Washington also was a writer about his fellow man—slave or free—but ran a happy plantation at Mount Vernon, with 500 or more slaves.

Interstate Routes Changed Only in 'Public Interest'

BY ELMER W. LAMMI
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — A spokesman for the U. S. bureau of public roads said today that routes selected for interstate highways would be changed only when "public interest" and requested by the state concerned.

Robert Monahan, special assistant to the deputy commissioner of highways, said locations were decided upon only after long study in cooperation with state highway departments.

"Generally, we would not agree to a change unless another location could be shown to be more in the public interest," Monahan said. "Primarily, however, it's a matter between the state and the local people."

One of the key factors that would be taken into consideration in any move to relocate an interstate highway would be the cost involved, Monahan said.

"Where two or more locations are feasible and would serve highway users equally well, we feel relocation would be a matter to be settled on a local level," he said. "But if another route would cost more, that would be another matter."

Bureau officials said they were not familiar with a court appeal made in Idaho against the routing in Interstate 80 north of Twin Falls in Magic Valley.

However, one official said the route finally selected by federal and state officials was one of three considered. Engineers said one of the rejected routes would have cost highway users alone $68,200 a year more than the selected route. This figure, he said, was based on an estimate of the number of vehicles using a longer route and did not include higher construction costs.

Bureau officials said they could not recall that court action against the routing of interstate highways had ever been successful, although Coupled with the house action on the $3-million-dollar school appropriation was announced by the senate education committee that it had decided to submit to the senate three proposed formulas for distributing the money to the school districts. The committee said the decision then will be up to the senate.

2 Astronauts Ready to Make Space Flight Now

CAPE CANAVERAL, Feb. 22 (AP) — Two of the three astronauts selected as finalists to ride America's first manned rocket said today they would be willing to go up on the next Project Mercury shot without further tests.

"The third finalist was not here for a news conference this morning. 'Yes, I sure would like to ride it,' said navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard, Jr. Marine Lieut. Colonel John H. Glenn, Jr., echoed his sentiments with a firm "absolutely."

Glenn and Shepard were chosen along with air force Capt. Virgil Grissom to begin training for a flight in a space capsule aboard the Redstone shot, possibly by April. But it was not certain today whether there will be other unmanned Redstone tests between now and then. Glenn and Shepard were all smiles.

2 Farm Units Back Plan to Cut Surpluses

Grange, said the administration proposal would stop the buildup in feed grain surpluses without reducing farm income.
Battles said the bill would reverse the Eisenhower administration theory of reducing support prices and loosening production controls.
"If successful, it would reverse the present trend of producing more and more for less and less and constantly adding to the surplus," he said.
Shuman attacked the proposal to raise price supports for feed grains and said it would result in farmers' increasing per-acre production on the land which remains in feed grains. He also attacked Freeman's companion proposal to raise support prices for soybeans as a "most unwise move."
In place of the administration plan, Shuman urged adoption of a Farm Bureau program under which farmers would be required to rent part of their acreage of surplus grains and oilseed crops to the government to qualify for price supports. The supports under this program would remain at present levels for most crops but would be sharply reduced for wheat.

Approximately 50 persons from throughout Twin Falls county visited the Union Pacific agriculture improvement car during its stop in Twin Falls Tuesday.
The morning session was devoted to discussions on control of livestock insects, including scabies and blue tongues. Dr. A. P. Schneider, federal-state veterinarian, was featured speaker at the morning session at which Donald Youtz, county extension agent, presided.
Also during the morning session, Roland Portman, University of Idaho extension entomologist, spoke on the control of flies, the biggest dairy problem. He also spoke on lice, the second biggest dairy problem, and cattle grubs.
Portman discussed alfalfa weavils and pea aphids during the afternoon session. He told the group two insecticides to use on alfalfa before it grows more than eight inches. Both insecticides are to be used in the early spring, he noted.
Portman also reported on two methods of applying an insecticide, axystox, to alfalfa to prevent pea aphids. This insecticide should be applied in the early spring until the alfalfa is 10 or 12 inches tall, Portman said.
Kenneth Gibson and Walter Peay, local entomologists, spoke during the day on the threat of the Mexican bean beetle.
Keith Evans, federal entomologist, told the group that if they find an unusual insect they should report it to the county agent's office for identification.
C. Warren Daigh, Twin Falls county agent, who presided during the afternoon session, told the group that they should utilize days with weather such as Tuesday's to spray anything that needs spraying.
The purpose of the Union Pacific agriculture improvement car, according to Boyd Baxter, Union Pacific agriculture agent, Pocatello, is to impart up-to-date information on current livestock and crop pests.
Also discussed during the two sessions Tuesday was what insecticides can be used to meet the pure food and drug act, Baxter noted.
He added that the Twin Falls stop was successful from all points of view and that a cross section of persons with agricultural interests from the county attended the meeting.
The car will make 12 stops in southern Idaho, according to Baxter. The first stop was at Gooding, Monday. At each stop, he noted, the county agent is in charge of arrangements for the visit.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Almost every important administration legislative proposal is endangered by the increasingly bitter clash between the city-consumer and the farm-producer factions on Capitol Hill. In an unprecedented manner, it crosses party lines and ideologies.

The rural representatives of the Middle West and South complain that the Kennedy administration is a "city-fellers" regime. Almost every one of the President's major appointments, they maintain, represents municipal interests and constituents. "They are especially worried over the number of academic figures in his official entourage.

Almost every measure proposed by the White House, they insist, is designed to provide financial assistance to metropolitan areas. They also note that no agriculture program for solving or alleviating their problems has yet been submitted to congress.

RURAL RESENTMENTS—The farm bloc, which has dominated congress to its own advantage for many years, does not seem to recognize that President Kennedy's immediate concern with relief for industrial areas is necessary and inevitable. He has promised to produce a farm program later in the session.

For the moment, however, it is the large and small cities, as well as their booming suburbs—booming in population but not in prosperity—where the recession has had its severest impact, creating, as Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg reported after his recent 2,300-mile survey, the worst hardships.

The rural resentment is not confined only to the Middle West, which generally voted Republican and where the inspiration for revolt might be set down as political. It extends through the South, and in scattered areas of several industrial states in the Northeast.

FEAR OF LABOR'S POWER—Almost every administration measure, the farm bloc contends, will increase their taxes and the costs of things they buy without adding a cent to their income.

In this category they list proposals to increase the minimum hourly wage, to extend the period of unemployment compensation, to aid depressed areas, to inaugurate a medical health plan tied to social security, and the expansion of public works and foreign aid. These form the spear point of President Kennedy's attack on the recession.

The farm group is particularly upset over the fact that, in its opinion, organized labor will enjoy too great an influence in an administration which it helped to elect, and which most farm states opposed. It is the agricultural areas which generally favor "right-to-work" laws, and which the unions expect President Kennedy to try to outlaw through amendment to the Taft-Hartley act.

OPPOSITION RUNS DEEP—Right now the rural faction is directing its fire against the minimum wage bill. "The house education and labor committee, headed by Rep. Adam C. Powell, Harlan, has given priority to this measure. It started hearings on it several days ago.

Homer L. Brinkley, executive vice president of the National Council of Farmers' cooperatives, explains why his organization opposes this bill and similar plans to solve municipal ills:

"We were in the forefront in agriculture's successful opposition to efforts to raise the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour last year. Extending coverage to retail and service workers in rural areas will bring about penetration of the rural economy by more administered pricing, with higher cash costs as an added burden to farmers.

"Until farmers are organized so that they can control marketing of their products and pass on additional costs, as other businesses do, they must continue to absorb the continuing inflation generated in our industrial and commercial centers."

REAL FINE IDEA

Pot Shots:
I didn't think much of it when someone suggested filing traffic violators in trading stamps, but the more I think about it, the more I like the idea.

In these days of inflation, money doesn't appear to mean anything to people. Easy come, easy go. But those trading stamps, time and effort in paying them in books. That's hitting people where it will hurt most.

If I may be permitted to pun, I think it's a real fine idea!

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

SEATTLE — When Dave Beck left me after a visit of two hours in the Olympic hotel, I had strewn on the bed and on top of the TV, the gist of a great American success story.

There were reproductions of orders on his brokers for a total of $308,409. There was a list of amounts he said he had paid in federal income taxes for the years from 1947 through 1956. This total was $322,587.

As we chatted, the man who had been emperor of Westbrook Pegler the Northwest and California ratted out his amazing current income. Not boastfully but with obvious satisfaction.

He is now receiving $1,900 a month rent from one business building in Seattle and from K and L Distributors, a beverage company. Like most Seattle firms, K and L is at the mercy of the Teamsters union. His son, Dave, Jr., also under conviction and sentence for following in his old man's footsteps, was one of the owners of K and L. By big Dave's influence, K and L became regional distributor of a famous brand of beer.

"Big Dave has four downtown Seattle parking lots grinding for him. They pay him $3,000 a month. Another patch occupied by Travel Lodge, a motel, brings him $1,250 a month. About 46 years hence, the land will revert to his estate.

He owns a quarter of the land under the Tropics motel.

He gets $50,000 a year as president emeritus of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

He trilled off in his piping voice four other real estate rentals at $1,000, $810, $480 and $150 a month. Although he is deposed and Jimmy Hoffa is the upstart who bumped him, Beck revealed no malice toward anyone. He expressed contempt for the Kennedy brothers. Jack, now president of the USA, and his brother, Bobby, the attorney general, and for Dave Dubinsky, the perpetual president of the Garment Workers union and a henchman of Eleanor Roosevelt in politics both at home and overseas.

Socialists make Dave's flesh crawl. He is a personal capitalist. Actually, the Kennedys burned up practically nothing on him. The internal revenue—yes. And the Kennedys took the glory.

His story was notorious before the Kennedys ever crashed into the scene which made Jack president and Bobby attorney general by Jack's appointment.

Old Clare Hoffman, a Republican Michigan congressman, exposed both Beck and Hoffa long before the Kennedys were publicly known. And Beck laughed, mocking me, at disclosures that I wrote long ago.

He was a regent of the state university, a member of the Seattle civil service commission and, for two and one-half years, a member of the state board of parole. He made governors and senators. Chief Justice Earl Warren, a political switch-hitter in California politics, owed his terms as governor to Beck as much as to any other individual. Warren was a sort of Republican. Beck was the same sort.

Sen. and Gov. Mon Walgren, Washington, a great "liberal" was one of Beck's men. I asked Beck "Was Mon ever a bootlegger?"

"No," Dave said. "Never a bootlegger. But a pool shark. He was a hell of a man with a pool cue in his early days. A hell of a craps shooter, too. He is down in Palm Springs. Now, he can take it easy from here in."

Sam Angloff, of the Post-Intelligencer, the regional political pundit, said that when Mon was governor he had a fine pool table installed in the executive mansion in Olympia. It was a fine craps table, too.

Angloff had told me that for months he had parked his car on a convenient unoccupied lot near the PT plant. By chance, being an expert in tracing real estate titles, he learned that this patch was Beck's, and taunted Dave one day with thanks for the free parking space. Beck, in that bosom's whistle pipe of his, cried out, "It's account of guys like you a guy like me can't make a living these days. Lookit all the quarters you've been cheating me out of."

A few days later the lot was in business with the usual white stripes on a blacktop pavement and bevelled curbs and a little booth for a collector. Angloff said that thereafter he had often seen Beck sitting on a wooden crate penalively counting quarters, dimes and nickels into a cloth sack.

James D. Burns, the assistant prosecuting attorney, recalled that someone then had caused conventional police department signs on posts to be spotted at curbs around Dave's lot, reading: "No parking at any time."

Angloff mentioned this to police headquarters and the signs disappeared. They were not police signs. Nobody I met quite knew who put them up near Dave Beck's lot. Dave denies all.

When Dave ascended old Dan Tobin's throne on Dan's demise in 1952, Dave moved 8 million dollars from Washington to Seattle. He linked the Seattle First National bank and gave it a big piece of his pie. He also sold the bank a patch of land for future expansion of its works.

There was one paper in that sheaf he left with me which seemed most important of all to him. It was a photostat of a check from the treasurer of the United States, dated Aug. 21, 1959: "Pay $34,652.52 to the order of Dave Beck, 16749 Shore drive, Seattle, Wash.," with the words "tax refund" in little letters at the left below.

AFL-CIO Will Spur Building

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP)—The AFL-CIO has announced that its unions are preparing to spur home construction by shifting one billion dollars or more union assets out of stocks and bonds into middle income home mortgages.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said plans under way for a year are now about to be put into effect. The federation's established its own investment department to channel union treasury, pension and welfare funds into government-insured home mortgages.

Meany said the move has a three-fold aim, to put money into a safe and useful field that will draw better interest than government bonds, to bring down home costs, and to encourage construction and thus the entire economy.

Utah's House Kills Ban on Trade Stamp

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Utah house of representatives yesterday—scuttling a bill to ban trading stamps and passing a bill for legislative reapportionment.

The vote on the trading stamp measure was 21 in favor, 47 against and one absent.

The reapportionment bill would increase house membership from 64 to 66 by adding two representatives to Davis county but would retain current senate membership at 25. The vote was 36 to 22.

A bill to allow cigarettes and tobacco to be sold to 18-year-olds was killed by a vote of 11 to 14 in the senate which also resurrected a bill to remove the 3.2 alcohol content label from beer and sent it to the house by a vote of 14 to 9.

MAN WHO CAST MOULD

George Washington could have had anything he wanted at the end of the Revolutionary war, up to and including the title of king. Such was the esteem and veneration in which he was held by Americans.

Even as duly elected president, Washington could easily have usurped great powers and set the United States on a course directly opposite from that which it has taken. He might well have continued in office until his death and set a pattern of self-perpetuation for his successors.

With a bad first president as a model, it is conceivable that future administration change-overs might have become the palace revolution type so familiar in many countries. We now have a constitutional amendment limiting presidents to two terms. Many feel it is unnecessary and even unwise. But had Washington not established this tradition, as well as the tradition of devotion to self-government under law, there may have been no constitution left at all.

Washington set a standard of leadership, not only for presidents but for all public officials, that has played no small part in making this country what it is today. That the ideal of democracy on which the nation was founded has survived and grown, however haltingly, for 172 years is testimony to the impetus and direction given to it by Washington.

Why did Washington shy away from power and self-aggrandizement? Other leaders in history, men more brilliant than he, have started with idealism and ended in despotism. Some have begun in devotion to their people and ended with the conviction that they alone were qualified to rule.

Washington himself would have answered that he did not desire to rule over men. He was a country gentleman, an agriculturist, a student of gracious living in the fullest sense of the word.

But that much is self-evident. The real answer could not be given without a complete study of the individual, his environment and the influences that shaped his life.

Suffice it to say that Washington was aware of the dangers mentioned above. Like the other great men who were his contemporaries, he knew the world's sad history of injustice and oppression. They wrote into the constitution as much of the wisdom that could be distilled from their knowledge.

More important, however, Washington brought to his office a deep sense of responsibility toward the new nation in particular and the human race in general. He possessed the kind of humility only truly great men possess. He was, indeed, the father of his country.

RED CHINA IN THE U. N.

The specter of an old and vexing problem—entry of Communist China into the United Nations—again is rearing its head to embarrass the United States.

Throughout the years of ding-dong hammering by the Soviet Union to obtain membership for its powerful Asian ally, the United States has been able to block the effort with the support of its western allies, large and small.

Now, however, the predicted rift among the western powers has come. Great Britain has indicated that it may vote for Red China's admission. That may well bring about new crises for already-against-the-way U. N. and possibly a new and searching look by the Kennedy administration at far-reaching U. S. policies in the Pacific.

The Earl of Home, British foreign secretary, in pledging his government's support for seating of a Red Chinese delegation, sees it as a move necessitated by the international situation. British thinking generally has been that seating of a Peiping delegation is inevitable, and Home's statement is a reflection of this attitude.

Britain has diplomatic relations with Red China but has voted—up to now—with the United States and other western nations in agreeing to put off discussion of the issue in the General Assembly for fear that such debate would harm the U. N.

Home, during a foreign affairs debate in parliament, said:

"The facts of international life require that China should be seated. It would be quite impossible to make any substantial progress with disarmament in her absence."

The Nationalist Chinese government of Chiang Kai-shek based on Formosa is a charter member of the U. N. and is one of the five permanent members of the security council.

What effect seating of Red China would have on Chiang's membership is difficult to predict. One thing is certain:

The communist camp's objective is to oust him from the U. N., or, at least, to neutralize his voice in its decisions.

Lines Drawn At Hearings Of Work Bill

BOISE, Feb. 22 (AP)—The lines were drawn last night between labor organizations and farmers on the so-called farm labor "right-to-work" bill pending in the Idaho legislature.

The controversial measure has passed the senate and is now awaiting final action by the house.

Both sides were represented at public hearings before the house industry and labor committee.

Hearings were conducted separately for proponents and opponents of the bill.

Labor representatives said the bill was drafted from a Louisiana law which they contend was a "weapon forged in the cotton fields" and was "ill designed to meet the needs of the Idaho farm and labor itself."

They said the bill was conceived by and put forward by the food processors.

Some 50 farmers and their representatives who appeared at the hearing contended the bill was necessary to protect them in the harvesting and marketing of perishable crops.

President Blocks Addition to Military Club; Tip Received

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — President Kennedy blocked the construction of a $200,000 addition to an officers' club in Europe, the White House reports, after being informed of the project by an unidentified woman.

The purpose of the action was to conserve U.S. dollars abroad. The White House also is investigating information that other officers' clubs bought 12,000 dozen English golf balls and one million bottles of German beer.

The President's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, told reporters "an American lady in Europe" sent a cablegram to Kennedy reporting plans for the proposed addition to the officers' club.

Kennedy got in touch with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Salinger said, and the project was dropped within two hours.

The cabled tip grew out of Kennedy's news conference statement of last Wednesday that the administration will seek the cooperation of every citizen "in making sure that we get value for every dollar that the government spends."

Salinger said Kennedy would welcome similar tips on instances of wasteful or unnecessary government expenditures.

Named Winner

HANSEN, Feb. 22 — Anita Dilworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Dilworth, Hansen, was chosen for the Betty Crocker award for 1961 Homemaker of Tomorrow for Hansen-high-school.

By receiving the highest score in a written examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes taken by graduating senior girls in her school, she became a candidate for the State Homemaker of Tomorrow award to be announced in March.

A good child, a girl of about 13 said, "Oh, I have to go for my dance lesson. I wish she'd fall dead."

"Caroline. How can you say such a thing?" "Oh, I know. I've nothing against her. But I'm dead tired and don't have a bit of dance in me. And there's that part I have to learn for the play tomorrow."

Such programs are too much. And they are not profitable because a fatigued body means a closed mind and that means scant learning. The special lessons are fine but time should be arranged for them. Maybe it would be impossible to arrange with the head of the school for time out for a special lesson? Some lessening of the daily program should be made if any good come out of it for the children concerned.

There seems to be a great deal more of pressure on today's children than is justified by the results. This is something for parents and teachers to study.

Burley Eyes New Hanger For Garners

BURLEY, Feb. 22—The Garner Flying Service, operated by C. LeRoy Garner and Dale Garner, was given approval to erect a hangar at the city airport just north of the present hangar, at the Burley city council meeting Monday night. The Garner brothers are engaged in crop spraying service. A letter was read from Dr. Terrell O. Carver, administrator of the state department of health, asking each contributor of waste dumped in Snake river for some proposal of reduction which is to be submitted to the department by July 1.

He stated that the lagoon type of sewage disposal plant as proposed by the city would be an adequate waste treatment. During the council's meeting on Feb. 7 ordinance 677 was adopted for a revenue bond election for the installation of a sewage and water system to be held at the same time as the city election April 25. The proposed lagoon type sewer system would be Burley's contribution to abate pollution of Snake river. The plumbing code ordinance of the city was amended during the meeting and the council adopted the state plumbing code. Members voted that the salaries of the mayor and the councilmen should remain the same for the coming terms. The office of mayor is for two years and the councilmen for four years. Bob Metts was employed as asstant sexton for the Pleasant Valley cemetery and Larry Radloff was hired as a semi-skilled laborer for the water department. Building permits were issued to Verl Chesley, 558 Overland, remodeling home $800, and Harley Sprague, 818 Burton, moving a house to lot 16, block 52, $3,000. Gas license was issued to Idaho Gas company, a contractor; Gary Tilley, apprentice gas fitters license; Vinton Stanfield, journeyman's gas fitters license, and Delwyn Hanks, apprentice plumbing and journeyman's gas fitters licenses. CUBS TO MEET BUHL, Feb. 22—Cut Scout pack 105, sponsored by the Buhl PTA, will hold a potluck dinner at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Buhl civic rooms.

"Your first Gray Hair?"

Use Herbold Pomade - an amazing Hair Cream to Tone Down Gray Hair Keep it Neat, Alive, Young Looking

When grayness first appears, hair becomes dry, drab, streaked — as color, lustre and natural oils slowly fade away... It's beginning to show its age! Now, you can replace the lost color and oils, so vital to the beauty of your hair—simply by using Herbold Pomade as your regular hair dressing.

If your hair is all gray, streaked with gray, drab, faded, or mousy looking, Herbold Pomade will blend in—lasting color—just right for your hair. But will not change your natural color—only enrich it. Gradually, day by day, your hair will look more and more like it did before it turned gray.

The improvement is so real, so subtle, no one, not even yourself can tell you are using anything but a fine hair dressing. The special lanolin and conditioning hair oils in Herbold Pomade are exactly what gray, dry, lifeless hair needs, to give it a lustrous, radiantly alive look. Herbold Pomade is not a coal tar dye, tint or rinse. That's why your hair never looks artificial. No sudden drastic change. No touch ups, because grayness will not show at the roots. No shades to confuse you; if your hair was blonde, brown, black or dyed, Herbold Pomade will add a wonderful, flattering touch of lasting color for your hair.

So easy! All you do is use Herbold Pomade instead of your regular hair-dressing, in the privacy of your home—that's all—nothing else to buy or do. Massage it in with fingertips daily—until grayness is no longer visible—then 2 or 3 times a week to keep it that way. In 1 to 3 weeks you will feel the excitement of looking younger, with the assurance of no more old gray look for you. Herbold Laboratory guarantees it.
