Plane Is Found, But No Trace of 8 Crew Members

TOKYO, (Sunday), June 11 (P)—Wreckage and life rafts believed to be from a missing U.S. air force plane were reported today to have been found in the Pacific Ocean. No trace was found of the eight crew members. The Japanese maritime safety agency said search planes sighted wreckage, a small life raft and a "collapsed" 20-man lifeboat, Saturday. It was thought they came from a C133 turboprop Cargo-master that disappeared on a flight from the Michigan air force base to Hawaii.

The U.S. air force officials refused to confirm or deny the report wreckage has been sighted. A spokesman said "All I can say now is that the search is continuing."

The Japanese wreckage and the small life raft were found about 185 miles east of Tokyo. The wreckage was about 180 miles east. Carrying 13,000 pounds of cargo, the plane had reported 15 minutes after takeoff but was not heard from again. It had a 10-hour fuel supply.

Shooting Fish in Barrel?

Easy as shooting fish in a barrel? Not quite, but Magic Valley archers are having a ball using their bows and arrows to "shoot" carp and other trash fish. It's one of the "recreational" sports you'll find in your Sunday Feature Section in today's Times-News.

The Cowboy You'll find him in the feature of carrying on page 20. And those children all twin enrolled in the same elementary school, are pictured on the first page of the Feature Section.

Ever see a dog ride a horse? George does it and thinks nothing of it. He's a member of the Magic Valley Archery Club. The story of the dog also appears on the first page of the Feature Section.

And of course you'll find a lighted antler, a mute story of a fight to the death, appears on page 20.

Decompose, a centuries-old riddle is practiced by a Twin Falls woman for everyone in the family.

Tolford, a Twin Falls physician, who is the defendant, who does business as Tolford's pharmacy, charging that a medication, which was used in the treatment of a 2-year-old daughter, Roxanne, June 2, 1959.

The suit was filed May 29 in district court and was disclosed Friday afternoon by Gordon's attorney, Clifford B. Barr, of Cunningham, Twin Falls, and Bell, Ash and Gerry, San Francisco.

The petition states that the firm manufactures and distributes a medication known as "phenol" in sealed bottles for resale to the public. The preparation is said to be "beneficial" and the treatment of a wide variety of harmful infections.

During February or March of 1959, Roxanne developed a minor infection and was treated with the drug. She became ill and slightly inflamed. Her mother, Mrs. Gordon, took her to Tolford to treat her. The petition states that he advised that to use Chloramphenicol and a prescription one teaspoon every six hours over a period of four or five days.

Dr. Tolford's wife, Mrs. Gordon, allegedly had her daughter, Roxanne, taken to Tolford's pharmacy and Dr. Tolford said prescribed the same treatment.

After the petition was filed, Roxanne became ill, appeared to be unduly fatigued and bruised. Mrs. Gordon, who is a nurse, discovered she was afflicted with aplastic anemia, from which she recovered after several months.

Damage High After Storm In Kentucky

RAVENNA, Ky., June 10 (U)—Relief units started this morning to help in the cleanup of homes and property damaged by a storm that swept through several business and residential districts here more than 30 people and left 30 or more families homeless. Damage was estimated in excess of one million dollars.

"They all must have made out OK," said Webb. He explained there had been no need to set up public shelters, although a few families were displaced. "They all eked out of here some place last night," he said.

The only death occurred 23 miles away at Belle Point in adjoining Taylor county. A heavy timber from a partly-constructed dam fell on Valerie Jo Collins, 9, who was visiting her grandfather. She is from Newport, Ky.

"Our people are out of the panic stage now," Webb commented. "The people are settled down. We are setting a lot of help."

Utah Sabotage Remains Mystery, but Work Believed Done by Professional

SALT LAKE CITY, June 10 (U)—It was two weeks since someone blew up three isolated telephone exchange stations in the high-altitude Lake desert. Who did it and why remains publicly unanswered questions. The FBI is continuing its intensive investigation.

Whether the Utah sabotage was merely malicious damage or the plot of a foreign agent still is speculative among security sources. Kenneth B. Keane, R-N.Y., noted an article in the publication "Radio and Broadcast" in which the bombings could have been part of a sabotage training program.

The article suggested that the sabotage was done by a group of graduates of a Soviet espionage school in East Germany. Gen. Robert W. Stewart, who has charged to support the theory and said investigators do not share that conviction.

Since the explosions, guards patrol relay stations in Utah, Wyoming and Colorado have checked several suspicious cars at line-with-guards. But FBI agents believe these incidents have been linked to the sabotage.

Another air force witness, Brig. Gen. John H. Brestle, air force deputy director of telecommunication, told a senate judiciary subcommittee the mysterious sabotage demonstrate a need for tougher laws to curb malicious damage to communications facilities.

Man Missing From Secret U.S. Agency

WASHINGTON, June 10 (U)—A 29-year-old employee of the atomic energy commission was missing today but officials discounted any idea that he was involved in a communist spy ring.

William Hyler Covington vanished early last week and was the only member of the commission's staff who was missing today but officials discounted any idea that he was involved in a communist spy ring.

Urgency of the search was emphasized by the commission's summer two NSA code clerks, both considerably higher on the employment scale — disappeared and later turned up in Moscow.

These men, Beron P. Mitchell and William H. Martin, both have been serving as Soviet propagandists since their defection.

The NSA is engaged in a search for the whereabouts of electronic communications. Its activities are so secret that its employees are forbidden to tell friends where they work.

The defense department, which has been searching for Covington, returned to work May 31 after a two-month absence after an operation failed to get him out of the hospital. He needed further medical treatment and has not reported for work since.

T.F. Is Selected for Role in U.S. Air Recovery Program

Twin Falls, Boise and Pocatello have been selected as sites in a nation-wide defense effort to provide support to aid injured crewmen, refuel planes and repair battle damage, under the air force's recovery squadron program.

This selection, made simultaneously in Washington by the staff and members of the Idaho congressional delegation, calls for Air Force Reserve units to be alerted to join together a mobile organization made up of reservists and volunteers capable of immediate response in time of emergency.

The idea of the recovery squadron program, according to Maj. Clyde H. Rogan, commander of the air force reserve center in Boise, is to speed the return to active service of military aircraft and to assist damaged aircraft returning from combat action.

Boise will serve as group headquarters and will direct the mobilization in the other two cities. Air force support for such squadrons in the way of material

The Standard Oil of Ohio tank truck, loaded with gas, from the Anthony Wayne Trail near the downtown area. The two-tank vehicle "took a turn" and the front tank overturned. The cab ended up between the two tanks.

The truck burst into flames. Firemen attempted to extinguish the blaze. A crowd had gathered when the truck exploded.

It took firemen an hour to bring the fire under control.

The injured included 10 firemen and two policemen. Most of the rest were bystanders, including Mrs. Lopez, son, Ricky, 9. Eight city hospitals treated the injured.

"As soon as we put water on it (the truck), it exploded," said Fire Chief Arnold Papenhagen. "Two blocks away. The most critically injured were firemen attempting to extinguish the burning truck when it exploded."

"One fireman came running out of the smoke with his clothing on fire," said Mrs. Philip O. Lopez who lives nearby. "He fell down on the grass and

Fall Almost Ended Career

Maria Virginia Halverston, 36, Is Found Dead at Home

Blue Lakes boulevard north, was found dead in her bed at 1:45 p.m. Sunday by Deputy Sheriff D. A. Cain.

Deputy Cain went to check the rooming house, reported that Mrs. Halverston's employer called the sheriff's office and reported she had not been in work since last Sunday evening.

Dr. J. Woodson Greed, acting county coroner, reported there "no evidence of foul play and no sign of a struggle," adding that it appeared to be a natural death. He estimated she had been dead since Sunday.

This county Sheriff James Benham said he will request an autopsy. Mrs. Halverston fell at a chair last Saturday at the Municipal golf course and injured her right wrist. She was taken out at the course Sunday evening and had not returned since. Whitehead said he was called and called the sheriff to check on her. Sheriff Benham and Howard Cain had been to the home of Mrs. Halverston and were in upstairs apartment.

Mass for Mrs. Halverston will be celebrated Wednesday at 10 a.m. St. Edward's Catholic church and a rosary recitation will be held at 10:30 a.m. at the same church. Final rites will be conducted at the Pocatello cemetery.

Trapeze Star's Recovery Has Fast Become Circus Legend

Speators at Magic Valley circus Friday and Saturday will see a brilliant young trapeze star whose unexpected and complete recovery from a near-fatal fall is fast becoming circus legend.

Several years ago, during a performance in Tacoma, Spanish trapeze star Miss Mara fell 44 feet to the ground when a small bolt supporting her rigging came loose. She landed on her back, shoulder, left arm, left leg and pelvic area. She was taken to a hospital where the girl did not lose consciousness, and lay in full view of the audience until a doctor could be summoned.

Tacoma specialists were at first doubtful that Miss Mara would survive. After five months in the hospital, and swathed in a plaster cast from neck to heels, she was flown home to Sarasota, Fla., where she entered the hospital. It was here that her remarkable powers of recovery were first apparent, but leading doctors believed that although she might walk again, she would have great understanding of her own body.

Several months later, with her cast removed, she was able to get about with crutches, she sought the advice of Dr. A. J. Matthews, Sarasota, physician whose great understanding of her own body.

After this, Mara embarked upon a long, tedious and often painful course of exercise and massage aimed at strengthening injured muscles, the daily aerobics returned to her life's work, resuming the same daring routines that had first made her famous.

"Today there is absolutely no evidence of the shattering fall that almost ended her career, and circus experts agree that her act is now even more spectacular than when she first returned in the United States eight years ago."

In explaining her recovery, Dr. Matthews says that although the suspense and massage helped somewhat, it was her powerful determination and immense courage that enabled her to overcome the physical odds against her being able to perform again.

Seamen Spend 5 Days in Chamber

On Flight Tests

POCAATELO, June 10—Two navy volunteers today stepped from a pressure chamber where they spent five days breathing pure oxygen in a simulated altitude of 34,000 feet in an experiment determining the best type of clothing for space flight.

Navy doctors examined the men at the end of the five-day period and said both were in excellent condition, appearing to have suffered no physical harm.

Joseph F. Prucino, 24, Wilmington, Del., and Billy Leo Scronce, 26, Lincoln, N. C., participated in the test. Both are enlisted men.

Prucino wore the same type of space suit astronaut Alan B. Shepard wore during his 15-minute regular flight suit used on routine flights. Prucino also ate a meal of steak and potatoes during the flight. Scronce wore a regular navy blue uniform.

Doctors said it would take some time for testing to determine if the type clothing worn would affect an astronaut's physical or psychological well-being during long flights.

Flood Levels For Kootenai Are Lowering

BONNERS FERRY, June 10 (AP)—The unruly and unpredictable Kootenai river made what appeared to be its final fling north of here last night and flood heights had high hopes today that the three-week-long battle was about over.

A dike broke 25 miles south of Crater, B. C. last night, flooding 2,700 acres and bringing to 1,033 the amount of land flooded during the river's current rampage. The break relieved pressure on other dikes and today's water level reading was 34.27, one and one-half feet lower than the midnight reading of 35.28. Weather bureau predictions are for a drop to 33.4 feet Monday and 32.2 Tuesday. Nominal flood level at Bonners Ferry is 33 feet.

Further encouraging signs were in the drop of water level readings upstream at Libby, Mont., where the area has been unaffected by dike breaks, and in the easing of water overflow problems downstream at Kootenai Lake in Canada.

Flood engineers said there remained greatest dangers of dike breaks in downstream areas near the Canadian border. Another so-called "hot spot" is just northwest of Bonners Ferry where a dike was threatening to slough off. Of 2,172 men recruited since the June period of the Kootenai flood threat here, about 800 were retained for work.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 10 (AP)—The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Shaddy, Buhl, who was flown to Salt Lake City's Primary Children's hospital Friday was reported doing pretty well today.

Her condition was listed as fair. A nurse said she spent a good night.

The infant, Tracy Lynn Shaddy, who was born six days ago in Twin Falls, was struck by seizures of unknown origin and flown to the Salt Lake City hospital for treatment.

Fatal Jive

LONDON, June 10 (AP)—Pretty June Dalton, 37, tried to jive and it could have been the violent dancing that killed her, a police pathologist says.

She died suddenly last week-end and Dr. Francis Camps reports "Death was due to hemorrhage of the spine at the neck — an injury that could have been caused by jiving."

Six Freedom Riders Jailed In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., June 10 (AP)—A group of six "Freedom riders" rolled into the Greyhound bus terminal here today, boasting the total number of riders to 101. Previously, 98 others had been jailed after "convicting" an interstate bus company of racial discrimination.

Failure to obey an officers' command to get on a Jackson bus train and air terminals since May 21.

Capt. J. L. Ray arrested the six after they left the bus and went directly to the restaurant corner. Four white persons and one Negro were seated and another Negro was standing nearby at the time of the arrest.

The group was sponsored by the Student Non-Violent movement in Nashville, Tenn.

A national chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality in St. Louis, Mo., Charles T. Ollman says the group plans to send 15 or 20 more Freedom riders to Jackson in about 10 days.

Five residents of Berkeley, Calif., say they plan to leave for New Orleans June 17 and board a bus to Jackson in tests of Mississippi segregation.

As its arrests continue, the problem of jail space in Jackson increases. When the number is sufficient to create jail saturation and space problems, Sheriff J. R. Coffey is expected to move the prisoners elsewhere.

Juliette Law formed the first Girl Scout troop with 12 members at Savannah, Ga., in 1912.

He Suggests Leaders Should Pay for Castro's Bulldozers

Editor, Times-News:—About all you can hear on television and radio is denigrating the South on the recent question and the newspaper editors are also spending 500 bulldozers to Castro so he can bulldoze our airbase out of communist Cuba.

Eleanor Roosevelt, Milton Eisenhower and Walter Reuther want people to raise the money to pay for the bulldozers and President Kennedy approves, according to the press.

Now why didn't they ask Eleanor Roosevelt and all living Presidents to donate their $25,000 pensions and $50,000 expense accounts. Milton Eisenhower should ask President Eisenhower to refuse to take the army pension of $18,000 reported. The House of Representatives.

Editor Urges Improvement of Local Crossing

Editor, Times-News:—I don't know how many people cross the railroad tracks on Shoshone street in one day, 100, 200 or probably many more.

It looks to me like someone would have said something about it before now. I think at times that South Park is the forgotten part of town.

Let's have something done to improve that crossing. I was in Burley last week and had occasion to cross their crossings. Not a bump. The same thing could be done here.

I'm proud of our town. Let's make it one of the best in the nation.

Publicity Draws Thanks on Fifth T.F. Fiesta Event

Editor, Times-News:—I may express our appreciation for the assistance and cooperation you and your staff gave in making the fifth annual Mexican fiesta in Twin Falls on June 3.

The publicity received in this paper added considerably to the attendance at the fiesta.

It is our opinion that this fiesta is serving a very worthwhile function in bringing together the citizens of Magic Valley and the migrant laborers on whom we depend so much for the successful growing of our crops.

Idaho Amateur Slated in Boise

BOISE, June 10 (AP)—The 1961 men's state amateur golf tournament will be held at the Hillcrest Country club in Boise July 15-22. It is the first time since 1943 that the event has been held in Boise. Entries are now being taken and will close at 1 p.m. July 18. The field for the match play tournament will be limited to 160.

Qualifying date for the tournament will be July 10 after which the entrants will be grouped into flights on the basis of their qualifying scores. Trophies will be awarded the winners in each flight. Defending champion is Babe Hickey, Pocatello.

Losers Vinesar Bend Merrill (4-4) started his own downfall in the fourth by bobbling Chuck Hillier's putt on the 18th hole. Hillier followed with a putt which third baseman Don Hoak threw wildly into center field. Hoak bunted and reached first under Dick Stuart's tag. Arouz scored on Ed Brunsaw's sacrifice fly after he and Mays worked a double steal.

The Milwaukee Braves blended four homers with Don McClellan's stout "weller" pitching to defeat the Chicago Cubs 5-4. The four homers—two each by pitcher Lew Burdette, Frank Bowling, Leo Mays and Eddie Mathews—gave Milwaukee a total of 14 in three successive games, tying major league records. The record was set by the New York Yankees in 1936.

After the Cubs kayped Burdette during a two-run fifth, McClellan (2-0) came aboard and pitched a two-hitter the rest of the way. Chicago grabbed a 3-0 lead during the first two innings before Burdette and Bowling struck loser Cliff Stobbe for their homers in the third.

Delegates decided to consider a Norwegian proposal concerning prechampionship qualifications to reduce the number of entrants at the next ISU congress in 1963. An Austrian proposal to reduce the maximum quota of entrants from each nation from five to four was rejected.

Lowman Wins Title In Overtime Match

Jess Lowman stared defeat in the face on the first two overtime holes Saturday and then defeated the 21st green to win the Twin Falls Men's Golf association handicap championship. Lowman, playing erratic golf this spring, could thank Hulbert's suddenly erratic putter for the chance to win.

The match was tight all the way. Ours into the 16th hole, Hulbert had a one-hole edge but just as there when he boled the 16th four-putt hole. The duo split the tricky 17th hole with bogies and then finished the overtime by paring the 18th. Hulbert, after timing into free trouble on his second shot, scrambled neatly to get down in five.

The two-holes of leisure for Lowman started on the 19th. Hulbert, usually a top putter, missed a five-foot birdie putt and the duo halved the hole. One the next one, Hulbert, evidently shaken by the missed birdie putt, pushed a two-footer past the hole and again Lowman birdied it.

It ended on the 21st green where Lowman clipped putt to the pin while Hulbert was 20 feet away. The putting hitters got him again and he three putted while Lowman READ TIMES-NEWS WANT ADS

The Russel Sox broke out with three runs in the eighth to win the fourth Billings pitch. Bill Hickie, who pitched the seventh, Relief and winning pitcher Willie Hooker opened the rest of the double and took third on Jose Valledares' single. A walk loaded the bases. Hooker scored on a single by Bill Hicks, and Jim Hicks singled in two more.

Hooker, who joined the team Sunday, came on in relief with the bases loaded in 6-11 and put out the Pocatello fire. He kept doubling the embarrasment of the Chiefs, striking out two hits and striking out five.

Bill Hicks hit a solo homer in the third for the winners, and Gene Duffy did likewise to lead off the fifth inning.

The Chiefs got their third run in the seventh on a triple by Ross and a single by Gil Hodges. Joey Jay rang up his seventh consecutive victory, pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-2 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals with some nine-inning relief help from Bill Henry.

Former Redbird Don Blasingame led the Reds' attack with four hits, including a two-run single which put Cincinnati ahead for good in the fifth inning. Wally Pajk homered in the sixth.

Eichmann Is Calm During Horror Trial

JERUSALEM, June 10 (AP)— Adolf Eichmann, 46, whose name means "Man-of-Oak" in German, is sitting through recital of a procession of horrors blamed largely on him with a remarkable lack of calm.

The former Gestapo officer has given no sign of sharing the emotion that has exhausted others in the courtroom during nine weeks of prosecution testimony on the Nazi murder of six million Jews.

The state's case now has consumed 252 hours of testimony since the trial began April 11.

The record, taken in Hebrew and translated into English, German and French, so far runs more than 600,000 words. The state produced 1,400 documents and offered the eyewitness accounts of 100 men and women, most of them Jews who survived.

An official reported that the research, legal talent, security arrangements and other aspects of the trial so far have cost Israel the equivalent of one and a quarter million dollars. There are few complaints in Israel about the expense.

Idaho Guard Camp Period Half Ended

BOISE, June 10 (AP)— Artillery units of the Idaho national guard arrived here today and prepared equipment to move into the field Monday for platoon exercises.

For 2,000 other guardsmen from armored cavalry units of southern Idaho, today meant half of their annual two-week maneuvers were behind them. They were given a week-end pass after undergoing inspections.

Meanwhile, in southeast Idaho, Maj. Gen. John E. Walsh, Idaho adjutant general, reviewed a dress parade of guardsmen from engineering units. The engineers are constructing forest roads as part of their training exercises.

Walsh will fly back to Boise Tuesday.

This is the second year Miss Love has received the award.

She was graduated at the commencement exercises June 8.

Miss Love served as business manager of the 1961 college yearbook and designed the cover.

Vandals Pay for Damage

William Grange, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, looks at checks and currency given to the chamber to pay for replacement of a sign at Shoshone Falls. The sign, erected by the chamber to explain to visitors why the falls are dry frequently, was damaged by youths using spray cans of paint. Identity of the vandals was legended and they were required to raise $81, cost of restoring the sign. (Staff photo-entouring)

Technicians To Confer on Tractor Plan

DETROIT, June 10 (AP)— The Tractors for Freedom committee went ahead today with plans to send a four-member team of technicians to Cuba Monday.

But whether it would have full power to effect a swap with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro for 1,200 prisoners taken in an April invasion was an unanswered question.

The committee spokesman said Castro's cablegram agreeing to accept the technicians appeared to pose to conditions that could not be met. He declined, however, to amplify if this meant the technicians would be given the full power demanded by Castro.

A source close to the committee said, on the other hand, the technicians would not make any decisions and would report back to the committee of their negotiations to trade 500 tractors for prisoners taken by Castro.

The same source, which declined identification, said the technicians would have authority to alter the "mix of various types of tractors" proposed by the committee, subject to its later approval.

It also would advise Cuban authorities on what best uses could be made of the various tractors.

City Commission Will Study Plans On Road Project

Twin Falls city commissioners expect to consider a request of the state department of highways for consideration in the improvement of state highway 74 near the south end of Rock creek bridge at the regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The board also expects to accept a $100,000 award presented by the state insurance fund in recognition of its outstanding efforts in the field of accident prevention.

Other business slated is the approval of building permits and license applications, a report on the city's water, well and approval bills for May.

2 Are Injured In Car Mishap

RICHFIELD, June 10— Nobel Lindsey and Evelyn Collins, both Idaho Falls, were injured seriously at 4:30 a.m. today in a single car accident six miles east of Richfield on highway 24.

Sheriff Thomas Connor investigated and said that the driver of the auto apparently went to sleep. He did not know and could not tell who the driver of the car was.

The car, a 1957 Mercury, was demolished. The car left the highway and rolled through the borrow pit, the sheriff said.

Attendees at St. Benedict's hospital, where the two were taken following the accident, reported this evening that both were in satisfactory condition.

Shooting Trash Fish Is Popular Archery Pastime

Three ardent bowfishermen hold up three large carp they shot along the banks of Snake river, near Niagara springs. This is a popular spring and summer pastime for local archers. From left the archers are Harvey Kreps, Roy Frisbee, both Twin Falls, and Oliver Ingram, Jerome. The sport is encouraged because it helps rid the streams of trash fish. (Staff photo-engraving)

Filer Area Farmer Finds Woodcarving Is Relaxing

FILER, June 10. — When the hobby show was held recently at the Twin Falls Episcopal church, one display caught the attention of many visitors. The display featured the carvings of Paul Hash, a farmer who lives south of Filer. Hash is one of those persons who has become absorbed in a multitude of hobbies in his lifetime. Carving is one he started about eight years ago, but the average person would believe he had spent a lifetime at the work. Most of his carvings depict western scenes, and since he has lived in the Twin Falls and Filer area since he was a

Melbourne's High School Just 'Mirage'

MELBOURNE, Fla., June 10. (AP) — Melbourne high school is obviously a mirage.

It must be because everybody knows you can't. Excuse a high school junior from his class for the next few weeks. He can work on a biology experiment — especially when he can't permit a sophomore to take second-year chemistry when he has not even had the first-year course.

Give a senior credit for a course in trigonometry and advanced mathematics, although he shows up in class only to take a test. Design a special math course for juniors and seniors, and let him work independently. "We are doing a lot of impossible things," admits Principal B. Frank Brown. "We know they are impossible, because so many people tell us so."

Melbourne has the nation's first, and only nongraded high school, the wonder of it is that it has been so long a-borning. "What we are doing here, any school in the country can do it. It has at least 1,200 students," Brown said. "With fewer students than that, there are eight teachers to turn the students loose."

Melbourne is a three-year high school, and it offers all the courses normally found in the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades — and then some. But at Melbourne, all the formal grade barriers have been eliminated. Students are urged to "pick" any subject, at any level they can handle. "If a student's achievement test shows he can do the work, he can leapfrog ahead just by taking his teacher and counselor," Brown said. "He doesn't have to wait until the end of a six-week marking period, a semester or a school year."

Seven Sets of Twins Make Seeing Double Ordinary Event at School

A wayfarer stranger who might have happened to walk through the halls of Harrison school last year could have left the school wondering "if his vision was faulty. Everywhere you looked

Last year there were seven sets of twins enrolled at Harrison school, ranging from the first to the sixth grade. Having this many "look-alikes" running around could be confusing, but according to Mrs. Kathleen Way, principal, such was not the case. She says the only time the twins caused confusion was during lunch hour. First one twin would go through the line. Later another would pass through. Before long the women working in the hot lunch kitchen were thoroughly confused, trying to determine whether one twin was getting more than his share.

The twins, their parents' names and the grade they were in last year are Joan and Joyce McClure, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford L. McClure, first grade; David and Douglas Warner, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Warner, first grade; Sharon and Pamela Sharral, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Sharral, third grade; Sharon and Karen Gratto, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Gratto, fourth grade; Larry and Gary Elshoff, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Richards, fifth grade; Virginia and Veronica Smith, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Smith, sixth grade; and Terry and Jerry Kirkman, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Kirkman, sixth grade.

Two sets of twins graduated from Harrison school this spring — the Smith and Kirkman twins. But Miss Way notes that the high percentage of twins at Harrison was not a new thing.

Next fall two more sets will enroll and fill the gap. They are Kristine and Kathleen Ann Miller, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller, and Glenn Richard and Gordon Lee Blomgren, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Blomgren. They will enroll in the first grade.

Harrison elementary school has more than its share of twins. All three children were scraped there last year. Although two sets of twins were graduated, they will be replaced by two more sets next fall. From front to back, the twins are Joan and Joyce McClure, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford L. McClure, first grade; David and Douglas Warner, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Warner, first grade; Paul and Pamela Sharral, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Sharral, third grade; Sharon and Karen Gratto, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Gratto, fourth grade; Larry and Gary Elshoff, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Richards, fifth grade; Virginia and Veronica Smith, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Smith, sixth grade; and Terry and Jerry Kirkman, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Kirkman, sixth grade. Aren't All Dogs Riders? George Hasn't Been Told CASTLEFORD, June 10.—Some dogs are able to do the near impossible simply because no one tells them they couldn't. This is true in the case of "George," a big, furry dog owned by the Robert Scott family.

"George" rides horses and climbs trees, and if he could talk he probably would ask why every dog doesn't do this. This would be a good question, because "George" goes along far the ride. This has amazed whenever the Scotts daughters—Meredith, 16, and Sandra, 15—ride "Patoot," the family horse that was at one time a wild horse in northern Nevada. "George" goes along far the ride. This has amazed whenever the Scotts daughters—

This is "George" riding position. He first jumped them by accident several months ago. He discovered it was a good thing and has been an avid horse rider ever since. (Staff photo-engraving)

He's Not Big Enough for Purse—Yet

Vern Marlande, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Horne, Rupert, plays with his pet Mr. Gator, who isn't big enough for a purse—yet.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

"Life in Magic Valley" may be all right for most people and some animals, but it isn't cracked up to be for Mr. Gator, or at least, it hasn't contributed much to his health and well being. Mr. Gator, a year-old alligator owned by Vern Marlande, 16-year-old sophomore at the Minidoka county high school, RUPERT, is only 11 1/2 inches long, and under the right water and temperature conditions would probably be about 18 inches.

What Melbourne High School Is Doing Can't Be Done; It Is Only "Mirage"

(From Page 17) one stark exception. "We have no educational television in Melbourne, but we have no plans for it," Brown said. "Television is a positive thing, and youngsters have to be involved in learning."

Local Bowmen Find Plenty Excitement, Fun in Shooting Unwanted Trash Fish

Can't Every Dog Climb? George Can

More than one passerby in the Castleford area has been startled by the antics of a three-year-old dog and the four-year-old horse have been great friends for many months and regularly chase each other through the pasture near the farm house. The riding started by chance when Sandra was riding "Patoot" through the potato fields last fall. The "big dog" often would jump over the side of the horse as she rode, but one day Sandra backed up "George" and he jumped on "Patoot's" back. He has been riding ever since.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Hawley Hill, Regional Conservation Officer, Is Firm Believer in Work

JEROME, June 10 — Hawley Hill, regional conservation officer of the Idaho fish and game department, says conservation is a struggle to the work of a million. "You do it because you believe in the 'good you're doing,'" he says.

Hill's main job is to coordinate the work of 11 full-time and three part-time workers. The part-time men, who are semi-retired, help during the peak seasons. Hill notes most persons think of the conservation officers or game wardens and their law enforcement officers. Actually, this is but a portion of their job, which includes game management, fish management, information and education, administration and improvements.

Wood River's Scouts Report On Camporee

HAILEY, June 10 — Ninety-nine Scouts in the Wood River district attended the annual camporee at the North Fork Scout grounds in Cliffville, Idaho, last weekend.

The boys started arriving at noon Sunday and the afternoon was spent setting up camp and preparing the evening meal. At the evening campfire, each group demonstrated Scout skills. Speakers were — H. Oates and Glenn Wright, Hailey, and Thomas Hatch, Jerome.

Wright, advancement chairman for the Wood River district, told the boys of the necessity of working for advancement in Scouting. William Harting, chairman of the Wood River district, Lloyd Smith, of the national council, and Hatch invited the boys on their camping lists.

The Wood River district is composed of troops from Blaine and Lincoln counties. Troops from Kelso, Hailey, Bellevue, Shoshone, Dietrich and Richfield participated in the camporee.

same stream. Those are referred to as legal size. However, now there is no minimum also although many persons checked by game wardens still worry about the small fish in the creek. The department tries to plant the last stocking of the larger fish about two weeks prior to Labor day.

In the old days the mountain lakes were stocked by pack mules. But the modern method is to use airplanes or helicopters. Hill and his men also are responsible for stocking game birds in the Blaine area.

Hill explains that 74 per cent of the revenue of the state fish and game department is provided from the sale of licenses. Matching funds provide approximately 23 per cent, and miscellaneous income, such as fines, provides about three per cent.

The lot of the conservation officer differs from the average man. "This is not a clock-punching job," Hill says. "Often the conservation officer finds himself in a sleeping bag at night, when other men are at home with their families."

"They often must do their work in driving rain or blizzards, and they are always subject to special assignments, such as coping with severe winter damage to wintering grounds, or canals or reservoirs going dry. But we believe in the work we are doing."

Antlers Tell Story of Wilds

Jack Kretlow displays antlers he found in the south hills, south of Murtaugh. Evidently the two bucks died of starvation after their horns became locked—sometimes last fall. Both were large bucks. Kretlow says they probably weighed about 250 pounds each. Teeth indicated one was 3 and the other was 8 years old. He found the remains of the two bucks where Whiskey gulch empties into Buckhorn canyon. (Staff photo-engraving)

A few weeks ago Jack Kretlow found the remains of two large bucks who died with their antlers locked together, indicating the bucks struggled for weeks during the rutting season last fall.

Filer Man Creates Masterpieces in His Hobby of Carving

Paul Hahb, Filer, shows a carving he recently completed. Hahb took up carving only about eight years ago, but already has more than filled his home with carvings. The only tools he uses are a stockman's knife and a rat-tail file. He estimates it took him more than a winter of spare time to carve this piece. Hahb farms south of Filer. (Staff photo-engraving)

Filer Area Farmer Finds Woodcarving Of Western Scenes Is Relaxing Hobby

WOODS in this area for carving. He is one of his more recent carvings. It is hard to pin down just how much time a carver spends on his work, but Hahb says this particular scene took him all of his spare time for more than one winter.

First he visualizes the scene he wants to carve. Then he draws it on paper. This drawing then is transferred to wood. The excess wood is cut away and then the drawing itself is trimmed off the wood.

"Then you are on your own, and you have only the figure in your imagination," he says. Hahb has discovered that Lomardy paper is one of the better woods in this area for carving.

He says he has never kept track of how long some of his bigger projects take to carve, but he adds that one time he carved a life-size cabin for a special occasion. He started and finished it in one week. It took him five hours.

He says he has never sought out the various hobby shows that are held in the area. He considers a hobby a private thing, and he adds that persons are continually seeking him out asking him to show his carvings.

Hahb has never had an art or carving lesson in his life. He was born and spent the early years of his life in the Blue Ridge mountains. His father was a saw mill operator. Hahb says he wanted to become a commercial cartoonist when he was a young man; his father considered this an unadmirable aspiration, so he never had lessons.

His desire to carve has come from a desire to create something with his hands. At the time he started carving he had just been injured in an accident. He was on crutches for months. He started carving and found it relaxing.

"I don't care how tired I am," he says, "I can always sit down with a knife and whittle on some wood and completely relax."

Hahb is one of those men who in his lifetime has had his share of accidents. He has spent plenty of time in bed and he says he considered it a blessing.

He is an interesting hobby of one of the best therapists in the world. In the last year Hahb has had some trouble with his carving hand. He has arthritis and it is difficult to carve. But devoted hobbyist that he is, he has turned to working with power tools and furniture making. And he says he is getting the same satisfaction out of his new hobby.

Dress Belts Made in Unusual Hobby

Mrs. Evelyn Winters displays some of the decoupage dress belts she has made in what is a relatively unusual hobby in the United States, but old in Europe. Decoupage consists of creating a design by assembling an array of cutouts and pasting them on a surface. Mrs. Winters is one of the first persons to apply it to wearing apparel. (Staff photo-engraving)

"Decoupage" Is Interesting, Unusual Hobby Practiced by Twin Falls Woman

If you have infinite patience and a steady hand, Mrs. Evelyn Winters has the hobby for you. Her hobby is called decoupage; an exacting work with great rewards. Decoupage, as defined by Mrs. Winters, is "the creating or composing of an original design from an assembling of cutouts, and then applying them to a surface. The surface can be anything, limited only by your imagination. Mrs. Winters has taken the art and applied it to an unusual medium, women's clothes and accessories. Mrs. Winters has been a student of decoupage for many years and has registered her own trademark for a type of decoupage. The trademark is Goretaline, which refers to her method of pasting cutouts on needlepoint canvas, rather than on wood, glass, china or other articles. This was originated by Mrs. Winters, and differs from decoupage proper in the medium to which it is applied and the purpose for which it is used. It is an effective decoupage, somewhat simulating the familiar needlecraft work of petit point.

Decoupage Art Used for Wall Hanging

Mrs. Evelyn Winters stands by a wall hanging she created, using the art form known as decoupage, an old-world art that flourished in the 18th century. Only recently it has become popular in the United States. Mrs. Winters has been making her home with her brother, Robert (Jack) Winters, the death of her husband, Gerald Winters, Los Angeles. Many will remember her as the wife of the late Dr. George Jennings, who practiced medicine in Tuffin until his death in 1941. (Staff photo-engraving)

Clare Timberlake, U.S. Ambassador to Congo, Has Discarded Diplomatic Book

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (approach an almost brutal dictatorship in the most difficult place there he appears to be 5 feet, 6 inches tall and completely confident. Timberlake hurried into the embassy from the baking streets one day last July after a conference with the Republic of the Congo. "First I would like a glass of gold beer," he told an aide, "and then I would like to see the ambassador to the Congo discarded the book almost as soon as he arrived last June. For days Timberlake couldn't find President Joseph Kasavubu. He was in the Congo, but eventually found him, just as independence was turning into chaos. They had a pleasant talk. Timberlake, almost daily since then Timberlake has been meeting situations which no diplomat could expect to meet or tolerate. First, there was the late Premier Patrice Lumumba, a man with a personality as formidable as his diplomatic portfolio. Lumumba could spend hours and frequently did. Timberlake has had to keep working in the Congo since the army mutiny, the overthrow, detention and death of Lumumba, a heavy flow of Americans out of the country, an almost total breakdown of the country's government, and the execution of the president. Timberlake, a member of the United States family, a huge United Nations operation including an American airlift program and various other events of an anarchy proportion. Timberlake, who weighed only 117 pounds when he arrived, probably should look haggard and worn. He doesn't. He weighs about the same. In a way, he is glad he comes to his office cool and composed and obviously fascinated by his job. "I am delighted with this assignment," Timberlake said, packing his office. "It is the kind of job I like when you throw the book away and act from general guidelines." Timberlake is a career diplomat whose reflexes are conditioned by earlier posts in Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Zurich, Vienna (during the Spanish civil war), Aden, Bombay, Hamburg, Lima and Bonn. He was chief of the state department's division of African affairs in 1946. He came here to Bonn, where he was minister-counselor. Timberlake is not much diplomatic guile about Timberlake. He makes his impression with his forthright

Vet's Orphan Can Get Help

An "orphan" may have one parent alive and still be eligible for educational assistance under the war orphans education program administered by the veterans administration. Arnold Helweg, contact representative here for the veterans administration, points this out to dispel one of the common misconceptions of the usual understanding that an orphan has lost both parents. The war orphans education program was established by congress in 1946 to assist the children whose veteran-parents' death was the result of disease or injury incurred or aggravated in the line of duty in active service. The death of the veteran-parent from this cause, whether it be father or mother, makes the children "orphans" under the meaning of this law, Helweg said, even though the other parent remains alive. Full information on any phase of this program may be obtained from the veterans administration office at 201 Third avenue east, Twin Falls.

Louver Type Fish Screen Used at Experimental Base

Fish and game department fish screen of the louver type has been designed, built and installed on experimental base near Salmon City. It consists of a vertical "venetian blind" stretched across ditch entrance. Water passes through but bypass fish away from the obstruction and are drawn into a bypass flow.

which they are conducted to safe water. Preliminary experience shows louver design is effective on larger canals where the water supply is unlimited, while the conventional perforated plate type is best for smaller ditches. (Fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

Use of Irrigation Ditch Screens Spares Migrant Sea-Bound Fingerling Salmon

By JIM HUNTHUN

Irrigation ditches and habitat, spurs and grounds have been installed over a span of several years. For example, irrigation water was needed this year as early as April 1 in the Salmon river because of the unusually dry season, and about 40 of the screens went into service.

Traps placed in 11 of the bypass pipes of the screens accounted for over 10,000 tiny fingerling salmon that ordinarily would have entered the irrigation ditches to die in the fields. Department workers assume that other screens and ditches had equally good results in saving baby chinooks, and recent reports say that a considerable number of yearling salmon and steelhead are showing up in the traps.

About 250 or more screens are on the drawing boards and will be built at the department warehouse at Salmon City in the half-million-dollar project. These will be installed in the watershed from Shoup upstream.

Department engineers have designed and built one louver-type fish screen resembling a venetian blind. This has been installed as an experimental model and its value to the conservation of fingerling anadromous fish will determine whether more are built.

The louver system consists of a vertical "venetian blind" stretched across the ditch entrance. Water passes through, but young fish instinctively veer away from the obstruction and are drawn into a bypass from which they are conducted to safe water.

Preliminary experience in Idaho with the pilot model indicates the louver design for fish screens is effective in the larger canals, while the conventional perforated plate design is best for smaller ditches. To date, all but the one experimental design are of this type.

Fingerlings drift downstream by the water depth which are comfortable to them. One-inch fry, for example, are just inches of water above the bank in just inches of water. Larger fingerlings are found further out and big fish generally die in bridges, deeper water except when feeding. Thus the first two bands or layers of fish near the bank usually are the ones diverted into irrigation ditches and certain death.

Fish of any age or size must have moving water flowing past the gills in order to breathe. This is the psychological reason why they drift downstream with the current while leisurely swimming upstream. When a fish remains in one place, the normal breathing out backwards of water from the gills tend to move it forward. The almonack back-packing of its fins counteracts the jet propulsion and keeps the creature immobile.

Like the colloquial kiel bies which always flies backwards so that he can see where he has been, the sea-bound salmon and steelhead migrate swim upstream more slowly than they drift downstream.

Research biologists have debated for years the mystery of the Idaho chinook, growing to adult size in the ocean, but returning to the place of its nativity. It is an amazing story that may never be fully understood; how chinook and steelhead find their way for thousands of miles through the sea, into the major rivers, and to the identical gravel beds of tiny tributaries in which they were spawned three, four and five years previously.

But these same fisheries management specialists who are learning how to migrant fish, it may be just as difficult to find a body of water big as the Pacific Ocean—with a downhill pull all the way!

Severe Fire Season Expected By Shoshone District of BLM

SHOSHONE, June 10—A severe fire season is anticipated by the Shoshone grazing district of the Bureau of Land Management, according to Dale H. Kinnaman, district range manager.

Because of the extremely dry spring, "dust" ranges have matured much earlier this year than in previous years. The local district has had its small range fires already this spring.

Noted Butte lookout, four miles south of Shoshone, will be opened Monday with Carl Kinney and Dale Chatterton to occupy the lookout this season.

Kinnaman looked, 30 miles east of Shoshone, will be manned by Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Walton, District, beginning Wednesday.

The district fire suppression crew consisting of approximately 35 men will be on duty by the latter part of June.

Although some of the past fires have been caused by lightning, the majority have been man-caused, and could have been prevented, Kinnaman said.

Because of the upward trend toward outdoor recreation—hunting, hunting, campers and other persons using the public domain for recreational purposes are urged to be extremely cautious with campfires and cigarettes.

Farmers and other private land owners are urged to comply with the state burning laws which require that any land owner clearing to burn on his land between

May 1 and Oct. 31 must secure a burning permit.

Burning permits on private lands in the Shoshone district can be obtained by contacting the BLM office at Shoshone, telephone TUCKER 6-2208 or TUCKER 6-2209. In areas that are adjacent to the federal range or where it appears fire could spread and damage other private property, permits must be obtained from the sections of the area to be burned and will add the landowner in preparing to make on-the-ground inspection for the fire cooperation failure to comply with the regulations and obtain a burning permit is a misdemeanor punishable by not more than a $500 fine, six months imprisonment or both.

Kinnaman expressed appreciation for the fire cooperation received from land owners during the past fire season.

The Shoshone district included the area from King Hill on the west to American Falls on the east. Snake river on the south and the federal boundary on the north. Anyone spotting a fire of 100 acres or more should immediately report to any of the federal land offices. Numbers called, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., seven days a week, are TUCKER 6-2208, TUCKER 6-2284 or TUCKER 6-2160.
