Senate Sets Hearings on Crime Rings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 — Senate racketeers probe said today they hoped to show in hearings next week how illegal gambling places are crowded devices to make sure their patrons don't "get the juice."

Sen. John F. Kennedy, D., Ark., said he has chosen a four-hour hearing on the gambling racketeering. He said the hearings are the starting point for his Senate investigation of racketeering, which is the growth of organized crime.

British Asked to Make Good On Fence Destroyed in 1777

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19 — Back in the winter of 1777-78 certain of the British troops occupying Philadelphia ran short of fences.

Like many another soldier dodging the hard way of doing things, the shivering Redcoats simply tipped down a board fence around the yard of St. Peter's Episcopal church on what is now exclusive Society hill.

Now, 183 years later, the church is asking the British government to pay for the fence.

183 years, and before long the original site was lost in a staggering accumulation of interest. Using a compound interest table in a financial handbook, one bank official arrived at a total of $108,555.20. Another bank of the exchange, as follows: $107,860.00.

"In view of the length of the fence, which was razed at once," said the Rev. Mr. Keim, "I don't have a computing guide to judge that a reasonable allowance in 1778 would have for it."

"At the same time, it is a well-known fact that the British government was in turn would consider it reasonable to ask for payment of interest at the rate of six per cent compounded annually, in addition to the principal sum of $18."

Thus, what began as a simple fence would amount up to $108,555.20, the Rev. Mr. Keim said. He is leaving the reckoning to the British treasury.

Six per cent interest on $18 for the first year was $1.08. Thereafter, interest was added to the principal each of the

Bernard Baruch Is 91 Years Old

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 — Elder Statesman Bernard Baruch celebrated his 91st birthday anniversary today, but he didn't make much of a fuss about it.

He started off the day with his every-morning swim at his rented summer home in Westbury, Long Island. The rest of his schedule was business as usual, except for a birthday lunch with his three children in his New York apartment.

Baruch made yesterday a special day by agreeing to meet businessmen at a pre-birthday luncheon conference.

He advised the newsmen to stop calling him an "advisor to Presidents." He said a prominent Washington writer once said of that title: "Either Baruch gives busy advice or they don't listen to him."

New Addition Is Ready for T.F. County Fair

Tom Parks, executive secretary, Twin Falls county fair board, opens the door to the 30-by-32-foot addition built onto the art exhibit building at the fairgrounds. The addition was part of a $10,000 construction and repair program carried out this summer on the fairgrounds. The older section, constructed about four years ago, was too small to house all the art exhibits. The new wing has room for 200 large paintings, bringing the total number that may be exhibited to nearly 700 paintings. (Staff photo-entourage)

T.F. County Fairgrounds Have Been Buzzing With Activity This Summer

Twin Falls county fairgrounds have been abuzz with activity this summer as a $10,000 construction and repair program under the direction of Tom Parks, Twin Falls county fair board executive secretary, revamped buildings and added new facilities. Largest addition was the construction of 30-by-32-foot wing onto the art exhibit building. Parks stated the older section, constructed about four years ago, was too small to house the flood of paintings and other art exhibits received each year. The new wing has room for 200 large paintings, bringing the total number that may be exhibited to nearly 700 paintings. Two new restroom facilities have been added. One with facilities for both men and women, constructed across from the dining hall and the other providing facilities for men, was added to existing facilities at the potting building. A set of bleachers across the yard from the grandstand have been boarded up and painted in an effort to help protect the crowd from the elements. Approximately 500 feet of new sidewalk was laid running from the main house to the old home barn. A sidewalk also was installed between the main house and the merchants building, which was built last year, Parks notes. A great deal of work was done on the antique buildings, Parks says, adding that the historical building has been moved away from the antique building and placed above the dining hall. The grandstand was painted on the inside but due to the many home shows and other events held at the arena this summer workers were unable to repaint the outside. Parks explained, "This will be done after the fair, he notes. "Taking care of the fairgrounds is like working in a barber shop," Parks explains. "You sweep up at the end of the day and you can't tell what you have done but you are busy all the time."

AFL-CIO Extends Welcome To Defecting Teamster Unit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — The AFL-CIO union President George Meany is quietly extending a warm welcome to defecting unit of James R. Hoffa's Teamsters union. But Meany at the same time is as determined as ever to spurn bids for the ousted Teamsters' reorganization to be brought back into the federation so long as Hoffa remains union president. Sources close to Meany confirmed today that the AFL-CIO played an encouraging role — with Meany's consent — in the decision of four Cincinnati, O., Teamsters locals to break away from Hoffa's union. The welcome mat is out — these locals sold for these locals comprising about 4,000 members to join individual AFL-CIO unions. Some already are talking with the AFL-CIO brewery workers. The AFL-CIO's regional man in Cincinnati, William L. Kireher, was reliably reported to have been contacted by Hoffa by placing the locals under trusteeship. However, the locals' members have voted overwhelmingly to leave for good. Nor is Cincinnati the only spot Hoffa has met with able-bodied defections since his overwhelming election in early July to a new five-year term as Teamsters president. Over 5,000 Chicago taxi drivers have bolted the Teamsters in a government-aided decision to form their own independent union.

The AFL-CIO's regional man in Cincinnati, William L. Kireher, was reliably reported to have been contacted by Hoffa by placing the locals under trusteeship. However, the locals' members have voted overwhelmingly to leave for good. Nor is Cincinnati the only spot Hoffa has met with able-bodied defections since his overwhelming election in early July to a new five-year term as Teamsters president. Over 5,000 Chicago taxi drivers have bolted the Teamsters in a government-aided decision to form their own independent union.

The welcome mat is out — these locals sold for these locals comprising about 4,000 members to join individual AFL-CIO unions. Some already are talking with the AFL-CIO brewery workers. ## U. P. Flayed For Betrayal In Rail Case

BOISE, Aug. 19—The Union Pacific railroad was accused today of "betraying" Idaho in the granting of a rate reduction for mid-west wheat shipped to the Pacific coast for export.

Dick Smith, Rexburg, a member of the Idaho wheat and grain association, said the accusation after being notified that the transportation bureau had approved a 70-cent-per-hundred weight rate for export wheat shipped from the Great plains to West coast ports.

Smith said Idaho growers pay 75 cents to ship wheat westward from Idaho Falls to California.

Smith said the wheat commission and other trade organizations in Idaho consider the reduction in rates from the Midwest "a firm commitment on the part of Union Pacific to reduce Idaho's freight rates proportionately."

"All of Idaho should be aware of the Union Pacific railroad's part in the freight bureau action," he declared. "The reduction in rates will be the principal carrier in the westward movement of wheat under the new rate."

"Idaho and the Pacific Northwest have been betrayed by the Union Pacific railroad."

"For the Union Pacific to fail to reduce Idaho's freight rates is a clear admission by the railroad that it has no intention of plotting Idaho's wheat and other industries."

"It is ridiculous for the railroad to say it can haul wheat 500 miles from Kansas City to California for 70 cents but cannot haul wheat 100 miles from Idaho Falls for the 55-cent rate which Idaho applied for and was denied."

"To saddle the action was taken in defiance of all major grain exchanges in the United States and the Idaho wheat commission and the Idaho State Wheat Growers association which protested against the preferential mid-west rate at a Chicago hearing by the bureau Aug. 8."

Foreign Aid Appeal Made By Kennedy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—President Kennedy renewed his appeal to congress today for his long-range foreign aid proposals which have come under attack in Capitol Hill.

The President voiced his appeal at a special White House ceremony marking the anniversary of the Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon from the Inter-American Alliance for Progress conference in Uruguay.

Discarding a prepared text, Kennedy repeated calling for the fullest cooperation by the United States in the economic and social development of underdeveloped nations.

The President walked out to the south lawn of the White House to greet Dillon and other members of the U. S. delegation to the conference in Punta del Este, Uruguay.

The President was accompanied by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the senate foreign relations committee and other members of congress and White House officials.

Kennedy opened the brief welcome ceremonies in the White House rose garden by saying, "We want to express our very great satisfaction to the members of the U. S. delegation for their most effective and successful work at the Punta del Este conference. I must say that I believe this conference is one of the most important events in our foreign policy activities in the past six months and we are all hopeful that it offers more for the future in a better life for the people of the world."

At the conference, representatives of 20 American nations signed the charter of the Alliance for Progress, Kennedy's long-range program of aid to Latin America. Cuba declined to sign.

While Dillon was away from Washington, heading the U. S. delegation at Punta del Este, Kennedy said, "we have been working in Washington for foreign aid legislation to support your efforts."

Cans Rate High

NEW YORK (AP)—Soft drinks in cans rate high with American families. A survey by National Family Opinion, Inc., for Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, secured the highest rating in consumer preference for soft drink containers.

The homemakers participating in the survey said that, in their experience, soft drinks in cans are more convenient, easier to dispose of, easier to store, cool faster and stay colder longer than glass bottles.

Visit by Green Giant Officials Is Planned

L. E. FELTON

C. J. TEMPAS

JAMES W. ALGER

... executive officers of the Green Giant company will tour the Buhl area Tuesday with officers of the Producers Container company, a can manufacturing subsidiary of Green Giant, and members of the finance committee of the Green Giant board of directors. The group will study canning operations and see production of cans in Buhl's new plant. After a luncheon today with no-body knowing for sure how he is getting on or his prospects for release.

He was sentenced Aug. 10 last year to 10 years "deprivation of liberty" for spying. The first three were to be served in prison, the remainder in a labor camp imposed at Vladimir, about 100 miles east of Moscow. Powers is said to be working in a paper mill making envelopes.

At the U. S. embassy—all that could be learned was that repeated requests to see Powers had been ignored. The foreign office accepts the requests, then simply gives no reply. The last request was made about a month ago.

In the United States, Barbara Powers, wife of the pilot, said two weeks ago she had received an indication in a letter from her husband that he might be transferred from the prison to a labor camp in about three months.

Embassy officials had no information on the subject but seemed somewhat dubious.

Also scheduled to attend the tour are Louise Shaddock, Boise, director of the Idaho department of commerce and development; James Anderson, research director for the department; Howard Bastron, Boise, executive vice president of the Idaho-Eastern Oregon Development Council; Oregon Mayer, industrial development engineer for Idaho Power company, and Marshall Shells, vice president of the Idaho First National bank, Boise.

Barner notes that invitations have been sent to local and county farm organization representatives, city, county and state legislators, and industrial and business leaders in Magic Valley.

The Buhl area 4-H club met Thursday at the Knoll Orange house. Barner presided. The flag pledge and Cindy Hill led the 4-H pledge. Cynthia Pace received the white elephant.

Donations were given by a Mrs. A. Vanuuden, scalloped eggs; Lura Green, relish plate; Cindy Hill, saw on bureau; Jeanne Dossel, prepare a pot of stitching on an apron, and Donna Blackwell, make and turn a double end for an apron. The members worked on their record books, modeled and practiced for their Grange program.

Guests were Mrs. Roy Blackwell, Mrs. M. R. Vanuuden, Mrs. Gene Hull and Mrs. Jack Jelfreth. The next meeting will be Thursday at the Knoll Orange hall.

Nearly half of the rise in GNP was attributed to an upturn in production and sale of new cars.

The quick recovery from the winter recession was even more vigorous than previously indicated, the commerce department said today.

The department said the annual rate of the gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced—rose from a recession low of 50.8 billion dollars in the January-March quarter to 61.1 billion dollars in the April-June period.

"This represents a faster turnaround than experienced in any of the other postwar recessions," the report said. "The second quarter's advance follows three quarters of mild decline and brought real output back to the pre-recession peak of a year ago."

It was in a car involved in a three-car accident just south of Ketchikan at about 3:30 a.m. today that three young men and one child were treated at the hospital and damaged.

The accident occurred near Donald Justice, Idaho Falls, was taken to Sun Valley hospital for treatment. Frederick Power also was treated and dismissed. The two accidents happened during heavy traffic going to and from Ketchikan Wagon day celebration.

New Wrinkle In Traveling Free Found

Twin Falls police uncovered a new wrinkle in the use of a "rental" car on Friday.

It began when a family of four stopped in a local store and asked to get in contact with the local Moose lodge.

The woman, Mrs. M. J. Morton, 1602 Harrison, an officer in the lodge, then told Mrs. Morton that she was a member of the lodge and her family were on their way to Nebraska to attend the funeral of her father who had been killed in an auto accident.

She stated they had run out of funds and wondered if the local lodge would help them out.

An officer called overheard a conversation where the woman came down to see the family and contacted police.

Taken to the police station, the family admitted they had left their car in the hands of a woman who had been told to take the car to the funeral home.

They told police they had used the car and the card to go to West Virginia where they visited the husband's parents. They were now going to Sacramento, Calif., again using the sob-story technique and the card.

Police turned the card over to Mrs. Morton and sent the family on their way apparently toward Sacramento.

France to Be Asked to Get Out of Bizerte

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 19 — Diplomats predicted today that the U. N. general assembly would ask France next week to get its forces out of Bizerte City and to negotiate with Tunisia on withdrawing them from Bizerte.

French post in the North African country.

It is speculated that more than 30 U. N. members would vote for an Asian-African coalition to demand France to get its forces out of Bizerte.

It is a winning majority of 75-25 of those voting in the 99-nation assembly.

Information sources said there was a possibility the United States would cast a favorable vote and pull several others into majority. But most delegates expected the U. S. delegation to abstain, along with 20 or 25 others. Forecasts of the negative vote ranged from six to 10.

The assembly will start a special session on "The grave situation in Tunisia" Monday. The resolution is expected to be voted on Friday or Saturday. France will boycott the session.

A crisis in Bizerte city was averted last night when French troops held their fire against President Habib Bourguiba's demand that the French evacuate their air and naval base near Bizerte.

The hand-painted miniature of a Russian woman arrived Friday. Inside were five small dolls, to make a major addition to her collection.

Firemen's Role In Mishap Cited

IDAHO FALLS, Aug. 19 (AP) — The role of the fire department at the national reactor testing accident last January was cited today at meetings of the Idaho State Fire school.

John Horan, director of health and safety, Idaho operations of the atomic energy commission, said the AEC fire department was the first to receive the alarm when the reactor exploded.

It also was first at the scene and first to identify the reactor problem. It also provided valuable assistance to health physicists before aiding in decontamination work.

Kidney Surgery Thought Success

BOSTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — A delicate kidney transplant operation between a set of Georgia twins was described as an "apparent success" today by authorities at Peter Bent Brigham hospital here.

Ralph and Robert Wilton, 35, Atlanta, underwent surgery earlier this month. Ralph donated one of his healthy kidneys to Robert, who suffers chronic kidney disease from childhood.

The hospital said preliminary test showed the new kidneys in Robert's body appeared to be compatible.

The Wilson brothers were the 14th pair of identical twins to undergo the kidney transplant surgery which was pioneered at Peter Bent Brigham hospital. One pair of twins who were not identical also has undergone the operation successfully.

U.S. Slates Major Space Launchings

BERKELEY, Calif., Aug. 19 (AP)—A U.S. plan to put a band of radio "fingers" around the Earth is drawing increasingly sharp protests from world astronomers. They express fear the man-made halo could dim astronomical views through telescopes and interfere with their radio instruments. One objected it might "boil off space."

The U.S. project, already approved by President Kennedy, calls for testing the idea of putting a band of hundreds of millions of tiny copper needles around the Earth. Radio messages could be bounced between Earth and the needle band for jam-proof, reliable communications.

A rocket launched by the air force would sew the needles into orbit. Committees of American scientists have okayed the test. They hold it would not interfere with astronomy and that the needles, only 75 pounds in all, will fall away toward Earth from the pressure of sunlight and vanish within two to three years. If the band is put into orbit correctly, at least two vehemently worded resolutions of protest have been submitted for possible action next week by the International Astronomical Union representing 23 countries.

Some of the most famous astronomers are highly critical or doubtful, including Fred Hoyle, Cambridge, Hermann Bondi, London, and E. W. Christensen, Australia. Some Americans have joined the growing ranks of protests, too, and Belgian astronomers have submitted a resolution in opposition to the band.

Services Slated For R. Tisdale, Bliss Area Man

BLISS, Aug. 19—Gravestone services for Ralph P. Tisdale, 56, who died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound from a 20-30 rifle sometime between 8 a.m. and noon Friday at the home of his brother-in-law, Marvin Blane, will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Hagerman cemetery.

Mrs. Blane and her son-in-law were fishing and Blane was out feeding cattle when the shooting occurred. Blane found the body shortly before noon. Blane said that Tisdale had been in poor health for sometime. Elmer Keith Anderson and Dr. Walter E. Anderson, coroner, investigated.

Tisdale was born in Ada, Okla., Oct. 26, 1891. He came to Idaho in 1921 after graduating from high school in Saginaw, Colo. He worked in Twin Falls as an auto mechanic and has lived with his brother-in-law for the past 20 years.

New National Guard Armory To Be Dedicated Saturday

The new $115,000 national guard armory at Frontier field will be dedicated at ceremonies starting at 3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 19, with Maj. Gen. John H. Walsh, Idaho adjutant general, giving the principal speech.

The armory, which houses two Twin Falls guard units, was completed last spring, with costs shared by federal, state and city funds. The building has some 13,000 square feet of space with facilities for civic functions, according to Maj. Lawrence Laughridge, adjutant for the 11th armored cavalry regiment.

The dedication program will begin at 3 p.m. with an open house and guided tour of the building. Helicopters from aviation company, Boise, will be on display, Major Laughridge said.

The dedication ceremony will begin at 6:30 p.m. with Major Laughridge in charge. In addition to the speech by General Walsh, Vernon Riddie, Twin Falls city commission chairman, will speak. Members of the armory board and the Chamber of Commerce will be introduced.

Guests will include Col. Edward G. Elliott, Butte, 19th armored cavalry commander; Lieut. Col. Allan H. Millard, Jerome, third squadron commander; Capt. Robert F. Benoit, commander, headquarters troop, Twin Falls; and Capt. Larry Horvath, commander, Troop 2, Twin Falls.

After dedication ceremonies a reconnaissance platoon demonstration will be held with members of troop 1 participating.

Some 60 members of the Twin Falls unit will constitute a platoon at full strength and will carry complete combat equipment. Lieut. Gerald Lowe, troop 1, will be platoon leader and a narrator will introduce each member of the platoon. Guardsmen will describe the equipment, shop, cars and its uses, their fire, introduced, Major Laughridge said.

The demonstration will take place in front of the armory.

"We hope this dedication makes the public aware the city has part ownership in this building and it is available for city functions," Major Laughridge said. The armory is one of 12 new ones built in Idaho since 1955.

The major noted that first efforts to obtain a new armory for Twin Falls started in 1947. Construction started in 1959.

In the sixth century B.C. Persia as Iran was then called, had a huge empire stretching from Egypt to India. A secret police system known as "The Eyes and Ears of the King" kept close check on the provincial governors.

GOP Solons Pledge Help About Berlin

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 19 (AP)—Two Republican senators tonight said a cheering crowd of thousands that will meet in the city on Monday will see President Kennedy will get all the support he needs.

Sen. Tom Harkin, R., Neb., and John G. Tower, R., Tex., told an annual gathering of the Missouri Republican Club that it comes to defending this country, partnership is out and unity is in.

Senator Harkin said, "The president has announced a policy, contains no compromise and the people of America were ready—we won't give ground to the communists."

Tower, junior senator from Texas and its only Republican senator since Reconstruction days, said, "What will win this cold war is determination not to yield a single inch of free territory."

Both Tower and Harkin said they see little hope for gains in negotiating with the Soviet Union, Tower said, "We must make it known that we will never negotiate away our position and rights—and we know that Khrushchev has never lost a fight battle."

Both senators emphasized, "We will remain unified, but that does not mean we will not criticize the administration—that is our duty."

"I don't think we can solve the world's problems by dumping money on them, sending Che Guevara shopping around, or organizing a peace corps," Tower said.

"The present administration has chosen a great district of the people," said Harkin, adding, "This is evidenced by the way more and more Americans are sought for the hands of a very few people."

Harkin listed as what he called examples the federal aid to education bill, the five-year foreign aid program, and the pig iron and steel bill.

Tower said, "We worry about the and the threat overseas, and rightly so, yet we have the gravest threat sitting on our doorstep."

"I believe Cuba is not the communist staging area for what will ultimately be the invasion of this America. We must stand firm on the Monroe doctrine," Tower added.

Control Sought In Student Unit

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 19 (AP)—Nearly 1,000 student delegates registered today for the annual congress of the National Student Association, which may bring a fight for control between liberals and conservatives.

Most of the students, who come from colleges throughout the nation, arrived early to participate in pre-convention activities. The congress begins formally tomorrow and ends Aug. 30.

The NSA is constitutionally nonpartisan, but liberals have controlled the organization since its inception in 1946 at the University of Wisconsin. The first two congresses were held here and the national headquarters was located on the university campus for a while.

The liberal leadership has been challenged by such conservative groups as the Young Americans for Freedom, the Committee for a Responsible National Student Organization, and Students Committed to Accurate National Representation (SCANR).

Mining Town Was Nearly Deserted 35 Years After Gold Strike

Here's Old Florence as it looked in 1906. The gold-mining town, founded in 1861, was practically deserted when this photo, now in the files of the Idaho Historical society, was taken. The visitors are probably from the nearby town of New Florence, where a new mining excitement began at just about that time. The centennial of the gold strike in Old Florence will be celebrated Sunday by a historical society field trip to the site. (Staff engraving)

Field Trip Sunday to Fete Old Florence Gold Strike

RIGGINS, Aug. 19 (Special)—Old Florence, located high in rugged mountain country east of here, is the objective of a group of historically-minded Idahoans Sunday as they gather in the Florence basin to observe the centennial of discovery of gold at this out-of-the-way site.

A field trip, sponsored by the Idaho Historical society as part of its summer field trip program, is being attended by members of the Idaho County Historical society as well as members of the State Historical society.

Little remains of Old Florence or the nearby community of New Florence (founded in 1861) that was the site of the gold strike in 1861. Forest service signs mark their locations, with signs pointing to the dense woods. Traces of roads and old buildings, with trees growing in places, then are found around the area.

A few foundations can be traced and remains of diggings and placer grounds abound.

In the old graveyard, three wooden grave boards, recently repainted, record deaths in 1861, 1862, and 1863. One of them marks the little-known grave of H. J. Tibbott, better known as "Cherokee Bob," a notorious saloon keeper killed in a gunfight with Orlando (Rube) Robbins, apparently the better shot.

Trip leaders are Dr. Merle W. Wells, society historian; H. J. Swinney, society director, and Robert Romie, Boise, consultant to the society on mining history.

Exact date of the big strike is not certain. Reminiscences of individuals either in the first prospecting party or closely connected with it give dates ranging from Aug. 12 to 20. John Healy, original party member, said the first gold was panned out of dirt brought up by the roots of an overturned tree on Aug. 13, 1861, by a man named Grizzly. This was reported in the 1870's.

Recent research has led Dr. Wells to believe that this date is earlier to reconcile with the time the party got back to Elk City with their fabulous report. In any event, according to Dr. Wells, it is not surprising that different men had different recollections of those hectic and exciting days, causing the exact date to be somewhat hazy.

The surprising thing in the story of Florence is how closely dated in various accounts agree. Wells notes.

Reparders of the exact date, by October—only eight weeks after the strike—hundreds of miners were scrambling for claims in Florence basin. For one roaring year, 1862, Florence was the most widely-discussed gold camp in the United States.

Most of the richest claims worked out quickly, however, and disillusioned miners searched for new gold fields in all directions, resulting in new discoveries at Warren, Bode, and Basin. Work at Florence slowed and by the 1870's most of the miners working the claims were Chinese.

In 1880 development of quartz claims led to a brief flurry of excitement. Today a company is building a dredge to try again in Florence. Modern industrial methods may bring a third lease on life to the old camp. But the story of the first boom, which produced millions of dollars and helped populate what became the territory of Idaho, lives most in the imagination and is a permanent part of Idaho's story.

Boy Rescued After Stuck In Old Well

OTTAWA, Kan., Aug. 19 (AP)—A 4-year-old boy fell 13 feet into an abandoned farm well near here today and was rescued after more than an hour of being trapped.

Johnny Wheatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wheatley, who was playing in the vacant well, was found by his parents visiting when he suddenly disappeared.

He was found in the vacant well, just whimpering a bit. His fall was broken and he became wedged in the well because the shaft was narrower 15 feet down than at the top.

Rescuers lowered a rope to the boy, pumped oxygen into the well, and raised a ditching machine to get him out. They worked to get him out, but Johnny was too far down the well and reached the surface.

Justice Under U.S. System Is Questioned by Resident

Editor, Times-News: While serving on the U.S. Court of Appeals, one of the learned judges once remarked that a defendant facing trial has the right of the trial would be only by his fear of death.

Perhaps this statement was referring to a fact that most of us recognize but hesitate to acknowledge: That justice is not always rein supreme, even though many safeguards were written into our laws and constitution to pave the way to justice.

These safeguards often do not fulfill their purpose and insure justice, because we are governed by the written word of the law, but by the law as it is interpreted and maneuvered by fallible men who often sacrifice justice with its long-range value for the satisfaction of an immediate desire such as money, power or status, either social or professional.

My observations on justice, or more precisely on the lack of justice, were prompted by the recent inquiry into the unfortunate Kitchener-Clark accident. The purpose of my inquiry, as I understand it, is to penetrate the facts of the case, and that includes all the facts that are available, in order to discover na-early as possible the truth of the matter so the necessity of a trial can be either affirmed or rejected.

I want respectfully to ask a question whether the above mentioned inquiry honestly served the purpose for which it was intended in the scheme of justice. Was truth really the object of the inquiry? Was the citizen justly aware of the full weight of its responsibility? If even one responsible lawyer regards his responsibility so lightly as to announce in the jurybox, then justice sleeps in vain. And we, the American public, fail to concern ourselves with justice today, because justice seems to have degenerated to a myth in which few people believe anyway.

Indeed, most of us are not personally affected today as we feel completely by what justice decrees to us in even less impressive myth. But if the tables should be turned tomorrow and just justice or the lack of it would be a hard reality.

Three observations on justice, or more precisely on the lack of justice, were prompted by the recent inquiry into the unfortunate Kitchener-Clark accident. The purpose of my inquiry, as I understand it, is to penetrate the facts of the case, and that includes all the facts that are available, in order to discover na-

Editorial About Valley Baseball Is Appreciated

Editor, Times-News: The Magic Valley Baseball club, Inc. wishes to thank the publisher and editor of the Times-News for their fine editorial of August 16 printed in the Times-News.

Yes, baseball will be back in Magic Valley in 1962 due to the tremendous support given the club by the fans this season. The faith of the fans in the "rookie" team has been most stimulating. Many nights, several of the starting nine have been in the first players that played the game the "old pros."

Comes the battle down the home stretch, those "rookie" players have the guts to carry Magic Valley to the second half championship. Win or lose, these boys have to be the "White Kids" of 1961 Pioneer league baseball.

Again, our thanks to you for your interest in Magic Valley baseball and your fine support this season.

BEN JEWELL
(President, Magic Valley Cowboys)

Appreciation Given on Aid For New Genealogical Unit

Editor, Times-News: On behalf of the South Central Idaho chapter, Idaho Genealogical society, we wish to extend our appreciation to all those who have aided us in the construction of our new chapter.

We are most appreciative to William Granger, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, for presiding at our organizational meeting, and to Mrs. John Stocking, state genealogical librarian, who came from Boise to Twin Falls to initiate us into the state genealogical society.

Without the medium of advertising, our meetings would not have been so successful and we are indeed grateful to our radio stations, KLTZ-TV, and our own TIMES-NEWS for this excellent coverage.

We feel it is a distinct privilege to be a part of the genealogical library and while we are only beginning to grow, it has been a great honor to have you as our acquisition chairman and donor of many D.A. lineage books and genealogical materials. We are now as large in membership as have been other such organizations starting out in similar ventures and are now large enough to serve many states.

MRS. ORLO ILIFF

Man Surprised That Judges Find Ceremony Distasteful

Editor, Times-News: I was very much surprised reading that some judges find the lack of uniting two people in matrimony—distasteful or distasteful—whereas I would consider their official duty of their office as being to unite two people in matrimony—enjoyable or possibly only enjoyable one—that should fill them with deep satisfaction and lift them out of their every day official duties which, undoubtedly, is very often a very hard job in any case hardly enjoyable.

I cannot understand how it cannot be a very happy occasion, that fills the judge with joy and if he should be married, reminds him of how happy he was when he was standing in the place of the bridegroom to become the husband of the most wonderful and beautiful being in the world who was standing beside him.

Of course, I too, may be prejudiced in finding the judge, as my children, having been born in Europe, would be illegitimate and would not be legally married. I would not have had a so-called civil marriage. In most European countries, where the church and church are separated, the church has no legal power and only civil marriages are considered valid. The church ceremony is not a factual marriage, but only a blessing of the marriage already concluded, for the civil marriage, the legal marriage, has occurred beforehand, and the civil marriage, is punishable by law as the people might be deceived in believing that they are legally married.

The marriage is usually performed in a separate room at the courthouse set aside for the purpose and furnished fittingly for the occasion in contrast to the other "office" room with their wooden benches or chairs. There are flowers on the large desk behind which the judge presides. On the desk are the various documents proving the identity of the couple and that the legal reasons exist that they should not be legally married, the as yet unsigned marriage certificate and the tremendous large book in which the marriage is recorded and which the couple and witnesses will have to sign to be left as a record for even later generations.

For the first time the bride will sign her new name. The whole ceremony is very dignified and finally the judge pronounces "By authority here I do hereby unite you in the holy state of matrimony and the state of..." I hear with "pronounce you husband and wife and legally married according to the law of the land." Rings are exchanged, the book signed and the congratulations of the judge, witnesses and whoever accompanied the couple follow.

Of course, I do not agree that such marriages "rarely work" as statistics prove that divorce in Europe does not happen as often as in the U.S.—Someone might even argue that statistics are the opposite; that the impracticality of the legal marriage by a judge makes them aware that it is the earthly power that makes them realize the possible and watches that they will fulfill their obligations.

Conditions are different over here. But I can very well imagine that a couple might wish to save the expense of a church wedding, which sometimes they cannot or should not afford as the means of a young couple are limited and it would be the wisest investment that money in the future of their marriage. I feel that the American girl seldom receives a dot at her marriage. Consequently, but I believe that the future husband in most cases will appreciate his fiancée does not insist on a wedding and she will be able to wish to show herself off at a church wedding. Any priest or pastor will undoubtedly gladly bless their wedding at a simple ceremony at which only they attend, for it is their private affair.

Although conditions are different, it seems to me that there is a just case to make the occasion as dignified as possible and welcome the occasion to give the possibly even needed assistance in his ceremony. Any judge who is friendly, but impressive manner, make them realize the solemnity and importance of the step they are taking and, if possible, he might participate in the ceremony, that from now on they will be like one going through life together.

Office Seeker Is Concerned Over State Problems

Editor, Times-News: Hello Idaho folks. In my travels around the state and in reading the newspapers I find that I am thinking along the same basic lines as many people here in Idaho as to taxes and increasing the state debt; on our attitude on the tax threat; the labor situation and the economic situation.

So I have decided I will be a candidate again in 1962 for governor and will run on the platform by the Democratic party in our state.

I want to meet with people over the state in the months to come, before the election and have some idea of what might be the recession areas of the state and some new ideas on taxes that would reduce the total tax burden on the people of Idaho and the USA situation at the next four years.

I plan to have an office in Parma later on and want to hear from people over the state who think as I do. I am editor of the newspaper in which you read this.

Writer Points Out Mistakes In Description of Jerkline

Editor, Times-News: I noticed several mistakes in your description of the jerkline: You do not pull back on the jerkline to turn to the right, but to turn left. But an unbroken horse must have a strap (jerk strap) fastened from the right bridle ring to his harness, then when he is jerked, the strap tightens and he raises his head and therefore pulls him right.

He really pulls himself. So, when you yell "gee," and jerk, he goes right. A broken horse does not need this strap and seldom even needs to be jerked. Neither do you tie the jerkline into the left bridle ring, but on the ring which is on a strap running from right bridle ring ring to the left. As you pull straight back, the ring naturally slips on the strap to the left.

Also, you must have a rod or prong pipe from the outside hand of the seat or jerline horse to the right side of the bridle bit ring of the off horse so the jerkline can guide the off horse.

The off horse must also be lucked back. A strap from the checkrein to the lead bar of the next horse is needed to prevent the next horse from leaning ahead.

I never used it in steep mountain roads and therefore am not familiar with any signals except "gee," "haw," "ya," and "whoa."

I might add that I learned how to break milks to the jerkline over 20 years ago in the Bend country of Washington.

Man Surprised That Judges Find Ceremony Distasteful

Editor, Times-News: I was very much surprised reading that some judges find the lack of uniting two people in matrimony—distasteful or distasteful—whereas I would consider their official duty of their office as being to unite two people in matrimony—enjoyable or possibly only enjoyable one—that should fill them with deep satisfaction and lift them out of their every day official duties which, undoubtedly, is very often a very hard job in any case hardly enjoyable.

I cannot understand how it cannot be a very happy occasion, that fills the judge with joy and if he should be married, reminds him of how happy he was when he was standing in the place of the bridegroom to become the husband of the most wonderful and beautiful being in the world who was standing beside him.

Of course, I too, may be prejudiced in finding the judge, as my children, having been born in Europe, would be illegitimate and would not be legally married. I would not have had a so-called civil marriage. In most European countries, where the church and church are separated, the church has no legal power and only civil marriages are considered valid. The church ceremony is not a factual marriage, but only a blessing of the marriage already concluded, for the civil marriage, the legal marriage, has occurred beforehand, and the civil marriage, is punishable by law as the people might be deceived in believing that they are legally married.

The marriage is usually performed in a separate room at the courthouse set aside for the purpose and furnished fittingly for the occasion in contrast to the other "office" room with their wooden benches or chairs. There are flowers on the large desk behind which the judge presides. On the desk are the various documents proving the identity of the couple and that the legal reasons exist that they should not be legally married, the as yet unsigned marriage certificate and the tremendous large book in which the marriage is recorded and which the couple and witnesses will have to sign to be left as a record for even later generations.

49ers Will Host Cleveland Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18 U.P.—Stanford's 49ers staged their 19th home shutout Sunday by defeating the Cleveland Browns 14-0 in the Krazar stadium against the Cleveland Browns with John Brodie the man behind the shotgun.

When the 49ers traded veteran quarterback Y. A. Tittle to the New York Giants last Tuesday the job of directing the new shotgun spread offense was left almost exclusively to Brodie, the ex-Stanford star.

Brodie faces one of his ex-teammates in Paul Wiggins, the former Stanford All American.

Although the Browns dropped a 35-7 decision to the Detroit Lions, they remain one of the top favorites in the National Football league's Eastern conference.

Students Wait on Lawn After Junior High School Fire Drill

A portion of Twin Falls Junior high school students, who must be safeguarded from the danger of fire, practice during a fire drill in May. The fire alarm and escape routes are considered inadequate. In order to modernize the building, they must be remodeled and redesigned. According to the members of the Citizens' School Planning committee, who investigated the problem last spring, the major fire hazards are open flames that lead from the basement to the roof section of the building. These flames offer a passageway for fire that might start where the obsolete heating equipment is located. (Staff photo-engraving)

T. F. School Board Is Faced With Problem Of Safeguarding Students in Junior High

A major problem facing the Twin Falls school board is how to safeguard students at the junior high school from the danger of fire. The building now constitutes a fire hazard and endangers the entire student body. The question now is how to solve this problem.

At present, the fire alarm and escape systems are considered inadequate. Both systems must be revamped to modernize the building.

The fire alarm system now depends on someone spotting a fire and then ringing the alarm. The problem, the major fire hazards are the open flames that lead from the basement to the rear section of the building. These flames offer a passageway for fire that might start where the obsolete heating equipment is located. These are flames that remain from an older heating system.

Advisers have told the school board the flames should be sealed and several other improvements made.

According to Ernest Ragland, superintendent of schools, the board is considering installing a direct warning fire system. This is an alarm system triggered by a rapid rise in temperature. It

Modernization of the heating plant to eliminate fire hazards at the Twin Falls Junior high school is high on the list of improvements that will be made if the $1,235,000 school bond issue for district 411 is passed by voters on Sept. 18.

In addition to correction of fire hazards at the school, funds also would be used to build a second junior high school building to relieve pressures of increased enrollment, school board trustees note.

A two-thirds majority of voters in favor of the bond issue is needed for passage, officials state.

Additional fire exits are needed. Ragland says the tentative plan is to relocate the two existing second-floor fire escapes and add two more. This will enable students from the second floor to evacuate the building without passing through the first floor hall and mixing with the students on that floor. This would relieve congestion. The new exits and relocation of the fire escapes will cost an estimated $35,000.

There now are six exits on the first floor. They are used by students on the first floor and by a portion of students on the second floor. There are two fire escapes leading from the second floor, which accommodate students from the second floor to the first floor.

The remainder of the students on the second floor walk down the stairs to the first floor.

Hummingbird Finds New Home After Escaping Cat

A young hummingbird, who escaped the claws of a house cat, has found a new home with the H. C. Wilson family in Twin Falls. The mite-sized bird scratched the feline onslaught rather well and is now on his way to recover—thanks to Mrs. Wilson and her grandchildren.

The young bird is probably the only patient in town nursed back to life by a steady diet of sugar and water. But that is his diet and he consumes a vast amount of it each day.

Mrs. Wilson explains she has a cat that thinks it great sport to catch grasshoppers in the backyard. The cat often catches the insects and brings them to the back door, thinking it has performed some service in man, and then begs to enter the house.

About two weeks ago the cat was mousing in the backyard flower beds and nabbed the hummingbird, probably thinking it was a large grasshopper. Mrs. Wilson said. He actually didn't hurt the little bird much, but its feathers were ruffled and one wing was obviously hurt. Other than that it seemed alright, she says.

The cat brought the young bird to the back door and begged to enter the house. Mrs. Wilson took the bird away from the cat and in the past 10 days it has recovered rapidly.

She put the bird in a box and covered it with a cheesecloth cloth and introduced it to the sugar water. She says all she had to do was stick its bill into the water one time and it got the idea. It got the idea so well it now consumes about an ounce of the mixture each day, a considerable amount for the bird would fit in the bottle it empties each day.

One of her grandchildren, Bruce, 5, son of Lowell Wilson, feeds the bird several times during the day. When they first got

Leather-Working Started While Ill Is Now Hobby

Horsemen who need a new saddle, but can't afford the expense, should follow the example set by Floyd Sharp. Sharp needed a new saddle, so he made one.

Sharp stumbled upon his leather-working hobby when he was confined to bed with a back injury about 10 years ago. His wife and daughter decided they would start the hobby and purchased leather-working tools and purchased leather.

They finished the coin purses and then Fred of the hobby. That's where Sharp slept in.

When he made his saddle he followed no instruction manual. He relied on the knowledge he has learned from repairing saddles.

First he chose his saddle tree and then borrowed a friend's saddle that he liked. He made his patterns from that saddle. He estimates he could make a saddle in a week, but works only in his spare time and spreads the work out over several months.

Most of the saddle was made from one-fourth inch leather. It took most of the leather from three hide sides to make it. He says material for the saddle cost

Floyd Sharp, a farmer who lives northwest of Twin Falls, makes some of the final adjustments on a saddle he just completed. He has been working with leather for about 10 years and has made bridles, saddles, harnesses, halters, purses and many other leather objects. ### High on List

Modernization of the heating plant to eliminate fire hazards at the Twin Falls Junior high school is high on the list of improvements that will be made if the $1,235,000 school bond issue for district 411 is passed by voters on Sept. 18.

In addition to correction of fire hazards at the school, funds also would be used to build a second junior high school building to relieve pressures of increased enrollment, school board trustees note.

A two-thirds majority of voters in favor of the bond issue is needed for passage, officials state.

Additional fire exits are needed. Ragland says the tentative plan is to relocate the two existing second-floor fire escapes and add two more. This will enable students from the second floor to evacuate the building without passing through the first floor hall and mixing with the students on that floor. This would relieve congestion. The new exits and relocation of the fire escapes will cost an estimated $35,000.

There now are six exits on the first floor. They are used by students on the first floor and by a portion of students on the second floor. There are two fire escapes leading from the second floor, which accommodate students from the second floor to the first floor.

The remainder of the students on the second floor walk down the stairs to the first floor.

Only 2 Fire Escapes Lead From 2nd Floor

This is one of only two fire escapes leading from the second floor of the Twin Falls Junior High school. Existing fire escapes can accommodate only the students from the six classrooms that border on the escapes. The remainder of the students have to use stairwells. Additional fire escapes would eliminate the congestion on the first floor and enable students to evacuate the building faster. (Staff photo-encouraging)

School Board Is Faced With Problem Of Safety for Junior High Students

Junior high school principal, would like to see additional fire escapes leading from the second floor. They would cut down on congestion on the first floor and enable students to evacuate the building faster. (Staff photo-encouraging)

Students stream out the front entrance of the Twin Falls Junior high school building during a fire drill. It is one of six exits on the first floor and is used by students on the first and second floors. The exits are congested during fire drills and more fire escapes from the second floor are needed. (Staff photo-encouraging)

Students in basement classrooms during a fire can always exit through windows. Ragland wants to move the two existing fire escapes to the second street north side of the building. They would be connected to the regular stairwells at the landings between the first and second floors. Additional fire escapes, leading directly from the second floor outside would be constructed on the Shoshone street side of the building. This would provide a total of 10 fire escapes and exits for the building. Ragland says, "Occasionally it is suggested by well-intentioned citizens that the old junior high building should be abandoned. This would be impossible from a cost standpoint and has never been considered by the board of education. The basic structure of this building is believed to be just as sound today as when it was built. This building is presently insured for approximately one and one-half million dollars. Moderate outlays of money are requested to correct a warm-out and hazardous heating system and to render the building as safe as possible from the standpoint of fire hazards. These corrections, we think, are entirely justified and necessary if the health and safety of school children are to be properly safeguarded."

Bird Escapes Claws of Cat, Becomes Pet

the bird, it couldn't fly at all. Now the little bird can circle the living room several times before it lands on someone's shoulder. It was young enough when it was caught that it had no fear of humans. He even landed on the camera, after he had his picture taken.

The bird has become a household pet and has been named by Mrs. Wilson's grandchildren. They named it "Twinkle Bird," after the popular cartoon character. Mrs. Wilson says there has been a steady stream of neighborhood children through the house in the past few days to see the bird.

"Mrs. Wilson says, 'The little bird has always been in good spirits. He has never seemed to have any intentions of dying. He seemed to know we were trying to help him. I just poked his beak in the sugar and water one time and he has eaten well since then.'

"Sometimes we feed him honey and water, but he seems to prefer the mixture of sugar and water." She mixes a fourth of a teaspoon to an ounce of water. "Evidently it has been good medicine," she says, "for he has been getting better each day. Since day, when he feels better and can fly, we'll turn him loose."

Mrs. Wilson believes there must be a nest near the house. She has seen adult birds in the yard and one of them recently demonstrated that the sub-ounce-sized birds possess a pound of courage. One of the adult birds, maybe a parent of the young bird, recently made several "buzz-bomb" attacks at the cat in the backyard, possibly to show his contempt.

Drastic Drop in Summer Steelhead Population Studied

Fish and game departments of three northwest states report sharp drop in summer steelhead populations in the Columbia river system, including the Snake, Clearwater, Salmon and Willamette rivers. Idaho loss of spawning ground, increased fishing pressure and other causes are named in a 12-page report submitted today to the governors by the three state departments. Of the 1950 estimated summer steelhead entering the Columbia river, the number escaping fishermen is exceedingly small to satisfy all other losses and still provide enough fish to spawn. According to the tri-state report, it has averaged over the past four years something like 37,400—a matter of only 10 per cent of the total population. Pictured above is a big steelhead being measured and examined on the way over the counting facilities at Lewiston dam. (Fish and game department photo—staff engraving)

MAGIC-VALLEY PORTRAIT

Roy Vader, Hagerman Area Pioneer, Is Still Active in Ranching Business

HAGERMAN, Aug. 19—Roy Vader is truly one of the pioneers of Magic Valley. Born in Ketchum and raised during his early years in Hagerman valley, Vader was a 17-year-old at the turn of the century and has spent all of his life in this area.

Vader now lives on the south bank of Snake river, near Owyhee bridge, an area where he has spent much of his life.

He comes from pioneer stock. His father, the late Lee Vader, who in 1914 died at the age of 93 was one of the first freighters in the mining areas of the Sawtooth mountains.

His father came to Malad in 1872 and during his lifetime he worked as a driver, freighter, garage owner, saw line operator, mail carrier, rancher, miner and Indian scout. He mined in Idaho and then in the Sawtooth City in 1879 and 1880 in the fall of 1880 he and his wife moved to Ketchum, where he worked as a freighter.

Vader was born in 1883 in Ketchum. When he was 3 years old his father decided to buy dairy cattle and move to Orono. He bought 20 head of cattle in Malad and started to drive them along the Oregon trail. He got as far as Sand Springs in Hagerman valley. Vader says there was an abandoned mine station there, and the elder Vader decided to stop and rest there for a few days. He stayed 7 years.

During these years the family made a living at the Sand Springs area by farming and mining. Vader and his mother would operate the farm and his father would often spend days away from home placer mining along the Snake river. The small farm produced all the various dairy products and they also raised chickens and eggs. These products the family would sell to the persons who lived in the area, mostly miners scattered along the river. Vader can remember distinctly as they passed the farm on the Oregon trail. They would often camp near the farm and buy products from there.

Although he had plenty of work to do on the farm, Vader says he still spent much time as a boy fishing for trout in the Thousand Springs area of the Snake river. In those days the salmon would spawn in the nearby river. Vader recalls that the area of Thousand Springs was popular with the Indians. They would arrive in the fall and appear in the morning to last them through the winter.

He says he always regarded the Indians with awe, for just a few years before they had caused their share of trouble and his father had more than one had skirmish with hostile Indians. The business and started another ranching operation. They still owned the Salmon Falls ranch and after they acquired summer grazing rights they were back in the sheep business. Again Vader has been a sheepman since then. He is now semi-retired. He and his son-in-law, Frank Henkel, still manage a sheep operation, and at their peak they were running about 10,000 ewes.

Vader was one of the first sheepmen in the Sawtooth valley. He estimates that when he first worked as a shepherd in the valley there were only about 10 ranching outfits grazing sheep in the valley.

They were in the sheep business until 1922, when they sold out and started the Hagerman garage, now the Cady Auto company. They operated the garage until 1930, when they sold it to Paul Aug. 19—Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Nelson, are in Pocatello today. They report their daughter, Judy, who has been spending the summer with her aunt, will return with them.

It is indeed an important tri-state resource they are considering.

Salmon and steelhead regulations on the Snake river where it flows through Idaho on the east, and Oregon and Washington on the west, are made after consultation between the trio of same commissions as needed.

Offsetting this regional hodgepodge of regulations, reporting systems and fisheries management programs is the current cooperative approach toward adequate research and remedial measures short of federal control or "grass" projects originating in Washington, D. C.

The governors' committee favors a tri-state organization responsible for coordinating mutual fisheries management problems affecting Washington, Oregon and Idaho. It advocates that the respective agencies should:

1. Immediately implement measures to allow a greater escapement of the endangered summer runs of steelhead.

2. Develop methods and establish studies to determine the contribution Columbia river stocks make to the ocean troll and sport fisheries.

3. Make every effort to standardize methods of collecting sport

Economy of U.S. Topic at Rotary Meet

SHOSHONE, Aug. 19—Roy Nelson, Salt Lake City, economist for Utah and Idaho first, Security Analyst and partner in instructor at the University of Utah, spoke to Rotarians here Wednesday night.

Nelson said this is the first time in the U. S. when interest rates have been lowered to curb inflation. Since much foreign money is deposited in U. S. banks, lowered interest rates would cause it to be removed to take advantage of higher rates in foreign countries.

Consumer demand is increasing and steel production and auto sales are expected to increase in October, he said. He gave exhaustive figures concerning American imports and exports.

In Idaho, employment has increased this summer. There is a good outlook for increased prices for cattle and sheep since there are 10 per cent fewer cattle on feed now than a year ago in the nation.

Idaho agriculture income will be about the same as in 1959 but better than in 1960, although outlook for potato crops is not so favorable.

Other guests Wednesday noon were Lawrence Henkel and Lloyd E. Smith, Hialeah; Alan McComb, Cap Wallace and Bill Oakley, Coalinga; and Lambert Delph, Twin Falls.

Birthday anniversaries of Rotarians and their families were observed and donations made to the eyeglass fund.

Harley Handy announced he will be moving next week to Monticello, Utah.

$87.50. He saved considerable money for a similar saddle would retail for about $200. Sharp says there are two jobs in saddle making that are the toughest—proper placement of the rigging, and forming and placing the seat leather. The saddles he has made are three-quarter double rigs. Each side of the rigging has to be placed at the proper angle and must perfectly match the rigging on the opposite side. The seat leather is odd-shaped, including holsters, scabbards, belts and bridles. His basement workshop is filled with various leather projects he has completed in the past. Sharp notes the back injury he received about 10 years ago kept him from following an older hobby—hunting mountain lions. The leather-working hobby filled his empty hours and he says he recommends it to persons interested in the work, and especially those who are confined because of sickness.

Dean and Alene McDonald with their five children: Michael, 7; Lynette, 12; Marian, 8; Joy, 14, and baby Julie Ann pose for a family photo. "Keeping a family like ours clean and freshly clothed takes plenty of hot water and the help of modern laundry facilities," says Mrs. McDonald.

"The girls are a big help in our Gold Medalion kitchen. Electric appliances are easy to work with and dependable in performance."

"Electric heat has been a joy, especially last spring when we had to get up nights to care for Julie Ann."

The McDonalds' attractive Gold Medalion home is a bright landmark on the highway between Payette and Weiser. Mr. McDonald did much of his own finish work.
