God and Education Can Assert Communism, Speaker Asserts

BUN VALLEY, May 21—"With God and education we can prevent communism," says R. L. McMillan, Abilene, Tex., district manager of the Business Men's Assurance company of America and National Association of Life Underwriters.

He pointed out that the U. S. population is increasing at more than two million a year, but that population growth itself does not guarantee economic growth or an improved standard of living.

"Economic growth depends not upon the number, but the kind of people within a country," he declared.

"It depends upon the people's education, health, ability, their wisdom, spiritual qualities and general character," he asserted.

He challenged his listeners to bring about restoration of the government to the people, pointing out that "we now are run by federal bureaucrats."

To accomplish this goal, he stressed that business leaders must be organized in politics rather than they have been in the past.

He also challenged citizens to prevent the physical deterioration of cities and communities, pointing to the slums in downtown area, the very heart of cities.

hotel manager, new first vice president. The new officers were elected during business sessions Saturday morning during the three-day convention, William Hoop, Twin Falls, Rosecroft hotel manager, is outgoing state president. The convention ended Saturday. (Staff photo—Star-News)

Friday the delegates heard Oregon State University's industrial development department director, outline the strides made by Idaho in the last 10 years in developing a broad based economy involving processing of the state's resources.

Next, plans are among future developments that Idaho can expect in this line, Mayer said. He noted that between 1936 and 1939 there was a 35 per cent increase in slaughter of cattle; a 50 per cent increase in hogs; and a 48 per cent increase in sheep slaughtering. He added that more than two million chickens are processed each year at Albertson's poultry processing plant in Meridian.

Idaho Solon Given Boost

BOISE, May 21 (AP)—Youth Gen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts said young Sen. Frank McNamara of Idaho is a "most appropriate choice" for the keynote speaker at the Democratic national convention.

Kennedy made the comment in response to questions from newsmen in Lewiston where he stopped last night on his way home from the Oregon primary. Chittick, 33, is reported to have the inside track for the keynote job.

Church might remind you of Kennedy in looks. The Lincoln is boyish-looking with a stock of dark hair that falls over his eyes in a Will Rogers style.

He established his reputation as an orator when he was scarcely out of knee pants. As a student at Boise high school he was the national American Legion oratorical contest winner.

When he ran for the senate in 1936 he was virtually unknown outside of Boise. But his speaking ability soon won him a good crowd. He defeated three others in the Democratic primary and trounced incumbent Republican Sen. Herman Walker in the general election by 50,000 votes.

Warning for Hoof, Mouth Disease Told

TWIN FALLS, May 21—The agricultural committee reported the hoof and mouth disease of cattle is much more serious than previously thought at the regular Grange meeting at Thursday evening at the Grange hall.

They cautioned "dairy" and "meat" producers that when buying stock they are to be sure to get a certificate of no-residue of any spray from producers. It also was reported that for a quick race in fattening of hogs, farmers should use a whole grain corn, rice-hulls or the disintegrator left in the sawdust feed after it has been processed.

A group of projects brought from the Grange secretary were given to individuals to study, and to bring reports back to the next Grange meeting.

Roll call for the literary program was something about motion pictures, and the place of birth. An article from the Grange magazine was read, and the Grange retaining to the extensive damage the giant-animal can do.

The closing thought was given from the members, after the national Grange lecturer, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Muller were hosts.

Congress to Debate Five "Hot" Issues

WASHINGTON, May 21—The 80th congress, seven weeks away from its adjournment, will tackle next week five of the measures Democrats hope to make laws in the 1950 session.

Either side of committee action is scheduled on school aid, the aged, depressed areas and budget legislation.

One of the measures, a $25-million-dollar depressed areas bill, already has been voted by President Truman.

The senate starts consideration Tuesday of whether to override the veto of the president. It is expected to get more than the 67 votes needed to override the veto to have his objection nullified.

Other votes probably are in the offing. The House and Senate leaders have been saying some of the bills being shaped by Democrats are budget bills.

Democrats contend that the administration is trying to offer or accept programs needed to maintain the nation's public credit.

The House will debate on Wednesday a $10-million-dollar school construction bill which the administration opposes. A general election bill has been introduced which would allow sponsors say this time they believe they have the votes to win by a close margin.

If the bill gets through the House, the senate may decide to accept it as the best available legislation for this year. The senate passed a $124,000,000 bill containing grants for teacher salaries as well as school buildings. Money in the House program would not be available for teacher salaries.

Labor committees in senate and House are still in the week of debate on the president's bills. Democrats expect to send to the floor in both houses construction bills for about $100 million more in 1950.

The House was and means committee action on the social security bill which has been drafted to discuss medical care for the aged.

Tests of Nuclear Bombs Are Asked

WASHINGTON, May 21—The House today passed a resolution asking the development of the hydrogen bomb as urged immediate resumption of nuclear weapon tests.

The House passed the resolution by a vote of 307 to 107.

The resolution is a direct challenge to the administration's policy of no nuclear tests.

The House also passed a resolution asking the development of the hydrogen bomb as urged immediate resumption of nuclear weapon tests.

Old Poplar Trees Removed for New Blaine Hospital

A row of 28 Carolina poplar trees located at the site of the new Blaine County hospital were being removed with the county bulldozer Thursday. The trees are being removed to allow landscaping for the hospital grounds. They were planted by the city of Hallett shortly after 1913 and were the subject of much admiration by visitors until several years ago when it became impossible to reach them with city water because a canal was closed. Since then they have gradually died. The row of trees to the south of the Hallett high school, which were planted at the same time, also will be removed. (Staff photo-engraving)

Judge Grants Dismissal for Bureau Case

District Judge Theron W. Ward granted a motion of dismissal Friday in the case of Thomas Y. Guilliam against Norman B. Garlington and the Magic Valley Adjustment Bureau, but gave Guilliam 15 days in which to file an amended complaint.

Guilliam filed the suit against the bureau and its president, Garlington, seeking $5,000 damages and removal of Garlington from office.

Guilliam claimed he and Garlington entered into an oral contract on Nov. 1, 1959, for the collection agency and opened for business in Twin Falls that December. Guilliam stated in his complaint that no stock was issued but it was agreed mutually that shares would be owned equally.

Subsequent to Guilliam's complaint, Garlington filed a motion in court asking the case be dismissed because Guilliam did not have sufficient grounds for the lawsuit.

Cause Championed by Woman in Shoshone

Mrs. Ralph A. Lawrence, wife of the Methodist minister in Shoshone, is soliciting for an unique cause, world peace.

"I came to solicit for world peace. We have been hearing people talk for the longest time about the heart fund, the Red Cross fund and on and on—some of you may have helped in one way or another. I don't want to minimize the importance of these causes, but I am directed to be one of the most direct causes for which I am soliciting. I may have helped in one way or another on many other causes put together."

She launches a rather unassuming program, compiled by Mrs. Lawrence. Programs for women's organizations vary from cultural, educational to social and entertainment, but this subject is directed to be one of the most direct.

In preparing for the program, Mrs. Lawrence secured information from various sources, taking a picture from the Methodist church and sent it to her husband, who is pastor of the Shoshone Community Methodist church. In explaining why such help is wanted, the pamphlet points to the atomic bomb which has been exploded in the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. It notes, "Our own country, not to mention others, is preparing for a nuclear war, along with nuclear-fragor bombs, more violent than any medicine can cope with, and poison terrible enough to annihilate whole cities, are actually in existence now."

Committees Are Named for Club

WENDLELL, May 21 — Mrs. Helen Gibson, president of the club, announced the names of the committees for the year's program.

Committees are Mrs. Ralph Newberry, Mrs. William Terry, Mrs. Alice Lawson and Mrs. Joe Dorman.

Public opinion is the most potent force open to those who would work for peace. Here are some things you can do to build that public opinion," according to Mrs. Lawrence.

Warner's girdles of Du Pont's 'Lycra'

Do try on Warner's new 'Lycra' girdle to believe: It weighs a trifle over 2 ounces, has less rubber elastic, yet gives up to 3 times more controlling power! Lasts longer because body oils can do no harm. And just machine wash and dry it. 'Lycra' is DuPont's new spandex fiber... lighter, softer, more sheer. BORAH, PRIEST RAVER TAKE STATE TRACK CHAMPIONSHIPS

Finish of 100-Yard Dash Remains in Doubt; Films To Settle Protest Monday

BOISE, May 21 (AP)—Boise's Borah high school won first place in four events and walked away with Idaho's state prep track championship today in a meet marred by rain, wind and hail. Priest Raver retained his class B championship in a close battle with Soda Springs. Only one new state record, in the 100-yard dash, was set. The 100-yard dash prevented final determination of runner-up honors for Borah. Unofficially, Coeur d'Alene had the spot with the unofficial record of the 100-yard dash (5.6 seconds) set by Priest Raver. Coeur d'Alene 21.5/6 and Fremont 19.

Nampa Drops T.F. 3-1 to Clinch Regional Crown

NAMPA, May 21—Clutch hitting by Bill Cunningham and Sam Benner brought the Nampa Bulldogs from behind as they whitewashed the Twin Falls Braves 3-1 tonight and won the southeastern regional baseball title. The game ended one of the poorest seasons record-wise in several years for the light-hitting Braves who were defending regional champions.

The Bruins took the lead in the first inning when Tommy Ballantyne struck to lead off the inning and coasted in on Dale Barville's long-curl. Then Nampa's ninth-inning Bill George slammed the door.

State Danny Keller, who flirted with trouble because of wildness in the early innings, had to leave in the fifth frame after walking two men. Reliever Gary Rountray also got into the act when Cunningham's single drove in the deciding runs. Torrent walked, stole second and scored on Steve Herz's single in the sixth to ice it.

George fanned 13 and fanned only two batters in the entire game. Keller walked eight and hit one batsman, while finishing four in his four-inning job. Rountray threw mopped up on two hits, two walks and two strikeouts.

Three Scotchball tournament of six-teams will be conducted at 3 p.m. today at the municipal golf course. All persons interested in participating are asked to sign up by 2:30 p.m. to allow for drawings and punctual tee-off.

Two Buffalo Stopping in Stockyards Get Attention

Two symbols of the old West visited Twin Falls recently. Two buffalo spent a week in a corral at the Stockgrowers Commission company causing quite a stir during the week when people brought their children to visit the impromptu zoo.

The animals, a bull and a cow, are owned by William Hoppie, Buhi. They were on route to Hoppie's ranch at Buhi when they stopped over at the stockyards for a few days. For the past few months Hoppie has had the two animals on a range land in Buhi.

Last of Old Common Schools in County Closing up This Spring

BUHI, May 21 — A weathered and faded building that has witnessed the dust storm of the early days of the tract and the numerous groups of students for more than half a century stands on a two-acre plot of land southeast of Buhi. It is the Spruce school district No. 19.

This year the old building will retire and the 19 students who currently attend its fifth grades will attend Buhi public school next year.

There is almost in some quarters of the county as the closing of the old schools, and the school year be closed off by a small reorganization is put before the voters of the district, on June 11.

But it is the consensus of citizens in the district that no action will vote if necessary. In effect, they practically have to. Idaho law requires that all common school districts reorganize by June 1961. There is only one other such district in the county. Reservoir, where voters also will vote on the reorganization question on the same date.

It will be over but voting in the Springs district it is all over the voting. Today the members of the district hold a regular and political picnic at the school grounds. About 175 invitations have been mailed to persons who have selected the school as one. Some invitations have been sent as far as Moscow.

The picnic will begin at 1 p.m. and last until late in the afternoon. There will be a political picnic, an oral history of the school will be delivered, and all former school children are invited. Coffee, punch and ice cream will be furnished by the school district.

According to Burton Bonner, clerk of the school district, the school building was built in 1934. The change in the form of an improvement, was added behind the building.

The first teacher was paid $55 per month and usually not board and room at a nearby farm home. The school building has always been an eight-grade school. At that time two teachers, in 1912 there were 47 students, probably the high point, according to Bonner. From 1912 to 1929 there was one teacher. From 1929 to 1934 there were two teachers. Since then there has been one teacher. The present instructor is Mrs. Leona Griffith.

The school was started on a plot of land sold the district by Herbert Bonner for $50. Bonner, who now 93 years old, was chairman (Continued on Page 25, Column 4)

Mrs. Leona Griffith and Burton Bonner discuss the closing of Spruce school and its consolidation with the Buhi school district on the front porch of the building. Guild Plans "Art Mart" in Park Here Every Sunday During June

The Art Guild of Magic Valley will soon present a new and fresh approach to showing art in Twin Falls. Each Sunday during June members will present an open air "art mart" facing the band shell in the city park.

Mrs. Keith Evans, president of the guild, says the mart will be held each June Sunday, weather permitting. The show will open about 9:30 a.m. and last through the afternoon. "The mart will have no definite hours, but the hours will depend on the winds and the weather. I hope it will last until at least 5 p.m. and maybe even later if the crowd are interested in the show."

Mrs. Evans notes there are currently 23 members in the guild and she hopes many of them will exhibit at least 10 paintings apiece. There will be a minimum of 100 paintings.

This "art mart" is a new thing in Twin Falls. Until now members of the guild have shown their paintings at treacherous art shows and at the Twin Falls county fair.

Mrs. Evans notes the mart will demonstrate to citizens of this area the local artists and their work. It will also encourage the painters, most of the paintings will be for sale and the public will be able to price them at the mart.

Mrs. Evans says the idea for the mart was put before the board by Lee Logan, who recently painted some fine paintings in the Springs, where such marts are commonplace.

Most of the paintings will be oils, and many will depict local landscapes. Mrs. Evans says the paintings will be attended by the artist and the public will be able to ask questions about the paintings, or about art in general.

"I think the art mart will serve a good purpose. It will educate people on what is going on in the art world. Many members of the guild have traveled far and studied art, and studied what is going on in the art world. We want people to know about it."

Mrs. Keith Evans, president of the Art Guild of Magic Valley, holds two paintings and a sign. Lee Logan has prepared to direct the public to the "art mart" which will be held each Sunday in the city park. The art paintings will be on display. Mrs. Evans notes that most of the paintings in the mart will be realistic, such as those above. (Staff photo-entourage)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A hitch-hiker who Mr. and Mrs. Heralb Johnson and daughter, EDEN, picked up at VERGEMO recently turned out to be a most versatile wide-wide traveler and chemical laboratory assistant from Manchester, England. Raymond Bolt, 23, was on the last leg of a world trip which had taken him to Australia. He expects to reach Rochester by June. He has room in January, 1961, with 20 pounds he carried 100 pounds in Africa.

He is the Eden family he had worked as a film extra in India, Cambodia, in New Zealand and taught English in Japan to finance his travels which have been primarily on foot and hitchhiking. In Burma he was retained in jail for five days as a possible spy.

"A smile will get through most places," remarked the young man who speaks French and German as well as English. He commented that he found "most" Americans friendly, especially in the Middle and Eastern United States.

Janette Hines was graduated May 15 from Hagerman High school, making the total of 43 years Mrs. Hines has had to raise early and get the children to school.

The husband lived until 1957, on who had help. She had 12 children and lost five in infancy, but with one adopted it still totals more than most women would care to tackle.

Tax Men Working to Meet Deadline Now That 60 Million Returns Filed

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Sixty million Americans have just filed their tax returns, and tax men are working to meet their own deadline.

Some 30 million citizens are due to get returns—the average ranges from $10 to $15—and the law gives IRS only until May 31 to send them out. After that IRS has to pay a penalty, the same as you would if you missed your deadline.

At the moment, in IRS' three big service centers, in Lawrence, Mass.; Kansas City, Mo.; and Ogden, Utah, and in the Washington headquarters, punch card machines and computers are churning the returns through the various checks. It will take two years—or longer—before IRS is ready to put your return in the shelf in government warehouse.

At first, most returns undergo math verification. Last year 2.2 million returns were mathematically checked. This resulted in bills to 1.1 million Americans for an additional $1 million dollars in taxes. Another 700,000 Americans found the math check had 4.2 million dollars back in their pockets.

Then, too, IRS selects returns for audit. IRS Commissioner Ruzell C. Harrington says three out of every four returns have even a small mistake and are returned with tax changes from detailed audit are often insignificant.

But by error do pop up, and so do odd ones. One taxpayer filed a return in which he had 100,000 deduct contributions to Hialeah race track. Another taxpayer claimed six dependents, whose names were all different. "Are you sure you understand who dependents are," asked an agent.

"Yes, sir," was the emphatic answer. "My good friends you can depend on to lend you money when you need it."

Also listed as dependents on returns: each year are dogs, cats, horses, even monkeys and birds. Wise from long experience, the taxmen try to concentrate on well-known trouble areas. Returns for audits investigation may be chosen by type of return, business or occupation, or size of income. A particular profession or business may receive special attention one year, and another the next.

In one recent year this auditing program accounted for nearly $4 billion dollars in additional taxes and penalties.

"I think I can say the world's tax chest today faces as great a hazard as ever in our history," says Harrington.

Still, the income tax man is not out to "get" anybody, says Harrington, pointing out that in 1959 he had sent out 400 million audited returns. Altogether, in 1959, many three million returns for the past-year treatment.

By and large, taxmen say they are well satisfied with taxpayers' book returns are filed on time—and are highly filed out.

Every year and then a taxpayer brightens the annual work load. One taxpayer, who had 100,000 deduct contributions to Hialeah race track. Another taxpayer claimed

Emerson Farmer Heads GOP Club

RUPERT, May 21 — Averill Green, Emerson farmer, was elected to head the newly organized Lincoln County Young Republican club. Thursday night about 50 persons met at the Cotter.

Charles McDowell, president of the state Young Republican club, explained the workings of the club group and encouraged formation of an organization on the county level.

A meeting of the new group is set for 8 p.m. Monday, May 23, at the American Legion home. Green urged all persons interested to attend.

McDowell, in listing the aims and purposes of the organization, stressed the importance of action on the part of voters, not just accepting thoughts and plans from others. Meetings of the group, he said, will allow an exchange of ideas and afford an opportunity of discussion of party problems.

Elected as vice chairman was Lynn Helmer, Haysden. Dean Todd Rupert, was appointed secretary.

When your return is through, it becomes part of the archives of the United States. It goes under guard into one of its warehouses scattered about the country. After six or seven years, unless it returns the taxman may want to refer to again, it is burned.

"The Union of South Africa is going to stop the whites man from teaching the black man," the Rev. Jim Edmond Gillet, retired African missionary, told a group recently when he visited BURLEY and GOODRICH.

The Rev. Mr. Gillet and his wife first went to Africa in 1916 and during more than 40 years served in Mozambique, the Portuguese colony on the east coast of Southern Africa.

Last June they said good-bye to the Mozambique people at a meeting in Burley.

This election year progresses, chairman of the Twin Falls county committee, Lloyd J. Walker, Democrat, and James M. Cunningham, Republican, assemble their forces. One of the current duties is appointment of precinct committeemen to new precincts created in Twin Falls last October. Precinct boundaries were altered last fall by county commissioners to conform with Idaho voting laws and extending population for more than 600 voters can reside in a precinct. The precinct boundaries altered are located in the newer northern sections of the city. Formerly there were 21 precincts in Twin Falls. Now there are 25. These new precincts were formed by redrawing the old precinct boundaries where the population has increased with the growth of housing subdivisions. With the addition of four new precincts in Twin Falls, precincts in the county now total 50.

Only 364 Acres of Valley Sugar Beets Replanted in Spite of Several Frosts

Despite intermittent frosts this spring, only 364 acres of sugar beets were replanted this year at 2.65 acres in 1959 reports Robert Day, Twin Falls, manager of the Amintavian Sugar company. The beet season is longer than in years past and was able to get down on thinnings in April. The labor force for thinning beets is in Twin Falls and work falls plant, and the 18 centers are replanted was 2.2. Last season 17.3 per cent of the sugar beet was replanted. The allotment was 15,000 acres at that time. Day said that two-thirds of the seed used this season is monoenergetic, which is helpful in cutting down on thinning. The labor force for thinning beets is in Twin Falls and work falls plant, and the 18 centers are replanted was 2.2. Last season 17.3 per cent of the sugar beet was replanted. Aldrin Found in Milk, University Expert Declares

Aldrin, the chemical poison used to treat potato ground, has been found in milk, according to word received in the Twin Falls county agent's office from Robert W. Puryear, University of Idaho extension entomologist. Puryear stated Aldrin residues were found in milk where the dairy animals had been fed weeds grown on soils treated with DDT. Puryear advised dairymen and livestock feeders to be cautious of view of fact that the Federal drug administration has granted an tolerance for Aldrin on potato, and there is a zero tolerance for all pesticides in milk.

Farm Value Increase in 1959 Noticeably Slower

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—The increase in the market value of farm real estate slowed noticeably in 1959. After advancing six to eight per cent in each of the three previous years, the increase in farm real estate values in the first seven months of 1959 averaged only 2.5 per cent. Although no state reported a decline in the first 18-month period, increases were two per cent or less in most of the Corn Belt, South and Northern Plains. Values increased more than the national average in most of the Mountain, Pacific states and in New England. The Federal Reserve department's report on the current development in the farm real estate market shows that the increase in the first seven months of 1959 was 2.5 per cent. Changes of one per cent or less occurred in 30 states. Values increased as much as two per cent in the western states, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri and New Jersey—were as high as four per cent in November. Most of the 14 states that showed increases of two or three per cent were in the western half of the country. The national average increased only one per cent since late November, but in the comparable period of 1958-rates rose three per cent.

Labor Force

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—The farm labor force during the April 17-23 survey week totaled 7,100,000 persons. Of these, farm operators and other family workers represented 4,600,000 persons and hired hands 1,600,000 persons.

Last Season's Weed Spraying Results Inspected on Tour of County's Farms

Some results of last season's weed spraying on badly infested fields were rechecked last week on a tour by Warren Lowery, Twin Falls weed director, and Harold Lancaster, county commissioner and chairman of the weed advisory board. On some fields the results seemed better than promising. On others, indications pointed out some chemicals are not as potent as others. Particularly on trial plots established by representatives of a few chemical companies.

About the most outstanding achievement was witnessed on the Stanley Crum farm, southwest of South Park. Last season, Crum turned a seven-acre field over to the county for spraying, because a variety of weeds had made cropping an impossibility. The field had been overrun with morning glory, some Canada thistle and many other weeds of wild ground cherry. In June, Lowery had the field sprayed with 2-D-4. The field was then sprayed with a mixture of wild ground cherry and Canada thistle. Chemicals used were a mixture of aminotriazole and 2-D-4.

During the summer months, the field was cultivated periodically and then again last fall to tear down the weeds. The field was then sown with a variety of seedlings of morning glory, wild ground cherry and Canada thistle. This spring, the field was plowed early to help the moisture. The day after plowing, on a few isolated spots, no weeds were observed.

Bushel Urged as Basis for Wheat Program of U.S.

MOSCOW, May 21 (AP)—An adoption of a wheat program based on the bushel instead of acreage limit was advocated here yesterday by Democratic senator Philip Compton. J. White of Clark, Ark.

Observations about these chemicals will be forwarded to the participating companies by area representatives who stated that in many instances—these chemicals were used in other parts of the United States but not in Magic Valley.

U. S. Wheat Carryover July 1 Expected to Be up Slightly

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—The agriculture department reports the wheat carryover on July 1 is expected to be "borderline" this year, and a further increase appears likely by July 1, 1960. This would make three years of increases in the carryover, following three years of decreases. Department economists, writing in the publication "The Wheat Situation," estimated the July 1, 1960, carryover at about 1,800,000 bushels. This is slightly above the carryover of 1,770,000 bushels last July 1. The carryover of July 1, 1959, was 1,830,000 bushels, up 115,000 bushels from the estimated carryover of July 1, 1958, of 1,715,000 bushels. Supply of wheat in the 1959-60 marketing year total 2,415,000 bushels. Three supplies came from the 1959 crop plus the 1958 carryover. Domestic consumption for the 1959-60 year has been estimated at about 800 million bushels, with exports totaling 475 million bushels. The 1960 winter wheat crop has been estimated at 977 million bushels.

Jordan Visitors Tell of Olive Trees Still Profitable After 2,000 Years

Jordan olive trees planted 2,000 years ago are still bearing fruit, according to two visitors from the Near East country in Twin Falls last week.

The men, Ibrahim Abdullah, chairman Abdullah, chief of the producers and consumers section, department of cooperatives development, and Ghawar Taher Amrith, chief accountant for the loan's office of the development board, have been in this area primarily to determine the olive tree's value for moving on into other states across the nation studying land differences in the needs of farmers. While here, the two men offered some information on the olive tree's farming done in their country, and also what types of farm credit facilities are available there.

While here, the two men offered some information on the olive tree's farming done in their country, and also what types of farm credit facilities are available there.

Cows are upk milk for dual purposes, working in the fields pulling plows and for providing milk for the farm family.

Average size farm is 15 to 20 acres, though one man owns 100,000 acres. Systems of modern dairying are being adopted in the country, and in these milk farms are Holsteins, Jersey, Brown Swiss and Guernseys.

In the villages farmers make butter, cheese and yogurt from their cow's milk, mostly for home use, but in the cities are delivery routes for milk produced by dairy herds.

Sheep are on many farms in Jordan, averaging 50 to 500 head. These are the main source of wool and the grass on the desert. There are 70,000 sheep in Jordan, and most are docked or castrated. Young lambs are sent to the market, often in excess of 100,000, weighing 10 to 20 pounds. These are not purchased for fattening, but a feedlot, but are slaughtered for meat. The two visitors claim that meat is cheaper than meat from older sheep and is very tender.

The sheep raised in Jordan are long-wool breeds. Large numbers of goats also are raised in the country as well as horses, mules and camels, which are used for transportation.

Feed for livestock is provided from grain grown in the country. Wheat, both hard and soft varieties, and red and white, will yield from 15 to 25 tons per acre. In Jordan the wheat is not used as a standard of measure, and yields are calculated on the basis of returns from a ton of wheat seed, 100 lbs. to 150 lbs. average.

On the wheat mountains above the Jordan valley, in good years, the Jordan valley will be 15 to 24 inches. On the eastern range, near the Jordan valley, the rainfall in good years is 10 to 12 inches. The past three years have been extremely dry, and the men said the crop suffer accordingly. In good weather years, surplus grain is sold to other Arab nations, although some of the surplus is stored for bad years.

Jordan Visitors Bring Map of Their Country

Earl Stanseth, senior, secretary-treasurer of the Northern Idaho Production Credit Association, brought a map of Jordan, brought by two visitors from that country, Ghawar Taher Amrith, chief, in charge of the loan's office of the development board in this country, and Ibrahim Abdullah, chairman Abdullah, chief of the producers and consumers section, cooperatives development in the Ministry of Social Affairs. The symbols on the map are in Arabic and show the location of the Dead Sea, which is 1,282 feet below sea level. (Staff photo-gravating)

Dairy Cow Shows Result in Varied Residue in Milk

BIJON, May 21—A direct injection of an antibiotic into a dairy cow will have a longer residual effect on the milk than will a direct injection into the cow's udder, says Miss Condon, district fieldman for the Jerome Cooperative Creamery.

Condon's statement is based on samples of milk analyzed containing antibiotics injected into the udder or into the milk. The antibiotic in the milk from the cow should be withheld for 144 hours after the injection, for at least 17 hours after the injection. When the antibiotic is injected into the udder, the milk from the cow should be withheld for 144 hours after the injection.

Texas Farmers Given Biggest Bite of U.S. Agency Payments

WASHINGTON, May 21—Farmers in Texas received the biggest bite of U.S. Agency payments for 1959 from the federal government's kitty of payments for agricultural commodities, according to a report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Government payments to Texas last year totaled $252,620,000, according to the report. The agricultural conservation program, $98,000,000 from sugar aid payments, $100,000,000 from the wool program, $100,000,000 from the soft-belt program, and $54,620,000 from the cotton conservation program.

North Dakota farmers got the second largest amount—$111,182,000, which shows up even less than 144 hours after the injection.

53 Sheepmen Send Wool to Pool in Twin Falls

The general policy of producer and consumer cooperatives compares its organization to the pool of sheepmen in Idaho.

Funds revolving to the agricultural cooperatives, composed of individual farm owners amounting to two million dollars a year. Most loans are made for seasonal uses, and are for farm operating expenses. Farmers pay this debt, but competing interest.

The board of directors selected annually by farmers, supervised loans. The secretary of the cooperative is often unpaid for his work. The aim of these cooperatives is to become self-sufficient, so that they will not need government money, and the members are building credit, rather than paying fixed amounts for financing.

The cooperative pay four per cent interest to the government for the loan of the money, plus five per cent service charge. Then the co-op charges another "three" to four per cent to its members.

After a few years of charging from eight to nine per cent interest to its farmer-members, the co-op expects to drop the interest rate to five per cent. "If the money will have to be borrowed from the government."

Three per cent of all the villages in Jordan belong to the cooperatively owned bank, and the village in Jordan being to the cooperatively owned bank, and the village in Jordan being to the cooperatively owned bank, and the village in Jordan being to the cooperatively owned bank.

A steady stream of trucks loaded with sacked wool from 53 wool growers came to this rail loading platform last week in Twin Falls. The wool was weighed and loaded onto freight cars after this recording crew tabulated figures. The buyer was Emory Bygh.

Research on Chemical Residue in Food Included in Approved Farm Funds Bill

WASHINGTON, May 21—The Senate appropriations committee yesterday approved a four billion dollar farm program bill including increased funds for research on chemical residues in food.

The committee also endorsed a measure which allows the collection of price support loans to farmers after the support cost for 1960 crop.

The lawmakers failed to vote any money for Federal research on the safety of food processing plants which produce items like food.

The bill also provides for the construction of a new laboratory in which scientists can study the effect of chemicals in plants, insects, and livestock and develop new non-chemical methods of insect control.

The Senate committee reallocated $12,000 for marketing services such as inspection of poultry slaughter plants. The Senate did, however, restore $500,000 for chemical residue in food. The bill, however, restores $500,000 for chemical residue in food. The bill, however, restores $500,000 for chemical residue in food.

No Change on 2,4-D Use, Federal Agency Reports

WASHINGTON, May 21—The agriculture department says it has no intention of changing its policy on the use of 2,4-D for the control of weeds, but has been withheld from the use of 2,4-D for the control of weeds in pastures, forage and field crops.

The decline in acreage for the use of 2,4-D in the Northwest is due primarily to a steady drop in Washington. Farmers in both Oregon and north Idaho are expected to increase spring wheat plantings this year.

Spring Wheat in Northwest Down From Last Year

MOSCOW, Idaho, May 21—Northwest plantings of spring wheat are expected to be way down from last year, according to a report by H. Wayne Robinson, extension economist for the University of Idaho.

The report stated prospective spring wheat plantings will be 28 per cent below 1959 and 20 per cent below the previous 10-year average.

Gene Hull Finds Time for Many Varied Activities and Running Turkey Farm

In the past several years Gene Hull has found time to develop a wide range of public activities in this part of the Intermountain west, serve for two years as president of the Idaho poultry federation, maintain his interest in the poultry industry as a member of the National Turkey Raisers' federation, named director of the year by the Magic Valley Jaycees in 1936, and for the past year as president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Hull and his father, A. T. Hull, currently manage a flock of about 2,000 turkeys on their own property. This lot of turkeys and the flock consumes about one million eggs for the year, and the birds are processed, most of them during the Christmas season.

Currently, Hull manages most of the farm and business work associated with the business, and his father cares for the turkeys. They have a large turkey processing plant, building their operation up from the small farm they started in 1923.

Hull explains they started their business together in the spring of 1919. Raising turkeys is considered a hazard by experienced poultry raisers, but Gene and his father started out with 500 turkeys and they worked from there, but were successful in the past few years.

"They started out on a 10-acre patch of ground west of Piller, and Hull retired from his father-in-law, Earl Morland, Piller.

Hull recalls they got along fine for the first three years, but in 1923 he overtook what he did with the turkeys. They were in October rolled around and they began to wonder who was going to buy 6,000 turkeys.

"Thanksgiving was drawing near and finally they got out the turkeys and hot water and started dressing them. They rented processing facilities from local processors and went to work. They got them all dressed and 664 pounds by the time the turkeys were in the market over seven days later. Hull points out that people don't realize the over-dressed poultry products have been on the market only the last few years.

"We were fortunate," he says. "That first year was a good year. The turkeys were good. If the price had been what they have been in some of the last few years, we would never have made it through that first year."

The major portion of the turkeys they raise are sent for household consumption, with the remainder frozen for consumption throughout the year. The turkeys they start in May are fed out to Thanksgiving, and the June turkeys are Christmas turkeys.

Asked how he learned to raise turkeys, he says, "The hard way. If we had known then what we know now, we would have been scared now."

One of the biggest jobs of the poultry industry is to educate the public to eat more poultry products, and not confine buying to holiday times. As an officer in two poultry organizations, this is one of Hull's jobs.

He is currently serving his second consecutive term as president of the Idaho Poultry Industry federation, an organization of all types of individuals interested in the farming industry in Idaho.

The federation draws members from breeders, processors, egg processors and feed companies in the state and its purpose is to further the industry and to educate both industry members and the public. Hull points out the industry is interested in legislation that will protect the local industry by requiring the quality of egg produced and maintain that same quality through the retail outlet.

Hull says the federation works hand at educating the general public on how to serve poultry, products and industry members themselves on how to improve their poultry. The conventions are not just at Williams field, Phoenix, social, but educational affairs. First he has the sometimes ill-where speeches, panel discussions.

Hull was transferred to the 24th fighter squadron that flew P-40s. For the remainder of the war he flew the P-40s and the P-51 Mustang. He still has a soft spot on the P-40.

For several months he served with interceptor squadrons on the west coast, then with the 24th Fighter Squadron. He was with the 24th fighter squadron of the 8th Air Force, Okinawa and the 24th Fighter Squadron, 8th Air Force, Okinawa. Most of his combat missions were bombing and strafing runs in the area of Japan and shipping in nearby waters.

Hull's squadron was one of the first fighter squadrons to land in Japan. One landing they made there was rather nervous. Hull recalls the war had been on just a few days and just a handful of troops had landed in Japan. One day Hull's squadron commander was told to land at a Japanese air field. Hull landed with him. They had a hard time getting the Japanese soldiers still walking around as if they were not there. Hull says it was a strange experience, but every thing smooth.

Later the squadron was transferred to Japan and he spent a year in the air force reserve. He is currently serving as a lieutenant in the 24th Fighter Squadron, 8th Air Force, Okinawa. and distributed printed matter all aim at improving the state poultry industry.

In addition to his post with the state organization, Hull is a director of the National Turkey Federation, the representative from Idaho. He is currently serving his third term on his board. He finds time to attend such one federal convention a year.

Hull was recognized for his work with the poultry industry and his farming activities — he also farms and feeds cattle — when the Twin Falls Jaycees named him "Farmer of the Year" in 1935.

Hull was born in Burley and raised in Twin Falls. He attended college at Brigham Young University. In his second year of college, in 1912, he joined the Army Air Corps. Hull 1918 he served as a pilot in the 24th fighter squadron. He attended basic training at Santa Ana, Calif., and primary training at Ryan Field, Okinawa. He served there just last year when he was a vacation man on the field. Hull was surprised at how little the de-activated field has changed and notes that walking around the deserted field recalled many memories.

He was graduated as a fighter pilot at Williams field, Phoenix, social, but educational affairs. First he has the sometimes ill-where speeches, panel discussions.

Salvation Army Tradition of Helping Hand Maintained by Twin Falls Corps

Since 1878 when it was started in the United States, the Salvation Army has established a tradition in this country and throughout the world as a religious organization that strives to help the hand throughout society. Millions of veterans can attest to this.

"This week the Salvation Army week and the local corps hopes to raise $2,500, according to Lieut. H. Del Hearne, local commander.

Since the time when so many persons became acquainted with the Salvation Army during World War I and World War II, it has played an important role in the religious life of a community and regularly helps those in need.

In Twin Falls, the Salvation Army corps is under the direction of Lieutenant Hearne and his wife, the only two full-time members. They work night and day seven days a week, to keep the program under way. Always short of funds, that is a job for the devoted member and the person who can create something from nothing.

On a shoestring budget, they maintain the corps building, shelter house, thrift store and all the other projects that make up the Army's program.

It is hard work and a type of job where criticism often overshadows praise. Both Lieutenant and Mrs. Hearne have had an interest in the Army since youth. She was born in a family that was active in the program. Her father was a professional member.

Lieutenant Hearne has had more than a passing interest in the program for many years although he was just committed to the Army last year. Prior to fee. Any profits go toward any employees wages and upkeep of the building.

"The shelter house, a relatively new project, is a place where transients without funds can be sheltered and fed, local persons can stay when emergency arises. It gives the corps a place to house its own members who will work a different job throughout the year.

Lieutenant Hearne points out that the shelter enables men to regain their self-respect by giving them a place to live and a job to get and proceed to help themselves.

"It is sometimes easier for a man to stay in the gutter than leave it," he says. "The shelter helps him while he is getting back on his feet."

During the first few months of this year about 300 persons have been housed in the shelter. Lieut. Hearne says, "We here and there you are able to see them get established, or a man repair his dignity and get back on his feet."

Lieutenant Hearne notes that the program of the Salvation Army does into many more aspects of community life than the church. The corps officers are trained for this. Lieut. Hearne has received his commission after nine months of officers training. It is a highly concentrated course that has recently been extended into a two-year course.

During the course, which he took at San Francisco, where the school for this district is located, he studied the Bible, church doctrine and the Salvation Army discipline and the doctrines of the major religions of the world, church history, the art of preaching sermons, and a good deal of field training in the actual work of running a corps.

Currently Lieutenant Hearne is hoping the public will be generous much of Lieutenant Hearne's time is in donation to the Army. This is the welfare program. This includes the shelter house and the thrift store located at 119 Third street. "This is where we give away or sell clothing for a reasonable price."

the Army's program in this area, which includes Twin Falls county and stretches into Jerome county, is one of the most important aspects of the local program.

There are regular services on Sunday and during weekdays, directed by Lieutenant Hearne. They also have a Sunday school which is attended regularly by about 25 children.

The youth program is another phase. The corps currently sponsors Boy Scout troop 44 and plans to start a Cub Scout pack soon. They also offer social activities for the children and youth of the community.

"We plan to expand our activities much more, because we have the only youth center in this section of town and there will be a need for such a thing when school is out.

"Soon the children will need a place to gather and organize."

Many Tales Told in Connection With Rise of Idaho's Kamloops Trout

BY JIM HUBBARD
Idaho Fish and Game Department

A north Idaho newspaper has a special edition dedicating the entire page to the story of the Kamloops rainbow trout. One of the trout's most notable characteristics is its ability to survive in water that is almost as hot as a feverish human. It is a species that has thrived in the hot springs of the Snake River valley since the days of the first pioneers.

These and scores of others are the tales that are told in the special edition. The Kamloops trout is a species that has thrived in the hot springs of the Snake River valley since the days of the first pioneers.

When Mrs. MacIver lost the diamond ring on her third day at the lake, she was told that it was a sign of good luck. The ring was found in the lake, and she was told that it was a sign of good luck.

It is also true that wild water trout are the rainbow trout of the Snake River valley. The trout are found in the hot springs of the Snake River valley since the days of the first pioneers.
