Columbia Compact "Is Not Dead Yet"

BOISE, March 8 (UPI)—The Washington legislature to ratify the Columbia River compact does not affect its validity, an Idaho authority said today.

Rep. P. Parry, Twin Falls, chairman of the Idaho compact committee, said there is no time limit in which the states concerned must approve the compact and failure of such an agreement to be ratified the first time around is the rule rather than the exception.

Parry made the statement in answer to an Associated Press query after remarks by Washington and Oregon legislators indicated they felt the compact is now dead because of Washington's failure to approve it.

Oregon State Rep. Norman Howard, D. Portland, chairman of the house state and federal affairs committee, said yesterday he had expected the compact to be scheduled for next Friday.

He said, "The action of the Washington legislature means the compact is dead, so there is no use in our considering it."

Bill Ratliff, the compact lead in committee in the Washington state legislature as the session neared its end.

In Olympia, Wash., Sen. John L. Cooney, D. Spokane, also said today that the compact is not a dead issue yet.

Cooney said effort will be made in a special session to get through an appropriation that will assure Washington's continued participation in compact negotiations and activities.

Covered growers to increase their production, quality, depend on the professionals, and the advice and intensity their efforts in all these directions.

Production, said Cover, means that the unit cost of the farmer and the seed dealer must be reduced to a minimum.

Improving quality, producing seed with high germination and without noxious weeds, means the dealer can offer the product without making apologies for the content and puts him in a better position to get an improved price.

Reliance on the professionals, said Cover, will place the grower in a better position to get the best yields and his quality. These professionals include technicians with the best conservation service, also seed dealers, who are familiar with seed cleaning techniques and problems.

Olson discussed alfalfa weevils and pea aphids. Reviewing their life cycles and their damage to alfalfa, Olson said the object of spraying alfalfa weevils in the early spring was to keep them from eating leaves before they lay eggs.

He stressed to the group that whether they use herbicides or the alfalfa plant is two inches high or another chemical when the plant is later, the important points to remember was to get complete coverage on the field with ample water and to read the label on the container of chemical.

"The directions on the label have changed in the last few years," Olson said, "and farmers should find out if the directions comply with the latest regulations of the pure food and drug administration."

Olson added he had no way of knowing at present if the pea aphid was going to be rampant or scarce in the area, but he said the pea aphid has been in the area for years.

He said he has taken the pea aphid seriously, he said, because of Douglas as range grass specialist, said Olson, said pea aphid production is the most serious pest of range grasses in the area. He said pea aphid is in short supply this winter. Some of these are inter-seeding wheatgrass, alfalfa, and alfalfa. He said pea aphid is a pest of alfalfa, alfalfa, and alfalfa. Sentences of 7 Executives Ordered-Cut

NORRISTOWN, Pa., March 8 (AP)—Seven Westinghouse Electric Corp. executives, once they were released from federal custody yesterday after serving a 30-day prison term for an anti-trust conspiracy, are to be sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from 1 to 3 years. The executives, three from the electric company, were sentenced for similar terms at the same time but were the Monticomey county prison later. Four will be released Friday and one Saturday, on the 25th day of their sentences.

All sentences were ordered cut yesterday by U. S. District Judge J. Cullen Grier because of the "exemplary behavior" of the seven executives while in custody. Grier, now vacationing in Florida, approved the reduction in a telephone conference with Court Clerk Grier yesterday.

King Hill Church Rebuilt After Fire

The United Presbyterian church of King Hill will be dedicated at 3 p.m. Sunday. It was rebuilt after being destroyed by a fire on Palm Sunday last year. Dedication Rites Set Sunday By Area Presbyterian Church

KING HILL, March 8.—The United Presbyterian church in King Hill will be dedicated at 3 p.m. Sunday, the Rev. A. Walton Roth, field representative for the synod of Idaho and the presbytery of Utah, preaching the dedication sermon.

The church was rebuilt after being destroyed by fire the morning of April 10, 1960. Brick veneer walls remained standing, but most of the supporting studding was destroyed. Later that week a strong wind blew most of the west wall in on the floor, according to the Rev. R. L. Barnes, pastor.

Church furniture was stored in the King Hill Orange hall, garage of Mrs. Adelle Smith and the manse.

The House reclamation committee is to hear witnesses March 15 on bills by Reps. Grace Fial and Ralph Glavin, Idaho Democrats.

2 New School Aid Measures Are Proposed

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—President Kennedy has sent Congress "urgent" legislation to aid higher education in America by providing 25,000 college scholarships for able youths and extending federal loans for dormitory and classroom construction.

He told House and Senate leaders that passage of the five-year, eight billion dollar program is "vital" to prepare for the vast increase in college enrollments expected during the coming decade.

The two bills sent to Congress round out legislation to implement Kennedy's 6.6 billion dollar aid to education program. He earlier had passed a companion bill to provide federal grants to states for public school construction or teachers' salaries, as each state deems best.

One of the new bills would provide for an immediate increase of 100 million dollars and an additional 220 million dollars in each of the next five years in authorization for college housing loans.

It also would authorize an additional 25 million dollars in each of the next five years for loans to build college dormitories, student centers and similar facilities.

The second bill would provide the next five years for a total of 212,500 four-year undergraduate scholarships "for able high school graduates who need assistance to continue their education through college." The five-year total for this would aggregate 577 million dollars.

This bill also would authorize long term, low interest loans totaling 13 billion dollars over five years to help provide college classrooms, libraries and other academic facilities.

Services were held from April 17, 1900, to Feb. 5 in the King Hill Orange hall where most of the church furniture was stored.

Members held a moving and cleanup day Feb. 10 when grounds were cleared of construction debris and furniture returned to the church.

A Celtic cross recently has been given in memory of Mrs. Theresa Rowe, mother of Mrs. Martin Woodward, the pastor, reports.

The King Hill church was established as a mission of the United Presbyterian church of North America in 1918.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—spending just short of 46 billion dollars, about one billion dollars down, from 1954.

So, where are the areas of big spending over this seven-year period? They are in the domestic spread of spending largely in behalf of our fellow Americans to Veterans services and benefits and finance spending, which is not directly in behalf of Americans, did increase from 1954 to 1961 from 1.7 to 2.1 billion dollars.

However, increased during that period from 4.2 to 5.3 billion dollars; labor and welfare from 2.4 to 4.4 billion dollars; agriculture and its resources from 2.5 to 3.4 billion dollars; natural resources from 1.3 to 2.6 billion dollars; commerce and housing from 817 million to 1.7 billion dollars.

The government went into the red for a great deal of this spending in response to pressure from our fellow Americans. That caused another expensive item to zoom to a

This pressure is effective. It has helped government spending by many billions of dollars. For example, the government spent about 4 billion dollars in fiscal year 1954 under the first Eisenhower budget. President Eisenhower budgeted for the current, 1961, fiscal year to spend about 80.5 billion dollars.

You may believe that this big hike in government spending over a seven-year period should be charged to the cold war and other international deliriums. Not so. The 1954 expenditure for major national security was about 41 billion dollars. The current budget proposes major national security

That's where the money goes. The foregoing illuminating and simply expressed information is from a "little page" of the Tax Foundations' book, The 1960-61 edition of "Facts and Figures on Government Finance" can be ordered from Tax Foundations, Inc., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York 20, N.Y.

Guided Missile Test Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., March 8 (AP)—The air force successfully launched a space-B guided missile. The test of the rocket's inertial-guidance system.

The 44-foot, eight-inch missile flared from a concrete shelter which resembled a section of a subway tunnel, and raced south-east on a 300-mile flight.

Boim's launchers developed in the guidance package on recent launches—and technicians have been working to correct them.

Resentencing Set For Negro Man

ATLANTA, March 8 (AP)—The Georgia court of appeals ruled today that a judge exceeded his legal authority in sentencing Negro leader Martin Luther King, Jr., to 12 months at hard labor in a traffic case. But the decision was not final.

The appellate court in a unanimous decision said King should be brought back at the time he was sentenced in nearby DeKalb county for resentencing.

The new decision should be six months in jail and six months at hard labor in a public work camp.

That would be the same sentence King had at the time he was sentenced but would differ in how it should be served.

Anti-Castro Government Plans Made

BALTIMORE, March 8 (AP)—An anti-Castro provisional government will be set up in the Cuban mountains within the next 10 days, the Baltimore Sun said today.

In a dispatch from Miami, Fla., reporter Howard Kohn said it was learned on the highest authority the names of six men who would be acceptable for the office of provisional president were selected by exiled Cuban leaders meeting last week in New York and Washington.

The names of the six are to be sent to the leaders of rebel forces now fighting inside Cuba, Kohn said.

"As soon as the fighters send back word that they approve the list and that they will follow the man chosen from among the six, the new government will be picked," the dispatch said.

Under terms of the agreement, Castro would not be eligible to run for the presidency in the first election after Cuba is freed. All other members of the provisional government would be eligible to campaign for the presidency.

The Cuban exiles were reported to have agreed that the election would be held 18 months after Prime Minister Fidel Castro is ousted.

Norton said Jose Miró Cardona, a statesman in his mid-60s who has stood apart from political groups and whose age bars political ambitions, is expected to be tapped for provisional president.

Because years of crisis can be expected in the future, he warned members to live within their means and not mortgage their hopes or fears. The speaker also urged saving consistently in order to meet emergency needs.

Theodore M. Burton, an assistant to the council twelve apostles, also said Lake City, explained the ordinance of baptism. Other speakers were Ephraim Miller, Robert Duffie, Don Chandler, Hawkins Harper, Alton Nye, Lano Elison, and Zollinger.

Takes Jail

DALLAS, Tex., March 8 (AP)—There are times when a man would rather go to jail than face his wife. This was one of them.

Police report that last driver James Bennington took a man home late Sunday after a night out, and he did not have the $1.75 left to pay the fare.

Bennington called police while the man waited. When two officers arrived, the man's wife appeared on the scene, accused at her husband, and offered to pay the bill.

He did.

Redstone Arsenal Expands From Bullets to Big Missiles

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., March 8 (AP)—Redstone Arsenal, "newest" and "fastest" of the civilian space age," is expected to be capable of placing its missiles from bullets to the farthest reaches of space in 20 years.

On July 1, 1960, the army ballistic missile agency (ABMA) was transferred to the national aeronautics and space administration and the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center was born.

It shares the arsenal with the missile command and control center which began in 1941.

In the early days, the center was the facilities with the guidance corps. Chemical shells and complete rounds of ammunition were assembled.

Operations were curtailed in 1945 with the close of World War II. The plans were maintained in standby condition until 1948. In late 1949, the transfer of guided missile research and development facilities and personnel from Ft. Belvoir, Tenn., to Redstone began.

Today, the Marshall Space Flight Center has the job of space exploration, while the army's work is devoted to military missiles, but both agencies continue to show the same cooperation since before the war.

Part of the arsenal is leased for civil training and the livestock and still deer that roam the area have learned to accept as everyday occurrence the noise of many efforts to reach into the heavens.

Dr. Werner von Braun, German-born scientist who worked on the Nazi V1 and V2 programs, heads the Marshall space flight center. The naturalized American booster will be transported to Cape Canaveral, Fla., by specially constructed barge for its test flight.

The barge, the Palomares, will travel the Tennessee, Ohio and Mississippi rivers, the Gulf of Mexico and intercoastal waterways to reach Cape Canaveral—a distance of more than 2,000 miles. The second stage of the complete missile, manufactured on the West Coast, will have to be transported through the Panama canal to Huntsville, checked out and then sent to Canaveral.

The personnel of the flight center are pioneers in rocketry and space research. The group developing the Redstone and Jupiter ballistic missiles and conducted several outstanding space projects including the launching of the free world's first satellite, Explorer I.

The flight center, in addition to work on the Saturn, is also working on space probes with the Juno II booster and providing the Red-

Pilot for X15 Says Ship to Fly in Space

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif., March 8 (AP)—The pilot who set the X15 rocketship to a world speed record of better than four times the speed of sound said today he is convinced the experimental craft can take him to the edge of space.

Major Robert White, who flew the X15 above the desert at more than 2,500 miles an hour yesterday in the first national aeronautics and space administration (NASA) test of the X15's 440,000 horsepower rocket engine.

Goal "Within Reach"

"I believe now we will probably reach our design goals without any difficulty," said the 36-year-old pilot after the record flight.

Goals of the 125 million dollar program are flying the dart-shaped plane 100 miles above the Earth at 4,000 miles an hour. The first maximum performance flight is scheduled for sometime this summer.

Temperatures on the leading edge of the plane climbed to 700 degrees on White's eight-minute speed run over this desert base, melting the heat-resistant paint on the craft's nose and tail.

Those temperatures are hot enough to melt a nickel, but the special alloy incombustible X15 is made of a capable of withstanding temperatures up to 1,200 degrees.

Old Records Held

White held both unofficial world altitude and speed records in earlier X15 flights even before yesterday. He had flown X15's powered by two 8,000-horsepower engines to 275 miles an hour and 135,000 feet altitude.

White was asked if he felt any danger when he knew he passed the old speed mark. "I hope not," he said, smiling. "No, I don't think I did."

Thrill of Flight Open

White did, however, comment on the acceleration of the new super rocket that generated 51,000 pounds of thrust. He said it kept him pressed against the seat during the full two minutes the rocket was burning.

On yesterday's flight too, the rocket was advanced only half-way forward and speed flats were opened for two-thirds of the flight.

Cub Pack to Be Organized At Buhl Meet

Bill Roberts, president, announced a recent school assembly showed a great deal of interest by youngsters in the Cub Scout program. He announced parents of youngsters interested in scouting should attend a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in the P. H. Buhl school auditorium.

A founders day program was presented by Mrs. Albert Lewis. She also reported on the progress of the forthcoming Buhl PTA musical "Honey Bunch" to be presented March 20-22. She noted most of the cast is sewing costumes and volunteer help is needed.

Grundys Wills His Wealth to Charity Only

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., March 8.—Millionsaire Joseph R. Grundy was a long time power in the Republican party and once defended "honest lobbying" but he left millions for charity and not one cent for politics.

Grundy, confidant of presidents who died Friday in Nassau, the Bahamas at the age of 90, left the bulk of his estate, estimated for probate purposes at $18 million dollars, to the Grundy foundation.

The Quaker leader, who once said "honest lobbying is an inalienable right of every American citizen" specified in his will that the foundation should use the money for "charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes."

Grundy said that the foundation "shall not carry on any propaganda or otherwise attempt to influence legislation and shall not participate in any political campaign."

The will, filed in the Bucks county court house yesterday, provides for the operation of the foundation by four executors who have broad powers to use the income for other than political purposes.

Grundy was a founder of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers association. His defense of "honest lobbying" led to his being named a lobbyist for the Hawley-Sinclair tariff act. Opponents called the Grundy act.

Toga-Wearing Man Is One of 'Best-Dressed'

NEW YORK, March 8.—Toga-wearing American artist Raymond Duncan, who discarded conventional men's clothing in 1910, was named with President Kennedy today as one of the "best-dressed" men in the nation.

The selection of Duncan for the Fashion Foundation of America's "best-dressed" list may have been long overdue but it was a long overdue tribute to the first American man to pioneer comfortable clothing for his own sex.

Seed of Revolt Planted

The 30-year-old brother of the late dance innovator, Isadora Duncan, has lectured against suit, vest, tie, shirt, hat, coat and shoes for 50 years in the United States and Europe. He planted the seed of revolt against clothing that restricted the development of the sport shirt, shorts, trousers, bathing trunks, and summer sandals.

"I have been mocked and laughed at for my disdain of uniforms and garments which hamper men's freedom and damage their health," said Duncan on a recent visit to New York from his study headquarters on Park left bank. "I have always been ahead of my time. Now men are catching up with me."

"Different Look"

The Fashion foundation cited Duncan for "the different look." This fashion forerunner, who led the late architect Frank Lloyd Wright who went in for flowing capes, ribbons and broad-brimmed hats.

Duncan shared best-dressed honors with Kennedy, who was cited for his "get-down-to-business appearance." Henry Cabot Lodge, Leo Durocher, Phyllis Diller, Henry Fonda, Bob Hope, Johnny Mathis, businessman Robert F. Kennedy and Joseph P. Kennedy Jr., leader of the New York state assembly.

He Wears Cloth

Duncan wears the cloth for his Greek-style garments and tailors them himself. He also makes his own sandals, from raffia rather than leather because he does not believe in animal skins. His basic garment is a tunic over which he wears a "chiton" or Greek shirt, in cold weather. He never wears stockings and his headgear is a simple cloth band to keep his long hair in place.

New Officers Are Reported For Rotary Club at Burley

BURLEY, March 8.—New Rotary officers were announced by outgoing president A. Glen Anderson, during the club's Tuesday luncheon meeting at Quaker House. There are 53 Rotary members, which have no dues systems at all.

Cliff Brown, first vice president, D. C. Hogan, second vice president, Max Hogg and Richard Smith, all directors, and Walter Smith, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Peter G. Snow, local attorney newly appointed chairman of the year board election drive, introduced Keith Kest, head of health education for the Idaho department of health, Boise, who spoke.

"I hope we do not have to have an epidemic to prove that raw sewage is dangerous," he declared.

"No longer than it takes me to say the words water pollution, 350,000 gallons of water a day are dumped into the Snake river from Burley. An average of 1,000 gallons of sewage is dumped into the river every minute of every day from Burley," he pointed out.

ROK said that "Twin Falls has been forced to obtain a temporary water supply from Rock creek because of the pollution of its water supply."

Water shortage is becoming more acute all over the country, ROK said. Proper methods of sewage disposal are being developed. He said nine Idaho communities are now faced with the problem.

Contestants Are Chosen In Talk Fete

BURLEY, March 8.—A Stephenson will represent the Burley Toastmaster club in the area speech contest to be held March 25 at Twin Falls. It was announced during the club's meeting at the Village Kitchen Monday evening.

Stroke Takes Sir-Beecham, 81 Years Old

LONDON, March 8.—Sir Thomas Beecham, 81, one of the world's most revered orchestral conductors, died today of a stroke.

The famed British musician, who became a baronet on the death of his father and was also knighted for his services to music, had a second cerebral thrombosis. He has been ill for several months and has been confined to his bed after cancelling a number of performances in Europe last year.

Heir Humble Recognized

Beecham was recognized as a masterful interpreter of the classical, but he was equally famous for his ironic humor and razor wit. The fiery, bearded conductor was married to his 77-year-old former secretary in September, 1959, just a year after the death of his second wife.

"My wife has reformed me," Beecham said recently when asked by a London newspaper what he was no longer terrorizing musicians and audiences with his sidling comments.

Another World Created

Beecham's death created still another world in the world of classical music. A little more than four months ago, Greek-born Conductor Dimitrios Mitropoulos died in Milan, Italy, after a heart attack while rehearsing at La Scala opera house.

Much of Beecham's career-forged brilliance was aimed at what he regarded as a definite downbeat in music. He said that good music "stopped in 1925. Since then, nothing has been produced worth listening to."

"In old music you stand alone, alone and naked, and every note you play has got to be perfect. In new music you are surrounded by many wrong notes you play. The music is down with modern Americans are robbing them of about 30 per cent of their house capacity."

To make up some of the loss and keep the allies at length with their operators against the "new" making the outside seas an inch or two narrower than the center.

"No," says one leading artist, "you're a little on the modern side. Don't sit still and try to stay away from the popcorn."

And again where most of those 14 pounds are.

In addition, were sitting a lot of labor statistics show that 12 million American men hold part-time jobs. And before they get 14-16 jobs, they spend 10,000 hours in school seats.

Small wonder that more and more...

American Derriere Broader; Get Center Seat, No Popcorn

NEW YORK, March 8.—(VNA)—You know those signs in historical museums: "Please do not sit in antique chairs."

Well, you probably couldn't even if they let you.

As it turns out, the American derriere is at least four inches broader than it was a century ago, and about two inches broader than it was in 1900.

The Yankee stadium's seats, installed in 1927, measure 10 inches across. 8 1/2 inches across. 8 1/2 inches across.

Conductors part, built two years ago, has 22-inch seats.

When the Met moves to its new home sometime within the next two years, the new seats will probably be close to 24 inches.

What does it all mean?

For one thing, we're getting better and living more quietly than our fathers and their great-grandfathers.

Today, anthropologists say, youngsters are about two inches taller and heavier than their grandparents.

And guess where most of those 14 pounds are.

In addition, were sitting a lot of labor statistics show that 12 million American men hold part-time jobs. And before they get 14-16 jobs, they spend 10,000 hours in school seats.

Small wonder that more and more...

Experts Look For Upturns During April

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said today that the economy "sometime" during the quarter which starts on April 1.

At the same time he admitted that the recession has cut at least 15 billion dollars from the 1960 federal revenues forecast by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in his outgoing budget.

Dillon, testifying before the joint economic committee, also said the new administration feels it can operate within the nation's 4½ percent interest ceiling on long-term bonds.

He said the interest rate issue has become an academic one.

Surplus Not Menaced Dillon did not say whether the loss of federal revenues caused by the recession would wipe out the 14-billion-dollar surplus forecast by Eisenhower for the government.

He said that a realistic picture of the nation's gross national product for this calendar year is based on an upturn starting sometime in the last quarter of the year and carrying through to the end of the year.

He said the economy was the feeling shared by the President's council of economic advisers, who testified before the joint committee Monday.

Red Budget Expected Dillon said the council members' statements that a "quickening" in the pace of recovery might not come until after mid-year may have been given too much emphasis in the press.

He said the administration's forecast of the upturn should come in the second quarter.

With a Kennedy administration budget review scheduled for later this month, many government officials expect the 1960 budget to be in the red.

He said the administration's forecast of the upturn should come in the second quarter.

Steel Making Slump Might Be Near End

PITTSBURGH, March 8.—Some steel executives, looking at improved general orders, believe the steel industry may be recovering from its slump.

An undertone of cautious optimism is prevailing, stemming from a pickup in orders from many smaller customers and evidence they have been ordered to ship.

Unemployment among steelworkers, estimated at some 150,000 by the United Steelworkers, remains about the same.

But some industry officials are prospects of continuing improvement. Roger M. Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel corporation, says increased orders recently indicate "a moderately improved outlook for the steel industry."

Blough adds that this reflects the steel industry's interest on the part of many of its customers over a wide product range.

Similar improvement in orders is reported by Avery C. Adams, chairman of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation. Adams says that indicates the company's low point has been reached and an upturn can be expected before the middle of the year.

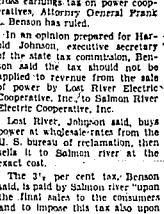

Loran T. Johnson, president of Armco Steel corporation, puts it this way: "The sky is a little brighter now than it was at the beginning of the year."

"We anticipate March shipments will be slightly over February and we are looking for a further pickup in April with a gradual but continuing improvement through the year."

Last week the basic steel industry turned out 1.6 million net tons down 2,000 tons from the previous weeks—tops for 1961 so far.

Reappointment Made BOISE, March 8.—Reappointment of Charles C. Goss, chairman of the Idaho tax commission has been announced from the office of Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

Power Sales at Cost Untaxable

BOISE, March 8.—Sale of electric power by one electric utility to another at actual cost is not subject to Idaho's 3½ percent gross earnings tax on power cooperatives, Attorney General Frank L. Benson has ruled.

In an opinion prepared for Harold Johnson, executive secretary of the State tax commission, Benson said the tax should not be applied to revenue from the sale of power by Lost River Electric Cooperative Inc. to Salmon River Electric Cooperative Inc.

Lost River, Johnson said, buys power at the rate of $1.50 per kilowatt hour from the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, then sells it to Salmon River at the exact cost.

The 3½ percent tax, Benson said, is paid by Salmon River "upon the final sales to the consumers and to impose this tax also upon the transfer from Lost River to Salmon River, in our opinion, results in double taxation."
