4-Car Mishap Is Caused by Wrong Pedal

Eugene Pickett, 31, Oakley, pushed the wrong pedal on his 1958 Lincoln Friday afternoon and started a chain reaction in the 100 block of Main avenue north that damaged four cars and caused an estimated $750 worth of property damage.

Pickett told investigators he accidentally stepped down on the gas pedal instead of the brake pedal as he was pulling into a parking space. The Lincoln rolled forward into the rear of a 1959 Plymouth, struck the Plymouth into a 1957 Chevrolet, which in turn rammed a 1959 Dodge.

Damage to the Plymouth, owned by the Chase Ice company of Portland, was estimated at $200. The Chevrolet owned by Jim H. Antler, on J. Hill, received about $100 damage and the 1959 Dodge, owned by Mrs. Max Martin, H. 11-11, received about $100 damage. The Lincoln sustained about $150 damage. The three parked cars were all unoccupied.

They Intended to Wreck Whole Building

All these two 8-year-olds had to say when police arrived at Omaha's Lathrop school annex and put a stop to a rampage that wrecked several rooms was "we intended to wreck the whole building." Here they walk out of one room as a policeman watches. School officials would only say that the damage was "very" over $1000. The basement was nearly flooded from rainwater funneled wide open on the first floor. Paint and foodstuffs were thrown against the walls. (AP wirephoto)

Oakley Man Hurt In Road Accident

BURLEY, March 26 — Ira E. Martindale, 44, Oakley, received severe head lacerations in a two-vehicle collision at 7:30 p.m. Friday nine miles south of Burley on highway 25.

He was treated at the Cottage hospital but not admitted. The 1953 Pontiac, he was driving collided with a Michigan loaded truck owned by the Klopfer Read-Mix company, Paul, driven by Delmar Deaver, 23, Haysden.

Deaver was cited by State Trooper Marvin Snyder for driving without red lights on the rear of his equipment. The loader, which has to be driven backward on the highway, had only one light and when Martindale saw this one glaring light, he thought it was a vehicle on the wrong side of the highway, the patrolman said.

Martindale turned to the right and the bucket of the loader, which was raised two to three feet from the ground, came down across the radiator and engine of the Pontiac which traveled only 12 feet after the crash.

Sheriff LeFaye Layton said the calf had got loose from the yard on the highway, had only one light and when Martindale saw this one glaring light, he thought it was a

Writer Says Articles Failed to Highlight Education Problem

Editor, Times-News:
A great many questions were raised by your editorial in last Sunday's Times-News regarding our school board's 1960-61 budget. You said the board did not do very cleverly, but you failed to enlighten anyone on the problems that confront education in Twin Falls. Several articles, and often dollars that you said would amount to only a few pennies, pointed out that only a handful of citizens vote in school board elections, electing men who are to handle more than one million dollars' worth of tax money by calling attention to the fact that court meetings, though open to the public, are very little attended by the public.

I have spent many a Monday night listening to the board's deliberations. For a whole year the matters discussed by you in your editorial have been the same. You often say I was alone, never did I see you, Mr. Editor, nor anyone else, but your articles have been more than enough for me. I am sure that you, Mr. Editor, will not be interested in the question of how education is financed on our home ground? No, by no means. It was the request for funds from the national defense education act that got your typewriter started. It is as if the devil himself had descended upon the Twin Falls community to lure it into damnation. Reference to Mr. Wilson's article on the tax foundation for education is more than a mere reference; it is a budget request. I am sure that you, Mr. Editor, will not be interested in the question of how education is financed on our home ground?

Alabama Man Gives Southern View of Integration Problem

Editor, Times-News:
The North is finding great sport in criticizing and ridiculing the South, and our Southern politicians are having great fun fighting for civil rights. These days, when our nation is in a campaign against the large Southern contributions and large campaign contributions and large contributions which are being made to "humanitarian cause," and no constitution object. The organizations which are giving financial support to your representatives happen to be the same organizations which are financing, directing and giving leadership to the racial strife in the South. Northern money and Southern men are selling the Southern Negroes to go where they are not wanted. The trouble is not locally inspired. Now, the pertinent question is: How will we find a way to help the Negro in our community who are affected by the South? For 150 years the South has had a heavy concentration of Negroes and throughout the years a plan has slowly evolved for coping with the social and economic problems arising from this situation. It was not until the 1940's that integration was the order of the day, and the Southern Negroes were given the opportunity for friction. Where there is no real contact there is no friction.

The Deplores U.S. Waiting on Next Move by Russia

Editor, Times-News:
During the four-year period, 1946 to 1950, Secretary Acheson's postponed decision as to what to do about Russia, under the plea of "waiting for the dust to settle," failed to awaken me when I stumbled (blinded by his kind of "dust") over the brink of the "out" of the Korean war. The "out" was swept from the secret's eyes with the blood of 140,000 American casualties.

Later, 1950 to 1958, Dulles, with eyes unblinded by "dust" and "wait" and capable of distinguishing between real and fake brinks, could safely steer the ship of state, undaunted and unafraid by the "right" cries of the communists' impetuous slogan of "Brinkmanship." A return to a condition of "unsettled dust" did not have to wait after Dulles' death. The "out" (the "blinking") of the "out" period was replaced by the "wait" period of the "out" period. What kind of a self-imposed "dust" period is it that now blinds our statesmen? Is it that we have become so much addicted to wishful thinking, to the point of not seeing ourselves in an anesthetized stupor? If it is not the case, why then must all decisions, all decisions, all initiatives, have to await further word from Khrushchev as to what is, or what is not an ultimatum?

As we approach summit meetings, do we have to prepare to make after Dulles' death. The "out" (the "blinking") of the "out" period was replaced by the "wait" period of the "out" period.

Bellevue Resident Questions Blaine County School Issues

Editor, Times-News:
I may have space in your paper for some facts and questions to the people of Blaine County, especially to those who are advocating to build a grade school in Halley, one in Bellevue and one in Carey. The reason I ask you for this space is that the only way we can get our opinion to the people of Blaine county is through the Times-News since you present opinions to the taxpayers as the writers with them to be read. So many people are so disgusted and put out about our schools in Blaine county that the ones who could swing a bond for our schools will not attend any school meeting for any reason they have conceived.

I, those who are proposing to build grade schools in Bellevue, Halley and Carey get a bond to put on the ballot in the fall. The Cary and Bellevue high schools are in fact the same school. It will answer all their need as far as building a concern? They will have to do it all right away. Why do we ask another question? Why do we ask another question? Why do we ask another question? Why do we ask another question?

Salmon Water Is Lower This Year

HOLDEN, March 26.—Water in the Salmon falls reservoir measured 25,246 acre feet this week, as compared to 27,521 acre feet on March 31, but H. M. Griffith, manager of the Salmon River Canal company, said the water makes comparison difficult.

The spring runoff has just barely begun, he said Saturday, because this winter was colder than the previous year.

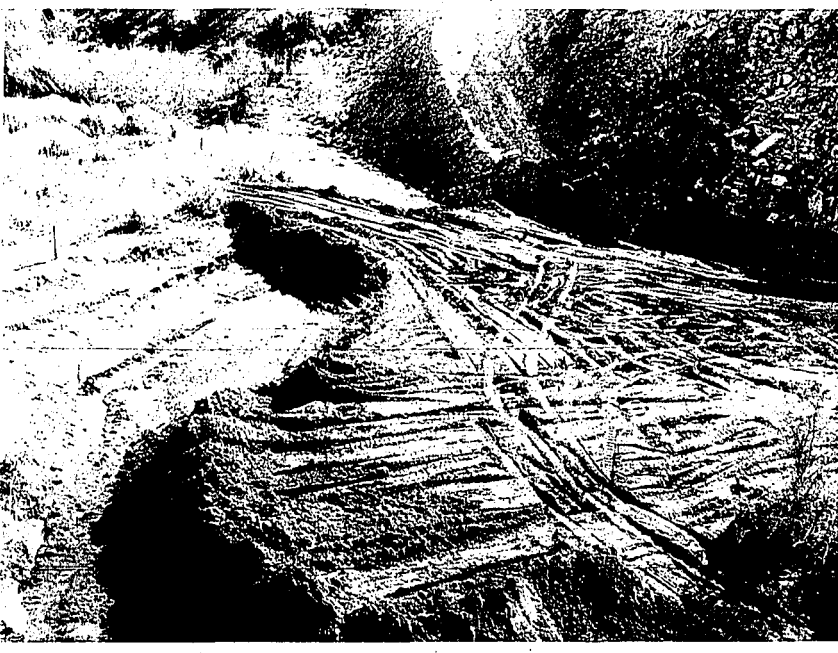

Report of the last snow measurements taken by the soil conservation service will be presented at the annual water forecast session to be held at 8 p.m. Friday in the Hollister Grange hall, Griffith said.

Rock Creek Channel-Is Diverted for New Construction Work

Another milestone in the project to straighten Blue Lakes boulevard over Rock creek was reached recently with the completion of a diversion dam (center background) to re-route the creek through a new channel dug along the base of the fill in the right background. The old meandering channel of the stream may be seen at the left and front of the picture. The old bridge which was constructed before there was a highway district eventually will be eliminated. Art of Conversation Is Dead; Last Winter's Weather Did It

BY HENRY McLEMOIRE

As long as 15 years ago I read unusual accounts of how conversation as an art was dead in the United States.

I doubt it, for at the time I for one, was talking a mile a minute, and I thought, quite rightly, and so were lots of my friends and acquaintances.

Now I believe conversation is dead—not only as an art, but as anything else. It is stretched out to the point where it is the plumbers of the world couldn't make it breathe again.

Why? Only one answer to that: The weather we have had this winter.

Nine out of every 10 words spoken by Americans since Jan. 1, 1960, have been about the weather, and how terrible it was.

Children of all 50 states were invited, for no state has escaped unusual weather.

No conversation based on the weather can be amusing, bright, piercing, illuminating or provocative. When all conversation is based on this subject, even recognized bore walk away.

My conclusion is not based on hearsay. In each state I paid an operator to walk the streets, enter front doors and wander through offices and hotels to what was said. Without fail each operative had the same report: snow, ice, wind, rain, cold. New records for low temperatures. Impossible during conditions. New records for heat.

These were the things people talked about all the time. Even people who, up until this winter, were bright talkers.

Example: Charles P. Forrester, state minister, "Three doctors from three schools, up until this winter he had held a salon in his studio in Paterson, N. J., each Thursday night. Subjects discussed ranged from Bohr's failure as a prime minister to the crossbreeding of a chicken with a peach tree in developing a broiler with fuzz but not feathers.

Our operative reported that this winter called off his salon and spent his time looking at the thermometer, telling his wife the New Jersey record for snowfall had been busted a few days, that he still missed his golf club. Send for your new date paint without snow for fear of losing his fingers, and asking if she would check to see if Star Springs, Mo.—Adv.

This Is One Spring Chore That Isn't Mechanized

This is the time of year when women shine windows, attack closets and polish floors, then coax sons and husbands into similar attacks on yards, basements, garages. Mrs. Harold Stagner is doing one spring housecleaning chore that a yet no one has found a way of mechanizing. There are numerous attachments to the garden hose for washing windows, special sponges, brushes and cleaners, but it still takes a certain amount of plain old-fashioned "elbow-grease." (Staff photo-enslaving)

Spring Brings Attacks on Windows, Floors, Closets

This is the time of year when the first sign of spring women shine windows, attack closets and polish floors, then coax sons and husbands into similar attacks on yards, basements and garages. With the aid of the many modern appliances and materials now available to them, most housewives seem to keep their homes in a day-to-day basis, with no need for the once-a-year cleaning upheaval that marked grandmother's day. They seem to plan their work for far ahead in advance to avoid the need for periodic blitz-cleaning. In addition, the installation of modern surfacing materials and the utilization of new labor-saving devices and services have eliminated the need for much painstaking toil. However, even annual cleaning isn't the formidable task it was some years ago, because of efficient equipment and cleaning products, but it's rather getting rid of the clutter of winter living and the cobwebs from the mind as well as the house. There is something about a fresh, clean house that is a sure cure for the doldrums. Even though all homemakers do not make a special project of spring cleaning, those who do manage to complete it in a limited span of time. Some finish it in less than a week, others take three or more weeks. The extra refurbishing tasks are usually added to the daily routine until completion, rather than having one big upheaval. The key to the modern way of housecleaning is "don't fear everything up at once." Before ever starting on the extra job, check a change in seasonings, cleaning equipment should be inspected to see that everything is in peak working order. In appraising equipment, here items such as sponges, brushes, vacuum cleaner, waxer, should be vacuumed, sponges, cloths, must fit their jobs in both size and shape. As the cleaning equipment is organized, also check on the sup-

Easter Projects Are Planned at Meet for Guild

JEROME, March 26 — Members of the Calvary Episcopal guild discussed the purchase of pussy plants to present to the children at Easter. An Easter egg hunt also was discussed. Mrs. Tom Riddinger conducted the meeting. Reports were given by the kitchen committees on luncheons and dinners served to organizations. Further plans for an air conditioner were discussed. Mrs. Dave Deweller, chairman, was instructed to discuss the matter with the men of the church. An article from the "Readers Digest" was read by Mrs. Deweller after the business meeting. Mrs. Dwight McGill served refreshments. Regularly times to be stored for the warmer season. Nothing is sayer in closets that plastic sheeting in a favorite color and it can be wiped off so easily. Give the storage boxes new coverings to harmonize with the color scheme in bedroom or hallway and be sure to label each box with the contents so it will be easy to find everything when the next season rolls around. There are special divided sponges on handles for cleaning venetian blinds. Another way is to put on cotton work gloves with the fluffy side out, dip in a cleaning solution, squeeze hands together until just damp and run gloved finger along each slit. This cleans top and bottom at the same time and protects fingers, too. By doing the gradual method of cleaning, adding one big job a day to the usual routine, the housemaker can still quit early enough to have a rest and look pleasant when the family comes home for dinner. Arrange a bouquet of daffodils or a few sprigs of forget-me-nots as a cheery greeting for the housecleaners and they'll hardly know you are in the throes of spring housecleaning.

BY LARRY HOVEY
The race season is back with us again and with it some welcome news both for coaches and spectators. The state board, after crippling every team in the state last season, has now decided to allow relay per boy, but with liberalization of the relay per boy competition to a more realistic level. This season a boy can participate in two relay events. He also may participate in relay events in two relay events. However, the overall rule remains on four relay per boy and field competition, as we understand it. This figures to help every team, the average boy and the fans. The biggest help will be for the boy who would be last runner on the relay team but not quite speedy enough to run in an open event. Jumping into the Washington state athletic affairs for a minute, Bill Kay, coach around around at Rupert high school and JSC basketball star, has coached the team which has placed first in the state tournament. His record was more outstanding than that of any other coach in the state tournament. He picked a particularly bad time to snap the string. Six of the seven teams in the finals of the tournament by Bill Kay, which this was the culprit in the 1949-50 season. It was Bill Kay that dumped Bill's team in the semi-finals a year ago. No other team could get Bill's team until he ran against Bill Kay this year. It is a pity that on the old man's ulcer, at times, wondering when we'd have the first of the reports. "Too bad that it happened to the semi-finals." It is a pity that on the old man's ulcer, at times, wondering when we'd have the first of the reports. "Too bad that it happened to the semi-finals."

County Aide Notes Loans From Agency

JEHOIME, March 26—Lina W. Schreier, county supervisor of the farm's home administration on Tuesday, reported that 53 farm families have completed a series of individual meetings with him.

Schreier said that year-end analysis is a service of the agency that makes loans to eligible farmers by operating, improving or enlarging farm-type farms.

Some of the better practices that farmers are seeking into for 1939 plans as a result of the study include cutting of milk cows to increase butterfat production, and improvement of barns and feed lots, increase planting of corn for both grain and silage, increase appearance of buildings and yards and better drainage, increasing use of home-grown vegetable, berries and fruit.

Schreier stated that 56 families in the county are being visited by the farm's home administration. Of these, 21 have loan water tap lines, three have loans to build or repair house or other farm buildings and seven have soil and water conservation loans.

Loans totaling $100,000 have been made to farmers in this area in the last nine months.

$120,000 has been for acquiring equipment, live-stock, seed, feed, fertilizer and pumps, and for the cost and paying for labor and materials in connection with housing and other improvements. This money and the extra money from increased income circulate through local trade channels.

During the nine-month period, farm families have paid $29,024 on their loans, including $2,490 in interest.

Continuing operating loans in the Jeoime county amount to $304,129.

Local farm planning and record keeping are carried on throughout the year and play an important part in operating improved farms, the farm's home administrator, reported, said. As proof that sound practices pay off, Schreier pointed out that during the past nine months, 15 borrowers repaired their loans in full and were obtaining necessary credit from local banks and other lenders.

Renewed Vigor Injected Into Business Bloodstream of U.S.

NEW YORK, March 26—Renewed vigor was injected into the business bloodstream in this week. These developments supported an optimistic picture that had been painted earlier this month:

1. The nation's production hit a record rate of about 50 billion dollars annually in the January-March quarters.
2. Retail sales—excluding new passenger cars, passed up.
3. The stock market soared a rally.

But everything wasn't all rosy and automobile production slipped from the previous week, having costs in February jumped back to the record level of November and December were they were on an upward trend.

The production gain of 16 1/2 million dollars over the fourth quarter of 1938 was the highest in 19 years, prompted one such government official to say:

"A recession this year is conceivable only if the auto industry goes sour."

The rise in car sales in the second third of March was particularly significant. It was hailed as the start of the annually awaited spring buying season.

Sales in the 10-day period totaled 159,000 cars, up 15 per cent from above a month ago and 3 per cent greater than a year ago.

Retail trade as a whole advanced appreciably over the previous week, when bad weather plagued stores. It was below a year ago but valid comparison was impossible because of the earlier Easter in 1938.

Steel production edged below the 90 per cent capacity rate for the first time since the striking workers went back on the job last November. First quarter production was estimated at 25 million tons, and a softening of the market was inevitable.

The cost of living began to rise after two months of declines. Major factors in the advance were rising interest rates, on longer maturities, and increases in the costs of health insurance.

The labor department's consumer price index moved up two-tenths the month-to-month method of one per cent from January to February.

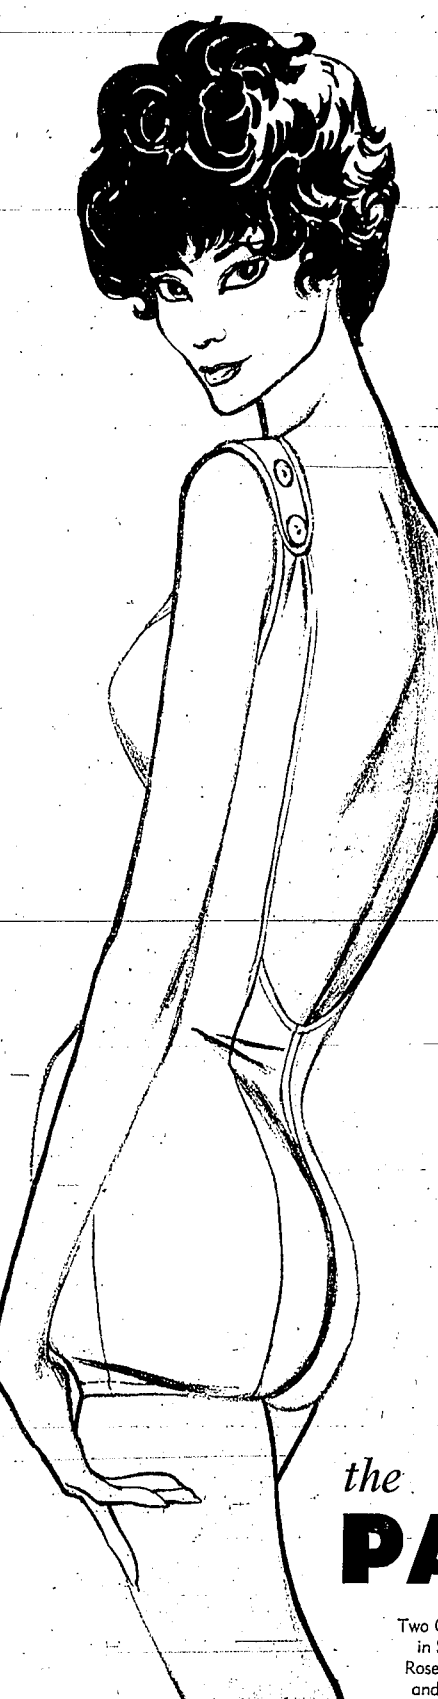

"Things are likely to get a little worse before they get better," said Robert J. Myers, deputy commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics.

While all these figures were cheering, however, there were some dark spots. Monetary indications were they were on an upward trend.

Wheat Gains Reported for Trade Board

CHICAGO, March 26—Wheat gained most grains higher with gains of more than 3¢ credits on the Chicago board of trade.

Compared with last week, wheat was unchanged to up 3 1/2¢; corn up 10¢; oats up 1 to 2¢; rye up 1 1/2¢; soybeans up 7 to 1 1/2¢, and clover up 20 points.

Most trade deals in the week centered in the March contracts, which expired Tuesday. Dealers inquired for and sold wheat freely in the last moments, and May yielded with a loss of 2 1/2¢. The bid sheet and corn months advanced sharply.

May wheat created a string of new advances to new highs for the season on mill buying and export covering. Small profit-taking appeared Friday. Trades were encouraged by news of substantial shipments of red wheat from local stocks. The deferred months held steady.

Cash wheat advanced about 3 cents on the red type and more than 2 cents on the hard variety. Light receipts and continued hardening brought buying into corn. The prolonged winter was expected to result in heavy farm consumption of corn, particularly dampened corn which is inelastic for use. Spot corn advanced 1 1/2 cents.

Contract a steady demand in the deferred contracts, which recorded new crop highs. Cash oats were unchanged.

Hay firm following a period of selling early in the week touched off by fears of a large stock in Chicago.

Trading in soybeans was slow and featureless, with prices tending to follow the lead of meals and oil. Elevator demand continued good and offerings were light. Cash beans gained a cent.

Drummed, lard, were added by firm prices for lower lard and higher hog prices. Some lard was purchased against sales of soybean oil.

Ancestor of Modern Jukebox Still Plays Records

Mrs. Ted Soper and her grandson, 3-year-old Sheldon McNeal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McNeal, put a record on the "Regina" music box. It is the ancestor of the modern jukebox. It was patented in 1869 and is coin-operated. (Staff photo-engraving)

Local Residents Work to Reduce Number of Overweight in Nation

It has been estimated thirty million Americans are overweight. In the past few months a local club has been doing its utmost to reduce this number.

The club is TOPS—the Intobstand for Take Off Pounds Sensibly. The club is composed of women from this area who realize they are overweight and are ready to do something about it.

The club was started in November with 17 charter members. There are now 42 members and a collective total of 481 pounds has been lost so far.

Loss Weight Weekly Since the club was founded, members have lost an average of from one to four pounds apiece each week.

What is there about the club that promotes this success? Group therapy is the answer. The club operates like Alcoholics Anonymous, which utilizes self help, supported by the sympathetic help of other persons with the same problem.

Alcoholics understand their own problem and have proved that they, themselves, are best suited to solve their problem. This is true of anyone having overweight problems, too.

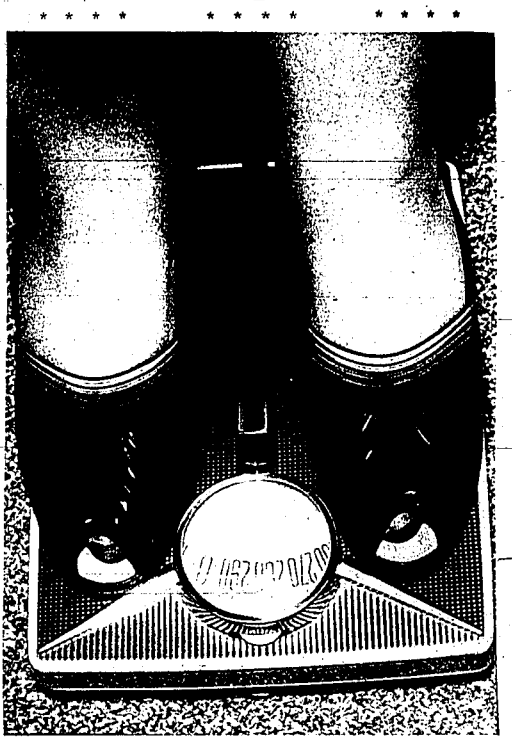

But, like Alcoholics Anonymous, TOPS members first must convince themselves they really want to lose weight. Without this conviction, nothing will help them.

Overweight persons often have the same compulsion to eat food as alcoholics have for drinks. Providing overeating persons don't have a gluttony condition, and factors in Minnesota, Miss. is crowned as losing weight depends on their control of mind over matter—or appetite.

Switch From Candy They must switch from candy bars to dry toast. And stop thinking big and begin thinking small. By banding together and admitting they possess a large appetite, something some of them have never done before, members take their first important step towards losing weight.

The club meets at 1:30 p.m. on Thursdays in the Harry Boney park building. Like prize fighters, the first thing members do is weigh. This notes whether they lost weight, or determines if they are "pigs" or "turtles" if they are "pigs" if they gain, and "turtles" if they remain the same. This is based on the theory that pigs eat; turtles don't.

The "pigs" lead a woeful existence. The money for the remainder of the month is placed in a piggy bank. By sometimes they are headed in the right direction.

Thirty million Americans are overweight and these three belong to one of them. They also belong to a member of TOPS club, a club devoted to achieving a sensible attitude towards excess poundage. TOPS is an abbreviation for Take Off Pounds Sensibly. The club was started last fall and now has 42 members. (Staff photo-engraving)

Great-Grandfather of Jukeboxes Played Regularly by T.F. Woman

Mrs. Ted Soper, Twin Falls, regularly plays a machine that is the great-grandfather of the contemporary jukebox.

The machine was patented in 1869 and is one of the first types of commercial jukeboxes. Unlike the present-day jukeboxes—all light chrome and nickel—the "Regina" is a medium-sized machine constructed of mahogany.

It operates on a principle that appears to be a compromise between the old, hand-cranked record player and the music box. It is hand-cranked and it plays from a record, 10 1/2 inch, but it also plays from a metal with little projections that sound the sound mechanism, like a music box.

The disk revolves on a spindle like a record. It plays for a full minute before it begins duplicating the melody again. The machine will play for 20 minutes on one winding.

Persons with children would love the records. They are made of steel and are unbreakable. Mrs. Soper has a varied selection, titles such as "My Jersey Lily Song," "Cavalleria Rusticana Intermezzo," "The Tales of the Kananoo Song," "The Holy City Song," "Lou and the Soldier," "The Witch and the Rhine," "The Weaving of the Green," "Italian Royal March," and "March of the Hussars."

Mrs. Soper plays the machine occasionally when there is company or for children. It is quite a conversation piece, she notes.

Her husband took the machine as payment for a bill about 20 years ago. He had seen one of the old jukeboxes when he was a boy. They displayed the machine at a community hobby show about five years ago.

The machine bears the title "Regina," and adds that it was the first music box manufactured in the United States. The instructions note over 1,000 selections were available for it. It was manufactured in Minneapolis, Minn., by the National Novelty company.

Red Chinese Dragon Casts Lengthy Shadow on World

By The Associated Press

The Communist Chinese dragon now casts a lengthening shadow. There is no longer much doubt that Red China is developing into the third greatest military power on the globe after the United States and the Soviet Union.

For the time being, China's military power is chiefly defensive and confined to the continent, but Pentagon intelligence officers believe Red China will become an atomic power within 10 years.

Red China already has a short-range missile capability, supplied by the Soviet Union which also retains control of the atomic warheads.

Within 10 years Red China may have developed a long-range missile capability roughly comparable to that now possessed by the United States.

Building Jets With Soviet technical aid, Red China is already building jet airplanes and assembling completed aircraft, using power plants supplied by the Soviets. The shipments are just north of Shanghai are being used to build long-range submarines.

The "W" class boats are improved diesel boats are developed. They are now operating off the U.S. West Coast.

China has an army of 5,000,000 men—10 divisions—equipped with East-West camps—met last week in Geneva to "talk" disarmament. The United States, Britain, Canada, France and Italy represented the West. The Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Romania, the East.

Before the meeting, the U.S. department of state announced that any agreement by the 14 nations would simply be a prelude to a second, enlarged conference. Without any agreement, the disarmament would be meaningless.

Red China's foreign minister, Chen Yi, said recently that "while the Chinese are ready to commit itself to international agreements, any international agreement which is not entered into without the formal participation of the Chinese People's Republic, cannot, of course, have any binding force on China."

Red China is already operating several research reactors built with Soviet assistance. Earlier this month a member of the Indian parliament who claims to have visited Red China told his colleagues that the Chinese plan to explode a small atomic bomb on March 28, "Russia is giving them a small atomic bomb of Hiroshima size," he said, adding that it would be exploded near Urumchi in Sinkiang province.

Any agreement of Red China's strength is difficult to come by, a fact acknowledged by Pentagon intelligence sources.

Red China is so minutely organized that the covert intelligence agent cannot see himself easily in the mazes.

Still, some information is available. Eight members of various Red Chinese intelligence services, including three civilian industrial executives, granted interviews which, collectively, lasted over four hours.

Difficult to Ignore As usual with intelligence personnel, none would permit identification by name or service. This is a summary of the briefings, a summary which indicates why Red China is difficult to ignore as a world power.

Red China has a 2,000-jet fleet, including approximately 800 light bombers of the MIG-19 type, which have a range of 1,200 miles. The 7,500-man naval aviation unit flies three light bombers almost exclusively.

Most of the jet fighters are MIG-19 and MIG-17 types, which are roughly comparable to the obsolescent F-84 and F-86 of the U.S. air force. The Chinese do have a few of the superonic MIG-19B, which are somewhat similar to the U.S. F-105. None of the more advanced MIG-21, the Soviet equivalent of the American F-105, has been detected yet in China.

The Chinese Communist navy consists of about 250 ships of all types—20 submarines, half of which are long-range types, four old Gorki-class destroyers, four Kirov-class cruisers of the latest Red China is ready to commit itself to class, 16 Kronshtadt-class patrol ships, 50 min. submarines, 16 landing ships, a large force of minesweepers, torpedo boats, and a miscellaneous collection of former Japanese vessels.

Thus, the 75,000-man Chinese navy has almost no large offensive capability, though it does have a harassment value.

The fact that the Chinese are developing submarine building and repair capability, however, interests the U.S. navy mightily.

There is a belief that the Soviets have nearly 100 submarines based at Vladivostok and Port Arthur, hope to use the Chinese facilities as secondary warm-water bases.

Threat to Japan The presence of 12 Communist submarines in the Far East, said a naval officer, is believed to represent a direct threat to Japan, which depends heavily on the sea lanes to Southeast Asia and Indonesia for food and raw materials, especially oil.

As for the Chinese army, it has some armored units, but it is primarily an infantry force—and with good reason.

In the first place, China now produces only 50 per cent of her own steel and her steel industry consumes an enormous amount of petroleum. In the second place, China is unfortunably mountainous. There are few areas where the highly mechanized armies of the world can operate.

China's greatest military asset, of course, is its manpower. There are 85 million fit men of her army age bracket, 18 to 40 years.

Some 500,000 Chinese are conscripted annually for three years of army service, a fact which gives China a huge reservoir of trained manpower.

Gooding Youngster Fitted With New Braces; Notes Kept on Clinic Results

Deibert Dains, Gooding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Dains, is fitted for new braces by Bill Brownfield, Boise, an orthodontist with the Idaho state health department's crippled children's clinic. Deibert, now 10, was the national poster boy for the March of Dimes in 1944. He had polio when he was 4 months old. Fitting of new braces is one of the jobs of the clinic. (Staff photo-engraving)

Kathl Conway, Boise, a stenographer with the state department of health, takes dictation from Ralph Carpenter, Boise, administrative assistant with the crippled children's service. Records, are kept of all the patients and copies go to the state office, the local office of the health district and family physician. (Staff photo-engraving)

Crippled Children's Clinic Benefits About 100 Children in Magic Valley

Recently, the state department of health brought its crippled children's clinic to Twin Falls. For three days members of the clinic diagnosed patients and provided rehabilitation advice for about 100 children from throughout Magic Valley.

The clinic is held in Twin Falls two times a year, in the spring and fall, to provide an auxiliary service to local citizens by supplying experts in certain fields to diagnose patients and make recommendations. This is done in cooperation with local physicians. Patients are referred to the clinic by their family physician.

To qualify for the services of the clinic, patients must be under 21, be referred to the clinic by their family physician, afflicted with certain prescribed ailments, and the parents must be unable to assume all or part of the cost of treatment. If facilities are unavailable in the community, any child who meets the other requirements can qualify.

orthopedist, pediatrician, neurologist, physical therapist, and a speech therapist. The object of the clinic is to discover and cure, if possible, patients. This involves operations on the chest area, followed by needed dental work, and special therapy later in life.

Records on each patient are kept by the department of health, the local health district, and one set is sent to the family physician. The action charges Johnson and Tracy leased a farm, cows and equipment from Deihl for $18.00, to be paid at the rate of $500 per month. Deihl alleges the lease over him $750 back rent and $1200 for six milk cows mistaking from the herd.

After the patients are diagnosed and referred to local specialists, the public health nurse makes periodic visits to determine if the child is making satisfactory progress. There, at the next clinic, the patient is checked again if he has an ailment that necessitates prolonged treatment.

Halogeton Grows in Saline Soil Next to Wheatgrass

Halogeton, which does so well on saline soils, grows like a carpet in this area of Bluff River valley. The created wheatgrass on the left of the area grew up to where the land became too salty for it to do well. Then the halogeton took over. Halogeton will grow in grass stands, however, in open patches where it has little competition. (Staff engraving)

Halogeton Still Spreading Over Large Areas, Expert Says in Weed Summary

Halogeton is still spreading over vast areas, says Robert H. Haas, research agronomist, USDA, who summarizes the up-to-date situation on south of the range weeds in southern Idaho.

He also reports Medusa-head eyed grass weed, is threatening to usurp halogeton's infamous reputation and has overrun some fertile rangelands in Gem, Washington and Payette counties and may move far south.

Medusa-head eye follows cheatgrass ranges and has reached as far south as an area just north of Emmett. In Haas' opinion, this weed with its name borrowed from ancient Greek mythology is "the worst weed we now have in the state."

Larkspur is resistant to 2,4-D but Haas reports work last year with other chemicals on summer range plots showed promising results.

All research is aimed at keeping infested areas not presently infested. He is convinced that any program is doomed to failure unless the program is aimed at eradication. His reason is that the plant is an enormous "seed factory." They seeds on an average are produced per inch of stem and the entire plant can produce up to 50,000 seeds in a season. Seedlings begin to germinate in January in southern Idaho, and may continue all season.

Spraying is effective only at certain periods of development. If some of the stems are sprayed independently with 2,4-D, they will not die but go on making seed.

Chemical spraying is useless if not properly timed, Haas said. In 1953 and 1954 the road along the south hills between Oakley and Twin Falls was sprayed at the wrong time, so now there's no indication it was sprayed.

Since the blooming stage of the weeds development is hard to detect, spraying must be done at the crucial stage, when four horizontal branches form an outstretched cross and the branching is not yet upright. The recommended spray is a low volatile ester of 2,4-D applied at the rate of two pounds in 15 gallons of water.

In southern Idaho the timing is best between early June and early July. After this time, the plant is increasingly resistant to 2,4-D, and DNP and diesel oil must be used in the solution.

Other herbicides can be used but are not yet up to the standard of desirable forage. There is danger of killing desirable shrubs.

The problem is aggravated by the two kinds of seeds the halogeton plant produces. The plants usually seed germinate rapidly under low moisture conditions, and these can be sprayed with a high degree of success. But the plant also produces brown seeds, which will not germinate until they are in a favorable environment.

or lacked the strength for that type of soil. The brown, inactive seeds germinated and started a new stand. He doesn't know just how long the brown seeds can survive in the soil and still germinate, but he reported that now 10-year studies are being made by teams from the USDA and extension service of the universities.

Concerning Medusa-head eye, Haas said it isn't a poisonous plant like halogeton, but is an annual. A strong seed farmer, it is so vigorous it will establish itself in cheatgrass and crowd grass out. It also chokes out desirable forage that are well-established.

It is now spread over 700,000 acres in Idaho.

Paul Terrill, Twin Falls, is in charge of the entire project in studying this weed for the University of Idaho extension service. The horror of this weed, Haas said, is that it moves across fertile soils in the intermediate ranges and is difficult to spray with chemicals without killing desirable forage grasses.

It is disliked by all classes of livestock and they won't eat the plant even while it is in the green, succulent stage. It produces seed almost as early as cheatgrass and produces seeds up to two and one-half inches long that die into the flanks of cattle or into their mouths to cause lumpy jaw.

Small barns seen only under a microscope are on the long awns, and it is impossible for anyone to run fingers smoothly across one. Cattle refuse to put their heads through these long awns and some take a mouthful of some palatable grass, said Haas.

Reports for this weed, Medusa-head eye, is derived from a snake-haired female monster who reportedly turned to stone the men in ancient Greek mythology when they looked at her or her "curly locks."

Last year's testing on larkspur crops on summer ranges showed that it is moves across fertile land, including about 600,000 acres in Idaho. It was identified for the first time in 1924 outside of Wells, Nev., and its poisonous properties were discovered in 1924. Halogeton is now present in eight western states.

Haas doesn't know how much further the annual weed can spread, since it thrives only on saline soils of desert type ranges and lands. Where created wheatgrass, or even Russian thistle can't live, halogeton thrives. However, most western soils have some salinity in them, and halogeton grows in some fields of wheatgrass, although not so rank.

A map of halogeton-infested areas throughout the West shows its area of growth follows a pattern on roadways, holding areas, falls and streamlines. Haas notes halogeton "likes" to grow in trampled-down areas, "disturbed" areas where there is no competition from grass.

of the area. These brown seeds from the reserve for the species' survival. They can pop out of the ground years after an eradication program was believed successful.

A case in point happened only last year on a 20-acre field of halogeton on Bradbury flats, near Challis.

Until quite recently, there was no halogeton on these flats. Over the mountains to the northwest is a large infestation of halogeton in the Pahsimero valley at Patterson. Perhaps the halogeton seed wasn't carried by sheep over the mountains to Bradbury flats, Haas said, and came instead with some livestock purchased in Nevada. However, the leap of the noxious weed was made to another area as it has been made all over the West.

Haas and other researchers went to this area to prove that total eradication also means going into isolated pockets to prevent further spreading.

The new 20-acre stand of halogeton was sprayed with 2,4-D, as previously outlined, and then sprayed again later in the season to get any of the plants which developed slower or later.

In addition, the ground was sprayed with a surface soil sterilant, TBA. The sterilant was used to also germination of other seeds in following years. During the next year, only a few plants showed in the valley, and again these were sprayed to prevent seed increase. And then there was no more halogeton growing that season.

Haas and other researchers thought they had eliminated halogeton from the area, and it would also germination of other seeds in following years. During the next year, only a few plants showed in the valley, and again these were sprayed to prevent seed increase. And then there was no more halogeton growing that season.

Spokesman Raps Pay Regulations For Farm Labor

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—A Farm Bureau spokesman says federal regulation of wages paid farm labor will hurt many small farmers.

Matt Tice, assistant legislative director of the organization, says large farmers can substitute capital for labor, but the small farmer cannot.

Tice says the regulations will have the volume of production to permit economic allocation of the costs of the expensive machinery required.

2,4,5-T and silver, Haas notes. The grass in these infested areas thickened tremendously from the lack of competition. Larkspur, unlike the other two weeds, is a perennial and grows some species at elevations above 7,000 feet. A native of Idaho, this beautiful plant with its bell-like, star-shaped flowers of varying shades of purple and pink, has killed large numbers of cattle. It is less toxic after maturity. Many ranchers take the fences down to prevent larkspur and are immune to the destruction by winter snows. Excessive poisons in the plant makes place cattle losses in varying associations from two to as many as 20 per cent a year. Haas said it was ironic that his study ranchers took plots for chemical spraying and found off infested areas and then were on steep ranges. Sheep like larkspur and are immune to the destruction by winter snows. Excessive poisons in the plant.

'Continental' Make Name for Selves From Appearances During Last Year

In just a year a Twin Falls high school musical group has made quite a name for itself. The "Continental" is a quartet, consisting of a vocal trio and musical accompaniment. In the past few months the group has become somewhat of a regular performer at many area banquets, conventions and club meetings, as well as school performances throughout the valley. The musicians have appeared at such widely separated points as Sun Valley and Tootle. The group was started as a result of an exchange assembly program developed at Twin Falls high school in December, 1958. At that time Darryl Amick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Amick, invited to get a quartet together for the program. The quartet didn't materialize, but a trio did. It was formed by Amick, Paul Macdonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Macdonald, and Tonye Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Willis, all seniors now. They are accompanied now by James Kinchebe, senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kinchebe, and Gary Brubaker, sophomore.

Art Hobby of Filer Man, 90, Is Health Aid

It's called "Filer" and it's a hobby that you've never had before and you become observant and are the way it around you. People don't worry enough. You know, they would be better off if they observed more about human nature and Mother Nature. When I started painting I began to see things differently, seeing things as they really were. I commenced to study nature—and when you do this you see in a deep place. You see more colors and shapes. When you get to know yourself you can then begin to understand others and then you can begin to understand things a little better. As you study nature and begin to know these things, your mind changes. Your interests are broadened and your mind changes and becomes more disciplined. This all helps you when you try to paint. The main thing is to be honest.

He said now that I took up painting, it has changed my whole life and given me a more optimistic outlook on life. He points to his hands, which are painted in many colors because he likes to be outdoors when the weather permits and at the same time it gives him the feeling of being outdoors. If he is handicapped by the weather or circumstances, he paints from memory. Many of his paintings are of the countryside in New England, where he was born and lived until 1909. For 20 years he was a better in Boston. He doesn't like to stand to work inside any more. He left and began painting near Beirut, Lebanon. He says, "I would have to stick it out."

Cobb paints only in oils and sketches the scenes on paper with colored pencils, using the colored pencils to get the correct color shading. Unlike some painter hobbyists, Cobb has only a few paintings around the house. They are surrounded up by friends and relatives. And he has no shortage of relatives, so he has a large market. He said to children, and now has 22 grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren, and six great-great-grandchildren.

"I don't have a lot of painting equipment here in my studio," he says. "But what I do have is worth thousands of dollars to me!"

"The very act of reaching for service in Long Beach in 1956. It had just started down there and something to be done more people realize they need the help of a Helper Power." Prayer is one method of reaching there in a Greater Power that can help and console man in a time of need. And he believes this method of reaching is one way, leading to a fuller religious life. The second type is the individual who is in search for reason and strength. He adds that the often uses the prayer service in his counseling work. China is believed to be morally afraid of chemical and nuclear weapons which would be used in a conventional warfare against her agriculture. The Soviet Union has agreements with China which call for technical aid on many lines through 1967. These agreements run through 1967. TWIN FALLS DUBLAY

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

Many Years of Community Service Are Counted in Life of Judge O. P. Duvall

O. P. Duvall, commonly called "Judge" by his many friends, has had a varied life since he was born in Duvall's Valley, Clinton county, Wis. In his lifetime he has been a court reporter, real estate operator, judge of Twin Falls probate court for eight years, trustee of the state auditor and has been a practicing attorney in Twin Falls for many years.

O. P. DUVALL

Since he has lived in Twin Falls, Duvall has been a mainstay in both the business and legal communities. For 20 years he has been a member of the advisory board of the Idaho Army.

Duvall was born in 1881 in Duvall's Valley, Tenn., an area named for his grandfather, who settled the area. One year after the war, his family moved to South county, Idaho, a farming and ranching area in northwestern Idaho. Duvall says his father moved to the area to start a farming and ranching operation.

Duvall completed high school at Clatsop, and then attended a state normal school at Smith Center. He received an honorary diploma for two years and then attended Kansas State University for two years.

After his schooling, he returned to Smith Center and worked for a short time for the county auditor, then as a newspaper and court reporter. In 1905 he was elected clerk of the district court, he served in this capacity for four years.

Duvall is still admired by one in whom it occurred that he was clerk of the court. A case involved specific performance of a sale contract. The plaintiff had purchased a tract of land through an agent. The agent didn't know who was buying the land, and when he found out he brought to sell the land.

The buyer brought suit, and to prove he had good intentions, he handed $300.00 the purchase price. The case came into the district court and presented it to him. Duvall brought and has never seen much money in one sack in his life.

A short time later Duvall had an occasion to make a speech in the West. On the return trip he talked with a man from this area who had traveled through Boise and Shoshone. The man told him about the Twin Falls and Salmon areas. Duvall was busy when he returned to Smith Center and told his wife and another couple, Lida DeWaters, that both couples wanted to come West.

In 1911 they came to Hollister and purchased land in the Snake River tract. Duvall and C. R. DeWaters operated a real estate office in Hollister until 1919. They owned the building and the two families added separate quarters in the rear of the building.

In addition to the real estate business, Duvall also taught commercial subjects in Idaho high schools. He was in charge of the Twin Falls office in the early 1920s. He was interested in investments and business with the late James B. Keel.

In 1918 he ran for judge of the probate court. He was elected and served eight consecutive years. While he was in office he studied law for the Idaho bar examination. In 1923 he passed the examination and was admitted to the bar. He studied law by taking a correspondence course from LaSalle University's extension service.

It was while he was a probate judge that he became interested in juvenile problems. For many years he was active in Boy Scout work and has conducted many courses of honor.

In 1924 he was elected state auditor from Twin Falls county and served in the 15th Idaho legislature under Governor Moore. In 1925 he began practicing law. He notes he started to practice law and trust building office he still occupies.

During this period of his life he was active in the Elks lodge and the Kiwanis. He was a charter member of the Twin Falls Kiwanis club in 1921 and served as president in 1926. In 1928 he was district governor of the club. The district includes Utah and Idaho.

Graduates of Colleges May Get Training

Sgt. Henry O. Person, Twin Falls recruiter for the U. S. Air force, says many college graduates do not have an air force career officer training corps program, an officers training school program in one of the aviation programs available and is established by the U. S. Air force as a qualified college graduate. This is a 100-hour program may receive commissions as U. S. Air force officers.

If accepted, an applicant will be notified and sent to Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. for officer training. After successful completion of the course, he will be commissioned in the U. S. Air force as a second lieutenant. Selection for training as pilot or navigator candidate is made prior to selection as well as those interested in technical fields.

The OTS program should not be confused with the officer candidate school, established for enlisted men only. Streamline Person adds. The OTS program is available for men or women. There is no collection to the applicant while testing and during the physical examination. All pre-training and processing is accomplished at U. S. government expense.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Sergeant Person at the Twin Falls office, 142 Main avenue south.

Report Given on Granger Project KING HILL, March 26—The Rev. R. L. Barnes told members of the King Hill Grange at a meeting this week that 21 hours were spent in cleaning the roadway to the local school.

Mrs. Lynn Sherman, home economics chairman, reported $15 was raised at a lunch served at the Grange Supply meeting and $49 from the St. Patrick's card party.

Discussion was held on the litter along the streets and the possibility of placing litter barrels. Mrs. William Cain, lecturer, was in charge of a quiz and gave readings. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Helwich and Mr. and Mrs. Cain.

has been an excellent town in which to live and raise a family. Duvall says, "It seems to me there are about four objectives with which the citizens should be concerned. "Industrial development is the primary one, to take care of our increasing population and to offer opportunity to our young people after they have obtained their education and training to return and be content to grow and prosper in this area of a quiet and carefree life.

Music Added to Sioux Prayer by Twin Falls Woman

Mrs. Grace York, Twin Falls, recently took up song writing and now has more than 20 songs to her credit. She has put music to "An Indian Prayer" as the prayer for the World Day of Prayer in 1961. Mrs. York writes everything from rock and roll to religious songs. (Staff photo-entour)

Local Woman Hopes Her Song Will Be Used on World Day of Prayer in 1961

A local woman who started writing music just five years ago now hopes that one of her compositions will be used again for the World Day of Prayer in 1961. She is Mrs. Grace York, formerly of Prosser, Calif., who now lives with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Parker, Twin Falls.

One of her compositions, "An Indian Prayer" was sung at a World Day of Prayer observance on March 4 at the Methodist church by Mrs. Oren Boone. World Day of Prayer is sponsored throughout the world by an interdenominational group. Although Mrs. York writes practically every kind of musical composition, she says "An Indian Prayer" is her favorite to date. She has written, or is writing, about 25 songs. She has been writing poetry all her life, but just started song writing.

"An Indian Prayer" was one of her first compositions, and was written for an Indian mission in Arizona by Chief Yellow Lark, a Sioux chief. The history of the prayer is somewhat clouded, but it seems to be a traditional Sioux prayer. Mrs. York says it came to her attention when it was used at a prayer for World Day of Prayer in 1955. Each year a single prayer is used throughout the world. Immediately after seeing the printed prayer, Mrs. York got permission to use the words as a song lyric. Then she wrote the song and how she hopes that the song will be used again for the World Day of Prayer in 1961. This song is basically a retelling of the story of the World Day of Prayer, but that it is a type of song only. She writes popular, spiritual, novelty and rock-and-roll songs with equal facility. "Your mind doesn't always run in the same channel. The type of song you write depends on the mood you are in at the time." Speaking of poetry and music and their relationship, she adds, "I think the majority of persons who are interested in poetry but that she really had the time to devote to musical composition. Mrs. York started piano study when she was a young girl, but she doesn't use a piano until she has completely written the song, both the music and lyrics. She gets the music and lyrics. These three songs will die, and then writes it out on the composition paper. The urge to write comes at all times, sometimes even in the middle of the night. She has written more than one song perched on the side of the bed in the middle of the night. After living in Magic Valley for a few months, she is now working on a song about the valley. Of all the types of songs she writes, she says that the religious songs seem to give her more satisfaction. They seem to have something that is more lasting," she explains.

MOVE TO HANCH HATLEY, March 26—Mr. and Mrs. Dexter McWilla will move to the Ivan Molyneux ranch near the point of Rocks on Silver creek. They will reside in this house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Roberts. McWilla will assist in the farming of the more than 200-acre Molyneux ranch on Silver creek. Their three sons will attend to attend school here on the remainder of the school year.

Hatchery Workers Grade Trout for Planting

Workers grade trout at Hagerman hatchery in southeastern Idaho. Fish are netted from raceway and dumped into holding box, from which they are worked over the screens in the grader. The production schedule this year is expected to equal the 1959 record. Surveys show that last year people fishing in Idaho caught 11 million trout—an average of about 53 per angler. Other studies indicate that statewide plantings of steelhead hatchery fish amount to only about a fifth of this number, and that only a part of these stocked fish enter the fishermen's creel. The rest are from wild populations. (State fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

That was 36 years ago, and the station has continued to be a mix of source of cutthroat eggs down through the years. Last spring, for example, more than 100 million green eggs were taken there to provide information about the catch rate of return of catchable-size planted trout. This varies greatly with different streams and fishing pressures.

Hatcheries are here to stay because artificial stocking is well justified for restoring depleted waters, planting after eradication of undesirable species of fish, replenishing waters that do not have adequate spawning grounds, and providing "put and take" angling in heavily-fished waters where a good return of hatchery fish is taken.

Fish planting in lakes in multiple Idaho starts in April, but stream stocking does not get under way until June. The bulk of the state's streams and lakes are stocked in June, July and early August. In other words, the 15 hatcheries work at capacity for 10 months of the year to produce the fish that are planted in just two months of intensive effort.

Some of the lakes and reservoirs, the big ones, received a single large planting during the season, while smaller bodies had streams generally act several stockings—with fewer fish released on each trip.

First of the state-owned fish hatcheries built following legislative approval of 1927 was Hayspur, about 12 miles below Hagerman silver creek. During its first year of operation, 2,232,000 eggs and fry were handled with a loss of 22 percent. More than two million of the eggs hatched were distributed in streams and lakes throughout the state, either in "one" stage or multiple.

Today 15 hatcheries are operated by the state fish and game department. They produced well over 15 million fish last year, or 632,720 pounds in the aggregate. These are located at American Falls, Ashton, Clark Fork, Eagle, Grace, Grandville, Hagerman, Hayspur, Henry's lake, Mackay, McCall, Mullan, Sandpoint, Twin Falls and Warm River.

They always are open for public inspection and receive many thousands of visitors each year, particularly school biology classes who come to observe modern artificial propagation methods of trout.
