Chief of Firm Likes Burley, Chamber Told

BURLEY, April 5—There is no limit to the opportunity in this area, P. Nephri Grice, president of Ore-Ida Potato Products and president of the National Potato Products Institute, Ontario, Ore., told members of the Burley Chamber of Commerce at its Monday luncheon at Cousin Roy's.

"Burley has a good personality and is a community of enterprising and friendly people. Your friendliness is being felt throughout the nation. We have enjoyed our association with Anderson Brothers and W. B. Whiteley," he said.

"Our growth has not been aided by government subsidies and we don't think it should be. Subsidies cannot be withdrawn abruptly but must be done slowly and with caution. We do need the government assistance in developing and research, but not to dictate our mode of operation," he stated.

Grice stated that half of the frozen potato products of the country were produced in Idaho and spoke of the advertising being done by the national foundation. He compared the action of the frozen potato with the acceptance of frozen orange juice in price as well as flavor.

He said that the firm had been warned it couldn't make a "go" of frozen potatoes, but that it had worked around the country and "touted our own name" and it had paid off. "The firm's first year was a success," he said.

Buying, Selling Stocks Has Become Complicated Affair

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—Back in the 1920s the prominent Wall Street stock broker and one stock ticker and one telephone. Today buying and selling stocks for the public is a business for complicated machines and human specialists.

By present standards even the brokerage houses in the great bull market of 1929 were small. "In those five-million-share days they fell three to four weeks behind in their bookkeeping in spite of working armies of clerks around the clock," said Emmett Eaton.

Eaton is assistant vice president of Watson and company, one of about 25 coast-to-coast brokerage houses.

He could have added that often in those good old days brokers were swamped with so many orders they couldn't execute them and as a result customers had losses.

Today, because of electronic and large efficient brokerage houses like Watson's an order even from the remotest point is transmitted almost instantly and executed in a few minutes.

Watson trades about two billion dollars worth of securities a year. The company does an underwriting business and trades in bonds and to some extent in commodities for customers. But its bread and butter is commissions and interest on customers' margin accounts.

"We have 300,000 customer accounts, 70,000 of them active," Eaton said. "To service these accounts, our IBM punch card clerks pull an average 25,000 cards a day from the files."

Therein lies the secret of success of the modern brokerage firm. Watson has 70 offices throughout the nation handling thousands of transactions daily. In addition to the computers, the company also uses teletype, automatic electronic quotation boards and people.

Each day's bookkeeping is completed the same day and checks or statements mailed by automatic machines operated by punch cards or magnetic tape," Eaton said.

Even with all the electronic wonders it takes 1,200 clerical workers to backlog 500,000 "customer men" or salesmen in the Watson's 35,000-mile network of leased wires and send them to the stock exchange floor and the Watson accounting departments.

HAGERMAN, April 5—A spring concert, featuring numbers from the music festival, was presented Friday night in the high school gymnasium by music instructors, Ray Moore, directing.

The high school chorus presented two numbers, "Pavane" and "May Day Carol." Marilyn Ravenscroft sang a soprano solo, accompanied by Mary Erwin. Diane Titmus also sang a solo, accompanied by Lois Stokes. The girls chorus sang "Clouds" and a choral selection of songs from "My Fair Lady."

The sixth grade band played two numbers, "Serenade" and "Gracioso Waltz." The Junior high chorus presented "I Whistle a Happy Tune" and "Hello Young Lovers," accompanied by Cheryl Tate.

The high school orchestra sang two numbers, "The Billboard" and "Amperito Roca." "Be-Bo" "Crumpet" and "The Spanglish Banner" were also featured.

Friday Night Census Drive Count Stated

Squads of picked crew leaders and census takers will fan out over the city Friday night in a special drive to count persons who do not have a fixed address.

The district supervisor pointed out that under census law, all persons 15 years old and over are required to answer official census questions. The law specifies that personal information collected by census takers must be kept confidential.

The person who willfully refuses to answer the official census questions is liable to a maximum fine of $100 or 60 days in jail, or both.

Safety As Is Given Boise Man

BOISE, April 5—Clayton P. Stahl, Boise, won the March safe driver of the month award and a $100 cash prize from the Idaho First National Bank.

Stahl, who has a 32-year safe driving record, was selected by a special committee from safe drivers who were nominated last month by police in all parts of Idaho.

He was nominated by Sgt. Dean Bennett who is stationed at the district headquarters, Boise.

The winner drives telephone company equipment as well as his own vehicle and covers about 25,000 miles each year. He has never been involved in an accident nor has he received a citation for a moving violation. He is credited with having been of assistance on numerous occasions at the scene of traffic accidents.

War Hero Turned Convict by Concussion; He's Cured Now

VACAVILLE, Calif., April 5 (AP)—A war hero who ruined a promising career asked for another chance today—and doctors at the State Prison hospital here believe he deserves it.

Vicor Hangerford, 32, rose from private to major during World War I and won the Bronze Star and Purple Heart during the Korean campaign.

In 1950, he led his platoon on an attack on a Chinese communist machine gun nest near the Kiam River. He was stunned by the concussion of an exploding shell and lay a though dead for eight hours until medics discovered he was alive.

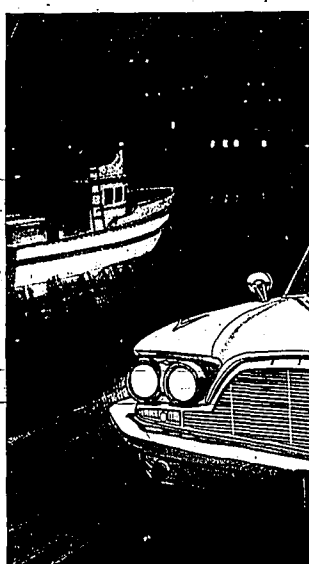

Hangerford was checked, pronounced ill right, and returned to his company. But soon he developed headaches, fell strange and occasionally suffered amnesia.

The major was transferred back to his home state of Washington, where he went on a series of drinking sprees and was AWOL in 1954—after 18 years of service. Hangerford was dishonorably discharged and sentenced to a year in military prison for desertion and larceny.

Last year he was sentenced for passing bad checks in California. Physicians at the division of medical services here believe he is a cured man.

State School Needs Many, Official Says

NAMP, April 5 (AP)—The "need" for a new state school building is not a new one, but officials are doing their best to improve conditions there, the acting superintendent says.

Dr. P. O. Graber said among the needs at the school are one large building with a method of grouping patients according to age, a swimming pool and playground, an expanded volunteer program and the converting of the agricultural program into a model farming operation.

Benson took over the school for the mentally retarded when Dr. S. S. Hunsley resigned March 15 following a disagreement over problems there. Then last week Attorney General Frank Benson said he is sending a special investigator, Larry Evans, to look over the situation at the school.

Despite the shortcomings, said Dr. Graber, "Nampa State school is a good institution—I've certainly had my mind changed in the past few weeks."

Recently, he said, crib patients have been placed on the list for moving to the ground floor of the children's building as a safety measure.

Changes Made

Separate "half-way" houses for 25 girls and 40 boys are being set up. They are for those who have a chance to be released later. At 40 patients now are being singled out for transfer to State Hospital, North, Ore.

We are trying to get into the program," explained Dr. Graber. "But we are considering patients' wishes."

The institution has 285 employees, of whom 145 are nurses. "Brutality is one of the worst things we have seen in this institution," said the acting superintendent. "We won't allow it."

Leaders Told For Fire Unit

BOISE, April 5 (AP)—The Southern Idaho Tubercular Protective association, one of the oldest cooperative organizations in the nation, predicted John C. Walters, state land commissioner, as its president here yesterday.

Robert M. Naylor, Emmett, was chosen vice president; Vern J. Gurnsey, Boise, secretary, and Dr. Arthur M. Roberts, McCall, was reappointed fire warden.

Anderson said the organization was formed in 1904 about the time that the United States forest service was being established. The association has about 100 members, he said, including privately owned logging firms and government agencies.

Fifty-six fire broke out last year on territory included in the association, Anderson said, but burned a total of only 474 acres. A year earlier it had burned 235 acres of timberland.

Funeralbearers were Fred Werry, John C. Fox, George Campbell, George McCoy, D. L. Morris and Mike Morgan, Jerome.

Gravestone services were conducted in the Hailley cemetery by the Odd Fellow lodge, with George McCoy and W. H. Fairman officiating.

Cuts on Grazing Land Supported

POCATELLO, April 5 (AP)—National U.S. Forester Floyd Iversen, Ogden, Utah, stood behind one of his lieutenants yesterday supporting John Parker's plan for cutting the number of grazing cattle on lands of the Pocatello national forest.

Parker is supervisor of the Caribou forest. He has announced cuts from 1,442 head of cattle to 1,000 and of the 4½-month grazing period to 15 days.

The Pocatello Cattle association had appealed the cuts to Iversen.

European Advisory Groups Consider Threats to NATO

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

Two European advisory groups, one of them including Canada and the other including the United States, have been meeting in the past few days to consider issues which are far graver than appear on the surface.

In the background is a renewed threat to the whole future of the North Atlantic Treaty organization. The threat comes from London, where for weeks officials have been leading the thought that Britain will have to withdraw its soldiers from Europe if the Common Market freezes her trade and advancing political unity freezes her voice in continental political affairs.

A British became frustrated last year over the extent of Franco-German economic and political cooperation, and by the Common Market's aim to lower tariffs between its six members, while erecting a common tariff structure for imports.

Part has been added to the flames in recent days by the Common Market's intention to rush completion of the tariff wall and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's reports of President Eisenhower's support of that purpose.

All the old British suspicion of Germany's reliability as an ally has been revived, and the resentment has now been extended to France. With French President Charles de Gaulle about to visit Britain, The Financial Times of London yesterday described relations.

Erwin Schwiebert, former state senator and state representative from Caldwell, obtained 40 nominating petitions from the office of Secretary of State Arnold Williams yesterday.

Schwiebert said last week he would like to be the Republican nominee for the first district congressional seat now held by Democratic Rep. Gracie Pfaff. He said he lacked the financial resources to campaign for the job.

Outstanding of the nominating petitions indicates he is planning to go ahead with at least the preliminary of running for the nomination.

Easter Today For Children, Survey Tells

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP)—Most of the family's Easter spending is for the kids.

That's what an Associated Press survey of merchants in 17 major cities indicated today.

Old Custom Gone

The days when the whole family turned out Easter morning with new duds from head to toe are gone, merchants said. "Families now tend to buy their clothing throughout the year as the need arises."

There was a time when Easter was a dress-up must for everybody but that is not true now," said James O'Brien, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott and company, Chicago. "The idea now is to dress up the kids."

Women and children are getting the most from the Easter spending dollar," said a Columbia, O., store executive.

Heading Pick-Up

Merchants in most cities report that buying is picking up after a slow start because of the weather. Many expect to equal or surpass the record volume of the 1959 Easter season.

The later Easter is a big factor in their optimistic outlook.

In other areas, stockpilers said the prolonged period of cold and snow has taken a permanent toll and sales won't come back to 1959 levels.

Hagerty Leaves To Prepare Trip

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP)—White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty left today on a group of other U. S. officials on a 20-day, 12-mile jet flight to make arrangements for President Eisenhower's visit to Russia and Japan in April.

Hagerty announced earlier the party would stop first in Copenhagen.

"They will arrive in Russia tomorrow and spend six days. The advance group will fly from Moscow over a Polar route to Tokyo and touch down on Iceland and Alaska en route home."

The President is scheduled to be in the Soviet Union from June 10 to June 19 and arrive in Tokyo on June 19.

Smylie Urges Study on Use Of Lava Rock

BOISE, April 5 (U)—Possible use for lava rock and lava dust as construction materials was suggested here yesterday by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

Smylie said he is asking the Idaho bureau of mines and geology to undertake a scientific study of the possibility.

The governor said he forwarded to Dr. Earl Cook, director of the bureau and dean of the college of mines at the University of Idaho, a report prepared by the Hawaiian Institute on Geophysics on the potential uses of lava rock and dust.

"These materials," Smylie said, "were achieving considerable importance in the islands as building materials. In view of the fact that much of the Idaho lava is very similar to that found in the Hawaiian chain, it may be possible to undertake a serious study of the possibilities of beneficial use."

Dr. Cook has indicated, Smylie said, that a survey of the problem would be undertaken by the bureau and a report made.

New System Used to Give Disease Lists

BOISE, April 5 (U)—The state health department has released its first "interpretive" report on communicable diseases in Idaho.

State Health Administrator Dr. T. D. Carver said the new report will be released to the public instead of the former bureau of vital statistics case list which merely enumerated the number of cases as they were reported by physicians in the state.

Former report misleading

The former sheet of statistics which will still be made up, was later misleading, Dr. Carver said. It did not contain cases which were not reported and because often cases in a single week actually occurred in a period of several months, Dr. Carver said.

The new report will be more accurate, he said. It will be compiled by Dr. John Mather, chief of preventive medicine, and W. W. Harrison, state registrar of vital statistics.

This week's report was prepared from figures given by physicians out of the 63 physicians in the state, and showed "no significant change in communicable diseases as compared to last week," Dr. Mather said.

Hepatitis feared

He reported "infectious hepatitis" continues to be reported at a rate higher than any other communicable disease in Idaho and three in Birmingham county.

Main reason for special instructions have been directed to schools for the prevention of the spread of infectious hepatitis through improvement of sanitary practices, since most cases occur in school children.

He also reported more cases of measles are being reported this year than last year.

One Side, Sir!

Senator's Campaigning With Recipe Draws Hank's Praise

BY HENRY McLEMORE

Score 10 for originality for "Hank" Humphrey.

The Minnesota senator, who wants the Democratic nomination for president, so badly he can taste it, has decided that the best way to a voter's heart is through his stomach.

His latest campaign propaganda features Mrs. Humphrey's own recipe for beef soup. There it is, in nice, legible type, for all to read and try.

Beef soup, the senator has decided, sticks to a man's ribs far better than promises and oratory. Let others take to the stump; he'll take to the kitchen.

We have tried the soup, and it's mighty fine. But we didn't know exactly what to serve with it, and are hoping that the next campaign literature from the Humphreys will advise us on that detail.

With the beef soup we had a watercress salad and steamed rolls only, but about midnight we discovered that this was not enough, so we had to get up and go downstairs for a snack. This, Humphrey, was not good for your chances, for when my felt hit the cold floor, I felt a strong leaning toward Kennedy, Johnson, Eisenhower and Stevenson.

Of course, there is little chance that Humphrey's opponents will allow him to sneak into the White House via the kitchen. With every mail I expect to get the favorite recipes of Mrs. Kennedy and the other wives.

As the self-styled "poor man" candidate, beef soup was a logical choice for Senator Humphrey, although it wasn't a really economical dish to prepare, what with meat of any kind costing what it does. I'd say the tureen of it cost us close to $1.75. Had I been one of the senator's press agents I would have had Mrs. Humphrey give me her spaghetti and tomato sauce recipe, even if she had to borrow one.

As the richest man in the race, there is no telling what gourmet's delight will come from the Kennedy recipe book. Perhaps a tossed green salad, made of finely shredded lettuce, sliced tomatoes, and a boiled New England clam chowder in which old Rollin Adair would boast his stock with too much delight to the recipe that will come from his cookbook. Without a wife, a man is inclined to live off canned foods or frozen dinners. I don't think Adair would boast his stock with a recipe for canned sardines.

If Humphrey should win the nomination, and give credit to the beef soup recipe, then look out in 1964. Everybody and his brother will be off and running, including myself, for Mary is a superb cook, and I might very well ride smack into the White House on the strength of her fried rabbit with mustard sauce, or her curried bismark, or her boiled perennials and ham hock.

The trouble is, Mary probably wouldn't release her best recipes even to become the first lady of the land. Thousands of wives are like that. They get a good recipe and proceed to hide it under their mattresses, or write it on wafer-thin paper so as to be able to swallow it in case someone tries to steal it from them.

But as I said before, Humphrey must be scored high for his originality. Not even George Washington or Thomas Jefferson or anything even close to it.

Raiser of Rodeo Stock, 52, Dies

JOSEPH, Calif., April 5 (U)—Harley Tucker, 52, widely known throughout the West as a raiser of stock for rodeos, collapsed and died after helping place a bucking horse in a chute Saturday night.

That was at a rodeo at Vancouver, Wash. His body was returned here where funeral services will be held Wednesday. He had a severe heart attack about a year ago.

Tucker operated a 6,000-acre ranch in the Walla Walla valley, feeding beef cattle as well as raising rodeo stock. He had on hand 100 pairs of rodeo horses, 20 parade animals, 35 Brahman bulls, 30 to 40 steers and a number of calves for roping.

Program on Forest Care Nearly Done

Hunger Ned Millard, Sawtooth national forest, reports preliminary work on fire analysis and re-planting for the Twin Falls district of the forest will be completed by the end of April.

The last complete fire analysis and re-planting job was done in 1950, and the new program began in the spring of 1952. Millard said the program will be completed this month, the final tally will be started.

Basic information includes placement of manpower, listing of needed equipment, over-lay maps illustrating areas most likely to have fires, and approximately how quick the fires would spread.

Ray H. Hagan, fire control assistant from the regional office in Twin Falls for about two days to work on final steps and overall plans. All the forest districts have done a complete analysis, and plans of the districts now must be consolidated and put on a large scale.

2 Ordered to Prison Term

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 5 (U)—Michael J. Connelly and T. L. Caudie have been ordered to surrender within 30 days to begin serving two-year prison terms for conspiring to defraud the government.

They were convicted in 1955 of attempting to block prosecution of the penalty for Irish Satchel, a St. Louis shoe distributor who was fined $40,000 for income tax evasion.

The order by Chief Judge Harvey J. Johnson of the U. S. eighth circuit court of appeals stemmed the end of a long battle by the federal government to get the Supreme court to turn down the order.

Real Worker

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5 (U)—When you're looking for a "real worker" for your organization, look for a man with an ulcer.

At least that's the opinion of Dr. H. Marvin Pollard, professor of internal medicine at the University of Michigan medical school.

Pollard, an expert on ulcers, took part in a panel discussion yesterday at the opening session of the American College of Physicians' 41st annual meeting.

Pollard said the usual ulcer victim is a young man in the early competitive part of his career who lives in the city, smokes heavily, is intelligent and lacks faith in his own ability.

"But if I wanted to hire an ulcer," he said, "I'd hire a man with an ulcer—he'll really work."

Experts Seek Hello, Earth

GREEN BANK, W. Va., April 5 (U)—Astronomers hoped yesterday a great radio ear to listen for any "hello, Earth" signals coming from life on distant planets.

They are sure intelligent life must exist on other planets within a few years of the billions upon billions of stars in the universe.

And they're hoping some planets are close enough for us to overhear their radio signals, or pick up signals which they may be beaming at us out of their own wondering whether anyone lives on Earth.

Dr. Frank D. Drake and associates began unrolling the special listening equipment on the 85-foot diameter radio telescope at the National Radio Astronomy observatory here. It can pick up radio waves coming from points thousands of billions of miles away.

The first targets are two relatively nearby stars—Tau Ceti and Alpha Centauri—barely visible to the naked eye in our southern skies.

There's only the faintest chance this first attempt will hear anything, but "some day success will be achieved, now or in 100 years," said Dr. Drake.

Alaska Demos to Vote as One Unit

By United Press International

Alaska's Democratic delegation to the national convention at Los Angeles this July is going to be shooting for one favorite—the candidate that can do the most for the 48th state.

However, this doesn't mean that the 18 Alaskan convention delegates—each with one-half vote—don't have a presidential preference.

At a caucus session this past week-end in Anchorage, Democratic party leaders decided it would be best for Alaska's delegation to go to the convention uncommitted. However, after the convention gets under way the delegation will be bound by the unit rule—meaning that all nine votes will go to the candidate favored by the majority.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

To a family of teen-agers arguments are a trial to parents. This is particularly so when these arguments are loud incriminations, taunts, appeals to parents to "make" him or her do so and so. The only thing to do about such arguments is to declare them to be "out." One sound family rule, should be made: it is to have to good manners outside and inside the home. If no personal rule can be made, the enforced family life will be more bearable.

Then there are the arguments that these young people get into with their parents. A mother says, "I don't like the idea of evening parties outside home, or in a home we don't know well. Why not have a party here?"

"Because we can't have any fun," says the teen-ager. "If we go to the tavern we have a time there and we can dance. If we go to the beach we can make as much noise as we like."

The argument is on and the mother says the mother or father, can say to the teen-ager: "The end of it, if you must have a party, have it here. If it is a mistake to go on and say, 'If you were behaving properly you wouldn't be so anxious to get away from home and the people who know you best.' That's really old on the bluff. There is another view of arguments however and that should be considered in families where there are teen-agers, and that is the debate. This is very much, worthwhile, especially to children. Everyday news events provide the material for these discussions, which are led by father or mother. Offer the teen-ager in the pride

British Government Boosts Taxes to Put Limit on Boom

LONDON, April 5—The British government stepped taxes yesterday on company profits, increased duty on cigarettes and began a new squeeze on tax dodgers. These highlights of the new national budget designed to keep the British economy from booming to a breaking point.

Sharp increases in government appropriations and the need to slow down excessive personal spending by properly conscious Britons ruled out all but a few minor tax concessions.

Presenting his 1960-61 budget sheet in the house of commons, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Richard Heathcoat-Amory said he wanted to consolidate and fortify our present prosperity.

He said the over-all economic picture looked good, with personal incomes steadily rising, stability in the cost of living, business expanding and production, investment, and exports on the increase.

The average Briton will now pay 55 cents for a pack of 20 cigarettes.

Evan Williams Starting Long Imprisonment

BOISE, April 5—Evan Williams, 45-year-old Boise man, has started his life sentence in the Idaho state penitentiary.

Only a few hours after Williams heard of his jailer, Merle Young pronounced the sentence at Mountain Home. Williams entered the state of the prison.

Williams was convicted of first-degree murder by an Idaho county jury of 11 men and one woman last Wednesday. Williams shot James Smith, 57, Boise, also known as William Camps, last fall in the Mountain Home street.

The jury recommended life imprisonment rather than death for Williams.

During the three-day trial, Williams admitted to the jury he had killed Smith, but said that it had been in self-defense. He said he thought Smith was going to pull a knife.

The shooting occurred Sept. 17 and Smith's body was found Oct. 2.

Burley Sets Art Show This Week

BURLEY, April 5—The annual exhibit of the Burley high school art department is being shown today from 1 to 4 p. m. and from 7 to 9:30 p. m. at state scene Buckley, instructor.

Artists of the exhibit include the artist, Cliff Miller, Ruth Smith, Mrs. Bob Detwiler, Earl Robertson and others.

The exhibit includes art in oils, water colors, pen and ink, charcoal, silk screen and tempera. Ceramics include wheel thrown vases, dishes, coil and slab pieces, ceramic sculpture and many free forms.

Work in chip carving, paper sculpture and leather tooling is also displayed by the craft classes.

Students displaying work on Sunday granted the request of Col. H. H. Hays, Jr., of the Idaho State Police, to display their work in the police station.

Just "Happening by"

Three big German shepherds used on leashes and their handlers joined about 40 state agents and sheriff's deputies on guard at the Marshall, Tex., courthouse lawn where bitter Negro college students threatened new demonstrations. When reporters asked handler Ben Cooper what the dogs were for, he replied that he was "just happening by." Texas Ranger Capt. Bob Crowder commented, "Pretty, aren't they?" (AP wirephoto)
