Laos Leader Reports More Red Battalions

Communist battalions usually are far under U.S. battalion strength and the overall figure could run anywhere from 10,000 to 20,000 men.

A government communication reporting new massive intervention of North Vietnamese troops into Laos, said a Vietnamese battalion had driven into rebel-held Xiang Khouang province in central Laos and the communist forces were fighting in central Laos. The communication said the royal Laotian army had successfully repelled all communist attacks and inflicted heavy losses against the enemy. TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy's Harvard and other college advisers have many novel ideas for influencing the cost of living, especially the price of staple foods. Their method will be an indirect form of federal control.

The federal government now buys and distributes here and abroad for relief purposes about the billion dollars worth of food and other commodities as part of its anti-communist program. It subsidizes or purchases in all its parent programs many additional billions worth.

These transactions are handled by the agricultural department, the commodity credit corporation, the state department, the new food for peace organization, and the peace corps, which is headed by the President's brother-in-law, J. Edgar Hoover.

Under forthcoming legislative proposals, all of these agencies will be merged and placed under the personal direction of President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

INDIRECT PRICE STABILIZATION—Under the new purchasing system adopted by these agencies as a result of the Presidential directive, they will buy commodities that are selling at too low a price in the domestic market. They will not buy food stuffs which, in the economist's opinion, are too high in price.

Thus, if the theory proposed for President Kennedy's expanded venture for food for the needy here and abroad operates as anticipated, this selective system of purchases and sales prices considered to be excessive, and increase those which are held to be too low.

In view of the federal government's enormous investment in food, which also includes the feeding of several million soldiers here and abroad, this new method of purchasing may be a very wise one for the government, for or when, depending on the conflicting viewpoints.

In short, it will be an indirect but aggressive effort to stabilize prices, taken by new legislation rather than by congressional legislation.

TOO MUCH ON TOO LITTLE—Both of the Kennedy brothers—the President and Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy—think that the cost of living is too high. They both are millionaires. They are also very successful businessmen. They are also very successful businessmen.

Gambling

An Idaho crackdown on gambling in the state is likely to be quite unpopular in some quarters. But E. R. Hopper, commissioner of law enforcement, is on a solid legal ground. He points out that gambling is against the law and he intends to enforce the law. There can be no argument with his stand.

Those people who would contend the anti-gambling laws should not be enforced because they are "unenforceable" are talking through their hats. If gambling is against the law, then there should be no gambling. If the law is "bad" or for some reason or other can't be enforced, then it is up to the state legislators to change the law accordingly with the expressed wishes of the people. No law should be ignored or not enforced for these reasons or other excuses that can be devised quite handily.

Strict enforcement of a law is the fastest way to determine if any change is necessary. If the people of Idaho want a "little" gambling or gambling under certain circumstances, they'll make their wishes known in no uncertain terms under the pressure of strict enforcement.

In one respect Idaho officials now promising a "crackdown" on gambling in Idaho have invited criticism. They speak of "gambling breaking out in various parts of the state" as if it were a new development, something that is "happening now." Such is not the case, and they undoubtedly are well aware of it.

Criticism is warranted when gambling is permitted to exist and grow. Finally it reaches a point where protests are registered by officials or business as significant as to invite public attention. In such cases, promises of a "crackdown" constitute double talk that serves no purpose other than a warning.

Promises of a "crackdown" on gambling are particularly unwelcome in Idaho or anywhere else where gambling is contrary to the law. The immediate effect of such a promise is to close most gambling games. The crackdown usually results in a few arrests and gambling—in the open—at least—becomes quite gambling in its various forms is resumed gradually.

Here is where the enforcement branch of government is open to criticism. If gambling is against the law, it's always against the law and not just when protests are registered or it becomes too open.

Likewise, if a speed limit is 50 miles an hour, arrests should be made at any speed above 50, instead of permitting speeds of say 80 miles an hour before citations. If the speed limit is unwise or unreasonable nothing will bring a change faster than strict enforcement.

There should be no necessity of a periodic "crackdown" in enforcement of any law. It should be a continuing effort.

SHOULD BE UNIFORM OF PURPOSE

Since 1952, the number of people who own corporate stock has increased from 6.4 million to more than 13 million today. In less than 10 years, then, the number of shareholders has more than doubled and there has been a big increase in the number of people whose stock holdings are relatively small.

Among these small stockholders, there are people from all walks of life. Certainly increasing percentages of them are women. This is indeed a switch from many years ago, yet it is in the best traditions of the United States.

Not a few of these women members who are also stockholders must have purchased their stock by buying a stock which they are employed. This would seem normal because they could be expected to have confidence in their firm and would know more about it than other businesses. Could you imagine what must go on in the minds of these stockholder-uniform members whenever he is exposed to labor vs. management arguments? He represents both sides and has interests on both sides.

As a matter of fact, it is possible anyone to be a business and a stockholder. Here we have an example of a worker who also owns part of the firm that employs him. In some respects, he's actually working for himself. In event of a strike in which the union member is called off the job, what can he think of this sort of development? He might also have a few questions to ask himself if a long strike prevented his firm from declaring a dividend.

Actually, the example of the stockholder-uniform member serves to illustrate that it's becoming increasingly difficult to separate capital, labor and management. The interests of all are tied closely together in a day's complex industrial world and what hurts one, hurts all.

OUR PEOPLE, OUR STRENGTH

It is a sign of the strength of this nation when gifted men surrender their talents to service for others when it is within their power to live lives of self-indulgence.

YOU HAVE COMPANY
Dear Pot Shots:
I have never been in jail, but I can find your paper to read.

I guess you call it "premeditated" or something. I can't seem to make my mind up. I'm right, I'm still paying for a note I borrowed last year to pay my income taxes. I've so much interest in it I can't seem to get enough to pay the principal. Now there's a note I won't have to pay for last year.

Burley Slates Chaucer Film

BURLEY, March 24—The public is invited to see a covered film "Chaucer's England" being presented at 2 p.m. Saturday in the "Ann B. Parker" room of the Burley public library.

Charles Graft, English and Latin instructor of the Burley high school, will present the film about the first great English author—Geoffrey Chaucer, who was born in 1340 and died 1400. Part of the film will show England in Chaucer's day and the city of London. Another portion will pertain to the "Canterbury Tales" with commentary by Graft.

The last portion is "The Parson's Tale" which is considered the greatest short story in English literature and the story is portrayed by a professional cast comparable to any commercial film, he notes.

Chaucer was a product of court life and most of his works are of the sophisticated life he knew best. He was a man of wit. Although he lived at the time there were many "plagues in England" never mentioned in his works, but his works do have a range of characters, Graft says.

There will be no charge to see the film.

Expert Claims Fish Confused In Reservoirs

PORTLAND, March 24 (AP)—A fisheries biologist said yesterday salmon in big reservoirs behind dams can't tell which direction is up, or downstream.

Forrest R. Hauck of the Idaho Fish and game commission told a federal power commission hearing that sometimes in the 60-mile-long Brownlie reservoir in the Snake river, winds whip up surface movement of water of strong, or velocity than the normal rate of flow.

Hauck said this is one reason why fingerling salmon do not break the ocean on natural timetable. He said thousands may remain in reservoirs and become wild fish biologists call "rainbow" and are being culled—grown up and able to reproduce the species.

Hauck said the problem is caused through a big problem, he said. They have built a dam in the middle of two feet or more a second in the Columbia and Snake river to use as low-level foot in trying to find the way to move through the reservoir.

Hauck was cross-examined three days by attorneys for the Washington Public Power Supply system and the Pacific Northwest Power company.

The hearing is on conflicting applications by WPPSS and PNPP to build high mountain dams, both on the Snake river. Hauck's testimony related to problems of fish passage around the proposed dams.

Mrs. Evelyn Cooper, chief counsel for WPPSS, depicted fingerling salmon as "confused" and "lost" in the reservoirs. She said the fish were built with that of the following: "It is estimated in the future decline."

Edward M. Malone, research supervisor for the Washington department of fisheries, will go on the stand when the hearing resumes Friday.

Soviet-Backed Poland Priest Unit Disbands

WARSAW, Poland, March 24 (AP)—A communist-backed group of 100 Roman Catholic priests has submitted to a church trial for alleged activities, including the use of force to disband the group.

A majority of the governing board of the "Catholic" (priests association) voted Wednesday to disband after Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, who is leader in a new church-state struggle with Poland's government, gave it until April 1 to do so.

The Rev. Stanislaw M. Tuz, a prominent member of the association, told the "Catholic" disbanding its ultimatum March 14, did of a heart attack 12 hours later.

Father Tuz called an emergency meeting of the board the same day and announced his own decision to quit the group. After a stormy session at which no decision was taken, he returned to his home and collapsed. He was buried in Krakow, Poland, last night.

The priest had held the post of vice general of the archdiocese of Krakow since 1953 without Vatican approval.

He was one of a number of so-called "parish priests" who were expelled from Poland who have been charged by the church with "apostasy"—desertion of faith and religious behavior.

The latest development came in the midst of the cardinal's departure Sunday of Poland's communist party chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka, when he accused of "parodying" the church. The cardinal said he would not deny that "the church is a robot" and declared he would not bend to party "orders."

Gomulka charged that the Vatican was violating the rule of "openness" and martyrdom for the Polish church.

Gomulka's speech appeared to have dissolved a thin truce with the church that had existed since 1956.

Skimpy Space Menu May Be Hard to Take

WASHINGTON, March 24—Outer space may turn out to be pretty distasteful for astronauts with a gourmet's concern about conditions in inner space. Astronauts will have to eat food that is dehydrated and has a long shelf life.

In space, the space agencies are taking seriously of making food for astronauts do double and even triple or quadruple duty. If man is to explore space in person, he must learn to make do with what he has.

This goes for food as well as anything else. It has been estimated that to put one pound of food on the moon, you need 1,000 pounds of rocket engine and fuel. The astronaut will have to eat food that is dehydrated and has a long shelf life.

Dr. Douglas L. Wort of the national aeronautics and space administration is thinking of using dehydrated food for a variety of purposes. He is thinking of using dehydrated food for a variety of purposes.

Fire Damages Building at Former Field in Rupert

Fire of undetermined origin extensively damaged a fieldhouse at the old Memorial football field in Rupert about 4:30 p.m. Thursday. The building, a present-day high school athletic department building, was the property of the Rupert high school athletic department several years ago. Since the present Minidoka county high school was built, it has been utilized for storage. Lee Merrill, school board clerk, said equipment and furnishings were stored there during the summer, but there was nothing there now and all electric power had been disconnected months ago. The fire apparently started near where the old furnace was located. The furnace has not been in operation since the power was turned off, the clerk said. Both Rupert fire department trucks and the rural truck were called. School officials said what remained of the building will be dismantled. (Staff photo-entire)

Leader Gives 5 Principles For Policies

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—President Kennedy today set down five "basic principles" he said his administration would follow in shaping tax and spending policies.

As listed by the President in a budget message to congress, they were:

1. Spending "must be adequate to meet effectively and efficiently those essential needs of the nation which require public support."
2. "We can afford to do what must be done, publicly and privately, up to the limit of our economic capacity."
3. "A part from any threat to national security," the federal budget should be in balance over the business cycle, with deficits during slumps offset by surpluses in years of prosperity.
4. Budget policy "should contribute to economic growth and maximum employment within a reasonable setting of price stability."
5. "We will not waste our resources on inefficient or undesirable expenditure simply because the economy is slack, nor, in order to a surplus, will we deny our people essential services or security simply because the economy is prosperous."

As the nation grows so will federal non-defense outlays. "But we must not allow expenditures to rise of their own momentum. It is my determined purpose to be a prudent steward of the public funds—to obtain a dollar's worth of results for every dollar we spend."

Donna Owen, junior leader, gave the lesson on health.

New members were Judy Brooks, Margaret Quenell, Leslie Ann Quenell and David Loughmiller. Mrs. Loughmiller served refreshments.

The next meeting will be Friday, March 31, at the Grange hall with Penny Ward and Rose Ann Pastorio to furnish refreshments.

Group Discusses New Legislation

Southeastern district health department staff members met Thursday in Twin Falls to discuss legislation passed affecting the department.

The group was told that the state food handlers health certificate law was rescinded, which means that food handlers, barbers, beauty operators, bartenders, meat cutters and bakers do not need health certificates.

Keith Harvey, acting director of the district health department, noted that this law doesn't affect ordinances which require sanitation tests for food handlers.

The group also discussed the responsibility of the local health departments to keep the state health department advised and informed of the problems.

Others posting bonds were George Hardin, R. D. Hojce, J. A. Coates, Dorothy Will, J. Evan Robertson, C. Christensen, Phillip Williams and Mrs. Harb Billing.

Idaho Slates Welcome Mat For Tourists

BOISE, March 24 (AP)—Idaho's department of commerce and development today laid out plans on how to lay out the welcome mat to the 1961 Idaho tourist.

Department Secretary Louis Shaddock said his staff was keeping in mind that tourism is now the state's third largest industry. He pointed out that tourism brought in 125 million dollars in 1960, trailing only the agriculture and lumbering industries.

But, she added, "The emphasis will be on how to treat them as guests rather than how to separate them from their money. We have discussed and reviewed group projects that are designed to make traveling Americans more aware of Idaho than ever before."

One big project of the department this year, Miss Shaddock said, will be the travel editor tours initiated several years ago.

"We have not set definite dates yet," she said, "but we will have five and possibly six travel editor tours designed to encourage year-round vacationing in Idaho."

For the first time, the department will take other editors, hunting, fishing and boating."

A stepped-up filming program promoting travel within the state also is in the works. Before the year is up, she said, the department will have put these movies on screens throughout the country.

Miss Shaddock said there will be at least five new films, including a revision of the old Craters of the Moon picture and an additional film taken along the St. Joe river in north Idaho.

More publicity ready-to-use kits will be sent to metropolitan newspapers and national magazines around the country and brochures and pamphlets will be circulated in wider areas.

Eichmann Chose to Reveal Himself as 'Exterminator' as Reich Began to Fall

By TOM A. CULLEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"I have been a nice fellow up to now," Adolf Eichmann smiled. "Now I will be a bloodhound."

The place and time: Budapest, 1944. It was the twilight of the gods. Those Nordic gods with the crooked nasal crosses on their foreheads.

The allied powers were closing in. The third reich was beginning to crack everywhere. The end of the road for its architects was either suicide in a Berlin bunker or trial before a war crimes tribunal in Nuremberg.

It was precisely this moment that Adolf Eichmann chose to throw off his mask and to stand revealed before the world as Hitler's exterminator.

Jonathan Wells, a 17-year-old high school senior from Twin Falls, Idaho, had been a prize winner in the contest. He had been a prize winner in the contest. He had been a prize winner in the contest.

"I resolved to show how well a job could be done when the commander stands 100 per cent behind it," he says.

All told, Eichmann transported more than 500,000 Hungarian Jews to Auschwitz in a period of four months. Toward the end, 10,000 Jews were being gassed and cremated daily.

"We used spiritual methods to reach our goals," Eichmann said. Even Rudolf Hoess, the British commandant of Auschwitz, complained of overwork. "He could not understand why I showed absolutely no consideration for him and his staff," says Eichmann. "But how could I? I was just as limited a specialist in my own sector as he was in his."

There followed the world's episode of Eichmann trying to barter Jewish lives for equipment for the German army.

On April 25, 1944, Eichmann summoned Joel Brand, then a leader of the Budapest Jews and now living in Israel.

"I expect you know who I am," Eichmann began, patting the floor of his hotel suite. "I was in charge of the actions in Germany and Poland and Czechoslovakia. Now it is Hungary's turn."

Brand observed Eichmann closely, noted his steely eyes, his bandaged right hand, his slumped speech.

"Now then," Eichmann continued, "I am prepared to sell you one million Jews for 10,000 wintered trucks and trailers. Goods for blood, blood for goods."

The wintered trucks, it turned out, were to be used by SS cavalry divisions on the Russian front. And if you want to do a deal on the side," Eichmann added slyly, "fill them with a few thousand tons of tea and coffee and soap and so on. We'll give you a decent price."

Eichmann arranged for Brand to fly to Istanbul to negotiate with Zionist leaders for the trucks, meanwhile holding Brand, mother, wife and children as hostages.

It was at the end of a fortnight, the deal had not been concluded, the transports of Hungarian Jews to Auschwitz was to be resumed.

Brand flew first to Istanbul, then to Aleppo in Syria, where he was arrested by British authorities and taken to Cairo. The deal was out of the question as far as the allied high command was concerned. If for no other reason than that Himmler and Eichmann could not be trusted to keep the bargain.

Eichmann was beside himself. "Now I shall order the SS to put on gas," he rasped.

The order went to Auschwitz to stop the fires of its crematoria—able shipments of Jews would be arriving from Hungary daily.

One who watched the loadings and who has given an unforgettable description of them is Phillip von Freudiger, a member of the Hungarian Jewish central council.

"The victims were driven to the embarkation points with maximum brutality," says von Freudiger.

"In one village many people lay across the railway line to stop the trains. They were all shot."

"In another, a young mother who was unable to move, having just given birth to twins, was taken by her hands and feet and hurled into the truck and her newborn children flung in after her."

Evan Rudolf Hoess, the commandant of Auschwitz, complained about the condition of the Jews who arrived in the trucks and her newborn children flung in after her.

"Next, Eichmann's capture."

Migratory Labor Film Is Criticized

WASHINGTON, March 24 (U-P)—Sen. Spearhead L. Holland, D. Fla., said the Columbia Broadcasting system had damaged the nation by the sale abroad of "Harvest of Shame," a documentary film on migratory farm workers.

"That the CBS officials responsible could, for a few pieces of silver, permit this malicious and false slander against our nation to be presented abroad is unpardonable," Holland told the senate.

The senate protested that the film, presented over the CBS television network last Nov. 25, had been shown in England Tuesday night by the British Broadcasting corporation under arrangement with CBS.

Ways to Plug Tax Loophole Being Sought

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP)—The Kennedy administration is looking for ways to curb the tax taking in the form of gifts and loans to make life for showing to the country.

It has long been known that U.S. manufacturers who move their production here, as well as those who sell the foreign-made products here, as well as a variety of citizens who, at some point, find it possible to escape U.S. income tax by making abroad for 18 months or more.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said today that his department is proposing to Congress to consider this year legislation which would disallow such practices. Dillon said that such practices, which cost the U.S. Treasury about $1 billion a year, are a discreditable part of the U.S. economy.

Under the new legislation, which would be a part of the annual appropriations bill, the U.S. Treasury would be authorized to require that U.S. manufacturers who move their production here, as well as those who sell the foreign-made products here, as well as a variety of citizens who, at some point, find it possible to escape U.S. income tax by making abroad for 18 months or more.

English Spies' Suit to Brew Up New Storm

LONDON, March 24 (U-P)—A major political storm in international relations was building up in Britain over how a Soviet spy ring could operate five years in this tiny little island without being detected.

Conviction of a Soviet master spy, an American couple and two British lovers for stealing royal navy secrets still left musing links in the case England's lord chief justice called "a thriller."

Strange Radio Moscow transmission on a secret wave length 10 days after the five were caught led security officials to believe that other Soviet spies were in Britain were being alerted to change their call signs and codes.

Major Topics For Kennedy Plans Viewed

WASHINGTON, March 24 (U-P)—President Kennedy sent a special message to Congress today covering budget recommendations, except for defense. Briefly, here are some of the major topics covered:

Expenditures: The budget for the fiscal year, ending June 30 will show a deficit of over two billion dollars due to the effects of the recession.

The budget for the next fiscal year, which would be balanced if revenue estimates in former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's budget message were accurate. Indications are revenues will fall 10 billion dollars short of the 62 billion dollars Eisenhower estimated for fiscal 1967.

Education: Kennedy recommended a large increase in spending for aid to education; more funds for scientific research and health care; including self-financed health insurance for the aged under social security; more money for housing, urban renewal and area redevelopment; new money in funds for natural resource development, and a selective increase in funds for education.

Supplies: Kennedy asked Congress to permit agencies to shift some funds to meet new developments not in view when the year's budget was drafted, subject to approval of the budget bureau.

Interest: Kennedy called for the same 64-million-dollar increase in the federal deficit as recommended by Eisenhower and also asked funds for more internal revenue.

DEBT: Kennedy asked for a permanent increase in the 260-billion-dollar debt ceiling, to expire June 30, to 280 billion dollars.

Minico FFA Unit Sets Sales Event

RUPERT, March 24 (U-P)—Members of the Minico chapters of Future Farmers of America are joining with other chapters over the nation in a selling contest as a fund raising project and for the chance to win a 41 Ford tractor which will be awarded to the group with the highest sales.

The items being sold are tractor cushions designed and manufactured in Montgomery, Ala., by Morton Ders, former star farmer from his state. He outlined the campaign as a means of helping FFA members since each chapter participating receives a large commission on the items.

Keith Merrill, Jr., Paul, vocational agriculture instructor, reported that the Minico boys had sold 30 items the first day of the contest.

Meets Nehru
NEW DELHI, India, March 24 (U-P)—Averell Harriman delayed his return to Washington to meet again with Prime Minister Nehru today, apparently on the Laotian situation.

President Kennedy's moving ambassador, who talked with Nehru for more than two hours, was scheduled to leave today but changed his plans at the last minute.

Drained

STARBUCK, Pa., March 24 (U-P)—Some well-aged whiskey has finally gone down the drain.

It was seized in 1942, at a time when the army's Camp Blanding was operating in Bradford county near Starbuck. Although the liquor was taxed, Bradford was—and still is—a dry county.

Several plans for disposing of the whiskey, including one for selling it, have been proposed over the years. But none was carried out.

Sheriff P. D. Reddish said many of the seals and caps on the bottles had been broken and the whiskey now longer had commercial value.

With permission of the county commission, the sheriff poured into a sewer the remains of 214 bottles, 105 pints and 273 half pints.

Payment for Farmers Set Over Grains

OMAHA, March 24 (U-P)—The government hopes to be ready to pay some farmers in cash or kind under the emergency feed grains program in about 10 days, a spokesman said yesterday.

The drive to get the plan moving was kicked off by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, at a meeting here of cornbelt farm officials.

The feed grains law was passed by the senate Wednesday and signed shortly afterward by the President.

Edwin A. Jancke, associate administrator of the commodity stabilization service, said the state commitment which met here will go back to instruct county committees and ASO field men in their home states next week.

"By the first of the following week—about 10 days from now—county ASO offices will be ready for farmers to sign up," Jancke said.

As soon as the farmers have signed, they become eligible to collect advance payments on feed grain acres they plan to take out of production. The payments will be in grain, from present surplus stocks, or in cash.

Chrysler

NEWPORT-WINDSOR-NEW YORKER-300/G
There's not a jr. edition in the whole family!

BOB REESE MOTOR CO. • 500 Block 2nd Ave. So.

is the price of the Newport, a full-size Chrysler with a load of Chrysler value! Unibody—all-welded, chemically treated to stay newer longer. Torsion-bar suspension—time-tested favorite of auto experts. Alternator—unlike generators, produces current even at idle. Firebolt V-8—a new Chrysler engine that goes on regular. Plus more of the good things every Chrysler gives you (like the full-size pride you'll have when you drive it home!).

*This is the Newport 4-door sedan. You'll find this Chrysler suggested retail price (exclusive of destination charge) at the car above at your local dealer's. Most extra charge for whitewall tires. Price does not reflect the very attractive trade-in offer we're prepared to make on your present car.
