white buffalo."

Until 1888, when the Idaho fish and game commission was created, primitive regulations were established by the legislature and as late as 1907, there was a bag limit of one mountain goat for each dollar hunting license, with seasons extending from mid-September through Nov. 30. Nevertheless, kill estimates over some 30 years show no removals of more than 100 animals per year in Idaho except during 1923 and 1924, when a shade over that figure was reached. This year, hunter report cards declare a mountain goat kill of 87, including totals from both general and controlled hunts, with almost exactly a 60-40 sex ratio of bagged animals.

Wide scattering of small herds in the rough mountains presents difficult management problems, especially in obtaining hunter distribution which will harvest annual goat increases properly without depletion of the accessible herds and underharvesting the more isolated animals. Most hunters naturally go after those animals which are most accessible and widely known, while neglecting the others.

The department admittedly has much to learn about the Rocky mountain goat, especially what it does in the winter, but with the coming of the airplane and now, the helicopter, man does not have to endure ground conditions which to the goat may seem no more than alpine.

Plains, although their names over a goat range are too far to accurate census-taking, have improved trend counting immeasurably.

Now the wilderness has returned the techniques greatly—and the department is hovering and taking a second look at one of the state's most interesting big game animals.

Man, 45, Battles Tiger and Wins

TANA RATA, Malaya, Dec. 26 (UPI)—A 45-year-old tea contractor today nursed a slashed thigh and shoulder after fighting a tiger to protect his wife and daughter.

Chan Hai Yee battled the charging animal with only a parang and a machete-like knife, for chopping wood. The animal began to chase Chan, his wife and 1-year-old daughter while they were working on a small tea plantation near here. Chan told his family to go on and then stopped to face the tiger.

There was a brief fight during which Chan succeeded in slashing the animal about the head and neck. The tiger retreated back into the jungle.

Talent to Be Featured for T.F. Pageant

An opportunity for girls in Twin Falls county to display their varied talents is being offered in the Miss Twin Falls Pageant of 1969. The pageant will be held on Wednesday night at the Twin Falls junior high school auditorium, according to Robert Baker, general chairman.

Entries will be on sale Monday and Tuesday at Tanner's Jewelers and on Wednesday at the dry cleaners. Beneficial to Twin Falls Glass and Paint stores and Sherwin-Williams paint store. Tickets also will be sold at the door Wednesday evening. The pageant will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the awards will be given at 9:30 p.m. Two often young ladies who possess exceptional talents never have an opportunity to display them to local citizens can evaluate the wisdom of assisting in building careers for such potentially fine talents, Baker said.

"I don't think the hometown folks aren't interested in helping young girls," he went on. "The idea of doing so just hasn't been brought to their attention before. This year, if you have tried, this year, to correct this oversight, and the prizes, as well as scholarships, donated by the merchants for the 1969 Miss Twin Falls and her runners-up, as well as the winners of each category, have been most gratifying."

Rain Is Welcomed

Driver Is Cited For no License

RUPERT, Dec. 26 — John Romero, Rupert, was cited Friday afternoon for driving without a driver's license.

Romero, driving a 1952 Ford, came over a high canal bridge and struck the rear of a 1953 Ford driven by Thomas Johnson who said he was driving slowly and watching for ducks. Johnson couldn't pass because of an oncoming car. Damages were estimated at $500 to each vehicle.

Minidoka County Deputy Sheriff Howard Platt investigated.

Inventory of Road Safety

BOISE, Dec. 26 (U) — Increased public interest in traffic safety and a reduction in traffic deaths in proportion to total miles traveled are noted today in the "credit" column in the Idaho law enforcement departments' inventory.

In a statement, the department noted that business men make an inventory of their stocks as the year is near. It is now "in fact" the department said, adding:

"It is like the merchants' inventory—it shows problems, none of which are insurmountable. Yet all of the problems cannot be eliminated. The new year presents a challenge for merchants and for traffic safety officials. They can profit by the mistakes of the past and set new goals for more 'profits' during 1969."

In its "debit" column the department listed the 16,000 accidents, 5,100 injuries and 220 deaths up to today.

On the "credit" side it said the number of deaths in relation to miles traveled was down 26 percent.

"Public acceptance, understanding and cooperation," the department added, "are important new elements that have had to be added. During the past few years, the people of the Gem state have evidenced increased interest in supporting official activities in the field of traffic safety."

More Than Entertainment Is Set for Mexico Aerial Tour

BOISE, Dec. 26 (U) — There's more than entertainment in store for fliers who join the annual aerial tour to Mexico sponsored by the Idaho department of aeronautics.

Director Chet Moulton said today. Arrangements now are being made for the ninth annual tour, scheduled for the first two weeks in February. Moulton said he expects about 25 pilots and about twice that many passengers to sign up. The deadline is Jan. 15.

"Many persons have the idea that this tour is just a vacation trip for those who can go," Moulton said. "It is that, of course, but it has an objective much higher than that."

"We find that when our fliers return home from a trip like this they have a great deal more confidence in their flying ability. Then, too, many of those who go along as passengers become interested in flying and soon get their own planes."

Moulton said the trip provides training for civil defense workers, giving the fliers experience in the type of flying which might be needed in transporting first aid teams, as an example.

Moulton said as far as he knows, Idaho is the only state which sponsors such a tour. He said fliers from many other states apply for places on the tour but Idaho pilots get first preference.

St. George, Utah, is the gathering place for those making the tour. They are scheduled to leave there Jan. 31 and cross the border into Mexico Feb. 1.

The return flight across the border is scheduled for Feb. 14. Most of the time in Mexico will be spent at Mexico City and Acapulco.

Regulars Spend Christmas at Sun Valley

Lucille Ball, actress, and her two children have joined the regulars at Sun Valley. Three years ago when she came to Sun Valley to film a television show, the children apparently liked the winter sports so much they returned for Christmas last year and again this season. Lucille Ball is frequently seen in the company of Ann Sothern, another actress who frequents Sun Valley. (Staff engraving)

Mrs. and Mrs. John Kirkpatrick, Kalamazoo, Mich., have been regulars for several seasons. Mrs. Kirkpatrick was the 1938 opening. The Kirkpatricks, who have been in Sun Valley practically each year since their marriage in 1940, this year brought along their son, a young friend and Mrs. Kirkpatrick's mother, Mrs. James Appleton. (Staff engraving)

Loyal 'Alumni' From Throughout U.S. Make Trip to Sun Valley for Christmas

SUN VALLEY, Dec. 26—As popular as it may be with Magic Valley people as a recreation area, it is sometimes a surprise to these same local residents to find that Sun Valley has won a sizeable contingent of loyal "alumni" of sports lovers throughout the nation. The "alumni" group includes not only entertainment personalities and other public figures, but also many "just plain folks" who return to Sun Valley each year from many points out of state.

These guests—and they form a great majority of the Sun Valley population each Christmas—"RO's" or regular guests, in the lingo of the reservation office.

Usually they come on opening day, snow or no snow. "It always snows before Christmas here," they say, "and if it does not, we know we'll still have fun. This year, as many times in the past, their faith was not misplaced. It started snowing in Sun Valley Thursday morning. By noon Thursday there was about six inches of snow on the valley floor and by Christmas night the snow was 22 inches deep.

Among these guests are Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkpatrick, Kalamazoo, Mich. Mrs. Kirkpatrick, then Sally Appleton, was at Sun Valley and by Christmas night the snow was no snow for that opening but it came soon after.

She remembers that in those early days the lift on Dollar mountain used to run until everyone was on top. Then it shut down for 20 minutes while the skiers got down the mountain. Today skiers make the descent in about two minutes and there isn't time to stop the lift before they are ready to go up again.

The Kirkpatricks, who have been here practically every year since their marriage in 1940 this year,

Mystery of Creation of New Life Is Probed by Scientist

CHICAGO, Dec. 26 (AP)—Entirely new life is perhaps being created spontaneously somewhere on Earth right now.

The cradle for life to start from basic chemicals could be in hot springs, or near volcanic areas under the sea, suggests Dr. Sidney W. Fox, Florida State university chemist.

Dr. Fox is one of the researchers trying through laboratory experiments to determine how life on Earth might have begun originally.

By scientific theory, man evolved from primitive glimmerings of life which first began perhaps two billion years ago.

But perhaps life was not just one-time thing, Fox says.

"Although we can with certainty say only that life arose at least once, there is increasing reason to believe that it is possible or even inevitable in many places, at many times," Fox said in a report to the American association for the Advancement of Science.

The AAS opened a six-day national meeting today to hear hundreds of reports in many different fields of science.

Would this new life be strikingly different from forms present today?

The new units of life might be so much like the linear descendants of the earliest life, that we could not tell, Fox says.

Fox and his associates find that heat could be one of the key elements in forming complex protein materials which began living, carrying on life processes and reproducing themselves.

1,500 Acres Reseeded Near Jerome Airport

Steven Kinnaman, is shown operating equipment used to reseed 1,500 acres of rangeland three miles east of the Jerome airport earlier this year. The project was completed in time for the first rain in November. The reseed was done by the bureau of land management and area livestock raisers. According to Gene-Wandelich, BLM range conservationist, Jerome, the BLM sprayed the land with 2-4D last May to kill the sacbrush. Area livestock raisers then provided sufficient funds to pay for workers' wages. ## Writer Says Democrats Only Hope for Farm Legislation

Editor, Times-News:
I see in the Dec. 15 Times-News and again on Dec. 16 where Republican State Chairman Ray Robbins suggests farmers support Democratic legislators in regard to farm legislation.
I very much agree with Robbins.

T. F. Reader Has Poor Opinion of Organized Labor

Editor, Times-News:
If there is space in the Times-News we wish to write on the merits of organized labor and prove that organized labor hasn't any merits—no more than the "tower of Babel."
Take me for example, I say to my fellow workman, "Let's hit up the boss for a raise in pay." If he hasn't enough sense to ask the boss for better pay, why should he be a champion of the laboring man?
I got my start in an Illinois coal mine. There was a state law that you had to be 18 years old to work in a coal mine. I left home but got home.
"Ma, I'm going to put on my pile of clothes and see what happens," said.
"Now, son, don't lie about your age," she answered.
The boss was there. "So, kid, you are 18," he said, "you're just the fellow we need."
I didn't say I was 16.
What is my opinion of organized labor. It is the worst thing in the U. S. The world is looking to us for help and we are taking up with organized labor.
We have something better—that is, organized government.
To consult our highest authority, we read, "By their works ye shall know them."
W. C. STONE

Thanks Extended For Cooperation In T. F. Concert

Editor, Times-News:
On behalf of the Twin Falls Music Club, I want to publicly express appreciation to all musicians who participated in the wonderful musical presentation of Joseph Haydn's Imperial Overture and selections from the Messiah—given at the First Presbyterian church.
Magic Valley was represented by a beautiful chorus and orchestra members who gave unselfishly of their time, talent and energy. Over 11 weeks of rehearsals under the direction of Richard Smith.
We also wish to express our sincere appreciation to the Presbyterian church for the use of its facilities and to the Times-News, All Lake City Tribune and radio stations for their wonderful coverage.
My most sincere thanks to the members of my committee. All were their jobs the utmost cooperation which resulted in a fine program.
I am sure that I speak for all of the people involved in this program when I say that the enjoyment our efforts produced for the people of Magic Valley made all time and talent given very much worthwhile.
MRS. BERT SWEET, JR.
(Twin Falls Music Club)

Editor, Times-News:
I have before me on my desk several clippings from your paper. One group was published June 21, 1959, the other Nov. 19, 1959. I accept my compliments for these very fine farm articles by one of your able writers.

Grange Work Group Plans 1960 Project

HALLEY, Dec. 26—Projects for 1960 were discussed when members of the community service committee of the Upper Big Wood River Grange met at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Spencer this week. Other present were Mrs. and Mrs. John Drexler and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stewart.

Two of the "carry-over" projects discussed were the 4-R program, which is sponsored by the local Grange, and that of helping the Grange hall grounds. Members of the committee will work with the Grange grounds committee on this project.

Special attention was focused on the holiday season, which is being carried on in conjunction with the department of public assistance. Overlooked are badly needed, and anyone having overflows to donate is urged to call on Mrs. John Drexler.

Schooling for retarded children also was discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer showed colored films taken on a trip east last fall, and of last year's Grange picnic held at the North Fork campground.

Registers Sing Happy End to Yule Buying Season

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (UPI)—A jangled Christmas buying season ended with a flourish this week but there were no respite notes on the buying front.

There had been too busy a week to get the exact total of yule sales but all indications are the 1959 buying spree was excellent.

On the darker side, consumers took a rather kick in the pocket from the cost of living, and some for a voluntary settlement.

Stocks Move Irregular in Short Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (UPI)—The stock market during the past week, shortened to four days by Christmas holidays, moved in an irregular fashion under the influence of year-end operations and the usual profit-taking periods, and there were periods of strength. Traders watched the market generally. Also they did some buying to establish losses for the year.

Monday ended the sales for the 1959 income tax return in the regular way. Traders went to regular work for the week but must be made for cash because of the four-day delivery period. Sales to visitors can be made up to the last tick Dec. 31 in regular way.

Monday the Dow-Jones industrial average poked well into high territory but failed to hold. The average for the day was 87.24 at its best and finished at 87.02 off 0.73 point. The record was set on Aug. 3 at 87.10.

Industrial had a loss of more than four points on Tuesday and Wednesday. The Thursday session saw considerable irregularity in reduced volume.

The whole market was much weaker than recent ones. It was the first week that average daily volume fell below three million shares since Oct. 23. Sales for the year to date now have reached a new high since 1929 and for the year will be the third largest on record, exceeded only in 1929 and 1952.

The market fell slightly on average during the week with the rule of utilities and consumer products. A year ago, the situation was just about exactly the same—sales averaging less than three million and the prices showing industrial off and rails and utilities up.

With the stocks in the averages moved rather narrowly all week, there were some very wide swings elsewhere.

Electronics issues produced fireworks on Wednesday and Thursday. Many special issues moved through very well.

Cas enjoyed a better market at times. Tobacco was mixed with American showing strength on a two-for-one split. Retail held in a narrow area. Motors had good market from time to time but failed to hold much in the way of gain.

Alumina rose with their labor troubles were out of the way and the copper improved on indications the big companies would clear up their labor difficulties.

The chemical, drug, construction, alcohol, metals, and tire groups produced some good gains but none set a definite trend. Leadership centered on low-priced issues.

About the only industry that ran a high rate was steel. The others held for the holiday and here statistics generally showed declines from the previous week.

All lines will go through similar operations next week and then run full tilt early in the new year. The economic and corporation heads made many glowing predictions for the new year but none helped the market.

Most Grains Futures Go Up in Week

CHICAGO, Dec. 26 (UPI)—Most grain futures moved higher this week on the Chicago board of trade. Corn held steady, wheat rose, and soybeans up in most of the sessions. Some evening up transactions were made in advance of the close.

Heavy losses over much of the grain belt touched off buying in wheat, corn and soybeans in the week. Compared with last week, wheat was up 1/4 to 1/2, corn unchanged and soybeans up 1/4 to 1/2. Soybeans up 1/4 to 1/2, soybeans up 1/4 to 1/2, soybeans up 1/4 to 1/2.

Trading in wheat was full and featureless. Commission houses and exporters bought. The government added 15 million bushels to its estimate of wheat exports for the season.

Corn was hit by liquidation early in the week as the December contracts expired. Other grain also liquidated, some time. But unfavorable weather later brought prices back up. Receipts were light.

Oats were firm in a mixed trade. A large elevator bought the March and May. Local traders were sell-off.

Rye prices fell sharply, but rallied on short covering and buying due to a strong demand from Turkey and Pakistan bought wheat, while Italy, France and Holland took soybeans. Reports of a utility strike said a business in wheat was pending.

Happy Children Dance "Happy Polka"

Two T. F. Youngsters Like To Polka, Round Dance

Two local youngsters, Beth and Edward Britt, are starting at an early age to become avid dancers. Beth, 9, and Edward, 5, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Britt. (Start photo-entouring)

For square dancing four couples or eight people are required for a square. They are picking up square dancing though. On the occasions when they do go with their parents and a new dance is being taught, they will try the steps. When they first began to learn the children wouldn't go out on the dance floor unless their parents did, but that's a problem anymore. Their mother says they are just a couple of children who have liked music and dancing since they were small and are interested in learning. Beth, a fourth grade student at St. Edward's school, started taking piano lessons this fall and played for the first time in front of an audience after she had taken seven weeks. Edward is in the second grade. Both like to sing and they like swimming and camping. Both enjoy dancing for people, but think the highlight of their brief career so far has been when

Farm; Estate Left in Foundation to Help Area Boys

This is the homestead on the A. P. Rouch farm southwest of Twin Falls. The home and farm were left to the A. P. Rouch and Louise Rouch Foundation fund upon the death of the late Mrs. Rouch. It was the intent of Mr. and Mrs. Rouch that the estate and the money they left be used by the trustees to aid boys who need help within this area. The fund can be used in many ways—anything from providing dental care to college scholarships for boys under 21 in Magic Valley. (Staff photo-engraving)

Pioneer Couple's Trust Fund to Help Area Boys

They are operating to start the Rouch Foundation fund for the benefit of area boys who need help within this area. The fund can be used in many ways—anything from providing dental care to college scholarships for boys under 21 in Magic Valley. The late Mr. and Mrs. Rouch were pioneer residents of Magic Valley. They had no children and always had a great deal of sympathy for worthy boys who were in desperate need of money for any reason. The A. P. Rouch and Louise Rouch Foundation fund has a value now of about $100,000. Before her death in 1933, Mrs. Rouch set up the A. P. Rouch and Louise Rouch Foundation fund. The fund was intended to help boys who need help within this area. The fund can be used in many ways—anything from providing dental care to college scholarships for boys under 21 in Magic Valley. Ten Tons of Salt, 4,000 Tons of Sand to Be Used on Valley Highways This Winter

EROSHORE, Dec. 25.—This winter, about 10 tons of salt and more than 4,000 tons of sanding materials will be spread on 997 miles of highway in this highway district, No. 2, in an effort to keep roads open for traffic. These figures are the amounts of material used last winter, according to John Glasby, Shoshone, district engineer. At the roads get worse for the winter season, the snow season ended last spring. First there was the overhaul of machinery and now crews are getting ready for winter. Winter can present quite a problem to the district. It is the largest district in the state, maintaining roads in Twin Falls, Cassia, Jerome, Blaine, Carma, and Lincoln, Gooding and Custer counties, and parts of Butte, Lemhi and Elmore counties. This totals just three miles under 1,000. All but 40 miles of highway are under 1,000.

Rocks Dumped on Potential Farmland

Jack Wilson, district manager for the bureau of land management, shows some of the rock type of debris dumped on lands throughout the county. There are many unofficial dumping areas in the county. Wilson estimates about 1,000 acres are covered with various kinds of debris. This makes reseeded operations difficult and hinders fire fighting. Most of the areas are along the line of sagebrush on the south side of the Twin Falls and Salmon tracts. Land currently of an use, but which could prove to be valuable farm land when water is available. (Staff photo-engraving)

This is just one of the months that will eat snow off highways in this highway district number two this winter. Harry Hubbard, maintenance supervisor, Shoshone, points to the augers that churn the snow into the middle from where it is blown into the borrow pit. This is one of the rotary snowplows the district maintains. This year about 10 tons of salt and about 4,000 tons of sanding material will be dumped over 997 miles of roads in the district. Parachutist Was Slightly Dismayed At Snafu 15 Miles High Over Earth

ALAMOGORDO, N.M., Dec. 25 (AP)—A parachutist was slightly dismayed at a snafu 15 miles high over Earth today. He "grayed out" but didn't lose consciousness, and was falling at 12,000 feet—after more than 10 miles of uncontrolled fall. He landed without injury, looking back on his experience some days later, he calmly summed it up: "I felt dismayed that I had goofed up. I knew it was going to be a long way down, but I still thought I could make it." That kind of confidence in himself and the equipment he tests makes Joe Kittinger one of the best in the hazardous business of finding out what goes on inside a man's brain and body when his mind falls 150,000 feet through thin air and bitter cold. Kittinger is attached to the aerospace section of the biophysics branch of the Aerospace Medical Laboratory of Wright Air Development Center at Dayton, O. A 31-year-old modern day "daring young man," he missed combat flying but has been staging spectacular, risky stunts to help space research for quite a while. Ten years ago he got his military wings as a fighter pilot at Tuscon, Ariz. Since then, he has flown all sorts of planes, from lumbering old two-engine transports to the nation's fastest jet fighters. On the side, he learned to make parachute jumps and fly balloons in preparation for one of the world's most famous balloon ascents. That was the first "Man-High" ride in June, 1957. He rose to 85,000 feet and stayed there for one hour and 50 minutes. For that feat he received the distinguished flying cross. "I'm, blue-eyed and fiery haired," Joe was born in Tampa, Fla., July 27, 1928. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Kittinger, are now living in Orlando, Fla., where his father and brother operate a business equipment company. He was assigned to the 8th fighter-bomber group in Munich, Germany, where he met Pauline (Continued on Page 21, Column 2)

Unofficial Dump Grounds Result of 'Growing Pains'

Twin Falls is starting to feel a pain peculiar to any growing area. One of the current problems concerns how to handle the various trash dumping areas throughout the county. For many years trash and refuse have been dumped indiscriminately throughout the county in out-of-the-way areas. But as the county grows, this practice is no longer practical or advisable. The cities in the county have started to dump their trash in a more controlled manner. A new dump is providing adequate maintained dump areas for county residents. One of the first steps is the proposed ordinance. It recommends setting up specified places for such dumping, defining areas and providing that all dumping be done at these points, making noncompliance a misdemeanor. Harvey says interest in the problem was generated in part by a letter to the commission from the bureau of land management. The letter called attention to the many areas throughout the county that are being defiled by dumpsites. Jack Wilson, district manager of the bureau of land management, estimates about 1,000 acres of land in Twin Falls county are covered with various small, scattered dumps. He says that such dumping areas are "not only a disgrace and a blot on the landscape, but they also are a source of noxious odors and dust. Such dumps usually are located in areas that are not suitable for agricultural or residential purposes. (Continued on Page 21, Column 2)

Land in Silver Creek Area Being Reclaimed for Farming Use by Unusual Irrigation Method

Robert Ditch, technician for the Blaine county soil conservation district at Halley, stands by checkgate about 10 feet down a drain ditch on a field owned by Silas Dayley, Silver Creek, where power and Angus breeder. By shutting this checkgate and backing up the drain water, Dayley submerges his field about one-fourth of a mile on each side. Ditch estimates flow presently at about 100 inches. The carrying capacity for the whole ranch is expected to be 800 head of cattle that Winton Gray has made recently out of brushland and weeds in the Silver Creek area. In the distant right center is Mr. Ralby. (Staff photo-enslaving)

This deep drain ditch, running north and south on Ralby Griffith's ranch south of Glennet, is being cut deep to drain out the high water in the area. The water is presently muddy and runs out of the soil on the gravel bottom. It flows all year and will clear up after work has stopped. (Staff photo-enslaving)

Unusual Irrigation Method Is Applied With Some Success Near Silver Creek

GANNETT, Dec. 26—An irrigation method unknown elsewhere in Magic Valley has been applied with some success the past few seasons to areas along Silver Creek south of Glennet.

Some ranchers have been substituting grain fields and meadows just by checking their drainage ditches, with the moisture reportedly reaching out for one-fourth of a mile on each side.

These drainage ditches—unlike those on Snake river tracts—are deep shafts in the ground, about 10 feet deep to gravel and always running north and south. Water flows clear in the ditches even now, coming from the soils anywhere in the valley south from Halley and then into Silver Creek.

A strikingly new ranch that is all but completed this fall has been built—a straddle Silver Creek in about one year by Winton Gray, who lives in Sun Valley.

Land Cleared

Gray, who formerly ran the Middlehorse concession for tourists at Sun Valley and had leased the Sun Valley ranch for a number of years for his cattle, has cleared, leveled and ditched about 600 acres in an area that would have been considered worthless two years ago.

The land was overrun by objectionable weeds and grasses, sedge, rushes, waterlilies and water hyacinth. The land also was deep in the earth under the Picabo hills and form a dam against the half the growing season. A horse wasn't allowed to graze in those wet places for fear of losing him before he found solid footing in gravel.

Gray's land now is dry and diked in part, ready for irrigating grass. He will plant next spring. He also is constructing a winter feed yard for about 800 head of cattle.

He has two artesian wells, one tapping out with 200 inches of water and the other with 120 inches. He also has dug a pump well across the geological fault that separates large heads of water in late spring the area where the artesian waters are found. From it he pumps an additional 150 inches of water.

Just how this land is being reclaimed, and partly sub-irrigated involves a bit of geological history.

Soil conservation Technicians Tom Curtis and Darrell Callup, Twin Falls, have worked closely in the reclamation area. They say Big Wood river once flowed direct from Halley to Bellevue into the Picabo hill country, where it deposited silt. As the deposits piled up, the river cut deeper and deeper. The river couldn't cut deeper as the winter, using snowshoes to get across the fields. At no time was the water table lower than a few feet below the surface.

Piezometers were installed in other holes to record the pressures of these waters just under the surface, and to help decide what kind of drains should be dug.

The pressure was intense, as everyone suspected, because of the underlying rock that dammed the water under the Picabo hills.

Relief drains were then dug on Silas Dayley's ranch, always down to gravel where the water could flow, and always north and south so that the water drained from all sides of the land. When these drains are first dug, the water is muddy, but soon it becomes crystal clear.

In a remarkably short time within the same season, the meadows near the ditches dried out to gravel where the water could flow, and always north and south so that the water drained from all sides of the land. When these drains are first dug, the water is muddy, but soon it becomes crystal clear.

Dayley took advantage of the situation and installed check gates in the ditches to sub-irrigate adjacent areas. Now Gray also has check gates installed to back up the water to a height of 10 feet or more, to irrigate his contemplated pastures.

Supplemental Water

After the land was dried, some of it perhaps for the first time in centuries, the next concern of ranchers was to find supplemental irrigation water.

Artesian waters were found elsewhere in the valley, but none in this area. Dean Rogers, who lives in Gooding, but ranches nearby, hit an artesian well back in 1954. With his luck as an example, others tried for the cheap water source. They had good luck, too.

Henry Hurst hit artesian water, and then also Harvey Bickett in September, 1958. Bickett hit the water at 181 feet, and out came 120 inches of rain. The water was dug through the area. All of these empty into Silver Creek.

Shipments of Hay From Valley Reported Slower

Shipments of alfalfa hay from Twin Falls and surrounding areas have slowed considerably in the past two weeks, reports a local hay buyer and hauler who is in close touch with the feed situation throughout the state.

Until two weeks ago, he was trucking four loads of hay daily to Boise valley but now he is sending an average of only one truckload a day.

Surprisingly, the bulk of the hay going out of this area is first cutting rather than third, which usually is preferred by dairymen around Boise.

Apparently, weather damage to third cutting hay was so widespread in Magic Valley that their preference now is for first cutting alfalfa, eight uncut.

Heavy, prolonged rains this fall blackened much of the hay in this area, cutting down on nutrient value.

Report Is Asked On Products for "Poisons" Probe

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (UPI)—A farm leader calls on the health, education and welfare department to avoid a repetition of the cranberry and caponette chicken incidents.

Home R. Brinkley, executive vice president of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, asked department Secretary Arthur S. Flemming to tell farmers what other products are being investigated and what they can do to protect consumers from any danger.

Season, Gray is figuring on running 800 head on 600 acres, but the chances are that if he gets a good stand of the bromo, Orchard and also fescue grasses that he intends to plant next season his capacity may exceed his estimates.

As for other benefits of draining the land, liver flukes have stopped infesting the cattle now raised by sales of the certificates, which will mature Aug. 1, 1960, will finance the "supper" loans on commodities except cotton.

grasses from producing ample feeds for cattle, hay is reported at $40 per ton.

To avoid buying more high-priced hay than necessary, California range operators are reportedly wintering their cattle on rations that consist of about five pounds of alfalfa and some mixed south to Nevada.

The full of hay shipments from this area is quite normal through, said the local buyer, but what makes it seem abnormal is that last year at this time there was no hay on the amount of hay going to the Boise valley or south to Nevada.

Farm Forecast Brighter As Drop Looms for Pigs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (UPI)—Government economists are brightening up their forecasts for next spring's agriculture now that a big contraction in hog production is in prospect.

An agriculture department survey shows an 11 per cent cutback in pigs is in prospect for the 1960 spring crop. Hogs led this year's downward "farm press" and contributed to official forecasts that 1960 would see a further decline in farm income.

All other things being equal, a sizeable drop in hog production this year would be expected to bring a big improvement in livestock prices. Only of hogs but of beef cattle, sheep, lambs and chickens. Because most of the production these animals and chickens are interchangeable with the consumer demand, any change in the price of one usually is reflected in prices of the others.

Naturally, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson was pleased with the changed outlook. He has been under sharp criticism of Democrats and of some Republicans as "a consequence of—of this year's per cent reduction in farm income."

Of course, actual production of hogs might turn out to be different. There have been times in the past when just such a report influenced many producers to change their plan with resulting total production much different from the forecast.

Assistance Asked

In 1954, Silas Dayley, a wheat farmer and Angus breeder, approached the soil conservation service and asked for technical assistance in draining the lands. He soon was joined in his request by other ranchers, including Dean Rogers, W. Patterson, William Strubbe, Old Chasman and Winton Gray.

Soil surveys were made of the area. Observation holes or wells were dug in five strips across 1,500 acres of test land. These holes were augured (sometimes the augurs broke in the hardpan that today resembles a shell) which is brought to the surface and three-inch pipes were placed down to the gravel.

At two-week intervals the water surface in the wells was read and recorded. Robert Ditch took readings on these wells every during the winter, using snowshoes to get across the fields. At no time was the water table lower than a few feet below the surface.

Piezometers were installed in other holes to record the pressures of these waters just under the surface, and to help decide what kind of drains should be dug.

Probate Judge, Deputy Prosecutor Discuss Juvenile Problems in County

Probate Judge J. Dean Mosher, left, discusses a juvenile case with Laurence R. Quinn, deputy prosecuting attorney. Judge Mosher has proposed that the county add personnel to the court staff so that the probate court can better handle juvenile cases. It is Judge Mosher's philosophy that children should be helped, not punished, and he believes some trained social workers must be hired to fill out the juvenile department. He admits such a program will cost the county money, but he stresses it is much cheaper to rehabilitate a young juvenile offender than pursue and detain an adult criminal. (Staff photo-enlarging)

Plan of Probate Judge for Juvenile Department Is Being Discussed Now

Twin Falls Probate Judge J. Dean Mosher's plan to create a juvenile department of probate court is being discussed by residents of Twin Falls county who are interested in juvenile problems. The budget for the proposed program will be approved tentatively Jan. 11 and finally approved Feb. 8. Judge Mosher recently proposed a plan for expansion of the juvenile department of the probate court which would enable the court to better handle the many juvenile cases.

Judge Mosher points out that handling juvenile cases is one of the most important duties of the court and the way the present court handles them is not the best. The juvenile department doesn't get the attention it requires and deserves. He proposes adding three full and part-time employees to the department so juvenile cases can be dealt with more extensively and adequately. He stresses that action taken on juvenile cases involving youngsters under 16 years old has a great effect on how those individuals will fit into society as adults.

Not provided in Past Department. In the past, the county never provided a full-time juvenile probation officer to deal with these cases. He says state statutes provide for such an officer, but the county hasn't felt the need to provide such a person. Judge Mosher believes the time has arrived when Twin Falls county must provide such an officer and a juvenile department.

He points out that Twin Falls county is the only county in the state that does not provide a full-time probation officer. He doesn't know why such an officer hasn't been provided in the past, but notes the 17 boys who appeared before him in a single day early in December certainly point up the need for such a department.

Judge too busy. Until this year the county didn't have any person, other than the judge himself, to deal with juvenile cases outside the city limits. The judge is too busy with other court details to spend enough time on juvenile cases. This year the county worked out a cooperative method of dealing with county cases. Ernest Malow, city juvenile officer, was hired to work part time with county cases. Judge Mosher points out this was an improvement over the past, but there is a need for a full-time probation officer. He says the city set up a juvenile department several years ago because it saw the need.

main objective. If he becomes involved in the details of the investigation it becomes increasingly difficult to be objective. He points out that one of the big advantages of a probation officer is that it would provide someone to whom to parol the juvenile for observation and guidance. The present arrangement, the juvenile officer is paroled to the individual who was responsible for his arrest. This is not the best psychological method in which to handle many juvenile cases, Judge Mosher says.

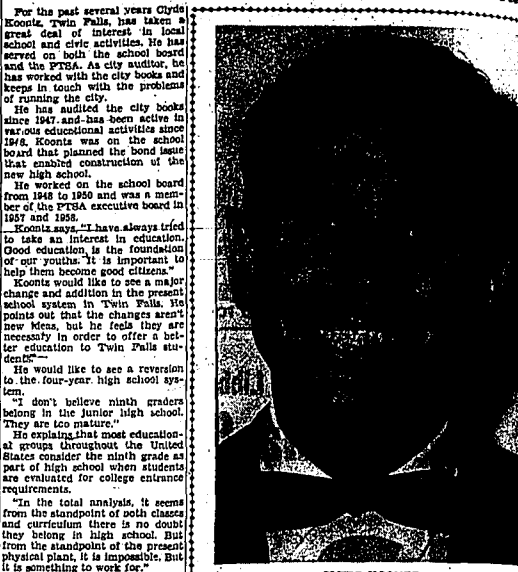

Little accomplished. "I believe that too many times a child who is committed to an industrial school is simply taken away from the family and never accomplishes little. The best place to rehabilitate juveniles is in the community. It costs less and the results are better—but it won't work unless you have someone to work with them. He points out that juveniles must have confidence in the probation officer—confidence that it will give them a fair hearing and a just decision.

Penalty for Failure. "If the probation officer fails to rehabilitate these boys and girls, they will, in all probability, be a charge on society the rest of their lives. If we make one wrong step, we can lose someone for the rest of his life. Pointing out how the law differs in its treatment of adults and juveniles, Judge Mosher explains that the state provides a probation officer to care for the adults, but not for the juveniles. A probation officer for juveniles. "Why should we provide one for adults and not for juveniles?" Judge Mosher asks. "It is cheaper to provide a person now, rather than later pay for imprisonment and detention for the rest of his life."

Additional Proposed. To cope with the problem of juveniles cases before the court, Judge Mosher has proposed additions to the court, which would create a working juvenile department. "First, he would like the county to

Clyde Koontz Has Been Interested in School and City Activities for Years

CLYDE KOONTZ

For the past several years Clyde Koontz, Twin Falls, has taken a great deal of interest in local school and city activities. He is interested on both the school board and the P.T.S.A. As city auditor, he has worked with the city books and kept in touch with the problems of running the city. He has studied the city books since 1947 and has been active in various educational activities since 1946. Koontz was on the board of the P.T.S.A. and has been instrumental in the construction of the new high school. He worked on the school board from 1948 to 1950 and was a member of the P.T.S.A. executive board in 1951 and 1952.

Koontz says, "I have always tried to take an interest in education. Good education is the foundation of our youths. It is important to help them become good citizens. Koontz would like to see a major change and addition in the present school system in Twin Falls. He points out that the change is not new, but he feels they are necessary in order to offer a better education to Twin Falls students. He would like to see a reversion to the four-year high school system. "I don't believe ninth graders belong in the junior high school. They are too mature." He explains that most education in the United States is in the United States outside the north grade as part of high school when students are qualified for college entrance requirements.

In the total analysis, it seems from the standpoint of both costs and curriculum there is no doubt they belong in high school. But from the standpoint of the present physical plant, it is not clear, but it is something to work for. Koontz points out there is a great difference in the security of seventh- and ninth-grade students. This difference contributes to the difference in the physical problems in the junior high school. He believes it would be good for the ninth graders attend themselves to be placed in a position where they are the freshman of a four-year high school. The second aspect of the local school situation that Koontz would like to see changed is the lack of auditorium facilities. He says a good auditorium that could be used by both the school and the community would be a natural enrichment of both school and community. He thinks the school should have a stop-gap that must eventually be supplemented with an auditorium of about a 3,000-person seating capacity. As city auditor, Koontz's basic plan is to see that the sources of cash are properly disposed and dispersed. A recent project of Koontz is the city's accounting system for the city. Koontz notes that Twin Falls is a growing city, but that it hasn't had a Republican administration since 1927. He laughs and says he never was asked what party he belonged to. He was simply replaced with a party worker when the new administration took office in 1952. Koontz was born in Fort Saline, Idaho. He moved to Camas prairie country where his family just a few days later. He has lived in Idaho since then. Koontz's father was a rancher in that area, near Corral. He died when Koontz was several years old. The family left the Camas area and lived in several towns, finally settling in Boise, Idaho. Koontz finished high school in 1924 and was graduated in 1927 with a major in accounting and a minor in business administration. After graduating from college he came to Twin Falls and worked as a junior accountant for L. M. Benton. In 1928 he went to the board of directors of the Idaho City of Certified Public Accountants and is presently president of that organization. He has been on the board since 1927. He also is a member of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and has been a member of the Magic Valley Industrialists since 1943.

Many Gem Products Turned Out in Shop

Novelty Jewelry Shop in Shoshone Is Using Equipment All Made by Hand

ROSHONE, Dec. 26—Mr. and Mrs. Roger B. Pickering, who of late recently from Plattsburgh, N.Y., have opened a novelty jewelry shop where native stone is tumbled, cut and set into finished product.

Everything they have or use, from the tumblers, to the holding cards and display sections, is hand-made. The small commercial saw they use has been adapted for their use, with a little can bolted over the cutter from which tiny drops of water are controlled to take the heat off the stone when it is being cut.

To display the dainty necklaces, Pickering designed a wire stand from an clothes hanger. He uses a special punch to make the catches in the cards to hold such things as the clasps and necklaces.

Value of the Pickering "discoveries" in the art was acclaimed in a gem tumbling magazine, published by the Victor, Spokane, recently.

Pickering is accredited with the idea of using the ordinary round jump ring and New Miracle Epoxy cement to connect the stone and chain. This eliminates the unsightly cap that usually covers the pret-

Richfield Has Yule Parties For Students

RICHFIELD, Dec. 26—Christmas parties were held in both Richfield schools Tuesday afternoon with the high school party held in the study hall, which had been decorated as part of the contest. The junior class took first prize for life size paintings of Christmas figures.

Donna Striegel, student body officer, made presentations of cash awards to class presidents, Douglas Stuber, the Juniors, and David Whitesell, for the freshman class which won second place for decorating the hall; Tommy Armstrong, sophomore vice president, third place winners; and Margaret Blinton, seniors, fourth place.

Edward Rees, student body president, announced the program. Pierr selections were played by Marilyn Crowther, Sandra Huubmuth, and Helen Altschuler. Boyd King sang and played a guitar accompaniment, and the high school chorus sang, directed by the Rev. Paul Winkler.

Refreshments were served by Elaine Drush, David Whitesell, and Carol Haulby and other student council members.

Elementary students joined for caroling in the halls preceding parties in their rooms. Mrs. Harold Williams was piano accompanist.

Christmas stories were read in many rooms and short programs given preceding gift exchanges and treats served by the teachers. The sixth grade presented a program for the fifth grade guests.

A parody of "The Night Before Christmas" was given with Linda Sanders as narrator. Others taking part were Bruce Carver, Linda Riley and Minnie Pope. Songs were presented by Irene Spencer, Bruce Carver and Fred Peterson, and Christmas story was read by Glennis Conner.

Eighth grade students, directed by principal F. R. Briggs, put on a talent show. Pat Riley and Miss Helen Bae were presented prizes as winners. Riley sang and Miss Bae played the piano.

Other contestants were Lana Beyer, Karen Letwin, Marie Riley, Kathy Swainson, Billy Rees, Elaine Behr and Janet Armstrong.

Holiday Visitors Listed for Unity

UNITY, Dec. 26—Mr. and Mrs. Jay Berry and family, Logan, and family, Salt Lake City, will be guests next week of Mr. and Mrs. Glenda Baker, student at Brigham Young University, Provo, in the south hills last week.

On Tuesday, Floyd Sherry and Warrick (Bud) Bennett, both Twin Falls, stayed their hounds on the track of the cougar in the fresh snow in the general area of the fifth fork of Rock creek. They chased the big cat all day, through the high timbered and ridge country, until it was too dark to continue the hunt. Some of the dogs from the pack didn't come in that night to the next morning they picked up Merle Cherry, Kimberly, and his cat hounds.

They started the hounds on the track of the cat and chased him all day but never tiring him. About 4 p.m. they found a fresh kill, a four-point buck, that the cougar had made in the Langford Flat creek drainage area.

Cherry notes they could tell by the track of the cat before he killed the buck that he seemed to be approaching cautiously through the timber. The cat's tracks revealed he was zig-zagging through the timber toward a certain point. The cat finally leaped from a rock ledge and killed the big buck in his tracks. When they inspected the carcass they discovered why the cat had slowly worked his way through the timber towards the buck. The buck wore a small red and white bell around his neck. Cherry thinks the big cat heard the bell tinkling through the timber and his curiosity slowly led him to the buck in the canyon.

A call to Conservation Officer Martin Rhodes revealed that the buck was undoubtedly one of the game department tagged with a bell two years ago as a method to study the migratory habits of mule deer. He says the Idaho state game department and the Nevada state game department have worked together on a study of the migratory habits of the deer in the Idaho-Nevada border area.

Cat Hunters Get Plenty of Exercise

These cats led these men on a hard chase through the south hills shortly after the first snow. Rich and Smith, left, Twin Falls, and Merle Cherry, Kimberly, got the 150-pound cougar after they and other hunters had chased it for three successive days. The big bobcat—it weighed 36 pounds—was a tough proposition, too. He wouldn't lose. The men and hounds chased him nearly all one afternoon before they finally bagged him shortly before dark.
