X15 Rocket Plane's Speed Hits 2,650 Miles Per Hour

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., March 7 (AP)—An X15 rocket plane flew by Mr. Robert White at a record speed of 2,650 miles an hour today in a test flight in a man's attempt to fly to the edge of space. White, already holder of an altitude record of 102,000 feet, made 14 laps in the experimental craft, flying four times that of sound only briefly in the first 20 seconds of the test. The record, made today was a quick test of the plane's ability to fly at high altitudes and speeds, and subject to later check by the national aeronautics administration (NASA).

The X15 rocket plane, the first of a series of aircraft designed for a step-by-step program to fly the X15 to 100 miles above the earth at speeds of 4,000 miles an hour.

Today's successful flight came after two false starts during the test. The plane, a sleek, delta-shaped rocket plane, was lifted to a steep climb, but each time the plane was abruptly halted before the driver when problems developed in its tricky fueling system.

White held the 51,000-pound thrust rocket at half throttle for two minutes before shutting it down and he had the craft's speed brakes open part of the time. He broke open part of the time, pushed him almost 400 miles an hour faster than his old mark in an X15 with smaller powerplants. The entire flight today lasted just eight minutes, while gliding in the parabolic plane to landing at 10:26 a.m. (PST).

NASA officials have said they expect the ultimate performance X15 flight would be sometime this summer on the high range speed test, stretching 450 miles from here to Wendover air base, Utah.

Temperatures on the metal skin of the rocket plane reached 700 degrees on today's flight, while information was being radioed back on heating, vibration and high speed count-down.

"That's hot enough to melt a nickel, but it didn't hurt the rocket ship's special alloy, which is designed to withstand 1,500-degree temperatures."

Boycott to Ban Trade Vetoed by Smylie

BOISE, March 7 (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie vetoed yesterday the controversial bill enacted by the 1961 Idaho legislature which would have barred the use of trading stamps after July 1, except under certain conditions. Smylie, in a veto message, said those vetoed were such that the bill would have had "precisely the opposite result" from that intended by its sponsors. His basic objection to the bill, Smylie said, "is that it intrudes without warrant on the conduct of retail business."

The bill, he said, "does not outlaw the use of trading stamps. It simply circumscribes their use in such a fashion as to make them available only to a limited number of people who happen to be allowed so that the provisions of the law can be complied with."

Besides the trading stamp bill the governor acted on and approved were the bills to call for the Columbia River compact and the 33-million-dollar public power appropriation.

In signing the bill formally ratifying the Columbia River compact, Smylie asked Secretary of State Arnold Helms to notify the governors of Utah, Montana, Nevada, Wyoming, Washington and Oregon, President Kennedy and the presidents of both houses of Congress, Idaho and the federal government.

For the compact to become effective it must be ratified by Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and the federal government.

Smylie reiterated his conviction that it is in the best interests of Idaho to protect the rights of Idaho water users and promote "full development" of the state's water resources.

He said the fact the Washington legislature had passed the bill, "while the compact is in committee, does not constitute definite action by that body which will affect the validity of the compact which still may be acted upon in future sessions of the legislature."

The governor, in signing the public school appropriation bill, said it is "not in the best interests of Idaho to support a bill which would be a burden on the state."

 WASHINGTON (NSA) — About getting all agencies dealing with natural resources problems in one department of government...

They would be combined with the department of interior water control responsibilities in a new, glorified department of natural resources.
 These are all old reorganization responsibilities in Washington. In this space are, there is better prospect of tying the loose ends of the bushy-tailed bureaucratic animal.

Hank Finds Much to Learn, See and Remember in Rome

Rome, Italy — After several months in Rome I am tempted to move to Clabber. That is, if some other town does not have so many towns to offer.
 There is too much to see in Rome, too much to learn, too much to remember. One lifetime isn't enough to discover and know Rome. One lifetime is all that I can give. I wouldn't be negated by the fact that every minute I wasn't out sight-seeing was a lost second. I was a lost second when I was in the house. PRICED OUT OF WORK

Organized labor in this country is faced increasingly with the problem of pricing itself out of the market. Unions boost protest when American industries build plants in foreign countries. The unions claim that the bosses term "cheap foreign labor." Yet the responsibility can be traced directly to organized labor and continued demands for wage increases regardless of whether raises are indicated or the ability of industry to pay them.

WE THINK WE'RE RIGHT

Maybe I can get an answer to time to help out the legislature. All during the session I've been reading such things as "The measure was killed it is correct." I don't think that is correct. I can see that someone insists on putting the "yes" vote first regard. This sort of thing would be getting the score of the home team first regardless of the outcome. Would it be right to say that Twin Falls lost 4 to 57? L.M. Veed (Twin Falls)

STEVENSON CRITICIZED

Stevenson criticized on March 7th. The government newspaper intensifies criticism of U.S. Ambassador Averell Harriman on the eve of the opening of the U.N. general assembly in New York.

Usually labor is the chief item of overhead for any industry and the extent of that part of overhead can be judged by taking another look at the relatively new practice of American industry building plants abroad. Such firms can ship overmen, necessary raw materials, manufacture the product, such as an automobile, and ship the finished item back to the U.S. cheaper than it can be produced in this country. So in such an example, American labor has priced itself out of the market.

COUNTERACTING RED TACTICS — To frustrate this strategy, Secretary Rusk advocates a buildup of conventional forces and concentration on the development of special units for guerrilla warfare. Such a program has been inaugurated at Fort Bragg. It had more extensive tests than they did in driving the Japanese out of Southeast Asia and the Pacific Islands.

Another example of labor pricing itself right out of work is cited by Ralph Olsen at Twin Falls. In his report of a tour sponsored by Swift and company. Olsen told how the packing industry is moving away from large cities to the extent that Chicago, once one of the largest centers of slaughterhouses, now has no livestock killing operation.

Swift and company officials reported a plant in New Jersey was closed. Efficiency experts were called in when the plant kept losing money—and determined that labor costs were too high. Management conferred with labor representatives and said operation of the packing plant would continue if workers agreed to take a 10-cent hourly cut in pay. The Swift and company man reported that unions in general management was "bluffing" and would not agree to a pay cut. The plant was closed.

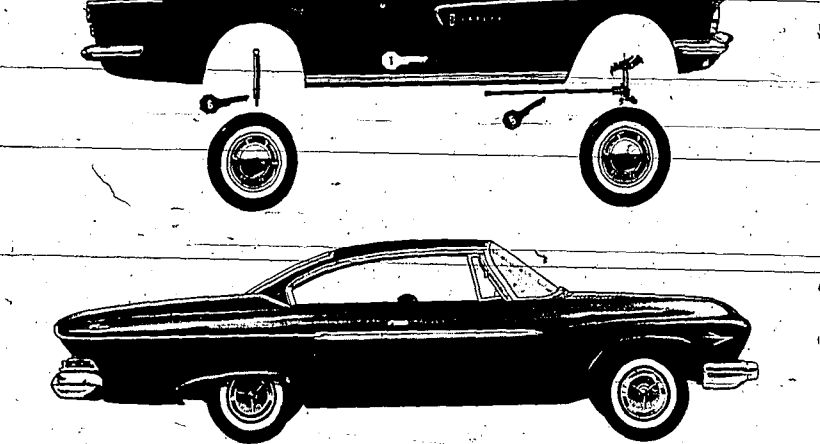

Along this same line is the Oswald and Heas Packing company at Pittsburgh, with the case reported in the Feb. 27 issue of the Livestock Marketing Journal, published at Clayton, Tex. The company is offering to pay for five weeks this year in an effort to keep the plant operating. Here is a rare example that is a credit to the individuals and unions involved. The 400 employees, members of five unions, took their action when Oswald and Heas was taken to court by its creditors.

The workers themselves called the meeting and voted to work without pay for five weeks to give the company an additional $20,000 operating capital. Reports the Livestock-Marketing Journal.
 "This is a joint effort for survival," said Carl Peiper, president of the meat packing firm. As each worker entered the meeting he was handed a card which read, in part: "I voluntarily propose to agree to donate to the Oswald and Heas company my services for a total of five weeks without pay."
 The signers agreed to give up one week's pay immediately and another every three months in hopes the 42-week-old packing house can continue operating.

The agreement was approved by locals of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, the Meat Salesman's union, the Meatcutters union, the Stationary Engineers union and the Teamsters, all of which represent O and H workers.
 "We took this action because we want the firm to stay in business and we have an obligation to keep our membership in jobs," said the president of the Meat Cutters local.
 This is the solution in one plant where labor apparently had priced itself out of the market. Obviously, the unions themselves recognized this fact or it doubtful employees would have agreed to work without pay for five weeks of the year. Perhaps unions elsewhere will follow the example in looking for solutions to similar problems.

Magic Valley also has had a prime example in recent years. The 42-year-old Triumph mine on the east fork of Big Wood river kept pressing wage demands each year. Management warned it could pay no more, but the warning fell on deaf ears. The mine closed and many of the miners moved away, and those remaining have lower wages.
 No one would advocate return to "sweet shop" conditions of many years ago, but to the other hand labor must recognize there is no point at which demand for their labor is not to be priced out of the market or even out of work as happened at the New Jersey plant of Swift and company.

labor also must come to realize that many of its problems of management are also problems of labor, particularly when overhead reaches the point where it threatens continued operation of a plant or business.

ANNOUNCING AMERICA'S MOST ECONOMICAL KEY CLUB!

Anybody can join! Buy a new Dodge, either size, and you're in. If you're a compact man, Lancer is for you. That's the car on top, the one we've stuck all the keys on. It costs about the same as a Comet, Falcon or Corvair. If you want a standard size car, you can't beat a Dodge Dart. That's the one on the bottom. It's a full-size Dodge priced model for model with Ford and Chevy. The differences in these two Dodge cars are size, appearance and price. Otherwise they are virtually identical. That's where the keys come in. They point out the good things all Dodge cars share. United States. Rust-proofed to protect your investment. Make them worth more at trade-in time. Three-speed push-button automatic transmission. Optional at extra cost on all Dodge cars. Obviously, three speeds are better than two, though our competition won't admit it. Engines. Choice of a Six and five V8's in Dart, two inclined sixes in Lancer. Every Dodge has a new device called an alternator. Unlike a conventional generator, it will charge the battery even while the engine idles. Make the battery last lots longer than usual. The suspension system on all Dodge cars is named Torsion-Aire. Here's what it does: Eliminates front end dive when you stop. Keeps the car virtually level on corners. Soaks up bumps. Key number six covers several points: Oilflow shock absorbers for a controlled ride. Safety Rim wheels to keep the tires on the rim even if you have a blow-out. The seventh key is in this ad. He's at your Dodge Dealer's. Your Dodge salesman. He'll save you money by offering you the lowest price possible. His motive is simple. He wants to sell you a new Dodge. And either way, compact or standard, you'll get a great deal with Dodge.

Red Machine Order Killed; Plan Is Sent

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Cancellation of a license to ship Russia 15 million dollars worth of machine tools used in building missile guidance systems may have done little good because Russia already has blueprints of them.

Thursday Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges revoked an export license under which 45 of the most important tools would be sent to Moscow.

The machine tools turn out rings for miniature ball bearings, an important component of missile guidance systems. The senate subcommittee had claimed the tools could have been of strategic value to the Soviet Union.

The Bryant company told the subcommittee that the purchase contract called for sending the tools to Russia two months in advance. It is an open question whether Russia will make use of this data for building the machines themselves, the company said.

Therefore, the company claimed, it should be allowed to ship the equipment to Russia if the license would just build it themselves.

Joseph A. Gwyer, a library of congress expert on Soviet technology, estimated it would take Russia about five years to be able to build the tools.

In Moscow, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia charged that Sen. Thomas J. Donohoe "pressured" Hodges into cancelling the license, thereby depriving American industrialists of substantial profits and depriving many workers of bread.

Burley Policemen Set Annual Dance

Joe Henderson, left, of Price's Flying A service station, purchases tickets to the annual policeman's ball from Burley Police Officer Floyd Stewart. The event is scheduled for 9 p.m. Saturday, March 11, at the Elks hall and Wayne Skeen's band will provide the music, Stewart reports. Proceeds from the annual dance have bought such emergency equipment as a boat, motor, jets and diving equipment. Additional emergency equipment will be purchased by the department from the proceeds of the ball. (Staff photo-enslaving)

New Market

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The house space committee says American-made rockets and scientific satellites may provide the United States with an important new export market in the next few years.

In a report commenting on the 11th annual meeting of the International Astronautical Federation last summer, the committee reported that European scientists have shown extreme interest in using small rockets as scientific research tools.

Khrushchev's Bomb Supply "Enough to Destroy Enemy"

MOSCOW, March 7 (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said in a speech made public last night that the USSR has enough hydrogen and atomic weapons to blast an aggressor off the Earth.

That, in a report of the speech released on the eve of the resumption of the 99-nation U. N. general assembly in New York, also quoted Khrushchev as claiming the Soviet Union has the world's most powerful rockets to carry nuclear bombs.

The claims were made in a talk to agriculture workers in Sverdlovsk last Thursday. "I am sure," Khrushchev said, "that the imperialists might try to halt Soviet progress by war but he warned that war would only doom the capitalist world."

He said the time is near when our socialist country will triumph over capitalism on all fronts of peaceful competition.

Keeping Craft On Ground Is Hard in Wind

ST. GEORGE, Utah, March 7 (AP)—They got the plane down all right but had a hard time of it there.

High winds buffeted the light plane and the men, who were braced and secured as they tumbled out of the sky and tried to hold the plane steady.

Major Flying Instructor Jesse Gibbons said pilot Alton Bundy, 38, George, his three children and a young boy were on the plane when it crashed on the airport on a mesa here after a flight to Arizona.

Bundy landed in a fueling area and tried to hold the plane steady as it rolled out.

The craft was loaded with the wind. Mrs. Bundy tumbled out and tried to help keep the plane steady. The children also tumbled out, collecting their scraps on the way.

The wind moved the aircraft engine plane about 50 feet. Bundy, Gibbons and Mrs. Bundy were able to get the plane back to the ground. The plane crashed back to Earth—part of it within two feet of him.

The landing gear crumpled. They finally got it under control.

Protestant Backs School Aid Plan

PHILADELPHIA, March 7 (AP)—A Protestant prelate called yesterday for support of the administration's stand against federal school aid for parochial schools.

Presiding Bishop of the World Methodist council, said it is "paradoxical" that Protestants support the bill which excludes government funds for "so-called parochial schools, either Protestant or Catholic, and that the hierarchy of the President's own church opposes him."

The bishop said the charge that denying support to parochial schools is discrimination "is fallacious" argument. He said a fundamental principle in American public education is to state "in this controversy."

He said the crew each spring and fall must do maintenance work on airports and airfields in remote areas.

Gore Attacks "Rackets" of Tax Dodgers

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Sen. Albert Gore D. Tenn. moved today to crack down on what he termed a "reinsurance racket" operating in tax havens like the Bahamas, Liberia and Liechtenstein.

Gore charged in a prepared speech that one of the "most notorious devices for concealing tax payments involved shifting U.S. tax payments into life insurance profits into the credit insurance profits into the reinsurance firm often subsidiaries in foreign countries.

Such tax haven subsidiaries, he said in proposing a tax law amendment to deal with them, are to be treated as if they were to disappear into other foreign unincorporated enterprises like real estate and manufacturing.

He called "shell game" a number of the Senate Finance committee, said it all evaded him of "the shell game" of the U.S. treasury by game.

The senator's bill would impose a tax of 50 per cent. to be withheld on the gross premium paid for reinsurance to a U.S.-controlled foreign life insurance company.

Gore said that administrative action could curvy many tax abuses, but that during the Eisenhower administration "administrative action was not always vigorously pursued."

He listed as the "most popular tax havens" for U.S. tax avoiders the Bahamas, Panama, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Liberia, Bermuda, The Netherlands Antilles and Venezuela. Gore said it was difficult to get very complete lists of American-owned firms doing business in these places.

A firms named Gore he named four American-owned, so-called reinsurance companies he said were "doing business in Liechtenstein for the purpose of tax dodging." He said they were:

The First Reinsurance corporation, owned by the First Security Investment corporation, Salt Lake City; the Falcon Reinsurance corporation, owned by the Dixie Finance company, Georgia; Inter-mountain Reinsurance company, owned by Motion Acceptance corporation, Nevada (not CMAIC); and Ambank Reinsurance company, owned by American Bank and Insurance company, Florida.

Russians Try Man as Nazi Exterminator

TALLIN, Estonia, March 7.—Speaking as unemotionally as if he were a sergeant reporting to his commanding officer, a wartime Estonian politician testified yesterday that he led two Ojvy children to a firing squad in 1943 under the most extermination program for "inferior races."

Ralf Gerrens was one of three men who went on trial yesterday on charges of murdering 125 Jews, East Europeans, most of them Jews, under that occupation. Gerrens and defendant Jan Vijk pleaded guilty before a Soviet court.

The Soviet government, which has controlled Estonia since World War II, tried to extradite a third defendant, Ain Ewita Meri, from Britain, but the British government refused, and he is being tried in Estonia.

A fourth man described in the trial was Alexander Lask, who managed "inferior race" extermination of the arrest of Vijk and Gerrens.

Gerrens stood in the dock on the stage of the navy officers club here and testified to a packed hall how he had led the Ojvy children by the hand to a "travelling" where they were "shot" with gas.

"But most of them may be unemployed farm workers during the winter there can still be a major shortage in the fall," Triggs said.

2 Men Admit Kidnaping of French Child

ANNECY, France, March 7.—Police sources said today Raymond Rolland and Pierre Larcher confessed they took part in the ransom-kidnaping 11 months ago of Eric Freudenthal, heir to the French automobile fortune.

The two men made the admission after night-long grilling at police headquarters. Rolland, 34, and Larcher, 38, were among five suspects who had been arrested by police for three successive days. A blond former Danish beauty queen who was picked up with the others early Sunday apparently was cleared of suspicion.

Little Eric, 4, was kidnaped last April. He was returned unharmed after his father, Rolland, paid a $100,000 ransom. Eric was picked up outside a Paris hotel two days after the money was delivered.

Acting on an anonymous tip, police raided a roadside inn early Sunday. They arrested Rolland and Live Boudin, 30, who represented Denmark in the 1930 Miss World contest in London.

A few hours earlier, a police patrol halted a Peugeot sedan and took its four occupants into custody. Besides Rolland and Larcher, the others were a Eurasian strip-tease identified only as "Niska," a medical intern named Rotham, and a French girl identified only as "Rolande."

How an exclusive discovery whips extra smoothness into Schenley whisky

This is a glass of unusual whisky. It is Schenley. Its extraordinary smoothness is the result of the greatest advance in whisky making in twenty-five years.

Taking the same fine whiskies always reserved for Schenley, we now put them through a costly new step. In this exclusive step the whiskies are whirled in a specially-designed vat by stainless steel blades and literally whipped into a smoothness never before attainable. This unique process breaks down each drop of the fine whiskies and grain neutral spirits into its smallest possible components and then "marries" them more thoroughly than ever before.

The result can only be realized by tasting Schenley whisky. We think you'll agree: smoothness in a whisky has now taken on a completely new meaning. So start enjoying Schenley, the only whisky with extra smoothness whipped in.

Rockland Bulldogs Take Sixth District Class A Crown by Topping Declo

BURLEY, March 7—The tall Rockland Bulldogs took the sixth district class A basketball championship, defeating the cold Declo Hornets 46-22 Monday night and clinching their first trip to a state tournament in the history of the school. The Bulldogs, who came through the losers' bracket to catch the Hornets in two straight "championship" games, broke away from a tight game in the last six minutes after trailing through much of the first half. Rockland won the game in the sixth district in the state tournament at Lewiston March 16-18.

Eaching away height at every position, gave the Rockland crew a Jack battle until the third quarter. Then the Hornets were cold and compounded that by starting to force their shots. They hit only four points in the last five minutes and fell behind five points going into the final quarter.

Declo, who surprised the pre-tourney favorites Bulldogs in the championship semi-final, however, Rockland forced an extra championship season with a 49-46 win Saturday.

The scrappy Hornets took the boards away from their tall opponents in the first quarter and led a six-point lead at one time. But in the second period, Rockland came up in one minute and 11-11. That set the stage for a sea-saw race with Declo behind for several minutes.

With 1:53 left in the third, however, Gene Borts got a field goal and Jack Estes hit a pair of chukkers to put Declo in front 21-19. Thompson added a free throw before Rockland came back with scoring from Ralph and Perryman.

Memory of Ingo's Right Is Cause Of Third Match Twin Falls and Minico to Vie for Berth in State Tourney Wednesday Night

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 7 (AP)—No matter how you slice it, the main reason for a third Floyd Patterson-Sveinovic fight is the fact that the two fighters appeared to have been shaken up by the first round. Instead of rushing wildly to the attack as he had done the year before when he floored Patterson and won the title, Patterson was more cautious. He never got another chance.

By the end of that second round, Patterson had recovered completely and was jumping away to the left. He was in the fight round, he flattered Johnson with a left hook.

Weighing Him Down

Ken Thompson, Declo guard, tries to brace himself against the weight of the off-balance Ron Hartley, Rockland, after taking a rebound during the Declo-Rockland championship game Monday night.

What would have happened if the Swede had probed the attack? That is the basis for this fight match.

Every time Patterson met a new man, somebody is bound to say "surely he can't be any better than the last one."

"I'm not going to say," he said with a little fire. "You said it. I'm not going to say it. I'm not going to say it. I'm not going to say it."

Double Food Relief Plans, Official Asks

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The director of the food for peace program says he thinks U. S. donations of food for overseas relief should be doubled or tripled.

Presidential Assistant George B. McGovern said he may also favor a 10 to 20 per cent increase in the program of food exports to underdeveloped countries in return for foreign currency.

The donations and the food exports are both part of the food for peace program.

McGovern said in an interview recorded for the Voice of America yesterday that he is preparing a report for President Kennedy on expansion of the food for peace program.

Under present law, donations of 10 million dollars worth of food can be made annually for overseas relief through voluntary agencies. In addition, the government can donate an unlimited amount of food to foreign governments for disaster relief. He has doubted an estimated 275 million dollars worth in the current fiscal year.

The government can also sell up to 15 billion dollars worth of farm products for foreign currencies. In most of these transactions, half or more of the money goes to the foreign government in loans or grants for economic development.

Authorization for these programs ends Dec. 31. McGovern indicated he may favor a three or four year extension of the program with provisions for more long-range sales agreements.

Car Industry Report Good But Bad, too

DETROIT, March 7 (AP)—The automotive industry reported both good and bad news yesterday.

On the good side, Ward's Automobiles said that its February sales rose 10 per cent over January. Chrysler returned to production at its Toledo plant after a one-week shutdown. Studebaker-Packard prepared to resume production at its plant in South Bend, Ind., after being down for two weeks.

On the bad side, General Motors disclosed one-week layoffs for almost 38,000 hourly workers at its plants in the Detroit area. It also laid off 11,000 hourly workers at its plants in the St. Louis area.

General Motors will close its plant in Pontiac, Mich., in operations all next week, following a 40-day shutdown.

Ward's figures indicate the automakers virtually matched production-to-sales last month for the first time in the 1951 model year. They built 322,235 cars and sold 320,277. This left an inventory of 1,957 cars at the end of the month, or about 68 days' supply.

Ward's said a buying spree in the final days of February boosted the month's sales rate to 10,811 daily compared with 14,756 daily in January.

The January rate was the poorest for the month since 1952. The February rate bettered the recession year of 1955 when sales averaged 15,400 daily.

Burley Chamber Hears Need Of Sewage Treatment Plant

BURLEY, March 7 (AP)—Eighty-five per cent of the population of Idaho which is served by Burley's reduction is also served by sewage treatment plants, Keith Kost, Boise, head of health education, Idaho department of health, told members and guests of the Burley Chamber of Commerce at the Monday luncheon meeting at Cousin Roy's.

"In 1955 the percentage was only 45 per cent, an Idaho is gaining fast. Burley now remains the only major city on the Snake river that is still dumping raw sewage into the river," he declared.

"It is a duty of the health department to protect the water supply of your neighbors below you on the river, as well as those above you due to lack of oxygen."

He mentioned the half million fish that died in the Miller reservoir due to lack of oxygen.

"A year or so ago there were only two processing plants in the Burley area and there are now six and it is reported that 2,000 pounds of pollutants are processed a day compared with about 300 pounds a year or so ago, he said."

"The load of the river has increased by such a large percentage and the water flow has reduced and for this reason the health department is asking for a 60 per cent reduction in the sewage going into Miller dam by July 1 and for 50 per cent reduction above the point."

Burley Chamber Hears Need Of Sewage Treatment Plant

Questions were asked concerning Burley's plant and Kost explained that it was a primary treatment plant only, therefore its bond amount was less.

Kost stated there is very little odor from the lagoon type of plant. He explained that a plant near Caldwell, which is not designed properly and large enough to operate properly; therefore, it has an odor.

Major J. Leonard Ballou stated that the housing area across the river in North Burley had its own settling pond. A service charge of $12 a month will be made to the city's 2,000 connections to pay of the revenue bond, the mayor explained.

Dr. James Kitcher said there is an urgent need for the system and the need has become more acute during the past five years. He said that many of the wells in surrounding areas used for years have become contaminated. Some wells had to be treated and drilled has had to be deeper.

"Our population increase has created this new problem. Typical germs have been found in the water of some of these wells," he asserted.

An announcement was made that the chamber-sponsored sales clinic will be held Thursday and Friday evenings at the Dworth elementary school auditorium. It will be conducted by Wesley Johnson of the Northwest Nazarene college, Nampa, on the subject, "Sewage it, show it, and sell it."

Guests were Orland Bateman and Joe Lambert representing the Kiwanis club; Truman Bradley and Dr. Kitcher, Lions; A. Glenn Anderson and Earl McCaddin, Rotary; Mrs. Richard Ketchum and Mrs. Richard Fendleton, Jay-C-Eater, and Mrs. Palmer Satterstrom, Soroptimist.

Judy Dumas, Junior at Utah State university, Logan, will be the chamber's representative for the Miss-Cassia County pageant. It was reported.

Wendell McMurray, vice president, introduced the speaker in the absence of Charles Hendricks, president, who is recuperating from pneumonia.

During a question period it was noted that the new proposed plans would be adequate for Burley area if its population doubles. It is estimated that the plant will take care of 100 population per acre of its surface and in some places it has been shown that this type plant can take care of as many as 200 per 100 persons per acre of surface.

Development Of Resources Under Study

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall says that he is trying to come up with a "true national program for the wise development of our resources."

This, he said, will include proposed acquisition of still unopened land and water in every section of this country.

Such planning was made possible, Udall said, by the mandate given him by President Kennedy in a special message to congress last August.

Udall, in a speech prepared for the 26th North American Wildlife and Natural Resources conference said the interior department, until about the time of World War II was "a prime mover in national affairs," but then "slowly settled into a rut of lackluster performance content to let others shape the country and the ideas which guided it."

"It has now been more than 20 years since the United States has engaged in any major and sustained national conservation effort," Udall said.

Udall said it is still too early to give any specific about his projected proposals.

"The first step being taken, Udall said, is a reassessment of the existing programs for the national park service, the bureau of land management, the fish and wildlife service, the Indian bureau and the reclamation bureau.

Powers Was Expecting to Get Freedom

NOPTON, Va. March 7 (AP)—The father of Lt. pilot Francis Powers revealed today that his son expected to be released from his prison alone with the two other POWs and that his morale slumped sharply when he learned his son was not coming home.

Oliver Powers, father of the jailed U. S. pilot, said he and his wife receive regular letters from their son about every two weeks. Powers said that his son was still in a good mood when he last wrote a letter to his mother.

"The most recent letter showed a big drop in morale," Powers said.

"She was after the RDT files were released," the father said. "Francis thought for sure he would be coming home with them."

Powers did not say who led his son to hope for release from his 10-year captivity when Capt. Freeman Omsted and John McKeown won their freedom last month. The two files, whose release was shot down by the Russians over the Barents sea, are back on duty now in Kansas.

Powers said that his son was not putting the blame on anyone for his failure to get freedom right away.
