Chimpanzee Goes On Trip in Space, Tumbles Into Sea

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Jan. 31 (UPI)—A highly-trained chimpanzee made a trail-blazing rocket journey through the fringes of space today in a warmup for a similar flight planned for this spring with a man aboard. U. S. scientists said the 37½-pound animal, which had been trained to work certain levers during the buffeting ride, performed satisfactorily, although the rocket itself flew 130 miles beyond the planned impact area on its 420-mile flight. The capsule containing the chimp was sighted by aircraft shortly after it landed in the Atlantic ocean east of Grand Bahama island.

"Steady Decline"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Kennedy said today he was concerned about a "steady decline" in the physical fitness standards of Americans as compared with Europeans and other people around the world.

He said he hoped that the White House would "do our best to emphasize" that physical fitness was vital to the nation's survival and that something must be done about the problem.

"Physical fitness goes with mental fitness," the President stated. "It goes with energy—and I am concerned that the recent tests have shown a steady decline in the standards of American fitness as compared to Europeans and people around the world. In reading a recent article on guerrilla warfare, I noticed the great emphasis put on physical fitness."

Trading Stamps Issue Gums up Capitol in Utah

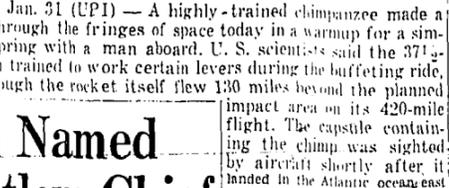

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 31 (AP)—The sticky business of trading stamps gummed things up at the Utah capitol today as a parade of housewives and service station operators objected to their use.

But a college professor testified that the "consumer gains something" providing she does not paste the stamps in books.

Some 250 women and men—mostly from service stations—attended a hearing room and announced 20 to 30 outside the doors and listened to testimony over loudspeakers.

After a burst of applause greeted the first woman to testify in favor of a proposed bill to ban trading stamps, Sen. Clyde L. Miller, D. Salt Lake, warned that he would tolerate no applause, booning or hissing of any statement.

Improvements Requested for Frontier Field

The Twin Falls city commission took under advisement Monday evening a request for expenditure of between $2,000 and $2,500 for improvements at the Frontier Riding club grounds.

The request was presented to the city parks and recreation commission, according to minutes of the regular meeting of that group, last Friday. Judge F. C. Shereberger, president of the club, appeared at the parks commission meeting as spokesman.

Suggested improvements include: roof repairs, painting the grandstand, installing a four-by-six foot window in the caretaker's house, repairing the floor of the concession stand and repairing the stalls.

City Manager H. L. Derrick told the city commission Monday evening no money is budgeted for this work, and before any work could be scheduled, money must be set aside by the commission for this purpose.

Joe Marshall, 86, Takes Plane On Lone Trip Deep in Mexico

At an age most people are happy to reach without contemplating any further activity, an 86-year-old Twin Falls man left alone by plane Tuesday afternoon for southern Mexico.

Joe Marshall, known nationally for many years as the "Idaho Potato King," said he didn't know for sure just when he would return. He will be 87 years old next April 3.

He plans to combine business and pleasure on the trip, vacationing and at the same time inspecting some land he has owned more than 50 years. Marshall bought 1,671 acres of land in southern Mexico on Oct. 10, 1910. "And the revolution started on Oct. 18," he recalls. "It just kept getting worse and I never did anything with the land."

The purchase was intended originally for use as a banana plantation on the land "except jungle and a few Indians."

Marshall saw the land the last time about 30 years ago. He has paid taxes on the land for 50 years and has a deed to it.

The flight to Mexico entails changing planes at Salt Lake City and Los Angeles with other changes in Mexico before he reaches his destination not far from the Guatemala border.

Kennedy Wins First Big Victory; House Votes to Expand Rule Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UPI)—President Kennedy won his first big congressional victory today when the house voted to expand the rules committee. On a roll call vote of 217 to 212, it approved a proposal by Speaker Sam Rayburn to enlarge the 12-man rules group to 15 members. This will add enough liberal members to the committee and break the conservative control that had threatened to roadblock house action on Kennedy's liberal legislative program. In close contests, the added members—two of whom will be named by Rayburn—will swing control of the committee from Chairman Howard W. Smith, D., Va., to Rayburn.

Magic Valley Delegations Air Opinions on Road Route Bill

BOISE, Jan. 31 (AP)—Delegations from Magic Valley argued yesterday both for and against a bill before the Idaho legislature which would restrict the power of the state highway board in determining highway routes. The measure, introduced by Reps. James G. Martin, R., Jerome; Frank W. Hirschi, R., Bear Lake, and Charles Powers, D., Custer, would require the board to choose the route which would cause the least injury to improved or cultivated lands. Highway committees of both the house and senate listened to a delegation from Eden and Hazelton speak in favor of the restrictive bill and delegations from Twin Falls, Jerome, Minidoka and Cassia counties speak against it.

Annexation Bill Is Given Senate Okay

BOISE, Jan. 31 (AP)—A bill to stop cities from annexing property in another county without approval of the residents of the city was passed by the senate today by a vote of 37 to 5.

Sen. K. C. Barlow, R., Cassia, referred to the measure as "a very simple bill" which would allow the people of the city a voice in making decisions.

He said it was drafted as a result of action taken by the city fathers of Burley when they jumped the Snake river and extended city boundaries into Minidoka county.

"This action, he said, was 'not much appreciated' and 98 per cent of the people were opposed to moving across the river."

"The people should be consulted because they pay the bill," he said. Barlow also told the senate that he may introduce a bill to restore constitutional government and do away with what he referred to as "one-man government."

Sen. James McClure, R., Payette, said he could not agree "that we have one-man rule and the mayor is an arbitrary dictator."

Crews Work to Fix Broken Water Main

City crews continued working Tuesday on a fractured 18-foot section of pipe on the main water line. The break was discovered Monday by water department employees. Users south of Highland avenue who were without water late Monday and Tuesday will have water restored Tuesday evening or Wednesday, barring further complications, according to Paul Newton, city engineer. The break was spotted first as a small leak in the 30-inch water main around 1 p.m. Monday, Newton said. It took city crews approximately seven hours to locate the break and determine that the 18-foot section must be dug up and replaced.

Cause of the break is unknown as yet, Newton said.

While water service is interrupted a tank truck will be standing by to deliver water to customers whose homes are without water, Newton said.

The truck can be summoned by telephoning the water office, Redwood 3-0860.

City crews began work at 8 p.m. Monday to repair the damage. Newton said it took approximately 11 hours to drain the water from the water line. The cast iron pipe needed to replace the fractured section is available from city supplies, the engineer explained.

Most of the city can be supplied by switching the water from the 30-inch main to a 24-inch wooden-stave water main on the west side of highway 74, Newton said.

That section of the line south of Highland avenue must go without water service, however, according to the engineer. City crews will work around the clock, Newton said, until repairs are complete.

U. S. Writer, 66, Passes of Heart Attack

LIBBON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Dorothy Thompson, 66-year-old American correspondent and columnist, died of a heart attack early today in a hotel here where she was staying with her daughter-in-law and two grandchildren.

The daughter-in-law, Mrs. Michael Lewis, said Miss Thompson was stricken about 4 a.m.

The noted writer was admitted to the British hospital here just after New Year's day for treatment of a previous heart attack. She was discharged from the hospital yesterday and returned to the hotel.

She married 3 Times

Miss Thompson had been married three times. Her second husband was the late Nobel prize novelist Sinclair Lewis.

Miss Thompson also was a lecturer and radio commentator on political subjects. She maintained a home in New York City and most recently was represented by the Bell syndicate.

Her first husband was Josef Bard, whom she divorced in 1923. In 1928, she married Lewis and had a son, Michael. She also divorced Lewis and later was married a third time, to Maxim Kopelev in 1943. He died in 1958.

Career Opens in Britain

Miss Thompson began her writing career in Britain after working as an organizer for the woman suffrage campaign, an advertising copywriter and a social worker.

Later she went to Budapest after hearing that the monarchists were planning to restore the king in Hungary. She obtained an exclusive interview with the king, and from then on her reputation as a journalist was secure.

Ambassador In Russia to See Kennedy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President Kennedy today summoned Ambassador Liewellyn Thompson home from Russia for consultation and announced that the envoy then would be re-assigned to Moscow indefinitely.

The White House, in announcing that Kennedy had called Thompson back "for consultation on all aspects of Soviet-American relations," at first declined to say whether Thompson would be re-assigned to his Moscow post.

Several minutes later, however, Press Secretary Pierre Salinger called newsmen back to his office and said, "The President would like to make it clear that Ambassador Thompson will return to Moscow following his consultation here. He will remain as ambassador."

The White House said Thompson is expected to arrive in Washington about Feb. 8.

It was also announced today that Kennedy will send congress a special message Thursday on his recommendations for "economic recovery and growth."

Chinese Trading With Cuba Sugar

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—It may be the start of a new Red Chinese trade offensive in Southeast Asia, Peking quietly has offered to sell 30,000 tons of Cuban sugar to Burma at an undisclosed price.

U.S. officials, reporting this today, said Red China also has shipped more than 100,000 tons of rice to Cuba, 15,000 tons of rice to Guinea in North Africa and the equivalent of more than 20 million dollars in logstuffs, mainly rice, to Ceylon.

Deadly Gas Freed in Train Wreck; City Is Threatened

NEW ROADS, La., Jan. 31 (AP)—A green cloud of chlorine gas released in a train wreck, floated across a section of southeast Louisiana today, killing animals and sending nearly 60 persons to hospitals.

State police said one family, including a 3-week-old baby, received a big dose of the sometimes deadly gas.

Police evacuated 400 school children from a building a half-mile away from the wreck of a Kansas City Southern railroad freight train, which dumped chemicals into nearby ditches.

The pungent gas spewed up from the chloride-filled ditches in a next cloud of vapor. A chill breeze carried it northwest toward the Morganza community, five miles away.

The fumes forced motorists to stop alongside the roads of the area, and sent them into spasms of coughing.

In surrounding fields, horses, cows and chickens stretched in death.

The fumes nauseated humans and about two dozen already have been hospitalized, State Police Capt. Lennie Rogers said.

Shifting breezes made difficult the job of guessing where the deadly green cloud would head.

BOSTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Gov. John Volpe announced union leaders agreed to try to restore service on the strikebound metropolitan transit authority later today. All subways, buses and trolley cars in the Boston metropolitan area had been halted by a wildcat walkout.

Senate Hears 88.1 Millions Budget Plans

(From Page One)
The committee could arrive at a figure this morning, but added it was the consensus in committee that it could not come up with the amount until the education committees complete a formula for distribution of the public school funds.

And, Barlow added, until the education figure was obtained "we can't do the final job."

In the house this morning, the first eight appropriations bills—altered with dedicated revenue for agricultural agencies—were introduced. They totaled proposed spending of $2,828,189. They were among 11 measures introduced in the house. Meantime, the house passed nine other bills during a fast-moving morning session.

In other action this morning, the senate passed three measures and killed one. One of the measures passed 33 to 0 was a house joint memorial, approving an amendment to the U. S. constitution to allow permanent residents of Washington, D. C. to vote in presidential elections.

Among the measures passed by the house this morning were bills to make it illegal to deny employment on grounds of race, creed, sex or age and to increase to 10 mills per year from five the permissive levy for school plant facilities.

The only bill attracting debate in the house was the one to increase the permissive levy. It passed 29 to 13 despite the objections from Rep. Eldred Lee, R., Jefferson, that it was a "continuation of the trend to go back to property whenever we need money."

Of the appropriations bills submitted in the house today, the biggest chunk was $1,699,149 for the fresh fruit and vegetable inspection fund.

Three other bills were introduced in the house. Before taking up its 13-bill, third reading calendar, the house voted 32 to 14 to reconsider its approval of a bill that would give highway district and municipalities an equal share in highway levies collected within the municipalities.

The reconsideration motion was made by Rep. William J. Lanting, R., Twin Falls, who successfully moved to have the bill placed on third reading for Thursday.

Economic conditions were cited yesterday as proof of the need for keeping a lid on Idaho's state government spending in the next two years.

Moves toward economy gained momentum as the Idaho legislature began the fifth week of its 1961 session, with senate Republicans voting to aim toward a reduction in general fund spending—exclusive of that for construction—from the 88.1 million dollars proposed by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

Sen. Fred M. Cooper, R., Caribou, the senate caucus chairman, said Republicans "not unanimously" support any boost beyond the 88.1 million dollars.

He said there was a definite movement toward a total below that figure, and added:

"We don't want to cut anyone to a point where it is going to hurt. But if we can keep the affairs of state in order and make a reduction in spending, then the tendency definitely is toward that end."

Democrats in the senate served notice, meanwhile, they will attempt to gain consideration of bills they have proposed and which have been locked up in committee.

Sen. J. Ray Cox, Jr., D., Kootenai, the minority leader, said Democrats "don't feel some bills have been given the consideration they deserve."

The senate put on its second reading calendar for today the bill approved by the house which reduces Idaho's legal driving age from 16 to 15. Normally the measure would reach the final consideration stage in the senate tomorrow.

Meanwhile, a measure was introduced in the house to both tighten loopholes and remove inequities in Idaho's income tax laws.

Rep. George L. Crookham, Jr., R., Canyon, chairman of the house revenue and taxation committee, which introduced the bill, said the changes were purely technical in nature and would not result in any rate changes or revenue received from the income tax.

Crookham said the proposed amendment to the tax code would "smooth out points of conflict and provide for increased administrative effectiveness."

The state affairs committee introduced a bill to restrict Idaho's congressional districts to provide for a more equal distribution of population between the two districts.

This bill would shift some counties from one district to the other and divide Elmore and Ada counties between the two.

Also introduced was a bill to establish a retirement system for state employees.

The house defeated, 37 to 19, a bill which would have made the commissioner of law enforcement responsible for driver's license examinations. The examinations are now given by the county sheriffs.

The world's first school of dentistry was founded at Dalbridge, Ohio.

Improvements Requested for Frontier Field

ceived numerous complaints about odors from trucks hauling sugar beet pulp from the Amalgamated Sugar company factory through the center of Twin Falls.

The official reported he had conferred with factory officials, who assured him the company plans to install beet pulp drying apparatus in the future. This year, Gillette said, "most truck drivers have cooperated with our request that they skirt the city. There are only a few who still drive through the center of town."

The commission took under advisement an offer by A. D. McFarlane, a well-driller, to loan the city a complete well-drilling rig, on condition that McFarlane be employed as drilling superintendent or oil pump for any wells drilled by the city. He wants a salary of $500 monthly.

D. E. M. Wright was appointed a member of the Twin Falls library board to replace F. W. Slack who resigned last week after serving on the board for 18 years.

Ronald Thompson, planning and zoning consultant for Twin Falls, is expected to be in the city within the next week, Derrick told the commission. When the time of his visit is set, Derrick will set up a conference between Thompson, the city commission, and the city planning and zoning commission.

Derrick told the commission he was processing applications for the airport manager's position left vacant 10 days ago by the death of Jack Farrar. Derrick said he wanted to consult the city's airport committee before beginning the task of eliminating applicants and presenting qualified persons to the city commission for approval.

Commission Chairman Riddle tentatively scheduled a meeting of the safety committee for 9 a. m. Wednesday in Derrick's office.

The commission approved the January payroll.

Setback

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Tammany hall leader Carmine de Sapio suffered a major political setback today at the height of a campaign by reform politicians to end alleged "machine" control of the Democratic party in New York state.

De Sapio's personal candidate for borough president of Manhattan was defeated in a city council vote.

Area Groups Give View of Highway Bill

that a meeting held in Twin Falls last week which expressed opposition to the bill was "rigged."

"We don't want to make this a community fight," Walker said, but added that if such an argument develops "we can sign up many more" in support of the bill than opponents could muster.

"There is very definitely room for improvement in operation of the state highway board," he said. "This arbitrariness of the board has got to stop."

William Pyle, Gooding, who said he represented the "North Side" communities, said "there's a great deal of sentiment" in his group in support of the measure.

John Hahn, chairman of the highway committee of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, headed a four-member delegation opposing the bill. He asserted the measure was backed by a small area but would affect the entire state.

"Does anyone think," he asked, "that all future roads should be built in waste lands? Where would road building be today if every route had been determined by such an innocuous provision as that contained in this bill?"

"We do not always agree with the highway board but we believe the system is good."

W. J. Peters, who said he owns a farm in the area concerned, said he was "very much in favor" of the route chosen by the board for the interstate highway in the Eden-Hazleton area. "You should know," he said, "that not all along the route are opposed to it."

Residents of the Eden-Hazleton area appealed the board's ruling to district court and the state highway board appealed the court's decision to the Idaho Supreme court.

William R. Padgett, board attorney, announced yesterday that he had filed the formal appeal papers with the district court in Jerome county.

Hahn said the appeals have resulted in a "complete stoppage" of highway construction in the Bliss-Burley area.

Leo Handy, Rupert, a former state representative, said it would be "a step in the wrong direction" to tie the hands of the highway department.

Carl Irwin, Twin Falls, a former state senator, said he was in the legislature when the board was created. "If we're going to have a commission," he said, "we'd better have one that can function. If not, we'd better go back to the old system where we let candidates for governor decide where roads would be built."

A letter was read voicing opposition of the Burley Chamber of Commerce to the bill.

The statement presented by the Twin Falls delegation at the hearing yesterday asserted, "With a provision such as this, it appears that anyone could question the routing of our highways to the extent of pushing the location into complete wasteland."

The Twin Falls group cited the controversy over routing of proposed interstate highway 80N as an example of the harm that such a bill, if passed, could do. Routing of 80N between Burley and Bliss was moved from the south side of the Snake river to the north side, because of the cost of farmland, the statement noted.

"Now the people in that area," contended the statement, "want the route moved on farther north into complete wasteland, which, of course, is again less valuable land."

This gives no consideration to traffic patterns, traffic volume, general commerce or general economy of Magic Valley, the statement said.

"We believe roads should be placed where the greatest number of people, particularly Idaho people, can use them," the statement asserted. "We believe that all factors should be considered, not just whether it goes through John Doe's or Joe Doane's farm," the statement said.

American countries abolish slum conditions. He noted that, while many larger South American cities are well-planned and clean in newer sections, vast slum districts surround the new areas.

E. C. Davis, Salt Lake City, general manager of the Nehi Beverage Co., Monday morning, speaking during the Monday morning session, pointed out several other industries that now produce soft drinks. He said frozen, concentrated drinks are competing with bottled beverages, and that the dairy industry sells orange, grape and fruit punch.

Davis also reported that food canners, which generally operate on a four-month per year basis, are interested in canning beverages, which would make it possible to operate on a 12-month basis.

During the Monday noon luncheon, Robert A. Hart, public relations manager for the Thokol company, Brigham City, Utah, spoke and showed a film, "Minuteman Missile and Mission." He predicted that eventually the minuteman missile would be used for travel, instead of as a weapon.

Lee Fillmore, manager of the Okay food markets, Twin Falls, speaking during the Monday afternoon session, told what the bottlers could do in working with supermarkets. He pointed out that bottlers could furnish better displays and improve their service.

J. R. Bernabucci, board member, American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, stated during the Monday afternoon session that in 1960 some 4,400 plants shared an annual volume of about one and one-half billion cases of carbonated beverages—an average of more than 335,000 cases per plant.

Stolen Vessel To Unload in Brazilian City

RECIFE, Brazil, Jan. 31 (AP)—Rebel Commander Henrique Galvao promised today to bring the 620 captive passengers of the hijacked liner Santa Maria ashore tomorrow.

He acted after a U. S. naval command group boarded the Santa Maria and personally warned Galvao it was too dangerous to free the captives on the high seas.

Galvao's pledge was made in a message of congratulations to the new president of Brazil, Junio Quadros, who was sworn in at inauguration ceremonies in the new capital city of Brasilia today.

The message sent from the captive liner 55 miles off the Brazilian coast said Galvao had decided to come into Recife in view of guarantees he had received from Quadros.

There was no indication of the nature of the reported guarantees, and Quadros was not immediately available for comment.

Chimp Falls In Sea After Space Flight

flight because the time it takes one to respond to a given stimulus is seven-tenths of a second, the nearest any animal comes to the five-tenths of a second reaction time of man.

The prime purpose of today's flight was to test the space craft's ability to sustain life in airless space and to protect its pilot from heat and the shocks of landing.

Development of the space cabin is one of the most important phases of Project Mercury—a 400-million-dollar venture by the U. S. to put a man into space.

The fact that the chimp apparently was able to think clearly and perform useful functions during the 5,000-mile-an-hour flight portended well for U. S. space hopes. It was estimated that the chimp would endure four minutes of weightlessness, one of the chief bugaboos of space travel.

Today's rocket was launched at 11:55 a.m. (EST) and arched high over the Atlantic. The firing came on the third anniversary of the first successful launching of an Earth satellite.

The rocket had been scheduled to travel 115 miles up and 200 miles out over the Atlantic. NASA said higher than normal rocket thrust produced the extra speed, altitude and distance.

Auto, Driver Missing After Rupert Crash

RUPERT, Jan. 31—Officers are searching for one of the cars involved in a two-car collision at 4 a. m. Monday 25 miles east of Rupert on highway 30S. Also missing are the driver of the second car and his passenger.

State Patrolman Roy Thomas said Danny Evening, Gibbons, told him he was asleep in the back seat of a 1962 Mercury which was found damaged on the highway. The vehicle is owned by Evening, but was driven by Frank Coda, 32, Chubbuck, who with a friend evidently started walking toward Pocatello after the accident.

Damage to the Mercury was estimated at $150 and indicates the car struck the rear of another vehicle, the patrolman said. Officers followed footprints in the snow of Coda and his companion for some distance until they disappeared. The patrolman believes the two were given a ride.

Evening was unable to give any information regarding the crash.

New Leader For Brazil Is 44 Years Old

BRASILIA, Brazil, Jan. 31 (AP)—Julio Quadros, at 44 the youngest president in the history of Latin America's largest nation, was inaugurated today in this half-built wilderness capital.

A crowd estimated at more than 250,000 persons braved intermittent rain to listen to the speeches marking the official installation of the new president.

The most urgent of a number of the pressing problems confronting the new president was the case of the Portuguese liner Santa Elzabete, which had been lying off Marã, which had been lying off Marã since Saturday awaiting assurances it could enter Brazilian waters without being seized as alien property.

Quadros, who turned 44 last week, is less than six months older than President Kennedy, the youngest man ever elected to the office in the United States.

His office in the United States previously has been men in their 50's or early 60's—like Kubitzki, who is 58.

Harding Praises Kennedy's Talk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—President John F. Kennedy's state of the union message was praised by Idaho's Representative Ralph E. Harding today for its "honesty and confidence in the American people."

"It is an honest and forthright report which requires that all of us remove our rose-colored glasses and look at the situation at home and abroad as it really is," Harding said.

"The President does not hesitate to point out that the crises in foreign affairs are continuing to multiply, that our economy is in trouble, that living conditions of many Americans are still substandard, and that our education and health care leave much to be desired."

"Instead, with confidence in our ability to solve these crucial problems, the President dramatically called upon all Americans to 'put their shoulders to the wheel' and to what must be done," he said.

LOSS OF PERSPECTIVE

A suburban lad handcuffed a young adult couple, strangers to him, and held them in their home at gun point for hours. His grievance: He didn't want to return to the private school his parents had chosen for him.

A five-year-old, angered because a relative refused to take him along on a trip, carried out his threat and burned down the man's house and barn.

These are merely new examples of a not uncommon phenomenon of the times. All of us have read again and again instances in which boys of varying ages have shot and killed one or both of their parents for such minor grievances as having been criticized for not doing their homework.

For a good while it was the fashion in some expert circles to ascribe such behavior either to the tensions of a troubled age or to some dark, mysterious inner human compulsion.

Certainly every case is an individual thing and no one could in good sense automatically rule out either one of these possible causes. There are indeed twisted, tense youngsters just as there are warped adults.

But in the last year or so some students of youthful behavior have begun to suggest that in many cases the cause of shocking misdeeds may be far from deeply puzzling. They say the evidence is substantial that in countless cases the problem is simply an almost total lack of sound values.

Some youngsters, they say, resort quickly and easily to violent means for redressing even the most trivial grievances because they have never really been forcefully taught that such means are not acceptable in an orderly society living under law.

Their parents often do not enforce the most elemental disciplines. Even when they try, they frequently fail to fix in the growing child's mind the idea that violence is not an approved counterweight to any grievance, small or large.

Meantime, such children are being deluged with comic books, television programs and similar presentations which daily proclaim to them that violence is not only acceptable, but is in all too many instances the only final means of redress.

These distortions of life which flood the American living room cannot alone be blamed. For they fill an awful vacuum of values.

When a good system of values is taught from the earliest age, we can have some hope that children from five on up—expecting always the truly abnormal—will not kill their mothers and fathers because they were refused a favor or ordered to their room.

Violence is kept under control when it is kept in sane perspective.

SKILLED IN FRAUD

It would be comforting to know that we really have the Soviet Communists boxed in and perfectly stalemated. Unhappily it isn't so. Their overt aggressions are largely halted, but they continuously devise insidious new techniques of subversion.

One of the things they appear to have learned lately is that if you cannot defeat a man you can sometimes make him at least a partial captive. The case of U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold is an example.

The Russians failed in their persistent effort to unseat Hammarskjold in the U. N. But they have raised so much fuss about him that he must now bend over backwards to avoid giving the Reds ammunition for their charge that he has acted in the Congo in an un-neutral manner.

To illustrate, Rajashwar Dayal of India, the secretary general's personal representative in the Congo, is considered to be hostile to any Western influence in that area and to be opposed to the U. N.-endorsed Kasavubu government. Hammarskjold evidently feels powerless to try to correct the situation.

Implicit in all their recent Congo maneuvers is a device the Communists seem to be using with increasing effectiveness. They begin by lending some kind of illegal, subversive assistance to Red elements in a troubled land like the Congo or Laos. Naturally, Western nations respond in an effort to protect their own interests.

Wisely, however, they generally resort to the U. N. They may selfishly hope that its action coincides with their interests, but in theory at least the U. N. is thought to be the genuine protector of the smaller countries.

At this point the Kremlin jumps in and demands "neutrality" in all actions affecting the troubled area. But it is quickly discovered that neutrality to them means that all others keep hands off as they press their schemes for control or conquest.

It's a neat game. Begin with wrongdoing and then question the neutrality of all who thereafter dare oppose your misdeeds.

The wonder is that such patent frauds find receptive minds in the vulnerable Asian-African lands, and especially in India. More and more, India's alleged political sophistication begins to seem merely skin deep.

All the emerging peoples of the world will learn, if they have not already, that what Communists will do to them—if they get the chance—goes a great deal deeper than the skin.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The two vice presidential candidates in the 1960 campaign, Lyndon B. Johnson and Henry Cabot Lodge, may have been the key figures in deciding the outcome, in which President Kennedy won by only 113,000.

Vice President Johnson's role was regarded as important, perhaps decisive, because it is believed that he won over enough southern states, Texas, Louisiana, South Carolina, to give the Democrats their winning margin of 303 electoral votes.

Had they gone the other way, Nixon would have won. Johnson's pro-petroleum attitude—and Speaker Rayburn's was an important factor among oil-producing states and wealthy contributors to the Democratic treasury.

Former Ambassador Lodge's promise of the appointment of a Negro cabinet member, which he made without consulting Nixon, supplemented Johnson's efforts in the South without winning over colored votes in the North.

AGONIZING POST-MORTEM—These are the highlights of the conclusions of 34 newspaper correspondents who traveled with one or more of the candidates during the campaign, many switching from one to another of the nominees. Their comments were in reply to a detailed survey by Ludwig Caminita, Jr., a public relations counselor at Washington and a lecturer on the subject at American university here.

The correspondents also said without a dissenting opinion that "TV debates had helped Kennedy and hurt Nixon." They believed, too, that Kennedy's religion, as capitalized on by the Democrats in certain sections, was an asset rather than a liability.

Two-thirds felt that a "Catholic bloc" had been created by so many Protestant ministers' public and vocal attacks on Kennedy. They voted almost unanimously that his appearance before the Protestant ministers at Houston had gained votes for him, especially in the South.

But it was the religious appeal in electorally powerful and important Catholic areas that really elected Kennedy, in their opinion.

LIMITED ASSET—BIG NAMES—In the viewpoint of most of the correspondents, the participation of famous "name" personalities does not sway many votes one way or another. A departed-or-departing president is an attraction rather than a political asset.

Most felt that former President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson helped "very little." Half thought that former President Truman was of some assistance, but an equal number considered him an unimportant figure.

Governor Rockefeller received about the same rating. Three correspondents thought that both Truman and Rockefeller had lost votes for their respective favorites, especially in the South.

THAT UNANSWERED QUESTION—Although a majority of the correspondents personally favored President Kennedy, they felt that with only a few noticeable exceptions, mostly certain columnists, the reporting was unbiased. Kennedy simply generated more news and crowd response, in their opinion. His press staff also was more cooperative than Nixon's.

Nixon is reported to have said that the reporters' preference for Kennedy, and their more favorable treatment of him, was responsible for the President's extremely narrow margin in the popular vote.

The correspondents generally agreed that Nixon, "who had scored an outstanding triumph with the press in 1958, had lost his touch with the news corps." One writer replied:

"Almost all the work Nixon had done to cultivate a favorable press attitude toward himself seemed to evaporate as the campaign went on. Why, I do not know."

CHANGE OF HEART—Of 13 correspondents who changed previously held opinions of Kennedy, 12 changed favorably, one unfavorably. Of 10 correspondents who shifted on Nixon, nine turned against him, one for him.

Four of five changed favorably toward Johnson, one unfavorably. It was exactly the reverse for Lodge—four to unfavorable, one to favorable. Few thought that the Bay state added much strength to the Republican ticket.

VIEW OF OTHERS

LEWISTON PRESENTS AN EXAMPLE

So they say that when you buy government "aid," you don't necessarily forfeit control over the agency which receives that "aid."

Well, let's look at what's happening in the Lewiston public schools.

Some time ago the Lewiston school board decided to hire some instructors to do part-time guidance work in the junior high schools.

But it reckoned without the state department of education.

That department now rules that only three of the five teachers which the school board hired for work in this special field can pass muster. They have some college credentials in the field of guidance. The other two are disqualified by the state department's ruling, although both of them have been in the Lewiston school system for more than five years and one of them holds a master's degree.

They just haven't taken the college courses that the department deems necessary for the job.

And the department speaks with considerable authority because it holds the purse strings. It disburses state school funds—to which the Lewiston district's taxpayers of course have made substantial contribution—and paid their full share—and the department isn't about to lay out any of this money to pay any guidance instructors whom it deems unqualified.

The Lewiston school board estimated that under this ruling "several thousand dollars" would be withheld from the Lewiston district.

So it's protesting this ruling—with results yet to be determined, but pretty certain to be awaited with considerable general interest.

The Lewiston board quarrels with the state department of education about the standards the department has set for qualification for participation in the department's distribution of state school funds. It says the state's standards have been set so high that it is impossible to attract qualified teachers, and that earlier plans for expanding the guidance programs in the junior high schools have been dropped because qualified persons could not be obtained.

Further, it says, state requirements may make it impossible next year to continue special education classes for handicapped children, since none of the present teachers can qualify.

Whatever of reason there may be for these state-imposed high standards, it's evident that they bring about a situation in which there can be a choice between only the best and nothing at all.

It stands to reason that no governmental agency is going to lay out funds with which it's entrusted for any purposes that don't meet with its approval. It inevitably follows that such an agency has the last word and moves in to make its ukase effective. It there's any exception to this rule, it's one that hasn't yet been brought to light.

We've been widely admonished that forewarned is forearmed.—Boise Statesman.

POT SHOTS

WHITE AS SNOW

Dear Pot:

During the hue and cry about the water in the past, when you first opened a tap in the morning, the water came out early in many colors and blends.

This morning as I started to make my half barrel of coffee, the water ran into this tub almost pure white. I was puzzled and wondered what solution the department was using now.

Then I happened to think. I'll bet it is that snow water from Rock creek.

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—"Every one with compassion in his heart would like to see better employment prospects," says the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S. in a business news feature just issued here.

Not even left wing labor leaders can take exception to that. But the U.S. Chamber makes this declaration in a letter to a couple of other statements that are apt to be chafing to the Kennedy administration.

"Unemployment is concentrated among the young, the unskilled and the minority races," says the chamber after its analysis of government figures. The chamber therefore argues:

"If these young people, these unskilled workers and these nonwhite workers cannot find now enough jobs under existing wage rates, it is likely that they will find jobs under even higher rates?"

"There is nothing humane," the national chamber then concludes, "in raising the minimum wage (from $1 to $1.15 or $1.25 an hour) and pricing people out of jobs."

Those are not going to be the policies of the Kennedy administration. With about 5.5 million Americans out of work now, with only 3.3 million of them eligible for state unemployment compensation and with the prospect that unemployment may rise to 7.5 million, the new administration apparently intends to try to correct the trend.

"Everyone with a compassionate heart," to use the U. S. Chamber of Commerce phrase, may have reason to hope it succeeds.

GOP Women Draw Praises On Campaign

"The Women's club is the educational arm of the central committee," stated Mrs. H. R. Bevington, representing the State Federation of GOP Women, during a meeting of the Republican women Monday.

Mrs. Bevington congratulated the women on their intensive help in the past campaign and reminded them that in 21 months Idaho people will elect two congressmen and the governor.

Mrs. Lawrence Van Riper was appointed to organize material that has been collected during the year for a scrapbook. D. E. Detweiler, Ivan Epperson and Lawrence Van Riper were appointed to the nominating committee. Mrs. Warren Kays and Mrs. Russell Howell were named to revise the by-laws.

It was announced that the governor of New Mexico will be featured speaker at the annual Lincoln day banquet, Feb. 13, at Hotel Boise, Boise, Gov. Robert E. Smylie will speak at the Lincoln day luncheon, also in Hotel Boise. Those planning to attend may obtain tickets from Guy Simmons or Mrs. Ivan Epperson.

The group voted to write a letter to James Seelye, supporting his efforts on the highway question and house bill 61.

Trading stamps were discussed and the group decided that if the stamps are discontinued the merchant should pass the saving on to the consumer.

Mrs. D. E. Detweiler thanked the women for their help in the Jerome area and talked on voting statistics in Jerome county.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Donald Solt.

Cattle Disease Is Speaker's Topic

Use of Youthful Diplomats Draws McLemore's Praises

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME, Italy—Cuba's new ambassador to the Court of St. James in London, aged 22, heralds a new era in diplomacy.

England is reported to be ready to groom a man to be their man in Havana, and is waiting until the youngster learns to ride a bicycle more steadily before shipping him off.

France is said to be grooming a 9-year-old for Washington. His McLemore has been taken away from noops have been taken away from him, as have been his skates, and in the moment he learns to sleep in a dark room without being afraid he will be off to present his credentials to President Kennedy.

West Germany has had Otto Fritz, aged 2, ready for Italy for six months, but no one can get his teddy bear away from him.

No sensible man can reasonably deny the value of children and infants as diplomats. The saving in money alone makes it worth while.

Instead of being out of pocket at the end of a year, a child ambassador will be ahead. Entertaining will cost but a trifle. The diplomatic corps will ask nothing more than lots of ice cream and cake and room enough in which to play hide and seek, drop the handkerchief, London bridge is falling down, and in the case of the older diplomats, soccer and touch football.

There will be a great saving in courier costs, too. No tireless young man will have to fly the oceans bearing sealed pouches. All the papers the youthful diplomats will want will be the comic section of their hometown papers, and these can be shipped by regular air mail.

Consider the case of Cuba's new ambassador to England. At 22 he is said to have shaved only three times a week, thus making him much more available, especially in the late afternoon when older diplomats are bothered by five o'clock shadow and have to sneak away for a bout with the razor.

There will be fights and quarrels among the baby diplomats, of course, but they will soon be smoothed out. If the Peruvian ambassador gets a mad on with the Chilean emissary, a joint ride on an elevator, or a trip to the toy store, will have everything as fine as silk in a few minutes.

There will be times, I suppose, when the various heads of state will have to personally intervene to get the American ambassador to give back a football to the English ambassador, and to warn the Indian ambassador against pushing the Egyptian one off his truck.

But most heads of state are fathers and will know how to deal diplomatically with such crises. A threat of sending the ambassadors to bed without supper will soon have things humming along.

Advice Given On Care for Sick Animals

When an animal appears sick isolate it from other animals and call a veterinarian, Dr. Lloyd H. Serivner, University of Idaho veterinarian, advises.

Several of Dr. Serivner's suggestions were announced Monday by Warren Daugh, Twin Falls county agent.

In any infectious disease, there is a lapse of time between the entry of the germ into the body and development of symptoms. This incubation period varies with different diseases. In some it takes only hours while others take weeks or months.

Early symptoms of several diseases are similar. Considerable professional knowledge is necessary to separate them. In all infectious diseases the causative agent is multiplying in the animal's body during incubation.

There are effective vaccines and specific treatments for some diseases if they are used early. It is advisable to call a veterinarian be called early to diagnose the disease and make a laboratory examination if it is required.

Burley Lions Hold Charter Night Events

BURLEY, Jan. 31—Of the last 25 past presidents of the Burley Lions club, 21 are still active members in the club," stated Truman Bradley, president, in welcoming 160 to the 23rd charter night celebration Saturday night at the Elks hall.

Receiving them were Harvey Rogers, Les Morgan, Kales Lowe, Erle Robertson, Lloyd Douglas, Jess Parsons, Olin Baker, Garth Payne, Austin Wallace, Dr. James Kircher, Ed Frank, Fred Allen, Jack Holland, Alton Martindale, Newel Nelson and Herman Bedke.

Two charter members were honored, Robert Detmers and Willard Patterson.

Stanley B. Kelm, district governor, Nampa, congratulated the club on its size, activities and quality. He told of the world-wide program of the International organization and its goals.

Rulon Budge was master of ceremonies. The program included group singing led by Alfred Thaxton, accompanied by Mrs. Gall Wolf; selections by a trumpet trio, Bob Bray, Joe Morgan and Boyd Earl; numbers by the school faculty mixed quartet, Mrs. Otis Williams, Maurine Andrus, Ronald Archibald and Budge, and selections by the "Glenwood Three," a combo band composed of Stan Turner, Lanny Turner and Deon Hodge, Magic Valley Christian college, Aljohn.

Past presidents were in charge of arrangements for the charter night and Newell Nelson was chairman. All guests were introduced. Clubs were represented from Murtaugh, Malta, Rupert, Twin Falls, Jerome, Boise and Nampa.

Following dinner the remainder of the evening was spent dancing to the music of Arion Bastian's orchestra.

160 Valley Children Get Help Of Heart Unit, State Agency

More than 160 children in Magic Valley are receiving medical aid through the combined efforts of the Idaho Heart association and the state department of health, reports Mrs. Warren Tegan, Filer, Heart association secretary.

The two agencies split the cost of supplying vital drugs to 1,013 young persons receiving aid in Idaho, advised Dr. Elmer M. Wright, Twin Falls, chairman of the rheumatic fever committee for the heart association.

Major portion of the total aid is used to supply daily doses of penicillin to afflicted children, Dr. Wright stated. Penicillin is recognized as being 99 per cent effective in preventing a recurrence of rheumatic fever and ensuing complications including permanent heart damage, he informed.

Once a child contracts rheumatic fever it is recommended he receive either daily doses of penicillin or a monthly penicillin injection, Dr. Wright explained.

The treatment is continued indefinitely, he added. He cited an example of a 6-year-old child who contracted the disease. "This individual should continue taking penicillin until he is at least 30 years old," Dr. Wright said.

The penicillin taken in tablet form costs on the average about $5 per month per child, he noted.

The aid program, started five years ago in Idaho, is growing at the rate of 150 new cases each year. The program cost the state department of health and the heart association a total of $10,000 during 1960, he added.

The figure represents administration, packaging and mailing costs plus cost for medicines.

Rheumatic fever most often occurs following a strep throat infection, the doctor said. It produces inflammation of the heart or brain and occasionally strikes the joints. The immediate fatality rate is low but residual heart damage and other long range effects make it a crippling disease, he warned.

The disease strikes most often between the ages of 4 and 6 years, Dr. Wright stated. It then declines with few cases occurring in persons 18 years old or over.

Receiving aid in Magic Valley counties are Blaine, 9; Camas, 1; Cassia, 24; Gooding, 13; Jerome, 10; Lincoln, 4; Minidoka, 39, and Twin Falls, 64.

Reconsideration Of Bill Is Urged

Twin Falls Typographical union, local 241, sent a telegram to Rep. Fred Walton, D., Camas, Monday urging he ask for another vote on a bill requiring overtime pay for women working more than eight hours daily, or 40 hours a week.

The bill was defeated, 27-23, last week when brought to a vote in the Idaho house of representatives. Walton, however, served notice on the house he was considering asking for another vote.

Jack Swisher, chairman of the union's legislative committee, said Monday his group supported the measure because it would broaden employment for women throughout Idaho.

"Rather than pay overtime," Swisher said, "an employer will hire extra help."

Gracia Perrault And Garner Wed In Heyburn Rite

HEYBURN, Jan. 31 — Gracia Perrault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baird, exchanged marriage vows with Dallas Garner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Garner, Rupert, at 7 p.m. Jan. 24, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Baird in the presence of 60 relatives and friends.

The single ring ceremony was performed by Bishop Ralph McCombs before an arch of mixed flowers and greenery flanked by vases of red roses.

The bride, escorted by her father, was attired in a white tulle gown fashioned with a fitted bodice adorned with lace medallions. The gown featured a boat shaped neckline trimmed with pearls and three-quarter length sleeves. The full flared skirt was complemented by a lace peplum at the elongated waistline.

Her white illusion net fingertip veil fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of baby red roses and white feathered carnations tied with long red satin streamers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Baird chose a pink linen sheath afternoon dress while Mrs. Garner wore a sheath gown of blue floral crepe. Feathered red and white carnations formed their corsages.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple was honored with a reception at the home.

Betty Garner, sister of the bridegroom, registered the guests and Virginia Wilcox was in charge of the gifts.

Harlow Cheney was master of ceremonies for the program. Mrs. Harlow Cheney presented a reading; Laura Wilcox and Patty Kerbs, piano solos; Robert Baird sang and accompanied himself on the guitar, and Virginia Wilcox and Katherine Wilcox sang, accompanied by Laura Wilcox.

The three-tiered wedding cake on the bride's lace covered table was topped by the traditional bridal pair and was decorated with pink and white roses.

The cake was served by Laura Wilcox, Marian Baird, Virginia Wilcox and Eunice Wilcox. They attended Minico high school and plan to make their home in Rupert.

Care of Your Children
By ANGELO PATRI

Truly the grass looks greener on the other side of the fence. Here we are with some people looking enviously at the Russian schools. I can't share their feeling for a second. There are things in our schools that can be improved and they will be, some day. The beginner's classes should have the ablest teacher obtainable — never, never the beginning teacher. Junior high schools should be overhauled and provision made for experiences with work. There are signs that this is coming.

A young man told me about his experience. He was drafted along with the rest for the war. One day somebody learned that he could weld. He was sent for and the officer said, "Can you do welding?"

"Yes sir."

"Where did you learn?"

"Our teacher organized a group of us and after school we went to a garage and worked on the wrecked cars he managed to bring there for us."

"Not in a school then?"

"No sir. Not in the school."

"Well, report to the shop over there. Show what you can do."

"After that I welded. I surely did. But I was glad I could help when my help was needed. I don't weld for my living. I'm an insurance lawyer but what I wanted to tell you is that you're dead right about boys and girls in junior high school having work learning. I'm looking for that for mine but the school says no."

The American teacher who, denied the activity he knew his students needed, denied the opportunity to share to a degree in the interests of the adult world, which they longed for, went outside the school to provide them. He had no idea of making his students into welders, or machinists. He did have the idea of helping them to learn how to work, how to do a job to a standard, how to be useful to themselves and others in a workaday world.

Although this particular school, and many others, was unable to provide opportunities for these young searchers for life experiences, somehow they managed to get them through the school. Somehow the product of the American schools rose to an emergency with intelligence and ability. They used what they knew and they improvised when they lacked material and experience.

That is where the Russians are inferior to our young men and women. They must wait on orders from on high, never acting on their own. That can be most inconvenient at the moment of emergency.

That does not say we should be content with the schools as they are. We can and we must make them more serviceable to our youth and childhood learners. Not to follow the pattern of others but to cut the pattern that suits our students. Who wants to be Russian? In any aspect?

Ohio State Retains No. 1 National Rating; Battle Looms Over Second Place

Ohio State continues to be an unanimous choice as the No. 1 college basketball team in the country, but a brisk battle has developed between St. Bonaventure and Bradley for the runner-up spot in the Associated Press poll. The cross-country panel gave the unbeaten Buckeyes all its 36 votes Monday for the seventh straight week.

Two Men Eye Little 6 Free Throw Marks

Although the overall free throw shooting in the Little Six conference is at its lowest peak in several seasons, the individual records appear in for a rewriting as the conference looks forward to the second half of the season. Paul Miles, Wendell, and Rick Mabbutt, Shoshone, the one-two scorers in the league, are zeroing in on the marks set last season by Gary Reagan, Kimberly.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY
The proposal before the state Intercollegiate Activities association to sponsor a new and larger classification state tournament is something we like.

Such a plan would put crimps here and there on the current district arrangement for district playoffs and other things. However, more teams would have a better shot at state honors, and that seems to be more than offset by disadvantages.

At present, schools with enrollments from 300 on up battle it out for state honors. Under the proposal, a new classification would start with 1,000 enrollment.

The growth of some schools against the static condition of others already has put conference alignments out of shape. If there are inequities in battling for conference honors, then the same overbalances can be found in tournaments.

The association reported Sunday that there are nine schools in the state with enrollments reaching more than 1,000 in the top four grades. In this district, Twin Falls and Minico fall under that heading. Burley is closing in rapidly.

Where this would hurt is at the gate in the district meet. Taking Twin Falls and Minico out of the district playoff would shorten the length of the meet and also the gate. Each school depends rather heavily on that share of tournament receipts.

It would appear this would hurt the other schools more than Twin Falls and Minico. To decide which would go to the state tourney as fourth district champion, the two could play a best of three series. A three-night stand between the two should pay them more than the one-eighth share of the current tournament.

Here again the smaller schools come out on the short end of the stick. And, again, these are the schools that can least afford a cut in athletic budgets.

But the point is, perhaps one of the district schools would have a team that could take a state title in the 300 to 999 enrollment class but couldn't win against someone like Idaho Falls or Pocatello. The same could go the other way. Looking back over the past 10 years, Idaho Falls has won the championship four times and Pocatello twice. Kellogg has made it twice and Snake River and Nampa once. It would appear the big schools have the edge.

In fact, since 1917, fourth district teams have won state laurels only three times, Burley twice and Oakley once, as we have heard it.

There are many ramifications. It would mean readjustments necessary in every district and some schools would lose financially. But the change of splitting class B schools into A and A classifications has been a good move and this one could be, too. How it affects the budget of each school, though, will govern the voting.

The state body almost put the plan into effect this year and would have except for the votes of Twin Falls and Minico. Both fourth district schools voted against it and it was defeated 17-16.

However, they sponsored the motion that set up the committee to study it and come to a conclusion. The measure is said to have the support of the Boise schools, along with most of the SIO teams.

One bugaboo was that only Caldwell of the Southern Idaho league would not come under the new provision since its enrollment is in the 900's. There was discussion at the delegate assembly to make it 1,000 and Caldwell or lower the limit to include Caldwell. If the 1,000 minimum were lowered, then Emmett, Burley and Blackfoot also would be close to qualifying.

A release from Lubbock Christian college, Lubbock, Tex., shows Larry Rogers, former Twin Falls basketball star, is rolling right along as the big gun for the school. Now a sophomore, Rogers is hitting an average of 18.8 points a game and leading Lubbock to its best basketball season in the school's four-year history. Lubbock was 11-1 in mid-term break but is leading the Western junior college conference with a 23-7 record.

Rogers is hitting 47 per cent of his free throws and 70.1 of his free throws. His highest game was 20 points against Abilene Christian college freshman and he has been over 20 points in seven other games.

A 6-0, 3-inch center, Rogers was drafted by the Milwaukee Braves.

Game Birds Are Enjoying Mild Winter

BOISE, Jan. 31—Idaho's teeming pheasant populations across southern and eastern counties are enjoying a winter so moderate that an adequate snow cover is not available as of last week to assist the annual sex ratio counts. These game birds, the fish and game department reported today.

Director Ross Leonard says that snow concentrates pheasants along plowed-out roads, causing some observers to think they are starved and looking for food.

"Actually the ringnecks are picking up grit under such conditions, small gravel exposed by the snow plow. Against the white background flocks of the birds stand out with fluffed-out plumage to insulate them against cold, and appear to be in dire straits to the untrained observer."

Laboratory and field experiments have shown that the ring-neck pheasant is well equipped to fend for himself, requiring little if any supplemental feeding. Extensive, well-designed winter feeding programs are justifiable only during prolonged periods of deep-crusting snow, severe ice storms and extremely low temperatures.

In other words, Idaho's game birds and animals appear to have it made" because of the moderate winter to date, according to Leonard.

The department, however, does maintain continuous checks on the physical condition of the various species of wild birds and animals during the critical winter period.

Richards Feels His Club Can Cop Pennant

By PAUL RICHARDS (Baltimore Manager)
WAXAHACHIE, Tex., Jan. 31 (AP)—The Orioles will be contenders right from opening day this season. Last year I wasn't so sure how fast some of our rookies and other young players would develop.

As it turned out, they helped carry us to second place, and with a couple of breaks we could have given the Yankees trouble right down to the final day.

The way it looks now, our biggest improvement will be in the catching department. That's because Gus Triandos is healthy again and when he's right he gives us the long ball we need. Gus was out for two months last year following an operation on his hand and he wasn't the same good hitter when he returned. In fact, he had only 12 homeruns compared with 25 the year before.

I think we helped ourselves in the outfield by getting Russ Snyder and Whitey Herzog from Kansas City and Earl Robinson from the Dodgers. Snyder has real good potential and is a strong lefty hitter, something we lacked after losing Gene Woodling to Washington this winter.

Our infield is strong with Jim Gentile at first, Marv Breeding at second, Ron Hansen at short and Brooks Robinson at third.

All except Robinson were rookies in 1960. Hansen slumped in the second half of last year, but I expect him to keep up a steady hitting pace all season in 1961. Also, we have a couple of good infielders from the minors, Ray Barker and Jerry Adair. Adair could make a fine utility man.

I have no pitching worries either. Chuck Estrada, Steve Barber, Milt Pappas and Jack Fisher, who almost took us all the way in 1960, will be back, and with another year's experience under their belts should do even better. Jerry Walker had a poor year, winning only three games, but he has the equipment to improve tremendously.

Our older pitchers, Hoyt Wilhelm and Skinny Brown, can win if given proper rest.

There's been a lot said about the so-called sophomore jinx. In my opinion, it's nothing more than complacency and I aim to make sure that our rookies of last year don't get complacent.

New York, Chicago and Cleveland look like the rest of the other contenders. The Orioles will be right up there with them all the way, and with a little luck we might just take it all.

Method for Determining State Hoop Championships Outlined

Idaho prep basketball teams, now competing primarily for conference titles, will aim soon at tickets which will admit them to the tournaments which will determine the three 1961 state champions. Winners will be crowned among the big triple-A schools in a tournament in Boise; among the class AA schools—in a meet in Jerome, and among the small class A schools in a tourney at Lewiston.

Pirates Are Honored As "Team of Year"

For team of the year of 1960 it's the Pittsburgh Pirates, two to one—and more. The underdog team that won the National League pennant and then conquered the power-hitting Yankees in as thrilling a world series as you'll see in a good many years was the overwhelming choice of the sports writers and broadcasters taking part in the annual Associated Press poll.

Ticonderoga Has Lead in Race

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—Ticonderoga, holder of many ocean records, jumped to a one-mile lead Monday after the first 10 miles of the 23rd annual Miami-Nassau sailing race. Forty-three boats are entered.

The 72-foot ketch, scratch boat in the 184-mile handicap race found the choppy seas and 18-mile winds to its liking as it grabbed a wide lead over E. S. Richardson's Good Hope and Meridian, owned by L. H. Read.

The boats are expected to reach Nassau by late Tuesday. They will sail from Government Cut at Miami to Great Inland Light, 55 miles northeast, then due east to Great Stirrup Cay, then southeast to Nassau harbor.

The weather conspired against the Swedish heavyweight, too. Rain washed out his scheduled road work. Instead, Johansson trained with weights and announced he would rest Tuesday.

Spartan partner Joe Laquatra had a cut over one eye and facial bruises to show for his workouts with the former champion. Tony Expert had a black eye and bruised nose. Both men said they were hurt by Johansson's left.

Johansson Gives Partners Day Off

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 31 (AP)—Ingemar Johansson contented himself Monday with punching the bag instead of his sparring partners who complained they were too bruised to box.
