Senator Points Out Crisis Areas in Africa

Sen. Frank Church, left, points out to William Koch, president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, one of the two crises in Africa that bring into focus "rival anti-colonial feelings." The senator spoke to some 100 persons gathered Friday noon at the American Legion hall on the problems and situations that he saw on his tour of Africa last November and December. (Staff photo-entourage)

Solon Warns of Troubles in Africa; Notes Hope Remains

"The red flag will fly over Africa from Cairo to Capetown within 10 years if the sources of capital from the free world are cut off," Sen. Frank Church told some 100 persons Friday noon at the American Legion hall.

The senator, whose address took the place of the regular Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce board of directors meeting, reported on the problems, developments and situations in Africa that he observed during his tour of the continent last November and December. The tour covered 18 countries and 7,000 miles.

The senator told the group, "The things I observed on my tour are of cardinal importance to the United States. It is noted that the main question of Africa, as well as Asia and Latin America, is 'Why are you (the United States) so rich and we so poor?'"

The United States, he continued, sees the world divided into Communist countries and the democratic countries and areas such as Africa, Asia and Latin America. "We need a world of free men and have notes," he stressed that this is important for us to understand.

Illustrating the proportion of income and population, he said that the United States and Canada have less than 10 per cent of the world's population and more than two-thirds of its income, while the major undeveloped countries and areas have more than two-thirds of its population and less than 10 per cent of its income.

"The African countries have one common affliction—poverty. Diseases, wars and superstitions all are a blight of the continent of Africa," the senator stated.

He was the subject of foreign aid in Africa and other undeveloped countries of the world—Benjamin Chas. said that he believes it is more blessed to give than to receive.

He commented that his reason for that attitude was not based on the Christian charity idea, but on the idea that some foreign aid is necessary.

There are 16 new independent countries in Africa resulting from the loss of colonies of western European powers such as England, France, Italy, Belgium and Germany, he continued.

"Independence has come so suddenly for these countries for three reasons. First, because colonialism can't last long; second, because the colonies that were looted by World War I were completely unready for World War II, and third, because the outnumbered Caucasians who were ruling the Negroes were subject to pressure they couldn't withstand," he explained.

"The independent African countries are a great force that the United States should recognize and not resist. We should welcome and seek to win the confidence and friendship of these new governments who are given to the principle of the right of self-determination.

"There are two crises now in Africa that focus the rival anti-colonial feelings—the Algerian war and the Belgian Congo."

He reviewed some of the statistics and happenings connected with the Algerian war, noting that everyone knows there can be only one outcome.

"The United States should help to bring about the end of the war. The country provides a rich source of exploitation for the Communists and, if the war doesn't end, Algeria could be the next battleground for the Soviet Union."

"The British and French desire

North Side's By-Laws Are Due Changes

great credit for the way they prepared the people in their letters for independence and then let them become independent.

"However, when the Belgian Congo became independent, the people were not prepared, no Congolese engineers or technicians and only one Congolese lawyer. They were unprepared to govern themselves."

He reviewed the events in the Congolese government after the country's becoming independent.

"It is an conviction that with patience and determination the United States can prevent the fire in the Belgian Congo," he noted.

The United States is beginning to adopt a more realistic foreign policy, the senator commented. "An enormous outpouring of money is not needed by the persons of Africa. They need technical aid, teachers, agricultural colleges, agricultural extension people, land reclamation and other such services as well as the Kennedy administration will be good if it is handled right."

"Even with a better foreign aid policy, the United States may not be able to solve the problem of Africa," because the old western colonial tradition is resented and because of our own racial problems.

"In the long run, if the United States does not change its policy and is patient and long suffering and tries to understand the people, we will have a good chance of keeping the Soviet Union away."

Hearing for Budget Slated For April 24

RUPERT, April 15 — The proposed budget for the school year 1961-62 will be discussed at a public hearing April 24 at the new Memorial school in Rupert, according to Supt. Camden Meyer.

The budget is increased $282,641 over last year, Meyer said, and is based on an assumed valuation of $17,543,525.50 compared to last year's figure of $17,173,725. This amount is to be $2,770 per child as compared to the state average of $4,000.

Meyer said that the largest share of the increase is for the raise in teachers' salaries, amounting to $115,000. Clerical salaries are also being increased, he said, but that there was a decrease in the cost of textbooks.

The present budget shows an operating cost of about $255 per child, which under the proposed budget increase, would be raised to $282 per child, Meyer pointed out, that the state average is $283 per child, and in Oregon, the cost is $477. Montana spends $426 per child; Utah, $340; Wyoming, $454; Nevada $438, and over the nation, the average is $260 per child.

The transportation cost under the new budget will amount to $100,000, he said.

Among other needs discussed was additional space in the agricultural department and the music department of the high school. Meyer said there also is need for additional storage space for the hot bunk materials.

Burley Notes Interest for Citizen Party

BURLEY, April 15 — Interest has been created in the Burley city election April 25 with the formation of the United Citizen's Party.

The platform of the party will include increased efficiency with the adoption of programs, including appraisal of waste and work load, to encourage initiative in performance of duties by city employees, inauguration of city motor pool to promote economy in use of city vehicles, detailed audit and modernization of city accounting procedures, establishment of an adequate inventory of secure accountability of all city property, and designation of funds to be spent only for their designed purpose.

The government by the people plan covers citizens, advice will be sought upon major issues by the mayor and council before final determination, all citizens will be given every opportunity to air their views and problems, and whenever possible city employees shall be residents of the city of Burley.

The third plank, dealing with promotion of new business, covers adoption of policies creating a favorable climate to encourage new business and industry. The party advocates the revision of election districts through consideration to be given to changing the city's election districts based upon latest census.

The fifth plank deals with the property planning of the city's growth by cooperating with county commissioners to promote a county-wide system of planning growth.

The party believes there should be an expanded recreational program by the inauguration of an improved year around system of adequately directed recreation for our children. It stands for improved city relations with every consideration being given to property owners in future city expansion. City policies must consider the individual first and foremost, the platform states.

The last plank calls for the improvement of air and river pollution problems through investigation of air pollution and odor problems and endorsement of congen- er every opportunity to air their views and problems, and when-

Headon Crash Kills Two Women

The mangled front end of the 1955 Ford driven by Mrs. Gladys E. Castle, Buhl, is mule evidence of the force of impact with which the two cars hit in the fatal accident which killed Mrs. Castle and Mr. Hub 31. Crafton, Buhl, at 11:25 p.m. Friday. The cars hit headon near the center stripe on U. S. Highway 30 some 100 yards east of the Buhl city limits. The impact rammed the Ford 13 feet back from the point of impact. The Crafton car was knocked backwards about two feet. Both women, rushed to Stagle Valley Memorial hospital by ambulance, died of chest injuries. Mrs. Crafton died at 11:40 a.m. Saturday and Mrs. Castle at 2:15 a.m. (Staff engraving)

Hagerman - Tuttle League to Pish Scholastic Achievement

HAGERMAN, April 15—At a recent meeting of the Hagerman-Tuttle Improvement League, a community scholastic fund was started by interested persons in the area to encourage and reward scholastic achievement.

George Lemmon was named coordinator. The actual administration of funds will be supervised by the executive committee of the league.

The program will be carried in three phases:

(1) A science-math award will be given to the student achieving the highest scores in class experiments in the areas of biology, physics, chemistry and mathematics.

Prizes from another community holding a college degree in some field of science will be judged. High school awards will be for first place and $10 for second, and junior high awards will be $10 and $5.

(2) A plaque with room to engrave the names of the valedictorian and salutatorian from each graduating class will be donated to the school. In addition, personal awards will also be given at the annual commencement exercises to the valedictorian and salutatorian and two other students.

These two awards will be given to students who have made outstanding scholastic achievement in substance classes and/or English-Speech classes. The winners will be determined by scores received on national merit examinations.

(3) Incentive scholarships will be awarded at times to help deserving graduates enter college. This award will be of a special nature and will be granted on the basis of college interests, scholastic achievement and the need for help to attend college.

The selection of a winner for any scholarship will be the joint responsibility of the high school faculty and the administering body of the fund. However, no student will be eligible who does not rank at least fifth or better in the graduating class.

Donors said six donors have pledged $145 per year on a continuing basis for a period of four years.

Gooding and Milner Water Start Delayed

GOODING, April 15.—The water turn-on date for the Milner-Gooding canal system has been postponed until Friday, April 21, according to Leon Grieve, manager of the Big Wood Canal company. Directors representing American Falls water users on both the Big Wood and American Falls districts No. 2 boards took the action at a special meeting last night at Gooding. They postponed the water turn-on after learning that canal companies further upstream on the Snake would be forced to turn on water at the same time. These canal companies have not been using their natural flow rights in order to help fill American Falls reservoir, the directors learned. By cooperating with the other companies, the Milner-Gooding canal system hopes to make better use of the short water supply available.

PTA to Install Officers

SHOSHONE, April 15.—The Shoshone PTA will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the Lincoln school building. New officers will be installed. The program, on recreation, will be under direction of Mrs. Howard Menning.

Pat Boone to Make His Only TV Appearance of Year Soon

HOLLYWOOD, April 15 (AP)—Pat Boone makes his only TV appearance of the season this week in his current fight against age-spousure.

Two years ago the teen-age idol was bombarding the public with a weekly TV show, movies, records, personal appearances, book-of-the-month club selections and weekly columns in a national magazine.

"I was forcing myself on people from all angles," he admitted yesterday. "I was lucky with my attempts at success in all areas. But how long could I go on? I was practically drowning and undressing in public, until I had to wonder how people could take it any longer."

"I had to decide whether to go into a fourth year of TV or make a few more records, a few more personal appearances, a few more TV appearances, a few more magazine columns and a few more book-of-the-month club selections."

"Then I used to call me on the phone and give me advice all day long. The 26-year-old singer explained.

"He suggested I leave TV right away, adding that I should never give away anything I'm trying to sell. I realized that my record sales had dropped off when my TV show was going well. He was right."

"He also pointed out that I had done only three or four TV programs in his entire career to avoid overexposure."

"Then I thought about Jackie Gleason, Sid Caesar and Milton Berle—some of the great ones. No performer can last on TV forever. I was 23 years old, and at best maybe I could hope for 10 years of TV success. By the time I would be 33 I'd have to go into hibernation."

Pat had been forewarned by old promoter Crosby back in 1957 when the young singer first launched his half-hour show.

"Bling wrote me a letter, although we'd never met," Pat said. "He told me he would never do a weekly show and quoted George M. Cohan's famous words: 'Never stay on too long. The best way to stick around in show business is to be good, be brief and be scarce.'"

"I ignored Bling, but I should have taken his advice. I read that letter over and over again. He was the wisest thing I ever had as an idol. Well, I finally got his message."

Last spring Pat dropped the TV show after a two picture "Journey to the Center of the Earth" and "All Hands on Deck," both of which have cleared 20th Century-Fox mopups.

Hansen Sets Hearing for Hike in Levy

HANSEN, April 15 — A public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Grange hall to explain the need for the increase from a 10 to 25 mill levy.

Village voters will be asked to approve the 25 mill levy at the regular municipal election April 25 when three trustees will be chosen. Terms of Robert Perkins, Asael Dilworth and Joe Ennet are expiring.

At a special village board meeting this week, trustees discussed the tentative budget of $16,810. Included in the budget is the cost of resurfacing Main Street through Waters and laying new pipe for city water service.

After advice from the auditor and legal adviser, board members decided it was necessary to increase the general fund levy from 10 to 25 mills.

Seeking reelection to trustee posts are Perkins and Ennet. Other vying petitions of candidacy are Ivan Allison, Warren Robinson, Corinne Horn and John Traubner.

Nuttle, director of the seed laboratories of the Asgrow seed company, Piquette, said 89 per cent of dry seed is grown in Idaho where the low humidity and abundant sunshine are important factors in producing top quality seed.

The film, with some of the shots photographed in Magic Valley, traced the production of improved vegetable seed strains from the selection of seed parents, the growing and harvesting, the many tests for germination, tenderness and flavor for table use. Yield, resistance to disease, uniformity of size, color, maturing were other factors considered.

Six growing seasons are required before a new strain is thoroughly tested and available for commercial use and in packets on the store rack, it was stated. Nuttle also demonstrated the

Featured Speaker Welcomed at Burley Spring Luncheon

Mrs. B. V. Holcomb, program chairman of the Iris Better Homes annual spring luncheon at the Burley-Presbyterian church, welcomes Mrs. Aldrich Bowler, Hagerman, center, guest speaker. Mrs. Whitney Hamuson, right, president, presided.

Life in Holland Related For Burley Club Women

BURLEY, April 15.—The women of Holland only cook one meal a day while the other meals are of cheese and bread, reported Mrs. Aldrich Bowler, Hagerman, when she spoke at the Iris Better Homes annual spring luncheon Wednesday afternoon at the Burley Presbyterian church. Mrs. Bowler related her experiences while living in Holland when her husband was a Publight exchange English teacher.

When it told the women I cooked three meals a day they reacted "fish, don't let anyone hear you," she said.

The impression they have of American women is of one who sits around smoking cigarettes and drinking coffee all morning. Since they just cook the one meal a day, they have the time to keep their windows shining. This is their Friday job, she explained.

Holland is about the size of Idaho plus Owyee county and has a population of about 12 million persons. Over 60 per cent of their land was reclaimed, she reported.

The country is active in trade. There are three types of religion, the Protestant, Catholic and the Open Bera. All schools are church schools and are supported by the state. Everything in the country seems to be connected with religion including business, politics and unions. There are 12 political parties. The door has been opened to women more since the war, but it is still very difficult for a woman to enter any profession, she declared.

The average engagement of a woman there is seven years. Girls are quite mature when they are married. The homes are stable and divorce is rare. It is a common thing to see older women with little children, she said.

Mrs. Bowler recalled the homes do not have refrigerators nor ovens and all cooking is done by boiling or frying. The town in which they lived, Harderwijk, had to bake, unwrapped loaves of bread are delivered door to door as is the meat. The people do not eat much meat, but do eat a lot of cheese. However, they do not have cottage cheese, she noted.

Most of the windmills are gone from the countryside. Many were replaced by more modern equipment. A dye has been built across Zeller Ze and what was once a salt water inlet is now fresh water. The town of 15,000 that did depend on the fishing industry has now turned to farming and industries. Village streets are choked with bicycles and there are few cars. People there are very class conscious. There are the farmers and the industrialists, and the latter seem to be snobbish, she reported.

Families are large and the children play in the streets as the yards are full of flowers. Everyone displays a flag at his home on special occasions.

Most of the homes do not have vacuum cleaners, but there is no central heating and they couldn't understand why Americans like warm water to wash with. She stated that most of the women did their washings by hand and she was thankful to have a washing machine.

Every five years the country observes liberation day and honors its war heroes. The Bowlers were there during the celebration. It is the custom to walk a mile to the cemetery and back in complete silence. This means about two hours of complete silence. The next day a lively celebration is held. In many of the remote villages the old native costumes are still worn and people live as they did 100 years ago. This has created a real problem to the country, she reported.

They think installment buying is immoral, but they think nothing of their own national debt for retaining their land which will take them 100 years to pay off. This is an honorable debt, she explained.

She told the group that they had to learn to speak the language.

Mrs. Bowler mentioned the well kept parks of the country and the wild game preserves which was like stepping into an area miles from civilization.

Her husband taught English in the Harderwijk high school and his exchange teacher came from Amsterdam and taught in Bilbo.

Teaching is a great deal different in Holland as the teacher merely presents the material. If a pupil needs help, he has to get a tutor, she explained.

She mentioned that while she was in Holland she studied pottery under a famous teacher, Frans Sic.

Members and guests of the club were seated at linen covered tables decorated with wood and glass windmills and arrangements of red tulips and yellow jonquils in polished wooden bowls.

Those in charge of arrangements were Mrs. Tom Reynolds, Mrs. William Morgan and Mrs. Holcomb. The luncheon was served by the United Presbyterian Women.

Film Is Feature For WSCS Meet Held in Lincoln

SHOSHONE, April 15.—A film from the Church World Service division entitled, "A Matter of Fact," was shown at the Methodist church. Women's Society of Christian Service meeting this week. The devotions were led by Mrs. John Thomas.

Mrs. Eddie Tanaka and Mrs. P. H. Dinamore were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Mary Penick conducted the meeting.

Pians were made for the cooked food counter and lunch counter at the church auction. Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Roy Gibson and Mrs. Gage were handed in charge of the food and Mrs. Ward Mills, Mrs. Leonard Daugherty, Mrs. William Kerner and Mrs. George Young handled the lunch counter.

Next meeting will be held April 19 at the home of Mrs. Dinamore with Mrs. Tanaka co-hostess.

Relationship between the children and their parents that there is friendly and mutual interest in the correspondence. A mature relationship that makes suspicion and hiding out of the question.

Girls in their early teens, should write to their parents, not to their boy friends. This circumstance of today will be someone else's nearest and dearest tomorrow, and those notes have a way of turning up at most embarrassing moments.

Mothers know about this and try to tell their daughters and sons about it. Often to no avail.

Letter writing should be cultivated for more than one reason, the first being its daily use as one grows older and has more associations with friends and with business. One phase of this is dislike and fear: "penpals," the Pal may be all that one could wish and again he may not be anything of the kind. One does not know, so where children are concerned, in my opinion, it is better not to write to strangers. There are plenty of relatives, family friends, to write to and keep in touch with through the year. Even then, one should be careful about the contents of letters because they become records.

Parents should know about children's correspondents, and if the right relationship exists between them they will know without going to extremes about it.

What bothered me was the relationship between the parents and their young daughter. How did such a situation arise in the first place. Why did daughter want to hide her letters? Why did her mother feel she had to read them? Things were fundamentally wrong with the child-parent relations. There should have been confidence between them by this time.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

A teen-age girl, second year in high school, complains that her mother opens and reads her mail, and that she burned a note a boy-friend had sent her. She wanted to know if she wasn't justified in having her mail sent to a chum's house? She had done so and her chum's mother told her mother, and she was taken out of school, away from all her friends and sent to a private school.

What bothered me was the relationship between the parents and their young daughter. How did such a situation arise in the first place. Why did daughter want to hide her letters? Why did her mother feel she had to read them? Things were fundamentally wrong with the child-parent relations. There should have been confidence between them by this time.

Cubs Use 4-Run Homer in Ninth To Stop Braves

Al Heist hit the first grand slam-homer of his major league career in the ninth inning, bringing up a 5-6 tie and ending the Cubs' 9-5 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Saturday. It was the second successive day a homer in the ninth enabled the Cubs to whip the Braves, who were hit one for a 3-2 Cub triumph.

Heist's clout off Don Nippert came with two men in on Wrigley field and the umpire apparently determined to call the name after seeing the score remained tied.

The winner was Don Eklund, who was credited for a relief win Friday. He succeeded Cub starter Glen Hobbie in the ninth.

Milwaukee's Carl Willey displaced leads of 4-1 and 5-2 and was closed in the fifth after Ron Blalock homer and Ernie Banks' triple.

Sam Breglio, a 21-game winner for the St. Louis Cardinals last season, shut out the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 with two singles in a ten-shortened five-inning game that was his first victory of the season.

The delay was the first of this infant season for Cincinnati, which had opened with three straight losses.

Time was called with two out in the Cincinnati sixth. They were leading 2-0. The Cubs' pitcher announced he intended to protect the game. Hutch conducted the multiphase crown.

Dallas Green of the Philadelphia Phillies shut out the San Francisco Giants 4-0 with five hits, ending a three-game San Francisco winning streak.

Frank Gonzalez' two-run homer in the fourth inning was all Green needed.

Young Juan Marchal of the Cincinnati Reds was unimpaired and pitched better than he has in the eight days of working out of the club.

Bill Virdon slammed two homers and Bob Friend pitched well in nearly three years as Pittsburgh defeated Los Angeles 4-1 in a record-tying 14-inning game.

The Pirates played off five double plays and the Dodgers took advantage of the extra innings.

It would surprise practically no one if either produced the knock-out.

Hobby Noted For Kiwanis

RUPERT, April 15—A program in keeping with hobby month was presented at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Twin Falls Kiwanis club by Harold Caraway, amateur radio operator. Caraway outlined regulations pertaining to the hobby, necessary procedure for obtaining a license for a station and the importance of the important role played by "ham" operators in times of disaster. He said operators with units installed in their cars especially were able to do service in this country since they carried an operating power plant with them, and were not dependent on electric current. He outlined the program followed by the private operator in enforcement of the civil defense code, and with law enforcement officials. A tape was played, giving some of the contacts Caraway has had with other hams from all over the world. Guests introduced were Charles and Portia Caraway, immediate past officers; Don Postar, executive; Doyle Luffert and Don Postar, both Rupert; Ed and Mrs. M. J. Jones, and Al Gedley, Twin Falls. President Frank Hinrichs announced that the next meeting will be during national library week, and as part of the program, the group would tour the Brierley Memorial library. Clarence Swanson is chairman for the April 16 meeting.

Scout, Camp Fire Girls Programs for Mentally Handicapped Spark Interest

(From Page 13) The children do very well. We just have to progress at a slower rate. The value of the work to them is that they belong to a club. This is most important to them. The idea of having a varied adult leadership is important. This gives the children an opportunity to follow other leadership beside the regular classroom teacher. This gives them confidence and a feeling of success they couldn't get in a classroom alone. She explains that children in special education classes become very attached and dependent upon their teacher, and it is important to them that they have additional adult guidance. She says the interest level among the boys is high. They get much joy out of the program and the accomplishments that they make," she says. capped children is rather new. She says the regional and national offices of the Camp Fire Girls are interested in the work that has been done here and have requested a special report. She expects the national headquarters of both groups eventually to develop programs geared for mentally handicapped children. The Camp Scout group made two place mats for the patients at Skyline Manor. They thoroughly enjoyed the little field trip. This is good for them." Civil War Is Discussed by College Head

BURLEY, April 15—Dr. George D. Heston, president of the Magic Valley Christian college, "ABR," addressed members of the Burley Kiwanis club here at a Wednesday luncheon meeting at Cousin Hove's concerning the 100th anniversary of the Civil War. The afternoon of the Civil War is still felt and continues to give grief to the south, he declared. The scars still can be seen. Most of the blame for this dates back to 1861, he said. The reconstruction period and the action taken by congress. The south was hampered by the action there and that is why the "hang over" has been so great, he asserted. Dr. Heston reviewed history leading to the war besting the north which began at 4:30 a.m. April 12, 1861, when a 10-inch mortar was fired by Confederate Lt. Johnson on Ft. Sumter, N.C. Sumter was evacuated on April 14 and the next day Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers, he said. Wayne Konrad, Kiwanis of the day, introduced the speaker. Burley Kiwanis president, Dr. Heston, played a baritone horn solo accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Beverly Coulter. He will play a solo during the district music convention to be held at Kinross high school Friday and Saturday. Announcement was made by Joe Lambert, president of the Kiwanis, that a meeting will be held at the Hotel Burley at 7 p.m. May 8 at the Hotel Burley. Dr. Heston will give the invocation and group singing was led by Jim Adkins.

Guild Members Find Portrait Subject's Face Seen Differently by Each Artist

As a person's face differs from another's, so do the interpretations of it. This is pointed out by several members of the Art Guild of Magic Valley, who frequently gather to paint the same subject at the same time.

Recently, several members of the guild who are interested in portrait painting met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harwood Stone to paint a portrait of Mrs. John Hayes.

The work done by the women during just one sitting illustrates how differently each interprets her model. The painters were Mrs. N. A. Henkelman, president of the guild, Mrs. Robert Carlsson, Mrs. Marshall Lebaron, Mrs. Harwood Stone and Mrs. Leonard Young.

Mrs. Henkelman explains that the group work sessions have certain advantages. The members of the guild who are interested in portrait painting have been working together for some time. Mrs. Henkelman says the artists can help each other as they work by giving each other criticism.

"Often you can't see the mistakes you are making, but another painter can."

"And the competition helps, too," she says, "your interest in painting is heightened and you want to work harder."

Posing as a model for painters isn't the easiest job. It takes about three, three-hour sessions to complete a portrait, additional time is needed for features other than the face. The group usually meets on successive weeks.

Mrs. Henkelman says a good model must be someone who can strike a pose and maintain that

Gooding Civic Leader Recalls Being In Race for Land on Cherokee Strip

GOODING, April 15 — One of the most vivid memories of Herbert Meyer, long-time resident of Gooding and active civic worker throughout his lifetime, is being involved in the race for land in the Oklahoma Cherokee strip.

His reaction to modern-day movies and stories of the event is that the incident has been grossly exaggerated.

Meyer spent much of his youth in Kansas. He was born in Phillipsburg, O., a small town near Dayton. He was born in 1875. His father ran a general store. When Meyer was 6 years old his father bought a farm near Wellington, Kans.

They traveled by train to a small town near Wellington, and there went the rest of the way by horse cart. His father decided to move west because of his health.

Meyer worked on his father's farm until 1905. It was when he was 20 years old, he had the chance to ride in the race for land on the Cherokee strip. He wanted to race for his own claim but he wasn't 21 year old, the minimum age for filing a claim. So he was hired by a neighbor to ride in the race. It seems the race was a little too heavy to make a good jockey.

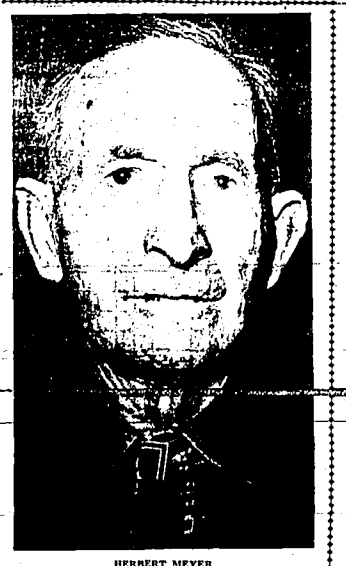

Meyer says the race lasted only about an hour. By that time all the land had been claimed. The men mounted on racehorses were out ahead of the race, followed by the other horsemen and, finally, followed by the men with teams, who had to search for stream crossings.

The land was good and Meyer says there were thousands of men seeking to claim the virgin prairie land. He found some good upland and staked it out for his neighbor — and then returned to work with his father. He says the race has been romanticized, and the hard work that followed the race has been forgotten.

He farmed until 1906. At one time he installed one of the first rural telephone systems in Kansas. He was chief mechanic, and the adds that he had to sleep in the telephone building and serve as the telephone operator after 10 p.m.

In 1908 both Meyer and his brother, Ward, who is still in business with him at the Meyer Hardware company, were attracted to Magic Valley. They came here and started one of the first businesses in Gooding. Their hardware store was built in 1908, the building that now houses Strout and Davis plumbing company. In 1917 they built their present building.

During World War II Meyer died about his age and got in the army. He says I could hold up my end as well as the next one," he says. He spent 11 months in France with the remount service.

The job of the remount service was to care and provide horses for the army.

After the war Meyer returned to Gooding and has operated the hardware business since. He has been active in civic affairs. He has been on the American Falls district No. 3 board of directors since about 1930. He served on the volunteer fire department for many years. He was on it when it was formed and served both as a regular fireman and chief. He has worked as a member of the Gooding hospital board and spent about 16 years on the Gooding city council. He was a charter member of the Gooding TOOP lodge and has served as noble grand.

Meyer always has been an active sportsman. He has been particularly interested in hunting. Just a few years ago he bagged a goat in the Sawtooth mountains. He shot the first elk that was brought into Gooding. He says he shot it the fall of 1908, near Ashton. He shot the elk, dragged it several miles with a horse and

Renovated Reed Organ Adds Touch of Pioneer Days to Kelker Living Room

It was necessary to play music, was found in a boarding house. The ornate, portable, tin-plate organ was discovered in a chicken coop. The children were rooting on it.

The battered sections were taken to Ronald E. Petrie, Boise, who specializes in piano and organ repairs. After some examinations, Petrie the old instrument finally was restored. Petrie replaced missing keys and completely overhauled and retuned the organ.

The dark black walnut was refinished in a cherry wood finish to match the Kelker paneled living room, and from all appearances it looks brand new — and sounds that way, too.

Petrie found out the organ belonged to one of the original families of Boise, which bought the organ in the 1890s.

It was bought by the West College Reed Organ company, Kelker says the manufacturing dates of the organ usually are written on the back of the keys. This organ was manufactured in January, 1893. The organ was left in the family home, which later was turned into a boardinghouse.

Kelker, speaking of the boardinghouse, notes that the owner did something that would make an antique dealer cringe. At one time all the beds in the house were the old-fashioned brass beds, much sought by antique lovers. In an effort to modernize the boardinghouse all the metal headboards of the beds were removed so the beds would resemble Hollywood style beds.

Getting an original chair to match the organ was a problem. The chair, which have a swivel mechanism, which have been purchased by area duck hunters, who value them as duck blind chairs. Kelker finally located two broken chairs and was able to combine the parts into one good chair.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kelker say they are particularly impressed with the organ because of the ornamentation. In their exploring of old ghost towns of the state, they note they have seen few reed organs as large or so ornamental. The organ stands about six and one-half feet tall. The ornamentation was done by power machinery, which Kelker believes was battery powered.
