Full Falls city commissioners voted Monday night to have the city attorney include three areas in a proposed annexation ordinance. It is anticipated this annexation will be considered for final action March 1.

Areas voted upon are a tract with six houses west of the Martin street section of The Wood subdivision, two houses on the east side of Sunrise boulevard north of the intersection of the road with the road running directly north of Blair Orchard subdivision, and the Smallwood subdivision on Washington street south of the intersection with adjacent property bordered on the east by L street and on the south by the intersection of

Widened Bill Prospects Poor

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Widened area legislation has little chance of passing in the Senate, a source said.

Gov. Earl Warren said today that he would not support a bill to abolish the death penalty unless it included the provision that "you can let me die." Cheeseman wrote Gov. Edmund G. Brown in a 10-page letter, written in 1957, in which he said that the state prisoner's death row "for 15 years."

He has told congressionalists that the house probably will not act this year on bills to set up and preserve wilderness areas across the country.

Aspinall is chairman of the subcommittee on the committee on the interior. He said the legislation he introduced last week would not be passed until after the first day of the special session. It was obvious the lawmakers would reject Brown's demand for a penalty repealer unless something unusual happens to change their minds.

The trouble began when the doctor tried to furnish steam heat for the home by 10 p.m. Monday, leaving the building without heat. An appeal for a dozen plumbers failed. By 11 a.m., the heat was hoisted from the Pullmer Furniture and Appliance company.

However, the electric heaters require heavier voltage than the electric water heaters. The doctor is keeping patients warm by keeping temperatures outside was there.

All flames were blown and electricians and plumbers worked until 11:30 p.m. when the heat was restored. The city department of civiliation has been working order.

Meanwhile, patients, two of whom are bedridden, were kept comfortable by more cold blankets and blankets in the fireplace in the living room.

Some of the patients are able to go outdoors and the doctor said a side-of-the-bowler being off.

The heat caused all the water in registers throughout the house to drain out of the boiler, flooding the basement.

Plumbers are being warmed today by electric heaters. Mrs. Robbitt said, after electricians installed the new electric water heaters, the heat has been restored and is expected to be on line Wednesday.

Plumbers and electricians, the Jackson Plumbing and Heating company, estimated cost of the new boiler, plumbing and labor, at approximately $3,000.

Mrs. Robbitt said she "was never scared in my life when I was alone."

The only employees who were not employed by the Pullmer Furniture company, Charlotte Leisher, the other helper, was with her son who was in the hospital.

There is no insurance on the boiler.

She said she will give you proposal to the largest boiler chance . . .

West to Ask Formation of World Force

LONDON, March 1 (UPI)—The western powers plan to propose to the Soviet Union the creation of an international police force charged with keeping the peace everywhere in the world.

The plan is part of a three-year global disarmament program now being prepared for presentation at the Geneva disarmament conference March 15-20, according to a source here.

The international police force would come into operation under the plan when the disarmament talks have fully developed.

With the western and Soviet powers envisage total disarmament of their armaments.

But the western allies feel that this cannot be done with disarmament talks alone. They believe a national force to police the peace in a disarmed world.

Under the allied disarmament plan, now in preparation for the Geneva disarmament conference, the world would be divided into four under four international control.

In the partial absence of national forces, the proposed international force would be responsible for a new international peace organization.

Allies to Fly Higher Than Russ Limits

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UPI)—The United States, Britain and France have decided to frame flying the air corridors between West Berlin and West Germany at 10,000 feet. This is in practice with Soviet air fighter planes have interfered in the past.

The three western powers, with about 11,000 troops to maintain a protective force in West Berlin, have long insisted that there is no limitation on the altitude at which their supply and transport aircraft can fly into and out of West Berlin. The air corridors traverse the territory of communist East Germany.

The Soviet Union, by contrast, has claimed a 10,000-foot ceiling was established by agreement between the Soviet and allied authorities years ago. Moscow contends that any flight above that limit is a violation which can subject the airlift to interference in the attention of Soviet fighter planes.

The issue was sharply defined last March 27 and April 15 when several U.S. transport planes flew above 10,000 feet in the airlift corridors over East Germany.

Soviet fighter planes made passes around the U.S. aircraft, after a series of accusations between Moscow and the Western allies, the practice of flying above 10,000 feet was halted. Although the right to do so was firmly asserted by the U.S., British and French governments.

Budge Sees Burns Creek Rate Boost

BOISE, March 1 (UPI)—Rep. Hiram H. Budge, R. Ida., said today he expects the Burns Creek rate to be increased by the Federal Power Commission.

Wayne Aspinall, D. Colo., has been advised that the proposed Burns Creek rate increase in the maximum 50-year pay-out period required under reclamation law.

The chairman will reconvene the committee to take testimony from the bureau of reclamation. Budge said here in an interview, and it is expected the testimony will include a statement that the power rates from Burns Creek and Palmdale will probably have to be increased to make the project pay out in the period required.

The congressman said he was not yet ready to make known his intentions to see a sixth term as representative of Idaho's second district.

"I won't announce until after I return to Washington," he said.

Waitresses Become Tired of Hearing Same Expressions

By HAL HOYLE
NEW YORK, March 1 (UPI)—Remarks that waitresses get tired of hearing, or overhearing:

"What's a pretty dame like you doing working in a place like this?"

"I know I asked for my steak and—done, but I changed my mind. Take it back and ask the chef if he can make it rare."

"Whaddya have to do to get some around here, huh, huh, huh, huh?"

"If they wouldn't be half bad if only they were in a place."

"Fodder me for being alone. After all, I'm just a customer."

"Whaddya get on for tonight, huh?"

"I asked for J.A.V.A. not Java."

"I know you did, kid. How'd you like to leave all this and go to work in Hollywood?"

"I know I said no substitution, but can't you make it salad instead of the surcouff?"

"Whaddya do for excitement in this town, huh, huh, huh?"

"What happened, did the dishwasher say hello with the chef again?"

"Now, I haven't been waiting here long. I need a place where I can come in."

"Never mind the sugar, honey. Just dip your finger in it."

"Let me speak to the manager, or better still, someone from the board of health."

"The coffee's usually good here. Whaddya do for excitement in this town, huh, huh, huh?"

"If George Washington dined here, he must have used this same tablecloth."

"Here you are, kid. Buy yourself another bowl, honey."

"I hear in this place even the chef brings his own lunch."

"It couldn't be a statue. I saw her move."

"I tell you I ordered chow mein, not French meringue, pie. But what's the difference? Leave it here anyway."

"If that soup isn't cold, how come you had your thumb in it when I brought it?"

"Let me take you away from all this, sweetie, and the world will be waiting on you."

"There may be snow on the roof, baby, but there's still fire in the boiler."

"Whaddya getting so stuffy about? After all, you can't blame a guy for trying."

Cattle Group Sets Meeting On Saturday

GOODING, March 1 (UPI)—The annual meeting of the Idaho Cattle Association will be held at the Gooding Hotel Saturday.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. and the business meeting will begin at 12:30 p.m.

An informative program has been arranged by the executive board. This will include a talk on "Pasture financing of beef cattle" by John H. Breckenridge, Idaho Falls, a prominent leader in the Idaho livestock industry.

Wade Wolf, annual secretary, Gooding, will present the most advanced program on "Improvement of your herd."

Vincent D. Kennedy, University of Idaho extension economist, will elaborate on the advantages and disadvantages of the new law of applied or small registration law, as it applies to cattlemen. Officers will present the latest information on state and federal affairs within the cattle industry. The business meeting will conclude with the election of officers.

A special hour beginning at 6 p.m. in the VFW hall has been arranged by Robert L. Anderson of the Gooding Beef Security bank.

Gooding Extension, Twin Falls, will be master of ceremonies for the annual banquet starting at 7:30 p.m. Dancing will follow the banquet with Vern Soever's "Rhythm-Mix," Boise, furnishing the music.

California Law
On Reds Upheld
WASHINGTON, March 1 (UPI)—The supreme court today upheld California law requiring denial of any public employee who refuses to answer questions as to whether he is a member of the Communist party.

The law applies whether the questions are asked by state legislative or congressional investigators.

The court ruled on a joint appeal by Thomas W. Nelson and Arthur H. Hays who were fired as Los Angeles county social workers because they had refused in 1956 to tell the House committee on un-American activities whether they were Communist party members.

KTFI Cooking School Proves Adaptability Of Radio Rodeo for Large Assemblies

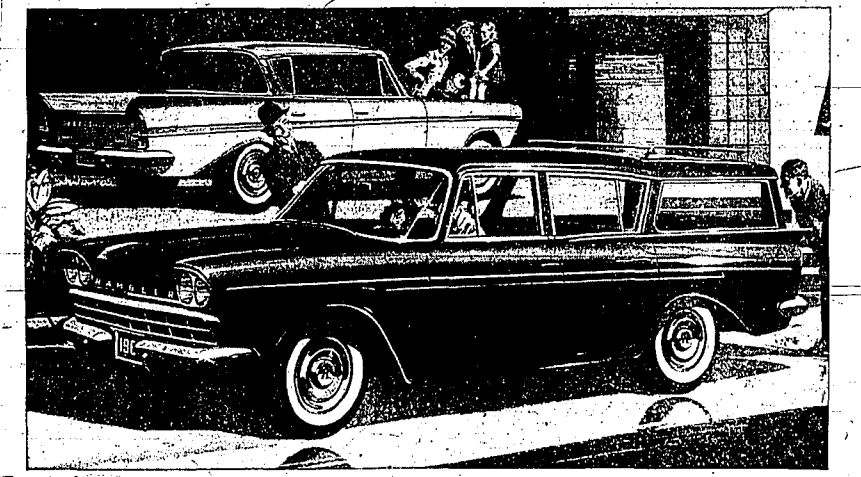

Pictured above is just a part of the crowds that thronged the second annual KTFI Cooking School for four days. Conducted by Ruth Hagen and Corrinna Hammett, well-known food experts from the National Livestock and Meat Board of Chicago, and sponsored by Idaho Power Company, the sessions were even more enthusiastically received by Magic Valley homemakers this second year.

Overlooking crowds in attendance at the cooking school last year made it necessary to find a larger hall for future sessions. This year the school was held at the Community Center in the Idaho Falls building. With a seating capacity of 1,500, this large hall handled the increased crowds efficiently and comfortably. The convenient location in the heart of the downtown shopping district proved popular with the attending crowds, and the wide rear doors, opening directly off the alley, made it possible for exhibitors to bring in and set up their displays with a minimum of effort. Most important of all was the fine acoustics that made it possible to hear every word in any part of the hall.

Starting early in the fall, these Community Center facilities in the Radio Rodeo building will be available for conventions, assemblies, entertainment or as a large display room. The hall will be available for either one-day or continuous dates. Reservations may be made by calling DE 3-2381.
