North, The Norths, en route from Bonanza, Calif., to Lewistown air force base, Mont., with their five children, stopping off at the Hollister port of entry for free cups of coffee. Business Brisk for Coffee At Hollister Port of Entry

The Hollister port of entry had served more than 150 cups of free coffee by Saturday evening as part of the Idaho state police New Year's week-end program for urging weary travelers to "have one for the road and make it a good idea."

The coffee is being made in State Patrolman Wesley Dobbs' kitchen, which was furnished by program, sponsored jointly by the Idaho state police and the Max-John House coffee company, mainly by pays off in the early morning hours and late in the evening. It is noted that a number of the persons stopping at the port for free coffee have been coming from Jackson, Nev. Particularly those who are not used to keeping late hours.

He mentioned that four cardinals of persons stopped for coffee between 10 and 11 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. C. D. North, en route from Bonanza, Calif., to Lewistown air force base, Mont., with their five children, said Saturday afternoon, while sipping a cup of coffee at the Hollister port of entry, "You don't

Hunting Tale Is Winner of Liar Contest

BURLINGTON, Wis., Dec. 30 (AP)—That collection of preposterous prevarications, the Burlington Liar's club, has come up with its annual crop of whoppers. They're avidly entertained by being snickered—or groaned.

C. R. Hutcheon, an imaginative raconteur from Lubbock, Tex., was acclaimed as the winner of the 1961 contest. His tale: "For years, I have been working to perfect a duck call. Satisfied with my laboratory tests, I recently decided to give it a field trial."

"The first time I blew the call, ducks swarmed in from all directions; the sky was black with them. I cut loose with my pump gun and with six shots killed my limits of six ducks."

"What is so strange about that, you say? Well, when I picked up those ducks, I found that three of them were decoys!"

If you fielded that one, try this collection from Leo Dobrats, San Jose, Calif. It won an honorable mention.

"We've had a lot of trouble with birds stealing our fruit so we took tin cans and tied them to the tree limbs. The reflection of the lids, swinging in the breeze, not only frightened the birds and saved our fruit—but it frightened them so badly they're bringing back the fruit they stole last year."

First Security Predicts Area Spending Hike

The bank's department of economic research made the prediction after a special study directed by Elroy Nielson, vice president and economist for First Security corporation.

The firm predicted expenditures for development, construction and equipment will total $29 million dollars in 1962, compared with $20 million dollars in 1961 and 719 million dollars in 1960.

GREEN HAIR

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 30 (AP)—Bathers in some of Oslo's public baths found their hair turning green after a dip. An official report blamed excessive use of chlorine plus copper pipes. "In at least one case people were ailing by observing your first 12th or any birthday divisible by 12 in 1962."

TEMPORARY GRAVELLED FILL across Rock creek on Blue Lakes boulevard south is now open to traffic. J. D. Sinema, district engineer for the Twin Falls highway district, said Saturday afternoon that the road is not completed, but is open to traffic until it can be filled and paved in the summer. The narrow bridge, which formerly crossed the canyon, was closed early in December. After it was torn down, highway engineers graded the fill, brought in additional dirt and put down a layer of pit run gravel as a temporary base. Sinema says if the weather becomes bad, the road may be closed if it becomes damaged. The dirt fill was started in 1957. Sinema said it took about a week to tear out the old bridge. Tennese Explorer Scouts Survive Sub-Zero Exposure

GATLINBURG, Tenn., Dec. 30 (AP)—Two Explorer Scouts were brought down from the snow-crawled Smokies today, little more than for two nights spent on a rugged mountain trail in sub-zero weather.

Nike Harrington, 15, and Allen Wallen, 17, both of Knoxville, were found at midday by one of four search parties sent out by officials of the Great Smoky Mountains national park. Both boys were reported in good physical shape though suffering from exposure.

The boys were found on the Appalachian Trail, which twists along the Tennessee-North Carolina border at elevations of over 2,000 feet, about 200 and one-half miles from their starting point at Newfound Gap.

Park officials said the boys were able to walk about two and one-half miles through heavy snow dunes to Pickett Corner, where two jeeps awaited them. The teen-agers were driven to Smokemont camp ground in North Carolina to be reunited with their anxious parents.

Harrington, Wallen and two companions, Ed Nichols, 18, and Steven Shepherd, 16, set out Wednesday on what was supposed to be a four-day hiking and camping expedition along the 20-mile trail. They carried a four-day supply of food and planned to spend the nights in park shelters along the way.

They spent the first night at Pickett Corner. Slowed by heavy drifts, the group decided the next morning to turn back. Nichols and Wallen started out first and made it to park headquarters Friday afternoon. When Harrington and Wallen failed to appear, park officials ordered the search.

The reason the pair failed to follow Nichols and Shepherd out was an ankle injury. Wallen stepped on a slippery rock and TULSA, Okla., Dec. 20 (AP)—America's second man in space and two prominent Kennedy administration officials were among outstanding young men of 1961 named today by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The 10: Capt. Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, astronaut; Newton M. Minow, federal communications commission chairman; Theodore E. Sorenson, presidential adviser; Dr. A. E. Rorer, U.S. Postmaster; Peter G. Writer Reports Voting Records For Delegation

Editor, Times-News:

I see by the ACA-Index that Sen. Frank Church now has an 87 per cent rating on his voting record.

The index is based on about 177 critical issues—as to voting for legislation advancing freedom of the individual and opposing centralization of power in the federal government. For instance, voting to give money to communist Poland who in turn helps Castro financially, does not advance freedom of the individual.

Senator Church's voting record gives him a very high rating with the ADA! the left John Birch society.

Incidentally, Rep. Ralph Hirsch's rating is 87 per cent in the ACA-Index. Hirsch's rating is 87 per cent. Grace Pfoef's rating is 11; Senator Dworkin's is 88.

2 New Plants Are Reported For Heyburn

HEYBURN, Dec. 30 — Leo Hagg, former chairman of the Heyburn village board, and Bud Merrill, chairman, expressed satisfaction Saturday at successful completion of negotiations to build two new plants in the community.

Ground leveling will begin Tuesday for the erection of a sawmill by the Wendell Mill and Lumber company near the Snake river. The firm already has operations in Heyburn and Bellevue.

Another sawmill owned by Stanley Ramsey, president of the lumber mill near Heyburn, will be moved here from the Heyburn plant, and James Shaw will be in Heyburn Friday staking out the site on 10 acres of ground leased from the state. The site lays just north of the Burley-Heyburn road.

Complete facilities for the sawmill are to be moved here from the Heyburn plant.

It is expected the sawmill will employ between 25 to 40 men and will operate at a capacity of between 35,000 and 40,000 board feet of lumber per year. Lumber will come from Hagar canyon in the Sublette area in Custer county, where the firm already has purchased 20-million board feet. Don McBridge will look for the firm, Seville.

Also next Tuesday, Bert O'Brien, Emmett, field representative for the Pacific Supply, will be in Heyburn to make initial plans for construction of a new warehouse for new dry fertilizer.

The Heyburn village officials said the new structures will be built by the Heyburn Lumber Co. and will store dry bulk fertilizer. The firm now handles liquid fertilizer.

1962's Water Outlook Gets Good Report

BURLEY, Dec. 30 — Water outlook for the 1962 irrigation season is favorable, according to reports H. R. Gray, superintendent of the Minidoka project, but he cautions that there are still several months to go.

Slow flows allow the water content of the snow on the watersheds is 85 per cent above normal, the best water years in history, the superintendent said.

Decreased this year's runoff in 1961 when 2,600,000 acre feet of water were dumped at the Miller dam and 1960 when 2,500,000 acre feet were released from the system.

Gray said Pallasdes' dam was not completed in 1956 and if the current storage continues, less water will go over Miller dam than in the past two years because Pallasdes retains more water for crops.

Some watersheds are over the 100 per cent mark in accumulated moisture figures. Gray noted that 13.51 inches of accumulative moisture compared to 6.21 average. Jackson lake has 2.0 compared to a normal of 5.67 inches, Gray reported.

These figures indicate an increase of 188 percent, Gray noted. Comparisons of December report storage for 1960 and 1959 show Island Park had 46,075 in 1960 and 43,795 in 1959; Grassy Knob had 4,890 in 1960 compared to 12,200 this year; Jackson lake, 142,700 in 1960 with 92,200 in 1959; Pallasdes 270,000 in 1960 and 474,500 this year; American Falls had 667,040 in 1960 and 60,150 in 1959; Wallace had 62,200 in 1960 and 31,870 in 1959. Totals for 1960 were 1,415,811 compared to 1,860,950 in 1961.

69 Volumes of Old Oakley Paper Hailed as Rich Historical Source

OAKLEY, Dec. 30 — Eggs were 25 cents a dozen, 60 cent shirts were 49 cents a pair, and a new machine was being talked about at the head of Goose creek according to the 1918 edition of the Oakley Herald which is being reprinted, along with 68 other volumes, in the fireproof vault of the Oakley village office.

Shelvia has been built in the fireproof vault of the office, which once housed a bank, and the volumes of the now extinct newspaper will be kept as a rich source of history of the area and available to the public soon.

The University of Idaho has been given permission to microfilm the volumes which began in 1893 under the name of Oakley Sun and Oakley Eagle. It is believed the films contain more history of southern Idaho than anything else written in this area, according to village officials.

Mother Rescues Two From Fire

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP) — A mother holding her infant son in her arms jumped from a third-floor window today to escape flames that leaped 40 feet to her door.

Police said Rosa Jenkins, 40, landed on the roof of a one-story shed after she plunged from the window of their Brooklyn home with 13-month-old Anthony in her arms.

Then putting the baby down, she caught Rosa Lee, 4, as the girl jumped from the same window.

All three were reported in fair condition at Kings county hospital. The mother had numerous cuts and bruises, but the children had only smoke poisoning.

According to Wallace A. Hale, clerk of the village board, the files will be open to the public as soon as they are in order. They contain much information about births, marriages, deaths, divorces for land grants, homesteads and also news of surrounding towns, he added.

Chief Moulton, state aeronautics director, said any accident or violation involving an aircraft automatically suspends a pilot's eligibility for competitive pilot safety awards.

The rule does not apply, however, if it is determined that a pilot had no direct responsibility for the accident.

The special review board will consider the merits of each case, Moulton said.

CELEBRATING CHRISTMAS BIRTHDAY anniversary is George Metelfi, 81, a resident of the Horton Guest Home in Twin Falls. The cake and other gifts were presented to him by the Altrusa club of Twin Falls as part of its 1952 "adoption" plan.

From left are Mrs. Lawrence M. Harper, co-chairman of the club's public affairs committee; Mrs. I. G. Wood, club president, and Mrs. Maude Dean, another resident of the home. Club members will "adopt" guests at the home who do not have relatives or friends to care for them. Birthday cakes, Sunday drives and other activities are planned. (Staff photo- engraving)

T.F. Altrusa Club Adopts Grandparents at Home

Webster defines altruism as "regard for and devotion to the interests of other people on an ethical principle, opposed to selfishness."

The definition is a basic part of the principles of the Twin Falls Altrusa club, whether or not the club member was derived from the word "altruism."

The first Altrusa club was formed in Malville, Tenn., in April, 1917. The organization became international in 1925.

The number of world clubs at the end of 1951, was 509 and the membership was 15,542.

The Twin Falls club was formed in June, 1927. The number of clubs in the district (No. 12) was 47 and the membership was 1,287.

The society's objectives, according to its constitution, include the promotion of friendship, the promotion of mutual understanding and the fostering of the solidarity of women who are actively engaged in business or a profession.

"To encourage high ethical standards of business and professional conduct and to be of service to young women entering such careers."

"To encourage participation in community and public affairs of non-partisan character and to do any and all things conducive to the service, betterment and welfare of business and to promote educational and cultural training and improvement."

In keeping with the ideas expressed in the club's constitution, Altrusa members will "adopt" residents of the Horton Guest Home and other homes in Twin Falls who have neither family nor close friends to care for them.

Birthday anniversary cakes are presented to the adopted residents throughout the year. Letters to church or invited them into their own homes.

The club packed large baskets of fruit, candy and nuts for the residents at the Horton Home. Gifts were given to those who had no families.

Spreading the year's projects to the public is the duty of the public relations committee. Mrs. L. P. Perry, chairman; Mrs. Lawrence B. Jones, secretary; Mrs. Gene Poulter and Evelyn Ellis.

Early in 1951, members of the club made a survey of low income housing conditions of elderly persons in Twin Falls and their findings promoted to a great extent the development of a new housing project for older citizens.

The new project, under the direction of the Twin Falls housing authority, is being provided for 30 elderly persons, with or without families. Also constructed will be a recreation area and small park.

Last year various items and cash donations were given to the Twin Falls Eastern Senior citizens club. Mrs. E. W. Tolson, president; Mrs. C. E. Toler, secretary; Mrs. Ben Jewell, treasurer; Mrs. Ben Jewell, Naomi Dizon and Mrs. W. M. Grou.

Woman's Figure Not Disguised For Spring, '62

NEW YORK, Dec. 30—Norman Norah, a fashion designer whose influence on what women should wear is listened to in the garment industry, has put sex back into mid-century fashions for next spring.

Norah, quiet and self-effacing on the surface, dictated in depth to others in the women's apparel field. If others listen, and they usually do, his spring collection will put women back in clothes that stress the figure and don't disguise it.

Norah himself has new collection to a celebrity-audited audience last night. Almost all daytime and evening costumes came with belts cinching the waistline anywhere from two to eight inches in fabric or leather.

Skirts on almost all daytime suits and dress-jacket costumes were cut in 2 to 18 scores. When the models walked and turned, the flared skirts displayed both knees and thighs. When static, the skirts settled at knee length—just about where every U. S. designer has placed hemlines for spring.

But the Norah collection retained the cinched waist and flowing skirt to fashion. One department store buyer from Philadelphia kept saying "just like Dior—only with shorter skirts. He was referring to the full-shouldered, cinched waist, bell-skirt of Christian Dior, the Paris designer's 1947 "new look."

For the record, Norah, along with James Galanos and Aron Szabo, generally have steered clear of the faded wasteline concept of the 1950's.

Norah included a smattering of the raised or empire waists in his collection. But otherwise, the waist went where nature placed it and the skirts were draped through the whole collection.

Worthy of mention also—the hair styles of the models. These were sleek and flat to the hair with a question-mark curl smack down the middle of the forehead.

Since worn with both daytime and evening clothes had the lowered, bulky looking heel instead of the skinny spike.

YULE DINNER GUESTS BIRTHDAY—Christmas dinner guests at the home of Arlin Allen, Mrs. and Mr. Edward W. Wharton, Billy Whorton, Mrs. Jack Whorton, Hagerman; Mrs. Richard Condon, Anchorage, Alaska, and Alva Alton and Connie Thurman, both Bull.

Present were Mrs. and Mrs. Dale Donner, Wilmington, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Jones, Cammeridge; Mrs. and Mrs. Floyd M. Miller; Mrs. and Mrs. W. W. Blumer, Twin Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Blumer, Jerome; and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Joseph, Shoshone.

Mrs. Hens and Mrs. John Sargent, Kimberly, cut and served the cake and coffee and punch.

Mrs. Robert Kloor, Murtaugh, and Mrs. Robert Behr, Heyburn, were in charge of the gifts, and Mrs. Jack May, Jackson, assisted.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Sargent, Edward Sargent and George Sargent, all of Miller; Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Kloor, Murtaugh; Mrs. John Sargent and son, Kimberly; and Mrs. Robert Behr, Heyburn.

After a wedding trip to California, the couple will reside in Jackson where Hens is employed.

During a season in which fashion makers are usually reuniting women's apparel to the barest minimum, these couturiers are creating costumes so covered up they would please even the most strait-laced grandmother.

Yet those saunt, stony-faced mainlines who floated up and down runways recently at two separate shows introducing three separate collections were anything but prim and old-fashioned looking.

There are equally effective ways of promoting any apparel without a strip tear, excited Galanos does his creative on the West Coast collection presents his styles here twice yearly.

At times he wraps his wafer-thin models in Egyptian mummy to their trim waists, then draped the rest of their shoes with clingy crepes and silk chiffon.

But despite all this fabric, their figures remained about as secret as that of a female acrobat.

Or Galanos went to the other extreme, hiding his models' feminine attributes behind material that had been sucked and crinkled and put into masses of fluff.

Occasionally Galanos dabbed with his pencil the figure with veils of printed chiffon tucked at the neckline that swirled over the hips as billow came stresses or fluttered like butterfly wings from shoulder blades; or twined around the body to the hemline where it staved out.

U.S. Releases Grim Booklet, Months In Preparation, on Fallout Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 — The government published today a booklet telling citizens how to survive the deadly dew of fall-out — with a foreword saying millions would die under a clear attack but other, millions could be saved.

The booklet, under preparation for months by defense department experts on civil defense, will go into distribution on Tuesday, passed out by hundreds of postoffices and state and local civil defense boards.

The booklet, under preparation for months by defense department experts on civil defense, will go into distribution on Tuesday, passed out by hundreds of postoffices and state and local civil defense boards.

As it did in an announcement earlier this month on the increasing chances of nuclear attack, the defense department again discounts the probability of nuclear attack.

The foreign and defense policies of your government make such an attack highly unlikely, and to keep it unlikely is the most important aim," says the booklet's preamble, "It is for this reason that we have devoted so large an effort to creating and maintaining our deterrent force. However, should a nuclear attack ever occur, certain preparations can mean the difference between life and death for you."

The booklet, entitled "Fallout Protection," is a 16-page booklet. It is written in plain, simple language and with the aid of drawings, explains the dangers of nuclear weapons effects, of fallout and of the types and manner of construction of shelters in community or family fallout shelters.

The booklet assumes the use of a weapon of five megatons—the equivalent of ten million tons of conventional TNT.

The booklet is to advise how to survive the radioactive aftermath of nuclear attack, or those who happen to be within the range of the blast, heat and initial radiation of the fission bomb.

A five-megaton burst at ground level, the booklet says, would destroy most buildings up to two miles from the burst; heat rays would kill unprotected people up to 10 miles away, and "the areas of blast and fire would be scenes of havoc, devastation and death."

Where lives could be saved would be among the people who are protected by fallout shelters. It is stated to find some hope for what he calls the "grand design" of the United States to live in a world of free men, but does not anticipate relief from immediate tensions while drifting radioactivity. The major radiation danger would come within a 24-hour period following detonation. In half an hour, the first portion would reach a zone about five miles away; 20 miles away people would have nearly an hour to get into fallout shelters; 100 miles off the time might be four to six hours. Much would depend on the wind.

The most dangerous fallout, of the heavy particles of debris from the fission explosion, comes in the early phases. These particles are large enough to be seen—about the size of table salt or sand.

The thing to do, the booklet emphasizes, is to get into some kind of a shelter into which the fallout particles cannot penetrate and stay there, with only swift excursions outside, for as much as two weeks.

It scotches hope about some other methods discussed. Special clothing would provide little protection because radiation from the particles would pass through the fabric.

And "although many experiments have been conducted," the booklet says, "there is little likelihood that a pill or any other type of medicine will be developed that can protect people from the effects of fallout radiation."

The federal government favors the community shelters, although existing buildings, even without preference or conditions in rural areas make necessary some family-type shelters.

The booklet gives the reasons: A community group probably will be better prepared than a single family; first aid and other emergency skills would be present; community shelters would provide protection for those away from home.

Community shelters can be built into new structures without great extra cost; they can be constructed underground with the surface left for civic purposes, playgrounds or other purposes. But, the booklet advises, existing buildings, even without change, can afford some considerable protection against fallout. It says this is especially true of all office buildings where upper floors and multiple walls provide shielding.

World Leaders Hope for Peace Progress in 1962

By The Associated Press

When the world figuratively lifts a toast to the Christian New Year at midnight Sunday, what kind of a year will it be tonight?

Will mankind somehow find the key to settlement of its age-old differences during the next 12 months, and settle back to enjoy the long-sought fruits of peace and prosperity?

Or will 1962 be another dark year, full of foreboding, misunderstanding and chaos or worse still, more strife and bloodshed? World leaders look upon the prospects with mingled gloom.

The dangers that confronted have in no way diminished in the last 12 months, says the revered Sir Winston Churchill, "and from us all great and sustained efforts."

To this the 87-year-old former British prime minister added in a New Year's message:

"A far-sighted unity of plan and action of the countries of the free world should be our common purpose. I hope and trust that speedy progress may be made towards this aim in 1962."

Expressions of other leading world figures ranged from gloom to guarded hopefulness.

Reynolds Becomes World Cowboy Champ; Bynum Tops Steer Wrestlers

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 30 (AP)—Benny Reynolds, a youngster from Melrose, Mont., tonight won the coveted title of world's champion all-around cowboy. Jim Bynum, Forreston, Tex., meanwhile, captured the title of world's champion steer wrestler. Reynolds, 25, from a rodeo family, took the title when his nearest competitor, Guy Weeks, Abilene, Tex., lagged so far that he could not overcome Reynolds' lead.

World's titles are awarded on the basis of money won throughout the rodeo season. The all-around title is awarded only to arena cowboys who compete in more than one event.

Reynolds was about $3,500 ahead of Weeks through the sixth go-round tonight with about $3,200 the maximum that Weeks could win in the two go-rounds Sunday.

Bynum won the steer wrestling title when he, like Reynolds, led his nearest competitor, Benny Combs, Cheatek, Okla., by more money than Combs could win Sunday.

The scorching-hot bull riding title is the only one still up for grabs and it appeared it cannot be decided until Sunday night. Saturday night's no-roun winners were Pete Fredericks, Hallsboro, Okla.; Dick Bunchum, Moberly, Mo.; and Rex Smith, Chandler, Ariz., with an 11.3 seconds on a calf roping, and Alvin Nelson, Sidney, Mont., in saddle bronc riding.

Reynolds won first place in the mainline steer wrestling and fourth place in bareback bronc riding. Until Saturday's matinee, Reynolds' performance proved disappointing to his fans. With eight chances to finish in the money, he blew all but one.

Reynolds' winning eliminated Dean Oliver, the Boise, roping specialist, from the race for the world's all-around championship. Still able to overcome Reynolds but facing an uphill battle is Guy Weeks, Abilene, Tex.

The fifth go-round sent the contest for the world's steer wrestling championship into a two-man affair. C. H. Boucher, Burk Burnett, Tex., failed to place and fell out of title competition. Winners of the fifth go-round at the matinee were Walt Mason, Las Vegas, Nev., 161, 4411; Eddy Akridge, Midland, Tex., 170, 3208.

Bull riding: Del Hataway, Snyder, Tex., 116, 411; Joe Green, Sulphur, Okla., 176, 4308. Calf roping: Ole Young, Albuquerque, N. M., 114, 4411. Don McLaughlin, Fort Worth, Tex., 122, 4308.

Saddle bronc: Alvin Nelson, Sidney, Mont., 170, 3411. Mary Wood, Bonham, Ala., Canada, 178, 4308.

Kimberly Rallies to Overtake Filer 47-44

KIMBERLY, Dec. 30—A fourth-quarter, 20-point explosion, based on some free throw sharpshooting, carried the Kimberly Bullgoats to a come-from-behind 47-44 victory over the Filer Wildcats last night. A jumpshot and free throw by Brent Morrill followed by Carl Grinstead's two charity tosses tucked the game away for the Bullgoats after they had trailed by 10 points in the third quarter.

Filer led much of the time—except for a 6-2 deficit early in the game—but the turning point of the game came in the closing minute and one-half when a Wildcat missed a crumple after scoring the ball.

The score was tied 43-43 at the time and Kimberly converted that error into possession and won on Morrill's free throw. From then on Kimberly stalked, although Filer had two more offensive attempts.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

One of the most beloved residents of OAKLEY is Mrs. Margaret Whitte, who has been the town nurse for 22 years. Since the closest doctor is in JULY, some 22 miles distant, when anyone needs a nurse to help with some sick member of the family, he is glad to rely on Mrs. Whitte to assist.

Oakley once had a small hospital but it closed in World War II when the younger doctor returned from the service. His late father had practiced in Oakley but when the younger doctor returned from the service he settled in Burley. He comes to Oakley on Thursday evenings, but this of the week Mrs. Whitte is called upon to administer shots, dress bandages and perform other activities.

Residents point out the most important quality she provides is in case of emergency.

For 20 of the 22 years she has served, she either walked or rode a bicycle to her office about mile from her home where she drives her own car.

Mrs. Whitte was the first to leave her home in Germany and come to America in 1927. Gradually, all but her husband and one child were immigrated to this country. The last member of the family was a sister, Gertrude Lippmann, who has made her home with the Oakley family in 1951.

The family's home town was Dresden, but because of trouble with the Russian Miss Lippmann was forced to go to Heidelberg in order to come to the United States. She had been working since coming to Magic Valley and although doctors in Germany were unable to diagnose her trouble, it is believed she became a diabetic from lack of proper diet, resulting in blindness.

Besides caring for her patients and being the town nurse, Mrs. Whitte is active when it comes to making things with her hands. She is adept at creating beautiful things out of such things as sugar cubes, neighbors report.

Mrs. Whitte recalls when she first came to America from her homeland she was impressed with the differences in observance of the holiday season here and in Germany.

The advent of cars, wreaths, was made from the boughs of pine trees and formed into a circle held by red ribbon. Krans were made from the same pine needles which symbolize love while the red ribbon symbolizes peace and should be held together by love, the Oakley woman notes.

The krans usually hung from the ceiling of the house and sometimes the church and often the burning candles in the branches. It was lighted each of the four Sundays in advent.

Another Shoshone woman, Mrs. Glen Caldwell, has a "cherry tomato" plant on her covered porch. The plant is mature during the winter weather.

Mrs. Val Nease, who lives 14 1/2 miles northwest of BISHOP, is growing chili pepper plants in her house this winter. She brought the seeds from Chile about 1925, while living there two years ago, and has grown them in her garden during summer months.

She took some of them up to the garden, put them in pots and kept them in a warm place. The seeds fell off, but they put on new foliage and bloom. When the chili peppers fall off, the little pepper forms. The one she now has growing has several blossoms and two small peppers. She uses the peppers in her cooking.

When the Eisenhower administration had taken the stand that farm markets and production were to be controlled by government controls and regulations offered an eventual solution to farm income problems. It was the administration took a position that it was essential that government furnish a fair and consistent supply control program.

The Kennedy administration did not get from Congress all the power and authority it wanted to carry out its policies. As a consequence, the administration face a number of problems that may prevent any further upward in farm earnings in 1952.

To make its policies work effectively, the administration would need power to control production of most crops and stock products so that supplies could be brought into balance with commercial market needs and supplies donated under welfare and foreign aid programs.

The new year's program, as the administration press conference has indicated, will carry out its policies. This will be done in a political atmosphere because many lawmakers will be looking ahead to the next congressional elections.

As has been the case for a number of years, agriculture is represented by its private organizations, national and international, sharply over what government should do. The influential American Farm Bureau Federation has continued to fight for less government in agriculture, but the National Farmers Union and the National Grange largely backed this. This division is expected to continue in 1952.

When production in 1951 was about the same as the record high set in 1950, crop volume was down under influence of crop control programs, but production of livestock and livestock products up over last year. Conditions are expected to match this year unless, of course, adverse weather conditions should intervene.

Farm product prices in 1951 averaged about one per cent above those of 1950, with the cause of higher prices.

Below the goal of federal farm price level remained considerably below the goal of federal farm program.

WALL ON BARS STARTED TO GO UP, Bureau officials Dec. 30 said. The South Korean military junta has declared war on rations. It is estimated that the number of humans 3-1 in this crowded country, have been eating 16 million dollars worth of rice a year.

Below the goal of federal farm price level remained considerably below the goal of federal farm program.

Steel Closes Strong After Early Slump

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 30 (AP)—Recovering from a sharp slump, the steel industry in 1951 graduated with a pickup in production and finished the year at a moderate production pace.

Labor troubles in the auto industry, followed by less-than-expected orders from this No. 1 customer, doomed hopes of a big surge in the fourth quarter.

But steel demand from other fronts generally held firm and look up part of the slack.

A controversy over prices and labor-management sparring preliminary to 1952 contract talks figured prominently in the steel picture.

Unemployment due to technological advances continued to be a problem, even though overall employment improved in the second half.

The outlook for 1952 is clouded because of the forthcoming labor negotiations. Steelmen expect a good year, but a strike of any length could upset the forecasts.

For the first six months at least, it is anticipated that demand will be sustained at high levels as steel users build inventories against possible midyear work stoppage.

The Basic Iron industry entered 1951 operating below 50 per cent of estimated capacity. It wasn't until April that the recession, born in the summer of 1950, definitely ended.

In the final week that month the nation's steel melted 1.8 million net tons of steel, operating at about 65 per cent.

Production recovered the remainder of the year, largely in the 70-75 per cent range. Output rose 2 1/2 million tons—about a 75 per cent rate—in the last week of September. This was the most for any week since May 1949.

With final statistics yet to be reckoned, it appeared total 1951 production would fall just shy of the 1950 mark of 92.28 million tons—sixth best year in steel's history.

During 1951, industry leaders repeatedly stated a need for higher prices to offset increased production costs. But they held the line—for the third straight year—against government and competitive pressures.

Early in September, President Kennedy applied for steel price stability as a hedge against inflation.

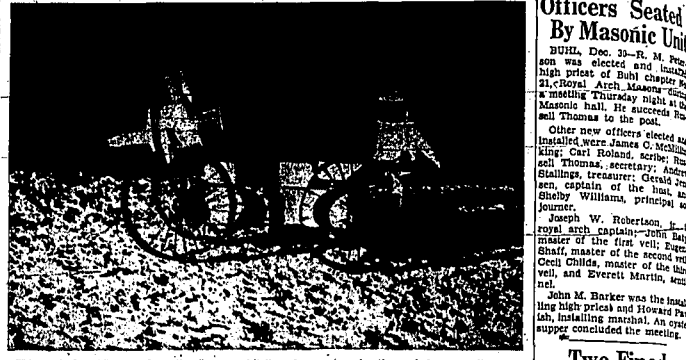

Late in prices of aluminum—a major competitor—dropped one to two cents a pound.

Competition from other materials—plastics, concrete, glass—and foreign steelmakers also played a part in the decision to stand pat on prices.

The industry last raised prices in 1949, a rise of 50 a ton. Since then members of the United Steelworkers have received two cost-of-living hikes totaling 12 to 13 cents an hour.

If prices remain steady, company negotiators will have strong talking point in bargaining with the U.S.W. for new contracts to replace the one expiring June 30.

Just what the union will seek the negotiators will be job security. David J. McDonald, U.S.W. president, has been the best-remembered technological displacement of Steelworkers in the shorter work week—with no reduction in pay.

Dr. Hazard said the government should begin soon to finance development of actual models — to be of prices of new models — to be ready for possible lunar landings. He said the suits would be made of plastic and metal, and would be made of plastic and metal, and would be made of plastic and metal.

Both types of "moonmobile" would use chemical fuels in an electrical generating system feed the motors attached to each of the four wheels.

Other new officers elected at the meeting Thursday night at the Masonic hall. He succeeded Russell Thomas to the post.

King, Carl Roland, secretary; Russell Thomas, secretary; Allyn B. Hazard, treasurer; Gerald Johnson, captain of the host; and Shelby Williams, principal speaker.

Joseph W. Robertson, royal arch captain; John B. Hazard, master of the first veil; Eugene Ghaff, master of the second veil; Cecil Childs, master of the third veil; and Everett Martin, master.

John M. Barker was the installing high priest and Howard Paul, installing master. An organizational supper concluded the meeting.

1961 Brings Recovery by Car Industry

BY DEN PHILEGAR
AP Automobile Writer
12 E. Fifth St., Dec. 20 (U)—

Throughout 1961 the auto industry clung to the theory that things had to get better—and they did.

In February, sales were the lowest for the month since the Korean war in October and early November sales were at record highs for the period.

Layoffs and short work weeks were the rule in the first part of the year. Added manpower and overtime kept assembly lines humming in the closing months.

The manufacturers were talking in glowing terms of 1962 production with equal enthusiasm calling for sales of 7.25 million cars, or about the equal of record 1955.

With the signing of three-year union contracts, labor peace seemed assured. The spectacular dark spots on the horizon was the possibility of a steel strike after July 30.

Ford and General Motors cleared two weeks by strikes prior to final agreements with the United Auto Workers union. Despite this, production of 1962 model cars between the model changeover in September and Dec. 31 was expected to hit a record 2.3 million.

Total production for the calendar year of roughly 5.8 million cars will be about 1.2 million under the 1960 figure. During the 1961 model year 849,000 cars were built.

This was the year of the bucket seat. Following the spectacular success of the Corvair Monza, every manufacturer introduced one or more bucket seat models, mostly in the compact car line.

Accounts accumulated for about 35 per cent of all sales. A new size classification emerged with the 1962 model year—the intermediate, Plymouth and Dodge models. The Ford Mustang and Mercury Cougar were added to this category where they were joined by two new Ford products, the Ford Fairlane and Mercury Meteor.

Big-tyler engines continued to rule. The Ford Mustang being 110 into 454 per cent of all 1961 models. This compared with 454 per cent in 1960 and 32 per cent of the 1959 models.

Chevrolet was the biggest-selling standard car by a wide margin over Ford while the Ford Falcon was the No. 1 selling compact. The Ford Mustang was expected to be rounded up.

"The eruption was not a great explosion, and we felt it coming for weeks. The earth rumbled, and we were shaken in our beds, and I noticed walls cracking, and doors wouldn't shut because things were out of shape," said Mrs. Swain.

She went on: "Then, on Oct. 10, the thing happened. The soil came up like a big bubble, and steam and smoke came from cracks. Then rocks were hurled into the air, and started rolling down toward our houses. There was a bad smell in the air."

"The two fishing companies had boats out to little Nightingale Island, 20 miles away. The Lord gave us good weather. They were picked up and returned by a passing liner and eventually brought to England.

The British frigate Leopard visited the island in 1959 and commander reported that the eruption was continuing, and that Tristan was not habitable for a long time.

In London the government has not yet decided what finally to do with the Tristanians. They may be solving their own difficulties. About 130 have jobs near their army camp. Old folks want to stay together. Youngsters are migrating with the British.

In the camp school the Tristan children were asked to draw something, anything, from memory. Three little girls drew a boat, a fish, and a wide meadow. Mrs. Swain looked at the drawings and got homesick. "I want to go back," she said.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT at Maglo Valley Memorial hospital meets monthly to go over reports and carry out business of the department. Three at the hospital, the other departments are surgery, and obstetrics and gynecology. Around the table, from left, are Charles McWilliam, Dr. George Brown, Dr. Charles W. Many Doctors Who Work at Hospital Are Members of Medical Department

One of the largest departments at Maglo Valley Memorial hospital is the 18-man medical department. A sizable number of the doctors who practice medicine at the hospital work with this department.

When a patient is admitted to the hospital, he is put into one of three departments—medical, surgery, or obstetrics and gynecology, depending upon the nature of the medical treatment required.

Chairman of the department for the past year was Dr. Charles E. Marsh. Within the department there is a smaller executive committee, composed of Dr. Marsh, Dr. J. Woodson Creed, Dr. Ben E. Katz, Dr. David Vojtek, Dr. C. F. Wurster, Dr. Luther O. Thompson, Dr. William F. Passer, Dr. Willard

Mr. Irene Oliver, hospital administrator, points out that in a day and age when society is on the move, records are very valuable. She points out that the records of patients are kept on file for 25 years. Whenever a patient moves to another part of the country, the patient's doctor or there can write this hospital and get information from old records.

She explains that this is just one of many reasons why medical records are so important to an institution such as Maglo Valley Memorial Hospital.

During the monthly meeting the members also receive reports

"Outside" Enthralls Refugees From Island, but They Want to Go Back

Amble socks were thrilling to 10-year-old Caroline Swain. She bought some, with spending money given the refugees, and she also chose a head scarf of pretty colors. On the island young girls wear a sort of a sun bonnet that is quite unknown in the smart shops of London.

The stairways. On the island everyone lived on the ground floor. Islanders had seen pictures of high buildings, but had not thought about how one gets up to the top. The stairway, it was agreed, is very important.

A passenger elevator in a really high building is a little frightening. "Makes one seakish, like I used to get in bad weather," said Tony Lavello.

Roads with smooth and hard surfaces amazed some of the men. Such roads, they said, make the automobile practical.

Zoos were almost beyond belief. On the island were cow donkeys, sheep, dogs, cats and rats. But animals like bears, lions and tigers didn't seem to be very plausible.

Wonderment is expressed at the fact that the island has mail deliveries twice a day, at washing machines, vacuum cleaners.

Mrs. Swain and her companions were jolted out of the 19th century and thrust suddenly into present-day realities.

On their island home, halfway between South Africa and the Argentine, the Tristanians were almost forgotten members of the family of man. They lived far from the world, and had no news of the world. They had no newspapers, and they had no need either. They spoke English softly in phrases that sound like the Old Testament.

Then, bang went the volcano in a few wild and terrible hours. Tristan da Cunha, which has a coastline of 21 miles, ceased to be suitable for human habitation.

The British government assumed responsibility for the islanders. The Tristanians were brought to an abandoned British army camp in Uruguay, south of London.

Tristanians are descendants of a few toughly men and women who, beginning in 1817, deliberately sought to settle on the world. Less than a dozen of the refugees had ever been away from the three little islands of the Tristan group. So what they are seeing and experiencing is new and amazing.

able to halt the trend toward West European economic and political unity under the common market.

Finland already has heard Soviet threats. There may be renewed as a warning to Sweden, Denmark and Norway all of which are discussing either full or associate membership in the European community.

Military neutral Austria's relations with the Soviet Union also may be strained if she also seeks associate membership in the common market.

The economic and political ties of West Germany and Italy are expected to keep climbing, but at slower rates. Italy's progress will be checked by a growing crisis within the governing Christian Democratic party.

LAGOS, Nigeria, Dec. 20 (U)—It is a dead certainty that the Congo will continue to be turbulent Africa's most difficult problem.

The new year may well bring the United Nations the most serious test of its authority has been Africa. In the past 12 months, whose confidence in the United Nations has been seriously shaken by Algeria's withdrawal for the former Belgian colony, is likely to clamor for resolution.

Their most immediate demand will be for firm suppression of the "white" Rhodesia's government in that province by the Commonwealth central government.

The world may face a similar, if less serious, situation in Kenya. The Africans there, under the leadership of Jomo Kenyatta and Tom Mboya, are likely to intensify their demands for full independence.

The new year is likely to bring increasing pressure, political and economic, by the independent states to convince South Africa to forsake her apartheid policy and acknowledge rule by the black majority.

MOSCOW, Dec. 20 (U)—The Soviet Union has three major problems in the coming year.

There seems a fair prospect that some advances may be made in settling the dispute with West over Berlin and Germany during 1962. Both sides have agreed to negotiate along neutral lines to give more ground.

Part of the ideological battle with China has come to a head in Albania's revolt against Soviet domination.

LAGOS, Nigeria, Dec. 20 (U)—It is a dead certainty that the Congo will continue to be turbulent Africa's most difficult problem.

The new year may well bring the United Nations the most serious test of its authority has been Africa. In the past 12 months, whose confidence in the United Nations has been seriously shaken by Algeria's withdrawal for the former Belgian colony, is likely to clamor for resolution.

Their most immediate demand will be for firm suppression of the "white" Rhodesia's government in that province by the Commonwealth central government.

The world may face a similar, if less serious, situation in Kenya. The Africans there, under the leadership of Jomo Kenyatta and Tom Mboya, are likely to intensify their demands for full independence.

The new year is likely to bring increasing pressure, political and economic, by the independent states to convince South Africa to forsake her apartheid policy and acknowledge rule by the black majority.

Peppery Princess of South Viet Nam Has Important Role in Asia Destiny

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, Dec. 30 (AP) — In the midst of the deadly struggle between communism and western democracy in Southeast Asia stands a beautiful, Mandarin princess with a peppery temper and quick smile, a fierce sense of patriotism and a subtle but important role in the destiny of her country.

Few persons here have aroused such strong reactions in the press as South Viet Nam's petite first lady, Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu. She is extravagantly praised in the local press, extravagantly attacked in some sections of the Western press and variously treated elsewhere.

Mme. Nhu's influence in South Viet Nam stems partly from her position as official hostess for President Ngo Dinh Diem who is a leading figure in the national assembly of the country.

She is also a special adviser to the president, and partly as a delegate to the national assembly of the country.

Dedicated Immigrant Keeps Tabs on Lighting Problems

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 — Philip Sporn, whose alert eyes and electric mind spot his crooked white hair and the facial lines of 63 years, is perhaps the only immigrant who looks upon the Statue of Liberty and comments: "Her lighting, yes, it is excellent at certain hours of the morning. Then you can literally see the folds in the drapery of the lady. But at night? Lighting is poor."

"This is the comment of a man with a rare dedication to his work, a devotion to excellence, a perfectionist and, some believe, perhaps a genius."

In Sporn's work and influence if the world's eight-most-efficient power plants were on the AEP system.

One of Sporn's pet projects is an experiment in pneumatic dynamics, a method of making "electric" light that Sporn thinks may be 25 to 40 per cent more efficient than present methods.

He notes with chagrin that the industry's "lack of alertness to both opportunity and responsibility" again and again has accounted for the growth of public power — from five to nearly 25 per cent in a little more than three decades.

However, in most respects he feels the industry has done a splendid job of lighting the nation and continually bringing costs down.

At 14, four years after immigrating from Austria, he decided to be an electrical engineer. Seven years later he was one. In the next 44 years he combined engineering with administration as head of America's largest private power utility, the American Electric Power company.

In the 19 years since the electric power industry was founded, it has doubled in size every 10 years until now it is the largest assembly of capital facilities ever assembled by man.

Almost every American factory farm and home has become dependent upon it.

Much of the time Sporn and his company have been at the forefront of the research that led to growth.

Here's an example:

As chief engineer of AEP, shortly before becoming president, Sporn began tests of 800,000 volt transmission lines that never before had been attempted. Some associates questioned the need, others the value.

The experiment, however, resulted in the erecting of circuits with six times the capacity of old ones at one-tenth the cost.

Sporn with the cooperation of manufacturers, now has a test system pulsating 775,000 volts in some still consider visionary but which Sporn foresees as inadequate in a day.

In his lower Manhattan office Sporn keeps a light meter, symbol of his life — to test the office illumination.

In 1917, at the age of 21, Sporn won an electrical engineering degree from the Columbia university, and soon he joined American Gas and Electric company — a major engineering job.

Sporn announced his retirement as president of his empire recently to give full time to the company's engineering future, which he believes must be built on efficiency. One year, six of

Spending by U.S. to Hike Its Economy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Government spending, a key factor in the economy's recovery in 1961, will give business another big lift in the coming year. Federal purchases of goods and services are expected to total at least $2 billion more, up sharply from a 1960 level of $60 billion. This would be the biggest year-to-year advance since the 1953 military buildup associated with the Korean war.

BB guns present a problem. They are outlawed in Salt Lake City, so Budge constantly has to convince youngsters who live in the city that a BB gun isn't the best of presents. He is often helped in his talks with the children by facial signals from the parents. They let him know whether the child will get a certain present or not.

Prices Rising Toward High 1961 Record

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—The year's most notable advance in the greatest stock market advance in history during 1961, came moderately on the week to near record levels.

As for Christmas on Monday the market opened with a modest gain on Tuesday, climbed sharply on Wednesday and softened on Thursday, and softened in the final session.

The week's results added somewhat to the 1961 steady market trend during which prices advanced roughly 25 per cent, well above the 1960 advance of 15 per cent.

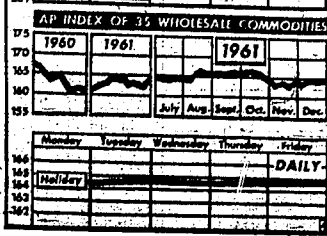

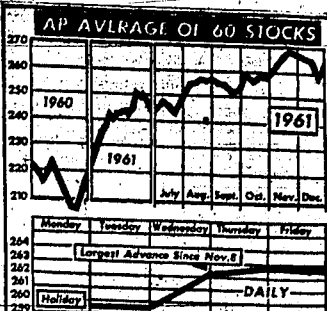

In terms of percentage gain, the market only matched the old 1928 record but judging by the increase in aggregate value, it was by far a record.

At the year turned, a majority of analysts express an optimistic outlook for 1962, but with some disappointment with the performance of prices in the final quarter of 1961.

Steel production hit a 20-month high last week, auto sales and real estate reports are expected to make pleasing reading but that corporations are likely to have a difficult time in 1962.

As the year ended, prices were not much below their highs and showed signs of resuming the upward trend.

The tremendous volume was the big stock market story of 1961.

Golden Sixties Became Real For Wall Street During '61

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—The "Golden Sixties" became a reality for Wall Street in 1961 as stock prices rose on volume of more than a billion shares.

The promised harvest of the stock market interest of 1960 was an abundant one in 1961.

Prices soared to an extent that was alarming to some authorities and caused a temporary interruption of the advance.

As the year ended, prices were not much below their highs and showed signs of resuming the upward trend.

Grange Hears of Holiday Customs

HOLLISTER, Dec. 30—Christmas customs in foreign countries were described at the Hollister Grange Christmas party Wednesday night.

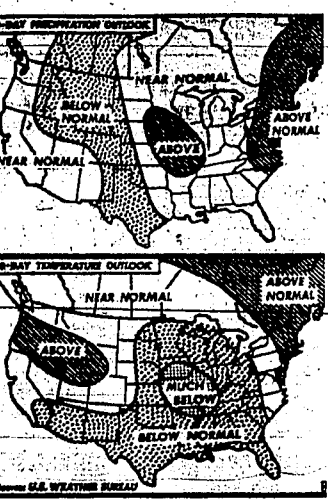

Home Roberts was master of ceremonies and gave the welcoming address to the guests.

Most Grains Decrease on Trade Ban

CHICAGO, Dec. 30 (AP)—Corn futures added small fractions, but most grains drifted lower in slow trading during the week on the Chicago board of trade.

Corn attracted interest on fair crop buying, but receipts curtailed by the weather and continued small government sales of corn.

Chicago's cash grain market showed a slight decline as most grains drifted lower in slow trading during the week.

THESE MAPS, based on those supplied Friday by the United States weather bureau, forecast the probable precipitation and temperatures for the next 30 days.

Health Rules Are Reported

Any eating or drinking establishment before it is opened for business must qualify for health department "certificate of sanitation compliance," reports Dr. Luther Thompson, medical director of the southern district health department.

The quality of the establishment must be ascertained by a 5-day written notice to the department requesting an inspection.

Man Hospitalized

BURLEY, Dec. 30—Francisco Larr, 34, Burley, was reported hospitalized at the St. Joseph's hospital where he was taken after an accident at 1:40 Saturday on Fifth street and Sub road.

The 1961 international pickup truck race ended at the St. Joseph's hospital where he was taken after an accident at 1:40 Saturday on Fifth street and Sub road.

SOLDIER LEAVES

SIOUX FALLS, Dec. 30—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Clorietta left Thursday for Ft. Ord, Calif., to begin further army training.

High-Gear Forecast Made For U.S. Economy in '62

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—The economic machine idled between holidays during the week but indications were that it would get into high gear when the startler's flag drops on 1962.

It had pulled out of the mire of recession in the last half of this year and seemed to have enough power to speed well into the new year.

The year 1962 gives every promise of being an excellent one for business," said Frederic O. Donner, chairman of General Motors Corp. and chairman of Ford Motor Company, said, "I expect 1962 to be a solid, prosperous year for the general economy and the automotive industry."

Both expressed optimism that seven million passenger cars would be built in 1962, making it the second year to exceed 1961.

On other industry fronts, Mark W. Crenshaw, president of Westinghouse Electric corporation, predicted an increase in business for the electrical manufacturing industry in 1962.

On the premises and kitchens and other places where food is prepared for sale for consumption elsewhere, Dr. Thompson stated.

In addition to these highly qualified professional buyers, there were many local feeders and ranchers on hand buying their feed-lot cattle and replacement range cattle. DO YOU GET CONCENTRATED BUYING POWER SUCH AS THIS WHEN YOU MARKET YOUR CATTLE AT HOME???

At each of the auction markets across Western States, professional buyers and local ranchers and feeders match knowledge and trading experience in the form of competitive bidding in order to buy your livestock. You sellers represent the supply of livestock—buyers represent the demand. As a result of these daily contests on the auction markets, prices are determined for each class of livestock.

The ruling force in price-making is the law of supply and demand. It's natural function is COMPETITION. Some producers possess a fear of overloading the auction market stockyards. They feel that the heavier the volume available there at any given time will have a tendency to lower the market. This line of reasoning arises from a confusion between "volume" and "percentage". The market is subjected to abnormal pressures only in direct proportion to the amount of demand that is satisfied elsewhere.

The auction market gains the full bidding potential of every buyer who is unsuccessful in getting at least a part of his needs from other sources. When his percentage of direct buying is reduced, he is bound to compete openly for a larger share of his total requirements. Market volume that is increased in this manner is more than offset by the corresponding preservation of a favorable balance of bargaining power on the auction market remains the responsibility of every livestock owner. By the same token, it is the full responsibility of the market operator to see that the producer gets every cent out of his livestock for him.

Within a few minutes after the sale of your livestock you have your money and you are certain the check will be good as we are bonded and operate under the Federal Packers & Stockyards Act.

In the month of November the TWIN FALLS LIVESTOCK COMMISSION CO., set an ALL-TIME RECORD for cattle receipts in any one month. We feel prices received by our consignors were very favorable. We have the Insurance Program in effect which has helped all our Consignors as well as the Buyers. Our remodeling and new construction has been done on the yards, chutes, pens and etc., where it will be of the most value to you, the Consignors. It has speeded up the selling by at least 20 to 25%. We have more remodeling plans and new construction started now and it will be done where you will receive the most benefit. This is our THIRD Anniversary and we are not making all these renovations and new construction to sell this business at a profit. We are a part of the LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY OF SOUTHERN IDAHO.

The HALL OF FAME for livestock people was originated by us and now is a permanent organization. We participated in the first Auction Sale for the Food Caravan for the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, as also we participated in the Heart Auction to raise money for research in that field. Sold the first Buffalo ever sold in Southern Idaho at Auction. Co-Sponsored the 4-H and FFA sale for this area. These are some of the community events that we helped sponsor.

We are one Auction Market who believes that all we have to offer is Service and we hope that we will have the opportunity of serving you again next year.

HAPPY NEW YEAR AND WISHING EVERYONE A MOST PROSPEROUS AND PROFITABLE 1962

(Call us anytime and we will be happy to come out and discuss your marketing problems. We can serve you whether you have one or a thousand head of cattle, sheep, hogs or horses to sell. Mobile phone Number 735-7168)
