College Leader Is Selected as Army Chieftain

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 14 (AP)—Elvis J. Stahr, jr., president of West Virginia university, was named secretary of the army today. The designation by President-elect John F. Kennedy completes the high-level organization of the incoming administration's defense department. Kennedy also designated two former Democratic governors, who lost election contests last year, for $20,000-a-year posts in his administration. George Docking, Kansas, was named director of the export-import bank and Herschel Loveless, Iowa, a member of the federal reorganization board.

Robert J. Burkhardt, jr., 44, Tusculum, N.J., was named assistant postmaster general for fatalities.

Burkhardt, a native of Chicago and an engineer by profession, is a former executive secretary to Gov. Robert B. Meyner and has been director of the New Jersey Democratic state central committee.

As finally constituted, the top civilian echelons of the military departments will include Robert S. McNamara, who resigned as president of the Ford Motor company, as secretary of defense; John S. Connolly, jr., a Texas political associate of Johnson, as secretary of the navy, and Eugene Zukert, former member of the atomic energy commission, as secretary of the air force.

Fewer Capital Expenditures Guess Is Made

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 14 (AP)—The president of one of the biggest banking firms in the Intermountain area predicted today that capital expenditures in the area will be 100 million dollars greater this year than in 1960, including an increase in Utah but a drop in the rest of the area.

The prediction was made by George S. Eccles, president of the First Security bank. It was based on a study by the three-state bank system's economist and vice president, Elroy Nelson.

Eccles predicted capital expenditures for development, construction and equipment in the area in 1961 will total about 820 million dollars, compared with 719 million dollars in 1960. In 1959, such expenditures were 707 million dollars.

The report said construction expenditures alone should total 573 million dollars in 1961. It said that the rest of the expected output would be for purchase of equipment, exploration for minerals, leases and other items.

The company said construction for the region would break down this way:

- Residential 125 million dollars;
- Commercial and industrial 102 million dollars;
- Public utilities 108.8 million dollars;
- Public projects 237.6 million dollars.

The report said that expected capital expenditures in Utah in 1961 should reach 422.2 million dollars, an increase of 84 million dollars over 1960.

In Idaho, it estimated capital outlays in 1961 at 256.5 million dollars, a drop of 10 million dollars from the 1960 figure.

Explaining the Idaho decline under 1960, the report said:

"Private sectors of the Gem state's economy are anticipating 1961 in capital expenditures, some 26 million dollars below 1960. Many major projects resulting in higher production have been completed in lumber and paper, phosphate processing, potato processing and utilities. Five new potato processing plants were completed in 1960, (Continued on Page 2, Column 2)

Smylie Leaves No Doubt He's Leading Solons

BOISE, Jan. 14 (AP)—By his actions in the first two weeks of the 1961 Idaho legislature, Gov. Robert E. Smylie left no doubt today that he intends to prevent any basis for complaints that he failed to provide leadership for the lawmakers. That was one of the principal complaints of the Democrats who controlled both branches of the 1959 session. They argued they could not get their program enacted because of the veto threat held by the Republican governor. At the same time, they said, Smylie gave them no program with which to work.

Now with Republicans in slim control of both branches, the 1961 session has had three lengthy messages from the governor, each outlining specific recommendations.

He has proposed:

- Government reorganization to reduce the number of elected officials as a means of increasing efficiency.
- A new department reorganization to reduce the number of elected officials as a means of increasing efficiency.
- Creation of a new department of natural resources, staffed by career personnel.
- Spending for operating purposes of 88.1 million dollars, financed by revenue from current tax sources plus use of a surplus.
- Spending for building purposes of 7.4 million dollars, financed by increases in taxes on property, cigarettes and beer.

Combined, those spending programs represent a boost of 20 million dollars over the cost of corresponding programs in the current two-year period.

Announcement of the building program yesterday brought vociferous complaints from both Re-

NEWS BULLETINS

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Belgian government said today it will suspend without pay all state and public service workers who continue their strike Monday against the government's proposed austerity program.

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 14 (AP)—A team of surgeons at the University of Mississippi medical center used electricity today to anesthetize a woman as simply as turning on an electric light. Within a minute awake and expressed no discomfort. In addition, she had no nausea and was returned immediately to her room instead of to a recovery room where she ordinarily would have spent considerable time under constant supervision.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Jan. 14 (AP)—A Polaris rocket fired from beneath the ocean's surface was destroyed in flight today, making another setback in navy plans to send America's third ballistic missile nuclear submarine on patrol duty.

MOUNTAIN HOME, Jan. 14 (AP)—A 19-year-old airman, a 3rd Lt. Melvin J. Aker, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was killed near here tonight when his motorcycle and a car collided head-on southwest of here. Authorities at the Mountain Home air force base said the two airmen in the car were injured. The death boosted Idaho's 1961 traffic death toll to eight, twice the number killed at the same date last year.

7 Teen-Agers Killed In Speeding Mishap

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 14 (AP)—A speeding car skidded out of control early today and smashed into another car, wiping out the lives of seven teen-agers. A truck driver who witnessed the violent accident said one of the cars had passed his vehicle "traveling at least 100 miles an hour. The car seemed to wiggle a little," said the truck driver, Norman Lepp of Calgary, Alta. "The driver just couldn't hold it when he tried to swing back. The other driver didn't have a chance. It all happened so fast. There was just one big explosion and then darkness." The crash occurred in the suburb of Roseville on a four-lane highway.

Of the six boys and a girl who died, four were high school students. Two were in a birthday anniversary surprise party for a girl.

They were Thomas Irish, 17, driver of the speeding car, which he had borrowed for the evening, from his mother; Larry W. Dexter, 18; Ronald Crawford, 17; and Michael Oleson, 18.

Police said the Irish car smashed into another driven by Michael T. Swika, 19, St. Paul. He was described by a friend as a brilliant youth with a 155 IQ who planned to enter the University of Minnesota next fall. His passengers were Guy Marshall, 19, and Cynthia P. Comstock, 18, daughter of a university professor, both St. Paul.

Marshall, the only crash survivor, died about 2 1/2 hours afterward in a St. Paul hospital.

Gold Hoards Abroad Will Be Prevented

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower, in a new demonstration of official concern over the nation's gold problem, today barred Americans from hoarding gold abroad.

U. S. citizens and firms no longer will be permitted to buy foreign gold either directly or indirectly. Those who already own such gold will have until June 1 to dispose of their holdings.

The surprise move was expected to help the government's effort to stem the heavy flow of gold from the United States. However, officials declined to be specific about the possible effect because there are no statistics on the amount of foreign gold owned by Americans.

Ever since 1933, Americans have been prohibited from owning gold in the United States. Until today, they had been able to own gold abroad so long as they didn't bring it into the country.

Treasury officials said Eisenhower's move was designed to "tidy up" the gold regulations and block this loophole. Eisenhower acted by signing an executive order.

Officials said the question of gold hoarding abroad has become significant because of the publicity about the gold situation and increased promotional efforts here by sellers of foreign gold.

Family of 6 Dies In Fire at Home

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 14 (AP)—Before going to bed, Henry and Rose Palen washed some clothes in their new washer and tossed them into the automatic dryer in the kitchen.

Then they joined their four children in sleep.

Just before 4 a.m. today, the kitchen was ablaze. All six members of the family died in the fire that swept through the apartment.

Julius Torok, fire chief in suburban Campbell, pinned the cause of the fire on the dryer and a faulty electrical extension cord which used a thin covering.

Incentive

MOSCOW, Jan. 14 (AP)—The communist ideal of supplying everyone according to his needs is being partly abandoned here under pressure of Premier Khrushchev's thunderbolts in favor of hard-headed payment for excellence and production.

The Soviet press disclosed today that the old idea was soundly assailed by Khrushchev at a plenary meeting of the Communist party central committee.

Organization of School Planning Unit Will Be Completed at Tuesday Session

Organization of the Citizens' School Planning committee is expected to be completed when the group meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Junior High School auditorium, says Ralph Olmstead, who has been serving as temporary chairman.

Members of the committee have been asked by the Twin Falls school board following a recommendation for construction of a new second junior high school here, Dr. J. Frederick Weitzel, dean of the University of Idaho, reappointed to the position of another junior high school following a survey of similar citizens' committees were established by the school board prior

Idaho Highway Board to Appeal Decision on Area Road Route to Top Court

BOISE, Jan. 14 (AP)—The state highway board announced today it will appeal to the Idaho supreme court from the district court ruling telling it to reconsider its interstate highway routing in Magic Valley. "Over two years," the board said in a statement, "have been consumed during the district court action. It would appear that the time and expense for rehearings in the areas and the probable resumption of litigation in the district court is not warranted until every effort has been made to clarify certain aspects of the present hearing law." The board chose a route for the interstate running west from the Burley-Rupert area and passing a bit to the south of the communities of Eden and Hazelton. Residents of the latter communities objected, contending the route chosen would take valuable farm lands from production. They appealed to district court.

Air Force Crew Claims Six Records

Crew members of an air force B58 Hustler jet bomber hold a model of the plane at a Los Angeles press conference with which the air force claims six speed records were set at Edwards air force base, Calif. From the left are Capt. R. R. Wagener, Maj. H. J. Deuschendorf, Jr., and Capt. W. L. Pelhemus. The plane flew over 1,200 miles per hour with a payload of 4,408 pounds over a 621-mile closed course. The previous record of 630 miles an hour for the distance and payload was claimed by the Russians in 1959. Saturday another air force B58 bomber, streaking over the California and Arizona deserts, broke three of the six world speed records set Thursday. The air force said the four-jet delta-wing bomber averaged 1,284.73 miles per hour in Saturday's run, surpassing the average speed on Thursday's flight by nearly 100 miles an hour. (AP wirephoto)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Soviet mystery rocket in the Pacific—if it is that—still is a mystery as far as the United States is concerned.

Here's the story so far:

Last night an air force radar station at Shemya Island, Alaska, reported detecting a missile-like object streaking out of the USSR southeastward over the Pacific ocean.

The station said it couldn't tell whether it was a long-range missile or an attempt at some Soviet space feat.

Hours later the Pentagon said there had been no further reports.

Viktor Bazkin, director of the Moscow planetarium, sorted that the whole thing was "pure invention." No other Russians were talking.

One indication that the Russians might be testing a long-range missile in the Pacific, as they have done before, was that three Soviet observation ships were sighted earlier this week heading for the usual Soviet target area.

Meeting Slated

The first in a series of legislative meetings sponsored by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce will be held at noon Tuesday at the American Legion hall.

Former State Senator Carl Irwin, chairman of the Chamber's civic affairs committee, will conduct the meetings. Area legislators will be informed of the group's sentiment regarding pending legislation. Similar meetings will be held each week, according to William Grange, Chamber secretary-manager.

Laotian Area Is Captured By Red Unit

VIENTIANE, Laos, Jan. 14 (AP)—Pro-communist forces have captured Ta Vieng, one of the Laotian government's main jumping-off points for a mounting offensive against the strategic Plain de Jarres, usually reliable sources reported today.

Ta Vieng fell late last night, according to the unconfirmed reports, and its capture could signal a pro-communist drive south across the narrow waist of Laos to Pakxane, cutting this jungle kingdom in half.

Earlier reports said rebels swept south from Xieng Khouang province, which they control, and seized two villages.

The capture of Ta Vieng also could be an attempt to knock off balance the general offensive the government has been slowly mounting in the Ta Vieng-Thom area against the central plain.

A government garrison of 1,000 to 1,500 men at Ta Vieng reportedly fell back 15 miles east to Thom, practically without putting up any resistance.

Physician Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14 (AP)—Dr. Chevalier L. Jackson, cofounder with his late father of Temple University hospital's famed clinic for treatment of respiratory diseases, died last night at the age of 60. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Swelled Heads

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 14 (AP)—If you're getting bald it may be because you have a swelled head, resulting from the fact that your brain and skull failed to stop growing after you grew up.

This is a theory advanced by Dr. Olof Smith, a Stockholm surgeon, who told a news conference he can treat the condition by an operation resembling the American Indians' scalping technique. The idea roughly is to loosen the skin on the skull and let the hair through.

In 30 operations of this kind to date, Dr. Smith said, 25 patients reported their hair stopped falling out and five said their hair grew thicker.

Area Official Sees Danger Of Surpluses

FOCATTELLO, Jan. 14 (AP)—The president of the Idaho Beet Growers association warned today against the possibility of a surplus of sugar beets.

J. D. Claiborn, Kimberly, said many farmers are turning to sugar beets because the federal government has released all acreage restrictions. But he told members of the association if too many farmers begin growing sugar beets, a surplus would result and controls would be enacted again.

Claiborn said he expects efforts will be made to get the sugar act extended for another four years. The association sent a letter to the Idaho state senate and house of representatives, thanking the legislators for supporting the sugar beet industry.

Claiborn was reelected to his fifth term. Other officers reelected included S. Allen Johnson, Focatello, vice president, and Claude Johnson, Blackfoot, secretary-terasurer.

60-Day Term Given On License Charge

Leonard L. McLaws, 29, Burley, was sentenced to 60 days in the Twin Falls county jail Friday when he appeared in district court on a charge of driving while his drivers' license was suspended. He was sentenced by Judge Theron Ward. His license was suspended June 10, 1959, by Kimberly Justice of the Peace Ray Potter for drunken driving. Since then he has failed to comply with the financial responsibility law. McLaws was arrested Jan. 2 four miles north of Hollister on highway 93. At his arraignment the next day before Twin Falls Justice of the Peace Robert E. Pence, he first requested and then waived a preliminary hearing.

He appeared Friday with his attorney, Dean Klopfer-Burley. McLaws was fined $50 and assigned 30 demerits for speeding May 25, 1959, by Twin Falls Justice of the Peace George E. Scott.

Charles D. Blinning, 470 Jackson street, pleaded innocent in district court Friday to driving while his drivers' license was suspended. He asked a trial, the date of which has not been set.

Blinning was convicted in Twin Falls justice court Nov. 19, 1959, of drunken driving. Since then he has failed to comply with the financial responsibility law. Blinning, according to court records, has never had a driver's license.

Ten persons were cited for speeding Friday evening in a radar check conducted by Twin Falls police in the 600 block of Main avenue west, 30 block of Piler avenue and 400 block of Second avenue south.

Among those cited was Clifford E. Hammond, 16, 1407 Fremont drive. He was fined $12 and costs by Twin Falls Police Judge J. O. Pumphrey Saturday when he pleaded guilty to driving 37 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone.

Hammond's license was forwarded to state authorities for the automatic 60-day revocation required for drivers under 18 years of age.

Mitchell to Seek Governor Office

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—James P. Mitchell, retiring as secretary of labor, today announced his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in New Jersey.

The announcement, anticipated for more than a week, came after backstage maneuvers by Mitchell to muster support among state GOP leaders for what is shaping up as a free-for-all primary battle.

President Eisenhower, who had urged his cabinet members to remain active in Republican politics after they leave office Jan. 20, endorsed Mitchell's candidacy yesterday at the last meeting of his cabinet.

U.S. Capital Breaks Out for Inauguration

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—Other persons will line the curbs. The formal celebration starts Wednesday with receptions for "distinguished ladies" and for the Johnsons. On Thursday, state governors will have a reception of their own.

On the eve of the inauguration, the National Symphony orchestra will give the inaugural concert, a tradition dating back to George Washington's time.

That same night, some of the biggest names in show business gathered together by singer Frank Sinatra will stage a gala at the national guard armory. Tickets cost $100 each, and the Democrats hope to use the proceeds of this and other events to cut into the deficit of about three million dollars.

Bleacher seats, priced from $3 to $25 a piece, were in place along the Pennsylvania avenue parade route. They will be packed on Jan. 20, and countless thousands of

Multiple Use of Forest Explained

BOISE, Jan. 14 (AP)—The Idaho Outdoor association was told tonight that multiple use of the state's forests is designed to provide more service to the public. Howard Ahlskog, supervisor of the Boise national forest, said that 80 per cent of the water in Idaho and more than 600 million board feet of timber comes from the Gem state's national forests each year.

Counselor at Burley School Talks to PTA

BURLEY, Jan. 14—The success of our children's characteristics and growth depends upon how he competes with children his own age, Robert Francis, Cassia county school guidance counselor, told members of the Dworshak school PTA Wednesday evening.

Scholastic testing in the local schools is under the supervision of Francis. He stated that on the whole, the results of the average student's tests would make parents proud and pleased.

Today more than any other time in our history we are able to know what makes our children tick," he stated. He discussed the average child's behavior pattern and growth stages from the ages 1 through 9. Boys and girls behave basically the same way, but at the age of 10, the individual difference in children begins to be widely separated and success now must be measured by his accomplishments, he asserted.

Success comes from proper growth and proper growth comes from the nourishment and "watering" that we as parents give our children, he concluded.

The group voted to serve a banquet for the Boy Scouts charter review night which will be held at the school Feb. 10. Oscar Robertson, vice president, stated that this would be the PTA's first fund raising project.

Owen Weedop, spokesman for the Scout leaders, explained that a training workshop for the leaders will be held after the banquet.

The school legislative program now before the state legislature was discussed by Ray Reid, principal. He stated that the starting salary for teachers in Idaho is lower than in the five surrounding states. The starting salary for Arizona teachers is $4,400, Wyoming, $4,300, and Idaho, $3,800, he asserted.

Teachers who are not fully qualified are often used in the Idaho schools because those who are qualified can obtain employment in states where teachers receive higher salaries, he declared.

A junior high school sextet composed of Judy Allen, Rise Talbot, Sue Ann Payne, Suzanne Nielsen, Nancy Jolley and Susan Hendricks sang two selections. They were accompanied by Kathy Zillner.

Mrs. Naomi Zemke announced that the PTA now has 289 memberships. The guest speaker was introduced and welcomed by Kendall Dayley, president. Frank Beck gave the invocation and group singing was led by Hal Matthews accompanied by Mrs. Matthews.

Refreshments which were called the "president's special" were served by Dayley and the girls of the sextet.

Bank's New Drive-in Facility Will Open Monday

The new modern drive-in facility of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust will open at 10 a.m. Monday. Two drive-in windows are located in buildings directly to the rear of the bank building and connected to the building by a tunnel. The two cages are built with light orange-brick and are highlighted with gray wood designs outside. (Staff photo-engraving)

Drive-in Banking Facility for Bank And Trust Company Will Open Monday

The new drive-in facilities of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, on the corner of Second avenue south and Shoshone street, will open at 10 a.m. Monday, Harry Eaton, president of the bank, announced Saturday.

The new facilities will have the same hours as the main bank, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday.

The two rectangular drive-in cages were built primarily to make banking easier for the customers and feature two modern bullet-proof master windows, Eaton said. Entrance will be on Second avenue south and exit onto Shoshone street.

Each cage has built-in sound by which the person outside can hear the teller and the teller can hear the person in the car. An electrically operated drawer transports the money or check to the teller, and the receipt to the depositor. The drive-in facility will be used mainly for deposits and cashing checks, Eaton explained.

He added that the drawer will extend an extra four or five inches to a car parked some distance from the window.

The two cages, which are connected to the main bank building by an underground tunnel, are built with light orange-brick and covered with a yellow arched roof. Highlighting the outside of the two buildings are gray wood designs.

A dumb waiter in each cage carries money and supplies to and from the main building. Eaton commented that the most modern equipment available has been used in the construction of the drive-in facilities to add more speed and efficiency to the bank's service.

Also on the corner lot is a parking lot with an attendant, who will be housed in a building similar to the drive-in cages.

He added that the present parking lot on Second avenue west will be maintained with an attendant.

The completion of the new drive-in facility marks the end of a five-year remodeling program for the bank, the first project being the enlargement of banking offices.

Architects for the building were Lorenzo S. Young and partners, Salt Lake City, and general contractor was Otis Hall.

Dairy Unit Sets Rupert Meeting

RUPERT, Jan. 14—The annual meeting of the Mini-Casta Dairyman's Association and the Jerome Cooperative Creamery will be held at the Minidoka county high school at 11 a.m. Jan. 21, according to Clyde Ross, manager.

The meeting will feature an illustrated report by Dr. Robert Wilcox, University of Idaho extension economist, on living conditions in other countries of the world, and a report on the creamery operations and other pertinent problems by Lyons Smith, general manager.

One director of the central board and three directors will be elect. Ross stated. Ron Hawkes, Paul, and Lloyd Blake, Declo, are members of the central board. Local board members include Russell Acock, Rupert, Jack Hitterbrand, Rupert, Dan Mabey, Oakley, Trill Taylor, Malia, Robert ... and Clarence Phillips, Declo.

Ross reports that door prizes will be awarded to all who attend, and a free lunch served at noon. Hawkes will preside at the meeting.

Ross pointed out that this is a very important meeting and urged all members to attend.

HIGHWAY ROUTE PROCEDURES

It's easy to understand why the state legislature is showing concern over procedures now required by law in determining the location of new highways.

The chairmen of the highway committees in both the house and senate have pledged their efforts in behalf of any legislation which might be needed to facilitate such procedures by the state highway board.

The prolonged controversy over location of the Interstate highway through Magic Valley serves as a good example of difficulties which may result from present procedures. It demonstrates how road construction on any particular route may be bogged down indefinitely by concerted protests.

Since the last legislature set up the legal machinery to take protests into consideration through preliminary hearings and court action, if necessary, we have found out in Magic Valley what may happen.

Seldom is any major highway route proposed without strenuous opposition. Certain communities are bound to benefit or suffer and protests are immediately forthcoming. Any such fight can be carried to great length, unless there is some better method than we apparently now have for a final determination.

The original route proposed by the highway board for the Interstate through Magic Valley was challenged by Eden-Hazelton residents who won from Eleventh district court an order requiring the board to start all over again in determining the highway location. The court order specified the board must hold hearings again in all communities in which sessions were originally held.

The highway board has a choice of re-scheduling the hearings or appealing to the supreme court, either of which alternative would result in still further delay. The result of either such course, however, is no assurance that further protests will not be forthcoming. Obviously, no matter where the Interstate is finally located through Magic Valley, the route is not going to please everyone.

It should be apparent by now that highway locations cannot and should not be determined either by the courts or the relative amount of pressure and protest.

Some states let nothing interfere with what they regard as the orderly process of building an efficient road system, designed primarily to serve the demands of highway traffic. They condemn right-of-way right through cities, if necessary, and work out the necessary settlements afterwards.

Such drastic procedures as this probably go too far in one direction, but Idaho apparently has gone too far in the other.

KENNEDY'S BIG CHALLENGE

World War II led many men, experts and amateurs alike, to conclude that great wars are essentially unmanageable affairs. More than a few observers think the time may not be far off when the national government falls in the same category.

Big wars, once under way, tend to take on a shape and direction all their own, neither intended or foreseen by those who began them. There are too many elements, too many unpredictable, too many loose ends, for precise human control of events.

At its worst, the huge federal establishment of a nation like the United States is hardly comparable to the planned chaos of war. Yet, more and more as time passes, it becomes a thing of such size and weight and built-in momentum that it seems to defy any man or group of men who would put an individual stamp upon it.

Certainly no realist imagines that government in this country will ever be made small again. A big country and a big government go together.

But its sheer bulk means that it extends and proliferates in ways that even the most diligent leaders cannot necessarily grasp. It operates through countless built-in mechanisms, long since approved by congress, which compel continuing and often rising expenditures in many fields.

President-Elect Kennedy has made it clear he is intent on being a strong president. That means he plans, insofar as he is able, to place his own personal stamp upon the American government in at least the next four years.

If he succeeds, then he will have staved off the day when government is unmanageable as war. He will have given shape to a glacier that, in this age, few can chip away at.

Will he achieve this purpose? Obviously no one can make even an educated guess at this stage, before he has taken office.

For those who hope that government is still governable, the most promising sign is that Kennedy is bent on using the full political leverage of his office. All strong presidents have done so.

None, however, has had to test his weapons against so immense an establishment as Kennedy inherits Jan. 20.

The dedicated partisans of democracy everywhere will have their eyes fastened keenly on his effort. They will be vastly heartened if he can demonstrate that government on so huge a scale still can be brought within reasonable human control and given the quality and flavor of its leader.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—What is left of President-Elect Kennedy's supposed conservative-fiscal policy now? asks J. H. Dallas, Tex., "in view of the numerous proposals to spend billions for schools, highways, depressed areas, increased national defense, housing and many other social and economic projects? And how can Douglas Dillon, an Eisenhower conservative on these questions, go along with the new administration?"

Ray Tucker

PROMISES AND REALITIES—Answer: President-Elect Kennedy, obviously, is torn between his desire to operate conservatively in this field and his obligation to carry out the Democratic platform promises as endorsed by him in his campaign speeches.

He has two choices, as he realizes. If the recession deepens, and even Vice-President Nixon agreed on this point, he must spend money to fend it off without regard for a balanced budget.

Incidentally, his economic advisers believe that it is not necessary to keep the budget in balance year by year, but that the test is whether federal finances are kept relatively stable over a 10-year period.

BUDGETARY CONSIDERATIONS—In accepting the four-year, 9.3 billion dollar educational program, Senator Kennedy sounded a note of caution. He said that he was not sure whether the nation's resources could stand such an expenditure. He will probably apply that same criterion to other spending proposals.

However, considering the cost of these programs and the increased spending for national defense, it is probable that the end of the 1962 fiscal year will see a deficit of from three to five billion dollars.

It is, of course, the new administration's hope that this expansion of the nation's physical plant will increase the revenue from personal and corporate taxes, thus narrowing the gap between income and outgo. But the fiscal picture is not too rosy from any standpoint.

LATIN AMERICAN MOB PSYCHOLOGY

"Why," inquires T. L. Springfield, Mass., "are the Latin American nations so reluctant to line up with us in condemning Fidel Castro, severing relations with Cuba and imposing economic sanctions? They must realize that his communist tieup is as serious a threat to them as it is to the United States."

Answer: The reasons are extremely practical. The various Latin American governments, as well as the leaders of their financial, industrial and business communities, recognize the Castro menace. Besides scheming to export his communist ideologies to their countries, his playing "footsie" with Moscow and Peiping scares off private American investments which they need.

But the people—the masses and their certain army groups—admire the Cuban dictator. They look upon him as another Bolivar who will deliver them from what he calls the domination and oppression of the "Yankee Imperialists." They have been conditioned to enjoy the sight of him tweaking Uncle Sam's nose, as many elements in this country revealed when, not so long ago, politicians would twist the tail of the British lion.

So, the governments are afraid of antagonizing the mob. It is as simple as that.

BUT NO PLUMBER!

"There was much to do about President Eisenhower's cabinet of 'nine millionaires and one plumber,'" writes J.L.L. Raymond, Wash. "Will you kindly name and set forth the fortunes of Kennedy's cabinet appointments?"

Answer: I think that there are as many or more millionaires in the top echelons of the Kennedy administration than there were in Eisenhower's. I do not know the extent of their holdings, but here are the men generally assumed to be millionaires. They may not own a million, but they have incomes on that amount, say, at four or five per cent on their investment. They are:

President-Elect Kennedy, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, C. Douglas Dillon, secretary of treasury; Chester W. Bowles, undersecretary of state; Adlai E. Stevenson, U.N. ambassador; Robert S. McNamara, defense secretary; Luther H. Hodges, commerce secretary; and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. And, of course, he offered any one of the three top posts to Robert A. Lovett, a millionaire New York banker.

However, the day is long gone when a man had to be born in a log cabin or a frame house in Plymouth, Vt., to achieve political prominence. (Released by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

VIEWS OF OTHERS

DISGRACEFUL LOOPHOLE IN THE LAW
Idaho law provides that a motorist convicted of driving while intoxicated shall forfeit his driver's license for one year.

But there's a loophole that, in all too many cases, makes a mockery of this provision of the law, and that complicates and frequently nullifies the efforts of law enforcement officers.

It's a loophole for which there is no adequate excuse, and that should be plugged forthwith. And that can be accomplished by repeal of a modifying law that permits a convicted drunken driver to acquire immediately a restricted driving license if he can show he has to drive a car in order to earn a livelihood.

It's a lame and indefensible excuse that's availing only for drunken drivers who thus seem to be placed in a sort of special category. It doesn't apply in other offenses, such as writing bad checks, in which violators are jailed so that they obviously are prevented from making a living during the term of their imprisonment.

It's common knowledge that, with our crowded highways, the drunken driver is an enormous hazard. It's quite evident that the law as it stands is inadequate in position to know what's going on in this respect, and to suggest a remedy. Idaho's commissioner of law enforcement, E. R. Hopper, is asking for new laws to deal with this disgraceful situation. His recommendations should shortly be laid before the legislature in the form of bills proposing new legislation.

They're eminently deserving, not only of serious consideration, but, unless the legislature has something better to offer, of a resounding vote of approval.—Boise Statesman.

HOW ENCOURAGING!

Despite the fact that two more fatalities were chalked up on Idaho highways during 1960 than in 1959, the state will probably be able to boast one or its lowest traffic death rates in history for 1960.

This encouraging bit of information comes from the state department of law enforcement. It points out that since highway travel probably set a new record in 1960, with "only" two more deaths, the number of deaths per 100 million miles of travel will probably be lower.

It is estimated that this figure for last year will be less than 7. In 1959 the rate was listed as 7.2. The national rate for 1959 was 5.4.

Survivors of Idaho's 1960 traffic victims will undoubtedly derive much comfort from these statistics. They presumably should take heart at this indication that our highways are becoming safer.

We, of course, have our own ideas about how to make our highways safer, sooner. First, we'd take the irresponsible 14 and 15-year-old drivers off the highway through passage of a simple law denying them the privilege of obtaining a driver's license. Then we'd "ground" some of the incompetents, whose horse and buggy days reactions are not geared to the jet age.

If Idaho's death rate is about 7 per 100 thousand miles of travel and the national rate is 5.4, there is something wrong with Idaho, its laws and/or its drivers.

The time to take remedial steps is long past due. —Burley Herald-Bulletin.

Economic relations with the communist bloc promise to pose problems for the United States no less puzzling and difficult than those with the lesser-developed nations.

Not infrequently trade is employed by the communists as a political weapon — a fact brought home dramatically to the United States by the current experience in Cuba.

The communists can at no more than a moment's notice if it suits their purpose, disrupt world markets through dumping commodities or through pre-emptive buying.

Likewise, they can attempt to tie the economies of smaller countries to their own through bi-lateral trade agreements — agreements which aim at a monopoly of trade in certain key commodities and may provide disguised subsidies if such action is in the communist interest.

In addition to all of this, however, the communists also find it advantageous to carry on a more normal trade relationship with many free world countries — exchanging goods which they produce relatively cheaply for specialized materials and products from other countries.

Consequently, two sets of problems are posed; countering the Soviet effort to achieve economic domination and political penetration of the less-developed nations and preventing Soviet trade with industrial nations from disrupting world markets.

The major answer to the threat of Soviet economic penetration lies in developing a workable structure within which the industrialized and the less-developed nations can cooperate in seeking mutual objectives.

The industrial nations can offer markets that are far larger and in

If, in the years ahead, the Soviets should display an earnest of good intent to trade on the basis of pure economic advantage, free world nations should be ready to accommodate such trade.

Auction of Horses to Help Drive

Don Dumas, the 1961 new March of Dimes chairman, displays small wooden horses and riders who have moving parts, which were made by Anthony Petersen, 90, Grand View, a former Burley resident. The little figures have been donated by Petersen and the proceeds from their sale will go to the March of Dimes campaign for Cassia county, Dumas states. He has given both Cassia and Minidoka counties approximately 90 little toys. Dumas states that plans are now being made to auction the horses and riders to the highest bidders. Handmade Wooden Horses Will Boost Polio Campaign

BURLEY, Jan. 14 — The new March of Dimes campaign is now getting into full swing for Cassia county, states Don Dumas, chairman of the 1961 drive.

One of the highlights of this year's campaign was the presentation of around 90 little wooden horses and riders with moveable parts by Anthony Petersen as a means of raising funds for this worthy cause, he states.

Petersen, who is 90 years of age and formerly lived just east of Burley, now lives with his daughter at Grand View. As a pastime he cuts these little figures out of scrap pine lumber, with a coping saw and does the finishing touches by whittling. He also paints them and spends many hours making the finished product. They are about eight inches long and with the rider are approximately six inches high.

Petersen is a retired farmer and cement worker. His little figures are on display at Alexander's clothing store in downtown Burley.

The big drive and climax for this campaign will be the "Mothers' March" which will be held from house to house the evening of Jan. 31. Mrs. David Belliston, chairman, says approximately 200 mothers will help. A fire siren will kick off the march, states Mrs. Leonard Kling, the new county chairman who replaces the late Robert Pence, who held this post for many years. Mrs. U. E. Patten is assistant to Dumas.

The new March of Dimes now covers not only polio, but now includes research on birth defects and arthritis, Mrs. Kling states.

Other county officers include Evan Thomas, vice chairman; Mrs. Belliston, secretary; Harvey Rogers, treasurer; Dr. Eugene Holsinger, medical advisory chairman; Dr. Richard Sutton, medical advisory committee; Frank Burko and Charles Brownlow, publicity; Judd Seclam, A. B. Dansie, Leonard Patten and James Annett, executive members.

Janet Edgar is teens chairman and Mrs. Mez Murray is senior adviser. Richard Garvin is speaker's bureau chairman and Jim Holbrook, special gifts chairman.

Mall for this campaign is being sent out by Dumas. Dumas states that a film, "The Bridge Between," pertaining to the three purposes of the campaign, is available to any group.

A benefit variety show is planned this month with Dae Marsden as chairman. The bowlers at the Y-Dell bowl will donate 10 cents for each split during the month towards the new March of Dimes, Dumas says.

Coffeethons are being held by different women's groups with the first one slated Thursday by the Soroptomist club with Mrs. George H. Carmody as hostess.

Attend Meet

WENDELL, Jan. 14 — Kevin Holsinger, month-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Holsinger, Burley, is being cared for by Dr. and Mrs. Harold Holsinger, grandparents of the child, this week while his parents are attending a medical meeting in Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Elquist, Bull Mountain, Nev., visited this week with Mrs. Alpha Molyneux and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wallace.

Area School Ends Course In Home Care

HAILEY, Jan. 14 — Mrs. Everett Twombly, R. N., Blaine county public health nurse, has completed a 14-hour home nursing class in the Bellevue and Hailey high schools, and started a similar course for Carey high school students this week.

The classes are given under the auspices of the Blaine county chapter of the American Red Cross in cooperation with the schools and the Idaho public health department and the civil defense program.

Two-Timers

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 14 — Some people must like to pay taxes.

T. E. McDowell, assistant tax collector for Duval county, said several persons have paid their tax bills twice. After the office mailed receipts for the first payment, the taxpayers made out new checks and sent them back with the receipts.

The tax collector's office wishes it wouldn't happen. It makes extra work checking the previous payment and sending the money and receipts back.

Hansen, Neida Dehnus, Irene Jackson and Anna James.

Mrs. Sidney Knight, Twin Falls, supervising nurse of the south central health unit, who visited Hailey Monday, stated that the course covers preparedness for emergencies that arise every day and ways of averting such emergencies. She stated that in every family there should be at least one person trained in home nursing.

Mrs. Knight points out that Mrs. Twombly is well qualified to teach the pertinent new findings in the field of school and public health matters, as she was the one person in the south central district who had the opportunity to attend the American Public Health association meeting held jointly with the American School Health association in San Francisco recently.

Rupert Attorney Notes Associate

RUPERT, Jan. 14 — George E. Redford, newly elected prosecuting attorney for Minidoka county, announced this week his association with Lawrence Duffin in law practice.

Redford has served as probate judge for the past six years, and prior to that period had practiced with Duffin, and with his father, the late H. B. Redford, and his brother, Hugh Redford.

The offices of Duffin and Redford are located at Fremont avenue and G street in Rupert. Redford, who has been serving as Rupert police judge, will continue in that capacity for the time being, according to Rupert Mayor Glover Acock.

City in Utah Gets Help to Obtain Water

ESCALANTE, Utah, Jan. 14 (AP)—More state equipment arrived here today to help repair Escalante's frozen water system.

Gov. George D. Clyde, who spent most of the day inspecting the situation, said he feels the town is on the way to solving its problems on an emergency basis.

Clyde flew to Escalante early today and spent 5 1/2 hours going over the situation. He arranged for a new pump to help bring water from the Escalante river to the storage tanks. A steam boiler also arrived and was being used to heat the water in the storage tanks to keep water flowing through the town's water system.

Clyde said he feels when they get the mile-long pipeline from the Escalante river open and get the new pump installed, that will hold the situation for two or three months while the main water line is being repaired.

A malfunctioning air valve caused the freezeup in the town's 15-mile pipeline to some mountain springs, the source of Escalante's regular water supply.

Mrs. C. R. Griffin, wife of Escalante's mayor, said most of the pipe unearthed today was broken by the freeze. She said the town's residents still haven't been able to get the pipe unthawed from the river to the storage reservoirs, but would work again Sunday.

Afternoon, Evening Sessions Of Aerospace Parley Planned

The aerospace educational conference will be held Friday in Twin Falls with an afternoon session reserved for Twin Falls high school students and an evening banquet open to all interested persons.

The banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Turf club and will feature two speakers. They are Nan Glennon, a member of the Space Technology Laboratories, Inc., Los Angeles, who will discuss "Our concerns with space," and Dr. Calvin H. Reed, professor of education at the University of Nevada, Reno, who will speak on "Educating youth for an aerospace age."

Miss Glennon will discuss the same subject during the afternoon session at the high school assembly.

The conference is sponsored by the Twin Falls public school system in conjunction with the Magic Valley Squadron of the Air Force Association and the Idaho wing of the civil air patrol.

NAN GLENNON

CALVIN H. REED

During the two sessions of the conference, Mountain Home Air Force Base will have a complete display of the Titan program and missile sites. Hill Air Force Base will have on display scale models of several missiles including the latest Minuteman.

Persons wishing to attend the banquet may obtain reservations by calling Mrs. Phyllis Self, RE-3-6511.

Miss Glennon joined Space Technology Laboratories in 1956 and since then has worked as technical administrator for the compilation and data reduction center and on the space vehicle development program. She is responsible for establishing a customer requirements control center, a corporate staff function in contracts operations.

The technical staff of Space Technology Laboratories, Inc., is the largest professional group in the free world devoted exclusively to research, development and systems engineering in the field of ballistic missiles, space projects and related advanced technology.

Dr. Reed is chairman of the committee on parent and family education of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. He is also a member of the Aerospace Education Council of the Air Force Association, which is concerned with developing a better understanding of the space age and the implications for the training of children and youth.

Khrushchev Meet Plans Cut Danger

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's desire for a summit conference with John F. Kennedy this year has come to be regarded here as a protection for world peace during the inauguration period.

It should discourage Khrushchev from making any dangerous international moves which he might otherwise be tempted to make at a time of change in the White House command.

From President Eisenhower down, officials of the outgoing administration have been concerned about the dangers inherent in the transfer of power from one president to another. Presumably the same concern has operated in the Kennedy camp.

Members of both administrations have cooperated to minimize the dangers. Full information on world crisis spots has been given to incoming Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the prospective defense secretary, Robert S. McNamara.

Rusk, McNamara and others have held many conferences with the men they will succeed—though without taking responsibility for the decisions which have been made or may yet have to be made in the closing days of the Eisenhower administration.

From a command point of view the next two weeks will be the most vulnerable for the United States in at least eight years and possibly much longer.

Service Set for Mrs. Meyerhoff

EDEN, Jan. 14—Funeral services for Mrs. Henrietta Meyerhoff, 85, pioneer Eden resident who died Friday at Magic Valley Memorial hospital, will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the White mortuary chapel with the Rev. Raymond Ernst officiating.

Mrs. Meyerhoff was born Feb. 14, 1875, in Weigel, Ill., and came here with her family in 1914 from Illinois. They homesteaded their present farm, clearing the sagebrush.

She was a lifetime member of the Trinity Lutheran church and the LWML. In 1900 she was married to Glenn H. Meyerhoff. He died Jan. 30, 1944.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Walter Ehlers and Mrs. Gerhard Meyer, and two sons, Alvin Meyerhoff and Ray Meyerhoff, all Eden; a brother, John Schraeder, Los Angeles; 16 grandchildren and the great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held in Sunset Memorial park. A memorial wreath has been established at the church.

Degree Given

WENDELL, Jan. 14 — The first degree of masonry was conferred on Francis Goble at the meeting this week of Wendell lodge No. 54, AP and AM, with Deaton Adams, worshipful master, presiding.

Guests introduced included Hal McKee, Fidelity lodge No. 8, Glenns Ferry, and Bruce Glandon, Twin Falls lodge No. 45. Refreshments were served by Leslie Lawson, Harry Frith and Roy Irons.

AIR LEADER TO SPEAK

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 14 (AP)—The commander of the air materiel command will address rocket experts who gather here Feb. 2 for the American Rocket Society Solid-Propellant Rocket conference. He is Gen. Samuel E. Anderson of Wright-Patterson air force base, O.

Mid-Winter Elks Meeting Is Discussed

Howard Allen, left, grand exalted ruler of the Twin Falls Elks lodge No. 1183, Weldon Haskins, center, vice president of the Southern Idaho district, and A. W. Madland, general chairman of the Idaho state Elks association mid-winter meeting, discuss one of the multitude of problems that must be solved prior to the scheduled opening of the convention Friday. The Twin Falls lodge is hosting the mid-winter meeting which is slated to run through next Sunday. (Staff photo-engraving)

Mid-Winter Elks Meet to Be Here Friday Through Sunday

Twin Falls Elks lodge No. 1183 will host the Idaho State Elks association mid-winter convention here Friday through next Sunday, A. W. Madland, convention general chairman, announced Saturday.

Judge John E. Fenton, Lawrence, Mass., grand exalted ruler of the Elks, will be principal speaker at the convention. Fenton, who is judge of the Massachusetts land court, was elected head of the nation's 1,280,000 Elks at the order's 86th grand lodge convention in Dallas last July.

An anticipated 400 persons are expected to attend the three day meet, Madland reported. One of the main items on the program is the state ritualistic contest.

Competing will be district winners, Lewiston, Idaho Falls and Twin Falls. The winning team will be presented the Calvin A. Lowe memorial trophy, given by the Twin Falls lodge in memory of Mr. Lowe, past exalted ruler of Twin Falls lodge. In addition, the winning team will represent Idaho at the national convention in Miami, Fla., in July. Dean E. Miller, Caldwell, state vice president at large, will be in charge of the contest.

HAGERMAN, Jan. 14—Members of the Hagerman volunteer fire department were called at 12:30 a.m. Friday to extinguish burning bales of hay which some prankster had placed on O'waley bridge, south of Hagerman.

No damage was reported but the heat from the four or five bales of hay was beginning to melt the asphalt, firemen said.

Approval Given On Sneez Bars

FILED, Jan. 14—The installation of sneeze bars in each of the school cafeterias was authorized by the school board of district 418 at their meeting this week.

They also authorized the M and Y Electric company to install new equipment in the home economics department. Five stoves and two refrigerators will be traded at a total of $29.50 to the district.

Secondary principals were granted permission to attend the state meeting to be held in Boise Friday and Saturday, Jan. 20 and 21. Principal R. W. Wilson will be in charge of one of the panel discussions at the meeting.

The board accepted the bid of Joe Taylor for $72 to remodel the panel set up to increase the efficiency of the heating plant in the junior-senior high school.

Growers Are Cautioned on Farm Unions

RUFERT, Jan. 14—Members of the Minidoka County Beetgrowers association were warned Wednesday night that every farmer in the area should work against current plans to unionize farm labor.

Al Johnson, vice president of the Idaho Beetgrowers association, stressed the disastrous effects on farm economy that such organization could bring about. He pointed out that under unionization, more skilled labor would be necessary, and that farmers would be required to pay wages much higher than the work was worth to them. Johnson urged all area farmers to work against the organizing of farm labor.

E. R. Blauer, manager of the Amalgamated Sugar company plant at Paul, reported to the group on the 1960 beet crop, noting that cool weather during the early part of the growing season, and hot weather during the early summer had been factors in reducing the yield this year.

He also explained that the rainy weather during harvest had caused excessive tare for most of the producers. He reported that the sugar content averaged 16.5 as compared to 16.9 last year.

Blauer announced that future plans of the company will include a pulp dryer for the Paul plant soon and an increase in the size of the dumping grounds there. He said that a new receiving station will be provided five miles west of Paul, and will be called the Haynes station.

Increased acreage being provided for local growers will mean that an additional 500 laborers will be needed, Blauer said, and additional housing facilities will be required.

Three directors, Roger Dean, Minidoka; Richard Westendorf, Adalade; and Alex Roemer, Paul, were all reelected and Sherman Taylor was elected to replace Martin Nobby in the Mart area. Officers for the board of directors will be elected soon.

Four Minico FFA members were presented checks as winners of the sugar beet contest sponsored by the association and the Amalgamated Sugar company.

Ned Horner, named in first place, received $80; Irvin Jones, second place, received $80; Dennis Stella, in third place, $40, and Jimmy Blacker, fourth place, $20. Clyde Greenwell, Arlo Montgomery and Albert Meyer reported on the National Beetgrowers association meeting held recently at Yakima, Wash.

Local IOOF Noble Grand Is Installed

DECLLO, Jan. 14—Robert Fuqua was installed president of the Twin Falls Kiwanis club during ceremonies held at the banquet room at Nelson's cafe, Burley, this week. Walter C. Fenfen, Buhl, Kiwanis division five lieutenant governor, was installing officer.

Others installed were Nalon Taylor, first vice president; Clifford Sutton, second vice president; Burdell Curtis, secretary-treasurer; Carl Osterhout, Joseph Gillette, Fred Preston, Earl Dillington, Mike Novosel, Francis Lynch, Lloyd Blake and Albert Olsen, directors.

Committee chairmen for the coming year were announced by the president-elect, Robert Fuqua.

Speaker

DR. HERVON SNYDER will speak at the third annual meeting of the PTA nine units at 8 p.m. Monday in the Twin Falls Junior high school auditorium. Dr. Snyder, professor of the department of student teaching at the University of Idaho and president of the Idaho Congress of Parents and Teachers, will speak on matters concerning schools to be presented to the Idaho legislature this session. The public is invited. (Staff engraving)

Sixth Anniversary of First Nuclear Submarine Will Be Observed Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—Six years ago next Tuesday a submarine, backed away from a dock, then moved ahead, picking up speed silently.

From the sub, a blinker light twinkled a message for all the world: "Under way on nuclear power."

The Nautilus was making history. Until then, every ship that ever sailed had moved by oars, sail, or power generated by burning coal, wood or petroleum. Now the era of the atom had come.

Aboard the submarine as she moved away from her Groton, Conn., building yard of Electric Boat division—General Dynamics corporation, were the crew of 96, about 50 civilians—and Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover.

The little white-haired admiral was seeing the project for which he had fought come to life. The advent of atomic power for ships had arrived swiftly, as history goes, less than five years after work had been started on an experimental reactor plant.

At the anniversary ceremony on Tuesday at Groton, the navy will honor Rickover, promoted to three-star rank since the Nautilus made her first atomic-powered trip.

The distinguished service medal, the navy's highest peacetime decoration, will be pinned on Rickover by Secretary of the Navy William B. Franke. The ceremony will be on the deck of the Nautilus.

Franke, in announcing his intention to decorate Rickover, said that "in just six short years, the navy has progressed in the field of nuclear propulsion more rapidly than was considered possible by anyone except a handful of men with the vision and dedication of Admiral Rickover."

Today there are 22 atomic-powered U.S. submarines afloat, most of them operating with the fleet, a few others nearing the time of commissioning. Included are the two Polaris missile-firing subs in service, with another undergoing final tests.

Built, building, contracted for or with funds approved for building are 41 atomic submarines.

Atomic power has come to the surface. The navy is building an 80,000-ton carrier, a guided-missile cruiser, a destroyer-type frigate. The maritime commission will begin trials later this year of the first merchant ship driven by atomic power, the Savannah.

If progress in building the naval atomic fleet has been swift, it also has been expensive.

The 41 submarines have an estimated total cost of about $2,826,000,000. The carrier, cruiser and

Church Chooses Officers for '61

BURLEY, Jan. 14—New officers of the Burley Presbyterian church were elected during its annual congregational dinner held Tuesday evening.

Three elders were elected for three-year terms. They are William J. Morgan, LaMar Cramer and Dr. Charles A. Terhune. Other officers elected for the same term are Clifford Sutton, Robert B. Johnson, Robert Walkup and Harold Holmes, trustees, and Mrs. Ray Lewis and Mrs. Raymond H. Johnson, deacons.

Ray Lewis was chairman of the nominating committee and two names were submitted for each office.

During the meeting, yearly reports were given by all the divisions of the church which included the Cub Scout pack, Marine's club, choir, Sunday school departments, and the United Presbyterian Women's group.

Mrs. William Morgan was chairman of the potluck dinner which preceded the meeting.

building and many more planned. Some of the existing red subs—possibly including atomic-powered craft—are equipped for missile firing. Whether Soviet technology has progressed to the point of launching ballistic missile rockets from submerged submarines is a debated point.

Hall of Fame Banquet Plan Is Discussed

An initial planning committee for the arrangement of this year's Southcentral Idaho Hall of Fame banquet was held Thursday night at the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company.

In attendance were James Seabek and Claude White, commission company; Edward Shaff and James Kinney, Fidelity National bank; Curtis Eaton, Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, and Sam D. Rossen, Times-News.

This year's sponsor for the banquet is the Fidelity National bank, with Shaff acting as chairman. Last year's sponsor and initiator of the annual affair, during which 10 outstanding men and women from throughout the valley were honored for their contributions to the livestock industry, was Seabek.

At the meeting plans were made for establishing criteria for selection of persons to be honored with plaques and by the banquet, a date for holding the banquet, and the contacting of a prominent dinner speaker.

The banquet will be held in March, as it was last year, when all tickets were sold out and the Turf club was filled with more than 400 persons. Among speakers who will be sought this year will be member or representative of the new Kennedy cabinet, preferably from the department of the agriculture or of the interior. The latter department is vital to livestock operators in Idaho on account of the huge federal loan administered by it.

Another speaker considered noted for his hilarious "down the farm" approach to vital questions of the day.

A second meeting will be held Jan. 23 at the commission company with additional committees men in attendance.

Elba News

ELBA, Jan. 14—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hale, Salt Lake City, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Udy. They also attended funeral services for Hale's uncle in Falls.

Mrs. Gladys Barker has returned from McCall where she visited her father, Steven Tucker.

Rex Becher has gone to Brigham City, Utah, where he has employment. Mrs. Becher and children will remain in their home here.

Awards Banquet Set for Jerome

JEROME, Jan. 14—The Jerome Jaycee distinguished service award banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Monday at Woods cafe. Tom Hatch and William Wolfenbarger are co-chairmen.

Joe Anderson, Idaho falls, will be the featured speaker. Tom Prescott will be the master of ceremonies.

Two other awards, the outstanding boss, and outstanding young farmer, also will be presented. The public is invited.

Program Set

JEROME, Jan. 14—A. O. (Gus) Kelker, Twin Falls, will present the program at the Jefferson PTA meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the school.

This will be Dad's night. All fathers will be counted as four points for the room count contest. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wright, co-presidents, urge all parents to attend.

FORMOSAN ROAD PLANNED
TAIPEI, Formosa, Jan. 14 (AP)—A 15-mile highway linking this capital with Keelung, its seaport, is to be built with substantial U.S. aid. Total cost is estimated at 3.35 million dollars. Construction is to start next month.

Presbyterian Men's Chorus Was Formed Four Years Ago; Has 19 Members

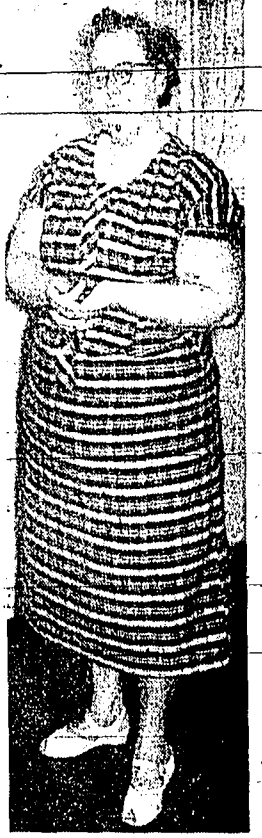

Wielding the baton, at top left center, is James Hall, director of the Presbyterian Men's chorus. This is an organization that was formed four years ago. It is sponsored by the Men's council of the church. It was first formed to provide music for a laymen's Sunday program. Some of the members of the chorus are members of the church's choir, but the chorus is a separate organization. The repertoire of the chorus is primarily religious, but this is balanced with traditional ballads and folk songs. The group has sung at various functions throughout the area. (Staff photo-engraving)

Best Loser of '60 Once Weighed 287

Mrs. Albert E. Mayer, who once weighed 287 pounds, tipped the scales at 139 1/2 pounds last week, and was crowned with the TOPS club's best loser of the year award.

MRS. ALBERT E. MAYER

Mrs. Mayer, mother of four children, never weighed so little since she was 11 years old. All of her life she has battled overweight, but she determined she'd never again let herself get overweight. She attempted at least 20 diets since 1947 and adds that it wasn't until she joined TOPS in the fall of 1959 that she got the encouragement and the feedback needed to start a diet and follow it through until she lost the required weight. She set her goal of 140 pounds when she first joined the club after she received advice from her family doctor. She reached her goal last week at the same time she was crowned the best loser of the year.

She lost more than 87 pounds after she joined the club. She had lost 60 pounds on a diet she started before joining, but had lost interest in the diet and had gained back 20 of those hard-to-lose pounds. About that time she read a story in the Times-News about a TOPS club being formed. She attended the first meeting and has been an interested member since.

Although she has lost all the weight necessary, she is going to remain in the club to make sure she keeps those pounds off and encourage other members in their fight against overweight.

Mrs. Mayer can hardly remember the day when she didn't have a weight problem. She comes from a family that is heavy and she just thought she had to be that way. But last year she decided differently and set out to prove it to herself and her family.

She recalls that one of the most humorous and touching things that happened during the past year was when her 12-year-old daughter hugged her one day, then stepped back in amazement and is shown when she joined TOPS club in the fall of 1959. Last week she was named winner of the "best loser of the year" annual award. She now weighs 139 1/2 pounds, but at one time she weighed 287 pounds. (TOPS photo-staff engraving)

Fairfield Man Does Custom Gun Work

Ray Wolfe, Fairfield, has tinkered with guns ever since he was a boy. After repairing his own guns, he began fixing ones neighbors would bring him. Although he has worked with guns for more than 20 years, he has been doing custom work commercially only the last five years. For his custom stocks he buys blank planks of maple, walnut, myrtlewood and imported woods for inlays and trimming. He says Rex O'Neil has been a factor in encouraging him to do precision work. FAIRFIELD, Jan. 14 — To the medals, trophies, sterling silver mugs, sets, candlesticks and tableware and other prizes to prove his ability. He was born in Cedar View, Utah, but has spent the last 23 years in Fairfield. While not from what could be called a "shooting family," his uncle, Ross O'Neil, was a member of the Utah state rifle team in 1937. His name appears on the Weymouth trophy and he also competed in the national matches at Camp Perry. O. Don O'Neil, the youngest brother of Rex O'Neil, has placed in that draw pistol matches in Las Vegas this year. When Rex was a child in Utah he was coached by another uncle who made him shoot the heads off matches with a .28 rifle and won for a laymen's Sunday program. It was formed by Merritt Greeling, Pocatello, a former Twin Falls resident. The director of the chorus is James Hall. He says there are 19 members in the chorus. Hall says, "After the chorus was formed for the special program, the men enjoyed the work so much they decided to continue the organization." Hall notes that it is a dedicated group of men, all interested in chorus work, and composed of men willing to get up before dawn on Wednesday morning and go to the church to practice. After coffee and doughnuts, the chorus practices until about 8 a.m. Hall notes that the repertoire of the chorus is primarily religious, but this is backed up with a selection of traditional ballads and folksongs for special occasions. Normally the chorus practices only on Wednesdays, but when it

Residents of Addis Ababa Honor King

ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 14 (AP) — Weeping Ethiopians fell on their faces and kissed the ground as the imperial automobile went by. Then they went to their circular churches on the hilltops and sang hymns of rejoicing and thanksgiving to their emperor and incidentally, to God. The little people of Addis Ababa had passed through a three-day nightmare. More than two thousand had fallen victims to the bitter fighting that followed when a clique of the imperial bodyguard launched a revolution. The simple people were bewildered and frightened. Disaster had befallen them while the emperor was away. But on the fourth day, the emperor returned, and the people's confidence returned with him. Over and over again, servants and messengers, drivers and garbage collectors, were heard to say: "Now we are safe. The emperor has come back to protect us." The violence didn't end completely when the emperor returned. The nights still were punctuated by rifle and machinegun fire. The thud of mortars in the hills told of battles being fought. The body of a slain rebel leader hung for 12 hours in busy Mengelik square. But for most people in Addis Ababa, the rebellion ended with the return of Haile Selassie the First, "Elect of God, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, King of Kings and Emperor of Ethiopia." The monarch who attains such supernatural stature in the eyes of his people is a little man physically. He is barely 5 1/2 feet in height and is slightly built. His jet-black beard has a few gray hairs as he goes into his 70th year. But diminutive Haile Selassie is a strong man. He has had to be to hold power in this savage country for 43 years. The emperor became the power behind the throne through a palace coup in 1917. He came out on top in a series of bitter civil wars and was crowned emperor in 1930. He survived the onslaught of Mussolini's armies and a series of attempted coups after the war. The December rebellion was the biggest challenge the king of kings has faced in many years. Even a brief visit to Ethiopia will help explain why only a tough warrior can hold power in this country. The capital has a touch of the 20th century about it, with paved streets, a few modern hotels, and a good airport. But the jungle encroaches wherever the barriers drop. Hyenas prowls the streets on the edge of Addis Ababa every night to eat from garbage pits. Goats and hump-backed cattle graze in the heart of town. All over the city, you see clusters of thatched-roof mud huts. Now and then you encounter a man dressed in an animal skin. Step outside the few cities and you enter a world of barbarism. On the central plateau the population is Christian, but their Christianity is a religion in which magic and voodooism play a bigger part than the Gospels. Only a few hundred miles from the emperor's palace live pagans who have not advanced beyond the stone age. The king of kings reigns over some 40 tribal groups speaking 35 languages and sharply divided between Christians, Muslims, Pagans, and a strange set which practices a primitive form of Judaism. This is a jungle world, and jungle methods are used to rule it. The supreme law in Ethiopia is survival of the fittest. For 3,000 years of legend and history, no ruler has handed on the succession peacefully to his own son. Haile Selassie knows his country well, and he has not hesitated to use savage measures to retain his powers. Lij Yassu, the emperor from whom Haile Selassie seized power. Camas Farmer Operates His Own Sawmill

John Humphreys, Fairfield, stands beside a pile of lumber cut at the sawmill which he has developed because of the need to build a barn back in 1930. He now employs from five to seven men during the season. Primarily a wheat farmer, Humphreys farms 1,200 acres of land. After he is through farming in the fall he operates his mill with the help of other farmers and neighbors. Without their help, Humphreys says he would be unable to operate the mill. (Staff photo-engraving)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

The need for lumber to build a barn back in 1930 resulted in a sawmill that has grown until it employs from five to seven men during the season. John Humphreys and his father, H. W. Humphreys, CORRAL, needed lumber to build a barn on their farm. The timber was available on Lime creek from the forest service but there wasn't a mill in the vicinity. John, who had just been out of school a few years, was looking for a project. The elder Humphrey had been a partner in a sawmill in Wisconsin before he decided to move West. They bought a small sawmill at Atlanta and moved it to their farm northwest of Corral.

To power his mill John bought a 75 h.p. Reeves steam engine from Andy Colvin, BLISS. These engines were the forerunner of the present farm tractor and were often used to operate threshing machines. It had wide steel wheels about eight feet high. It took one week to move it from Bliss up the Monument gulch road to their mill site as they had to move so many rocks off the sides of the old one-track wagon road to accommodate the wide tread, Humphreys recalls.

They cut enough lumber with the 50-inch circular saw to build the barn which still stands in the farmyard. Neighbors also brought in their timber to be cut and many barns were erected that year in that section of the prairie.

The following year John moved the mill up the Chimney creek section to a location on Ear creek where he ran it for four years. The elder Humphreys died in 1935 and John sold the mill to some men from BURLEY who operated it for five years and then moved it all to Cascade.

During World War II there was a demand for scrap iron so John bought the old E. A. Harndon mill on Corral creek. He didn't operate the mill but junked part of the equipment and sold the motor. He saved the mandrel and some of the other parts for a future mill.

He set up a mill on the present site in 1945. Since then he has built a large building to house it and has rebuilt his equipment. At present he has a carriage that will cut timber up to 26 feet in length. He uses a 52-inch head saw and a 50-inch top saw, powered by a 165 horsepower diesel motor.

In addition his equipment includes two forklifts, two "cats" and two trucks. The mill usually runs from September until sometime in December. It averages about 400,000 board feet per season. He cuts all dimensions of lumber but specializes in bridge timber which is bought by Camas and neighboring counties. He sells lumber as far away as Nevada.

Humphreys has purchased and cut more than one million feet of timber from Lime creek and about another million feet from Chimney creek from state and private land. In the last four years he has cut approximately one million feet of timber from Rough creek and has enough for about two more years run from there.

In order to get the timber from Rough creek, Humphreys and some helpers built a good access road through private land. They used just a bulldozer and a road grader. This road has since been a boon to sportsmen.

Bill Shappee, BELLEVUE, has been the contract logger for the past two years. He has been cutting the timber from July until in October and hauls it about 15 miles to the mill site.

While they were sawing logs in the mill this fall they found two large caliber lead bullets imbedded in the center of some larve logs

Old Stand Is Nonsense New Approach Voiced on Problems of Bedwetting

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association I've suspected for a long time that much that is written, said and done about bedwetting (enuresis) is a lot of nonsense. A standard pediatrics textbook informs its readers that "the cause is usually an emotional disturbance in the child, secondary to a disturbed parent-child relationship."

And the most common cause for this disturbed relationship is "too vigorous attempts at toilet training" to which the infant reacts with confusion, frustration, feelings of guilt and an antagonism towards well-meaning but apparently misguided parents.

Kidney specialist (urologists) assert that 10 per cent of bedwetters have something organically wrong with their waterworks. They suggest the advisability of a complete examination, including instrumentation, of the very tiny and very delicate urinary tract. And, while this may be required under very special conditions, it's not a procedure that is to be lightly undertaken since full anesthesia is usually necessary and the danger of introducing infection is ever present even under ideal surgical conditions.

A recent study by Dr. E. Richard Mueller of Harvard university tends to confirm my suspicion that we've been doing a lot of barking up a lot of wrong trees. It is his considered opinion, based on careful studies, that (1) urinary control is self-taught and is not due to parental training; (2) self-training cannot be accomplished until the infant is able to register the sensation of bladder fullness; (3) this sensation is not developed until some time after the child's first birthday anniversary; (4) because the bladder is small and its capacity very limited, the sensation of fullness is bound to register every few hours throughout the first few years of life; (5) hence the child is bound to wet during the night until its bladder is sufficiently large to hold the average eight-ounce output (water-glass full) that is normally put out by the kidneys between bedtime and morning arousal; (6) the bladder of the average child does not attain an eight-ounce capacity until about the age of 4.

I hope I have made this complicated problem clear to you. If I've succeeded, you'll understand why Dr. Mueller thinks that many of the things we've been doing for the relief of enuresis are useless, if not harmful. These include restricting the fluid intake, putting the child on the toilet at frequent intervals during the day, waking the child to void at night, offering rewards for a dry bed and inflicting punishments for wetting.

Until the child is 2 years old, make no effort to teach bladder control. Indeed, if you must do something, encourage the child to hold its urine within reason since fullness of the bladder, by exerting tension on its walls, may hasten its capacity to hold the nightly output of urine. By placing the child on the toilet seat at short intervals, as is usually recommended, you may be defeating the purpose you hope to accomplish.

When the child is 3, instead of restricting fluids, encourage the youngster to drink during the day. Then try to build up the child's bladder capacity to eight ounces (tumblerful) by progressively lengthening the time between voidings. In Dr. Mueller's experience, this goal may be reached after three to six months of sustained effort. You may check the child's progress by making an occasional measurement of the amount of urine passed.

If bedwetting continues beyond the fourth year, your doctor may advise consultation with a urologist since the persistence of enuresis may suggest the possibility that the youngster has some organic disturbance of the urinary system that requires instrumental or surgical treatment.

Unless there is some other reason, you may check the child's needs psychiatric attention, do not expose the youngster and yourselves to psychotherapy. Dr. Gesell's studies at Yale indicate that the average child does not usually awaken with a dry bed until after its third birthday anniversary. Unless your doctor has great faith in drug treatments, don't dose the child with the usual prescriptions that are more apt to make the youngster's mouth uncomfortably dry than exert any influence on his urine output or his urinary system.

And if you've raised your child sensibly and lovingly, don't let anyone give you a feeling of inadequacy because your youngster's bladder capacity is not yet sufficient to hold the total urinary output of a single night. And don't make urinary function an issue of importance in your child's life. Don't be cross with him or scold or punish him if he wets. Don't praise or reward him if he's dry. And, if you love him, don't discuss the problem with the family with who may think bedwetting a great subject for teasing or mockery.

held. The road to the Japanese embassy was repaired when the Japanese crown prince visited Addis Ababa. Eleven years ago, the emperor became interested in building a university. He laid the cornerstone for the school and construction began. The gate was finished, but nothing else. The emperor has taken an active personal interest in education. But after he has governed the country for 43 years, there still is only one Ethiopian with a medical degree in all the country. There is scarcely a native engineer, architect, or agricultural expert in Ethiopia. The population is almost 95 per cent illiterate.

Weeping Ethiopians Fall on Faces as Haile Selassie Returns to 'Save Them'

(From Page 19) was kept in chains for 10 years until he died. Until lately, public hanging of criminals was the rule. Those who know Haile Selassie well insist he is humanitarian at heart in spite of his occasional cruel methods. Perhaps this conscience came from the Jesuit priests who educated him in his native province of Harar. There is no doubt that the emperor years to bring 20th century civilization to his remote mountain empire. Whether the emperor goes about modernizing his country in the right way is debatable. He keeps the machinery of state too tightly in his own grasp, some observers think, but there is no doubt that every ounce of energy in his wily frame goes into the task. Progress in Ethiopia tends to ebb and flow with the moods of the emperor. A boulevard will be opened to coincide with completion of a new African house where international conferences will be held.

Tour Library JEROME, Jan. 14 — The second and third grades of the Canyonside school made a tour of the Jerome Library Wednesday under the direction of Mrs. Fenrich, their teacher. The children were shown how to find books, and check them out. Several of them obtained library cards.

Mrs. J. D. Nolan read them a story before they left.

Research to Produce Better Pea and Bean Plants Is Continued During Winter Months by Company

Employees of the Rogers Brothers seed company inspect the new, first generation growth plants after a plant cross in the company's laboratory green house in Twin Falls. Dr. M. E. Big Decisions in Bean and Pea Research Are Made During Non-Growing Season

Although much of the work in bean and pea research must be done during the growing season, still major decisions are made during winter months—decisions that can affect the important bean and pea growing industry in the valley. Such decisions were made last week by a group of men who compose the taste panel of Rogers Brothers Seed company. For several hours the men munched on peas and beans and voted on the best samples—depending on a multitude of characteristics.

They started tasting the samples about 3 p.m. and didn't finish until about 7:30 p.m. During this time the men tasted 200 different samples of peas and beans. This sounds like quite a meal, but the men just tasted the samples, they didn't swallow this amount.

Church Elects For King Hill

KING HILL, Jan. 14 — Officers of the United Presbyterian church were elected at the annual congregational meeting this week in the Grange hall with the Rev. R. I. Barnes as moderator. Jack Craig was elected elder for a three-year term and Karl Anderson and Gayle Slonaker, trustees for a three-year term. Named deacons for three-year terms were Mrs. Karl Anderson and Mrs. Mildred Camahan.

Ushers are Larry Moore, Donald Slonaker, Gloria Woodward and Phyllis Slonaker. Yearly reports of all organizations in the church were given. The Rev. Mr. Barnes gave the report for the elders; Mrs. Woodward, trustees, and Mrs. Ted Moore, deacons in the absence of Mrs. Rodney Ruberry. The Sunday school report was given by Mrs. Arthur Greer.

Others reporting were Mrs. Jack Craig, United Presbyterian Women; Mrs. Barnes, daily vacation Bible school and Sunday school superintendent's report; Mrs. Marie Lawson, home department; Mrs. Oyle Slonaker, cradle roll, and Mrs. Frank Jones, treasurer. Nathan Miller and Mrs. Woodward were secretaries of the meeting. Donald Slonaker and Delmore Miller assisted with the election. The Rev. Mr. Barnes was retained as pastor of the church.

Airman Leaves

KING HILL, Jan. 14 — Airman and Mrs. Jack Smith and daughter left this week for Lawville, N.Y., to visit his mother, Mrs. Florence Smith. Smith, who has been stationed at the Mountain Home air force base, has been reassigned to Hahn, Germany. His wife and daughter will remain in Lawville with his mother. Mr. and Mrs. Smith visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Pink here, before leaving for the east.

The Rev. R. I. Barnes attended the Presbytery of Boise Tuesday, held at the Boone Memorial church, Caldwell. Nathan Miller, Indian Cove, accompanied the Rev. Mr. Barnes.

Early Rising Local Residents Provide Voices of Presbyterian Men's Chorus

(From Page 19) prepares for a special program the members often have additional practices. The chorus has sung at varied functions throughout its rather short history. For the last three years it has sung at the Elks lodge memorial service, held at the lodge on the first Sunday in December. During the service, the deceased members of the lodge are honored. The chorus has traveled as far as Pocatello to perform. Last fall it was invited to Pocatello's First Presbyterian church, where the members sang for the Mariner's club. They were invited by Greel-

ing. They have sung at the Buhl Presbyterian church and they recently accepted an invitation to sing before the grand chapter of the Order of Eastern Star next June in Twin Falls. The chorus also assisted members of the Twin Falls Music club in a special program last fall on the folk songs of Australia and New Zealand. During the Christmas season it appeared on KTVX-TV. Members of the chorus are Hall, director; Charles Allen, John Angerbauer, Warren Barry, Rhuel Beebout, Beryle Carr, Russell Cunningham, Charles Elwell, William Grange, Bruce Grant, Tom Gray, Larry Hall, Vernon Hedner, Ernest Martin, Roger Martin, Roger Lewis, Neil Olmstead, Dr. George Scholer, John Soden, and Robert Vernon. Accompanist is Mrs. J. S. Hall.

Accompanist and Director Discuss Music for Chorus

Boyle Tells Wives How to Clean Closets-Laziest Way

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: If your wife is looking for a good lazy way to clean out an old clothes closet, tell her just to toss 150 moths-in-it-and-shut-the-door. Theoretically, the offspring of the moths in a year can eat fabrics equal in weight to a diesel locomotive. No wonder it's so hard for many of us to see our way clear. Some 80 million Americans have the vision problem called 'astigmatism.' The good old days: In 1834, Delmonico, later a world-renowned restaurant, printed the first known bill of fare in this country. Sample items: Cup of coffee, one cent; soup, two cents; beef stew, four cents; ham and egg or roast chicken, a dime—and a full meal, 12 cents! Signs of our times: Seen on the back of a truck: "I'm driving carefully because I'm a coward." Even if you're a film fan, it's an odds-on bet you can't name the last all-inning home run. It was "Lights of New York," made in 1928. Our quotable notables: "One should be either sad or joyful," playwright Eugene O'Neill. "Contentment is a warm stew for tired and sleepers." Geography lesson: There is a

Nazarene Church Purchases Land

BURLEY, Jan. 14 — The Burley Church of the Nazarene has purchased two and one-half acres of land between 28th and 26th streets on the east side of Miller avenue which will be the site for its new church and educational building, announced L. G. Bridgwater, pastor of the local church. Construction on the educational unit which will measure 60 by 40 feet will begin as soon as weather permits, Bridgwater says. The congregation will occupy this unit while the adjoining church is being built. The congregation is now meet-

Mine Mucker to One of Most Powerful Solons Is Mansfield's Story of Success

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—A one-time copper mine mucker, son of poor Irish immigrant parents, a runaway from home at the age of 14 to serve in the U. S. army, navy and marines, is now emerging as one of the most powerful figures in the new 87th congress. That in brief is the success story of Montana's quiet-voiced, pipe-smoking Sen. Michael J. (Mike) Mansfield. With his election as senate majority leader, Mansfield will bear prime responsibility for driving the incoming Kennedy administration's "new frontier" legislation through the senate. It's a ticklish spot, for two reasons: 1. The razor-edge margin of victory by John F. Kennedy over Richard M. Nixon may stack up as something less than an all-out mandate for any ultra-liberal legislation. 2. A traditional coalition of conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats appears ready to team up against some of the broad spending proposals advocated by Kennedy during the election campaign.

Filer Grange Has Proposal of Insurance

FILER, Jan. 14 — Paul Kade insurance agent, spoke to the Filer Grange at a meeting this week about a new and not popular Grange member's plan to be carried under a group plan. He stated that the cost of conducting a contest which would award prizes to the Grange with the most members joining this group setup. A resolution was drawn up with the cooperation of Harold Lauster, which will go to the state weed commission stating that the weed control board should not be affected by party changes in government. A card party will be held at the Grange hall Jan. 28. Mrs. J. R. Bennett announced that the Grange women will serve the dinner at the hall Jan. 26. Mrs. Joe Kreppek presented Judy Gaumer, one of the contestants in the recent Miss Twin Falls contest, who gave her earnest reading, "Black Madonna." Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McGandless and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Williams served on the refreshment committee. Wagon Mound, N. M., gets its name from a wagon-shaped rock which was a landmark on the old Santa Fe trail.

Issues Warning

BUHL, Jan. 14 — Buhl Police Chief T. M. Kendrick has issued a warning that anyone caught shooting at any city street lights here will have his guns confiscated and could be liable for court action. Chief Kendrick noted some 27 city street lights were shot out by BB guns in the lower section of town during the past several days.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Long Time Resident of Area Has Been Interested Observer of Life in Valley

Russell C. (Bud) Larsen is entering his third year as a Twin Falls county commissioner. A Twin Falls resident of Magic Valley, long time resident of Area has been interested observer of life in Valley.

RUSSELL C. (BUD) LARSEN

Larsen was born in 1910. He attended school at Rock creek, and high school at Kimberly, graduating in 1928. Larsen attended the Southern branch of the University of Idaho, Pocatello, from 1929 until 1931. Larsen quips, "I got a Hoover degree and had to come home and go to work."

Larsen wanted to go to sea. He says he doesn't know why, but says the sea and the idea of it has always fascinated him. He marks it off as a characteristic of the Danish people. With the plan to enter law school and later study maritime law, he started college.

Larsen's mother's maiden name was Mary Jensen, another pioneer family in Rock Creek. Both of Larsen's parents were born in Denmark. His parents were married in 1888 and continued to operate a cattle ranch in the Rock creek area.

Stock Market Scores Third Weekly Hike

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—Stocks scored their third consecutive weekly advance in the heaviest trading in more than two years. Sales volume ran above the four million mark in all five sessions, and the string of four million days to six.

Some market technicians noted that the heavy volume of stock transactions since Christmas has literally forced the averages higher in the face of normally depressive business and political news. Thomson and McKinnon offered some other factors which stand out in an otherwise clouded investing picture.

Storekeepers of Nation Look Toward Rocky Road for 1961

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—The nation's storekeepers are looking down a rocky road for 1961. They don't expect much of a sales increase and they even more worried about profits.

A gloomy picture of the furniture segment was painted in Chicago, where 20,000 dealers attended the winter home furnishings market. They expressed apprehension that sales this year will be below 1960, when the 46 billion dollar total was more than seven per cent over 1959.

Club Member Who Once Weighed 287 Is "Best Loser" as Scales Hit Mere 139

(From Page 13) Mrs. Albert E. Mayer, seated, gets a corsage from Mrs. R. C. Thiel, both members of the TOPS club. Mrs. Mayer was named the "best loser of the year." At one time Mrs. Mayer weighed 287 pounds and during the past year she lost 73 pounds. Mrs. Thiel was the best runner-up in the contest, losing 53 pounds. (Staff photo-engraving)

shouted, "Mommy! I put my arms all the way around you!" Such events have encouraged her during the past year. "A person who is overweight can't do anything about it until he or she realizes that being overweight is a personal problem and they are the only ones who can do anything about it. This is probably the hardest step to take. I'd been through plenty of diets. I'd be on them for awhile and then lose interest and quit. I don't think I'd ever gotten to this point if it wasn't for the encouragement that my friends at the club have given me and the encouragement of my family." Losing all this weight hasn't been easy, but she stresses it has certainly been worthwhile. "I feel like I've been let out of prison. I used to be so sensitive about my weight that I'd never go to any place. I wouldn't even go to the store, unless I just couldn't avoid it. I hated to be seen. I didn't go anywhere and it was just like being in prison." Going to the store isn't a problem now, so far as the weight problem is concerned, but it still generates unusual circumstances. Last week at a supermarket she spoke to an old acquaintance. The old friend, who hadn't seen her in months, didn't recognize her. Mrs. Mayer left the store and walked to her car. At that point the old friend came charging out of the store shouting at her. She was dumfounded that she could lose

Hank Finds Learning Italian Causes Him, Others Trouble

By HENRY McLEMORE ROME, Italy—Ever since I started traveling I have been told that Europeans appreciate Americans making an effort to speak the language of the country they are visiting. I have begun to doubt this gratitude on the part of the Europeans. I believe it is an old wife's tale with little or no authenticity, and that Europeans would be grateful if those of us who butcher Italian, French and German would have our requests written out for us, sort of like a prescription. For example, take a recent case of my own in which I threw an entire salsamenteria into confusion by requesting a jar of jelly or sauce suitable for serving with some birds a huntsman friend had given us. For 10 minutes, using the type of Italian I have at my command, I tried to get across what I wanted. With typical kindness, all the help stopped doing what they were doing to listen to me. They showed me everything in the store, or nine-tenths of it, while customers backed up. Finally, as I nearly always do, I fell back on sign language, and flapped like game birds rising from cover, and yelled "bang! bang!" with my arms extended as if I held a shotgun. Then dawn broke among the help. They saw the light. Their faces lit up. They cried, "Si, si!" and the manager grabbed by arm, whisked off his apron and started down the street with me in tow. Two blocks later he took me into a hardware store and, oblivious to my protestations, ordered, "pasta!" and handed me two boxes of shotgun shells. There was nothing for me to do but keep them. You don't say to such helpfulness as the manager of the salsamenteria had shown. So I now have shells but no gun and no license. I didn't try the shells with the birds. By trying to speak the language, I disrupted a place of business, caused the manager to take a useless walk and inconvenienced half a dozen customers. I finally got the sauce the way I should have in the first place. I told an Italian friend who speaks English what I wanted, and he wrote my order on a slip of paper. I went to a salsamenteria—not the same one—showed the slip, kept my mouth shut and was handed the jelly in 10 seconds. Trying to fathom my Italian could gratify no Italian. There's nothing pleasing about it. Also, it doesn't gratify me. I am forever getting things I don't want. I order a toothbrush and get a roll of gauze. I'll have to hold a rummage sale before I leave Italy to rid myself of an accumulation of goods that is rapidly filling a room. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate)

Dimes March Drive Noted By Grangers

HOLLISTER, Jan. 14 — A short talk on the importance of the March of Dimes program was given by C. E. Bossard, Twin Falls county chairman of the March of Dimes, at the meeting of the Hollister Grange Wednesday evening. Mrs. W. N. Holmes accompanied him and gave out pamphlets, with Jerry Sant showing the March of Dimes to Grange members. The community benefit for all the current drives is scheduled to be held Jan. 21 at the Grange hall with Master C. M. Lanting and Mrs. David Chadwick in charge of activities. Grange members endorsed a resolution on a joint deed law between husbands and wives and were asked to contact their legislators concerning the passage of the law. Mrs. Lester McGregor, home economics chairman, reported on the 1961 national Grange sewing contest. She stated that non-Grange members could participate this year if sponsored by a Grange member. The contest for dress entries closes the last of April. The awards program for the Twin Falls soil conservation poster contest will be held at the Grange hall March 24. Schools included in the contest are Clover, Roseworth, Shamrock, Three Creek and Hollister grade schools. The next bloodmobile visit will be at the Twin Falls American Legion hall, Jan. 23, announced Mrs. Heber Loughmiller. Women of the Hollister Grange are to furnish cookies for the canteen. Mrs. Loughmiller also announced that a first aid course would be held at the Grange hall during the latter part of February, and any one interested should contact her for further details. A resolution was read by David Chadwick from the Twin Falls soil conservation district, asking the Grange to endorse and help support the resolution asking for aid in research studies for the control of Jackrabbits. The Twin Falls soil conservation district's resolution is to be sent to the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts asking that monies be appropriated by congress and made available to the agriculture research service to study ways of effectively controlling Jackrabbits. Mrs. Steve Pastoor showed color slides of 4-H club girls, and other Grange activities. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Schintker. Next regular meeting will be Jan. 25, with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Loughmiller as hosts.

Fire Season Report Given

SHOSHONE, Jan. 14 — During the 1960 fire season, there were 75 fires suppressed, burning a total acreage of 43,000 acres of federal, state and private land in district five of the bureau of land management, according to Dale H. Kinnaman, district range manager. The estimated forage loss resulting from these fires amounted to approximately 6,143 animal unit months of feed valued at $18,429. Based on a conservative figure of $5 per acre, the damage resulting from watershed losses would amount to $215,000, Kinnaman said. Although the number of fires occurring and acreage burned was not as high as some years, the 1960 fire season is considered to be one of the most severe. This was brought about by the unusually lush growth of vegetation in the higher elevations. Accompanied by an above normal number of dry lightning storms in these higher, more inaccessible areas, several serious fires occurred which necessitated prolonged suppression action and were costly. As in past years, the great majority of the district's fires were man-caused. Some of these fires were caused by persons failing to obtain a burning permit while others were caused by persons throwing burning material from their automobiles. Several man-caused fires were attributed to careless campers while others were apparently of a malicious nature. Kinnaman said, "We would like to take this opportunity to urge the general public to be extremely careful with fire, during the coming months, in order to lessen the number of unnecessary fires and severe damage to public and private lands." The Earth takes about one-thirtieth of a second longer to rotate around its axis today than it did three years ago.

Fairfield Marksman Shows Favorite Gun for Competition

Rex O'Neil, Fairfield, poses with the M-1 rifle with which he has won many trophies. Known as a champion marksman throughout the region, O'Neil holds the Idaho state championship with high-powered rifle in 1958 and 1959. He has dozens of medals, trophies, sterling silver carving sets and other prizes to prove his skill. The proprietor of a garage and service station in Fairfield, O'Neil and his wife often go out between 5 and 6 a.m. to Baker where he practices. (Staff photo-engraving)

(From Page 19) he must have a gun strictly for target shooting. In 1957 he bought a National Match 30-06 Winchester model 70 heavy barreled target rifle. His first real test with it came in March, 1958, when he journeyed to Phoenix, Ariz., and competed on the national match course with Arizona shooters. He placed third in the match and won the first sharpshooter medal with a score of 241 of a possible 250. He then won the Idaho state championship at the regional matches at Boise that year. He made his first trip to the national matches at Camp Perry, O., in 1958 with the Idaho state civil rifle team and while not outstanding, the team placed as first sharpshooter in the enlisted men's matches. Even with that experience he felt he needed more accuracy in his gun so took it out to Wolfe, a Corral wheat farmer, cattelman and parttime gunsmith. Wolfe fiberglassed the stock and tuned up all the parts to put the gun in peak shape. O'Neil then went to the Utah matches with a Buhl rifle team and shot well enough to put him in the master shooters class.

O'Neil started handloading in 1953 and now has dies for about 300 and 700 yard ranges. He usually shoots 50 rounds per morning with Mrs. O'Neil making the targets for him. His equipment includes a spotting scope to check the wind and mirage, shooting coat, shooting glasses, shooting glove, ear plugs and a carbide lamp to blacken the gun sights. O'Neil is also a successful big game hunter and is partial to a 20 but has used his 375 magnum for elk at times. He doesn't like shotgun hunting. Wolfe has tinkered with guns ever since he was a boy. He first started fixing his own guns and then neighbors would bring him their guns to be fixed. He has been working on guns for about 20 years but has been doing custom work commercially only the last five years. He does all kinds of gun rebuilding, rebarreling, M-1 has to be a stock gun with no mechanical changes, just precision tuning for accuracy. O'Neil went back to Phoenix with the M-1 and won high competitor medal with a service rifle blank planks of maple, walnut, myrtlewood, and imported woods for inlays and trimming. Some woods come from as far away as Turkey. Wolfe makes rifle and shotgun stocks and pistol stocks. He has rebuilt many 243 caliber guns with custom stocks and prefers them as a varmint gun "but like O'Neil he is partial to a 270 as his own big game gun. Ray doesn't compete in target shooting but has elk and deer horns around his place to attest to his prowess as a big game hunter. He also likes to hunt with a shotgun and has in-laid the stock of his own shotgun with ivory figures of ducks. The first gun he completely rebuilt is a 250-3000 chambered down to a 22-250 and mounted on a fired maple stock. In his shop are many types of guns in various processes of rebuilding. He says that O'Neil has been a factor in encouraging him to do precision work. Both Wolfe and O'Neil are collectors of guns and pistols and both have quite an array of antique and modern guns. O'Neil thinks his next project will be pistol competition in addition to his rifle. He has a new Swagmatic bullet press in his home gun shop to make pistol bullets out of lead wire with a half jacket. It saves all the time that used to be required to case bullet melted lead. O'Neil has been an instructor for the Soldier Mountain and Pistol club ever since it was organized.
