NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BY JAMES AND ANN FREE WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Congress can't get over its "everybody but me" attitude when it comes to the right to pick a confidant of interest.

Federal judges must be, of course, above and beyond reproach of personal interest in any official act. In early 1952, the senate is expected to pass a bill which would close gaps in laws by federal employees from serving an outside master.

Exceptional

The resignation of Roscoe Rich from the state highway-board doesn't come as any particular surprise. Mr. Rich had indicated previously that he might resign.

Any member of the commission is called upon to devote considerable time to the job. And to Mr. Rich's credit, he hasn't missed a minute of any meeting during the 11 years he has been a member of the commission.

No one is more aware than Governor Smythe of the value of Mr. Rich's services to Idaho. Mr. Rich has resisted vigorously all attempts to put the state highway department back into politics.

It is to be hoped K. Doyle Smythe, Mr. Rich's successor on the board, will assume his duties with the same determination and vigor that has served the state so well.

The people of Idaho are indebted to Roscoe Rich for 11 years of exceptional service and unflinching efforts to avert any suspicion of politics in a department that has pulled up an enviable record since it was taken out of politics.

Co-op Supply at Burley Adds Liquid Fertilizer

BURLEY, Jan. 8.—Pacific Co-op Supply is ready to begin breaking ground for a new $75,000 to $80,000 fertilizer plant to handle bulk, bag and mixed fertilizer. The plant will supplement the liquid fertilizer plant at Heyburn.

According to Karl Burr, Portland director of research for Pacific Supply, the new plant will be completed in about 10 weeks. Bill Chouin, manager of the fertilizer department from Portland, is planning the plant layout.

Burr said the plant will be able to supply customers with specialty mixes. The plant will be designed to load farm trucks, spreaders or "tote" boxes in this "bulk-better" automatic plant.

The size of the building will be approximately 60 feet by 120 feet with a 1,000-ton storage capacity for bulk materials, and 800 or 600 capacity for bag materials. The building will be constructed of frame and masonry material with a cement floor. Bill Osborn will be in charge of the plant.

Farm Union Leader Favors Sale of Food to Red China

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 8.—The head of the national farm union has said he favors selling surplus food to communist China.

James C. Patton, here-formerly president of the Illinois farmers union, said, "we should help feed people that are hungry, wherever they are or wherever they are, despite the political beliefs of the country."

Patton said his organization favors the food for peace program. However, he said the program "should not be based on a surplus food concept alone."

He suggested that programs of this type should be carried out on an international basis, rather than a unilateral basis, in order to keep politics out of them.

Patton said the feed grain program should be continued and would be extended to include wheat. He also wants the price support for corn increased by 20 cents from the present rate of $1.20 a bushel.

Patton said he would ask congress to approve the corn-support increase.

The farm group president said the problem of the wheat farmer is similar to that of the corn farmer, and for that reason wheat should be included in the feed grain program. He termed the feed grain program, sponsored by the Kennedy administration, a success in 1961.

It put over a half-billion dollars in the farmer's pocket," said Patton, "and it also helped to relieve the storage problem."

"The feed grain program is much better than the soil bank program under former President Eisenhower, because the soil bank allowed farmers to put their entire farm in the program and this hurt the family farmer," he said.

Farm Production Expected to Equal Record Output of '61 in Prime Areas

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The agriculture department says the sharply rising level of farm production was interrupted in 1961-62 in the more efficient producing areas of the world for the first time since the 1954-55 crop year.

Even so, the department said in a review of the 1962-63 agricultural situation by its economic research service (ERS), world output of farm products in 1961-62 is expected to equal the record production of 1960-61. This record-matching output appears likely because of significant rises in several of the less developed countries.

ERS said that as a result of weather and agricultural policies in some big producing areas such as the United States, some substantial decreases occurred in 1961-62. Partially offsetting the decline in grains were increases in oilseeds and livestock products.

With no anticipated change expected in world production, ERS said a decline of 2 per cent is indicated for world per capita production in 1961-62, compared with 1960-61. Per capita production is expected to be down about 2 per cent in the United States and western Europe. Greater decreases are likely in Canada, Oceania, and parts of eastern Europe. There probably will be increases of about one per cent in the populous Far East and in the Soviet Union and two per cent in Latin America.

ERS said most of the decline was in surplus producing countries or among commodities generally in surplus. Therefore, the agency said, world supplies of foodstuffs should be adequate to provide as satisfactory a diet as available in 1960-61 for most of the world's population, although the situation in "hunger" China is expected to be worse.

ERS said the economic position of world agriculture at the end of 1961 was stronger in several respects than was the case earlier in the year. International trade in farm products reached record levels; some burdensome surpluses, particularly wheat, were reduced; world prices of farm products generally were well maintained relative to prices of other primary products; and prices of several major farm commodities such as wheat and soybeans were substantially improved at the end of 1961 compared with a year earlier.

A number of developments occurred during 1961 that contributed to this improved situation. While restrictions on imports of various farm products still were in effect in many countries, trade liberalization measures adopted thus far were reflected in the record movement of surplus farm products to deficit areas. The demand in leading industrial nations for their traditional commodities imports was strong. Demand for some products increased significantly because of growing consumer preference for higher priced products, and because of greater or new uses for farm products, or new methods of processing.

Contributing to the reduction of surplus stocks in exporting countries was the increased movement of food into developing countries.

Vernon Law to Speak to Students About Narcotics

Vernon Law, starting pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates and winner of several national base-ball awards, will speak to about 7,000 junior high school and high school students in Magic Valley Monday and Tuesday.

Law, on a 12-day tour of Idaho schools and colleges, will discuss "Citizenship and how to beat the Yankees."

He received the Cy Young award as most valuable pitcher in both major leagues in 1950, the Los Angeles award for outstanding baseball achievement and was named to the National League all-star team by Look magazine.

Now in his 13th year with the Pirates, Law played baseball at Meridian high school.

Law will appear from 9 a. m. to noon Monday at Twin Falls junior high school, where he will speak before three different assemblies. At 1 p. m. he will speak to students at Twin Falls high school and will be at Buhl high school and junior high school at 2:45 p. m.

He will be at Burley junior high school Tuesday, from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., when he will go to Burley high school. At 12:30 p. m. he will appear at Minico high school and at 3 p. m. he will speak to students at Rupert's Washington junior high school.

About 200 students from Heyburn and Paul schools will attend the assemblies at Minico high school.

Law will speak about 20 to 25 minutes at each assembly. A question and answer period will conclude each program.

Law, whose tour is sponsored by the Idaho Narcotics-Alcohol Education Foundation, Inc., to assist schools in meeting the state law requiring that schools teach the harmful effects of narcotics, will appear to about 31,000 of Idaho's 64,000 secondary school and college students during the 12-day tour.

The baseball star notes, "No nation offers more opportunities to the youth than the United States of America. The liberty that we enjoy today has been paid for with a price and I am doing what I can to foster the development of good citizenship because I believe in the principles of the government of the United States."

TV Show Filming, First Professional Ski Race Set Next Week at Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY, Jan. 5.—Entertainment stars and professional skiers will be present next week for two big events in the 25th anniversary celebration of this famed Idaho resort.

The two events are the filming of a television spectacular and the first professional ski race. The TV show will be filmed during the week and the race and exhibitions will be held next Saturday.

Stars who will be at Sun Valley for the spectacular will include Louis Armstrong and his band, Roberta Peters, Jack Carter, comedian, and Gordon and Shabaz MacLean. Sun Valley officials report they will be at the resort all week.

They will arrive by plane in Twin Falls Monday afternoon and proceed to Sun Valley where they will stay at the lodge.

GLORIA TALBOTT stars as a deejay girl in the Saturday, Jan. 5, episode of "Gunsmoke" on the CBS television network. (Staff engraving)

It's Year of Hypochondriac

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5.—It has been the year of the hypochondriac on TV, thanks to "Ben Casey" and "Dr. Kildare."

Viewers are discovering diseases they never knew they had.

Others write in asking for home remedies for complicated diseases. Some diagnosed their own symptoms and then ask for medication.

Still others, however, visit their doctors, and this, says Dr. Allan M. Warner, technical adviser to "Ben Casey" series, is a very good thing.

"The American Medical Association is pleased with the show because it gives viewers a knowledge of their doctors and their diagnosis of patients," he adds.

While the public writes thousands of letters to the blood and bandage show, doctors are reluctant to express their opinions unless it is to complain about something.

He's Success, But Pines to Change Pace

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5.—Mr. Fernel Roberts, onetime butcher, tombstone maker and Shakespearean actor, is getting itchy feet again despite the great success of his TV series, "Bananas."

"I know it's the top-rated western on TV," he said on the set of the show, "but it doesn't answer my needs."

He's not fooling. He asked NBC for a contract release last year but was turned down because the network didn't want to break up a winner.

"I can't figure out my whole situation," said Roberts, who plays Adam Cartwright, eldest of the show. "It's so hectic. You make more money and have more prestige at something you don't enjoy. It would be funny if it wasn't tragic."

Tales of unhappiness often come forth from TV stars around contract time to help them get raises. But most of the series heroes are no-talent pretty boys who know they're lucky to be working steady. Roberts is quite a different case.

A woman has saved for years, but housing keeps going up, and everything she has saved is out of her price range. Her children grow and her expenses increase. Should she invest the money in stocks? Faithful Fan Is Given Reward

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP)—Back in the early '30s, Alex Gordon saw his first western and immediately became a fan of actor Edmund Cobb.
 That's how he remained for many years. Then Gordon entered the picture business and became a producer. Since then he has produced 14 pictures—and Cobb has appeared in key roles in every one of them. At present, he's filming "The Undertaker" for Columbia Pictures release.

Tools Used in Your Garden Seldom Wear Out if They Receive Proper Winter Care

Garden tools seldom wear out and that's why it's best to get good tools to begin with. But tools do give out because of neglect. The worst case of neglect will occur as soon as the first cold line arrives and garden tools are tossed into one corner of the garage.

By spring they're rusty and rotted. Even a tool that might be salvaged will get tossed aside to be replaced by a new one in a desire to avoid wasting time once good weather returns.

Winter Tool Care
 To give your garden tools their proper winter care you will need plenty of rags, a wire brush, kerosene, oil, grease, kerosene and water, sandpaper, a file, linseed oil, steel wool and a few hours of your time.

Hand tools—spade, shovel, hoe, cultivator and similar items—are probably located with mud. Scrape this off. A little kerosene will soften some of the dirt and corrosion and make it easier to remove with steel wool or a wire brush.

Sharp Edges
 Examine edges. They are probably dull after a full summer of use. A few strokes with a file will restore cutting edges.

Protect metal parts with a light oil coating; use grease if subjected to much dampness.

Sharpening wood
 Spindles, bands and coat with linseed oil. If you notice any cracks, replace the handle now.

Frills and grubs
 Frills and grubs should be handled thoroughly, using kerosene to soften the dirt and gummy substances.

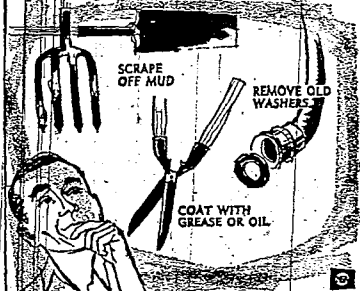

The Steel Wool
 Finish with steel wool or the wire brush. Shapen blade edges. If you can, release tension on springs. If nuts and bolts have rusted over, remove and replace.

Drain the garden hose and allow it to dry thoroughly. If you use more than one handle, incouple them. Roll the hose carefully, avoiding kinks. Store on a hose reel or similar device or in a bushel basket.

Put out all the washers including those in mower, sprayer and all other tools. If they're not worn out already, they'll be better if broken by spring. With the washers out you will be forced to put fresh washers in.

Take insecticide sprayer apart and clean thoroughly. Use water and kerosene to remove all residue from inside surfaces. When cleaning, use kerosene to clean thoroughly. Coat metal parts with oil, but be careful to keep oil off of rubber hoses and gaskets.

TO MAKE TOOLS LAST

GARDEN TOOLS should be protected through the winter so they will be ready for use in the spring. Listed are some of the timely suggestions for preserving the equipment.

Storing Units Are Created Just for Men

Special furniture to store the special clothing and accessories of men holds the attention of designers. Probably because men's masculine needs are thoroughly investigated and requirements are met.

Designers have taken the measured space needs for stacks of shirts, sweaters, undershirts and other smaller items of apparel as a logical extension of design. Several include hanging space for suits.

From there, style enters the picture. Wardrobe units about the size and shape of an average five or six drawer chest are available in several different styles. Each planned as an auxiliary piece to your current bedroom furniture no matter what its style.

Such units are generally included in coordinated bedroom furniture collections. If entirely new bedroom furniture is being chosen, the man of the family will welcome these new pieces designed by men for men.

FEMININE LEAD

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP)—Barbara Stanwick has the feminine lead in "The Travels of Marco Polo," which is being filmed in Svalbard. She wanted to fame with "The World of Suzie Wong" and "Paper Moon."

Take It From Kathy

By KATHY PETERSON

Dear Kathy: We have a 5-month-old puppy who is always getting into trouble. My mother wants to get rid of him. I have been trying to persuade her that you can't expect a little dog to behave. Don't you think she should give him a chance? He'll be better when he grows up. —D.J.E.

When a puppy of that age continually misbehaves, it's your fault. You apparently have enjoyed the fun of a pup and skipped the work. Bad little dogs don't become good grown dogs unless you teach them how to behave.

Your mother might agree to let him stay if you take over his care completely and start a sensible training campaign. Get a good book to help you. In the meantime:

Start with the most basic ideas like "Sit," "Down" and "Heel." Teach him only one at a time at a time.

Use commands that are brief; one word, if possible.

Be consistent. Employ the same terms all the time. Never permit him to disobey.

He doesn't know when his feet are dirty so never let him jump up.

Don't make him a lap dog unless he will remain a small one.

Lots of affection will gain more than constant scolding. Reward the dog with just as much love as you can. He responds well.

Be patient and make sure he understands what you want. Your pet may be smart but he can't reason as you can. Training the dog is being kind to him, because he will be scolded less and loved more for the rest of his life.

Buzzer Duplicates Sound Of Auto, Makes Baby Sleep

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 3 (AP)—From the back seat of an automobile and a kitchen workshop comes a story of hope for parents accustomed to passing the time with a crying infant.

Dr. Robert Horton's electrical invention is about the size of a hamburger bun. With it he hopes to send agitated babies back to the psychological peace of their pre-arrival environment. In so doing he would give countless additional hours of sleep-time to harassed mothers and fathers.

The doctor's idea was born in the family auto. He noticed that his youngest daughter usually dropped off to sleep in the back seat. A combination of noise and vibration he reasoned, promoted her slumber.

On the kitchen table he fashioned a buzzer device to duplicate the auto vibration. To the doctor's adult, "but it worked. When placed behind his daughter in the crib, the buzzer induced a deep sleep."

Horton, an obstetrician and gynecologist, is convinced that babies usually begin to wail two weeks after birth. The buzzer achieves its success because it duplicates the sounds that the baby senses while in its mother's body. Turn on the buzzer and security follows.

Custom Furniture Fits Most Budgets

BY KAY SHERWOOD
More sophisticated tastes and greater desire for individualized budgets of young homemakers are spurring manufacturers to create efforts to capture the market. Those of us in the 20-to-30-year bracket benefit from these efforts, for if manufacturers' placements or additions are on the market.

ITALIAN PROVINCIAL FURNITURE, custom-tailored to a young homemaker's wishes, blends well with family accents in this setting. The room has beige walls and carpeting, rust-toned antique satin draperies that repeat the color of fabric on one chair. Furniture is enlivened in urethane finish. Back of the sofa is an antique bent walnut table. Louis Philippe tier table has brass galleries and marble tops.

Not only are the young homemaker either clung to heavy American maple or went stark white with carved slings and straight lines, then the simple Scandinavian styling claimed our attention and won heavy support because it is so well suited to modern homes and informal living patterns. Now another time is being heard.

Elegance Demanded
In recent interviews with interior designers, store salesmen and furniture showroom managers, I was assured that today's young homemaker demands more elegant, tasteful living room furnishings of design periods, more blending of old and new, I gathered that "relaxing" more in more decorated styles, plushly comfort and rich, patterned and textured fabrics.

I doubt that the trend has strayed quite so magnificently as one first salesman believes he has made the point that young homemakers are truly quality conscious.

"Instead of paying $200 for a sofa they know will fall apart in three or four years," he said, "they want to pay $400 for one that will last 10 years." Such a smart young homemaker are not acquiescence of mere, it seemed to me, in reaction that I had heard about a beautiful but poorly engineered sofa and that really did fall apart.

Custom Service Added
Back to the more solid ground of solid case home furnishings (and that's still thinking big to me) one new development is a custom service a few years ago by a large manufacturer with national distribution.

In this service of sofas and chairs, fabrics are pre-selected; Italian and French provincial, modern, traditional and early American.

After deciding on the basic style, the homemaker has a choice of seat depths, 16, 18, 24 or 36 inches. In chairs, she chooses high or low back (upholstery fabrics are divided into three price ranges and there is a wide selection in each. Wood finishes also vary.

Guide Is Supplied
A helpful card to guide a selection can sometimes be more confusing than helpful, the manufacturer supplies a guide of recommended fabrics for each style group. Appropriate wood finishes also are recommended.

Urethane foam is used extensively for cushioning and padding for comfort, economy and durability. In fact, it gives to furniture a more traditional or early American styles may be ordered with the urethane foam padding and decorative fabric to give cushions a puff appearance.

Another extensive custom service is a moderate price in general and one factor that makes it

Here Are Photography Basics That Should Be Kept in Mind

BY BART KINCH
There are certain basics in photography that constantly are repeated: Concentrate on the center of interest; move in close; fill the entire negative and so forth.

Nearly everyone will agree there are exceptions to these principles; but it is advisable for the amateur to adhere to them whenever possible.

This is especially true in taking flash shots, whether using bulbs or electronic flash equipment. In taking flash pictures more thought should be given to the hoped-for results before the shutter is tripped.

Flash has a way of washing out subjects too close to the camera and obscuring in dark shadows those who are nearby. The obvious answer is planning in advance.

When possible, subjects should be placed to the center of interest can be emphasized and dominate the print. Place the center of interest where it will get more light, bearing in mind the way light falls off with distance.

Center of interest of the camera viewpoint must be considered to bring the lighting into better balance. Sometimes merely raising the camera a few feet will spell the difference between a pretty appearance.

Success Formula Amounts to Tears

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8 (AP)—Director Peter Glenville has a surefire success formula for actors and movies—make the female audience cry.

"The more tears one extracts from female patrons, the more dollars he attracts to the box office."

"Don't take all my money, now, I want to put some in FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS. If it's deposited before the tenth, it earns the big 4% current dividend from the first, you know!"

Trading Old Houses for New Is Fad

CHICAGO, Jan. 8 (AP)—The practice of trading in old houses for new is catching on across the country.

Builders and realtors are going into the "used house" business to sell more new houses. They've found that many prospective buyers are scared off by the difficulty of selling their old home, but will buy if they can have a trade-in.

With the growing number of trade-ins realtors' and builders have developed financial criteria for judging the trade-in value of a house. Young couples buying a house to trade eventually on a bigger and better model are advised to consider these factors:

—Neighborhood: Is the house in a neighborhood likely to retain its value?

—Construction: Who manufactured the materials used in the house? Are they reliable firms which stand behind their products?

—Maintenance: Has the house had periodic termite treatments with an up-to-date "check-up"?

—Plumbing: Are there a drainage problem? Is the yard well kept?

—Wiring: Is the house adequately wired for an air conditioner, for example? Are there enough wall sockets?

—Foundation: Is it concrete slab or brick basement? Does the basement leak?

—Floors: Hardwood flooring is preferred by most homeowners for its warmth and comfort and because it goes with almost any decorative scheme.

—Exterior finish: Has it been painted periodically so none of the wood work needs replacing?

—Roofing: Did a reliable contractor install it? Were durable materials used? Was the roof resealed an annual checkup?

It Was Year of Trial and Tragedy in Hollywood

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8 (AP)—It was a year of trial and tragedy for Hollywood.

Trouble came in big doses in 1961. Economics were grinding at the movie industry. There was much cry that films were becoming immoral. More of the greats were taken up in real-life drama when a brush fire swept the hills of Bel-Air and Brentwood.

4. Jeff Chandler dies. His death after surgery was a shock, since he was believed to be suffering a minor ailment. It is a story that is not yet concluded.

5. John Clark Cable born. This news was a blow after the loss of the last year of Hollywood's king.

6. The runaway. This was a continuing story that focused light on Hollywood's new economic. A congressional hearing found no solution for the increasing number of filming to foreign lands.

7. Diana Shore and George Montgomery part. This was the shocker amid the usual crop of filmland divorces. There was no preparation for the news of their impending divorce.

8. Morality. Another year-long story concerning Hollywood's attempt to match the outspokenness of European films.

9. Marilyn Monroe sheds Arthur Miller. Double-M showed no loss of her kink for making new dates with Frank Sinatra adding to the total.

10. Lucille Ball remarries. Comedian Gary Morton announced "I love Lucy" and they tied the knot in New York.

Long-Time Ed Sullivan Show Soon to Start 14th Season

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Ed Sullivan, host of a Sunday night television variety show which has withstood the cumulative effects of tough competition, high production costs and sponsors' whims, is now heading toward his 14th anniversary in the medium.

For the past 14 years, for one program and one performer in an act. Most performers count it as a lucky day if their show plays alive the night after the end of six or actively planning retirement at the side of the host.

Ed Sullivan, however, shows no signs of wanting retirement nor even of slowing his busy pace. What's more, the show itself evidences no signs of age and fatigue.

Perhaps this happy circumstance is largely due to the attitude of Sullivan himself. He has been stage-struck for years, and deeply loves and admires theater people. He regards himself still as primarily a newspaperman, a non-professional privileged to introduce and appreciate performing talent.

As a one-time police reporter and sports writer, Sullivan keeps his eye on the newspapers as well as on "Variety." When singer Margaret Truman seemed ready for a public debut, Sullivan provided the audience. When Lucille Ball married a supper-club comedian, Sullivan immediately signed Gary Moore for his show. The comedian's debut incidentally came off so well that Morton has been signed for another appearance. This sort of thing gives his show immediacy and sparkle.

Another Sullivan method is his constant effort to improve the program. He has never been reluctant to abandon his format. Once he turned the whole hour, normally broken into short vaudeville-type turns, over to a Russian ballet troupe. On other occasions, he has converted the show into a 60-minute tribute to such composers as Rodgers and Hammerstein and Leroy and Loewe.

"In earlier years, the program was produced with great simplicity—usually the singer sang the songs, played and the conductor. Now, however, the show is going for more elaborate production numbers.

"Once upon a time, Sullivan would produce his various acts as entire. Today, with the competition for audiences becoming fiercer, he usually has his star performers come on two or even three times, carefully spaced between the first and second half hours. This is designed to keep the home audience from drifting to other networks for the second half. This year—when there are two rival shows starting at his hour point, he is bringing on and introducing all his performers at the beginning.

Although Sullivan has remained in the newspaper business since he graduated from Fordham (N.Y.) high school—he still writes a syndicated Broadway column and irregularly is introduced on his own show as a newspaper columnist—he has been actively a part of the entertainment industry since 1930. He was host of a "Dawn Patrol" troupe, has traveled the "vaudeville" circuit, and has moved into radio.

Milady's Feet Not Getting Much Smaller

AKRON, O., Jan. 5 (AP)—Milady's feet no longer are likely to shrink. The slenderer's diminutive class elude.

The Goddard women's service bureau reports that leg are getting larger and so are shoes. But shoe manufacturers have extended time and money to combat fully the fact that the famous 24 has grown into a 28.

So the bureau advises a "fit firm" policy in selecting shoes, and that whatever size they are will work just right.

It also advises women to play the harlot. Lucy does not. Keep feet in good condition. Walking barefoot in sand or grass exercises the foot muscles. Wiggling the toes, stretching and bending the feet and rotating the ankles are also good hygiene.

On My Own Time

BY BOB HARTLEY

Industry works tirelessly to muffle the big noise in our lives—factories, machines, etc. If not quieted they could give us all the screaming noises. But nothing is done about the little noises that plague us each day and drive us to distraction. For instance there's the sneeze. Not the guy who sneezes occasionally, but the fellow who sneezes incessantly, sets his own sneeze records. We also have the noise of the car horn. It is not the honking that bothers us so much as the honking that is not the honking. Then there's the guy who tries, but never quite makes it. He huffs and puffs and the preliminaries have you ready for another Curia—then, piff! Nothing! Frustrating and can leave you just as limp. There are hundreds of other noises including the teeth-clacker, the foot-tapper, the nose-blower, the popcorn-cruncher, but they're ones we must live with.

The sniffer is another who bothers. There are two types. First is the one who sniffs with gusto, sometimes called a sniffer. His vibrations recall memories of great earthquakes. But he doesn't bother you like the little sniffer. This is the one who sniffs just loud enough for you to hear, but he's across a room or in the next seat. He never seems to have a handkerchief. He just sniffs. You wonder whether the faucet is one of the most disturbing little noises is associated with a physician. It comes when every occurrence of that instrument is being held on by the doctor. As he moves from spot to spot you hear "Hmmm, Un-huh, Hmmm, Well, Un-huh, Okay, I see, Hmmm, Un-huh." This truly evokes the urge to kill. Our solution to the bothersome little noise is why not one operation to grant to some college, say, $50,000 for control of insufferable noises.

New publications coming our way in 1962: A new magazine, USA-1; National Observer, a national weekly newspaper under the direction of the Wall Street Journal, and a West Coast edition of the New York Times.

Just about the time you've recovered from the holiday party whirl and are in the mood for entertainment, the Community Concert Association will bring another group of singers to this area. This time it's the Ever Players, a group of singers who will appear at the Filer high school auditorium Jan. 25. Those who caught the operatic stage, Da Costa, in October know that the concert lineup is outstanding.

Sam Freiberg is some kind of nut. But he's one of the funniest nuts around. Those who have laughed at his records will be happy to know he is planning a comedy special on ABC-TV Feb. 4. It will be one of his frequent appearances on television. One of the parts of his TV show will be an all-out parody of American history. He has a collection of his recordings that has been banned by many radio stations because of its alleged irreverent treatment of patriotic themes. If he uses much of the material on Feb. 4 he could spark some lively comment.

So you're get a lime-colored bathing suit. And you're looking for that "just right something" to go with it. The answer, if we are to believe the literature, is "color coordinated sunglasses lenses" made by an optical firm. The firm is offering a new line of "fashion accessories for the eyes" within everybody's budget. Their special is a $17.95 color coordinated model in nylon. You can get the $5 pair if you prefer. What about skiing? They've got a pliable nylon model for the skier. These are little things that make life worth living?

Bob Hope has made some classic comedies, and he's been in some movies. But if you are an actor and collector, the Hope movie coming to Twin Falls next week, "Bachelor in Paradise," is one of his funniest and best. He stars with Lana Turner and Janis Paige. One thing in Hope's favor whether the show's good or bad—he always has a bevy of beauties with him.

They're excited at Sun Valley, and well they might be with the events coming up next week. First a television spectacular is being filmed to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the famed resort and on the week-end the first professional ski race will be held with a purse of $25,000. In addition to the race at 11 a.m., Peggy Pines and Dick Butkus' championship skier and skier, respectively, will give exhibitions during the day. Of course, during the week such entertainers as Lyle Armstrong and his band, Gordon and Sheila MacLaren, Jack Carter and Roberts Patten will be in the area while showcasing "Winter Carnival at Sun Valley '62" for viewing on ABC-TV in February. Nothing special is planned involving the entertainers for public enjoyment, but it's like Doris Taylor, racer publicist, commented: "It's hard to believe Lyle Armstrong will be at Sun Valley a week without doing something for the public."

While economists and pseudo-forecasters are hedging on predictions for the 1963 economy, one thing is evident: The auto industry is enjoying a booming year. New registrations in October, 1962, were 68 per cent above those of October, 1959. Those showing increases were all divisions of General Motors, one Chrysler division, one Ford division and Rambler and Studebaker.

Firms will make it easier to grocery shop in 1962 and shoppers will reciprocate by spending two billion dollars more than the 78 billion spent in 1961. Look for more freeze-dried meats that keep without refrigeration; more boneless and semi-boneless meat cuts; increased portion control providing precise servings; more recipes, menu ideas and improved packaging methods. The baby food will be new and exciting. As an example, polyethylene bags will be used for small whole potatoes, small whole onions, diced onions, leaves of bread.

The answer to the Tarzan controversy as volunteered by our Vital Information department: The reason Tarzan and Jane never were married is because Tarzan was out wrestling water buffalo on the day of the ceremony and just didn't feel up to it.

Live Greenery Is Making Inroads

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP)—Live greenery, by the roomful, is making inroads on contemporary decor for winter interiors.

The trend is away from the delicate, flowering plants once favored for indoors, and to the big leafy plants—the large cut-leaf type philodendron, Hoya kauli plants, traditional rubber trees and huge tree-ferns in pots.

Placed in jumbo floor pots, the giant plants are used to fill awkward corner areas, divide off the living area, and dramatize a stark wall. The tall plants also add dimension to the horizontal planes of contemporary decor.

At a recent New York decor-for-and design show, matted ferns and a wide variety of tropical plants and foliage were used to create an indoor oasis. Polynesian statues and bark paintings further carried out the South Sea atmosphere of the room and the Italian furniture med was covered in fabrics reflecting the rich, warm colors of a Guatemalan painting.

The homeowner can achieve comparable effects by suspending a series of potted plants from the ceiling about one wall. Place the plants in attractive containers and hang them from chains of varying lengths to create a hanging garden.

On try setting off an antique chest of ornamental table with a dramatic grouping of plants and handcrafted items of treasured bits of Americana.

Collectors' items—gleaming copper laundry baskets, weathered wooden tubs or ceramic urns—make striking other containers for the larger, bolder plants.

Knowing florists, however, advise keeping the plants themselves, but pots and clay pots which later can be placed in a decorative jardener or holder. Add many interior designers like the clay pots, slices, for their earth color.
