WASHINGTON — Not since a circus midget sat on the late J. P. Morgan's knee and a cabinet member went to jail in the Kelly 302 has any man in the White House had so many and so far-reaching investigations as today's capitol hill squintors.

Except for the Pecora expose of Wall Street stock manipulation and former Sen. Hugo Black's tirade against the Internal Revenue Service, the investigations of the last 40 years have had such a healthy effect on the American social and economic order as should result from recent revelations.

The Pecora affair led to enactment of legislation which has checked the rapid speculation in securities that helped to create the 1929 crash. Former Senator Black's investigation resulted in the breakup of stock pyramiding practices in the vital electric power industry.

POT SHOTS

IT MIGHT HELP

Dear Pot Shots:

Somewhere along the line our plant experts have fallen down on the job. This occurred to me last week when some beautiful fruit trees and some flowers were nipped by frost on one of those chilly nights. But blossoming candelabras nearby weren't touched.

Our plant experts should get busy on this problem. Obviously some of the plants classified as weeds are quite a bit more hardy than we think. Plants and trees. Dandelions and quick grass are two cases in point.

There must be a reason for this hardness and maybe one of the experts can find a way to develop a similar hardness in flowers, plants, shrubs and trees. The benefits are quite obvious. The man who develops a geranium with the hardness of a dandelion can retire.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

The Las Vegas Sun, a daily illustrated by the printers union, is a Review-Review. The Review-Review is a Review-Review. The Review-Review is a Review-Review.

The $200,000 loan to Greenup was a legitimate deal with the "Tower bank. St. Louis, with the Sun as the borrower of record and the Review-Review as the guarantor. The bank put up the money but the priston fund guaranteed payment and the debt has been reduced to about $100,000. The interest is six per cent.

The importance of this may be its clarity rather than dramatic originality for the accumulation of pension funds through legal extortion under labor laws has existed nationwide. The editor of one of the stateless papers in the country, representing in Gibbons' own words, recently wrote that all this enormity seems to be an accepted fact of life.

This being so the fact may be routine that the Review-Review has loaned a million to Greenup. The Review-Review has not and create but nevertheless excellent hospital in Las Vegas built by Merced in cooperation with two of Greenup's old associates in the ownership and operation of the famous Desert Inn.

They are Mae Dalitz and Alford Ross, Cleveland, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of Sunrize Hospital. The hospital has 50 beds now and the staff is headed by first class Jimmy Hoffa, who went to Vegas in person to solemnize the loan of the million with a formal announcement on the order of a royal proclamation from the throne. In this case a bar stool.

Further news from Las Vegas is that Ivan Anzenberger, son of the late Max, the historic circulation icon of the Chicago and New York wars, had a fish with Greenup and was thrown out of his job as circulation genius and public relations swami.

Ivan lost out at the New York Daily News a few years ago and Greenup got him at the bargain price of $200,000 a year for two years. At the end of that agreement, Ivan was to be allowed to buy a half interest in the Sun, but Greenup pushed him with two months left to go.

This was a feat of audacity if not arms because, respectively, pushy, pushy. Nevertheless, pushed what he was and he is now "consultant" in circulation to the Review-Review.

But why am I telling you all this?

Life's Little Pleasures Are Nice but Happen so Seldom

BY FRANCIS STILLEY

When they don't mention the money of you one them.

Consider, for a moment, having a wife who says, "I'm proud of you, and I don't really care whether you make any more money or not."

Or one who says, "The balder you get the more handsome you seem and learning there'll be a refund."

Yes, and the time when the checkbook adds can be just like a yes in the bank statement.

"One real dandy to roll over and go back to sleep on the morning of your day off."

And there's always the possibility of finding a $10,000 bill in the street. That one might as well be a burglar, however. Still, I once knew a fellow who found $20,000. The mistake of telling his wife, though.

It's a real pleasure to get Christmas shopping done before Christmas, also.

Wonderful, also, when repairs to the old family gas buggy turn out to be only about half what you figured.

ONE QUESTION

In the mounting clamor of the presidential campaign, the voter will be asked to weigh many things about the candidate. He will be urged to examine their voting records if in every instance they have records clearly applicable to national issues.

The candidates' every public utterance will be put to similar scrutiny, as will the specific nature of their experience and their general background.

All this is inevitable. It is also very much to the good, so far as it goes.

But no one of these inquiries, nor all of them in combination, will necessarily yield an easy profit to the voter searching for the right man.

There really is no "ideal" voting record qualifying a man for the White House any more than there is ideal experience or ideal position on the issues. For tomorrow's history has a way of outdating past records and utterances and activities with astonishing speed.

In Franklin Roosevelt's 1932 campaign, he laid out elaborate programs for his prospective administration. Elected and plunged into the shattering reality of economic paralysis, he forgot most of the earlier plans, a whole new set needed to be made.

Virtually every incoming president faces the same problem.

He can only guess at events to come. When they arrive, what he said at Pittsburg or Los Angeles or North Platte may have little or no bearing.

What the voter actually must try to do is determine a candidate's capacity for judgment.

If he has that capacity in large measure, then it is a fair presumption he will be qualified to make the tough, delicate, long-term decisions a president is called upon to make again and again.

With the power of judgment, the man will be ready for the unfolding surprises of history.

He will be as equal as any man can be to today's events. And these are the ones he will have been thinking about.

There is no automatic, magic way to find the man thus equipped to be president.

He may be a governor, or a senator, or something else. He may have held a variety of jobs or not have any. He may be old or young, or may or may not have pleased certain voting blocs.

Yet difficult though the quest may be, the voter must make it. The standard inquiries as to voting performance, public statement, background, will add to nothing if they do not somehow give accurate clue to the candidate's ability to make wise judgments.

For the president to have all the weightmaster of the great and crucial alternative. He, alone, must in every large instance finally do the choosing.

The White House is no place for a man possessed merely of "paper attributes which make" for his easy acceptance.

There is really only one question to be answered:

Can he meet and conquer the tantalizing choices affecting peace and justice which he must make for America and all free nations?

CODE OF ETHICS INTRODUCED INTO ECONOMY

Both had lasting effects, whereas almost every other inquiry was only a temporary, headline-grabbing affair. The code of ethics can reform an individual or a system, transformed the rights of insurer and industry. They were a more recent code of ethics into the economy and the code of ethics.

Fortunately, these basic literatures were inaugurated through true legislation in the years preceding. Without them, the code of ethics in the United States could have mobilized its financial and productive power so promptly and effectively against the code of ethics.

Today's investigations and the resultant and prospective legislation will have far more of a practical and lasting effect on the average American. It will touch more intimately his work, his health and his TV-radio listening hours, with the influence of these media on his opinions and education.

TALENT PAIR

Before going any further, we hasten to point out this is merely an observation and isn't intended to be a pointed criticism of anyone.

Everyone knows at least one of those unfortunate people who can't talk at a piece of apple pie without gazing a pound or so. At the same time there are those fortunate people who could eat half a dozen apple pies in one session and not gain an ounce.

Obviously an inequality in glandular activity or something of the sort, the ideal situation would be for a pair of these people to be married. One of them would eat so much that the one who is allergic to food would have to dieting constantly to keep the bucket somewhere near balanced.

And right about now, some of the more obese readers are going to explode with something about the situation being a bit on the unfair side.

FAMOUS LAST LINE

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

MAJIMINIZE STRIKE EFFECTS, LOWER LAHAY COSTS

The 1959 labor reform act, which flowed directly from the McClellan committee's disapproval of the AFL-CIO's handling of the steel and railroads exploitation and oppression of certain union boxes. If properly exercised, it would enable them to control their own affairs. It might even minimize strike effects and lower labor costs.

It should be noted that Hoffa's national interest in the nation's transport system, as he once threatened to do. Honorable leaders have expelled his Teamsters' union, and a stern federal justice is on the warpath against him.

The Harris investigation has forced TV and radio to clean up the air in the entertainment and advertising fields.

It has forced the department of justice and federal communications commission to give greater vigilance in policing such an instrumental medium of mass education. Whether by new laws or federal intervention, TV and radio will be compelled to set a higher standard of values in shaping public opinion on foreign.

The Harris committee, as in the Corcoran-Kuylenstierna and other areas, has shown that backdoor operations and favoritism in national public interest still exist in the so-called judicial and independent agencies. How to prevent such operations is now a problem Congress and interested.

NATIONAL ATTENTION FOCUSED ON MEDICAL HEALTH INSURANCE

Two other senate bills—the Helms-Kelly and the Helms-Kelly—have focused national attention on a new issue in American politics—medical health insurance.

Had it not been for these revelations, the question of health insurance for the masses would have been a 1960 campaign and for years thereafter. Now, in political self-defense, the administration or Vice President Nixon must maintain its conservative approach on behalf of 16 million oldsters.

It has often been charged that congress wastes too much time on investigations, to which the Senate committee has tried to fix limits on the legislators' authority in this field. The record of the 80th congress provides a good illustration of this.

VIEW OF OTHERS

NIXON'S POSITION

President Eisenhower did his vice president to favor by giving him carte blanche permission to criticize administration policies. Until that time Richard Nixon had been in that most-favorable position a candidate who doesn't have to tell where he stands.

While all the other presidential aspirants were expected to declare themselves in the Ford and Gold campaigns, Nixon was the only one who didn't. He was the only one who didn't.

As a candidate of a minority party, Nixon must attract much independent and some Democratic support. He must have the support of the New York Times asks: "Everybody knows about the Democrats for Eisenhower?" they elected him last year when the Democrats for Nixon were not.

Not having the hero aura that helped Eisenhower, and handicapped by "twenty years of treason" talk, he must have some other political advantage. Democratic voters. If he does, however, he risks disaffection conservative Republicans. He can't afford to stay at home.

Then we come to the Wisconsin primary. The results of two surveys taken during that period could shudder in the Nixon camp. The Wall Street Journal reported that it was with hundreds of Wisconsin voters turned up an astonishingly large number of 1952 and 1958 Eisenhower fans who say that, not of now, they don't plan to vote for the vice president this November.

The Gallup poll reports Nixon has slipped, when he was once more popular than where the Massachusetts senator now leads him 53-47. Nixon has slipped six percentage points since last summer.

Interestingly enough, Nixon's popularity seems to climb faster when he is out of the country. Perhaps the worst mannerism of a man is to maintain his popularity and still remain far enough away to avoid taking a stand on the issue.

It is hard to see how Nixon's Wisconsin general offer to speak his own mind, his position looks to be increasingly difficult.—The Washington Post.

GOOD MANNERS

It's about time for an uprising in good manners. Talking on the phone is one of the most common, but usually holds the door open for women at the postoffice. But very few of the women offer a polite "thank you."

This led to a general discussion on manners, good and bad. And there seemed to be agreement that politeness is taking a beating in today's hurry-up world.

We show bad manners on the telephone, fail to get up and close doors for people, and generally fall down on the niceties that give life a finer touch.

Perhaps the worst mannerism of all are displayed by people when they get behind the wheels of their automobiles. How many motorists stop for pedestrians in the crosswalk? How many are courteous enough to give turn signals? How many will stop to permit someone to make a left turn—or enter a highway from a side road?

All of us would be happier if the other fellow would display better manners. But the only way we can accomplish this is by starting with ourselves.—Anna Pross.

ABOUT DOING NOTHING

There is no rarer issue than world disarmament. Yet there was something almost funny in the confusion that arose over the big-power decision at Geneva to recess the nuclear talks for five weeks starting April 29.

The late comedian Fred Allen once defined a corporation vice president as an executive who "singly can do nothing but collectively can agree that nothing can be done."

Diplomats at Geneva, constantly harried over their inability to reach any sort of productive accord on nuclear disarmament, felt happy that, in the spirit of Allen's "vice president," they had at least been able to agree with Russian representatives, to do nothing for five weeks.

Yet even this achievement, if it is that, was then promptly endangered by an evident breakdown between America's men at Geneva and Secretary of State Herter.

He said flatly that while Russia wanted a long recess the United States wanted a short one. Having just congratulated themselves on their adroitness in getting Soviet diplomats to agree on the length-of-time the conference should adjourn, our representatives were stumped.

The chief U. S. delegate, Frederick Eaton, rushed over to the villa of the top Soviet delegate, Valerian Zorin, to assure him there must be some misunderstanding in Washington, that we really were not for doing nothing for a shorter time than were the Russians.

Someone who somehow missed published statements and official communications on the proposed adjournment period, still doesn't like the idea of five weeks of idleness.

But he's a practical man. He knows the rarity of agreement with the Soviet Union on anything at all.

He accepts the five-week recess. He reasons, inevitably, that if we can get an agreement with the Kremlin on doing nothing, they'll grow so impatient of the idea of agreement as such, and will agree to do something.

Giant Harbor Is Paralyzed By Tally Band

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—A tiny band of white-collar workers, with a slingshot, picket line, tied up the world's greatest harbor for most of yesterday before calling off their demonstrators.

The dispute involved union recognition for 30 clerical shipping workers, who probably never set foot on a pier in their lives. A federal supervisory election is scheduled for Monday to determine if they want the union to bargain for them.

The groups' mastery over 520 miles of docks along the New York waterfront stemmed from refusal of the powerful International Longshoremen's Association to brench their picket line. Some 2000 docks closed elsewhere in the East.

However, late in the day the pickets were withdrawn. Their leaders said they had achieved their aim of attracting attention to their demands.

Longshoremen at once began returning to the piers, and an ILA federal agent said "All the work will be back to work this morning."

While it lasted, it was one of the oddest shutdowns ever to hit the tumultuous bi-lateral waterfront.

Two ships, one in her teardrop section of luxury-line piers on Manhattan's West side on a day when six big liners were docked with 4,500 passengers.

The big passenger ships continued to move in and out, assisted by supervisory shipping line employees. However, there were no longshoremen to handle passengers' baggage.

The picketing union is local 153, Office Employees union. It sought bargaining recognition for 30 clerical employees—clerks, typists and the like—who work for the New York Shipping association.

The NYSA demanded a national labor relations board election to determine if a majority of the clerical help wished to be represented by the OEU.

Surplus Food Claim Denied By Secretary

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said yesterday it is untrue that the newly abroad are getting a better diet from U. S.-donated surplus farm products than the hungry in this country.

Benson issued a statement taking exception to statements made in West Virginia by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination—criticizing the government's food donation program.

Kennedy told a group of unemployed West Virginia miners that in recent years Benson had sent overseas under the surplus food program such items as beef, chicken, turkeys, ducks, pork, sausage, potatoes, milk, corn, rice, peaches and other fruits and vegetables.

"It should be fully understood," Benson said, "that nothing is offered for foreign donation until the demands for welfare recipients at home are fully met."

"The facts are that milk is the only commodity on this list which in the last three years has ever been donated to needy people abroad. All other items listed have been sold," Benson said.

"Presently split chickens and milk, and some fruit and vegetable items, are for the program."

Senate Leader Would Accept Nod of Demos

HOUSTON, Tex., April 22 (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, D. Tex., today indicated Thursday he would accept the Democratic nomination for president.

The senate majority leader made his announcement in a news conference in Houston, Texas, but he said he would not accept the nomination until he had received the support of the party's rank and file.

"I have served my country in every capacity in which I have been able to serve," he said. "I would not think my responsibility to my country is exhausted."

President Johnson's name was mentioned in the issue stated by Johnson in a direct statement to the campaign in his behalf, launched by House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D. Tex.

Johnson was told that Rayburn had said there was nothing so important as the direct statement of Johnson's own mind about such a formal announcement.

"I am not familiar with that question, but I do know my state and other states will place their nomination. I am very honored. But my colleagues have elected a committee of seven and I will be presently engaged in trying to do the best I can from that point of view."

His remarks about the possibility were prompted by a question on whether he would be receptive to the nomination.

"I repeat what I said before," he said. "That is what I think I should say at this point. I intend to be placed in nomination and I am highly honored. But my job is the senate and that is what I intend to do."

Johnson said religion and regional prejudice should have nothing to do with the voting for or against a presidential candidate and would hope not to be replicated when asked if Sen. John F. Kennedy's Catholic religion would affect Massachusetts' favorite son's candidacy.

Northwest's Reclamation Parley Ends

BOISE, April 22 (AP)—A three-day conference of key personnel from the federal reclamation agencies in the Pacific Northwest ended here Thursday at the regional office of the Greater Westwater project.

Harold T. Nelson, regional director, said the project superintendent and planning board officials discussed the construction and operation and maintenance program for the Westwater project. He said internal management and safety problems also were considered.

The regional director's safety message to the state directors of the Greater Westwater project, the Snake river basin, upper Columbia basin and upper Klamath river basin.

The Heben den earthquake and the resulting damage to the project, described by C. K. Jackson, regional geologist.

The results of this biennial conference, which draws on the accumulated experience of veteran key employees, will result in the adoption of money-saving ideas and improvements in efficiency, Nelson said.

Man Is Held for Trial in Assault

John Holten, Twin Falls, was bound to district court on a charge of aggravated assault after a preliminary hearing here Tuesday. Probate Judge J. Dean Mosher Thursday afternoon.

Holten's bond was increased from $300 set Wednesday to $2,500 after the hearing. Judge Mosher said he increased the bond on the strength of testimony by Holten's wife and a daughter, Marjorie Holten, that they had been of bodily harm much of the time.

Holten was not represented by counsel at the hearing and Robert W. H. Ballster, assistant prosecuting attorney, handled the case for the state. Ballster called Mrs. Holten and Marjorie as witnesses.

Holten was arrested Wednesday morning by Twin Falls Sheriff James H. Beaman on a warrant. Holten was charged after a complaint filed in probate court.

In the complaint Mrs. Holten charged that her husband beat her about the head and kicked her.

Group Backs Proposals on Onion Grades

MCCALL, April 22 (AP)—Government proposals for the revision of onion grades and standards by officials of federal and state inspection services.

Representatives of five western states, attending the annual joint conference of fruit and vegetable inspectors here, advocated adopting the new federal standards which would adjust grades and consolidate the onion industry on a national basis.

The proposals have been requested by onion growers throughout the country.

Previous problems were discussed at afternoon sessions. The group considered the possibility of transferring inspectors to various parts of the Northwest at the peak harvest season in an effort to solve the need for more inspection personnel during crop harvesting.

Other topics considered by the group were variations in application of the standards of Washington, Oregon, Utah and Idaho and the possibility of writing certificates for produce inspection in the various states.

Case of Stolen Car Developed In Auto Trade

An apparent mixup among members of the Jess Prather family Thursday night caused local police officers to spend about 20 minutes searching for a "stolen" car.

Police received a call from Prather about 10 p.m. reporting his car had been stolen. He said he had parked the vehicle outside the junior high school while he went inside to get his children. When he came back out the car was gone. He told police he had left the keys in the car.

A local alert sent both city police and members of the sheriff's office out searching for the stolen vehicle. In the meantime Prather went home and found the car parked where his wife left it.

It seems Mrs. Prather had been driven to a meeting near the junior high school by her son who was to leave the car there later for his mother. Unknown to Mrs. Prather, the father and son exchanged cars during the evening.

When Mrs. Prather came out of her meeting she saw the car parked nearby so she got in and drove home. A quick phone call from Prather soon halted the police search.

Higher Value Of Processed Food Is Told

BOISE, April 22 (AP)—Processed food has replaced lumber and wood products as Idaho's leading industry, in terms of value added by manufacture, the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce said Thursday.

The agency said a report from the U.S. census bureau shows that the food products industry added $72,200,000 by manufacture in 1958 compared with 70 million dollars for the lumber and wood products industry.

The chemical industry ranked third, accounting for $25,600,000 in added value.

Altogether value added by manufacturing in Idaho in 1958 was placed at $240,000,000, a gain of 38 per cent from the total four years earlier.

Boiseville ranked first among Idaho's counties with manufacturer value figured at $38,600,000. Ada county was second with $19,500,000.

SHOSHONE, April 22—An Easter program was presented Tuesday night at the high school gymnasium by the Shoshone Choral Units, the Choralists, and the combined choruses of the Shoshone, Richfield and Dietrich high schools, assisted by five adult male singers from Shoshone.

Mrs. Vern H. Thomas, Richfield, was general chairman of the program and directed the Choralists for presentation of the Easter Cantata "The Thorn Crowned King."

Mrs. Verma Allen, Shoshone, and the Rev. Paul Winkler, Richfield-Dietrich, school chorus instructors, were in charge of the combined singing groups. Mrs. Allen directed the performance Tuesday evening, as the Rev. Mr. Winkler sang with the group.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Ralph Lawrence, Shoshone, were soloists for the Cantata. Mrs. Lawrence, also a violinist, acted as accompanist to Mrs. Thelma Johnson, piano accompanist, for one of the numbers.

The Choralists were dressed in blue dresses with white accessories, the regular chorus dress for Richfield-Dietrich, and the Shoshone singers, The boys wore matching pants and white shirts and ties of colors to match the dresses of the girls in the two groups.

Mrs. Johnson was accompanist for the entire program and played the prelude music. A total of 160 singers were featured.

Following the program, all chorists and their directors at schools were guests at a dinner at the Lincoln school cafeteria, sponsored by Mrs. Allen and the Rev. Mr. Winkler.

Mrs. Dean Barney was in charge of food preparation, assisted by Mrs. Harley Handy, Mrs. Douglas Hansen, Mrs. L. M. Hatmaker and Karen Hansen.

Driving Improvement Plan Is Aimed at Repeat Violators

BOISE, April 22—It takes more than success to keep the driver improvement program, some drivers thinking about highway safety. It may take prospective punishment.

Most drivers are aware of the dangers of speed and other moving traffic violations, says State Traffic Safety Director Robert McCall. But there is one group of drivers—the repeat violators—who forget their driving responsibilities.

The safety division is now offering the repeat violator something more to worry about than a routine citation.

"This 'positive action,'" as McCall decreed it today, was authorized by the 1959 legislature. It's called the driver improvement program and is aimed at reducing the accidents on Idaho's highways.

Every time an Idaho driver is convicted of a moving traffic violation, he's assessed a certain number of points. Each violation is "worth" a different number of the demerits.

McCall says the department made a five-year study of traffic accidents in the state. Violations which contributed most frequently to accidents were given a higher point value than violations which occurred less often.

The safety division has provided the courts with a list of the points. When a driver is convicted the judge assesses the demerits and forwards the conviction report to the safety division.

The conviction reports are analyzed and then recorded by three members of the seven-man safety division staff who are assigned to more than 100 courts in the state. When a driver accumulates 50 points he is sent a warning letter. McCall said this is to let the errant driver know that the department of law enforcement is keeping tabs on his driving record.

At 75 points the driver is sent an invitation to appear for an interview with one of the staff members.

The driver is given a chance to explain his reasons for the continuing violations. The interview is also a "good dose of tonic," McCall said.

He said the driver's record is discussed in detail so the violator can see what kind of a driving pattern he's developing.

The driver's attitude is another important consideration, McCall said, in determining whether the license will be suspended.

When the point total reaches 100, or the driver fails to show up for his 75-point interview, the license is suspended.

Only 24 Idaho drivers have received 75 points and only two of that number have lost their licenses since the first of the year. Letters have been sent to 250 drivers and McCall thinks the drivers realize that they should change their driving habits.

While the point total reaches 100, or the driver fails to show up for his 75-point interview, the license is suspended.

McCall noted that convictions in other states count against the Idaho driver. Two Idaho exchanges conviction reports with other states and no matter where the offense takes place, the demerits will be counted.

"Concentrating on the repeat violation is paying off in terms of fewer accidents," McCall said. He added, however, that "it's still a little bit early" to determine just how big a factor the new program will be.

T.F. Semi-Pro Baseball Team to Host Former National Champions

Drain, Ore., semi-pro baseball club, 1958 national champions and seventh in the nation last year, will play the Twin Falls entry of the Magic Valley semi-pro league here July 5. Arrangements for the game were made through state commissioner Russ Hayes, Boise. Eric Koto, owner of Koto's cafe agreed Thursday to underwrite the game. Tentatively, the game, which should prove the highlight of the local baseball season, is set as a night game at Jaycee park.

Koto, who donated the Thursday night game, said Thursday night "I believe this area will support a game of this caliber. I also think the baseball fans in this area deserve a good game. Other groups bring in top football and basketball balls but there is only local competition for the baseball fans since we lack our own league."

The Drain club, which is sponsored by one company, is comprised largely of the top college stars in the Northern division of the old Pacific Coast conference. The club plays about 100 games per season, traveling throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Drain will play two games at Boise July 8 and 9 following the Twin Falls stand and then take a two-week tour through western Canada.

Twin Falls, which split its player resources last season, plans to field only one team this season. The squad is largely expected to come from the old Twin Falls Red Sox, who took third in the state tournament last year, plus some of the minors of the former Twin Falls Cubs team.

Managing the Twin Falls team this season will be Harry Light, former professional baseball player and third round-tripper of the year.

Pirate relief pitcher Fred Green led off the sixth with his first major league homer.

The Phila Jimmie Coker socked a one-run homer over the left field wall in the sixth.

Credit for the victory went to Pirate reliever Fred Green, although he needed help from Eddy Face in the seventh after filling the bases with none out. Face retired the side with only one run scoring.

Hal Smith drove in three runs in the fourth with his second homerun of the season.

Bob Skinner got a fluke inside-the-park homer in the fifth that scored two runs. His drive took a hop over center fielder Bobby Del Greco's head and rolled to the flag pole in deep center. It was Lou Morten, 507; high scratch team game, Bruley's, 855; high handicap team game, Consolidated Preish, 852; high handicap team series, Killinger Electric, 2805; high scratch team series, Bruley's, 2472.

Ute Indian Upsets Golden Gloves Champ in Western Olympic Fight Tournament

POCATELLO, April 22 (AP)—A Ute Indian, John Casspooch, scored the biggest upset Thursday night in the quarterfinal matches of the Western Olympic Boxing championships here. He dethroned Chicago Golden Gloves champion Pete Spanakos in the 119-pound division. Spanakos, Burns, Ore., gained the nod on the card of one judge. But Casspooch, who worked over the Oregon fighter with vicious straight rights in the second round, won the decision on the cards of the other two judges.

Two more knockouts were added during the early bouts of the night quarterfinal session. There were four KO's during the afternoon, as the three-day meet opened.

John Rademacher, 30-year-old brother of former Olympic heavyweight champion Pete Rademacher, smashed out a bloody decision over Hay Williams, Pocatello, in the 150-pound division. Williams squashed Rademacher's nose in the second round and Rademacher retained by cutting Williams and bloodying his nose. The Yakima, Wash., fighter's last was too much for Williams and Rademacher won a unanimous decision.

Of the nine expected to go all the way—120-pound Harry Campbell, San Francisco—won the quarterfinal over Wyoming's Knuckled out. Frank Sandoval, Ravenna, Bannock started a rally in the second round but fired in the third round. Campbell, a 10-year-old from Detroit, Mich., who is a freshman at San Jose State, was the only underdog to make the final.

Nick Spanakos, Burns, Ore., considered one of the nation's best boxers at 125 pounds, scored a technical knockout over Tony Kanip of the Ute Boxing club, Pocatello, in the 125-pound division. Light heavyweight left heavyweights from San Francisco, Joe Baerlein, Idaho State college, and Joe Harrison, U.S. Army, defeated the United States in the Pan American games last year.

Another 125 fighter who lost was Dale Trumbo, 147-pounder, who bowed to John Newman, Los Angeles. And Mike Gallo, San Francisco, beat talented Indian Darrell Blumstein of the Ute Boxing club, at 119 pounds.

Results: 125 pounds — Sammy Oregon, Ute Boxing club, defeats over Bill Ute, Omaha, Neb., 3-0; Chalcie Power, U.S. Army, decision over Eddie Hickey, Oregon AAU, 3-0; Harry Campbell, San Francisco, decision over Jess Sanders, Ravenna, Wyo., 3-0.

Fullmer Eyes Title Defense

BOZEMAN, Mont., April 22 (AP)—Battered Gene Fullmer looked ahead Thursday to the peace and quiet of his mink farm and to a tentative June 27th title defense against Carmen Basilio. Joey Giardello headed home with 11 stitches in his head claiming the National Boxing Association's middleweight crown.

Fullmer, of course, still held the NBA crown after Wednesday night's bitterly fought headbutting duel at the Montana State college fieldhouse that resulted in a draw.

Many spectators and television fans thought Giardello had an edge. Most newsmen at ringside gave it to Fullmer. The AP called it a draw.

Bozeman gradually settled back to normal after drawing a crowd of 12,127 which paid $11,000 for Montana's first title fight in 37 years.

Fullmer pocketed $100,000 and Giardello took home to Philadelphia $25,000. Norm Rothblut, who co-promoted the fight with the Inter-mountain Boxing club, could not give a figure but said there was a 100 profit.

Giardello's manager, Tony Ferrante, said he was protesting to Tony Macerini, president of NBA. Ferrante claimed the title because he said Benny O'Day, chairman of the Montana athletic commission, told him he thought Giardello won. O'Day, of course, had no vote.

O'Day, who goes by his first name instead of his real name Charlie George, was the man who finally made the delayed announcement, from the ring that Fullmer had retained his title. At 11:30, O'Day called the fight an even, O'Day consulted with his fellow commissioners and made it official that Gene still was champion.

Referee Harry Keeler voted for Giardello, 14-12; Judge Jay Evans voted for Fullmer, 15-12; and Judge Billy McFarland had it even.

To allow Fullmer's cuts time to heal, the date of his proposed defense against Basilio has been set back two weeks to June 27.

Plans Set for Heavyweight Title Match

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—Incar Johnson and Floyd Patterson, the man he defeated last June, signed contracts Thursday to meet in a return bout for the world heavyweight boxing championship on Monday, June 20, at the Polo grounds.

The signings took place Thursday morning at the office of the New York state athletic commission thus putting an end to months of verbal sparring, managerial bickering and legal entanglements.

Under the terms, each fighter will receive 25 per cent of the gate receipts. Patterson also will get 50 per cent of the money taken in for television, radio and film rights by the promoters of the fight, Feature Sports, Inc.

Johnson will get only 25 per cent of the ancillary rights but probably will more than make up the difference by a special agreement with the promoters which secures him the total income from the Scandinavian film and Swedish radio rights.

The agreement also calls for Patterson to give Johnson a pre-fight bonus under the promotion of Feature Sports, Inc. should he regain the title. If Johnson repeats his victory of last June 20, when he knocked out Patterson in the third round at Yankee stadium, he will be free toicker with whatever he pleases.

In their last fight, Johnson floored Patterson, a 4-1 favorite, seven times before becoming the first foreign titleholder since Primo Carnera.

Johnson expressed confidence and assured newspapermen, radio and television he expected to defeat his New York opponent again but declined to be specific.

Patterson appeared the grinner of the two. He, too, expressed confidence and also declined to make any outright predictions.

Speaker for Burley Club Is Reported

BURLEY, April 22.—"The Americans need our brother, so look southward, Uncle," Edward Tomlinson told members of the Burley-Rogert Kavie and Pork club Tuesday evening at the Elks hall.

The Latin American have the largest speaking population on earth and it is predicted that by the end of the century there will be 50 million persons living there.

Although these countries are spoken of as being Latin, present speakers are not. Around 70 per cent of Mexico is Indian and the remainder is a combination of all peoples of the world.

Spain speaks while Chile's speakers are Scottish, Irish, Italian and German. Around 50 per cent of the people from Uruguay and Argentina are Italian, the speaker noted.

Brazil has fewer Indians than the U.S. with 40 per cent of the population being from the northern part of Africa. The central region from Rio de Janeiro is made of French, Italian, Czechoslovakian and English, he added.

Transport and agriculture, mining and stock raising, the number one items in the economy for these countries, now being, he said, the part for diversification in the early of today.

He spoke of the great opportunity Brazil now presents to supply the U.S. when the season is over. The big money crop is cotton instead of corn, sugar also is becoming a major crop.

Brazil is taking its own path in its coffee trade and will become head of cattle in the U.S. by next year. Brazil is importing its food and raising many different kinds of cattle in said different climates, he said.

It is not being prepared as well as it should.

"Cook-outs" are popular in Brazil, and have been responsible for starting 27 new industries in the big cities. It is no longer the rule that the Latin American ladies are "dumps" for they too, are distinct, which in turn has also helped start other industries.

In 1949 there were no representatives from the USSR there but last year Russia had 250 million dollars worth of business there. Communist China is there too, and it is rumored that Khrushchev will be the next big visitor.

"Our greatest competition today is at our own doorstep," he added.

Politically there is much to be feared in these countries. They are noted for their dictators and revolutions. They have universities that are 100 years older than Harvard, but haven't progressed politically, he stated.

He stated that when he visited these countries were not trying to get away from anything or seeking religious freedom. The old countries keep very close reign on them.

He pointed out that the communists are spending vast amounts on propaganda in Cuba with a total of around 100 million dollars in 50 republics.

The Russians took some Bolivian Indians to Brazil to entertain them with their folk dances. They have gone to the small mountain towns and got half ignorant people, paid their expenses to Russia and treated them like kings and made them feel important.

"We could take a few pointers from the communists themselves," he said.

"Dislike for the U.S. is everywhere," he stated. "How did this happen? It all started after World War II when we sent so much help abroad and sent them nothing, and the politicians took it up from there. They pointed out that Uncle Sam was their enemy and gave them nothing, breach in the districts and took away their rights."

This was one of the main reasons for President Eisenhower's trip to Latin America. The supreme duty, Nixon's trip began to wake up the U.S., Tomlinson declared.

The speaker pointed out President Eisenhower was greeted not as a President, but as the commander and chief.

"This should tell us something. There is still in the mind and hearts of the people respect for

Five Members Receive Pins

BURLEY, April 22.—Silver star 25-year certificates and pins were presented to five members of the Clarendon Franco Wednesday evening.

Receiving them were Mr. and Mrs. Chris Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett, and Mrs. Jennie Perlie. Mrs. Sam Robinson accepted the pins for Mrs. Perlie.

The group discussed the youth program now under way in Burley. The annual spring picnic will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Indian Springs near American Falls. All Clarendon members are invited.

Pins were discussed for the Cassia county fair particularly the produce booth.

It was announced women of the Orange would serve dinner for the Scouts' Refrigration service at middle town next Wednesday.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Freyhalter and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Reynolds.

YOMMER EDITOR DIES. WASHINGTON, April 22.—Editor of the Atlantic Monthly, died from 1908 to 1958. Thursday.

The magazine, under Scribner's leadership, published some of the most controversial articles of the period.

He was one of the main reasons for President Eisenhower's trip to Latin America. The supreme duty, Nixon's trip began to wake up the U.S., Tomlinson declared.

The speaker pointed out President Eisenhower was greeted not as a President, but as the commander and chief.
