PODNUH, I ONCE HEARD THAT BLOOD-CURDLING SCREAM IN CANADA! SOUNDS LIKE A PUMA!

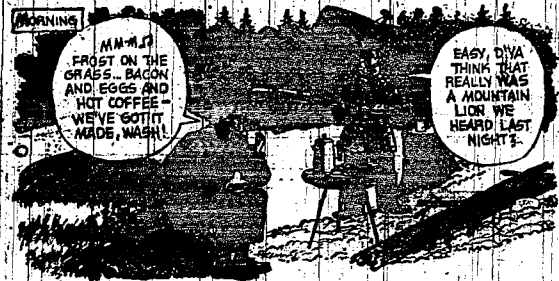

A MOUNTAIN LION'S HERE IN THESE HILLS, EASY?

SCP REE EE YOWL ILL YEE EE

NOT SCARED, ARE YOU, WASH?

OF COURSE NOT! PUT ME DOWN!

MORNING
MM-MH! FROST ON THE GRASS... BACON AND EGGS AND HOT COFFEE - WE'VE GOT 'EM MADE, WASH!

EASY, D'YA THINK THAT REALLY WAS A MOUNTAIN LION WE HEARD LAST NIGHT?

COULD'VE BEEN A BIG-BOBCAT, UP CLOSE, BUT I DOUBT IT!

WE'RE FROM THE MOUNTAIN GAME FARM... MR. WEESE ORDERED THESE DEER RELEASED ON HIS PROPERTY!

SURE... WOW! IN A FEW YEARS HIS GAME PRESERVE SHOULD BE THICK WITH DEER!

HMM... NOT IF THERE'S A FAMILY O' PUMAS LIVIN' HERE, PODNUH!

GOLLY, I'D FORGOTTEN ABOUT THAT, EASY! ...LET'S HUNT 'EM DOWN!

THE NEXT AFTERNOON

THERE'S ONE NOW, EASY - AFTER A DEER!

BLAZES!

GET HIM!

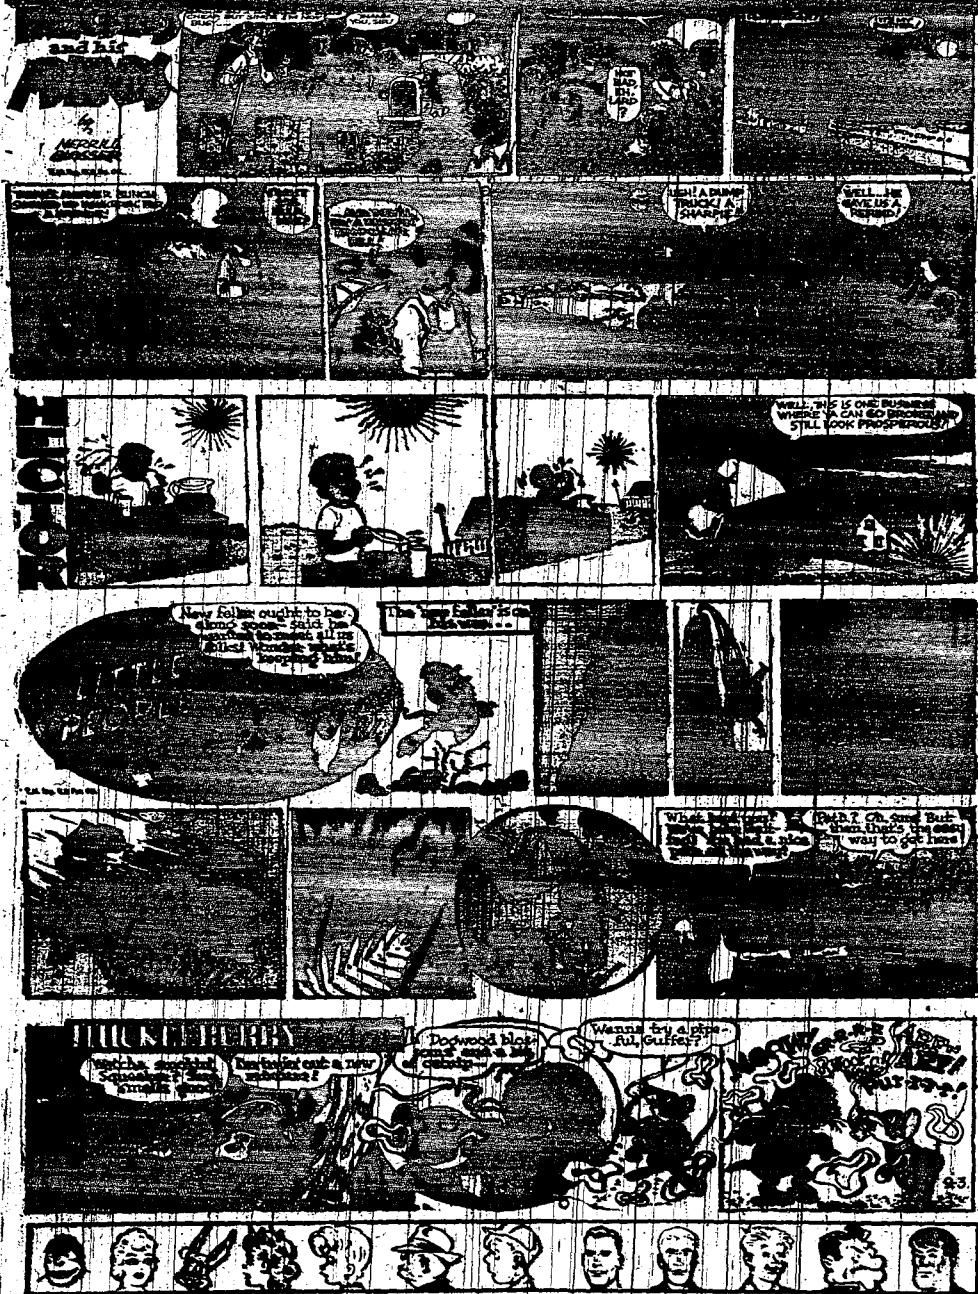

IT A HOT BOMB OFF HIS RELE

DROP THAT GUN, GUCKER! MY NEXT SLUG WILL PART YER HAIR, SIDE-SADDLE!

TEXAS GUY DECIDED TO GO BACK TO HIS HOME AND SEE HIS LUMBER BEFORE TALKING TO THE POLICE.

WHO ARE YOU? WHAT ARE YOU DOING IN MY ROOM?

I JUST WANT YOUR AUTOGRAPH, MR. GUY!

THEY STARTED TO...

ONE OF THEM KEANE OFF BURD...

WHO'S THE MAN BEHIND THE DESK? YOU OWN SMITH'S?

AT LAST TO FOLAN SMITH; BUT WANT HIM TO GOING TO DO HIGH HAN-OR MICE YEARS?

WHERE ARE YOU GOING, FINE?

GET FOR SOME FRESH AIR!

SMITH FOLLOWED THE GUY, BUT I...

A LITTLE BLACK BOON? BYOUT OF HIS FOCKET.

I TOOK TIME OUT TO PLAY FINGERS-KEEPS!

THEN I TURNED DOWN SMITH'S OFFER TO...

LOTS OF NAMES, INCLUDING TEXAS GUY, MY CLIENT. I...

MIS ROOM DIDN'T ANSWER, SO I LET MYSELF IN...

...I'LL PROBABLY BE TH' REST OF MY LIFE...

HEY, GUARD! WHAT'S TH' SITUATION AT TH' CAPITAL?

WHAT SITUATION?

WHY, TH' CHAOS AN GOVERNMENT DETERIORATION THA'S SET IN BURNING OUR ABSENCE?

I NEVER SHOULD A-GONE AWAY ON THIS VACATION!

I SHOULD BE SCHEMERING!

...I'LL PROBABLY BE TH' REST OF MY LIFE...

HEY, GUARD! WHAT'S TH' SITUATION AT TH' CAPITAL?

WHAT SITUATION?

WHY, TH' CHAOS AN GOVERNMENT DETERIORATION THA'S SET IN BURNING OUR ABSENCE?

I DIDN'T EVEN KNOW YOU'D BEEN GONE!

THERE'S BEEN NO BREAKDOWN OF GOVERNMENT NO REVOLUTION OR STUFF LIKE THAT?

NOTS I KNOW OF, SIR!

WELL, NOW THAT'S A REBEL, ISN'T IT?

GEE LIMP A DUNNO IF IT IS OR NOT.

...WOULDN'T WANT OUR SUBJECTS GETIN' TH' IDEA THEY CAN GET ALONG WITHOUT THEIR ROYAL FAMILY, WOULDNUH?

WELL, NO, OF COURSE NOT, BUT...

MY GOODNESS, JUST LOOK AT THAT!

THAT'S A FINE WAY FOR A SUBSTITUTE KING TO ACT, NOW ISN'T IT?

SIT OUTA HERE, YOU LAZY LOAFER!

HI-YAH, GUY! WHEN DID YOU GET BACK?

OH, JUST A WHILE AGO, OOR, COME ON IN!

BY BOLLY, YOU MUSTA HAD SOME VACATION, YOU'RE LOOKIN' GREAT!

TERRIFIC OOP, YEZZIR! I SURE HATED THAFTA COME HOME, BUT YOU KNOW HOW IT IS

PICNIC IN THE WOODS
THERE'S SO MUCH TO DO!

AND SO MUCH FOR ME TO DO, TOO!

OH WELL!
SURE, WE CAN GO FOR A HIKER!

STUBBED MY TOE ON A ROCK IN THE WOODS! (SHE SAID IT HURTS!)

MAYBE WE SHOULD CHANGE SPRINGS. I'LL CHANGE GLOVES AND FISH INSTEAD!

OH, BOY! WE FORGOT THE LUNCH!

LET'S NOT GOING BACK FOR IT! WE'LL EAT IN A RESTAURANT!

YES! AFTER A FULL DAY OF HIKING, THIS IS THE NICEST PICNIC WE EVER HAD!

SEE! BOOTS. WE CAN STAY IN THE WOODS AFTERNOON IN THAT BETTY DESS'S SALON! NEXT DOOR!

WHA!

TOO MUCH POISON IN THE WOODS FOR MYING!

WE GOT STUNG BY HORNETS, TOO!

LOOK OUT! HERE COMES A BULL!

Boots CUT-OUTS

WHAT'S THE INTENTION OF REDECORATING?

WHAT? SHE DIDN'T CONSIDER ME!

I GET LESS ATTENTION AROUND HER, BECAUSE SHE'S A PIECE OF FURNITURE!

THANKS TO JUDY SAUNDERS (AGE 13) MAPLEWOOD, N.J.

GO SHINE YOUR SHOES. THEY'RE A MESS!

IF I WERE A PIECE OF FURNITURE, SHE'D DO THE SHINING!

THANKS TO WYOMING BERRY (AGE 11) ASHTABULA, OHIO

THANKS TO MARILYN SPENCE (15) ILLINGTON, ONTARIO, CANADA

THIS TIME I'M PUTTING MY FOOT DOWN!

WILLIAMS

WHAT'S A PINE THING-BOTH OF US GOT TO GO NOW! I'VE GOT TO GET TO MY CARDS IN THE BROOK!

WHAT? YOU'RE GOING TO FIND SOME MONEY?

THERE'S A LOT OF CHANGE IN WILIE BANK AND IN THE ONLY ONE WHO HAS IT!

I'D BET YOU'VE NEVER SEEN A BULL!

SAY, YOUNG MAN, READING YOUR BANK IS NO GOOD! BUT IT'S MY OWN MONEY!

THAT MAKES NO DIFFERENCE! WHAT'S MONEY FOR INTO A BANK? I WANT TO HAVE! NOT TO BE CARDS WITH YOUR ALLOWANCE!

YOU PROBABLY JUST WANTED SOME CANDY OR SOMETHING SILLY! IF YOU'D A STUNT LIKE THAT, YOU'D LEARN TO GUESS YOUR DESIRES!

HOW WAS THAT FOR A CONVINCING SERMON? IT'LL BE THE NEVER DOES IT AGAIN!

VERY CONVINCING! YOU EVEN CONVINCED ME TO RESEA SAVINGS BANK! AND I'LL NEVER DO IT AGAIN!

HE MUST BE CLEVER! DID YOU HEAR HIM TALKING TO HISSELF?

TIME! I WANT TO TALK TO MY PITCHER! THAT LAST PITCH HAS HIM ALL SHOOO UP!

YOU'RE NOT SUPPOSED TO COME OUT TO THE MOUND WHILE I'M TALKING TO MY PITCHER!

YEAH, WHY NOT?

THAT LAST PITCH HAS ME ALL SHOOO UP, TOO!

Nehru Shakes Neutrals' Conference With Call to Tackle "Drift to War"

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 5 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru shook the conference of "nonaligned" nations today with a demand that they forget colonialism and concentrate on saving the world from drifting into disaster. The Indian leader declared the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing opened the way for testing also by other countries, "brings us to the brink of war."

Goulart Supporters Ax Brazil Solution

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 5 (AP)—Congress altered Goulart's constitution tonight to let leftist Vice President Costa e Silva become a full-fledged member of the cabinet. Goulart's military backing in the Congress balked at any compromise. Jose Machado Lopes, commander of the third army in Goulart's stronghold, defiantly stated that Goulart became president full-fledged in the congress act. The congressional action provided for a prime minister, but real powers beside the president would be nominally chief of state.

U.S. to Talk Negotiations With Soviets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—The Kennedy administration tonight announced a new diplomatic move designed to sound out the Soviet Union on the possibility of a peaceful Berlin settlement. The move is being handled through the State Department's "back channel" negotiations. The decision has been made to go ahead with the scheduled talks on the "four big powers" policy of which the United States accuses the Soviet Union because of its rejection of the Kennedy administration's proposal for a summit conference, provided preliminary negotiations produced a basis for agreement.

The moves are the answer to the swelling chorus of demands for the Berlin summit conference in Yugoslavia for top-level U.S.-Soviet talks to "save the world from nuclear war."

Enrollment Down 10 at Shoshone

SHOSHONE, Sept. 2—School enrollment for the Shoshone school district totals 442, about 10 less than last year. The decline is attributed to a combination of factors, including a decrease in the number of students in the lower grades and an increase in the number of students in the higher grades. The school district is currently reviewing the situation to determine if any changes are needed to maintain adequate educational standards.

Social Security Law Revision Is Asked by Writer

Editor, Times-News:—Should the social security law be revised, more in the interest of the aged, who happen to know widows receiving only $33 per month, scarcely enough to pay for their expenses and taxes. I also know people who are worth $50,000 who are getting no more than $33 per month. I think there should be a change in the law so that people who are worth $50,000 or more should not receive any financial help. TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The West was a world-round news agency, the trouble-footed Russians closed off Berlin. As reported here at the time, the WHIRLIGIG reported an amazing, incredible advantage.

The Russians themselves, with only a little assist from the policy department of the State Department, Edward R. Murrow, let the whole world know that life here was unbearable and that force was the only way to prevent victims from choosing democracy over communism.

The communists have presented us with a simple equal propaganda-victory by its name, or Anastas I. Khrushchev, the deputy Russian premier, to deal with.

COVERING THE CAPITAL WITH PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Neither the United Auto Workers nor the automobile manufacturers appealed for Kennedy administration action on the general contract negotiations.

This is in the context of the fact that the UAW has argued right up to the moment that the expiration date, then settle.

Aside from the Chrysler strike over the pension system in 1948, there hasn't been a new wave of auto strikes since 1946.

Fine Valley

"Twin Falls is the biggest little city I've ever been in," Cowboy Manager Jack Phillips told Chamber of Commerce directors. Those are kind words, but they need just a little interpretation. Actually Mr. Phillips was thinking of Magic Valley, the larger community which serves to unite all the various municipalities. With such a valley-wide team as the Magic Valley Cowboys, it's just not possible to relegate the title of ownership to one city or town.

Cowboy fans are found from Batt River to Glenns Ferry and from northern Nevada clear up into Stanley Basin and beyond. Each fan is just as proud of the Cowboys as any Twin Falls partisan. And in many respects, fans from outlying communities could be considered more devoted because of the greater distance involved to and from Twin Falls to attend games.

Undoubtedly Mr. Phillips was thinking in terms of Magic Valley being the greatest little valley he'd ever visited, because he went on to praise the valley for supporting the Cowboys.

NO SALE, NO DEALS—

NO SALE, NO DEALS—It would seem that the Soviet had three purposes behind the Mikoyan excursion. The first two were:

1. To develop trade with Japan. This failed miserably. Even though Japan is almost certainly its nearest neighbor, and even though Mikoyan's mission was to bring back a "big national bargaining favor on a small country" and that, as anyone who has been there knows, the Japanese will not accept.
2. To establish more friendly relations with Japan. This failed even more abjectly. Japan is a big nation bestowing favors on a small country and that, as anyone who has been there knows, the Japanese will not accept.

Capital Notebook

 WASHINGTON (NEA) — Naval reserve brass in the Pentagon have come up with this novel idea:

"While we're calling up reserves we shouldn't neglect to call up Reserve Naval Cadet Richard M. Nixon. He could be made naval aide to the President because he's familiar with the White House and could then relieve the present naval aide to the President for sea duty."

If anything like this should happen, Nixon would of course be serving with two other naval officers, Cmdr. Lyndon B. Johnson and Lieut. John F. Kennedy.

Nixon almost lost the reserve commission while he was vice president. The navy bureau of personnel figured that he wasn't keeping up with his correspondence courses.

Rep. Otto Passman, D-Ore., as chairman of the house appropriations subcommittee in charge of state department money, has built a reputation as the No. 1 expert on foreign aid.

William French, a Delaware state department official, has built a reputation as the No. 1 expert on foreign aid.

Mr. Secretary, would you say that cannibalism had declined in Africa?

 AT Business News Analyst NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—The slow but persistent rise in the price of gold is being watched closely by New York financial circles—and doubts in Washington official circles.

There was stunned silence for a few seconds. Then Stahr roared: "How dare you say I pay for this—me or Zuckerkoff?"

This is developing into quite a controversy.

In question are the high, pointed steel heels now being worn by millions of American women.

POT SHOTS

HONEST PEOPLE
 If honesty is its own reward, some woman patron of the Twin Falls postoffice has been rewarded. A letter from the postoffice says: "Thank You" from a fellow who would just as soon remain anonymous.

The little drama began a few days ago when the fellow bought a dollar's worth of four-cent stamps. He took them to a desk in the postoffice lobby and proceeded to stamp a few letters. He mailed the letters and it didn't occur to him until sometime later that he'd walked away and left the remainder of the stamps on the postoffice desk.

So Friday he returned to the postoffice to purchase a few more stamps. He reached the desk, "I'm sure not going to leave this bunch of stamps lying around here," he said.

The clerk asked, if he'd left some stamps, perhaps the lady had put them in the mail.

When everything checked, the clerk reached down, picked up some stamps and handed them to the girl with the red hair.

On second thought, the postal clerk asked if the woman for honesty. Who would have known if the clerk had put the stamps in his pocket? It's not often you find two real honest people on the same deal. Sorta renew your faith.

TYPE ON THE LOLE
 We're in good company. The United States Postal Service makes typographic errors. It's not the printer, it's the type. That's the standard practice. Dr. McArde.

Up on the Lolo pass route of the Lewis and Clark trail, a sign reads: "How do you like the Idaho-Montana route of Lewis and Clark were there on Sept. 18, 1804. Gooses must have read the marker before a new sign was put up. It says: 'How do you like the Idaho-Montana route of Lewis and Clark were there on Sept. 18, 1804. We're sure the forest service will insist to have it right in its next edition.—Portland Oregonian.

POOR MAN'S PLATO

There is no telling how great a bridge player Louis Watson might have been. He was only 17 when he died and he had already won several championships and had established himself as one of the 10 best players in the world.

Louis' strongest point was that he was a perfect partner in bridge. He was a perfect partner in bridge. He was a perfect partner in bridge.

SCHOOLS NOT SHACKLED

Congressmen acted wisely in defeating the bill which would have approved federal aid to education. Actually, there was never any vote on the bill, but representatives voted 242 to 169 against considering the bill now, a move that apparently kills the bill for this session of Congress.

The danger of federal aid to education is obvious. Federal funds are never authorized unless some degree of federal control is included. Proponents of federal aid in all its various guises undoubtedly can find an exception that covers a period of years.

A common dodge of the bureaucrats is to give federal funds with no strings attached. That's the one who is accepting the federal aid start to depend on it and expect it, they suddenly find controls have been tied to the "gift."

Sooner or later, federal control accompanies federal aid.

It's quite obvious that if the federal government can gain control of education, the federal bureaucrats gain control of students and their minds. Such circumstances certainly would jeopardize the future freedom of the United States.

But even forgetting such control possibilities in federal aid to education, it's inescapable that construction and maintenance of schools and an educational system are local responsibilities. It's a never-ending problem, yet an essential matter for constant consideration by the people of a community. There can be no problem more important than providing a proper education for children and providing proper facilities.

Such a question is involved in the bond election to be presented to Twin Falls taxpayers on Sept. 19. It's a local question that will be decided by qualified local voters and the bill will be paid by local taxpayers—all for the benefit of local children.

Kiwanis Club Hears Speech For Survival

ETHEL, Sept. 2 — Mrs. Alfred Thoenen, president of the Kiwanis club, addressed the members of the Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting this week.

Mrs. Thoenen told of the four basic needs for survival from a shelter to a food supply, clothing and equipment, fuel, bedding, clothing and first aid supplies, and a battery-powered radio.

She stated that the biggest problem now is warning the people. Several human devices are now being tested and will be put on the market soon, she added.

Mrs. Thoenen invited all persons attending the Twin Falls County fair, Wednesday through Saturday, to visit the civil defense booth in the agriculture building and take advantage of the literature and information which will be available there.

W. C. Senter, Kiwanis lieutenant-governor, made his first official visit to the club. A board of directors meeting was held after the regular meeting.

Jim Burnett, Randy Hegrett, Jim Innes were visitors.

$104 Taken From School at Carey

CAREY, Sept. 2 — Blaine County sheriff's officers are investigating a breaking into the Carey high school Thursday night when $104 was taken from a file cabinet.

Deputy Frank Inams, Carey, said the burglar forced his way into the school by using a crowbar on the front door. He splintered the door into the principal's office by again using the crowbar and also used it on the file cabinet.

All the drawers in the cabinet were rummaged through but nothing was taken. The janitor found the room in shambles when he came to work Friday morning.

The money was not in a safe because it was broken into and damaged about a year ago and a new one has not been obtained.

Gooding Election Slates Grange

GOODING, Sept. 2 — Officers of the Gooding Grange were elected Thursday. It was reported by Mrs. Ira Kuster, lecturer, at a recent meeting.

The election will be held at a joint ceremony with the Pomona Grange, with the date to be announced. Reports on the fair books were given and members thanked for their help by Rex Miller, master, and Mrs. George Rabke, chairman.

"Who is my neighbor?" was the theme of the program arranged by Mrs. George Jenkins, who made the closing prayer and led the G. O. A. devotion.

SENIOR CITIZEN from the Book of Luke, Carolyn Michaels played two sacred numbers, Danna Smith selected two piano selections and Dick Lopez accompanied himself at the piano and sang two songs.

Mrs. Jenkins closed with a recipe for beef neighborhood.

French Seize Document of Rebel Group

PARIS, Sept. 2 (AP)—French police said today they have seized important documents from the secret office of the rebel group in France and arrested 20 of its members. The leaders are still in flight. Acts of violence were blamed on the plotters, including a murder with a plastic bomb. A spokesman at the interior ministry said the seized documents confirmed existence of a "provisional government for the French overseas" and clearly identified Joseph Ortiz as one of its leaders. Ortiz is under a death sentence for his part in the 1959 Algerian rebellion. Ortiz is believed to have been living in exile on the Spanish island of Mallorca since the insurgent movement collapsed. Police said that the right-wing French government was responsible for the 1959 Algerian rebellion. The captured documents indicated Ortiz sent instructions to the attacks through an elaborate courier network.

Residents Attend Guard Unit Meet

SOME 40 Magic Valley members of the Idaho National Guard association met Saturday at the annual conference of the association. The delegation is headed by Maj. Lawrence N. Smaller School Enrollment Seen

IDAHO'S BIRTH TODAY enrollment in Idaho Falls schools, the third largest district in Idaho, probably will surpass that of last year, but the increase is not as large as it has been in recent years. Dr. John W. Tucker, superintendent of Idaho Falls district 21, said figures from the district show a total of 8,788 pupils registered the opening day Friday. He said many more are expected after Labor day.

651 Enrolled at Burley School

BURLEY, Sept. 2—There were 651 students enrolled in Burley high school Friday, according to Principal Earl H. Carlson. There are 200 seniors, 230 juniors and 221 sophomores, which is considerably more than last year. There are students from one foreign country, Barcelona, Spain, and 10 states, Washington, Iowa, California, Ohio, Arizona, North Dakota, Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, and New Mexico. There are 50 students registered who were not in Burley schools at the close of last year.

Experts Are Looking for Crash Cause

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP)—Some 15 specialists from government and industry today probed records and debris of a commercial airliner that carried 78 passengers many holiday-bound, to a fiery death. The crash of a Trans World Airlines Conquestor with 73 passengers and five crew members, plummeted to a field some 20 miles west of Chicago in suburban Tinian, from a few minutes after taking off from Midway airport at 11 a.m. yesterday. The cause is not known. It was the third worst U.S. commercial plane crash and the worst involving a single-engine propeller-driven plane. Among the dead were 20 children. The teams of investigators were headed seven specific routes of inquiry. Operations, structure, power plants, human factors, witnesses, records and systems. Each team moved into action today. They were aided by investigators from the civil aeronautics board, the federal aviation agency, FBI, Chicago and suburban police and fire departments, and coroner's offices from Cook (Chicago) county and De Witt county, where the accident occurred.

Food for Americans

By GAYNOR MADDOX

LOBSTER PANCAKES

As General Lodge on Lake Kootenai in Maine, we realized (several times) butternut pancakes smothered in Maine lobster sauce.

The lake was crystal clear and calm, and far off rose the long-fellow mountains. Blue Maine sky was overhead. The weather completed this visit experience.

Owner Harold K. Severance, assisted hotel and added to every thing in it except the beautiful setting:

Butternut - Eggplant - Cakes (Yield: 12 to 15 pancakes, depending on size)

1 egg, well beaten
1 cup butternut butter milk
1/2 cup sweet milk
1 tablespoon melted butter
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 tablespoons cornmeal

Combine first 4 ingredients, mixing well. Add remaining ingredients and add to first mixture. Fry on greased griddle over moderate heat, turning when water bubbles. Remove to hot platter when brown on both sides. Serve with lobster sauce.

Note: Packaged pancake mix may be substituted if desired.

SHEPPARD LEADS GOLF MEET

One-Over-Par 69 Paces Top Field; Elimination Derbies Scheduled Today

Dick Sheppard, a former Twin Falls high school golfing whiz and ex-professional, picked a one-over-par 69 Saturday to take the lead in the Elk's annual Magic Valley amateur golf tournament. Sheppard, who now lives in Boise, had only one stroke to spare over three others and the cream of the championship flight was heavily bunched behind him. The tournament attracted 172 amateurs from throughout southern Idaho and northern Utah and Nevada, making it the largest field in many years. The event continues through Sunday and Monday.

Bears Show Class in Beating Devils 39-19

BLISS, Sept. 2—Roaring with often mid-season form, the Boise Bears showed a warning note to members of the Snake River eight-man football conference yesterday when they rained past the Dietrich Blue Devils 39-19. With Clyde Allen flying away on two of his patented long punts, the Bears crumpled all their scoring into the first half. Mike Elliott got the first Bliss score of the year on a six-yard drive in the first period and later kicked a 35-yard field goal. Allen reeled off an 83-yard scoring punt.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY
The Idaho high school football season is in full swing. The department is popular and the season is expected to be a successful one. The Bears' victory over the Devils was a significant win for the team.

POCATELLO, Sept. 2 (AP)—Magic Valley scored 11 runs in the first three innings to whip Pocatello 13-8 Saturday night. The victory kept Magic Valley in the lead with Great Falls for the second-half lead. Hobbs Sanders hit his 30th homerun of the year for Magic Valley to open the sixth inning and to set a postwar pioneer league record. The Cowboys and Chiefs will play a single game beginning at 2 p.m. Sunday while the Great Falls club has pitched a day-time doubleheader with the Billings Mustangs.

Tebbetts Takes Over As Braves' Manager

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 2 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves fired manager Charlie Dressen and named Tebbetts today as their new manager. Tebbetts, executive vice president of the team since 1952 and 1953 seasons, was notified that his contract would not be renewed in a meeting with John McHale, vice president and general manager, after the Braves' 4-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Cutler Beats Driscoll to Cop Golf Win

CHICK CUTLER nipped Dave Driscoll on the second sudden death hole to win the Sonny Hickey trophy tournament sponsored by the Bill Lake Country club. The two teen-agers tied at 145 on the 18-hole course. Cutler, a sophomore at the University of Idaho, won the 18-hole playoff 2-1 over Driscoll, a senior at the University of Idaho.

Yankees Thump Detroit 8-2 as Roger Maris Hits Two Homeruns

By The Associated Press
Roger Maris, clubbing his way out of a three-week slump, hit his 52nd homer today as the New York Yankees whipped the Detroit Tigers 8-2, and stretched their American league lead to 1 1/2 games. The pair of homeruns, coming after Maris had collected only six hits in his last 50 at-bats, put the 26-year-old Yankee thumper eight games ahead of the pace Babe Ruth set when he hit a record 50 homers in 1927.

Maris Concedes He Has Shot at Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (UPI)—Roger Maris conceded today for the first time—that he has a chance to break Babe Ruth's all-time homerun record of 60 in a single season. "I'm still not home yet by a long shot," he hedged slightly. "But I guess you'd have to say my goal is to hit 60."

Shinn Drives Electrics Past Billings 6-2

GREAT FALLS, Sept. 2 (AP)—Jim Shinn drove the three-run tonight as Great Falls defeated Billings 6-2 in a game that was one of the most exciting in the league's history. Shinn, who hit a home run in the first inning, drove in three runs in the third and fourth innings.

U.S. Walker Cuppers Blast British 11-1

SEATTLE, Sept. 2 (AP)—America's amateur golfers removed their lease on the Walker Cup today by beating the British 11-1 in a record eighth straight victory. The United States team, captained by Charles Coe, Oklahoma City oil broker and nonplaying captain of the American side four years ago, won the distinction of clinching the victory, the eighth straight for the United States, with a 3-1 victory in their only hole in 1948.

Sanders Seems Cinch For 4 Batting Titles

Bobby Sanders, the post-war homerun record setter for the Magic Valley Cowboys, appears to have three major league championships in his bag and a good shot at a fourth according to official Pioneer League statisticians. Sanders paces the loop in homers (38), runs batted in (109) and total bases (273) and is tied with two others for runs scored (68). Meanwhile, John Shockey and Great Falls' Domingo Carrasquel continued their battle for the loop batting title. Carrasquel picked up ground on Shockey by maintaining his average at .328 while Shockey had .324 as of Tuesday. Shockey's batting average has lost a point and Shockey has picked up four.

Two Possible Sites Have Been Selected for Proposed Junior High School

This is an aerial photograph of the two sites under consideration for the proposed junior high school building. The school has options on both plots of land. The plot on the right is the first choice. It is bordered on the east by Sparks avenue. The road that crosses below the sites, in the center of the photograph, is Filer avenue west. The plot on the left is the second choice. Both areas are close to the estimated center of pupil population. The plot on the right contains 18 acres, the other, 20 acres. Whether the school district will be able to add another school to eliminate congestion in the present junior high school building will be determined by voters when the school bond issue election is held Sept. 19. (Staff photo-graming)

New Junior High School Building Planned if Voters Approve Bond

Providing voters pass the $1,000,000 school bond issue on Sept. 19, one of the major additions to the district, other than correct the fire hazards in the present junior high school building, is to construct a second junior high school building to relieve the congestion in classrooms and hallways in the present building.

The proposed new building will provide classroom space for 600 students at this time. As the need arises, more space can be added. This will take the enrollment at the old building down to about 1,000, which is the rooming intended enrollment.

A two-thirds majority of the voters in favor of the bond issue is needed for passage of the bond issue.

After making a detailed study of the pupil population in Twin Falls, it was decided that the logical place to build the new building is in the northwest section of Twin Falls. As Ernest Ragland, superintendent, notes, "This is the best area from the standpoint of estimated pupil population."

"Locating this new school in the northwest part of the city will relieve congested conditions at the old building and will ease transportation of pupils to the present junior high building."

"The pupil population is impressive in the northwest part of town and it is felt that the proposed sites presently under consideration are entirely satisfactory."

Looking ahead, the board of trustees decided to get options on two plots of land in that area. They got the options in March for six months, at a cost of only $10 per option.

The land is farm land, just outside the city limits. One of the proposed sites is an 18-acre plot of land, bordered on the east by Sparks avenue. It is a rectangular piece of land, running from east to west. It is owned by W. O. Goldsmith.

The other site borders the Goldsmith property on the west. Its western boundary is Wendell avenue. It is a 20-acre plot of land, owned by W. O. Jacky. Ragland says the Goldsmith

'Classroom of Tomorrow' Used in Today's Schools

By G. K. HOENFELD
 Education Writer

Millions of pupils trooping back to school this month will find that the "classroom of tomorrow" is already here. The classroom of the future is being used in today's schools.

Teaching machines, classroom television in foreign languages laboratories, films, tape recorders, slide projectors and other instructional devices are now firmly established all the way from kindergarten through college.

The machine age has invaded the classroom and it isn't going to be dislodged. The teacher shortage, the exploding class size, and the demand for more youngsters for more education have assured its place in the education scene of things. In fact, many educators actually want that place will be, however, is obscured by conflicting claims.

Labeled as Manner 2

Charge and counter-charge have centered around teaching machines. The label is a misnomer. The teaching machines usually are printed materials arranged in a box, loose leaf notebook or notebook so that the student can introduce himself to new knowledge, test his understanding of it, then move on to the next step in the ladder of learning.

Some call them "gimmicks and gadgets" which threaten to do away with teachers entirely, and turn the schools into assembly lines which dislodge thousands of faceless, identical products.

Opponents are varied.

Others call them (1) the greatest breakthrough in education since the invention of the printing press and (2) the nation's only educational salvation.

Somewhere in the middle lies the truth: Teaching machines and TV, like films, tape recorders, even books—can be a tremendous educational force if used properly as a tool by the teacher instead of a replacement for him.

All these teacher tools are part of what the teaching profession calls "audio-visual instruction" which might be defined as teaching by sight and sound rather than by conventional textbook and lecture.

Instruction isn't new. There is nothing dramatically new about audio-visual instruction. It is at least as old as lantern slides and wind-up phonographs.

The most important difference between classroom films and television is in the matter of curriculum control. It is on this very best available. The classroom teacher can't switch them about 15-45 minutes. He has the time to decide when and how films shall be used to the greatest advantage of his particular group of pupils' interests.

He can interrupt at any point. But again it is a question of curriculum control. The teacher is used to the control of his own classroom. The greater the control moves, the greater the danger that persons prepared for class-lecture television is that it allows a master teacher to be in the class. When a television teacher prepares a lesson to be telecast in one single school, he can work closely with the classroom biology class at the same time. The lesson can be tailored to the needs of the class.

Such lessons probably are the

Eisenhower Still Remains Active

By SAUL PETT
 Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2 (AP)—David Eisenhower has had to learn to sublimate his lack of authority.

This is one way he does it. Reading of some new national issue or problem, he picks up the phone and calls several friends, usually experts in the appropriate field. To each he presents the problem and asks what the other fellow would do about it. Then they match judgments and seek an accommodation and decide if they can on a solution. Then they hang up.

An old Eisenhower friend in Wall street, who used to be summoned frequently to the White House, recently received four letters from the former president in one week. Only one letter contained a subject on which either could act. The others were typified by one which said: "Eisenhower misses the big job in many ways. He misses the power and ability to affect events which deeply concern him. He misses the direct contact with unfolding history. He misses the least-consciousness of the world the huge machinery geared to his wishes, the experts who kept him informed, the planes, the few film, the news-photos that you cleared his path."

But the shock of transition from the White House to the farm is not over. He still retains a deep interest in national and world action. The largest argument in the pattern is only three inches square. Mrs. Pack is an avid quilting hobbyist. In addition to quilting, she has made many other things, such as dresses, lunch sets, cross-stitch crochets, hot pad holders and she has made over 100. property is considered the first choice by the board of trustees because it is better located from the standpoint of pupil population.

But he points out that the final decision rests with the board of trustees and that the decision on the site will be somewhat determined by factors affecting construction, availability of sewer, add-water and other details of construction.

If the money is made available by the voters on Sept. 19 when the school bond election is held, one of these sites eventually will be purchased.

7,000 Pieces of Material Used in Making Quilt

Woman's Elaborate Quilt Will Be Displayed at Fair in T.F. County

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pack, Twin Falls, demonstrate a quilt she recently made. It contains nearly 7,000 pieces of material. It is made from cotton scraps left over from other projects. She is an avid seamstress and frequently has her work at area fairs. She intends to show the quilt at the Twin Falls county fair and rodeo. (Staff photo-graming)

One of the more elaborate, at least the most time-consuming and tedious projects to be displayed at the Twin Falls county fair and rodeo Sept. 7-9 at the Fairgrounds will be a quilt made by Mrs. Fred Pack, Twin Falls.

Anyone who shows sewing would surely go mad making such a quilt, for it contains 6,648 pieces of cloth, most of them the size of postage stamps. But, this is the type of work that Mrs. Pack loves and she has given the quilt her two months to complete.

This would be no mean feat for a young person, but Mrs. Pack is proud that she celebrated her 80th birthday anniversary in July. The quilt she made isn't something that would be attempted by an amateur. Mrs. Pack certainly isn't an amateur. She says she has lost track of how many quilts she has made in her lifetime. She says she has made over 100. She has been displaying for years, she recently displayed some of her work at the Gooding county fair and walked away with five first, one second and one third place ribbon. This year she has been a nurse and I helped her with the quilt.

The ribbon winners were all displayed in the hands-on division at the fair. She intends to display many of her projects at the Twin Falls county fair.

She says that she has made thousands of pieces certainly sounds difficult. Mrs. Pack says it wasn't the most difficult piece of work she has ever done. She classifies certain pieces of quilting work as much more difficult.

She says that she has been a nurse and I helped her with the quilt.

"Johnny" Raven Can Be Pest, but He Is Favorite Pet of Buhl Boy

BOULDER, Sept. 2—Sometimes a pet makes a good pet. At least this is the case of Johnny, a pet raven, owned by Rodney (Rocky) Larson, 12-year-old son of Mrs. Lee Bybee.

He is a young bird, but he has already proved himself a character and established himself as a favorite family pet. This hasn't deterred the "old bird" as only been owned by "Rocky" for six weeks.

"Rocky" got the young bird from a friend of his, Melvin Birdwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Birdwell. The bird was first captured when it was young while the Birdwell boy was on vacation in Nevada.

"Wanted Bird Ready"—When he returned to Buhl with the bird, "Rocky" was envious. To illustrate just how much he wanted the bird, he offered to trade two BB guns and 100 cartridges for the valuable bird. "I thought he was neat," he explains. The trade was never made, but when the Birdwell boy left town again for a few weeks, he gave the bird to "Rocky."

Since then the bird has been both pest and pet.

For one thing, he's particular about his food. He'll eat only a good grade of raw hamburger or sausage, no grain. The family thought he would supplement his diet with cheaper grain. They even tried to mix grain and candy together to induce him to eat the grain. He just picked the candy out of the grain.

He was Early Rise—When they got him they let him fly about the house day and night. This went on for two days and then he started spending his nights in his cage. It seems the bird would rise about 4:30 a.m., fly about the house and finally land on the bedroom window sill and then proceed to peck at the screen and rattle the window blinds until everyone was awake. This didn't help his popularity.

But the clever trick he does during the day is always to get him back in the family's good graces.

He takes baths under a stream of water from the hose nearly every day. He is extremely vocal when he is hungry, and even plays both "Rocky" will bounce a little red rubber ball on the sidewalk and the bird thinks it is the great sport to fly up and quickly steal the ball from the boy. This is followed by a chase. When the

Johnny (Rocky) Larson, 12, feeds his pet raven, "Johnny." The boy has had the pet raven six weeks. The bird has proved rather well in the meantime on hamburger, one of his favorite meals. In addition to being an intelligent pet, the raven helps him find worms in the lawn. He worms are sold to fishermen, and this helps the raven pay his way. (Staff photo-graming)

Richfield Grandmother Has Some 200 Paintings

Eisenhower Remains Much in Demand Despite 'Retirement' as Ex-President

Mrs. Dorothy Reynolds, Richfield grandmother, displays one of her many paintings which fill her home. She didn't realize she had so many until getting ready for a public exhibit, she counted 200. Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Room space for favorite pictures has become a premium at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Reynolds, Richfield artist. Mrs. Reynolds hadn't realized she had painted so many pictures until a count was made recently as she readied her home for a public exhibition. Two hundred paintings was the final count, including a new one now on the easel in her dining room. Pictures take up all available space in the hall, dining, and living rooms and yet are arranged in settings to please Mrs. Reynolds' artistic viewpoint.

General Eisenhower has friends who are being hurriedly courted by one fact. He left Washington trailed by affection of his countrymen. He had his critics. His country had refused to elect him. His own place in history is still being written. But he, himself, remains widely loved and on the record book, the biggest while getting of his life. It is comforting annuity in retirement.

General Eisenhower had expected little of this. He had thought Richard M. Nixon would be president. The Eisenhower philosophy of government would be relatively safe. That the Eisenhower country would have little need of him in retirement.

The former president had deluded several free-swinging speeches attacking the domestic policies of the Kennedy administration. He will deliver more. Also, he has certain constitutional amendments in mind along with a plan for reorganizing some of the top positions of government.

Classes were instituted on choral conducting, hymnology, church music administration, organ, recorder, solo choirs, and youth choirs. A chorus of 90 children was used for demonstration purposes. Mrs. Theisen and a concert was presented by the children one evening.

Plans are underway to organize a junior group which would be composed of boys. Mrs. Theisen feels this group will offer a real challenge.

And in the moments between an order and reading, Dwight Eisenhower finds his mind drifting occasionally back to the past. When he thinks of the great single day in his long career, he thinks always of May 1952, when a terrible war ended. He thinks of it, the day he was released for the day he was to sign an effective, lasting treaty with the whole world. THE FEDERAL TAX HIDDEN IN YOUR CHECKBOOK
You gladly pay your share of taxes for America's defense and other needed federal services. But do you know that you and other Americans have been taxed more than $5,000,000,000 to put the federal government into the electric power business?
And that may not be the end. Pressure groups for this government power are trying to get the federal government to spend billions more!
This spending goes on regardless of the facts. There are hundreds of independent light and power companies, like this one, ready and able to supply all the electricity Americans will need—without depending on your tax money.

Items Pictured in Old Catalogues Tell Story of Past More Graphically Than History Books

These items are chosen from old issues of the Sears, Roebuck and Company catalogues. They denote the passage of time more graphically than a clock or calendar. Many of these items aren't made today—and, probably, the average person can't even identify them. Try your luck.

Sales Tax Is Advocated by School Chief

RUPERT, Sept. 2.—"States that depend on an equitable sales tax to support their schools are far, far better than those that depend on the real property tax," Camden Meyer, Minidoka county school superintendent, told members of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

Meyer attended a special course at Columbia university during the summer, and met with many school administrators with whom he compared notes on school management problems.

In pointing out how the sales tax might help Idaho, Meyer called attention to the migrant workers who come into the agricultural areas and spend a good share of their earnings here before leaving for their next stop. While they are here their children attend local schools. In Minidoka county, he noted, an average of about 300 pupils come each fall and spring, and parents contribute in no way to the support of the schools.

"The tourist trade is another great source of revenue from a sales tax," Meyer said, adding that many tourists express surprise that the state does not have some sort of a tax on retail sales.

Under the present tax setup in Idaho, Meyer said it is not possible for educators to do what should be done for the young people in the way of education. Pointing out that society expects a young person now to be able to take his place in some position, usually a highly trained job. The schools are not furnishing the proper training for the kids, but 50 per cent of students who do not go on to college, he added. Counseling and guidance departments are taking on more importance each year, Meyer said, in assisting the student to make the proper choice of a field to follow.

"In pointing out the growth in student enrollment during the past several years, Meyer said that in 1952, the county district showed an enrollment of 2,658

Thumbing Through Old Catalogues Is One Way of Noting Change in Times

One way to determine your age—or better, how times have changed—is to thumb through an old magazine or catalogue. At best this might be a revelation; more often it will shock.

Employees at the Twin Falls Sears, Roebuck and Company store recently have been amused by some of the copies from old-time company catalogues—that have been posted on the employee's bulletin boards. These catalogue pages copies are graphic examples of how times change. These tools is driven home because most persons have a great deal of trouble even identifying some items that were common place in catalogues at the turn of the century.

The company is celebrating its 75th anniversary and the posted material acquaints the employees with the history of the company. The company started in 1886, when Richard Sears, then a station master in North Redwood, Minn., started a small mail-order business by selling a crate of watches that had been refused by a local merchant. He purchased the watches for 82¢ apiece and sold them through the mail for $14.

"This seemed like a good way to make a living. He purchased more watches, and in six months he had netted $6,000. He left railroad, started a full-time mail-order watch business and later sold other goods. A short time after he started he took Alvah Roebuck, a watch-maker, into the business.

"The country was young and rapidly growing in those days. And through the mail-order catalogue, the buyers on the farming farms, ranches and small communities could buy practically anything manufactured. Many things in the first catalogue would be valuable only to museum keepers in our age, but prices are definitely attractive. The modern man who just spent $1,000 on stereophones, gramophone playing equipment the price of one of the best 'talking machines' available in 1906 would make him wish for a time machine that year the 'new flexible arm Oxford Gylinder Talking Machine' cost $123, plus postage. And for two more dollars the buyer could get two dozen records. He could either pick them himself, or let the

Former Residents Adopt Daughters

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Griffin, Sarasota, Fla., pose here with their two daughters they adopted in South Vietnam. Griffin recently returned from that country. He is a retired army colonel. Ex-T.F. Residents Adopt 2 Vietnamese Orphans, Locate Homes for 23 Others

Thanks to the efforts of two former residents of Twin Falls, two young Vietnamese orphans have a new home in the United States and soon will be citizens of their new homeland.

The children are Nora Ly and Grace Ky, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Griffin, Sarasota, Fla. Griffin recently retired from the Army with the rank of colonel, shortly after he was stationed in Saigon, South Vietnam.

Griffin is the former Helen Ray, daughter of Mrs. Robert Ray, Twin Falls.

Griffin lived in Twin Falls from 1908 to 1916. He is a descendant of the late J. B. Ferris. His father, the late Byron Griffin, worked as a printer for the Twin Falls News. When Griffin was still in elementary school, the family moved to Boise. He happened to meet his wife in Boise, and they were married in 1937.

Griffin completed 31 years in the reserve, national guard and active service. In South Vietnam he was an adviser to the government concerning the modernization and development of the many systems of transportation.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Griffin note that he volunteered for duty overseas the last time with the purpose of adopting children. His points out they have tried to adopt children in the United States, but adoption regulations always excluded military families because they move so frequently and, therefore, were considered unstable.

They both note they considered this critical moment. Later in life they couldn't adopt children because of the maximum age limit imposed by most laws.

Finally, after years of searching, they were able to find two young orphans, both near death, whom they were able to save and take into their home.

And not only were they able to make homes for these children, but through the efforts of Mrs. Griffin, 23 more children were subsequently adopted by members of the small-United States military group in Saigon. They are in the custody of the State Department.

Shortly after they got there, a new law was invoked by the republic. It is called the new family law—a law designed to raise the standards of family life and the status of women in the country. When the new law was put in force, the adoption laws were made more rigid.

Since they were the first Americans applying for an orphan, the red tape involved, especially with the new law, was intended.

But they were finally able to find a Vietnamese lawyer who spoke English well, and through him they were able to adopt their first girl, Nora Ly, who is now two and one-half years old.

There is no dearth of orphans in South Vietnam, according to the Griffin. The influx of refugees from neighboring communist countries has compounded the problem of caring for the orphans.

Mrs. Griffin says the condition of the babies in some of the orphanages is pitiful. In some of them, a handful of parents is trying to care for hundreds of young children and babies.

Noting how conditions are there, Mrs. Griffin says in one orphanage there were over 600 small babies. Each day eight and nine of them would die, often simply from malnutrition.

These first orphans took into their home when she was 10 months old. The child had lived on rice water for three or four months and was so weak she couldn't raise her head. Mrs. Griffin, for over a month, got up every two hours to the crib and fed the child substantial food and vitamins. Anyways who says she didn't know how to do it, she would never guess she had survived such an ordeal.

Their second child, Grace Ky, was born in Saigon, Indochina, one and one-half years old. She was found by an orphanage suffering from malnutrition.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Griffin decided to adopt them. Mrs. Griffin went to South Vietnam in August, 1959, and returned last winter. Now Ly, who is now two and one-half years old, is the only child of the orphans.

In addition to finding them homes and other military wives, wanted to raise money to donate to the many orphanages. The two young girls already are well treated. They have been taken to Japan, Thailand, Formosa, the Philippines, Alaska and across the United States two times. Mr. and Mrs. Griffin are now visiting relatives in the Northwest and will soon return to their home in Sarasota. They have had this same home surroundings day after day.

This fall they are looking forward to helping their Vietnamese youth. He is the 17-year-old son of the lawyer who helped them adopt the children. He wants to attend college in this country and Mr. and Mrs. Griffin intend to sponsor him while he is in school in this country.

Paul Youth, 17, of Blaine, has won prizes in the Fisher Body contest. His first two entries brought him a $25 bonus apiece. For four successive years he has won prizes in four successive years.

The young model builder comes by his interest naturally, as his father, who is employed at the Paul Sugar factory as a machinist, likes to do fancy designing in wrought iron and makes railings. The elder Wolff also has piled the trades of carpenter, plumber and electrical work.

His mother is a seamstress and members of the family built their own home in about six years, doing most of the work themselves.

The oldest son, Donald, 20, built a boat last year as a mechanical arts trade scholastic project and is employed at Cameron's in Rupert. Don's interest doesn't run the same as he hopes to be more interested in the mechanical side than the modeling. He has some day he wishes to fix up a hot rod.

His sister, Louise, 11, will be in the sixth grade at Paul this year. She is a member of the Camp Fire Girls Hiawatha club. Her more interest is in doll houses, dressing dolls and paper dolls.

Paul's materials have been quite economical. His first three models were made of six thin blocks of pine, designed and and the last two netted him $100 each. While interested in fancy, young Wolff is considering changing his career plans. His father, who works at the Paul sugar factory as a machinist, does fancy designing in wrought iron.

Pheasant Brood Stock Remains Same Despite Limited Hen Shooting

Fish and game department records show that this year's pheasant brood stock was about the same as 1960 despite limited hen shooting. The current crop outlook is promising, and biologists this year may take hens near the end of August for the following spring. Hunters, like the unidentified pheasant above, know that all birds and mammals are hatched or born in a 30-50 sex ratio, an absolutely necessary balance in nature, and that all creatures must die at the same rate as they were produced. This limited hen shooting and limited hunter harvest for a portion of the high natural loss which occurs every year. In Magic Valley, one hen may be included in the bag limit Nov. 23-26. (Fish and game department photo—staff engraving.)

Limited Opportunity for Late-Season Hen Hunting Is Increased This Year

By JIM HUMBERT
Idaho Falls and Game

Scattergunners shot some 25,000 hens in southern Idaho during the limited hen hunt on the last two days of the 1960-1961 pheasant season, compared to a statewide harvest of about one-half million cocks, according to data based on the annual hunter questionnaire.

Shoppers this year may take hen pheasants near the end of the pheasant season in 32 of Idaho's 44 counties. Following are some of the reasons why the fish and game commission this year increased the amount of limited hen hunting available to Idaho hunters.

Equal 1960 Stock
This year's pheasant brood stock is about the same as 1960, despite the limited hen shooting. The current crop outlook is promising. Results from 28 pheasant crowing count routes show that about the same number of pheasant breeders entered the 1961 nesting season as last year, except in southern Idaho where a small decline of six per cent was noted. There was no hen hunting in southern Idaho last year.

Two other census procedures are combined with the crowing count results to forecast a better-than-average pheasant yield this year. These are the winter sex-ratio counts and August brood-counts taken when shooting conditions are best. Recent brood counts, for example, showed even better hatching success than during the 1960 season in all pheasant ranges except southern Idaho, where it was about the same.

Pressure Not Increased
This year's limited hen hunt in southern Idaho did not increase the normal amount of hunter pressure during the pheasant season as has been expected, according to checking station counts.

Although still less than one bird per hunter, the average bag during the last two days would have been less than half a pheasant per hunter without hunting the closing Saturday and Sunday hunting in southern Idaho is outstanding because the birds are earlier and harder to find.

With respect to hen shooting, two biological facts are pertinent. All birds and mammals are hatched or born in a 50-50 sex ratio. This is an absolutely necessary balance in nature. A second fact is that all animals must die at the same rate as they are produced. This means that each year about two-thirds of the pheasant population must die to make room for next year's young.

Kwood Elmsan, state bird supervisor, says that if these two facts are accepted, then certain pheasant hunting is inevitable.

Rupert Boys Get Awards In Scouting

RUPERT, Sept. 2 — Advancements in rank, special awards, and a report on summer activities were made at a court of honor for Boy Scout Troop #6, sponsored by the Rupert Methodist church, Wednesday night.

Gene Stoker, committee chairman, conducted the meeting and made the awards. Mike Elk, first class Scout, reported on the troop's activities at camp this summer, and the boys presented two skits which had been prepared and given as part of the camp program.

Ronald Holton received his second class award and "fish, sheep" and farm mechanics merit badge. Larry Butler, second class, first class fishing and farm mechanics merit badge. Jerry McMillan, second class and fishing. Gary Mercury, second class, Mike Johnson, third year pin, fishing and swimming. Wally Butler, star Scout, citizenship, leadership, farm mechanics, swimming, cooking, interesting, a first class husband, canoeing, camping and baseball. Kirk Remeyer, fishing, public speaking, scholarship, and citizenship.

It was also announced that Remeyer had been initiated into the Order of the Arrow at summer camp.

Others were Kenny Butler, swimming, fishing, swimming, life saving, and wood carving; Mike Elk, first class, baseball, swimming, canoeing, farm mechanics; Drew Hall, first class, and inexpensive to install.

Their biggest advantage is that the student is actively engaged in learning the language for the full class period. In traditional classroom teaching he would recite only once or twice.

Divorce Claims Mental Cruelty

Mrs. Lola Henry filed a divorce suit in Twin Falls district court Friday charging Jack Henry with mental cruelty.

They were married June 6, 1956, in Elko, Nev., according to the petition, and have four children. Mrs. Henry asks the court to award her custody of the four children and $25 monthly support for each child.

Mrs. Henry also requests the court to order her husband to pay $175 attorney's fee. She is represented by James J. May, a member of the Twin Falls law firm of May and May.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT

J.P. Hamilton, Buhl, Combines Art, Sports, Business Interests in Life

BULL, Sept. 3 — J. P. (Pat) Hamilton, Buhl, business executive, has been able to combine his three main interests — business, sports, and art.

Hamilton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hamilton, a pioneer banking family, is carrying on the family tradition by working, serving as vice president of Farmers National Bank here.

His father, who came here shortly after the irrigation project opened up around 1917, has been affiliated with the local bank since that time and now is president of the bank.

Hamilton attended schools here and was active in school life while in high school. His keen interest in sports has stayed with him through the years and he has encouraged sports promotion here. He served as secretary for Buhl's city softball league for the past five years, as well as district manager for softball tournaments held here.

He also sports local high school athletic talent for the "Olympic" of Idaho.

If interest in art led him to studying the hobby, photography proved to be a business asset and enjoyable diversion, as well as a very profitable venture.

In looking back on his early youth, Hamilton noted it was through sports that he became interested in photography. He was in high school he had a knee injury playing football and while he was recuperating from the injury he decided to take up photography to fill in his spare time.

He continued the hobby when he went into the service in 1942. While serving with the marine air corps he was stationed for several months at San Diego, Calif. During the event he secured a job in the "Rendezvous room" of the Grant hotel working in the darkroom developing and printing pictures for the nightclub.

It was here, under the tutelage of the late Val Lark, he learned the quick, high class finishing technique he now so successfully uses in his photography. While in service he attained the rank of technical sergeant.

After completing three and one-half years in the service he returned home where he worked in the bank and attended the University of Idaho. Hamilton soon discovered week-end campus activities, such as parties and dancing, and he decided to accumulate most of the $2,000 photographic equipment he now owns. He was president of the Camera club on campus.

Hamilton was graduated from the University in 1951 with a major in business administration and a minor in agriculture economics. Returning home he resumed full time work at the bank and photography helped him in his spare hours and week-ends.

During the past few years weddings have been a specialty of Hamilton, since most of them are held in the evenings or on weekends and he is able to work with his job. Hamilton has his own dark-room in the basement of his home where he does all of his finishing work. The new home being built by the Hamiltons on route four also includes a dark-room which is adaptable to color photography.

J. P. HAMILTON

Hamilton notes his hobby has served as an asset to his banking career. Many of his pictures can be found on bank ledgers and are used in the bank's advertising promotions.

Hamilton enjoys taking pictures of scenic areas around here and is presently working on scenic murals of the Clear Lake vicinity. He has also done most of the photography for the new Buhl procedure which will be released soon.

Hamilton has been vice president of the bank since 1956. He has just completed a three-year course from the Pacific coast school of banking. He served as president and a director the past three years of N. A. Bank Auditors and Controllers and director in the Pacific coast American Institute of banking, for three years.

The 38 year old business executive is a past president of the Buhl Chamber of Commerce, and is now serving as a director and on the economic development committee for the chamber. He also is vice president of the Buhl Economic Development and

In addition his other activities include being secretary of the Buhl Toastmasters club and home service chairman for the local Red Cross chapter.

Hamilton married the former Margaret Walker on July 25, 1954. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Walker, long time residents of Halley. The Walkers formerly operated the City-Meat-Market at Halley and now farm a ranch between Halley and Ketchikan.

The Hamiltons have four sons, James Michael, age 8, John Patrick Jr., 4; Joseph Kevin, 3; Jay Vincent, 2 months old; and a daughter, Katherine Louise, 1 1/2 years old.

Here the classroom teacher has lost control over what she presents. The strength and weakness of the teaching machines are not debatable.

... research should indicate the machines are valuable in mathematics and possibly grammar and foreign languages. This subject is a considerable memory drill. Proper use of the machines permits each student to forge ahead at his own pace and at his own speed. Aids from that, not very much known about the machine. How effective will they be in such subjects

Has Free Run of Front Yard

Looking like a wild bobcat, tamed by a pack of baying hounds, "Butch" peers out of a willow tree in I. M. Jackson's front yard. The young cat is tame and often has free run of the farm. He is housebroken and for the first few months Jackson owned him he slept in the house at night. (Staff photo-engraving)

You'd Call It Bobcat; He Terms It Conversation Piece; Both Are Right

KIMBERLY, Sept. 7—Jerry to like the cat. Jackson has taken him to school dances, where the curious flock around him to the point they form a wall.

The cat seems to draw all the attention, but Jackson does point out that he quickly tires of being handled. But he doesn't get mean; he just wiggles away.

Although he eats enough dog food that he doesn't bother the farm animals, the cat, named "Butch," did intrude a game recently that was quickly stopped by Jackson.

He heard a commotion in the corral. He ran outside and found the 30-pound cat in the corral with the cattle, jumping from back to back on the cattle, one cattle thought this a rather ridiculous game, but Butch thought it delightful.

Strange as it seems the young cat likes most of the farm animals, except the por hound cats. These he seems to detest and takes every opportunity to chase them and give them a good mauling. He'll play with the dogs, after the initial shock, they learn him with them. He wins.

For many months he was a constant companion with a dachshund, belonging to Jackson's grandmother, Mrs. R. L. Partridge. The games they played were fine until the cat outgrew the dog and became too rough. Now the dog avoids him, and the cat has to content himself with hiding in the rooms in Mrs. Partridge's home and jumping at her when she walks through the house.

This might annoy some persons, but Mrs. Partridge likes the cat and plans to take care of him when Jackson leaves for college at Washington State university this fall.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP
BUHL, Sept. 7—Alvin L. Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Grasson, Buhl, has been awarded a scholarship from AIA Association for Lethbrans, a fraternal life insurance society with home office in Appleton, Wis. He is a freshman at Concordia college, Portland, Ore.

Life of Man May Depend On 'Whatzit'

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 7—Your life could depend someday on an electronic whatzit the size of the period which closes this sentence.

The whatzit is a "memory unit," thousands of which go into the first-size computers our new space-age weapons use for brains.

Just one of these "brain cells" failed to function.

One of our spy satellites might be able to detect an enemy missile attack in time to flash a warning.

One of our missiles might miss the target or a launch pad, perhaps, where an enemy rocket waits with your name on it.

It's a tiny-size job that must be done by three tiny whatzits, the smallest monuments yet erected to man's ingenuity.

But a peasant could afford one. The price? 2 cents.

Man had a good model to copy in creating the memory cell—his own brain.

In some ways the copy surpasses the original.

In the human brain, thought waves travel along fibers from one nerve center to the next.

In the electronic brain, electrical signals travel along wires from one memory unit to the next.

Distractions and emotions can confuse the way a man thinks, send his thought waves on detours.

In an electronic brain there are no detours. The electrical signals follow a predetermined path.

In the Agena satellite—the vehicle for Midas missile—alarm instruments and cameras, cameras—the fixed pathway is a kind of an electronic roadway through space. By following it, the signals fed into the computer guide the satellite through the maneuvers it must make, at the right time.

One of the problems with satellites is their tendency to wobble. A sky spy must be stable in space. Its lenses are to focus precisely on an enemy missile base. If an Agena wobbles, an electronic eye will miss the target.

Engineers build the ability to meet this and other emergencies into the computer at the factory. Their computers lie in the arms of strange the memory cells.

Memory cells are doughnut shaped and so small you could slip 1,000 of them—side-by-side on a postage stamp.

They are made of a mixture of rust, iron oxide and talk of magnesium (magnesium oxide), stamped into shape and baked like cake.

At Lockheed Electronic company, which recently contracted to make millions of them for use in all kinds of computers all over the world, production has become almost completely automatic.

Starting with a dry powder so sticky that it sticks in a jar like water, technicians whip out a batter whose exact ingredients are a closely guarded secret. Poured out on a sheet, the batter is allowed to solidify slightly before a stamping machine presses out the tiny doughnut shapes, which then are fired like fins.

Special machines test the beads electrically—and each—tester has a machine testing it.

Beads which bear his inspection are strung on tiny wires spread out in certain patterns. The wires and beads are imbedded in a fiberglass mold and the mold is taped to a water-tight circuit board something like that in your radio.

This circuit board is the basic building block of all computers. The more boards you have, the

New Pet Gets Shower From Garden Hose

Rocky (Rocky) Larson sprays his pet raven with water from the garden hose. The young raven has been his pet for about six weeks. In that time the bird has been both pest and pet. He sometimes wakes the family at the crack of dawn, and once often has an interesting pet. The bird seldom wanders away from the house, staying close to home. (Staff photo-engraving)

"Johnny" Raven Can Be Pest, but He Is Favorite Pet in Bybee Household

bird tires of being pursued, he simply flies atop the house.

"Johnny" has little tolerance for cats or dogs. In fact he is downright belligerent to them. Anytime a cat or dog strays into the yard "Johnny" flies at him, screeching and pecking. This is too much for the average dog or cat.

A memory plane is laid out the same way. Each bead has a name: TC, SB and so on.

Every bead is strung with at least two wires, the ends of which extend beyond the mold which crosses the circuit board.

When they come from the factory, the boards, or planes, are electronically blank. Memory is built into them by running current through the wires to the beads.

One pulse of current gives the memory cell a positive condition—it will say "yes" later when asked by a questioning pulse. If it is not given a pulse, it remains in a negative state—it will say "no."

To prevent every bead from being put in a "yes" condition only half a pulse is run through each wire.

If bead TC is destined to be turned into a "yes" cell, it gets two half-pulses, one from the wire numbered 7 and one from the wire lettered C.

The "no" cells get only half a pulse from a single wire—not enough to turn them into "yes" cells.

Once the pattern of "yes" and "no" cells has been set, the memory plane is ready to go to work to remember, when called upon, what it had been programmed to do.

Probably the most exceptional thing "Johnny" does is help "Rocky" find worms. The boy has an angle worm business. He gets the worms by driving them out of the soil with electric current. The worms just come to the surface and roll around. This is where "Johnny" enters the scene.

He has a sharp eye and readily spots them in the grass. He will move up to a hard-to-see worm, make a grab for it and then beat a hasty retreat. This points out the worm to "Rocky."

The bird seems to like his home and, except for a few excursions into neighboring yards to harass dogs and cats, he stays at home.

He has started to follow crows at times, but always comes back when he is called.
