The Milner townsite and dam area will be visited by members and friends of the Twin Falls County Historical society in a field trip at 1 p.m. next Sunday. The event honors the Milner pioneers and also members of the Wilson Price Hunt expedition of 1811, the first explorers to traverse the Snake river canyon section, H. E. ### Pianist to Open Community Concert Season for Burley

BURLEY, Oct. 21—Burley Community Concert members are looking forward to the first concert of the season which will feature concert pianist Grant Johannessen on Monday, Oct. 20, at the Burley high school. Grant Johannessen has been a public favorite for almost two decades. Born and raised in Salt Lake City, where he received his early musical training, he later studied in France with the great Robert Casadesu and Nadia Boulanger, then with Egon Petri. After his spectacular New York debut in 1944, he quickly became a favorite "native son" as recitalist and soloist with orchestras. He has played with practically every major U. S. orchestra, including such famous ones as the New York Philharmonic, the Chicago Symphony, the Cleveland Orchestra and the Philadelphia Orchestra. As a recitalist, he is known and acclaimed throughout the North American continent, local community concert officials note. Johannessen is one of the few American pianists to build up a loyal following abroad. In Europe he has long been acclaimed as a recitalist who is "a thinking musician and a poet" and he has performed with Europe's foremost orchestras, such as the London Philharmonic, the Conservatoire orchestra of Paris, and the Resident orchestra of The Hague in Holland, and he has made many radio and television appearances on the continent. The 1961-1962 season (1962-63) Johannessen just returned from his first season as an artist in residence of the famed Aspen Music festival, ready to embark upon another year of prime engagement which will be highlighted by the release of two new recordings—volume 11 of the complete works of Gabriel Faure and an album of much loved but not yet recorded works of Francis Poulenc. Johannessen also is scheduled to perform the complete Beethoven Concerto Cycle with the Salt Lake City symphony in two different cities, fulfill many other orchestral commitments throughout North America and give dozens of recitals from coast to coast.

GRANT JOHANNESSEN... concert pianist who will appear at the first program of the season for the Milner-Castro Community Concert series at the Burley high school at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 20. Born in Salt Lake City, Johannessen has been a public favorite for almost two decades and is one of the few American pianists to have a loyal following abroad. (Staff engraving)

Fire Causes Outlined to Cub Scouts

Mrs. Kenneth Royer and Fred Higgins, of the Twin Falls fire department, demonstrated causes of fires at the monthly meeting of Cub Scouts pack No. 76, sponsored by the Harrison school PTA, Tuesday evening. Chairman Gerald Salisbury reported three fire causes and causes of the century brought water to the Twin Falls tract. He will discuss the Wilson Price Hunt expedition, which passed the site of Milner on Oct. 28, 1811, and also will introduce pioneers who were expected to attend. Those in charge pointed out that members and friends of the society would meet at the Milner park at 1 p.m. next Sunday. The brief program as well as introduction of the pioneers and "exploring" trip of the townsite and nearby areas is expected to be completed by 4 p.m. "We hope that anyone who ever resided in Milner will be able to attend," Keller said. In addition, to the opportunity to inspect this old townsite, once the largest in this entire area, it will give those interested in history a chance to see a section of the Snake river where the explorers of 150 years ago nearly met with disaster. This story will be told by Seymour as will a brief review of the importance of the diversion dam to the Twin Falls area. The Milner site is reached by traveling highway 30 a distance of seven miles east of Marsburg. At this point a sign bearing the name of the town will be noted indicating a turn north. It is found at the Milner park, at this point to the latter park.

Mrs. Don Andrews, Hazelton; Mrs. Della Lindsey, Hansen; and Mrs. Edna Jacobs, Kimbly, all supervisors of the hot lunch programs in their respective school districts, and their personnel were guests of Mrs. Goodman, Murtaugh hot lunch supervisor, and her personnel.

Church Still Backs Wilds Bill Position

LEWISTOWN, Oct. 21 (AP)—Continued support of the wilderness bill was voted by Ben Frank Church, D. Ida., during a brief stopover here today.

Church made his appraisal during a stopover en route to Boise after a weeklong tour of North Idaho.

'Support in the senate for the wilderness bill was as strong on the Republican side as it was on the Democratic ranks. My principal helper as floor manager of the measure was assistant majority leader Ben Tom Kitchin, R. Calif. In the final vote, 23 of 28 western senators voted for the bill.'

'Although there is less land affected by the bill in Idaho than in a number of other western states, it is only in Idaho that the Republican professionals are trying to make a partisan issue out of it,' Church said.

Robbins Asserts Democrat Fiscal Policy Unsound

IDAHO FALLS, Oct. 21 (AP)—Ray Robbins, former Republican state chairman, speaking at a meeting of Bonnellville county, Idaho Republicans Friday night, branded the "irresponsible spending program of the Democratic party as the greatest threat to the American way of life."

Former Burley Man Writes Of Experiences on Taiwan

BURLEY, Oct. 21 — Robert B. Van Hook, formerly of Burley, son of Mrs. Frank L. Manning, Burley, talks about his directing experiences in China in letters to his mother and his aunt, Ann Larson, also Burley. He is on the island of Taiwan, which is still part of Nationalist China.

It has charge of distributing surplus U.S. relief goods on Taiwan through the Protestant churches. As usual Van Hook writes, he finds there are too many people on relief who are not actually in need and it is one of his tasks to try to weed out the needy from those not so needy.

One of the main problems is that there are the wrong kinds of surplus goods to distribute. The surplus goods consist mostly of flour, corn meal, corn oil and powdered milk. The Chinese do not ordinarily eat these foods and would prefer something else.

Van Hook is studying the Chinese language. He gets one hour off three times a week to study. He also teaches a small class of young men from an industrial college.

He has formed a bicycle club for some of the Chinese young men and they take trips around the country. According to Van Hook, they have visited all the temples of which there are many. He says that it is unable to determine if they are Buddhist or Taoist as the native religion on Taiwan seems to be somewhat primitive, a combination of Taoism and Buddhism with a liberal dose of local superstition.

Corrections Noted on T. F. Man's Crystal Ball Gazing

Editor, Times-News: Having read Lloyd Walker's letter in your Public Forum for Oct. 1, I feel duty bound to have lived in Idaho until five years ago when I moved to Arizona to offer some corrections to his "crystal ball gazing" particularly regarding Senator Goldwater. I submit the following: Goldwater actually claims no 1,000 per cent batting average with his fellow Republicans. His conservative ideals and beliefs were in existence long before the John Birch society was founded; he is not a member and it shouldn't be necessary for him to deny membership every time he appears in public.

BORAH T.F.: MINICO BLASTS TIGERS

Joe McCollum Speeds on 90-yard Scoring Run on Game's Opening Kickoff

BOISE, Oct. 21—The Borah Lions, highly regarded in Idaho's football circles, did not come from behind from the opening kickoff until four minutes remained in the third period. Speedy Joe McCollum, fast becoming the Bruins' big ground player, shocked the highly favored Lions with a touchdown run on the opening kickoff and the stubborn defensive unit almost made it stand up.

Sports

BY LARRY HOVEY
The old gag about the football player who saw a big and took the ball away from the Valley high school football team is still true.

One of the boys came running up to me after a play and said, "That big fellow smokes." He had his hand on the back of my neck and I could see the teeth marks. I didn't know the fellow's name, but I could do about it. The boy did stare back toward the line.

Garry Matlock, the scabback coach of Idaho coach Babe Brown's uterus grow little.

Matlock, who excited thousands around this area last year in the center of the "Bible" case, has been installed as the punt and kickoff rumber.

Three weeks ago Matlock ruled one of his favorite plays. He took a punt on the line and on one side. Finding himself seemed in Matlock's back.

Coach Brown, one of the real ones to the vest, coached him and asked for an "offensive" Matlock.

Reports say he's his own boss, especially after a 90-yard run he caught the ball.

Halfback Alvin Eason took a 90-yard pass from quarterback Bobby Ryan and sped the "Tigers" touchdown.

On the first play Greg Flint ran an end sweep and all out was driven back into the end zone.

This Twin Falls sophomore is filled with confidence, in deep punt receiving for the first time, reached over the line to catch a punt and managed to hang onto it.

He was jerked immediately by coach Donnie "What's a fair catch?" the boy said.

Unfounded, Donnie explained that by holding his hand to his head, he could call the catch and the opposition must interfere with his catch.

Minnesota Is Easy Winner Over Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 21—Minnesota's Sandy Stephens scored four touchdowns and scored one more, but he needed only a little pass to break a little jinx in a 33-0 Big Ten victory over hapless Illinois.

The Gophers' victory over the Illini was the first for Minnesota in the 25-year history of Memorial stadium. The teams only played six times in the past 25 years.

The Stephens pass that broke the jinx was good for four yards to end Tom Hall with less than a minute left in the first period.

The Gophers' ground game was a factor in the first half. Minnesota gave Illinois only 19 plays while keeping the ball for 47 minutes.

Illinois picked up only six first downs while Minnesota rolled to 21 and a total of 213 yards rushing. The Illini picked up 37 yards rushing.

Burley Stops North Cache By 13-0 Count

After the kickoff, North Cache rushed for 100 yards in the first quarter and scored on the next play.

Lamson Leads Wyoming by Cougars 36-8

LARAMIE, Wyo., Oct. 21—Veteran quarterback Chuck Lamson guided a 36-8 victory for the Cougars over the Skyline conference football victim.

Sophomore halfback Bud Spencer zigzagged through the Cougars of a 58-yard punt return for a 100-yard touchdown in the first time Wyoming got on the field.

The Cougars went on to use 13 backs, seven of them sophomore punters, to score 36 points on the field.

Another Wright punt got caught in the end zone and was finally good for one of only two yards on the Wyoming 30.

Wright missed setting a 30-yard conference record by only a yard when he quarterbacked from his own end zone into the end zone.

Richfield Is 20-6 Winner Over Devils

MURTAUGH, Oct. 21—The Richfield Mustangs led on three of four scoring opportunities and turned back three Murtaugh Red Devils deep puntations yesterday to claim a 20-6 victory.

Junior linebacker Tony Jensen accounted for all of Richfield's extra points in the game and Steve Jensen, a Tiger defensive end, accounted for all of the extra points.

Murtaugh stymied Richfield on the first drive, but when the aid of a five-yard penalty, the Devils held on a first down and one-yard to go situation.

With less than a minute left in the half, Tom Tolman scored on a 12-yard run on the next play before a double reverse netted an eight-yard run.

With 29 seconds left, Wright passed to Steve Jensen for a 20-yard run, then saw a second pass dropped in the end zone.

Early in the third quarter Richfield recovered a fumble on Murtaugh's 30-yard line and five plays later Tolman went in from a yard out and then converted.

With four minutes left in the game, Tolman again broke loose and ran 41 yards but the Devils were stopped on the four yard line.

Jensen closed the game by slugging in from the 12-yard line.

Elliott Runs Bliss to Down Bruneau

BLISS, Oct. 21—Mike Elliott broke loose on three touchdown scampers yesterday to lead the Bruneau Bears past Bruneau.

Glider Pilot Prepares for Flight at Hailey

Robert Wadsworth, right, sees the canopy on the glider. Seated in front is Louis Stur, behind him is Dr. James Ball. Stur is one of the few practicing glider pilots in the area. He obtained the two-seat glider last summer and has been flying it out of the Hailey airport. Stur first started flying gliders in his native Hungary about 20 years ago. He says that the foothill and desert areas of this country offer some of the best flying conditions in the country. He plans to make cross-country flights in this area next spring and summer. (Staff photo-engraving) month has been soaring above the valley floor in his sleek glider. Stur, a glider enthusiast, has studied the art of glider flying for about 20 years. He recently acquired a two-seat glider and resumed a favorite hobby. Stur began flying gliders when he was a youth in his native Hungary. The way he learned was a real test of nerve. He belonged to a government-sponsored organization, somewhat like the ROTC. One of the activities of the organization was glider flying. But the young men went about it in a much different way than is done in this country. The gliders were catapulted from the sides of mountains. The pilot would then fly the glider into the valley below. This method was used because it was in shortage of gasoline, so low planes couldn't be used. Several boys would gather with their instructor and spend the day flying a glider. But flying the glider took a portion of the day. Most of the boys who were working hard, hauling the glider back up the mountainside. They would take turns flying the glider, then they would have to literally push the glider back up the mountainside.

Deer to Spend Week-End In Barn; He's too Tame

HAILEY, Oct. 21—"Bamboozle," a pet deer, is looked up week-end because he's too tame. "Bamboozle" was orphaned last spring during the first hay cutting. Kinsey discovered the young fawn in a hay field near the ranch house. The doe ran off with a twin fawn, but never did come back to claim "Bamboozle."

Minutemen of Modern Warfare Form Air Force Reserve Unit

Some of the "minutemen" of modern warfare are starting to band together at Jordin airport. They are the members of the 9602nd air force reserve recovery squadron. The squadron is composed of members of the reserve throughout the Magic Valley, and some of them come from as far away as Boise and Mountain Home. The recovery squadrons are a new project in the nation's defense plan. The Twin Falls squadron has been under formation since last summer. There are now 52 men in the squadron and there are positions open for 150 more. Most of the positions are for aircraftmen. The units have a mission unique in the history of national defense. It is the purpose of the units to provide a landing area for an airplane that has been either damaged following a nuclear attack on an enemy, or for an airplane whose home base has been destroyed. The program to provide such units throughout the United States is in full swing. It is interesting to note that the idea first started in Idaho Falls. It was the idea of a reserve air force officer to start the units in the many reserve air force personnel in the country could be used to greater advantage. The idea was presented to a

Renewal Plan Lifting Small Towns' Faces

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—In Merced, a Texas town now happily out of bankruptcy, a new school stands proudly where two years ago there was only a brush-land in a slum. And soon there'll be a park in Merced, the first, where children can play. On Handy Heights in Florence, Ala., trim cottages please the eye, whereas once the dreariest of shacks depressed everybody who looked at them, particularly the Negroes who lived there. In the business section of Uniontown, Pa., bright, modern stores pull in big customers. In London, stricken by the depression of the coal-mining industry, gloom had been the partner of blight and desolation. The face-liftings are all part of a small-town betterment program that is developing into a big thing under the direction of the urban renewal administration, a part of the federal housing and home finance agency.

Big as it is, this program often is overlooked, the HEPA says, because of the more widely publicized urban renewal projects of the large U.S. cities. Since the program began in 1949, towns and cities under 50,000 population have received $22,761,000 in urban renewal grants from the federal government. Urban planning grants, done over with federal funds totaling over 25,000, have totaled $9,206,000. The multibillion, catchall housing bill which congress passed this summer contains a record of two billion dollars to be spent over the next four years on grants for urban renewal projects. The program has had its share of criticism and controversy. Critics raised the cry of hoodlumism in the case of an oddly named, once prosperous west Texas town, Wink, population 1,269. The whole town, including block after block of abandoned false-fronted buildings, will be done over with federal funds exceeding one million dollars. The Wall Street Journal figured Washington would have to fork over nearly $3 billion dollars to treat New York as generously. The executive director of the Wink project, Donald McGee, retorted: "We'll be the only town in the whole country which has been renovated." On the other hand, listen to publisher Melvin Dow of the Wink Bulletin: "I'm just lukewarm on this whole idea. I've never been sold on this Federal giveaway stuff, but we've reached the point where I guess something will have to be done. I don't know whether it's going to help us or hurt us." Mayor C. A. Ripley of Merced, population 10,949, has no doubts that urban renewal is his

Trail Creek Summit Road Work Is About 40 Per Cent Complete

KETCHUM, Oct. 21—For the last three months, construction crews have hacked and chiseled away at the mountainside along the road leading from Ketchum to Trail creek summit. They are working on a portion of the road from the valley floor to the summit, and in about a year the project will be finished. The project is about 50 per cent completed. It will be a vast improvement over the present road and will offer better traveling conditions to the Challis area. Emory Waller, project engineer, says construction probably will be finished by early September, 1962. About $407,000 will be spent on the project. The money for the highway fund money, allotted to the bureau of public roads. No state money is being used. This project is another in the program that is carried on annually by the bureau of public roads, the forest service and the Idaho department of highways. Each year they jointly program road construction in the backwoods areas. After construction, the road will be maintained by the state highway department.

The construction is being done because of the heavy volume of traffic over the road. In recent years the Ketchum-Stanley-Challis-Loat River country-Ketchum loop has become popular with tourists and week-end travelers. The route to Challis is 42 miles shorter than the route through Stanley, according to Waller. Just a portion of the road is being reconstructed. The construction area starts about three-fourths of a mile east of Sun Valley and extends 0.8 miles up the pass. Construction goes on within about one and one-half miles of the summit. When construction is finished, a prime and seal coat will be applied, creating a road similar to the new portion of highway south of Timmerman Hill. The new construction involves redesigning and rebuilding that portion of road. The road will adhere to the old grade, which averages about seven per cent from the bottom of the valley floor to the summit. But the road will be widened. It now averages about 18 to 20 feet wide. The new portion will average about 30 feet, and will have within about one and one-half

Businessmen Are Specialty For Checkers

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—When a man gets successful, he usually can expect extra attention from his colleagues—who figure he's on the way up, from automobile dealers—who want to sell him a prestige car, and maybe even from his wife—who wants a bigger house. Chances are he also will get attention from a quarter he doesn't expect: private investigators. There are good odds that his name may be among the four and one-half million indexed by Bishop's Service, Inc., on the nation's major investigating agencies. If you listed all the people who filed returns on incomes of $10,000 or more, altogether you'd have around four million names.

"Any man who comes into the business world and begins to grow in stock, financing or executive status will sooner or later be investigated by us," says William H. Chiazello, 50, stocky president of Bishop's. The firm is a sort of private eye for the brokers, financial houses, insurance companies, large corporations, big investors. It serves an average of 100 clients a day. It is preparing anywhere from 4,000 to 6,000 full-scale, detailed reports. It has been checking into the honesty, integrity and other facts of individuals since 1936. It has agents in principal cities of the United States, as well as Canada, Western Europe and other far-flung points. ### Kimberly Pair Owns Unusual Piano

Alice (Thel) Jones, 44-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Jones, Kimberly, stands beside an unusual old piano belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Rose Medley. The instrument has the unusual legs on the instrument. A closer look also would reveal that this piano, fashioned of solid rosewood, has only 44 keys. When the keyboard cover is raised one will see on its underside a music rack with pedals on either side designed for candlesticks, to light the pages of the musician's music.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rose Medley, KIMBERLY, might not notice their small upright piano if it weren't for the unusual legs on the instrument. A closer look also would reveal that this piano, fashioned of solid rosewood, has only 44 keys. When the keyboard cover is raised one will see on its underside a music rack with pedals on either side designed for candlesticks, to light the pages of the musician's music.

The Medleys acquired this piano, which is a scant four feet in length and three feet, 10 inches long, while they were residents of Bushnell, Neb., in 1946. A neighbor, whose husband was seriously ill with cancer, asked if they would like to buy her piano for $25. As Mrs. Medley had never looked at the instrument and $25 in those times was quite a sum, she declined. A few days later the woman mentioned it again and the Medleys gave it very serious thought for several days.

After deciding this amount of money would place the woman's husband in the hospital where he would be more comfortable and ease her mind, they consented. As the average wage at that time was 36 cents an hour, it was no money for them to borrow the money from the bank.

The Medleys did not sit much thought to their new purchase until a piano tuner from Denver commented on his opinion. He stated that he was 75 years old, had been tuning pianos for 40 years and had never seen one like it. He asked if they ever wanted to sell it to let him purchase it.

When the piano tuner was offered the price of a new piano that she became curious about its value. In December, 1949, she sent photos and its description to the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C. Her reply from the museum stated that it had a Lemuel Gilbert piano of almost the same design, which was believed to have been made about 1848.

The letters went on to reveal that Lemuel Gilbert, sometimes known as Lemmanell, began the manufacture of pianos in 1831 in Boston. Between 1839 and 1864, after several ventures with partners, he carried on the piano-making business under his own name. He took out patents on numerous improvements, and the word "patents" that appears on the Medley piano presumably applies to one of these. He was one of the first to make upright pianos and he patented a significant upright action in 1830.

The large hexagonal legs on his upright are more commonly seen. Some square plans of the period, and their use on this piano may be considered a mark of Gilbert's piano design.

It is not known how many pianos Lemuel Gilbert made. His biography was set as profile a producer as Chickering or some of his other competitors, but he was regarded as an expert among piano-makers, and it is probable that his piano were in great demand. Mrs. Medley says. His shop at the time this piano was made was located at 416 Washington street, Boston.

The piano on display at the museum was viewed by the Medleys' oldest son, Ken, in 1954.

But all this changed. Now Stur is loved aloft by Lawrence Johnson, Halley, and left on his own.

After those first years of flying in Hungary, Stur did little flying. He made enough flights there to become accomplished, but it wasn't until after he came to the United States in 1949 that he resumed glider flying. Stur has worked at Sun Valley since 1951 and in 1950 he began flying again.

He owned a single-seat glider for about two years, sold it and then purchased his present two-seat model.

Although gliding is a relatively new sport in Idaho, Stur says the area around Magic Valley is one of the best gliding areas in the country. He explains that the sagebrush flats and hillsides have a rapid rise in temperature in the morning, creating updrafts that create excellent gliding conditions. The rising air enables the pilot to stay aloft much longer.

Stur says that shortly after Sun Valley opened in 1949 a two-seat glider (since surpassed) was set at Sun Valley. The glider and pilot occupied space to an altitude of 20,000 feet.

Another illustration of how far a pilot can fly in this country was the flight made last summer by a pilot on a cross-country flight. In one day he flew from Burley to Rawlins. The world's record, according to Stur, for a cross-country distance flight is more than 600 miles.

Stur has Johnson now him to an altitude of 3,000 feet. He says the early summer and late spring months probably will be the best for gliding. He is looking forward to trying cross-country flying within the valley area.

such as flights from Halley to Twin Falls and back. Stur says there is some interest in gliding in Boise. An Owyhee Soaring society has been formed there on a cooperative plan. The society owns a glider and the members share it.

Gliding is less expensive than flying a powered plane. A new two-seat glider costs from $3,000 up; a single seat glider, $2,000 up. Used gliders can be purchased for $1,000 and up.

Stur purchased a used Lister Kaufman glider, a World War II trainer glider that has been modified. It has an F-54 canopy, 50-foot wing span, 22-foot fuselage and weighs 675 pounds.

Recently, Stur completed his commercial glider flying license requirements at a glider flying center.

There was the case of the man who got a three million dollar controlling share of a company without a penny of his own.

Chiarillo tells it this way: The promoter negotiated with a majority stockholder to buy three million dollars in holdings. He borrowed $200,000, which he used as an option for three million in stock, stipulating that the shareholder would immediately create a new board, with the promoter as chairman.

Thereupon the promoter flew to the West Coast, where the firm had a principal office and there, in his capacity as new chairman, obtained three million dollars in negotiable instruments held by the company. With these he obtained 27 million dollars from a bank, sent to New York and paid the stockholder the additional money owing him.

Then he wrote a check for 27 million dollars against funds of the firm, cashed it, paid off the $200,000 he reported to the option, went back to the West Coast, where he paid off the securities and returned the securities to the company.

The end of these transactions found him in control of the company, everyone paid off, and the money taken from the firm accounted for under the heading of "acquisitions."

choose a new board immediately and so when the promoter was on the West Coast dealing with the company and the bank he actually had no legal connection with the company and no authority to do anything.

Chiarillo, who was a practicing attorney until he got into the business world, says the government in World War II gave some men who are not imposters but tricky ways of inflating their own version of their capabilities and connections. The deft comes in the course of personal investigations.

You'll find that the man who could never get through college somehow is compelled to list himself as a Ph.D. The $70-a-week shipping clerk gets a recommendation of his job and puts himself forth as a vice president in charge of the business worth $30,000, Chiarillo says.

"While Bishop's may one day say 'you—! you are on your way up in the business world—! don't mean that it's report will get you in trouble or clinch a job or kill your chances for it.'"

Says Chiarillo: "We never make recommendations, and we are not much better. We simply learn the facts and report them confidentially. That's it."

POETS BOND WENDELL, Oct. 21—E. L. Jensen, Jerome, appeared before Judge G. D. Pierce Wednesday morning and posted a $250 bond for parking against traffic on South Idaho street.

WENDELL, Oct. 21 — Mr. and Mrs. Homer Dolie returned this week from Nebraska where they visited for two weeks. Mrs. R. Robinson, Hastings, mother of Mrs. Gubie, accompanied them to Wendell for a few weeks visit. Mr. and Mrs. Reed Morrow, Spokane, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ben Morgan.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bickenshoff, Nampa, are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. M. E. Schell, and family. Mrs. Bickenshoff has been in poor health for some time and is being cared for by her daughter. ## Real Cowboy, Indian Days Recalled

By J. Newell Dayley, Area Pioneer

J. NEWELL DAYLEY

OAKLEY, Oct. 21.—More than 100 persons recently honored J. Newell Dayley, pioneer resident of the Oakley valley area, on his 80th birthday anniversary. Many of the men of his age who were born and reared in this area.

He has seen the times change from cowboy days when young ranchers played with Indian children to the days when ranch children lead their horses to cowboys to watch Indians shoot at wild turkeys. It wasn't that way in Dayley's youth.

Dayley was honored at an open house at the home in Oakley on Oct. 21. Friends and relatives from all over southern Idaho and Utah attended the event, which lasted from 11 until 10 p.m. The open house was held in the same home his father built in 1888.

But Dayley hasn't always known such sturdy quarters. He was born in a dugout home in Oakley in 1881 on a tract of land his father purchased after moving from Utah in 1879.

His father, Jacob Dayley, first came to the Oakley area in 1876 to look the country over. He liked it and started ranching there. He was a horse rancher who ran about 150 head of stock. He sold horses in small lots to ranchers and later to workers at Miller.

The family first lived in the dugout home, then later a log house was built. This is the first home he remembers. There were a few other homes in that area, and one of the boys with whom he used to play, H. P. Matthews, Oakley, was one of the visitors at the open house last week.

As a boy he frequently played with young Indian boys. Dayley says many Indians, mostly Teton, wintered in the Oakley area. They camped on Goose creek, north-west of Oakley, on land that is now a part of the Gene Emery ranch. They wintered in that area because mild winters provided good feed for horses and availability of fresh meat.

Although there was a language problem, the young pioneer boys and the Indian boys frequently played together. They have horse races, foot races, played marbles and hunted small game. Dayley says they were good shots with a bow. But they had a discontented habit of taking a bow, notching an arrow and then drawing it full length and pointing it at the chest of a while boy. Dayley doesn't know why they did this. He guesses it was done to test the nerve of the new-found friend.

But this isn't really an indication of how the boys got along, for Dayley says the Indian boys were good sports and he considered them good friends.

"The pioneers in the area usually were invited to the Indian powwows," he says, "but when we went there we had to behave ourselves."

Dayley started his life as a cowboy when he was 8 years old. At that age he used to ride behind his father on day-long rides. Later he was given a horse of his own, and for the first few years he rode bareback. Some riding teachers consider bareback the best way to learn, but Dayley himself couldn't afford a saddle.

It was on one of his rides through the countryside he saw his first and last Indian. He was on the California trail. The sight so impressed him that it is as fresh in his memory as the day he saw it.

Dayley, coming from a long line of cowboys, displayed an independent spirit and mind at an early age. He decided when he was a child he was fascinated by the huge herds of sheep that sometimes passed through the country.

He decided he wanted some sheep. To his father, it was unthinkable, but Dayley persisted. When he was 12 years old he convinced his father he should have some sheep.

He was 12 years old before he would ever have one on the place. "I got 18 head then and I never knowed how I convinced him it was a good idea."

Later, his father gave him a span of horses, which Dayley later sold for 150 ewes. "The money started coming in then," he says, "and father changed his mind."

Father and son eventually formed a sort of business arrangement and started building a herd, eventually running as many as 2,000 sheep at a time. By the time he was 14 years old he was sometimes spending weeks with the sheep on the range by himself. They ranged their sheep in the south hills.

In his early life he attended school in Oakley about three months out of the year. Those few months of training were divided, with the children going to school in the spring and fall.

In 1902 he went to school at the LDS university at Salt Lake City—a two-year school.

After he finished school, he went on an LDS mission to Pennsylvania for two years. He then returned to Oakley to marry Viola Bates, who died in 1938. They were married in October, 1906.

He spent a few months after he returned from his mission building a home on some land his father gave him.

Dayley was one of the first persons to run a threshing machine on the Twin Falls tract. He and others operated a steam-powered machine throughout the new tract area during the harvest months of 1906 and 1907.

The agribusiness that recently had been cleared from the land was used to fire the steam engine.

Dayley clerked in an Oakley store for a few years and was then appointed a deputy sheriff for Cassia county for three years. And those were hard years, for Dayley notes all the traveling by lawmen in those days had to be done on horseback.

One of his first jobs as a deputy sheriff was to destroy the gallews in Albion that was built by one of the first sheepmen. Convicted of slaying a sheepherder, Diamond Field Jack was acquitted after a retrial and the gallews served no purpose.

Dayley had known Diamond Field Jack for many years and even today he never really considered him other than just another cowpuncher.

In 1914 Dayley homesteaded some land and began dry farming. He was dried out in 1920 and then worked for mines in north Utah and Nevada. He moved to a farm near Filer and lived there for 11 years, later moved to a farm near Murtaugh and then Burley. In 1945 he retired from active farming and moved to the old family homestead in Oakley. He now lives in the home his father built.

He has served as president of the Twin Falls County Beet Growers association for two years and as a director of the Idaho Beet Growers for two years. He also served a term as a director of the National Beet Growers, and in 1937 he was instrumental in organizing the Idaho Farm Bureau and served as state president for seven years.

In 1927 he made three trips to Washington, D.C., on behalf of the beet industry. Dayley and K. C. Barlow made a special trip to Washington to meet with Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace in 1937. They presented him a petition containing 6,000 signatures from growers protesting the transfer of allocated sugar beet acres from this area to other areas. The petition and Dayley and Barlow's arguments won over the secretary and the acreage was changed.

Dayley has served as mayor of Oakley and has been on the village board for eight years. Presently he is mayor of the Oakley highway district, a position he has held for six years.

Dayley has always been an active man and he attributes his present good health and mental alertness to the fact that he has kept busy and interested in life about him. When he retired from farming he couldn't stand to be inactive, so he started his own paper business, which he operated until last summer.

"The way to stay healthy is to work," he says. "I like to work with my hands and mind. I believe that you grow with the younger generation."

Loch Ness Monster Still Being Sighted in Scotland

FORT AUGUSTUS, Scotland, Oct. 21.—More than 700 people, many of them stone-cold sober, claim to have glimpsed eyes or the Loch Ness monster as it reared into world headlines 28 years ago.

Since 1933 scarcely a month has gone by without someone spotting the curious creature with the scaly back, humps and flapping tail.

It has been seen swimming and diving—basking and generally having fun.

Wars come and go, governments change, and kings and queens are deposed, but the Loch Ness monster still swims in the loch, about six miles long and 24 miles long and going down to depths of 800 feet in parts.

A scientific expedition from Oxford and Cambridge universities spent four summer weeks stationed around the loch and reported two sightings of an unexplained moving object, plus several odd Scraps on their echo sounding equipment.

The scientists later published a report concluding that Loch Ness "could easily contain some strange and unusual creature, but irrefutable proof of its existence must await a future expedition."

At a recent sighting mourned at a funeral on the banks of the loch at Fort-Augustus said the monster had popped out of the water nearby and then pushed off in the opposite direction at a spanking pace.

Some local people scoff, but there are highly respected people of integrity who have claimed sightings.

Some say the monster is 20 feet long, others 50 feet. Its head is variously described as like a snake's, a swan's, a horse's and, once or twice, like a camel's. Several viewers have reported the presence of two horns, which opens up horrific possibilities.

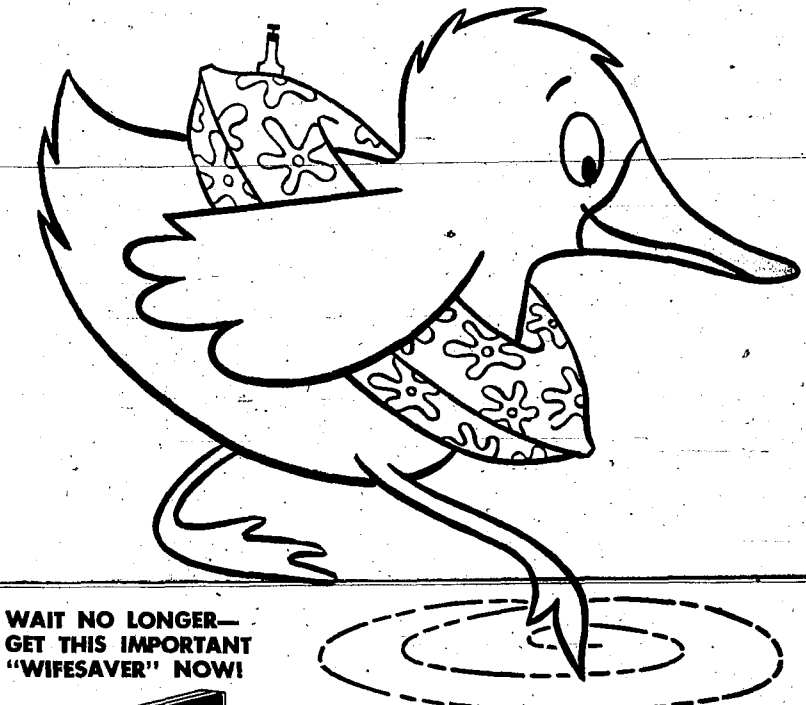

Nearly everyone agrees that when it gets going it really moves—at speeds of up to 30 miles an hour or so.

One of Britain's foremost experts on underwater life, Dr. Denys Tucker, maintains that evidence in support of the presence in the loch of a large, strange creature, perhaps a prehistoric remnant, is overwhelming.

But most zoologists think the monster is really a big eel, an enormous eel or even a swimming deer.

Small Towns of America Getting Face Lifting Through Urban Renewal Plan

Thanks in part to urban renewal help, Ripley said, Mercedes climbed out of bankruptcy.

Mercedes has been concentrated on clearing a 48-acre slum area, home of almost half of the town's population. A. W. Snyder, urban renewal director in Mercedes, reported: "The first thing we did was to drain the area. Then we put in a new drainage system and then a water supply and sewer system. We are buying 10 acres to build a park—the first park this city has ever had."

Of the 400 homes in this area to be rehabilitated, about 400 already have been repaired. We bought about 60 of the houses and tore them down. Then the people we bought them from used the money as down payment to build new homes—mostly in the same place.

Urban renewal, Snyder said, has made it possible for Mercedes to build an elementary school in a new area. The school district built the $450,000 school and the government put in drains, water and sewer systems.

A follow-the-leader reaction also was noticed in the approval of Pennsylvania's Uniontown. At the urban renewal administration put it: "A national chain of other downtown businessmen are recognizing that a new era of downtown business establishments even shabby and underworked major modernization and rehabilitation, a comprehensive plan to eliminate slums and blight and prevent their return."

With approval by the federal housing administrator, a community is eligible for federal loans and grants for renewal projects, low-rent public housing, more liberal FHA mortgage insurance to assist in private redevelopment and for rehousing families displaced by projects.

But urban renewal in Springfield, Ore., has an uncertain future. The original plan to rehabilitate a slum industrial-business-residential area was submitted to the city voters and approved in 1960. It probably will be finished in 1963, two years ahead of schedule. But opponents who call urban renewal a form of socialism and federal interference later passed petitions and successfully forced an election which abolished the city's housing code. Springfield's population is 19,616.

Since cities are required to adopt a housing code to be eligible for urban renewal assistance, the opponents feel they have blocked future such projects in Springfield.

Waverly, Tenn., population 2,801, just barely voted for a renewal program. Here 12 homes and a low-rent public housing unit have replaced a block of shacks and other substandard dwellings near the railroad tracks.

All sorts of assistance programs to smaller communities are available in Washington.

The most ambitious workable programs for community rehabilitation.

GOP Club Gets Thanks For Help

HAERMAN, Oct. 21.—Letters of thanks and appreciation were read to members of the Snake River Republican Women's club from Mrs. R. H. Bevington, Boise, state president of Federated Republican Women's club and from Mrs. W. H. D. D. Wellner, Hazelton, for the part they had in the recent convention at Sun Valley.

Mrs. Esthelle McConey was named to the members this week. Guest was Mrs. Clara Mrs. Merridan, Mrs. Emma Merridan, reported on the convention which nine women from the Haerman club attended.

Mrs. D. H. O'Leary read the Republican credo, giving 11 reasons on "Why I am a Republican."

Mrs. Alfred Bandy quoted from the Republican Call, stating that one half million republican women belong to federal clubs in approximately 4,000 clubs throughout the nation.

Air Reserve Unit Officers Study Training Charts

Officers of the 962nd air force reserve recovery squadron go over training charts in the new unit quarters at Jodis field. It is the purpose of the unit to provide landing facilities, repair crews and medical care for any air crews that might be forced to land here after a nuclear exchange. The officers, from left, are Maj. Keith Jacobs, Kimberley, head of civil engineering section; Capt. Perry Stephenson, Burley, supply officer; Maj. Harry Lemoyne, Hagerman, director of training for operations, and Maj. John Conover, Buhl, operations officer. (Staff photograph)

Dinner Club Reports Made at Meeting of FFA At Burley to Hear Farmer

BURLEY, Oct. 21 — Dave Livingston, who frequently has been dubbed "America's Punished Farmer," and who sees the bright side of things despite government surplus, the soil bank, and county government restrictions on his farming operations, will be the guest of members of the Knife and Fork club at their first meeting of the season Friday evening at the Elks Dipping room. Livingston is basically a farmer — he owns and cultivates 1200 acres of land in Washington county. Recently he completed a trip around the world, accompanied by Mr. Livingston, and visited their two sons who are missionaries in Korea. "We had a greater motive for this trip than that of a tourist," reports Livingston. "We wanted to learn all we could about our sons' work and their surroundings and so we investigated a lot of things most tourists would avoid. "Because we are farmers we wanted to see first-hand every type of agriculture we could and we wanted to see, too, how foreign aid works. "We saw the serious side of life, believe me, but we had dozens of humorous experiences that certainly are worth retelling," he stated. It is the experiences of this trip and others the Livingstons have made in other years to many places, that make up the Livingston address "Fol' Shots Around the World." The Livingston address basically is humorous but in addition it has some very worthwhile material in it that brings a new viewpoint on such serious problems as how the rest of the world lives, how our "foreign aid" is working, (or not working) and what impressions people in various countries have of us. There are a few memberships available in the Burley Knife and Fork club and anyone who is interested should contact either Robert Miller or Mack Crouch.

'Minutemen' of Modern Warfare Form New Air Force Reserve Recovery Unit

(Continued From Page 19) The Twin Falls area would be on the scene within a few minutes. An alert system has been set up to rapidly notify all members of the unit. Local persons can be on duty within 15 minutes, most of the out-of-town personnel can be on duty in 45 to 60 minutes. After a short time the unit might receive information telling that an airplane is 75 miles out of Twin Falls, flying at 22,000 feet, headed towards Salt Lake City. The airplane is low on fuel, one engine is damaged and it is radioactive. The plane will be directed to land at Twin Falls. The operations section will give landing instructions. When the plane lands the decontamination crew will check it with Geiger counters, dressed in fallout proof suits. There are six men in the crew. A security team will post guards to keep bystanders away. The plane will be decontaminated by washing it off with fire hoses, and the water will be drained to a special place where it won't be dangerous. The crew if unharmed will be taken to a special place in the building where they will be decontaminated. They will be taken to the hospital for further medical checks. Meanwhile it is the job of other crews to repair the plane, if possible, and put it back in commission. Possibly, they will only

Utah Man Talks To Area Bankers

KIMBERLEY, Oct. 21 — Edmund H. Jordan, Salt Lake City, talked on the scope of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation during a meeting of the Magic Valley conference of NABAA, the association for bank audit, control and operation, Tuesday evening in the Town House, Kimberley. Seventeen Magic Valley banks were represented. He has been legal representative and examiner-in-charge of the Salt Lake subdistrict of the San Francisco 12th FDIC since 1958, and works in Idaho, Utah and Nevada, with occasional special assignments to Alaska, Washington, Oregon, California and Hawaii. Larry Groves, auditor and controller for the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, gave a brief report on his recent trip to the national NABAA conference at Chicago. Fred Harder, assistant manager of the Kimberley branch of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, reported on his trips to the San Francisco and Portland conferences of NABAA.

FINED OVER WEAPON

BURLEY, Oct. 21 — Leon L. Dominguez, 18, Denver, was fined $25 and costs by Probate Judge Vern Carter for carrying concealed weapon. He also was arrested at the Springfield Spanish-American club Sunday evening. As he already had been in jail two days the judge suspended $10 of the fine.

Man Sentenced In Assault Case

BURLEY, Oct. 21 — Arturo Flores, 32, San Antonio, Texas, who was found guilty last week on a charge of aggravated assault, was sentenced by District Judge Edward Heap to six months in the county jail. He was arrested last July 17 for assault with a deadly weapon and waived preliminary and was bound over to district court when he was arraigned July 17 before Probate Judge Vern Carter. Bond was set at $1,000 and since it was not posted Flores has been in the Sheriff's custody since. Judge Heap said as he already has served three months in jail, Flores will be put on probation the other three months to his interpreter, Pete Rodriguez. Flores appeared again Oct. 9 on an adjusted charge of aggravated assault and pleaded guilty.

New Burley High School Physics Teacher Came Long Way

Samuel K. K. Chen points out a physics problem on a blackboard. Chen is a new teacher at Burley high school. He teaches physics and choral music. He was born in China and escaped when the communists took over the country. He worked for a short time in Formosa and then continued his college education in the United States. He has applied for permanent residence in the United States and hopes to get his citizenship in the future. (Staff photo-engraving)

Samuel K.K. Chen Has Traveled Long Way to Be Teacher at Burley School

BURLEY, Oct. 17.—Samuel K. K. Chen has traveled a long way to get to Burley, and the job he now holds at the high school as physics and choral music teacher.

He was born and spent most of his life in China. He escaped from China when the communists took over. Meanwhile, he has worked in Formosa and then he came to the United States and continued his education.

Chen is the son of a doctor. He was born in Nan-Ching, Kiangsi province, and he spent most of his younger life there. In the late 1940's he moved to France, where his father took post-graduate courses in medicine, then the family returned to China.

During the war his father served in various army hospitals, mostly in Chungking. At the end of the war he entered the national Chung-Cheng university and studied chemical engineering. He then worked for the national mint as a chemist. He moved to Formosa when the communists took over. Both he and his father were transferred to Formosa, but his mother, two brothers and a sister remained in Kiangsi province. Chen hasn't heard from them since he left China.

He worked in the national mint in Formosa for three years and then came to the United States. His father encouraged him to leave Formosa and he came here in 1952. He entered the Chicago Evangelical Institute, University Park, Iowa, an interdenominational college, where he studied English. He spoke little English at that time but could read it fairly well.

The following two years he studied religious education work at Asbury Seminary, Wilmore, Ky. He sang in the choir there and developed an interest in music education. He had always liked music, but had never seriously considered making a career of it. When he left Kentucky, he entered Bob Jones university, Greenville, S.C., where he studied sacred music.

He worked his way through school there by tackling several jobs on the campus. For some time he worked as the school music librarian. When he got his degree, he applied for a job through a music teachers personnel agency and was hired by Burley high school.

Chen has applied for permanent residence in the United States and hopes to get his citizen ship.

Some of Chen's talents, other than his knowledge of music and physics, may be put to use next year, for he notes there is a possibility he will teach the Chinese language.

Cow's Record of Milk Completed

A registered Guernsey cow, Sugar Gity Peaches, owned by Ray Coburn and sons, Buhl, has completed an official HIR production record, according to the American Guernsey Cattle club.

This record was for 10,038 pounds of milk and 581 pounds of fat. "Peaches" is a 5-year-old and was milked two times daily for 302 days while on test.

This official production record was supervised by University of Idaho.

The young fawn has always had the run of the farm. "Bamboozle" spent much time this summer with Kinsey while he went about his trifling chores, following him about like a dog.

Not only did the fawn like to follow Kinsey and the other men around, but he developed a genuine liking for riding in a car. "Bamboozle" has tried the patience of the Kinseys at times.

He prefers rose leaves to any other food. Stripped bushes surrounding the ranch house haven't contributed to his popularity.

But he has a redeeming characteristic, his taste for dandelions. The lawn was plagued with the weeds until "Bamboozle" came on the scene. He won't eat grass, but he is death on dandelions.

Seven Miles of Forest Area Road Being Improved

This is a portion of the road leading from Sun Valley to Trail creek summit. Construction started last summer and will be finished next fall. Nearly seven miles of the road will be redesigned and hard surfaced. The money is provided by forest highway funds. The project engineer is Emory Waller, and he is assisted by Bill Ayotte. ### Job of Improving Trail Creek Summit Road Is About 40 Per Cent Completed

(Continued From Page 18) The Desert Construction company is a sub-contractor. The crews have worked a five and one-half day week. Waller says they have tried to keep the road in a passable condition, stopping traffic only for 30-minute periods when necessary. And he adds they always have tried to leave the road in good condition for week-end traffic.

Waller points out that they have had good weather throughout the construction period. He believes construction will be able to continue until the middle of December before weather will halt the crews. He estimates construction will resume in middle April.

Most of the construction has been done in slide rock areas, so the expense and time-consuming job of blasting rock has been avoided. But Waller adds, the remaining portion of road leading to the summit is rocky and future construction in that area will be difficult.

Robert Stephan Named to Board

Robert W. Stephan was appointed as a member of the Magic Valley Memorial hospital board of directors Friday morning by the Twin Falls county commission. Stephan will serve a three-year term and replace Jack Ramsey, Filer, who told the commission he did not want to be reappointed. Those reappointed to the board during the Friday morning commission meeting were John Breckenridge and George Haney both Twin Falls; Charles Colner, Murtaugh, and Mrs. J. Foster Gulick, Butte. All will serve three years.

M. Randolph, Gooding, Aslett construction employes, works here with a power drill. Actually, little rock has been crossed during the construction. The new roadway will be about 30 feet wide, compared to 18 to 20 feet previously, and many of the curves will be eliminated on the portion that is being rebuilt. Construction will be halted in a few weeks, when the snows come, and probably will be resumed in mid-April. (Staff photo-engraving)
